Divers Recover More Shuttle Wreckage

Brevard Medical Examiner Wants In On Autopsies

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - Navy divers worked today to recover more remains of the Challenger astronauts and wreckage from their shattered cabin amid concern about who has the authority to perform autopsics.

Some human remains already have been returned to shore for analysis, sources said, but NASA is maintaining its tight-lipped no-comment policy until all significant debris is recovered and the crew remains identified.

reportedly was upset that military pathologists would be conducting autopsies to identify remains when, by law, state officials are required to participate.

The Brevard County medical examiner's office

Officials said Loudie McHenry, the local medical examiner, planned to issue a statement today. He could not be reached for comment.

But William Braatz, an official with the state Medical Examiners Commission in Tallahassee, said federal and state officials had discussed a joint operation.

"It is my understanding that the district medical examiner's office was in contact with the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology and an agreement was reached that the autopsy would be a joint documentation," he said.

"They agreed they were going to do it together." Any Florida autopsy, the investigating officer is not only encouraged but dang near required to attend the autopsy. It's not a private kind of secretive sort of procedure."

He said in his opinion, the state could file suit if the medical examiner was excluded from the examination of remains.

Divers from the USS Preserver, a Navy salvage ship spearheading the recovery effort, spent Tuesday afternoon working on the debris-littered seabed and returned to the grim task early today.

Hughes Rebuffs Parents On Zoning

Saying his 'mind is made up. Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes rebuffed a contingent of about 20 parents Tuesday who said they want their children to attend the new Greenwood Lakes Middle School.

The parents, unhappy that students in their northwest Lake Mary area are designated for the Lakeview Middle School attendance zone instead of the closer Greenwood Lakes, and saying they are frustrated that Hughes would not return their calls, met Tuesday morning to organize their final push for their childrens' inclusion at Greenwood Lakes.

At that meeting, the group decided to confront Hughes and drove to the county school offices. Hughes was in a conference, which he interrupted to hear the parents' concerns.

No-Show Trooper Must Pay Witness Costs

By Deane Jordan Herald Staff Writer

A Florida Highway Patrol trooper found in contempt of court in February and punished for missing a DUI manslaughter trial has been ordered to pay $991 in witness costs.

Trooper James Mauney was ordered by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler to pay expenses for three prosecution witnesses who flew from California to Florida for the aborted July 15 trial. Mauney, whose testimony was crucial evidence required by the state to seek a DUI manslaughter conviction, was diving off the coast of Florida the day the trial was to start. His absence forced the state to plea bargain with the defendent. Michael Behnke, 19, of Sanford. Behnke pleaded no contest to a lesser charge of vehicular homicide and was sentenced in September to a year in the county fail. If convicted of DUI manslaughter he could have received a maximum sentence of 15

City, County To Discuss Waste Treatment Study

By Sarah Fischer and Karen Talley Herald Staff Writers

The Yankee Lake site under county ownership "has the potential to meet Sanford's wastewater treatment needs, but a lot depends on how the DER (Florida Department of Environmental Regulation) reviews the report." County Environmental Services Director Jim Bible said today, referring to a newlycompleted engineering study of the proposed Seminole County northwest regional wastewater treatment plant.

The $440,000 Yankee Lake study is expected to be the focus of the joint meeting Friday at 1 p.m. at Sanford city hall.

It is not known whether or not Sanford will find it feasible to participate in the type of system planned, although the question will be addressed Friday when city and county commissioners and staff meet to discuss the

'Sanford is waiting until then." said Sanford Engineering and Planning Director Bill Simmons. "It's the county's ballgame."

Simmons said he has "skimmed through" the six-inch thick county study and prefers to reserve comment until the joint meeting.

"We're walting to see if the county will handle our effluent and, if so, what up front capital costs we'd be responsible for and what we would be charged for subsequent operation and maintenance," he said.

The city had estimated it would cost $15 million to implement a waste disposal system at Yankee Lake and lay transmission lines property to the city, 51mmons

"Cost remains a major consideration" for enford, according to Simmons. "If they do that offer would be a financially viable on for the city."

County officials will present the the voluminous report by Camp. Dresser and McKee Inc. to DER Wednesday. County commissioners heard a presentation of the report by engineers with the Maitland firm at their work session Tuesday morning.

The study is the first step in the construction of the county's regional sewage plant, an issue which has sparked controversy since the county purchased the land from Jeno Paulucci last November, it is also hoped the study will further talks between the county and Sanford. which also wants the 2,867-acre site for its own wastewater management program. The city made one attempt to take the land by condemnation, but was rebuffed in court over a procedural matter. The city has not decided whether to renew the condemnation effort although it plans to return to court to argue for reconsideration of the original suit's dismissal.

The preliminary design of the plant, included in the report which the county authorized in November, is expected to give the county some idea of disposal capacity at the site for not only the county's use, but possibly Sanford and Lake Mary as well.

County officials have said the study will help the county plan transmission systems to receive and return effluent flow to nearby development as well as pinpoint the exact

No Holiday, But 'Serious Celebration'

Sanford will not give city employees a day off for Martin Luther King's birthday, but will mark the occasion with a "serious celebration" of the man and his deeds.

"It should not be anything frivilous," Mayor Bettye Smith said of the observance the city will plan, "It should be a serious celebration that stresses peace and brotherhood and serves to educate all of us about one another.

The city will call upon its Human Relations Advisory Board to help arrange the event, which the mayor said will probably be held at the Sanford Civic Center during either the weekend before or after King's Jan. 18 birth date. The decision to conduct the observance follows a request the city commission received last month from local representatives of the NAACP.

The organization asked commissioners to formally declare King's birthday a holiday and give city employees the day off.

A subsequent employee poli showed, however, that staff overwhelmingly preferred not to amend their present holiday See HOLIDAY, page 6A

Duality of Views On Pornography

In a period of less than two days, the U.S. Supreme Court seemed to make two opposite decisions on pornography cases. On Feb. 24, the court threw out an Indianapolis ordinance that permitted an array of civil penalties against the makers and sellers of any explicitly sexual materials that depict women as servile, submissive, or enjoying pain or humiliation. The Supreme Court didn't publish an opinion in the case, but it issued 'summary affirmance" of a lower court decision that had found that this kind of pornography, reprehensible as it might be, was protected by the First Amendment's guarantee of free speech.

The lower court said that the treatment of women in such pornography "leads to affront and lower pay at work, insult and injury at home and rape on the streets." But even speech that is powerful, indeed dangerous. the court ruled, must be protected. If government is allowed to choose what is too dangerous for the public to see or hear it will become the "censor and director of which thoughts are good for us."

But then on the following day, the Supreme Court upheld a zoning ordinance adopted by the city of Renton, Wash., that closed an 'adult" movie house. That ordinance prohibits such businesses from locating within 1,000 feet of a home, church, school or park. In Renton, the only place left was the town's Industrial section. But discriminatory as that was against the same kind of speech the Indianapolis decision protected, the court said that Renton had the right to pass such an ordinance.

Those two decisions might seem inconsistent, but there were notable differences in the two situations. Indianapolis was effectively silencing speech; Renton was only inconvemiencing the speakers. Indianapolis was breaking new legal ground in creating a new category of illegal speech that, obnoxious as it is, is not "obscene" by the court's past definition and therefore could not, under past decisions, be outlawed. Renton was playing only a variation on a theme that the Supreme Court had already permitted in 1976, when it allowed Detroit to regulate the location of "adult" businesses. Indianapolis was punishing speech on the basis of its content — and, indeed, using definitions so vague that much of the great literature of the world might have fallen under its penalties. Renton was, officially at least, discriminating not so much on the basis of what a speaker said as on the basis of what land-uses are compatible in the community. In the circumstances, the court's decisions are understandable - in fact, sensible. If the Indianapolis ordinance has been allowed to stand, there would hve been no discernible barrier left between free speech and some community censor's notion of what people ought to be permitted to see and hear - a turn of events potentially far more dangerous than pornography is. But by the same token, if Renton-style zoning ordinances had not been allowed to stand, there would have been little distinction a community could make between tolerating pornography, as it must for the sake of freedom, and being overrun by it, as it could be if it had no control over its outlets.

Presidential Race: Jocks In The Ballot Box?

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Anyone who still doubts the 1988 presidential campaign already is in high gear need only obtain a copy of the March issue of Playboy magazine.

Among the nude photographs that venerable periodical has a fully clothed article - "A Jock for President?" - speculating what the race two years hence might be like if Sen. Bill Bradley ran against Rep. Jack Kemp.

It isn't likely to happen, of course.

My negative reaction is based on more than the fact that different sports are represented. Bradley being a former professional basketball player with the New York Knicks, whereas Kemp played quarterback with the Buffalo Bills. a professional football team.

It is the lack of a geographic differential that primarily - ah, there, George Bush and Jesse Jackson - works against them.

Kemp, a Republican, represents an upstate New York district and Bradley, a Democrat, is a senator from New Jersey.

How long has it been since candidates from adjoining Northeastern states were nominated? Not since someone invented the Midwest and the Far West certainly.

There is more to the old ticket-balancing trick than merely making sure running mates come from different parts of the country. That also has been true in modern times of the candidates who headed the rival slates.

All recent White House occupants climbed to power on the backs of opponents from another section of the nation.

Dwight Eisenhower of New York beat Adlai Stevenson of Illinois: Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts beat Richard Nixon of California. who eventually beat Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and George McGovern of South Dakota: Jimmy Carter of Georgia beat Jerry Ford of Michigan, but lost to Ronald Reagan of California. Which brings us up to date.

Dwight Eisenhower of New York? I know what you are going to say. You thought lke was from Kansas. So did l.

But historians list Eisenhower as a New York Republican and who are we to quarrel with history? It is better to stick to political speculation.

This brings us back to Bradley and Kemp. Playboy notes that Kemp "was the kind of quarterback more highly regarded by other ballplayers than by the press or the fans."

Although I can't say how he is now regarded by other politicians and the voters. Kemp is considered by the press to be one of the leading contenders for the 1988 GOP presidential nomination.

The magazine reports that although "Bradley may not be running — yet," his high school principal once opined: "With the help of hisfriends, Bill could very well be president of the United States. And without the help of his friends, he might make it anyway.'

For reasons already cited, I can't see a Bradley-Kemp race, but I do agree that, Harry Belafonte to the contrary. "We are going to have more and more celebrities in politics." Most non-celebrity candidates can't hit the hoop, throw a pass or sing a lick.

Coffee Creamer Hazards

By Rob Stein UPI Science Writer

BOSTON (UPI) - Coffee drinkers using non-dairy creamers in the belief the products help fend off heart attacks may be doing themselves more harm than good.

Many creamers bill themselves as "cholesterol-free." But doctors say they actually include ingredients that prompt the body to produce excess amounts of cholesterol, which can clog arteries and cause heart disease.

"When these companies advertise their creamers as cholesterol-free. I'm certain many people use them because they think they're doing themselves a cardiovascular favor. said Dr. Bruce M. McManus of the University of Nebraska Medical Center. "But that is far from proven and is likely to be untrue."

McManus and an associate surveyed the ingredients of 25 brands of non-dairy creamers and found that most were made from animal proteins and contained coconut oil for flavoring and texture. McManus

While vegetable proteins help the body reduce cholesterol, animal proteins cause the body to produce more cholesterol, McManus said. Coconut oils, moreover, contain high levels of saturated fatty acids. which also make the body produce cholesterol, he said.

Although the body needs cholesterol, excess amounts can deposit in the arteries, causing hardening of the arteries and heart attacks.

"They're advertised as cholesterol-free as if they're healthy for you, but saturated fat intake above a certain level is as important and probably more important than one's intake of cholesterol in determining your blood levels of cholesterol," said McManus, who outlined his warning in a letter to The New England Journal of Medi-

"Non-dairy creamers represent a kind of advertising that goes on in the food industry that certainly inadvertently misleads the public into using a product." he said.

James Summers of the Food and Drug Administration said that while current regulations bar the use of the phrases "no cholesterol" or "cholesterol-free" on food products, the regulation is often unenforced.

"I am aware that there are certain products that may have the cholesterol statement on the label," said Summers. "There are other priorities we have and I would not think this would be among the high

Chamber Rules Defended

By Leon Daniel

WASHINGTON (UPI) - His detractors brand liberal Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., a maverick who can be just plain ornery, but they concede his eloquence in defending Senate rules that assure a hearing for minoriy views.

hulking, disheveled man Weicker rose to defend those rules during the recent debate on televising proceedings in the

"I do not have allies in terms of numbers, either on my side of the aisle or on the Democratic side," he told his colleagues. "My allies are the rules of the U.S. Senate."

Weicker helped defeat a rules change — tied to the television resolution - that would have allowed three-fifths of the senators present to adopt a motion requiring that amendments be related to the subject matter of the bills to which they are attached.

Proponents argued the change was needed to streamline the Senate's business in the television age, but Weicker said it would prevent senators from getting a fair hearing for unpopular views.

A staunch proponent of Senate TV, which ultimately was adopted on a trial basis without drastic erosion of the rules. Weicker said he found it "very demeaning that this is a horse-trading situation between television and the Senate rules."

Those rules, he said, assure the free flow of ideas during the consideration of legislation.

"No matter how unpopular the view of one of our colleagues, he or she should be heard because, indeed, they might be right, and if not now, maybe in the future," said Weicker, speaking without notes and pacing as far as the cord on his

"We want to be cured of our ills tomorrow," he said. "We want to eat within the next minute. We want the U.S. Senate to go ahead and make its decisions so we can all get to our televisions in time to watch either the soaps or whatever the mini-series is for the evening."

Weicker said that on Thomas Jefferson's return from France, he called George Washington to account at the breakfast table for having agreed to a second chamber.

"Why did you pour that coffee into the saucer?" Weicker said, quoting - perhaps loosely - the father of the country.

"To cool it," said Jefferson. "Even so," said Washington, "we pour legislation into the senatorial saucer to cool it." If politics makes strange bed-fellows, one of the oddest couplings is Weicker and Rep. William Armstrong, R-Colo., who moved to strike the proposed rule change from the TV package.

Welcker often has used the rule in fighting Armstrong and other conservatives on such issues as abortion and school prayer. But it was, Armstrong who rose first to praise Weicker's address.

Armstrong called it "absolutely one of the finest explanations, really one of the most eloquent and thoughtful presentations of what it means to be a senator, of what this institution means and particuarly how one person who is willing to stand up when the whole crowd is going the other way can make a difference.

Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia, who supported the rules change, nevertheless rose to say Weicker's address in defense of the rules "was one of the most eloquent and effective speeches 1 have heard since I have been in the

A Toll Of The

DALLAS (NEA) - Behold the Dallas North Tollway, a metaphor for an era in which public services previously available to all now are reserved for those willing and able to pay for them. In palmier times - notably the mid-1950s, when the federal government seemed to have an endless supply of money - the nation embarked upon construction of an ambitious 42,500-mile Interstate Highway System. The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956 boosted Washington's share of construction costs from 60 percent to 90 percent and created a Highway Trust Fund. That fund was to be a continuous source of funding for an Interstate system whose final cost would exceed $114 Today, the Highway Trust Fund is spending money faster than it can collect it, even though no major new projects have been initiated in recent years. The Interstate system will be completed (slightly more than 1,000 miles remain unfinished) but twothirds of the trust fund's annual expenditures now go for repair and rehabilitation of existing roads. "Only limited federal aid remains to construct new roadways not on the Interstate system," says the Congressional Budget Office in a recent report on the toll alternative. "Under current policy," adds CBO, "states and localities bear primary responsibility for providing the new highway capacity that will be needed to accommodate the estimated 50 percent increase in traffic expected by the year 2000."

So in this era of limits, user fees and budget constraints, toll roads are making a comeback. These facilities thrived in the nation's carly years but subsequently were discouraged by federal officials because too many owners and operators abused their monopoly power in the 19th century.

A 1915 federal law specifically prohibited any government financial assistance to toll facilities, but a number of exceptions were allowed - including almost 2,700 miles of toll segments incorporated in the Interstate system.

Mexico Ready For Free Enterprise

By Jack Anderson And

attempt to save his country from economic collapse, Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid appears to be following some advice President Reagan gave him in a private meeting early this year: Give private enterprise a chance to pull Mexico back from the brink of disaster.

The one-on-one meeting between the two heads of state took place Jan. 3 in Mexicali. Mexico, just across the California border. The 75-minute discussion dealt with Mexico's crushing $97 billion foreign debt - and the need for U.S. help just to pay the annual interest of nearly $10 billion.

Mexico is the world's fourth largest oil producer, and oil accounts for 70 percent of its export earnings. As the price of oil continues to plummet, de la Madrid's initial austerity measures are pathetically inadequate. In a recent interview, Reagan gave us his account of what he told the Mexican president, starting with Reagan's assurance that "they are a neighbor and we have too much in common for us not to be concerned about their situation.'

The president continued: "I was talking to him about how the secret of success or greatness in any country has literally been based on their willingness to import money and people. And it's the secret of the United States - the people who have come to us, but also the investment from abroad when we were a pioneer nation with nothing but raw resources to go on.'

Reagan, who has been selling private enterprise successfully since his days with General Electric, appeared to have struck out with de la Madrid - at first. The Mexican president, Reagan said, "cited to me the fact that so much of their structure is based on ancient Spanish laws." This may be questionable history:

Since at least 1910, Mexico, wary of exploitation and foreign domination, has had strict rules prohibiting foreigners from majority ownership of Mexican companies. That has had an understandably discouraging effect on would-be foreign investors. In addition, the Mexican government has expropriated many industries over the years, and in 1982 nationalized a large part of what private enterprise was left.

But Reagan was not put off. He told de la Madrid "about places where, if investors could be assured that they could own property, that they could control it as they could in this country," they would be eager to invest. The president told us he mentioned "places like Baja - what a great resort that could be.

De la Madrid again demurred, said Reagan, citing "the tradition of these ancient laws that made it difficult for government to give this freedom of private ownership and

"Well," Reagan told us., "until they're ready to challenge these laws, I think they're going to have problems in today's world of readjusting and having the kind of economic growth that they could have. The potential is there.

Since their January meeting, de la Madrid appears to have had second thoughts. In a television speech Feb. 21, the Mexican president announced that his government will divest itself of even more stateowned companies than the 236 it sold last year. He said trade will also be liberalized.

Our sources predict that this announcement portends farreaching "structural changes" that will include majority ownership of corporations by selected foreign companies.

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) -Comptroller Gerald Lewis announced a new toll-free hotline Tuesday to field questions from consumers about financial services and potential fraud involving banks or securities.

Lewis said the hotline is the brainchild of the commission he named last summer to evaluate Florida securities regulations and draft a plan of attack against securities fraud.

Former Gov. Reubin Askew is chairman of the commission, which is set to release its full recommendations within a few weeks.

Consumers may use the hotline to ask general questions about investments, banking. mortgage brokers, consumer finance companies and companies that issue money orders and traveler's checks. Lewis said.

He said the toll free line is 1-800-848-3792. Out-of-state residents may call 904-488-0286, a toll number. The service is open Monday through frinday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"Public awareness is our best defense against fraud." Lewis said at a news conference. "Also we are using the hotline to monitor complaints which can lead us to possible illegal operations in the early stages.

He added: "It is far better to stop fraud when it is getting started than after the investors have lost their money." He said state law prohibits his office from commenting on the relative safety of a bank or the value of one investment over another. But hotline staff may tell callers whether or not an investment agent or company is registered with the comptroller's office or is under investigation. He said questions outside his juridiction will be referred to the appropriate agency.

Friendly ice cream cone. Those who read 12 books will have a book donated to their school's library in their name from the restaurant chain.

"We're really excited about this," said Friendly corporate manager James E. Fiola, who flew in from the corporate headquarters in Wilbraham, Massachusetts. He said that in three districts where the program has been conducted so far, over a quarter-million books have been read, and 11,757 books have been donated to schools by the chain.

Two districts in Massachusetts, and one in Virginia have been involved in the progam, and he is pleased with the success.

"The challenge is to encourage students to read for entertainment, instead of sitting in front of the television." Flola said. "Sure, we use the ice cream as an incentive, but there are a lot of benefits by getting children to read for fun.'

Another incentive of the program are the "bookchats", he says. "The chats become a one-on-one exchange between an adult and a child."

The bookchats take the place of written book reports, and the district's dividend volunteers spend time with the students and review what has been read.

As part of the program, Bob McGrath of the television show Sesame Street will appear at some of the participating schools in April. McGrath is a spokesman for the effort, according to Fiola.

"More than 9 million children know him from Sesame Street," Fiola said. "The children believe his message that reading is important. He is an ambassador of sorts to promote recreational reading."

Fiola said that while only three central Florida Friendly Restaurants are open now, there will be a dozen by year's end, and 26 are projected to be open in 36 months.

"We are a family oriented restaurant, and we want to be recognized for that image, he said.

"We don't take on the roll of educators. Our roll is as a catalyst in helping kids to enjoy reading for fun," Fiola said.

Myrna Walters, Seminole County schools Consulting Coordinator of Elementary Reading and Language Arts. said the program has taken a year to develop in Seminole County Schools. She went to one of the Virginia districts last year, to see the program operate in the system there, and decided it could be of benefit to schools and students here.

"Fifty-percent of the children read 12 books there. Since that district was of similar size and population as here. It was a challenge for us to do better. It is our hope that two-thirds to three-quarters of our participating students in the ten schools will read 12 books." She said she hoped the schools will earn up to 5,000 books through the program. She also said wanted book titles for the school libraries have already been selected.

amount of effluent that can be disposed of at the site.

They said the facility will be able to take back some effluent from the entities who treat their sewage at the plant, but not necessarily all of the sewage that will be treated.

According to the study, the county will have the first phase of the construction operational by the end of 1987 at a cost of $13-$15 million, Bible said. Other phases will be built as development occurs, he said.

The county expects to have five million gallons per day treatment capacity as a result of phase one, and there is the potential to treat between 30 and 40 million gallons per day at the Yankee Lake facility, Bible said.

As for disposal, the site will have a two million gallons per day capacity during phase one through the use of a rapid infiltration system, he said. The study calls for the county to build basins which hold effluent after advanced wastewater treatment and allow it to filter through the soil as a method of disposal, Bible explained.

By developing a wetlands system at the site, the county would bring the disposal capacity up to 10-12 million gallons per day, he said.

While a rapid infiltration system is easily permitted by DER, taking about two months to gain the necessary approval, a wetlands system requires a more lengthy permitting process. Bible said.

"It is something new and there are very strict regulations governing wetlands disposal," he said.

And, he said utilizing, wetlands disposal would be the only way the county could handle sewage flow from Sanford.

The future of the Yankee Lake project hinges on wetlands disposal, which DER could take up to a year to permit. Bible said.

"The plant's treatment capacity is relatively unlimited, and we anticipate getting some disposal capacity through wetlands, the question is how much," he said.

'We are setting a course to service part of the community, and the door is always open for Sanford to participate, which would speed up the construction phases," Bible said. "The county still has an obligation to service unincorporated northwest Seminole County, so Sanford will have to explore its Hooper called Friday's meeting a continuation of the previous session, in which county and Sanford commissioners city met with DER officials to explain their sewage treatment needs.

and Wastewater Management Bureau Director Dick Smith said his agency would not look favorably on a wetlands disposal system at Yankee Lake because it would create an effluent runoff into the St. Johns River.

Under Sanford's wastewater management program. engineers targeted the property for eight million daily gallons of effluent disposal, and DER said the city would have to dispose at least six million gallons of effluent per day there.

DER has mandated that Sanford cease dumping effluent into Lake Monroe by November 1988 and has allocated the city $8.3 million in wastewater program grants to upgrade its system. However, Sanford faces the danger of having that money pulled unless it can dispose its effluent at Yankee Lake, DER

Polls Show Spain's Voters May Opt To Quit NATO

MADRID (UPI) - The Socialist government asked voters to endorse NATO membership in a referendum today but opinion polls indicated the outcome could lead Spain to become the first country ever to pull out of the alliance.

Today's referendum is not legally binding but Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez said he would honor the outcome and pull out from the 16-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization if he does not win the vote.

Voting got off to a brisk start with the warm, springlike weather in most of Spain expected to favor a high turnout by the 29 million registered voters.

Officials said the first provisional results would be issued at 9 p.m. (3 p.m. EST).

Police and security forces were placed on maximum alert to prevent violence from disrupting the voting. Security was also stepped up outside U.S. bases.

"I'm shocked, totally shocked." group spokesman Jan Railey said after leaving Hughes office. "He is not going to listen to us."

Hughes later told the Evening in raid, "I think people (in the s gool administration) are listening. I've read their mail. and they have had adequate avenues for input throughout the process. We have listened to all the parents with concern. When they say we didn't listen. they probably mean we didn't agree. This has been an emotional issue. Hughes told the group that they have been able to have input during the rezoning process, both at zone task force meetings and public work sessions of the school board. He also said it would be impossible for him to talk personally with all parents in a 40,000-student district about every opinion on rezoning. He told the parents they would again have a chance to voice their concerns Wednesday night.

Railey's group remains unsatisfied. In their morning meeting, before deciding to confront the Superintendent, Railey told the parents:

"They don't have a good reason why we should not be included in Greenwood Lakes' zone. They think we just want our kids to go to a sparkling new school. We're just talking distance. We don't know who the Greenwood principal is going to be, or how the school will turn out. But we're willing to take the

"We're so close to Greenwood that students could ride their bikes to school, if Lake Mary Boulevard wasn't so busy,' Railey said.

She said the present ten students involved would not cause the new school to be overcrowded.

"This is a chance for the school board to do something right," she said. "That's all we're asking them to do, but it's falling on deaf cars."

Maggie Snively, a resident attending Railey's meeting said, We are going to have to let them know that we are bent on getting a school board that will listen to all of the people at least some of the time."

"I hope they realize we are voters," another parent added.

The middle school rezoning is needed to accomodate the new Greenwood Lakes school, opening this fall. The school was built because of growing student populations.

Following the confrontation with Hughes, group member Rocco Nasso said, "We need to speak a little louder Wednesday night."

In other no-show court case, a robbery victim who failed to show up for trial was fined $250 and ordered to pay costs related to the one-day delay in the trial.

Bruce Hoenig, 32, of Altamonte Springs, told Leffler Monday that he knew the trial was to start Friday but did not show up because his family had been threatened if he testifled. The purported threats were not reported to police.

When Hoenig failed to show. Leffler postponed the trial from Friday to Monday and ordered Hoenig's arrest. Hoenig was not arrested, howevaccused of robbing him, Ronald Lee Scott, 40, of Kissimmee, was found guilty making it his eight felony conviction, five of them robberies. He faces up to 15 years when sentenced April 9. According to court records, police were called to and kicked in the head and legs by Scott who reportedly wielded an 8-inch slap jack and ripped a $3,000 necklace from Hoenig's neck. Scott fled the restroom only to be captured by bystanders. He succeeded in making an escape and when police arrived they reported pursuing a 1985 Toyota driven by a Kathy Scott, 35. Officers stopped the car at County Road 427 at Charlotte Road and arrested Scott.

and advanced tennis students we always have a couple of lessons on the lob. How to hit it and when to hit

The reaction is almost always the same. It goes something like this: "I don't want to learn to hit a lob, that's only for old folks," or "That's a sissy

I can usually get their attention by playing them a few points and hitting nothing but lobs. I run them all over the court using this "old man's shot" and really stretch them out.

Usually I also point out that the greatest players who have ever played the game had the lob as a very

In working with my intermediate important part of their games. nd advanced tennis students we Players like Evert Lloyd, McEnroe, Connors, Logan, Borg and Navratilova all have great lobs, and use them literally throughout a

They know the value of the shot. they know it can get them out of tight spots. I translate into dollars and cents for them so they use it.

There are basically two types of lobs. Offensive lobs are usually hit with topspin and not only go over the opponent's head but, because of the spin, bounces quickly away from the player when it hits. This lob is not used a lot except by the very advanced player because it is so very difficult to learn to hit properly and really takes years and years to learn. Those who can make the shot, though, have a great weapon at their disposal and use it a lot during any given match.

The defensive lob is really the most important of the two and can be learned by most anyone. It is a very valuable shot and can really get you out of some very tight spots. For example: your opponent has hit you a very wide and deep ball to your forehand side - you are off the court by the time you get to the ball and to make matters worse your opponent has come to the net. What do you do?

Well, unfortunately, most people try some kind of crazy passing shot. The percentages of making a passing shot when you are running full speed and off the court are very low.

The best thing to do is to throw up a lob. By putting up a lob you do several things: one, you buy yourself some time to get back in the point; two, you make your opponent hit another ball (one in which he might make a mistake on); and three, if there is any wind or a bad sun makes it even harder on him.

True, a good player will often put the ball away on you with a smash but as often as not they will hit it out or right back to you so that you have another shot to win the point.

Anytime you are playing an aggressive net rusher who is really hurting you with his/her volleys, you can get them off the net and ruin their timing by simply hitting a lob over their head. They will be less likely to come in the next time.

The lob — it's not just for old folks. It's for winners.

Taylor's Triple Upsets Brantley; Tribe Tips Lyman

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Brooke Taylor has only been on varsity for a little more than a week, but she's already decided that it's the place to be. And, although coach Cindy Henry covers her eyes everytime a ball is hit Taylor's way, she hopes the sophomore outfielder will continue to produce at the plate for Lake Mary's Lady Rams.

Tuesday afternoon, Taylor drilled a two-out, two-run triple down the left field line in the bottom of the first and that turned out to be the gamewinning hit as the Lady Rams upset Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots, 3.0, in the Seminole Athletic Conference opener for both teams at Lake Mary High.

Lake Mary, 5-6 overall, returns to SAC play Thursday at Lyman while Brantley, 9-2 overall, looks for its first league win today at 4 against Oviedo at Red Bug Park.

"We made a change in the lineup and put Brooke (Taylor) in and she came through with the big hit." Henry said. "She scares me in the outfield though. She catches everything, but she still scares me."

While Taylor's triple was the offensive highlight, Lake Mary's defense turned in a strong performance with just one error in the game. Pitcher Beth Watkins was at her best as she tossed a five-hitter, walked only one and continually had Brantley hitting the ball in the air.

Brantley got a two-out single from Tracy Brandenburg in the top of the first but couldn't move her around and Lake Mary came back with two runs in the bottom half. With one out, Karen DeShetler and Beth Watkins hit consecutive singles. With two outs, Taylor stepped up and smacked

A double play on the last play of the game enabled Seminole High's Lady Seminoles to come away with an 11-10 victory over Lyman's Lady Greyhounds in SAC action Tuesday at Lyman

With one out in the bottom of the seventh, Lyman loaded the bases and the next hitter drilled a fly ball to deep right field. Buffy Osborne made the catch and unleashed an excellent throw to catcher Shelly Sanders who blocked the plate and applied the tag to end the game.

Herald Sports Editor Seminole catcher Roy Jensen. who has collected his share of bruises from swatting down knuckleball, knew the Lyman Greyhounds were wuble Tuesday afternoon.

"It was dancing, prancing and profiling," Jensen said in admi-ration of Sheffield's clusive pitch. "The hitters don't have a chance because the ball breaks so much. It comes in a strike but ends up a ball."

Lyman found that out first hand. Sheffleld shut down the Greyhounds on five singles while striking out 10 as Seminole blanked Lyman, 4.0, in Seminole Athletic Conference baseball at Seminole High

"That's the best game Sheffield's every pitched for Seminole." Seminole coach Mike Ferrell said about the masterplece.

It was also the first time the three-year varsity starter had beaten Lyman. "That feels great," Sheffield said. "I had come close before so it was nice to finally get them."

The victory pulled Seminole to the .500 mark at 6-6. Lyman fell to 4-6. The 'Noles, 1-0 in the SAC, take on Lake Mary Friday at home. Ferrell said Jeff Blake would hurl while Lake Mary will counter with Mike Schmit.

While Sheffield kept the Greyhounds off balance with an assortment of knucklers and a dipping curveball, freshman Willie Grayson and senior Greg Pond supplied the key hits. Grayson had a double and a pair of singles to lead the way.

Molle Homer Helps Laszaic Shovel Out

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Early-inning problems and late-inning success are becoming a habit with Anthony Laszaic. If the pattern keeps up. Lake Mary's junior righthander might as well head for the mound with a shovel instead of his glove.

In his last few outings, Laszale has dug a hole for himself in the first two innings, but, with a little perserverance, and a lot of rope from his teammates. Laszaic has been able to climb out of the problem without much trouble.

Tuesday afternoon. Lake Brantley's Patriots jumped on Laszaic for five runs on five hits over the first two frames, but he settled down and blanked the Patriots on three hits the rest of the way.

Meanwhile, Lake Mary exploded for five runs in the first and added seven more the rest of the way en route to a 12-5 Seminole Athletic Conference victory at Lake Mary High.

It was the SAC opener for the state's top-ranked (4A) Rams who ran their record to 15-0 and 1-0 in the SAC. Lake Brantley. which has lost five straight, now stands at 2-9 overall and 0-2 in the SAC.

Lake Mary returns to SAC action Friday at Seminole and Ram skipper Allen Tuttle said Mike Schmit will be on the mound. Brantley looks for its first league victory Friday night when in hosts Lake Howell's Silver Hawks.

After giving up three singles, a double and a home run in the first two innings, Laszaic, who ran his mound record to 5.0, limited the Patriots to three singles the rest of the way. For the game, he struck out three and walked three.

"Anthony (Laszaic) has struggled the first couple of innings in just about evey game." Tuttle said. "But he's always settled down and come back strong. After the second inning today, he shut down a hard-hitting Brantley team."

Thompson, Driesell Like Terps' Chances

United Press International Georgetown head Coach John

Thompson has been there. He knows what winning the NCAA Tournament requires.

"At this point in the season, it's not a matter of a team's record, it's who's playing well," said Thompson, "And Maryland is a great example of that."

A late-season surge, including two victories over North Carolina, earned the Terrapins an at-large berth in the 64-team Tournament. Head coach Lefty Driesell Tuesday said his club is primed to challenge anyone.

Maryland, which won seven of its last 10 games to finish 18-13, will meet unranked Pepperdine, 25-4. Friday at Long Beach, Calif., in the opening round of the NCAA Western Regionals.

"I think we're playing right now as well as anybody in the country." Driesell said. "We're playing Pepperdine for the national championship. as far as I'm concerned."

The Terrapins upset No. 8 North Carolina in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament before losing 64-62 to No. 6 Georgia Tech in the semifi-

The game was lost in the final five seconds, when Georgia Tech's Duane Ferrell stole an inbounds pass from Maryland guard Keith Gatlin and raced the length of the court to score the final basket.

Maryland lost its first six ACC games when the team relied too heavily on the scoring of two-time ACC Player of the Year Len Bias. Maryland rode the improved play of Keith Gatlin and Jeff Baxter to win six of the its final eight ACC regular-season games. The long-range shooting by the bekeourt duo took much of the pressure off Bias.

North Carolina State enters the Tournament with a six-game losing streak, but head coah Jim Valvano said it will have no bearing on his team's first-round game against lowa. 20-11. Friday at Minneapolis, Minn.

"We're up for this game because we're in the tournament." said Valvano Tuesday of his Wolfpack. 18-12. "If we go down to the last two minutes of this game and lose, no one will ask if it will affect our next game. We're in a one-game season, and we have to forget about the other games and concentrate on this one."

Valvano said he has been pleased losses by 3 points or less, and two other defeats in which the score was tied entering the final four minutes. N.C. State lost to Virginia 64-62 in the first round of the ACC Tournament.

Another longshot, Cleveland State, is happy to have the chance to show it belongs.

"This is sober reality." said head coach Kevin Mackey, whose Vikings are making their first-ever appearance in the post-season competition. "Now it's time for us to play our best basketball. We'd better, or we'll be playing our last game of the season this Friday."

In first round games Thursday, at Greensboro, N.C., it will be (No. 1 seed) Duke, 32-2, vs. (16) Mississippi Valley State, 20-9; (8) Old Dominion, 22-7, vs. 25-8, vs. (13) Northeastern, 27-4; and (5) Virginia, 19-10, vs. (12) DePaul,

Play It Again, Says The NFL

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) -The NFL has agreed to take a closer look at some of its mistakes.

On Tuesday, the NFL owners approved by a vote of 23-4-1 a measure allowing officials to use instant replays for the 1986 season on possession plays. However, the new rule does not allow the use of replays on judgment plays such as pass interference, holding and clip-

The owners also changed the rules on chop blocks and banned the wearing of any equipment bearing an advertiser's name.

San Francisco 49ers coach and team president Bill Walsh said the use of replays was long over duc.

"This is an excellent step for the league, it really is." he said. "I think it's a relief on the part of all of us that we stepped forward and broke into the actual need that the fans had expected and the game itself had expected.

Cleveland Native Has Been Cooking Up Tasty Treats Since Childhood

By Beth Carran

Herald Staff Writer Cooking's no chore for Roy Brown of Sanford. He's been doing it since his childhood in Cleveland. Ohio. "My mother used to go to a lot of quilting parties," he remembers, "so I'd say. 'What's for dinner?' She'd tell me, and I'd start it."

Brown married his wife, trene. in 1942. He laughingly described how the new couple decided who would cook supper each night. "Whoever got home first did the cooking." he said. There was a bend in the road just down from the house, so whoever got around the bend first would hide until the other one came along. It all evened out, though, because the Browns' policy was. and is, "If you do the cooking, the other one cleans up.

Brown was away from home in 1944 and 1945, serving in the 8th Air Force in England. In 1948, he and Irene moved to California, where they both worked for Douglas Aircraft Company. Mr. Brown was a repair representative and Mrs. Brown worked as a secretary.

In 1960, the Browns traveled to Sanford, where Mr. Brown had been sent by Douglas to perform some repairs at the Sanford Naval Air Station, "We thought it was such a nice little town, we didn't want to go back to California," Brown recalled. So the Browns packed up and headed southeast, bringing their son. Dennis, and their daughter, Laura, with them.

Mrs. Brown took some time off from work while the children were small to care for them at home. Eventually she, like her husband, launched an entirely new career in Sanford. He joined A. Duda & Sons in Zellwood, where he worked for 15 years in the warehouse and shipping chicken," as well as "anything with Evening Herald readers. department. She went to work at First Fidelity in Tuscawilla and ended up as vice president before her retirement last December. Mr. Brown retired about cooked it until it was tender, Brown reported that his wife has been doing most of the turkey, wrapped it in aluminum cooking since she retired. "She makes a mean prime rib." he commented. Her secret? Slow cooking. "She puts it in the oven on about 250° and lets it cook real slow," he said. "You keep a meat thermometer in it the whole time, and I guarantee you can cut it with a fork after about 3 to 4 hours.

Mr. Brown puts in his share of kitchen time, which is pleasure. rather than work, to him. Asked what his favorite specialty is, he paused for a long moment. "I've got so many." he explained. Poultry Is an Easy, Inexpensive Favorite Poultry is so universally wellliked, available and reasonably priced, it is the foundation of many of our meals. Fortunately, it is easily prepared, does not require long cooking times and is very easily digested. Poultry carries a layer of fat under the skin and several fat deposits near the tail. These can be easily removed, making the poultry more healthful. The poultry will not brown as readily without the skin, but with browning agents such as paprika, an attractive browned appearance can be attained without changing the flavor.

Thicker portions of poultry should be placed to the outside of the cooking container, and remember that dark meat requires more cooking time than white meat.

Other browning agents that may be used, but do lend some flavor, are: soy sauce, browning sauces, bouillon, tomato sauce and barbeque sauce.

The white meat of chicken (breasts) is bland and is exchanced by the use of herbs. fruits and vegetables.

A favorite that can be low-cal. especially if serve with spaghetti squash, is chicken breast cac-

Pound chicken breasts flat, wrap individually, and keep in the freezer for any-time cooking. They thaw quickly and they're SO versatile!

How much cooked rice do you get from 1 cup raw? If it's the quick-cook type, 2 cups; regular rice, 3 cups; coverted rice, 4 cups; wild rice (which isn't really rice at all), 3-1/2 to 4 cups.

Mom Has Carried Theory On Nudity Education Too Far

DEAR ABBY: I am truly frightened that someone might report my daughter and her husband to the authorities, but I cannot get them to listen to reason.

Somewhere they got the idea that if they exposed their daughter to nudity in the home, she would not have any sexual hang-ups when she got older. So my daughter and her husband have let their baby shower with them since she was tiny. "Amy" is now 21/2 and she's aware that her father's body is different from hers and her mother's, This bothered my son-in-law at first, but my daughter said he should let Amy look at (and even touch) him, so nudity would be no big deal.

This doesn't seem right to me. My daughter insists it's OK because their motives aren't bad. I say if Amy tells someone outside the family what is going on, the police will probably be

My daughter is collegeeducated and thinks she knows everything. Please answer in the paper, as my husband says 1 should stay out of it, so I don't want to get mail at home about this. Thank you.

WORRIED GRANDMA

DEAR WORRIED: Children raised in societies where nudity is an accepted part of their culture may have fewer hangups about sex, but I think your daughter has carried that theory too far. A child's curiosity about the differences in male and temale anatomy is natural. Questions should be answered verbally, but touching should not be permitted.

Children should be taught to allow no one to touch their private parts, and they should not be encouraged to touch the private parts of others.

Then there are seed companies who sell rose plants and mail out samples. The smell of those samples really does overpower me. Do the people who send them realize this? Or don't they care? Some people on my route say, "Please do not deliver them to my house; throw them in the
