Former legislator dies in crash

LAKE CITY — Former state legislator Wayne Hollingsworth was killed Wednesday when the truck he was driving crashed into an overpass bridge support, the Florida Highway Patrol said Thursday. The accident occurred around 6:25 p.m. EST on Interstate 75 about 3 miles west of Lake City, FHP spokesman Lt. George Wehrli said. Hollingsworth, 52, died on impact when his 1983 Bronco hit a concrete bridge pillar.

According to the accident report filed by investigators, Hollingsworth was traveling south on I-75, overtaking a Longwood man driving a 1986 Isuzu pickup truck, when the accident occurred. Wehrli said Hollingsworth drove into the grassy center strip, swerved back onto the highway and hit the left side of the other vehicle.

Hollingsworth then crossed the highway and hit a concrete post supporting the State Road 247 overpass, Wehrli said.

The driver of the other vehicle, Delbert Kyger, 49, of Longwood, was not injured, Wehrli said. There is no indication that alcohol was involved. An autopsy has been scheduled.

Hollingsworth, a Democrat and native of Lake City, served in the Florida House of Representatives from 1970 to 1972, then was re-elected to the House in 1976. He served in the House until 1986, when he was elected to the Senate.

He lost his re-election bid in 1988 to Sherry Walker, D-Waukeenan.

Chiles likely to choose HRS chief from department staff

By MICHAEL MOLINE
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Gov.-elect Lawton Chiles said Wednesday that he will likely promote from within when the time comes to replace Greg Coler as secretary of the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

But the new secretary will be an interim caretaker only, whose job it will be to steer the huge agency through impending budget cuts and begin the task of shifting programs and power to local officials, Chiles said.

Coler resigned Tuesday, effective Jan. 7, the day before Chiles assumes office.

Chiles told reporters he plans to take his time finding a permanent replacement. He said he wants someone who agrees with his plan to shift more of HRS's power and responsibilities to the local level.

"(We're) trying to get a secretary who's going to think like we do, who's not going to be trying to consolidate or build the empire, but is going to be trying to see how we decentralize, how we give away power, and that's going to take some time," Chiles said.

In an impromptu news conference, Chiles declined to name any potential replacements for Coler or to say how long an interim chief might serve.

He did say he is considering elevating one of Coler's lieutenants to the top job at HRS, at least as interim agency chief. But he did not

Fire investigators scour rubble to determine origin and losses

By NICK PFENPAUF
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — While the State Fire Marshal's office has not announced an official estimate of damage in the fire that leveled most of the western side of the 300 block of Sanford Avenue, losses could run well beyond $150,000.

The fire was first reported at 11:38 p.m. Tuesday night. By this morning, whiffs of smoke were still rising from several piles of rubble.

Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber said the property and building value for the two sections of Al's Army Navy Surplus Store are on the books at $78,552. But Suber added, "This is only for the land and the structure. By the time you figure in the inventory and other items in the building, it could easily be more than double that figure."

The estimate however, is only for that portion of the stores occupied by the army navy surplus. The adjoining buildings to the south, including a structure only recently taken over by the Amvets post 17 were also destroyed.

Meanwhile, Officials of the State Fire Marshal's office had no comment this morning as an investigation into the cause of the blaze continued.

Assistant Sanford Fire Chief Ron Neal said, "The investigators go into this looking for the cause to see if it was accidental, suspicious or arson. He said arson has not been overruled as yet, but neither has the possibility of accidental ignition been discarded.

State fire officials brought in a small bobcat unit yesterday afternoon. Work was still underway today in removing the rubble from among those portions of the walls that were still standing. Most of the rubble consisted of sheet metal from the roof area although there were also piles of what could have once been merchandise, now reduced to black piles of debris.

Neal said there is a possibility an official damage estimate could be announced by the State Fire Marshal's office sometime today, but it will depend on the progress of the continuing investigation into the fire.

"We've turned the investigation over to them," Neal said, "and they are the only people who can give any official word on either the cause or the loss figure."

Impact fees for county revenue rejected

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — With Seminole County facing a nearly $200 million deficit, this is not the time for commissioners to delay requiring new residents to pay for the additional services needed for them, says county commissioner Larry Furlong.

But Furlong failed to gain more than one supporter from the five-member commission Tuesday for an impact fee for parks and recreation and gained no support for a proposal to match law enforcement and jail space to the population.

"I would hate to be on record voting against impact fees then try to explain to voters a $200 million shortfall," Furlong said. "Given the projected shortfall in revenues in the comprehensive plan, there is more than an urgency for us to address this. The county has not

Civil War breaks out among kids at museum

By VICKI DESORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Under the towering oaks outside the Student Museum, 301 W. Seventh St., Sanford, civil war broke out this morning.

With assistance and direction from the American Legacy League, 140 eighth graders from Tuskawilla Middle School in Oviedo, learned about the American Civil War by becoming a part of it.

"This is a wonderful learning experience for the students," said Adrienne Jones, a resource teacher at the museum.

Jones said the museum sponsored the Civil War reenactment for the first time last year. They sent an open invitation to all middle schools and accepted the first application they received.

"Last year we had Rock Lake eighth graders up here," she said. "The students loved it."

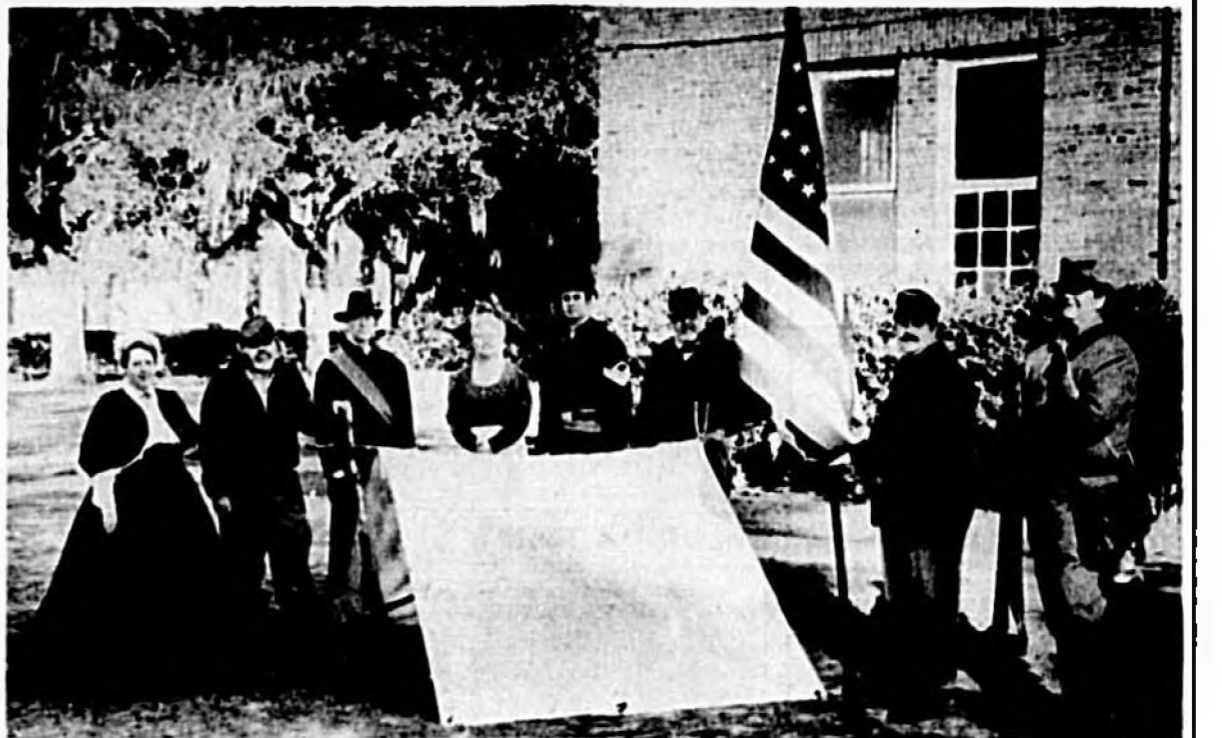

Rock Lake Middle School is located in Longwood.

This year, the call for the event had barely gone out when Tuskawilla jumped at the opportunity.

"I think this is going to be a very popular tradition in the future," Jones said.

The American Legacy League uses artifacts, clothing, written data and crafts to help the youngsters "get a feel" for history.

POLICE BRIEFS

Arrest made in battery, robbery

SANFORD — A man, who allegedly punched a man in the face while two others held and robbed him, has been arrested by Sanford police.

Thallus Jerome Inman, 18, 1016 Olive Ave., Sanford, is charged with strong arm robbery and grand theft. Police allege Inman drove off in the victim's car after the robbery on 13th Street. The robbers also took $20 from the victim. The car was abandoned on 14th Street, police said. Inman was arrested on 13th Street at Olive Avenue at about 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Robbery suspect jailed on drug charge

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies, who arrested a man on a strong arm robbery charge in rural Sanford early today, also charged him with possession of cocaine.

Deputies said they found four pieces of crack cocaine when they arrested Jeffery Cordell Butler, 28, 2751 W. 18th St., Sanford. The initial robbery charge stems from a 1:45 a.m. incident today during which Butler allegedly stole $40 from a man on 18th Street in rural Sanford. Butler was arrested at 2350 18th St., at 2:28 a.m. today.

Warrant search leads to three arrests

CASSELBERRY — City County Investigative Bureau agents with a warrant, who searched a Casseberrry house Wednesday night, report arresting three on drug charges.

Agents said they found cocaine, marijuana and drug paraphernalia in the search at 517 Lake Kathryn Circle. Residents Robert Cary Jones, 46, and Cathy Sheila Carter, 32, were arrested along with Dean Howard Blair, 36, of Orlando. Jones was charged with possession of cocaine to distribute. Carter was charged with possession of cocaine and less than 20 grams of marijuana and Blair was charged with possession of cocaine.

Duda development OK'd

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners gave near-unanimous approval of the massive DLI Properties commercial development at Red Bug Lake Road and the future Seminole County Expressway, but not without securing a pledge from developers to donate $51,200 to the schools.

Voting 4-1, with commissioner Pat Warren opposing, commissioners approved construction plans for the 497-acre development north of Red Bug Lake Road and west of the proposed Seminole County Expressway, now slated for construction next summer.

When complete, the development will have 512 apartments, 1.2 million square feet of office-showroom facilities, 1 million square feet of offices, about 247,000 square feet of commercial buildings and 250 hotel rooms.

The apartments are expected to produce between 143 and 256 students to overcrowded area schools. Commissioner Larry Furlong suggested DLI officials contribute at least $71,000 to the school board to help pay for space and teachers and supplies for those students.

Longwood doctor suspended

LONGWOOD — Kent J. Nauman, a Longwood physician, has had his license to practice medicine suspended by the state Department of Professional Regulation.

Department Secretary Larry Gonzales, in a release announcing the emergency suspension, said an investigation revealed Nauman was unable to practice medicine with reasonable skill and safety by reason of illness or use of alcohol or drugs, or as a result of a mental or physical condition.

Gonzales reported in the release that on Sept. 10, Nauman had been directed to receive treatment for a paranoid syndrome but refused, stating that he intended to sell real estate.

On Nov. 21, Nauman did attend a court-ordered appearance before Dr. Neville Marks, a psychiatrist, according to the release.

Judge upholds controversial alcohol tax

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's controversial tax on alcoholic beverages served in bars and restaurants has been upheld by a Leon County circuit judge, but the decision is expected to be appealed.

Circuit Judge George Reynolds ruled Tuesday that the law does not discriminate against businesses that serve wine, beer and mixed drinks on premises.

"I think there is a rational basis for it," Reynolds told lawyers for the state and a group of restaurants and bars that filed suit last summer to have the tax declared unconstitutional.

Meanwhile, legislation to repeal the law was being proposed by lawmakers who cited vehement opposition to the new tax.

Longwood woman wins lawyer relief

LONGWOOD — An unidentified woman from Longwood is being awarded almost $4,500 by the Florida Bar's Clients' Security Fund, because her attorney, Stephen H. Broudy, of Fort Lauderdale, misappropriated money held in trust for her, according to a release from the Bar.

The Clients' Security Fund, established in 1987, provides monetary relief to members of the public who suffer financial loss by the misappropriation, embezzlement or other wrongful taking or conversion of their funds or property by a member of the Florida Bar, the release said.

Broudy was suspended from the practice of law by a court order effective Oct. 23, the release said. In all, the fund paid almost $42,000 to seven of his former clients.

14-year-old executive pushes toys

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The whiz kid has a heart.

At 14, Mary Rodas rides a limousine to work and already has a thick file of newspaper clips on her feats as the youngest vice president of a New York toy company. But Wednesday, Rodas showed she's also a wunderkind with Christmas spirit.

Concerned about lagging donations for the Marine Corp Reserve's annual Toys for Tots campaign, Rodas showed up at the Anacostia Naval Station to donate 2,000 toys from Catco, a grown-up New York toy company where she is a bona fide vice president.

"I was born on Christmas Day so I understand kids want toys on Christmas," Rodas said. "It would be really sad not to have any toys."

The typical teen braces and genuine manner aside, Rodas isn't Catco's vice president of marketing for nothing. The savvy young executive arrived with Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., in tow and, after charming reporters, laid down the glove to her competitors in a stroke of marketing genius.

Heads up, Hasbro. Meet the offer, Mattel. If little Mary Rodas can kick in thousands of toys for less fortunate children at Christmas, where are the big guys?

After all, Rodas told Conyers and a gathering of young Marines, "This is Christmas time. They should not just think about business, even if business isn't so good."

Telling Rodas, "I'm beginning to get the Christmas spirit because of you," Conyers was first to accept the challenge. The Michigan congressman said he would be calling toy companies in the Detroit area, aiming for 5,000 toys for the local Toy for Tots campaign.

The Marine coordinators of the toy drive were grateful. Presenting Rodas with a certificate for "coming to the aid of these needy children," Sgt. Anthony Small said, "With the donations you've given us, and more, I think we'll make our goal," which is to collect 100,000 toys.

Rodas, whose mother died over a year ago, is the only child of Miguel Rodas, an El Salvadoran immigrant who is superintendent of the Union City, N.J., apartment building where they live.

She entered the toy business as an unofficial consultant at the age of 4 when her father took her along to the apartment of inventor Donald Spector.

Cowabunga, dude

Now heading into their third Christmas season, the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles definitely appear to be more than a fad.

Six years ago, they were mere doodlings in an underground comic book, but today, the Heroes on a Half-shell have their own movie, cartoon, rock band and records, plus a variety of toys. And they are on T-shirts, plastic cups, toothbrushes, underwear, posters — almost anything you can market to kids.

The Ninja Turtles might be reaching superstar status with real lasting power. To attain superstardom among superheroes, you have to do more than appeal to kids' tastes. You need a good origin myth.

Superman, the uncontested champ of superheroes, is the best example. The origin of Superman is so compelling that everybody knows it. The doomed planet Krypton was about to be blown to bits when a scientist put his only son into a rocket and sent him hurtling through space to Earth. The infant was found by Jonathan and Martha Kent, who discovered that he possessed incredible powers. To beat hide those amazing abilities when he grew up, Clark Kent became a journalist.

But the Ninja Turtles outdo Superman. They were four tiny pet turtles dropped into the sewer by a little boy. Then, someone spilled something called retromutagen ooze into the sewer and the turtles mutated into half-human creatures. The Turtles learned martial arts from a mutated rat, who, depending on whether you believe the cartoon or the movie, was a disgraced karate master expelled from his Japanese dojo and forced to live in the New York sewers, or was the karate master's pet rat. Anyway, he, too, got caught in the ooze and turned into a half-rat, half-man creature named Splinter, because of his ability to splinter boards with a karate chop.

Of course, there's more to public appeal than that. Superman first became popular at the beginning of World War II, when the world seemed a dark place and the Man of Steel fighting for truth, justice and the American Way was just what the home front needed.

The Ninja Turtles are current. They are wisecracking teen-agers who would rather be eating pizza, spouting surf slang and playing video games. But they are loyal to their master, Splinter, who keeps them in line with discipline to fight evil. Although they would rather goof off, the Turtles take their public responsibility seriously.

Superman they're not. But then, today's kids wouldn't go for the battle cry of "Truth, justice and the American Way!" This is 1990, and every 4-year-old knows, "Cowabunga, dude!"

Soothing away stress

Forget deep breathing. Forget meditation. Those searching for that extra edge in stress relief will want to jog on over to the nearest mind salon, the latest advance in cosmic consciousness to originate from — where else — California. It is to yoga what the Cuisinart is to the chopping block.

At first glance, the mind salon looks like a health club, all bright lights and high-tech equipment. But instead of Nautilus machines, there are flotation tanks, dark and silent, and "delta lounges" that massage the mind with trickling-fountain sounds and soothing colors. Earphones simulate rushing-surf noises, and goggles with pulsating lights bring the brain waves into equilibrium.

"By the turn of the century, people will wonder how they could have done without them," one promoter says of these New Age mood-altering machines, the fancies of which sell through catalogs for as much as $69,000.

What some Americans apparently can't do without is expensive fixes for problems that could be solved at little or no cost. Instead of becoming a sucker for hucksters of altered states, why not take a walk in the park? Listen to Bach. Pet the dog. Then put your mind to ways of making work less stressful in the first place.

On second thought, scrap that last piece of advice. The stress of pondering the origins of stress is enough to send one to a mind salon.

Report card for the Persian Gulf

Herewith a report card on who, and what, is making sense regarding the Gulf crisis. Also, predictions:

The Democrats (as a group) have fallen from an early B+ to a C. Once again, they are seen as the pussycat party. The demise of the Soviet Union was supposed to save them. It was said that Democrats would no longer have to worry about being soft on defense. But: There they go again. Ted Kennedy won't even say use force if negotiations don't work.

(Exempted: Sen. Charles Robb and Reps. Les Aspin and Steven Solarz — who have been tough, and right.)

The press corps (as a group) has fallen from B to a C. They mindlessly puffed a story about how the American people turned against the use of force, and turned against the president's policies. Prof. Everett C. Ladd, director of the Roper Center, says "that never happened, not even close, not a glimmer...."

But we shouldn't be surprised. Since Vietnam, this is the 17th time the press has bought the yawner that the anti-war movement was about to sweep the nation.

Here are serious numbers, from Time/CNN:
Q. Do you think the liberation of Kuwait is worth fighting for?

Nov. 14: Yea, 49 percent; No, 42 percent.
Nov. 28: Yea, 59 percent; No, 31 percent.
A Dec. 6-7 Newsweek survey shows a similar trend, with a 58 percent — 33 percent majority favoring A m e r i c a n engagement in combat if Iraq refuses to leave Kuwait and restore its former government."

At the outset it was 'The Battle of the Columnists.'

At the outset it was "The Battle of the Columnists." How are the seers doing? Pat Buchanan and Robert Novak get a D+. (I am generous.) Early on, they both indicated that Jews in America, hawks and doves alike, were pushing America to war because it would help Israel. Today, Jewish doves sound like other doves. Jewish hawks sound like other hawks. And Buchanan and Novak haven't apologized.

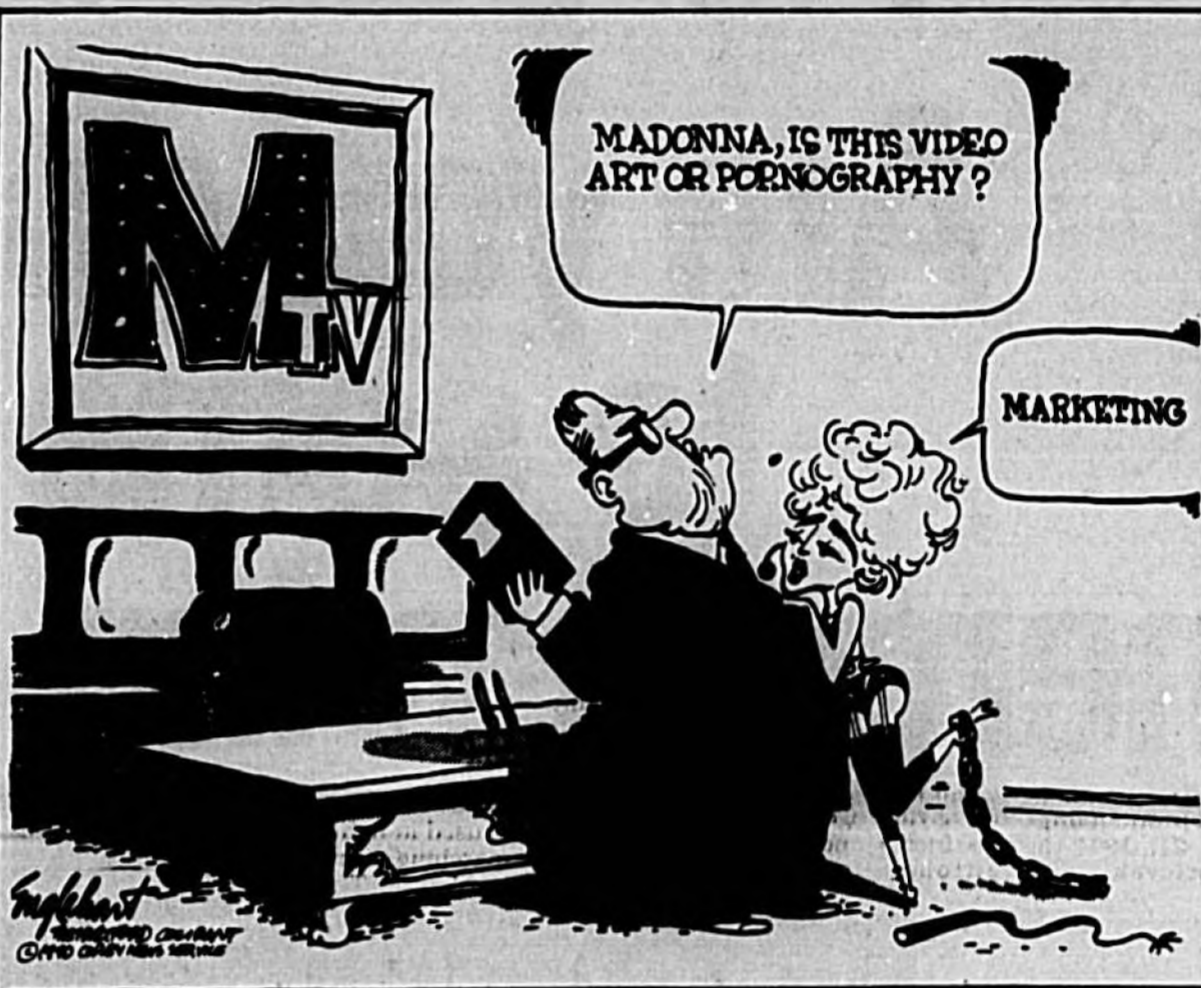

The we-need-a-draft argument of columnist Mark Shields gets a C-. If we didn't need a draft when confronting a nuclear-tipped, expansionist superpower, we don't need one now. Nor is our military a bunch of poor minority kids. Our pilots, who will likely bear the brunt of any fighting, are highly educated professionals.

The Bush Administration has gone from an A+ to a still-solid B+.

Why are they saying that the American use of force means ground war? Such combat could involve substantial casualties. If Saddam does not yield, heavy air strikes are the strategy of choice, certainly now with the hostages out of harm's way. Let's find out if air strikes work.

Normally, the military should make the tactical judgments. But this goes to the heart of American geopolitical credibility. Now and later, if America is able to make a major military statement with relatively few casualties, and if potential adversaries know and fear that, then we are more likely to prevail, without using force. That is the game's name.

With a solid superpower in place, a New World Order will emerge, with a reasonable chance to yield real peace. Give peace a chance.

Who's that girl? 'Multi-Madonna': Pick a self, any self BOSTON — It's past midnight. The football game is over. The local news is over. Forrest Sawyer is asking the news junkies who are still awake to watch "Nightline": "Has Madonna finally gone too far?"

On the big screen, the same screen where secretaries of state and terrorists get to say whether they have gone too far, comes a Madonna I've never seen. Conservative black jacket with a collar up to her chin. Power shoulder pads. Gold buttons. Proper little gold earrings. Sleek hair pulled back. Right hand grasping the appropriately serious prop: a pen.

Except for the slim band of dark roots beneath the platinum, except for the voice — early "Working Girl" — she might pass for the CEO of some Wall St. firm. Or she might pass for someone trying to pass for the CEO. That is the thing about Madonna. Look for her identity and you find another image to add to the Rolodex of Madonnas.

"Nightline" was doing what MTV had refused to do, showing her video, "Justify My Love." And Madonna had come dressed to justify her video by saying: It was 1) artistic and 2) better than the other horrors that grace MTV without such fuss. "Why is it okay," she said, "for 10-year-olds to see someone's body being ripped to shreds?"

To this viewer who refuses to get into the debate about which is worse, sex or violence on TV — lousy choices — the Madonna video was definitely an R but not quite an X. It was clearly fantasy and clearly not the sort of thing you want the kids to find when they're channel-surfing after the Peter Pan tape.

But tonight it's not the black-and-white video Madonna fantasies that fascinate me. It's the contrast with the black-dressed and blonde-coiffed Madonna.

Madonna the executive is speaking about Madonna the artist. Madonna of the satellite feed is talking about Madonna of the hotel bed. There are other variations on the theme of Madonna, more incarnations in the life of Madonna, more colors to the chameleon.

The woman before me has earned $90 million in four years from the subsidiaries of her own talent: Boy Toy, Siren and Slutco. The woman has revamped her image every two years like an engine: Material Girl to Blonde Ambition. And she has lion status among those who see her as the bad girl, the sexually assertive woman, the powerful playmoogle. Ask for the real Madonna and she would stand up a pantheon of her selves.

Says Dr. Lynne Layton, who teaches popular culture at Harvard: "She speaks to many women who feel pushed into one aspect of their femininity — 'Don't soil your dress, always be nice.' Madonna has many different versions of femininity and seems comfortable with all of them."

When Madonna first brought her underwear and ambition to the stage, it was said that the multiple Madonna appealed to adolescent girls because they try on identities like lipstick. Years later, she still appeals to young women feeling the stress of expectations. Women who try to be all things to all people: sexy but dressed for success, maternal but independent.

But what bothers me in all this is a belief that she offers the wrong answers to the questions, or the crisis, of identity. Especially female identity.

If the work of growing up is finding a center, integrating the parts, Madonna spotlights the fragments and calls them a whole. If the business of adulthood is finding yourself, she creates as many selves as there are rooms in her video hotel. If we must evolve as grownups, she switches instead, like a quick-change artist between acts. And if there is a search among Americans for authenticity, Madonna offers costumes and calls them the real thing.

Multi-Madonna is the survivor of a rough childhood, of religious guilt and a bad marriage. She has purposely become a female with the nerve to be "bad" and the will to be powerful. She is, in short, sexy and hard-nosed, brassy and vulnerable, S and M, victor and victim, dressed in bra and black dress.

But the fight against being "pigeonholed" can also be an excuse for confusion. The star of this show after all makes little attempt to reconcile the contradictions of her life and psyche. She insists instead that all the fragments of a self be accepted.

In the end, watching the Madonnas pass before us over the years, is a bit like watching the three faces of Eve... as a role model. That's not an answer for women.

Madonna offers costumes and calls them the real thing.

Does Congress live in a glass house?

WASHINGTON — Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, summed up the hypocrisy of Congress last week when he said that business-as-usual is on trial before the Senate Ethics Committee.

The "Keating Five" are the only senators sitting in the dock. But if every member of Congress who ever did favors for a campaign donor was sitting alongside them, there would be no one left to sit in judgment.

"I believe what is on trial here is not the five colleagues of mine, but the U.S. Senate, and for that matter, the Congress of the United States," Inouye testified before the Ethics Committee. His was less a plea for reform than a call for the committee to come down from its ivory tower. His words should ring true for one man in that tower, committee member Sen. David H. Pryor, D-Ark.

Pryor is supposed to pass judgment on whether his colleagues erred when they went to bat for the out-of-control savings and loan industry and Charles Keating, a generous campaign contributor. Yet Pryor, too, went to bat for the S&L industry and was so proud of it at the time that he touted his action to the media. What a difference a bailout makes.

Like many other senators, Pryor had S&L problems in his state in the mid-1980s. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board and its chairman Edwin Gray were trying to pull the thrills out of the fast lane. In Arkansas, 27 of the state's 37 thrifts were feeling the screws and they didn't like it a bit.

They complained to Pryor and, on Oct. 3, 1986, he wrote a high-pressure letter to Gray accusing the Bank Board of having "a deliberate system of harassment against many institutions in this state."

Then, to make sure Gray knew he meant business, Pryor put a legislative "hold" on a bill that Gray needed to recapitalize the S&L deposit insurance fund. Pryor, with no clue of the financial calamity that was to come, even made his letter public when he wrote it. He was standing up for his constituents and proud of it. Gray was desperate for the recapitalization bill, and Pryor was one of the senators keeping Gray on a tight leash by holding up the bill. Gray has testified that he had to kowtow to senators to assure the passage of the bill. Apparently Pryor has found the elusive line between himself and the others, because he decided he was still eligible to pass judgment on the Keating Five.

When our associate Tim Warner asked for Pryor's explanation of the facts, he got a quick and well-rehearsed reply. Pryor's defense is that the hold he put on the recapitalization legislation was merely symbolic. But Gray had no way of knowing how far Pryor would go to stifle the much-needed bill. Before the Ethics Committee sat down to judge the Keating Five, Pryor says he showed his 1986 letter to the committee leadership, which said it wasn't a reason for Pryor to step down from the committee.

And Pryor claims his letter did not name any specific thrift, nor was it linked to campaign contributions. That may be Pryor's biggest stroke of luck. In the three years before he wrote the letter, he had received almost $20,000 in campaign contributions from the S&L industry, including at least $10,900 from Arkansas thrifts and their operators. But Pryor's letter to Gray did not mention any particular thrift. In that he differs from the Keating Five, who openly took up Keating's cause. That difference must be little consolation to one of the Keating Five, Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz. He made mistakes, but at least he never lifted a finger to stop the desperately needed recapitalization.

What a difference a bailout makes.

Bush aids Soviets, sets summit date

WASHINGTON — President Bush, declaring the Soviet Union is facing "tough times," announced Wednesday an assistance package that will provide up to $1 billion in agriculture export credits to ease Moscow's food shortage.

Bush also announced Wednesday that he will meet with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev in Moscow Feb. 11-13 to sign a Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty, known as START, which will drastically reduce the superpower arsenals of long range missiles.

The president made the announcement in the Rose Garden with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and Secretary of State James Baker at his side.

Brazilian ecologist's murder solved

RIO DE JANEIRO — One of two ranchers accused of killing an ecologist in 1988, triggering international concern about the future of the Amazon rain forest, confessed to the crime as his trial was about to begin.

On the opening day of the trial that has become a symbol of the Brazilian national struggle to preserve the Amazon, Darci Alves, 26, said Wednesday he shot ecologist and rubber-tapper Francisco "Chico" Mendes because the man accused his father and codefendant, Dary Alves da Silva, 58, of destroying the rain forest.

"It isn't the first time that Darci has confessed to the crime; he did the same thing during the police investigations but later denied it," a court official, who asked to remain unnamed, told United Press International in a telephone interview.

More of the same in Denmark

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — Denmark's Conservative Prime Minister Poul Schluter began regrouping Thursday after voters punished his party in general elections but changed little in the complicated block politics of the legislature.

Despite major gains for the opposition Social Democrats and losses for most other parties, the electorate handed back a largely unchanged balance of socialist and non-socialist blocks in parliament.

With 91 seats grouped in six non-socialist parties and 84 votes held by the two socialist parties, the most likely outcome of Wednesday's election was a reshuffled non-socialist coalition under Schluter's leadership.

Education Secretary Cavazos resigns post

By JANEY RABO
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Bush has accepted the long-rumored resignation of Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos, as critics contended his stoic stewardship failed to help Bush make good on his pledge to be the "education president."

Bush made the announcement at a Cabinet meeting Wednesday. The resignation is effective Saturday, after Cavazos gives a commencement address to West Virginia University.

Cavazos, the first Hispanic American to be named to the Cabinet, did not give a reason for the resignation. Undersecretary Ted Sanders was named acting secretary until a successor is nominated.

Cavazos, 63, was first appointed by President Reagan in August 1988 to succeed William Bennett and was held over by Bush. Cavazos had been president of Texas Tech University when he joined the Reagan administration.

"With deep regret I accept your letter of resignation," Bush said in a letter. "For more than two years, and under two presidents, you have distinguished yourself through your devotion to improving the education of our nation's children."

But during his tenure, critics complained he did not use his office as a "bully pulpit" to encourage educational improvement and that student achievement actually got worse.

Even Cavazos called the most recent Nation's Report Card, using 1988 data, "a compendium of disappointment." It found that most students cannot

Civil rights strategy announced

UPI report

WASHINGTON — A top Education Department official said scholarships for minorities may be violating civil rights laws, placing in jeopardy scholarships at historically black colleges and other institutions.

Michael Williams, assistant education secretary for civil rights, who was confirmed in June 1990, said Wednesday at a news conference departmental compliance decisions made as recently as 1989 were wrong, based on the agency's theory.

"The Office of Civil Rights has not had a sound, consistent, legally reasonable position and policy to deal with this issue," Williams said as he announced a national enforcement strategy.

Scholarships designated for a particular race or minority violate civil rights laws if the university receives federal financial aid, Williams said.

"The determining factor is race," said Williams.

The resignation was not entirely unexpected, as Bush has been forced in the past year to defend Cavazos from critics who contended he was not doing enough to advance administration goals in education.

New defense minister named by Iraq

United Press International

A young war hero has been put in charge of Iraq's armed forces, a move that diplomats call a show of strength by Saddam Hussein, while the Algerian president launched a crucial Arab mediation effort to end the crisis.

Saddam replaced an elderly Gen. Abdul Jabbar Shanshal with Gen. Haidi Toamama Akhbar, who built the solid defenses that protected the southern Iraqi port of Basra from waves of Iranian troops in 1982. Toamama has also built formidable, three-line defenses around southern Iraq.

One Arab diplomat in Cairo interpreted the move Wednesday as a show of strength from Saddam, who the same day ordered landlords in Baghdad to set up air-raid shelters in case of attack.

The envoy said the new defense minister is considered a supporter of Saddam's hard-line stance. The dismissal was the second important shake-up of the Iraqi military in as many months.

"Replacing Shanshal with a hard-liner and war hero like Toamama is Saddam's way of telling the Americans his military means business," one Arab envoy in Cairo told United Press International.

Georgetown hammers St. Leo

LANDOVER, Md. — Dikembe Mutombo scored 22 points, grabbed 14 rebounds and blocked six shots to lead No. 5 Georgetown to a 75-45 victory Wednesday night over St. Leo.

Georgetown, 6-0, was without standout center Alonzo Mourning, who is nursing a minor foot injury. The 7-foot-2 Mutombo played 38 of the game's 40 minutes, substantially more than his average amount of court time.

Charles Harrison tallied 14 points and Lamont Morgan added 10 for Georgetown. Tyrone Graves led St. Leo, 0-8, with 14 points. Eric Brooks added 10.

BASKETBALL

Heat suffers fifth straight loss

MIAMI — Dominique Wilkins scored 28 points and collected 17 rebounds Wednesday to send Atlanta to a 118-93 victory over the Miami Heat and give the Hawks their fourth win in their last five games.

Wilkins hit 10 of 17 shots from the floor and was helped by 22 points by Kevin Wilkins.

Sherman Douglas and Glen Rice scored 16 each to lead the Miami, 5-14, as the Heat dropped its fifth straight game.

Wilkins hit a 3-pointer with 8:24 left in the first quarter to give Atlanta a 13-12 lead it never relinquished. That sent the Hawks, 8-11, on a 16-2 run as they built a 26-14 lead on Kevin Willis two foul shots and drive to the basket with 4:43 left in the period.

FOOTBALL

Dolphins sign McKinnon

MIAMI — The Miami Dolphins Wednesday signed former Chicago Bears wide receiver Dennis McKinnon to replace Scott Schwedes who was placed on injured reserve with a dislocated shoulder.

McKinnon, who was waived by Dallas earlier this year, had been signed by the Dolphins Nov. 16 but was released three days later.

The Dolphins also moved linebacker Barry Krauss and cornerback Mike McGruder from injured reserve to the practice squad.

Maryland is UPI's top lineman

MIAMI — Last spring was an agonizing time for Russell Maryland.

The University of Miami defensive tackle had graduated with a degree in psychology and was trying to decide whether to turn pro by joining the supplemental draft or return to the Hurricanes for a fifth year.

With some urging from Coach Dennis Erickson, he decided he had something more to prove in college and came back for his fifth year. Apparently, he made the right move, and Wednesday he was named Lineman of the Year by United Press International.

It was his second postseason award. Last week in Los Angeles, the 6-foot-2, 273-pounder from Chicago won the Outland Trophy as the nation's top lineman.

Big East discusses football

WASHINGTON — Athletic directors from Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Boston College and Miami met Wednesday with Big East Commissioner Mike Tranghese over the formation of a football conference.

Big East spokesman John Paquette said by telephone from conference headquarters in Providence, R.I., the league will make a statement of "substance" Thursday.

The all-day meeting brought together Tranghese and athletic directors Ed Bozick of Pitt, Sam Jankovich of Miami, Jake Crouthamel of Miami and Bill Flynn of Boston College.

Paquette said Tuesday that conference officials did not expect a formal announcement on football membership until January.

Riley to stay at FAMU

TALLAHASSEE — Ken Riley will remain football coach at Florida A&M after withdrawing from consideration for the head coaching job at Southern Methodist University.

"I'm going to try and make this program the best I possibly can," said Riley, who played college football at A&M. "I'm happy where I am. That's never been a problem."

Riley was considered a finalist for the job being vacated by Forrest Gregg, but he decided Wednesday to remain with the Division I-AA Rattlers.

"I just felt that there are some obligations I have here — the coaches, the players, my family," Riley said.

County gets OK to resume nighttime athletic events

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

That strange sound you heard some time Wednesday afternoon was the collective sigh of relief from Seminole County high school principals and athletic directors when they found out that they may resume scheduling outdoor sports events at night.

Roger Beathard, coordinator of Physical Education for the Seminole County School Board and executive secretary of the Seminole Athletic Conference, informed the schools of the decision.

"We've been told that we can now begin scheduling nighttime activities," said Beathard in a telephone interview Wednesday evening. "I called all the principals and gave them that news this afternoon."

County high school administrators have been waiting patiently but anxiously for that piece of good news since Oct. 19, when it was decided that evening outdoor athletic events would be played in the daylight following the recommendation of Dr. Jorge Deju, director of the Seminole County health department.

At Seminole County high schools, the athletic departments are self-supporting. When games were rescheduled to be played during the day, attendance figures dropped significantly and hurt gate receipts.

The reason for the change was the outbreak of St. Louis encephalitis carried by night-flying mosquitos. Seminole County was one of the last to reschedule high school evening activities but followed suit after the health department noted the significant and rapid increase of incidents of the disease in the sentinel flock of chickens kept by the county.

St. Louis encephalitis is a dangerous and potentially fatal virus to the elderly and infants. Healthy adults generally aren't seriously affected.

When Dr. Deju made his recommendation to reschedule events, county principals and athletic directors convened in a special meeting to vote on the recommendation. Tonight, in a board of directors meeting of the Seminole Athletic Conference, an item of discussion will be the rescheduling of conference games.

"When I spoke with the principals, one or two were considering changing games this Friday," said Beathard. "All I know for sure is Poor outside shooting has hampered Seminole High School in its 0-4 start this season. On Wednesday night, Shawn Robinson (No. 44) made one of Seminole's few successful outside shots in a three-point loss to Jones.

SANFORD — Even though his team had lost its fourth game of the season without a win earlier in the evening, Seminole High School boys' basketball coach Greg Robinson still was upbeat Wednesday night.

"We're coming," said Robinson after the Seminoles had dropped a 69-63 decision to the visiting Jones Tigers. "We're the best 0-4 team around. I couldn't be upset with the kids after the way they played tonight."

Seminole dug itself a 15-4 hole in the first quarter Wednesday night, but came back to outscore Jones 20-11 in the second quarter to pull within two points, 26-24, at the intermission.

Jones came out in the third frame and outscored the Tribe 22-16, but again Seminole responded, pulling even with the Tigers with just under a minute left in the game.

"The kids did a good job," said Robinson. "It was a tie game with 48 seconds to go and we had the ball. But we took a bad shot and they got the ball back. Tony Atkins made five free throws in final 48 seconds for them and that was difference in the game."

Atkins led a long-range assault of Seminole, canning a trio of three-point field goals on his way to scoring a team-high 21 points. Andrew Boatman also had three three-pointers among his 12 points. Monte Williams and Sedaris Cheatham added 12 and 10 points, respectively.

By comparison, Seminole pounded Jones inside behind the play of Kerry Wiggins (a game-high 24 points), Carlo White (12 points) and Wesley O'Neil (10 points).

"We rebounded real well," Robinson said. "Carlo, Kerry and Wesley did an outstanding job inside. If our outside shooting comes around, we'll be ok."

Robinson attributed some of the Seminoles' early woes to youth and inexperience.

"We lost a lot of good players to graduation last year," said Robinson, whose team dropped a three-point decision at Spruce Creek on Tuesday night. "We just have to learn what to do in pressure situations and how to handle them."

Seminole will attempt to end its four-game skid in a road game at Lake Brantley on Friday night.

Lake Mary 'perfect' in 3-0 victory

From staff reports

DELAND — In a game that Coach Larry McCorkle said was "as perfect a game as I've seen played since I've been here," the Lake Mary Rams blanked the host DeLand Bulldogs 3-0 in a Seminole Athletic Conference boys' soccer game played at Spec Martin Stadium.

John Hodak, Justin Walker and John Zissman each scored a first-half goal and goalie Jason Redditt made three saves to lead the Rams, 4-1 overall and 3-0 in the SAC. DeLand dropped to 1-2-1, 0-2 in the conference.

"We've turned it around a lot in just a week," said McCorkle. "We played really poorly against Seminole last Wednesday. We were down 2-0 and had to come back to win 4-2. Three of our goals were scored off long throw-ins."

"Today was the day for us to play for a state championship. It was as perfect a game as I've seen played since I've been here."

Hodak put the Rams up 1-0 when he took a pass from Eric Davis and cracked a 30-yard shot. David Yurick set up Walker for Lake Mary's second goal before Steve Heidt assisted Zissman on his goal.

Lake Mary outshot DeLand 20-4 and had a 3-1 edge in corner kicks. Redditt made three saves before giving way to Kevin Tyl with about 10 minutes to play. DeLand's goalie made 10 saves.

"Right now, we're a just a team with a lot of solid players who are all playing well as a team," said McCorkle. "All of the goals we scored today were really nice."

"Our defense really played well. Jason did a nice job reading the game. He didn't have to make any difficult saves."

Redditt was assisted by the play of defenders Josh Arnold, Scott Lyon, Mario Travlos and sweeper

John Zissman (No. 7) scored Lake Mary's third goal in a win over DeLand Wednesday evening. The Rams will return to action Friday, hosting the Lake Howell Silver Hawks in a 3:30 p.m. game at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

Defense dominates in Lyman-Oviedo draw

From staff reports

OVIDO — Defenders Jeff Onderko of Lyman and Noel Reid of Oviedo dominated the game from their backline position, leading their respective sides to a 1-1 tie in a Seminole Athletic Conference boys' soccer match played at Oviedo High School's John Corner Stadium.

Lyman is now 4-1-2 overall, 1-0-2 in SAC play, while Oviedo is 1-3-1, 0-2-1 in the conference.

Both goals were scored in the first half. Rod Mentus giving Oviedo a 1-0 lead when he scored his fourth goal of the season 10 minutes into the match. Craig Ruebusch getting the assist. Frank Cippolla tied the game 15 minutes later for Lyman. Allen Newsome had the assist on Cippolla's goal.

After that, it was up to Onderko, Reid and the rest of the defenses.

"We had the better of the action during the first half," said Oviedo Coach Dave Jeckanoski. "The last 15 minutes of the match, they dominated us, largely due to the play of Onderko, their stopper back."

"They were driving on us late, but they really didn't have a quality chance. The rest of the game was very even."

Lyman had a 15-11 edge over Oviedo in shots on goal and took seven corner kicks to the Lions' three Wheaton defeated Yannick Noah of France, 7-6 (7-2), 6-7 (5-7), 6-3. And Krickstein downed Andres Gomez of Ecuador 6-3, 6-4.

second set tie-break. Wheaton won the match on his third match point.
Both Gilbert and Wheaton are assured of earning at least $500,000, with the winner to receive $2 million.
"I thought of the money only shortly before match point," Gilbert said.
Krickstein progressed to the second round with a comfortable win over a disappointing Gomez. The French Open champion from Ecuador appeared to have trouble maintaining concentration. He committed 18 unforced errors in the first set alone.

Buffalo's Smith claims to be NFL's best defensive player

United Press International
EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. - Buffalo Bills end Bruce Smith, three sacks away from an NFL record, Saturday will be gunning for New York Giants quarterback Phil Simms' body - and outside linebacker Lawrence Taylor's reputation.
Smith, who gave an immediate "Noooo" when asked if he gets enough attention, said he wants to prove as much in front of Taylor when Buffalo faces New York at Giants Stadium.

"Believe me, it will be a terrible injustice if I wasn't recognized to that extent as the best defensive player in the league," Smith said Wednesday during a telephone hook-up to New York.
"Over the past 10 years, (Taylor's) been the most dominant player in the league. I just think I've taken it up a notch."
The Giants and Bills are both 11-2, with New York already having clinched the NFC East and Buffalo a game ahead of Miami in the AFC East.

"In Buffalo, we only have one newspaper and they're against us," Smith said. "They'd rather see us lose than win. I don't think I've gotten the recognition I deserve. I don't think it's fair but it keeps you hungry. I take it as a personal challenge to get better every week."
Pity Simms. With four sacks in the first half against Indianapolis last week, Smith took over the the games where and when as originally scheduled.

"The scheduling of conference games is done well in advance," said Beathard, who took over the role of executive secretary of the conference this fall. "That would have happened last spring. It may be an easy job reverting back to the original schedules.
"I was told by one or two principals that nothing would happen until after the New Year. To make changes in officials and transportation by Friday would be difficult."
According to Lake Mary High School boys' soccer coach Larry McCorkle, the idea of moving the Rams' Friday home match with Lake Howell back to a 7:30 p.m. start had been investigated.

"We thought about it and suggested it to Lake Howell, but we couldn't get things changed quickly enough," said McCorkle.
Beathard also stressed that Dr. Deju strongly recommends that all who plan to attend or participate in evening activities continue to practice precautionary measures such as using insect repellent and wearing long sleeves and long pants.
"Tests on the chicken flocks are negative but the health department is still catching some encephalitis-carrying mosquitoes in traps," said Beathard.

OVIEDO — In his 23 years of coaching, Dave Jeckanoski says he has never seen anything like it.
 Jeckanoski, coach of the Oviedo High School boys' varsity soccer team, has already had five players go down this year with either serious injuries or academic problems.
 Under ideal circumstances, that would be considered a disastrous amount. But this year's Oviedo squad is trying to come back from losing 10 seniors off of last year's side.
 "We graduated 10 players last year, but we thought we had things under control," said Jeckanoski.
 The most dismaying of the losses is that of sophomore Brad Franz, not only for what he's already contributed to the team but what he's sidelined him. On Monday, Franz underwent open heart surgery to remove a growth on a valve.
 "Brad has never played a game in his life," said Jeckanoski. "He's on the bench when we're playing Bishop Moore in the Rot-ry Cup. It's our second game of the day, we're trailing 2-1 and our guys are dead on their feet. My assistant coach tells me we've got to do something, so I send in Brad."
 "He does some nice things and ends up scoring the game-tying goal. The game goes to overtime and we end up winning on penalty kicks. His family goes home and there's a message from Brad's cardiologist on the answering machine telling Brad not to play soccer, not to touch a ball."

 Jeckanoski said that the surgery went well and Franz is doing fine.
 "We're hoping that he'll be able to come back and play next year," he said.
 Almost as frightening are the injuries suffered by captain Jeff Carlson and midfielder David Underwood. Carlson suffered a severely broken leg, fracturing both the tibia and fibula. In an indoor match while Underwood had a blood vessel rupture in his leg after getting kicked in the thigh.
 Jeckanoski said that Underwood may be back in a month while the earliest Carlson might be back would be February. Doctors inserted a plate to help mend Carlson's broken bones.
 Out for the year is backup goalkeeper Trent Hartsfield, who injured his knee over the Thanksgiving weekend and had to have reconstructive surgery.
 While what caused the loss of Franz, Carlson, Underwood and Hartsfield are frightening, the case of Rob Geisler is frustrating. A first-team All-Conference selection last year, Geisler has been sidelined by academic problems.

After having to come from behind last Wednesday to defeat Seminole 4-2, the Lake Mary Rams turned their game around and played an outstanding game in a win over DeLand yesterday.

Tie

 Greyhound goalie Marcus Dewberry made six saves while Lion keeper Ryan Pass registered eight saves.
 For Jeckanoski, the tie with Lyman was a major moral victory for his team, which lost 10 players to graduation last year and has seen six more key players be lost due to serious injuries or academic failings this year.

"Lyman is a heck of a team," said Jeckanoski. "They're one of the best teams in Central Florida. And we went out and played with them. It was a great game. Both goals were beautiful."
 Oviedo returns to action Friday night, traveling to DeLand for another conference contest. Lyman will host Gainesville in a tripleheader on Saturday, the freshmen playing at 1 p.m., the junior varsity at 2:30 p.m. and the varsity at 4 p.m.

Rams

 Scott Clavins.
 According to McCorkle, the Rams have an unusual amount of depth this year, which has proven to be a mixed blessing.
 "I've had teams that went to the final four that were more talented but only had 11 or 12 good players," explained McCorkle. "On this team, I have two or three guys who I know should be playing fulltime. The other 18 are all capable of filling the other eight starting spots. We've had problems gaining any consistency because we're playing so many people."

 Against DeLand on Wednesday, all 22 players on the Lake Mary roster saw extended playing time. McCorkle said that the last 20 minutes of the first half were played primarily by the Rams' "second" team.

 In Wednesday's junior varsity game, John Martin scored the game-winning goal in the 72nd minute to lift Lake Mary to a 2-1 win.
 The Ram junior varsity plays again today, hosting Lake Howell at 3:30 p.m. The Lake Mary varsity will host Lake Howell on Friday afternoon.

Goalie Jon Williams made several key saves to keep Seminole in its game with undefeated Lake Howell on Wednesday afternoon. Lake Howell came into the game ranked No. 4 in the Class 4A state poll.

 2-0, they never gave up. They worked hard and had a chance to tie the game."
 The Tribe, now 1-2-0, then started pressing forward in attempt to get back into the match. Geordie Davidson took a pass from Travis Groover and scored to cut the margin in half with 19:38 remaining.
 Seminole continued to put pressure on the Lake Howell goal but could not get the equalizer. With time running out, the Tribe had a corner kick opportunity that Davidson headed just over the crossbar at the buzzer.

 "We had several opportunities to take control of the match and couldn't get the ball into the net," said Lake Howell Coach Anatole Popovich. "Close games like this can go either way and sometimes a lucky break can decide the game."
 Friday afternoon, Seminole will try to rebound when the Tribe hosts the Lake Brantley Patriots. Lake Howell will try to run their unbeaten streak to seven when the Silver Hawks travel to Lake Mary to face the Rams.

Entertaining seniors

Residents of Howell Place, Sanford, have been involved in many entertaining activities recently. Left: Esther Wichman memorizes her lines as Mrs. Burley in the play "Never Too Old for

Sexual abuse of children common

DEAR ABBY: When I married Roy (not his real name), I had two daughters, ages 9 and 5, from a previous marriage. Roy began to sexually molest the older one. It was almost two years before she told me about it. She told because she was afraid that her younger sister was in danger of being molested, too.

Abby, this was a terrible shock to me. I knew things like this happened to children, but I never believed it could happen in my family.

I am now divorced from Roy, and my children are doing well after much counseling. Although Roy was indicted by a grand jury, he jumped bail before going to trial and has been missing for almost a year. It upsets me to know that he is out there child molestation is to educate their children early. They should be taught that their bodies are private, and if somebody tries to touch their bodies, they should tell their parents immediately.

ADVICE

Children must be assured that if anyone makes them promise not to tell anyone, that is one promise it is all right to break.

MRS. J.E.F. IN SAN BRUNO, CALIF.
DEAR MRS. J.E.F.: Since you wrote me, the manlaughter charge against the father has been dropped, but that doesn't change the point of your letter. Although it may seem cruel to further punish a parent who has suffered the misfortune of losing a child, perhaps this kind of example will cause other parents to think.

Parents are responsible for the safety of their children, and it is the responsibility of parents to see that their child is seatbelted — no matter how much the child protests. The rule should be: Until the child is secured, the key in the ignition will not be turned on.

DEAR ABBY: Would it be appropriate to send a Christmas card to an old boyfriend I haven't spoken to in eight years? We are both married, and even though I love my husband, I still have feelings for this man.

I want him to know that I still think of him, and I don't want him to forget me. Even though he never told me he loved me, we were lovers for nearly a year. I would include a recent picture of myself and also an update of what I've been doing since he last saw me. I would send it to his office so as not to arouse any questions from his wife.

Thanks for any advice you can give me.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of mine entertains constantly. In fact, that's about all she does. My problem: I do not enjoy going there because her husband looks at me in a way that makes me feel very uncomfortable.

If I decline, she is offended and demands an explanation. Then I am put on the spot, because I do not want to tell her the real reason. How should I handle this?

DEAR ABBY: I just saw an article in the newspaper here and had to write to you. It was about a 49-year-old man who was speeding in his car when he lost control of the vehicle. The car flipped over twice, and his 6-year-old son who was riding with him was killed. Because the child was not wearing a seatbelt, the father is being prosecuted and, if found guilty, he could serve a year in prison.

I know that your column reaches so many people, and this could be an important reminder to get across to parents of young children. It could be a lifesaver.

FOND MEMORIES
DEAR FOND MEMORIES: Do yourself and your old boyfriend a favor and resist the urge to re-establish communication with him. No good can come of rekindling this old flame. Be content with your "fond memories." What was, was.

ON THE SPOT
DEAR ON THE SPOT: Tell her you have "other plans." It could mean you are planning to stay home and wash your hair, or you have already made plans to go elsewhere, or you plan to catch up on your reading or watch your favorite TV program. The "other plans" excuse could cover a multitude of truths.

Sinatra turns 75

NEW YORK — Francis Albert Sinatra celebrated his 75th birthday Wednesday by doing what he does best — singing on stage, alone in the spotlight.

Ol' Blue Eyes' sold-out Diamond Jubilee Concert at the Meadowlands' Byrne Arena, East Rutherford, N.J., was only a few miles from Hoboken, where he was born Dec. 12, 1915.

Sinatra, accustomed to doing it his way, planned the performance down to the minutest detail and rehearsed it with a warm-up concert at the arena Tuesday.
