New Combative Image For Democrats

Budget Battle Heats Up In House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House budget battle has taken a new twist with Democratic leaders projecting a new combative image to thwart President Reagan's massive spending cuts.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, who earlier this week nearly conceded Reagan would win the legislative war, now insists, "We've got the president of the United States a little bit on the run."

He also accused the White House of sinking to "a new low" in trying to win over undecided conservative Democrats with what he described as questionable pressure tactics.

In the past two days Reagan has met privately with eight wavering House Republicans to hear their concerns about proposed spending cuts in their urban northern districts.

The House had its second day of debate on the budget Friday. The crucial votes are expected by Wednesday and the outcome will be determined by who can capture the most undecided conservative Democrats and moderate Republicans.

Both parties have claimed to capture defectors from the other side, but by week's end neither had enough votes nailed down to assure victory.

O'Neill charged the White House had used Federal Election Commission records to identify major contributors to conservative House Democrats, then asked the contributors to pressure the politicians.

"That's the most irresponsible thing I've ever heard of," O'Neill said. "Politics is politics, but they've sunk to a new low."

The House was debating two major proposals: The Reagan plan, which already carried deep spending cuts and was modified with $6 billion more, and a Democratic alternative that would restore some funds to social programs.

O'Neill and House Democratic Leader Jim Wright of Texas argued many Americans would be badly hurt by Reagan's proposed budget cuts for student loans, nutrition programs, economic development loans, bilingual education, vocational education, welfare and other social services programs.

U.S. Efforts Calm Lebanon Crisis

BEIRUT (UPI) — Lebanese authorities said they would reopen Beirut's international airport Saturday long enough to allow a Red Cross plane to fly in with 8 tons of medical supplies.

An international Red Cross spokesman said the relief plane from Geneva was expected to land at the Beirut airport Saturday afternoon. It would be the first plane to land at the airport since it was closed by artillery attacks April 21.

In both Beirut and Zahle, the scene of most of the fighting between Christian Phalangists and Syrian peacekeeping forces, both sides were holding their fire, Beirut radio said.

The radio said a government relief party entered Zahle, under siege by Syrian forces since fighting broke out between warring factions early last month.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, who was scheduled to arrive in Beirut Sunday with a "working paper" setting out a plan for reconciliation among Lebanon's warring armies, was delayed until Monday, Beirut radio said.

Security sources attributed the relative calm to diplomatic efforts spearheaded by the United States and said they also served to lower the level of fighting in south Lebanon between Palestinian guerrillas and Israeli-backed Christian militiamen.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Foreign Minister Yitshak Shamir said Israel is ready to reach "some kind of agreement" with Syria to defuse tension in Lebanon but ruled out any immediate chances of such a deal.

However, Israeli warplanes that flew over Lebanon on reconnaissance missions Friday avoided getting anywhere close to the Bekaa Valley where Syria deployed five sets of Soviet-made SAM-6 missiles — the kind which brought down a large number of Israeli war jets during the 1973 war, security sources said.

Tuesday the Israeli jets shot down two Syrian helicopters, raising the specter of an all-out Syrian-Israeli air war over Lebanon.

In the starkest sign Friday that a meaningful cease-fire still remained elusive, 11 shells exploded on the perimeter of Beirut's international airport, damaging a number of buses.

Airport officials encouraged by the unofficial truce had said Thursday they hoped to reopen the facility early next week. But the renewed shelling put their plans on ice.

Syrian-Phalangist artillery and machine gun duels sputtered intermittently along the 3-mile "Green Line" dividing Moslem West Beirut and the Christian East side. Jittery residents within close range of the rival gunners remained indoors.

Irish Jet Hijacked By Iranian

LE TOUQUET, France (UPI) — An Iranian gunman hijacked a Boeing 737 jet of the Irish national airline Aer Lingus and ordered it diverted to this northern French airfield, airport officials said.

They said the gunman demanded the plane, enroute from Dublin to London with 123 passengers plus crew, be flown to Tehran.

In London the British Civil Aviation Authority said the gunman hijacked the jet as it made its final approach to London's Heathrow airport.

The gunman burst into the cockpit at 1:30 p.m. (8:30 a.m. EDT), 15 minutes before a scheduled landing at Heathrow, and ordered Captain Edward Foyle to fly the plane out of British airspace.

An Aer Lingus spokesman said "a decision was made to head for Le Touquet in France."

Officials at Le Touquet, on the English

Channel coast 123 miles north of Paris, said the jet landed at 2:08 p.m. (9:08 a.m. EDT).

British officials said an unknown number of Iranians were on board the plane.

"On approach to London airport a man appeared on the flight deck and ordered the plane not to land in Britain," the Aer Lingus spokesman said. "A decision was made to head for Le Touquet in northern France."

The spokesman said the captain explained to the hijacker the plane did not carry enough fuel to reach Tehran. The 737 is ranked as a short-range jet.

He said company officials were in contact with the hijackers.

Airport officials said the hijackers demanded the publication by the world's press of a newspaper article but gave no details.

Rain Wasn't Enough 'To Work Up A Lather'

The one-half inch of rain that fell in the city of Sanford and the .11 inch recorded in scattered showers in other parts of Seminole Friday evening was not enough to alleviate the area's severe drought.

"If I had had a bar of soap the rain wouldn't have been enough to work up a lather in Southwest Seminole," said Elmer Tingle of the U.S. Weather Service. "It helped a little, but brought no real relief," he said.

In Sanford where the rainfall was recorded at the city sewer plant on Poplar Avenue, the shower was a little heavier.

Meanwhile, acrid smelling smoke blanketed much of the south end of the county again Friday evening from the still smoldering forest fire near the University of Central Florida, south of Ovid.

L. Ron Russell of the Goldenrod-Dunwoody Fire Department, which has been fighting the fire for nearly a week, said "Any rain we get is going to help, but the situation is not relieved." — DONNA ESTES

Enrollment Decline Continues

The shrinkage of college enrollments that became apparent during the 1970s is expected to continue and become even more pronounced in the decades ahead. Projections show the size of the college-entrance population shrinking through most of the rest of the century as a consequence of the declining birth rates from the early 1960s into the 1970s. Increases in annual births from 1977 through 1979 should show up as college-enrollment upturns at the very end of the century.

Where There's Raines, There's Scores

The Montreal Expos are finding out that where there's Raines, there's scores.

Tim Raines, a fleet-footed rookie outfielder, has given every indication he will make more than make up for the loss of 50 runs scored that disappeared from the Expos' offense when outfielder Ron LeFlore played out his option and signed with the Chicago White Sox.

Raines stole three more bases — giving him 23 for the season in 23 attempts — and scored twice, including once with a game-winning homer in the 13th inning, Friday night to give the Expos a 9-8 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The 21-year-old outfielder has already scored 14 runs in 17 games and is hitting .359.

Of the game-winning homer off reliever Bob Castillo, Raines said, "That's my biggest thrill. I certainly didn't expect to hit a home run in the 13th inning, but he (Castillo) made a mistake and threw me a fast ball."

So You Say You Need A Lawyer...

Tips On Obtaining Competent Legal Aid

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Most people need a lawyer at some time or another. Whether it's for drafting a will, obtaining a divorce, or defending against a criminal charge, legal knowledge is a valuable commodity in this highly technical and complicated world.

But how do you find a good attorney — one who is both proficient and reasonably priced?

A number of suggestions were offered this past week by county legal officials as part of Law Week in Seminole County.

While there are no concrete guidelines that will guarantee acquisition of a competent, affordable attorney, there are a few things to remember when you go looking for legal aid.

Probably the best source for referral is a good friend who has worked satisfactorily with a lawyer, particularly if your legal problems are similar.

One could consult members of the professional community, public interest organizations, and advertisements, although the latter are relatively new and not widely used.

If you're new in town and don't know where to start, or if the sources listed above come up empty, one place to turn is the Seminole County Bar Association's Lawyer Referral Service. Thirty-six attorneys (about a third of the county bar members) are listed with the service for referral on a rotating basis in their area of expertise. These lawyers have agreed to a reduced fee for the first half hour of consultation — $20. Following the initial 30 minutes, clients are charged at the lawyer's normal rate.

Frequently, callers will be informed that their case does not require an attorney, or are directed without charge to Central Florida Legal Services, which handles civil cases for those who cannot afford to pay for legal aid.

Whether the referral service is used or not, money should be discussed up front. "There should be a very clear understanding from the start as to what the fee is going to be and how it will be computed," according to Bill Eaton, county bar association president. "And preferably but this in writing. It's your best way of avoiding financial surprises."

Many fee agreements say no more than that the cost of a case will be borne by the client. Per'od. Eaton suggests getting a little more specific, like asking your attorney to list what he or she will do in return for your hard-earned cash.

Routine legal problems such as drafting a simple will, executing a real estate closing, settling an uncontested divorce with no custody or property issues are often handled for flat fees. Even in such cases, there are usually "extras" tacked onto the bill — travel expenses, meals, phone calls, and postage.

Persons with more complicated legal problems are usually billed by the hour. Rates vary, but most attorneys charge somewhere between $50 and $80 an hour. Lawyers in rural regions tend to charge less than big city attorneys, established legal eagles more than novices.

Since lawyers cannot always estimate how many hours a case will require, a federal Consumer Protection Agency pamphlet advises that your written agreement should include a provision stating that your lawyer will not exceed a specified amount of time or money so your case without first obtaining your permission.

Persons seeking legal services might also run into retainer agreements or contingency fee cases. Retainer fees are advance payment some lawyers require before work is begun. The amount generally represents a number of hours at the lawyer's hourly rate, with any additional time spent on a case being billed at a later date.

If you enter into a retainer arrangement, agree beforehand that your lawyer will give you a refund if less time is spent on a case than was provided for by the retainer, the CPA pamphlet says.

In cases of accident or personal injury, some lawyers will accept a case on a contingency basis. If you win the case, they will take as payment a percentage of the money awarded you by the court.

On the other hand, if you lose, the attorney usually demands only expenses such as court fees incurred in the case.

No matter what kind of payment method is agreed upon, a clear financial obligation is of little value if you don't feel at ease with your legal counsel. The lawyer-client relationship must be a very close one, says Eaton. And the single most important factor in choosing an attorney is to "feel confident and comfortable with him."

"I'd much rather be comfortable with my lawyer than be concerned with whether he's charging me $10 more an hour than the attorney down the block," he says. "If your personalities don't harmonize, you find someone new."

While you're at it, you might as well find an attorney familiar with your special problem. Like doctors, lawyers in Florida specialize (though the practice has come about only within the past decade), Eaton says.

"If you need brain surgery, you don't go to a general practitioner; you go to a neurosurgeon." Similarly, "if you have a sticky child support problem, you go to a lawyer particularly adept at domestic law."

If you want to let your fingers do the walking, the Yellow Pages provide a listing of attorneys by specialty. Likewise, the referral service will steer you toward a lawyer knowledgeable in your particular area of need.

To ensure that attorneys are as good as they say they are the state bar association mandates a program of continuing education and standards for specialist certification.

If your case is complicated or involves

This is definitely NOT the time to start looking for a lawyer. Not only is it probably going to take more than the proverbial one phone call to line up competent legal counsel, it is also tough to dial when your hands are cuffed. Looking for an attorney? The Seminole County Bar Association recommends you shop around.

PEOPLE IN BRIEF

Miller And The Marx Bros.:

'He Dropped His Drawers'

By United Press International

Ann Miller met some imitation Marx Brothers Wednesday and recalled the real thing. The scene was outside the Royale Theater, where "A Day in Hollywood, A Night in The Ukraine" celebrated its first anniversary.

The Marx Brothers characters who appear in the show buzzed Miss Miller, star of "Sugar Babies," while she had her feet set in cement, a la Hollywood's Grauman's Chinese.

She described the first day of shooting of "Room Service," one of her first films back in 1939, with the Marx Brothers and Lucille Ball. "Chico and Groucho were very polite and cordial," she said.

"Then all of a sudden Harpo came around the corner honking his horn. He walked right up to me and dropped his drawers. I've never been so embarrassed. He chased me all over the set. I'll tell you one thing, after that incident, making the movie was a breeze."

Glenn: Spend For Space

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, says trimming the funding for space exploration "may be pennywise now, but will be pound foolish for the future."

Glenn, the first American to orbit the Earth, warned the 18th Space Congress that money must be spent for space flight in order to keep the United States ahead in both basic research and military defense.

"President Reagan expressed appreciation for the shuttle mission but at the same time the NASA budget has been cut $600 million and the overall funding is down 47 percent since Neil Armstrong set foot on the moon."

Unless the nation proceeds forward in space, Glenn said, the Russians will emerge far ahead of this country. "The USSR plans to orbit a permanent, 12-man space station by 1985," he said.

"The loss of our once-commanding lead in space should both embarrass and frighten us. We should be embarrassed because we are consciously choosing to default rather than to compete. And we should be frightened because that default could some day prove, literally, fatal."

There's No Place Like Home

For Barbara Mandrell, there's no place like home, which happens to be Hendersonville, Tenn. The country singer was in Hollywood lately for her television show that features the three Mandrell sisters. The tough schedule took its toll on her voice. She wound up blowing a whistle to keep down shouting on the set, and scribbling notes to everybody on a Mickey Mouse pad.

"I think I drove everybody crazy with the whistle," she said. "Plus my handwriting is so bad nobody could read what I was writing." The singer said Hollywood was a nice place to visit but she longed for the rolling hills of Tennessee.

"I'd rather live in a shack and be able to look at Old Hickory Lake than live in the ritziest mansion in Hollywood," she said.

A Tribute To John Lennon

A new record by the surviving Beatles acknowledges John Lennon has the driving force behind the group and calls his killer "The Devil's Best Friend." Guitarist George Harrison wrote the music and lyrics for "All These Years Ago," to be released shortly both as a single and in an album. Harrison, Drummer Ringo Starr and Paul McCartney recorded the song separately - in London.

The lyrics brand Lennon's assassin as "The Devil's Best Friend - Someone who Offended All." Of Lennon's role in the Beatles, the song says he was "The one who imagined it all... The one who had control of our smiles and our tears." A spokesman says George, Ringo and Paul have no plans to work together again.

'Cry' Singer Tries Trio

Johnny Ray, who came to fame in 1951 singing "Cry" and "The Little White Cloud That Cried," has come back to New York - singing with a trio. Ray, who became an overnight hit as a singer despite the fact he was almost totally deaf, will appear at Marty's, a New York Supper Club, from May 18-30.

There was a time when he was a regular at all of Manhattan's top clubs - as a customer, accompanying gossip columnist Dorothy Kilgallen as she made her rounds. The story of that romance was part of Lee Harvey Oswald's biography, "Aigallen," which has been bought for a movie treatment.

Actor Activists Honored

Robert Redford was there looking handsome. Joanne Woodward was there looking beautiful. And John Denver was there looking very thin.

The occasion was the second annual awards dinner of Consumer Action Now, of which Lola Redford is president. Denver was presented an award for his efforts on behalf of environmental issues and human rights, and most recently for establishing the Windstar research center in Snowmass, Colo.

Soupy And The Duke

Soupy Sales opened his cabaret act Friday at Ron Delsner's New Savoy Nightclub in New York. On May 9, the Savoy will be the scene of a birthday party for the late Duke Ellington. Son, Mercer Ellington, will cut the cake and give a preview of the May 13 PBS TV special "A Salute to the Duke," taped at the Kennedy Center in Washington.

Quote Of The Day

Rod Carew, first baseman for the California Angels, explained to talk show host John Davidson why he became the spokesman for the Center for Improvement of Child Care. Carew said, "I was a victim of mental and physical abuse as a child. All my mother could do was stand in front of me and take some of the blows. My father was a very violent person."

'You Just Can't Let A Baby Die'

She Mothers The Most Hopeless Tots

By KEITH R. TILL

GRASS VALLEY, Calif. (NEA) — There are no storybook endings in Ada Hibbard's line of work. "Life just doesn't work that way," says the 64-year-old woman who runs a foster home for severely retarded and terminally ill children.

Mrs. Hibbard has come to terms with an occupation that few could handle. She makes the most of a child's life even when admonished by doctors that he or she is certain to die within months.

"Lots of people say to me, 'Why do you do it when you don't get anything back?' But when I pick up Juan and get a big smile from him, I get quite a bit back," says Ada Hibbard, who runs a foster home for severely retarded and terminally ill children.

"Lots of people say to me, 'Why do you do it when you don't get anything back?' But when I pick up Juan and get a big smile from him, I get quite a bit back," Mrs. Hibbard explains.

Juan (not his real name) is just one of the children who would be doomed to state mental hospitals for life were it not for the round-the-clock care provided by small family nurseries like this one.

All four of the children currently in Mrs. Hibbard's care are mentally retarded. They range in age from 9 months to 13 years. All sleep in cribs; even the oldest is incapable of crawling out.

Several of the children have greatly outlived their life expectancies. Most would not have made it this far without Mrs. Hibbard, who supplies their only life-supporting stimuli.

Soft-spoken and self-sufficient, Mrs. Hibbard agrees to an interview only after thoughtful hesitation. She seldom shares this aspect of her life, even with friends or working associates. It has become highly personal, and she has chosen her own methods of carrying on the task whose rewards are so subtle.

"It's my living, that's all," she explains while sitting in the living room of the comfortable home that she bought for herself.

Within listening range is the bedroom where the four children lie awaiting their next feeding. Occasional voices bear little resemblance to those of a normal child.

Mrs. Hibbard knows first-hand what it's like to be confined to a bed without much hope of recovery. For eight years she suffered paralysis from hepatitis. She recalls not being able to move enough to reach a glass of water on her night stand. The outlook from doctors was for only slight improvement.

Instead, she made a nearly complete recovery. She walks unassisted. Separated from her husband, she earns her own living.

Obtaining work was difficult, though, because of her physical limitations. With a background in hospital work, Mrs. Hibbard found her first job as a foster parent to two severely retarded and physically handicapped babies in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Jones, Mandrell, Parton Take Country Music Awards

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — George Jones, who sings mournful tunes of lost love and hard drinking, was selected male vocalist of the year and his song "He Stopped Loving Her Today" was chosen top song and single record of the year Thursday night by the Academy of Country Music.

Barbara Mandrell won entertainer of the year and Dolly Parton was selected top female vocalist of the year.

"Oh my goodness," said Jones, who also won a Grammy this year. "This is the greatest thrill of my life. You know everybody says that, but what happened the last few months is really so great."

Miss Mandrell, who moved to Hollywood this year to do a weekly TV variety show with her sister's and previously has been honored in her long career, accepted the award, her voice shaking with emotion.

"I want you to know this with all my heart," she said. "It doesn't get any less exciting. It just gets better. I want to thank the fans for sticking with me."

Miss Parton, who also had been one of five performers nominated as entertainer of the year, was not present for the nationally televised program and her brother accepted the award on her behalf.

Top vocal group of the year was "Alabama" and top vocal duet honors went to Moe Bandy & Joe Stampley.

The top new male vocalist was Johnny Lee and the new female vocalist of the year went to

He Still Had Enough Money To Buy His Wife A Geranium

NEW YORK (UPI) — It wasn't exactly Arthur Terrell's day. First, the car he was using was stolen. Then, although he was in the middle of a bank holdup and managed to walk away with all his money the cash ended up in the hands of another set of robbers.

"It was a pretty interesting day," Terrell said Thursday, referring to his ordeal the day before, which began after he stepped out of his apartment building in Brooklyn's Dyker Heights section to cash his paycheck.

Terrell, 30, kissed his wife, Marion, goodbye and went looking for the car he had borrowed from his father. The car wasn't where Terrell parked it the night before. It had been stolen.

"Walking isn't so bad," he recalled thinking. "I wonder why people always complain that they have to walk."

So, Terrell walked to the Manufacturers Hanover Trust, just a few blocks away from his home.

While he waited in the bank line to cash his paycheck, he saw confusion at the tellers' window.

"We've been robbed again by the same guy again," Terrell said a teller screamed as a robber dashed out the front door of the bank.

"After it all calmed down, I cashed my check," he said.

When he left the bank, Terrell felt he needed a walk and some fresh sea air to calm down after a double shot of adrenalin. As he strolled toward Shore Road, he felt his nose twitch. He pulled out his handkerchief and caught a sneeze, but missed a wad of money — from his cashed check — as it fell to the ground.

He may have been oblivious at first to the cash, but a group of robbers in a car saw the greenbacks fall.

As Terrell stuffed the money back into his coat pocket, they pulled up and asked him for directions. Terrell started to comply, and they shoved a gun in his face.

"Give me the money in your coat pocket," he said one of the assailants ordered. Terrell handed over the $185 he collected from the bank. The robbers escaped, tires screeching.

After a day like that, any other guy would have gone home and pulled the covers over his head.

Not Terrell.

"I still had some money in my pocket and bought my wife a geranium," he said.

"The only thing they did is take the car and my money. I can make that all back," he said. "Why be miserable? I've had my share of good luck too."

The Caller Said He Found $3,000 Cash

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — It might have been just another fish story. The caller said he had found a purse full of credit cards and $3,000 cash floating in the ocean, and he wanted to know if it was all right to return them.

Sure thing, said Martin Segal of Pittsburgh, whose wife's purse had been stolen last week from their Miami Beach hotel room. Segal, however, was apprehensive. He thought the call a few days later might be a con to get more money, perhaps by kidnapping.

"Mr. Segal was worried," recalled the hotel assistant manager Frederick Massaro Wednesday. "He thought that maybe the guy really wanted more money. He thought maybe he was going to try a kidnapping or something."

Massaro posed as Segal for the meeting set in the hotel's lobby. He walked two blue-jean clad young men who handed over the $3,000 cash and credit cards.

Massaro braced for their demands, and finally they were made.

No, they didn't want a reward, just a couple of drinks at the bar, the men told Massaro.

The good Samaritans were on the level.

"I am really not all that nice," joked one of the do-gooders. "I don't want to ruin my reputation," he said when they declined to identify themselves.

"A one-in-a-million thing," Susan Segal said Wednesday from her home in Pittsburgh. "There are some beautiful people in Miami."

Waldo One-Hits Rotary As Kiwanis Romps 14-3

Orion Waldo hurled a one-hitter Friday as Kiwanis blasted Rotary 14-3 in the Sanford Junior League. Friday's second game, between Knights of Columbus and Moose, was rained out. Waldo struck out six in the four-inning performance. The only Rotary hit was a one-double by Billy Penick in the fourth. Michael Wright had a double and single for Kiwanis and Horace Knight added two singles. Dexter Franklin had the only other hit for the winners, a single that keyed a five-run first inning.

Derby Starts 21 Saturday

UPI Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Twenty-one horses are expected to start in today's 107th edition of the Kentucky Derby. The most crowded field in seven years will leave from two starting gates at 5:38 p.m. (EDT) this afternoon at Churchill Downs. The glorious Run for the Roses, which has suffered through some legal hassles the past two days, has suddenly lost its luster. It started when Wayward Lass, a filly from the Flying Zee Stable, was entered just before the deadline in the racing classic. But Churchill Downs officials, after the general confusion when 23 horses ran in the 1974 Derby, had decided to limit all future fields for the race to a maximum 20 horses. This year only the top 20 money winners would make the field. One of the colts, Flying Nashua, was 20th on the earning list until Wayward Lass was entered and the Larry Barrera-trained colt was bumped to 21st. Distraught over seeing his Derby dream wiped out, Barrera and owner Dr. Ulf Nilsson challenged the validity of the Churchill rule Friday morning in Jefferson Circuit Court. Judge Charles M. Leibson upheld the challenge and ordered the track to put the colt back into the field. Following that decision, attorney Robert Jones, representing owners Albert Risen Jr. and Paxton Price, went to court in an attempt to get Mythical Ruler, who was also bumped out of the field, into the Derby. That prompted Bert T. Combs, the former governor of Kentucky and now an attorney for Churchill Downs, to pay a visit to the state's Court of Appeals in an effort to get Leibson's decision overturned. Judge Michael McDonald ruled against the track and upheld Leibson's decision. Apparently, the 20-horse rule invoked by the track violated a state racing law which prohibits exclusion of race horses because of the entry of two other jointly named horses. Golden Derby and Proud Appeal are coupled for the Derby, as are Wayward Lass and Noble Nashua. "We made an error in our interpretation of the state rules," said Churchill President Lynn Stone. "The stewards had the discretion to expand the field and decided to do so."

Boys Set Record In Medley

Dillard 49 1/2 Seminole Girls 49

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor
Fl. Lauderdale Dillard 49 1/2 Seminole 49. It was that close at the Region 4A-5 Track Meet Friday at John I. Leonard High School at Ft. Worth. The Seminole girls track team came up a fraction short of taking home the championship. Dillard also captured the boys portion of the meet, while the Tribe boys finished in the top 20 with 20 points.

'I Couldn't Sleep At All Last Night' —Emory Blake

"I couldn't sleep at all last night," moaned girls Coach Emory Blake. "All I could think about was that half of point. "If Tony (Hardy) and Brenda (Davis) would have been 100 per cent... I know we would have won," said Blake about his two top sprinters bothered with muscle pulls.

It was in the longer hurdles where Blake figured to pick up more points, but Hardy was sixth in 53.0. Her best time this year is 43.2.

"That was the killer," said Blake. "With a healthy Hardy we finish at least third."

The Tribe also lost points in the 440 where the injured Davis could muster only a fifth place finish. She ran a 63, two seconds off her usual.

The Seminoles were second in the 440 and mile relays. Arlene Jonez, Davis, Crystal Caldwell and Hardy ran 49.8 in the 440.

Davis, Crystal Caldwell, Burch and Hardy combined for 4:07 in the mile.

The other speedy Caldwell — Revonda — teamed with Seminole's three flashy freshmen Traci Brown, Sharon Jenkins and Sharon Newell for third in the medley relay.

All told, the Lady Tribe qualified 10 girls — everyone except Cathy Jones in the weights — for Saturday's state meet at Showalter Field where Oak Ridge looms as an overwhelming favorite.

"We're like McArthur, we'll be back," promised Blake. Hank Daviero and his Seminole boys will be back too. The Tribe qualified two relay teams and Vance Edwards in the 440 at Ft. Worth.

Edwards, a junior, clipped to a 50.3 quarter and then helped the mile relay team to a 3:28.1 clocking for second place.

The Tribe's best showing, however, was in the mile medley where Larry Eason, David Humphrey, Jim Voltoline and Mike Wooten broke the school record by over one second.

The foursome ran a 3:34.0 to break the existing mark of 3:36.4.

"We didn't do as well as the girls, but it was nice to set a record," said Daviero.

Tony Hardy, Seminole's injured sprinter and hurdler, was limited to sixth place in the 330-yard hurdles. Hardy ran a 53.0 time which is seven seconds off her best time. Sanford lost by a half point to Dillard.

As it was Hardy turned in a courageous performance by winning the long jump in 16-feet-7 1/2. "Tony did as well as she could," said Blake about his talented junior. "The long jump was early in the meet and she was stronger." Reuvenia Burch continued to sparkle for the Tribe as she won the 110-yard hurdles in 14.8 and the 330-yard hurdles in 46.2.

CINDY HENRY

Henry Swan Song Ends On Sad Note, Apopka Whips Greyhounds For Title

Funny how "Swan Song" have sad lyrics sometimes.

Lyman's Cindy Henry coached her last softball game for the Lady Greyhounds Friday night and came up a 5-1 loser to Apopka for the District 4A-9 Championship.

But as the parents hugged the pretty, blonde-haired coach and she blinked back the tears, one got the impression that the only thing she lost was the ball game.

"I'll never forget how much you've helped my daughter," said one adoring parent through a voice that was cracking. "We love you and we're really going to miss you."

Next year Henry takes her coaching skills to Lake Mary's new high school.

The girls really wanted to win this one for you," continued the parent. "That's all they talked about all day."

When the night came at Derbyshire Park in Daytona Beach, though, it was Apopka which came through with the big hits.

The Blue Darters put three runs on the scoreboard in the second inning when a fly ball glanced off the glove of Rhonda Tempesta in left center field with bases loaded.

The error and a subsequent overthrow allowed all three runners to score and put the Lady Blue Darters up 3-0.

It seems Apopka's hitting always intimidates us," sighed Henry after the game. "They got ahead and we just didn't hit."

Lyman finally scored in the fifth when Carol Atkinson's bases loaded ground ball was muffed by the first baseman allowing a run to score.

Bases loaded and we only get one run," said Henry about the promising situation. "That really hurt."

Apopka added two more insurance runs to seal the 5-1 victory and drop the 'Hounds. Lyman 000 010 0-1 6 2 Apopka 030 200 0-5 9 3

Kids Will 'Flip' Over Gymnastics Fun Day Festival

By SYBIL MITCHELL GANDY
Herald Staff Writer

The mats are down, the stage is set and the curtain goes up on a fun-filled, action-packed, spectacle May 9 when all of Seminole County joins the Sanford Gymnastics Association in celebrating "Gymnastics Fun Day!"

This Saturday morning festival on parade marks the major yearly fund-raising project for the tumbling, flipping youngsters in the association. Spotlights focus on enjoying family life as the spirit of picnic and carnival rule the day.

SGA President Jeannette Stiffey is almost as excited as the students are — with all the tables and booths and games — why, it's just enough to keep anybody breathless.

"We've really been putting a lot of energy into this fun day celebration, especially the coach's team. They've been practicing their tumbling and polishing their flips for the performance on Saturday," Jeannette explained.

The coach's team — oh — those are Coach Eugene Petty's practicing pros. Composed of Seminole County's foremost young gymnasts, this 30-member team works continually toward athletic competition.

They're good, they're fast, they're skillful, and they plan to put Seminole County on this nation's gymnastic map. These winners are bound for state and national competition.

"That's what this fun day festival is all about," says Jeannette. "As our annual fund-raising event, our celebration event will provide the means for coach's team to get new equipment, finish paying for old equipment and meeting travel expenses for future area competition," she said.

And the man with the plan for gymnastic competition, Coach Eugene Petty spends hours and hours on end helping SGA students to perfect and control their body movements. An athletic wonder himself, Petty sponsors the high school gym team at Seminole High School.

Set in the gym facilities of the Salvation Army building, the 150-member Sanford Gymnastics Association grinds through a rigorously stringent routine of physical discipline and acrobatic finesse.

They range in age from 4 to 18—some are older, a very few are younger...but they all agree that tumbling is fun...flipping is tops, and their upcoming Gymnastics Fun Day Celebration is going to be the absolute, positive end!

According to Sylvia Lorman, an SGA parent who came up with this smashing idea, a big lunely "grill-out" will feature pizza hot dogs, cakes, pies, popcorn and all the other little goodies that make a carnival a carnival.

Crafts and plants will be on sale in the flea market section.

And carnival games will top off the fun. The ever-popular dunking machine that drops a clown in the water at the throw of a ball will be on hand for the daring.

Plus a colorful Concord Castle at the 700 W. 24th Street site will await the jumping jack toddlers. You've seen it...the big enclosed balloon with the bouncy, floor where kids go in and tumble on air (so to speak).

And adding to the fun will be the Dixieland Cloggers and the PJC Baton Twirlers. The ruckus begins at 10 a.m. and lasts through the afternoon until 4 p.m.

See you there, fun-lovers!

Coach Eugene Petty and some of his team gymnasts.

SHS Seniors Awarded For Achievement

Charlene Stallworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel R. Stallworth and a senior at Seminole High School, has been awarded an Achievement Scholarship in the 1981 National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students.

This award of $1,000 was presented by the Sperry Corporation.

Previously, Miss Stallworth won a Presidential Scholarship from the University of Florida and a $500 scholarship from the Orlando chapter of Phi Beta Sigma fraternity.

She ranked fourth in her class academically and has been very active in student affairs while at Seminole. She has memberships in the band, National Honor Society, Mu Alpha Theta, Alpha American Unite and the Student Government Association.

Miss Stallworth is a senior class representative, was on the Homecoming court and the Senior Class calendar, and was elected Miss SHS by a junior class fund raising project.

She is also listed in Who's Who in American High Schools and Who's Who in Music, and was a 1980 participant at Girls' State.

Miss Stallworth plans to attend the University of Florida, majoring in computer engineering. Her father is a guidance counselor at Milwee Middle School while her mother teaches.

Wives' Responses Not Exactly Blissful

DEAR ABBY: The letter from BLISSFUL IN BALTIMORE left me in a fog of confusion. I am a male, past 50, experiencing declining virility. Five of my male friends, all about my age, seemed as confused as I when we discussed BLISSFUL'S letter.

She said: "Your column is filled with letters from women who complain that they are married to cold sex machines who don't know the first thing about how to satisfy a woman. For heaven's sake, who knows better than the woman herself what it takes to satisfy her? Just ask her to be honest. And when she tells you, believe her."

My friends and I asked our wives and received the following responses:

- My wife: "You know everything I know."
- Wife No. 2: "We're too old for that nonsense."
- Wife No. 3: "How should I know?"
- Wife No. 4: "Sex is all you ever think about!"
- Wife No. 5: "You aren't planning on starting that foolishness again, are you?"
- Wife No. 6: "Go read a book, and don't bother me."

Regards,
CHARLES

DEAR ABBY: I'm 42, very happily married with four teenaged children. The oldest married six months ago. Our family has been complete for 14 years—and now I'm pregnant again!

Abortion is out of the question. The only thing that will sustain me through this pregnancy is the knowledge that someone else who desperately wants a child will receive fulfillment and happiness from my labor. Yes, I want to put this child up for adoption, but I am concerned about the social pressures against such action.

My husband has called this pregnancy "a cruel blow" and "a great disappointment." He said that if I'm lucky I will have another miscarriage. (I had one.) But thus far I have not been able to get him to go along with giving up the child.

Dear Abby

We are active in religious education and practically run the Sunday School at our church. We had looked forward to our middle years together — unencumbered. This would be impossible with a new baby to raise.

The main fact of this mess is that I can't mentally or physically face this middle-age pregnancy without the thought that I will be relieved of the burden in November.

What counsel can you give me?

NAMELESS IN LOUISIANA

DEAR NAMELESS: I beg you not to make a decision while you are in this emotional state. Please wait until all the anger, disappointment and shock are dissipated, then decide together with your husband and children what to do about this unplanned child. Write again, my dear but troubled friend. I want to know of your decision.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please do thousands of secretaries a favor and print this? Whenever my boss and his wife receive a personal gift or have been entertained or if there is any other matter that requires a personal "thank-you" note, my boss asks me to write it. Of course, he signs it. I always thought the wife was supposed to write those notes.

I have a heavier work load than I can carry without all this extra stuff. I have worked overtime, for which I am not paid, to get their Christmas cards out. I really wouldn't mind so much if either he or his wife ever thanked me for it, but it's never mentioned.

His wife has even called and asked me to remind him to send so-and-so a thank-you note. Who does she think she is? Tell him for me, will you please?

NOGUTS

DEAR NO: After this hits print, I may not have to.

Fan-Fare Attracts Fan-Ciers Of Fans

The opening of the fan exhibit Sunday at the Henry S. Sanford Museum-Library was fan-lastic fan-fare in any language, any century, any country.

The event was well-attended and attracted a large number of fan-ciers of fans. Mildred M. Caskey, museum curator, briefly told the history of the fans to well-wishers who were seated on the grounds waiting for Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole to perform segments of "Americana," a ballet written by Mildred.

Mrs. Erma M. Anderson of Altamonte Springs, was the exhibit designer. Others contributing to the exhibit were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Peterson, Mrs. Patricia Barden, Mrs. William Livingston and Mrs. W. J. Pennock, all of Sanford; Dr. Genevieve Richardson, Deltona; and Mrs. James P. McMahon, Orlando.

The museum is open to the public free on Sundays, Wednesday and Friday, from 2-5 p.m. You'll love the fans.

Among the dancers appearing in Southern Ballet Theatre's, "A Spring Gala," the season's finale at Bob Carr Auditorium, were Jacqui Greene, Thom Lake, Carol Crain and Laura Moore, all of Sanford.

Jacqui and Thom performed a pas de deux, Le Corsaire, on the same professional par as Fonteyn and Nureyev. It was absolutely breathtaking.

Many patrons of the ballet attended from the Sanford area. But Jacqui Greene probably had the largest family delegation. In addition to Jacqui's parents, Mimi and Jack Greene, her beautiful and equally talented sister, Lisa, was on hand.

Also attending were another sister, Carol Greene Asher, and her family, husband Roger, and three children from West Palm Beach, and Roger's mother, Jean Asher, from Long Island, N.Y. and Florida. Also Jacqui's grandfather, B. E. Breene Sr., Orlando, and his bride of less than a year, Juanita, were two special supporters.

Marta Shedden Smith, daughter of Ginny and Bob Shedden, made the President's Honor Roll (all As) during the winter quarter at University of Central Florida.

Jean Norris said she was real pleased at the large turnout (about 200) attending the First Annual African Violet Exhibition at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

The event was co-sponsored by Jean and the Downtown Sanford Merchants

Pilot Club Gets Awards

The Pilot Club of Sanford received four service awards at the Fourth District Convention Pilots International held in Panama City.

Two awards were for service at the International level — Project Care and Project Hope.

A pace setter award was given for service activities and the club is a charter member of this project.

The fourth award was given for the local service given to the older population of the area by the National Council on Aging. The club is a four-time winner of the special award.

Service to the nursing homes in Sanford, sponsoring the Pancake Race in the Golden Age Games, individual members' involvement with other senior activities plus a donation of cash to Aging Division, Seminole County Mental Health Center, were some of the projects that made the club eligible.

The delegates at this convention were Laura Chase, president elect; May Jo Cochran, treasurer and Gene Maulding.
