Home Sales Rocket; Mortgage Rates Dive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The housing industry has received a double dose of good news — sales of new single-family homes posted a record increase for May and mortgage interest rates had a record decline from early May to early June. The government said Wednesday home sales increased 39.4 percent in May, and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported the interest rate on a conventional loan for a single home fell for the first time in more than three years to 13.16 percent in June. The board's statistics tend to lag behind the marketplace, and some lenders are now offering mortgages at slightly above 12 percent. If the trends continue, it could mean a resurgence in home building that would put people back to work. The drop in mortgage rates marked the first time they have fallen since April 1977. "There's a very strong possibility we will see another major drop next month," predicted Bob Sheehan, director of economic research for the National Association of Homebuilders. "This shows that we're beginning to come out of it. But euphoria is still a way away." Butler attributed the resurgence in sales to the declining mortgage rates, which he said reduced the average monthly payments on a $60,000, 30-year loan by almost $200.

I'LL GET YOU, MISTER
 Harry Duncan of 2416 Key Ave., Sanford, was unaware of the impending "attack" by this Redwing Blackbird as he headed for the county-courthouse's N. Park Avenue entrance...

HEY, WHAT GOES HERE?
 Duncan realizes the blackbird's up to no good, and decides to retreat to Sanford City Hall parking lot...

OUCH
 Too late! The blackbird made good his attack and gave Duncan two stolid pecks to the back of the head.

I'M GETTIN' OUT OF HERE
 Convinced the blackbird isn't kidding around, Duncan beats a hasty retreat for the safety of his car in city hall parking lot, while the bird returned to his outpost atop a palm tree and wuffed for his next victim.

A Trip To Sanford City Hall Is Strictly For The Birds

For several days now visitors to Sanford City Hall and the N. Park Avenue entrance to the county courthouse have been under siege by a Redwing Blackbird who selects his victims then swoop down and pecks them soundly on the head. Speculation is the bird is protecting a nest hidden somewhere in the bushes in city hall parking lot. The sly bird generally is perched atop several palm trees fronting the west entrance to the courthouse and can be readily heard as it sings out constantly. But, as soon as someone walks in the vicinity of the parking lot bushes, the bird goes silent, then a few seconds later speedily wings its way toward the human intruder and begins pecking away until his surprised victim waves his arms frantically. Even at that, the bird generally only flies off a short distance to rest atop a palm tree in the vicinity of the parking lot bushes as possible. Once the intruder is a safe distance from the bushes, the blackbird returns to its palm tree outpost and the loud chirping resumes. What can be done to stop the attacks? Not much, say animal control officials. Especially since the bird is protected by federal and state laws, according to Marcia Kuntz of the Florida Audubon Society's Maitland office. She explains the Redwing Blackbird can be aggressive in protecting a nest the three or four weeks it takes the eggs to hatch and before the fledglings fly away. She pointed out the birds do not ordinarily nest in areas such as parking lots, but in marshy areas among cattails and reeds. The male of the species is black with distinguishing red feathers on its wings, while the female is a duller brownish color. She suggests those under attack by the overzealous bird wave whatever they have in their hands to scare it away. "There's not much else you can do, catching it is impossible, and shooting is illegal as the bird is protected by state and federal laws," she added.

Mental Health Board Mulls McClanahan Case Options

The Seminole County Mental Health Center Inc. may or may not consider approving or rejecting a decision by a grievance committee this week upholding the center's new director in firing Personnel Director, A.A. "Mac" McClanahan. If the center does not consider the action or upholds the firing by new Director Dr. George Lindenfeld, the issue could end up in court. A.A. McClanahan Jr., attorney for his father, said today: "My father's integrity has been attacked. The failure of the grievance committee to make findings or give a rationale for upholding the firing leaves a frontal assault on my father's integrity, something we will not allow to remain unchallenged." The decision by the center's board of directors on whether to consider the matter at its July 24 meeting may hinge on an opinion from attorney Bill Fernandez, described by board member Tom Bowers as legal counsel for the board, is also a member of the board of directors, in charge of its finance committee, and chaired the grievance committee hearing. Bowers said today Fernandez will be asked for an interpretation of the center's bylaws to determine on whether the board has to take any action on the grievance committee's report. Fernandez earlier this week said he is not the center's legal counsel and that the center has no legal counsel. He was not available for a comment today. Two weeks ago, after being on the job 2½ days, Dr. Lindenfeld fired McClanahan for attempting to tape record a staff meeting, saying it was unethical conduct. McClanahan said he attempted to tape the meeting at the request of a secretary who normally takes minutes of the meetings. The tape was also to be used and to give other staff members an opportunity to hear the views of the director and the policy statements he was to make. McClanahan said there were only 30 staff members of the center's 83 employees at the staff meeting. The meeting was in fact no taped, McClanahan said because he set the recorder on rewind rather than record. Lindenfeld said the taping should not have been attempted without his prior permission and the attempted taping violated the center's code of ethics. McClanahan demanded a hearing before a grievance committee. At a hearing before the grievance committee Tuesday night, the public and press were barred even though McClanahan had asked that the gathering be open. McClanahan Jr. said the public and press had been assured the meeting would be open. He added that his father has requested the presence of seven or eight witnesses in accordance with the center's personnel manual, but only one showed up. "A person or persons working at the center told the others they did not have to attend," he said. He added that the grievance committee was asked to place all witnesses under oath, but the committee refrained from requiring the oath. "The only witness who didn't testify under oath was Dr. Lindenfeld and there were some discrepancies between his testimony and the sworn testimony," McClanahan Jr. said. He said two of the members of the grievance committee made statements prior to the closing of the session that a major concern was what effect a decision against the director would have on his ability to control the center. McClanahan Jr. said the director's ability to control the center could not be a consideration. McClanahan Jr. said he would prefer that the board consider the grievance committee report at its August meeting, rather than July, to allow time for the new board and officers, who assumed their offices in June, time to settle down. McClanahan Jr. objected to the board's contention that the center is a private organization and not subject to state requirements of open meetings. "It claims to be a private organization yet it is treated as a state agency by certain manufacturers," McClanahan Jr. said. "It pays its accounts under state guidance. It uses state bid prices for purchases. It receives supervision from boards of the state, supervision from the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) and operates under controls from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). The center during the fiscal year which ended June 30 received approximately $650,000 from HEW, $135,000 from the State of Florida, $15,000 from the Seminole County School Board, $62,000 from the Seminole County Commission, $15,000 from HRS, $60,000 in state funds for alcoholism, and about $300,000 from Federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act funds. Fees from clients totaled about $100,000.—DONNA ESTES

Kelly: Carter Dangerous; Tax Cut A Sham

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Richard Kelly, R-New Port Richey, in a campaign swing through Seminole County, said, "No one should consider Ronald Reagan elected."

"I don't think it will be a shoo-in for Reagan," Kelly said, adding President Jimmy Carter is an inspired politician and "capable of doing the things to be elected." Florida's fifth district congressman said, however, he believes "Carter is a dangerous president."

He cited ways Carter has been dangerous as the "gateway of the Panama Canal," and the president's attitude toward Nicaragua and Taiwan. "He has abandoned the defenses of the United States," he said. Pointing to the Iranian situation, Kelly said the taking and keeping of the hostages is the best the U.S. could have hoped for under Carter. He said the president plotted the course he took because he judges that Americans have lost their resolve to fight.

At a town hall meeting at the Altamonte Springs city hall his fourth such meeting in his current swing through the district, which includes Seminole County, Kelly told an audience of less than 50 persons that the major concerns in Washington are a balanced budget and tax credit.

Of the proposed balanced budget, Kelly said, "We are now dealing with the president's fourth budget submittal. There is a great deal of smoke on a balanced budget. But no one was ever serious about balancing the budget." He said that a $130 billion package on financing with loans and loan guarantees are not even included in the current unbalanced budget and there is no move on to cut spending.

"Of proposed tax cuts, Kelly said he would vote against them, unless they are accompanied by a similar reduction in spending. To do otherwise, he said, would be inflationary. He said the government is printing up more money to make up the difference between its income and spending and this can only lead to inflation. "It's all a sham," he said. "There is no practical way the government can give a tax cut to the people while maintaining the current spending level. They are putting money in one pocket and taking it out of the other with inflation."

"If you are getting ready to spend the money from a tax cut," he said, "cool it. If the tax cut is for 1981, you won't get the money until April, 1982. It's all a monstrous piece of nonsense."

He said the American public has been "snookered by its political leadership for 50 years. It's all a fraud about a tax cut," he said.

Kelly also said he would vote against continuing Saturday mail delivery; would vote for the draft; is opposed to the equal rights amendment; is opposed to drafting women into the armed forces; and believes the pay of new military recruits should be reduced to $300 monthly.

Graham To Hear Report On St. Johns During Visit

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

A report from the local point of view on the recent fish kill in the St. Johns River and the river's decreasing flow and increasing pollution will be given to Gov. Bob Graham when he visits Sanford Saturday.

Graham is to arrive at the Central Florida Airport at Sanford by plane and be greeted by Sen. John Vogt, D-Cocoa, and State Rep. Robert Hataway, D-Altamonte Springs, and other local dignitaries.

Vogt arranged the Governor's visit, his first to Seminole County. Graham is to appear at the Sanford Civic Center at 1 p.m. to meet the public and to give his views on the recent sessions of the Florida Legislature. The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's task force on the St. Johns River will present him with a series of photographs on the recent fish kill. He will also be told of local concern that the river is dying.

Jack Horner, executive manager of the chamber, said the governor is vitally interested in the river and realizes its importance to local residents.

Meanwhile, the task force, at a luncheon today with Tommie Clay, chairman of the St. Johns River Water Management District and chairman of a technical committee studying the river, was to discuss the river problems. Also to be present as a special guest was Dennis Aut, former executive director of the district.

Douglas Stenstrom, chairman of the special task force on the river, said they would ask Clay for first-hand information on the study by the technical committee. The report is targeted for presentation to the river management district in August. Clay also was to be asked how the river management district uses tax money from Seminole County.

"There are good minds working on this problem," Stenstrom said, "people who do care about the river and believe something can be done about it."

Autopsy May Solve Death

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

An autopsy was scheduled to begin this morning at 10 a.m. on the body of a man who died in a wooded area in northwest Seminole County from five to seven days.

The body was found shortly after 5 p.m. Wednesday by a youngster walking through a wooded area near his home.

Seminole County Sheriff John Folk said the unidentified white male was between 30 and 40 years of age and was found off South Sylvan Lake Drive, east of Markham Road.

The Sheriff's Department reported that foul play is suspected in the death.

The man was wearing a denim jacket and socks. His other blood-spattered clothing was found a short distance from his body.

Dr. G. V. Garay will perform the autopsy at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Action Reports

- ★ Fires
- ★ Courts
- ★ Police Beat

"It's smoldering, but Mr. Pyle (owner of the landfill) is using bulldozers and bringing in dirt to try to smother it," Becker said.

He said he expects the smothering to be successful, but as of 10 a.m. the fire was still causing a moderate smoke problem for the area off Douglas Road.

Contrary to an earlier report that the fire started spontaneously due to the heat, Becker said the cause of the fire is listed as suspicious, possibly arson by juveniles.

"It's a known fact that juveniles were seen in the area prior to the fire and have been a problem at the landfill in the past," Becker said.

He said there were no traces of smoke or fire at the site at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

"Something evidently happened between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. to start that fire," he said.

Becker said no toxic fumes were given off by the fire other than carbon monoxide, which is given off by any fire.

He said firefighters were successful in keeping the fire from some drums of water-based ink they knew were in the area and there were no explosions.

Bike Safety Course Set

Youngsters who take a short course in bike safety at the Altamonte Mall Friday will be eligible to win a bicycle.

Two bikes will be given away to participants whose names are drawn following the day-long program, according to Lt. Beau Taylor of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

The program begins at 10 a.m. and will end at about 8:30 p.m.

The bike safety course, which only takes a few minutes, Taylor said, is sponsored jointly by Altamonte Police Department and the sheriff's department.

The course is designed to teach young bikers hand signals, safety points and how to select the right size bike. There will be a "test course" for the youngsters to ride through using the techniques learned, Taylor said.

"The purpose of the bike safety program is to make youngsters aware of the need to obey stop signs, give hand signals and have a proper size, properly equipped bike," Taylor said.

Federal Lawmen To Charge 2 Men In Alien Smuggling

AGO, Ariz. (UPI)—Federal authorities will bring smuggling charges against two men who abandoned 13 Salvadorans in a searing desert where they died, the county sheriff says. He said the two could be charged with negligent homicide later.

The dead were "the victims of bad judgment and bad circumstances," but their guides did not plan beforehand to strand them and leave them to die, Pima County Sheriff Clarence Dupnik said Wednesday.

The two suspects were identified as Mateo Freycido, 54, of Sonora, Sonora, Mexico—who has a previous arrest for entering the United States illegally—and Elias Nunez Guardado, 28, of Chalatenango, El Salvador.

After meeting Wednesday with U.S. officials and representatives from Mexico and El Salvador, Dupnik said the suspects, who allegedly organized and led the group, would be charged with smuggling illegal aliens.

Consumer Study Depressing

CHICAGO (UPI)—Consumers in the Great Depression spent a smaller percentage (62 percent) of their income on basic necessities than people do today (74 percent), a study by the Illinois Public Action Council shows.

"Consumers are significantly worse off now than they were in the 1930s," David Schar, director of research and analysis for IPAC, said Wednesday in releasing the study.

Sanders Demands Home Food

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Hospital cooking just doesn't meet the demanding tastes of the ailing Col. Harland Sanders, founder of Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Sanders, who entered Jewish Hospital June 30 suffering from leukemia and pneumonia, has demonstrated an appetite described Wednesday by KFC spokesman John Cox as "excellent for food that is brought from home"—including chicken, sausage, biscuits and gravy. About the only hospital fare Sanders takes is breakfast, Cox said.

Pryor Faces 3rd Skin Graft

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Doctors at Sherman Oaks Community Hospital say comedian Richard Pryor, severely burned last month, probably will undergo a third skin graft operation next Monday.

Pryor, 39, remains in serious but stable condition, a hospital spokesman said. Skin grafted onto Pryor's upper body last week is "coming along very well."

Convention Countdown

Republicans Neutral On ERA Detroit Workers Show Hard

DETROIT (UPI)—Republicans writing the party's 1980 platform appear to have found a classic political solution to their intraparty struggle over the Equal Rights Amendment: bless both sides if they promise to behave.

The GOP National Convention Platform Committee voted 969 Wednesday for an ERA plank that would say, "We support the legitimate efforts of those who support or oppose ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment."

That language, plus some additional rhetoric designed to soothe the feelings of both sides and castigating President Carter's pro-ERA lobbying, may have neutralized the controversial amendment as the potential big battle of the convention, which begins Monday.

It may also have preserved, at least on the surface, the party unity Ronald Reagan hopes for when he leaves Detroit next week with the Republican nomination.

With the hotly contested women's issues out of the way, the Platform Committee continued work on the GOP policy statement for the 1980 campaign today, intending to wrap up the document by Friday.

The platform seemed likely to have a number of other conservative positions, but they weren't attracting much attention.

Fugitive Caught Near Police Station

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fugitive killer Howard "Buddy" Jacobson was arrested near New York City on a tip from New York police in a suburban Los Angeles diner—located behind a police station.

Police in Manhattan Beach, Calif., acting on a tip from New York authorities, walked up behind the former millionaire horse trainer Wednesday, hung up the phone and took him into custody at the Criterion Diner.

Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold said he had known in advance Jacobson would be calling someone in New York and using a code to arrange for money to be sent to him.

Jacobson escaped from the maximum-security Brooklyn House of Detention on May 31, three days before he was sentenced in absentia to 25 years to life in prison for killing restaurateur John Tupper—Jacobson's rival for the affections of model Melanie Cain.

Authorities had been searching for the killer for Jacobson, 50, since his girlfriend, Audrey Barrett, surrendered to New York authorities on June 28.

Miss Barrett, a 22-year-old model, reportedly was with Jacobson in his cross-country flight.

Jacobson was held today in a cell in the Los Angeles County Jail's fugitive division.

Gold refused to reveal who Jacobson had called in New York or if wiretaps had been involved. "I had learned Jacobson was in California near the Oregon border for a time." During his stay there, Gold said, he spoke with a real estate agent about buying a northern California business.

The district attorney said Jacobson escaped New York City in a rented blue Dodge Aspen, which he drove to Des Moines, Iowa. There he brought another car using a phony birth certificate and driver's license.

The Aspen was then driven back to Louisiana and left as a "decoy." It was found on June 22.

Jacobson was convicted of stabbing, shooting and beating Tupper to death Aug. 6, 1976—the same day his body was found inside a burning wooden crate in a Bronx dump. Jacobson maintained his innocence throughout the trial.

He escaped from the Brooklyn jail by changing clothes with a visitor and signing himself out of the jail as "Michael Schwartz," a lawyer. The Schwartz name had been used by Anthony DeFosa, a Vermont ski lodge owner who owed Jacobson money, to gain access to the jail.

When Jacobson walked out of the jail, DeFosa stayed behind and was arrested on charges of aiding Jacobson's escape.

Commission: End Police Abuse

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Commission on Civil Rights has called for a major overhaul of federal laws to enable the Justice Department to more vigorously prosecute police misconduct cases.

"Violations of the civil rights of our people by some members of police departments is a serious national problem, especially in light of the anguish they have caused within minority groups," the commission said Wednesday in a letter to President Carter.

"As a nation we must do everything we can to end police abuse and the civil violation which it promotes."

Cuddle Up In A Knit Dazzler This Fall

MR. AND MRS. STUART J. THOMPSON
Cindy Kinard, S.J. Thompson Exchange Vows

Special to The Herald

Everyone knows by now that a collection by America's Renee Helga Howie is filled with feminine, wearable, purist clothes with beautiful lines. There is a devotion to details, new ideas and a unique sense of color born in the earlier days when the designer herself was a painter.

Knits bearing any label will be big this fall—covering all bases from sweater knits to crochets for young individualists. Then there are real party dresses and dramatic late night dazzlers.

The sweater look is an entire group of softies in kitten soft woolly blends or delicately toned heather knits. Every imaginable texture and shape from one piece to two piece is there: a big tube dress, classic separates, a one-piece chemise with ruffle, a peplum look and many others. This is the sweater dressing that conquered European women's sense of softness. There are no severe or constructed suits. This travel and daytime look consists of a small group of very feminine suits, in keeping with her belief that, "women should not look like men." There is an especially pretty cardigan jacketed tweed.

This crochet dress, right, is in grape with a chenille ruffle to accent pretty arms. The rest of the dress fits well over the body. Everything this fall hugs the body a little closer.

Cindy Jo Kinard and Stuart J. Thompson were married at the Church of God of Prophecy, Sanford. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Kinard of Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Thompson of Melbourne, Australia.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose for her vows a traditional formal gown of white organza and Chantilly lace.

Theresa Corson served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Charmaine Pedigo, Marlene St. Dennis and Jan Peterson, sister of the bridegroom.

Poler Hill of Melbourne served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Colin Davis, Darrell Peterson and Danny Wallace. Ushers were Robert Kinard Jr., brother of the bride, and Louis Pedillo. Jennifer L. Vernon was the flower girl. The ring bearer was Greg W. Corson Jr., nephew of the bride. The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Sampson.

Following a wedding trip to the Florida Keys, the newlyweds are making their home in Clermont. The bridegroom is employed as assistant director of John Newcombe Tennis Resort.

'Shaken' Family Tree Yields Lemons

DEAR ABBY: I just received a copy of my family history. My aunt traced our family roots and had copies made to distribute to members of our family. Here is what I learned:

My mother was married twice. My brother and I were shocked. New Mom felt guilty because she kept this from us.

My cousin was adopted. (I never knew it. He doesn't know himself, but now he's sure to find out.)

Another cousin was three months pregnant when she got married. (Grandma didn't know it. Now she does.)

A man whom we all loved and thought to be our uncle is just a man our aunt has been living with out of wedlock for 15 years.

At first I was excited about knowing more about my family background, but I sure didn't find anything to brag about.

Several family members asked this aunt who was doing all the searching to please not record all this stuff she dug out. Her reply was, "Facts are facts."

Well, how about a person's right to privacy?

KNOWS TOO MUCH!

DEAR KNOWS: Facts are facts. Remember, a person is responsible only for his own actions, not what his cousin, mother, aunt or uncle has done.

He wants desperately to break himself of this habit, as he wants to go into the service. If he does, this babyfish habit will soon be discovered, and he will be the butt of many jokes and much ridicule.

He went to college for a short time, but before he went, I took him to a hypnotist. She gave him tapes to play before going to sleep, but that didn't help.

I also took him to a mental health clinic. He went only once and was told it was a mother-son related habit—an version with its own feathery boa laced with gold lures for the dressy occasions. The suits favor these cardigans and easy skirts that adapt well to any sweater or shirt. There is a subtlety here of effortless chic and the joy of multi-purpose and interchangeable parts.

Of course there are the crochets. This year they thrive in wine, grape and orchid tones. Details include surprise streaks and slashes of bright neon colored angora streaks or puffs of chenille for added texture. As always, these luxurious sweaters and hand made dresses just float over the body.

Sumptuous male jerseys in black, purple, magenta, royal blue or unusual prints inhabit the night. Some have contrasting insets of harlequin quilts, chiffon velours, brocade or large puffs of sleeves. One dress has a peplum that can double as a charming Pierrot collar. Night-dressing is exciting, once again an even: Is there a man alive who could object?

Miss Hayes Is Bride Of R.M. Kilgore

Sherian Maxie Hayes and Russell Michael Kilgore were married June 20, at 4 p.m., at the Allen Chapel AME Church, Sanford. The Rev. John H. Woodard performed the double ring, candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hurlis Hayes, Sign Station, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Luena Kilgore, Sanford, and the late Albert Kilgore.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown of white chiffon accented with white Chantilly lace and beads. It was fashioned with a high neckline and long sleeves. The matching lace chapel train was lined with white satin and pearl beads.

A crown held her five-length veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of green, peach and yellow silk chiffon flowers made especially for the bride by her sister and dressmaker.

Russ King, best friend of the bride, attended her as maid of honor. She wore a peach flowered chiffon gown with peach lining and carried a bouquet of matching daisies.

Bridesmaids were Gailine Hayes, Sheryl Joseph, Darlene Hayes, Wanda Woods, and Janet Kilgore. They wore green chiffon floral print gowns with green linings, and each carried a bouquet similar to the honor attendant's.

Wayne Kilgore, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Erniey Grigley and Frank Irvin. Groomsmen were Sylvester Roberts, Michael Roberts, A.W. McKinzie, Marverick Edwards and Louis Paccion.

Daughter Fern, Tabitha Gilpin and Almon Pierce were flower girls. Philip Kilgore was the ring bearer.

Following a reception at the lounge of the Flagship Bank, the couple departed for a wedding trip to Daytona Beach.

The bride and groom will make their home in Fort Gordon, Ga., where he is in the United States Army. — MARYA HAWKINS

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm concerned about my blood pressure. In the summer, it averages 150 over 90 and in the winter, 174 over 90. I can reduce it to 140 over 80 by taking Lasix. I have a blood pressure kit and use it about once a month. I'm a 62-year-old male and I'm 5 feet 8 and weigh 140 pounds.

Dr. Lamb

I lost 10 pounds through a serious effort at jogging. I average one to two miles per day. I play golf (carry my bag and walk) five to six times per week. I'm in good health. I watch my diet, no junk food. I drink decaffeinated coffee and eat a lot of fruit and vegetables. I have nothing to worry about but I still do my fair share of it.

I've cut out all the salt at the table and I've eliminated 90 percent of the cold cut meats, which means I eat only the whites of eggs and drink plenty of water. My cholesterol count averages around 220. I'd appreciate any advice you could give me.

DEAR READER - Your blood pressure is all right for a person in your age group. I would prefer for it to be a little lower but it's not high enough to require heroic efforts at treatment. Since your cholesterol level was probably down with standard office or laboratory techniques, the 220 value is satisfactory.

It is true that people who have lower blood pressure have a decreased risk of having heart attacks and strokes. That's why I'd like to see your pressure consistently a little lower than it is.

If you still have any evidence of excess fat around your abdomen, your pressure may get a little lower as you lose the rest of it. The weight in pounds on the scale is not very good as to whether a person is really fat or not and it's the last five to 10 pounds that really count. Those additional 10 pounds make a lot of difference.

SANFORD GIANTS BITE THE DUST

Board May Ignore McClanahan

The Seminole County Mental Health Center Board of Directors is "under no obligation" to review the firing of two weeks ago of its personnel director, according to Bill Fernandez, an attorney and member of the board.

Fernandez said today the board "probably will accept the finding of the grievance committee," which upheld the firing of the center's personnel director, A.A. "Mac" McClanahan. Fernandez said the board need not take a vote on the issue, but may if it wishes.

Mrs. Jane Gordon, president of the center, returned to the area Thursday from a vacation and said today the July 8 board meeting may be closed to the public. She said Fernandez is checking the center's by-laws on the issue.

"We have private dealings all the time," Mrs. Gordon said, adding the center is a non-profit private corporation and is not required to open its meetings to the press and the public. While some board meetings have been open to the public, Mrs. Gordon said persons attending those meetings did so by invitation.

Fernandez stressed that he is not the center's attorney. He said he is fact in

Some Workers Fear Personnel Board Change

Would the conversion of the Sanford Civil Service Board to a Personnel Board mean less job security to Sanford city employees? The board insists it would not.

Board members assured the employees that their wish is to expand their protection of employees rather than to diminish it.

The board has been considering requesting the city commission to expand its scope to include the right to review pay plans, job classifications, vacation pay and sick leave, grievance procedures and all other personnel-related matters.

"We are concerned that the board will lose some of the recognition it has as an unbiased board," Ralph Russell of the police department said. "We feel you are our protection," said Ron Nance, also of the police department. Other employees stated similar concerns.

City Manager Warren Knowles, speaking to the group, said the board has been interested in getting more involved in personnel matters and secondarily to come under the umbrella of city liability protection. State law now sets limits of liability at $50,000 and $100,000 for governmental entities. The board, created as an independent entity by state law, does not come under that city umbrella of protection.

The Sanford Civil Service Board was created in the mid 1940s and is composed of five persons, two appointed by the city, two elected by the employees and a fifth member elected by the other four.

In addition to recruiting, screening, testing and certifying new employees, it also serves as an appeal board for the employees. Its members include Merle Warner, chairman; Dr. Luis Perez, Dr. John Darby, Robert Morris, and Donald B. Jones.

The board decided to hold a workshop within the next 10 days to discuss maintaining continuity of the board's work if its duties are expanded. The board requested each department of the city to send a representative to the meeting. The employees were present at the Thursday night meeting at the board's invitation. — DONNA ESTES

Freed Hostage Getting Routine Physical Check

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — Richard Queen, 28, a sick American hostage released from captivity in Iran, was flown to Zurich today and taken from the plane on a stretcher to a hospital for "routine physical checks."

"There is nothing obviously wrong with him," Peter Reus, spokesman at the U.S. Embassy in Bern, told reporters in Zurich.

Queen, covered by a red plastic sheet, was whisked by ambulance to Zurich's modern downtown University Hospital for a thorough check, a U.S. spokesman said.

"He is naturally very glad to be out," Reus said, adding Queen would undergo "routine physical checks" through today and Saturday at the Zurich hospital. He said the State Department's regional psychiatrist in Europe was at the hospital with Queen.

CBS reported that before leaving Tehran, where he was hospitalized for four days, Queen said at the airport: "I feel fine, better than I did an hour ago. I had a little problem with my brain. I think it was a virus but I feel much better now."

Queen refused to be more specific about Queen's medical problem. Queen's parents left New York today on a flight for London and Reus said they would be in Zurich by the evening.

U.S. Embassy officials said after several days, Queen may be flown to the U.S. Air Force hospital in Wiesbaden, West Germany. That is where the American hostages released in November were also taken.

Queen, bespectacled and with a bushy black beard, was ordered freed Thursday by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini for "humanitarian reasons."

Queen's release, which came on the 25th day of captivity, left 52 Americans still held hostage, reportedly scattered in 15 Iranian cities to await any repeat of the abortive April 25 U.S. rescue effort.

The Americans were captured at the U.S. Embassy Nov. 4 by Islamic militants, who demanded the return of the shah.

The sudden release of Queen was the first since the earliest days of the hostage crisis, when 13 Americans were released in two days, Nov. 19 and Nov. 20. Five of those hostages were women and eight were blacks.

Queen's release was ordered by Khomeini on grounds American blacks and women were oppressed. Queen's release, however, was the first for reasons of health or humanitarian concern.

President Carter, in Alaska on his way home from Japan, said before leaving confirmation of the report: "Obviously the proper thing for the terrorists to do is to release all of the hostages who are being held because they are innocent and they deserve to be with their families as well as those who are too ill to be treated."

Tehran radio reported that Queen was freed because he was seriously ill but did not elaborate. U.S. officials at the airport did not throw any more light on the illness.

Queen's removal from the plane by stretcher, however, could support reports his legs became paralyzed because of a stroke, though Iranian officials said Queen was suffering from mental problems.

U.S. Ambassador Richard Vine, who at first promised some details at an airport news conference, canceled the meeting with the press to go to Queen's hospital which officials declined to identify.

Queen's commercial flight landed 35 minutes behind schedule because of an unexplained delay leaving Tehran. A cream colored ambulance, its blue lights flashing, waited at the plane, which landed in quarantine-like conditions.

Two Swiss male nurses bore Queen from the rear door of the DC-8, while other passengers on the Swissair flight disembarked at the front of the plane, which landed in quarantine-like conditions.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Peter Reus reported Queen would not be allowed to speak to reporters and said only Queen's parents, now in Scarsdale, N.Y., visiting relatives, will be permitted to see the released diplomat, who was a U.S. consul at the Embassy.

Reus said State Department doctors were "on their way" to Zurich from West Germany and from Vienna, Austria, to examine Queen, who was being treated by Swiss doctors.

Buying Marshland Key To Saving St. Johns River, Official Declares

The single major solution to the decreasing flow and increasing pollution of the St. Johns River is the state acquisition of 136,000 acres of marshland along the upper St. Johns.

Denis Aith, project engineer for the St. Johns River Water Management District, made this statement to the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce task force on the St. Johns at a luncheon meeting Thursday.

Aith said the water management district in 1977 recommended to the state that the marshlands near Vero Beach be acquired. The state already owns 80,000 acres for the same purpose. The district estimated the cost of new acquisitions at $65 million to $80 million, saying the money could be funded by the Legislature over a five-year period.

Aith said by acquiring the land and engineering its development, the quantity of water flow in the river could be controlled year-round. When the quantity of flow is controlled, this in turn will control the quality of the water.

He said he doesn't see any alternative to this method to save the St. Johns. He added that the river cannot continue to be used to treat the waste products of modern society and that the district anticipates to control insurance of permits for projects that could increase pollution of the river.

"Our best hope lies in the acquisition of the marshlands," he said. Aith said the state currently has $4.5 million on hand to go toward the acquisition costs.

"There's a good possibility the river is going to dry up before the problem is solved," he said. Aith quickly qualified his remark by saying he didn't mean the river is going to disappear. He said it will reach lower and lower stages for longer and longer periods of time.

Douglas Stenstrom, chairman of the chamber's task force on the St. Johns, said today the committee will encourage the St. Johns River Water Management District to make its recommendation again on the acquisition of marshlands.

"If it does, we will then be interested in whether the governor will make a recommendation to the Legislature to provide money from general revenues of the state, not a tax district, for the project," Stenstrom said.

While Gov. Bob Graham is in Sanford at 1 p.m. Saturday for a town hall-type meeting at the civic center, Stenstrom said the committee will urge him to support the matter.

Sen. John Vogt, D-Coconut Beach, whose district includes Seminole County and who will be accompanying the governor, will be urged to sponsor legislation in the 1981 session to designate the project and provide funding, Stenstrom said. — DONNA ESTES
