SIXTH FEDERAL BANK DISTRICT IS MUCH IMPROVED

Conditions Are Considerably Better Than at Same Time Last Year; Cotton Crop Is Much Larger Than in 1923

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 30.—While the agricultural situation, as a whole, shows considerable improvement in the Sixth Federal Reserve Bank district as compared with 1923, it remains that in some scattered sections conditions are not as favorable as a year ago. Business conditions, on the other hand, have taken a jump forward since the coming of the fall harvest, according to the October business review of the Federal Reserve Bank, issued today.

Much damage is evidenced in some sections to the sugar cane crop which was "badly damaged by the long drought," says the review, and the dry weather was said to have been more or less general throughout the district "during the growing season," and caused some slight damage to all crops.

Regardless of this, however, the review states that the Sixth District will produce a much larger cotton crop than that of 1923, as well as a larger production of yields being evidenced from every one of the almost continuous rains during the last half of September which, according to the review, "altered the cotton picking and to some extent made for lower grades," the fact weather which has prevailed for the first 15 days or more in October, will make it possible to continue gathering the crop.

The retail trade, after showing unfavorable comparisons for the months of May, June, July and August, as compared with the same months in 1923, the volume of sales by department stores in the Sixth District in September was 65 per cent greater than in the same months last year, the review shows, the increase being attributed to seasonal buying.

Likewise according to the review, "considerable improvement in wholesale trade conditions" is indicated in more than 100 reports to the bank from firms in nine different lines of business. Each of these except an electrical concern, says the review, reported increased sales for September over August. In relation to the increase indicated, the review says that "another factor which must be considered is the fact that these six states this year produced a considerably larger proportion of the total cotton crop than they did a year ago, and farmers are also receiving a better return from some of the other crops."

Dry goods sales also were reported to be larger in all of the reporting cities, except New Orleans, Knoxville and Nashville during September compared with August. Knoxville and Nashville reported smaller sales than in September, 1923.

DISASTERS IN SOUTH IN 1924 TAKE TOLL 170

Disasters in the South during the current year have taken a toll of 170 lives, and more than $15,000,000 in property, according to the annual report on disaster relief of the South division of the American Red Cross. In addition to the persons killed thousands were injured and 5,200 left homeless.

A relief fund of $157,717 was administered by the Red Cross in 24 Southern communities, the report shows, setting a new record for disaster relief work in the South.

"Emergency aid was rushed to the victims of the disasters immediately," the report declares. "In several cases trained Red Cross workers were actually on the scene, working two hours after the tornado had passed." The emergency relief mentioned in the report is further explained to mean medical care, food, clothing, and temporary shelter.

Concerning the permanent rehabilitation program of the Red Cross the report declares, "Each family affected by these disasters was given the assistance needed, which, when supplemented by its own efforts would put the family back on its feet with a normal outlook for the future." Every one of the families was kept together, the relief given was based on careful investigations by trained workers, thus assuring the contributors to the relief funds that every dollar was expended where it was most needed.

In noting that this year has been a record breaker for disasters, the report explains that though there were almost as many disasters during 1923, they were all confined to small areas. Two of the tornadoes of this year swept through seven states, cutting a wide swath of ruin and desolation. Listed among the worst disasters of this year are: The tornado of April 30 which swept through seven states from Mississippi to Virginia, killing 166 and leaving 4,200 persons homeless; the tornado of May 26 which wrought destruction in five states killing 50 and leaving 1,500 homeless; and the earthquake of June 15 which killed 10 and left 50 people homeless.

Announcement was also made today that the annual Red Cross roll call membership campaign will be held in November.

Argentina Showing Pride In Her Home Industry Products

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 30.—An industrial exhibition intended to show the progress of a nation in manufacturing in Argentina, and with the hope of discouraging the practice of putting foreign labels on Argentine-made goods, will be held at the Buenos Aires exhibition center, the Argentine Industrial Union in the presence of the government.

The organizers expect to display the products of nearly 200 Argentine manufacturers, and that there is no one ready to pretend they are importers in order to make their own complaints. They are unable to sell their goods to retailers unless they bear American, English, German, Polish or French labels, and they welcome any paper campaign such as the exhibition to show that Argentine wares are a good as or better than the products of imported countries.

The organizers believe the public will be surprised to see the enormous strides made in Argentine industries in the last 10 years, and the variety of goods made.

BREWERS ARE TO PLAY NUMBER OF BIG GAMES HERE

HIGH JUMPING LIBERTY HORSE AERIALIST'S PET

"Rocket" is the bridleless wonder and pet of the eleven hundred people with Sells-Floto circus, coming to Sanford Saturday, Nov. 8, for "Rocket" is a free running, fearless high jumper, clearing a six foot hurdle without apparent effort, and he can be seen in the paddock of the big show posing about for several sweets in pockets, when Mayme Ward, world's only mid-air woman double somersault, but fails not to be on the spot. But let Mayme appear and "Rocket" has only one aim in life—just following her around. Of course, Mayme never forgets the horse, and whether dining in a downtown cafe or in the Sells-Floto perfectly good "cookhouse," she always purloins sugar for the pet high jumper. "Rocket" heads the longest lefty equine leaping display in spangland, and he is one of the thirty performing horses under the big top. There are over four hundred horses with Sells-Floto circus, and with the circus in the paddock, the circus is the largest street parade, one hundred and forty extra horses—the pick of the land—were called from the reserve paddock at Fort Snelling.

Coins Of Period Of Roman Rule Over Britain Are Dug Up

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Interest in excavation of Roman remains seems to be receiving new impetus in many parts of England and work being carried on at Portsmouth on the Somerset coast is yielding highly important results.

These excavations had their beginning after a ploughman casual turned up a small quantity of coins, which upon examination was found to be of Roman origin. The work has now been taken in hand by archaeologist R. E. Gosden, who reports the discovery of no fewer than 4,000 coins.

Duke and Duches Woman Sheriff Is Of York Plan Visit Filling Job Clad In To British Africa Purple And Silver

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The Duke and Duches of York are about to visit the British Empire, and have made plans to visit British Africa, particularly the factory districts, where their delight has been to investigate the conditions of the working people. They have recently made trips to Ulster and Scotland, and almost daily during their residence in London have attended some public function.

Now the royal couple have signified their intention to extend their visit to the points outside the British Isles and to undertake, as their first journey, a trip to the East. It has been made known that they will visit Bombay, the capital of British East Africa, in December, and leave a few days later for Nairobi and Uganda.

It will be the first time that their visitations have been official, and they will be accompanied by a member of the royal family, and probably the first time that other than a direct descendant of the royal house has been the royal ambassador to a possession.

Preparation work is under way of more than 25,000 acres of low land less than one mile from the city limits of Saratoga, to cost approximately $700,000. The project will be known as Saratoga Farm and drainage district.

Two hundred American flags and 200 flag sockets from the manufacturer have been received and it has been guaranteed by the manufacturer that 700 flags, staffs and sockets will be in Sanford ready for installation by Nov. 6. This, it is said, will insure the general plan being finished by Armistice Day.

The committee on Street Decoration also reports that the public is supporting the street decoration program and that they will soon have the 700 flags sold. As one ordering a flag, socket and 12 foot flag pole can order it by calling on the American Legion Armistice Day Celebration Headquarters.

New Type of Car Still Automobile World

It is an open car one moment and 30 seconds later same car is entirely enclosed. Studebaker Duplex ends need of hunting for side curtains in the dark and storm

A new type of car has stirred the automobile world as has nothing since the abandonment of the "buggy" style of body building.

It is the Studebaker Duplex, so called to indicate that it is an open car one moment, and 30 seconds later it is an enclosed car.

Like all great advances in the industrial arts, it is "so simple in operation, it is a wonder it wasn't thought of before" — — —

Particularly since its need has been growing, year by year, ever since automobiles were made.

Many people all of the time, and most people part of the time, want an open car—to bring to their riding the fresh crispness of the country air, and a free and untrammelled association with the great outdoors.

Yet for these same people, the snug comfort of the closed car, shutting out the storm and the wind and the cold, has been at times a necessity.

Two cars in one
The Studebaker Duplex is both cars in one. Just pull down the roller enclosures concealed in the roof of the car. In 30 seconds the open car has been made an enclosed car.

No hurried efforts to put up curtains; no hunting for the right one while the storm beats in; no mixing them up in the dark; no exposure through holes torn in them while trying to obtain, for the emergency, the protection given by a closed car — — —

Just pull down the roller enclosures giving instant enclosed car effect.

The body is built substantially—sides, corners and roof frame are of steel. The roof has curved steel

It May Have Required A Rain Like That

On the theory that there is "good in everything," The Herald assumes that the effect of the recent season of torrential rains in Florida will be the hastening of the public road work. It is even possible that the State Highway Department will take an interest in the matter and insist upon some observance of time provisions in the road building contracts.

During the most distressing days of the storm, when hundreds of motorists were trying to get information about the roads, the State Highway Department issued its usual weekly bulletin. It started with what these good officials chose to call a "cautionary note" which stated that due to excessive rainfall that "certain roads on the East Coast and in Central Florida have been rendered impassable."

Then came the usual "dope." "Road No. 1—Nimes Ferry to Jacksonville; nine miles concrete, excellent; remainder sand-clay, condition fair, etc., etc." Next came a similar description of "Road No. 2, Georgia line to Fort Myers." This information data covered the roads to Mount Dora and then abruptly stopped, with the laconic statement, "No report of conditions south."

Road No. 3—"Georgia line to Orlando" was described exactly as if normal conditions existed, concluding with "New lime rock base from Dunn's creek to Sisco. Sisco to Crescent City, Person and DeLeon Springs through Sanford and Orlando, fair." And at that date, October 15, all the papers had been full of accounts of the rain that put that road out of commission.

"Road No. 4—Georgia line to Miami" had the usual Blue Book description to Daytona and then the laconic statement again. "No report south of Daytona."

In other words the State Road Department at Tallahassee apparently took no pains whatever to obtain accurate information concerning the condition of Florida roads. The summary of road conditions in Florida was written by the light of imagination in the Tallahassee office, and sent to the newspapers for publication. Hundreds of strangers in Florida trying to gather accurate information as to the roads they were to encounter read that misleading, incomplete report from the state road department and got into all sorts of difficulties as a result.

But as The Herald has just said, on the theory that there is "good in everything" possibly the benefits from these costly rains will be an aroused citizenship. Possibly the people of Florida will begin now to demand—and to GET—some of the good roads they have been paying for these many years.

As Brisbane Sees It

One invention, Two Discoveries, Happy John W. Davis, Are Dogs Immortal? BY ARTIUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

THIS WILL interest inventors. Boats on the Thames will be propelled by air jets. Instead of a screw, the boat will have air under pressure expelled from hundreds of holes in pipes along the keel of the boat. A three-horsepower engine will send a 55-foot boat eight miles an hour. Such boats can be used without injuring the banks of the canals. The pressure of the air on the water moves the boat.

TWO important announcements in medical science, two more milestones passed. Scientists in Berlin have discovered and isolated the germ of cancer. At least, they have isolated a group of bacteria that produce cancer in animals.

BRITISH scientists show that injection of malaria germs actually causes the cure of general paralysis, a disease never cured before. It is assumed that the malaria germ, which under the microscope looks like a large lime stone set in a ring, rushes through the blood of a patient, attacking and destroying the cause of the paralysis.

WHEN a patient is up and able to walk, the next step is the cure of malaria, which is easy, with quinine. Not so long ago that would have sounded like voodoo medicine, or some of the marvellous dream cures in the temples of Asclepius.

JOHN W. Davis, in his farewell "charivari" trip, says his election is certain and Congress will be Democratic.

You have heard one schoolboy say of another, "Kill him while he is happy." No good citizen would suspect that for Mr. Davis, but what an unpleasant moment is reserved for him about one week from next Wednesday. Unless politicians are all foolish, the one thing that could happen is Mr. Davis's election.

ENGLAND discusses the question of "Are dogs immortal?" The question talks their dogs serially as they do their papers and their houses. The want to know whether the souls of their dogs enter the next world. The question is not a new one.

How Many Women Will Vote, November 4?

Twenty million American women can vote in the November election this year. How many of that twenty million will actually make use of their franchise?

In every town in the United States there are numbers of women who have not qualified as electors. The average, suppose, may be put into two classes; those who "never wanted the vote, anyway," and those who have not enough intelligence to see the importance of their franchise.

The class of women who "never wanted the vote, anyway," have, unfortunately or not for them, been presented with another load to carry. They have had citizenship thrust upon them; and whether she likes it or not, the right kind of woman will go to the polls on election day and vote for what she believes is best for her country and her community.

That other class of women, the class that is not intelligent enough to grasp the importance of the voting franchise, that is, really the one class of women who can be depended upon in its entirety to stay away from the polls on election day.

Indignantly many of these women will resent being classed as uneducated. Many of them are "prominent in club work," "prominent in church work," "prominent in society." They can talk upon all sorts of high-brow subjects. They go in for "culture" and they feel entirely sure of their superior mentality. Thus it may come about that they will resent quite indignantly the allegation that they are lacking in intelligence. Yet they are, and most deplorably.

These very women, these same "prominent" women of one kind and another, should be regarded as citizens. They should be giving their best study to questions that are to be settled at the polls. They should be ready on election day, to vote their honest convictions.

Twenty million women in the United States can vote on November 4. How many of Florida's quota will go to the polls? How many of Sanford's?

The men and women who gave their time from personal affairs in order to contribute their share to the Community Chest have guaranteed us not destitution and desolation, the men and women who subscribed money, in many cases to the point of sacrifice, have today the incomparable satisfaction that comes from willing labor performed for the sake of others.

SANFORD'S SOCIAL SETS PREPARE TO CELEBRATE GLORIOUS HALLOWEEN

Halloween coming on Oct. 31 has become one of the most popular festivals of the year. It furnishes the inspiration for a variety of colorful costumes, black cats, ghosts and goblins holding full sway. Today is the celebrated day and various groups of Sanford's social sets are taking advantage of the gay season and are meeting to indulge in the games that are so well adapted to the day.

Hallowe'en Party Is Given Last Night By Mr. and Mrs. Meisch

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meisch completely turned their lovely home on West First Street over to the ghosts and spirits of Hallowe'en on Thursday evening.

The guests were greeted at the door by a ghost who turned them over to another kindred spirit to be led over the house and to the room where their wraps were placed.

The entire lower floor was converted into a Hallowe'en scene, carrying out the spirit throughout out with ghosts, black cats, cobwebs, skeletons and witches. In each corner a spooky ghost was found keeping everyone's spirit lively.

During the evening dancing was enjoyed and games were played. The "Grossome Tale" proved the most exciting of the games. In the apple race for the ladies Miss Mae Ella Fellows won first prize and Miss Gladys Stepper won the booty. The men enjoyed the peanut contest. Ralph Rubinsky won the prize while the booty went to Edward Bender, Peter Schmal and John Perold proved most apt in the Eye Guessing contest while Harvey Weeks drew the booty.

At a late hour the charming hostess served ice cream and cake in the Hallowe'en colors. On each plate was placed a lily pop dressed as a witch. On the back of the lily pop was found a fortune for each guest.

The guests at this charming social affair included:

- Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brandt,
- Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ludwig,

CHAIN GROCERY STORES ENJOY RAPID GROWTH

Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company Celebrates Sixty-Fifth Birthday; 11,000 Stores

Last Saturday the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, the World's Largest Chain Grocers, celebrated the sixty-fifth anniversary of its origin.

Organized 65 years ago by John Huntington Hartford, this chain has grown from its beginning of one store to over 11,000 retail stores in the United States, occupying the envied position of the world's largest retail Grocers. Last year they enjoyed a volume of business amounting to over $302,000,000. There are 27 warehouses of this company operated at advertised agents points throughout the United States, the southeastern warehouse being at Atlanta, Ga.

Over 10,000 American people are employed by the A. & P. chain, over 1,000 of whom are southern natives of Florida.

Twelve Giantic Bakeries are owned and operated by this company, supplying bread, cakes and pastries to thousands of A. & P. stores.

The idea of the gigantic volume of business transacted by the A. & P. Tea Company may be given by a review of some of their last year's sales.

Bread sold amounted to over 200,000,000 loaves, enough to reach around the Continent of North America.

Tea, 100,000,000 pounds, enough to fill 15 barrels large enough to contain the Whitehouse at Washington.

Camp 325,000,000 cakes or more was enough to encircle the earth at the equator.

Potatoes, 175,000,000 pounds or enough to supply about four pounds to every man, woman and child in this country. Twelve million pounds of tea which would make enough tea to fill a cup large enough to float 10 fleets of battleships. Ninety-five million cans of milk which if laid end to end would equal a distance further than from New York City to Cuba; 80,000,000 pounds of butter enough to supply each inhabitant of the United States, with 3/4 pound; 380,000,000 dozen eggs; 230,000,000 pounds of flour, enough to bake more than 6,000,000,000 biscuits; 75,000,000 pounds of coffee or more than enough to make a cupful for every human being in the world.

For years the A. & P. stores, although the pioneers in the chain store business, were little known in the country at large. Mr. Hartford refused to go into debt to start new stores, and not until enough profits were in hand to finance the deal did he start a new store. For this reason, few people realize that the A. & P. stores were started before the Civil war.

Each A. & P. store today is an exact copy as far as outward appearance is concerned, of the first New York store started by Mr. Hartford, even the exact shade of his first red paint has been handed down.

Incidentally, Mr. Hartford once said that he had received more criticism about the glaring red paint used for the front of his stores than anything else, and this made him only more determined to stick to the red paint.

SIMPLE FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR PERCY HAUGHTON

Late Head Coach of Columbia and Originator "Haughton System," is Laid Away As Close Friends Pay Tribute

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—The funeral Thursday of Percy D. Haughton, founder of a football system at Harvard College and coach of that game at Harvard, Cornell and Columbia, was marked by the simplest of services. The congregation that filled St. Paul's cathedral was representative of the many interests of the man whom they mourned, players whom he had guided to greatness, mothers of men who had been the better for his coaching, deans and delegations from colleges that he had served, classmates at Harvard, fellow officers in the army, friends of high social standing, and associates in business and in professional baseball.

The altar from which Bishop William Lawrence read the simple services, and prayers of the Episcopal service was banked with flowers. The Rev. Sherrard Billings of Groton, assisted in the services.

Michael Dinnihan, who carries the water pail for Harvard football teams and turns the sod in the stadium, sent his spray of red roses with "sincere sympathy from his old friend, Mike."

Included in the numerous floral tributes was one from the surviving members of the football "group of seven." This "group of seven" names that are immortal in Harvard football history, has been said by Haughton to be "the halo of my football career." Members of the class of 1915, who won positions on the freshman team and never relinquished them in four years of play, sent "with deepest sympathy and in loving memory of the three years of wonderful associations and inspiration" a large spray of jack roses. The card bore the signatures of Charles E. Brickley, Huntington R. Hardwick, Wallace H. Trumbull, T. Jefferson Goodge, F. J. Brandlee, Jr., and Malcolm J. Logan. The seventh member of the group, Stanley J. Pennoch, has died. As honorary pallbearers, Robert J. Fisher, who succeeded Haughton as head coach at Harvard, and Dr. Paul Withington, who succeeds him at Columbia, served with the others who were associated with him in college, on the gridiron or in business. A surprised choir chanted hymns. There was no eulogy, but Bishop Lawrence, in reading prayers, selected five as most appropriate. In the procession the American flag was carried after the clergy and before the bier in observance of Major Haughton's world war service.

Burial took place in the family lot in Mt. Auburn cemetery.

There was no football drill Thursday for the Harvard of Columbia teams out of respect for their former coach and each of the universities sent official delegations to the services.

At the Princess

A fashion show, yachting, and beach excursions are a few of the many beautiful features of the Paramount picture, "The Glimpses of the Moon," which will be run at the Princess Theater this afternoon and tonight. Bebe Daniels and Naldi play the featured roles, supported by a strong cast, including David Powell and Maurice Costello. Allan Dwan, the man who made "Robin Hood," did the directing.

Women Richly Attired

Besides these principals there are minor feminine parts that call for luxurious costumes, and Director Dwan has seen to it that all of the women who appear in his production are smartly and appropriately dressed. A modest shop, with which the story opens, is a fitting background for another display of costly gowns, furs and wraps worn alike by mantles and purchasers, the total cost of which is said to equal the cost of an average feature production.

Memorial Will Be Erected By Cubs In Memory Chance

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Frank Chance, one of the greatest players and leaders of organized baseball, who died recently after a lingering illness on the Pacific Coast, is to be honored by the erection of a fitting memorial to his skill as a player and his genius as a leader of the old time pennant winning Chicago Cubs. It was so decided Thursday by the board of directors of the club, who met in annual session.

Chance, who became known as the "peerless leader," led the Cubs to many national League pennants and two world's championships.

At the time of his death "the peerless leader" was manager of the Chicago White Sox, of the American League, but due to poor health never was able to assume charge of the club.

In addition the directors approved the financial statement of the treasurer, voting confidence in the old officers who were re-elected. William Veck continues as president and treasurer, John O. Seys, as secretary, and William M. Walker, vice president. William Wrigley, Jr., continues as chairman of the executive committee.

The signed contract of William Killefer, as manager, for 1925, to succeed himself, also was approved.

France Plans To Use Economic Advisers

PARIS, Oct. 30.—The French government has decided to add to the administrative machinery a new cog in the form of a national economic committee. Composed of representatives of nearly all branches of national activity, this committee will be consulted by the government on economic questions; also it will make suggestions on its own account.

Among the 60 committeemen, members of labor unions predominate. Included in the questions soon to come before the new body are the high cost of living, the tariff, and administrative reforms.

URNS TO PET PARROTS

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Parrots are replacing pet Pekinese dogs in the affections of some society people. In Hyde Park recently several women had green parrots with them in their motorcars. Many people have been seen walking with parrots on their shoulders, or with the birds sitting beside them on public seats. West End stores report an increasing demand for parrot pets.

GENERALS WORK HARD FOR CLASH WITH CAVALIERS

Washington and Lee Football Squad Looks Better Than Ever Before in This Season; Hard Fight Expected

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 30.—The half-way mark of the grid season finds the Generals hard at work preparing for Virginia in Charlottesville Saturday. Five stubbornly contested battles have been fought by the Blue and White and five more remain on the schedule. Three of the clashes so far have been with southern conference teams, none of which favored Washington and Lee's colors. Three conference games are yet to be fought, in addition to games with West Virginia and Citadel.

The immediate task confronting the Generals, however, is to head the student body's cry of "Get Virginia!" The comparative showing of the two teams last Saturday, together with resulting injuries to two Virginia players, give reason to hope that Washington and Lee will make it two straight over Coach Greasy Neale's men in the latter's own backyard. The Generals came out of the grueling deadlock with V. P. I. in fairly good condition and should be prepared to offer a good scrap by the end of the week.

The local camp is distinctly encouraged by Perry's appearance in the role of star punter. This tall back featured the Gobbler battle by supporting Don Rutherford, the Tech one on several occasions getting off signals that traveled sixty yards. "B" M. Millan is also being counted on to show a world of stuff against the Cavaliers, if his playing in Saturday's contest can be taken as any indication. The dummy star was the most consistent and spectacular runner for the Generals.

Then, too, the arm of Captain Tilden, Holt, Thomas Van Horn and Company, who were directly responsible for Tech's failure to score, are in good condition and will be able to return their place in the line when the game starts Saturday.

LOCAL GRIDDERS LEAVE TO BATTLE IN ST. AUGUSTINE

Sanford Footballers Filled With Confidence From Last Week's Decisive Victory Face Hard Fight Tomorrow

"Chock full" of confidence from last Saturday's excellent showing against New Smyrna, Coaches Hait and Whelchel take their charges to St. Augustine today to battle the strong high school eleven there tomorrow.

After two overwhelming defeats, last Saturday's victory served to give the team a spirit of confidence that was singularly lacking in the two preceding games, and the local grididders having tasted of the sweets of victory are determined that no more shall they taste the bitterness of defeat.

With the light but fast backfield that so effectively ran rings around the New Smyrna boys last Saturday, and a line that can compare very favorably with that of any high school in this section, the locals bid fair to annex another victory to their ever growing list, and although St. Augustine is rated as one of the most powerful high school aggregations in this section of the state, it is generally believed that the "Celery Feds" will have no trouble in holding their own with the strangers.

As was demonstrated last Saturday, the locals have a line that is equally good defensively and offensively, and it is not believed that the St. Augustine backs will be able to gain appreciably through it.

With Meisch, Peck, Byrd, Thompson and Barber as backfield material, Sanford should have no trouble in advancing the ball by means of the same dazzling assortment of line bucks, end runs and off-tackle plays that featured last Saturday's contest. Hait has been concentrating on defense for practically the entire week, and he is confident that the forwards will be able to successfully frustrate the St. Augustine offense.
