Fire That Wrecked Home Probed As 'Suspicious'

Seminole County fire officials. Joe McCluan, chief fire inspector investigator for Seminole County said today an investigation team has gathered samples from the gutted structure for analysis at the State Fire College in Ocala. "When we get the lab results back from Ocala, we will know whether a flammable liquid was used," McCluan said. "It may take from two to three weeks to get those the fire call shortly after 1 p.m. Wednesday for the home owned by Michael Jackson on State Road 46 and Old Monroe Road. No one was inside the home when the fire

Firefighters David Hite and Vern Riggall suffered minor burns in battling the blaze but did not require hospital treatment, McCluan said. It took firefighters about one hour to extinguish the blaze. McCluan could not cite a dollar amount of damage but did say the home was destroyed.

A four-man investigation team that has been assigned to the fire investigation includes McCluan, Lt. Bill Hogan of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, Ernie Wright Pippin of the Seminole County Public Safety Department. According to fire officials, several persons saw the fire and promptly reported it to the public safety department.

Jean Sanford and her husband, who is the assistant minister at the First United Methodist Church in Sanford. were visiting with an elderly woman next door to the Jackson home when they saw flames shooting from the living room window.

"We called the fire department but it took them about 10 to 15 minutes to get here," she said. "By the time they got here, the house is like it is now." Brette Sanford said the fire spread very quickly through the home as he stood watching firefighters shoot streams of water at the blaze.

"It went extremely fast, like it was fueled," Sanford said. "It only took five minutes to spread." Mildred Jackson, the mother of the homeowner, watched the burning home from behind a hurricane fence that surrounds the property. Her eyes were filled with tears and her voice trembled as she spoke: "There isn't enough left there for nothing."

Old Irish Wounds Are Bleeding Again

Until the tragic resurgence of Irish terrorism took the life of Lord Louis Mountbatten, it was possible to be more than a little optimistic about the chances for peace in Northern Ireland. There had been a lull in the bombings and assassinations which have taken 2,000 lives in the last 10 years. The non-sectarian Alliance Party which tries to keep Catholic and Protestant rivalry out of politics has been gaining ground in local elections in the

But this may be precisely why terrorists are again stalking targets, even striking for the first time at the British royal family. The terroristminded Irish Republican Army does not want to see Catholics and Protestants bury their differences in Northern Ireland under British auspices. They want the British out.

It remains to be seen if extremists on the Protestant side will now retaliate against their perceived enemies on the Catholic side. Whether they do or not, the old wounds of the "Irish" problem are once again torn and bleeding.

Pope John Paul II's strong denunciation of the murder of Mountbatten and the others offers some hope of second thoughts among Irish Catholics who still sympathize with the IRA. The pope has cancelled plans to step into Ulster during his visit to the Republic. That may be a sensible decision, but where his appearance in Northern Ireland might have symbolized the possibilities for peace, his absence now will symbolize the degree of setback those possibilities have just received.

The new government of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher will now be pressuring Dublin to come down harder on the IRA terrorists who, it is presumed in London, are finding a haven in the Republic. The enormity of the latest crimes attributed to the IRA gives Dublin good reason to comply. The aim of Irish political leaders, both Catholic and Protestant, should be to dissociate religious sympathies in the Irish mind from sympathy for assassination and terrorism as political tactics.

The same can be said for Irish-American political leaders. The belief persists, rightly or wrongly, that IRA guerrillas are getting weapons or the money to buy them from sympathizers in the United States. While estimates of this support range from "meager" to "significant," government leaders here should be discouraging it, by persuasion if it is not within reach of the law.

The U.S. government should support any development that promises a peaceful route to civil justice for Catholics and Protestants alike in Ireland, but there is precious little it can do in this regard. The attempt by Gov. Hugh Carey of New York to get British and Irish officials together with him for a "Camp David" in New York may arise from good intentions, but it lends credence to complaints from abroad that American officials want to "meddle" in Irish affairs.

Many Britons insist that an "Irish lobby" in America is giving a pro-IRA tilt to U.S. policy. We hope they're wrong. Yet the Carter administration's recent decision to stop selling weapons to the police in Belfast feeds that nent Printing Office. American officials should be prepared to come down hard on any sources of illegal support for Irish terrorists that may lie in this country. A firm policy in that regard is the best contribution the United States can make toward an end to the Berkeley questioning "the possible use of classification and declassification for political bloodshed and a civilized solution to the problems

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Newly designated Energy Secretary Charles W. With a stroke of his pen, Duncan can remove the federal government from the dirty business of censorship by abandoning DOE's ill-advised legal efforts to suppress publication of a magazine article on the hydrogen bomb. # Grandparents Get Own Day

ATLANTA (UPI) - Michael Goldgar says it's no wonder Congress can't agree on a national energy plan when it took it six years to proclaim a "National Grandparents Day." "That should tell you something about how it works," says Goldgar, a 59-year-old retired New York advertising executive-turned Georgia realtor. "I tell you, it was a real disillusionment," he said. "It was a good lesson in civics, but the whole thing was a real letdown. It's disillusioning the way Congress works." It was six years ago that Goldgar set out to "bring some respect" to the nation's grandparents. On Sunday, Sept. 9, that quest ends when the nation celebrates the first National Grandparents Day. Each year, it will be celebrated the Sunday ollowing Labor Day.

For Goldgar, it began as an innocent and low-key campaign in 1973 and picked up full steam with the birth of his first granddaughter - Jennifer Leigh Barber - three years later. But things changed quickly and Goldgar found himself evolved in a prolonged battle with bureaucratic red tape and parliamentary Goldgar began by writing letters to President Ford and his staff. Former White House chief of staff Donald Rumsfeld ad-

BERRY'S WORLD

By JIM HAYNES Herald Sports Editor

Jai-alai returns to Seminole County Friday night when the Orlando-Seminole fronton schedules pageantry which includes the usual mixture of Basques and Mexicans, but this year has an added twist - a pair of homegrown Americans.

New post time will be 7 p.m. for the 12-game performance. Matinees will be held on Saturday, Monday and Thursday throughout most of the season, the daylight cards

Fans will be getting their first look at frontcourter Calvin (Lingelbach) and backcourter Doug (Dyer), who will be teamed together in post two of Friday's first game. But even more interest will be centered around a new betting innovation at the Fern Park fronton — the trifecta. The wager requires one to try and name the first, second and third place teams and carries a higher financial reward than its cousins, the quiniela and perfecta.

Fronton owner Mrs. Elizabeth Calder has been on hand for the last week, assisting fronton officials to assure a smooth opening. General manager Jack Case pointed to the trifecta as a sign the fronton was "keeping pace with the needs of the fans." The basic trifecta wager is $2, although the $6 box of three numbers for one-half the payoff is expected to be a popular wager. Fans who want to box three numbers for the total trifecta payoff can simply purchase two identical $6 tickets, and have a much better chance of not having to sign an IRS statement.

Assistant general manager Don Jackson took a quick tour of the fronton Wednesday evening and noted that everything would be ready for a crowd which is expected to be the largest in fronton history.

Another item fans will find upgraded is the

"We had to change it because of the trifecta." explained assistant manager Happy Ison. "It is computerized, much more efficient and gives fans the order of post position as the game progresses."

Among other new players is backcourter Alda, a hard-throwing Basque who is the brother of frontcourter Aldana.

"He throws bullets," said players-manager Juan Bengoa Wednesday after watching his squad practice. "We have another new player — Mendez — who will be very good, especially in singles. I do not think Manolo will win the singles championship so easily this season."

Out On A Limb, Again...

Ah, but the old picking game. Out on a limb.

As high school football counts down to its final practice session before Friday night's openingzingers, the old prognosticator has weaved his way past the body rythmn charts, solunar tables, two Ouija boards and is ready to share the following

Colonial 21, Lake Brantley 14 — This has the makings of the game of the year, as powerhouses from Orange and Seminole Counties waste no time getting it on. The touchdowns come two if by air and one if by land for the Patriots against the opportunist Grenadiers.

Evans 14, Seminole 7 — This is no ballyhoo for the Metro Conference, but the pulsebeat on the Seminoles seem to indicate they are not fully ready for battle. Some last-minute war paint is the tonic they need to avoid those costly mistakes. Lyman 38. Boone 7 — How about a big runaway in the Greyhound season opener? Coaches hate it when scribes pick 'em this way, but realistically, it might not be this close. Oviedo 18, Pierson Taylor 7 — Sounds like an easy one for the Lions, but it is the result of some sound HOW ABOUT Trinity Prep 21, John Carroll 13 — This Saturday contest is one which gets the Saints marching under IT, FELLAS?

Lake Howell 27, Bishop Moore 21 — Sounds like a cliffhanger in the making, but a break here and there does in a late Hornet rally.
