

The Many Causes Of Liver Cirrhosis

DEAR DR. LAMB - My sister was in the hospital. She started to swell up in her stomach and all over her body. The doctor said it was cirrhosis of the liver. He must be crazy. My sister never did approve of drinking. She never drank, maybe she would have a drink on Christmas Eve or a drink when her daughter got married. So it couldn't be from drinking. One doctor told her it was a poisoned liver. Please let me know what it is.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Your letter is a perfect example of the point that "ignorance is not bliss." You are wrong in thinking that cirrhosis of the liver means you have been drinking too much alcohol. There are many causes of cirrhosis of the liver and only about 40 percent of the cases are associated with excess alcohol consumption. That's bad enough but it isn't 100 percent.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband and I are both in our mid-20s, eat fairly well-balanced meals, but really don't get enough exercise. I have a desk job, he is an electrician and a little more active. Could you recommend

'Angry, Looking For Peace'

Thousands of runaways are reported each year in the U.S. Seminole County is no exception. In a series, concluding today, The Evening Herald talks with runaway "Laura" - who has returned home.

By MAX ERKILETIAN Herald Staff Writer

Down the hall comes one of those girls. Her hair is just so and her clothes are perfect. She shows the looks good and she shows it in her affected ways.

"I had worked as a short-order cook and a waitress and the other girl had experience as a cashier. We thought we could get jobs like that and pay for our own apartment. We planned to go to school at night, because we knew we needed that," said Laura.

"I was looking for peace," Laura said of her flight from home. "I didn't want to be hassled anymore by my brother and sister."

On the road, Laura felt free of those problems that had troubled her at home and in school.

"On the way up," commented Laura, "we couldn't have been happier. We felt free from everything, schools, teachers, people telling us what to do."

The only concern Laura admits to having while away was for her mother, whom she said was not part of her problems, but failed to understand them.

Many people were friendly, according to Laura.

"Like the guy who gave us mayonnaise," noted Laura.

She and her friend had bought a cooler.

County: 'No' To Hospital On Indigent Births Fees

By MAX ERKILETIAN Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission has boosted administrative salaries $5,150 for six positions, and at the same time rejected funding physicians' fees for indigent births at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

On a consensus vote, the commission Tuesday authorized Chairman Dick Williams to inform the hospital board that the county will not appropriate money from the general fund to cover physician fees incurred in connection with indigent births.

The hospital board had asked the commission in a work-session in mid-April for financial aid in paying such physician fees.

"I would suggest to them hospitalists that they have the same legal power we do to raise their tax rate and that would be the appropriate way to get the money," commented Commissioner Robert French.

The hospital is in the process of researching a millage hike that would increase tax revenues from $242,000 to $950,000 annually, the maximum allowed by law.

The increased revenue would cover the cost of "all indigent care, not just births," according to Charles Bentley, hospital administrator.

"It is clear," wrote Williams, "that the Board of Trustees of the Hospital have the responsibility to deliver health care services within the county and that physicians may retain their privilege to practice within a county hospital so long as they comply with bylaws, rules and regulations as promulgated by the Board of Trustees of the hospital."

The Williams letter suggested hiking millage as the best method for solving the problem.

Bentley said last week he had made preliminary contact with the Office of Management Analysis and Evaluation to pave the way for a millage hike request.

"We've given the budgetary people in the county notice that we will be asking for close to the maximum millage we are allowed," said Bentley. He said he did not know if the increased revenue from the millage hike would be able to cover the cost of physicians' fees. That question will not be answered until late June, according to Bentley, when final statistics are gathered for presentation to the commission's budget hearings.

In other action, the commission voted salaries for six administrators by $5,150 annually. The largest pay raise was for Environmental Services Manager Craig Batterson. His salary jumped $2,000 from $18,082 to $20,082 annually.

"You just have to make that sort of increase for an engineer today," said County Administrator Roger Neiswander.

Neiswander said Batterson's pay hike was justified to keep in step with salaries received by other civil engineers in government and private industry.

Other pay hikes include $500 raises for the director of county development to $21,500, director of human services to $18,082 and motor vehicle inspector supervisor to $12,200. The maintenance manager was given a pay hike of $750 annually to $13,210 and the director of public safety was raised $900 to $20,700.

The pay hikes will be funded from federal funds, according to Neiswander.

The administrative salary hikes will go into effect May 1. Several weeks ago pay raises of $14,000 for about 350 county employees were approved by the commission.

Two Firemen Fired In Winter Springs

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The Winter Springs City Council, Tuesday night, with two officials from the State Bureau of Fire Standards and Training standing by, acted to bring the city's firemen into compliance with state law on minimum firefighter standards within 60 days.

The city council, voted to fire firefighters J.C. Lawson and Roger Roy with 60 days notice because they cannot meet the minimum visual acuity standards.

Instruct Firefighters Al Roggenkamp and William Meyer to take high school equivalency tests at Seminole Community College (SCC) on May 25, 30 and 31 and to take over at the end of June any portion or all of the time they may not have passed. If the men on the second try do not pass the tests they will be automatically terminated. Results of the tests are to be sent by SCC to the standards and training office in Okaloosa.

Change job descriptions to include emergency medical training (EMT) as an additional qualification for city firefighters.

Conduct within 30 days an inquiry into the actions of Fire Chief Charles Holman in firing the two firefighters.

Africa, U.S. And The Reds

The unchecked intervention of Cuban troops in Africa, sustained and manipulated by the Soviet Union, is presenting the United States and the free world with a mounting challenge for which no meaningful response has been constructed. How to save newly independent and weak African nations from Communist colonialism has become a top concern of U.S. foreign policy.

The president's recent sharp denunciation of Cuba for acting under Soviet direction in sending troops into the Middle East as well as Africa suggests a new realism in Washington. This is a far cry from Mr. Carter's earlier efforts to normalize relations with Cuba and full circle from the balm time last year when United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young described Cuban troops in Angola as being a 'stabilizing influence.'

But the next day after the president expressed the hope that Fidel Castro would withdraw his troops from Angola, Mozambique, South Yemen and Ethiopia, there were unambiguous reports that Cubans were among invaders from Angola and Zambia who had crossed into mineral-rich Africa.

U.S. words, no matter how strong, are in themselves no match for such deeds and this is a simple measure of our dilemma of how to keep the African continent, with all of its vast raw materials, from being dragged into the Soviet orbit. If the reports are true and Zaire is overrun, it would mean an almost solid Soviet-Cuban bridge across central Africa, stretching from Angola's Atlantic coast to the Red Sea coast of Ethiopia.

This huge bloc in turn would overshadow and further isolate Rhodesia, which, it is feared, will be the next target of Cuban troops. These troops are estimated to number more than 50,000; they are stationed in 15 African nations, where their influence runs from outright control to low-profile military assistance. Soviet planes and modern weapons give them mobility and striking power far beyond what their numbers would warrant against poorly organized, ill-equipped native soldiers.

Despite mounting casualties, Cubans are reported to be proud of their enlarged and threatening role on the world stage. And Castro is said to be delighted at his success as a missionary of communism. In any event, Castro is showing a complete willingness to do the Moscow bidding in Africa in return for the $4 billion Moscow spends every day to sustain a Cuba's ailing economy.

ANGLE-WALTERS Incentive In This Tax Plan

WASHINGTON—Conventional economists shudder at the mention of his name, but Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., is onto something. At a time when most practitioners of the 'dual science' are fretting about the federal deficit and the inflationary potential of President Carter's modest tax cut, the former Buffalo Bills quarterback is going for the long bomb.

Jack Kemp wants to cut taxes. Not just a smidgen, as Jimmy Carter has proposed, but a whole lot. With Sen. William Roth, R-De., he is pushing for a 30 percent slash in personal income tax rates over the next three years.

Although it hasn't a prayer of passing, the Kemp-Roth tax bill is driving congressional Democrats up the wall—not because they are sure it's a ridiculous but because it just might work.

As Kemp reminds them at every opportunity, his plan is patterned after the enormously successful tax cuts that President John F. Kennedy initiated in 1963.

Those across-the-board cuts, which reduced personal income tax rates nearly 30 percent, produced the highest real investment growth in modern history, the fastest growth of real disposable income, the biggest spurt in real industrial output—and the lowest inflation rate of recent times.

The Treasury Department expected the Kennedy tax cuts to mean a revenue loss of $20 billion for the years 1963-68. Instead, they produced a $4 billion increase in revenue for that period as a result of accelerated economic activity.

Economists can and do argue incessantly about the applicability of the Kennedy tax cut experience to today's conditions. But what is compelling about Kemp's approach is not the fiscal impact so much as the psychology involved.

'I am not an economist,' the four-term congressman says, 'but I understand human behavior and I'm an expert on incentives.' Ah, yes, incentives. There lies the crux of the matter. Jack Kemp believes the existing tax structure inordinately penalizes traditional virtues of thrift, hard work and investment while rewarding consumption, debt and leisure.

BUSINESS WORLD People Skills Vital

ATLANTA (UPI)—A psychiatric consultant to some of America's major corporations says many executives who are technically competent fail in their jobs because they don't possess 'people skills.'

The ability to get along with people, especially other corporate executives, and to motivate subordinates in a humanistic, caring way, is cited by Dr. Stuart Rosenhal of Weston, Mass., as an important asset of the successful executive.

Rosenhal is an associate of the Levinson Institute of Cambridge, Mass., an organization of psychiatrists and psychologists that deals with problems of stress and friction encountered by top and middle level executives of big companies.

'We deal with a lot of very technically competent people but,' he said, 'people problems today are the major determinants of whether executives succeed or fail in their jobs.'

'They have to have people skills. The higher up they go in management, the more crucial this becomes.' The abrasive personality, he said, 'is the reason for much executive failure.'

Occupational psychiatry, according to Rosenhal, is a new concept and still in its pioneering stage. But more and more corporations and other organizations are turning to psychiatry to help them solve their 'people' problems, he said.

RONALD REAGAN China: Taxes, Relations

Two items you may not have seen in the news but which affect your pocketbook and U.S. foreign relations, respectively, just landed on my desk. One is about Tax Freedom Day; the other about the systematic downgrading of our relationship with the Republic of China on Taiwan.

As to Tax Freedom Day, it happened earlier this month, on Saturday, May 8, to be exact. On that day, according to the Tax Foundation, the average American had earned enough money to pay his share of the cost of government.

According to Tax Foundation analysis, the total taxes collected by the federal, state and local governments amounted to nearly $600 billion in 1977. That's 38 percent of U.S. personal income! Back before World War II it ran close to 10 percent.

Senator Jesse Helms, R-N.C., took to the floor of the Senate the day before Tax Freedom Day to urge his fellow members to condemn the day. 'I will shortly move that the Senate stand in recess for one minute to honor the struggling, downtrodden, exploited and neglected American taxpayer.'

During the rush to pass legislation and spend his money, it is fitting and proper that the Senate of the United States honor its sole supporter and generous benefactor, the American taxpayer. Seems a reasonable enough proposition.

Meanwhile, nearly halfway across the world, on Taiwan, more evidence came to light of the administration's apparent plan to systematically downgrade our relationship with the free Chinese, as a prelude to 'normalizing' relations with the Communists on the mainland.

The evidence this time was the news that the U.S. International Communication Agency (the U.S.I.A. under a new name) would close down libraries in Taichung and Tainan on July 15.

The local deputy director of the I.C.A. cited budgetary reasons, but in reply to a newspaper inquiry, did not rule out the possibility that 'politics might be behind the move.'

Charles Lee Keeton, an associate professor at National Cheng Kung University in Taiwan, was sure it was. In a letter to a local newspaper, he wrote, 'The fact is the library has been here for at least 30 years, but that is apparently not normal enough for somebody.'

Cook Of The Week

She Restores, She Upholsters And She Cooks

By ELDA NICHOLS Herald Correspondent. Between restoring her historic home to showroom condition and working on her upholstery vocation, Phillis Kidder of Longwood still has time for cooking.

With two young and active sons, Bill and Mike, Phillis leans toward natural foods. "I try to use foods with no artificial flavorings or coloring or food additives. I can see a difference in the boys from eating more healthful food," she said.

Desserts are favorite foods around the Kidder household. "I really love to make desserts. My husband, Tom, will only eat home-baked pies. He can always tell the difference if it's Mrs. Smith's or mine," laughed Phillis.

Phyllis seems unconcerned over the fact that she has done all of the restoring on the old Clouser Home in Longwood. "It's really a sound, good home. It was used as an antique shop before we bought it, and the kitchen is where they did all the refinishing of furniture. Well, that was really a mess to clean up. Now, the worst job in the whole house has been plastering upstairs and putting in a closet," she said.

"Well, my husband used to be a carpenter, and my father did work like that. I always watched and observed very closely and asked questions. Guess I just learned by doing," explained the diminutive Phillis.

As corresponding secretary for the Longwood Civic League, Phillis also recently took on the job of making beautiful drapes for the Civic League Building from money raised at the Annual Christmas Bazaar.

"I enjoy the history of Longwood and try to attend the Research meetings as much as I can," she said. Her upholstery work is done strictly by referral. "I do some things for myself and some for people who know that I do it," she said. As busy as she is, she still prefers cooking for

He Wants To Drop Steady Without Hurting Feelings

DEAR ABBY: I have been getting steady for a year with a girl I'll call Joan, but there is another girl I like better. I don't want to hurt Joan's feelings, but I would like to drop her. I am open to date this other girl that I'm seeing secretly on the side.

Dear Abby

Joan is a very nervous girl, and whenever I've even hinted about cooling our relationship, she gets sick. I would appreciate any help you can give me. I am 23 and Joan is 21. STUCK IN JOVIAL HILLS

DEAR STUCK: I feel sorry for you. If you continue the relationship only because you lack the courage to cool it. Level with her, gently but honestly. She may get sick, but she'll survive. And don't stall, or you may find yourself permanently stuck with a woman who "gets sick" whenever she doesn't get her own way. I.P.S. Joan needs counseling, and I hope she realizes it.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I discovered that my husband of 16 years was having a torrid affair with a young divorced woman in his office. We agreed to make a serious effort to restore our marriage for the sake of our children.

DEAR ABBY: Isn't it true that if two people dance well together it means they are "in tune" and "meant for each other?"

Metric Measuring And Chinese Cooking

Chicken Dish Easy For Trying System

Looking for a new way to prepare chicken? Chinese chicken walnut is the answer.

If you've watched Chinese cooks you've seen that they cook their meat and vegetables very rapidly over extremely high heat. This Chinese chicken dish is created the same way. It's quick, it's easy, and the results are delicious.

Preparing this chicken dish offers a perfect chance to use the metric system.

Prior to the development of the metric system, measurements were based upon the human body and lacked consistency. Then in 1790, the French Academy developed the metric system based upon the earth's dimensions. This system makes measuring more consistent and unified. Yet Americans rejected the simpler system until the President signed the Metric Conversion Act of 1975. Recently President Carter appointed a U.S. Metric Board.

Using metric in the home is particularly easy. When using conventional recipes, use your metric measuring tools. When using conventional recipes, use your conventional measuring tools. Some companies, like Corning

Glass Works, have included both metric and conventional measurements on their measuring cups.

Prepare this Chinese chicken walnut dinner the metric way.

CHINESE CHICKEN WALNUT

- 1/2 chicken breasts (2 whole breasts or about 375 ml. chicken chunks)
15 ml. butter
1/2 cup coarsely broken walnuts
25-30 ml. soy sauce
15 ml. lemon juice

Bone and skin chicken and cut into bite sized pieces. Heat oil in Corning Ware glass-ceramic skillet until sizzling hot, using medium heat. Add chicken and quickly stir until it begins to brown. Add butter and nuts. Continue to cook (about 7-8 minutes) stirring often.

Turn off heat; add soy sauce and lemon juice. Stir so all chicken is coated with sauce. Serve with rice and garnish with parsley.

Chinese Chicken Walnut is metric easy to prepare and delightful to serve and eat.

LET 'EM EAT CHEESECAKE

Cheesecake Is Welcome Treat In Any Season

Cheesecake is one of those wonderfully versatile desserts that's a welcome treat on any occasion. One delectable variation on this all-American theme is this Classic Chiffon Cheesecake - rich, yet delicate with super-creamy consistency and surprising lightness. It's also delightfully quick and simple to prepare because it begins with that handy precooked food base, sweetened condensed milk - which thickens with lemon juice to give excellent texture every time. Top it with peaches in July, cranberries in November, whipped cream, nuts - wherever else you fancy. This is one of those recipes that's sure to become a standby.

CLASSIC CHIFFON CHEESECAKE
1 Makes one 8-inch cheesecake
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
1/4 cup sugar
2 (8-oz.) packages cream cheese, softened
1 can Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk
3 eggs, separated
1/4 cup reconstituted lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
Fruit topping, optional
Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In a small saucepan, melt butter; stir in crumbs and sugar. Pat crumbs firmly on bottom of buttered 9-inch springform pan or 9x9-inch square baking pan. Bake 7 minutes; cool while preparing filling. Reduce oven temperature to 200 degrees. In a large mixer bowl, beat cream cheese until light and fluffy. Add sweetened condensed milk and egg yolks; beat until smooth. Stir in lemon juice; set aside. In small bowl, beat egg whites with salt to soft peaks. Fold into sweetened condensed milk mixture; turn into prepared pan. Bake 50 to 55 minutes or until cake springs back when lightly touched about 1 inch from center. Cool slightly; chill. Remove rim of pan. If desired, top with your favorite fruit topping before serving. Refrigerate any leftovers.

Low Calorie Morsels Perfect Appetizers

It's no secret that vegetables are good for us. But until we eat them in their almost-natural state, we seldom realize how delicious they are, too! One of the best ways to learn this happy lesson is to cook vegetables quickly, using a T-Fal non-stick skillet. When the pan's super-slick surface is coated with a little bit of oil, fresh and frozen vegetables can be cooked to just the right tender-crisp stage in a matter of minutes - with no sticking, and no messy cleanup later. It is, in short, the civilized way to cook!

Team these delicious hot morsels with a chilly cottage cheese-yogurt dip for a delicious and healthful party appetizer - or as a tempting first course for a family dinner. (You may find that your vegetable haters turn into vegetable-appetizer lovers.) SAUTEED VEGETABLES WITH YOGURT DIP (Serves 4)

3 green peppers, cut into 1-inch squares
24 small mushroom caps
1 bag (16 ounces) frozen baby whole onions
2 succini, cut into 1/2-inch thick slices
24 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
1 teaspoon oregano
Salt
DIP
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup plain yogurt
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
3 scallions, sliced
1 small red bell pepper, chopped

Combine all vegetables and oil in a 12-inch T-Fal non-stick skillet. Sauté over medium heat until vegetables are tender-crisp. Stir in oregano and salt to taste. Combine all dip ingredients in a bowl. Dip hot vegetables into cottage cheese mixture.

Change Meat Loaf To Mexican Treat

Meat loaf is a standby of budget-paring cooks. Not only do meat loaves extend expensive meats, they can be endlessly varied by changing the seasonings. A meat loaf with a truly different flavor is this Hacienda Meat Loaf. The hearty taste of stone-ground corn shells blends well with ground beef and the Mexican-American flavor of Romita Sauce for Tacos. For a great Mexican style dinner, serve Hacienda Meat Loaf with bean burritos or red or green chili burritos. Burritos are readily available frozen, to be heated and served according to package directions.

Cooks striving for economical meals will like Hacienda Meat Loaf. And diners will approve of its hearty Mexican-American flavor.

'Legs' At Bottom of Ratings

There was good news and bad news for NBC in the Nielsen ratings for the past week. Good news first: NBC beat out CBS for second place, although ABC continued in undisputed command of the top spot.

With Vegetable Protein

Real Great Taste—Juicy & Delicious—Rich with Protein.
With an Unconditional Money-Back Guarantee from Pantry Pride!

Serve Great Ground Today.
Less Fat. Less Shrink. Rich Protein.

Your family is going to love the great flavor of Great Ground! A fresh blend of 75% rich, red ground beef and 25% textured vegetable protein. Great Ground has less fat than regular hamburger. It doesn't "shrink" as much as it fries or broils, so you get more food yield per pound and more body-building protein per serving! Use it for all ground beef dishes—hamburger, meat loaf, stuffed peppers, meat balls, casseroles, sloppy joes—everything. Can be kept frozen, too. Great Ground! Juicy and delicious. Rich with protein. Great savings too.

School Day Extension Plan Facing Battle

By LEONARD KRANSDORF
Herald Staff Writer

A proposal to keep kindergarten and first graders in Seminole County in school six hours a day instead of five is being opposed by teachers and parents.

The plan is proposed by School Superintendent William Layer who said it is designed to save the school district about $80,000 a year in transportation costs.

Keeping the kindergarten and first graders in school the additional hour would eliminate the need for school buses to return for other students after having dropped off the younger students.

Kindergartners and first graders now get out of school at 1:30 p.m., are bused to their drop-off points, and the buses return to the schools for the other children. Layer proposes all students stay until 2:30 p.m. so all can be bused simultaneously.

Parents and teachers claim the proposal is not in the best interest of the students.

To the parents and teachers it is a matter of an idea "that is based more on monetary thoughts rather than educational grounds," according to Sherry O'Leary, a first grade teacher at Lake Orienta elementary school.

According to Layer, "With the way transportation costs have skyrocketed in the past several years we have to look for some ways to save money in that area."

The two sides will air their differences next week in a meeting at the school board office.

"We feel like the enthusiasm will be drained from the student who has to go that extra hour," Mrs. O'Leary says. She adds that "four, five and six year olds have a very short attention span and having that extra hour would be more of a baby-sitting idea rather than an educational one."

Layer said he agreed with the concept expressed by the parents and teachers and noted that it was his idea to go to the shorter system. He notes though, "when idealism meets realism, something has to give."

Mrs. Jeanne Morris, past president of the Lake Orienta Parent Teachers Association, said she understands Layer's concern but believes there is another way. "I think a compromise may be that we keep children in the school who have to be bused there and dismiss the ones who are able to walk to school or whose parents pick them up," she said.

Layer said he will consider the idea but noted, "what may be beneficial to one group may also be beneficial to the other group."

The lone elementary school, Longwood Elementary, that still has a long day for all its students is comfortable with the system, according to its principal Mrs. Arletta Coberly.

Another opponent Mrs. Candy Nabell, a parent, said that the implementation will only result in a baby-sitting service. "The

GUESS WHO'S BACK ON SANFORD LAKEFRONT?

FRIDAY: FIRST 'BYE TO MIDGE?

A conference committee, composed of members of the Florida House and Senate appropriations committees, is expected to give its approval Friday to the allocation of $50,000 in state money for the blind mosquito research program in Sanford, John Krider said today.

Krider, chairman of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce task force on the midge, has led the effort to gain state funding to find an environmentally safe way of controlling the insect which has plagued the lakefront, businesses and homes in the Sanford lakefront area and 10 other counties in the state.

Krider said it is expected that the $50,000 appropriation will receive final approval from both houses of the legislature by next Wednesday.

The research program is to be conducted at the University of Florida research center on Celery Avenue in Sanford.

Krider said that in addition to the promised state funding, the University of Florida agriculture department has offered the use of personnel and equipment valued at $25,000 and the Seminole County Commission has allocated under the federally funded Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) $25,000 in salaries for three laboratory technicians for the program.

WINNERS & LOSERS

A glance into the Leonard Shell dugout (right) tells the story of who won and who lost Wednesday evening, as a coach and players reflect the mood, just awaiting their first defeat in Florida Little Major League season action. The loss came at the hands of Medical Center, whose Scott Kriger (left) gets ready to bat. He was also the winning pitcher, adding insult to injury in the 9-3 game. (Details, Pages 8-9A)

'Look For Prisoner Wearing A Yellow Shirt'

Operation Breakout Foiled By Combat-Trained Pilot

MARION, Ill. (UPI) — A helicopter pilot today said he wrestled a pistol from a woman hijacker while flying above the nation's chief maximum security prison and shot her to death to foil a daring escape planned by three inmates.

"We were all over the place — everywhere except upside down. I felt sure we were going to crash," Allan Barklage, 30, St. Louis, said.

The woman, identified by the FBI as Mrs. Barbara Annette Oswald, 43, Richmond Heights, Mo., planned to free three inmates from the recreation yard of the Marion federal penitentiary, which replaced Alcatraz as the lockup for the most dangerous federal offenders.

After Barklage shot Mrs. Oswald, he landed the helicopter outside the prison fence. The inmates waiting to be picked up near the fence looked toward the area where other prisoners had congregated but guards spotted them running and pitched them out of the crowd, prison officials said. The FBI would not immediately release the inmates' names.

"The bullet came out at the back of her head; she never got off a shot"

Barklage said Mrs. Oswald chartered the Bell 206B Jet Ranger with a $600 deposit at the Des Moines Heliport in St. Louis Wednesday afternoon, saying she wanted to fly to Cape Girardeau, Mo., to inspect flooded property.

About halfway through the flight, "she pulled a pistol and ripped out the headset so I couldn't communicate with anyone," said Barklage, the chief pilot and manager of Postaire Helicopter Co.

"She told me to fly east to the prison and land in the prison at a low level and come in about treetop height. She showed me a detailed map of the prison and who I should look for. She said I should look for a prisoner wearing a yellow shirt. She said that I would pick up three prisoners and then I would get further instructions."

"I told her that I wanted to get a better look at the prison and convinced her I should make a pass over at 2,500 feet. I convinced her that she would have to open the door because it would be difficult to get it open when we went in. She moved the gun from her right to her left hand to open the door and I noticed she had her finger on the trigger guard and not on the trigger. I grabbed her and got control of the gun."

But he said the woman told him, "I don't mind, I've got another one." As she started to raise up, I fired five times but I only know I hit her once, toward the ear," Barklage said. "The bullet came out at the back of her head. She never got off a shot."

Acting prison warden M.C. Lennon said the three inmates suspected of attempting to escape were in an "out of bounds" area of the prison yard, near the double fence that separates them from the outside world. They scurried to join the other inmates when the helicopter landed on the wrong side of the fence.

Two of the inmates were serving time for air piracy convictions and the third was convicted of bank robbery and flight from federal custody, Lennon said.
