Suspect arrested

SANFORD — An 18-year old Apopka man suspected of ramming a Seminole County deputy sheriff's car Thursday in the Wekiva area has been arrested.

Dillon Benjamin Butler, 20 Wekiva Springs Road was arrested by Orange County deputies after he was found lying on the floor of a van parked in his driveway.

Early Thursday, a Seminole County deputy was called by homeowners in the 200 block of Duncan Trail about an unidentified man slumped over the wheel of a car parked in their driveway. When the deputy tried to get Butler out of the car, the suspect put his car in reverse, striking the deputy's car. Eventually, Butler drove the car into a fence on Lindhurst Drive and fled on foot. Butler was arrested for possession of a stolen motor vehicle. The deputy plans to seek aggravated battery on a firefighter, aggravated battery on a law enforcement officer and fleeing a police officer charges as well against Butler.

Sellers waives right to appear

SANFORD — A teacher accused of a consensual sexual affair in 1994 with a female Lake Howell student who was 17 at the time, entered a written not guilty plea and waived his right to appear at his 1:30 p.m. arraignment Thursday.

George Sellers, 48, 426 Wild Fox Drive, Casselberry was arrested Sept. 6 on 11 counts of engaging in sexual activity with a child and one count of promoting a sexual performance by a child.

The alleged affair occurred from July through September 1994. Sellers is free on $10,000 bond.

Mini census to be done here

SANFORD — Employees of the U.S. Census Bureau will visit a sample of area residents during Oct. 15-21 to collect data on employment and school enrollment for the Current Population Survey, according to James F. Holmes, director of the bureau's Atlanta regional office.

The local labor force data will contribute to the national employment and unemployment picture to be released Nov. 3 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. This month's survey will include questions on school enrollment, type of school attended, grade retention, language proficiency and disabilities.

Information supplied by individuals to the Census Bureau is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

Bernovitch denied parole

Dennis Bernovitch, 50, will remain in prison after the Florida Parole Commission turned down his request to be released. Bernovitch was sentenced to death for the rape of a Sanford teen in 1971. The sentence was commuted to life in prison the following year after the Supreme Court overturned the death penalty in general.

A second rape case against Bernovitch involving another Sanford teen was not tried because the defendant had already been sentenced to death.

Currently, in Florida, a life sentence means 25 years in prison without the possibility of parole. However, when Bernovitch's sentence was commuted to life, no minimum mandatory sentence was in place.

Marijuana business shut down by deputies

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies, working with agents from the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) shut down a small marijuana farm and retail outlet for the drug.

According to the Seminole County sheriff's office report, deputies from the City-County Investigative Bureau (CCIB) assisted the DEA when they executed a search warrant of a house at 219 Tomoka Trail in Longwood on Wednesday.

Deputies reported that the residents of the home, Renee Jandreau, 26, and Robert Craig DeStefano, 22, along with a guest Joe Surbaugh, were there at the time they arrived.

Search teams found a small amount, less than 20 grams of marijuana in Surbaugh's right front pants pocket. He was arrested for possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana.

However, sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough said a marijuana laboratory was found in each of the home's two bedrooms and in the upstairs loft.

In all, 143 plants were found to be thriving in the artificial environment which had been created for

Students' anti-drug message in poster art

By SANDRA ELLIOTT

SANFORD — Posters were hanging from the floor to the ceiling. They covered the office walls and halls so completely, the color of the paint could barely be seen on the second floor in the State Attorney's Sanford office building.

Over 2,000 Seminole County fifth through eighth grade students used diverse ways to express the message...don't use drugs. Thursday, a panel of judges picked 13 posters which will be featured in the 1996 Drug-Free Calendar to be distributed to students throughout the county.

From posters with warm, fuzzy images featuring clowns and teddy bears to stark scenes of graveyards, a toe-tagged corpse or arms stabbed with hypodermic needles, the common theme expressed was anti-drug use.

For the second year, State Attorney Norm Wollinger and Sheriff Don Eslinger joined together on the calendar project. This year, the Red Ribbon Week Committee became a part of the project rather than duplicating the anti-drug poster contest later this month.

A plethora of artsy ideas for your weekend adventures

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — This weekend offers a plethora of opportunities for those who want to purchase, or just view, the handwork of artisans and crafters who are displaying their wares at a variety of arts events around Seminole County.

The ninth annual Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts, which has grown to be one of the premier events in the state, will take place at the L&L Acres Farm in Heathrow.

That event, which has drawn the attention of local digitaries, also brought a letter of commendation from Gov. Lawton Chiles.

"I commend you," the governor wrote in a letter to the festival organizers, "for your efforts to provide additional funding to the 47 Seminole County public schools for their art and music programs."

The event will raise money for the schools' cultural programs through a variety of methods. They offer scholarships to 25 or more college-bound students as well.

Organizers hope to raise $100,000 toward their effort this year. To that end, the governor wished them luck.

Optimist Club taps top club member of year

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Fellow Optimist Club members say John Cullum goes well beyond the call of duty when it comes to doing things for young people.

As a member of the Optimist Club for the last year and a half, Cullum has worked on a variety of programs that target young people and reward them for their hard work and their accomplishments.

Recently, Cullum was named the Optimist of the Year of the Sanford chapter of the club that serves the needs of young people in the community.

"It's a real honor," he said, eyeing the maple and metal plaque he received at the annual Installation and Awards Banquet at the Mayfair Golf and Country Club. "I was really pleased to be named."

In his position as activities director at Seminole High School he does many things for the students there.

In addition, however, he has initiated programs such as the Student of the Month, which recognizes top students at the school for their work in (and out of) the classroom.

"I don't know," he said, "I just look for ways we can encourage the students."

Cullum was also elected as vice president of the local chapter.

"I guess I will have more opportunities to develop some projects to help recognize the work the kids are doing," he said.

Cullum said he tries to live by the Optimist creed which says you must promise yourself to, among other things, "be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind; and to think only of the best and to expect only the best."

Every penny counts to help schools

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Your mother probably taught you that it is polite to offer a word of thanks when you received something.

A card, which looks very much like a credit card, has been distributed throughout Seminole County.

That card is a way for residents and merchants to say a monetary "Thanks" to the schools for the work they do in educating local children.

The THANKS card, created by Marketing Management Corp., offers rebates to the consumer as well as a way to donate money to the school of their choice. One-eighth of one cent from every dollar spent is donated to the school the user directs.

Merchants benefit in that they can collect demographic information about the customers provided by the Nashville firm which issued the cards. Merchants pay $500 each to participate, but the information provided by the marketing company can help them better target their customers through advertising campaigns.

Currently, 50 merchants in Seminole and Orange counties, including Texaco, are

Sentenced for smuggling drugs

MIAMI — A Miami businessman has been sentenced to four years in prison for his role in a Haitian drug-smuggling operation.

Jean Schubert Belzair pleaded guilty to cocaine trafficking charges for his role in the operation allegedly headed by Frantz Blamby, cousin of deposed Haitian Brig. Gen. Philippe Blamby.

Frantz Blamby was arrested last July on charges of shipping about 235 pounds of cocaine to Miami in 1992. While in custody, he cooperated with authorities, implicating Belzair and several low-level Haitian leaders in the operation.

Belzair's plea agreement calls for three of the four counts of conspiracy to import cocaine charges to be dropped. The one remaining charge carries a four-year jail term, but he will receive credit for the one year he has already spent in jail. U.S. District Court Judge Wilkie Ferguson ruled Thursday.

Frantz Blamby is close to accepting a similar plea on the same charges, but he is said to be seeking a reduction of the jail time for his cooperation with federal authorities, prosecutors said.

Blue Angels resume air show

PENSACOLA — The Navy's Blue Angels will resume their air show schedule Saturday after a two-week hiatus caused by a crisis in confidence, a spokesman for the precision flying team said.

The flight demonstration squadron will fly shows Saturday and Sunday in San Francisco. Lt. John Kirby said Thursday.

Cmdr. Donnie Cochran, who flies the lead jet, ordered the team to land in the middle of a show Sept. 23, at Virginia Beach, Va., when he discovered he had improperly set up a routine.

He canceled a show the following day at Virginia Beach and shows last weekend in Alexandria, La., so the team could return to its home base, Pensacola Naval Air Station, for more practice.

Hurricane Opal forced the squadron Tuesday to move its practices to El Centro Naval Air Facility, Calif. A day later Cochran was satisfied that he and the other five pilots had returned to peak proficiency and ordered the shows to go on. The team arrived Thursday in San Francisco and will conduct a routine there Friday, Kirby said.

Lottery 900 number

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Lottery has released a new "900" number for getting information about winnings numbers and payouts.

The new number, available across the United States, is 1-800-737-7777.

The automated telephone line, which costs callers 77 cents per minute, offers one year's previous winning numbers and prize payouts for all four on-line games and announces the estimated Florida Lotto jackpot, said Ed George, the lottery spokesman.

The new line will be available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

The Florida Legislature mandated the new 900 line, eliminating the 800 number line as cost-cutting measure. The state will receive 30 cents for each of the calls made to the new automated system.

The lottery's player hotline operators will still be available to answer questions in English and Spanish at (804) 487-7777.

Sexual assault charged

DAYTONA BEACH — A onetime volunteer chaplain for the Volusia County sheriff's department has been charged with sexually assaulting a woman he counseled.

Chris Amos Hirschmann, 54, posted $25,000 and was released following his arrest Wednesday.

A 34-year-old woman complained that he assaulted her in March 1994 after she received religious counseling from Hirschmann. She said she was afraid until recently to report what happened.

Hirschmann, whose business card lists him as pastor for a local religious group, served as a volunteer chaplain from March 1993 through August of this year, said sheriff's spokesman Gary Davidson. Hirschmann was released when the program was revamped.

Recycling plastic

MELBOURNE — School officials like a new idea to recycle plastic knives, spoons, forks and trays by using a citrus oil-based product to break them down into liquid.

But administrators in Brevard County are not too enthusiastic about the money needed to get the project under way in the public schools.

Harvey Katz, a chemist who heads International Foam Solutions in Boca Raton, wants to get the program started in Brevard County, but his proposed plant needs a guaranteed source of waste polystyrene.

Opal after the storm

As they dig out, residents start looking ahead

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press Writer

DESTIN, Fla. — In their first evening after Hurricane Opal, Betty and Dan Cooper had awe for the power of nature, many unanswered questions about the future, and platefuls of roast beef and sweet potatoes cooked over charcoal.

"It's been 30 years since I camped out like this," Mrs. Cooper said.

The couple, live-in managers for the 23-unit Capri By the Gulf condominiums, used a charcoal smoker Thursday to cook their dinner as they tried to use up food in a freezer that had no power.

They were among many people who, after witnessing the damage from the nation's third-costliest hurricane ever, were wondering how the area will recover.

Opal's powerful surge severely eroded the glittering beaches that are the region's economic foundation.

"It's just so hard to believe," Mrs. Cooper said. "This one just took us right under."

Opal killed at least 16 people in four states after slamming into the Florida Panhandle on Wednesday with winds up to 144 mph. It caused an estimated $1.8 billion in damage to insured property along the Gulf of Mexico and knocked out power to 2 million people before losing its punch.

At the Coopers' condos in this Panhandle town about 20 miles east of Pensacola, three decks to the beach were torn away and destroyed, and the swimming pool was ruined. Several of the condos were heavily damaged, with windows blown out and rooms drenched with debris and sugar-white sand.

"I don't know how they're going to replace the beach," said condo resident Al Breithaupt. "It's going to take a major project by the Army Corps of Engineers."

State and federal helicopters and planes buzzed back and forth along the heavily damaged beach area.

Cooper said he planned to find federal emergency representatives and see if there will be funds for restoring the beach and helping with major damage.

He began his day by calling each of the 23 owners to give them a report on the damage to their units. He then started initial cleanup of debris and began lining up crews to come in later for the heavy work.

Cooper, who has managed the property for 15 years with his wife, said he had plenty of contacts for the repairs.

"With all the work that needs to be done around here, if you're just using the yellow pages you're going to have a long wait," Cooper said.

He pondered how the storm caused destruction to one building and left a neighboring one untouched. It reminded him of his experience as an 18-year-old soldier in Nagasaki, Japan, at the end of World War II.

"I was there after they dropped the atom bomb and you would see everything destroyed but one building would still be there," he said.

His wife looked sadly over the heavily eroded beach.

"This is like my baby here," she said.

Fourth slaying; Serial killer at work?

The Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG — As police investigate whether the slayings of four prostitutes since May are related, others in the area are "spooked" and trying to protect themselves, one prostitute said.

On Wednesday, police identified the fourth victim as Barbara Jean Faulkner. Her body was found Monday stuffed in a laundry bag and left beside a trash bin.

The bodies of three other prostitutes also were found dumped in or near trash bins in St. Petersburg or just north of the city, leaving detectives uncertain if there is more than one killer.

"There are similarities, but there are also dissimilarities," said St. Petersburg Sgt. Glen Moore. "We're working them together in case they are related."

Information was forwarded to the FBI after a third prostitute was found dead in August. Investigators say the first three women died in a similar way, although they haven't said how.

"Everybody's real spooked about it," one prostitute, who was not identified, told The Tampa Tribune. "But we won't stop dating. It's what we all do for a living. You just have to be more on your guard."

The woman said she won't get into a car with a broken passenger-side door handle, or one where the driver can lock all doors from his side.

For protection, she carries a pair of scissors that can fit in the palm of her hand, and the ingredients for a makeshift torch — a can of hair spray and a cigarette lighter.

It's not unusual for killers to hone in on prostitutes, said Leonard Territo, a professor at the University of South Florida who studies crime patterns.

"First of all, they're good targets of opportunity if you're inclined to murder females," Territo said. And, because they don't have strong family ties, they're often not reported missing immediately.

One similarity in the crimes — the trash bins — "may be symbolic," Territo said; "They're viewed as garbage."

Autopsy results for Faulkner, 33, were incomplete Thursday.

One of the few things detectives know about her death is she was stuffed in a heavy-duty laundry bag. The bag's logo, with the words "Penn Ohio towel supply," was last used in the late 1970s in the northeast.

Unemployment rate steady

By MARTIN GRUTTSBERG
AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON — The nation's unemployment rate held steady at 5.6 percent in September as a big jump in employment at firms supplying temporary workers offset widespread weakness in manufacturing.

The Labor Department said today that the overall unemployment rate last month remained stuck around the level it has been since May. Since peaking this year at 5.8 percent in April, the jobless rate has been either 5.6 percent or 5.7 percent for each of the past five months.

The number of payroll jobs rose by 121,000 last month, slightly below economists' expectations. Payroll jobs had increased 262,000 in August, but much of that strength came from earlier starting dates for schools.

Analysts said today's report reflected an economy that is growing at a modest level after nearly stalling out in the spring. However, they noted that problems remained, especially in manufacturing.

The September unemployment report was unlikely to settle the debate over whether the Federal Reserve will cut interest rates further this year. Some economists believe the current upturn is still anemic and in need of further credit-rate relief while other analysts believe that manufacturing will resume growth later this year after businesses work down an overhang of unsold inventories.

For September, manufacturing industries shed 32,000 jobs, bringing total losses since March to 200,000. The losses last month were widespread, with the largest declines occurring in apparel and textiles, where job losses have been accelerating in the last few months. The key auto sector also suffered big losses for the month, declining by 9,000 jobs.

The manufacturing weakness was offset by gains in service industries, which added 106,000 jobs in September. More than half of that gain came in business services, with temporary help firms accounting for a big increase of 35,000 jobs.

With the summer vacation season ending, the amusement and recreation industry lost 13,000 jobs. However, hiring in the health industry remained strong with a gain of 25,000.

Jobs in the government sector fell by 30,000 last month, with most of the weakness reflecting a problem the government has had adjusting for earlier school openings. This category had shown a big increase in August.

Retail employment rose by a strong 48,000 in September as restaurants and bars added 20,000 jobs, partially recouping big losses that had occurred in August. Employment growth at auto dealerships was also strong.

As the economy slowed from robust growth in 1994, employment growth has also slowed. Payroll jobs had been rising by an average of 365,000 per month in the final quarter of 1994. But in the just completed July-September quarter, the increase has averaged just 130,000 per month.

The average workweek inched up to 34.4 hours while factory overtime rose to 4.5 hours.

Average hourly earnings increased by 4 cents to $11.52 in September, erasing a 2 cent loss the month before.

Incidents reported to SCSO

Bob Dancy Dodge, Highway 17-92 in Longwood, reported that a man, identified as Donald E. Tannery, purchased a 1995 Ram truck and paid for it with a check. The information was processed with a checking approval service and the salesman was warned of possible fraudulent activity by the subject. Ten days later the check was returned because the account had been closed.

The man alleged to be Tannery and the truck, valued at $27,000, are not to be found.

Damage reported

A man who lives in the 2600 Block of East 21st Street in Sanford reported that his windshield had been damaged in his driveway between Sept. 29 and 30.

A man who lives in the 700 block of Creekwater Terrace in Lake Mary reported that someone damaged and partially removed the handle of his car door between Sept. 29 and 30.

Jeep stolen

A man who lives in the 100 block of Bridgeway Circle in Longwood reported that his 1994 Jeep Cherokee was taken from his driveway. He said he says were left in the vehicle when the jeep was parked overnight.

Retail theft alleged Kristen Begala, 23, 2444 Park Ave., Sanford, and Torrance Anthony Moore, 30, 1509 Summerlin Ave., Sanford, were arrested for retail theft by Sanford Police on Wednesday night.

Police said Moore entered the boys' department at the Sears store in the Seminole Towne Center and took three pairs of shorts, valued at $60, from the rack and brought them to Begala who was in the ladies' department.

They said she took them back to the boys' department and tried to get a refund for the items.

Both were taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held in lieu of $115 bond.

Retail theft charged

Charles Henry Hibert, 53, 306 Rachel Ave., Apt. 436, was arrested for retail theft by Sanford Police on Wednesday.

Police said he removed a screwdriver off the shelf at Sears at Seminole Towne Center and concealed it in his pants. They said he left the store without making an effort to pay for the merchandise.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Domestic violence alleged Richard Thomas Price, 37, 300 E. Airport Blvd., Apt. 13, Sanford, was arrested for battery-domestic violence on Wednesday by Sanford Police.

Sanford Police said he and his girlfriend got into a verbal argument at home and continued the disagreement when they went to a bar on South Orlando Drive in Sanford. Police said he knocked her to the ground as the debate turned physical.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held without bond.

Aggravated assault charged

Sylvester Walker, 19, 900 E. Airport Blvd., Apt. 21, was arrested for aggravated assault and resisting an officer with violence by Sanford Police on Wednesday.

Police said they had responded to his residence in reference to a call about a shooting incident. They said he matched the description of the alleged shooter.

As they attempted to arrest him, police said, he tried to run away. He fought, but was brought to the ground and was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $2,000 bond.

Fight leads to arrest

Sheena Alyssa Wright, 23, who gave police no local address, was arrested for aggravated battery by Sanford Police on Wednesday.

Police said she and another woman were involved in a "physical confrontation" on Lake Monroe Terrace.

Police said they were arguing over a parking space. Police said she put her hands over the victim's face and cut her face with a sharp object.

She was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $4,000 bond.

Chase leads to two arrests

Jason Daniel Dodd, 20, 4091 Smith Canal Road, Sanford, and Charles Powers of Paola, were arrested for fleeing and attempting to elude a police officer by Seminole County deputies on Wednesday.

Deputies said they noticed a car driven by Dodd, in which Powers was a passenger, speeding across the parking lot of the Winn Dixie Plaza on Airport Boulevard.

Deputies pursued the car through residential areas and called on Sanford Police for assistance.

Sanford Police stopped them and they were taken into custody.

They were taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $500 bond each.

Man resists arrest

Fred Allen Bray, 20, 12 Shea Lane, was arrested for disorderly conduct and with resisting arrest without violence by Sanford Police on Wednesday.

Police said he was leaving the emergency room at Central Florida Regional Hospital when he began screaming and using profanity.

He did not leave when he was asked so he was placed under arrest.

As officers tried to arrest him, he would not allow himself to be handcuffed. He was subdued with a single shot of mace and taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. There, he was held on $500 bond.

Man allegedly takes beer

Richard Bradshaw Stenstrom, 21, 413 Willow Ave., Sanford, was arrested for burglary and petit theft on Wednesday by Sanford Police.

Police said he used a cinderblock to break out the glass in a door at a pub on Airport Boulevard. Once inside, they said, he took two six-packs of beer.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $1,000 bond.

Warrants

Allan Armando Orellana, 20, 300 Forest Lake Drive, Altamonte Springs, was arrested on a warrant for throwing a deadly missile into a building by Lake Mary Police on Wednesday.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $10,000 bond.

Sam Nobles, 45, 173 W. Crystal Lake Ave., Lake Mary, was arrested on a warrant for aggravated battery by Seminole County sheriff's deputies on Wednesday. He was held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on $4,000 bond.

John Fitzgerald Collette, 30, 401 Seminole Blvd., Sanford, was arrested on a Seminole County warrant for violating the terms of his probation on grand theft charges. He was held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility without bond.

Officials: Poverty decline no reason to cut welfare

By KIM M. MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Although a new government report shows both the number and percentage of Americans in poverty dropped significantly last year, now is not the time to cut federal welfare programs, administration officials say.

"Given the persistence of poverty and the increase in inequality (between rich and poor), I would argue this is not the time to cut back in programs intended to help the most vulnerable in our society," Joseph E. Stiglitz, chairman of President Clinton's Council of Economic Advisors, told reporters Thursday.

Earlier, the Commerce Department released a report that found the poverty rate went from 15.1 percent of the population in 1993 to 14.5 percent in 1994.

The number of Americans in poverty also dropped by 1.2 million, to 38.1 million, making 1994 the first year in a decade that both the rate and total declined.

Poverty in America was defined last year as income of less than $15,141 for a family of four.

However, the total in poverty was still 5.6 million above 1989, when the poverty rate was 13.1 percent, Census Bureau statisti-

Teacher sent to prison for 10 years

By The Associated Press

ROCKLEDGE — A parade of witnesses spoke to a judge before he sentenced a former Merritt Island high school teacher to 10 years in prison for having oral sex with four students in her classroom.

Karen Roberts could have received 100 years in prison. She showed little emotion Thursday as Brevard Circuit Judge Jere Lober gave her the minimum allowable term under court guidelines for her conviction on 64 counts of having sex with the students in 1993 and 1994.

Lober listened to 13 witnesses, including former students and family members who advocated an even more lenient sentence for Roberts, 31.

Defense attorney Michael Bross argued for probation, saying the two months Roberts has spent in jail since her Aug. 26 conviction had been incarceration enough.

"Karen Roberts didn't attack these victims from behind a bush. These victims were aggressors and provokers and initiators of this action also," Bross said.

Prosecutor Meryl Allawas argued that Roberts was the mastermind of the sexual encounters, controlling the boys' movements with hall passes and detentions.

She did not deny the boys were willing participants but said the case boils down to one fact.

"She violated the trust we have in teachers and she violated the law, repeatedly," Allawas said.

One parent added that Roberts' actions had left a permanent mark on her child.

In addition to prison, Lober sentenced Roberts to 15 years' probation.

clan Daniel Weinberg said Thursday in releasing the report. It was based on a survey of some 60,000 households.

The statistics may provide ammunition to Republican members of Congress who have been fighting to cut programs that aid the working poor as they try to overhaul welfare, balance the budget and rein in Medicaid costs. Other recent signs of declining poverty include a decrease in the number of Americans collecting food stamps.

The economy grew last year by 4.1 percent, the best showing in a decade. That strong growth helped to push the unemployment rate to a four-year low and played a role in lowering the poverty rate.

At the same time, median household income remained essentially unchanged at $32,284. The major exception was among black households, whose inflation-adjusted median rose from $20,032 in 1993 to $21,027 last year, an increase of 5 percent.

Labor Secretary Robert B. Reich cited the report's positive news as an argument against GOP attempts to rein in government programs. One of the Republican targets, the earned-income tax credit, pulled about 2 million Americans out of poverty in 1994, he said.

"The earned-income tax credit, together with an increase in the minimum wage, is vitally important," Reich said.

Republicans want to cut the credit by up to 25 percent and they oppose any increase in the $4.25-an-hour minimum wage. Clinton has proposed a 90-cent increase in the minimum wage over two years.

Isaac Shapiro, associate director of the liberal Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, said it was mostly families at the top of the income scale who have benefited from the economic recovery.

"In any recovery, the folks who are reached last by the recovery tend to be those at the bottom," he said. "One year of progress is a good sign but we still have a ways to go even to get back to where the poverty rate was a few years ago."

Outstanding events

It may seem as though there are simply too many things to do this weekend. Along with normal yard mowing and other weekend activities, we have both the Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts, and the Seminole County Historical Society's Pioneer Days N' Ways festival.

These are both outstanding events, and are planned to coincide with each other rather than to compete. It is hoped that persons attending one of these functions will also visit the other.

Regardless of what a person may find of interest, both events will be jam-packed with special events. People who may consider themselves Civil War enthusiasts should not miss the re-enactment at the Pioneer Days N' Ways festival. Especially Sunday at 2 p.m., when none other than Abraham Lincoln and Florida's fourth governor Madison Starke Perry will be portrayed. Of course there will be the re-enactors who have formed the Seventh Regiment of the Florida Volunteer Infantry unit. What will happen when "Abc" shows up at this event with several dozen "Rebs" is anyone's guess.

Regarding the Festival of the Arts, practically every type of art work will be displayed and offered for sale. One of the major attractions will be the student art tent. It will give people the opportunity of seeing today, the beginning art works of our top artists of tomorrow.

We suggest you visit the student art tent, regardless of whether you are a parent of one of the participants or not. It's refreshing to see the work our youngsters are turning out.

Some of the proceeds from the Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts will assist in scholarships.

A great deal of outstanding entertainment is also promised at the arts festival as well as the historic event.

Both events are scheduled for both Saturday and Sunday. Which one should you attend? We suggest making an effort to attend both of them. Take the entire family and make a weekend of it.

We have many artistic people, and many historical enthusiasts in Central Florida. Visit these two events and get to know them. You'll be glad you did.

Rescue service

I was very pleased to read in the Tuesday Sept. 12 edition of the Sanford Herald of Fire Chief's Tom Hickson's suggestion that the Sanford Fire Department transport Sanford's ill citizens to the hospital.

The fire department responds immediately to 911 calls and renders emergency treatment to the stricken person. They are qualified and properly equipped to transport the person to the hospital but have to stand by while an ambulance transports the person at considerable expense to the family. I was charged $238 in 1989. The only service the ambulance personnel gave me was to drive me to Central Florida Regional Hospital (approximately 3 miles from my home) and escort me to the emergency room.

As the citizens of Sanford pay for the fire equipment and personnel with their taxes it is an imposition for them to be charged the exorbitant fee by the ambulance company.

The Herald article indicated the fire chief believes he can handle the transportation with the present equipment and personnel. It was also stated that no additional insurance costs are contemplated.

I look forward to an early affirmative vote to implement the transportation of our ill citizens to the hospital by the Sanford Fire Department. This would relieve our people of the ridiculous overcharge to which they are now subjected.

Fiscal responsibility

I have been out of town and upon return, I noticed that Maryanne Morse is recommending the county spend over $300,000 to purchase new hardware and software for the county, even though the Clerk of the Court has the same hardware and software readily available and had offered to share it.

As county business residents who are suffering from flooding and a lack of sewage system in our area we think there are much more effective ways for the county to spend this amount of money, rather than replacing current hardware and software packages. This proposal is fiscally irresponsible. Now is the time to address the serious problems of the county and not duplicate already existing and available computer systems.

Getting tough on crime and murder

There has been a solid drop in the crime rate, particularly in many big cities. This calls for an ideological review, and the available data doesn't make liberals look good.

During the first six months of 1995, the homicide rate in New York City and Houston plunged by 32 percent. The Chicago rate dropped by 19 percent. Atlanta and New Orleans by 18 percent. Boston by 12 percent. St. Louis and Washington by 10 percent. Detroit by 9 percent. Los Angeles by 7 percent and Philadelphia by 6 percent. These have been American crime capitals. In many cases, the diminishment has been going on for several years.

It's not just murder that's going down. A broader index, the violent crime rate, declined by 4 percent in 1994 (FBI data) following a 1993 decline. Advance indications from some police departments around the country show yet a further drop of violent crime so far in 1995. Something big is probably happening. If we understand the policy driving it, that can be built upon, and the sooner the better.

Two principles, starkly different, have been in play for three decades. Liberals have said that the increase in crime is due to "root causes" in the society. Conservatives have said the increase in crime has been due to softness in the criminal justice system.

The current liberal theology indicates that the root causes are worse than before: Real wages have gone down, jobs in the inner cities have disappeared and government services to the poor have been trimmed. Accordingly, crime should be going up. But it's going down.

The current facts, however, do generally conform to the conservative view. We have toughened up. There are currently 1.5 million persons in prison in America, up from 500,000 in 1990. Studies have shown that a violent criminal typically commits at least 12 crimes per year.

It's not just murder that's going down.

When a million prisoners are added to the prison population, that's 12 million violent crimes that are not committed on the streets.

There are also more cops on the beat practicing tougher crime control. Both New York and Houston have added police. Police departments in both cities have been putting the heat on even minor offenses such as traffic violations, disorderly conduct, jumping turnstiles, drinking beer on the streets and public urination. The theory is that such actions provide a more civil ambience, as well as offering patrolmen the opportunity to frisk young thugs and take away their guns.

With all this in mind, there are several central facts to remember: 1.) the violent crime rate is still terrifyingly high, and 2.) there may well be a ticking demographic crime bomb. The number of prime-crime young males (ages 14-24) will increase by about 2 million by the year 2000. It is young males who commit most of the violent crimes in America. And while total violent crime rates have declined, violent crime among young males has grown and become ever-more vicious. Kids 8 years old today will threaten us in just a few years.

Therefore what? At the least, surely, continue down the conservative path of crime control.

Why we do it, have babies

WASHINGTON — Just like that. It can hit you.

I knew what I wanted to do in my last column before going on maternity leave. I hoped to answer a question that I've repeatedly asked myself:

Why in this world — of genocidal wars, AIDS and "Showgirls" — would a sane person have a baby at all?

I hoped to discover why I volunteered for a state in which I've gained enough weight to play fullback for the Redskins. And I figured I might end by acknowledging what I too often forget — that life, with its limitless chances for redemption — is its own best reason.

But just like that, racism changed everything.

Just like always. This time, it was an article in the Oct. edition of The New Republic, "Race in the Newsroom." In it, writer Ruth Shalit claims that the quest for diversity has compromised the practice of journalism at the prestigious Washington Post, my employer for six years.

Because affirmative action in its current form is no more perfect than it was when white men were the ones given every preference, a thoughtful and challenging piece could be done.

Shalit's isn't it. She suggests in her 13-page article that some minority Post reporters and editors were hired or promoted chiefly due to their color, that superqualified whites were passed over in favor of marginal blacks and black editors gleefully have limited the work and careers of hard-working whites. While white sources often are cloaked in anonymity — which emboldened them to say that unnamed minority staff members "can't write a lick" and produce indecipherable work — most minorities are quoted by name, including my husband, national reporter Kevin Merida.

Reading the piece, seeing the effect it had on my co-workers, my husband and myself, I knew my farewell column had to be entirely different.

Shalit's article launched dozens of bitter newsroom discussions — some in which white staff members were as outraged as their minority peers.

It was maddening, seeing the competence and qualifications of the Post's minority staff members anonymously questioned, their often hard-won victories belittled. Among other examples, Shalit suggests that a series produced by a black man-white woman team, a Pulitzer Prize finalist, was largely the work of a single white reporter — who strongly refutes that assertion. Shalit quotes an editor as saying the Post's black recruiter is so intent on rejecting white men that she prevents the Post from hiring "the best" white males — though successful black reporters have groused that her high standards have kept them out, too.

My husband's inclusive statement that black journalists generally feel less valued was twisted to suggest that as Shalit put it his "insecurity about his position" is typical of the "plight of the affirmative action baby."

Not being black — and having failed to thoughtfully interview those who are — Shalit can't know that feeling less valued more often is the result of seeing your skills underused and underappreciated. Knowing my husband's and others' talents — and that similarly gifted white journalists rarely face such accusations — her arrogance stung.

I mean, this is my baby's daddy. And in the midst of crib assembly, baby showers and the heart-leaping realization that I'd soon see my new son, I again faced an incalculable crime: that even one more infant must be born whose worth is suspect only because of his or her color.

It's a crime, too, that Shalit — who in her article took quotes out of context, who failed to use statements she got from whites that refuted her premise, whose multitude of inaccuracies extends even to physical descriptions, who reported false rumor as fact without checking with all involved and who twice in her short career "accidentally" plagiarized other writers' work — is exactly the type of marginal reporter she accuses certain minority journalists of being.

Yet Shalit can ply her craft at an intellectual journal without anyone saying that she got, and keeps, her job because of her color — because her color is white. Which sure sounds like affirmative action to me.

So she joins a host of mediocre white workers who pretend that standards are being jeopardized only by inept minorities and that incompetence comes in every shade but white.

Then it hit me. No biased article can reduce my husband's love of journalism nor his pleasure in its practice. My worries about how my kids may be challenged by racism can't shake my certainty that they'll help reduce the goblin's power. And at best, we do what we do — write stories, throw tea parties, insist on having babies in a crazy world — for something nobler than recognition.

Just like that, I knew. We do it for love.

But just like that, racism changed everything.

GOP ready to toss Medicaid to states

WASHINGTON — It's the federal health program that pays for one of every three births and covers the care of two of every three people in America's nursing homes.

That's why it's so ironic that Medicaid, which represents the cradle of Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty, is now headed for its grave.

The relevant committees in both houses of the GOP-controlled Congress have voted to dismantle the program that provides health care to 36 million poor and disabled people of all ages. Medicaid's $169 billion burden is currently shared by states and the federal government, but the Republicans are pushing through a plan that would have the feds simply write a check to each state, with no strings attached.

"We might as well just throw the money up in the air and hope it falls down and does good," said Sen. John Breaux, D-La.

Democrats believe the changes will be catastrophic. The GOP wants to slash federal funding for Medicaid by $182 billion over the next seven years without any guidelines for how individual states cope with the cuts. Congressional Democrats told our associate Ed Henry that states could be forced to eliminate Medicaid coverage for 4.4 million children, 350,000 nursing home residents and 1.4 million people with disabilities.

"Medicaid is the safety net for the entire health care system," said Sara Rosenbaum, an expert with the nonpartisan Center for Health Policy Research. Besides taking care of the most vulnerable members of society — poverty-stricken senior citizens and children along with the disabled — Medicaid serves as the payer of last resort for the 36 million Americans who have no health insurance at all. Rosenbaum predicts that if the GOP plan goes through, 20 million people would be "added to the rolls of (the uninsured) overnight."

Sen. Don Nickles, R-Okla., a member of the GOP leadership, responds coldly: "Let the states take care of the safety nets."

Nickles' comment reflects the fact that despite its reach across generational lines, Medicaid may be the most misunderstood program in the federal budget.

Medicaid has long been overshadowed by Medicare, its sister program that takes care of the elderly. Medicare grabs all of the headlines because of the political potency of the senior citizens' lobby. The sad fact is that while seniors have the 33 million-member American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) carrying their water in Washington, the poor and disabled don't have any high-powered lobbyists protecting their interests.

As a result, many Americans believe Medicaid is purely a payoff to welfare mothers — and their children — who would rather live off the government dole than get a job. In fact, one out of every eight Americans is covered through Medicaid and the average recipient hardly fits the profile of a welfare mother.

The reason why Medicaid's budget has been soaring out of control is that it cleans up the messes that other health programs leave behind. About 4 million impoverished Medicare beneficiaries age 65 or older depend on Medicaid for services Medicare does not cover, including preventive care, prescription drugs and long-term care.

Each year, Medicaid pays for more than half of all the long-term care services in this country, costs an average of $38,000 per year or about $104 per day. Nearly 1.5 million people live in nursing homes, and an astounding 69 percent of those residents rely on Medicaid to pay for their care.

That's why it's so ironic that Medicaid, which represents the cradle of Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty, is now headed for its grave.

More American students taking math, science

By BALLY STREFF GIBSON
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON — American high school students take significantly more math and science classes than teenagers did a decade ago but are still far from reaching the goal set by the nation's governors to be best in the world, a study found.

"Is it enough?" asked Gordon Ambach, director of the Council of Chief State School Officers, which conducted the study with the National Science Foundation. "No, it is not. We still have great distances to go in terms of student motivation, course-taking, opportunities and resources."

Sixty percent of students who graduated from high school in 1994 had taken three years of high school math, compared to just 37 percent of 1982 graduates, according to the study, released Thursday.

And 51 percent of 1994 graduates had taken three years of high school science, compared to 33 percent in 1982.

The more rigorous classes are pushing up students' math and science performance, said Larry Suter of the National Science Foundation, citing data released this summer by the Education Department.

Between 1982 and 1992, scores received by 17-year-olds on the National Assessment of Educational Progress increased nine points in math and 11 points in science — equivalent to a year's schooling, the Education Department said.

Students are taking the harder classes, in part, because many states have increased graduation requirements in the 12 years since the 1983 "A Nation at Risk" education report, Ambach said.

But the roles of parents' and students' expectations should not be overlooked, he added.

In South Korea, where high school senior Gehoon Chung attended school until last year, "The students who do well in math and science — they're heroes. They're cool guys."

But at McLean High School in Fairfax County, Va., which he now attends, doing well in math isn't so cool, Chung said. "That's the biggest change."

One of his classmates, senior Julie Ha, thinks students also can be motivated if teachers work to make lessons exciting and relevant to their lives.

More students at McLean took an advanced placement chemistry class this year than ever before, she said.

"It's the hands-on — the labs — that they like," she said. "It's more applying stuff than just memorizing."

"My best wishes are sent for a memorable event and for great success in reaching your goal of $100,000."

Despite the theft earlier this week of some equipment from an unsecured tent at the site, the food concessions will be operating in full force at the festival this weekend.

The Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts will take place both Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Admission is $1 per person.

Elsewhere, the traditional Pioneer Days and Ways festival will take place at the Seminole County Historical Museum on County Home Road, between U.S. Highway 17-92 and the Seminole Community College campus.

In addition to offering a variety of crafts for sale from woodworking to crocheted dollies to photographic works of art, the festival offers an educational forum for those who want to learn more about their home county.

Local historians will be on hand to offer discussions and information about the county's past and the future of the place we call home.

The Pioneer Days and Ways Festival is the place to go to see how local pioneers forged a life for themselves in rural Florida with demonstrations of nineteenth century skills and activities.

The Days and Ways Festival will be open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday. There is no admission charge.

The eighth annual Crafts in the Churchyard will take place on the bucolic grounds of the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, 251 E. Lake Brantley Dr., Longwood.

The free event features handmade items of an infinite variety, scrumptious baked goods and several exciting activities for the children, including a moonwalk, clowns, mini-golf and more.

The crafts festival will be Saturday only from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

participating in the program.

Supt. Paul Hagerty said he's really pleased with the THANKS card, though he was a little wary of it at first. The district had experimented with the ill-fated Adventure Card in the past and he was not eager, at first, to try another approach.

The Adventure Card required the district and the schools to spend a lot of time in the paperwork and money exchange process in order for the program to work. And, often, the merchants were fuddled by the card and would refuse to accept it.

With the THANKS card, he said, the forms are distributed and then collected and returned to the company. As far as the schools are concerned, that's it.

"It's easy," he said. "We're going to try it."

The program doesn't cost the schools a dime, but has great potential for great financial benefit.

Though the program has been in place since the end of last school year, it is unclear exactly how well the program is working.

"But every little bit helps," said Jane Lane of the community involvement office. "Every little bit helps."

Record crowd braves downpour to celebrate mass with pope

By DAVID BRIGGS
AP Religion Writer

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — They wept, did the wave and despite hours of a steady, driving rain, more than 80,000 Catholic faithful stayed in their seats for Mass in a football stadium.

The man who kept them there was Pope John Paul II, who invoked Emma Lazarus' plea for America to embrace its huddled masses in condemning abortion and euthanasia and limits on immigration.

"I cannot describe how exuberant and exhilarated I feel at this moment," 68-year-old Ada Tronolone said after Thursday night's Mass at Giants Stadium. "Seeing John Paul II was a personal experience in a crowd of more than 80,000. He makes you feel like he's talking just to you."

The pope was to celebrate Mass today at Aqueduct Race-track in New York City, then visit with future priests at St. Joseph's Seminary in Yonkers, N.Y.

At the stadium, in the pontiff's first large-scale public event of his five-day U.S. tour, hours of steady rain and wind could not detract from the enthusiasm of the huddled masses. Some in the crowd wept, some pressed their hands to their hearts or cried "Viva el Papa" as the pontiff circled the stadium in his popemobile.

"I see that the people of New Jersey know how to praise God, even in the rain," the pope told the crowd of 82,498, the largest ever at Giants Stadium.

The pope was partially protected by a white canopy hanging over a huge red-carpeted altar set up in an end zone. But at one point during the two-hour service, the wind knocked off his white zucchetto, the skullcap. Some bishops celebrating Mass with the pope wore clear rain slickers over their white and gold vestments.

In the crowd, the rain was so heavy at times people would tip the water off of their seats before sitting back down during the service. Most could care less.

"This is the most important day of my life. I cannot describe to you how important it is to be here," said Edward Pietro, 78, of Toms River. "After today, if nothing else exciting or wonderful happens in my life, I will die a fulfilled man."

In his homily, the pontiff urged worshippers to continue in the tradition of the anti-slavery and civil rights movements to extend legal protection to "the unborn child," the elderly and the severely handicapped.

"Both as Americans and as followers of Christ, American Catholics must be committed to the defense of life in all its stages and in every condition," the pontiff declared.

Just 10 miles from the Statue of Liberty, the pope also recited part of Lazarus' poem in encouraging Americans to continue to welcome immigrants yearning to breathe free and to serve the poor.

"Is present-day America becoming less sensitive, less caring toward the poor, the weak, the stranger, the needy? It must not," the pope said.

"If America were to turn on itself, would this not be the beginning of the end of what constitutes the very essence of the 'American Experience'?"

Earlier Thursday, the pope urged the United Nations to be an authentic force for peace.

"The United Nations Organization needs to rise more and more above the cold status of an administrative institution and to become a moral center where all the nations of the world feel at home," he told the 185-member General Assembly.

The pope's visit during the U.N.'s 50th anniversary year was the central point of his fourth pilgrimage to the United States. The organization is deeply in debt, in part because of its expanded peacekeeping operations in Bosnia and elsewhere, and Pope John Paul wants to see it strengthened.

He sketched the dramatic changes since he last addressed the assembly in 1979 — the fall of Communism and cuts in nuclear arsenals.

Now, he stressed, the danger stems from a "narrow and exclusive nationalism," which triggered "a true nightmare of violence and terror," most recently during ethnic upheavals in Rwanda and Bosnia.

"Nationalism, particularly in its most radical forms, is thus the antithesis of true patriotism," he said.

The pope is to celebrate Mass in Manhattan's Central Park on Saturday, then travel to Baltimore on Sunday. He returns to Rome on Sunday night.

Lordy, Lordy...

Worship experience presented

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The First Baptist Church of Sanford recently held its "Creative Worship Experience" in the new sanctuary. The event was sponsored by the youth ministry teams.

Sidney Brock, youth minister for the congregation, commented, "We decided to try something new and different. We wanted to involve kids in various types of ministry. We have some really talented kids and this was an opportunity for them to stretch a bit."

The program began with a welcome from Amy Paul. An ensemble composed of 11 high schoolers led the assembly in a collection of four songs. Following the singing they lifted their voices without the audience in "God's Love Never Changes."

Meredith Laurence then gave her personal testimony before the group followed with a prayer by Chris Colbert.

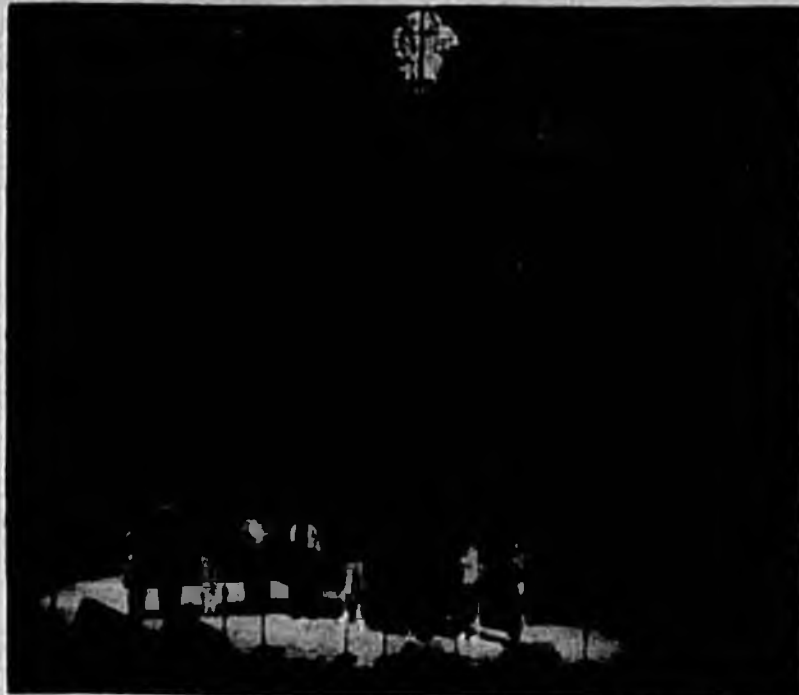

A puppet show titled "The Prodigal Son" then set the mood. Nine jr. high and high school students kept the crowd on their seats.

Rob Foselius led an offertory prayer and John Murray then conducted the offering.

Four high schoolers left the audience moved with their drama titled "Sunday School." Another testimony by Dan Ireland was heard. Comments included, "he did a wonderful job" to "it takes a lot for youngsters to be able to get in front of a crowd and give a great talk like that."

A group of 12 performed a creative movement set to "Do You Hear What I Hear." According to Brock this performance is similar to praise dancing. In his opinion God becomes the audience instead of man. "Instead of moving for your own satisfaction or others the only audience is God," he said.

Reflective reading was a highlight of the evening as Mandee Ross read "Peace" about a man in search of peace on the earth. As the story progressed the man realized that peace cannot be found running from something but only seeking God.

The reading was fitting for the next staging of mimes performing "Peace Be Still." A responsive reading by Bonnie Gray titled "Justification By Faith" stirred the audience.

Sign Language topped the night with "Jesus Saves" from a musical previously presented by the youth. Clowning offered a bit of variety to the stage with "Train Ticket to Heaven" as their act. It made the point that the only way to get to Heaven was with the right ticket and do you have that ticket?

The invitation was offered by Karri Tate with a mime of "Feel the Nails." The audience was moved to emotion as she ended the performance with placing two large nails in the hands of two members of the audience and shifting her hands to her heart.

After the singing of "Oh Come Let Us Adore Him" the evening ended with a closing reading from Jude 1:24-25 by Lee Murray. "To him who is able to keep you from falling and to present you before his glorious presence without fault and with great joy - to the only God our Savior be glory, majesty, power and authority, through Jesus Christ our Lord, before all ages, now and forevermore."

Brock added, "We were looking for a response from our members. We think we received one and it was a positive one. There were several decisions to accept Jesus that night."

Positive response was the feature for the event. Joan Caserto, promotional secretary of the church, said, "You could feel the presence of the Holy Spirit throughout this inspirational creative worship service. The final mime presentation by Karri Tate left everyone feeling the pain and suffering when the nails pierced Jesus as he died on the cross to save us all from sin."

Elaine Drake, a member of the church, said, "I thought it was great. I've heard good remarks about the service. I was especially impressed with the testimony by Dan Ireland. It takes a lot of courage to present a testimony like that and live it too."

McBride to perform at Central Baptist

SANFORD - Central Baptist Church, 3101 West First St., will have as guest speaker and singer Dan McBride. He will be present at this Sunday's morning worship service.

The Rev. McBride has been called "the Will Rogers of the religious world" by many. He is an ordained Baptist minister and is known as a musician, humorist and motivator.

The public is invited to attend.

Central Baptist is located on West State Road 46 in Sanford. For more information call the minister of music at Central Baptist at 322-2914.

Ask the preacher Bible questions

Question: What is the meaning of the words "Yom Kippur" on my October 1995 calendar? These words appear on October 4th and the Seminole County schools are not in session that date, why?

Answer: The words "Yom Kippur" are Hebrew in origin and mean "day" and "covering" respectively. They refer to the Jewish observance of "the day of atonement."

This tradition was given to Israel by Jehovah as recorded in Leviticus 16. It was listed as a part of their calendar (which is a lunar based calendar) falling on the 10th day of the 7th month of the year (Leviticus 23:26-32).

It was the day when the high priest entered the Holy of Holies in the temple and before the Ark of the Covenant made atonement for sin. Hence, "the day of covering" is a part of the covenant that Israel shared with God.

It was an annual reminder from God to his people concerning the disposition of their sins. Through ceremonies at the temple, God conveyed the wonderful news that He's "gotcha covered."

The New Testament book of Hebrews, chapters 9 and 10, also sheds some interesting insights into this primitive ceremony. This primitive system with its animal sacrifices has been abolished by the Cross of Christ.

Jesus "covers" our sins with

God. It was impossible that the blood of bulls and goats should take away sin, only the Lamb of God could pay the debt of sin. (Hebrews 10:3) The old economy was a shadow of the things that were to come in Christ.

The Jews still observe "Yom Kippur" as a reminder of their covenant with Jehovah, but they no longer offer the prescribed sacrifices, nor observe the temple rituals.

Such would be impossible since the temple was destroyed in 70 A.D. and the table of genealogies was destroyed by Titus, the Roman conquer. Without this genealogy table there is no legitimate way to determine who should serve as Minister Tony Black the High Priest. The Jewish priesthood was forever abolished.

Missionary presents program

SANFORD - A program on Nicaragua was presented at the First Presbyterian Church recently. Pictured left to right, Emerson Wilson of Winter Park, a future missionary for the Young Life mission in Matagalpa, Nicaragua; Martina Montenegro, program coordinator for the mission; Helen Humphreys, interpreter from Daytona Beach and pastor of First Church; and the Rev. Bruce Scott of First Presbyterian in Sanford, all participated in this presentation.

Wilson has been in the printing and packaging industries for over 30 years in Maryland and Florida. He started a meal serving program for the Coalition of the Homeless. He's also an avid supporter of Teach-In and Community Recreation in Seminole County and was a member of the 1995 International Mission Team visiting Peru and Nicaragua.

Paying taxes for domestic help

More and more people hire others to help in their homes. If you're in this situation, it's important to know what your obligations are: A new law makes it easier for you to make sure he or she gets proper Social Security credit for the wages you pay.

CONSUMER FOCUS
BARBARA HUGHES/GREGG

You'll need to pay Social Security tax for those household helpers who earn $1,000 or more during the year. No SS tax is due if the household helper is under age 18 during any part of the year — your occasional babysitter who is under age 18 now is exempt from the tax, unless babysitting is his or her main job. So, you won't have to pay SS tax for the high school student who babysits on the weekend or during summer vacation to earn spending money.

The new law applies to 1994 earnings. If you paid SS taxes for an employee whose earnings from you were less than $1,000 in 1994, you and your employee each can ask for a refund. The employee won't lose any SS credits earned under the previous rules.

In the past, employers and employees were required to report and pay SS taxes on all earnings of at least $60 in a three-month-calendar quarter.

For 1994 you need to file the quarterly Form 942 to report Social Security and federal unemployment obligations. In 1995 you may report these taxes on your own federal tax return (Form 1040). During the years 1996-97, you may pay the employment taxes in a lump sum when you file your tax return.

If you have any questions about the changes in reporting household employment and/or paying SS taxes for household help, contact your local SS office, or call their toll free number 1-800-772-1213.

Trust your gut feelings

FAMILY COUNSELOR
MARY BALK

DEAR MARY: I've been in a relationship for about a year. It's the first time since I've been divorced (15 years) that I've had that twittersy feeling when a man kisses me. Actually, we've been friends for several years but during this past year it has become much more than that. When we were just friends, I used to tease him about being a lady's man because every time I'd see him he was flirting with a different gal. Since we see each other almost every day now I just assumed we were seeing each other exclusively. Now I'm beginning to wonder. If I call him unexpectedly at home and he's on the other line, he seems nervous and vague about who he's talking to. Also, sometimes he has to go to meetings in the evenings. When he talks about the meetings and the people there, he seems vague about what was going on and who he was with, etc.

I really care for this man and he seems to care for me when he's with me, but I just have this feeling that he might be seeing someone else (or several people for all I know) on the side. Should I confront him with my suspicions?

SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: You make no reference to commitment agreements between the two of you so for now I suggest you keep your mouth closed and your eyes and ears open. My personal feeling is that the "gut feelings" we all get about other people usually contain real good information for us if we pay attention to them.

It would be interesting to see how he would react if you took a couple giant steps backward in this relationship. If he's feeling like he needs more space, he'll be glad you did. But if he really cares for you and wants to make this a committed relationship, he'll feel uneasy and attempt to get you closer again.

Finally, you use the term "lady's man" to describe the way you've seen him act in the past. If I were in your shoes I'd pay a lot of attention to that. Don't think that would automatically change if you were in a committed relationship. What often happens is the behavior just goes "underground" and surfaces only when he thinks he won't get caught. BE CAREFUL!

Many treatments for impotence available

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Recently, a 70-year-old widower wrote to you saying that he was dating a half-dozen women with whom he had platonic relationships. He says that he avoids giving them the impression that he has a romantic interest in them because he is impotent and is somewhat embarrassed by his condition.

You replied that many women in that age group would consider a non-sexual status a plus — and that holding, caressing and doing "everything but" can be sufficiently satisfying to some women.

Your response implies that he should just accept his condition without even considering medical treatment to correct it.

Abby, I want to point out that sexual dysfunction is treatable, and help is available to allow for a satisfying sex life.

It is possible that this man's impotence is related to a medication that could be adjusted or changed.

If this is not the case, there are treatments that include counseling, injection therapy, vacuum devices and prosthetic surgery.

N.W. COLEBURN, M.D., ST. LUKE'S-ROOSEVELT HOSPITAL, NEW YORK

DEAR DR. COLEBURN: Thank you for a letter that should be helpful and encouraging to many. (It is estimated that 10 million men in the United States suffer from impotence or some form of sexual disorder.) Readers, the doctor to consult is a urologist.

DEAR ABBY: "Feeling Foolish in New Hampshire" wrote about a friend who found a $5 bill in a pair of jeans she had purchased for $1 at a yard sale. She immediately telephoned the original owner and gloated over the windfall.

Abby, that story could have come directly out of Jewish folklore.

Once, a rabbi purchased a camel from a trader at the bazaar. When he arrived home, he discovered a valuable diamond in the camel's saddle-bag. He immediately returned the diamond to its rightful owner and said, "Sir, I purchased a camel, not a diamond; the diamond is still rightfully yours."

The moral of that story is clear. We have an obligation to be honorable in all transactions.

By the way, I used this story as an illustration to my Sunday school children this very day.

With affection and best wishes

RABBI ARNOLD STIEBEL, RESO, NEV.

DEAR RABBI STIEBEL: Thank you for writing to share that wonderful fable with my readers.

Week Five in the NFL and we've had some surprises

Here we are again in Week Five, and we've had some more surprises. Redskins beating Dallas? Jacksonville gets a win? These two games prove what I told you last week, "On any given day in the N.F.L. any team can win." Other happenings were not as surprising. The Niners, Colts and yes, my LOCK OF THE WEEK, Atlanta rolled to victories. I particularly enjoyed the fact that Atlanta not only covered the spread, but won the game by a large margin as I said they would. Let's get on to the Florida teams.

BRADY LESSARD

Jets application for the Big East was denied Bills coming off a huge win, looking to blow a team out for the hometown fans. First Bills game since O.J.'s release; he should bet on it.

CHICAGO (-14) vs CAROLINA. If the Panthers can't beat the Bucs at home, they will be killed by Chicago on the road. Panther's players need to make sure insurance paperwork is in order; someone could get hurt. Bears 26 Panthers 6

PHILLY (-4) vs WASHINGTON. I can't believe the Eagles are favored after only five field goals last week. The Skins are an excited young team with better coaching. Philly will make a coaching change after this one. Bills 27 Eagles 13

MINNESOTA (-11) vs BOSTON. Moon and company will win this game, but give me 11 points and the Oilers' defense, and I'll take it every week. Houston coach Jeff Fisher has done the best he could. Vikings 18 Oilers 9

OAKLAND (-10) vs SEATTLE. Seattle gave Denver a hard time, and to do that they have to game something. Mirer and Hostetler keep it close in an all out war. The Raiders will win because they're meaner, and they cheat. Raiders 27 Seahawks 23

CLEVELAND (-1) vs DETROIT. The Browns are coming off a big loss, while the Lions are still glowing from beating the Niners. You don't have to be a rocket scientist to figure this one out. I'd be willing to give five points. Lions 27 Browns 13

N.Y. GIANTS (-4) vs ARIZONA. Buddy Ryan made me a liar last week, so I have got to go with Dan Reeves. This could be the lowest scoring game of the season. These teams should merge and field one good team. Giants 13 Cards 3

NEW ENGLAND vs DENVER. There is no line on this game yet. The bookies want to know if Bledsoe is playing. I don't think he will, and Elway has to be furious with what happened in Seattle last week. Broncos 24 Patriots 10

TAMPA BAY (-9) vs CINCINNATI. Jeff Blake comes home, and the Bucs are ready. The entire town should road trip over for the game. We win regardless of the final score. If I was forced to call the game: Bucs(Weldon) 24 Bengals 17 Bucs(Dikfer) 16 Bengals 17

PITTSBURGH (-11) at JACKSONVILLE. Pittsburgh's defense seems to be healing, but the offense has problems. Reality check for Jaguars, and this one will come from behind the Steel Curtain. Steelers 17 Jaguars 10

MIAAMI (-10) vs INDIANAPOLIS. I knew Faulk would have a big game last week, but he faces a better defense this week. I honestly don't know how this game will end, but it will be much closer than the Vegas Boys think. Dolphins 24 Colts 21

KANSAS CITY (-4) vs SAN DIEGO. This will be a great matchup on Monday Night. San Diego was beaten badly last week, while K.C. beat someone badly. It's so simple, it seems like a trap. Chiefs 27 Chargers 17

Every week I issue what I consider the best pick against the spread in the schedule. This is the game that after research and contemplation, I feel most confident about releasing as my LOCK OF THE WEEK. At 5-0 this year, I feel invincible releasing Detroit (+1) over Cleveland. The Lions should win by at least a touchdown. Good luck this week, and make sure the cars are washed before Sunday.

TV delivered the goods at O.J. trial

By Lynn Melzer
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — From the first moment, as cameras lingered over the blood-fouled walkway that June morning, America was united — and divided — in epic television voyeurism. We ogled the killing ground of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman. Gaped at the sight of a handcuffed O.J. Simpson. Monitored the funerals and the freeway chase jamboree. And the trial, the trial, the trial.

Then, after only a few breathtaking hours, the verdict: innocent and free. It all could have added up to TV's finest hour, and maybe it did. The medium delivered the goods — entertainment — with a veneer of significance to make us think it was time well-spent. Newscasts, newsmagazines, even entertainment shows gave over their hearts and airtime to the tale of tarnished glory and death that became TV's pre-eminent soap opera.

Titillation, of course. Obsession, say some observers, to the near-exclusion of other vital news. Overblown meaning and importance for a unique case.

And wrenching, divisive national debate about justice, racism and the cult of celebrity with scant reason and dubious result, others conclude. Because it is, after all, television — with the sheer and shared drama that implies. "It's very interesting theater," says sociologist Todd Gitlin, who teaches at the University of California, Berkeley, and New York University.

"Whether it was the Army-McCarthy hearings in the '50s or the Watergate hearings in the '70s... or this," Gitlin says. "TV has created a kind of village square more clearly in this case than in any other," concludes sociologist Frank Lechner of Emory University in Atlanta. "Because of media attention, it's become a kind of □ See Trial, Page 5B

Is blood pressure reading accurate?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a male, age 60, and my usual blood pressure is about 120/80. However, I've noticed that it varies substantially during the day and even in readings taken only a few minutes apart. How much variation is normal? Are the supermarket blood pressure devices accurate, or are they the cause of the variation?

DEAR READER: Most people are surprised to learn that the blood pressure literally varies from minute to minute, depending on body position, stress, activity, and a host of other features, many of which are unknown. At times, the blood pressure can fluctuate widely. I remember a patient in the office who had a blood pressure of 210/100. I was concerned, so I sat him down in a quiet room and told him to relax and breathe deeply. Within five minutes, his pressure had fallen to 140/80, a normal reading.

Evidently this patient was experiencing a stress reaction by being examined (so-called "white-coat hypertension"); once he relaxed, his blood pressure readily fell to his usual, more normal range. Thus, blood pressure variations simply reflect the body's preparedness, if you will, depending on circumstances.

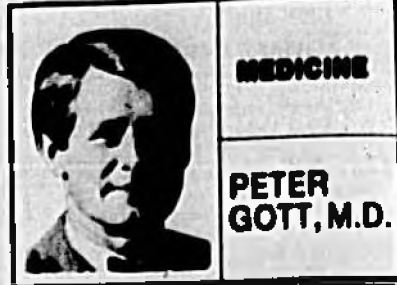

In addition, patients may make mistakes while taking their own blood pressures. Such errors often lead to heightened anxiety, which, of course, raises the pressure even further.

Finally, blood pressure machines in supermarkets, pharmacies or malls may not be accurate. These devices use an aneroid (dial or digital display) mechanism that periodically needs recalibration. With heavy use, such recalibration is seldom performed, resulting in false readings.

This is the reason that the prudent physician checks his own patients' blood pressures.

using a non-mercurial mercury machine or an aneroid device that has been appropriately serviced and maintained.

Also, if the patient checks his own pressure, the doctor will usually verify these figures - at

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Frenchman Joseph Marie de Maistre wrote, "The concept of number is the obvious distinction between the beast and man. Thanks to number, the cry becomes song, noise acquires rhythm, the spring is transformed into a dance, force becomes dynamic, and outlines figures."

Numbers are important in bridge, of course. You must watch the number of spots on each card. You must count the points and suit distributions. Declarer played particularly poorly in today's deal.

After South opened two no-trump, showing 20-22 points, North asked, "Was that one no-trump or two?" Holding 18 points himself, North wanted to double-check before jumping to seven no-trump.

After West led the heart 10,

North confidently displayed his dummy, expecting partner to claim immediately.

There was no claim, but South played immediately. He won the first trick in hand, cashed the club ace and played a club to dummy's king. East's diamond discard was a shattering blow. After a lengthy pause, South conceded one down.

"Sorry partner, but how was I to expect West to have four clubs with his heart length?"

"You weren't," replied North, "but why commit yourself so early?"

North went on to explain that South should have cashed all his spade, heart and diamond tricks before turning to clubs. South would learn that West started with two spades, five hearts, two diamonds and, therefore, four clubs. This makes it easy for South to cash the ace and queen of clubs before finessing dummy's nine.

When you have to guess the play in one suit, try to leave that suit until last.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bada Oso
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 7, 1995

There is a strong chance that a secret ambition you've been harboring will be attained in the year ahead. New friends and propitious circumstances will help bring this about.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Stay on top of intense communications today. If you keep all channels open, you might receive some good news. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10150.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Generally speaking, Lady Luck will favor you today. You could do especially well in matters pertaining to your financial affairs. The bigger the better.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You should be able to operate independently today and concentrate on several things that are personally significant. When you focus, you'll succeed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will be more effective if you maintain a low profile and stay in the background today. Keep your finger on the pulse of events, but don't attempt to manipulate them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Developments should work out to your liking today if you don't take yourself or your involvements too seriously. Maintain a conscientious perspective, but don't be a sourpuss.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In competitive situations today, the odds will be slightly tilted in your favor. Your resourcefulness and ingenuity will be the key elements to give you this desirable edge.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you aren't extremely careful today, you might accidentally repeat a mistake just like one you that you made in the recent past.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Someone you trust might talk to you about a unique investment!

proposal today. Hear this person out, but refrain from impulsively rushing to the bank to withdraw your life's savings.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Sometimes it's unwise to put too much stock in snap judgments. Today, however, you're a quick thinker and your initial conclusions might be your best.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You can be more productive and find greater enjoyment in your work today if you're involved in creative endeavors. Find things to do that trigger your imagination.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Persons who meet you for the first time today will be favorably impressed. The lesson to be learned is if you become more involved socially, good things could result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A situation that has caused you a degree of aggravation might come to a sudden and abrupt end today. When this occurs, dismiss it from your mind and move onward.

TAKE A STEP INTO THE PAST
The museum highlights Seminole County, the historical gateway to interior Central Florida. The area has gone through periods of great importance militarily and as the area's transportation hub, and more recently as an agricultural leader. With the growth of tourism in Central Florida, Seminole County is now becoming one of the "desired" suburban neighborhoods in Central Florida.

Have you ever wondered where your ancestors obtained the necessities of life? More than likely, they made them themselves. Come to Pioneer Days'n Ways, October 7 and 8 at the Museum of Seminole County in Sanford between 10:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. to see pioneer skills demonstrated. Back in the 1800s if a boy wanted to wash his face and hands, he would have used soap his mother made. See a soapmaker at work. The first blue denims were dyed with indigo, possibly grown in Florida. See an indigo dye-maker brewing his dye and coloring fabric and yarn as he relates the story of growing the indigo and making the yarn. To dispel the gloom of darkness our ancestors burned candles, probably made at home. Pioneer Days'n Ways will present a candlemaker simmering her mixture of beeswax and secret ingredients. Watch her tie the wicks and pour the molds. Pioneer Days'n Ways will host a cooper, a blacksmith, an old-time medicine show, basketmakers, and quilters. We'll have it all right before your eyes just the way great-grandfather and great-grandmother did it.
