Duany support strong

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Persons who attended the Duany Project presentation Wednesday night, are enthusiastic about Sanford's potential for the future. Most see it as a positive step forward.

Andres Duany appeared before a packed audience at the Sanford City Hall Wednesday night, to give the first public airing of his new master plan for the revitalization of the historic residential section of Sanford.

Duany's plan calls for new codes and restrictions which will deal with ways older homes will be allowed to be repaired, repainted and refurbished.

Duany presented two maps of the Sanford area, with three separate sections where he believed the restoration concepts should be adopted. Zone A basically consists of a small residential area to the south of the downtown district. Zone B lies south, west and north of it, surrounding the first zone and extending the area to the lakefront.

Zone C is the area generally known as the Georgetown area, between Sanford and Mellonville Avenues, from 3rd Street south to Celery Avenue.

Duany observed, "Input from some of the Georgetown residents indicates they may not immediately accept the entire proposal but are interested in launching a slightly altered plan."

According to Charles Rowe, president of the Civic Improvement Association, said, "That's what he said Monday night, but that's not exactly the way it is." Rowe commented, "We met with him and gave him input last year, but we later heard what were supposed to have been some of his proposals, and didn't exactly agree with some of them."

Rowe continued, "Our concerns are not dissimilar with other areas of Sanford, but we do want to see the full plans he has before we make any further decisions."

The CIA will be meeting to discuss it further. See Duany, Page 5A

Decision on hold to pave area

LAKE MARY — One area of Lake Mary may eventually see paving and drainage work under way. The method of paying for it however, remains to be decided.

The City Commission spent over three hours discussing the matter last night, before deciding to bring it back for further discussion.

Although no official decision was made, the Commission gave consensus votes to concentrate on the Washington Avenue and Fifth Street areas for the first paving and drainage program. Financing of the project may involve a special assessment.

Ronald Ferland, vice president of Dyer, Riddle, Mills and Precourt, appeared before the Commission last night to explain the firm's findings. "You need to decide three things," he said, "Do you want to do this program, if you do, how will you implement it, street-by-street or area wide, and how do you want to finance it."

Rezoning moratorium expanded

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A moratorium to stop rezoning of an area north of Lake Mary Boulevard, was expanded last night. The City Commission extended the area to include the north side of Sun Drive.

As originally proposed, the moratorium would only cover the northern side of Lake Mary Boulevard, from Country Club Road to Rinehart Road. The Sun Drive area is west of Rinehart, joining County Club Road just east of the Interstate 4 exit area.

In proposing the additional area, Commissioner Paul Tremel commented, "The whole purpose of this moratorium is to help the residential area. I think the residential area near Feather Edge should also be protected from commercial intrusion."

The moratorium will prevent any See Rezoning, Page 5A

Fashionscape success

By VICKI DeBORNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Though a bright sun lit the noontime crowd that had gathered in the Magnolia Mall on Thursday, a cool breeze whisked through downtown.

Fashionscape, a fashion show and luncheon, sponsored by the St. Lucia Festival committee and the First Street Gallery, was a big success, according to Kay Bartholomew, chairman of the St. Lucia Festival committee.

"This is wonderful," said Bartholomew. "You couldn't ask for better weather than this."

Below the massive clock that has become the symbol of Sanford, the lunchtime crowd dined on a meal of chicken or tuna salad, tangy potato salad, fruit salad and a pair of cookies. The lunches were packaged in festive boxes wrapped in bright colored ribbons and topped with a bright bag of multi-colored jelly beans.

"We're real close to getting this finished," police Lt. Russell Cohen said this morning. "We expect a resolution today."

Cohen did not say whether the case would be resolved by arrest, but said the State Attorney's Office has been contacted regarding the incident. Cohen said investigators believe they have identified all of the participants involved in the circumstances surrounding the shooting which occurred at about 5 p.m. at 1800 Orange Circle.

Four local schools plan carnivals as fundraisers to benefit students

By VICKI DeBORNER

SANFORD — The Crooms School of Choice, 2200 W. 13th St., Sanford, joins three other Seminole County schools which are having carnivals tomorrow.

The Crooms carnival will take place at the school from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Crooms will join with their business partners, including the Orlando Magic, to raise money for incentives for the students, such as field trips and supplies for the school's classrooms.

According to principal Barbara Kirby, the school's Parent-Teacher Association (PTA) organized the third annual event.

"The PTA is supporting our programs with this carnival," said Kirby. "We hope the community will come out as well."

The carnival will include a garage sale, an auction of items such as an autographed Orlando Magic basketball, games and candy and other carnival foods.

"There's something for everyone," Kirby said. The other carnivals in Seminole County on Saturday are:

Chiles signs HRS reorganization bill

TALLAHASSEE — The next move in improving Florida's social services agency will be up to communities, state leaders said as they watched Gov. Lawton Chiles sign a reorganization bill into law.

"The ball is now in the court, somewhat, of the communities because they need to make this plan work," said Rep. Lois Frankel, a West Palm Beach Democrat who chairs the House Health and Rehabilitative Services Committee.

"This legislation will allow the local citizens to — I think for the first time — become part of the solution," said Gwen Azuma-Edwards of Daytona Beach. She chaired one of 20 study groups directed by the Legislature to recommend plans for reorganizing the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Chiles on Thursday signed into law a bill to create new districts and give local boards more power.

Legislative redistricting jeopardized

TALLAHASSEE — A special session called to allow state lawmakers to draft their own district boundaries hit a Republican roadblock that may ensure the task will be done by a federal court, Democrats say.

"I think we are really in a bind as far as the time frame is concerned," said Senate President Gwen Margolis, D-North Miami Beach. "I don't think you can wait too much longer."

The 18 Senate Republicans, joined by a pair of dissident Democrats, took advantage of the absence of an ailing Democratic senator Thursday to push through a motion to recess until Monday afternoon on a 20-19 vote.

The moves surprised and angered Democrats who called the Republicans hypocritical for filing a federal lawsuit claiming things were at a hopeless impasse and then bottling up any progress.

Defense closes with Noriega in tears

MIAMI — Manuel Noriega stood before a federal jury with tears in his eyes as his defense ended its case asking if his trial was about drugs or politics.

Prosecutors, who have called the ousted Panamanian leader a "classic military dictator" and a "crooked cop," are set to give their final rebuttal argument today in the six-month drug and racketeering trial.

Jurors were sequestered Thursday night and should begin deliberating this afternoon after hearing four days of final arguments and months of testimony from 78 witnesses.

Noriega is charged with 10 counts accusing him of making Panama a way station for U.S.-bound drugs and a money laundering center for Colombia's Medellin cocaine cartel.

themselves at Forever Fashions and at Lois Place, strolled from table to table showing off their spring fashions. Diners examined materials and chatted with the models.

Bartholomew said that ticket sales had been brisk all last week for the event, with more than 60 tickets sold prior to the event, but that "quite a few more" were sold before and during the event.

Bartholomew said that 60 lunches were sold and that the groups raised approximately $400.

"It's not a lot of money," she said, "but we accomplished something more important. There were people there from Winter Park, from Deltona, from all over. We want to bring in people who don't normally come downtown."

This is the second Fashionscape program presented by the groups. The first was last fall.

"We have many more people than we did last time," Bartholomew said.

From that, $280 was raised to purchase a traditional 19th century police officers uniform that will be worn during special events in downtown Sanford. That uniform was among the exciting fashions modeled during yesterday's show.

Yesterday, Walt Padgett modeled the uniform. Bill Crappe, however, will play the part of the officer at most occasions.

Money raised during yesterday's show has been earmarked for vintage costumes to be worn during special holiday events in downtown.

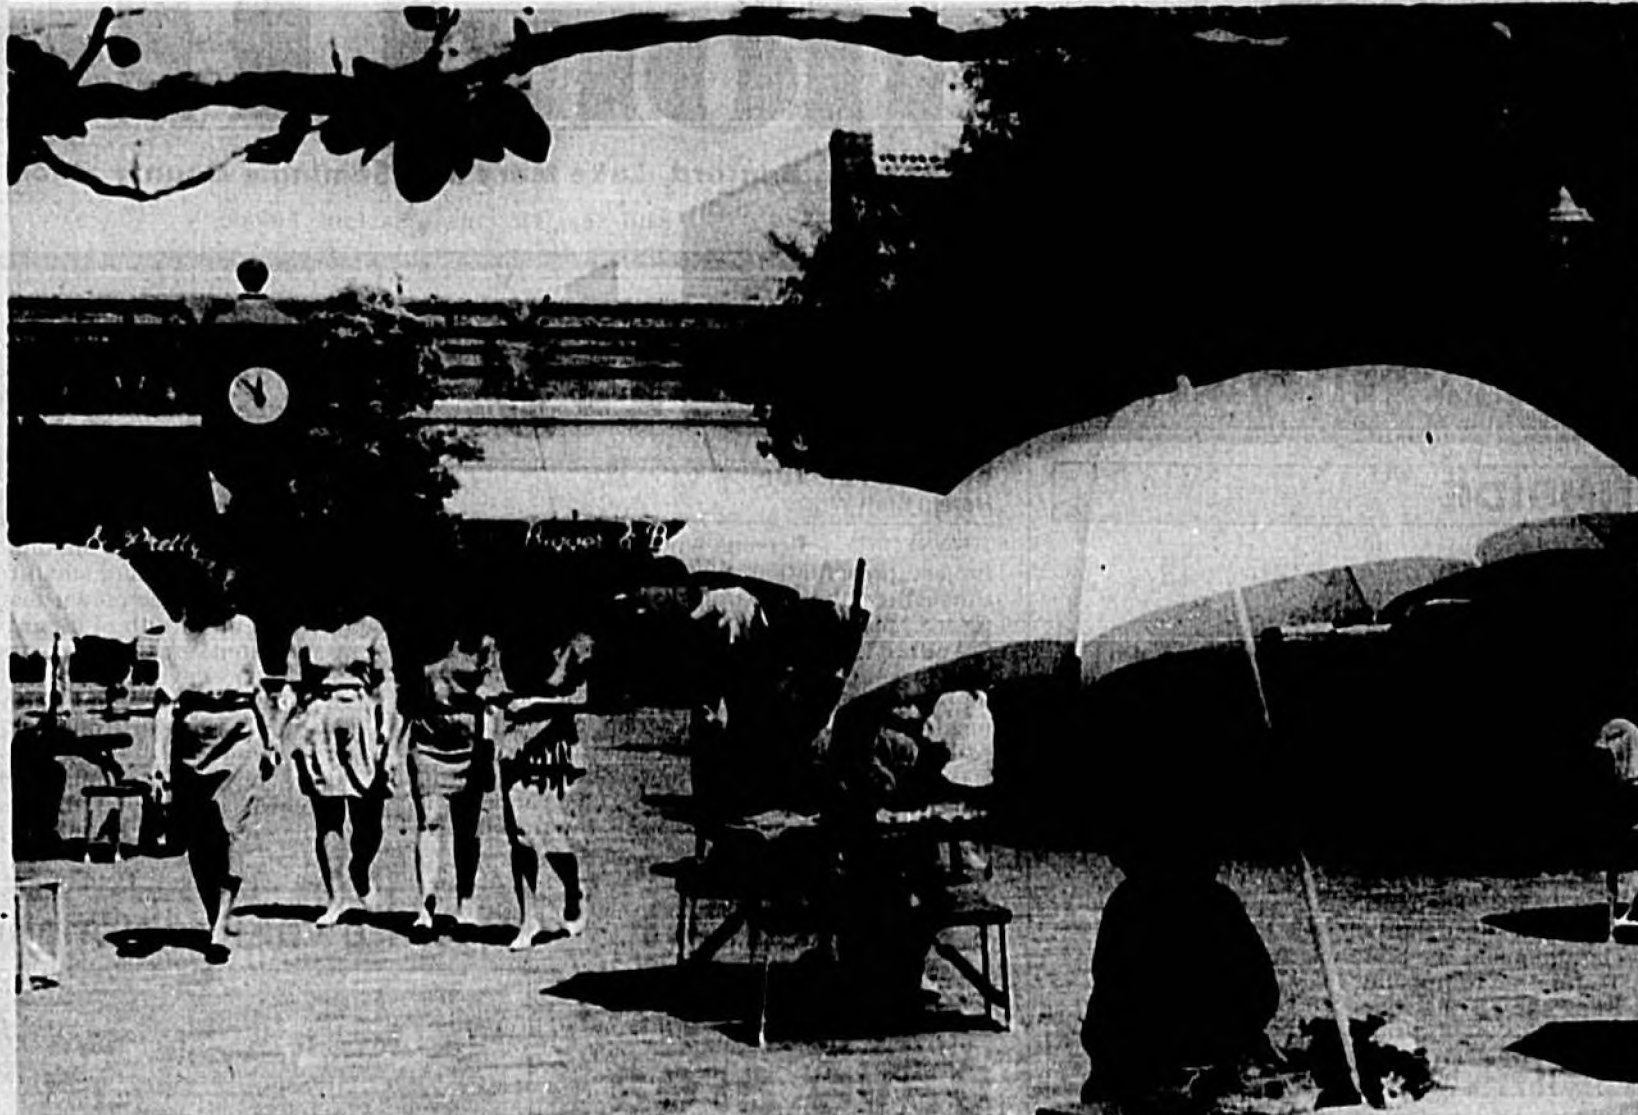

Jinney Stadig of the Cranberry House store in the Magnolia Mall modeled the Victorian blouses she has made as a prelude to the full costumes which are expected to be ready for the fall Fashionscape.

Models Frankie Lautsenhien, Laurie Graham, Trish Colbert, Wendy Womble, Velma Williams, Gretchen Mason, Sue Foreman, Jane Parks, Sue Fensnermaker, Sophie Hunt, Hazel Cash, Michele Harp, Kim Hooper, Betty Smith, Pat Hardin-Brooks, Dottie Ramsey, June Lawrence, Jessica Granlund, Vivian Forde, Juanita Dychus, Gail Smith, Eileen Laughlin and Sharon Brown showed off the latest Spring fashions.

Bartholomew said the Fashionscape was the first opportunity to show off the Swedish carts built and decorated for the St. Lucia Festival by Chuck Bosc, Ruth Lee and Jack Watson.

"These are beautiful pieces of handiwork," Bartholomew said.

Water board auctions controversial airplane

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

An airplane used to ferry officials of the St. Johns River Water Management District from their homes to meetings will be sold to raise money for water restoration projects.

In an effort to restore money lost to budget cuts this year, water district officials are seeking bids for a 1982 Piper Cheyenne purchased about three years ago for $575,000. District spokesman Ed Albanesi said the district is seeking a minimum bid of $500,000 for the six-seater jet prop aircraft.

If the bid goal isn't received, an attempt to sell the aircraft won't be made for six to 12 months, said Albanesi.

The district will accept bids until April 3. Although bids have been sought since March 13, none have been received.

The district's use of the Cheyenne led to a Putnam County grand jury investigation in 1990. The grand jury found the aircraft had been acquired to replace a $90,000 five-seat aircraft to reduce the need to rent additional aircraft for district activities.

The grand jury stated the aircraft was purchased primarily for surveillance but it was used for other purposes 85 percent of its flight time. Other uses included ferrying district board members from their homes to meetings and once, to fly a board member's spouse to Tallahassee. The demand for rental aircraft did not decrease, the grand jury found.

After a four-month investigation, the grand jury scolded the district for the aircraft's usage, calling it a "waste of taxpayer's money." The grand jury recommended the use aircraft taxi service be stopped and suggested the Auditor General of Florida conduct a review of district spending, but recommended no further actions be taken.

Albanesi said the aircraft is still being used for transportation and was never intended for surveillance work.

But those problems have flown away in the face of the possible loss of the district's main source of restoration money, the state Surface Water Improvement and Management program, SWIM. Albanesi said the state trimmed $500,000 from its $2.5 million SWIM revenue this year. The district now faces the possibility of losing all of that amount under the current state budget.

Albanesi said the $500,000 or more isn't targeted to a specific project. SWIM money is currently being used to restore salt marshes in the Indian River Lagoon in Volusia, Brevard and Indian River Counties. SWIM money has been used in the effort to restore Lake Apopka.

Seminole Soccer Club is also seeking $100,000 for construction of a training facility for the U.S. National Soccer Team in preparation of the World Cup games.

The Seminole County Historical Museum is seeking $10,000 for signs and the Seminole County Historical Society is seeking $8,400 for promotion of Pioneer Days and community programs.

Also, the Central Florida Zoo has already been promised $180,000 this year to aid in zoo promotions and improvements. The zoo received the same amount last year.

County weighs new school impact fee

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Next week, Seminole County commissioners and school board members will consider a fee of about $1,400 on each new home to help pay for new schools.

Until the Florida Supreme Court decided in a St. Johns County case last year, school impact fees were believed to be illegal. But the court's decision to allow fees on new homes to help pay for schools opened the door for school planners to look to the fee to supplement their construction income.

School officials were stung by the voter's defeat of their proposed $520 million bond program to build 27 new schools, a new administration center and other improvements. They soon after imposed a 2-mill property tax increase to supplement state construction appropriations, but the combined amount would still fall short.

If approved, the fee would be imposed on all residential construction occurring after Oct. 1 this year. Commissioners and school board members will meet 4 p.m. Wednesday in the third floor conference room of the County Services Building.

Dianne Kramer, schools facilities planner, said the school board has tentatively approved a five-year $167.9 million school improvement plan that includes construction of nine new schools. One of the six proposed elementary schools will be built near The Crossings, Kramer said.

According to the school's proposal, the anticipated state revenues and tax will contribute about 74 percent of the need. The impact fee will be used to supplement the revenues by about $44.4 million.

Based on student generation calculations, it is expected to cost the school board $5,232 for each home, $2,416 for each apartment and $3,612 for each mobile home to provide classrooms and other school services. With current revenues paying 76 percent of that amount, school planners arrived at a fee of $1,384 per home, $639 per apartment and $955 per mobile home to help pay the expense.

Kramer said the fee and expense calculations are still being refined and the anticipated fee could be lowered.

Chemical feast

No diner would intentionally sit down to a meal of raw sewage or toxic chemicals. But in the United States, sorry to say, one's chances of ingesting such contaminants are relatively high when seafood is on the menu. Will U.S. regulators ever get serious about seafood inspection?

Don't count on it. No federal laws require fish to be inspected, unlike poultry or meat. In practice, about 80 percent of the seafood eaten in the United States escapes scrutiny, which may help explain why fish has become the nation's largest single source of food poisoning, outdistancing even such notorious bad guys as chicken and raw eggs.

How awful is the seafood typically marketed for human consumption?

Early results from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's first tour of all seafood processors could make even the strongest stomach turn. Nearly 20 percent of the samples taken showed traces of filth and contamination by bacteria and viruses, as well as decomposition.

A survey by the respected Consumer Reports magazine produced even greater cause for concern: As many as two in five samples of fish contained bacteria found in human and animal feces.

No question, consumers are reaping the consequences of the nation's long-standing indifference to water quality. As fertile fishing grounds along coastlines become cesspools, the seafood harvested from them becomes nearly inedible. A crackdown on polluters would help slow the destruction of these waters.

But at the same time, the federal government should begin routine inspections of fish-processing plants. President Bush has indicated how high a priority he puts on food safety through his 30 percent cutback of the FDA's budget for that purpose.

Congress doesn't have to play along. By mandating routine federal inspections of seafood processors, lawmakers could send a message to the industry that it must clean up its act, literally. What is Congress waiting for?

What about public servants?

There was a time when personal sacrifice was an accepted part of public service. Personal gain now seems to be the first motive. Salaries are eclipsing those in private business.

Managers and department heads are praised and rewarded handsomely for doing a good job of protecting their elected bosses from the wrath of the public and the media. They are doing their job well...thus the voter apathy...the disgust with an out-of-touch system...the feeling that they as an individual cannot address the system or effect any change.

It is safe to say that when a county employee is being paid over $100,000 annually...he will look forward to meeting with his investment broker much more than dealing with a group of citizens at a public hearing!

Voters, let's make a change

I am glad election time is coming near. I'm sure I can find a better administrator than the present Sheriff for Seminole County. The Seminole County Sheriff at a recent forum stated that his department hires only the best when he puts on a new deputy.

If that is so, tell me please, how and why did the Sheriff hire a former Orlando police officer who resigned under pressure and later was found guilty of violating the department's truthfulness policy in which he then was recommended for termination from the Orlando Police Department. Then, our beloved Sheriff fires one of his own for being slightly overweight and unable to run the required distance in a given time limit. I see some heavyweights on patrol that I know can't run the distance in that same given time.

If this is the Sheriff's policy, and this be the best that the Seminole County Sheriff's Department can hire, I surely do not want to see the worst.

Voters of Seminole County - common sense says we need a change, and we have plenty to choose from. Let's make a change for the better.

Where are Sanford's priorities

The City of Sanford can spend thousands of dollars on Cham Park and the west side of the large drainage ditch along the park. But they have never spent a dime on the east side of the ditch and the ground between the ditch and the property owners.

This ditch should have a culvert in it and covered over. Poisonous snakes breed in this ditch and go in people's yards.

The schoolchildren take their exercise along this ditch. If one of them is bitten by a snake or one of them falls in this ditch after a heavy rain, it would be a tragedy.

Where are the city's priorities?

CHUCK STONE

Here's to your health - and mine

"Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" has a true ring of nobility, but for 35 million Americans with no medical coverage, the phrase has an empty resonance.

Health care ranks near the bottom of the totem pole of priorities for two of the nation's most prominent Republican politicians - George Bush and Pat Buchanan. To both men, access to health care is a function of citizens' ability to pay for it; not the obligation of their government to insure it.

That's why so many Americans die needlessly. They cannot afford minimum health care. No estimates are available on the thousands of Americans who die each year because they cannot afford health care or it is not available to them. That's because proper health care is as much prevention as it is cure and treatment.

If the presidential election were held tomorrow and health care were a premium issue, Democrat Bill Clinton probably would win. That's because Americans strenuously prefer his health plan to George Bush's. (Pat Buchanan's health care plan was summed up by one analysis with three words: "Don't get sick.")

If the voters of Illinois "do the right thing" in this year's election, they will send the first black woman to the Senate. For Democratic candidate Carol Moseley Braun, health care is more than a top priority. It is a reality check.

Braun's mother is an amputee in a nursing home, and her mother's experience has sensitized Braun to the imperative for a national health care plan. She will be one more eloquently articulate voice for those poor families to whom George Bush's $3,750 health-care tax credit is almost laughable. What good will a tax credit be to a family earning $10,000 (the poverty cutoff) or less when it cannot afford to pay the doctor to get the credit?

If this nation in the 18th century constitutionally guaranteed freedom of speech, religion and assembly, a fair trial and reasonable bail, doesn't a maturing of our humanitarian values in the 20th century mandate a modern interpretation of what the right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" means?

The right to life and the pursuit of happiness is not remotely facilitated when a sick person is too poor to enjoy either one.

We've come a long way since the days when any discussion of a national health care plan evoked banal cries of "socialized medicine." When 14 percent of any nation's people cannot enjoy the toast, "Here's to your health," then that nation violates the constitutional trust its citizens have accorded it.

America and South Africa are now the only two major industrialized nations without any kind of national health care plan.

Clinton's health care plan requiring employers to fund health care for workers or pay into a government fund covering the uninsured is vastly superior to Bush's tax credit plan.

But health care is still a back burner issue. When Speaker of the House Tom Foley responded to Bush's State of the Union Address, he mentioned health care almost as a casual afterthought, even though the dramatic upset victory in Pennsylvania by Democrat Harris Wofford, who ran on this issue in a U.S. Senate race, had telegraphed the deep distress of voters.

Health care ranks near the bottom of the totem pole of priorities.

Where does the buck stop?

LOS ANGELES - As they try to figure out the best investments, most money managers spend their days closely watching the stock market's jumps and dips, and tracking the performances of hundreds of individual companies.

Instead of tracking corporate activity and individual share prices, Lon Morton studies the results obtained by other money managers.

Morton is president of Morton Capital Management, a 10-year-old investment management firm based in the Los Angeles suburb of Calabasas. On any given day, Morton Capital manages a portfolio of some $300 million - from corporations, pension funds and private investors.

"What we do is track the results being obtained monthly, weekly or even daily by hundreds of managers of mutual funds and other investment vehicles," explains Morton. "We have developed unique sources of information and devised a very sophisticated computer data base system to manage this flow of information."

Morton invests the millions he is managing with the mutual funds or with the private managers that he and his staff feel will get the best results over the coming weeks and months.

"We don't just look at the managers who are hot at the moment," Morton continued. "We have built up quite a storehouse of historical data and we know who has done well over a sustained period."

Morton says one of the pitfalls of trying to evaluate investment results is that you end up comparing apples to oranges.

"We are always careful to measure one manager's results against those of his direct peers - growth funds with growth funds, income funds with income funds, large cap managers with large cap managers. If you don't, the results might seem valid, but they're not."

Morton tries to offer his clients diversity and safety they would not be able to achieve if they directly invested with individual funds or money managers. He is also able - because of the size of the pooled investments - to negotiate low commissions, and give his clients access to funds and managers who will only accept large investments. In turn, Morton charges no commissions, but rather a fixed fee.

"To us the most important thing is the risk-return analysis," says Morton. "We look for managers who, over an extended period, have gotten the best results, while relatively taking the smallest risks. We know that our clients are willing to forgo a small increase in return, in exchange for a considerable lessening of risk."

Morton says that the nature of his business is changing. In the past, most of his clients have been corporations, pension funds and the wealthy. But more and more he is being called on by retirees and middle-class investors who are finding their CDs are being renewed at very low rates of return.

"The kind of mix we offer investors on every level provides a better rate of return and access to investments they might not otherwise be able to make."

Here are some funds and money managers that Lon Morton says are hot today:

Davis Skaggs Investment Management - This San Francisco firm specializes in aggressive equity investment. In 1991, it showed a one-year growth of 42 percent, and over the last five years has returned its investors more than 117 percent.

Tom Johnson Investment Management - This Oklahoma City investment manager specializes in equity investments. In the last five years, its portfolio has increased more than 80 percent.

Provident Investment Counsel - This 40-year-old Pasadena, Calif., firm also specializes in aggressive equity investing. Last year, its portfolio was up almost 60 percent. Over the past five years, it has returned to its investors more than 20 percent annually.

NWQ Investment Management - This Los Angeles-based firm manages a $3 billion portfolio, mostly invested in balanced stocks. Over the last five years, including the stock market crash period, its portfolio has increased in value by 82 percent.

The Michaels Miller Group - Fund manager Lee Michaels is a short-selling specialist - that strange field where investments are made hoping that a stock's price will go down. Michaels has been able to average a return above 30 percent annually.

He tries to offer his clients diversity and safety.

Don't talk Patriots around Pentagon

WASHINGTON - To hear the Pentagon tell it, the Patriot missiles were the heroes of the Persian Gulf War, intercepting incoming Scud missiles like swatting flies out of the sky. That is the only version of the story the Pentagon wants circulated.

Aldric Saucier, a civilian defense scientist with 25 years of experience, likes the Patriots too. In fact, he has so much confidence in them, that he thinks the Pentagon should stop wasting money on the pipe-dream Star Wars program and put that money into the proven Patriots. The Pentagon doesn't want to hear that, so Saucier was fired.

Another civilian scientist, Theodore Postol, thinks the Patriots were grossly overrated during the war, but the Pentagon doesn't want to hear that either. They apparently don't want you to hear it, because they have a "classified" stamp on Postol's article on the subject. Postol is a researcher at Massachusetts Institute of Technology who published his views about the Patriots in the Harvard University journal "International Security."

Saucier and Postol are worlds apart in their views about Patriot missiles, but they are in the same camp as far as the Pentagon is concerned - experts who overstepped their bounds by contradicting the party line.

Saucier was fired by the Army in February for "unacceptable performance." He says he was fired because he exposed SDI as a program riddled with waste and mismanagement.

His whistleblowing activities began shortly after he joined the SDI research project. He complained to his bosses that billions of dollars were being wasted on studies that were thrown away without being read. He told our associate Jan Moller that he suspected the only reason the studies were done was to keep money flowing from Congress to the SDI office since the SDI program was otherwise falling short of all its original goals. Paperwork was the only weapon the Star Wars team had to show for itself.

Among Saucier's allegations are that the Army has ignored and suppressed existing, cost-effective technology in favor of more costly methods that don't work. And Saucier says the SDI program led to Congress about the merits of the "Brilliant Pebbles" space-based interceptors that would circle the earth and destroy enemy missiles.

The Pentagon finally axed Saucier when he submitted a paper last year suggesting that the SDI money would be better spent on upgrading the Patriot missile system. Saucier has since been granted protective whistleblower status at the request of Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., chairman of the House Government Operations Committee. Saucier's firing is under review.

Postol is also suffering for being outspoken. He says his article in the Harvard journal published last winter was taken from publicly available data, as evidenced by his 100 footnotes. He concluded that the Patriots performed far worse in the Gulf War than the public was led to believe.

Shortly after that article appeared, the Defense Investigative Service came knocking on Postol's door, telling him that his article contained classified information. In testimony before Congress, Postol later claimed that the Defense Investigative Service was acting as a water boy for Raytheon, the main contractor on the Patriots. Under direction of Raytheon, the Army combed through Postol's article and classified it, paragraph by paragraph, even though it had already been widely published.

Experts overstepped their bounds by contradicting the party line.

Bush attacks Congress

By RITA DEANION
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA — President Bush, in his election-year bid to cast himself as the Washington reformer, today criticized members of Congress as "defenders of the status quo" and proposed shortening their sessions so they can spend more time in their home states.

In a speech at the site of the nation's first legislature, Bush spelled out a six-point program he claimed would make Congress more responsive to voters, including a ban on special interest campaign donations and a limit on terms.

Among the president's proposals was a 12-year limit on all members of Congress — two six-year terms for senators or six two-year terms for House members.

"Our founding fathers never considered elected government service to be a career," said Bush, who has made a career of government service for the past quarter of a century.

"Many members of the House and Senate are now permanent Washingtonians. We do not need a career Congress, we need a citizen Congress," Bush said, recalling years past when Congress did not meet year round.

"I suggest that in the future, Congress and the administration work together to achieve a legislative schedule that allows members to spend more continuous time at home so they can truly stay in touch with the people," he said.

The president sought to capitalize on the recent congressional scandals to press for a package of proposals.

Rezoning

property owner in the specified areas from obtaining any rezoning of property to C-1, commercial. It is only designed to be in effect until Jan. 1, 1993. City Planner Matt West explained, "We will need about 9 months to amend our Comprehensive Plan to handle this situation in the future, then we won't need the moratorium any longer."

West added, "If we can get the plan amended before that time, we might be able to repeal the moratorium before the end of this year."

The proposal was presented for first reading during last night's City Commission meeting, and was approved by a unanimous vote of the Commission. It is expected to be brought back for second reading and adoption at the April 16 meeting. By that time, the ordinance declaring the moratorium will also include the Sun Drive area.

"This is designed to help protect the residential areas in the northern corridor of Lake Mary Boulevard," Mayor Randy Morris explained. "But in order to handle it properly, it has to be put into our Comp Plan."

When the changes are made to the plan, the City will have to give its approval, then have the plan submitted to the State Land Planning Agency for acceptance. The State LPA has already received the city's plan as previously written.

The specific section where the city plans to prevent commercial buildings is described as "all property located between the north right-of-way line of Lake Mary Boulevard, and running 252 feet north of and parallel to the north right-of-way line of the Boulevard." The Sun Drive section will be worded similarly to include a specific distance north of the right-of-way.

No objections were voiced by any of the Commissioners during the discussion of the ordinance, and final approval is expected at the next City Commission meeting.

would be released today.

All of the youths are from the Longwood, Lake Mary or Sanford area, said Russell. Russell said while separate groups were involved, it would be unfair to characterize them as gangs.

Cohen said a brawl that occurred in a quiet suburban neighborhood near Lake Mary two hours before the shooting may be related, but a link has not been established as yet.

Longwood police Lt. Butch Yelvington said Thursday that before the fight on Orange Circle, there was a fight among the youths on Greenway in The Crossings.

Seminole County sheriff's reports obtained Thursday detail a brawl that occurred at about 3 p.m. on Springtree Way West, located a short distance from Lakeway Boulevard, an extension of Greenway Boulevard.

According to reports, several youths in at least four vehicles arrived on Springtree Way West in Lakewood at The Crossings at about 3 p.m. Witnesses said the youths got out of the vehicles and, armed with brass knuckles, bats and sticks, chased and attacked youths in the neighborhood.

One 15-year-old youth said when he came to the aid of a friend, he was beaten on the head, back and arms with a baseball bat. A 14-year-old youth told deputies he was chased across several yards to Brookfield Loop where several youths beat him with baseball bats and brass knuckles. The youth was taken to South Seminole for treatment.

Sheriff's investigators are also trying to determine if there was a link between the incidents.

"We're not sure, but there may be a connection," said George Proechel, sheriff's spokesman. "That's one of the things we'll be looking at."

Duany

next Wednesday afternoon at 5 p.m., at St. Johns Missionary Baptist Church, 920 Cypress Avenue.

Meanwhile, many area persons are elated over the prospects of Duany's proposals:

Chris Cranias, president of the Sanford Historical Downtown Waterfront Association commented, "The overall picture he painted is very positive. The City should get to work enacting every one of them, and not pick them apart. If they do that, it will never get off and running." He observed, "The city codes we have now seem to work relatively well, but by adding these new ones, I believe we can do a great deal toward encouraging private enterprise to make improvements in our residential area, which would benefit all of us."

John Mercer, who has lived for many years in a restored 1920 era house said, "The way I look at it, it's all positive and I would say, let's go with it."

Kay Bartholomew, chairman of the St. Lucia Festival said, "I give high credit to the Sanford Historical Trust. Their getting this thing rolling is the best thing that could happen to us. It's an excellent concept and I think we're now on a roll." She added, "If we could only get a rezoning started in the downtown Sanford area now, it would be even greater."

Bill Simmons, Sanford City

Manager said, "This is very positive. I'm looking forward to studying it to see how we can work it into the Land Development Regulations, as an overlay item." He added, "I'm very open minded about this and so far, I haven't seen anything that couldn't be worked out." Simmons observed, "Now it will probably be up to the people of the Historic Trust to study this and bring it before the City Commission."

Simmons and City Planner Jay Marder obtained written copies of Duany's codes yesterday afternoon, and immediately began studying them.

Cal Conklin, of the engineering firm of Conklin, Porter and Holmes observed, "What I liked was the fact that Duany had some nice things to say about the way the city is now. He mentioned the city's beauty, its potential, and the good government we have." Conklin continued, "He wasn't really critical or put us down." Regarding the master plan, Conklin said, "I think he has really made something here, and I believe there's a good chance it might be implemented."

Sue Olinger, chairperson of the Sanford Historic Trust said, "I was absolutely delighted with the number of people who turned out Wednesday. They all seemed to really support Mr. Duany's plans and I think this is something that's really going to work." She admitted, "No doubt, somewhere down the road, we'll run into people who are against parts or even all of the plan, but so far, the enthusiasm we've seen is outstanding."

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith commented, "It was a very interesting meeting, but was about what I expected with Duany having so much support from the Historic Trust." She added, "I'm looking forward to seeing the actual paperwork and studying it closely so I can hopefully get a complete understanding of the entire project."

The Sanford Historic Trust met last night at the First Street Gallery to continue discussions of the Duany proposals. Olinger said, "Our board is fine-tuning some aspects of it, such as dealing with multi-family aspects, but we'll have it ready for presentation soon."

"From this point on," she predicted, "the Historic Preservation Board, appointed by the City, will be working with the Trust, and City Planner Jay Marder's department, to come up with a final proposal."

Olinger added, "When this is presented to the City Commission, we won't be asking for it to become a law, we want approval of the concept, so we know we can continue to work on the specifics."

Olinger said, "I don't expect the completed matter to be presented for Commission approval for possibly another year and a half to two years."

Paving

Because of the wide scope of Ferland's report, after agreeing the project was needed, Commissioners spent most of the time trying to clarify various concepts to the point of clear understanding.

Ferland's plan deals with a five year project that would focus on specific areas during each of the years.

The Washington and Fifth Street section is in Zone 8, which is located directly south and west from Lake Mary Elementary School. Ferland considered it as a starting point because of the number of vehicles using the streets to bypass the stoplight at the Country Club Road and Lake Mary Boulevard intersection.

Ferland's estimated cost for the needed drainage projects and paving of the entire Zone 8 was listed at just under $1.19 million.

One of the Commissioners concerns was whether to attempt drainage work and paving for one street at a time. Ferland said he believed a total zone concept would be more economical, as drainage work on one street may have an effect on another unless it were all done in one project.

Suggestions advance by the Commissioners regarding the money needed for the project included special assessments, a forced special assessment, and a city wide resident financing of the total project. None of them advanced beyond the discussion stage last night.

Ferland added to other concepts, charging each resident owning property passed by new paving and drainage work from $112 to $146 per foot, or charging residents on an "ETU" basis. An ETU, equivalent traffic unit, would be determined by the amount of traffic that would use the paved street, per property.

Ferland explained, "A convenience store for example, might have the same frontage on a street as a private home, but the store would generate more traffic, and would be classified at a higher ETU rate." He added, "Therefore, the store would pay more for the paving and drainage than the residence."

There were some decisions made during the meeting. One of them, advanced by Morris was, "The city should consider paying at least 10 percent of the cost, with the rest of the cost paid for through a combination of those fronting on the new paving and others who might utilize it."

The city staff was directed to compile specific details and plans that could be discussed at subsequent City Commission meetings, and the City Finance Director was asked to make suggestions regarding financing and the possibility of bonds to support the project.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

U.S. guns for tax cheats

WASHINGTON — The federal government is setting its sights on the ultimate tax cheat: an estimated 6 million couples, individuals and businesses that don't even bother to file a return.

First comes the carrot: a program by the Internal Revenue Service to encourage non-filers to join the system. Those who comply will be offered the chance to pay back taxes on the installment plan.

Then, the stick. IRS Commissioner Shirley D. Peterson said a team of 1,200 IRS auditors will be unleashed on "the most highly productive non-filers we can identify." Criminal prosecutions will be used against chronic offenders, she said.

In case the message needs driving home, Mrs. Peterson told the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee on Thursday. "The Department of Justice will announce a bunch of indictments" on April 15 — the deadline for individuals to file their 1991 returns.

Congress lifts ban on fetal tissue use

WASHINGTON — Despite a White House veto threat, Congress approved a measure that would lift a ban on federal spending for fetal tissue transplant research.

The Senate, on an 87-10 vote Thursday, passed the bill, which authorizes spending for the National Institutes of Health. The House last July passed its own version, 274-144, just shy of the two-thirds margin that would be needed to override President Bush's promised veto.

The two houses now must work out differences between their bills before sending a final measure to the president.

The moratorium had no legal effect on private research. But Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said only an "infinitesimal" amount of fetal transplant experimentation is not being done with federal funds.

Clinton's New York campaign cash low

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Democratic presidential front-runner Bill Clinton is low on cash but suddenly enjoying the rocky politics of New York entering the final weekend before primaries that will test the strength of Jerry Brown's dogged challenge.

After several tentative and turbulent days in New York, Clinton said Thursday he believed he had turned the corner as the Tuesday balloting approaches. He appeared a far more confident and relaxed campaigner, even singing an Elvis Presley tune during an evening television interview.

"My message to the New York press — Don't Be Cruel," a crooning and laughing Clinton said in New York City on WNET-TV's "Charlie Rose Show."

After morning appearances in Buffalo today, Clinton was heading for three events in Wisconsin, where aides said the race with Brown is tight and where the effect of the cash shortage can be seen in Clinton's advertising.

Brown courts younger New York voters

STONY BROOK, N.Y. — Democrat Jerry Brown, cheered by unionized workers and blessed by Jewish leaders in New York City, is turning his presidential campaign toward the state's younger voters.

Following an early morning television appearance today, Brown scheduled a news conference with Rolling Stone magazine. He then was headed for Syracuse University to address students.

Brown fired up students who waited in the cold for him Thursday night at the State University of New York campus in Stony Brook.

"I'm absolutely going to vote for Brown," said Leo Victoria, who shouted "Give 'em hell, Jerry," after listening to Brown speak to about 3,000 students.

U.N. anti-pollution effort falters

UNITED NATIONS — As the last preparatory conference before the Earth Summit neared an end, environmentalists said negotiations toward cutting pollution were on the brink of collapse. They blamed U.S. intransigence.

The summit to be held in June in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, has been preceded by a series of negotiating sessions, the last of which was to wrap up today. "Even minimum critical decisions are not being made," said Barbara Bramble of the National Wildlife Federation, speaking Thursday on behalf of a broad coalition of environmental groups in the United States and abroad.

"And even what is on the table seems to be going in the wrong direction in these last days of negotiation," she said.

Bramble said that in secret negotiating sessions, the United States is "seeking to remove every reference to implementation" of any environmental programs.

Jobless rate sticking at 7.3%

By DAVE SKIDMORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The nation's unemployment rate stuck at a 6 1/2-year high of 7.3 percent in March, showing no improvement despite signs of recovery elsewhere in the economy, the government said today. The new rate, the same as February's, accompanied a second Labor Department report that showed little growth in payrolls of the nation's non-farm employers. It was the highest rate since July 1985.

The number of unemployed people held at 9.2 million, 2.5 million more than the start of the recession in July 1980.

The unemployment rate, which is seasonally adjusted, is derived from a survey of households. The separate survey of businesses showed a weak gain of 19,000 jobs in March. That followed a healthy increase of 107,000 in February, but that number was revised down from an even stronger previous estimate of 164,000.

The disappointing jobs report for March came despite signs of revival in February, including higher retail sales, improved housing construction and a rise in factory orders.

But, analysts said it is not unusual for employment increases to lag behind an economic rebound. Businesses often delay hiring workers in the early stages of a recovery, relying instead on overtime to meet rising demand until they are confident the turnaround can be sustained.

"There are still layoffs going on," said economist Robert Dederick of Northern Trust Co. in Chicago. "At this stage of the game, you still have a lot of businesses under pressure."

Retail trade showed the largest job losses of any sector, 24,000, but that followed a gain of 124,000 in February. Auto industry employment was up by 6,000, but manufacturing overall edged down 3,000. Construction posted a job gain of 10,000.

Employment by local governments jumped 36,000, but the Labor Department said half of that or more likely was accounted for by hiring temporary workers for primary elections.

Both payroll and household surveys "indicate there was little change in labor market conditions in March," said William O. Barron Jr., deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Still, he said, stability in construction "represents an improvement over the pattern of steep job losses that occurred during most of the 1990-91 period," and manufacturing, helped by gains in autos and lumber, "seems to have stabilized in the last two months" after five months of job losses.

He said the number of people working part-time because they could not find full-time work held at 6.5 million in March and the estimate of workers too discouraged to even look for work was unchanged at 1.1 million during the first quarter.

No noticeable pattern emerged among the 11 large states for which a March unemployment rate was reported.

Experts: organized crime to continue without Gotti

By BOB MANNING
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — The Mafia will live on without John Gotti, experts say.

"He's been in jail for 15 months. Isn't the Gambino family still there?" asked Howard Abadinsky, a criminologist at St. Xavier College in Chicago. "Most of the people in the organization don't depend on him."

Gotti, head of the Gambino family, was convicted Thursday on racketeering charges that probably will keep him in prison the rest of his life.

Several law enforcement officials said the conviction struck a major blow to organized crime. James Fox, director of the FBI's New York office, called the verdict "the death knell for traditional organized crime as we know it."

But some experts questioned the effect of any one prosecution of the mob and its many rackets.

"Gotti's conviction won't create a ripple in New York organized crime," said Fred Martens, director of the Pennsylvania Crime Commission and a former New Jersey state investigator. "Half of them will go out and celebrate."

Gotti wasn't a particularly good crime boss to begin with, said Ronald Goldstock of the New York State Organized Crime Task Force.

"His main successes were getting acquitted and having fireworks on the Fourth of July," said Goldstock, referring to Gotti's victories in three prior criminal cases and the midsummer party outside his Queens clubhouse that features an illegal pyrotechnic display.

Gotti slipped up, Goldstock noted. He spoke imprudently within range of investigators' electronic bugs. He attracted attention with his swaggering arrogance. He promoted "Sammy Bull" Gravano, who later testified against him.

Even if the Mafia won't miss Gotti, his conviction is symbolically important, said Robert Blakey, the Notre Dame law professor who wrote the federal anti-racketeering law.

"As a society, we act out our morals in court. When we condemn through prosecution, people who are law-abiding are affirmed in their behavior."

Robert J. Kelly of New York's Brooklyn College, author of "Organized Crime: An International Perspective," agreed. "The government needs symbols, and Gotti's the embodiment of the mob."

Although the Mafia isn't dead, federal authorities maintain it has been weakened with blows like Gotti's conviction and the arrest in New York on Wednesday of Victor "Little Vic" Orena, head of the Colombo family.

Orena and Pasquale "Patty" Amato, a reputed Colombo family captain, were charged with murder and murder conspiracy. Both pleaded innocent.

Parenting classes 'excellent'

By VICKI DeSOMMER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Grove Counseling Center has just completed its first series of parenting classes for the parents in the Midway community.

"It was an excellent program," said Mary Jane Natlahyn, the Grove's adolescent outpatient program director who organized the classes, said.

There were three parents who attended the eight weekly parenting classes at Midway Elementary School. They each received a certificate for their dedication to learning how to be better parents.

They also received the knowledge of how to do what is best for their children.

Natlahyn said the Midway class contained some elements that were specific to the African American culture that makes up the majority of the community. She said that the class taught all parents how to help their children become productive citizens.

"The parents often have the skills they need to be effective parents," Natlahyn said. "These classes help them put things into focus. It enhances the things they are often already doing."

Natlahyn said the Grove is "very pleased" with the success of the Midway classes. She said the series will begin again soon.

"I'm very pleased that we had three graduates this first time," she said. "In some communities they have trouble getting people into class at all."

Natlahyn said the success of the program shows the commitment the parents in Midway have to helping their children succeed.

"It's very encouraging," she said. Natlahyn said she believes that part of the success of the program can be attributed to the informality of the classes.

"We didn't just have a teacher standing in front of the classroom lecturing," she said. "It is a very interactive dialogue with parents relating their own experiences and helping one another."

Natlahyn said that now that Annie Baker, Chrystal Crowley and Rich Kelly have graduated from the program they will go back into the community and help their friends and neighbors get involved.

Drug makers court doctors with gifts

NEW YORK (AP) — Pharmaceutical companies use everything from trinkets to trips to influence doctors in the choice of drugs prescribed to patients. And the strategy seems to work, a study says.

"Some of these offers, in addition to being inappropriate, may be illegal," Richard P. Kusserow, inspector general of the Department of Health and Human Services, says in a draft report obtained by The Associated Press.

"We also found that promotional practices involving items of value appear to affect physicians' prescribing decisions," the report said.

Kusserow's office surveyed a thousand doctors nationwide between the fall of 1990 and the fall of 1991.

Of the 814 doctors who responded, eight of 10 said drug company representatives offered them gifts for prescribing their products.

They reported receiving an average of 28 offers a year from firms, with a total value of $727. Some doctors reported gifts worth much more.

Gynecologists, neurologists, plastic surgeons and allergists — who typically write many prescriptions — were twice as likely to be offered gifts as brain surgeons or dentists.

The drug companies weren't identified.

The controversy over perks isn't new. The American Medical Association issued a series of guidelines in 1990 on what doctors ethically can accept from drug companies.

The AMA recognized that many gifts serve an important function, particularly educational conferences and professional meetings sponsored by the drug companies.

Some drug industry analysts have estimated companies spend more than $5,000 per doctor on marketing each year.

World's largest fungus found

Associated Press

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. — It sounds like one of those late-night, B movie, "Attack of the Giant Fungus!" And when folks in upper Michigan first heard about it, many thought it was an April Fool's joke.

But scientists aren't laughing about the discovery of what may be the world's largest and oldest living organism, covering 38 acres beneath a forest near the Wisconsin line.

It's believed to be 1,500 to 10,000 years old and weigh about 100 tons — about the same as an adult blue whale.

"Without organisms such as this, it wouldn't take long before life on Earth would cease," Johann N. Bruhn, a research scientist with Michigan Technological University in Houghton, said Thursday.

The fungus is an integral part of the ecosystem, feeding on decayed wood and producing carbon dioxide essential for plant life. Plants then turn the carbon dioxide into life-giving oxygen, he said.

Bruhn wrote an article about the gigantic fungus in this week's issue of the journal Nature with Myron L. Smith and James B. Anderson, both of the University of Toronto. They discovered the fungus while doing research for the U.S. Navy in 1988.

After the article was made public Wednesday, the scientists were deluged with inquiries from the United States, Canada and Britain. Some people sought information from bemused state and local officials.

"We've been getting calls since it came on the news this morning," Margie Burns, a technician with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, said Thursday. "I wish they had let us know something about it."

Seminole outshoots Lake Mary

SANFORD - Brian Leach shot a 1-under-par 35 to lead Seminole to its first golf dual meet victory of the season, a 165-169 decision over Lake Mary at Mayfair Country Club Thursday.

Seminole (1-8-1) and Lake Mary will play in the 18-hole Seminole Athletic Conference tournament on Monday at Ekana Country Club.

OCS Rams win again

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - After spotting Lake Highland Prep a 4-0 lead in the top of the first inning, Orangewood Christian School rallied to score seven runs in its half of the first and second innings, rolling to an 8-6 victory Thursday at Westmonte Park.

The Orangewood Christian Rams improve to 13-1 overall and 9-1 in the Central Florida Athletic Conference, good for a tie for first with Melbourne Central Catholic and Trinity Prep.

Liz Hufford led Orangewood Christian's 14-hit attack with a triple, double, single, two runs scored and three RBI. She also helped anchor the defense by turning two double plays.

Melanie Hogan added two doubles, one run and two RBI in her first game back after spraining an ankle last week. Liz Hodges was 4-for-4 with three runs scored for the Rams.

Orangewood Christian's game scheduled for next Tuesday with Wymore Career has been cancelled. The Rams were hoping to find another opponent to play on that day.

Rams, Lions claim SAC tennis titles

From Staff Reports

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - What was billed as the Seminole Athletic Conference boys' tennis tournament turned into a dual meet between the Lake Mary Rams and Lake Brantley Patriots at Sanlando Park Thursday afternoon.

Going head-to-head in each of the five singles finals and both doubles championships, the Rams won six of the seven matches to repeat as SAC team champions, outscoring the Patriots 20-15. They were followed by Lyman and Oviedo (6 team points each), Lake Howell (2) and Seminole (0).

In the girls' competition, Oviedo outpointed Lake Mary 15-12 to win its sixth consecutive conference championship. Rounding out the standings were Lyman and Lake Brantley (9 each) and Lake Howell and Seminole (0 each).

According to Lake Mary boys' coach Scott Reagan, a Ram-Patriot showdown was all but assured when the Rams and Patriots filled the top two spots in all seven divisions.

"Being it's such a small tournament, it wasn't really seeded," explained Reagan. "They took the top two people in each division and put one in the top half of the bracket and the other in the bottom half."

"We played well. Lake Brantley's a tough team. They played real well, especially in the doubles."

In fact, Lake Brantley avoided a Lake Mary sweep in the finals when Paul Farquharson and Tyler Refling combined to beat Shawn Perce and Brown 8-4 for the No. 2 doubles title. In the No. 1 doubles final, Lake Mary's Jack Whigham and Jason White held off Lake Brantley's Jon Johnson and Scott Ryan, 9-8.

Lake Mary breezed through the singles finals, winning all five matches in straight sets. The closest match was at No. 4 singles, where Lake Mary's Mark Urbainczyk defeated Refling 6-2, 7-6.

Three Rams - Jason Appel, Jason White and Jack Whigham - repeated as individual conference champs. Appel defeated Johnson 6-1, 6-2 in the No. 1 singles final. White topped Ryan 6-2, 6-1 at No. 2 singles while Whigham bested Farquharson 6-0, 6-1 for the No. 3 singles title.

At No. 5 singles, Perce beat Ed Tafur 6-1, 6-0. All five of the Rams were undefeated in singles' play entering the conference tournament.

The Oviedo girls, state runners-up in Class 4A last year, were led by the Kotscos sisters, who each won a singles conference championship and combined to claim the No. 1 doubles crown.

Tracy Kotscos, the state champion at No. 1 singles last year, knocked off Lake Mary's Lori Junker 6-1, 3-6, 6-2 for the No. 1 singles title while Kristina Kotscos was a 6-2, 7-5 winner over Lake Mary's Ashley Evans at No. 3 singles. The sisters later topped Junker and Kim Diehl 8-3 in the No. 1 doubles final.

It was the first doubles loss of the season for Junker and Diehl.

Two Lake Mary players - Yvonne Carrico and Jen Wheeler - were able to extend their unbeaten seasons through the conference tournament.

Carrico, the SAC champ at No. 5 singles a year ago, completed her sweep through the No. 4 singles field with a 6-1, 6-1 win over Lyman's Danielle Garrett. Wheeler improved on her perfect record by defeating Oviedo's Robin Colbert 6-2, 6-2 in the No. 5 singles championship match.

Lake Brantley's Wendi Zatloukal was a two-time winner Thursday, topping Lyman's Amy Smith 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 to claim the No. 2 singles crown before helping the Patriots capture the No. 2 doubles title over the Oviedo duo of Kristen Stebbins and Jodi Hodges, 8-5.

Only two matches are scheduled for next week - the Lake Mary boys host Titusville-Astronaut on Monday while the Lyman girls visit Boone next Tuesday.

Lake Mary's Jason Appel blitzed Lake Brantley's Jon Johnson 6-1, 6-2 to claim the Seminole Athletic Conference No. 1 singles title.

'Corpse' disrupts SAC race

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Hold everything.

Just when it seemed like it was time to bury the old guard and hail the new, the presumed corpse suddenly was alive and kicking.

The Lake Brantley Patriots, who have lost more games this year than they have in the last three years combined, threw the Seminole Athletic Conference slowpitch softball race into a spin by knocking off front-running Lyman 3-2 in eight innings Thursday night.

Lyman (11-4 overall, 6-2 in the SAC) falls back into a tie for first with Lake Mary (12-7, 6-2), one game ahead of Lake Howell (10-4 and 5-3) and two up on Lake Brantley (15-9, 4-4).

"People don't realize that we're five runs away from having five more wins," said Lake Brantley coach Reny Betris. "This is probably the most competitive that the Seminole Athletic Conference has ever been."

In typical Lake Brantley fashion, the Patriots exploited a Lyman error to tie the game in the bottom of the sixth, then used heads-up base running in the eighth to push across the tying run.

Trailing 2-1 in the bottom of the sixth, Patriot catcher Stacie Stuller reached on an error. After a walk to SANFORD - Things can sure change in a hurry. The Seminole and Lake Mary high school varsity softball teams were locked up in a defensive struggle at the Fort Mellon Softball Field Thursday afternoon entering the sixth inning.

With the Rams leading 4-0 and a runner on first base and none out, a throwing error by the Tribe on a potential double play ball opened the flood gates. Ten batters later, Lake Mary ended the inning leading 11-0.

Seminole was able to score a run in the bottom of the sixth, but it was not enough to keep the game from ending under the 10-run rule.

Combined with Lyman's loss at Lake Brantley, the win vaults Lake Mary (12-7, 6-2 in the conference) back into a tie for first place in the SANFORD - Long balls spelled the difference Thursday night as the K-n-D Trailer Hitch Red Sox and D.A.V. Royals picked up wins in Sanford Recreation Department Little Major League baseball action at Ft. Mellon's Roy Holler Field.

Antonio White smacked a two-run home run in the third inning to break a 2-2 tie and the defending City Champion Red Sox went on to defeat the Sanford Ace Hardware Orioles 9-3 in the night's opening game.

In the nightcap, Randy Casey and Robert Hampton both blasted grand slams in a 12-run fourth inning as the Royals came from behind to post an 18-5 mercy rule victory over the Fisher, Laurence & Deen Blue Jays.

The win improved the Red Sox to 3-0 in the American Division while the Royals moved into second place with a 2-1 mark. The Orioles, First Union A's and Blue Jays are all 1-2.

This Saturday, the Rinker Materials Dodgers will play the Railroaders Cubs at 8 a.m., the Cattle Ranch Cardinals will face the Morg U.S.A. Expos at 10 a.m., The Blue Jays take on the Sunland Corporation Pirates at noon, the A's challenge the Red Sox at 2 p.m. and the Royals battle the Orioles at 4 p.m.

The Red Sox took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a double by Justin Erickson and a single by Trellis Smith, but the Orioles came back with a pair of runs in the bottom of the first on two walks and a single by Justin Mack.

The winners took the lead for good in the third inning when Erickson singled and scored when White launched his home run.

The Orioles cut the lead to 4-3 on an RBI double by Eric Sperry in the bottom of the third inning but the Red Sox came up with four runs in the top of the fourth to put the game out of reach.

Contributing to the Red Sox offense were Erickson and Evan Thompson (one double, one single

Lake Howell

Lake Howell then broke things open in the top of the sixth inning when Pinch-hitter Michelle Conciardi led off with a single. After one out Lowe singled Conciardi to second from where she scored on a single by Tina Leman. Joy Joseph followed with another single to score Lowe and Green ripped her triple to score Leman and Joseph.

Contributing to the Silver Hawks' 16 hit offense were Leman and Joseph (both 3-for-4, one run scored and one RBI), Green (2-for-4, one triple, two RBI), Van Orden (2-for-4, one RBI), Lowe (2-4, one run scored), Conciardi (1-for-1, one run scored), Shannon McDowell (1-for-1) and Kristy Hill and Kat Foldeak (both 1-for-4).

Providing the offense for Oviedo were Barbie Bartels and Leann Massey (both 2-for-2, Shannon Krikkle (1-for-3) and Michelle Field (1-for-3).

Lake Brantley

Carol Rabaja and a single by Jennifer Masciarelli loaded the bases. Julie Helmers hit a flare just over the infield that went for an 8-5 fielder's choice, scoring Stuller.

Tania Diaz led off the Lake Brantley eighth inning with a single. Michelle Davis then ripped a shot that ricocheted off the Lyman first baseman straight up into the air. As everyone waited for the ball to come down, Diaz sprinted all the way to third.

An out and an intentional walk later, Masciarelli hit a sacrifice fly to bring home Diaz with the winning run.

"You have to take advantage of mistakes," said Betris. "So much of this game is momentum with high school kids."

Lake Brantley took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first when Diaz reached on a walk, went to third on a single and scored on a sacrifice fly by Stuller.

Lake Brantley

Lyman responded with single runs in the second and third to take the lead. In the second, Jamie Beland reached on a one-out error, moved to second on Susan Willie's single and scored on Jamie Mendelsohn's base hit. Gina Basler split the Lake Brantley defense for a triple to score Jodie Beland in the third inning.

Davis was the only Patriot with two hits while Diaz scored two runs. Stuller had a run scored and an RBI. Masciarelli contributed a single and an RBI. Rabaja, Leighann Schroeffel and Rachel Poppe each hit a single. Helmers added an RBI.

For Lyman, Mendelsohn had two singles and an RBI while Basler chipped in with her RBI triple. Jodie and Jamie Beland each singled and scored a run. Michelle Blahop, Willie and Melissa Luak each had one single.

Both teams will return to action next Tuesday, Lyman hosting Oviedo at 4 p.m. while Lake Brantley will be at home against Lake Mary in a 7:30 p.m. contest.

Game against Orange Park from Jacksonville. Starke-Bradford County fell to 1-16.

Morro, a senior, went the first five innings to raise his record to 5-0. He left the game with an 8-0 lead. Tibbets tossed the final two innings to complete the shutout.

Lake Brantley only collected four hits in the contest, but was helped along by five Starke-Bradford County errors.

The Patriots scored four runs in the third inning and four runs in the fourth inning to account for the scoring.

Matt Wood led the Lake Brantley offense by going 2-for-2 with a triple and driving in one run. Randy Stegall went 1-for-3 with two RBI and Wes Iler went 1-for-3 to complete the hitting.

B.B. Prevatt, who suffered the pitching loss, went 2-for-2 for Starke-Bradford County.

DRUG COUNSELOR

MARY BALK

DEAR READERS: Loretta from Altamonte Springs, is wearing the Drug Counselor hat today. Her advice certainly improves on mine, and we appreciate her interest and concern for young people dealing with the problems of addictions in their families. Read on.

DEAR MARY: I read your column on March 3 in the Sanford Herald regarding the 11-year-old who is afraid to go any place with her dad because of his drinking. I was surprised, shocked, and disappointed that you, as a professional counselor, did not recommend Ala-Teen.

I'm sure you know the success rate of AA and Al-Anon. Ala-Teen is an equally successful program. It is free. It is based on the same twelve steps as the other two programs I mentioned, and it offers a tremendous amount of support from peers.

One cannot ask an alcoholic not to drink; they will find a way. Asking an adult friend to go places with them wasn't a bad idea, but what authority would another adult have over an alcoholic? Discussing the problem with an adult relative is OK if that relative has a knowledge of alcoholism. The fourth piece of advice was the best...recommending this child talk to a school counselor, because hopefully the counselor would recommend Ala-Teen. Ala-Teen will not solve all the problems this child encounters with a drinking father, but it will certainly lend support and make good recommendations on how to live with and associate with a drinking person. It can be a lifesaver.

Don't misunderstand me, I appreciate people in your profession. I just think that professional people should be aware of programs such as Al-Anon, AA, and Ala-Teen. These Twelve Step programs always welcome everyone into their open meetings so more will become aware of the wonderful livesaving, sanity-retrieving support and tools that they offer. I invite you to some open discussion meetings.

LORETTA

DEAR LORETTA: Thanks, I needed that! Several secondary schools in Seminole County have Ala-Teen programs meeting regularly on campus. Students who feel that this program might be helpful to them should contact their guidance counselors.

For more information on Ala-Teen meetings in the area, call 332-4122 in Seminole County, or (804) 775-5640 in Volusia County.

Mary Balk is a certified counselor with the Drug Prevention Office of the Seminole County School District. Write to her in care of the Herald at 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, 32771.

Dad a new man after doctor trimmed prescription drugs

DEAR ABBY: In February 1991, my 80-year-old parents spent two weeks with my husband and me in our Florida home. We hadn't spent that much time together in many years, and I was shocked by how my father had aged. His eyes were glazed and he seemed to be living in a fog much of the time.

I was concerned about Dad's medication, and my mother told me that his doctor had prescribed all the pills — and Dad had been going for checkups every three months for the last 10 years and was still taking the pills.

After they went home, a letter appeared in your column about over-medication of older people. One point it made was that since the organs become less efficient at ridding the body of toxins as one ages, a dosage that is appropriate at 70 may be too strong at 80.

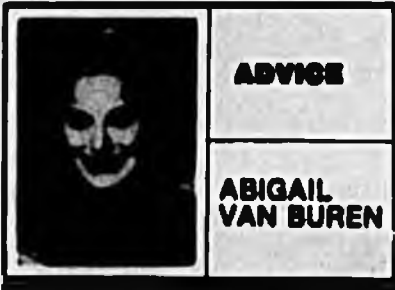

I phoned my mother and read her the letter, and urged her to contact my father's doctor and discuss it with him. She did — and the doctor cut the dosage in half, and eliminated some pills altogether.

My parents just left after spending two weeks with us again this year. Abby, my father is a new person! He seems years younger, and that glazed look is gone from his eyes. Thank you for printing that letter last February, and please consider reprinting it. If it helps improve the quality of one person's life as much as it did my father's, it will be worth it.

DEAR DAUGHTER IN NAPLES: I am printing your letter to remind others that a dosage of medication that is appropriate at 70 may be too strong at 80. The message bears repeating.

DEAR ABBY: I love cats but cannot keep any because of my husband's allergies. Luckily, I have nice neighbors who are willing to "share" theirs. My husband enjoys having the cats in our yard because they keep the moles out of our lawn and other rodents out of the garden. They are also very sweet-tempered and "visit" us when we are outdoors.

Our problem is that the four of us share the same back yard with a neighbor who hates cats and has threatened to kill them if they come into her yard. She's repeated this threat three different times, and we're starting to believe her. The cost of a fence that would stop a cat is just not possible at this time.

ADVICE

Do you or any of your readers know of a plant that would repel cats that we could plant along the edge of our properties? I know that marigolds are supposed to repel mosquitoes and other insects, and that there are plants to repel moles. Perhaps if we made the property line "undesirable" the cats would stay in our yards.

GRATEFULLY YOURS: DEAR GRATEFULLY: To quote Dr. Irwin David, my veterinary medical expert: "There are plants that repel insects, but not cats. Even if you planted a hedge, it would have to be very thick and tall to prevent a cat from going through it or over it."

So, your only solution is to keep the cats under a watchful eye until you and your neighbors have saved enough to split the cost of a sturdy fence. Sorry.

DEAR ABBY: I am submitting a limerick that may be a bit too suggestive for your column. Maybe not. You be the judge.

"Heartbeats stay at normal rate
"When one beds down with a legal mate

"But roosting in another's nest
"May lead to cardiac arrest."

OLLIE IN ORLANDO: DEAR OLLIE: If this appears in the newspaper, you'll know your editor has a good sense of humor.

DEAR READERS: The ultimate in handling an awkward situation:

"I'll bet you don't remember me," said a woman constituent to Sen. Everett Dirksen.

"Madam," replied the senator, "if I remembered a woman of your extraordinary beauty, I'd never be able to get any work done!"

 Saturday Psalm 71

Nestled on a hillside in the heart of this quaint village, the little church stands proudly, it's steeply a beacon to those who would enter there.

Located in the center of the community, the church is the hub of much of its social life as well as the focal point of religious activities. It is the scene of weddings and funerals, baby showers and Christmas plays, covered dish suppers and quilting bees. Those who attend the church band together in good times and in times that are not so good—from the cradle to the grave. The little church cares.

God cares. Our Father is always there, watching over us, waiting for us to come to Him and to give our hearts to Him. Listen closely and you will hear. God is calling to you from His little white house on the hill... the one with the steeple. Why not call on Him?

Mission opens doors to public

By KELLEY MITCHELL
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Christian Life Missions, which moved to the area from Wheaton, Ill., in February, held an open house Thursday afternoon to give its new neighbors an opportunity to see what they are all about.

Christian Life Missions, a 36-year-old missions agency, is a not-for-profit organization founded by Robert Walker, editor of "Christian Life" magazine, which merged with "Charisma" in 1987.

Walker formed Christian Life Missions in 1956 after publishing a missionary's report from Korea that drew such a response from the readership that he formed the mission to process the donations.

"We are a worldwide organization involved in unique missionary work," according to Walker. "We direct activities to find unique needs."

"When people in Nigeria were running out of water, we raised $40,000 and dug over 1,000 wells," Walker said. "And when there was an earthquake in South America we sent a man down with blood plasma to help those injured."

Walker started Christian Life Writers Institute in 1945 to help aspiring writers. It later became a subsidiary of Christian Life Missions.

In the past year, Walker has initiated an international program which will give writers of other countries the opportunity to begin their own publications.

"Emerging countries have not had the freedom of the press," according to Walker. "We wanted to start new Christian publications so we got people in communications in other countries to work together to produce an international correspondence course."

As a direct result of this effort, the organization has received 100 applications for the course and recently started publishing a magazine for Russia.

Stephen Strang, president of Strang Communications Co., in Lake Mary, which publishes Bruce Olson addresses guests at this morning's prayer breakfast.

"Charisma & Christian Life," succeeds Walker as president and chief executive officer of Christian Life Missions. Walker will continue to be active in the organization as a chairman of the board.

"I believe that it will grow under my leadership as president," according to Strang.

And Walker agrees. "I think its going to be a much larger outreach," he said. "We started in 1956 with 100,000 readers. We now have 200,000."

With the move to the Central Florida area, Walker has forecasted that the organization will grow even quicker.

"Christian Life Missions will have doubled in size in the next five years," according to Walker.

A very special guest was featured at both the open house and a prayer breakfast which were both held at Strang Communications, on Rinehart Road.

Bruce Olson a missionary to Colombia was guest speaker.

At the age of 19, Olson flew to South American with $100 in his pocket and walked into the jungle along the Colombia-Venezuela border in search of a Stone Age Indian tribe known as the Motilones.

The Indians were known to have killed every white man who had intruded into their territory, but because the Motilones were dying of epidemic disease, Olson believed God wanted him to help.

Over the next 28 years, he created 10 health centers, 16 agricultural programs, eight cooperative trading posts and 12 bilingual schools, all staffed by Motilones, some college-educated.

Walker published Olson's story in a book called "Bruchko," which is still available as a backlist book.

Then in 1968, when Olson was captured by communist revolutionaries, "Charisma & Christian Life" wrote a two-part article on his experience as a prisoner.

Christian Life Missions has raised more than $100,000 for his mission in South America, according to Strang.

Local delegates head for World Conference

Eleven delegates will represent Eastern Florida at the World Conference of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, being held April 4-12, in Independence, Mo., at the RLDS Auditorium, its world headquarters, according to Stephanie Kelley of the church's public relations commission.

The theme of the week is "Jesus Christ Restores."

Seminole County residents chosen as delegates of the conference are as follows: Roxy and Steven Kellogg, Delores and Claude Rains Jr., all of Longwood, and O.C. Henson, of Fern Park.

The "opening session" on Sunday, with President Wallace B. Smith, presiding, includes a ceremony of flags from the 38 countries in which the church is present.

In business sessions, 2800 delegates representing the quarter-million members worldwide, will take legislative actions, plus consider a multi-million dollar two-year budget, and major personnel appointments.

Lytle in concert

Kirk and Patti Lytle will be ministering at Family Worship Center, Country Club Square, 1770 W. Airport Blvd., on Sunday at 10:30 a.m. They will portray the lives of the Centurion and Mary, the mother of Jesus. They have been in full-time ministry as a couple for over eight years, traveling to virtually every corner of the continental United States, sharing drama and music in hundreds of church and Christian colleges.

What is the cure for colon fungus?

DEAR DR. GOTT: My brother has been diagnosed with colon fungus. The doctor gave him a tube of cream to use but it has not done any good. Is this the best medicine for this ailment?

DEAR READER: I doubt it.

Yeast infections of the bowel are best treated with medicine, such as Nystatin, taken in liquid form. The cream may be useful when applied topically to the anus, which can become quite sore and irritated from bowel yeast infection.

However, any real cure will probably occur only if your brother is given a systemic anti-fungus drug that acts to kill the yeast inside his body. He should ask his doctor about this or obtain a second opinion from a gastroenterologist.

I suggest the option of a second opinion because yeast infection of the colon is unusual in healthy persons. Since antibiotics kill bacteria that normally inhibit yeast present in the bowel, prolonged use of these medicines can upset the delicate balance of the bowel flora (micro-organisms within the intestine.)

DEAR DR. GOTT: Seven years ago my husband was put on Lopressor for angina. He retired five years ago, has had no pain, but the doctor wants to keep him on the medicine. He's always cold and has little energy. What are his options?

DEAR READER: Angina is heart muscle cramp due to poor oxygen supply to cardiac muscle. It is helped by a variety of drugs, such as nitroglycerine, beta-blockers and calcium-channel blockers. Lopressor (Metoprolol), a beta-blocker, is one such drug. It acts to reduce the work of the beating heart and to lower blood pressure. Lassitude and a feeling of being cold are common side effects of Lopressor.

However, these symptoms can also be caused by arteriosclerosis, the very arterial blockage that is associated with angina. Therefore, I do not know whether your husband is experiencing symptoms from his disease or from the medication. His doctor can figure this out, however, and that's where your husband should seek help. (C)1989 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Raymond Chandler once wrote, "Chess is as elaborate a waste of human intelligence as you can find outside an advertising agency." It is probably true that people who spend all their time playing chess (or bridge) could make a more beneficial contribution to society by applying their minds elsewhere. But I wonder if Chandler objected to having his books advertised.

However, if you are going to play any game, you might as well spend that time concentrating on it. So many contracts are easy to make or defeat if only the players would apply themselves and analyze the situations.

Cover the East-West cards and plan the play in four spades. West leads the club queen. North's three spades was a limit raise. Despite the 12 points, this was an accurate evaluation because of the sterile distribution.

Declarer saw that he could not ruff any losers in the dummy, so he won the first trick and immediately ran the spade 10. East won with the queen and returned a club. Suddenly South stopped in his tracks. He had four losers: two spades, one diamond and one club. Eventually South played on and finished one down.

If only South had checked his losers at trick one, he could have foreseen this outcome. All he had to do was lead the diamond jack from his hand at trick two. He then establishes a discard for his club loser, with the heart king in the dummy as an entry if East holds up his ace for one round. Instead of one down, the contract makes in comfort.

When playing in a suit contract, count your losers at trick one.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 4, 1992
A significant opportunity might develop for you in the year ahead through an unusual chain of events. You'd be wise not to discuss what occurs prematurely. Wait until it's a done deal.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) There could be justification for feeling lucky in your material affairs today. The aspects signify that you are, so approach your involvements with a positive attitude. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You might be rather fortunate today thanks to friends you'll be involved with socially. Someone in your crowd may put you onto an idea that will help further your ambitions.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In striving to achieve your objectives today, your performance might not be textbook perfect. Yet the results could make you feel very pleased with yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A friend, who is also an ally of yours in the commercial world, might have some good news for you. It pertains to a development you've been hoping would come about.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In matters pertaining to your career and earnings, it behooves you to push a bit harder today. You might be able to make up any losses you suffered earlier in the week.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Owing to your positive approach, your chances for creating opportunities today look excellent. Focus your mental energies on optimistic thoughts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There are strong indications you're going to receive the help you've been hoping for in a sensitive, secretive area from one who is aware of your needs and has your interests at heart.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A new project you're very enthusiastic about is beginning to attract the attention of competent allies. There's a chance you might pick up a partner in the process, too.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're in a good achievement cycle both today and tomorrow. Expand your career efforts; your returns will be proportionate to your investments of time and energy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Arrangements you have today with those who have an optimistic outlook and aren't afraid to take a calculated risk could work out quite successfully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Conditions look encouraging today in situations involving your usual channel of earnings, as well as those involving a second source for income. Make the most of both.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you follow through on things as you envision them now, you might make a critical decision today that will have far-reaching advantageous effects. (C)1992, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
