Man drowns on fishing trip

GENEVA — A Mims man died Friday afternoon following a boating accident in the St. Johns River. It took officials seven hours to find his body in the muddy waters near Geneva.

Matthew J. Wood, 46, drowned when the boat that he and two fishing companions were riding in suddenly made a 90-degree turn.

Wood and Alversta Highsmith, 21, also of Mims fell into the water.

Another passenger in the boat, Louise Smith, 57, tried to pull Wood to safety, but he was unable to stay afloat. She helped Highsmith into the boat and the two called to the shore for assistance.

The boat had been launched from a ramp at Lake Hartney off State Road 40 near Geneva.

Officials said an autopsy will be performed on Wood.

Highsmith did not report any injuries, though Williams complained of chest pains and was treated and released at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford.

Teen athlete dies suddenly

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Brent Lane, a sophomore at Lake Brantley High School in Altamonte Springs, died suddenly while on the way to a class field trip to EPCOT Center on Friday.

The 15-year-old suffered a massive heart attack on the bus as the students traveled to the theme park. Though his classmates attempted to administer CPR, he died shortly after arriving at Sand Lake Hospital in Orlando, not far from where he suffered the heart attack.

A junior varsity football player, Lane had helped lead his teammates to victory over Oviedo High School the night before. He had been cleared to play by his physician a few months ago.

Lane had had open heart surgery at the age of 11 to repair a hole in his heart, but doctors said that he was healthy and fit at the time of his death.

Transportation accidents, murder claim most workers

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Work may be hazardous to your health. It can even kill you.

The fatal injuries occurring most frequently for on-the-job Florida workers in 1992 were gunshot wounds.

Homicides and suicides accounted for the second highest share, leading to job-related deaths in Florida and throughout the south-eastern United States last year, according to recently released reports.

Transportation accidents caused the highest number of on-the-job fatalities in the state and nation in 1992, according to reports released last week by the U.S. Department of Labor and the Florida Department of Labor and Employment Security.

Four occupational fatalities occurred in Seminole County during the year. One of the deaths occurred in October when a 47-year-old Seminole County Expressway construction supervisor working near Airport Boulevard suffered fatal head injuries when he walked under a falling load of plywood which weighed between one half and one ton. Details of the other deaths would not be released due to state confidentiality reasons.

Of the 324 occupational deaths in Florida in 1992, 95.1 percent were caused by injuries caused by contact with vehicles. Ninety-four deaths, 29 percent, were caused by assaults and violent acts. Of the 94, 69 deaths were caused by homicide and another 25 were due to suicide.

Throughout the region, transportation is the leading cause of occupational deaths. See Dead, Page 5A

Former politico accused of attempted murder awaits treatment at hospital

By SANDRA ELLIOTT

Eric Kaplan was found incompetent to stand trial last month. He remains in the Seminole County jail until room is available in a state hospital.

SANFORD — A former state representative candidate found incompetent to stand trial last month for attempted first degree murder will be treated at a state hospital, possibly in Gainesville.

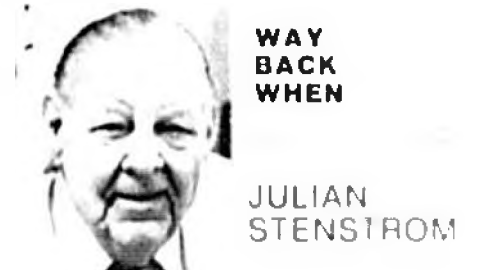

Eric Kaplan, 29, is expected to be transferred from the John E. Polk Correctional Facility to the Forensic North Florida Evaluation and Treatment Center as soon as space is available. Seminole Circuit Court Judge Alan A. Dickey signed an order sending Kaplan to a state hospital based upon the recommendation of court-appointed psychiatrist Dr. Jeffrey Danziger.

Cricket Evans, Health and Human Services (HRS) forensic coordinator for several Central Florida counties, said it may be several weeks before Kaplan is assigned to a state facility for treatment.

There are currently 67 men awaiting placement in the three state hospitals which treat forensic patients. The three hospitals for forensic patients are in Gainesville, Chattahoochee and Miami. There is a minimum four week wait after the completed paperwork is received in Tallahassee before space is available.

Evans said HRS will place him at whatever hospital has space. Generally, Evans said, Hispanic and Creole inmates are sent to the Miami hospital to facilitate com-

A number of odds and ends

Mornin' y'all! This week you're in for a treat. No long yarns — just a number of odds and ends of information you may or may not know.

Remember the story about John and Clara Sauls telling us about the Florida East Coast Railroad running tracks from Titusville to Osteen in 1883? We found out that the FEC ran those tracks on to Benson Junction through Enterprise plus a spur to Orange City. This was how the old Ox Fiber Brush Company shipped its products from Benson Junction. Remember the tracks that once crossed U.S. Hwy. 17-92 at Dirksen Boulevard? We also found out that the original tracks were wooden rails.

Between my friend Buddy Lake's baseball library and mine we do well with records of old players and events. Recently I tried to update mine by getting a later edition of the "Official Baseball Encyclopedia." Couldn't find one. So I wrote to Cooperstown and asked the research folks at Baseball's Hall of Fame where to turn. I was referred to a bookstore in Altamonte Springs. It had in stock an edition

Three Altamonte Springs youths told police then they stopped at a light on State Road 438 when an individual later identified as Vause challenged them and displayed a handgun the vehicle he was in sped off. The victims obtained a tag number from the vehicle.

Police report Vause and the driver of the vehicle denied the allegation, but a woman passenger in their car later told police she saw Vause with a handgun matching the description given by the victims. Additional arrests are pending.

Jimmy Deval Snell, 28, 1409 W. 14th St., Sanford, was arrested on retail theft and trespassing charges by Sanford police Thursday night. A convenience store employee reported Snell took a quart of malt liquor beer without paying for it. Police report Snell was issued a trespassing warning for the premises in March 1992.

Lake Mary makes a few changes

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Two items presented for information or consideration to the Lake Mary City Commission have emerged again. This time, the response was better than at previous meetings.

During the Sept. 17th Lake Mary City Commission meeting, a report was given regarding the completion schedule of Lake Mary Boulevard between Heathrow and Country Club Road. Work installing irrigation lines and other construction is ahead of schedule, so completion date was moved up.

The original total completion was listed as November 18, Thursday night. City Manager John Litton said, "Since we received the original schedule, we have been informed by the contractor that the total completion date is now set for Oct. 22."

Another item brought up last month, during budget discussions, was a request for a $1,500 donation to Better Living for Seniors, to support the Meals on Wheels Program.

With City Manager John Litton holding the budget as tight as possible to avoid the need for any millage increase, the commission denied to include the donation in the budget.

Since that time, the city has gone through election qualifying time. The commission seats of George Duryea and A.R. "Doc" Jore, were both to be voted upon in this year's ballot.

Each qualified for re-election, and as there were no applicants qualifying to run against them, they will be automatically re-elected. Two additional items proposed for citizen referendum, were also defeated.

Thursday night, Litton told the commission, "We had $2,000 set aside in the 1993-94 budget to pay for the cost of this year's local election, but now, with nothing on the local ballot, we won't have to have a local election, and the money will be available."

Even though the lack of opposition for Duryea contributed to the availability of the money, Duryea spoke against allocating the donation.

"I am going to vote against this," he explained. "It's not that I am against Better Living for Seniors, in fact, they do an outstanding job. I just don't believe it's our responsibility as city commissioners to spend our money for charitable organizations. It's not the city's roll to do so."

When the vote was called, Duryea cast the lone "nay" and the matter passed.

Shoplifting shouldn't pay

Governor Chiles has declared October as Shoplifting Prevention Month. Some may believe the theft of just a pack of cigarettes or can of beer is insignificant, but it is causing serious problems.

Figures show losses from shoplifting in Florida amounts to over $1 billion each year. This is more than the combined dollar loss from robbery, motor vehicle theft, breaking and entering and larceny.

Who pays for this loss? The honest customers do. It is estimated that the average family spends $200 more each year to compensate for such losses.

One major chain store expects these losses through petit theft or shoplifting. As a result, they have raised prices on all goods. The additional cost pays for what is stolen.

Such crimes also cost the citizens of Florida in other ways. Because these sales are not made, the state loses over $70 million in sales taxes annually.

Many arrests are made for petit theft each week by local police and sheriff's deputies. A large number of persons attempting to hide merchandise on their person are apprehended by store security personnel.

Even though they are doing the job for which they were hired, these people deserve a great deal of appreciation for putting their safety in jeopardy.

Unfortunately, the usual punishment for petit thefts is no more than a slap on the wrist. In essence, someone steals $200 from each family each year, and we merely say, "now, don't do this anymore," and leave them go.

The governor and members of the cabinet have shown concern over this problem by declaring this as Shoplifting Prevention Month. In doing so, they expressed appreciation to the Florida Retail Federation and the Merchants Association of Florida for their volunteer efforts to fight this serious crime.

If giving appreciation and giving a name to the month is what it takes to help reduce shoplifting, maybe November can be declared "Stop Committing Crime" month and soon we will have no crime at all.

This problem is costing the good people of our state a great deal of money. It's not as simple to resolve as some may believe.

Stores must increase their security, law enforcement must clamp down on perpetrators. But of most importance, our courts must increase punishment for these crimes and stop making the public believe that some crime does pay.

LETTERS

Shape up, county

A few months ago I wrote a letter to the Herald concerning the fire trucks and all our beautiful lifesaving people, about no numbers on the homes and businesses and that displaying addresses is a law on our books. And in every other city everything must be numbered.

Well, I guess Seminole County's planning board just can't abide by the laws or doesn't even care. They do as they please, even the county manager couldn't care less, so how can they be role models for our young people when they see and hear their lies.

I spoke months ago with a supervisor about some problems. Some system! I believe we need a whistleblower on all departments just to see how much money is wasted!

I received a nice long letter from this gentleman, very proper, yes, indeed. He had been brought up with a forked tongue. Now he may think by sending me this letter I wouldn't have to raise my skirt to wade through the garbage. (well, not "mini-skirt" high). Now other departments publish their intentions but not this department. Maybe it's too hot outside to see what needs to be done all over the county.

Looking at the meaning of holidays

There are 46 days until Thanksgiving and 76 days until Christmas. This time of year brings a great deal of joy to some individuals and much sadness to others.

Thanksgiving should be a time for thanking God for health and the many opportunities He presents to us for service to one another.

Unfortunately, Christmas has almost become synonymous with materialism. Christmas has been exploited as a prime day for the exchange of material possessions. There is nothing wrong with exchanging gifts, however, the gifts to be focused upon are those that cannot be measured by legal tender.

The message of Christmas for Christians is about the gift of the Christ Child. The setting of the holy birth reflected a dearth of material trappings. The stable as the site directed attention to relationships. The relationship of Jesus to Mary, Joseph, the Wisemen and the presence of animals emphasized dimensions other than the material.

The holidays across one's lifespan take on different meanings. Families with young children devote time and effort to make Christmas a magical time for children. Song and stories along with the aroma of cookies and pies baking all lend to the holidays. Favorites like Dickens' 'A Christmas Carol', 'The Night Before be really isolated. If there is anyone in this community in this predicament, please write to me in care of the Sanford Herald. Include your address and phone number.

The message of Christmas is about loving relationships. With unemployment and homelessness plaguing many people, the holidays make them acutely aware of the necessities of life which they lack. There are agencies to help temporarily, but permanent solutions are needed. Working together, hunger and homelessness in America can be eliminated.

On world communion Sunday, Omega Bula, programme officer, All Africa Conference of Churches, from Nairobi, Kenya, spoke at our church. The videotape she shared with us about conditions in some African countries were heart rendering. The struggle to survive and the quality of life makes one very thankful to be in America.

Caring compassion and not complacency relative to the physical, emotional and pain of the spirit people in this country and around the world feel, should be an individual resolve. Each of us, wherever we are, must become aware of those around us who need our help and extend a helping hand.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Cheerleaders, jocks, pregnancy

BOSTON — To understand this story you have to know what high school football means to small-town Texas. Which is to say, dang near everything.

To understand this story you have to know that the only female place in the football firmament is as a cheerleader. It also helps to know how seriously the Lone Star State takes cheerleading. In 1991 one mother tried to increase her daughter's chances of making the squad by hiring a hit man to bump off a competitor's mother. You get the idea.

With that background then, we arrive at Hempstead, Texas, where things are not going very well. The Hempstead Bobcats are 0-4 for the season. The Hempstead cheerleaders are 4-15. Four out of 15 of them got pregnant.

The school banned three of them from the squad. The fourth, who had an abortion, has been allowed back on but sat out last week's game for fear of being booed.

These stats have raised the stress level and brought the national media to this town of 3,500 where parents and teen-agers are offering their own play-by-play, a running commentary on teen-age pregnancy. The questions being debated run like this:

Should a girl be banned from cheerleading because she's pregnant? Should a girl who had an abortion be back on the field? Does the school policy allowing her to rejoin the cheerleaders promote abortion? If she stays on the sidelines, is she being punished while girls with better luck or better contraceptives are not? And if the pregnant cheerleaders are benched, what about the impregnating boys, at least one of whom is allegedly playing football?

These questions circle around fairness and equity. But they cover a set of concerns that puzzles most of us: how on earth to support pregnant teens and discourage teen pregnancy?

In the not-so-distant past, if an unmarried girl got pregnant, the response was a shotgun marriage or an eviction. Girls were cast out of families, shipped to distant relatives or left to the streets. Some went to back alley abortionists and some to homes for unwed mothers from which they would return empty-handed. And some girls struggled on their own.

We are no longer that punitive. We have made life easier — although not easy — for pregnant teen-agers. We have welfare so they won't starve and programs so they'll stay in school. And we worry greatly about the increase in single mothers and kids.

The conundrum is made even greater because of the argument over abortion. Pro-lifers may condemn unmarried sex and come down on welfare mothers, but they have beautiful girls who chose to carry their babies.

They have tied themselves into a knot — the Murphy Brown knot.

Pro-choicers have been tied in their own knots, in an effort to be seen as even-handed people who favor a woman's right to decide and not just her right to abort. In many high schools, including Hempstead, it seems that the peer group pressure is now toward motherhood.

But surely, if we can draw the line anywhere, a line between stigmatizing pregnancy and promoting it, we can draw it at the 50-year-old line.

It's one thing to keep pregnant girls in school. It's quite another to provide them with maternity cheerleading uniforms. Sooner or later, they won't be able to do the back flips and cartwheels anyway. We don't have to punish pregnancy but we don't have to celebrate it with pompons at halftime.

As for the girl who had an abortion? I guess there's no right to privacy in a small town. But unless there's a chastity test for the squad, the team, the school, she should be able to go back on the field without being booed.

The school policy isn't a statement in favor of abortion. It's a statement about reality. Like it or not, women choose abortion so that they can go back to their life. The future is different for a girl who has a baby. To deny that is to perpetuate a fantasy already common among girls.

And anybody who would choose abortion because she doesn't want to give up cheerleading is dimly aware of the real sacrifices that come with motherhood.

As for the boys, ever since we put away the shotgun, we've tried to figure out a way to promote male responsibility. I'm all for leveling that playing field. If that means benching the others, so be it. A football player or two ruled offside could be the best abstinence or contraceptive program in Texas since cold showers.

In the meantime, what we need is a new cheer for the squad in Hempstead, Texas: "Two, Four, Six, Eight. You're Too Young to Procreate."

Like it or not, women choose abortion so that they can go back to their life.

JACK ANDERSON

New drug now a big problem

WASHINGTON — The latest front in America's war on drugs is not South America, or even South Central Los Angeles. It's a windswept corner of Michigan's Upper Peninsula, just across the border from Canada.

It is in this rugged country that a new and powerful drug — nicknamed "cat" — first emerged four years ago. Now law enforcement officials are worried it will spread elsewhere. It is easy to make, produces a high more powerful than cocaine, is highly addictive, and its ingredients are, for the most part, entirely legal. Cocaine abusers describe cat as more powerful and longer lasting than cocaine.

"It's like going back to square one again," said Sheriff Joe Maino of Marquette County, Mich., who spent years trying to make a dent in more conventional drug trafficking before "cat" hit the streets. He currently chairs a local task force that is working to stop the spread of "cat."

It was largely by accident that Northern Michigan became the site for America's first "cat" epidemic. "Cat," which is the street name for methcathinone, first became popular in Russia several decades ago. Parke-Davis developed the drug in the 1950s, but shelved it soon thereafter because of its high potential for addiction and severe side effects.

According to an analysis by Michigan drug enforcement officials, cat was rediscovered in 1989 by three friends in Ann Arbor, Mich., who set up a lab and began making the drug in their apartment. It wasn't very difficult: the active ingredient in cat is the drug ephedrine, which is widely available as an over-the-counter weight-loss product and stimulant. Ephedrine is also used as an active ingredient in bronchial medication such as Primatene.

Once the ephedrine is obtained, it is easily converted into cat by those who know the formula. It can be made almost anywhere using such common household chemicals as battery acid, drain cleaner and epsom salts. For an investment of $500 in raw materials, a dealer can create product with a street value of about $50,000. This is where the danger lies.

But police also say the problem is spreading. Cat laboratories have been seized as far away as Seattle, and have been spreading rapidly into the neighboring state of Wisconsin. Seizures have also been made in Illinois and Indiana. The one common thread in all the seizures, however, is ties to Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

"We are very concerned that it will spread nationally," said Dale Schuitema, special agent in charge of the Detroit office of the Drug Enforcement Administration. "Right now, it's like a cancer blowing westward." Still, the problem remains centered in the Upper Peninsula: Though the area comprises only three percent of Michigan's population, it accounts for more than 75 percent of all ephedrine sold in the state.

If there is a bright side to the spread of cat, it's that federal and local officials believe this is a problem they can eventually control. The problem is still new enough that Michigan did not place cat on its list of controlled substances until last May. Law enforcement officials believe that the key to preventing the spread of cat is to slap controls on ephedrine.

"There is no way we are going to be able to stop this thing by ourselves," Schuitema said. "This is not something we can blame on Mexico or Columbia. This is a U.S.-manufactured drug, and with the proper regulation, this is something we can put a stop to."

Cocaine abusers describe cat as more powerful and longer lasting than cocaine.

"This is the worst we've seen it," Evans said, referring to the number of individuals waiting for beds.
Kaplan is charged with attempted first degree murder, armed burglary and shooting into a building. Kaplan, a Democrat who was trying to unseat GOP representative Bob Starks, is charged with firing five shots into the Starks' Maitland home Sept. 27, 1992. One of the bullets struck Starks' wife, Judy in her leg while she was in bed.

Starks was not home at the time.
Kaplan's attorney, James Russ also filed notice he plans an insanity defense in the case. In preparing the case, Russ said he did not have authorization from Kaplan to assert the defense under the insanity rule. However, since Kaplan was found incompetent, "(he) is legally incapable of making decisions concerning this litigation," Russ asserts in the motion.
Russ filed the motion to commit Kaplan to the state hospital for evaluation and treatment and notice of a defense of insanity just a few days after the Florida Bar closed a case Kaplan filed against Russ. The Bar closed the case after repeated unsuccessful attempts to get Kaplan to provide details, verification and documentation of the accusations he made against Russ. Kaplan wanted the investigation delayed until the criminal case was resolved.

Kaplan accused Russ of excessive alcohol use, negligence and misrepresentation.
"It is unacceptable to keep this case ongoing for this length of time with absolutely no verification of the accusations from you," Jan Wichrowaki, Bar branch staff counsel wrote in the letter closing the case. "Should you wish to resubmit your complaint with corroborating evidence in the future, the bar will review it at that time."

updated through 1992. The cost? Just $55.
Saw a bumper "snicker" the other day that read "Down with Bureaucrats."
I asked a caller the other day how long he and his wife had been married. He replied: "More years than I'd want to admit, but I'll tell you this: We're on our second bottle of Louisiana Red Hot sauce from New Iberia."

It's like we always say — one story leads to another.
Who do you supposed dropped into Sanford the other day for lunch with my friend Buddy Lake and me? It was Ellis Clary, scout for the World Champion Toronto Blue Jays who just won the American League East title the other day. Clary had been in Orlando to scout a ball player in the Southern Association belonging to another club but one in which the Jays might be interested in later on.
Ellis didn't have much new to tell us but he did share this: An ex-major leaguer who began his pro career in Sanford back in 1936 and played here again in 1937, Ellis said he'd played in "a thousand" different ball parks. But there was one thing he could not understand. "Every time I dream," said Ellis, "I dream about Sanford and playing ball here." Oh, yes, he asked if we knew what in the world ever happened to whom he considered the prettiest girl in Sanford — Elizabeth Cameron.
We told him she was Mrs. John Hult and she lived in Panama City. I sent Clary a "Way Back When" photo of Elizabeth and me which appeared in the Herald a few months ago.
Well, this is about half of the odds and ends I wanted you to read about this morning. So, I'll have to do another one, maybe next week.

And, speaking of religion, did you hear about the fellow who diets "religiously." He never dieted when he was a child.
Friend of mine at a doctor's office reminded me of another outstanding Sanford family — the Squires. There was Elwyn who played football as a center for Seminole High back in the early 1930s. There was Wilma Squires, a daughter in the family. There was dear Margaret who married B.F. Ganas. For years she was the executive secretary of the United Fund in Seminole County. We still miss Margaret. B.F. is still going strong!

We thought we'd cleared up the story about Ramey Field — the name given to Sanford Naval Air Station when one of the pilots, Robert Ramey, gave his life at Seville to save lives of others. Shortly after doing that story we got a call from Luis Negron. He's at the Spur-Cheyron service station at 18th and French. Luis lives at in Sanford's Dream world area.
Luis says there was a Strategic Army Air Command base in the northeastern part of Puerto Rico, built in 1939, just about on the very spot where Christopher Columbus landed in 1493. He says there was a Navy base also located in Puerto Rico on Roosevelt Road but he can't recall if the installation was named for Teddy or Franklin. Luis also told us the "Ramey" the SAC base was named for was also killed in a non-combat air crash.

cidents accounted for 41 percent of the 1,327 persons killed on the job. Assaults and other violent acts accounted for 20 percent of the deaths. Ninety-two percent were men.
Other statewide job death causes were exposure to electricity and other harmful substances, 12 percent; falls, 10.2 percent; contact with objects or equipment, 9 percent; and explosions, 1.5 percent. Unclassified deaths accounted for 2.2 percent of the deaths.
Gunshot wounds accounted for 77 of the 324 state deaths and 71 were caused by multiple traumatic injuries and disorders.
Truck drivers were the most likely worker to be killed on the job in Florida, farmers throughout the region. Janitors, waitresses and insurance sales people were among the workers most likely to survive the year. July was the deadliest month in the state. March, the safest.

will still do so.
That opening reception for "Artist's Choice" will still take place, she said.
And so will the concert, but not till mid-April, according to an optimistic Bartholomew.
As you know, the gallery is an all-volunteer, non-profit organization and we operate on a close margin. Additional months will give us an opportunity to raise funds to support "Pops on the Square" in the style it deserves."
Called "Travelin' to Sanford," the original score is a musical tour of the history of Sanford and Seminole County, complete with original narrative and lyrical score.
The program will be presented as the first performance of the Seminole Pops Orchestra, under the direction of Robert Glendon.
During the program, the 12-piece orchestra will feature music from Gershwin, and Rogers and Hammerstein, to the Beatles.
Two special vignettes reflecting the overall theme, will be presented by Sanford's Ballet Guild dance troupe.
It will be an evening to please almost everyone's artistic palate," said Dr. Karen Copp, president of the First Street Gallery.

Chairman Richard Ryan, a singer and musical producer, has performed around the world. He wrote the music and lyrics for the score. Historical research was provided by Jim Robinson, columnist and historian.
Glendon, conductor of the orchestra, is an arranger, pianist and conductor who has spent 20 years as a lead/staff musician at Disney World. He is a graduate of Stetson University and has performed in tour groups in the U.S. as well as overseas.
Mayor Bettye Smith said, "We are hoping the downtown merchants, governmental employees and citizens will catch the spirit of this attempt to work in tandem with the Main Street Program to revitalize historic Sanford."
She continued, "Although economic restructuring is an imperative, culture and family entertainment enriches the quality of life and that is also of utmost importance."
Bartholomew called the spring event a major dream she has.
We plan to place all our efforts into making it an event to remember, but we do need help from the community to make it happen," she stressed.

Second airport airshow planned for next fall

By NICK PFEIFAUER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford Airport Authority held its regular meeting this past week to elect officers and discuss a planned 1994 airshow.

The officers of the Authority continued unchanged from this past year, with A.K. Shoemaker as chairman, Lee P. Moore as vice chairman, and William Bush, Jr., as secretary/treasurer.

Regarding a proposal for an airshow, Airport Manager Steve Cooke said the subject was discussed but was not up for any formal presentation.

"Although the request from the South Seminole Chamber of Commerce and the promoters was for a repeat of the air show they had in April of this year," he said, "the Authority decided that it would be better if it was held in the fall of '94."

Cooke said the April time period would see construction underway of the new access road which will connect the airport

Certainly, we would hope there is some connection to Sanford in the name of the event. We should be identified in some way other than just as the address for the Orlando Airshow.

-Steve Cooke

with the new expressway. "This whole area will be torn up during the construction," Cooke said, "and we don't believe there is any way we can have the air show on at that time. It would be a real nightmare"

A determination of whether the 1994 event would again be labeled as an "Orlando" air show, as was the 1993 performance, has not been approached. "Certainly, we would hope there is some connection to Sanford in the name of the event," Cooke said. "With the show at the Sanford airport, we should be identified in some way other than just as the address for the Orlando Airshow."

Cooke expects the naming of the event will come under discussion by the authority when formal presentations are expected to be made for the show later this year.

Building on history

The Sanford Museum, long a landmark along the lakefront in Sanford, has been closed for renovations for many months. Though the facade appears to be completed, the interior of the building is still being redone. Officials expect the renovations will be completed by December. The building, originally built in the 1960s, is being completely redone. Landscaping is also being improved around the building. The museum houses papers, books, maps and other memorabilia relating to the early history of Sanford.

Musical tradition to march on at Lyman

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The nineteenth annual All-County Band Festival, sponsored by the Sanford Herald and the Sanford Optimist Club, will take place at Lyman High School on Saturday, Oct. 30.

The festival, which includes performances by all six Seminole High School marching bands, always attracts a sell-out crowd.

Proud families, friends and music lovers always attend the event to see and hear the performances of some of the finest musicians and dancers in the county.

In addition to the marching bands, the full dance and flag teams will strut their stuff along the musicians.

The evening is like six half time shows with no football game around it.

The event is a fundraiser for the bands. The bands are allowed to keep the full selling price of every ticket they sell for the event.

In addition, money raised by ticket sales elsewhere, is used to pay for equipment purchases and to finance a $500 music scholarship that is sponsored annually by the Optimist Club.

In addition to being available from band members, tickets can also be purchased at the Sanford Herald offices, 300 N. French Avenue in Sanford or at the gate.

Tickets are $2 for adults, $1 for students. Preschoolers will be admitted free.

Lyman High School is located at 1141 S. County Road 427 in Longwood.

The band festival will begin at 8 p.m. in Greyhound Stadium.

IN BRIEF

College Prep for parents

SANFORD — Sometimes parents need as much help as their kids do when it comes to knowing what needs to be done to get ready for college.

The process doesn't begin the last semester of their young folk's senior year, either.

With that in mind, Seminole High is sponsoring a College Admissions Workshop for Parents on Wednesday, Oct. 12 at 6:30 p.m.

The information will include standardized testing, financial aid and general preparation.

The workshop is open to the parents of all Seminole High School students and is free.

It will take place in the auditorium.

Lakeview anniversary

SANFORD — Lakeview Middle School will be celebrating their 25th anniversary at the school on Saturday, Oct. 16 from 1 to 4 p.m.

There will be a ceremony in the gym at 1:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be served in the school's cafeteria right after the ceremony.

The students at the school will also be burying a time capsule to commemorate the event in a couple of weeks.

For more information, call the school at 323-1610.

Teacher appreciation breakfast

SANFORD — The Education Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, chaired by Jane Lane of the Business and Education Partners in Excellence, will host a Teachers Appreciation Breakfast on Friday, Oct. 15 at 7:30 a.m.

The breakfast will be in the Seminole High School Auditorium.

Chamber officers, staff and education committee members will serve breakfast to over 200 teachers, staff and administrators at the special event to show their appreciation for the educational efforts.

Young man rejects SHS school honor gracefully

Jaime Dillman

Every Monday morning, bright and early, before the school day has started, the Tribe Council of Seminole High School meets to nominate possible new members.

In the beginning of each school year, the Tribe Council looks for seniors possessing the six Tribe qualities and vote on two students to call for invitation. Toward the end of each year juniors are inducted into the club and then their senior year, they make up the council. The initiation includes lighting a candle for each quality: honesty, spirit, dedication, courage, leadership and morality. Then the inductee is given a pin that reads "Tribe Pride" and a bright orange headband to be worn around their neck for one week. This is to make sure they're noticed throughout the halls and congratulated on this great honor.

If you ask any senior if they would like to be in Tribe, it is more than certain that they would do anything for membership.

But not Jason Boffey. On Oct. 4, the Tribe Council received its first rejection in the history of the organization.

"After they announced I was elected, I told Mrs. Schapker that I didn't want to be a part of a group of students that chose someone over somebody else. Mrs. Schapker said that wasn't the intent of the Tribe, but that's all she said," Boffey said. "That surprised me. She didn't try to change my mind or explain the intent to me. She asked if I would like to turn in my stuff and she hasn't said anything to me since."

Boffey went on to explain his reason for rejecting the nomination.

"It's not really a popularity contest, but it does make people think that if they are not chosen then someone is better than they are," he said. "I don't like the way they (the Council) go about it (nominations). It's to recognize outstanding students, but basically, it's putting a value on people. It excludes a lot more people than it includes."

Other students were a bit surprised by Boffey's actions, but quite a few agreed with his views.

"A person should be nominated for being themselves, not for what they do to get in," said Matthew Bowlin, field commander of the Marching Seminole Band. "It is a positive thing because it raises self-esteem and it's an honor, but it shouldn't be handed to just anyone."

As a new member of Tribe, Brett Whitlow said "It's an honor. In some cases it is a popularity contest, but the council does try to focus on a lot of different people and their accomplishments."

To make his stance clearer, Boffey concluded by saying, "A lot of people thought I was brave for standing up for my beliefs, but I really didn't think that I could benefit from it. I don't think less of anyone for accepting their nominations, but, personally, it just wasn't for me. I'd like to thank the council for considering me and it wasn't an attack on the institution, but I believe what I believe."

Chris Black, a spokesman for the Tribe Council said simply, "If everyone is patient and they keep up good qualities, we'll eventually find them."

Jaime Dillman is a senior at Seminole High School.

Tribe honors students who do the right thing

Over the years, Seminole High School has taken great strides to instill in their students certain values which will be of benefit to them throughout their lives.

These values include a sense of responsibility, leadership, and individuality.

One organization whose purpose has been to recognize and foster these attributes among the students is the Tribe.

In 1979, former Seminole High principal Don Reynolds established Tribe as an association of young people who exhibited the characteristics necessary to be successful in life.

Tribe members are not necessarily fantastic students or incredible athletes, but are simply good people who work hard and demonstrate their leadership abilities in the various aspects of their lives.

Each week the Tribal Council meets to discuss nominations and offer membership to two new inductees.

Students are nominated by members of the Tribal Council and also via submission of a personal request for consideration.

The Council votes for candidates based on their demonstration of the six characteristics believed to be exhibited by a well-rounded individual.

These include:

1. Courage: One who chooses what is right even if it is unpopular;
2. Leadership: One who promotes activities for the improvement of the school;
3. Honesty: One who demonstrates that he/she is truthful and dependable;
4. Spirit: One who demonstrates pride and enthusiasm about SHS even when others are negative;

5. Morality: One who demonstrates, through action, respect for self and others;

6. Dedication: One who persistently becomes involved with school activities.

Students are recognized as being a part of the Tribe following a special ceremony.

New members are requested to demonstrate their pride and dedication by wearing an orange pin for one week.

The members of the Tribe are students who are willing to go the "extra mile."

Tribe is a cross-section of people with various backgrounds and opinions. In Tribe each person is an individual with his or her own beliefs and convictions.

The Tribe members are essentially ambassadors for Seminole High School. Their duties include being hosts and hostesses for campus visitors and "big buddies" (Nolesmates) for new students on the campus.

The Tribe has not aligned itself with any particular service, however there is little need for that since every member is already active within their school and community.

Tribe is a time-honored tradition that has contributed to the well-being of Seminole High School.

Principal Gretchen Schapker has continued the tradition because she sees Tribe as an opportunity to assure students who deserve recognition.

"I know that recognition of students 'who do the right thing' is very important," Schapker said. "Too often, it is not easy to take the extra time to recognize good students. The Tribe is an attempt to reward and motivate students."

Diedre Michels, Courtney Ondash and Christina Shively, who wrote this article are members of Tribe and are seniors at Seminole High.

Seen at school...

Lunch at a high school is not the place to go if you want to have a quiet meal alone. On a typical day at Lake Mary High School, for example, several hundred students rush through the lunchroom, mostly eating on the fly and talking to their friends and doing their work. The noise level in the lunchroom, even with the students speaking at a polite level can reach that of a jet engine. The students don't seem to mind. In fact, they don't even seem to notice.

'Opening fright' at the Haunted Woods

Florida Easter Seals Society is calling on enthusiastic volunteers to participate in two of its upcoming fundraising events, Safe Halloween and Haunted Woods.

Celebrating its 10th anniversary, Haunted Woods is a "haunting" experience that attracted over 10,000 people in 1992.

This event begins with a haunted hayride complete with a haunting story preparing guests for the visit the woods. Over 240 volunteers are needed to make this event.

The annual "frightfully fun" fundraiser was started in 1982 by Tom Lannert and some of his friends.

Lannert remembers that his family used to create a "Haunted Barn" as a young man and attributes his love for horror movies to some of the memories of being scared out of his pants when he visited the barn.

In 1982, a small group of volunteers created a Haunted Hayride throughout Tom's parents' backyard and collected just under $100 in donations which were given to Camp Challenge. The idea grew quickly.

In 1983, the event was moved to Camp Challenge where a large wooded area provides the perfect backdrop for a Halloween experience most children, and their parents, don't soon forget.

Last year over 10,000 youngsters took the venture through the woods, with nearly $40,000 net dollars raised for the camp.

Talent is needed in all areas, including construction, concessions, entertainment and more.

This year's Haunted Woods is located on the grounds of Camp Challenge, a 20 minute ride north of Orlando on S.R. 46A in Sorrento.

"Opening fright" is Oct. 20, with tours from 7:30 p.m. until 11 p.m., Oct. 20-23; and 7 p.m. until 11 p.m., Oct. 24-31 (closed Oct. 25).

The admission is $5 for adults and $4 for children.

Event number two, Safe Halloween, Oct. 1-31, is a community service promotion.

The Coupon Campaign is an alternative treat for trick-or-treaters. Booklets are sold for $1 with proceeds benefiting Camp Challenge.

All proceeds from Easter Seals events support Camp Challenge.

The camp provides a true camping experience for children whose disabilities may make a visit to a traditional camp impossible. With special facilities like wheelchair ramps for the pool, highly trained staff and some of the biggest-hearted volunteers in Central Florida, Camp Challenge provides fun, fellowship, and specialized rehabilitative services for thousands of people from all over Florida.

For more information, call 896-7881.

Help save local trees, eat kudzu

From staff and wire reports

Seminole county's green helix spirals up trees, telephone wires, and abandoned concrete structures that couldn't beat a retreat from depressed rural economies fast enough to escape the vine's manic growth.

"Kudzu is a very aggressive vine which has been killing Florida trees and foliage for years," said Bob Kirkwood, master gardener at the University of Florida Cooperative Extension Service, Sanford. "The vine can kill a tree in one season. It is a real problem and difficult to kill."

Originally lauded as the answer to soil erosion after it arrived in the United States from Japan more than a century ago, kudzu has become a sort of vegetal cancer, as popular in the South as killer bees. It marches through Dixie at an amazing one-foot-per-day rate, strangles farmland and forests and is hard to eradicate.

But you can eat it. Mention kudzu cookery to just about anyone and their mouth will twist up in a bad caricature of the vine itself. Even livestock are said to ignore the legume until it is the only thing left to fill their fourth stomach.

In the Orient, however, the idea of kudzu cookery took root right along with the plant. Kudzu powder, a starch-like extract of the root, has been used in China and Japan since ancient times as a key ingredient in fine cuisine and as a natural medicine in tea. The versatile powder is used to thicken sauces or soups, as a gel in a variety of confections and as a coating for deep-fried foods.

The tender, young parts of the kudzu plant are cooked and used in salads, sauteed dishes and casseroles. Kudzu roots are cut into cubes and steamed or boiled, much like potatoes. It is the custom of some in those countries to peel back the bark on the kudzu root and suck on it the same way some Georgians suck on sugar cane.

According to William Shurtleff and Akiko Aoyagi, authors of "The Book of Kudzu," kudzu powder is preferred by Japanese cooks over potato starches because of its subtle flavor, smooth texture, translucency and high alkalinity, which, in many cases, turns food into healthful medicine. The authors contend that the leaves, shoots, flowers and roots of the kudzu plant can make Western-style dishes "even more healthful and delicious."

Why, then, don't Southerners take advantage of their great natural resource?

Kudzu expert Jake Tinga, a retired horticulture professor from the University of Georgia, said that kudzu is the plant people love to hate. "It would be like telling them to eat poison ivy," he said.

Another problem, according to Tinga, is harvesting the vine. During the winter months, when the plant has finished its annual growth and natural starches have been drawn downward, Kudzu roots can shoot eight to 10 feet into the ground. There is no easy way to reach them; plowing is difficult and digging is tedious.

Yet Tinga, nicknamed "King of Kudzu" by his colleagues, insisted that there is great potential for kudzu as an export to the Orient, where the vine is coveted but rare due to over-harvesting. Kudzu grown here and ground into powder could be shipped to Japan and China for use in foods, elixirs and medication, he said. Another promising possibility, said Tinga, is the production of tofu from kudzu powder.

The food editor for the Tokyo Times has visited Tinga to check out Georgian kudzu. Chinese friends have told him that kudzu can provide relief from heart ailments. He also has heard that young people in Japan are using kudzu as an aphrodisiac. That ought to raise the vine's star status among vegetables.

At least one group of Georgians, around Providence Canyon Park in Lumpkin County, is spreading good rumors about kudzu in America. As sponsors of an annual Kudzu Takeover Day and Crafts fair, they promote kudzu rope-making, weaving and even kudzu recipes.

Faye Thompson, an interpretive ranger specializing in park history at Providence Canyon, said that young, tender kudzu shoots and leaves can be boiled — twice, with fresh water the second time — and eaten alone, sauteed or used as an addition to quiches and casseroles. She cautioned against picking older leaves, which tend to be hairy, tough and fibrous. It is also a good idea to avoid picking kudzu along roads, since the plants may have been sprayed with poisons.

Boiling young kudzu leaves, then simmering them with fat-back, salt and pepper will give you kudzu soul food. From December through March, the roots can be dried into a powder for cooking starch. If you don't have the time, kudzu powder can also be ordered through most health food stores.

What does kudzu taste like? Like asparagus, some say. Others compare it to spinach, or slightly bitter collard greens. The culinarily adventurous can find out for themselves by eating back at "the vine that ate the South."

Babies born healthy after being tested as embryos

By PAUL RABURN
AP Science Editor

NEW ORLEANS — The first three American babies born after being tested for genetic disease in the laboratory when they were just eight-cell embryos are healthy and apparently free of any side effects, doctors reported.

The babies underwent a dramatic new procedure in which a single cell is plucked from an eight-cell embryo and used to determine the presence or absence of an inherited disease known to run in the family, researchers said.

All three babies were correctly diagnosed as being free of genetic disease, and they suffered no ill effects from the loss of the single cell as embryos.

said Dr. James Grifo of Cornell University Medical College in New York City.

"It is remarkable to some that removal of a cell has no effect, but that has been demonstrated in the animal and human literature," Grifo said at the annual meeting of the American Society of Human Genetics.

Grifo and his colleagues did make one error, failing in one case to pick up cystic fibrosis. The disorder was discovered later in pregnancy, and the pregnancy was terminated, he said.

"We have a long way to go before we set this out as a clinical tool," he said. But he added, "One should not judge a technique by failures in its infancy."

Let's get physical

UCF slaughters Samford

ORLANDO — Willie English hobbled all season by an ankle injury, rushed for 182 yards and two touchdowns to lead Central Florida on a 48-17 romp over Samford University.

The game was halted for 14 minutes early in the fourth quarter because of lightning strikes, but it had no effect on the game. UCF ranked No. 10 in the Division I-AA improved to 3-1. Samford, rated No. 9 in I-AA, drops to 4-2.

UCF held a 14-10 lead before exploding for 17 points in the final three minutes of the half.

Darin Hinchshaw finished the game with 15 completions in 29 attempts for 199 yards.

Rain slows Olds Classic

LAKE BUENA VISTA — Craig Stadler was one of the lucky players at the rain-delayed Walt Disney World Oldsmobile Classic on Saturday.

He got in the last six holes of the second round in the morning, then shot a 4 under 68 to share the early third round lead before thunderstorms ended play for a second straight day.

Not only was much of the field still scattered over three courses being used for the tournament, but Jeff Maggett and Skip Kendall — two thirds of the trio that led after 36 holes — hadn't even begun the third round.

Some players will have to play 36 holes Sunday, a officials meet a goal of getting in 72 holes without delaying the finish until Monday.

AROUND THE STATE

FSU clubs Miami

TALLAHASSEE — Florida State didn't need a last-second field goal this time.

After losing to Miami two straight years when field goal attempts sailed wide right in the closing seconds, the top-ranked Seminoles didn't want another heart-pounding finish. So they took control early with two long touchdowns Saturday and went on to beat the No. 3 Hurricanes 28-10 before a record crowd of 77,811 at Doak Campbell Stadium.

The loss snapped Miami's 31-game, regular-season winning streak and was the Gators' worst regular season loss since FSU won 38-3 in 1984.

Miami had beaten Florida State seven of the past eight years and spoiled the Seminoles' national championship hopes four times since 1987. But the Hurricanes (4-1) were no match this time for the mighty Seminoles (6-0), who had outscored their first five opponents 228-14.

AROUND THE NATION

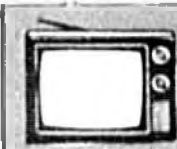

Braves go up 2-1

ATLANTA — This time the Atlanta Braves turned off the power and pummeled the Philadelphia Phillies with line drives.

The Braves battered Phillies pitching again while Tom Glavine picked up his first playoff win. The Braves routed the Phillies 9-4 Saturday and took a 2-1 lead in the best of 7 series.

Philadelphia led 2-0 until the bottom of the sixth when Atlanta chased Terry Mulholland with five runs. The Braves then bruised up the Phillies' battered bullpen for four more runs in the seventh and finished with 12 hits.

A two-run double by David Justice gave Atlanta a 4-2 lead in the sixth and Mark Lemke drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double in the seventh. Glavine held the Phillies to two runs and five hits over seven innings.

Seminoles slide by St. Cloud

By TONY DeSORMIER

Seminole's Robert Ruffin (No. 31) who rushed for 183 yards against Winter Park last week, followed that with a 117 yard effort against St. Cloud.

ST. CLOUD — They won't get any points for style, but the Seminole Fighting Seminoles did what they had to do Friday night, generating just enough offense and playing just enough defense to beat winless St. Cloud 24-0 in a 4A District 6 football clash at St. Cloud High School.

The victory the Tribe's third in a row improves Seminole to 4-1 overall, 1-0 in the district. The St. Cloud Bulldogs, 5A District 8 champions last season, falls to 0-6 overall, 0-2 in the district.

Seminole is a half game behind district leading Cypress Creek (4-1) which defeated Leesburg 17-12. Cypress Creek (4-1) which visits Seminole on Friday, Oct. 22, is 2-0 in the district while Leesburg (2-3) drops to 0-1 in the district. Leesburg visits St. Cloud on Oct. 22 and comes to Sanford on Nov. 5.

Next week, Seminole heads to Winter Park on Thursday night to help Lake Howell celebrate its homecoming. St. Cloud plays at Dr. Phillips Friday night.

While Seminole coach Ernie McPherson was pleased with the win, he was far from satisfied with the Tribe's performance.

"The buses were late getting to the school and we were late getting here," said McPherson. "As a result, we didn't have a chance to go through all of our whole pregame drills."

Miscues derail Greyhound comeback

By BILL KERNS

DELTONA — Tim Brantley's well-asserted miscues hampering a comeback by the young Lyman Greyhounds as they lost on the road to the Deltona Wolves 20-14 Friday night in a sloppy 5A District 4 contest at Deltona High School.

In the end of the way we came back in the second half, I told Lyman to do exactly what I did. But it just wasn't enough. We're going to have to find out what we did do wrong. We've got to work on being more consistent.

The loss drops Lyman to 1-3 overall and 1-2 in the district. The Wolves (1-1) improved to 3-1 in the district and in a three way tie for second with Lake Brantley and Oviedo behind front running DeLand (4-1) in the district.

Next Friday, the Greyhounds will visit the homecoming wolves game against Lake Mary that has district and Seminole Athletic Conference implications. Deltona will travel to Oviedo for a crucial district game against the Lions. Both games are scheduled to kick off at 7:30 p.m.

Lyman tumbled nine times, losing four of them, and fell behind 20-0. Yet with 3:30 remaining, one two-point drive could have given the Greyhounds a win.

Trailing 20-0 in the third quarter, Lyman came alive with a 10-play drive, keyed by Tommy Dixon's 55 yard pass to Willie Jones. Kenny Lane capped the drive with a touchdown.

Oviedo coach Jack Blanton credited the Lions' win over Lake Brantley to the outstanding play of the defense, which limited Jeff Butler (No. 35) and the Patriot offense to less than 200 yards and just three points.

The Patriots went into Friday night averaging over 325 yards of offense and nearly 27 points a game.

ATLANTONITE SPRINGS — Whoo! there it is, showing the popular phrase from a rap song in honor of the Oviedo High School Lions football team expressed its feelings Friday night after trouncing the district leading Lake Brantley Patriots 14-3 at Lake Brantley's Tom Storey Field.

The win improves the Lions (3-3 overall) to 3-1 in 5A District 4, good for a share of second with Lake Brantley (3-2, 3-1 in the district) and Deltona (which improved to 3-1 in the district) with its win over Lyman (1-3).

DeLand Bulldogs lead the pack with a 4-1 district mark.

Oviedo turned in a stellar defensive effort, shutting down Seminole County's top-scoring team, Lake Brantley, came into the game averaging 29.8 points per game.

Silver Hawks rally late but can't catch Creek

By ROGER HARNACK
Herald Correspondent

PORT ORANGE — Lake Howell caught fire midway through the third quarter, but it was too little too late for the Silver Hawks as they suffered a 12-7 loss at the hands of the home-standing Spruce Creek Hawks in a 5A District 4 football clash Friday night.

The Silver Hawks had an opportunity to win the game in the final two minutes but were twice denied. First, an apparent touchdown pass from Maurice Smith to Fred McCloud was negated by a holding penalty. Then, on the final play of the game, Jackson Patkus caught a Smith pass but came down out of the end zone.

Lake Howell defensive coordinator Bob Irvin was nearly speechless after the Silver Hawks were upset by Spruce Creek.

"We have to work harder, we have to play four quarters of football," Irvin said. "We have to play a whole game, not just now and then."

Irvin said the team was defeated by their own mistakes.

"Penalties hurt us," he said. "We had the winning touchdown and a penalty took it away. You just can't make mistakes like that and expect to win."

During the first half, Spruce Creek moved inside of the Lake Howell 25-yard line three times, but only came away with one touchdown when quarterback Tracy Holmes carried the ball over the goal line on a six yard dash to open the second quarter.

Josh McCoy blocked the extra point attempt.

Late in the second quarter, Spruce Creek was in scoring position again. This time, however, the Silver Hawks took the ball away as Joe Ferrer intercepted a Holmes pass on the goal line, preventing Spruce Creek from adding to its lead.

After faltering on two other scoring opportunities, Spruce Creek took a 6-0 lead to the locker room at halftime.

Fred McCloud (No. 5), whose potential game winning touchdown catch for Lake Howell was nullified by a holding penalty, personified the frustration and disbelief felt by the Silver Hawks after their 12-7 loss to Spruce Creek.

Pairings set for Playtime Darts finals
Special to the Herald
SANFORD — The finale of the five divisions in the Playtime Darts League Summer Season playoffs has been set.

Of the 10 teams left in the running, there are three teams from Bamboo Cafe, two teams each from Lake Mary Pub and Sir Walters and one team each from M.T. Muggs, Whiskey River and Uncle Nick's.

After an exchange of punts, Ruffin gave Seminole some breathing room with a breath-taking 48-yard touchdown run.

It's been a tough two weeks for Coach Larry Baker and his Lyman squad. Last week, Lyman was beaten by Edgewater, 27-7. This past Friday, he made a lot of mistakes. But I thought we could come back.

Towne Center Burdines to be state's forty-fourth

Editors note: This is the fifth and final report on anchor stores planned for the Seminole Towne Center Mall. A sixth anchor area is contained in the master plans for the mall and will be included as soon as contracts are finalized.

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Burdines presently has 43 stores operating in the state of Florida. The large number is the result of takeovers by the company of two other prominent retailers.

In August, 1991, Burdines took control of 12 stores operating as Maas Brothers, and four stores formerly operated under the Jordan Marsh nameplate.

The company was founded in 1898, and uses the slogan, "The Florida Store." It focuses its store locations in what are considered to be the fastest growing markets.

Overall, the full-line department stores average 130,000 square feet of selling space. At the Seminole Towne Center Mall, plans originally announced call for 160,000 square feet in a two-level store on the southwest end of the mall.

Recent proposals advanced to the City of Sanford by Melvin Simon and Associates, developers of the mall, called for a change in the site plan. The proposal seeks approval of larger space than originally planned for the entire mall structure, from a total of 1,250,000 square feet to 1,485,000 square feet.

It is not known at this time if the additional space will bring about any increase in the size of any anchor stores. If no changes are made, Burdines will be the second largest at the mall.

The Seminole Towne Center is located southeast of the intersection of Interstate 4 and W. S.R. 48, within the Sanford City Limits. It is scheduled to open Sept. 7, 1995.

Howard Socol has been chairman of Burdines since August 1984, after having been president of the division since August, 1981. He began his retailing career with Burdines in 1969 as an assistant buyer, and has worked his way through the ranks. Socol has been a principal at Burdines longer than any individual outside the actual Burdine family.

Latest figures available show 1992 sales at $1.183 billion. Overall, Burdines employs 11,600 persons.

The main headquarters is in Miami where two stores have been forced to close in the Cutler Ridge area because of Hurricane Andrew. One is temporarily closed. There are no plans to reopen the other.

In Central Florida, present Burdines operations are at the Altamonte Mall, as well as in Orlando, Daytona Beach, Lakeland, Merritt Island, Melbourne, and Winter Haven.

Oh, thank heaven for 7-11 Store helps out the Humane Society

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Humane Society has been given a donation of over $9,000 through combined efforts of 50 7-Eleven stores, mostly in the Seminole County service area.

The money was raised through in-store canister collections, and will be used in helping to rebuild the society's kennel, at 2800 County Home Road in Sanford, destroyed by fire this spring. The disaster killed over 70 puppies and dogs.

The drive was initiated by Lake Mary store manager Shawn Noonemacher and Longwood store manager Barbara Foley.

"We have been overwhelmed by the community's response to our tragedy," said Krista Morgan, executive director for the Humane Society of Seminole County, "and we greatly appreciate the tremendous support 7-Eleven and its customers have given us."

She continued, "The donation will certainly help with the rebuilding of our structure as we continue to provide good homes to many dogs, cats and other pets in Seminole County. With 7-Eleven's help, we stand ready to pick up the pieces and move forward."

Noonemacher said he was compelled to help the humane society when many of his customers began talking about the tragedy and discussing how they might make a difference.

"We heard the crying out of the communities," he said, "and we took action."

Foley said she and Noonemacher both called the 7-Eleven Orlando market office to get all the stores involved in raising money for the Humane Society.

Stores participating include those in Lake Mary, Longwood, Winter Springs, Casselberry, Altamonte Springs, Fern Park, DeLand and Sanford.

The Humane Society of Seminole County is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing 24-hour housing, food and medical care for abandoned, sick, injured, abused or unwanted animals of all kinds.

Show and luncheon to provide scholarship

At the very mention of fall, many a woman's thoughts turn to new threads to help fill that wardrobe that "doesn't have a thing to wear." After a long, hot summer in cool, casual clothing, fall heralds new beginnings including new attire.

Annually, the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. stages "Fashions for Education," to provide a scholarship for a deserving woman to return to the classroom of her choice.

But the exciting show, usually held in the spring, is a little different this year. Families will make their debuts and strut their stuff in colorful fashions befitting of the season.

Co-chairmen Viola Frank and DeLores Lash promise patrons a delightful show and luncheon, from 11:30 to 1 p.m., on Wednesday, Oct. 27, at the clubhouse. Exciting door prizes and table prizes will be offered in the charming clubhouse which will be decorated in a picturesque Victorian motif by Delilah Terranova, a Sanford antiques dealer.

The ultimate in formal and evening fashions will be provided by Forever Fashion in downtown Sanford. Expect the latest in gorgeous creations for that very special occasion, including weddings.

A sparkling variety of men's, women's and children's clothing from Beall's will be shown by local models.

The menu, catered by Buck's, will include: turkey divan (a succulent roll of broccoli, turkey and ham) with savory honey-mustard sauce, pasta salad, gelatin-fruit mold, tomato and egg wedges, chocolate mint parfait, rolls, tea and coffee.

DeLores Lash will serve as fashion commentator and Jean Metts will play background piano music. The committee

She is responsible for a wealth of information for all residents of Seminole County and the surrounding areas.

She is Barbara Hughes-Gregg, who recently received a coveted promotion, holds two titles and is employed by the University of Florida and Seminole County. Her most recent promotion has been to County Extension Director and she continues in her capacity as Extension Home Economist.

Gregg's promotion came through the University of Florida as the field of six qualified individuals from across the nation was narrowed down to three. The three were then interviewed on separate occasions at the university's campus in Gainesville. The appointment had to have the final approval of the Seminole County Commission. Gregg was given the promotion and took over her additional duties recently.

She explained how she looks forward to bringing more of the extension services to the forefront.

"We do lots of things in the cooperative extension services. I perceive that the responsibility will be to do a lot better media and public relations work to let the citizens and the county know what we are doing. I will be working hard to let everyone in the county know that we are here to give help and advise anyone that has a question, any question, about their environment. If we cannot answer that question, we have a wealth of information to draw from and are constantly in touch with the experts working out in the field," she said.

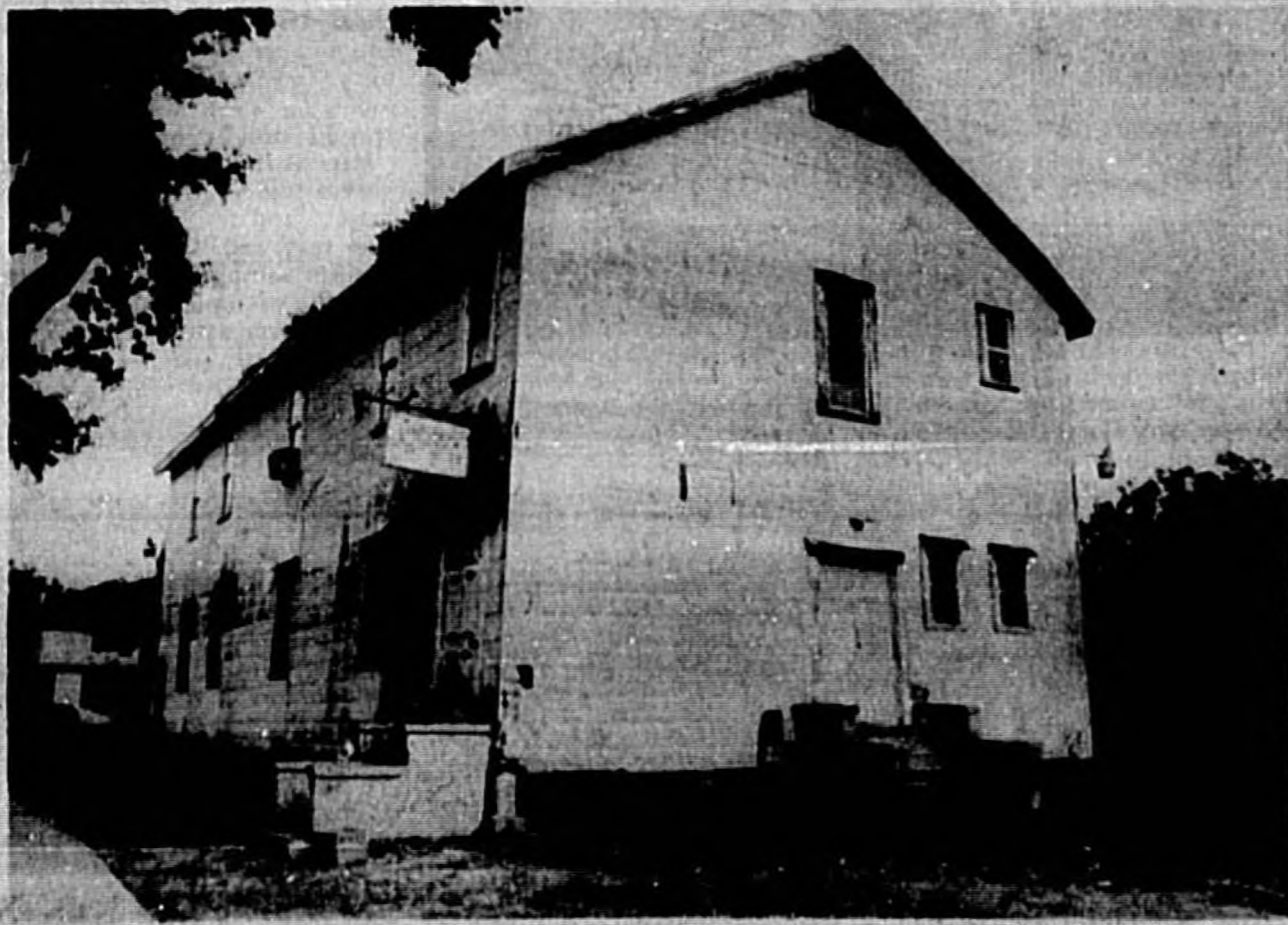

She added, "I am still the home economist, so I still have the home economics role which is to give the people of the county the non-biased, Sanford. She is presently employed as appraisal supervisor for Seminole County Property Appraiser's Office.

Her fiancé, born in Sherman, Texas, is the paternal grandson of Zachary and Beulah Davidchik of Sherman.

OSTEEN — Inez Collins celebrated her 96th birthday on Sept. 26.

Mrs. Collins, of Collins Road in Osteen, was surrounded by her family and friends as she celebrated a long and happy life.

The party was given by her daughters Joann Riggs and Dorothy Mero. Friends and five generations of her family gathered for dinner and a luscious birthday cake decorated with white icing and red flowers. Matching red streamers and red balloons added to the festive atmosphere of the party.

Some of her grandchildren traveled from as far away as California to celebrate their grandmother's birthday with her.

research-based information in the arts of home economics and to work with a cadre of volunteers called Family and Community Education Volunteers. They used to be called Extension Homemakers. I also do a lot of programs with people who work with low income groups."

Her work also includes advising such groups as Headstart, Christian Sharing Center, Catholic Social Services and Aid for Dependent Children. She teaches basic home economics so that it can be passed on to the people who would otherwise be able to receive such valuable information.

There is a horticulturist, a 4H agent and a multi-county vegetable agent in the Seminole County extension.

The horticulturist works with the residents of Seminole County and her major emphasis is called ELM, which is Environmental Landscape Maintenance. She is working on less water, fertilizer and pesticide use and trying to become proponents of native Florida plants like less grass and more mulching so that our ecosystems will have a better chance of becoming more stable.

She continued, "We get a lot of people who come to us that not only want to know about the landscaping, but have questions on such things as cockroaches, fleas and how to get rats out of an attic as well as finding out what types of plants can be used in the landscaping scheme. It is so hard to cover all the information that we have available, free of charge, to anyone who wants to stop by and pick it up."

Among their many services are classes on landscaping, pesticide training, waste water management and so many other interesting categories. It is just astounding as to the amount of information that is available at the County Extension Center.

A walk through the library discloses the information that is available. Such topics as food selection, how to mow and establish lawns, hydroponics, information on all types of insects, veterinary medicine for large animals and small pets, citrus information, water irrigation, home insurance and financing, budgeting, liquid fertilizers and how to use them, survival skills, nutrition, small engines programs, clothing for boys and girls and even information on personal computers.

One desk is still filled with literature that has recently come in on various research that has been done. The information is almost endless.

The information is also carried out into the fields to be taught. For an interesting experience, take advantage of a visit to the Seminole County Extension office on W. County Home Road between Highway 17-92 and Seminole Community College.

Gregg and her employees extend their welcome to anyone who has any questions concerning their living surroundings to stop by and let the staff be of service with information regarding a particular problem.

Wedding parties

Heidi Wisson of Virginia Beach, Va., and her fiancé, Wayne R. "Rusty" Keeling Jr., have returned to Virginia after visiting his parents, Linda and Wayne Keeling Sr. Rusty is in the United States Navy, stationed at nearby Norfolk.

While in town, Rusty and his cronies (some were members of the wedding party) rented a houseboat for 24 hours to cruise the St. Johns River as the traditional bachelor's party got under way. The buddies enjoyed a barbecue and having a final fling with Rusty before he is hitched. Incidentally, included in this party was the bridegroom's father who was just another one of the boys.

In the meantime, Kristi Marshall, Rusty's sister, hosted a surprise bachelorette party for Heidi and the girls in the wedding party. She rented a limo for eight hours which took the girls to popular night spots to dance the night away. They carried along trays of food to nibble on in the limo in case hunger set in. Mother Linda went along to keep the girls company and said she had the time of her life.

In the meantime, Wayne Sr.

tional PTA, will be held at Lake Mary Elementary School, the theme "If I Could Give the World A Gift." Last year, Lake Mary Elementary had a music awards winner.

Some of the cultural events planned are the Nutcracker Ballet in December, and a jazz concert with many musicians from Disney.

Lake Mary Elementary needs 256 more members to join the PTA in order to get the much coveted 100 Percent Award.

The Flipper Flash News should be kept by parents. It is chock full of information and because of the work that goes into it, only one can be sent home per family. The first one comes home in early October and will update you on all happenings in Lake Mary Elementary School as well as other helpful tips and information. So don't toss these newsletters out until you have given them some serious consideration. Lake Mary Elementary is very proud of their recent acquisitions of three new CD ROM.

Lake Mary Elementary School wishes to thank Bob Evans Restaurant and Chili's Restaurant for providing the "Raffle" certificate on the night of the PTA meeting.

Lake Mary High School held Open House for parents, on Sept. 21 to meet their children's teachers by following their schedules, finding out about the school and getting involved.

The auditorium was packed to the rafters and then some, with parents crowded in the halls and at all doorways trying to listen to what was being said in the auditorium. There were welcome speeches from different groups, entertainment segments, such as a slice of the upcoming Neil Simon play "Barefoot in the Park" to whet appetites to come and support the drama classes.

The president of the Booster Club told of the club's huge responsibility in raising funds at football games with RamBrugers, Poinsettia sales in December, T-shirt and sweat shirt sales with funds point to complete such things as needed on a campout, for forest support, for the band, scholarships and many more worthwhile causes.

There was mention of several membership plans to help students "get to know what's going on around the high school community."

Six dancers entertained prior to the president of the Lake Mary High School student government speaking and informing parents that every Monday after school they had a meeting. A few students from band entertained (the entire band consists of approximately 188 students).

Announcements were made regarding becoming a Dividend, also about PTSA and that they have a very active board. There is teacher appreciation in the spring and the newsletter comes every four to six weeks. Watch for it.

The varsity cheerleaders gave a demonstration of a couple of cheers for GO RAMS. The Odyssey show choir performed two terrific numbers and then all stood for the Lake Mary High School alma mater song.

At this point, parents were invited to visit their students' classes by having seven minutes to find the class following their student's schedule and then having eight minutes in each class.

When the parents arrived in the classroom the teacher in that particular class gave an overview of what work was going on, what tests had been taken, what was going on from there, the tests that were coming up and what was expected of the students.

For example, in Mr. Liken's honors biology class, a big test was coming up in the next couple of days and a long term assignment of 16 current events pertaining to biology were on going.

In Ms. Fischer's math/algebra class, parents were notified that their students had homework everyday, including weekends for about 30-40 minutes. What students were faced with when tardiness became a problem.

In Mrs. Blatt's honor English class, the books used in this course were discussed and that a lot of writing would start the following week when students started into a novel, possibly "Hiroshima." Expectation sheets told of the final writing project and the grading system was reviewed. This was just a minute sampling of the myriad amount of topics each teacher had to cover with parents during this Open House. A most informative and enlightening evening.

Nobody really knows how to abbreviate next century

DEAR ABBY: I called our post office to find out how we might have to write the abbreviated date for the year 2000. We thought that 8/24/00 might be right, but that does not tell the exact year.

Would you and your staff tell us what would be right when the next seven years have elapsed? Thanks.

ADVICE
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

MRS. O. DODD, RAYMOND, WASH.

DEAR MRS. DODD: My staff checked at the library, where various style manuals and language usage guides were consulted. But none made any mention of what to do with abbreviations for the year 2000. The librarian then called both the Keith Clark Corp. and Success Business Industries (both major manufacturers of calendars) and asked them what they are planning to do.

According to their "best educated guesses," they would abbreviate Sept. 1, 2000, as 9/1/00 — but then admitted that they had not really thought about this yet, either.

When someone comes up with a definitive answer, it will be about time!

DEAR ABBY: In 1972, I was a 45-year-old man with a terrible hangover, sitting at my desk, trying to correct the horrendous mistake that had just gotten me fired. The night before, I'd been thrown out of my house by my wife, who had made good her promise to file for divorce. Besides that, my physician advised me that I was drinking myself to death, and my priest said I was on my way to hell if I didn't quit drinking.

I looked up Alcoholics Anonymous in the phone book, dialed the number and said I had a friend that needed help.

Seeing through my subterfuge, I was asked, "Do you need help?" I broke into tears and confessed that I did.

Today, with 21 years of sobriety, I have a new career, a new hope — a new family and new home — thanks to that one phone call that changed my life forever.

of Leonard and Emma Vihlen, natives of Sweden, who came to America in 1871 when General Henry S. Sanford brought two contingents of Swedes to the Upsala area. Most historians credit an industrious south Florida real estate developer, Julia Tuttle, for creating Miami in an area formerly known as Fort Dallas. Julia was responsible for getting rail magnate Henry Flagler to extend his Florida East Coast Railroad to Miami. Flagler also constructed the Royal Palm Hotel in Miami.

still living is Alice. She is the wife of Gustaf Nordgren, and is a resident of the DeBary Nursing Home.

After her very early years in Miami, Olga's parents realized the climate there did not agree with them. The family returned to the Upsala area and took up residence in the "old home place" on what is now Vihlen Road where Sidney Sr. still lives.

The Vihlen children had two cousins in Miami who were nurses. At various times each of them worked for the outstanding Miami physician Dr. James M. Jackson. He is the man for whom the famed medical center, owned jointly by Dade County and the University of Miami, is named — Jackson Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Jackson was also the physician who delivered the youngest daughter of former Sanford mayor and banker Forrest Lake and his wife Maude. She was named Sarita. Jackson Memorial is also where Doris, the sister of Sanford and Lake Mary's Buddy Lake (no relation to the Forrest Lake) earned her medical degree.

When 18, Olga worked for Dr. Bowers who owned and operated Bower's Drug Store on the northeast corner of First and Park and which later became known as Roumillat and Anderson's.

Olga married Charles E. Hunter of Sanford and they parented two daughters. Olga's husband and both daughters are deceased but she has one granddaughter and one grandson.

The Upsala Swedish Presbyterian Church, at one time located immediately on the corner of State Road 46-A and Upsala Road, founded in 1893, not long ago was about to be demolished. Olga enlisted the aid of several civic and political leaders, including Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, and the structure was saved by moving it to another location on the same property.

Olga is very proud of the fact that she had a part in saving the church building which is considered so much a part of the history of the early Swedish settlement in Sanford.

One observer at the birthday reception remarked: "Olga seems to be more agile, looks less her age, and appears sharper in mind." than a majority of the old-timers who were present to honor her on achieving this milestone in her life.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bode Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 10, 1993

This might be a very interesting year for you where your earnings are concerned. If you handle yourself properly, there are indications you could make more money than you ever have previously.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're entering a cycle where your hopes and expectations could become realities. Do not leave everything up to Lady Luck, however. There's a key role she expects you to play. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have a dependable friend who will help you further your interests today. His/her support will be behind the scenes, but will become more visible if needed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today your mental processes are like a sponge and you're able to absorb knowledge through personal experiences. What you learn first hand you'll use to your advantage at a later date.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Fitting yourself into something good others have going for them is your best asset today. Happily your presence and input will be as welcomed as rain in a dry spell.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your skills as a negotiator have improved over the past month. This should become evident today when you hammer out an agreement with another.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Persons you've recently helped are eager to pay you back in some manner at this time. They want to do more for you than you did for them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something both pleasant and a bit extraordinary might develop for you today through two of your social contacts. It could have far reaching effects.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The life span of a rewarding endeavor can be extended at this time if you work out a way to do so. It will take a little imagination and cooperation from persons with whom you're involved.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you have an important matter to discuss with another, this evening in a social setting is the best time and way to do so. Lead up to your subject gradually.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Something beneficial that could enhance your material security or add to your holdings might develop for you today. It may come as a surprise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Some good news you've been expecting but as yet hasn't arrived could break through for you today. Chances are it will occur after lunch time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Instead of trying to make things happen your way today, let events take their natural course. You could come out better in situations you didn't design or control.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 11, 1993

Some adjustments might be required in the year ahead to facilitate the achievement of your goals. Don't be afraid to make changes if they improve the quality of your targets.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If situations get testy today, you're the person who can be relied upon in the crunch. However, not even you may be able to get things totally back on track. Major changes are ahead for Libra in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be realistic in analyzing critical data today. Don't let your logic be overruled by wishful thinking. See things for what they actually are.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a possibility you might operate at extremes today where your resources are concerned. In one instance you may be prudent and cautious, while in another you could be wild and extravagant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Once you've achieved your objectives today, be sure to consolidate them. Don't let success slip through your fingers because of a weak grip.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today's experiences might be a trifle unusual. You could be disappointed in an area where your expectations are high, yet you may derive advantages from a seemingly lost cause.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Two friends of yours might get together for something special today and not include you in the event. Don't let your anger or jealousy cause you to react in an unattractive manner.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Self-sufficiency is essential today. Relying upon persons you know from past experience make promises they fail to deliver is an error in judgment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be considerate of persons with whom you're involved today if you're the one who is calling the shots. Don't ask things of them you wouldn't do yourself or suddenly withdraw your support.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Innately you're a bit of a risk taker and this inclination frequently works for your benefit. Today, however, you might really throw caution to the winds and do something rather foolish.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Success could be denied you today if your's and your mate's objectives are not in harmony. If you don't pull together you may pull yourselves apart.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Maintain a positive outlook today, even if that which you initially attempt isn't pulled off successfully. Early mistakes can be rectified.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be extremely prudent in the management of your resources at this time and try not to take gambles where investments are concerned. Your judgment in this area might be faulty.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

It is said that a mathematician is over the hill at 20. A chess player reaches his peak around 30. But in bridge, senior citizens win world and national titles. Waldemar von Zedtwitz won the World Mixed Teams Championship at the age of 74. And Oswald Jacoby won the Reisinger when 81 years old. Experience counts for a lot in bridge.

Carlos Cabanne, who is 70, has represented Argentina on numerous occasions. He played today's deal during this year's South American Championships, where Argentina lost to Brazil in the final.

West led the heart king, making it obvious that he was void in clubs. Resisting the temptation to win with dummy's ace and discard a club, Cabanne ruffed in hand. He drew trumps in four rounds, discarding two clubs from the dummy. Then he played off three rounds of spades.

Here West won the last with the queen and had only hearts left. He led the queen, but Cabanne didn't win with dummy's ace or ruff in hand. Instead, he played low from the dummy and discarded a club from hand.

Now West had to lead away from his heart jack into dummy's A-10. Cabanne, therefore, could discard his last two club losers and make his contract.

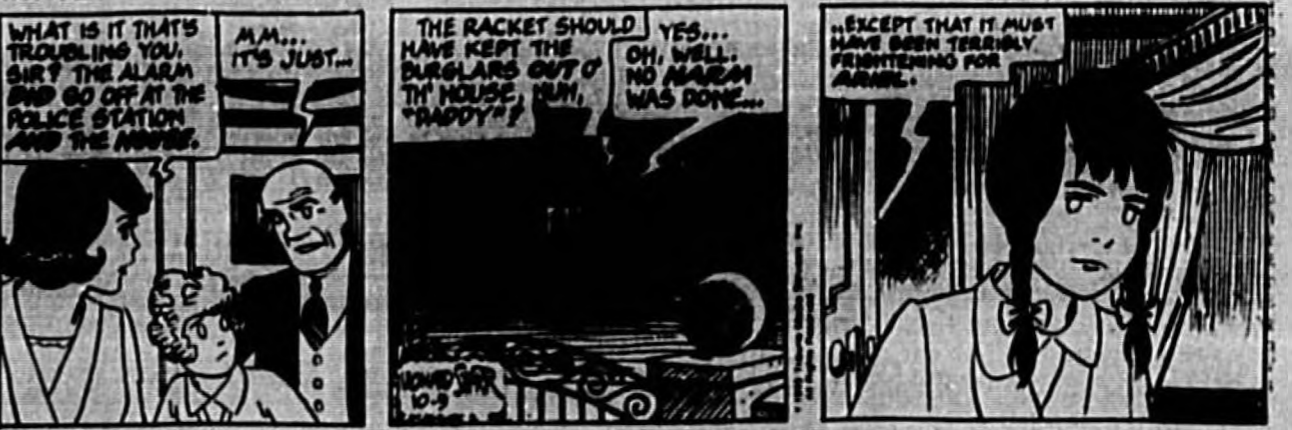

Suppose East has queen doubleton of spades. On the third round of spades to dummy's jack, West is in a dilemma. If he keeps a winning spade, he can be endplayed as in the actual deal. If he retains the spade two to avoid the endplay, declarer cashes the heart ace and has 11 tricks: six diamonds, one heart and four spades.

Garage Sale Guidelines
1. Advertise what people want! Children's clothing, dishes, collectibles, tools, books and antiques are the most popular items.
2. Make it convenient to shop at your garage sale! Put signs in the neighborhood with directions to parking area. Make arrangements with neighbors.
3. Make it easy to pay! Have plenty of change and a system for handling. Make sure one person is on duty at all times at a centralized location (preferably with a calculator or adding machine).
4. Provide plenty of shade. Do not make every person ask, 'How much is this?' Prices make for quick, effective sales or a good place for customers to start bargaining.
5. Get an early start. Set up displays the evening before, if possible.
6. Departmentalize. Separate the inexpensive items from the more costly areas. Group furniture, clothing, toys, lawn equipment and other items with similar merchandise.
7. Specialize. Establish one area for 'Under $5', another 'Under $1'. Consider having a batch of items that are 'FREE with purchase of $5'. Remember the youngsters, too. Encourage them with small, low-priced items that are appropriate for this purpose.
8. Time your sale carefully! Have it at a time when most people are at home and unconcerned with special events.
9. Combine your efforts! Invite in your own sale with a nearby garage sale.
10. Be specific! When advertising your sale in the newspaper, list individual items. Don't simply say, 'several things available.' Each time you list an item, you are broadening the list of potential customers.
11. Be generous! If you have items left over, give them to a charitable organization. If you see that someone has not moved their items, reach them down during the last hour. Remember, the prime reason for holding the sale is to turn your unwanted items into cash!
