People From All Parts Of Nation To Meet At Colorful Show

ORLANDO, Feb. 12.—Through the Central Florida Exposition this section of the state will be best next week to people from all parts of the continent.

For twenty-five years Central Florida has had its largest crowd of visitors during the period from Feb. 12 to Mar. 1. The fair or exposition has served as a magnet to draw the people this way in their homeward journey.

Attractive as has been the fair from its earliest date, the Central Florida Exposition, which began the success to the old job-trip-fair seven years ago, has so enlarged the scope of its service as to become a major Florida attraction.

The fact that this institution is by five years the senior of any other operating fair in the state is a pretty good indication that it has served a large place in the entertainment and educational program of the state as a whole. This year, counties ranging from Tallahassee to Indian River will be represented in the exhibits that will be assembled at the Orlando exposition grounds, Feb. 12-13.

This being the first anniversary of the fair, commensurate with the importance of the occasion has been prepared in the most complete and elaborate manner. The program of entertainment and education is a program of the highest order and of the most interesting and interesting.

General admission to the grounds is 25 cents and special rates for the children and the elderly.

Age-Old Conflict Of Europe, Africa Seen In New Clash

When the United States was set on an infant republic, the plumes of the Barbary coast pointed upon Spanish, French and Italian shipping which ventured too near the African shores and kept it up on the American frigates under Stephen Decatur, Jr., humbled the day of Algiers at Tripoli.

In 1820 and 1822 there were wars between Spain and Morocco, but probably the most dramatic modern struggles took place there 14 years ago.

In 1921 a Spanish army, seeking to "pacify" the hinterland of its Morocco, met disastrous defeat. The Dons had hard work maintaining a decisive victory over the Rifis. That chapter of military history which destroyed Alfonso XIII in 1931.

France's expressions in Tunisia, Algeria and French Morocco were being in 1930 by the army of 150,000 men, which was sent to the Rif. The Rifis, who were led by Mohammed V, were fighting in Morocco for a century. There was a war there in 1914 and 1915. After the war the Rifis were fighting in Morocco for a century.

There is a new high command, reporting only to the chief of staff, General Douglas MacArthur.

The Gold Decision

The Supreme Court's long-awaited, loudly heralded gold decision is finally here. Upholding, in effect, the New Deal's monetary legislation, the justices divided five to four, with the minority opinion a blasting charge against governmental interference with private contracts.

In every instance the Court sustained the constitutional power of Congress to "coin money and regulate the value thereof." Far greater concern by the majority was evidenced over this provision of the Constitution than over the sanctity of contracts. The Court also upheld the Congressional resolution which set aside the gold clause in private contracts, declaring that these agreements to pay in gold, or the equivalent, interfered with the power of Congress over the currency.

However, no such claim could be made in the case of the government's use of the gold clause. The government borrowed money, most of it during the war in the midst of a monetary emergency, and promised to pay in gold. Later, at a time when it had cornered all the gold in the country, and actually had more gold than at any other time in its history, it declined to fulfill its promise to pay in gold.

But, having done this, the Court then apparently nullified this decision on its part by holding that the suit in question had no place in the Court of Claims. It threw the suit, in which a bondholder had tried to collect because of an invalid act of Congress, out of court. This seems almost like saying, as an Associated Press writer put it, "Yes, we owe you the money, but try and get it."

It may be that the Court took that position because the particular bondholder who brought the suit could not show where he had actually been damaged. The money which he had lent the government as a matter of fact would not buy as much then as it will now. In spite of the government's devaluation of the dollar, he is still better off with the new dollars.

Now we wonder what position the Supreme Court would have taken with regard to bringing such a suit in the Court of Claims, if this particular bondholder had been able to show real damages. If, for instance, he had been a bondholder living in England, where immediate fluctuations in foreign exchange incident to devaluation had brought about a definite depreciation in the purchasing power of his bond, where the purchasing power of his new dollars was not 100 cents but actually 59 cents, what would the decision of the Supreme Court have been in that case?

The Depression's Course

There has been a strong tendency on the part of the public during recent years to discount the optimistic predictions of this country's big men as to the future course of business activity. And at the same time there has been an increasing tendency on the part of important men to modify their annual predictions. They have been wrong so many times since this depression began that they are becoming rather skeptical of their abilities at forecasting the future.

As an illustration of what we have in mind, we quote from the annual stockholders letters of the president of the Genes Falls Insurance Company. The first of these particular letters was received in January of 1931, a little over a year after the Wall Street crash, and when in fact the depression was first beginning to hit its stride. The last one was received on February 7, 1935. There is quite a contrast.

In January of 1931, President Smalley wrote his stockholders: "We are decidedly optimistic and believe thoroughly that after economic adjustments have been completed there will be a long period of normal prosperity in which we hope to share."

In January of 1932, President Smalley, still optimistic, wrote: "All in all it has been an interesting and not unprofitable year. We have a feeling that the worst is over and that business generally will show marked improvement during 1932."

In January of 1933, only two months before the banking holiday, when the country reached the lowest depths of the depression, President Smalley wrote: "We are sanguine that things as a whole are rather on the mend and that by the end of this year at the latest, unless something at present unforeseen occurs, we can begin another upward march toward a normal and satisfactory business."

And by January of 1935, he was completely discouraged. "I believe that our personnel is of high standard and that the agency plant cannot be equalled," is about all there was to write. "If conditions generally will improve, we

FUTCH BILL COMES APART

The state will appeal to the United States supreme court for reversal of a federal court decision holding that a vital part of the so-called Futch Act of the 1927 legislature is unconstitutional. The act, which provided for payment of delinquent county and district taxes with bonds over a period not exceeding fifteen years.

The federal circuit court of appeals in St. Orleans has ruled that the act is unconstitutional. The decision, for the time being, affects only the St. Lucie land district and the St. Lucie county commission, but attorneys and state officials said assurance of the decision by the United States supreme court would be a guide that other counties and districts could accept the bonds in lieu of cash for payment of delinquent taxes.

Attorney General Landis announced the state would appeal to the United States supreme court, in the hope that a decision may be obtained before expiration of the legislative session, which begins April 2.

Hungarian Asks Blood Of Thirteen Who Insulted Wife

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 19.—Nothing less than the blood of 13 men will satisfy Count Edmond Zwy, Hungarian aristocrat, whose wife was expelled from the exclusive Sziget Club, on Margaret Island.

The count, outraged, challenged 12 members of the committee and the president of the club to a duel, demanding satisfaction. The president of the club, a former minister of national defense Alexander Belovszky, 70.

The committee found the count guilty of cheating at rummy by moving the joker with her left hand, and fined her $100.

A member said the committee would bring one of its members to fight the state court.

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

Yesterday at 11:00 A. M. a fire was discovered on the roof of the home of Duane Turner at the corner of Second Street and Elm Avenue. The alarm was at once turned in and the fire was extinguished in short order by the use of chemicals and no serious damage was done.

County Tax Assessor Alex Vaughan started out yesterday for a tour of the county. He will visit about 100 towns and will check every tract, farm, and town in the county personally, and are in excellent position to benefit from that improvement.

Crude Bomb Sent Huey Long Fails In Its Purpose

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP)—A crudely fashioned bomb sent by mail to the Senate office of Huey P. Long failed to explode when opened yesterday, but sent three government agencies and the senator in search of the sender.

Apparently a chemical affair, the bomb threw Long's office into confusion when opened by a secretary. But the bottle within had exploded in the mail box and was almost empty.

Postal inspectors at the offices of the inquiry had an idea that the markings might be Greek script. They decided to ask the library of Congress experts about this.

Long was in New York when the package was received. He telephoned his secretary to give him a full description of the bomb.

The small package was opened by Earle Christensen, Long's secretary. It came in the regular mail and first was handled by Don Deval, assistant secretary.

Deval said that he took the package and thought the raffish glass was "just some bottles being sent back." He explained "share the wealth" buttons are sent to the secretary for distribution among members.

Deval turned the package over to Christensen who opened and nearly dropped out of his chair. He hastened to take it out of the mail box and placed it on the corridor floor where it exploded.

Deval said that he gathered the crowd of curious that gathered around the senator had received no threatening letters from Medford and added "the only threatening letters we get are those coming to me."

Death-Deafening Instrument Delivered To Senate Building

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP)—A crudely fashioned bomb sent by mail to the Senate office of Huey P. Long failed to explode when opened yesterday, but sent three government agencies and the senator in search of the sender.

Apparently a chemical affair, the bomb threw Long's office into confusion when opened by a secretary. But the bottle within had exploded in the mail box and was almost empty.

Postal inspectors at the offices of the inquiry had an idea that the markings might be Greek script. They decided to ask the library of Congress experts about this.

Long was in New York when the package was received. He telephoned his secretary to give him a full description of the bomb.

The small package was opened by Earle Christensen, Long's secretary. It came in the regular mail and first was handled by Don Deval, assistant secretary.

Deval said that he took the package and thought the raffish glass was "just some bottles being sent back." He explained "share the wealth" buttons are sent to the secretary for distribution among members.

City To Suggest That County Help Pay Library Cost

The city council today proposed that the county help pay the cost of the new library building. The council members discussed the matter at a meeting held last night, primarily for the purpose of deciding upon another method of disposing of property which the city has acquired until foreclosure proceedings.

In the future, the commissioners will accept from the city any property that might be sold. If the bid is acceptable, the property will be advertised for sale to the highest bidder, with the Commission reserving the right to dispose of the property to the person making the bid in the event his bid is greater than the highest bidder at sale.

In this connection, the Commission delayed action on J. M. Middleton's offer to purchase a 45-acre tract at Geneva and Melroseville Avenues for $350, slightly less than the city's interest in the property.

The Commission approved a new street lighting contract with the Florida Power and Light Co. after it had been reported that all of the lights allowed the city under the new offer have been installed.

The order also was given that all whitewash poles not in use should be taken down and stored until further notice, and this work began today.

The Commission also turned down bids for the exclusive right to sell peanuts at Memorial Zoo, which would remain in force until project expires unless further notice, and authorized Clark F. E. Lamson to issue checks for monies due DeCotton and Boggs, the Bondholders' Protective Committee and the United Mutual Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Kendall and daughter, Eliza, of Live Oak spent last night here as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Huff.

Campbell Fidgets As Tide Ruins Course

DAYTONA BEACH, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The day of the big tide also should have been the day of the big wind—came and went yesterday, and Sir Malcolm Campbell and his giant racing car Bluebird remained quietly on the beach, unable to run for the automobile speed record they held jointly at 221.8 miles an hour, but were better conditioned, getting worse instead of better as rain continued intermittently for the third straight day, but only a perfect once of wind and tide could repair the damage of the past few days.

CELERY BOARD TO CONSIDER PRO-RATION

The celery board today will consider a proposal to limit the movement in proportion to the demand for the vegetable.

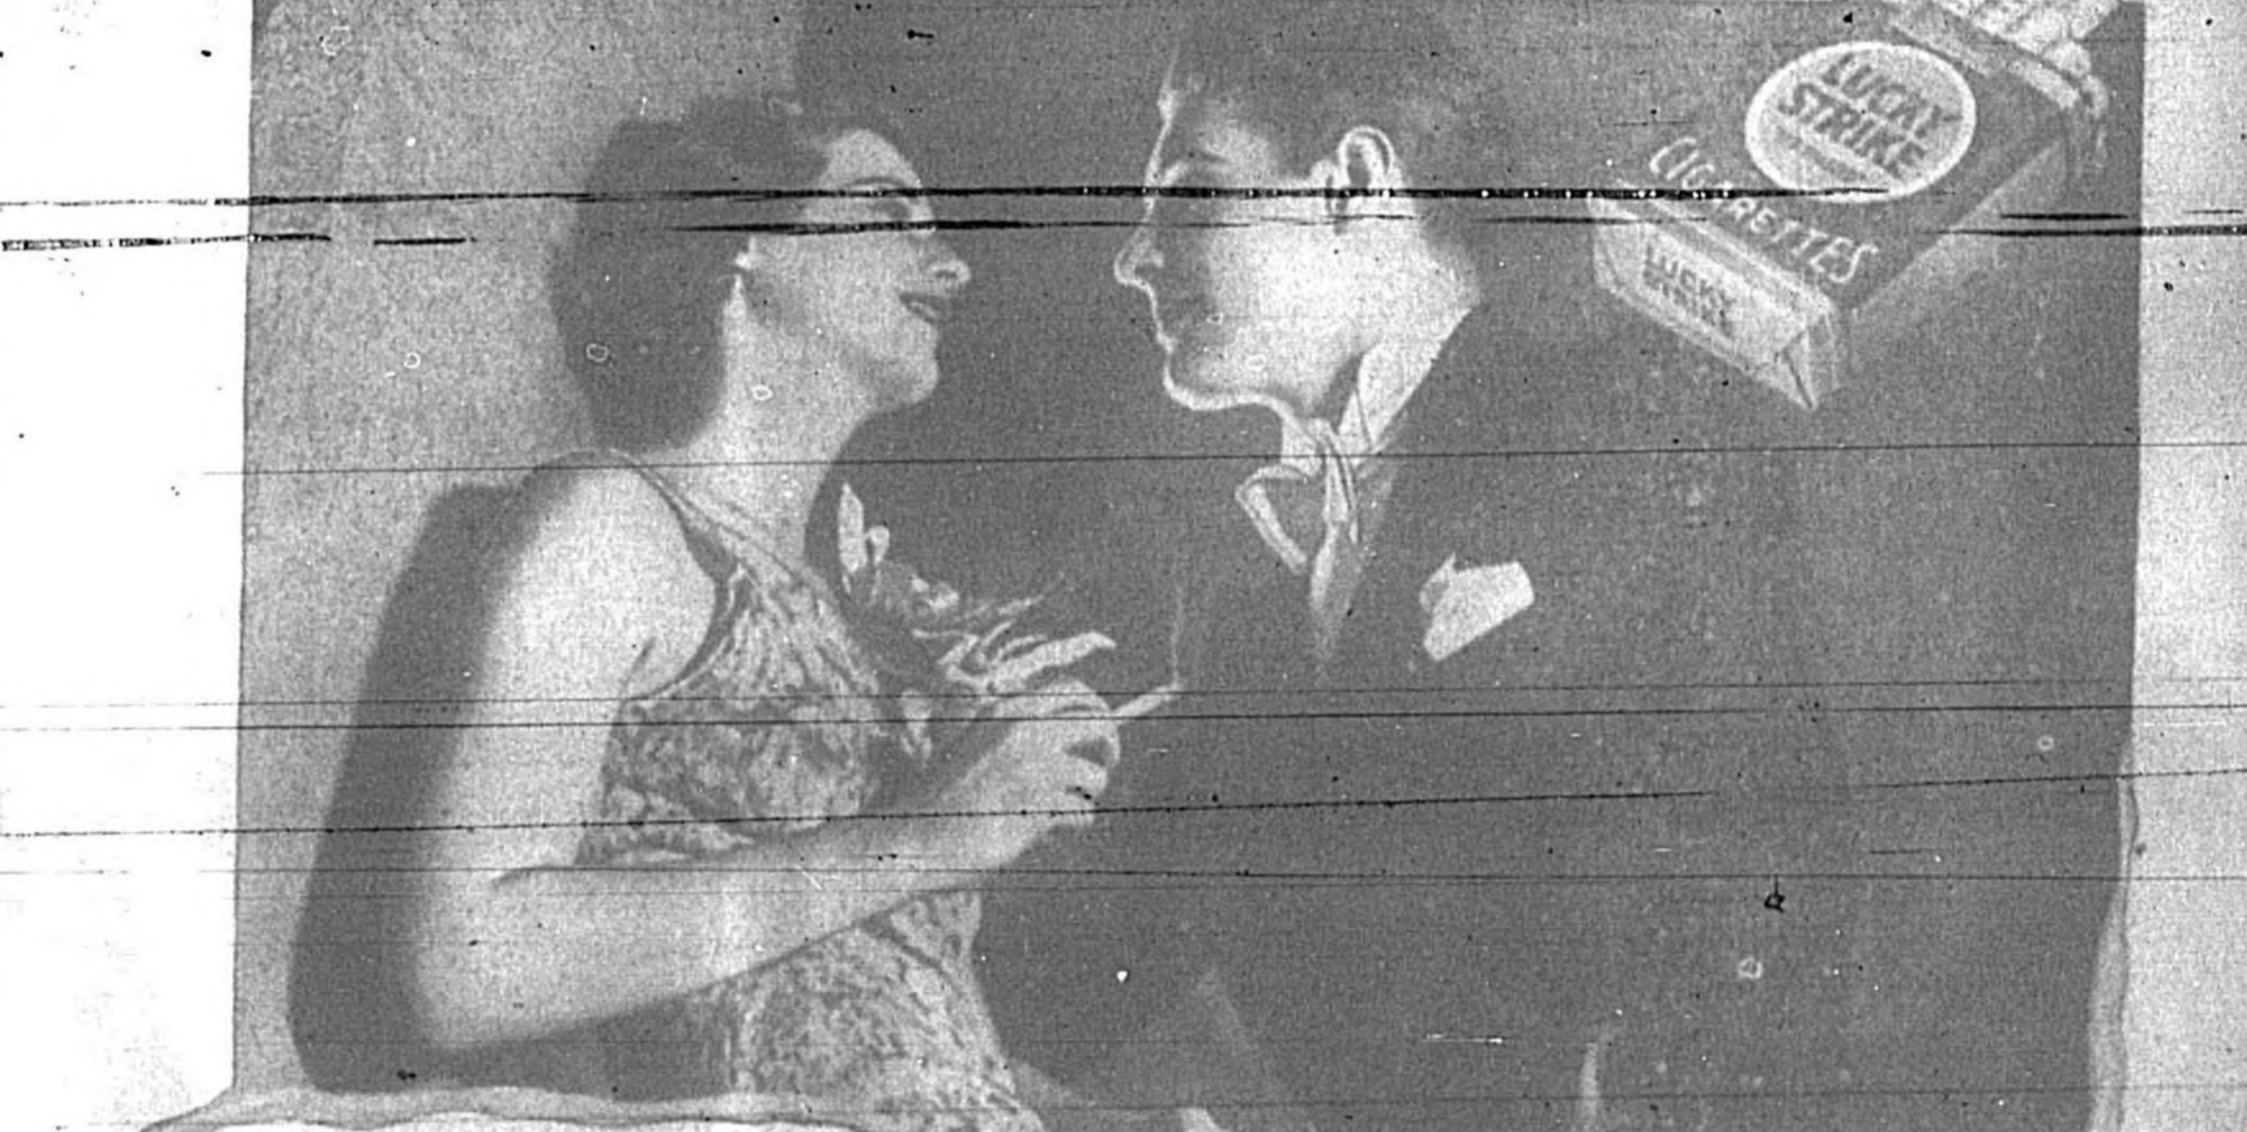

Mr. Board stated that the committee's reply to this suggestion was that Florida will not restrict its movement this week, but is contemplating a pro-ration period for next week, with final decision to be made Saturday.

After the two groups had agreed to plan for the pro-ration period, Mr. Board named Mr. William of Sarasota, Mr. Dalrymple of Manatee, Mr. Lee of Oviedo and John Mancel, Sr., and E. B. Chapman of Sanford, as the committee which is to verify the estimated shipment for next week.

The opinion appeared to be that as soon as the trade understands that the Committee "means business and is not just talking," it will respond by investing its money in celery.

An interested listener at last night's meeting was State Marketing Commissioner L. M. Rhodes who congratulated the two groups upon the "fine spirit of co-operation which is being manifested between the sections."

Attending the meeting in Sanford last night were: R. B. Chapman, who presided, R. E. Spurren, B. F. Wheeler and C. S. Lee of Oviedo, Mr. Rhodes and State Marketing Specialist S. W. Hatt of Jacksonville, A. Deak of Live Oak, M. L. Cullum, A. W. Wilson, C. Bell, R. G. Hickson, Herman Brown, J. E. Wathen, J. Howell Fish, F. F. Dorner, J. C.

Escape from thoughts and nightmares about the fate of the man who kidnapped her two years ago was given by Mary McElroy as the theme of the first Monday from her home in Kansas City and started by her in Chicago. The daughter of the city manager of Kansas City said she worried over the fact that her testimony had helped bring a death sentence to the kidnaper and prison terms to the others. She is shown, tired and nervous, at Normal, Ill., where she was taken from a boat and held until relatives came for her by plane. (Associated Press Photo)
