A police officer found him and he was transported to the hospital. Harriett said police are investigating several possible suspects in the case.

Differences overlooked in leadership choice

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A Seminole County commission often marked by differences during the last two years came closer together Tuesday by unanimously selecting commissioner Fred Streetman as the chairman for the next year.

Streetman last served as chairman in 1988, but a new voting block buoyed by newly-elected commissioners Jennifer Kelley and Pat Warren selected former commissioner Sandra Glenn as their chairman in 1988 and 1989.

Although Streetman had expressed a willingness to serve as chairman for the next term, newly-elected commissioner Larry Furlong said on his election night he favored commissioner Bob Sturm for chairman. Sturm, the commission's longest-serving member, was more closely aligned with his own views on environmental protection and growth management than any other commissioner, Furlong said.

But Tuesday, Furlong's nomination of Sturm was blocked by Sturm himself. Before Furlong could make his motion, Sturm nominated Streetman as commission chairman. Warren quickly supported the recommendation and with no other names before the commission, Streetman was elected unanimously.

Furlong said he planned to nominate Sturm but decided against the action after Sturm himself offered up Streetman's name.

"It didn't make much sense to nominate someone who nominated someone else," Furlong said.

Sturm said he had heard Furlong might nominate him but he believed Streetman would be the best choice to bring commissioners together. Sturm said he did not desire the chairmanship as Streetman did.

"I have found I can accomplish even more by not being chairman," Sturm said.

"Fred is good at bringing coalitions together," Kelley said.

State's attorney probe finds no wrongdoing

LAKE MARY — An investigation into alleged misconduct by members of the Lake Mary Police Department has ended with a clean bill of health and a vindicated police chief.

The allegations, reportedly made Sept. 26 on a local radio broadcast during the political campaigning period, charged misconduct by Lake Mary's police chief Charles Lauderdale, who actually holds the title of director of public safety. The charges centered on an alleged cover-up of a DUI case involving one of the city's residents.

Within days of the broadcast, both Lauderdale and Lake Mary City Manager John Litton had requested an investigation be undertaken by the state attorney's office.

Lauderdale had requested Litton to look into "a complete investigation as to the facts surrounding the incidents in which the undersigned and/or any other members of this department are alleged to have conducted themselves contrary to law and/or policy."

Litton wrote to State Attorney Norman Wolfinger about the allegations. "Because of the potential adverse impact to the City and law enforcement in general, I request that you assign an investigator immediately," he wrote. "You may rest assured that you will have the full cooperation of the City, its police department, and the undersigned."

Litton's request was sent to Wolfinger Oct. 1. As if to grant one additional item for which to be thankful before the State Attorney's office closed

Shopping frenzy

Shoppers flock to Seminole Centre shortly after 7 a.m. today.

Doors fling open for early shoppers

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Just like indigestion and turkey sandwiches on the day after Thanksgiving, shopping is a tradition for many people.

"Actually, it's been pretty slow so far this morning," said Theresa Smith, a sales clerk at the Wal-Mart on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford, about a half an hour after the store opened at 7 a.m. "They're just starting to drizzle in."

More than 100 people were pushing carts around the store, filling them with clothes, toys and other Christmas gifts.

Danna-Mae McDonough, of Sanford, said she "had to get her Christmas shopping done today."

She said she hates shopping, but she finds it too difficult to pass up the deals that one can get at the sales going on at many of the stores today. She added, however, she was shopping quickly to avoid the bigger crowds later in the day.

"I wouldn't want to be here later when all of them (the pre-holiday shoppers) start coming in," she said.

Kelly Sznalik, of Deltona, a self-proclaimed "serious shopper," said she was up at 4 this morning preparing for a three-day shopping spree which began at Wal-Mart when the doors opened this morning.

"I made lunches and dinners for my husband and daughter for the next three days and stuck them in the freezer," she said. "I don't intend to be home until the stores close every night."

Sznalik, who says she will go to sales in stores as far away as Kissimmee and Jacksonville, said

Lakeview students Duke it out for college opportunity

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Thirty-one seventh graders from Lakeview Middle School will compete with students from around the southeastern United States for a chance to attend college classes at Duke University in the summer of 1991.

Lakeview Middle School is located at 21 Lakeview Drive, Sanford.

The Talent Identification Program (TIP), sponsored by Duke, offers the youngsters educational opportunities normally not afforded to seventh graders, according to Fred Burnett, an assistant principal at Lakeview.

These are the very top of their classes. They're very good at taking tests.

-Fred Burnett, assistant principal

The 31 Lakeview students chosen to go on to the next step of the competition were those who scored in the top three percent of those taking the standardized tests in the sixth grade.

"These are the very top of their classes," Burnett said. "They're very good at taking tests."

The students will now be given the opportunity to take the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) or the ACT (American College Test) with high school students this fall.

"It's a strictly voluntary thing," Burnett said. "I don't know how many of these kids will choose to do that next step. It's up to the parents now."

The tests, taken by high school juniors and seniors as a way of predicting future scholastic success, are usually not something experienced by seventh graders.

"Just the opportunity to get such an early look at the test is a worthwhile experience in itself," Burnett said.

Barbara Brown, a teacher in the gifted program at Lakeview, teaches a class in strategies for passing the tests to those who intend to go on in the program.

According to Burnett, there has been a high level of interest by the students who are chosen to compete in taking the tests.

"These youngsters are always looking for a challenge, I think," he said.

U.S. observes Thanksgiving with diversity

Americans celebrated their 369th Thanksgiving with colorful parades and traditional turkey dinners — along with a few dozen lucky birds who were spared their usual place at the table by a group of sympathetic animal rights activists.

In Sanford, the Rescue Outreach Mission of Sanford, 1701 W. 13th Street, served dinner to the county's hungry and homeless. The mission was assisted by the Salvation Army, who also delivered Thanksgiving meals to local shut-ins.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Couple charged in child welfare case

HARRISBURG, Penn. — A Florida couple who operated a Pennsylvania foster care agency has been charged in that state with endangering the welfare of children.

Robert Sweeney and his wife, Tina Bruah Sweeney, who now live in Gainesville, face charges including endangering children, theft by deception and operating a corrupt organization.

Robert Sweeney now works as a psychologist at a Florida state prison.

Pennsylvania Attorney General Ernie Preate said in one case the couple allegedly put 11 infants and small children in a dilapidated building where they were found living in unsanitary conditions.

In another case, a child welfare worker found children living in a foster home with no toothbrushes or combs, no toys and exposed electrical wiring.

The couple had a $335,000 contract with the City of Philadelphia to find foster homes for dozens of children.

Two tickets match Fantasy 5

TALLAHASSEE — Two players matched all five winning numbers in the Fantasy 5 drawing to earn a cash prize of $518,559 each, Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul said Thursday.

Paul said the first-prize cash payout totals more than $1 million. The winning tickets were sold in Ellenton and Perrine.

In addition to the two top prize winners, 879 players matched four numbers to win $339, while 30,790 others selected three correct numbers to win $5 each.

The winning numbers for Wednesday's drawing were 3, 11, 22, 24 and 35.

Man killed in crash is identified

MIAMI — A Miami Lakes man who ran a flight school has been identified as the victim in a single-engine plane crash on Elliot Key earlier this week, officials said.

Yasuo Hatazaki, 51, was killed when his Cessna 172 nose-dived into a clump of mangrove trees on the southern tip of the key on Tuesday.

Investigators have not determined what caused the crash.

"This case is going to be very difficult because we don't have any witnesses," said Jorge Prelezo, a National Transportation Safety Board spokesman.

School board approves contract

MIAMI — The Dade County School Board has approved a $150,000 annual contract for newly appointed Superintendent Octavio Vialado.

It is the same amount Vialado's predecessor, the late Paul Bell, earned.

At Vialado's request, the board approved a contract provision that guarantees him a high-ranking administrative position if board members decide to terminate his 44-month contract because they are displeased with his performance. Vialado requested the clause because his is 10 years short of being entitled to full retirement benefits from the school system.

Should the board want to remove Vialado, he may take a year's salary and be dismissed from the system or accept a deputy superintendent's post through the end of the fiscal year.

Hughes Supply earnings down

ORLANDO — Hughes Supply Inc. said Wednesday it earned $987,000, or 23 cents a share, in the third quarter, down from $2.3 million, or 47 cents a share, for the same period a year ago. Net income for the 1990 quarter included an after-tax gain from the sale of the company's manufacturing operations of $617,000, or 15 cents a share, the company said. Sales rose to $143.2 million from $138.8 million a year ago. For the nine months ended Oct. 31, the company earned $4.1 million, or 93 cents a share, compared with $6.3 million, or $1.30 a share, for the same period a year ago. Sales rose to $430.2 million from $398.9 million a year ago. The company attributed the rise in revenues to newly acquired operations, new sales outlets and increased market share. However, the company said sales from outlets opened more than a year declined as a result of the slump in construction activity. The company also said its increased market share came at the expense of profit margins. Hughes Supply repurchased an additional 153,000 shares of common stock during the quarter, bring total purchases since Feb. 1 to about 500,000 shares.

Two Menudo members arrested

MIAMI — Two members of the Puerto Rican singing group Menudo were in custody in south Florida Friday after being arrested on marijuana possession charges at the Miami International Airport.

Sergio Gonzalez, 18, and a 16-year-old unidentified member of the group were arrested by U.S. Customs officials at about 7 p.m. Thursday after a narcotics dog detected 45 grams of marijuana on Gonzalez and 38 grams on the other youth.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Florida celebrates Thanksgiving

By United Press International

From shelters, to churches, to dining tables in homes across the state, Florida residents gave thanks Thursday, with the holiday spirit even producing some changes in the menu offered to the animals at the Miami Metro Zoo.

Over 1,000 homeless were fed at the Miami Rescue Mission, which cooked 2,000 pounds of turkey and 1,000 pounds of dressing for its guests, who were served by volunteers. The mission serves more than 3,000 meals a month and needs volunteers all the time, said director Frank Jacobs.

"It's an experience they (volunteers) never forget," he said. "Volunteering isn't just for special days like Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter or Memorial Day, but it's every day of the year. They (volunteers) can volunteer other days. We need volunteers all the time."

Sadness marred many of the family gatherings around Florida tables though, with hundreds of families missing loved ones stationed with the Armed Forces in the Middle East.

David Manikowski, whose wife is an Air Force medic spending Thanksgiving in Saudi Arabia, said he could not bear to return with his son to his native Buffalo, so his parents came to him. They dined out for Thanksgiving dinner.

"These holidays are just another day for me now," he said.

Francesca Hivner, whose husband is also a part of Operation Desert Shield, won't tell her 2-year-old son they are celebrating a holiday.

"I won't even tell him it is Thanksgiving," she said. "It would be too hard on me, too hard on him."

The parents of the five college students slain by the mysterious Gainesville killer also coped with the first holiday season following the deaths of their children.

For Jim and Ada Larson of Deerfield Beach, whose daughter Sonja was slain in Gainesville, their Thanksgiving Day fare featured their daughter's favorites, such as date nut pudding.

The only thing for which the family has to be thankful said Ada Larson is that Sonja is "in heaven. If there's anything to be thankful for, that's all I can think of."

There was sad news from the Florida Highway Patrol as well. By noon, officials said six people had died on the state's roadways since the start of the long holiday weekend at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

The first fatal accident was in Fort Pierce and claimed three lives, including that of an unborn baby girl. The baby's mother, 18-year-old Maria Rose Levy, was a passenger in a car in which the driver lost control and the vehicle overturned.

Also killed in that accident, which occurred at about 7:45 p.m. Wednesday, was passenger Refner Jossan.

The fourth traffic fatality was a 4-year-old Sebring boy, Daniel Rice. He was killed in a two-car accident that occurred about 5 miles east of Inverness.

The fifth and sixth people to die on Florida's roadways were 11-year-old Sandy L. Sacca of Ormond Beach and Rosanna A. Fiore, 30, also of Ormond Beach. Sacca and Fiore were passengers in two cars involved in an accident in Cocoa Beach.

Highway patrol officers have estimated that 42 people will die in traffic accidents in the state between 6 p.m. Wednesday and midnight Sunday, when the long holiday weekend ends.

On a happier note, workers at the Miami Metro Zoo prepared special Thanksgiving Day dinners for the animals. While there was no turkey on the menu, the elephants were treated to pumpkins, while the rhinos received sweet potatoes.

Prices skyrocket in Tampa for Super Bowl week

United Press International

TAMPA — Premium prices will reign in Tampa during Super Bowl XXV and those charged with making sure the game and the broadcast go smoothly are already experiencing a form of sticker shock, officials say.

Super Bowl planners acknowledge prices are too high, but say there is little they can do to counter the effect of the law of supply and demand.

Lisa Ganszmueller, a CBS marketing representative, has been trying to obtain buses to ferry the network's employees and sponsors about the city during the Super Bowl.

"I can't find a bus for less than $1,300," she said. "I don't want to pay that much just on principle. Why should you pay $1,300 for a bus?"

But charter-bus operators insist that is the price the market will bear during the Super Bowl.

Contributing to the high price were the rising cost of diesel fuel and extra costs such as bringing in additional air-conditioned, multiseat cruisers from across the eastern United States to accommodate an estimated 50,000 people needing mass transportation on game day, operators said.

There isn't much chagrined officials with the Super Bowl Task Force or the National Football League can do to con-rol prices during the week. The game is expected to bring in millions of dollars to the Tampa economy.

"It's a little bit crazy," said Bret Volain, director of sales and marketing for Orlando-based Mears Transportation Group, which has booked 125 buses for the bowl game and is charging an average $1,500 a day for a four-day minimum contract.

"Most people are pretty hesitant when they learn the price," he said.

Feelings vary to Martinez as drug czar

UPI report

TALLAHASSEE — President Bush's staff leaked the proposed nomination of outgoing Gov. Bob Martinez for drug czar to test congressional reaction, a newspaper reported Thursday.

So far, there has been little congressional criticism, with support for the Martinez appointment coming from Florida Democratic Sen. Bob Graham and Chile, who first proposed creation of a drug czar when he served in the Senate.

However, Rep. Charles Rangel, D-New York, who leads the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, has expressed opposition to Martinez's selection.

Rangel said it appeared Bush was considering Martinez simply because the lame-duck governor "needs a job," and the drug czar post, which pays $105,000 a year, is vacant.

"If Rangel is the extent of the opposition, then Martinez ought to sail on through," according to the source.

Bay region pollution agency proposed

United Press International

TAMPA — Local officials trying to keep the Tampa Bay area from turning into another smog-filled Los Angeles are considering banding together in a six-county pollution control authority.

The idea was raised last week by Roger Steward, Hillsborough County's top environmental official, during a meeting with county commissioners from his county plus Pinellas, Pasco, Hernando, Polk and Manatee counties.

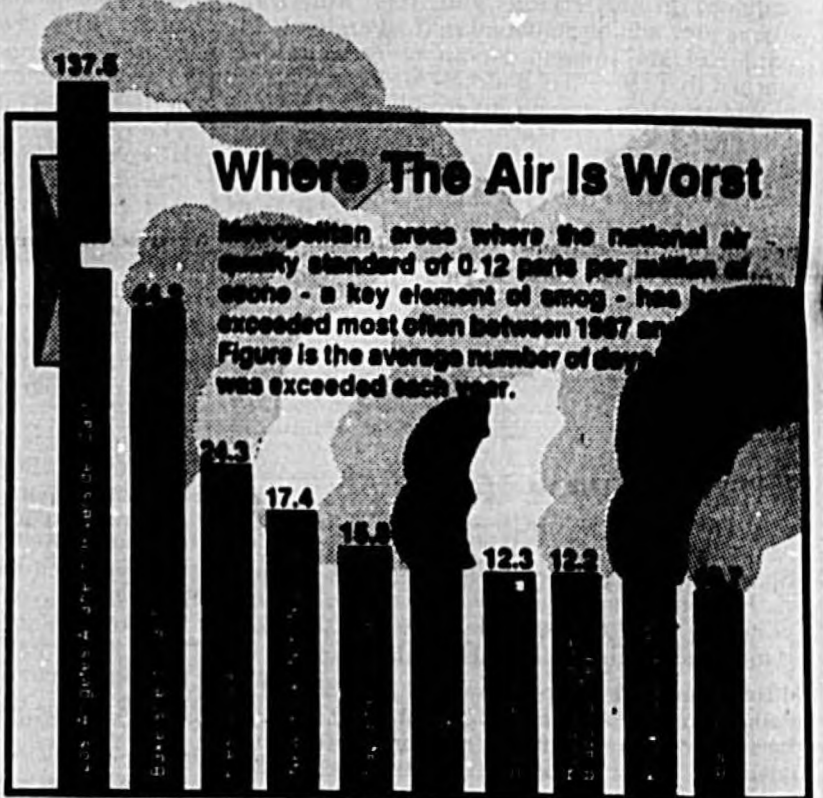

The meeting organized by a local business group was about to break up without any agreement on how to work together when Steward raised his suggestion.

"I just like to suggest things that no other people are talking about," said Steward, who is executive director of the Hillsborough Environmental Protection Commission.

Pollution control is currently left to individual counties.

Steward said that by banding together, the less populated counties would gain air pollution control technology they cannot afford on their own. And because air pollution doesn't stay within county lines, consistent enforcement could reduce pollution in the entire region.

Hillsborough officials said regional cooperation is the only way the bay area will be able to comply with the Clean Air Act signed into law Thursday by President Bush.

Hillsborough has a comprehensive air pollution enforcement program that includes road-side automobile inspections. Under Steward's proposal, the county would eliminate that enforcement altogether and turn it over to the regional authority.

"I'm all for it. I'm going to pursue it," said Hillsborough Commissioner Jan Platt. She said she plans to mention Steward's idea to the Tampa Bay Regional Planning Council in hopes that the council will help further the concept.

The area has exceeded federal ozone limits since 1977. The leading contributor to the problem is believed to be automobiles.

Organizations seek approval for activities

By MARK PFEIFER

SANFORD — Judging from items up for discussion during Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting, there will be many events and activities during the upcoming months.

Central Florida Services for the Disadvantaged, Inc., has requested that fees be dropped for use of the Sanford Civic Center, for a special program to be held Christmas Day. The organization feeds the underprivileged people of the area a Christmas dinner. Last year they fed over 400 people at the civic center in a similar Christmas function.

All Souls Catholic Church is asking the city for use of Park on Park, as part of its Mardi Gras 91 carnival, scheduled for Feb. 8 through Feb. 10. The church has also requested a waiver of the city ordinance on closing time for the park, seeking to extend the use time until 10 p.m.

The First Baptist Church of Sanford has requested the closing of San Juan Avenue between Seminole Boulevard and First Street for the kickoff of its third annual youth rally March 9. The church has also requested that Fort Mellon Park be reserved for the event on that day.

The commission will meet in a special workshop session beginning at 5 p.m. in the city manager's conference room, followed by the regular meeting in the commission chambers at 7 p.m., Nov. 28.

Tallahassee Christmas feast was first in U.S.

By MICHAEL BOLINE
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — It's doubtful the band of explorers who gathered beneath the trees on a winter day 451 years ago to celebrate the Feast of the Nativity attached much historical significance to what they were doing.

Yet that religious ceremony on the brow of a gentle hill not far from the modern state Capitol of Florida was the first celebration of Christmas in what was to become the United States.

And the Florida Park Service wants everyone to know about it.

"Since this is a recent discovery, Tallahassee has not yet been immortalized in history books. We want to create an annual celebration to recognize Tallahassee as the host of North America's first Christmas," said Sandra Cook of the park service.

"Discovery of 16th century Spanish artifacts solved the hotly debated historical issue of where our first Christmas was celebrated," said Jerald Milanich, curator in archaeology at the Florida Museum of Natural History.

"Florida's capital city, Tallahassee, is without a doubt the place of humble prestige."

Historians long suspected the first Christmas was celebrated by members of Hernando De Soto's expedition of discovery, which spent the winter of 1539-40 at the Apalachee Indian capital of Anhalca, site of the modern Florida capital.

But the exact site was a mystery until three years ago, when excavations for a new development turned up copper coins and remnants of Spanish arms and armor.

The band of 500 to 700

explorers — including a number of captive natives, the other Indian residents having fled the Europeans — was accompanied by 12 priests, including members of religious orders who intended to convert the Indians, said Michael Gannon, head of the Institute for Early Contact Period Studies at the University of Florida.

The Spaniards celebrated mass every day and, other than attending to a special liturgy for the Feast of the Nativity, probably gave little thought to the precedent they were setting, he said.

"We're probably making more of it than they would have," Gannon said. "At that point in time, it was Christmas Day to them, and they probably did not say, 'Hey, this is the first one ever in this new land.'"

Roman Catholics of that period at any rate attached more importance to the Feast of the Epiphany 12 days later, he said.

"Attending mass each day, and certainly attending on a Sunday or holy day, was as intimate a part of daily life as eating and drinking," Gannon said.

The explorers built no church, and would have celebrated Christmas under the open sky.

Congregants — meaning all members of the expedition not guarding the compound against Indian reprisal raids — would have participated by kissing the foot of a statue of the baby Jesus.

"They very likely followed the Spanish Catholic customs of the time, which means that they sang high mass," said Gannon. "It no doubt was a very joyous occasion for the entire party."

Information about the Christmas celebration is available by calling the Florida Park Service at (904)-488-3648.

Southern Bell fires workers after internal investigation

By DON FINEPROCK
United Press International

MIAMI — Southern Bell said Wednesday it fired five employees in Orlando and West Palm Beach after an internal investigation turned up evidence that customers were charged for services they never authorized.

About 40,000 Southern Bell customers will share in a $600,000 refund from the telephone company as a result of the probe, the company said.

The investigation began after customers complained they were charged for services they never ordered, the company said.

Three Orlando employees were fired last month as a result of the probe, and two other employees in West Palm Beach were fired earlier this week, said Southern Bell spokesman Spero Canton.

Canton said that, as a result of the employees' actions, customers who subscribed to either Southern Bell's wire maintenance plan or its trouble isolation service were charged for both services.

The customers paid an additional $1 or $1.50 a month as a result, he said. In some cases, the wrongdoing may have gone undetected for up to three years. "Our records show that some of this may have taken place in 1987 and 1988," Canton said.

Canton could not say whether the employees violated any laws.

However, the results of the probe have been turned over to federal and state prosecutors, he said. Canton said the company believes the employees acted independently of each other.

The probe is ongoing, although Southern Bell said it believes the wrongdoing was confined to offices in Orlando and West Palm Beach.

Canton also said Southern Bell has modified its procedures so that all sales referrals are verified with customers.

Customers eligible for the refund reside in cities served by the company's offices in Orlando and West Palm Beach.

Orlando area customers should receive refunds in their December bills. The company is in the process of identifying wronged customers in the West Palm Beach area, Canton said.

The refunds will range from about $7 to $35, the company said.

Wasted opportunity

A promising effort to enforce the nation's immigration laws was killed in the House of Representatives by a coalition of Latino lawmakers who don't seem to want those laws enforced.

A house majority threatened to block a sweeping bill to increase immigration. The Latinos objected to a provision that would have established a pilot project to develop a secure driver's license in three states to be chosen later. The driver's license would have included some sort of counterfeit-proof marking, such as a fingerprint, and eventually could have been used as definitive proof of a person's immigration status.

Latino congressmen argued loudly that the pilot project was the first step toward a national identification card. Only when the bill's author, Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., agreed to drop the driver's license provision did the Latino lawmakers relent.

Counterfeit-proof documents are imperative to enforce employer sanctions, which were at the heart of provisions to discourage illegal immigration under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986. Right now, there are 17 different documents that allow immigrants to work and live here. All are easily forged. Among those recognizing the need for secure documents are the federal General Accounting Office, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and The Rand Corp.

A secure driver's license would not be a new national ID card, because almost everyone already carries a driver's license.

Congressional critics of the secure driver's license project said it would lead to police stopping people on the street and demanding to see identification papers. Actually, agents from the Border Patrol and the Immigration and Naturalization Service already have the power to stop and question — without a warrant — anybody they believe to be an alien.

Most nations, including Mexico, already require national identification cards for all residents. In the United States, we have something no other country has: a Fourth Amendment protecting us from unreasonable searches and seizures. As long as we have that guaranteed right, we need not fear that our civil liberties will be taken away by a document that simply states whether we are allowed to work legally in this country.

The driver's license proposal was a good one and should be revived in the next Congress.

Vehicles can run on gas, naturally

CONCORD, Calif. — At first glance, the gas pump appears similar to those motorists routinely encounter at service stations everywhere. But a close inspection reveals that the volume of fuel sold is measured in terms rather than gallons and the nozzle looks like it should be on a garden hose.

That's because the pump, in front of a Pacific Gas & Electric Co. maintenance facility in this San Francisco suburb, doesn't dispense gasoline. Instead, it supplies compressed natural gas or CNG — a much cleaner, cheaper and more plentiful fuel — to specially retrofitted cars, trucks and other vehicles.

But those retrofits (which cost $2,000 to $3,500 per vehicle) may not be necessary much longer. The General Motors Corp. is committed to producing, during the 1991 model year, at least 1,000 GMC Sierra three-quarter-ton pickup trucks with V-8 engines modified to operate on CNG as their fuel.

Encouraging GM to recently enter the field was a consortium of nine utility companies that sell natural gas in Texas, Colorado and California as well as the Texas General Land Office, a state agency. They contributed $635,000 to help finance the project.

Now under consideration is a vastly expanded program under which GM would begin production in 1994 of a far larger (but still undetermined) number of trucks, vans and buses. To finance the engineering costs, GM would contribute $24 million and the natural gas industry would put up $16 million.

Some operators of truck fleets can't wait for those vehicles, however. The United Parcel Service is already testing CNG technology on 30 of its distinctive brown delivery trucks — 20 in Los Angeles and 10 in New York.

Similar conversions are to be made in Dallas and Houston. If the tests are as successful, as expected, UPS says up to half of its national fleet of more than 100,000 vehicles could be switched from gasoline to CNG.

Some operators of truck fleets can't wait for those vehicles.

In Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas and Indiana, some school districts already rely upon CNG-fueled buses to transport students. Similarly, the vehicle fleets owned by the Miami International Airport, the Scottsdale, Ariz. municipal government and various other operators are powered by CNG.

The technology is hardly new. Natural gas from the Po River Valley has been used to fuel Italian buses, trucks and cars since the mid-1930s. Today, Italy leads the world with 300,000 of the more than 700,000 CNG vehicles operating in almost 40 nations.

Other countries near the top of that list include the Soviet Union with 200,000, New Zealand with 110,000, United States with 50,000, Canada with 20,000 and Argentina with 15,000.

CNG has numerous attributes that make it a logical fuel for the future. Unlike crude oil, natural gas is plentiful both domestically and internationally. Recoverable reserves in this country exceed 1 quadrillion cubic feet — enough to supply the nation well past the middle of the next century.

Specifically, emissions are reduced 97 to 99 percent for carbon monoxide, 90 percent for volatile organic compounds, 40 to 70 percent for nitrogen oxides and 25 percent for carbon dioxide.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Iraq isn't Rockwell's vision

BOSTON — The President will spend Thanksgiving in the desert. So will Americans, some 140,000 of them. They will spend the day as part of a unit instead of a family.

There will be letters from home. There will be reports for the television cameras. Some of the soldiers will even unwrap the holiday gift baskets being sold that are full of bubble gum and Cracker Jacks and Juicyfruits, as if the soldiers were kids at camp.

All these signs tell us that we are at war again. Not war in the sense of fighting and dying. Not yet. We are at war in the sense of families separated, daily lives disrupted, men and women transported suddenly to foreign places to wait in loneliness and fear for what will happen next.

This is not new to us. The Thanksgiving image most imprinted in our national memories was done when we were at war. It was 1943 when Norman Rockwell painted his family dinner to illustrate Roosevelt's "Freedom from Want."

But that Thanksgiving Americans knew what we were doing abroad. That year, home was really the home front. During World War II, our self-image was of a peaceful people driven to combat. We were the Yankees, the G.I. Joes, the brave and disorderly freedom fighters, the rank amateurs of Hollywood films who could nevertheless, when push came to shove, fight back.

What has changed most in this half-century? Today, when the President talks about defending "our way of life" we don't visualize four freedoms, but great tankers of oil. At home, we are not called on to ration gas, but expected to use it at will. There is no Pearl Harbor to remember.

What has changed most? Today, our troops are volunteers, professionals. Out of every 100 recruits, ten sign on "to serve their country," 39 for college money, 26 for a job or job training. Ask them what they are doing in Saudi Arabia on Thursday and most will say they are doing their job. These are people with a difficult duty, a bad deal, but not a cause.

Finally, what has changed most? Americans are no longer seen as the world's liberators. Indeed, we may be becoming its mercenaries.

In this "united," "international" "allied" effort, the world has deplored Hussein, but we have deployed the troops. The British have offered the fiercest fighting words. But only 18,000 soldiers. The Kuwaitis have given us the reason to fight. But only 3,000 fighting men. The Japanese allotted $2 billion with strings attached. But no soldiers.

We are in this "together." Some 140,000 American troops and some 450 Canadians.

The Kuwaiti royal family ensconced in the Tall Sheraton and the American foot soldiers dug into the surrounding desert.

There is, it appears, unified world opinion that WE should stop Saddam Hussein. Along with the Saudis, it is our show, our $80 million or more a day, our men and women. Just as we expect our working class to do our fighting, it seems that the world expects our country to do its policing.

After half a century of war and cold war, of military actions and buildups, I am afraid that conflict has become our specialty. Japan makes cars. France makes fashion. Korea makes televisions. We make wars. Wars-R-U.

I do not say this as a pacifist, although I have grave misgivings about this Desert Shield adventure. There are just wars causes. The world has reasons to stop aggression.

But we have come to assume the job as international cop, and the rest of the world has come to depend on us as good cop and rail against us as bad cop. We have sadly staked our last, lingering claim to be Number One on the battlefield.

If Hussein is "another Hitler," if Iraq is close to having a nuclear weapon, then it is not only our cause for alarm. If we are merely alarmists, there is no reason to go it alone.

When the world looks casually to America for a low-cost protection, an international security system, it is time to prick the balloon of that fantasy. This is not how we see ourselves. We are not the world's mercenaries.

In that famous Thanksgiving poster of another home front, another era, Rockwell celebrated America's freedoms. The faces around that table exude the ease of a people confident of their moral stand. But that confidence is hard to find this holiday. In the desert, we are threatening to squander not only our people and our wealth, but the truly American "way of life."

All these signs tell us that we are at war again.

Anti-Semitism still prevalent in Poland

AUSCHWITZ, Poland — The horror of the Holocaust, so evident here at the crematorium-cum-museum, has not touched the Polish soul. Even though 95 percent of those who died here were Jews, the word "Jew" does not appear on the death camp signs. Instead, they say, "Here four million people suffered and died at the hands of Nazi murderers."

Jews vehemently opposed a Carmelite convent built against the wall of Auschwitz in 1969, fearing it was another attempt to Christianize the place and erase the memory of the Jews who died here.

Poland was once a haven for Jews. Some 3.5 million lived there at the beginning of World War II. Today, there are less than 7,000 — most of them elderly survivors of the Holocaust. Their average age is 70. Jewish leaders are considering a final evacuation of those who remain, for their own safety.

Poland is still not a safe place for Jews to be. Jewish cemeteries, long neglected, are being defaced with swastikas. Obscene slogans appear on the walls of Warsaw's Jewish State Theater: "Jews to the ovens."

Polish Catholic priest, Father Stanislaw Musial, is one of the church's top experts on Jewish-Polish relations. He was candid and critical when we met with him recently near Krakow. "It was a terrible thing," he said. "Imagine 10 percent of the population murdered overnight in America. And yet here, there is no feeling of a void today. I can tell you there has been no sorrow. It is because we lived not together, but side by side."

Although it was the Germans who did the killing, and although many Polish Catholic priests paid with their own lives when they stood up for the Jews, Musial suggested that Poland still needs a moral cleansing from its anti-Semitic roots and the Holocaust.

For centuries, Father Musial admitted, Catholic officials fostered outrageous stories about Jews. The most common said that Jews kidnapped and killed Catholic children to use their blood in unleavened bread. A huge painting called "Infanticide" still hangs in the 17th century church in Sandomierz depicting Jews dismembering Christian babies.

Between the two world wars, the Polish Catholic Church stoked anti-Semitism with right-wing rhetoric. One pastoral letter by the primate of Poland called Jews, "the advance guard of a godless life, of the Bolshevik movement." The letter also called Jews embezzlers, usurers and whiteslayers.

In the 1960s the Polish communist government sponsored an anti-Semitic campaign blaming Jews for the ills of the country and purging them from government jobs.

Father Musial is not surprised to see anti-Semitism whipped up in the current presidential campaign, which will culminate in an election Sunday, Nov. 25. "It is very easy to say Jews are the hidden force who have the hidden plans that have ruined this country," he said.

Presidential candidate Lech Walesa is not anti-Semitic, but his campaign has attracted anti-Semites who see his campaign as a rallying cry for the nation to become purely Polish and Catholic.

If there isn't a Jew that Poles can blame for the woes of their country, anti-Semites will invent "secret Jews" who hide their heritage so they can get into positions of power.

Nobel Prize winner Czeslaw Milosz, a Polish poet, has noted that the Polish spirit of heroic patriotism "cannot be separated from its less attractive features. A certain ethnocentric Poland, closed upon itself, hostile to any 'otherness,' is a historical fact."

Poland was once a haven for Jews.

she has "only about $2,500 in cash" to spend on Christmas shopping and a few treats for herself, but said she will break out the "plastic money" if she runs low on cash before she gets to the bottom of her list.

Ben Barton, of Lake Mary, said he is looking for sales and he was told the day after Thanksgiving was the best time to shop for values.

"I lost my job in August, but I still need to get Christmas presents," he said. "I figured I'd better come today if I wanted to get the good buys."

Barton said the crowds weren't as bad as he had expected. "It's like it normally is on a Saturday down here," he said.

He noted also that the prices didn't seem too much lower.

Loren Daniels, of Sanford, said the prices didn't make a difference to his wife Carla.

"She'd buy something marked 'sale' even if they had raised the price," he said, following behind her with his arms crossed. "It must be a woman's thing. All women like to spend money."

Carla said in her own defense that she is a careful shopper.

"I'm in here every day," she said. "I know a good buy or a bad one."

At ten minutes to eight, Laura Jenkins and her mother Mattie, of Sanford, were the only ones outside the Ross store a few doors down from Wal-Mart. The store was scheduled to open at 8 a.m.

"I'm glad there's not a line," Laura said. "I hate shopping. Mom loves it, so it's been a tradition in our family for the women to go shopping the morning after Thanksgiving. We go for a couple of hours and when we get back the guys have breakfast ready for us. I like that part."

Glenn Snipes, of Longwood, was sitting in his car reading a magazine. His wife was in Wal-Mart doing some Christmas shopping.

"I just drive and dish out money," he said. "I'll be doing this until nine o'clock tonight and probably tomorrow too."

their meal with a group of soldiers hand-picked for their good behavior.

The careful selection process was reportedly prompted by a series of incidents in which grousing soldiers embarrassed visiting dignitaries by complaining about conditions as the television camera rolled.

One such incident occurred when soldiers of the Army's First Cavalry Division scornfully invited visiting Secretary of State James Baker to share their hot, stale water.

Hostages in the Middle East also were subjects of concern this Thanksgiving Thursday — but less fortunate stateless Americans were not forgotten by kind-hearted souls who treated the homeless and needy to thousands of free holiday dinners around the nation.

In New York and Houston, major Thanksgiving Day Parades brought hundreds of thousands of holiday revelers to the streets.

New entries Bart Simpson and Clifford the Dog joined stalwarts Bugs Bunny, Kermit the Frog and other giant balloons in the Macy's 64th annual Thanksgiving Day Parade, televised to some 80 million viewers across America.

Foley's 41st Annual Thanksgiving Day Parade rolled down the streets of Houston, with comedian Jerry Lewis serving as grand marshal. The parade, televised to 35 million people in 60 cities, featured eight giant helium balloon figures, 11 marching bands, 16 floats and blanket tossers from St. Paul, Minn.

In Plymouth, Mass., where it all began in 1621, descendants of the Pilgrims and later immigrants took part in the traditional dinner sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce after a Pilgrim's Progress march in costume from Plymouth Rock to First Parish Church. The dinner for 1,400 at Memorial Hall required two tons of turkeys and four seatings.

The poor were treated to free holiday meals in cities around the country from Anchorage, Alaska, to the City of Angels, where Hollywood celebrities joined members of the Los Angies Raiders football team in dishing up dinner on Skid Row to 5,000 homeless people.

A less traditional Thanksgiving celebration staged by a group of animal rights activists in Watkins Glen, N.Y., saw some two dozen turkeys spared their usual place at the table.

"They'll be the guests of honor," said Blanche Kent, manager of the Farm Sanctuary, which sponsors the "Adopt-a-Turkey" campaign that has placed 62 liberated birds with animal rights activists.

The turkeys dined on a meal of squash, pumpkin pie and cranberries, and then were treated to an ankle massage. Kent said, explaining that the rubdown was necessary since most of the birds suffer from swollen feet or joint problems "because they're bred to be so top-heavy."

In Dallas, Fred, a 2-year-old, 40-pound turkey, was rescued from a date with a carving knife after he was found at a Canton, Texas, flea market and sold for $12 to the Fund for the Animals, Inc., another animal rights group.

for the four-day holiday weekend, phone calls were placed by Wolfinger's office to Lauderdale and Litton late Wednesday afternoon.

According to Lauderdale, the phone calls gave the initial word that the state attorney's office had found no wrongdoing in the city's police department. The decision is to be verified by a letter, which had not been received as of this morning.

Lauderdale, meanwhile, was at his desk early this morning, preparing a memo to be issued in conjunction with one from City Manager Litton, regarding the conclusion of the investigation.

"I want my people to know the results of our request for an investigation," Lauderdale said. "I'm telling them that the State Attorney has completed his investigation and that the case agent has found no substance to the allegations."

He added that he is going to "thank the members of the Department of Public Safety for their support during this experience."

Regarding his department Lauderdale said, "In this position, I know we have to tolerate a certain degree of criticism, but we will not stand for any accusations made against the integrity of this department or any members of our families."

Lauderdale said he expected there will be a city memo issued on the matter by the beginning of next week.

Persian Gulf notebook

Bush announces 'secret weapon'

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia — President Bush told American troops stationed in the Persian Gulf Thursday that he has a secret weapon for use if "push comes to shove" — Roseanne Barr.

Bush visited American military personnel in Saudi Arabia to give his personal thanks on Thanksgiving Day. Standing before the camouflage-clad troops, with his wife Barbara, also dressed in camouflage, beside him, Bush said, "You'll be glad to know that if it goes on too long, we have a secret weapon in reserve. If push comes to shove, we're going to get Roseanne Barr to go to Iraq and sing the national anthem. Baghdad Betty, eat your heart out."

Television personality Barr received almost unanimously bad reviews after she sang the national anthem before a major league baseball game.

Desert Thanksgiving lacks 'zing'

EASTERN SAUDI ARABIA — In mess tents across Saudi Arabia, tables were covered with Thanksgiving Day tablecloths, placemats with pilgrim scenes and napkins with gobblers. Everything was decorated like home, but to the troops there was no replacing home.

"It's not like momma used to make," Airman Corey Carter of Cleveland said Thursday while eating his Thanksgiving ration of roasted turkey, potatoes, stuffing and vegetables.

Bush spends holiday with troops

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia — President Bush told American troops they will be stationed in the Persian Gulf until Saddam Hussein is out of Kuwait and warned that every day Saddam is closer to "his goal of a nuclear weapons arsenal."

Bush, spending Thanksgiving Day with U.S. forces stationed in the volatile gulf, told military personnel in the area in three separate speeches that they are there to send a message to "any would-be Saddam Husseins that the world will not tolerate tyrants."

In his final speech, Bush told some 1,500 U.S. Marines, Navy Sea Bees and British "Desert Rats" gathered in the sand under a mid-afternoon sun, "We want every single troop home. We want every Brit to be able to go home as soon as possible. We want every single American home.

"And this I promise," Bush added. "No American will be kept in the gulf a single day longer than necessary, but we won't pull punches. We are not here on some exercise. This is a real world situation. And we're not walking away until our mission is done, until the invader is out of Kuwait and that may well be where you come in."

His remarks were greeted with enthusiastic cheers and one soldier was heard to say, "Well, let us do it."

Bush also warned about a Saddam armed with nuclear weapons.

Troops: Bush had nothing new to tell us

By K. GLENN HALL
United Press International

EASTERN SAUDI ARABIA — Desert-weary U.S. and British troops listening to President Bush in Saudi Arabia said their commander-in-chief "didn't say anything new" but he did boost their morale.

The message Bush delivered to the troops Thursday was not new: Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's forces must leave occupied Kuwait because one conquered country "is one too many."

"He told us our objectives and why we're here and it's all the stuff we've heard since the time we've got here," said Air Force Sgt. Kevin Dener, deployed from Langley Air Force Base in Virginia.

Dener said that despite the lack of new information, Bush's very presence gave soldiers a boost. Other soldiers who heard the president speak expressed similar opinions.

"He didn't stay in the United States and he did ... rotate among the troops," said Sgt. Linda Ramos. She said her Air Force comrades were glad to see the president, but still had concerns about the lack of rotation, which would have allowed certain units to head home after a given stretch of time and replaced by a new unit.

Several people in various branches of the military echoed Ramos' concern.

"The thought of rotation kept us going for awhile," said Army Sgt. Michael Joca of Decatur, Ill., who noted the postponement of rotation in Operation Desert Shield.

Great Britain to double number of troops deployed in Mid-East

By JOHN HALL
United Press International

LONDON — Britain will send 14,000 additional troops to Saudi Arabia, almost doubling the size of its force already lined up against Iraq, Defense Secretary Tom King said.

The planned deployment follows repeated demands by Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and King that Iraq to leave Kuwait or be expelled by military force.

After a U.S. decision to add 250,000 troops to the gulf, the British move announced Thursday was intended to add credibility to the threat to force Iraqi President Saddam Hussein out of Kuwait.

"It's to show we mean business," a Defense Ministry spokesman said.

The decision to raise the British commitment to more than 30,000 troops was made Thursday morning at the same Cabinet meeting at which Thatcher announced her resignation.

Britain will also send 43 Challenger tanks, bringing its total to 120 tanks.

"It is now over 3 1/2 months since Iraq invaded Kuwait and has continued to defy the United Nations demand to withdraw," King told the House of Commons later in the day. Iraq overran Kuwait Aug. 2 in a land-and-oil dispute.

"Sanctions have left Iraq increasingly isolated ... but Saddam Hussein shows no sign yet of complying with the U.N. resolutions and ending his barbaric treatment of the Kuwaiti people and the hostages he has detained illegally."

"If he's foolish, crazy enough to stay in spite of the very substantial military forces (against him), the cost will be short, it will be extremely painful for Iraqis, and ... the extra resources give us the best chance of minimizing the casualties on our side," King said at a news conference.

King said Britain wishes to resolve the crisis by peaceful means but must make Saddam recognize that there is no alternative to withdrawing.

Deployment of the troops, which will be drawn from Britain's 4th Brigade in Germany, will begin this weekend, the defense spokesman said, and will not be completed until January, which is the earliest an offensive against Iraqi forces by the multinational force was expected by military experts.

Britain is currently spending about $27.3 million per week on the gulf defensive effort. The additional troops are expected to bring that total to $46.8 million.

Envoys ask for Iraq's withdrawal

United Press International

BEIJING — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and his Chinese counterpart, Qian Qichen, ended an unexpected meeting in western China Friday with a renewed demand that Iraqi troops withdraw immediately from Kuwait.

China's official Xinhua news agency said the two sides "found a similarity of views" on many issues regarding the Gulf crisis but declined to say whether Qian committed China to support of a U.N. Security Council resolution authorizing military force to oust Iraq.

The two envoys met for 90 minutes in Urumqi, the capital of China's remote western Xinjiang region bordering the Soviet republic of Kazakhstan.

China's Foreign Ministry would not elaborate on the discussions, but Xinhua carried a brief dispatch reporting the Sino-Soviet demand for an Iraqi pullout from Kuwait.

Le Pen returns to France with hostages

United Press International

PARIS — Extreme right-wing leader Jean-Marie Le Pen returned home from Iraq with 55 freed hostages and accused unnamed Western governments of "wanting to keep hostages in Iraq in order to start a war."

Le Pen, accompanied by several European Parliament members belonging to right-wing parties who went to Baghdad with him, landed in the eastern French city of Mulhouse Thursday aboard a special Boeing 727 Iraqi Airways jet.

The rightist leader refused to elaborate on his charge that some Western governments wanted the hostages to remain in Baghdad as an excuse to start a war.

But he again urged France to withdraw its troops from Saudi Arabia as soon as possible because "American interests, and not French or European interests, are involved."

The 55 hostages who returned with Le Pen are citizens of 10 European countries, among them 21 British nationals, 14 Italians, seven Germans, three Irish and two Belgians.

Two Dutch citizens, three Danish nationals, two Greeks and a Swiss were also freed and returned with Le Pen.

The 14 Italian hostages immediately boarded a special Italian Air Force plane waiting at the Mulhouse airport for the flight home, authorities said.

"I do not share Mr. Le Pen's ideas, but I recognize his good work," one British hostage, James Stewart McDonald, 44, told reporters at the Mulhouse airport. "I am very happy. I had a marvelous return voyage."

Le Pen originally intended to land in Strasbourg, the home of the European Parliament, to emphasize the European nature of his visit. But French authorities reportedly refused his plane landing rights in the city.

Bruno Megret, second only to Le Pen in the extreme right-wing National Front Party, said that "if the government had effectively refused Strasbourg, it is so Le Pen will not appear as a man of peace."

Vying to succeed Thatcher

Michael Heseltine

Michael Heseltine, who has stalked Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher for five years, is the man she least wants to succeed her.

The threat that he might beat her in a showdown Tuesday finally persuaded her to step aside so that one of her Cabinet members — Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd or Chancellor of the Exchequer John Major — could move into 10 Downing Street instead of the man nicknamed Tarzan.

Heseltine, 57, has waged an undeclared campaign against Thatcher since he resigned as defense secretary in 1986 in a dispute over her leadership style.

Douglas Hurd

Douglas Hurd, a tall man of patrician bearing and a booming voice, was bred for service to the Conservative Party and his country.

His career as a diplomat started in Beijing in 1964 and he also served at the United Nations and the British Embassy in Rome.

When he was appointed foreign secretary last year, he said he had achieved the peak of his political ambitions and denied he would ever seek the premiership.

Hurd echoed Thatcher's flinty determination to face down Iraqi President Saddam Hussein in the Persian Gulf, but in contrast was seen as a pragmatist on Europe, favoring moves to join the European Community on monetary union.

John Major

Before the onset of the last big political fight of Thatcher's career, Chancellor of the Exchequer John Major was widely seen as her choice to carry on the "Thatcherism" revolution when she retired voluntarily, perhaps after the next general election in mid-1992.

The resignation of Geoffrey Howe as deputy prime minister Nov. 1, which brought the party's split over European integration into the open, disrupted the timetable.

While some analysts said Major may receive the votes of pro-Thatcher members of Parliament, London bookies gave him the longest odds for replacing her.

Thatcher altered British history

United Press International

LONDON — Margaret Thatcher, Britain's first woman prime minister and longest-serving leader of the 20th century, changed the course of British government and rekindled her country's international prestige.

The steel will that earned her the nickname "Iron Lady" made for a remarkable 41-year political career and an era in British history, but in the end cost her the support of her party.

Seriously wounded by a challenge to her 15-year leadership of the Conservative Party this week from Michael Heseltine, Thatcher made a solitary decision at 7:30 a.m. Thursday to resign the post she has held for 11 1/2 years.

The grocer's daughter who became a world leader aggravated party members with her abrasive leadership style: She refused to heed the advice of Cabinet members and took a churlish stand against European economic integration that became a political liability.

She once summarized her attitude toward her Cabinet — "I don't mind how much my ministers talk — as long as they do what I say." In holding firm on her economic policies she once declared, "The lady's not for turning."

Margaret Thatcher

Thatcher was the first prime minister to win a third consecutive term since the 19th century and on Jan. 3, 1987, became Britain's longest continuously serving prime minister this century, her eight years and 244 days in office surpassing the previous record of Lord Asquith from 1908 to 1916.

In the national election held June 11, 1987, Thatcher's Conservative Party scored its second-largest parliamentary majority since World War II.

Her first eight years as prime minister, she claimed, "made Britain great again."

The strong-willed Conservative Party chief led Britain to victory over Argentina in the 1982 Falklands War. And she fought for the deployment of U.S. missiles in Europe, a move that paved the way for a possible U.S.-Soviet arms reduction agreement.

On the domestic front, Thatcher governments carried out a sweeping denationalization of industry and services, curbed the power of left-wing labor unions and used prudent public spending to tame inflation.

The mother of two was first elected to Downing Street during the 1979 "winter of discontent," when under a Labor Party government, unions unleashed a wave of strikes that left garbage uncollected and the dead unburied.

The admitted workaholic soon embarked on her policy of what she called "popular capitalism" and what others referred to as "Thatcherism." She became a close friend of Ronald Reagan and met Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev as the most senior Western European leader.

But the social cost of the Thatcher policies was high and her style was considered by some Britons to be domineering and uncaring.

Thatcher move draws world's relief, respect

United Press International

Worldwide reaction to Margaret Thatcher's resignation reflected admiration for her fierce determination and stunning achievements, tempered by widespread sentiment that it was time for her to go.

In resignation, as at the peak of her powers, the British prime minister left nobody speechless. The "Iron Lady" has long been described as stubborn, exasperating and often amusing, but never boring. "On a personal note, I'll miss her because I value her counsel and the wisdom that comes from her long experience," President Bush said Thursday in Saudi Arabia while visiting American troops.

"She has been an outstanding prime minister for the United Kingdom and an outstanding friend of the United States," said Bush, whose predecessor, Ronald Reagan, was far closer to Thatcher.

Polish papers link candidate with terrorists

United Press International

WARSAW, Poland — The Polish media barged into the political campaign with an explosive attack on dark-horse independent presidential candidate Stanislaw Tyminski, suggesting he dodged military service because of mental disorders and has links to terrorists in Libya.

Tyminski, 42, a holder of Peruvian and Canadian passports, had a 21-point following in the latest government survey of support for Sunday's election, overtaking Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki with 17 points. Solidarity leader Lech Walesa was first with 27.

Both the Mazowiecki and Walesa camps have reacted sharply to the development. During a rally Wednesday in the southeastern city of Lublin, Walesa said he would leave Poland if Tyminski won Sunday's election.

And a high-ranking minister to Mazowiecki resigned to devote his full-time efforts to the waning days of the campaign.

Walesa, who once boasted he would take 80 percent of the vote, warned in Gdansk that he might not participate in a run-off that would be needed if no candidate obtains a majority Sunday.

"Such a victory is too little for what I want to do. I need broader support," Walesa said.

He also said he would not go into the opposition "because I would be too strong and I would topple the government and president in one month."

Instead, he said, he would start a business or go fishing.

The independent Warsaw daily Zycie Warszawy, quoting an unspecified "credible source," said Tyminski was exempted from military service in 1960 because he was mentally ill.

Rebel offensive continues, claims 239 casualties

By DANIEL ALDER United Press International

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — Rebels fired mortars into two major military bases on the third day of their latest offensive that has left at least 84 people dead and 155 wounded, the armed forces said.

"We are going to continue with our military campaign and the objective is to destroy the militarism imposed by the armed forces," the rebels said in a Wednesday night broadcast on clandestine Radio Farabundo Marti.

Five soldiers were killed late Wednesday in a guerrilla mortar attack on the Third Infantry Brigade in San Miguel, 71 miles east of the capital, boosting army casualties in the wave of attacks to 29 dead and 75 wounded, the armed forces said Thursday.

"It wasn't much of an attack," base commander Ciro Lopez Roque said in a telephone interview. "There were no damages to the installations but a group of soldiers were sleeping under some trees and that is where one of the grenades fell."

Coup quieted, calm returns in homeland

By STAN HENNING
United Press International

UMTATA, South Africa — Defense forces in the nominally independent black homeland of the Transkei lifted roadblocks and calm returned to the capital Friday, a day after a failed coup attempt left 18 dead and plunged Pretoria's relations with its troublesome offspring to a new low.

Two more Transkei soldiers loyal to homeland ruler Maj. Gen. Bantu Holomisa died overnight, pushing the death toll to six loyalists and 12 rebels, including coup leader Craig Dull, a former lieutenant colonel who launched the coup bid before dawn Thursday.

Soldiers of the Transkei Defense Force patrolled the streets of the dusty capital of Umtata, some 430 miles southeast of Johannesburg, singly and in pairs Friday, but calm appeared to have returned to the city. Roadblocks put up after the Putsch began were lifted.

Dull, formerly Holomisa's second-in-command, and as many as 30 other men, allegedly including about six whites, attacked the main army base on Umtata's outskirts shortly after 3 a.m. Thursday. Failing to gain control, they seized the 11th floor offices of Holomisa's ruling military council in the city center and refused orders to surrender.

In a barrage of automatic weapons fire and rifle grenade blasts, Holomisa's troops stormed the government building to oust Dull and his men to end the 12-hour coup bid.

Some controversy surrounded the circumstances of Dull's death. The South African Broadcasting Corp. reported Dull was "apparently murdered while being taken to a place of detention" but Holomisa said early Friday Dull had died of wounds sustained during the day.

South African radio also reported at least five whites had been arrested in connection with the plot. Holomisa refused Friday morning to either confirm or deny the arrests but called a press conference to display the captured weapons of the rebels.

Holomisa, a strong supporter of the African National Congress who seized power in the homeland in a bloodless coup on Dec. 30, 1987, has consistently angered South Africa, in particular Foreign Minister R.F. Pik Botha, and Thursday im-

South African miners killed by collapse

United Press International

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Tons of collapsing rock killed five gold miners, injured five others and left two missing in a shaft more than a mile beneath the earth's surface, authorities said Friday.

A small tremor shook loose several tons of rock Thursday in a shaft 8,200 feet below the surface of the Doornfontein mine, a spokeswoman for mine owner Goldfields of South Africa Ltd. said.

"It's possible the death toll will rise to seven... the two missing men might turn out to be dead but we're continuing the search," she said. The injured were in a satisfactory condition.

South Africa's worst mine disaster of the year, in September, killed 19 miners and injured 22 at the Vaal Reef gold mine southwest of Johannesburg when a gas explosion tore through a shaft.

The black National Union of Mineworkers estimates more than 68,000 miners have died and one million have been disabled in mine accidents since 1900 in South Africa, the world's biggest gold producer.

In 1989, the NUM says, 735 workers died, a total it expects to be eclipsed this year. The union has calculated a miner who works underground for 20 years risks one chance in 30 of being killed and has a 50 percent chance of being disabled.

pled South African backing for the coup.

South Africa denied the allegations.

Holomisa, 35, has been sharply critical of Pretoria's homelands policy in general and accused white businessmen operating in the Transkei of corruption. His support for the ANC also has complicated his relations with the South African government.

China takes aim at local economic protectionism

United Press International

BEIJING — The central government has launched a nationwide drive against provincial protectionism, a widespread and growing practice blamed for hindering China's economic development, the official press reported Friday.

The State Council, China's cabinet, issued a decree Nov. 10 taking aim at "regional market blockades" that hinder the movement of goods across provincial borders, the state-run China Daily said.

The six-point decree asserts the right of enterprises in any of China's 29 provinces and administrative regions to sell their goods in any other province and also guarantees that manufacturers have access to raw materials from any Chinese region.

It bans unfair local taxation of provincial imports, preferential lending rates that favor local producers and the establishment of border checkpoints, all of which have been used to curtail the free movement of goods from one province to another.

The State Council decree was the first concrete effort to combat the growing practice of local protectionism, which has been widely denounced in the state-run media as a barrier to the orderly and efficient development of national markets in China.

The problem has been fueled by glaring inequities in China's centrally controlled socialist pricing system.

Prices of raw materials in China are kept artificially low through heavy government subsidies, allowing producers of finished goods to reap handsome profits.

Provincial officials have been erecting trade barriers to keep lucrative finished-goods production with local enterprises, even if similar or better goods could be purchased more cheaply elsewhere.

Ryzhkov says he will resign if Gorbachev plan approved

United Press International

MOSCOW — Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov said Friday he and the entire Council of Ministers will resign if the Soviet Parliament approves President Mikhail Gorbachev's plan to reorganize the government.

The reorganization plan, given preliminary approval six days ago and being debated for final approval in the Parliament Friday, gives Gorbachev expanded powers and practically eliminates the need for a prime minister, although it does not specifically eliminate the office.

"If the suggestions of the president are approved, the Council of Ministers and I, as its head, will automatically resign," Ryzhkov told the independent Soviet news agency Interfax Friday.

Ryzhkov's resignation has been demanded by the powerful

Russian republic leader Boris Yeltsin and others who blame him for slowing economic reforms and allowing the Soviet Union to slip into crisis after crisis, but Gorbachev had previously rejected the demands and stood behind Ryzhkov.

The prime minister said he was surprised by the proposal at a Parliament session last Saturday to significantly consolidate Gorbachev's power by placing government ministries directly under the president's control.

"The question of reorganization of the system of governing and the resignation of the government was discussed before, but we thought it would happen only after the new union treaty was completed, that is when the ideas of the republics were defined precisely," Ryzhkov said. "The suggestions of the president last Saturday were quite unexpected for me."

IN BRIEF

HIGH SCHOOL HOOPS

Lady Sunshine starts today

LAKE MARY — The 1990 Lady Sunshine Basketball Tournament will be held today and Saturday at Lake Mary High School.

In the past the tournament has been a split high school-college affair with the high schools playing in the afternoon and the college's at night. But this year the college organizers decided not to bring in any teams. Because of this the tournament will look to expand its high school field for next year.

This year's field includes the host Lake Mary Rams, the Bishop Moore Hornets, the Lyman Greyhounds and the Spruce Creek Hawks.

Today at 6 p.m. Lyman will open the tournament vs. Bishop Moore and at 8 p.m. Lake Mary will take on Spruce Creek.

The consolation and the Championship games will be played at 1 and 3 p.m., respectively, Saturday.

Lake Mary coach Anna Van Landingham is expecting to have a good year with five returnees and six newcomers.

"We have a lot of girls who are mentally tough and play hard," said Van Landingham. "We will have more depth this year and all of the girls will see a lot of playing time."

The five returners from last year's district runners-up are — Karen Morris, Melissa Mau, Mari Citarella, Regina Alexander and Pam Fiaschi. The newcomers are LaShawn Merrick, Tara Huff, Stacy Gray, Dawn Judd, Cymonda Scrubbs and Lim Maslunja.

Admission for the tournament will be $3 for adults and $2 for students.

COLLEGE HOOPS

Raiders return home

SANFORD — The Seminole Community College men's basketball team hopes a return to the familiar surroundings of the Health and Physical Education Center will get them back on the winning track as it plays host to Columbia State College of Tennessee Saturday night at 7:30 p.m.

The Raiders will be playing at home for the first time in two weeks during which they lost three straight games and saw their record fall to 1-4.

SCC has been in a horrible shooting slump but showed signs of coming around in a 75-70 loss to South Florida C.C. Tuesday night.

Freshman Brian Hanson, John Mackay, Daniel Robinson and Sanford's Robert Moore have been the offensive sparks for the Raiders this season. Also seeing a lot of playing time for SCC have been sophomore's Dexter Vanzant, Ernest Jones and Lyman's Craig Radzak and freshman Dennard Ford.

Also seeing action will be Lyman's Mike Whittington and Bishop Moore's John Guemple. Tony De Jesus is day to day with an injury.

Tribe, Hawks in playoffs

Seminole at Tarpon Springs

By DEAN SMYTH
 Herald sports writer

TARPON SPRINGS — They took the long way to get here but the Seminole High Fighting Seminoles are where they feel they belong as they take on the Tarpon Springs Spongers in the Class 4A-Region IV playoff game at Tarpon Springs tonight at 7:30 p.m.

"We felt all along that we had the best team," said Seminole coach Emory Blake after Monday's district playoff win. "We haven't played up to our potential this year but we still think we are the best team."

This will be the second year in a row that the two teams have met for the region title. Last year, Seminole defeated Tarpon Springs 14-7 at Sanford.

Seminole looked nothing short of sensational in winning the three-team 4A-District 7 playoff at Evans High School's Double E Stadium this past Monday. If the Tribe plays tonight like they did Monday, this game might be academic.

Seminole only got three plays on offense but it turned them into 17 points. The defense faced nine

WINTER PARK — Here we are again.

For the second year in a row, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks and Lake City-Columbia Tigers will play for the 5A-Region II football championship. This year, the game will be played at Lake Howell's newly-christened Dick Evans Field. Kickoff is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Lake Howell returns to defend its regional championship a slightly different team than a year ago.

Sure, the 9-1 Silver Hawks are again led by Sanford Herald Player of the Year Marquette Smith and a bruising defense. But the Hawks have made some adjustments on offense to best utilize the skills of quarterback Ryan Thomas and running back Pat Jorgensen.

According to Lake Howell Coach Mike Bisceglia, the Tigers have also had to make some changes from a year ago.

"Just like us, they had some key players graduate," said Bisceglia. "They've been replaced by some good players. They have great overall team speed."

Rams' rally falls short in Rotary

By PAUL SMYTH
 Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — Al Gilreath rushed for 78 yards and caught a 67-yard touchdown pass to lead the Dr. Phillips Panthers to a 21-19 victory over the Lake Mary Rams Thanksgiving morning in the 17th annual Rotary Bowl at Lyman High School.

Lake Mary ended its season with a 5-6 record that included a regular-season ending upset win over Seminole.

"These guys have a lot of heart. You couldn't carry our hearts through our locker room door," said Lake Mary Coach Doug Peters. "We been outtaized and outgunned all season long, but we believed in ourselves and have come a long way."

The Rams took a 7-0 lead late in the first quarter, taking a short punt and driving 30 yards in six plays. Joe Menello capped the drive by sneaking over from one yard out.

But the Panthers came right back on a 36-yard scoring pass from Braniff Bonaventure to Derek Worthington on the first play of the second quarter to tie the game at 7-7.

Lake Mary had a chance to take the lead late in the second quarter when the Rams drove 73 yards to the Dr. Phillips 17-yard line. But Maurice McMillian recovered a Ram fumble and the score remained tied a 7-7 going into halftime.

The Panthers opened the second half with a nine-play, 67-yard drive capped by Bonaventure's 1-yard scoring plunge to give Dr. Phillips a 14-7 lead.

After a Lake Mary punt, the Panthers increased their advantage as Bonaventure connected with Gilreath for 67 yards and a 21-7 lead with 4:25 remaining in the third quarter.

Chris Haney then took charge for the Rams.

Haney rushed seven times for 35 of his game-high 121 yards on Lake Mary's next possession. He scored

Bowled over

Tribe gets a kick from Davison

By TONY DESORMIER
 Herald Sports Editor

When the defense forced a turnover against Edgewater in the Kansas Uebreaker Monday evening, giving Seminole High School the opportunity to grab the victory, Seminole Coach Emory Blake wasted no time.

Rather than run an offensive play and risk disaster, Blake went immediately to placekicker Geordie Davison.

After a timeout called by Seminole, Davison showed why Blake has that kind of confidence in him, calmly nailing a 27-yard field goal that beat Edgewater 10-7.

"I hoped that Coach Blake would give me the opportunity," said Davison, who also doubles as a wide receiver for the Tribe. "I've been ready all day for this."

It's that attitude, the desire to be in the middle of the action when the game is on the line, that makes Davison such a dangerous weapon for Seminole. During the regular season game against Edgewater, Davison kicked a school-record 54-yard field goal. He also kicked a 40-yarder that game and was perfect on both extra points, helping

Under the guidance of Coach Bob Moon, Seminole High School senior Geordie Davison (No. 21) has developed into one of Central Florida's best placekickers. Tonight, when Seminole plays the Tarpon Springs Spongers for the 4A-District IV championship, Davison hopes to have an opportunity to win the game with a kick.

IN BRIEF

Adopt a senior citizen

Seminole County Better Living for Seniors is again planning to make Christmas a joyous occasion for the older residents of Seminole County who regularly receive a Meals-on-Wheels lunch or attend one of the seven congregated sites throughout the county.

Karen Mowery, the director for Volunteer Services, is arranging for volunteers to deliver home cooked dinners and present to over 250 seniors on Christmas Day. Many of them live alone and do not have family in the area, so without a visit from these volunteers, Christmas would be a pretty lonely time.

The non-profit agency looks to the community for help in supporting this project. Anyone interested in participating can be a Senior's Santa by adopting a senior for $25. This contribution will guarantee the holiday dinner and gifts delivered by Santa's helpers as well as an invitation for the adoptee to attend the Better Living for Senior's Christmas Party on December 14. Contributions can be sent to Seminole County Better Living for Seniors, 636 Florida Central Parkway, Longwood, 32750. Attention: Adopt a Senior.

For more information, call 831-4357.

Catch the spirit

A month-long Christmas festival of sights and sounds will get under way in Mount Dora Sunday, December 2.

Five miles of tiny, white lights strung in the town square, Donnelly Park, will be turned on by Mayor Bob Wilson following a one-hour concert by a brass quintet from the Orlando Musicians Association that starts at 5:30 p.m.

Santa Claus will make an appearance at 6:45 p.m. People are invited to arrive at the downtown park on Old Highway 441 starting at 4:30 p.m. Bring a picnic basket so an old-fashioned afternoon in the park can be enjoyed. Parking is free.

Rocky Horror will show once

ORLANDO — THEATRIX will present The Rocky Horror Show for one night only at the Beacham Theatre on Dec. 6. This production is the first ever to be presented in Central Florida of the original play that inspired the international sensation of The Rocky Horror Picture Show.

The Rocky Horror Show premiered in London on June 16, 1973 to a warm reception with audiences and critics. The show, by Richard O'Brien, is based on B-Horror movies and Rock & Roll. The show went on to be named "Best Musical of 1973" by the London Evening Standard. The show made its American debut to sold-out audiences at the Roxy Theatre on March 24, 1974. The crescendo of enthusiasm and devotion of fans has built over the past 15 years and Rocky Horror has become the ultimate cult experience. The production will be under the direction of Michael La Fleur with Theatrix, whose impressive credits include the New York Revival of "Dames at Sea" and directing for the world famous Burt Reynolds Jupiter Theatre.

Tickets will be $15 for general seating, and $20 for VIP Balcony seating. Tickets will be available through TicketMaster and through A.R.E.A., the Beacham Theatre, The Big Bang, City Lights, and the Spotted Zebra. All proceeds will benefit A.R.E.A. — AIDS Resource, Education, and Assistance.

Exhibit will feature artist John Reich

LAKE MARY — An art exhibition, featuring the multi-media artwork of well-known Chicago artist John Reich has been scheduled for the Saturday after Thanksgiving, November 24, at "Furniture and More Gallery," Shoppes of Lake Mary, Lake Mary Boulevard, Lake Mary. Robert Horlan, owner of this eclectic furniture and interior decorating/design firm, located next to the Lake Mary Cinema, will exhibit Reich's work, along with that of several local artists, from 2 until 4:30 p.m.

Artwork representing all types of media which has been donated by artists from throughout Central Florida, as well as by artists from outside the state, will be on display. Among these artists is Reich, nationally known both for his unusually realistic, and yet imaginative, pencil drawings of landscapes, seascapes, animals and the human body.

Reich works in a wide spectrum of media, including pencils, watercolors, chalk, oils, blockprints, serigraphs, lithographs and sculpture. He, along with the other artists, will be available for discussion of their work.

The $10 ticket/donation to the Art Auction can be used toward the purchase of artwork being displayed.

Planning in advance

Committee members from the Lake Mary-Hawthorn Festival of the Arts know it's never too early to make plans. The group met recently to set the October date for next year's event and begin formulating strategy for a fifth success.

Loss of child is life's painful mystery

DEAR ABBY: I was bothered by the following, which I recently read in your column: "Confidential to Grieving in Arizona: My heart goes out to you. I can think of nothing more unnatural, nothing that leaves God with more explaining to do, than the loss of a child." (Jean Harris)

Abby, what right do we mortals have to demand an explanation from God?

I offer the following from your column in which you respond to a similar situation. It was published 12 years ago, and I think it's much better than the quote by Jean Harris:

"DEAR ABBY: My Sunday school teacher says that God is everywhere. Please put this letter in the paper and maybe he will see it. Dear God: Why did you let my brother die? When he was hit by the car, my mother prayed to you to let him live but you wouldn't. My little brother was only 2 years old, and he couldn't have sinned so bad that you had to punish him that way. Everyone says you are good and can do anything you want to do. You could have saved my little brother, but you let him die. You broke my mother's heart. How can I love you?"

PETER: "DEAR PETER: Your question is one that has troubled religious men for thousands of years. One great thinker wrote a book about it. It is called 'Job' and is part of the Bible. It says that the suffering of innocent people is something we cannot understand. But this much is sure: Death is not a punishment. It is one of life's mysteries. Speak to your minister, Peter. Communicate with God by praying, and he will help you in your search for wisdom and goodness and make your mommy happy again." Abby, I saved that because it was such a beautiful and sensitive answer to that young boy who was hurting. Trust your instincts and continue in that way to use your faith. You are so widely read, and your influence so great, that I believe you can make a difference in our country. In essence, yours is a real ministry. God bless you. I'll sign my name, but if you use this, sign me...

FEAR OF THE LORD, OIL CITY, PA.

DEAR ABBY: We tell our little ones not to talk to strangers and not to take candy from strangers. But how many of us explain to them what a stranger is?

I asked my little 5-year-old neighbor what she thought strangers look like, and she said, "They wear a mask, and grab you like they do on television!"

Another child I know invited a man to come into the house while her mother was in the shower. Fortunately, he did not accept the invitation. When her mother got after her about it, she said she knew the man was OK because "the man had a clipboard in his hands."

JEANETTE HANNA, UNION CITY, MICH.

DEAR JEANETTE: By definition, a "stranger" is a person who is unknown or with whom one is unacquainted.

It's sufficient to instruct children never to talk to people they do not know. And to accept no candy or rides from anyone without first obtaining permission from their parent or caretaker.

PREPARI NOW

A brisk breeze chases downy clouds through bright blue skies. The sunshine is deceiving on this cool November day, as young mothers enthusiastically push babies in strollers past elderly couples sitting on park benches.

Scampering, chattering squirrels forage through cracking leaves in search of acorns, hoarding them for the cold winter ahead, when food will be scarce and snow covers the ground. They know instinctively to prepare for the future while food is plentiful, not waiting till frigid winds blow through bare branches.

We also can ensure nourishment for our soul as we worship God in His house each Sabbath. Visit Him and invite Him into your heart. God's love will brighten each day, and will strengthen you when the cold winds of adversity are threatening.

Bishops seek balance in Columbus festivities

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

In the coming two years the nation will be swallowed up in pageants, celebrations and other festivities marking the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus's arrival in the Americas in 1492.

It will also be a time of controversy and conflict, historical finger-pointing and judgment, rendering as historians, theologians, pundits and just plain citizens seek to assess the legacy of the encounter of the Old World and the New.

Smack in the middle of the debate will be the close connection between colonialism and Christianity, the conquistadors and the missionaries — all neatly symbolized in the person of Columbus.

The nation's Roman Catholic bishops are trying to strike a balance as they map their own plans to celebrate the 500 years of the Catholic Christianity Columbus brought to the New World and evangelizing efforts of the missionaries from Catholic Spain who spread across both North and South America in the wake of Columbus's discovery.

During their annual fall meeting in mid-November, the bishops adopted a 40-page pastoral letter, "Heritage and Hope: Evangelization in America," that both looks back to the origins of the Old and New World encounter and forward to the continuing task of spreading the gospel in the Americas.

It seeks to give a balanced reading of the Columbian legacy. But a number of groups are uncomfortable with the whole notion of celebrating the European conquest of the Americas.

"The only thing Columbus really discovered was that he was lost," according to George Tinker, an Ojega Indian who teaches at the Iliff School of Theology in Denver, Colo.

In May, the National Council of Churches passed a resolution arguing that "for the indigenous peoples of North America, it brought slavery, genocide, economic exploitation and a deep level of institutional racism and moral decadence."

"The church, with few exceptions, accompanied and legitimized this conquest exploitation," the 32-member Protestant and Orthodox ecumenical agency said.

The Catholic statement generally acknowledged the NCC point, but also presented another view.

Does drug testing fit the patient?

Have the medicines your doctor prescribes for you been thoroughly tested in people of similar age, sex and race? No, according to the Congressional Caucus on Women's Issues. Almost all pharmaceutical research has used, and is still using, middle-aged white men. Women, blacks, Hispanics, Asians and the elderly are prescribed medicines that have usually been tested only in this one, homogenous population. Drugs' effects and complications are extrapolated from the test groups to citizens at large. Does this bias have any practical consequences? Yes, the Congressional Caucus vehemently responded.

To begin with, in women, the menstrual cycle can substantially affect therapy with anti-depressant medicine: A constant dose may be too high during the first half of the menstrual cycle but too low during the last half. "We don't know if (the drugs) are being metabolized differently or whether women just innately need more at different times in the cycle," said Michelle Harrison, M.D., assistant professor of psychiatry at the University of Pittsburgh.

In addition, the menstrual cycle alters the effects of clonidine (Catapres) for hypertension and phenytoin (Dilantin) for seizures. Furthermore, oral contraceptives often cause an increase in serum cholesterol, yet no one has studied the efficacy of administering cholesterol-lowering drugs with birth control pills. In fact, except for extrapolation from studies using males, no one is sure whether medicine-induced excess blood cholesterol is a health hazard for women on oral contraceptives.

To make matters more confusing, researchers have discovered that high-density lipoproteins (the "good" cholesterol) seem selectively to protect women from heart disease; but HDL is frequently lowered in women on low-fat diets. Therefore, women who limit cholesterol consumption may, unlike men, be actually placing themselves at risk.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Suppose you held the South cards and opened one heart in third position. When North raised you to two hearts, what would you do? Perhaps you would go right to four hearts, or maybe you would mention your diamond suit. Who knows? Anything could be right. The great Brazilian world champion Gabriel Chagas, playing in the World Mixed Pair Championship in Geneva last September, bid two spades. His partner raised him to three spades, and he bid four hearts. How well did that work? Just fine, since West led a diamond right into the A-Q. Eventually Chagas ruffed a third diamond with dummy's eight of hearts. Although that was overruled by East, declarer's last diamond was ruffed with dummy's queen of hearts, making the game contract. Wasn't it dangerous for South to bid spades? What if North raised to four spades? That should not be possible in a well-ordered partnership. When a major suit is supported, a new suit bid as a game-try may well be an artificial bid. North could raise spades very properly but should not leap beyond the four-heart level. I also held the South cards in Geneva. My partner responded one spade to my one-heart opening. So I bid diamonds, partner supported hearts, and eventually we reached the heart game. Without the favorable diamond lead, nine tricks were the limit for the hand. (C)1990, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

U.N. sanctions hurt Iraqi people

By LEE STOKES
United Press International

CAIRO, Egypt — Three months after it was imposed, the U.N. economic embargo against Iraq is causing more severe shortages, price hikes and oil revenue losses than the 8-year Iran-Iraq war.

But economists say they still do not know when the patience of the Iraqi people will be exhausted or whether demands will erupt for a policy change by the Baghdad government, which drew the sanctions by invading Kuwait on Aug. 2.

So far, the trade embargo imposed Aug. 5 has successfully prevented raw materials, machinery and spare parts from reaching Iraq while almost completely halting the OPEC nation's lucrative oil exports.

Oil exports accounted for more than 95 percent of Iraq's foreign exchange earnings before the embargo. But the multinational naval blockade and the closing of the oil pipelines through Turkey and Saudi Arabia have brought oil shipments to a near standstill.

Iraq still is exporting oil for free to Jordan, according to Jordanian government sources, who said the oil is necessary to prevent the Jordanian economy from complete collapse. Amman has explained its position to the U.N. sanctions committee, they said.

The Jordanian sources declined to give figures on how much Iraqi crude is flowing to Jordan.

One Bahrain-based Gulf Arab banker told United Press International in a telephone interview that Iraqi foreign debts of up to $80 billion can no longer be serviced and the country was expected to lose about $15 billion a year in oil sales. Baghdad was pumping some 3.2 million barrels of crude a day before its Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

The lack of spare parts and machinery has brought work on many Iraqi construction sites to a halt and all major development planning involving foreign partners has been suspended indefinitely.

Bankers believe the most important of these "embargo casualties" was an agreement to develop the Rumaila North oil field, the first such deal with a foreign consortium led by Occidental Petroleum Corp. of Los Angeles in conjunction with German, Greek and U.S. engineering firms.

Iraq's oil ministry had hoped Rumaila North would produce some 300,000 barrels a day by 1993.

In addition, activity in several major sectors of the economy, including the all-important oil industry, already is being severely curtailed by shortages of raw materials and spare parts, including solenoids, fuses, ball bearings and pipes.

Cairo Radio said the sanctions have reduced Iraqi industrial capacity by 40 percent.

Some Western economists contend that within a few weeks the lack of spare parts will create a serious problem for the water and power industries, petrochemical production and public utilities.

As a measure of the sanctions' impact, Iraq announced Oct. 19 the rationing of gasoline and lubricants. Then Oil Minister Isam Abd ar Rahim ash Chalabi explained that the "only reason" for this rationing was to ensure Iraq had enough additives and chemicals to produce gasoline and lubricants for "as long as possible."

But Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, apparently fearing a public backlash in his tightly controlled country since gasoline rationing never had been introduced even during the Gulf war, fired Chalabi nine days later and ended the rationing.

Baghdad Radio said experts had told Saddam that stocks of additives were much larger than previously believed and could be produced locally.

Although Iraq has maintained that it still has large stockpiles of food, Baghdad last week announced a 20 percent reduction in monthly rations for sugar and wheat.

In addition, the exodus of hundreds of thousands of foreign workers from Iraq since the invasion of Kuwait also has hampered the Iraqi economy in a way that Saddam may not have foreseen.

Many workers from other Arab countries, South Asia and the Far East performed skilled or semi-skilled jobs in the oil industry, power stations and other industrial installations. Without these foreign workers, Iraq now is facing a serious shortage of manpower.

Christian militia official reports pact

BY SALL BAHOU
United Press International

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The Christian hard-line Lebanese Forces militia, yielding to government pressure, said it will relinquish its strongholds in the capital, paving the way for Lebanese soldiers to establish a militia-free unified Beirut.

"We have completed final touches on the Greater Beirut (security) plan and all obstacles have been removed," LF spokesman George Abdel Masah told United Press International on Thursday.

Abdel Masah expected the militia to withdraw its forces and heavy weapons from the Christian neighborhood of Ahrayfeh and the LF headquarters in Karantina by early Friday.

The LF decision came after a night-long meeting at the temporary presidential headquarters in the mainly Moslem sector of west Beirut among President Elias Hrawi, army commander Emile Lahoud and a Christian militia delegation. Official sources said the conferees agreed to a security plan to demilitarize Beirut following negotiations that lasted until dawn.

The sources said the implementation of the accord will start immediately after day-long "Independence Day" celebrations and will be completed early Friday.

The nation celebrated Independence Day as the Lebanese army held a military parade in the Syrian-policed west Beirut and warplanes and helicopters repeatedly roared over the city.

Lebanon gained independence from France in 1943 but since then an independent peaceful Christian-Moslem co-existence has remained fragile.

Defense Minister Albert Mansour said the establishment of a unified Beirut will be the government's "gift for all Lebanese on Independence Day."

Hrawi's government had set Nov. 19 as a deadline for the withdrawal of all militias and deployment of the Lebanese army to maintain law and order in unified Beirut.

OPEC is realizing $44 billion windfall from Persian Gulf crisis, report says

OPEC nations may take in $148 billion this year

United Press International

NEW YORK — Middle East oil producers will realize a windfall of about $44 billion in extra revenue this year from the rise in oil prices during the Persian Gulf crisis, an industry newsletter reported this week.

OPEC Listener, an authoritative monitor of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, said an analysis shows OPEC countries will enjoy about a $44 billion windfall in estimated full-year 1990 oil income over 1989.

As a result of oil prices doubling since Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait, the New York-based publication estimated 1990 oil revenues of the OPEC nations at approximately $148 billion.

It estimated Saudi Arabia's revenues will rise $16 billion, or 68 percent, over 1989 to nearly $40 billion for 1990.

In late October, the governor of the United Arab Emirates' central bank estimated OPEC's Persian Gulf producers were spending at an annual rate of $18 billion to support the U.S.-led multinational force assembled in Saudi Arabia and other nations in the Gulf region to deter further Iraqi aggression. Abdul Malik al-Hamir, the UAE governor, also was reported as saying the oil income of the nations making up the Gulf Cooperation Council would rise 43 percent to $60 billion in 1990.

The GCC consists of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, the UAE, Qatar, Bahrain and Oman. All except Bahrain and Oman also belong to the OPEC cartel. The Pentagon in Washington has said that the Gulf nations, primarily Saudi Arabia, Kuwaiti government in exile and the UAE have committed $6 billion to support the multinational force through the end of 1990.

Japan had committed $2 billion in support through March, Germany had promised $1.05 billion to defray 1990 expenses of the multinational force and Korea has pledged $95 million, a Pentagon spokesman said.

U.S. government officials said the GCC nations have pledged another $6 billion to help nations such as Egypt, Jordan and Turkey, which are suffering economically from the U.N. embargo of Kuwait and Iraq imposed in the wake of the invasion.

Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., recently said the decision to send additional U.S. troops to Saudi Arabia will nearly double the cost of maintaining the U.S. force in the Middle East to $30 billion in the current fiscal year.

Encounter with arm-twisting lobbyist was turning point for representative

By LEON DANIEL
UPI Chief Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Maverick Rep. Andy Jacobs, the Indianapolis Democrat, was not speaking figuratively when he recalled the time a lobbyist actually twisted his arm.

It was in 1974, when Jacobs received "a rush of contributions" from special interests after being named to the powerful Ways and Means Committee.

"This guy actually laid his hands on me," Jacobs recalled. "He was literally twisting my arm. I decided then and there that no bastard was ever going to do that to me again."

Since then, the 58-year-old 12-term congressman has accepted no contributions from special interests.

"That's the only way to guarantee that you're not going to be influenced by lobbyists," Jacobs said in an interview by telephone from his district office back home in Indiana.

Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill, the Keating Five senators were fighting for their honor in a hearing before the Senate Ethics Committee.

They are accused of intervening improperly with federal regulators on behalf of former savings and loan owner Charles Keating, who contributed $1.4 million to the senators.

The beleaguered solons might have profited by studying Jacobs' political career.

In his most recent re-election campaign, he spent a measly $8,600, compared with the $400,000 congressional average.

Jacobs is an admirer of the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn, the plain-spoken Texan who minced not a word in telling lobbyists how the cow ate

Take the money and retire?
Members of Congress who have the most unspent campaign funds

Member	Amount
Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y.
Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.
Ronnie Flippo, D-Tenn.
James Quillen, R-Ala.
Matthew Rinaldo, R-N.J.
Robert Matsui, D-Calif.
Carlos Moorhead, R-Calif.
Thomas Foley, D-Wash.
William Brockmeyer, R-Mich.
Bill Archer, R-Texas
Sam Gibbons, D-Fla.

Under congressional rules, members of the House of Representatives who were in office by Jan. 8, 1990, can take their unspent campaign funds with them when they retire — as long as they leave office by January 1993. Some 184 members of the House could possibly leave office with such money. Of them, Rep. Stephen Solarz could be the richest — if he leaves office in time.

the cabbage. "I can't be bought," Mr. Sam would tell the fellows with the deep pockets.

Rayburn is something of a role model for Jacobs, widely regarded as a skinkflint with the taxpayers' money.

Congressional salaries will jump to $125,000 next year, but Jacobs refuses to accept more than $75,000. He declines all junkets and House stamping privileges.

Jacobs introduced a resolution last year that would have made it a crime for members of Congress to receive payment for speeches. The measure irked other lawmakers and, unsurprisingly, died in committee.

Wounded while serving in the Marine Corps during the Korean War, he works Fridays and Mondays in his office in Indianapolis. When in Washington, he sleeps on a sofa in his office in the Rayburn Building or stays with friends.

"I describe myself politically as a parsimonious progressive," Jacobs said. "I'm not a conservative because I wouldn't spend as much as they do."

Jacobs is still enjoying his re-election victory back home in Indiana so he has not closely followed the Keating Five hearing before the ethics panel.

But the testimony did remind him of the time a lobbyist actually twisted his arm, a political epiphany for Jacobs that he credits with "really raising my consciousness."
