

Bible School Ends Tonight

By MRS. RAYMOND MORRIS CASSELBERRY — Closing exercises, marking the end of the year Bible School, will be held tonight at 7:30 at the Community Methodist Church.

All departments of the school, comprised of 123 students, will open the program by singing the Pioneer song while marching to their places in the Church auditorium. The Rev. Darin A. Shea will give the invocation, and join with director Mrs. L. L. Wharley and Sunday School Supt. Harold Wood in extending greetings to all assembled for the program.

Several awards will be made to the five classes comprising the school, including awards for class efficiency, progress and attendance.

Mrs. Wharley expressed her appreciation for all dept. heads and teachers for this excellent cooperation in conducting the school. The final session of the 1957 Bible School here will be held tomorrow.

Runnerup Named State Citrus Queen

LAKELAND — Carol Baldwin, 18-year-old West Palm Beach beauty and Florida Citrus Queen elect, today was to be inducted into her new duties by the Florida Citrus Commission.

Miss Baldwin, a University of Miami sophomore and runnerup in the Florida Citrus Queen contest last February, was named to replace Frances Layton, 19, of Callahan, who resigned to marry former national water ski champion Dick Pope Jr. The wedding is scheduled July 27.

Miss Baldwin is a 5-foot 1-inch brunette and daughter of Frederick Vance Baldwin Jr. She was also runner-up in the 1956 Miss Dixie contest at Daytona Beach and will enter the contest again this year.

Miss Layton will officially surrender her title in Charlotte, N. C., at a citrus promotion telecast in connection with July 4 ceremonies.

Five Coal Miners Rescued Last Night From Cave

BLOOMINGDALE, Ohio — Five coal miners entombed for 14 hours by a cave-in were rescued Wednesday night through a shaft bored by a tremendous mine-digging machine.

It was believed the first time the machine, a giant auger developed to make coal mining more economical, ever was used in a rescue attempt.

The bit of the auger, 34 1/2 feet thick, and capable of boring 120 feet an hour, pierced 240 feet into the side of a Poughatun Coal Co. strip mine near here and hit "dead center" in a low chamber where the miners were trapped.

The men crawled to safety through the hole, the third bored, by the auger in the rescue effort, at 10:30 p. m. e.d.t. They had been trapped since 9 a. m. e.d.t. in a space 40 feet long, 4 1/2 feet high and 9 to 10 feet in width.

About 300 persons, including wives and children of the trapped miners, rescue workers and two priests, shouted joyously at sight of the rescued men.

"We never gave up hope, we knew that machine would get to us," said Kenneth Hamilton, 38, the first man out of the mine.

Behind him came Joseph Ruppinski, 38, Martin Kovalicki, 40, Henry Horvath, 36, and Fred Sale, 38.

None had suffered any injuries.

WASHINGTON — James M. Pickens of Somerset, Md., on becoming a father at 84:

Summer

munty life of Sanford. He explained that the program is a joint effort of the City and the County with comparable programs conducted city and countywide.

"We average 100 to 150 which is just right for the personnel," Angel said.

The recreation program is for fun, John Angel told Kiwanis Club members which makes possible a good time for youngsters during the summer months.

"The recreation program is getting to the youngsters that we know it should reach," he said.

Angel described the program that is being conducted now which includes, he said, horseback riding, archery, skiing, dancing and dance lessons, and bowling.

The recreation director surprised Kiwanis Club members with the fact that "many parents have called wanting to know why we don't have transportation for the youngsters. I wouldn't be exaggerating if I said 900 calls," Angel explained.

"What we are trying to do, Angel told the Kiwanis Club group, is to get children into groups that are easy to handle. "Our opinion is that the only way we should do would be to get a lot more money and a lot more personnel, so cut down on the number of children being handled by each one of the instructors."

"We have approximately 1,000 registered," Angel said.

"I believe, when I look over our people working in the recreation program this summer that we have people interested in a program that will be an asset to the City of Sanford."

Audrey Leaves 100-Mile Trail Of Disaster

Coast Hardest Hit

LAKE CHARLES, La. — Hurricane Audrey's deadly sweep through the defenseless coastlands of Louisiana and Texas left a 100-mile trail of dead, injured and missing today. The full extent of the tragedy may not be known for days. Capt. Allen Marshall, whose tug was around at Cameron a town that was almost drowned on the Louisiana coast said 87 persons were dead and 100 to 300 missing at Cameron.

A Lake Charles, La., weather bureau official told his superiors in Washington that 200 to 300 were dead around Cameron and Creole, La.

The Red Cross in Lake Charles, which is 30 miles north of Cameron, reported 35 dead or missing, but did not make clear exactly what area this figure covered.

It was known that 18 persons were killed and more than 100 injured in Texas and Louisiana before reports of a major tragedy began to filter in from the Louisiana coast.

Phone Lines Down As the hurricane crashed through the low-lying countryside along the Texas-Louisiana border, it tore down communications and power lines. Today, 24 hours after the storm struck it was still impossible to telephone many places in the storm area.

But reports radiated in from the coast told of Cameron vanishing in the storm, except for its courthouse, and of survivors waiting on rafts to be picked up by rescue boats rushing down from Lake Charles and untouched points along the coast.

CDR. L. B. LIBBEY AND CDR. R. C. Knight. Cdr. Knight will assume command of VAH-7 at the Sanford Naval Air Station Monday morning at a change of command ceremony to be held at 8 a. m. (Official U. S. Navy Photos)

Cdr. Knight Will Relieve Libbey As C. O. Of VAH-7

Commander Robert C. Knight, USN, will relieve Commander Lester B. Libbey, USN, as Commanding Officer of Heavy Attack Squadron Seven on July 1, at 0800 at the U. S. Naval Air Station, Sanford. Friends and families of the squadron personnel have been invited to witness the traditional ceremony, which will be preceded by a captain's personnel inspection.

Commander Knight comes to the squadron from the staff of the Commander, Naval Striking and Support Forces, Southern Europe. He is a native of Cincinnati, although he has spent many years in and near Baltimore, Maryland. Commander Knight attended Ohio State University and the U. S. Naval Academy where he was graduated in late 1941. Taking command of the squadron is for him the renewal of an old relationship, as he was in the original commissioning detail when the squadron was put into commission on August, 1950 at Moffett Field, California. He is married to the former Patricia Ross of Cincinnati, and they have three sons, Robert C. Jr., Warren V., and Stephen G.

Commander Libbey became Commanding Officer of the squadron while it was deployed to Port Lyautey, French Morocco, on December 15, 1953, and he led the squadron back to Sanford. He has orders to the Fleet Training Center, San Diego, California for pre-commissioning training after which he will proceed to Bermuda, Washington to be the Executive Officer of the U. S. S. Midway when that carrier is placed in commission. During his command, Heavy Attack Squadron Seven won its second consecutive Battle Efficiency "E" awarded by the Commander Air Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet. He is married to the former Mary Thomson of Annapolis, Maryland, and they have four daughters.

C. 'Bubba' Locke Succumbs Today

Claude C. "Bubba" Locke, 47, passed away at the local hospital at 3:10 p. m. this morning after an illness of two months.

Mr. Locke was born Sept. 12, 1909, in Sanford and made his home at 609 West First St. with his mother, Mrs. H. C. Waters. He is a member of the First Methodist Church of Sanford and was employed by Odham and Tudor, Inc.

Survivors include: the wife, Mrs. Ethel Locke of Bristol, one daughter, Sena Lock, Bristol; his mother, Mrs. H. C. Waters of Sanford; two brothers, William L. Locke of Henderson, Ky., and Raymond W. Locke of Jacksonville, N. C. and the U. S. Marine Corps; one aunt, Mrs. A. P. Randy of Sanford and an uncle, D. C. Griffin, Sanford.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at Brison Funeral Home with Dr. R. E. Rutland of the First Methodist Church officiating.

Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Test Turns Into Dud As Device Fails To Fire

Second Detachment From 7 Readies For Deployment

A second detachment from Heavy Attack Squadron Seven is leaving now for deployment with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean, this one aboard the U.S.S. Randolph.

A previous detachment aboard the U. S. S. Lake Champlain is preparing to return. At the same time, a "skidion crew" is operating at Naval Air Station, Sanford. These commitments test operational and administrative procedures to the limit, but are taken in stride by VAH-7, wartime winner of Navy Battle Efficiency "E".

For the operations department, readying a detachment means training crews in flight and on the ground. The job for Maintenance is to keep the planes flying at peak efficiency. Supply coordinates the flow of propellers and paper clips to the right places. Administration keeps service records, requests, and reports in shape. All these are realized as deployment time approaches.

The current detachment, under command of Lieutenant Commander Herschel M. Cummins as Officer-in-Charge, participated in the International Naval Review aboard the Randolph. One of the squadron airplanes, No. 11, appears trimly on the flight deck of the Randolph in the June 24th issue of LIFE magazine.

Man Still Driving 30-Year-Old Car; In Top Condition

"I've been in some pretty close places but I have never been hit by one," said Bill Harris, 73-year-old Negro who still operates a Ford car which he bought 30 years ago today.

Harris, who lives at 813 West 13th St., bought his car on June 29, 1927 in Manatee, and this morning displayed the sales receipt.

According to the receipt he paid $21.65 for the automobile and by day, he said, there are two of the original light bulbs on the car working, one in a headlight and one on the dashboard.

Harris has never been arrested for a traffic violation and has never had an accident.

"My car is just as it was when I bought it 30 years ago," he said. And he also has a record of the number of times he had changed tires on the road. According to his figures there were 11 instances when the tires had to be changed. "I've lived all these years and I've really enjoyed them," said the Negro carpenter, "and I have never been arrested or picked up on suspicion."

Police Chief Roy G. Williams was present at the time of the interview with Harris and compared the two cars, the chief's writer and the Negro's 30-year-old Ford. "There's sure a lot of difference in them," he said. Harris has lived in Sanford for 43 years.

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev.

An atomic device short-circuited and failed to fire today, turning the scheduled sixth nuclear test of the 1957 series into a potentially deadly dud before American and foreign correspondents.

The Atomic Energy Commission hastily evacuated 2,000 Marines from trenches and 300 observers including scores of foreign newsmen from the observation point on Nevada.

Then the AEC had to choose a team of volunteers to disarm the dud which was perched atop a 300-foot steel tower on Yucca Flat.

Five Boys' State Delegates To Talk Monday At Rotary

Five young men representing a like number of local organizations at Boys' State at Tallahassee this week, will tell of their experiences at the regular meeting of the Sanford Rotary Club Monday noon, at the Yacht Club.

Sidney Viblen Jr., sponsored by Rotary; Al Collins by Kiwanis; Pat Donahoe by Elks; Richard Phagan by Jaycees; and Dickie Rountree by the Lions Club will inform the Rotarians of the proceedings of the comprehensive course in citizenship which filled their time from early morning until late at night during the five day session in the capital city.

Charlie Morrison, who arranged the program, will present the youths to the club, according to club president Myron A. (Mike) Reck who will preside at his first meeting of the 1957-58 year.

Duda To Be Issued Airport Site OK

An airport site approval will be issued on July 11 to A. Duda and Sons in Slavia, according to a release from the Florida State Development Commission.

The notice stated that the site has been inspected for "personal-use" by the commission.

It was the second mis-firing in the history of Nevada proving grounds experiments where 30 previous blasts have been set off. The last similar miscue was five years ago.

Power Failure An official AEC announcement said the non-detonation at 4:45 a. m. was apparently caused by a "failure of power to reach the device."

Seventeen AEC technicians and members of a Navy radiological team were forced to remain inside a steel dogleg less than 1.2 miles from ground zero until the device was disarmed. They had been scheduled to perform a radiation decontamination exercise after the blast. But because they were so close the AEC didn't dare move them out immediately.

All electrical circuits were turned off and all forms of electronic battery devices capable of emitting signals were barred from the scene to prevent a stray impulse from activating the firing circuit.

But the scientists did not know to what point the firing mechanism had carried the experiment. If it was at the threshold of firing with the two nuclear masses almost in position to make the contact that would set off the fission reactor, the slightest jar could complete the circuit. The scientists said frankly they did not know in advance just where they stood. The disarming team had to find out.

3 Men Appointed Ensigns Today

Three Navy men heard orders read this morning at an inspection of VAH-5 at the Sanford Naval Air Station appointing them as Ensigns.

Cdr. Joseph M. Tully Jr., Commanding Officer of VAH-5, congratulated Jack Allen, Bill Foull, and Ed Gold on their appointment as officer candidates. They will attend school in Newport, R. I. sometime this summer and graduate as commissioned officers.

Two Make Plane Flight To Cuba

W. H. Bruce and Neil Phillips returned yesterday after making an airplane flight to Havana, Cuba.

The two local men are members of the New Smyrna Beach Flying Club.

The flight was made in a Piper Cubover at a speed of approximately 105 miles per hour.

Bruce, an engineer with the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, and Phillips, a Seminole High School student were pilot and co-pilot of the plane.

The 33-year-old pilot holds a pilot's license while Phillips is training for his license.

Boaters Urged To Be Careful Over Holiday

With the 4th of July holiday close at hand, Chief of Police Roy G. Williams today voiced a timely new suggestion to save lives over the long weekend—and all summer.

"Many of our citizens will be among the thirty millions of Americans of all ages who enjoy the invigorating and pleasant sport of boating. It is one of the safest forms of recreation, yet just as motoring has its irresponsible 'hot-rodders' and 'drag-race show-offs' so does boating have a few smart-aleks who imperil the safety of themselves and others," he declared.

Chief Williams added that "out of a desire to curb the outlandish and exhibitionistic behavior of this reckless minority has sprung a new idea — 'Thumbs Down Means Don't Clown!' The objective is simply to discourage dangerous antics by giving the familiar 'Thumbs Down' gesture to the offender."

Public safety authorities suggest that whenever someone sees a person who makes a pest of himself by clownish behavior in or around a boat, or for that matter in an auto on the highway, give the unmistakable (Continued on Page 3)

Market Commodity Report Revealed

Produce valued at nearly $5 million was sold through the Sanford State Farmers' Market during the year 1956-57, according to the year-end commodity report of Sanford's "one stop loading center" for fresh fruits and vegetables.

The report, issued today, shows that 1,885,826 packages of Florida products at a valuation of $4,711,377.55 were sold at the Sanford State Farmers' Market.

"Our out-of-state produce and fruit season ended April 3 due to the disastrous fire," said Sandy Anderson as he revealed the figures from this year's commodity report.

Total sales for the season, Florida and out-of-state came to 1,949,499 packages at a gross valuation of $4,909,379.50.

"There are two reasons why we failed to exceed last season in volume and valuation," Anderson explained. They were: the extremely low market on potatoes and the disastrous fire which eliminated three of the large dealers on the market as of April 3.

Highest valuation on the market this season, it was revealed, was for oranges which was $1,140,829.50.

Dealers at the Sanford State Farmers Market sold cabbage in excess of $800,000, with celery running second in volume at a valuation of $444,794.05, and peppers brought dealers a total of $330,395.85.

Out-of-state volume was big in tomatoes with $199,143.10 and $3,222 in lemons.

There was a total of 41 varieties of produce brought in to the Sanford State Farmers Market and 53 varieties of Florida products moved from the local market platform.

A new church building is being planned the construction of which will get underway in the near future. Property on which the church will be constructed was donated to the church.

Officers of the church include: H. V. Nelson, chairman; J. A. Hunt, Superintendent of the Sunday School; Mrs. V. J. Robbins, corresponding secretary; R. C. Whitmore, financial secretary; and V. J. Robbins, treasurer.

Now Hear This!
 JACKY FENWICK

Everyone seems to have forgotten it, but this coming Monday night, at 8:00 p.m., at the U.S. O., there will be a meeting of the Enlisted Men's Wives Club! Betty Miller, the club's president, called me when she thought of it, and I'm sure there are others that might not have realized that two weeks have passed since the last one. All the members still in town are urged to attend as there are so many that are away at this time. Don't think any special program has been planned, but there will be some club business that has to be taken care of, so do try and make it.

Also a reminder that there is a dance at the E. M. Club tonight, June 28. Kind of late notice about this, but no one informed me, and the first I knew about it was when I saw the posters up at the Navy Exchange when I was out, near yesterday morning! If you like "hill-billy" music, this is for you! Lots of entertainment is planned in the persons of the Roborn Brothers and the "Crazy Mountain Boy!" But don't stay home because you think it will be all "folk" type music. It won't! They'll play any kind you want to hear. In addition to all this, there will be door-prizes given away by taking about $100.00! Free sandwiches, coffee, seven-up, and potato chips will be served, though you'll have to pay for the "other kind of beverage!" Herbert Smith just took over the club officially the other day, and he deserves the support of ALL enlisted personnel in making successful parties such as this one. I've said this before, and I'm worth saying again. This is YOUR club, so get there and support it, and surprise yourself and have a good time! It will be under way at 8:00, and last until 2:00! (Real nautical, huh? Well, then, 8:00 p.m. until 12 midnight!)
 Incidentally, the door-prizes will include such things as a portable radio, a 400-day clock, a man's watch, an electric fan, (what a pleasant thought!), and fishing gear! It might be well worth your while to go, so how about it?

Three men were honored with a full-dress inspection of the entire complement of men of VAH-5, at 7:30 a.m. this morning, at the Naval Air Station. The three are Edward Gold, William Foulk, and Jack Allen, who today advanced from the enlisted ranks to become officers in the United States Navy. They received their commissions from Mr. Joseph Tully, commanding officer of VAH-5. I'd like to add my congratulations to these men, as I feel privileged to know them all personally. Bill and Jack were both ACC's and Ed was an AQC. Understand that all those who made L.D.O. this time are to be honored with a "steak" party tonight at Lake Golden.

An interesting fact that might be pointed out at this time is that VAH-5 has more L.D.O.'s than any other squadron in the Fleet! (L.D.O. means Limited Duty Officer.)

VAH-7 had an "All Hands" picnic at Lake Golden on Tuesday. The food was served at lunch-time, and included hot dogs, potato salad, and the things that go with them. Games were arranged for the "kids", and I might add that this was for the families of those men in VAH-7 who are in the detachments that are deployed at the present time. Glad they weren't forgotten.

Mrs. Luther C. Barnes and her four children, are in Wade, North Carolina. Mrs. Barnes, Kenneth, Wesley, Jean, and Luther Jr. will be there for approximately another month, at which time Chief Barnes, of VAH-5, will take a couple of weeks leave to go up and bring them back.

Sorry to hear that Chief William C. Wright is in the Naval Hospital in Jacksonville. His wife and children are living here in Sanford on 25th Street, and it must be so hard on Mrs. Wright not being able to visit him every day. Hope I'll have some good news about him shortly.

Chief John Boniface made it home again last week-end! Leona Boniface, and their two sons still live here in Sanford, while John is on duty with VF-103 at Cecil Field, in Jacksonville.

You might be interested to know that Chief Bill Dyon who opened the "Squire Shop" on Sanford Ave., now carries uniforms and ribbons, (the military kind,) and they also do alterations. Bill's wife Ann spends most of her time in the shop, and will be glad to help you at any time. (I grant you, that does sound like a commercial, but I haven't even talked with Bill about the shop since he first opened it.)

Congratulations go out to Benny Slaughter, AQ3, of VAH-11. He just presented Helen Hampton with a diamond ring, and they plan to be married in the late Fall. Helen works at the Florida State Bank, and lives in Geneva, North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. McClellan have just purchased the former home of Lt. D. W. Kennedy on Sunset Drive, in Loch Arbor. The McClellan's two daughters are visiting their grandparents in South Carolina, and Chief and Mrs. McClellan plan to go up there about the first week in July to bring them home.

Chief Bill Tanner recently transferred from VAH-9 to Hatwing I. Bill will be keeping house for himself this coming week as Clara and little Sylvia are going to Miami, and Susan goes to camp. Clara is going down to take care of a friend who is recovering from an operation. Bill's parents live in Miami, and she hopes to bring them back with her for a visit. I've told you about Bill, and the beautiful job he did adding a Florida room onto their home; and now he is working on the lawn! This he does in direct competition with the neighborhood dogs. (and his own.) who delight in digging up what he's just completed. I get tired just watching that man work!

I shall definitely make it a point to "gripe" on a regular basis!!! See the results? Just can't seem to give enough thanks to those of you who took my plea to heart and have helped me out. Please keep up the good work. I enjoy doing this column when I have things to write about, so all news is greatly appreciated.

As I've said before, I am constantly surprised, and very, very pleased at the number of people who take the time to read this column. And I think it has a lot to do with the kind of life we Navy families lead here in Sanford. I'd be willing to bet that it differs enormously from any other place you've ever been stationed; it certainly does for us! And I think it's because of this difference, mainly the way this town has accepted the Navy, that we actually have an interest in what other Navy families are doing. I suppose too, it has something to do with the fact that this is a smaller base than most, (though I'm sure more important in many ways,) and we are apt to know more Navy people than we do in other places.

So now that I have thoroughly confused you with my "thinking out loud," about WHY people read this column, I will bring this to a close.

To Wrap Up For Easy Picnics

Ready for the big holiday picnic—frankfurters all dressed up in a smart new wrap. Crisply roasted frankfurters, served in piping hot bakers' buns, are the easiest food to serve when picnic guests number quite a few.

Let's give the picnic favorite—frankfurters in a bun—a festive air and serve them as Frankfurter Kabobs between bakers' buns, split and buttered. The frankfurters, quartered and strung on skewers, are in the good company of sweet pickles and Bermuda onion wedges. If a strip of bacon is securely wrapped around the combination, the food is prevented from disastrouly tumbling off into the coals. To accent the full flavor of the kabobs, which are dipped in a barbecue sauce before grilling, be certain to heat the buns. They may be wrapped in foil, or placed in a covered pan, and set on the edge of the grill to heat.

When the aroma of sizzling meat, the fragrance of warm buns and scent of wood coals permeate the scene, appetites will soar and everyone will want to string and wrap his own kabob.

Frankfurter Kabobs
 4 frankfurters (about 1/2 pound)
 4 whole sweet pickles
 1 large onion
 8 slices bacon
 1/2 cup barbecue sauce
 1/2 sliced frankfurter buns

Cut each frankfurter into 4 equal-sized pieces and each sweet pickle in half, crosswise. Cut onion into 8 equal-sized wedges. Dip skewers in salad oil. Fasten end of 1 strip bacon on skewer, then arrange 2 pieces of frankfurter, 1 piece of pickle and 1 wedge of onion on each of 8 skewers. Wrap filled skewer with bacon strip and fasten it at other end. Dip 2 tablespoons barbecue sauce over each kabob. Broil over outdoor grill until bacon is done, turning frequently. Slide grilled kabobs into heated frankfurter buns, without basting at once.

Yield: 4 Frankfurter Kabobs

 MEMPHIS (AP)—Since no one has ever convinced them to take back eggs, once they've laid them, the city of Memphis had quite a problem when they found itself 306,000 eggs left over from the school lunch program.

It was finally decided to scramble them with sugar and freeze them. They'll be used to make cake and cornbread next year.

Pioneering Theme Is Used To Close Bible School Today

CASSELBERRY — Pioneering for Christ was the theme of the Summer Bible School which terminated today at the Community Methodist Church. Outdoor decorations and props, including a replica of the Conasaoga Wagon, provided authentic atmosphere, and setting, representing the pioneer spirit. Mrs. L. L. Wherley, director of the school, in pioneer language was a guide. The Rev. Darwin A. Shea became a circuit rider and his helpers were sent forth by Mrs. Wherley, the Rev. Shea and assistant director, Harold Wood, and helpers, were designated as ranch foremen. The school's nursery department was headed by Mrs. Richard Merrick. She was assisted by Mrs. Jack Simpkins, Mrs. Wally Cross and the Misses Eleanor Ferrell, Frieda Bull, Gail Austin and Gloria Gary. Mrs. William Simpkins was supt. of the kindergarten department and was assisted by Mrs. Richard Kaiser and the Miss

Oviedo Swimming Pool Busy Place

OVIEDO — The Oviedo swimming pool is quite a popular place these days. Coach Paul Mikler again heads the Recreation School for the Oviedo youngsters. They registered last Monday and on Monday, Wednesday and Friday they are at the pool for their activities. The other days they are at the school. Mr. Mikler is assisted by Miss Nancy Myers a Junior at Florida Southern, Mrs. Kay Bates, a 1937 graduate of Oviedo High, and Jimmy Brookshire, a Junior at Oviedo High and Miss Carolyn Anderson, music teacher. In addition to the Oviedo Recreation youngsters, Titusville brings two bus loads of youngsters to the Oviedo pool each day for their summer recreation program. They have been coming to the Oviedo pool for quite some time. Kenneth Malcolm, a graduate of the Oviedo High School in the 1933 class, is the new operator of the pool, Ken is kept quite busy. I am sure, for he also operates a service station. Last December Ken married Miss Georgia Dishman, of Oviedo, and built a new home here.

Woman Watches As Husband, 2 Sons Drown In Ocean

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. — Mrs. R. C. Harrelson, 40, and her two sons drowned in the surf here Thursday before the horrified eyes of their wife and mother. The Harrelsons were on a short vacation at the ocean resort here from their home in Tabor City, N. C. Witnesses said Harrelson apparently saw one of his sons in distress and rushed into the ocean to help him. But apparently Harrelson stumbled over the other son. The boys were identified as Sterling, 8, and Whitney, 6. Mrs. Harrelson was in a cottage as her husband and sons frolicked on the beach. She was attracted to the porch by the noise and went outside in time to see her husband and sons drowning. A helicopter from the Myrtle Beach Air Force Base, searching for the bodies, crashed into the ocean when its motor quit. Capt. Ronald Ingraham, 25, dived the helicopter into the water when he saw it might plunge on about 20 life guards swimming in the search. Ingraham and his two crewmen, Lt. L. C. Scoggins, 23, and T. Sgt. L. M. Tilton, 27, were not injured.

39 Held In Jail

Chief Deputy James Singletary reported this morning that there were 39 being held in the Seminole County Jail as of midnight last night. There were six new prisoners brought in, four were released. Of the total there were eight white males, 24 colored males, one white female, four colored females, and one white male incompetent being held.

Approximately 30,000 New Laws Will Be On Books By Year's End

Whatever else Americans think of their Founding Fathers, they pay little attention to the old admonition that government is best which governs least. Adding new laws to the imposing weight of the statute books seems to be one of the great American pastimes.

During the first five months of 1957, Commerce Clearing House reports, 81,646 bills were introduced in the various state legislatures. That is almost as many as were introduced during the full 12 months of the last great legislative year, 1955. It is estimated that by the end of 1957 the total of bills introduced will have risen to an all-time high of more than 90,000.

Not all of these bills will become law, naturally. But if the percentages of recent major legislative years hold true, there may be close to 30,000 new laws on the books by year's end.

Some of these laws will be good ones, some will be bad, some will have little impact either way. It is a safe guess that state legislatures will go through essentially the same procedures again in 1959.

Americans are bears for legislative punishment.

'Uniform Gifts To Minors Act' Amendment

If, even a few years ago, you had wanted to give a share of corporation stock to a minor, you were faced with weighty legal problems in virtually every state. In many states, it was necessary for a court to appoint the minor's own parents as a legal guardian to sell securities given to a child. Or else it was necessary for a parent to establish a trust in behalf of the minor—a cumbersome and sometimes costly legal procedure.

Barriers such as these, many believe, were wrong and had outlived whatever need there may have been for them long ago. So, in 1955, model legislation known as the "Uniform Gifts to Minors Act" was prepared by the New York Stock Exchange and sponsored by the Association of Stock Exchange Firms. Up until now, legislation eliminating the red tape which previously accompanied giving securities to minors has been passed by 33 states (including Florida), Alaska and the District of Columbia—areas with a population of about 110,000,000.

The new laws provide for an outright gift of stock to a minor simply by registering it in the name of an adult as custodian for the child. The importance of this has been explained by President Keith Furston of the New York Stock Exchange in these words: "For one thing, shareownership gives our youngsters a practical course in economy. Too many schools are failing to teach the basic facts about our economy and our free enterprise system."

"Second, a share of stock in one of the country's leading corporations not only gives young people a tangible stake in the nation's business but also established a nest egg which may have significant growth potential."

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

By WILLIAM RITT, Central Press Writer

THIRTY baseball playing members of the House of Representatives—19 Democrats and 11 Republicans—are training in Florida for their annual charity game. Let's hope they have better luck than the Washington Senators.

Those Democrats always seem to be in the majority—on the ball field as well as in the House.

Who says the world isn't getting better? The town of Seminary, Miss., has sold its long empty jail for junk.

Soviet scientists claim they've upped egg production by some 30 per cent by subjecting chickens to ultraviolet ray treatments. To the little red hen this must seem some new kind of shell game.

Denmark has been the site of more wars than any other nation, declares an historian. Sounds like a mighty dangerous country!

A survey by several department stores shows older clerks out-sell younger ones. Let's have more talk about shopworn veterans!

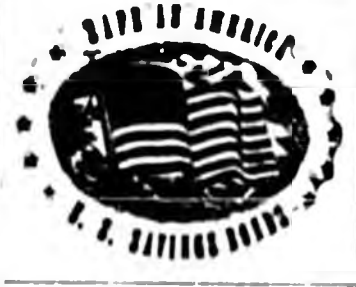

If everyone ate a good breakfast, declares a dietitian, this would be a lot happier world. Provided, of course, there'd be no such thing as soggy bacon, burnt toast and cold coffee.

SPEAKING OF DISARMAMENT—!

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN, United Press Staff Correspondent

Soviet Russia is showing signs of serious anxiety over the nuclear weapons situation.

For one thing, it is hardly likely that unless the Soviet government had been worried it would have accepted, after years of refusal, the principle of aerial inspection to guarantee compliance with any agreement to suspend nuclear weapons tests.

Anxiety seemed shown also by the series of dire threats which Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin made to Allied countries if they permitted the establishment of guided missiles bases on their territory.

Gromyko Complains
The latest indication of Soviet anxiety was given on Tuesday by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Gromyko summoned foreign correspondents in Moscow to his office to complain with unusual bitterness against a statement made by Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of Atlantic Treaty forces.

It had been disclosed on June 22 that Norstad told a congressional committee that if Russia started a war, the Allied forces could destroy all essential Soviet military targets.

Gromyko said that Norstad's statement was not the "mere staving of a boastful general" but part of a plot to block a disarmament agreement. He complained especially that the statement came at a time when partial agreement on disarmament seemed possible at last.

Gromyko did not mention the fact that Norstad had said that the Allies never would start a war and that he did not believe Russia would start one either because of Allied power of retaliation.

Have Good Reason
He did mention the recent statement of Nikita S. Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist leader, that Russia had perfected a hydrogen bomb so powerful that it could not be tested "because neighboring countries might suffer."

The fact is that Russian leaders have good reason to be worried over what might happen in a third world war.

From the Allied viewpoint, the evident Russian anxiety is certainly a good thing.

It is Allied striking power alone that has induced the Soviet government, in a radical departure from its policy of secrecy, to accept the principle of aerial inspection which alone can guarantee compliance with any disarmament agreement.

Time was when the fact that a child had a sore throat and a slight fever was enough to make his frightened parents immediately summon the doctor. These familiar symptoms were readily recognized as possible diphtheria by virtually everyone.

Also, there were few persons who didn't take advantage of the protection offered by the toxoid medical science had developed to save them.

But who thinks about diphtheria these days? How many persons do you know who have been stricken with the disease? This is precisely our problem.

Not Licked Yet
We haven't had one case of diphtheria in Chicago for several years. But diphtheria isn't licked yet. Some 2,000 cases are reported throughout the country every year. Furthermore, studies indicate that 25 to 50 per cent of our adult population may be susceptible to the disease!

When diphtheria was more prevalent, persons who acquired immunity either from the toxoid injections or from having the disease were immune to the disease. But now, because of the widespread use of the toxoid, many persons who have been vaccinated are immune to the disease.

How Long Immune?
Frankly, we don't know just how long immunisation from diphtheria will protect a specific individual; but you can't count on it lasting any more than three to four years.

Seldom do we suspect diphtheria in a community until someone has died from it. By that time it's too late for the community as well as for the victim.

Just remember this—diphtheria acquired today is just as fatal (8 to 9 per cent) as it was 30 years ago.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q. V: Can vitamins kept in the refrigerator lose their potency?
A: No. Preserving usually preserves rather than harms them. Excessive heat can be detrimental to vitamins.

Diphtheria's Still Dangerous Disease

By HERMAN N. BURDISEN, M.D.

SOMETIMES you can do a job disease in a recognized or unrecognized form, kept their immunity throughout life.

By being exposed to the disease much of a rarity is complicating from time to time, they received its complete control. We have natural boosters. Today, there is done such a good job of stamping out this dread disease that all too few persons now regard it as a serious threat.

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

Stories of courage in the face of adversity are not uncommon, but now and then we encounter one so astounding and inspiring that it stops us in our tracks and makes us realize how fortunate we are and how trivial and meaningless in comparison are the problems we fret and worry about.

At the age of 32 Mrs. Genevieve Ferris of St. Petersburg was happily married and the mother of a little girl nearly four years old. She had a radiant personality and her life seemed secure.

The polio struck and Mrs. Ferris was hospitalized. For two long years medical science did the best it could for her, but it became evident she would be another cruel blow and she lost her husband while still helpless in the hospital.

When finally released her right leg was damaged, her breathing difficult and she was so paralyzed that she did not have the use of arms or hands. The polio Foundation and the department of Vocational Rehabilitation sent her to the Woodrow Wilson Rehabilitation Center in Virginia where she was taught how to care for the daily demands of living.

How could a person so handicapped ever hope to secure employment or in any manner become even partially self-supporting had the will and courage to carry on under such circumstances?

See applied to Goodwill Industries in St. Petersburg, the organization that is helping so giving them employment at some type of work they are still able to perform despite their particular handicap.

In their shops and studios in St. Petersburg, Jacksonville and many other cities throughout the country you find thousands of livelihood restoring furniture, electrical appliances, clothing and many other items that have been given to the organization. When restored they are sold in Goodwill stores and the money received helps pay the workers and maintain the organization. It is a wonderful work and worthy of your full support.

But what could even Goodwill, Inc. offer a woman unable to use her arms or hands. What asset did she possess that might be employed in some manner. Analyzing her case, two things stood out, her wonderful personality and cheery voice.

There was a need for someone to phone selected names in an effort to secure donations of material that would be used in the work shops, but how could Mrs. Ferris use a telephone?

Peninsular Telephone Co. engineers found the answer. An executive type phone and microphone, took care of speaking and hearing. Floor switches and foot dial made it possible for her to call numbers with her feet. But it was necessary to record the information on a typewriter. To do this Mrs. Ferris holds a pencil in her teeth and with it taps out the necessary information on a typewriter equipped with a continuous roll of paper.

Because of her amazing achievement toward rehabilitation Mrs. Ferris was chosen National Goodwill Worker of the year. She was sent to Washington where she was the guest of officials. Later this year she will be sent to the national convention of Goodwill Industries of America in Denver as Florida's official delegate where she will be the guest of honor at an annual banquet.

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN

Sunday Don and Polly Brubaker and children Tina and Tommy start on a tour of Florida. First leg is the weekly stop to see David, who is in the Harry Anna Crippled Children Home in Umatilla. From there they will go to the west coast. Pensacola and New Orleans had been prominent in the original plans, but hurricanes Audrey discouraged them. Miami and the Keys will be the final goal, before breasting up the east coast. Hope Polly takes her sketching pad with her and can capture some of Florida's nature scenes.

Doc Linker is back from Olathe. The navy wastes very little time though, and five hours after reaching Sanford, Doc was on his way to Norfolk to a conference.

John and Dodie King finished their six camping trip at Juniper Springs. It rained every day while they were up there, but they had a good time anyway. Seven year old Jody volunteered to have her picture taken with a black snake curled around her neck. In a few years she may be much in demand at Ross Allen's Snake Farm. Wish I had talented daughters. Mine collect bugs and turtles.

It seems these days are very quiet as far as social life is concerned. Most people are either making vacation plans, are gone or they like men—stay at home trying to do some reading in the heat or work on the garden while every thing is growing so well. At the moment I am a little discouraged. My flowers don't seem to do so well, but every tomato seed spilled from the garbage, watermelon seeds and other vegetables seem to spring up out of the ground. As far as the plants are concerned they could be growing in the very finest of fertilized soil, so well do they bear. Next year I shall have bouquets of purple eggplant, red tomatoes, green beans and squash. The only ones in my garden, four years old Patsy threw all my flower seeds outside the back door, where the traffic is heaviest. It is now apparent that they have all come up. My planting resulted in two or three rather sick looking marigolds. However there is no denying that I can certainly raise some geraniums. They may not bloom much, but the foliage is terrific.

The summer workshop for the Intermediate Girl Scouts starts July second. Those working for their Rambler Badge will meet with Mrs. James Buckler at Silver Lake Nine o'clock, July second is the time.

Camp Craft, instructed by Mrs. Fred Robb with Mrs. Downs assisting, will meet July seventh at 8:30 a.m. at Mrs. Robb's home. Swimming will be led by Mrs. D. W. Linker and will meet July tenth at 9:00 a.m. at the Christian Youth Building.

The aviation badge involves instruction and information about planes and airfields. Mrs. H. C. Francisco and Mrs. Norris Jordan will meet the girls at the Naval Air Station gate at 9:00 a.m. on July the thirteenth.

Please notify your leaders if you wish to participate. The girls will be pooled from all intermediate troops. Mrs. J. A. Fuller is the co-ordinator and leaders may contact her with the names of those who wish to earn any or all of these badges. Her number is FA 2-4272.

This is as good a time as any to make a plea for leaders in the Girl Scout and Brownie program. There will be another basic leadership course in November, but before then the neighborhood service team can give temporary training. It is unbelievable how the Girl Scout movement has grown in Seminole County. The Citrus Council, to which we belong, is relatively new. There are many girls on the waiting list. If any reader knows someone who would be interested in either leading a troop or being an assistant leader, please call Julia Chase (Mrs. Paul) Chase, neighborhood chairman. Also if you wish to put your child on the waiting list, you may call Mrs. Chase before the tenth of July and after that Mrs. D. W. Linker. The Chases are going to Cape Cod for the summer, and will not be back until Labor Day.

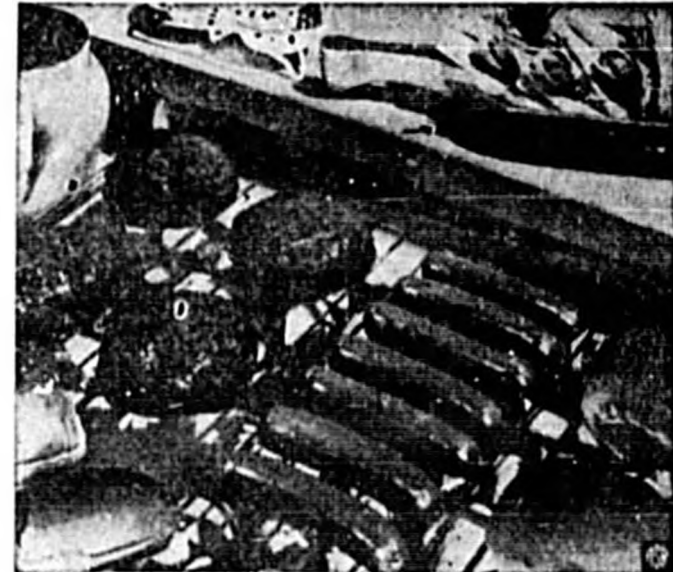

It is only fair that every girl have the opportunity to join the Scouts, if she wishes to do so. We get so many transfers in Sanford that sometimes girls new to scouting don't have much of a chance, since transfers are given preference. But all we need are a few leaders and help from mothers and everyone can be placed.

Blue Sky Cooking

By Maria Gifford

Red hot and hamburgers are "naturals" for outdoor cooking. Know why? They cook quickly, they require no advance preparation and the open-fire flavor is perfect for outdoor appetites.

Take along buns, coleslaw, baked beans and iced tea, and your picnic menu is complete. You may want to roast marshmallows for dessert just before the last embers die.

Buy open-fire flavored franks in 1-pound packages. These pork and beef franks are fully-cooked over fragrant wood fires, ready for quick heating on your grill. One pound of franks will serve three picnickers, allowing three franks per person.

Build the fire about an hour in advance of cooking time so it will burn down to glowing coals by the time you're ready to cook.

Red Hot Frankfurters
Dip frankfurters in barbecue sauce before roasting. To make sauce, mix together 1 cup tomato catsup, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce and 1/2 teaspoon tobacco sauce. Roast frankfurters only until lightly browned.

Glorified Hamburger Steaks
Add 1/4 cup cream, 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon chopped onion to each pound of ground beef. Shape 2 to 3 patties to the pound, patting them to 1-inch thickness. Place on rack 4 to 4 inches from glowing coals. Broil one side about 15 minutes, turn and season. Broil second side 5 to 6 minutes for rars, 10 minutes for medium rare and 15 minutes for well done.

SMOKE GRAY MUTED FLAID TAFFETA daytime dress in from Mollie Parnis' collection. The long torso midriff is encircled in black patent leather over an easy step-in full skirt. The dress is touched with crisp white linen Peter Pan collar and cuffs and black velvet tie.

For Summertime At Its Best, Enjoy Iced Coffee On The Patio

Summertime is patio-time! That's where you can catch every last bit of breeze and treat yourself to something altogether frosty and delicious. Iced coffee, of course, fits the bill and complements this hot-weather scene. Believe us, a handsome pitcher of iced coffee complements the friendliest back porch or the most formal terrace.

One of the most attractive and quickest methods of making iced coffee calls for coffee ice cubes. At breakfast time, brew a few extra cups of coffee and freeze them into ice cubes in your refrigerator tray. Then it's a simple matter to make iced coffee at anytime by pouring regular strength hot coffee over the coffee cubes. For each serving of regular strength coffee, you will need three-quarters of a measuring cup of water and one standard measure (or two level measuring tablespoons) of coffee.

When you are in a hurry, excellent iced coffee can be made by using extra strong coffee and regular ice cubes. Make coffee extra strong by using one-half a measuring cup of water to each standard measure of coffee. Pour the hot coffee over lots of ice cubes in tall glasses. The extra strong coffee allows for the dilution caused by the melting ice.

Instant coffee may also be used to make delicious iced coffee. Simply mix twice the usual amount of instant coffee with a little water (hot or cold according to brand) in each glass. Then add ice cubes and more water, stir thoroughly.

Simple sugar syrup makes one of the easiest and most delicious ways to sweeten iced coffee. The syrup goes into immediate solution with the frosty coffee and sweetens it completely.

ELECTRIC heat goes into the food—not into the kitchen. Direct contact between pan and heating element provides faster, therefore cooking... cleaner pots and pans... easier cleanup...

FLAME heat spills up around the pan... heats up the whole kitchen... increases humidity... wastes fuel and time... grimes pots and pans, walls and curtains. Many models require constant burning pilot, adding still more heat.

Wiffi Smith Is Rated To Win Women's Open

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor
MAMARONECK, N. Y. (AP)—A field of 32 professionals and amateurs teed off yesterday in the first round of the U. S. Women's Open golf championship with clubby Wiffi Smith, who has been playing the game for money only since January, rated as the one to beat.

Although six former champions are in the group, including defending titleholder Kathy Cornelius, the 20-year-old fraiche-faced links star from St. Clair, Mich., was the choice of the tournament-toughened veterans. This despite the fact that she has won only one tournament since she turned professional last January after winning the British and French Amateur championships.

That victory came in the Dallas tournament on the Ludies PGA winter tour. But they regard Miss Smith as one of the longest hitters in golf, a superb iron player and potentially a fine putter. And there are the three things it takes to play the par 37-43-73, 6244-yard east course at Winged Foot.

She was picked over Patty Berg, who won the first Women's Open 11 years ago; Mrs. Cornelius, who said she "has been playing badly;" Fay Crocker of Uruguay, one of the three foreign threats. In the field, and Betty Jameson, PGA champion Louise Suggs and Betsy Rawls, the former champions in the field.

The 22-year-old Miss Crocker; Mrs. Marlene Bauer Hages, winner of eight tournaments last year and the leading money winner on the tournament trail this season; the 39-year-old Miss Berg and Miss Suggs were among the other favorites.

Regular International League prices will be charged for the July 24 doubleheader at Al Lopez Field featuring Tampa and Daytona of the Florida State League and Miami and Havana of the International League. It was announced by Marshall Fox, General Manager of the Tampa Baseball Club.

Fox stated that advance ticket sales for the attraction are going strong and that fans are enthusiastic over the chance to see a regularly scheduled International League contest.

The doubleheader marks the first time that a Class AAA and Class D game has ever been put together on the same field. The first game which will start at 6 p. m., will feature Tampa against Daytona, Miami and Havana will play the second game.

Since Tampa owner Bill McDonald has expressed a desire to bring a higher classification of baseball to Tampa, the contest could serve as a jantelick to gauge future plans.

Many ex-big leaguers will be seen as members of the Havana and Miami teams. Top attraction is the one and only Satchel Paige, believed by many baseball experts to have been the greatest pitcher of all when he was in his prime. The ageless Paige is primarily a relief hurler for the Miami Marlins. Other Miami stars to be seen are Clyde McCullough, Bobby Young, Bubba Church, Cal Abrams, Whitey Herzog, Jack Mayer and Howie Judson.

The Havana team boasts such names as Angel Small, Ulis Alvarez, Daniel Morejon, Nino Escalera, Joe Hatten, Pat Scantebury on its roster, as well as highly regarded rookies, Orlando Pena and Miguel Cuellar.

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
MAMARONECK, N. Y. (AP)—Kathy Cornelius teed off yesterday in defense of the U. S. Women's Open as the champion nobody believes—and you can't blame her if she hardly believes in herself.

One year ago, a complete unknown, slender, brown-eyed Kathy came out of nowhere to win the Open golf championship. She did it the hard way, too, taking a playoff from Barbara McInibre of Toledo.

But since then, the friendly Floridian with the soft voice and easy smile has gone back nowhere.

"I haven't won a thing since I took the Open a year ago," she said soberly. "So I guess nobody expects me to do anything here at Winged Foot."

Games Coming Together
"I'm not saying I can't win it," she explained. "If I play well, I have a chance and I am encouraged by the fact that my game seems to be coming together again."

"But you just can't walk in against a field such as this," she added as she contemplated the 96 shotmakers arrayed against her, "and confidently expect to win first place."

Kathy, 24, started playing golf in the city recreation program of her native Lake Worth, Fla., when she was 13 years old. She played in her first junior tournament at 15 and in the National Juniors when she was 17.

Then she married Bill Cornelius, a Lake Worth golf professional, and he began to work on the game which carried her to the U. S. Open title last year. It was her first as a touring professional, although she had turned pro two years earlier, and she got a big lift out of winning the St. Petersburg tournament in February of 1956.

Draw A Blank
"But I drew a big blank right after that, too," she confesses. "The same kind of a blank I've been drawing for the past year. It made me work even harder going up to last year's Open just as I've been working harder going up to this one."

"But this life is a lot of fun," she bubbled, shrugging away her playing difficulties. "The thing I miss most is my daughter, who is with my parents at their summer home in South Carolina. Bill and I took her to a tournament at Gallatin, Tenn., but it was just too much. He had to take her to the zoo every day and just about walked his shoes off."

Bill as his walking out for him in the next three days, too. But this time I'll be with Kathy, because the champion nobody believes she needs his moral support as she tries to regain her belief in herself.

MUSIAL HAILS FELLER WELL MET

ST. LOUIS SLUGGER Stan Musial (right) gives some friendly advice to Steve Feller, 11, as the boy's father, former Cleveland pitcher Bob Feller, waits to testify at a hearing in Washington. Feller, president of the Major League Baseball Players Association, told a House Anti-Trust subcommittee that club owners treat players like "pawns" and backed "appropriate Federal laws." Musial, vice president of the baseball organization, disagreed and said, "Everybody likes the great game of baseball as it is." (International Soundphoto)

Western Open Gets Underway Yesterday

DETROIT (AP)—A field of more than 170, including half a dozen former champions, teed off yesterday in the first round of the 54th Western Open golf tournament at Plum Hollow Golf Club.

Slammin' Sammy Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Lloyd Mangrum, Apple Valley, Calif., both two-time winners, head the list of former champs.

The other previous winners are defending champion Mike Fetchick, Mahopac, N. Y.; Jimmy Demaret, Keweenaw Lake, N. Y.; Ed Oliver, Canton, Mass., and Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill.

A total of $25,000 in prize money will be doled out in the four-day, 72-hole Western Open, one of the nation's oldest golf tournaments.

Demaret, the colorful transplanted Texan whose raucous golfing feats make him a gallery favorite, is listed as "the man to beat" because he knows the 6,892-yard Plum Hollow layout well. The 45-year-old Demaret was head pro at Plum Hollow for two years starting in 1942.

TV Viewers May Have To Pay $1 To Watch Dodgers
WASHINGTON (AP)—Television viewers may have to pay $1 a game to watch the Dodgers in the near future, if the team remains in Brooklyn.

Walter O'Malley, team president, told the House Judiciary Committee Wednesday he had tentatively agreed to a deal with Siltatron, Inc. for pay-as-you see television of the Dodger games.

The "admission price" for each set owner probably would be $1 a game, said O'Malley, who added that the deal was not contingent on the team moving to the west coast. In fact, the negotiations were conducted on one condition: That the Dodgers remain in Brooklyn.

GUNLOCK by the prize-winning western novelist WAYNE D. OVERHOLSER

WHAT IS HAPPENING in the valley? Will it be the story of the West? It is the story of the West. It is the story of the West. It is the story of the West.

He glanced toward the house just as Dogbone was pushing Sarah's chair up the ramp beside the steps. She had completely ignored him, but that, I told myself, was exactly what Kathy must have expected.

Dodson walked along, his head down, and presently he said: "It'll be real bad now. There ain't a man in the valley who can do what Joe does."

"That's right," I said. We walked across the dusty yard to where the other ranchers stood, the air still and hot, the sun swinging down toward the Sangre de Cristo range. Then Dillingham came striding toward us with his rolling, bowlegged walk.

"I won't take more than a minute boys," he said. "Just seemed to me we'd best decide something while we're together. It ain't no secret that Joe does a lot of things for this valley being what it is. Soon as the farmers hear they don't have to buck him no more, they'll be back here by the hundreds."

CHAPTER 4
EVERYONE in the valley came to Joe's funeral, even Kathy Morgan. She stood by herself, away from the others, trying all through the service, Sarah, sitting in her wheel chair at the graveside, didn't shed a tear. I couldn't tell by looking at her whether she felt sorrow or not.

Dillingham looked stunned, I suppose I did, too. I was surprised to find I didn't feel intense grief, although I'm sure my emotions were not like Sarah's. I had loved Joe; I had respected him; but he wasn't a man whose death brought piercing sorrow.

I thought about that as the preacher talked, searching my heart and feeling a little guilty. Joe couldn't have been censured for any of his killings. The man who had come here had known the risks he was taking. Unlike the farmers who hired Al Beam, Joe had never dodged an obligation by hiring someone else to take his place.

I kept turning over in my mind the discovery I made about Joe. With all of his virtues, he lacked one important quality: pity. I'd never given it a thought while he was alive, but now I realized he'd been a hard, driving man, suffering from an overpowering sense of duty. Looking back across the years I'd lived here and worked with him, I couldn't remember a time when he had shown genuine sympathy for another man's trouble.

I was aware that the service was over when Gene Dillingham came to me and said, "Tell the ranchers I want to see them before they go, will you?"

I told them, eleven men ranging from Alec Dodson, whose Anchor was the biggest spread in the country, on down to the little ten-acre poverty outfit in the arid south of the valley. As I walked beside Dodson toward the corral, I saw that Dillingham had escorted Kathy to her rig. I glanced toward the house just as Dogbone was pushing Sarah's chair up the ramp beside the steps. She had completely ignored him, but that, I told myself, was exactly what Kathy must have expected.

Joan Collins and Rick Jason, co-stars with Jayne Mansfield and Dan Dailey in "The Wayward Bus," which starts Sunday at the Ritz Theatre, are shown here in a romantic mood. In this Twentieth Century-Fox CinemaScope version of John Steinbeck's novel, Miss Collins plays the role of the alcoholic wife of Jason, who drives the bus on his perilous journey. A strange group of passengers provide the drama which has many faces of passion and near tragedy. Charles Brackett is the producer and Victor Vicas directed.

'The Wayward Bus' Has Strange Cargo

There's a rickety bus leaving four times a day at the Ritz Theatre, starting Sunday on a perilous journey through thunderstorms, rock slides and over a bridge at a swollen river. It has the strangest passenger list famed novelist John Steinbeck could conceive. For those who want exciting and dramatic entertainment it is recommended that they buy a ticket for "The Wayward Bus" and go along for the ride. Producer Charles Brackett, who is an old hand at a myriad of tight pictures, (remember "The King and I") and Director Victor have fashioned an excellent drama out of Steinbeck's novel which has been a continuing best-seller since it was first published in 1946. Twentieth Century-Fox has given it a fine production in CinemaScope.

The principal players, Joan Collins, Jayne Mansfield, Dan Dailey, Rick Jason, Betty Lou Keim and Dolores Michaels bring into sharp focus the Freudian problems that trouble the passengers who intermingle on this fateful bus ride.

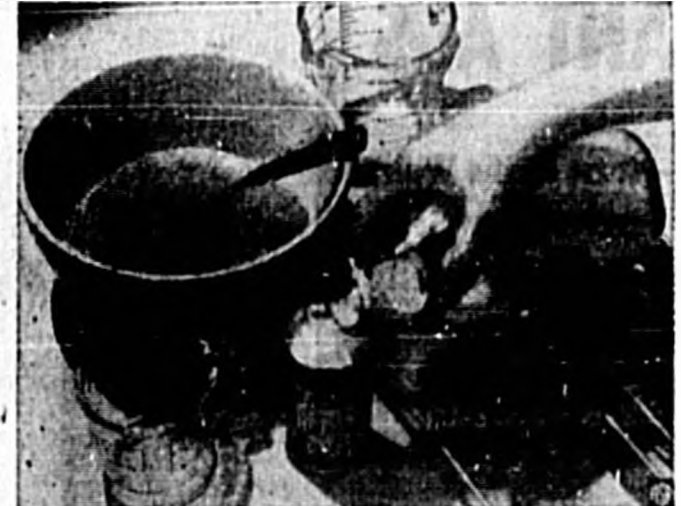

Mr. Jason, a personable young man, plays the bus driver and delivers a performance that will establish him as an up-coming star. His scenes with Miss Collins, his jealous wife with a penchant for the bottle are highly dramatic, and the love scene he plays with Miss Michaels in the hayloft is one of passion and tenderness. In her debut, Miss Michaels, an attractive blonde, acquits herself provocatively. She is a graduate of the Twentieth Century-Fox talent school.

If her work is a sample of things to come, we can look for some fine new talent from that source. Her Broadway training and TV work is quite evident in her performance.

Jayne Mansfield, as the down-and-out bubble dancer, is as lascivious as ever and her scenes with Dan Dailey, the brash traveling salesman, point up the incongruous pairings Steinbeck contrived to keep his story moving and interesting. Betty Lou Keim, who was so good in "Teenage Rebel" not long ago, plays her first grown-up role in this picture. She makes a perfect movie-struck waitress, who is trying to get away from it all. Larry Keating and Kathryn Givney, as Dolores Michaels' parents; Will Wright, as a grouchy and Dee Pollock, a girl-struck young man, complete the group on the bus.

Just as the bus has a destination but a rough trip getting there, each of the characters have a rendezvous with destiny and a rough time fulfilling it. The violent elements of nature and the conflicting human passions are ingeniously combined to make "The Wayward Bus" engrossing entertainment. Ivan Moffat did a wonderful job of catching Steinbeck's very humor and dramatic impact in his screen-play and cinematographer Charles G. Clarke photographed the somber atmosphere of rural California and the majesty of the Sierra mountains to give the picture exactly the right background.

Orange Smoothie Dessert

Here's a foolproof, delicious sherbet recipe for use in your own refrigerator, one that utilizes two of our most nutritious and economical foods, frozen concentrated Florida orange juice and buttermilk.

High time you were aware of the fact that Florida citrus products, both the canned and frozen varieties, are one of the few foods that can boast about a price decrease in the last year. Reason enough for using them as often as possible, but when you think of the summer-time refreshment they offer, as well as their vitamin C content so important to us in hot weather, they're musts on your shopping list.

Buttermilk is one of the best nutrition foods we have, and don't shy away from this recipe even if you don't normally drink buttermilk. Its flavor isn't discernible in the finished sherbet; it merely makes it a creamy, wonderfully textured concoction. Mighty easy too from the standpoint of ingredients.

Florida Sherbet

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup sugar

1 1/2-ounce can frozen Florida orange juice concentrate
3 1/2-ounce cans (2 1/4 cups) buttermilk

Soften gelatine in cold water. Dissolve over hot water; add sugar and stir until dissolved; pour into bowl. Add orange juice concentrate to gelatine; refill can three times with buttermilk. Add to concentrate mixture; stir well. Turn into freezing tray. When mixture is partially frozen, remove to bowl and beat until smooth. Return to tray and continue freezing until firm. YIELD: 1 1/4 quarts.

The official state tree of Arkansas is the pine because 51 per cent of the forest land in the state is in pine.

The Picture of Health

By Robert A. Jones, M.D.
X-Raying the 'Holes in Your Head'

Aside from the teeth, the part of the head most x-rayed is the sinuses—that group of little caves inside the skull connected with the back of the nose by tiny openings.

There are just two of them above the eyes called the "frontal" sinuses; one on each side of the nose called the "antrum" (or maxillary sinus), and some more behind and between the eyes. If you have ever gone to a nose and throat specialist because of a bad cold and the nagging headache that sometimes goes with it, the doctor probably took you into a dark room and placed a tiny light first in your mouth and then near each eye. He did this to see whether your sinuses were full of air or not.

If your nose is badly stopped up for long, an infection may back up through those tiny openings into the sinuses. They may become inflamed and swollen and even fill with pus which, if not cleared up, can get into the blood stream and cause thrombosis and other troubles just the way abscesses of the teeth can. So if the physician's light does not show perfectly clear, hollow sinuses, he may want to have the radiologist examine them with the help of x-rays. Infected sinuses show up much differently from normal ones on a radio-contrast shadow image on film.

But though the sinuses are most commonly studied radiologically, the most important part of anyone's head is the brain, which is much more difficult to x-ray. Aside from the fact that soft tissue and blood vessels are very difficult to visualize by ordinary x-rays, the brain is enclosed in a hard, bony box—the skull—which further obscures it.

Radiologists, physicians specializing in the use of x-rays, are able to get around this difficulty, however, by means of special techniques used when the doctor suspects serious trouble. Sometimes, x-ray examination of the blood vessels of the brain by means of injecting a liquid opaque to x-rays may show the radiologist a tumor, blood clot, or a bulge in one of the blood vessels, called an "aneurysm," which could lead to a brain hemorrhage. With this diagnosis established, then it can be taken care of by the neuro-surgeon.

'Designing Woman' To Play At Drive-In

The fashion industry spends twenty-five million dollars or more a year to keep the little woman happy. So does Hollywood. At M-G-M they are frank to admit that their comedy, "Designing Woman," is a deliberate attempt to please feminine fans all 54 million of them.

"The Designing Woman" opens Sunday at the Movieland Drive-In. The ball, according to George Wells, the film's author and associate producer, is based on practical masculine reasoning: "Give the little woman something new to wear."

As a result, for the first time in the history of the studio, a clothes budget outweighs every other cost, with the exception of its stellar cast, topped by Gregory Peck, Lauren Bacall and Dolores Gray.

"There isn't a woman in the world who doesn't enjoy beautiful clothes," says Wells, "nor a man who doesn't enjoy seeing her in them."

"Designing Woman," a boudoir boxing match, is about a sportswriter who cleans up on a gang of hoodlums, falls in love with a fashion designer and learns that headlines can be made on the feminine as well as sports world front.

"This picture is designed to woo women into the theatre," Wells reiterates. "Surveys show that today's audiences, which were formerly predominantly feminine are now sixty per cent masculine. When women stay away, so do their husbands. This makes us happy. 'Designing Woman' is out to stop this. We do it with action, romance and clothes — dozens of them, including tea gowns, suits, coats, hats, dresses, sweaters, swim suits, shorts and leotards. In taking care of the ladies, we take no chance on losing the men."

Incidentally, if the men want to know where their money goes, "Designing Woman" has the answer.

"It goes right into the little black dress that uncovers your wife," laughs Wells, who learned about clothes from M-G-M's designer, Helen Ross. "As a matter of fact," says Wells "Miss Ross suggested the idea for the story and the title."

In the comedy, a fashion show of ball gowns, modeled by a sextette of six-foot beauties, plays an important part in the motivation of the plot. These gowns are in addition to the 84 costumes worn by Miss Bacall and Miss Gray.

In the fashion show, Miss Rose has gowns tagged with such flamboyant names as "Romance" (emerald green velvet), "Switchery" (crisis satin), "Envy" (charismatic satin), "Dramarama" (falloe silk), "Sorcery" (white evening silk) and "Tenderloins" (a pink velvet ball gown). "Prices match the names," she nods.

Lauren Bacall turns fashion plate in M-G-M's "Designing Woman," in which she plays a girl who dictates the last word in style to New York's fashion world but she runs into trouble when she tries to dictate to sportswriter Gregory Peck. The hilarious CinemaScope romance comedy also stars Dolores Gray. And begins Sunday at the Movieland.

Barbecued Lamb Ribs

Here's your meat for an outdoor treat—Barbecued Lamb Ribs, cooked to a tantalizing brown-crispness over the glowing coals of whatever barbecue equipment you have or concoct.

You'll like, as partners, the foil-baked Creamy Potato Sticks, and fresh corn baked in the husks—all equally good prepared in the kitchen if the Weather Man doesn't cooperate with sunny skies.

BARBECUED LAMB RIBS

Order economical breast of lamb, allowing $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1 pound per person. Have your meat dealer prepare for easy carving between ribs. Leave whole, and rub well with garlic that has been mashed with dry rosemary and mixed with a little lemon juice. Allow to stand overnight if possible.

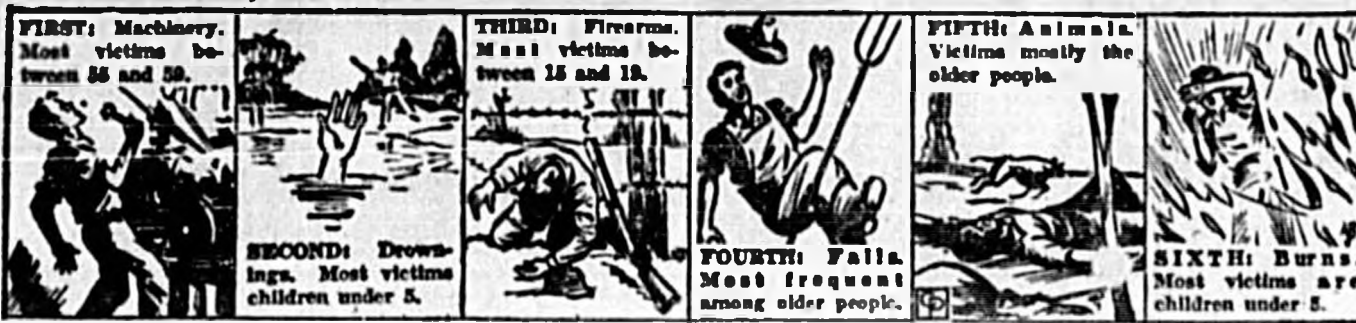

If you have a rotisserie, arrange on spit, following manufacturer's directions. Or bank coals on either side of a dripping pan shaped of aluminum foil. Roast ribs over a low fire until they are crisp and the fat is pretty well cooked out. This will take at least an hour, probably longer. Test with a sharp knife. Garnish with big fat wedges of lemon or top with hot tomato barbecue sauce. Serve with

FOIL-BAKED POTATO STICKS

Choose 4 good-sized California Long White potatoes. Peel and cut as for French fries. Cut 48-inch length of aluminum foil. Fold in half. Place potatoes off center on foil.

Dot with 3 tablespoons butter. Sprinkle with $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt, pepper, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup shredded process American cheese, 2 tablespoons snipped parsley. Pull edges of foil upward, then pour $\frac{1}{4}$ cup undiluted evaporated milk over all. Fold foil, crimping edges. Cook over glowing coals (or place on shallow pan in 450° F. oven) for about an hour or until tender. Makes 4 hearty servings.

HOW 14,000 FARM PEOPLE ARE KILLED EVERY YEAR

THE AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT listed (in order) these top six accidental killers of farm people with a report that accidents claimed an average of 14,000 farm lives a year in the 1930-38 period. The report cited unsafe practices "that could be corrected."

A MOTHER ROBIN awaits the birth of her brood in a nest she built about four feet from the ground on a pulley of an overhead crane at a rubber factory in Marietta, Ohio. Workers unloading railroad cars use another crane until the arrival of the baby robins. (International)

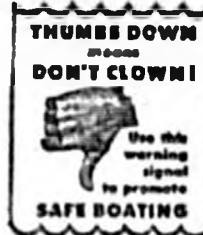

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE "JOHN SEDGES" who wrote "The Townsman" was, in private life, Pearl Buck. "Nicholas Blake," who writes detective fiction, is the distinguished poet, Cecil Day-Lewis, not the first to discover that crime pays better than poetry. "Tom Graham," who wrote one of the first boys' books about flying machines, later won the Nobel Prize as Sinclair Lewis. John Galsworthy's first four books bore the author's name of John Sinjohn. "Nancy Boyd" was Edna St. Vincent Millay. The real name of the author of "Nineteen Eighty-Four" was Eric Arthur Blair—not George Orwell.

The reasons for writers attempting to disguise their identities vary widely. In some cases, as noted, two authors pretend to be one—or, contrariwise, insinuate they are three. Men pretend to be women—and women, men. One writer had a very practical reason for dissembling: he was married to two women at the same time—and both of them were trying to track him down!

Tea, Coffee, Fruit Juice Best Drinks For Driver

By HERMAN H. FUCHSBERG, M.D.

BE careful what you drink when you drive.

I'm not going to launch a long lecture about the evils of "mixing alcohol with gasoline," as our safety officials say. All of you know the dangers of driving while drunk.

Watch!

But with summer holidays and vacations at hand, I think you should give a thought to what you should and should not drink when you're on a long drive.

Take milk, for instance—or, rather, don't take it. Now I've preached the value of milk for ages, you're probably bored with the subject. I've pointed out why you need at least a pint a day.

This rule still applies even though you're on a vacation. However—and here's the difference—when driving for long hours at a time, take your milk quota in cooked foods, with cereals or just before going to bed.

Milk, you see, is soothing. It actually induces sleep. When you've got a lot of driving to do, you'll want to stay awake. Both tea and coffee will be helpful in this respect.

Caffein is a natural mild stimulant. Nicotin dilates the capillaries and helps to keep a person alert. Both caffeine and nicotin are found in tea and coffee.

Incidentally, using sugar in your coffee or tea helps maintain your blood sugar level and tends to satisfy any feeling of hunger you might develop between meals. Fruit juices, too, have their value to the driver, especially tomato, orange or grapefruit juice. They'll help pep you up should you become drowsy.

Mildly Stimulating Bolt drinks, too, are helpful to a motorist. Many of them—cola drinks in particular—are mildly stimulating.

What about water? Well, I think most of you will agree that there is nothing as thirst-quenching or as satisfying as a good cool glass of water during a long, hot drive. Besides, you are apt to perspire freely on the highway at this time of the year. You will need to replace that lost perspiration by drinking your quota of four to six glasses of water each day.

QUESTION AND ANSWER J. B.: What are the symptoms of a mentally retarded child?

Answer: Mental retardation in the child usually can be discovered only through examination by the physician. The symptoms will depend upon the type of mental disturbance present and its severity.
