Central Florida Regional Hospital marks 5 years of open heart surgery

By Alyce Klein RN
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

SANFORD - Central Florida Regional Hospital has touched the hearts of residents in Seminole, Lake, and West Volusia counties for the past five years through its open heart surgery program.

In celebration, the hospital will hold an open house and health fair to provide an opportunity for the community to witness the latest technology and services available in Sanford and to focus on the program's success.

Since Aug. 9, 1993, more than 1,300 patients have had heart surgery at Central Florida Regional Hospital. Dr. George J. Palmer of Cardiovascular Surgeons in Orlando is the primary heart surgeon operating at the hospital. He has been practicing in the Orlando area since 1995. Dr. Palmer is certified by both the American Board of Surgery and the American Board of Cardiothoracic Surgery.

The mortality rate for Coronary Artery Bypass Graft (CABG) surgeries performed at Central Florida Regional during 1997 was less than one percent. "I believe that the positive outcomes are due to the good teamwork between the excellent physicians, nurses, and ancillary staff that we have working in this hospital," said Steven E. Tarkington RN, MBA, the vice president of Patient Care Services and chief nursing officer. "Patients who come here for a CABG, after having previous surgeries in other hospitals, usually say that they are very pleased with the personalized care they receive here. "I want people to know what is available right here in Sanford," said Tarkington. "Residents of this area shouldn't feel that they have to travel to other cities for their heart surgery when the services are offered here."

Central Florida Regional has two dedicated open heart surgery operating rooms and a 12-bed cardiovascular intensive care unit (CVICU). Ten of the beds on the third floor are designated for patients who have been cared for in the CVICU and still require close monitoring. Nurses who care for these patients receive specialized training, ensuring that the quality of care is high.

The open house and health fair is from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday. Tours of the heart catheterization lab, surgery rooms and recovery areas will be offered, along with blood pressure, body fat and cholesterol screening. At 2 p.m. the hospital chef will provide a 30 minute "heart healthy" cooking class. There will be drawings for prizes such as an American Heart Association cookbook. Nurses and other staff members will be available to answer questions and provide information about services available at Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Nude clubs' attorneys sue - say decency petitions are invalid

By Russ White
HERALD STAFF WRITER

WINTER PARK - Attorneys representing three adult entertainment clubs in Seminole County today announced the details of a lawsuit challenging the validity of a petition drive which forced a Public Decency Ordinance before voters in the November general election.

Jeff Peters, who represents Rachel's Adult Men's Club, Circus Circus and Club Juana said the lawsuit seeks to invalidate the petition measure, with a motion to invalidate certain petitions, because of the number of fraudulent and invalid signatures.

"The pattern of fraud we have discovered so far is typical of the tactics used to get signatures on petitions sponsored by the religious right," Peters said.

The lawsuit seeks to require the Supervisor of Elections Office to conduct a hand count to verify each of the signatures on file instead of relying on the sampling that was done. Peters said that handwriting experts hired by the clubs have determined a clear pattern of fraud and deceit. He has requested the county hire a handwriting expert to be present when the signatures are rechecked.

Earlier, Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard told the Seminole County Citizens for Decency that it needed more signatures. Peters said that the final count was only 255 more than required but that there is evidence many more signatures are invalid.

County Commission Chairman Randy Morris disallowed a protest by attorneys at a public hearing on August 11 as to the validity of the signatures. He told them it was inappropriate at the hearing and would have to be addressed to the Supervisor of Elections Office.

Today's lawsuit is the result of that directive. "We intend to resolve this thing and clear up the fraud," Peters said.

Casselberry Police Chief Gatch retires

By Maria Orem
HERALD STAFF WRITER

CASSELBERRY - After 25 years of service with the city's police department, Chief Durbin Gatch will retire Sept. 11.

The announcement came as no surprise, said Jack Schluckebier, city manager. He had been talking about retiring and the 25 year mark is when many law enforcement agents make that decision. Schluckebier said.

Gatch was instrumental in working to achieve the new police building and many improvements including the DARE program, school resource officers, a bicycle patrol, and community oriented policing. He manages 85 employees including 54 sworn officers. Schluckebier said.

"He will be missed," he said. Gatch, 50, started as a dispatcher in Casselberry and worked his way up through the ranks. In 1990, Gatch was promoted to chief after Fred McGowan retired from the position.

Gatch holds a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from the University of Central Florida and is a graduate of the National FBI Academy in Virginia. Some of his noteworthy awards are the Service Above Self Award from Rotary International, Kiwanis Club of Casselberry Award, Florida Crime Prevention Association President's Award, and the Public Safety Officer of the Year Award from the Greater Seminole Chamber of Commerce.

"It's kind of hard to leave but I had always planned to retire after 25 years," Gatch said. "This is the best place you could work."

African-American community learns about lakefront development

By Marva Hawkins
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

SANFORD - Ministers and citizens of the African-American community gathered this past Saturday for a town meeting to get the real facts and ask questions about the proposed conference center and hotel complex planned for the Sanford lakefront.

Elder Timothy Hudson chaired the three hour session, with Mayor Larry Dale giving all pertinent information concerning the Seminole County regional conference center and hotel. Commissioner Velma Williams also was in attendance.

The Chamber of Commerce, the Seminole County Commission and many community residents have endorsed this project. Some years ago this idea was presented by the citizens advisory board. Proposed are parks, enhanced sports, a boardwalk and fishing pier, and other modern facilities seen in other cities of Seminole County.

For clean family fun, residents learned that the museum will be improved and the civic center will be better. A portion of the 19-acre Fort Mellon Park is what developers will use for the 100,000 square-foot development. Between six and 10 acres of park will remain passive. More than 600 jobs will be offered for those who wish to apply.

Fishing piers will extend into the St. John for those who like to fish along the banks of the St. John River. Riverwalks and boardwalks will give citizens the pleasure of a healthy, beautiful, economically strong

The report was given by Jack Dow, director of operations at the airport.

Optimistic Audrey Odgen is now a governor

The ever optimistic Audrey Odgen of Sanford has been installed as the new Lt. Governor for Zone 11 of the Optimist Club of Florida.

Odgen was pinned by former District Gov. Dale Coppock recently at the North Florida District Convention in St. Petersburg.

Odgen said that although it looks like Coppock was trying to pin her on the chin, he was actually aiming for a portion of her spirited frock. She was optimistic he would accomplish the task without incident.

Sanford Optimist Bob Howe received the Optimist International Award for the person in a club who, over many years, best portrays the ideals of Optimism. Howe is a former president of the Sanford Optimists.

The Sanford group is now preparing for its annual Festival of the Bands, which this year will be held at the new Winter Springs High School. Each of the high school bands

Boyer is missed

The absolutely suave actor Charles Boyer was born on Aug. 28, 1889 in Figeac, France. He died in 1978 and really hasn't been replaced in the movies quite so smart. Macaulay Culkin certainly isn't the answer.

Cohen fishing

Secretary of Defense William Cohen is 58 today. We hope he takes the day off and orders no air strikes. Actor/dancer Donald O'Connor is 73 and ice skater Scotty Hamilton is 40. These fellows sure have plenty of grace, style and spunk. Actor David Soul - call him Hutch - is 52 and actress Emma Samms is 38. If she married Soul, she would be Emma Samms Soul. Actor Ben Gazzara is 68 and running for his life.

Documentary traces the history of Gorrie

Inventor of air conditioning featured in FPBS video

Special to the Herald

TALLAHASSEE - Commissioner of Education Frank T. Brogan recently announced the release of a TV documentary, "How Florida Got Cool" produced by the Florida Public Broadcasting Service (FPBS).

The documentary traces the life and inventions of John Gorrie, an obscure 19th Century physician and inventor who lived in Apalachicola. Gorrie is known as the "father" of modern refrigeration and air conditioning.

The video was produced for the Department to augment classroom activities in Florida history. These history requirements are part of the Sunshine State Standards for Florida public schools.

Commissioner Brogan believes this documentary will be an important addition to classrooms-and is sending copies to 1,400 Florida public and private middle and high schools, and Florida history museums and libraries next week.

"What students are going to see is a true story about a great Floridian, an outstanding civic leader and a great humanitarian. Gorrie's inventions have made a colossal impact on our lives and the lives of people throughout the world," said Brogan.

"How Florida Got Cool" will be shown on many of Florida's public television stations over the next several months. Dr. David Colburn, University of Florida's Vice Provost, History Professor, and Executive Director of the Askew Institute introduces the documentary for public television viewing. He talks briefly about why Florida history can be important to us today.

The "John Gorrie" video is part of a long range project, a Florida History TV documentary series being produced by FPBS, "The Florida Story," a series that traces Florida's history for the past 500 years. The Department of Education, along with the Department of State, is helping to partially fund the series. Foundation funding and private donations are being raised by FPBS. Plans are to premier the series, "The Florida Story," in the fall of 2000.

"To learn more about this interesting project, I suggest you visit the 'Florida Story' website at www.floridastory.com," explains Commission Brogan. "I invite middle school and high school students to participate in this website by submitting their writings about Florida history topics that interest them. If their writings are selected, they will be published on the 'Florida Story' website."

Grand theft

Timothy H. Kavanaugh, 33, of 104 Kaywood, Sanford, was arrested by deputies Monday, in connection with the reported theft of over $300 in items from a residence in the 300 block of Lake Boulevard on Aug. 3. He was located at his residence and arrested on a charge of grand theft of property.

According to the arrest report, on Aug. 18, members of the City/County Investigative Bureau (CCIB) responded to her residence regarding possible drug activities. She was charged with possession of a controlled substance and possession/use of drug paraphernalia.

The report said when Sanford police went to her residence Monday, she refused to allow them in and became involved in an altercation. When she was finally apprehended, police charged her with resisting/obstructing/opposing an officer without violence, aggravated assault, and resisting an officer with violence.

Dow reported that during the past three months, there has been a substantial decrease in noise complaints.

He suspected two reasons: (1) a certain degree of frustration on the part of the population to call in, or (2) departing commercial aircraft are now getting higher altitudes, from 3,000 to 5,000 feet, about 70 percent of the time, instead of the former 2,000-foot hold.

Gatch said he was grateful for the city's support through the years in giving his department what was needed.

"It's been a great working relationship and the citizens have always been supportive," he said. "I was trying to put my brand of leadership on the department with help from many great people in the community."

Gatch said he is satisfied with the achievements and growth of the police department, introducing and implementing the community policing concept was one of his main goals.

"My objective was to try to make us a premier law enforcement agency that citizens could depend on and I feel we have accomplished that," he said. "You want to go out when you feel on top."

Gatch said he plans to remain in Seminole County with his family and pursue several options including teaching and mentoring law enforcement agents or consulting.

Cpt. Jim Ruf will be the acting chief until a replacement is appointed. The selection process is expected to take up to three months.

Booming opportunity for scam artists

Recent news reports of booming financial markets have also created a booming opportunity for scam artists to take advantage of naive investors. Among the schemes currently in vogue are those involving so-called "foreign currency trading." Although foreign currency trading is regulated by the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC), the Florida Comptroller's Hotline has noted a significant increase in consumer calls regarding these scams.

Foreign currency future contracts may be legitimately traded either on a recognized future exchange or in the "interbank market." These generally involve trading between large institutions such as banks and corporations, rather than individual or retail customers.

While much foreign currency trading is legitimate, many scams try to attract customers by touting highly-paid employment opportunities or high-return, low-risk investment opportunities in foreign currency trading.

If you are considering trading in foreign currency, answer these questions before you jump in with your cash:

- 1. Do you know anything about futures trading?
Futures trading is risky business. It is for those who are wary when it comes to their investments. Currency futures markets are volatile and offer substantial risks for the unsophisticated. Trading "on margin" can make you responsible for losses that greatly exceed your initial investment. Beware of anyone who promises you a certain return on your money from currency futures trading.
- 2. Do you know who you are dealing with?
Find out whether the people who want to do business with you are legitimate. Don't do business with anyone who won't identify themselves and their background. You should call the National Futures Association at (800) 621-3570 to ask whether the company and the individuals who work for it are registered with the NFA. Call the CFTC at (202) 418-5320 to ask whether there is a disciplinary history and current or prior legal judgments.
- 3. Does the "opportunity" sound too good to be true?
If the deal sounds too good to be true, it generally is. Scammers appeal to greed, and get-rich-quick schemes tend to be frauds. Do not be taken in by false promises of easy money.
- 4. Have you been "guaranteed" large, quick profits with no risk?
Anyone who tells you there is no risk in currency trading is lying to you. Beware of any person who says things like: "Whether the market moves up or down, in the currency market you will make a profit."
"We guarantee you will make at least a 30-40 percent rate of return within 2 months."
- 5. Is the "opportunity" specially aimed at your ethnic community?
Recent currency trading scams have focused on various immigrant communities with strong economic ties to their home countries. In particular, scams aimed by Russian, Indian, and Chinese ethnic communities have prominent job opportunities as "account executives" in foreign currency trading. These "jobs" are only a lure to separate the unsuspecting from their cash.

Keep on singing

DEAR ABBY: In our society, many people listen to music, but so few seem to appreciate the joy and other benefits of singing. When I was in Italy, I heard a group of men on a public bus break into song.

Many of my students have thought they were tone-deaf because someone told them so when they sang off-key as children. Thereafter, they felt discouraged and afraid to sing. Thus they were deprived of years of the natural freedom found in expressing their joy through song. Nobody who can speak normally is tone-deaf, and no one should tell a child that he is.

Parents should encourage children to sing, and should sing to them. Some of my sweetest memories are of my mother singing to me. She even made up songs for us. Pets love to hear their masters sing, too.

The Bible admonishes us to sing. It says, "Make a joyful noise unto the Lord." You don't have to be an expert or even sing in tune. Singing, like laughter, can be healing.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

To paraphrase a verse I've seen in your column:
"Richer than I you will never be,
"For I had a mother who sang to me."

RALPH EMERSON, TACOMA, WASH.

DEAR RALPH: I agree that singing frees the anchored spirit, and the performance doesn't have to be of Carnegie Hall quality. To discourage anyone from giving voice to his or her emotions is hard-hearted.

Elect JACK GRIESBAUM FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

The 18th Judicial Circuit Court Judge serves Seminole & Brevard Counties. Florida Today Newspaper endorses JACK GRIESBAUM

Griesbaum is our choice for circuit judge position

The upcoming retirement of Circuit Judge Larry Johnston sparked a three-way judicial race that pits a veteran prosecutor against a county court judge and an experienced local attorney. All three candidates—Jack Griesbaum, current County Court Judge Philip Fougereousse, Jack Griesbaum and George W. Maxwell, III—know their way around a courtroom, but Griesbaum's extensive and diverse legal background makes him the clear choice for circuit court judge in the Group 9 race.

"Fifty percent of the trial work in circuit court is criminal work, which can involve extraordinarily complex issues," Griesbaum said. "I have the experience to deal with those issues."

Griesbaum learned about serious responsibilities early in life by serving seven years as a technician in the U.S. Navy's nuclear submarine program. That experience prepared him to be both methodical and thorough in solving problems, especially when there is little room for error.

"Knowing your job and performing it well were trademarks of submarine life because people's lives were on the line," Griesbaum said. "This is not unlike serving as a circuit court judge, where a person's property, liberty and, in the case of a death penalty, their very lives are at stake."

After leaving the Navy, Griesbaum attended college and law school in Texas, and later worked as an attorney for the U.S. Coast Guard and U.S. Customs Service and in private civil practice.

He also worked for the Public Defender's Office in Brevard County, and spent 13 years as a prosecutor with the local State Attorney's Office, where he was chief of the Felony Division.

Earlier this year, he resigned from that office to run for the circuit judge seat. Griesbaum has prosecuted hundreds of serious cases, including dozens of murder cases, and is very familiar with the intricacies of related case law. And he has promised that his rulings as a circuit court judge will include justice for crime victims, not just the criminals.

"As an assistant state attorney for the past 13 years, I have always fought hard for justice for crime victims," Griesbaum said.

Being a good judge requires more than merely handing down appropriate decisions from the bench, Griesbaum pointed out. It also involves being active in the community and proactive in helping prevent crime.

"I would get out and talk to kids, use innovative sentencing such as community service and monitoring," he said. "The whole point is to get kids not to come back (into court)."

Griesbaum has served as president of the Titusville Sunrise Rotary and as program chairman of Leadership Brevard. He currently is vice chairman of the Civilian Military Council and the Devereux Foundation, and active in several other organizations.

That extensive involvement in the community is a valuable supplement to his legal experience in preparing Griesbaum for the bench in the 18th Judicial Circuit. For their part, Fougereousse and Maxwell are well-spoken and personable candidates, but they have less experience than the prosecutor in trying felony cases. Griesbaum's experience and expertise give him a clear edge over his opponents in that regard.

Florida Today strongly recommends the election of Jack Griesbaum to the circuit court.

Extra Points...

Russ White

Herald Staff Writer

Why did we treat Roger Maris as if he were a villain?

SANFORD Roger Maris was regarded as a villain when he broke Babe Ruth's home run record 37 years ago. He wasn't the player who was supposed to move over the Babe. Mickey Mantle was the people's choice. Maris was nobody's favorite. Nobody's hero. It was a dreadful experience for him. He would be jeered not cheered even at Yankee Stadium. Maris wasn't Mantle and everyone let him know it. But he kept hitting home runs and the numbers were known throughout the nation.

Sixty. And then Sixty-one. Maris made headlines but then again so did John Dillinger and Al Capone. Roger hadn't robbed or killed anyone. He merely hit one more home run in a single season than Babe Ruth hit in 1927. Took him a few more games - maybe that was his crime.

The most miserable part of his ordeal, Maris would say, was dealing with the three dozen or so media people who monitored his play on a daily basis. The New York writers were joined by a few columnists from other cities.

The radio/TV corps increased by season's end but there was no ESPN or cable coverage in those days. It must have seemed like it, though, to poor Roger.

Maris is gone now but his widow and two sons are watching as a trio of sluggers are making a run at the 61-home run record. Mrs. Maris said she will not be sad to see Roger's record broken. She wishes Mark McGwire, Sammy Sosa, Ken Griffey, Jr. and all the others good luck in their pursuit of her husband's record.

McGwire has 54 and Sosa has 52 on the doorstep of September. It is more than likely one if not both will surpass 61 home runs for the season. Both are hitting well and are being extended fan support both at home and on the road. McGwire was grateful for the fans who cheered for him in Pittsburgh last week. He's a god at home and so is Sosa at Wrigley Field.

Although he says he is tired of seeing his mug on TV and in newspapers, McGwire is not letting his record home run chase affect him as it did Maris, who lost sleep and had his hair fall out in 1961.

No, this won't happen to the big redhead who may get annoyed but not overcome by the attention.

Sosa is a high-spirited sort who actually seems to enjoy the whole thing.

Griffey, the son of a big-leaguer, is no stranger to the media. He isn't about to be knocked off kilter. The other night he was laughing himself silly when Seattle Manager Lou Piniella was kicking his cap around the infield after an umpire ruled a runner had gone out of the baselines.

Junior's handling everything well. He's behind McGwire and Sosa now but watch out. He may have three in his next game.

McGwire has hit 50 or more home runs for three consecutive seasons, a remarkable slugging accomplishment. He's managed to stay healthy this year and asked for a night off here and there to make sure he retains his stamina. If the pitchers pitch to him, he's going to send another dozen balls out of the park. He's going to be the new home run champion.

In the meantime, perhaps baseball people will realize the talents and accomplishments of Roger Maris. How can they ignore his home run record when they reap all the attention on those who are chasing it?

Roger Maris was a marvelous baseball player who was the game's most valuable player in 1960 and 1961. He was a very gifted rightfielder who threw well. He was a hard-posed and savvy baserunner.

The fact Roger Maris wasn't the life of the party has been overplayed too long. The fact is he was the party. He was the man who hit more home runs than the Babe. He is the one who did not fade away in September. Roger came to play everyday. He should be in the Hall of Fame. He should be a fan favorite. Roger Maris gave more than he received. If only we could tell him.

Prep football begins with Kickoff Classics tonight

By Dean Smith
HERALD SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD The games mean nothing. The results don't count on the team record. The game statistics don't count toward the season team or individual totals. The money the fans pay to see the game doesn't even go to the schools. But for the players, it sure will be fun to hit somebody different.

This is a night players and coaches have been looking forward to since practice began. For three weeks the players have been going through drill after drill in almost unbearable heat and all they could do was beat up on their own teammates.

But that all changes tonight as the seven Seminole Athletic Conference varsity football teams will get their first inter-scholastic action of the fall when they take part in five "Kickoff Classics."

The Kickoff Classics were started as a way for the FHSAA (Florida High School Activities Association) to raise money for its own coffers and replaces the old jamborees, that, in all honesty, probably did not do the schools involved much good as far as getting ready for the regular season.

And while, as previously mentioned, the games don't count, the matchups are interesting.

Cypress Creek at Winter Springs, 7:30 p.m. - This will be Winter Springs' first varsity game and it will be a tough one as Cypress Creek has been one of the better programs in Orlando. Winter Springs is led by quarterback Brandon Blake, the younger, but bigger physically, brother of Cincinnati Bengals signal caller Jeff Blake.

Lake Brantley at Lake Mary, 7 p.m. - Lake Brantley is hoping to get off to a fast start as they try to bounce back from an off-season and a loss to the Rams in last year's classic. Lake Mary will be making its first appearance under new coach Greg Stanton (who has never had a team finish worse than 6-4) and hope to make an impression despite being low on numbers.

Lyman at Lake Howell, 7 p.m. - Lyman has had a very good preseason of practice and the Greyhounds are confident that they can have a good season. Lake Howell has a renewed enthusiasm and the Silver Hawks are considered a definite threat for post-season play despite coming off a very uncharacteristic 3-7 season.

DeLand at Seminole, 7 p.m. - If you have been around Sanford very long, you know what this matchup means.

For years and years, these two teams have been among the best in Central Florida, and they don't like each other. Some of the luster is gone because the schools are no longer in the same district, but it is still DeLand-Seminole.

DeLand was the champion of their district last year, while Seminole was a district runner-up. Both figure to be very good again, with whispers of a possible state championship entering some conversation.

Oviedo at Edgewater, 7:30 p.m. - Edgewater is coming off a 5-5 season and had one of its stars as a freshman, Kevin Houston, transfer back from North Carolina. The Eagles, who are always athletic, also have more speed than in the past.

The Lions went 6-4 last year and defeated Dr. Phillips in the first round of the state playoffs. With 13 starters returning and a lot of momentum gained from the post-season appearance, they figure to battle DeLand and Lake Howell for the district championship.

COMING THIS WEEKEND

SANFORD With all due respect to the strong football programs at Seminole and Oviedo high schools, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks (above) let everyone know who they think will be No. 1 in the Seminole Athletic Conference this year. Look for all of the predictions and schedules when Football 1998 appears in the Weekend Seminole Herald.

Kuchar rolls into quarters

By Dean Smith
HERALD SPORTS EDITOR

ROCHESTER, N.Y. - The stature of professional golfer could be on display today in the 1998 U.S. Amateur Golf Championship on Oak Hill's East Course.

Lake Mary's Matt Kuchar, the defending U.S. Amateur Champion, and Sergio Garcia, the British Amateur Champion, will meet in the quarterfinals after easily disposing of a pair of opponents in match play on Thursday.

Kuchar has yet to play past the 15th hole in three matches, whipping both Matt Saglio and Bert Atkinson by identical 6-and-5 scores.

In his three matches Kuchar has won 23 of 26 holes played.

Garcia, who fellow Spaniard Seve Ballesteros calls the future of European golf, defeated Chip Travis, 3-and-1, and Danny Green, 3-and-2.

While most figure that the winner of today's match will claim the trophy, Kuchar said not to forget his Georgia Tech teammate, Bryce Molder.

Molder was honored by the NCAA as the top college player in the country this past season as a freshman.

In addition to the Kuchar-Garcia match, also on today's schedule are Molder vs. Hank Kuehne, Tom McKnight vs. Sean Knapp, and Bill Lundie vs. Landry Mahan.

Portions of today's quarterfinals can be seen on ESPN at 3 p.m., with Saturday's semifinals on WESH Channel 2 at 2 p.m. and Sunday's 36-hole final on WESH at 4 p.m.

Surge edged in MLRH finals

By Dean Smith
HERALD SPORTS EDITOR

ANAHEIM, CA. - For the third time this season, the Orlando Surge and Anaheim Bullfrogs played an outstanding contest that was not decided until the final horn.

Unfortunately for local fans, the Surge came out on the short end as the Bullfrogs won their third title of the '90's, taking their first Major League Roller Hockey crown, 5-4, Wednesday night before 7,158 fans at the Arrowhead Pond.

Anaheim, which split a pair of regular season overtime games with the Surge, won Roller Hockey International (RHI) championships in 1993 and 1997.

Bill Lund, the tournament's Most Valuable Player, gave the Bullfrogs a quick 1-0 lead when he scored 25-seconds into the game. The home team eventually built a 2-0 lead in the first period and Orlando could never recover.

The Surge was hurt when captain Kyle Reeves was ejected 3:42 into the second quarter after being penalized for a high stick and then arguing with the official.

Anaheim (22-0-1), which led 5-1 in the second period, held on behind goalie Rob Laurie, who stopped a break-away attempt by Alan Alepin with 7:23 left and caught a Jocelyn Langlois blast between his legs with 2:02 remaining.

Jaguars impressive in thumping Cowboys

By Jeff Berliniche
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

JACKSONVILLE - The Jacksonville Jaguars had their final dress rehearsal of the 1998 season Thursday night before a packed house at Alltel Stadium and a national television audience.

The reviews were spectacular. Two thumbs up as the Jaguars routed the Dallas Cowboys, 42-20, as the pre-season came to a merciful end.

Jacksonville coach Tom Coughlin had plenty of questions going into last night's game and came away with an even bigger one.

What in the world do you do with Tavian Banks?

Banks was the Jaguars' fourth-round pick in the 1998 draft. Jacksonville needed some serious help in the running game and took Fred Taylor out of Florida in the first-round and Taylor was supposed to vie with standby James Stewart for the starting tailback position.

Stewart didn't do anything to hurt himself last night with a strong effort. He led the race going into the game and will start in next Sunday's opener at Chicago.

But it was Banks that stole the show and, perhaps, more playing time than Coughlin or anyone else could have expected.

Banks was taken as an explosive pass-catching back to take over on third-down situations. Instead, he may have played himself into a much larger role.

Banks ran for two touchdowns, and his tackle-slipping 14-yard run in the fourth quarter, which finished with Banks hurdling to defensive backs, was the play of the pre-season.

Banks has three touchdowns so far, including a 59-yard yard jaunt that would have been the longest run in team history if it had come in the regular season.

The trio of Stewart, Taylor and Banks claim to be good friends off the field, but the struggle for playing time just became more intense, although Banks says he'll be happy with whatever role Coughlin gives him.

"I'm just trying to fit in wherever I'm needed," Banks said. "I'm not ready to be the main man yet. I just want to do whatever it takes."

Banks wasn't the only Jaguar to stand out. Back-up quarterbacks Jonathon Quinn and Jaime Martin solidified their positions on the team after the release of Steve Matthews Tuesday.

Martin fired his first incomplete pass of the summer, but still looked sharp and Quinn appeared to have overcome his pre-season jitters.

Coughlin was happy that his team finally played four quarters of football, especially after blowing a big lead last week at Kansas City.

"The difference was that we went out and just won the game," Coughlin said. "Last week we were in the same position, but tonight (Thursday) we got production."

It didn't start out well for the Jaguars.

On the second play from scrimmage, starting quarterback Mark Brunell had a pass tipped then intercepted and returned for a 22-yard touchdown by Darren Cookley.

Before the CBS cameras even got warmed up, it was 7-0, Dallas.

Jacksonville got it right the next drive when a Brunell to Jimmy Smith seven-yard touchdown pass capped an eight-play, 80-yard drive to tie the score.

How to get married right, the first time

By Wayne Harvey, Pastor
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF SANFORD

Of all the reasons to get married, love has to be one of the poorest ones. What you read in romance novels and see in soap operas isn't real life. Someone has said, "Love is an ideal thing, marriage is a real thing; a confusion of the real with the ideal never goes unpunished." But if you ask most people why they married, they will probably say because they were in love. But on a lot of kitchen walls I've seen the plain wisdom of some married person who said, "Kissin' don't last; cookin' do."

People go into marriage with all sorts of expectations. Some go with the idea of "I'll do it for you." Some want only someone who will make them look good. Others marry for security, sex or social status.

But how, who and why should a Christian marry? Listen to these important biblical principles about marriage that you need to follow if you plan to marry.

Make Christ the third member of your marriage

Having a third member of your marriage is about as much fun as a toothache. But the idea of a marriage of three is biblical. The Bible says that a husband and a wife should "submit to one another out of reverence for Christ" (21). A couple who are devoted to Christ as a member of their marriage will never be alone. Christ will always be present.

The Christian should go into marriage with the idea, "What can I put into this marriage for the person I'm going to marry?" This is the Lord's reason to marry; marriage allows you to "submit yourselves to one another, because of your reverence for Christ."

Learn real love first

What is love? Real, lasting love—the kind you need to keep a marriage going for life—isn't just a romantic, giddy feeling that makes your toes tingle. It's much more than that. This is the way the Bible describes love:

Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. It is not rude, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres. Love never fails. (1 Corinthians 13:4-8a)

The ingredients of this kind of love are rare: respect, honor, patience, unselfishness, submission and unity in Christ. If these words don't describe you, don't get married! If you go into marriage with the idea that you can get out of it if it doesn't work, forget it. If you think, "I'll change him after we're married," don't fool yourself. Build your life on these Christian principles before you plan to marry. And if the person you plan to marry doesn't have these traits, put off your marriage until you both can understand what kind of serious, lasting love is needed to make a good marriage.

Real love is the kind that comes from the heart of Christ and from the Christian who loves him. It endures when all other kinds of love fail. It's the only kind of love you need in your marriage.

Marry for the right reason

There are plenty of reasons to be married, most of them probably wrong. Before you marry, you should ask yourself: "Why do I want to get married?" Before you marry, you should be ready. Be a mature person before you marry. Most of the marriage counseling I've done through the years has been over petty issues that never should have become issues at all.

Be independent of your parents before you marry. God said in the story of Creation that "a man will leave his father and mother and be united to his wife." (Gen. 2:24). When you marry, keep a good relationship with your parents but don't cause or let them intrude in your marriage to solve problems that you should be prepared to take care of.

God's idea of marriage is an exclusive relationship between a man and a woman for life. If you go into marriage with ideals any lower, you should stay single. Look carefully at your goals for your marriage. If they don't fit with the Bible's goals for marriage, put off your wedding until you can meet these ideals.

Marry the right person

Who's the right person to marry? That's a question that a lot of people are asking!

Here are some more serious questions to ask about the person you want to marry. Do I like him? Does she show people respect? Is he polite? friendly? stable? honest? jealous? patient? Does she get along with people? Do I like his friends? Does my family like her? Do we share similar values? Do we have similar goals for life? Do we share a similar commitment to Jesus Christ as head of our lives?

That last characteristic is the most important of all: a shared faith. God says in his Word, "Do not be yoked together with unbelievers" (2 Corinthians 6:14). Why? Because in the important matters of life, especially marriage, the sincere Christian will look at those matters from a very different point of view, one in the light of Christ. A non-Christian will see by the light of the world instead. My own parents are a good example of being unequally yoked. Throughout their marriage, my mother was a dedicated Christian; my father was not and never attended church. They were married to twelve years before they divorced and during those years they had little in common. My mother was no super-saint but she judged most things in light of whether they pleased the Lord. But my father, even though he was a good man who never tried to keep us from church, had a different orientation to everything. Those two orientations weren't compatible. Christ demands total submission and won't accept any other thing or person as equal to him.

Marriage puts two people together in the deepest of human relationships. A marriage that is otherwise beautiful will have a basic flaw if both partners aren't of the same faith. Such a couple may share many wonderful experiences but the most important, one's spiritual experience, will leave an empty hole for the Christian.

Put Christ in charge of yourself and of your marriage so that you please him first, not yourself, not even the person you are married to. Be sure that you let God lead you to a person with whom God would be pleased for you to marry. Pray and seek his guidance and will. That's the way to get married right the first time and only time!

Leukoplakia may come and go

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband is a heavy drinker and smoker. Four years ago, he was told he had leukoplakia around his larynx. Now another doctor says he sees no sign of it. Where did it go? He has a horrible cough, choking spells and tires easily, but because there is no leukoplakia and his chest X-ray is OK, he thinks he is fine. Please give me your opinion.

DEAR READER: Leukoplakia are whitish precancerous plaques that form on the lining of the mouth and upper respiratory tract. They are common in smokers. They may come and go, enlarge, change or disappear.

Your husband must have an active fantasy life if he thinks he is "fine." The combination of cough, easy fatigue and previous leukoplakia in a smoker and drinker is enough to give most doctors the willies. Aside from the usual health problems associated with tobacco and alcohol, people who smoke and drink excessively have several times the normal rate of throat cancer. Even with a normal chest X-ray, your husband had better clean up his act before it's too late.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What causes a person's stools to smell rotten? I've changed my diet and done everything I can to improve the smell of my bowel movements, but nothing works. This really bothers me.

DEAR READER: Fecal matter is SUPPOSED to smell bad. It consists of body waste and bacteria. Nature designed our systems to be repelled by waste products that we shouldn't consume. If your stools smelled good (to you), you would grow compound eyes and wings, and fly around looking for a convenient pile of manure to lay your eggs in. Honestly, some people! If you hadn't included a name and address with your letter, I would have considered it to be a hoax.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a friend who swears by a vacuum pump used for impotence. Does it work?

DEAR READER: At least for your friend it does. Vacuum pumps are widely recognized to help impotence. Nonetheless, many men find these devices to be cumbersome and "artificial"; pumps may detract from the spontaneity of sexual expression.

On the plus side, they are safe and do not involve medication. Therefore, I recommend them for those men who are helped by them. Follow the manufacturer's directions. If the pump doesn't meet your needs, consider one of the newer anti-impotence medications, such as Viagra.

To give you more information, I am sending you my new and completely updated Health Report on "Impotence." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

enlargement, with few (if any) side effects. While it is generally less effective than prescription drugs, many consumers have experienced improvement from it. Try it if you like — but check with your doctor first.

Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a prostate problem that has not been helped by Proscar or Hytrin. I want to try saw palmetto. Any problem with this?

DEAR READER: Not in my opinion. This herbal remedy has been shown to reduce the symptoms of prostate

Ballerinas enjoy an edge

By Phillip Alder

In today's deal, the defenders have to be on their toes to defeat four spades. How should the play go after West has led his fourth-highest heart?

South made a weak jump overall, which showed a good six-card suit and some 6-10 high-card points. West raised pre-emptively to four hearts, hoping for the best. North bid four spades, of course.

East wins the first trick with the heart king. As the dummy is so strong, East knows his partner has bid with a weak hand. So, he will probably have five-card support. (With 10 trumps, bid to the 10-trick level.) If so, East can see only three defensive tricks: one heart and two diamonds. Where is number four? It will have to come from clubs. So, East should switch to the club three (or jack) at trick two, playing partner for king-third or -fourth.

Declarer cannot do better than win in the dummy, draw trumps, and take a diamond finesse. But East wins with the queen and returns another club. Finally, when East gets in with the diamond ace, he can cash a club trick to defeat the contract.

Note that if East leads the heart ace at trick two, South gets home. He ruffs, draws trumps, and takes the diamond finesse. East may win and switch to clubs, but it is too late. Declarer wins in the dummy and drives out the diamond ace. Then, on dummy's final diamond, South discards his club loser. His 10 tricks are six spades, two diamonds and two clubs.

When defending, count the tricks you have coming. If the total is insufficient, ask where the extra(s) may come from.

HOROSCOPE

Your Birthday

Saturday, Aug. 29, 1998

There's a good chance you could become involved in two separate enterprises in the year ahead. Though both may be small, each possesses expansive possibilities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Emotions in the home are likely to be intense today. It's wise to make minor concessions rather than locking horns with your family. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You're not the type of person who holds things in, but today you might do so and be moody as a result. In the long run, it's best to voice what's bothering you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If friends plan something you cannot afford today, don't be hesitant about letting others know your position.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be careful not to be cool to the wrong people today, or your reputation and dignity could suffer. Keep your head at all times.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's best to begin with well-constructed plans today, or you may find yourself in a pickle later on.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Though you may make progress in an important situation today, keep your hopes and expectations within reasonable bounds. Don't jump the gun or start to run until you're ready.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) It won't enhance your reputation if you behave stubbornly today. Your downfall could begin because you refuse to see another's point of view.

ANIES (March 21-April 19)

Don't spread yourself too thin today by attempting to take on a number of projects simultaneously. This could result in more aggravation than accomplishment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't be wasteful with resources entrusted to you by others today. Treat their funds or possessions as if they were your own.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If conditions at home aren't as harmonious as they should be today, ask yourself honestly if you could be the primary cause. The answer might surprise you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Social interests might be uppermost in your mind today, and this may cause you to perform poorly where your work is concerned. You can do one or the other well, but not both at the same time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have good earning potential today, but there's a possibility you'll waste more than you'll accumulate. Reverse this trend before it gets out of control.
