Sweep Nets Suspected Drug Dealers

Lawmen swept the North Street area on the outskirts of Altamonte Springs at about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday rounding up about a dozen suspected crack cocaine dealers.

The dealers had already been marked for arrest by undercover City/County Investigation Bureau

All the suspects remained jailed early Wednesday in lieu of bonds ranging from $1,000 to $2,000 each, or were being held without bond.

Two have been charged with sale of counterfeit crack cocaine: Clifford Small, 25, of 402 Magnolia St., Altamonte Springs; and James Adkins, 23, of 202 Morse St. Altamonte Springs.

All sales were reportedly made to undercover agents within the past two months in the North Street area.

The sweep by Seminole and Brevard county sheriff's deputies. Altamonte Springs and Sanford police and Florida Highway Patrol troopers, was the culmination of a two-month investigation in that area which is known for street drug deals.

Seminole County sheriff's Capt. Roy Hughey said at the scene that the investigation continues and lawmen plan to round up buyers and suppliers as well as the street dealers of crack cocaine and marijuana.

Agents had 20 arrest warrants to serve and 15 were served, with some suspects being arrested on more than one warrant, according to arrest records. Nine were arrested in the area and two were already in jail on other drug related charges.

Gas Pipe Spill Closes Turnpike, Thousands Evacuate Homes

KING OF PRUSSIA, Pa. (UPI) - Volatile fumes from up to 225,000 gallons of spilled gasoline kept a 21-mile stretch of the Pennsylvania Turnpike closed overnight and hundreds of people away from their homes today.

Police said no injuries or fires were reported as a result of the spill from a ruptured Sun Oil Co. pipe Tuesday, but the heavy fumes posed a threat of fire. Local water supplies were not affected, officials said.

"Easily thousands" of people in Upper Merion Township, about 15 miles northwest of Philadelphia, were evacuated from about 100 houses, several apartment buildings, two schools and the Court of King of Prussia shopping mail when the underground leak was discovered at about 10 a.m., officials said.

At a 6 a.m. news conference township officials said the mall and the surrounding highways would remain closed until at least 11 a.m. because of a problem with fumes. Some 500 people displaced from their homes were also told they cannot return until later.

Anti-Abortion Clinic Convicted

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI) - An anti-abortion center found guilty of deceptive trade practices for advertising itself as an abortion clinic will stay in business and "go as far as necessary" to "save more bables," its owner says.

A jury Tuesday convicted the Problem Pregnancy Center of Fort Worth of violating the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act. The center's owner, Charles Pelletier, was fined $39,000 and ordered to pay $70,000 in attorney's

Steve Gardner, assistant Texas attorney general, said the verdict "sends a strong message to clinics aross the country - don't lie to pregnant women in the names of facts, in the name of help. in the name of God or anybody."

Reagan Hits Campaign Trail

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan's political advisers believe his presence might make the difference in tight Senate races this fall, and that his return trips to two southern states today could keep two senators ahead in the polls.

Reagan, making one last political foray before heading to leeland Thursday for his summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, was to campaign in Raleigh, N.C., for Sen. James Broyhill, the 11-term House veteran who was appointed to the Senate after the death of John East earlier

He was then to head to Atlanta to stump for first-term Sen. Mack Mattingly.

Senate Mulls Full Claiborne Trial

Senate is considering a plea from Imprisoned federal Judge Harry Claiborne to grant him a full impeachment trial in the same spirit of fairness he showed to citizens in his courtroom.

The Senate will debate for two hours today before deciding whether to grant Claiborne a "full and fair" trial with 58 witnesses he has requested.

Claiborne, 69, in a dramatic address Tuesday at the opening of his historic impeachment trial - the first in 50 years - urged the Senate to hear his story of being hounded and framed by a vindictive FBI seeking revenge for his criticism of the agency.

"I kind of feel like a piece of meat thrown out to a couple of dogs," Claiborne said.

In a strong voice filling the silent chamber. Claiborne disjuted his convictions for tax evasion, denying he deliberately cheated on his 1979 and 1980 returns by omitting $107,000 of income.

Panel Blames Shuttle Accident On Pressure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional report on the Challenger disaster concludes that pressure to meet an overly ambitious launch schedule helped set the stage for the fatal accident and continued pressure "in some sectors of NASA" jeopardizes future safety

The House Science and Technology Committee also said Congress and the administration must share the blame for contributing to the drive before the Jan. 28 accident to have shuttles flying as often as possible.

"We've all been guilty of pushing a little too hard," said committee member Manuel Lujan, R-N.M., as the report was released Tuesday.

"I think we've all learned a lot," agreed Rep. James Scheuer, D.N.Y. "There's probably enough blame to go around, both in the executive branch and the Congress."

The committee's report was of its independent investigation of the Challenger explosion and winds up a probe that began as soon as the Rogers Commission completed its exhaustive examination of the accident in June.

Dwayne Brown, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman, said the space agency could not comment on the report until it had studied it.

Scheuer sald Congress and the administration jointly developed the policy that shuttles should provide most of the free world's launch needs, flying at a rate of twice a month by 1990.

"By and large, neither branch appreciated the pressures that this policy was placing on the operational safety of the program," he

NASA had conducted nine successful shuttle missions in 1985 and planned to carry out 15 flights this year. Challenger's launch was the second in 1986. As a result of the accident, shuttles have been grounded until February 1988.

The space agency announced a new launch schedule Friday that calls for five shuttle missions in 1988, 10 in 1989 and 11 in 1990, using the remaining three shuttles in the fleet. A replacement for Challenger is due in 1992 and the flight rate will increase

While it applauded steps taken by NASA to redesign the booster joints and review other critical shuttle systems, the committee said it was still concerned about the

"The committee believes that the pressure to push for an unrealistic number of flights continues to exist in some sectors of NASA and jeopardizes the promotion of a 'safety first' attitude throughout the shuttle program," the report said.

"NASA management and the Congress must remember the lessons learned from the Challenger accident and never again set unreasonable goals, which stress the system beyond its safe functioning." it added.

Moreover, the panel said it is not assured

NASA "has adequate technical and scientific expertise to conduct the space shuttle program properly."

"What concerns me ... and I'm sure many others as well, is what else can go wrong. Lujan said. "We've identified several hardware items that could potentially cause another accident. But there may be even more that we have not identified."

Like the Rogers Commission, the House panel concluded the explosion that ripped Challenger apart 73 seconds after blastoff from Cape Canaveral was triggered by the failure of a joint between solid propellant sections in the shuttle's right hand booster.

"We also agree that the failure of the joint was due to a faulty design, and that neither NASA nor (Morton) Thiokol fully understood the operation of the joint prior to the accident," it said, referring to the booster manufacturer.

Oops! Scientists Amend Columbus' Landing Site

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Christopher Columbus did not land in the New World where the world thinks he did - on San Salvador island - but instead first set foot on the small Bahamlan Island of Samana Cay, a five-year computer-aided study revealed today.

A team of experts from the National Geographic Society announced the report, published in the just-released November issue of National Geographic magazine, at a news conference today.

"We believe we have solved, after five centuries, one of the grandest of all geographic mysteries." declared Joseph Judge, senior associate editor of the magazine.

Samana Cay is 65 miles from San Salvador, formerly known as Watling Island. San Salvador became widely accepted as Columbus's landing site since it was proposed in 1882 by Capt. Gustavus Fox, President Lincoln's assistant Navy secretary.

The National Geographic Society reopened debate in 1980, commissioning Eugene Lyon, an expert on old Spanish documents, to translate anew pertinent parts of a summary of Columbus's log written by a 16th-century priest-historian. Columbus's original log and chart, sent to Queen Isabella upon his return to Spain, has not been recovered. The summary, however, retains the explorer's description of where he landed the moring of Oct. 12, 1492, and is the paper drawn upon by theorists in later cen-

After Lyon's translation. Luis Marden. an experienced sailor and former chief of National Geographic's foreign editorial staff, used it to plot daily positions in the famous 33-day. 3,000-mile voyage from Spain's Canary Islands.

Marden and his wife, Ethel, a mathematician, discovered that previous calculations failed to take into account two crucial factors: the effects of current and downwind drift on Columbus's Nina.

needed to rescue residents of an eastern Missouri town that was isolated today by floodwaters pouring through a smashed levee on the Missouri River and into the still-rising Mississippi to the north.

Both the Missouri and Mississippi rivers were gorged by runoff from floods across the nation's midsection that have been blamed for 12 deaths since late September, the evacuation of 42,000 people and hundreds of millions of dollars in damage.

A 2-mile section of a levee on the Missouri River gave way Tuesday, allowing 9,000 cubic feet of water per second to flow north into the Mississippi and transforming the castern Missouri peninsula at the confluence of the rivers into an island, officials said.

Authorities said water traveled 12 miles from the Missouri to the Mississippi. Coast Guard petty officer Gavin Wente said an area from the broken levee to Portage Des Sloux was "virtually under water." Some 500 people in Portage

Des Sioux - 20 miles north of St. Louis, near the Mississippi were cut off, and some climbed to rooftops for safety. Nine Coast Guard boats and two helicopters were used to rescue residents. At West Alton, 10 miles down river from Portage Des Sloux on the peninsula, residents of the town of 425 sandbagged through the night.

"They're just fighting to save their homes," said state Sen. Fred Dyer. The Army Corps of Engineers said the Missouri River has than 73 levees on a 200-mile stretch from Glasgow, in central Missouri, to St. Charles, southwest of Portage Des

Tuesday night at the McDonnell Douglas plant, where the Harpoon missile is manufactured. The midnight shift was told not to report to work.

The Mississippi River. meanwhile, was expected to crest Thursday at 40 feet at St. Louis, more than 10 feet above flood stage. The crest would be the second-highest on record at that point.

A flood gate in East St. Louis. Ill., malfunctioned Tuesday, causing flooding that backed up sewers and forced 225 people to spend the night in shelters. The evacuated residents were expected to be able to return by the weekend. "We're not dealing with an overflow of the river. We're talking about raw sewage." Mayor Carl Officer said. High water delayed damage estimates in Missouri and Okiahoma. But a preliminary estimate in Bartlesville, Okla., put losses there at $100 million. Damage has been estimated at $36 million in Montana and $40 million in Ilinois. Agricultural losses in Kansas have been put at $60 million. In Oklahoma, hundreds of people in Miami remained out of their flooded homes today and were not expected to retun until late in the week, when the Neosho River recedes, it was 18 feet above flood stage late Tuesday. Up to 7,000 people in Missouri were out of their homes Tuesday because of floods, and Gov. John Ashcroft asked that the state be declared a federal disaster area. Presibroken through or gone more dent Reagan Tuesday declared disasters in three counties in Illinois and five in Wisconsin.

In the East today, frost warnings were posted for the second night as far south as High water in St. Charles West Virginia and New Jersey.

New Hope For Free Trade

Unless Congress botches things up over the next few years by passing protectionist legislation, there is new, long-range hope that the economies of most countries will benefit through freer and fairer trade as advocated by President Reagan.

Washington recently scored major victories in shaping the agenda for upcoming trade liberalization negotiations by members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

At the Reagan administration's insistence, for example, GATT will broaden its scope to discuss reducing agricultural subsidies and import barriers.

California as well as the entire United States will benefit if more foreign markets are opened to our hard-pressed farmers.

Part of the free-trade formula for farms involves knocking down both European-style agricultural export subsidies as well as more traditional farm support programs of the type that have been adopted by the U.S. govern-

The GATT talks, to begin later this year, will be the most extensive since the international organization was created in 1947 with the goal of liberalizing trade.

GATT negotiations cannot do much immediately to solve America's trade deficit problem, which leaves open the threat that Congress will succumb to protectionist fever.

Those who seek to protect U.S. businesses and workers by further restricting imports, of course, could trigger a trade war that would put everyone on the economic skids.

It is worth noting that the Soviet Union asked to be included in the forthcoming GATT talks.

Now that is has been rejected, Moscow's request can be considered amusing. No nation, except possibly Albania, is more diametrically opposed than is Russia to the free market principles which GATT was created to promote.

Now that the Soviet threat to free trade talks has been turned aside, it can only be hoped that protectionists in the U.S. Congress can also be kept at bay.

French Turnabout

President Francois Mitterand's socialist nationalization cost France $6 billion in losses in 1981 and $18 billion in losses in 1984, which goes far toward explaining why conservative Premier Jacques Chirac, whose government came to power in March, is trying to turn things around.

To that end, the French National Assembly adopted a bill opening the way for privatization of 65 state-owned banks, insurance companies and industrial groups. They are to be offered for sale in stages, starting this year.

Mitterand, predictably, is against the change. So he set up a parliamentary obstacle course to slow if not halt its progress. Instead of being enacted by administrative decree, each privatization plan must be debated.

Chirac, in response, is seeking to win labor support for privatization by reviving a concept originated by Charles de Gaulle: a labor-management partnership in which decision-making and profits would be shared.

State companies aiready have worker representatives in one-third of board positions under a "democratizing" program imposed by Mitterand in 1983. Chirac favors keeping labor members on the boards - on a voluntary basis - as companies are privatized.

There are plans for expanding profit sharing, which is already compulsory for all companies with more than 100 workers.

One incentive calls for tripling the contribution for each worker in employee savings

Of the country's five major unions, two are for the program, one is undecided and two are negative.

Chirac's task now is to persuade those waivering and opponents that it is better to share profits than losses.

Books May Be Guiding Light Of Soap Fans

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Suppose you have (The exclamation points are mine, but you been out of the country for the past few years fighting for the Contras, the Sandinistas or some other militant group. You naturally wonder what has happened in the interim to your favorite soap opera charac-

Don't assume nothing has happened. Although soap plots at times seem to move with all the speed of high class molasses, one of your favorite characters may have been seduced in an episode you missed.

But you needn't wait around hoping a local station will offer reruns.

To find out what happened, run, do not walk, to the nearest bookstore and pick up an appropriate copy of "Soaps & Serials," published by Pioneer Communications Network. It says here that soap opera fans buying these paperback novels can "catch up on" the "glorious history" of their favorite characters!

'What an opportunity to learn all the dark hidden sccrets that have been buried of the sands of time!" enthuses a perhaps overwrought

Already, according to a blurb I received, six daytime soaps and two prime time serials are in print and more "are slated for publication in the next few months."

So long-time soap fans can "recapture cherished memories.'

One of my cherished memories is of my mother sitting by the radio pecling potatoes for supper and listening to the afternoon soap

Be that as it may, the sands of time buried dark secrets more slowly in those days. However. I was pleased to learn that "The Guiding Light" has been on the air 50 years, including the dear, dead days of radio.

Someone has figured out that the first soap opera was broadcast in 1936. That may seem like only yesterday to some readers but it was a full half-century ago.

The next year, which by my calendar was 1937, the first episode of "The Guiding Light" was aired, and has continued to receive daylight attention since, moving from radio to television 34 years ago.

No longer is the audience composed primarily of "bored housewives" peeling potatoes, however. A recent survey shows that 56 percent of all college students watch at least one soap a week.

We also are assured all the books are "based on scripts" that once were broadcast or telecast. Those scriptwriters could be mighty deliberate. but I dare say the world turned a few times. even at soap opera speed. In half a century.

GOP In Fight For Control

By Steve Gerstel

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Steeped deep in the shadows cast by the epochal fight for control of the Senate, is another election with a significance that extends to the end of the century.

This, reminds Curtis B. Gans of the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate, is the election for state legislatures, which he says is the true battleground for political alignment.

Except within state, and not even always there, the election of seats in the legislatures get very little atten-

They are overshadowed by the headline-grabbing contests for the Senate, the House, governor, lieutenant governor, initiatives and just about everything else - except maybe dogcatchers.

But it is in these elections — in 1986, 1988 and 1990 — that the Republican fight for political dominance will be fought.

A dramatic party switch, such as the one made by San, Phil Gramm. R-Texas, or GOP gubernatorial candidate William Lucas in Michigan, excites the faithful and lends marginal impetus. But these switches have little to do with the long-range shift of the parties, if there is to be one.

The next three elections for state legislatures, however, could radically alter the landscape. In 1991 following the 1990 census — the congressional districts, as well as the legislative districts, will be redrawn and the map makers will be the legislatures.

The party that controls the most legislatures, Gans points out, will be in a position to redraw district lines in its favor. The map making, even keeping within the one-man, onevote requirement, can be delicately balanced so that a Democratic stronghold turns into a Republican bastion — or the other way around.

Democrats, who controlled both state houses in 36 states, now have double rule in 29 states.

Even more important, the Republicans are within 10 seats - in each state - of gaining two-house control in 19 legislatures, compared with the present 11.

"If the Republicans continue to make inroads in state legislatures. the U.S. House of Representatives and the entire cast of American politics could have a very different partisan coloration in the 1990s."

On Kohl's Side

BONN. West Germany (NEA) -Mr. Charisma he is not.

Helmut Kohl projects the public image of a well-intentioned but lackluster and sometimes bumbling politician who is out of his depth as the leader of West Germany. It was he, for example, who proposed and ruen instated ou kousid kestsus embarrassing — to all parties — 1985 visit to the Bitburg cemetery where the German war dead include SS troops.

Yet, at the moment. Kohl is the odds-on favorite to succeed himself as West German chancellor in the Jan. 25 parliamentary elections.

Observers, German and foreign, basically agree that the voters will return his Christian Democrats and their coalition partners, the Free Democrats, to the Bundestag with a comfortable majority.

At this point, the coalition's greatest campaign asset would appear to be the opposition. The Social Democrats, split between a neutralist left wing and a moderate older guard, aren't given much chance of drawing enough middle-of-the-road votes to win.

In a capital well supplied with more dynamic political players. Kohl has often appeared a somewhat odd choice for leader. He got the job almost by accident. He was there at the right place, as leader of the Christian Democratic opposition, and the right time, when a Socialist-dominated government collapsed in 1982 under the stress of its internal divisions.

Kohl picked up the pieces.

The observers say that, in Kohl's case, appearances are both deceiving and de something of an injustice to the man's genuine capabilities. True, he is not a compelling public performer, but he is an extremely skilled political operator, as he demonstrated for some years as premier of the state of Rheinland-Pfalz, the post from which he rose to national prominence.

As chancellor. Kohl has had to use all his skills to keep strong and often differing personalities working together. These include Gerhard Stoltenberg, finance minister and generally regarded as among the front runners to eventually succeed Kohl, and Hans-Dietrich Genscher, foreign mister and the top man of the Free Democrats. In periodic popularity polls taken by the news magazine Der Spiegel, Stoltenberg is always at or near the top and Genscher rates high. Kohl shows up in the middle ranks of the public personalities listed.

But he doesn't appear fazed by any of this and manages to convey a sense of calm authority and assurance that is effective within the party ranks - although not necessarily with all of the leader-

If a divided Socialist opposition is an asset for Kohl in the cumpaign, the greatest threat may materialize within his own ranks.

In Munich, Franz Joseph Stauss. perennial leader of the Christian Democrats' Bavarian wing, increasingly demands hard-line changes in government policies on key issues such as combating terrorism and halting the flood of Third World refugees into West Germany.

That may not cost him the election, but his political skills will undergo a tough test when he has to keep the post-election coalition on

Success Cause Of Grief

MARSHALLTOWN, lowa (NEA) — For a quarter of a century, visionary planners have promoted the "Green Revolution" as crucial to developing nations — but there has been little discussion of its impact in this

In a truly noble endeavor in the 1960s and 1970, government agencies and philanthropic organizations provided farmers in less developed countries with everything from improved strains of seed to technical assistance on maximizing crop yields.

This was based on the belief that an emerging nation's ability to feed its own population was vital for successful economic development.

Now, there is growing evidence that the "Green Revolution" is succeeding throughout the world but it may have simultaneously devastated this country's agricultural economy.

Global grain harvests have more than doubled since 1960, even though the amount of land dedicated to growing those crops has increased by only 11 percent.

China and India, both net importers of grain until very recently. now are net exporters. Elsewhere in the world, increased food production is outpacing population growth - a phenomenon unprecedented in modern times.

Much of that progress can be attributed to the development of hybrid crop varieties that have been genetically engineered to produce high yields and to ambitious efforts to teach farmers modern techniques of crop management, harvesting and marketing.

The problem of disappearing export markets is not new but has become more severe in the 1980s as nations that once were on the brink of famine have attained selfsufficiency in food production.

In recent years, the fallure of farm sales to meet agricultural production has been attributed to a variety of causes ranging from President Carter's 1980 embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union to President Reagan's temporary inability to prevent overvaluation of the dollar.

The factors have indeed contributed to the problem but the leading cause increasingly appears to be the "Green Revolution" — a source of salvation to those threatened with starvation but a cause for grief for this country's farmers.

Pentagon Could Access Computer Files

By Jack Anderson and

WASHINGTON - Civil libertarians are already worried about military encroachment on civilian law enforcement in the "war" on dope traffickers. But little concern has been shown over a White House directive that would give the Pentagon control over the confidential files that government agencies have on millions of Americans.

This revolutionary intrusion of the military into traditionally civilian areas was sanctioned by a White House national security decision directive, NSDD 145, issued two years ago. It recently survived an attempt by House critics to modify its most offensive Big Brother features.

NSDD 145 was a Reagan administration response to the lack of security for government and industry communications, which were vulnerable to penetration by the Soviets or anyone else with reasonably sophisticated interception equipment. Vast amounts of information, from Internal Revenue Service records to business secrets, are stored in computers that can be "accessed" by foreign agents, industrial spies or snoopy hackers.

The directive authorized a government-wide system for computer system security. But it put the National Security Agency — which reports to the Pentagon - in charge of security for all government computer systems, and many private industry systems as well.

"Under National Security Decision Directive 145, the Department of Defense could control the access to not only classified information, but also to any information which it considered sensitive." said Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, chairman of the House Government Operations Committee. "In my view, this is an unprecedented and ill-advised expansion of the military's influence into our society.'

One thing that worries critics of the directive is that the NSA is a super-secret agency that is subject to neither public nor congressional scrutiny. Another is the agency's track record: Until then-Attorney General Elliot Richardson put a stop to it in 1973, the NSA collected data on thousands of Americans, which it proceeded to pass on to other agencies, including the FBI. NSDD 145 reverses the information flow. conceivably giving the NSA access to the computer files of the Social Security Administration, the Veterans Administration, the Internal Revenue Service and every other civilian agency.

NSA access would be guaranteed. its critics say, by giving the agency authority to approve, disapprove and monitor the other agencies' computer security systems. This function has been handled by the National Bureau of Standards, a small civilian agency whose chief concern is uniformity of industrial measurements, not security. Legislation sponsored by Brooks and Rep. Dan Glickman, D.Kan., would have mandated civilian control of computer security under the Bureau of Standards, rather than military control under the NSA. It failed to pass after strenuous lobbying by the administration, including Assistant Defense Secretary Donald Latham, to whom the NSA reports. The bill could be reintroduced next

One of the NSA's first moves under NSDD 145 was to pressure industry into adopting a new data encryption standard - an expensive change that industry experts say is not necessary. Some critics suspect the NSA's intention is to enforce a new, universal encryption standard that would be too tough for most computer snoopers - but not for the NSA. Government officials deny this.

Footnote: Our associate Donald Goldberg uncovered a Pentagon task force study, completed three years ago, which concluded that current standards are perfectly adequate. "It is the consensus of the Task Force that encryption can be achieved with commercially available equipment that would provide for privacy of communications," the internal report stated.

Raising the possibility of new U.S. attacks, he urged the Libyan people to turn the country into a fortress and "make it impossible for America to put her dirty feet on this pure soil."

In a speech broadcast on Libyan television Tuesday from the coastal town of Sirte and monitored by the British Broadcasting Corp., Gadhaft marked the 16th anniversary of the expulsion of Italians from Libya with a warning that Libya is faced with "new aggression" and "new colonialist ambitions. Gadhasi warned that if the United States resorts to the "long stick of the coward." Libya will have the right to practice "terrorism."

"If America strikes with its long stick, we will then use our special means, which are not aircraft carriers or intercontinental missiles." he said. "We will then have the right to actually practice terrorism against America and against the American presence everywhere.'

Irish Woman Meant To Be 'Time Bomb' Curses Arab Defendant In London Court

LONDON (UPI) - Anne Marie Murphy, a targets" in return for money and Syrian usually soft-spoken Irish chambermaid, glared at the defendant in the dock - the man she said promised to marry her, then sent her aboard a plane with a suitcase packed with explosives.

"You bastard you," she screamed, pounding the witness stand with a clenched fist. "How could you do this to me? I hate you! I hate you! You're wicked!"

The outburst in London's Old Bailey Central Criminal Court Tuesday drew no visible reaction from Jordanian-born Nezar Hindawi, 32, on trial for trying to blow up an Israeli El Al airliner bound for Tel Aviv.

Syrian diplomats kept silent about prosecution charges that their intelligence agents trained Hindawi and provided him with explosives.

Prosecutors said Hindawi told police "he agreed to carry out attacks against Israeli help in forming a "Jordanian Revolutionary Movement" to overthrow King Hussein of

The prosecution said Hindawi, who has pleaded innocent, told police Syrian agents supplied him with more than 3 pounds of plastic explosives and a detonator hidden in a pocket calculator.

The explosives were found in Murphy's suitcase at Heathrow Airport April 17 when she attempted to board an El Al jumbo jet carrying 375 people on a flight from New York to Tel Aviv with a stopover in London. Hindawi was arrested less than 24 hours

Murphy, 32, a soft-spoken chambermald whom prosecutors described as "a simple Irish girl," told the court Tuesday how she was pulled over by an El Al security agent, who discovered the bomb.

"He told me to sit down though I didn't know what was happening, and two policemen and two dogs and two guns (appeared)," she testified. "And they took me into a little room and showed me a black thing (the explosives) on the table. I'd never seen it before."

She was more than five months pregnant at the time. She gave birth to Hindawi's child in July.

Murphy said Hindawi had promised to marry her in Israel - but told her he had to take a later flight and would meet her there. She said he gave her the suitcase and sent her to the El Al plane, but that she never had any idea a bomb was in the suitcase. Police also said they were convinced she had no knowledge of the bomb.

Hindawi's trial is expected to last more than two weeks.

Voters Association Plans Strategy

The South East Seminole County Voters Association has accomplished a main goal of improving communications between county government and residents in the Chuluota area, association president Les Gross told organization members at a recent meeting.

Gross said the county's public works department agreed to continue the double yellow no passing line on County Road 419 intersection, and will do a traffic study to determine if the speed limit on the road through Chuluota should be decreased.

Gross also said that he had obtained a commitment from Rodney Green of the Oviedo Development Corporation to prevent construction damage to the area surrounding the construction site between Fifth and Seventh Streets in Chuluota. He

Special Kindergarten Allows Individual Development

By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

Once again, Seminole schools have broken new ground. This time, it's a program for "developmentally slow" kindergarteners who may be average or above in every other respect. The program gives them the 'space' to develop neurologically in time to catch up with the rest of the class, according to program coordinator Brenda Griffin.

A child may be very bright. but his overall maturation and development rates, which are determined at birth, may be slower, Mrs. Griffin said.

"Developmentally slow" means the child isn't progressing quickly in the subtletles of maturation: personal, social and emotional skills. He may not have well-developed motor skills, not be able to separate easily from a parent, not associate well with other children, and he may lack "emotional resilience." That is, if changes are made in his schedule or other demands are made on him, he may react with

In addition, developmentally slow children may not have the skills expected of other kindergartners, Mrs. Griffin continued. Educators say a kindergartner should have some hand-to-eye coordination, be able to follow a story and answer questions on it, know his numbers to 5 and also the names of colors. The developmentally slow child is operating maturity-wise at age 4 or 41/2, when he is 5 or 514.

Mrs. Griffin explained the new program for these special youngsters. It's called "Adjusted Kindergarten Curriculum," and teachers are taking a five-day workshop on how to implement

Each school will have a choice of making one classroom available for adjusted curriculum or having a group of kindergartners in several of the classes learning on the adjusted curriculum program. Teachers will screen children for eight weeks for and brought to conference to see how the school will be helping their child.

Mrs. Griffin said in the Adjusted Kindergarten Curriculum program may affect up to 30 percent of kindergartners. The emphasis will be on oral language development, expression and manipulative activities, and there will be no workbooks to create stress situations.

'We will concentrate on activities that give the children something to look at or to feel," she said.

Many times, game boards will be used, which employ objects to count. Flannel boards will be used on which the children will "show and tell" stories they have heard. This is done in place of the children having to answer questions about the stories.

Griffin. Another technique will be play-acting of stories in which children will dress up as the scenes as they see fit. "And we will be using sand, water and block play," added Mrs. Griffin.

There will be reading aloud every day by the teacher, and she will plan a greater number of field trips to places such as the post office and grocery store.

The hope is that these children separating from a parent; will advance soon to their chronological age and can be mainstreamed back into the classroom. Every nine weeks the children will be re-evaluated and can be put back in the regular setting.

But he has to get there in his own time and space, and we have to give him that time." Mrs. Griffin explained.

The alternative, she said, is for these children to repeat kindergarten or go into a transitional class. Further, the unattended, developmentally-slow child can have a multitude of social and emotional problems possible participants, and those later in life. "This program really children will be further addresses the problem up front. evaluated by a Child Study By giving the kids the adjust-Team. Parents will be notified ment up front, we will reduce ment up front, we will reduce the remedial ranks. The children won't have the difficult frustration level and will be working in their comfort zone - that's the whole thing. We want kids who feel confident in themselves," said Mrs. Griffin.

> Without the necessary maturity, she says the love of learning is gone - "The children never really develop to their full potential, and that's the incredibly sad thing. We want them to be well-rounded socially, emotionally, physically and academically because their maturity level in personal and social skills will have a lot to do with how successful they are in later

> She pointed to research which showed that children who start school a little older and who are

"This is done so there will be developmentally fine really end activity involved," said Mrs. up being the best leaders in society. Educators don't want a child to be in a high bracket academically but slow in the other areas. "Children do not characters and act out the need to be pushed up academically," she said.

A number of problems can result if children don't grow into academia at their own speed. she said. Signs to look for that show blocked development include the following:

• The child has difficulty

• The child hits others; The child runs wildly without purpose; • The child dawdles while getting ready for school; • The child seems tense and irritable:

 The child dislikes school; The child functions well at school but falls apart when he gets home. He is out of control or perhaps falls asleep right after school. These are symptoms of stress from the school day. The Adjusted Kindergarten Curriculum has already been plloted for two years at Lawton Elementary School - the county's largest elementary school - and educators have learned a lot. Still, the parents will need to understand and cope the program expands. Mrs. Griffin says there's really nothing to be concerned about and everything to be grateful for.

"These are preventive strategies, and that's hard for parents to understand. We want to educate parents and let them know there is nothing wrong with being a little slow developmentally. Given the growth time, these children are going to be successful," she declared. "They're going to be right where they should be.'

Likely n: Special Session On Drugs

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - A chorus of conservative north Florida sheriffs endorsed Gov. Bob Graham in the state's Senate race Tuesday as Graham announced he will likely call a special legislative session on "crack" cocaine.

Graham, a Democrat, announced the possible special session during his customary pre-Cabinet news conference. He said the session could come after the November elections, when the new Legislature meets in organizational session. The regular session is in April.

Graham denied any link between his campaign to unseat Republican Sen. Paula Hawkins and the special session.

"We are taking action based upon what we think is appropriate for the interests of the people of the state of Florida," he said.

The final decision will depend on the recommendations of a task force on crack cocaine the cheap, highly addictive form of the drug — chaired by Dade County State Attorney Janet Reno, due Oct. 15. Graham is also awaiting Congress' action on tough new anti-drug legislation.

Graham declined to offer specific legislative proposals.

"I think it's premature to get into the details until we know what the Congress does and what Janet Reno's task force recommends, but the prospect of a special session before April is increasing," Graham said. Graham and Hawkins have both accused one another of weakness in the drug war. Recent Hawkins campaign spots have accused the governor of approving early release for criminals, including drug traffickers. "Paula fights to stop parole for pushers in federal prisons but Bob Graham lets it go on in state prisons," the ad asserts.

"Sen. Hawkins' ad is a gross distortion," said Graham, who noted that Florida has abolished parole in favor of uniform sentencing guidelines. The guidelines include "gain time" for good behavior.

Graham said Republicans in the state House and Senate were solidly behind the 1983 uniform sentencing law and that the first bill he signed as governor was the 15-year minimummandatory sentence for drug traffickers.

During an afternoon news conference attended by a few of the 20 sheriffs who support him. Graham attacked the federal government for failing to close off national borders to drug traffickers. He also criticized federal law officers for anubbing state and local agents.

'Frankly, there have been too many instances of an arrogance by federal agencies and a refusal or a lack of full participation with state and local law enforcement, " Graham said. "I do not think that attitude advances the goal of protecting our citizens.'

Graham has received the endorsement of the state Fraternal Order of Police and the 500member Hispanic Officers Association in Miami. Hawkins has been endorsed by the state Police Benevolent Association.

The sheriffs on hand Tuesday said Graham has presided over increased budgets for police, courts, prosecutors, public defenders and prisons, and has worked closely with local of ficials.

"The senator has done some things in Washington but I don't think it's an effective type of situation compared to what the governor has done for us in law enforcement," said Sheriff Ken Fortune of Jefferson County.

Republican Sheriff Frank Wanicka of Lee County endorsed Graham Sept. 16, saying Hawkins has refused to meet with sheriffs delegations and County. Al Harrison of Gulf that her ad attacks on Graham County. Lu Hindery of Alachua were misleading.

The Democratic sheriffs endorsing Graham were Eddie Cray of Lafayette County and Boone of Leon County (Taliahassee), Daie Carsons of Duval County (Jacksonville), of Madison County, Fred Peel of Larry Ellis of Nassau County, Washington County, Neil Perry Ken Fortune of Jefferson of St. Johns County, Dolph

County, Robert Leonard of Suwannee County, Bobby Mc-Joe Newmans of Baker County.

They also included Joe Peavy

Reddish of Bradford County. Charlie Rhoden of Hamilton County, Vince Seely of Escambia County (Pensacola), Buddy Smith of Calhoun County, Thomas Strickland of Holmes County, Jack Taylor of Franklin County, Jerry Whitehead of Un-ion County and W.A. Woodham of Gadsden County.

Sagan: Most Americans Want Nuclear Test Ban

Astronomer Carl Sagan, leading weapons and catch up on modthe movement to ban U.S. nuclear testing, sought support for his cause Tuesday with a press conference held with other protesters arrested last week at the Nevada nuclear test site.

Sagan, among 140 people arrested at the Nevada site, said polls show a majority of Americans support the United States joining the Soviet Union in its self-imposed testing moratorium.

The administration has resisted pressures to end testing. arguing the blasts are needed to ernization already done by the Soviet Union.

Joining Sagan were three others arrested with him in Nevada: Jack Geiger, president of Physicians for Social Responsibility, Harvard psychiatrist Lester Grinspoon, and television producer Ann Druyan.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., als attended, saying a lack of media attention for antinuclear actions is "a new disinformation camapign."

"This (test ban) movement reflects the feelings of the Amer- up the whole earth," said Sagan.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - ensure the reliability of U.S. ican people, who are ahead of the president," Schroeder said.

"In the next few days we will individually have to decide whether to plead guilty or not." sald Sagan.

"We don't break the law lightly," added Druyan, "most of us will plead not guilty."

Although the Soviet Union has no similar pressure groups, both Sagan and Geiger said that has had no effect on the numbers of nuclear weapons stockpiled by either superpower.

Indian Pact OK'd

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet a suit against the state for approved an "historic" agreement Tuesday with the Seminole Indians that could clear up a host of legal disputes. Including a land ownership lawsuit more than a century old.

Among other things, the Seminoles would dismiss an aboriginal claim to most of Florida as well as a claim to 5 million acres - the entire state - given to the tribe by presidential treaties in 1839 and 1845.

"This is an historic agreement that meets the needs of the Indian tribes and the people of Florida, and will mean a better future for us all." Graham said.

The agreement was approved unanimously by the Cabinet. and has received favorable comment from Seminole lead- to accept water district ers. It must still be approved by the Seminole Tribal Council. the South Florida Water Management District, the Secretary of the Interior and Congress.

Other major elements of the agreement include:

-The Seminoles would drop giving the water district the right to flow water across 14.720 acres of tribal land in Broward County in 1950. The water district would give up its claim of flowage rights on three square miles of Indian land west of the disputed area.

-The state and water district would purchase the Broward County land for $5 million. The land would become an southwestern corner of the extension of the Rotenberger Area of Palm Beach County, a key part of the Save Our Everglades program. The Seminoles would retain the right to hunt and fish there.

> -The Seminoles would sell about 3,840 acres of land on the southern border of the Rotenberger Tract to the state for $2 million.

-The Seminoles would agree jurisdiction over water use regulation and surface water management on tribal lands. The tribe would also drop its legal opposition to the district's Hendry County flood control plan.

A Third Long In Louisiana Governor's Chair?

WASHINGTON (UPI) - "I love the Senate," the son of the Louisiana Kingfish said quietly. reflectively. "It's the best political job in the world - better than being president."

But Russell Billiu Long, 67, is going home - perhaps to run for governor - after serving 37 years in the Senate, longer than all but three past and present members.

An interview in his "hideaway" office under the Capitol dome provided a time for reflection for Long, who came of age in the Great Depression under the tutelage of his father, a flery populist who irrevocably changed the political landscape of a troubled nation.

During those hard times Huey P. Long. Louisiana's most famous governor and senator, was promoting a share-thewealth program and declaring "every man a king."

A half-century later his son, a champion of big business, acknowledged he has strayed from the political path of his father, but the son of the Kingfish professed to see a populist strain in his own illustrious career.

He cited, for example, his continuing efforts to promote stock ownership plans for employees where they work. which to the Kingfish might seem thin gruel.

"You have to find ways to build up the net worth of a person who retires after a lifetime of productive work," said Long, who supported individual retirement accounts and worked to protect pension rights.

With obvious pride, he said the populism espoused by his father "brought vitality and life to the Democratic Party.

"A few people should not be allowed to hog up all the wealth," he said, employing the vernacular, if not the heat, of the Kingfish. "That's what people thought in my father's day and that's what they think now.

The hard times of the 1930s required his father to be a "revolutionary," he said, but Long sees himself as an "evolu-

The Long dynasty has evolved to the point where Huey's son could side with the Reagan administration in its efforts to remove thousands of people from the Social Security disability roles, arguing that the pro-gram was plagued by deadbeats. Now balding, Long no longer bears that striking resemblance to the Kingfish that he once did. But on the Senate floor, when Long is exercised by the issues and his arms flatil, the similarity in their voices and mannerisms is cerily evident.

Some see irony in the proposi-tion that the son of the Kingfish, whose enemies called him a corrupt demogogue, is needed in the governor's chair to clean up Louisiana's image.

Gov. Edwin Edwards, the Democratic current governor who finally has won acquittal on racketeering and fraud charges that wreaked political turmoil, insists he plans to seek reelection.

There is some smart money in Louisian u on Long to make the

He will not run if a candidate more qualified than himself emerges, he said, but since none has, the question remains open.

Rep. Henson Moore, R-La., may run for governor if he loses his race against Rep. John Breaux, D-La., for the Senate seat Long is giving up.
Long said the question of who his opposition would be in a governor's race is "relevant." But, grinning ever so slyly, he added he was "not making invidious comparisons" of his own qualifications with those of others.

Some observers say Long's decision to give up his seat was prompted by a reluctance to face a challenge from Moore, who has big GOP money behind his bid for the Senate, where Democrats are trying to wrest majority control.

Long, who boasts an 80 percent approval rating in polls back home, said he has been urged to make the race for governor by friends, as well as "just people who have the state's interest at heart.' His boosters say Louisiana. rocked by economic hardship imposed by the slump in oil prices, needs another Long. specifically one who has a national reputation as a fiscal expert and the boardroom clout to achieve a diversified industrial base and new jobs.

"If the state needs me." said the man known for inscrutability as well as down-home charm, "I might make myself available."

What that means, say political observers in Baton Rouge, the state capital, is that Long would accept a draft to run for the governor's chair once held by his and on the floor for his bills. father. The other governor in the family was his "Uncle Earl" Long, a slamboyant politician whose unofficial shenanigans in office variously outraged, amused and bemused onlookers. As a member of the Finance Committee since 1953 — and its powerful chairman from 1965 until Republicans won control of the Senate in 1981 - Russell Long wielded enormous influence in shaping the nation's tax policy.

He remains a power on the panel that has jurisdiction not only over tax bills but also Social Security, trade, health, welfare and other social programs.

As chairman, Long was able to dole out favors to senators in both parties, winning in return bipartisan support in committee

On both sdes of the aisle, he is admired for his political acumen. respected for his fiscal finesse and genuinely liked for his homespun humor.

No one fought harder than Long to prevent television coverage of Senate proceedings - or lost that battle more graciously. despite the irrevocable changes institution he loves.

"I guess it has some entertainment value," Long grumbled

But the cameras also required revisions in hallowed Senate rules that Long mastered and used to his advantage for years in what members are fond of describing as "the world's greatest deliberative body."

Elected to the Senate in 1948, congressional authority on the complex Internal Revenue Code and with his personal stamp on new tax reform legislation soon tod his political savvy from his father, assassinated in 1935 at the height of his power, as well as his Uncle Earl, both of whom he often quotes.

Dubbed the "Princefish" early the cameras prompted in the in his Senate career, Long overcame years of heavy drinking - which coincided with the breakup of his first marriage and used the chairmanship of the Finance Committee to build his power base.

Now happily remarried, Long will be 68 on Nov. 3. He evidently is in good health.

On the difficulty of reforming and simplifying tax policy. Long often tells an Uncle Earl story

Long leaves as the unmatched with this telling punch line: congressional authority on the "Don't tax you, don't tax me tax the fellow behind the tree."

He lost the Finance chairmanship when Republicans captured a majority of Senate seats in 1980 but not his unofficial title of dean of tax policy.

Long used his awesome influence to make sure the new tax bill contained no restrictions on tax advantages enjoyed by Louisana's oil and gas industry. Two pet provisions he authored - to encourage employee stock ownership plans and individual contributions for presidential campaigns - emerged unscathed.

Bob Packwood, R-Ore., is understandably deferential to Long, who helped muster Democratic support in the Senate for the new tax bill.

"I cannot think of anybody I've learned as much from as Long." Packwood said while his committee was fashioning the radical tax legislation. "There's almost nothing I wouldn't do for Long. who did a lot for Packwood in shaping the new tax legislation, said the state of the economy will determine when and how it will be changed.

"If the economy finds itself in recession," he said he has no doubt Congress will restore Finance Committe Chairman advantages to business, such as the investment tax credit, which he said "has proved to be a powerful stimulus."

NL Playoffs: Mets' Doctor Vs. Doctorer?

HOUSTON (UPI) - The Doctor faces the Alleged Doctorer tonight in Game 1 of the National League playoffs.

The Doctor is New York Mets right-hander Dwight Gooden and he'll be pitching against the Houston Astros, against whom he is 8-1 lifetime.

Gooden endured an off-year in 1986, though everyone should experience such mediocrity. He went 17-6 with a 2.84 ERA with a third straight season of at least 200 strikeouts.

"I got off to a pretty good start in April." Gooden said Tuesday as both teams practiced at the Astrodome. "But then I had a couple of starts where I got away from my game and tried to do too much. I got over that and I think I am ready to peak at this time of year."

Nevertheless, the 21-year-old tonight opposes a pitcher who had a better year than he did -Mike Scott.

The former Met, he of the split-fingered fastball and soiled reputation, will likely be replacing Gooden as the NL Cy Young Award winner.

Scott has been accused of doctoring the ball with sandpaper — an illegal practice that gives a pitch an extraordinary dip. He led the majors in strikeouts (306), innings (275 1-3) and ERA (2.22). posted a 18-10 record, had five shutouts and tacked on a nohitter the day the Astros clinched the NL West.

But does he cheat?

"No," Scott said. "It doesn't offend me to be accused, either. It's been going on for a while and It will continue. I figure the ball must be doing something pretty good if they accuse me of cheating."

With Scott set to hurl, the Mets will use the following lineup in the game, which begins at 8:25 EDT: CF Len Dykstra, 2B Wally Backman, 1B Keith Hernandez, C Gary Carter, RF Darryl Straw-

Lady Seminoles Get It Together For First Victory

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

LONGWOOD - In their first six games of the 1986 season, Seminole High's Lady Seminoles did a decent job of serving, passing, setting and spiking. What coach Beth Corso said the Lady Tribe didn't do was concentrate and work together which resulted in an 0.6 start.

Tuesday night, however, the Lady Seminoles found out just how good they can be with some concentration as they claimed a 15-8, 15-10 victory over a scrappy, improving Lyman squad in Seminole Athletic Conference action at Lyman High.

The win snapped a six-game losing skid for the Lady Tribe while Corso's team improved to 1.2 in the SAC. Seminole goes up against SAC leader Lake Mary (3.0) Thursday at Lake Mary. Lyman now stands at 0-5 overall and 0-3 in the conference. Coach Karren Newman's team returns to SAC play Thursday at home against

The teams traded serves four more times before Seminole got a side out and ran off 10 straight points on the serve of Kim Walsh. Long, a 6-2 sophomore, had a pair of spectacular spikes on the rally, one on a Lyman pass that floated over the net and another on a fine, running set by Peterson. Peterson also had a dink for a winner, Cindy Benge had a good hit for a point and Walsh had one service ace as Seminole won the game, 15-8.

"Kim (Walsh) came off the bench and gave us an excellent effort tonight," Corso said. "Everyone who played did well and this is the first time we've carried our aggressiveness in practice over to the game.'

Seminole kept the momentum going into the second game as it built up a 10-3 lead. Diana Mitchell served three of the points, one an ace, and Peterson also served three with Walsh's hit providing one of the points.

Lyman then put together its best rally of the match as it scored seven unanswered points to tie the score at 10-10. Jodie Vega served three of the points and Callerman served four with Emily Rosenfeld's play at the net and Diana Boyesen's all-around play leading the way. Two of the Lyman points came when Peterson was called for a carry on tips that looked like winners.

"It gets to be a little dis-couraging." Peterson said. "I know one time I broke my wrist and it was illegal but one time when they called it on me I know

I didn't break my wrist."

After trading the serve three times, Seminole got it back and Peterson made up for the illegal hits by serving five straight points for a 15-10 Seminole win.

'Flawless' Lake Mary Tips Hawks

By Mark Blythe Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY - Sharon Bonaventure sparked a first game rally that ignited the Lake Mary Rams over Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks 15-12, 13-15, 15-12. Tuesday night in Seminole Athletic Conference volleyball at Lake Mary High.

Bonaventure, a transfer from Winter Park High, served eight straight points in the openinggame raily and never let up as the Lady Rams played brilliantly to take over sole posession of the SAC with a 3-0 record. Lake Mary, 7.4 overall, hosts Seminole Thursday. Lake Howell now stands at 5.5 overall and 2-1 in the SAC. The Lady Hawks are at Lake Brantley Thursday.

"We played with intensity," Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry said. "We're known to lag a little during our matches, but tonight we were able to bounce back from our mistakes and not dwell on them."

Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano agreed. "Lake Mary played flawlessly, they really looked good," she said.

Lake Mary fell behind early in the first game but battled back to take a 3-2 lead. Bonaventure came on and served Lake Mary took a 10-3 advantage. Lake Howell's Jaudon Jonas, though, ran off four points to close the gap to 10.7.

Valerie Smith and Marnie Frey reversed the flow for Mary, however, as Smith ran off two points and Frey, who popped off the bench, came on to serve the game winner.

The second game was another battle as both teams struggled for points in the early going. Lake Howell again received an early start and went up, 3.0. After the Lady Rams tled It, Susan Hayden served three points as the Lady Silver Hawks seemed to have control.

Smith, though, tied the score at six and the two teams were back to battling back and forth.

Lake Howell then built up a 10-6 lead before Angela Capps came back and tled the score once again. Lake Howell then used a fine series of service breaks to come on and eventually win the game as Hayden accounted for the game-winning Game three again saw the Lady Silver Hawks getting off to a quick start. Lake Howell used the strength of Monica Schneider and Tammy Lewis to aid its early eruption.

The Lady Rams, however, were content on making the last game as interesting as the first two. Frey teamed with Lora Splatt to put Lake Mary up. 6.5. The two teams wouldn't give an inch as the score was tled at 6,7,8, and 10. Bonaventure then teamed with Gina Dawson to add an offensive spark for the Lady Rams late in the match. Smith again came on to deliver four points and the Lady Rams were sitting on a 14-10 lead.

The Lady Hawks, though, refused to die, as Lewis came on to serve a pair of points, closing the gap to 14-12. Splatt then sent the serve deep and after a weak return. Dawson delivered the game winner.

"Not having a mental lapse really helped us tonight." Henry said. "I just hope we can play on the same level when we play Seminole Thursday."

Lyman-Rams, 4-Way Meet Highlight Schedule

By Mark Blythe Herald Sports Writer One big dual-meet rivalry plus an additional triangular meet dot the Seminole County swimming schedule for today. Lake Mary invades Lyman at 4 and Seminole, Bishop Moore, and Lake Brantley will meet at the Sharidan Aquatic Club in Longwood at 7 p.m. Lyman's boys will look to avenge a one-point loss issued to them earlier this year by the Rams. The Lyman 200 medley relay team is currently ranked second in the Central Florida Honor Roll with a time of 1:47.3. The team is made up of swimmers Tom Mooney, Rich Ott. Nick Radkewich, and

Sam Rennard. The 'Hounds also boast Central Florida's fastest 400 medley relay time as Charlie Rose, Mooney, Chuck Reinighaus, and David Bandy comprise the Lyman team. Reinighaus also owns the fastest time in the 100 breaststroke with a time of 1:04.0, while recording Central Florida's second best time in the 200 individual medley with a 2:04.1 clocking and the area's third fastest time in the 100 backstroke with a time of 1:00.5.

Mooney is second on the backstroke list swimming a time of 56.4. The Hounds also place two swimmers on the 50 freestyle, Sam Rennard has the fourth time with a 23.7 as John Jones is ranked fifth with a time of 23.9.

Charlie Rose completes the fine Greyhound lineup with a time of 54.6 in the 100 butterfly good for second in area.

Swimming

Rose is a defending state champion. Lake Mary, though, will not be short-handed as Jaime Bojanowski, Wes Simecek, and Steve Kostowicz are talented performers.

Bolanowski leads the area in the 500 freestyle with a time of 4:57.6. Kostowicz ranks second in the 200 freestyle swimming 1:48.9, he also is ranked third in the 100 freestyle with a time of 49.01. Simecek has the area's third fastest time in the 100 butterfly with a 56.0 effort.

The Lake Mary squad also has the fourth fastest time in the 400 freestyle relay with a time of 3:31.6. Kostowicz, Bojanowski, Doug Dittmer, and Mark Russel make up the team.

In the girls meet at Lyman, both girls teams will also show off some of the area's finest swimmers. Lake Mary has two relay teams ranked high in area. The 200 medley relay is ranked third currently with a time of 2:05.3. Angle Odom, Cindy Greenan, Alice Reese, and Elisa Maher make up the team.

In the 400 freestyle relay Lake Mary is also ranked third. Stasi Bojanowski, Lesa Dittmer, Reese, and Kelley Wise comprise this team.

Bojanowski is also ranked fourth in the 260 freestyle posting a time of 2:12.8. Wise has the area's second fastest time in the 200 IM with a time of 2:17.8, she also has the third fastest time in the 100 backstroke with an effort of 1:07.8.

Greenan is third on the 100 breaststroke list swimming a time of 1:14.8.

Lyman has some talent but doesn't have the depth of Lake Mary. Among the top Lady Greyhound swimmers are Dannica Jaffin, Kim Kwiatkowski, and Karen Long.

In the 50 freestyle Jaffin has the area's third fastest time with a 27.6 showing. Kwiatkowski has the fifth time in the same event swimming 28.8. Jaffin is also ranked third in the 100 freestyle with a 1:02.4 effort. Long is ranked third in the 100 butterfly with a 1:05.7 élocking.

In the meet held at Sharidan many more talented and area-ranked swimmers will perform.

Lake Brantley's Christy Bridgewater is one of the top female swimmers in the state. Bridgewater, a junior transfer from Atlanta, holds the top time in the 200 freestyle with a 1:55.3 and the top time in the 500 freestyle with a 5:05. Manda Davis has the top time in the 100 breastroke with a time of 1:10.1. Kristen Pauley is ranked fourth in area in the 100 free posting a time of 1:02.9.

The Lady Patriot swim team currently has the fastest time in the area's 400 freestyle relay with a 3:42.7. Paulcy, Davis, Lisa Moon, and Bridgewater make up the leading team.

For coach Donalyn Knight's Seminoles, Cissy Burgess, Shannon Rivers and Kristy Keeling have been the top performers.

The New York Yacht Club's America II, skippered by John Kolius of Darien. Conn., managed to keep ahead of a persistent drive by U.S.A. out of San Francisco to remain undefeated at 3-0 with a 1:34 victory.

Athletic Director Resigns, Maryland Overhaul Begins

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) -Dick Dull is resigning after six years as University of Maryland athletic director, marking the first step in a major overhaul of the troubled athletic program. Dull, saying he feels "free at last," announced his resignation Tuesday, 3 1-2 months after the death of basketball star I.en Bias and amid mounting criticism over the poor academic performance of the school's athletes. The resignation will become effective Nov. 1.

University Chancellor John Slaughter appointed Charles Sturtz, Maryland vice chancellor for administrative affairs, to assume Dull's post while school officials begin a nationwide search for a new athletic director. Dull will remain at the university for a year as an advisor to Slaughter on athletic-policy issues.

"I accept Mr. Dull's decision to resign at this time, as we are about to undertake some major changes in the athletic department," Slaughter said. "However. I am pleased to have his experience available to me during the transition period."

Slaughter would not comment on the status of Maryland basketball coach Charles "Lefty" Driesell, who has been accused of caring more about winning games than educating Slaughter, who has launched his own investigation of Driesell. said last week he will announce by Oct. 20 whether the veteran coach will remain at the school.

Dull. 41, is credited with returning Terrapins football to national prominence, but he has been burdened by a growing list of problems in the wake of Bias's cocaine-induced death June 19.

"It's been a trying time and a difficult time for all of us." Dull said at a news conference.

Lack Of Training, Facilities Hold Back Tennis Blacks

Tennis history was made a couple of weeks ago in Largo. For the first time ever in professional tennis, two black players met in a final. Houston and Oklahoma State product Lori McNeil and Los Angeles' Zina Garrison of Los Angeles were the players involved in this history-making contest.

McNeil won the match but no one seemed to care much, not even Garrison. The importance of the event overshadowed the actual play and even the outcome. It was truly considered a milestone in tennis, a major breakthrough.

Of course, now, tennis people are starting to speculate about why it has never happened before, indeed, why more black players are not world class, and why more young black players are not getting into the game?

Good questions all and not new ones to those who have been involved in tennis for many years. In fact, I can remember an article I read in World Tennis magazine 25 years ago addressing the very subject that is being hashed-about now: "Why are there not more black tennis players in the United States, and what can be done about It?"

There have only been two black players in the history of tennis who would really have been considered great players. Only two who have achieved the No. 1 ranking in the United States and both even were No. 1 in the world for a time. Both won Wimbledon and both won the U.S. Open. Those two players, of course, were Arthur Ashe and Althea Gipson.

There is no doubt that these .two players were two of the greatest players who ever played the game. The question is, why were there not more and why are there not more now?

Ashe and Gipson were taught tennis by a Dr. Johnson in Lynchburg, Va. Dr. Johnson was a very prominent physician in Lynchburg and was also an avid tennis player. He got very interested in trying to help promising black players in the South to develop their tennis. He built a court in his backyard and started having the most promising black players of the day come to live with him and work on their game. He paid most of the expenses for these players and even arranged their tournament schedules for them.

Gipson and Ashe were two of his students and his most successful. Dr. Johnson had many, many other black players come through his program. Some did quite well, but only Ashe and Gipson reached the top. Unfortunately, Dr. Johnson was about the only coach at the time who was trying specifically to help the young black get ahead in

Today there is only a handful of American black players on the professional circuit. Garrison is the most noteworthy. She is ranked consistently in the top 10 among the women. McNeil is a good up-and-coming player and will do well. No U.S. black male players are ranked in the top 75 in the world and only Rodney Harmon is in the top 200.

That is an amazing statistic when you consider that basketball, baseball and football on the pro level have more than 50 percent black players.

Why do pro football, pro basketball and pro baseball have so many black players and pro tennis does not? This writer believes that is simply a matter of training, facilities and money.

To make it in tennis it takes lots of early training, lots of private lessons and lots of individual coaching. One cannot just pick up a ball and racket and teach himself/herself to play.

Most black children are exposed to basketball, football and baseball at a very early age. There are countless leagues for them to play in, everyone can find a playground or park to play in - you can always find a game.

Instruction is not hard to find because everyone has an uncle or father or big brother who has played one of the "big-time sports."

Not so in tennis. Instruction is hard to find and it's expensive. Finding courts to play on and tournaments to play in is difficult and although we have leagues for youngsters in Central Florida, we are one of the few areas in the United States that has this available. There are simply no means for most promising young black athletes to develop in tennis. They so to the other sports out of necessity.

There is no doubt that, with proper training and proper opportunity. many, many black younsters could become world-class players. But it will never happen until we go to the areas where these youngsters live and play and provide the facilities and the coaching necessary.

It's too late when a person reaches the age of 13 or 14. It must be started much earlier. Then and only then will there be a rise in the number of top black tennis players.

Dolphins' Demise: No Light At End Of Tunnel For Shula

Miami Dolphins have replaced the Los Angeles Raiders as the greatest disappointment of the 1986 NFL season.

While the Raiders are on their way out of the 0-3 hole they dug or themselves, the Dolphins reach a new low every week. Never before has a Don Shulacoached team been so bad and prospects are poor for any sudden improvement.

The Dolphins, 1-4, made it to the Super Bowl two seasons ago and to the AFC Championship Dame last year despite a poor defense and running game. Dan Marino and wide receivers Mark Clayton and Mark Duper overcame those deficiencies, but the passing game is no longer enough. Miami's defense has worsened and the once-strong offensive line deteriorated.

Marino is facing a steady pass rush for the first time since he entered the NFL in 1963. He also feels he must produce points on every Dolphins' offensive series. and the pressure of those factors has him forcing passes like in his menior year at the University of Pittsburgh. Without Marino at his best, Miami has little chance of winning. The past two weeks Marino has thrown seven inerceptions and the Dolphins have been crushed by San Francisco (31-16) and New Miami stands three games behind the New York Jets and two behind the Patriots in the AFC East, in great danger of missing the playoffs for the first time since 1980.

"This brings us as low as we could possibly get," said Shuls, who is in his 24th season and has won 256 games as an NFL coach. "We have to fight and search for the answers to get respectability.

"This is the lowest any team I've ever been associated with has been. We're doing everything a losing team does."

The Raiders have never played like a bad team in 1986, although tough losses to Denver. Washington and the New York Giants put them in danger of falling out of the AFC West race

Three Raiders' trademarks comebacks engineered by backup quarterbacks, brawls and controversy — lifted Los Angeles to a 24-17 victory over Kansas City Sunday and out of the division cellar with a 2-3 record.

Jim Plunkett replaced Marc Wilson (thumb injury) in the third quarter and hit Jesse Hester for an 18-yard TD for the winning points. But the Chiefs point to a second-quarter series of fights as the real turning point. With Kansas City leading 17-7, a fight between Los Angeles defensive end Greg Townsend and Chiefs guard Brad Budde erupted. Fights followed after the next two plays. The punches revived the Raiders, who shut out Kansas City the rest of the way.

The fights began shortly after a communication breakdown between the replay official and field umpire resulted in a Raiders' touchdown. Wilson's 12-yard TD pass to Dokie Wilson in the second quarter was reviewed by replay official Jack Reader, who decided Williams only had one foot in when he made the catch. Reader told field umpire John Keck the pass was incomplete. but Keck thought he said complete and the points stood.

Seminole used two fourth-quarter touchdown by Ralph Anderson to break open a tight game en route to a 22-6 victory over Lake Mary in freshman football Tuesday night at Seminole High School.

The Seminoles, 3-0, return to acton Tuesday at Lyman while Lake Mary. 2-2, hosts Oviedo Tuesday.

Lake Mary opened the scoring in the second quarter when Rusty McDougald romped in from 15 yards out. The PAT falled but the Rams held a 6-0 edge. "That's the first time we've been behind all season," Seminole coach John McNamara said. "We got going after they scored."

Seminole took an 8-6 lead later in the quarter when fullback Julius Bennett plowed over from eight yards away. Anderson ran in the PAT for the 8-6 halftime lead.

After a scoreless third quarter, Anderson tailled from four yards out for a 14-6 edge. The PAT was stopped. In the closing minutes. Anderson burst into the end zone from seven yards away and James Cox hustled over the PAT for the 22-6 final.

In other freshman action, Oviedo and Lake Brantley hooked up in a dandy as the game was decided in overtime with the Lions coming away

IN BRIEF

Arias Whips Nelson To Move To Second Round Of WTC Open

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) - Sixth-seeded Jimmy Arias defeated Todd Nelson 6-4, 6-4 Tuesday to advance to the second round of the $279,000 WCT Scottsdale Open.

Arias, 22 and ranked 32nd in the world, said he has spent the last two weeks working on conditioning so he could endure the Arizona heat.

"My whole game is my legs and my legs feel good," Arias

Arias, of Jericho, N.Y., had torn ligaments in an ankle the day before the French Open in May, forcing him to drop out of the tournament.

"I played great the first two tournaments back on the tour - Boston and Washington - then I don't know what happened," he said.

In other action, Jaime Yzaga, 18, of Lima, Peru, carned a 6-4, 7-5 victory over Nduka Odizor of Katy, Texas; and Mexico's Leonardo Lavelle ousted Canada's Glenn Michibata 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. Top-seeded John McEnroe is scheduled to play his first singles match tonight.

Iowa State Appeals Refusal

AMES, Iowa (UPI) - Iowa State administrators responding to an NCAA probe erred by declaring linebacker Jeff Braswell ineligible and didn't realize the move could cost him his collegiate career, Cyclones Coach Jim Criner says.

Criner said Tuesday he is "tickled to death" the Big Eight school has decided to appeal an NCAA panel's refusal to reinstate Braswell and said ISU officials have been trying to do "the right thing" since the NCAA investigation first was publicized three months.

ISU Athletic Director Max Urick had declared Braswell ineligible before the Cyclones' Sept. 13 season opener because of 1984 recruiting violations involving transportation, credit for meals and a bank loan.

At the time, Urick said Braswell would sit out two games. but NCAA officials ruled the senior would remain incligible until the NCAA Eligiblity Committee said otherwise.

Flyers Reduce Roster To 23

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - The Philadelphia Flyers have reduced their roster to 23 players by sending defensemen Jeff Chychrun and Mike Stothers to their Hershey Bears farm club and left wing Glen Seabrooke to the Peterborough Petes of the Ontario League.

Chychrun, Philadelphia's second-round draft pick in 1984, had six assists while playing in seven of the Flyers' 10 preseason games.

Florida Goes For Something Different: Win

GAINESVILLE (UPI) - When the Florida Gators host the Kent State Golden Flashes Saturday. they will be hoping to do something they have done only once this season — win.

Not since 1979, when the Gators finished the season with an 0-10-1 record, has a Florida team had such a poor start (1-4-0) or lost four straight

But Coach Galen Hall has not given up all hope of a respectable record this year.

"This team has worked too hard not to get any rewards on Saturdays." Hall said. "It's a good football team and I'm convinced they will prove that this season."

The Gators have been their own worst enemy this year, drawing penalties at inopportune times and making mistakes that have taken them out of all four games they lost. Last week in a 28-17 loss to Louislana State, the Gators turned the ball over seven times.

"Once again, we helped beat ourselves with mistakes inside the LSU 5-yard-line," Hall said.

"The mistakes and penalties at critical times have prevented us from putting everything together, but we are getting closer to playing a complete game and it will come," Hall

One problem they Gators have that they cannot correct is the loss of quarterback Kerwin Bell for up to six weeks with sprained knee ligaments. But Hall seems to have all the confidence in the world in backup signal-caller

Rodney Brewer. "Rodney is a good quarterback who just needs to play and gain experience with the first unit," Hall said. "He's going to be better prepared this week because he will be working with the first team all week in practice. I know he will step right in and do an outstanding

"It was three weeks of hell and now this," Barkley said.

Just before the 11 p.m. shootings, Dickey was traveling west on State Road 46-A en route to his girlfiend's home. His pickup truck was behind the vehicles of Shaw and Starns when Shaw passed Starns' car and stopped suddenly in front of Starns' car, causing Starns' car to crash into Shaw's vehicle at Oaklawn Cemetery.

Dickey jumped out of his truck with an ax handle in hand. He chased the armed Shaw around Starns' car. When Shaw got to the driver's side of the car he turned and fired two shots at Dickey, who was wounded once in the neck. Dickey fell to the ground, but remained conscious.

Shaw opened the driver's door of Starns' car, almed past Starns, and, before firing a single shot into the back of Mrs. Shaw's head, said, "I love you."

Lionel Richie Is Dazzling

If you are still scratching your head about how director Stanley Donen got all those dancers upside down in Lionel Richie's video, check out "The Making of 'Dancing on the Celling.'"

It's a behind-the-scenes look airing in October on HBO.

Richie has spared no expense, meanwhile, on his new concert tour, which is crossing the country from now through December - and then again from March through May. But when you expect to play for 1.5 million lans at $16 to $20 a head, what's a few million dollars up front?

Word is that Richie's stage - a system of hydraulically controlled modules — ran to $1.2 million alone. And the computerized light system costs enough each show to keep a small nation in tanks.

The 9-foot plane was custom built so that it can play by itself and move around the stage. And there's a system of wires set up so that two of Richie's bandmates can literally dance on the ceiling for the finale.

Lucky Sheila E. gets the benefit of all this when she opens the show.

Warm-up acts for Richle have often found it a hot career break. Two tours ago, Richie gave a shot to the as-yet-unrediscovered Tina Turner. Last time around, It was the Pointer Sisters, then a struggling club favorite.

If Miss E. were listed on the stock exchange, this would be a good time to buy.

(BU) Rock on TV: Ray Charles will play himself on an upcoming episode of "Who's the Boss?" He'll even write and perform an original song as part of the plot. He helps series star Judith Light create a jingle for an ad campaign.

The Beach Boys are set to appear as special guests on an episode of the atteom "You Again?" giving soaper-cumrocker John Stamos a chance to sit in on drums and sing a few bars. Series star Stamos will join the band in a cover of the Mamas and the Papas classic "California Dreamin'." which will also be available as a new Beach Boys single.

Biondie vocalist Debbie Harry, whose feature film credits include "Videodrome" and "Roadie," will take a dramatic role in an episode of the syndicated series "Tales from the Dark Side."

School is in session and that means our Cook of the Week. Myrna Bethany, is stationed behind her desk at the Idyliwilde school busily ordering supplies for students and faculty. As a bookkeeper for the Seminole County School Board, Mrs. Bethany has enjoyed almost 10 years at idyliwilde and loves being around children. As an "average kid at school" when she was young, Mrs. Bethany laughs. "I never thought I'd go back to working in a school, but I enjoy the work and being around young people."

At her beautiful lakeside home cast of Sanford, Mrs. Bethany can often be found dishing up some tasty meals from old. reliable recipes that are nearly fall-proof. "I'm just a homemaker," she says, "a wife, a mother and a grandmother. I learned all of my cooking from either my mother, my aunt or my grandmother and it's just a spoon of this and a spoon of that or whatever. So many of the things I cook I just throw together: I don't use recipes. Our daughter-in-law is Italian, and she's brought a lot of interesting dishes to us. She's young, but she's a good cook."

Raised in Blountville, Tenn., our cook credits her farming background to her homestyle way of cooking. "Daddy worked as a chemist, but we had an apple orchard," says Mrs. Bethany, "It was just a normal farm with the usual cow for milk, and the chickens and the pigs." A vegetable garden was also part of the scenario, and provided a wealth of fresh. wholesome produce.

Mrs. Bethany likes to recall the fact that her husband's mother went to school with the wellknown Tennessee Ernie Ford. "She's talked about him dipping her pigtalls in the ink well many times," she exclaims. When Mrs. Bethany met her husband. Herold, he was a widower with a 17-month-old-daughter. They were introduced to each other by Harold's sister and were married after a 6-month courtship. Three and a half years later, they started their own family with a son, Jeff, and later another son. Tony. Jeff and his wife, Elisha, have given the Bethanys two pretty little granddaughters. Tera, 21/2, and Jenna, 15 months.

"As the boys were growing up we went all over camping with them," says Mrs. Bethany. "With them in the back end of the truck and us in the front,' she laughs, "we did the tent bit and trips to the beach. Mrs. Bethany admits that outside of a senior year field trip to Washington, D.C., she had never been out of her hometown area. "The summer I graduated, Daddy took us to the beach and seen the ocean," she says. "We've done all our traveling since I've been married." Mak-Bethanys hope to take a trip to California next year climinating all the usual tourist attractions to explore the countryside.

Since being permanently sidelined with a back injury, Harold Bethany's early retirement has allowed him to share in the domestic side of married life. 'Occasionally I'll call up and say, 'hey, how about fixing supper?' and he'll have it ready when I get home," says Mrs. Bethany.
"At times things can get pretty hectic at school, because I'm in charge of ordering all the books and supplies for the teachers and, in turn, the kids. Even the custodial supplies. Everything in order to keep the school running." So coming home to a ready made meal is certainly a pleasant experience for our busy working homemaker.

and the whole thing." The Almost every day. Mrs. Bethanys still enjoy camping Bethany enjoys a visit with her grandchildren. "Usually, I pick them up and we just go outside and play with them. They love being outside, sitting in the boat. and we ride bikes just about every day with them." Snacks for little Tera and Jenna are not it was the first time I had ever of the sweet tooth variety. "They won't hardly eat cookles or candy. Once they get a taste of it, they don't like it, so we keep ing up for lost time, the fruit for them." The girls' mother is a dental assistant and is very carefully preserving her daughters' good health and cating habits by furnishing them with healthful snack foods.

Mrs. Bethany likes spending her relaxing moments at the sewing machine. "I used to make all my own clothing, and hope to get back to it," she says. Handmade pillows add a decorative touch to the cozy living room, and Mrs. Bethany's necdiepoint designs are a pleasant eyeful. "I've gotten into candle-wicking this summer." she says, "and I'm also working on a quilt."

Fishing at your own back door has got to be a fisherman's dream, and mounted on the living room wall is proof that Harold Bethany's catch-of-theday was no tall tale, but a large mouth Bass weighing in at 9 pounds. Other personal touches around the home attest to the fact that Myrna Bethany has a tasteful eye for decorating the house they designed and built together.

The Bethanys are active in the First Baptist Church of Sanford, and enjoy attending covered dish functions. "Our adult Sunday School classes have gettogethers several times a year and usually in January, if the weather permits, we have a wiener roast down on the lake with a bonfire and all," says Mrs. Bethany. She also teaches a Sunday School class of little "18-month-old creepers. It's surprising how much they pick up, even at that age," she says. 'Most of the time I'll have anywhere from 8 to 10 little ones.

Proud of the fact that both her sons are good cooks, Mrs. Bethany says, "They've always helped in the kitchen. Jeff cooks a lot for Elisha and himself. They like to grill out, and with the hours he works it's a lot easier to cook out and it's fresh right then. And Tony lives on his own, so he has to cook for himself." A certain amount of comfort and satisfaction comes with the fact that you have raised a fine family and have been able to juggle a career with homemaking responsibilities, and our cook is no exception.

Food for Thought

Bill Painter

Next time you fry fish filets, try this tasty breading: fresh breadcrumbs and rolled oats ground coarsely in the processor. Dip fish in flour, then egg wash, then crumbs.

Sour cream is a no-no on potato (it's too rich in fats) but yogurt is a super mash-in alternative. Add dill or chives for flavor.

Tastier, safer pork on the way. The Food and Drug Administration has okayed low-dose radiation of pork, which kills the trichinosis parasite. Look for new labels on food packages. It doesn't take any longer to cook a LOT of rice. Freeze leftovers in serving-size packages; heat in a steamer basket when you want Something different — dinner pan-cakes! Combine 1 cup chopped fresh spinach, ¼ cup whole wheat flour, ½ tsp. beking powder, ½ cup each plain yogurt and water, plus an egg. Super with soup, bacon, or cheese-flavored acrambled eggs. More good go-togethers: good friends and good food at COLONIAL ROOM RESTAURANT

A Tour Of Traditional Southern Cooking

Traditional is the word that best describes Southern cooking, and it would seem that each of the Southern states has a "specialty" of its own. I found it very difficult to limit my selection of recipes for this article. What I did do was select ones from different areas of the South.

I first was introduced to this chicken dish while visiting in Columbus, Ga. There, the story goes, General George Patton requested it often when stationed at Fort Benning.
COUNTRY CAPTAIN

CHICKEN

I small onion, chopped ¼ cup green pepper, chopped I clove garlic, minced

I can tomato wedges, with juice

1 teaspoon curry powder 1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon leaf thyme

14 teaspoon pepper

4 cup currents

21/2-3 pounds chicken, cut into parts Paprika

3 tablespoons flour

14 cup silced almonds 1 tablespoon currants

Combine onion, green pepper, garlic and 1 tablespoon water in 4-cup glass measure. Microwave on 100% power 3-4 minutes or until tender. Stir in tomatoes, curry powder, salt. thyme, pepper and currants. Arrange chicken pieces skin-side-up in 12x8-inch glass baking dish with larger pieces toward edge of dish. Spoon tomato mixture over chicken. Sprinkle chicken with paprika. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on 100% power 30-35 minutes or until chicken is

Combine ¼ cup water and the flour. Remove the chicken pieces to serving platter, add tomato mixture to flour mixture and stir until combined. Microwave on 100% power 2-3 minutes or until mixture boils and thickens. Serve sauce with chicken. Garnish with almonds and currants. Serve with rice, a green salad and Buttermilk Pie.

Southern cookery is not complete without a recipe for this traditional cake, first produced on the plantation.

SOUTHERN JAM CARE

1/2 cup butter or margarine

I cup sugar

35 cup seedless blackberry or raspberry jam

1 teaspoon cinnamon 1/2 teaspoon soda

1/2 teaspoon allspice

1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

14 teaspoon salt

14 teaspoon ground cloves 34 cup buttermilk or sour milk

Microwave butter in glass mixer bowl 4.1/2 minute or until softened. Blend in sugar. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Stir in jam and add remaining ingredients; mix on low speed first until blended.

Lightly oil a 12-cup glass or plastic tube pan. Sprinkle with sugar: shake out excess sugar. Pour cake batter into container, speading evenly. Microwave on 50% power 10 minutes, then microwave on 100% power 4-5 minutes or until no longer doughy. Cool 10 minutes. Invert onto serving plate. When cooled, sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Pepper to taste Combine all the ingredients. Cover and microwave on 100% power 10-15 minutes. Adjust seasoning to taste.

HOPPING JOHN

8 ounces dry black-eyed peas 3 cups water

11/2 cups onions 1/2 teaspoon pepper 14 teaspoon crushed red pepper

I large clove garlic 1 bay leaf

8 ounces salted pork, cut into 12 pieces

Rinse peas. Let soak overnight. Add onion. peppers, garlic and bay leaf. Cover and microwave on 100% power 9-11 minutes or until peas come to a boil. Stir in saited pork. Microwave, covered (30%) on simmer 25.30 minutes or until peas are tender; stir often. Remove bay leaf and pork before serving. Serve with rice.

Nurse's Photo Allows Grieving Parents To Remember Their Baby

DEAR ABBY: Almost five years ago we suffered the loss of our newborn baby. I later called the hospital, hoping the photographer had been there before he died, but was told, "We take pictures only of the healthy bables, not the sick ones in case they die." (They are the ones that should be taken first, in case they do die.) We grieved not only for the baby but also because we didn't even have a picture of him to keep. Then one day a picture arrived in the mail unexpectedly — a nurse had taken one, and a doctor who knew we had been asking about it sent it to us. How elated we were, and how grateful to that dear nursel

I have written the following to her, not only to thank her, but also to encourage other nurses in newborn nurseries to do the right away, it would be there for them if they changed their minds later.) We have met many parents now who'd give anything for a picture of their babies who died, but nobody thought to take one.

If you would print this, Abby. it might mean that hundreds of families will have pictures of their babies who might not otherwise. They, too, will be grateful to nurses, and to you. Sincerely,

ELSIE SIENBEN. BROCKTON, MASS. THANK YOU

TO AN UNENOWN NURSE

Somewhere there in the newborn nursery you go about your work, unaware that someone you have never met has thought of you in gartitude a thousand times. You took the only picture of a dying baby (or maybe it was after he was already dead).

Perhaps nobody required you to do it, but you did it anyway. because you knew it might be important to someone. Maybe same. (A picture can always be you knew his parents would left in the baby's file if he dies. want at least a picture of the baby they would never get to an invitation to a bridal shower take home. You might have known his mother was in another hospital recovering from her traumatic birth, that she handn't had a chance to really see him yet and maybe never would. Or maybe you just thought he deserved to be remembered.

> baby, and I will be eternally grateful to you. You have given my husband and me the opportunity to see our son, to count his 10 little fingers and 10 little toes as all new parents do, and find the features he inherited

The picture has allowed us to see ourselves in our child as we would have done for a lifetime had he lived; without your thoughtfulness, that chance would have been lost to us forever. You have acknowledged our precious baby, and in so doing you have given us a priceless gift we will treasure for the rest of our lives. Thank you, nursel

Popcorn Mecca Abuilding

By Vernon Scott UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - What better location for the planet's largest motion picture theater complex than on the world's biggest movie lot?

Hollywood, which likes nothing better than superlatives, is building 18 theaters under one roof on the grounds of Universal Studios, close by the famed Universal Amphitheater and the entrance to the studio's renowned tour center.

The Cineplex Odeon Cinemas of Universal City will accommodate 6,000 moviegoers on two levels, twice as much scating capacity as New York's famed Radio City Music Hall in Rockefeller Center.

Two of the new theaters will feature balconies and provide seats for 800 patrons. Others will be as small as 200 scats.

Each theater will offer widescreen, technologically advanced film projection and Lucasfilm THX sound systems.

According to MCA president Sid Sheinberg, cost of the supermovie complex will be upwards of $12 million.

The 120,000-square-foot showcase will put some of the glamour back in moviegoing with a 50-foot-high glassed-in atrium-lobby flanked by marble columns and two Paristennestyled cases overlooking outdoor floral gardens.

When the 18 new theaters open next summer they will boost California's theater total to more than 2,000 screens, almost double that of any other state. New York is second with 1,200 screens.

There are 22,384 screens in the United States and Canada, some 80 percent of them the property of theatrical chains. The largest of these is Cineplex Odeon with 1,350 screens in approximately 460 locations.

No one can deny that movies are on the upswing. In 1963 the number of theaters in North America had dropped to 12,652. In 1975 the National Organization of Theater Owners (yes, that's "NATO") began counting screens instead of theaters due to the growth of complexes with two or more auditoriums.

Cineplex's decision to construct its supercomplex on the Universal lot is appropriate inasmuch as MCA, Universal's parent company, owns 50 percent of Cineplex, a Canadian corporation.

Garth H. Drabinsky chairman, president and chief executive officer of Cineplex Odeon, says the chief concern of any theater operation is the flow of celluloid from Hollywood and Europe to keep its screens filled.

He sees a resurgence of quality films in the years ahead and believes that, as a result, movie theaters will continue to make a profit. "The product level has stabilized after years of ups and downs," said Drabinsky. "We play about 200 films in our theaters - not in all of them, of course - every year.

"Some theaters do fail every year and some aren't all that profitable. Success in the theater business is built on the quality of operation. ... You've got to provide something worthwhile on screen and in the theater itself if you ask people to pay $6 to see a motion picture."

Drabinsky is bullish about the movies' future. He said his firm will build an additional 400

Cineplex has been a pioneer in the "plex" or multi-theater nesting of screens in shopping malls and surburban centers.

'Multi-screened theaters give the public a choice and add excitement," he said, "If one film in a complex is sold out, the spillover is tempted to see one of the other films. The complex may be comparable to a supermarket for pictures.

'Box-office grosses slipped a little last year, but they are bouncing back this year. There is more enthusiasm for films now than in many years."

Veteran theater operator Robert W. Selig of Pacific Theaters (250 screens in California, Hawaii and Europe) echoes Drabinsky's optimism.

Selig, president of the Theater Association of California, says there are more motion picture screens operating today than in 1948, when post-war, pre-TV movie excitement was at its

"The official figures show there were 18,631 theaters in North America in 1948 and more than 22,000 today," Selig said.

"I don't know how that would work out on the number of seats available because the big dreadnought movie palaces with their huge auditoriums have all but disappeared.

"Today people prefer smaller auditoriums in shopping centers and malls where they shop, cat, buy gas and 'go to the show.'

Right now theater business is pretty healthy. I expect by the end of the year we may break the 1984 all-time record gross of $4 billion."

Selig credits the comeback to growing major studio production, abetted by increasing numbers of quality films from such rising independents as Tri-Star, Orion, De Laurentils and Cannon. He says the growth of the number of "after-markets" video cassettes, cable, free TV, pay TV - are fortifying the investment of filmmakers, encouraging them to turn out more and better movies by reducing screens or more in the next three the gamble on a return of their

The proliferation of avenues for seeing top movies suggests that theaters might suffer from the competition. Not so, says

"It's an interesting situation." he said. "The TV, cable and cassette purchase or rental outlets aren't hurting theaters any more than the 'Amos and Andy' radio show hurt movies back in the 1930s.

"The other outlets are playing the same movies we are, but later.

"People aren't going to stay at home all the time. Everyone has a kitchen to cook in, but they still go out to dinner - more than they ever did. It's the same, with movies. If what we exhibitors are showing is what the public wants to see, we can break box-office records."

Selig is candid about the importance of snack bars and food services in today's theaters.

"There wouldn't be theaters if it weren't for the refreshment! stands," he said bluntly. "The food concessions keep theaters open.

the oven and preheat to 375 degrees. Line a 9-by-13-inch baking pan with a double thickness of aluminum foil so the foil extends 2 inches beyond the sides of the pan. Butter the bottom and sides of the foll-lined

In the top of a double boiler set over hot but not simmering water, melt the chocolate, butter and dissolved coffee, stirring frequently until smooth. Remove the double boiler from the heat. Cool the mixture, stirring occasionally for 10 minutes.

In a large bowl, using a hand-held electric mixer set at high speed, beat the eggs for 30 seconds, or until foamy. Gradually add the sugar and continue clean. Remove from the oven

Reduce the mixer speed to low and gradually beat in the chocolate mixture until just blended. Using a wooden spoon, stir in the flour. Stir in the walnuts. Do not overbeat the mixture.

Transfer the batter to the prepared pan. Bake for 28 to 30 minutes, or until the foggies are just set around the edges. They will remain moist in the center.

Cool the foggles in the pan on a wire rack for 30 minutes. Cover the pan tightly with aluminum foil and refrigerate overnight, or for at least 6 hours. Remove the top foil and run a sharp knife along the edge of the Heavenly Broiled Mullet is table-ready in just minutes.

Broiled Fish A Real Delicasy For Tasty, Hasty Entertaining

Whether you are the family chauffeur. recreation director or a busy career woman, fall schedules are jammed with activities. Many times, entertaining doesn't have to. Plan a manu around delicious seafood from the Gulf and Southern Atlantic. Seafood is nature's convenience food. Most recipes can be prepared in 20 minutes or less. A real plus for today's active homemaker.

One of the ocean's delicacies most prized by the coast dwellers is the Black or Silver mullet. Until recently, the fine eating qualities of mullet have been limited to Southern palates. Fortunately, modern transportation and freezing methods have brought the rich nut-like flavor of mullet to many inland dinner

Sometimes called jumping mullet because of their remarkable leaps, mullet are popular around the globe. Mullet are often mentioned in many cultures, such as the Egyptian, Roman and Hawaiian, as a mainstay in the diet. This fish with such an extensive heritage has carned its reputation by providing delicious flavor and excellent nutrition at a low cost. Mullet travel in large schools and are caught in carefully laid gill nets. Although they are most abundant in the fall, mullet are harvested year 'round, assuring the consumer a steady supply of this tasty fish at budget-saving prices.

With simple ingredients usually found on hand, a dish with a gourmet's flair can be created in minutes in this recipe for broiled mullet. In "Heavenly Broiled Mullet," boneless mullet fillets are broiled almost to the done stage before a subtle topping of mayonnaise, Parmesan cheese, butter and green onions is added. The dish is then popped back under the broiler to complete the cooking and to turn the topping to a golden brown. Garnish with green onion curls, made by placing thinly sliced green onion tops in ice water, for an elegant party dish. For easy entertaining serve "Heavenly Broiled Mullet" buffet style accompanied by a crisp tossed salad, steamed green vegetables and hot crusty bread.

Plan your next get-together around seafood and get out of the kitchen and into the party, effortlessly.

2 pounds skinned mullet fillets or other fish fillets, fresh or frozen

2 tablespoons lemon juice 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese 14 cup butter or margarine, softened

3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad

3 tablespoons chopped green onion 14 teaspoon salt Dash liquid hot pepper sauce

Thaw fish if frozen, Place fillets in a single layer on a well-greased, 15x10inch bake-and-serve platter. Brush fillets with lemon juice and let stand for 10 minutes. Combine remaining ingredients. Broil fillets about 4 inches from source of heat for 6-8 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Remove from heat and spread with cheese mixture. Broil 2-3 minutes longer or until lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

Producer Usually Begins His Courtship Of A Star With An Elegant Meal He Prepares

By JOHN DeMERS UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) - Ismail Merchant's Indian food has into appearing in his films.

include "A Room With a View" along with such acclaimed carlier works as "Heat and necessity. Dust" and "The Bostonians." says he usually begins his courtship of a star with a meal picking up not only the customary check but the pots and pans

"It's not just following a cookbook step by step," said Merchant, comparing the creativity of cooking with that required to do a film. "They stroke the same creative fiber. and one is part of the other. Directing a scene from a film is exactly the same as directing a scene in the kitchen."

One distinct difference, according to Merchant's incredible new cookbook, is that a movie requires much more advance preparation.

The producer has convinced more than a few people for whom he would cook he was not showing up at all - only to sweep in with arms full of groceries, pass around a few drinks and hors d'ocurves and an hour.

'Ismael Merchant's Indian proven quite powerful over the Cuisine" (St. Martin's, $19.95), years luring actors and actresses several film executives and performers express amazement at Merchant, whose productions his talent for instant feasts.

Merchant, on the other hand, says the invention was born of

'When you have 20 appointments a day and in the evening you are inviting some friends, you have just 15 to 20 minutes to get together a meal," said Merchant, who divides his time between Manhattan, London, Bombay and a country home in Claverack, N.Y.

"This has led me to a very inspirational form of cooking.' Merchant says he discovered his love for preparing food as a child growing up in Bombay, where his father taught him to pick out the freshest vegetables. fruits and fish at the magnificent Crawford Market. He later did his grocery shopping in London's Covent Garden (before it was overrun with boutiques and cases) and in the ethnic ver the impact of changing times - and more significantly, changing neighborhoods - Merchant found the things he needed to cook.

4 Tbsp vinegar Heat the oil in a large heavybased frying pan over medium-high heat. When hot, add the chicken pieces. Turn them frequently until they are lightly browned on all sides, then remove them with a slotted spoon, shaking off all oil. Reserve the pieces. Stir the onions, garlie, cinnamon and ginger into the pan. lower the heat to medium and stir frequently until the onions begin to brown, 5 to 7 minutes. Return the chicken to the pan with the saffron-water and season with pepper and salt. Add the tomatoes and vinegar to the pan, cover and cook over low heat for 20 to 25 minutes, or until the meat is very tender. Serve with yellow turmeric rice. Serves 4.

14 INCH TRIM

Publix professional meat cutters trim all of our steaks, roasts, pork and lamb to not over ¼" average, so you always take home the leanest cuts possible. That means more meat for your food dollar, and more food value per serving. Look for "Nutri Facts" brochures and displays in your Publix meat department. They'll tell you how to choose delicious meat meals that are low in fat, cholesterol and calories but high in taste and nutritional value.

And look for your favorite cuts of Publix meat — always lean, always the best.
