

BOXING SAVANTS TO PROBE SIGNS OF 'DIRTY WORK'

New York Commission Is Spurred On Following Recent Fray

By De-ly J. Walsh

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Proving that one's very ideals are unsafe in the impious age, the New York State Athletic Commission is going to question the chastity of boxing today. The thought behind this is an unworthy one and no doubt the commission isn't proud of it but Freud says these repressions are bad for the side-arms so the board is going to bring the low impure into the light of day where all is big and clean and fine.

It is going to ask whether Mr. Tod Morgan struck Mr. Benny Bass a very violent blow with his chin the other night. So as not to change the subject too abruptly, have it on reliable authority that Mr. Morgan will say "no" if called upon to do so, which is not altogether likely.

It is generally understood, in fact, that nothing very significant will be turned up in the investigation into the Morgan-Bass fight for the 150 pound championship of the world last Friday. There were rather pointed circumstances connected with the fight, including the fact that Bass was alleged to be a 1 to 1 to win and 2 to 1 to stop Morgan.

It doesn't prove that a couple of our handy athletes were seduced by base desires and it won't unless they say they were.

Mr. Farley still is clinging hopefully to the pay checks but these probably will be released in time. Perhaps this afternoon. This withdrawal of the wages may have been an injustice. After all, one fighter knocked the other out and nobody is going to drive up in a hearse and say that the victim was a modern Ajax.

Still, proof or no proof, it is not at all certain that suspensions won't be meted out. I don't see how this can be done without definite evidence that collusion was practiced on the commission is seldom logical and its ways sometimes belie human understanding. For instance, it might pay the principals for the fight and then handily inform you that it had suspended them for not fighting.

Search Is Begun For Alabama Convicts

INDIANAPOLIS Ind. Dec. 21.—(INS)—Wide search was under way today for three long term convicts who made a quiet escape from Kibby Prison late yesterday.

The prisoners—George Angel, Fred Corbin, and Cecil Mirac—apparently escaped about 6 o'clock in the afternoon but their absence was not discovered until the final night check up was made.

The trio escaped by scaling a wall with an improvised ladder. Bophouses lost their trail. Angela was serving from 1 to 5 to 20 years for burglary and grand larceny. Mirac was serving three three years sentences for similar crimes and Corbin was serving 10 years each on four separate robbery charges.

Paris Succeeded By Hollywood As New Style Center

By Frederic A. Chase
International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 24.—(INS)—Hollywood makes its formal declaration of independence from Parisian style tyranny. The film center refuses, point blank and without equivocation, to lower its skirt line.

That is, the feminine part of Hollywood refuses. At any rate, many of the prominent actresses, including Clara Bow, Nancy Carroll, Mary Brian, Fay Wray, Helen Kane and Natalie Moorhead, have sworn to their knees that come what may, they will not be hounded by the French style dictators into dropping the hemlines of their street costumes.

As for evening gowns—that is different—they have always been fond of long evening gowns. Travis Branton, stylist for Paramount Studio, has organized the balkers at French style dictation.

"We prophesy that ninety per cent of the women of the country will continue to wear the youthful knee-length skirts," Miss Branton declared in a broadside.

"And why shouldn't we? Are they not much more graceful than these droopy, ankle length day frocks Paris is trying to bring back? We are for freedom and youthfulness."

"Now that the prejudice against them has worn off, the knee length skirt wins the approval of everybody. They are more comfortable, natural and graceful, and they are here to stay."

Sanford Girl Makes Hit At Chaffty Dance

The many friends of Mildred Walker will be interested in the following item from the Charlotte Daily Observer:

"Young and old made merry at one of the largest dances held in Charlotte in recent years when Miss Walker of the Shrine presented Jan Garber and his orchestra at the city armory auditorium last night.

"The floor was crowded with dancing couples throughout the night. There were probably more than a thousand in attendance. The proceeds go to the crippled children's hospital maintained by the Shrine.

"The musicians were joined with the holiday spirit and chanted 'Old Man Jazz' all around the stage. Mrs. H. E. Walker, dressed in a dazzling white fur trimmed gown, made the hit of the evening with two songs with the immense crowd."

Miss Wheelless Weds James Marian Boyd

Amid an atmosphere of simplicity Miss Sara F. Wheelless, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Wheelless, became the bride of James Marian Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Boyd of Fort Myers, on Tuesday morning, Dec. 24 at the First Baptist Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. P. B. Jr. in the presence of a few intimate friends of the couple.

The church was decorated for the occasion in a color scheme of green and white which was accentuated by a profusion of tall holly and pine branches which were arranged in various places about the altar. Other parts of the church were decorated with similar flowers and ferns.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the church with him as Mr. Margaret Davis, wearing a gown of simple white with a striking individuality. A delicate character for a bride, she wore a crown of flowers and a veil of white tulle.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wheelless, 219 Oak Avenue, born in Orlando here while still a child to make her home. She was graduated from Sanford High School and later received a degree from the Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee in 1927. Mr. Boyd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Boyd of Fort Myers. He was born in Spartanburg, S. C. where he attended the public schools and spent the greater part of his life. He was graduated from Wolford College at Spartanburg in 1926 after which he went to Fort Myers to live for some time. At present he is employed as a civil engineer by the McDowell Construction Co. at Blanton, Tenn.

After a short honeymoon the couple will be at home temporarily at Blanton, Tenn.

THE BEAUTY SHOP BY FRANCIS OLIVER
Fear and Your Face
It may be fear of the flicker, or fear of being a job, or of losing love, or of never getting it, or again it may be a yearning, haunting fear of the future, or of public opinion, or the nameless, formless fear that accompanies "fear." But, needless or unnecessary, fear has a way of sitting on a face and sapping it of youth and loveliness.

Mingled with the crowd, some come a fashionable, well-dressed crowd, and some a crowd of the poor, when the trumpet of the household were heard in the distance. The city was just newly started and looking ahead, the somewhat unattractive plans mingled out by those who were then in the world.

My wife, the demon that pinches the heart, it narrows the eyes, freezes the bow and twists the smile. Fear, that changes the music in a voice to noise and yells, bodily movement. I all know, Fear, the champion style element.

We may prefer to call it worry, but what is that? Just a fear and a something name for fear. We may prefer to name it as a worry, or a nervousness, or a lack of understanding relatives and friends, or even on the street, but the only person in the world who can rid us of this poison is ourselves.

It is not the business of a beauty column to hand out formulae for the correction of features, even assuming that there existed such things. No, helping a person to conquer fear is a task for the physician and the psychologist. But we do regard it as a sort of service to the public to point out how very serious is this poison to beauty and to charm.

And, paradoxical as it may appear, the fear of the loss of beauty is the most destroying fear of all to women. Of two extreme types of women, the one who never gives a thought to her looks and the one who spends sleepless nights over every eye and nose and each hair, the latter should prefer instantly to be the former type.

Let us remember the case of a friend of mine, the one in the latter class. She had a face that was not only fair and well but also delicate. She had a nose that was not only straight but also of a fine shape. She had a mouth that was not only full but also of a fine shape. She had a chin that was not only well defined but also of a fine shape. She had a neck that was not only long but also of a fine shape. She had a back that was not only straight but also of a fine shape. She had a head that was not only well proportioned but also of a fine shape. BEAUTIFUL HOMES FOR EVERY INCOME

Is Adeline De Voo Individualism Abundant in European Homes?

One does not travel far in the Continent without discovering in simple homes a striking individuality. A definite character for a home is always apparent in the American case.

There is a richness of color and an original use of a contrasting color in the rooming, that are beautiful in the eyes of the hostess, regardless of their relation to period, or conventional schemes, a peculiar sort of originality that leads the European to choose furnishings which are less conventional in his taste and his station in life. And, quite naturally, the result is the most interesting difference in decoration in homes of the same class.

In Germany, perhaps, this is true, but individually it is more difficult to catch a glimpse of it. It is only in homes belonging to that class of Germans who have acquired modern wealth since the war that we find a sense for the use of a great dramatic, English feeling in their homes. No dining room seems to be a room unless it is richly furnished with a few pieces of country there is a sense of individuality in the rooming.

A DISH A DAY

NANCY DORRIS
At the round of Thanksgiving feasting, simple food, easily well cooked and seasonal, appeals to the just palate. A few tender, juicy, hot, meat dishes, a vegetable and a vegetable or two is infinitely tastier in roast turkey or guinea hen. For the home dinner, pot roast is a turn and mysteriously varied is sure to please this.

BERRY POT ROAST
Three or four pounds eye of beef.
Flour to dredge meat.
Three tablespoons fat.
One-half cup sliced carrots.
One-half cup sliced onions.
One-half cup minced celery and leaves.
One-half cup sliced turnips.
Pepper to taste.
One cup cooking sherry.
Roasting time three to four hours at a simmer.
Servings—five to eight.
No salt is mentioned in the recipe because the cooking sherry is added. After the meat is done, could more salt be added, it may be added. For the average nut the sherry carries sufficient salt.

Forty-five to sixty minutes a pound is the allowed time for the roast. Too rapid cooking toughens the meat and leaves lacking in juice. The cover of a pot should fit securely and up in the juices and vapors. A liquid is needed in a covered pot.

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth and dredge with flour read over a plate large enough to accommodate the meat. Put the fat in the hot pot and when it is smoking put in the floured meat. It browns nicely on all sides. As searing process seals the lean and makes for a juicy roast. The searing should be done well.

The meat browned all around, a pot should be covered and a low flame where it is cooking gently for two and a half hours. During that time a roast should be turned twice, a substitute mat under the pot while the cook to think of something more interesting during the simmering process.

Open the meat and add the prepared vegetables and the cooking sherry. Cover the pot tightly with the meat and vegetables are tender and delicious. Baste now and then with sherry. Remove a meat and vegetables to a platter and make the gravy. For a thin gravy just a teaspoon of flour mixed with cold

Christmas Spirit Is Manifest In Osceola

According to P. J. Feitner of Osceola a real spirit of Christmas has been exhibited by the people of that town by the various lighted Christmas trees and other "bits of festivity" so typical of the season. He further stated that it would be well with anyone's time to ride out and view the town.

Mr. Feitner also said that J. A. Redpath has a tree in his front yard that is lit up at any time. Mr. Redpath has added to its attractiveness by decorating it with colored lights which will be lit every night during the holiday season.

water will provide enough thickening; but for a medium gravy allow two tablespoons of flour for every cup of pot liquid. Mix the flour with enough cold water to form a smooth paste and stir into the pot liquid. Let boil up once or twice, season with salt and pepper and serve in a sauceboat.

Fire On Christmas Night At Hospital Is Almost Disaster

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 26 (AP)—A doctor, five nurses, and three fire officials, and an orderly, were injured and hospitalized by a fire in the hospital's basement.

Nurses, doctors, and firemen, rushing the danger of the deadly gases, risked their lives as they smothered the fire with carbon dioxide extinguishers, closing the steel doors of hospital ward and private rooms.

Dr. Milton Shaw, chief of staff of St. Lawrence Hospital, a visitor at the Sparrow Hospital when the early fire started, is expected to die, it was reported. Investigations by the fire department and the hospital staff are under way.

The injured hospital employees and firemen worked so quietly and efficiently that few patients knew there was a fire or any danger.

$136,000,000 from Florida's soil

FLORIDA annually produces $136,000,000 worth of agricultural products, including fruits, vegetables, poultry, livestock and field crops -- yet only about one-fifth of the total land area is being utilized for farm purposes. The continued development of Florida's resources will add millions of dollars to the state's income.

Florida excels in the production of winter-grown crops and vegetables and is strategically located for quick distribution of these products among the great population centers of the North. Climate and accessibility combine to give Florida a higher average value per acre for farm products than any other state. Ten per cent of the Nation's fresh fruit and vegetable crop is produced in Florida.

The bumper strawberry crop, now being marketed, which is estimated to yield $1,500,000 from 1,500 acres in one section of the strawberry region, illustrates but one example of the many Florida soil possibilities.

The Fertile soil of Florida will always produce a golden harvest of wealth -- guaranteed throughout the years by equable climatic conditions, abundant rainfall and the constant warmth of year-round sunshine.

State Marketing Bureau
Florida's state marketing bureau, with five specialized divisions located at Jacksonville, now offers a service to agriculturists equal to that of any state in the union. Each division -- poultry, livestock and general farm products, fruits and vegetables, dairying, market news -- is headed by a specialist seeking new ways to develop Florida's agricultural resources. One objective is to supply Florida markets with home products. In 1923 Florida imported $127,000,000 worth of livestock and dairy products, field crops and poultry, which, with the proper development of resources, could be supplied within the state. The marketing bureau believes that Florida agricultural products can be increased from $136,000,000 to $209,000,000 within the next few years.

The agricultural income of Florida is divided approximately as follows

Poultry and Eggs . . .	$13,000,000
Livestock and general farm products . . .	$22,000,000
Fruits, Vegetables and miscellaneous crops . . .	$89,000,000
Dairy Products	$12,000,000
