national and national news is usually on the grim side. But far beyond the headline focus, man harvests his crop of little triumphs that tell a more cheerful story. Here's a rundown on some happier occurrences in recent weeks. By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Andy Jacobson probably will spend his Easter vacation singing and playing the guitar for the patients at Philadelphia's University Hospital. Gordon Scott, paralyzed from the neck down, hopes to visit the zoo in Portland, Ore., for the first time because a lot of people are making it possible. That's not the kind of things that headlines are made of. Good deeds, little bits and snips of cheer and humanity, unfortunately, get lost in the rush of news about the ABM, the Mideast, Vietnam, crime and the other sad tidings.

Andy, 14, who gets to the hospital whenever he can, was asked why he makes the visits. "Well," he answered, "I guess I just like people." That says it for a lot of people, like the kind who are making life a little more enjoyable for Gordon Scott. In Danville, Ill., four teenagers leaped from their automobile and chased off a masked man attempting to attack a woman. Boasted a policeman: "It's really good to know we have people like this in Danville who aren't afraid to go to the aid of someone in trouble." Mary Moore got a certificate of distinguished service from the Dallas Fire Department for her "unselfish and heroic acts." This 10-year-old girl led seven younger children from a burning house to safety.

In South Paris, Maine, a good neighbor is a fellow who walks five miles in the teeth of a winddriven snowstorm to fill grocery orders for snowbound people along his road. And delivers their mail in the afternoon. "I was getting cabin fever." said Alfred Proctor, a 28-year-old carpenter, "and we needed some groceries, so I just asked some other people in the neighborhood if they needed anything."

Not all is unrest on the campus: The Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity at Pennsylvania State University collected $1,600 for charity while its members staged a 48-hour basketball bounce-in.

Students at Northwestern Uni versity. Evanston, Ill., volum teered to donate blood to save the life of Danny Noonan, 14months, who is stricken with hemophilia.

Hesikiah D. Stewart, 23-year old student leader of a drive to raise $100,000 for predominantly Negro Allen University, in Columbia, S.C., said the campaign is progressing "fairly well." So far it has raised $30,000 and the deadline was pushed back to May from March 8. Students at the University of Missouri at Rolla are spending their spare time on Operation Assist, a joint project of the university, the Urban League and the St. Louis Junior Chamber of Commerce. The idea is to fix up, without charge, a block of houses in St. Louis that need repair- and to learn something about the inner city.

The 1,500 pupils of New Brunswick, N. J., High School and city and school officials marched arm-in-arm around the school singing as a demonstration of racial goodwill. Eight years ago Carlos Arboleya left his native Cuba with his wife and b. by and only $50 in his pocket. Ask him about opportunities in this country and All administrative facilitie he will tell you. "Anybody can of Longwood Elementary School new solutions to the basic problems of living in the Space-Age oriented 1970s is taking place. This is not limited to any one area of human endeavor. It has erupted with climactic force in our colleges and universities, with lesser drama in public high schools and private academies. But the one area which has stumped most researchers from coast to coast and from border to tent that its sober import - and this is embodies to border is that of government. Whether located in a very high degree - has been vitiated. We do not Washington, state capitols, county courthouses or city halls, new thinking is a premium.

These generalities need one or two more, before any specific comment is proper. One would be that the mobility of our population has produced problems which cannot be solved by a status quo answer.

But the other, and this is most understandable in Central Florida, is the impact of mammoth defense contracts on the local economy. Arrival of de- studies and considerable talk about a means where- vision is as broad as it is high. It has its most out- posal and of moves that must be made, right now fense industries has injected unnatural growth by the combined strength of our various local com- standing exhibit in Minnesota where the twin cities and right here to control growth and provide public where it could not be logically anticipated and bur- munities could be exerted for the good of all.

FTU-A Magnet!

We do wish it were easier to get to the new-est, most modern university in Florida - the Florida Technological University - located on our southern border near Oviedo.

If it were not so prestigious, not so full of the educational goodies so many would enjoy, not so challenging in its approach to the changing needs of our space-age times, not so much a child of the leadership in Seminole County, it would not be so bad.

But it is all these, and more!

However, we have the manners and the means to doff our editorial hat toward Dr. Charles L. Milliken, FTU president, and his cohorts who have done so much and raised such high hopes for continual progress in the two years since ground was broken on March 19,

Central Floridians are prideful folks. Not only have they been part and parcel of the extraordinary growth which was first the product of nature's abundance of sunshine and mild climate when the north shivered in its wintry grasp of snow and cold.

Now, however, and FTU is a symbol of deep meaning, we are watching and participating in an era of growth and change which has rarely been equalled in the history of our great nation as it moved by woodland trail, "covered wagon" path and the "Iron Horse" from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Congratulations, then, to the FTU crew for a splendid beginning. With it is a companion word of praise for what has been done by bu dozer and construction crew as the university's buildings take shape and the whole community resounds to builders at work.

Of course we cannot, in justice, close this FTU comment without a tear or two shed for the lack of proper roads on which people from the north or the west can travel easily to the university.

These are a deplorable omission. Keep up your good work, educators! Demand for access roads will increase to the point where they can no longer be ignored!

Nixon has an opportunity choose a chief justice who reflects the mood of the nation. Thomas E. Dewey reflects this mood. There may be others. But there are few if any who more clearly symbolize the mood of the nation today on the public WORLD ALMANAC order, the control of crime, the limits of protest and demonstration, and the rights of those whose well-being, property, and privacy have been invaded and damaged in the name of symbolic free speech or other such abstractions.

The mood of the nation is for the restoration of order along with the just preservation of the ancient rights of free speech. and assembly and petition. The nation's mood calls also for the judicial restraint of crime and the protection of life and property with more compassionate concern for the victims of crime. The conditions of constitutional interpretation have not changed much since Justic Felix Frankfurter said in a memorable lecture in 1957: "It is essentially accurate to say that the court's preoccupation today is with the application of rather fundamental aspirations and what Judge Learned Hand calls

Hal Boyle Says: Cataracts Operation Related

By JOE WING

NEW YORK (AP) - It was just five years ago this spring that I began to go blind. But there was something I could do about it, and I did.

As a result, I can see now as well as anybody my age has a right to expect-better perhaps than you do. In the doctor's office my vision is 20.20 although it's not that perfect under actual working conditions.

What brought this all about cataracts in both eyes and had them removed. Neglected catar acts, as one of my grandmothers could have testified, may well result in total Mindness. When friends first heard about my affliction. they seemed as shocked as if the sur geon had pointed a scalpel at one of their own eveballs. Their sympathy made me feel pretty important, and helped scare the daylights out of mc.

Of course nobody likes to have h's eyes looled with. And in spite of assurances from the opthamologists that such opera tions are nearly foolproof. waited as long as I dared.

Really though, it was quite simple. They drugged me until 1 was practically unconscious, slit open my left cornea, lifted out the clouded lens, and sewed the eve back up again. There was little pain and, thanks to techniques, no necessity for in mobilizing me. After five weeks I had been fitted with specia glasses, was back on the and paying off the doctor's bill

In my right eye also, howev er, there was an incipient cata rect. It didn't develop as quick It as those things sometimes do. but a year ago I had to have it excised. A cataract, incidentally, is not a growth but simply a clouding of the natural lens. The only way to treat it is to remov the lens.

With contact lenses and ord nary reading glasses, my vision is about as good as ever, though the contacts cause discomfort.

Without the contacts b wearing heavy, thick "cataract glasses." I have no more dis comfort than anyone using spectacles, but my periphery vision is limited. As a result, I'm apt to bump into people on the street, and stumble upstair and find automobiles sneaking up on me.

If I discard both lenses an glasses. I can still see enough t get around a room or perhaps walk down the street (I've never tried it) but I cannot recognize anyone even two feet away So it's not all roses, and I commend earnestly that maintain good vision and. if possible, shun the operating table But a cataract operation sure beats blindness.
