Band Instruments Smashed At Milwee

Investigators Are Probing School Vandalism

By JIM LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Sheriff's investigators are probing a weekend burglary and vandalism spree in which band instruments were smashed against walls at Milwee Middle School, SR-47, Longwood, and small items were reported taken.

School officials today were reporting taking an inventory to determine what was taken in the burglary and the dollar damage of what deputies termed "extensive vandalism."

In other reports, deputies said burglars pried open a window to enter Gem Line Nursery, Narcanus Ave., Sanford, and made off with items valued at $842, including two calculators, a microscope, a chainsaw, two drills and a power saw.

Pedestrian Killed The Florida Highway Patrol reported a 46-year-old white woman was killed Saturday night when she was struck by a motor vehicle on SR-46 1 1/2 miles east of Sanford.

Council To Get Fire Station Deed

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

Winter Springs City Council will formally accept the deed to new Fire Station No. 2 from Winter Springs Development Corp., developer of the Tusawilla section, tonight following a 7:30 p.m. workshop.

The agenda for the workshop will include discussion of drainage problems in Wildwood Subdivision with Land Engineering representatives.

Up for discussion in the regular session will be a proposal to put Building Official Ray Bradshaw in charge of the Public Works Department as well as giving him a raise in salary.

Councilman Claude Ash, public works commissioner proposed last week Bradshaw's pay be increased to $12,500. A committee named by Mayor Troy Piland last week to study the matter included councilmen Ash, John Daniels and Ernest Herdic.

The mayor is scheduled to appoint a replacement for Councilman Irwin Hunter, who resigned last week.

A decision is also due on whether to continue the jurisdiction suit against the Florida Public Service Commission by taking the appeal to the Florida Supreme Court.

Also on the agenda will be a request to vacate a utility easement by Shop and Go; second reading of mechanical code ordinance; fire department purchases; the new sign ordinance; proposed ordinance to raise minimum permit fee from $5 to $10; update of standard building code; and the mayor's office.

Casselberry City Council will have a continued meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. in city hall headed by a public hearing on the abandonment of an easement requested by Richard Luak and the first reading of ordinance 310.

On the regular agenda will be the consideration of a resolution to the City of Orlando agreeing to regionalization and authorization to prepare city claim deeds for W.C. Cagley property exchange.

Appointments to fill vacancies on the Board of Adjustment and Recreation Board will be considered. The council will authorize filing of federal general revenue

The patrol's DeLand office identified the traffic victim as Alberts Holloman, 46, of Route Two, Box 121, Sanford.

Troopers reported she was walking in the roadway when a westbound vehicle struck and killed her.

Trooper Mike Hobbs investigated the accident, officials said, but the DeLand office reported today that the name of the driver of the death vehicle, type of vehicle and other information was not available to secure his prints who had escaped from their cages.

Last week deputies and animal control officers gave two of the five chimpanzees a ride to the Central Florida Zoo for safekeeping after they escaped from their cages.

Patton said three chimps escaped Sunday through an opening in the top of a cage. Officers reported Sunday that the cages were "in poor sanitary condition, with an overwhelming odor, and there was no water for the animals."

Midway Burglary A Midway man reported to sheriff's deputies early Sunday that someone not only burglarized his residence but they took his German shepherd dog too.

Louis Leroy Reed, 34, of 1294 Sipes Ave., reported a 38 caliber pistol and a color television were taken in the house burglary and the $500 black dog left chained in the yard was also missing.

Sanfordie Arrested In weekend arrests, sheriff's detective John J. Poole jailed Rocky Gene Mores, 31, of 917 1/2 W. First St., Sanford, in lieu of $4,000 bond on a criminal conspiracy charge. Poole said the felony charge involves a planned burglary of a residence and that the case is still under investigation.

Assault Charged Sanford police jailed Samuel Peterson, 37, of 1004 W. Fourth St., in lieu of $15,000 bond on three counts of aggravated assault after an incident in which Patrolman T. L. Brooks Jr. said he witnessed a man holding a gun on three people and threatening to kill them.

Youth Arrested Sheriff's deputies Sunday night recovered a stolen auto and arrested a 16-year-old Orlando boy after a foot chase through a wooded area at the end of Oakhurst St., at Alamonte Springs.

Deputy Ann Henegar reported the juvenile was arrested as a runaway and for resisting arrest with violence and turned over to state Division of Youth Services officials at the Sanford Juvenile Detention Center.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Tornado Injures Woman, Damages Tampa Homes

TAMPA (AP) — "I saw debris coming through the yard. It was really blowing and shaking," Harry Alip of the tornado that bounced along a four-mile stretch northwest of Tampa, damaging his mobile home and others in the process.

The Tampa area was hardest hit Sunday as heavy winds and rains pelted much of Florida, spawning numerous twisters, causing some minor flooding and disrupting telephone and electric service in some areas.

Insurance Has Few Takers

MIAMI (AP) — Although most of the state's eight million residents live near the coast, canals or rivers, only about 71,000 Floridians have taken advantage of a federal program that provides low-cost flood insurance.

State and federal officials say most Floridians now are eligible to buy low-cost insurance to replace homes and possessions lost because of floods, but relatively few know about the protection although Florida is extremely prone to flooding from hurricanes and rain-swollen rivers.

The purpose of this program is to provide people living in flood-prone areas an affordable insurance and to eliminate or at least reduce the annual cost of flood damage," said Jim Sayes of the state Department of Community Affairs.

Community Lacks Services

THE EVERGLADES (AP) — The community along winding Loop Road in the Florida Everglades has grown to some 300 residents, but police are a long-distance call and 97 miles away, the only road is unpaved and many homes can't get phones or electricity.

"We never received anything for our tax money," complains Chuck Hughes, who owns the general store and heads the area businessmen's association.

Residents along Loop Road paid $24,000 in Monroe County taxes last year. But they complain that almost all that money is kept by the rest of the county, which consists of the Florida Keys and is separated from Loop Road by the Everglades and Florida Bay.

14 Die On Highways

A spate of weekend accidents, many on rain-slickened roadways and one claiming three lives, pushed the weekend traffic death toll in Florida to at least 14. The Highway Patrol says.

Troopers said early today that eight of the 11 fatal wrecks happened either in heavy downpours or on roads wet from recent rains.

The triple fatality happened in a rainstorm late Friday in Hillsborough County when one car tried to pass a truck and smashed head-on into another car during a rainstorm, troopers said Sunday.

Sen. Childers Opposes Amendments

The Senate approved the measure unanimously earlier in the session after Childers produced statistics showing that one in every 10 students graduating from Florida high schools was functionally illiterate.

Brawl Erupts At Jail

PANAMA CITY (AP) — What started as a routine arrest ended up in what one officer describes as "a little bit of fun" — a jailhouse brawl between 15 inmates and 15 members of a clan out to free two of their own.

Police say it happened this way: Colin Franklith Hutchinson was stopped on a drunk-driving charge. He strenuously objected, as did his wife, Margaret, in the car with him.

Hutchinson wound up jailed on charges of driving while intoxicated and resisting arrest. Mrs. Hutchinson was locked up nearby, charged with disorderly conduct and interfering with a police officer.

Shortly afterward, in the early morning hours of Sunday, 15 inmates and 15 in-laws stormed into the Florida Panhandle city's small jail and loudly demanded release of their kin.

Yell came to push, push came to shove and shove came to a dustup between the less than a dozen officers on duty at the jail.

Reinforcements were called in and almost every on-duty law enforcement officer in the area responded. The police force quickly built to 20, enough to subdue the clan.

The 15 were arrested on some 40 charges, ranging from failure to obey a lawful order to resisting arrest to assault and battery on a police officer.

One was charged with carrying a concealed weapon—a pistol—but no shots were fired during the brawl.

Police said almost everyone involved was injured, mostly bruises and scrapes. But one officer was rushed to the hospital through a plate window, suffering a cut that took 36 stitches to close.

The 15 were quite sure how long the brawl lasted. But it was still going on when Police Chief Thomas McAlvey, called from his bed at home, rushed to the station and mixed in.

By late Sunday, Hutchinson, his wife and the 15 supporters had banded out to await various court hearings.

"Yeah, we had a little bit of fun," said one officer, who declined to give a name not to be used. "It's usually kids quite under here at night."

Elections Bill Sponsor Is Confident Of Victory

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A sponsor of a proposed constitutional amendment doing away with contested elections of Supreme Court justices and judges of the district courts of appeal.

The Senate already has approved its version of the proposed constitutional amendment, but supporters lowered their sights this year by omitting circuit and county judges.

An opponent, Judiciary Chairman William H. Dick, D-Port St. Joe, said support is growing for a compromise constitutional amendment which would provide for appointment of appeals judges and yes-no elections on retention of unopposed judges.

"It would retain the right of people to elect their judges, and would retain a system that would give judges the right to get rid of a bad judge," Rich said.

But Nelson called the proposal "the worst of both worlds." He said he would fight any amendments to the Senate proposal and expects to win.

Rich claimed "quite a bit of sentiment in the House against depriving people of the right to elect their judges."

Illinois Counties: 'Hog Heaven'

KEWANEE, Ill. AP — The hogs have it in the western Illinois counties of Henry and Pike. There are about 25 pigs for every man, woman and child in the two counties, and it's been that way since they were settled in the early 1800s.

"I guess the people who settled here just liked pigs," said Harry Wright Jr., Pike County's farm advisor.

The two counties are 100 miles apart geographically, but in the theory and practice of hog raising they are as alike as a pair of newborn twins.

"This" proclaims Darr Fike, Wright's counterpart in Henry County, "is The Hog Capital of The World."

The difference may not mean much to anyone else, but both counties take it at least half seriously. "It's really a friendly rivalry," Wright explained.

"But just jaw back and forth at one another," Wright said. "But if you want to know the real story about it, it's this: 'The DO raise more hogs up there than we do, maybe 2,000 a year more, so I suppose they have a right claim to Hog Capital. But here in Pike County they raise their hogs to bigger weights.'"

Checking the most recent statistics of the Illinois Livestock Report, Wright noted: "Our farmers raised their hogs to an average of 263 pounds and in Henry it was only 211."

"Now he said a trace smugly, 'you draw your own conclusions.'"

FBI Apology Shows Strength

It took courage for Clarence Kelley, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to issue the first official apology for the abuses of power that occurred in the bureau during the twilight of J. Edgar Hoover's career.

It took courage because many career officials in the bureau opposed any statement of regret or contrition.

They wanted the bureau to "stonewall" it. They feared an apology would hurt morale in the bureau.

Now that one has been given, morale should not suffer. The agents should be proud that the bureau has a director who is big enough and strong enough to admit that the bureau has made mistakes and is now sorry for those mistakes.

It would be impossible, without such an official admission and apology, to build a strong and effective plan to prevent any recurrence of such mistakes.

Such a plan may require action by Congress, by the President, by the U.S. Department of Justice. But no such plan can succeed without the absolute cooperation of the bureau and every one of its agents and supervisors.

The FBI was and remains an elite corps. Its dedication and its discipline were a national confidence and a task of making sure that its great legal and moral authority will never again be subverted for political purposes.

The bureau itself is the ultimate custodian of its own authority. Its staff must be prepared to defend it against any attempt to misuse its vast and often secret investigative powers.

In the future there may well be attempts to misuse the bureau for political purposes.

Higher-ups in the executive branch, even the White House will almost certainly make such attempts no matter what laws are passed and what regulations adopted to prevent them.

In times of crisis, demagogues will call on the bureau to defend the Republic by destroying the freedoms on which the Republic is founded.

Only the bureau itself can be the final enforcer of its accountability to the Congress and the Constitution.

The honor of the bureau must be the shield of the liberties of the people.

Guest Editorial

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger of the Supreme Court delivered the keynote address recently to a national conference in St. Paul, Minn. The topic of the conference was popular dissatisfaction with the administration of justice.

The enormous and steeply increasing costs, the ineffectiveness and inefficiency in providing justice in the criminal and civil courts, the inertia and unresponsiveness of the entire system — these are matters of concern to most Americans, not merely those whose careers are involved.

A systematic look should be taken at the legal profession and the courts to see whether they are achieving their goals and making the best use of the resources at their disposal.

And this examination should be cooperative and constructive, based on common sense not legal precedent, free of the contentions and preoccupation with mere forms that bedevil the courts.

The chief justice took a broad view. He suggested: — Asking why England found it prudent 40 years ago to abandon jury trial for most civil cases.

— Studying England's civil and appellate procedures and their ideas of finality of judgments, short of three or four appeals and retrials.

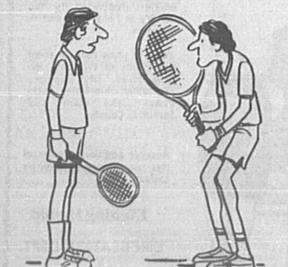

— Considering the value of a citizen tribunal composed of nonlawyers to decide certain kinds of minor claims informally.

— Greater use of the arbitration process to settle disputes.

— Finding ways to compensate people for injuries from negligence of others without having the process take years to complete and consume up to half the damages awarded.

— We've another idea: why not arbitrate more matters out of court? Or is that an idle hope? (Reprinted with permission from the Santa Anna Register)

"I know there's nothing illegal about that new racket of yours but don't you feel a web bit guilty using it?"

Around

The Clock

By ED PRICKETT

I recently had a talk with a hardened criminal, Gumbah, about the new shoot-to-kill bill passed by the Florida Senate.

"Well, Gumbah, what about it? What does the bill mean to you guys who earn your living by ripping off other people's property?"

Gumbah refused to answer. He said the reason he couldn't answer me right away was that he had to run to the store to buy a bar-o-ka . . .

"A bar-o-ka, I wanted to buy a bar-o-ka . . . What do you need with a bar-o-ka, Gumbah?"

"Are you crazy, Mac?" Gumbah answered. "Why, just knowin' every Tom, Dick and Harry in the state is laying for me with a gun is enuf to cause me to shoot on sight. And, if I'm gonna shoot it's gonna be with a bar-o-ka because I don't wanna miss. I ain't gonna ask no questions. I'm just gonna pick me a gun, blast away with my bar-o-ka, then run in and grab the loaf before the law arrives."

"Wow," Gumbah, I replied. "Before you were just a common thief, now you're planning on becoming the Captain Marvel of the anti-establishmentarians."

I left Gumbah to his bar-o-ka and plodded over toward a friend's house. Suddenly, I began to worry. Her old man, I remembered, isn't really too fond of me. Suppose he lures me into the house and then pretends I'm assaulting him, or something.

Then it came to me: He could claim I had forcibly entered his house and shoot me. That way he'd get rid of me and keep his little girl at the same time.

Approaching the house, I dropped to the ground and did the belly crawl I learned in the Army. Swiveling like a snake, I made my way along the front drive and headed toward the front door.

Suddenly I belly-crawled into a foot. "What are you doing, you idiot?" squeaked a female voice.

"Here it is just barely dark and you're drunk already. Crawling around in the grass on your stomach like a giant worm. It's incredible," my lady friend scolded. "Get up this very minute, Daddy's waiting in the house. He wants to talk to you. Now get up and get in there," she demanded.

Her old man, grinning, was standing in the front door with his hand behind his back.

"Come on in," he beckoned. "With fear and trepidation, I inched in the door. Then I asked if he'd heard about the bill that allows citizens to shoot to kill persons who invade their homes to commit felonies.

"Why, no, that's not a thing about that," he replied. "Besides, law enforcement officers protect me and my home. That's what we pay them for."

Then behind his back he suddenly whipped out a package. It was my birthday present, which, in the excitement of my conversation with Gumbah I'd completely forgotten about.

"I ripped the wrapping off, and there it was, just what I'd always wanted — a spanking new 45 automatic.

It is no great secret, however. Tourists drive by regularly, taking photographs of the sights and sounds of the town. They are not to be taken for granted. Rustian diplomats tried some years ago to buy a nearby "vacation retreat" (every spring the pot goes for sale) and every nice try was rebuffed by the town's residents. They were told to "spray-paint" "Peace" on the rocks and cackle grimly over the nonsense of their fathers. "All men," says one, "can now be cremated equal."

To be sure there is nothing but implication to see here. The eight-foot barbed-wire fencing is decorated with red, white and blue "Keep Out" posters. There is a small helicopter landing pad visible from the road. And some buildings sit where the land slopes away toward the splendid Shenandoah. Everything else is inside the earth, protected from the reason for its existence: violence.

According to rumors and information accumulated over the years, the underground White House is in essence an underground city. Some 500,000 cubic yards of dirt and stone were removed to make way for an installation which in an emergency could reportedly support 6,000 people. There are many rooms, corridors, streets, sidewalks, hospitals, cafeterias and vaults. Electric vehicles provide transportation. There is supposed to be a subterranean lake big enough for water skiing. There is a power source and food reserves. There is even a Strangelovian facility for the birth of children.

Allegedly, some 400,000 people staff Mount Weather, many of them playing the roles of the Cowsens, who became the heir to Bill Russell's old position in 1970, turned in another ironman performance Sunday as the Celtics defeated the Suns 98-87 in the best-of-seven playoff opener.

"He's the guy who's anchoring our club now, helping the guys who are hurting," Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn said after Celtics scored 25 points, grabbed 21 rebounds, handed out 10 assists and stole the ball once while playing the entire 48 minutes.

Although team captain John Havlicek played a surprising 40 minutes despite a painful left foot injury, and Jojo White scored 20 of his 22 points in the second half, Cowsens was the dominating force in Boston's technical defense.

"I thought we played a pretty smart game," Cowsens said. "Paul Westphal and Keith Erickson are the true pure shooters on the Phoenix team and what were they, something like 6-for-27? (Actually they were 6-for-27.) That's super as far as we're concerned. We didn't give them anything."

White did a tremendous job covering Westphal, a former teammate who hit on just four of 17 floor shots. However, the Suns, inexperienced but loaded with confidence after upsetting defending champion Golden

State in the Western Conference final, were way off in shooting, making good on only 38 of 99 field goal attempts.

The Celtics, noted over the years for their free-shooting attack, had only 57 shots but made good on 39. The Boston accuracy of 50.7 per cent compared with Phoenix's 38.4.

"I can't remember us ever getting only 57 shots and still winning," Havlicek said after scoring 16 points, grabbing six rebounds and collecting six assists.

"There's no way of predicting when you're going to be hot," said Westphal, who helped Boston to its 12th NBA title in 1974 before being traded to the Suns last May.

"Their shots went in, ours didn't. I think we were getting the shots, but they weren't falling. However, we know we're a good shooting team and that 38 per cent won't last forever."

"I'm happy, I may not look like it," Heinsohn said. "I thought we played very, very good defense. Our fast break was lukewarm, like a slow-blowing stream, but we still got a lot of shots off it. We kept them guessing, doing different things."

Alan Adams, the NBA's rookie of the year, led the Suns with 26 points.

Some home runs by Vic Harris and Hector Cruz had accounted for the St. Louis scoring; Mike Schmidt's RBI single in the first and Bob Boone's two-out RBI hit in the fourth provided the Philadelphia runs.

Explosive Mets 4 Gary Carter's seventh-inning single, a hit which broke an 0-6-14 slump, drove in the run that gave Montreal its victory over the Mets.

Earlier in the inning, Andre Thornton's sacrifice fly had tied it.

John Gubert said Sunday the Bonavena-Rebeaux marriage was later annulled. He would not give details, saying it was a routine matter and that it involved a closed hearing and sealed records.

Gabreili said he could not recall when the marriage was annulled, but said it probably was within 10 days of the marriage.

Miss Rebeaux' whereabouts were unknown Sunday and Del Carlo said efforts were underway to locate her.

St. Louis' two-run homer in the sixth had given New York its 4-3 lead.

German Fight Backers Worried About Bad Omens Slimmed-Down Ali Favored In Bout Against Dunn

MUNICH (AP) — A slimmed-down Muhammad Ali, boastful as ever despite pre-bout bad omens, was a solid favorite today to successfully defend his world heavyweight title against European champion Richard Dunn.

Climaxing his rigorous slendering campaign, Ali weighed in Sunday at 220 pounds, shedding some 10 pounds since his controversial title defense last month against Jimmy Young.

"I'm fast at 220. He hasn't got a chance," Ali said of his 31-year-old English opponent, who tipped the scales at 205 1/2.

As Ali stepped off the scales onto a stage in the downtown arena where he trained, the wooden floor suddenly collapsed, splintering the champion in a dangerous tangle of splintered boards as 500 fans gasped in alarm. He was quickly freed, unharmed, and laughed off the incident.

But it wasn't funny for the German fight backers, who viewed the collapsed floor as the latest in a series of misfortunes that have plagued financial arrangements for the bout and have left them an estimated $50,000 in the red.

Ticket sales have lagged badly, with only about half the 12,500 seats in the Olympiahalle sold to the day of the bout. The cheapest seat is $12 and the fight will be televised locally over WESH-TV, Channel 2, commencing at 9 p.m.

Ringside spots cost $400. The fight is scheduled for 3 a.m. Tuesday, local time (10 p.m., EDT, tonight) for live prime-time television in the United States (on NBC). The fight is also being televised live in West Germany and that hasn't helped ticket sales, either.

Ali bought up 2,000 tickets, worth $100,000, for free distribution to American servicemen, a gesture that helped cut the promoters' debt. Earlier last week, Ali threatened to pull out of the fight because the promoters — a group of Bavarian businessmen — came up short in Ali's original purse of $1.18 million. The champ agreed to settle for about $1.5 million. Dunn is getting about $200,000.

The challenger, a 6-foot-3 ex-paratrooper, still insists he will surprise Ali and win the title. But the red-haired father of three young children enters the bout as a rank outsider with a reputation for a plodding style and a glass chin.

In his early career, Dunn lost nine of his 27 bouts, including five by knockout. Then he suddenly emerged from obscurity in a complete about-face and won six in a row — the last a quick knockout of West German Bernd August last month to win the European title and earn the shot at Ali.

"Someone's going to be lucky and catch the greatest fighter of all time on his way down," says Dunn's 72-year-old manager, George Biddies. "I think it will be Richard."

But Ali is already looking past Dunn to his next payday — a guaranteed $6.1 million from an exhibition bout against Japanese wrestler Antonio Inoki June 26 in Tokyo.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Louis O'Neal Named Coach of Yale Team

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Louise O'Neal, Southern Connecticut State College women's basketball coach, has been named coach of Yale University's women's basketball team.

Ms. O'Neal, 37, has been at Southern since 1962. Her team has qualified for all eight National Women's Collegiate Championships, placing third in 1971, 1972 and 1974, fourth in 1975 and seventh this past season.

The native of Fort Worth, Tex., has physical education degrees from North Texas State University and the University of Wisconsin.

Garlits Wins In Atlanta

COMMERCIA, Ga. (AP) — Veteran dragster Don Garlits' 234.8 miles an hour, 6.96 seconds Sunday, led the field of the Dixie National Drag Racing championships at the new Atlanta International Dragway.

Garlits' top time came in semifinals against Pat Dakin of Dayton, Ohio. In Pro Dragster division Paul the Settler, Fla., resident beat Paul Longenecker of Arcamoon, Ohio, with a dash of 1.7 seconds, 235.16 m.p.h.

A crowd estimated at 40,000 turned out despite threatening weather for the $200,000 International Hot Rod Association Winston Challenge event.

Raymond Beaudre of Dallas took his third triumph in four IHRA events this season, edging Ron O'Donnell of Chicago in Funny Car division final.

Jets Stay Cautious About Playoff Wins

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers are guarding carefully against getting overconfident in their World Football League playoffs.

The Oilers' World Cup playoff series with defending champion Houston Oilers.

But after the Jets edged the Oilers 5-4 Sunday night on Bobby Hill's second game-winning field goal, the Oilers' goal is as many games, they're getting harder for the Jets not to start quietly popping champagne bottles.

Track Star Warms Up In Atlanta

Williams Ties Two Sprint Records

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

The 100-meter dash field read like a who's who. Second later, it was Steve Williams, that's who.

Williams was shining in the East, probably one of his rivals in the Olympics, Don Quarrie of Jamaica, was running a 9.9 at the Modesto, Calif., relay, shading Tennessee's Reggie Jones, who got a poor start but rallied to finish in 10 flat.

Two distance runners, Ireland's Eamonn Coghlan and Olympic gold medalist Frank Shorter, took it easy in winning their specialties.

Coghlan, a student at Villanova, captured the 1,500 in 3:48.5 and the 5,000 in 14:28.07 in defending his IGA titles at Philadelphia.

Shorter, who won the marathon at the 1972 Games at Munich, eased his way to a 2:11.51.1 clocking in the Olympic trials at Eugene, Ore.

"It was more like running a 20-mile race, than jogging the last six," said Shorter, 28. "Bill Rodgers (of the Greater Boston Track Club, who finished second) and I really helped each other along."

Finishing third in the 26-mile, 35.5-year event and also qualifying for a trip to Montreal was Don Kardong of Club Northwest.

Also in Eugene, Pep Neppel of Iowa State set an American women's record for 10,000 meters with a 34:17.

In Modesto, shotputter Al Feuerbach edged rival George Woods with a toss of 71 feet, 4 inches, his best in several years and 4 1/2 inches better than Woods. Arnie Robinson won the long jump by soaring 27-3/4, the best in the world this year.

In Atlanta, Dave Roberts just missed breaking his own record of 18-4 1/2 in the pole vault when he twice cleared the bar at 18-7 1/2, but hit the crossbar on his way down.

The King Games also had Evis Jennings of Mississippi State winning the 400 meters in 4:0; Theo Hamilton, unmatched, long jumping 25-7; Florida State's 440-yard relay team lowering their mark to 3:5; Edwin Moses of Morehouse capturing the 400 intermediate hurdles in a meet record 48.3; Tommy Hayes of the U.S. Army setting a meet standard with a 54-4 triple jump; and Steve Foster of the Florida Track Club clipping two seconds off Marty Liqueur's 1500-meter meet record by winning in 3:41.1.

It's Summer School Or Flunk For McTear

PENSACOLA (AP) — Sprinter McTear will flunk his school unless he can work out a student, but he can't help him unless he doesn't come to school, said Douglas Griffith of his school.

Gilbert Ends Victory Draught With Win At Memphis Classic

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A one-time commanding five-shot lead had dwindled to two, but Gilbert ended his victory drought with a triumph in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic.

The stocky, sturdy veteran considered the statement for a moment, smiled and added: "I'm about halfway through the 17th hole, I thought it'd never come again."

It was on that hole in Sunday's final round that Gilbert had to chip in from about 35 feet to save a par and clinch his victory over hopeful Dr. Gil Morgan, a non-practicing optometrist who took his doctorate in Memphis in 1975, followed by a huge, vocal gallery of old friends, classmates and former neighbors.

"My mouth got awful dry," Gilbert said. "It got a lot closer than I wanted it to."

Bill Muncie Victorious LPGA Classic

MIAMI (AP) — After 20 years of racing other people's thunderbolts and winning more than any other player, Bill Muncie has won in a boat of his own.

His victory Sunday in a weather-shortened, season-opening regatta at Miami Marine Stadium may portend tough waters ahead for the unlimited hydroplane racers: Muncie's newly purchased boat is the Atlas Van Lines, which has crossed the finish line more times than any other.

"It's especially gratifying to win a big race like this, one when we haven't had a victory in two long years," Muncie said after accepting the winner's trophy.

"And we're starting out for the first time in over 20 years of racing with the new status of owner-driver," he added, possibly as a warning to the other crews in the fastest form of the sport.

The San Diego, Calif., resident averaged 99.81 miles per hour pushing his boat through the six-lap final section of the mile-and-a-half course in a nook of choppy Biscayne Bay.

It was his 34th career win. He last took home a victory trophy late in a 1973 season. He was national champion in 1972, also beginning that year with a Miami victory.

Tom D'Each of Fair Haven, Mich., was second in Miss U.S. He averaged 87.2 m.p.h. Bill Shumacher of Seattle, Wash., was third in the Olympia Bree and E. Irvin III of nearby Coral Gables was next in the U7.

FSU Faces Auburn In Playoff Game

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Independent Florida State University's Southeastern Conference championship game against Auburn in a winners-bracket game this afternoon in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's South Regional baseball playoffs. Weather permitting.

The 4 p.m. EDT clash had been due Sunday night, but several inches of rain let up only long enough to permit the game to be played Sunday.

The loser of the game between FSU, 40-14, and Auburn, 34-13, meets Jacksonville at 8 p.m. The championship will be played Tuesday.

Jets Stay Cautious About Playoff Wins

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers are guarding carefully against getting overconfident in their World Football League playoffs.

The Oilers' World Cup playoff series with defending champion Houston Oilers.

But after the Jets edged the Oilers 5-4 Sunday night on Bobby Hill's second game-winning field goal, the Oilers' goal is as many games, they're getting harder for the Jets not to start quietly popping champagne bottles.

Widely Wins In Atlanta

COMMERCIA, Ga. (AP) — Veteran dragster Don Garlits' 234.8 miles an hour, 6.96 seconds Sunday, led the field of the Dixie National Drag Racing championships at the new Atlanta International Dragway.

Garlits' top time came in semifinals against Pat Dakin of Dayton, Ohio. In Pro Dragster division Paul the Settler, Fla., resident beat Paul Longenecker of Arcamoon, Ohio, with a dash of 1.7 seconds, 235.16 m.p.h.

A crowd estimated at 40,000 turned out despite threatening weather for the $200,000 International Hot Rod Association Winston Challenge event.

Raymond Beaudre of Dallas took his third triumph in four IHRA events this season, edging Ron O'Donnell of Chicago in Funny Car division final.

Does This Bride Deserve Traditional Wedding?

DEAR ABBY: You are an ignorant woman for giving your approval to a traditional church wedding for a girl who was only six-months pregnant before she was married. Her mother works which would harm no one by realizing her heart's desire.

DEAR ABBY: I am a junior high school teacher. Yesterday I found a crumpled note written by one of my students. It read, "I love you."

DEAR LAUGHING: Enjoy your laugh, but I weep for one who values the opinion of a "revelation society" above the feelings of a bride who would harm no one by realizing her heart's desire.

Inventor Of Mood Ring Ponders Future

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
The Herald Services

NEW YORK — The field of tranquility and calm, Joe Reynolds is impetuous.

"That's because Reynolds is a master of meditation and mind control."

Last August, through his company Q-Tran, Ltd., he introduced the mood stone ring. Not the one you paid $3 for. That's just the problem.

His costs $45. It consists of a dollop of quartz crystal in a sterling silver setting. The stone allegedly monitors your sympathetic nervous system by changing color.

"My sister teaches in Connecticut and she called to say her students had bought my ring. Where did they get the $45. I asked. She said, they only paid $3."

By Christmas, sales had surpassed a million dollars. Celebrities were touting the ring on TV talk shows and everyone but Reynolds was making money.

After college, Reynolds had a successful career in sales at Union Carbide, until he became aware that friends were making a lot more money on Wall Street. So he became a successful broker.

"Then," he says, "I started reading about yogis, warlocks and witches — people who supposedly had control over their internal and external environments and I really took off on it."

He left his Wall Street job, and after further study, hit upon the idea of the mood ring. Without waiting for a patent which is still pending, and heeding his lawyer's advice not to bother copyrighting the logo of the ring, he went ahead.

With minimal capital, poor credit from manufacturers and a sudden "monstrous demand" for the ring, there was no way we were able to fill distribution channels," he explains.

But come spring, Reynolds will be out there again with this heart-shaped mood ring, this time well protected, one assumes.

And there'll be other inspirations. He stares intently at the changing colors of a crystal paperweight on his desk.

Pre-Vacation Fling Luncheon Says 'Hi; Bye'

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Correspondent

Before the scattering of the clan as vacation-time approaches, a group of Sanford women gathered for luncheon at Mayfair Country Club Thursday to say "Hi" and "Bye" while dining superbly in a relaxing atmosphere overlooking the golf course.

It was evident that the group of well-groomed women interrupted several men's games during the luncheon. The clubhouse appeared to be the center of attraction — not the golf course.

The beautifully appointed U-shaped table setting featured a center arrangement of gladioli with multi-hued lilies used as runners. While savoring a variety salad course, the women discussed vacation and plans for the fall season.

Attending the lovely fete were Mrs. William (Edna) Southwell, Mrs. Bill (Edna) Southwell, Mrs. (Vida) Smith, Burch (Carolyn) Cornelius and Phyllis (Ginger) Herdendorf.

Also Mmes. Wilfred (Richard) Conrad, William (Mildred) Stempel, Ralph (Mona) Jarvis.

J.T. (Eloise) Collins, Jack (Virginia) Burney and Harold (Berla) Hall.

Also Mmes. "Speed" (Camille) Moreland, William (Jerri) Kirk, Walter (Bill) Gielow, Woodrow (Vi) Clark, Edward (Martha) Yancey, Phil (Bonnie) Logan and Richard (Joan) Elyam.

Also Mmes. Mason (Sylvia) Wharton, Douglas (Evelyn) Kackler, Robert (Dottie) Kacks, A.C. (Dorothy) McReynolds, Al (Rose) Payne, Boyd (Nettie) Coleman and Carl Dietrich.

Stitch Bouquet With 'Flower Recipes'

My embroidery reflects my love of flowers which I enjoy growing and painting as well as stitching and I'm always distributing them carefully so you know more about how to create specific flowers on linen.

Perhaps some of my own flower "recipes" will be helpful. Remember, these are suggestions — no hard and fast rules. As a matter of fact I often vary the stitches I use on a single tone of color.

The rose with its exquisite shading is a natural candidate for the Long and Short stitch which can duplicate the color subtleties. If you'd like to get some of the petals to "bill" from the linen, work a single line of Spot stitch along the edge of the rose. All are worked from the center toward the outer edge. Interesting color depth can be achieved with a single stitch of a deeper shade inside each Lazy Daisy stitch.

The spiky effect of asters or cornflowers come with many, many stitches, from light to dark. Try stitching the deeper tones first, working gradually toward the lighter and distributing them carefully so you know more about how to create specific flowers on linen.

Goldendrod and yellow yarrow are both lovely in French Knots, the former spaced along individual spikes, the latter closely massed in rounded shapes.

Tulips and pansies can be shaded in Long and Short with some petal edges lifted by hidden Split stitches. Use often will solve color problems in a room where bright or contrasting colors might be a jarring note.

Dear F.R.M., I wouldn't say there are designs especially planned for embroidery in one color but a monochromatic scheme can be very effective. It's particularly good for a beginner who wants to concentrate on perfecting technique. Five shades of a single color in crewel yarn can create a handsome design and often will solve color problems in a room where bright or contrasting colors might be a jarring note.

Dear Elsa, I see very few designs.

E.W.
