

Up 'N' Down

Gas Prices Fall Slightly Nationally, But Going Up Locally

Gasoline prices are falling slightly nationally and oil expert Dan Lundberg predicts pump prices nationwide will drop another 3-cents a gallon by the end of the year.

While these figures may be true nationally, here in Seminole County the price of gasoline will rise 4-cents a gallon on Thursday, and at least one local oil company predicts that it is more than likely service stations will add another penny to the price paid by motorists to cover the expense of collecting the new county-imposed tax.

Earl Higginbotham, owner of Earl Higginbotham Oil Co. of Sanford, said gasoline stations while collecting the tax will have to charge the extra penny to cover bad debts and handling costs, adding if they sent the tax money on to the state late they have to pay a heavy penalty.

Higginbotham said with the four-cent county tax, motorists will be paying a total of 22.7 cents per gallon in taxes on motor fuel. "There's the 9 cents federal tax; the 9.7 cents per gallon — almost 10 cents — in state tax and now the county's 4 cents," he said.

"This is ridiculous," Higginbotham said, noting he has been in the motor fuel business for the past 54 years.

But based on his latest 50-state Lundberg Survey, Lundberg said that the average price of gasoline fell only a fraction of a cent nationally during the past two weeks — to an average 125.12 cents a gallon and a drop of 0.17 cents.

The price leader, regular leaded at self-serve, was 115.36, down 0.26 cents a gallon. Regular unleaded at self-serve was 122.46, down 0.21.

At full-service pumps, regular leaded was 131.73 cents, down 0.09. Regular unleaded was 137.88, down only 0.04.

But, Lundberg noted, wholesale gasoline prices — without taxes — were at 94.14 cents a gallon, down more than half a cent at 0.52, and the dealer profit margin was 9.34 cents on average nationally.

At self-service pumps dealers were getting only a weighted average of 5.04 cents a gallon, but at full-service islands, the margin was 20.45 cents.

The overall drop at full-service was only 0.06 cents a gallon, Lundberg said, but it was 0.22 at self-service.

"This indicates continuing fierce competition out there," he said.

Prices for regular leaded at self-service went up fractionally, 0.20 cents, on the East Coast and dropped by nearly a cent and a half, 1.47, on the West Coast, he said.

He said dealers on the East Coast experienced a modest falling off of available gasoline inventories as the summer progressed, but West Coast inventories have risen and prices have dropped correspondingly.

Lake Mary Will Pay For Sewer Plant Repairs

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

A new problem has popped up at the sewer plant which serves The Forest mobile home community in Lake Mary. And this time the city will have to foot the bill for repairs.

This time the city of Lake Mary is fully responsible for the costs.

At a special meeting of the city commission late Friday afternoon, Public Works Director Jim Orioles said one of two sewage pumps that operate the plant burned out and that check valves at the facility also are not functioning properly.

He said a rebuilt pump will cost $1,500 while a new one would cost $2,279. Cost of replacing the check valves, he estimated at another $978.80 and cost of labor for taking out and replacing the pump is $300.

The commission voted unanimously to buy a new pump and pay the other costs for the valves and the labor, totaling more than $3,500.

In addition, Commissioner Ray Fox recommended that the old pump be looked at with an eye toward rebuilding it for emergency use.

If the old pump is rebuilt, the total cost of the expenditures will top $5,000, nearly one-third of the sewer system reserves of $15,336.

The sewage treatment plant has been a problem for Lake Mary officials for months because of percolation ponds which refuse to percolate.

Officials at First Federal Savings and Loan of Orlando has said they will work on the percolation ponds to try to solve the problems with their failure to percolate.

In answer to a letter from City Attorney Robert G. Petree, officials at the savings and loan institution said if the city will pump the water out of first one of the percolation ponds and then the other, their engineers will dry out and scrape the ponds and then they will function properly.

The city has sent bills to the savings and loan institution totaling $3,347.78 for work the city has done over the past five months trying to stop the ponds from overflowing their banks. In addition, Madeleine Minns, city treasurer, said a third bill is being prepared for another $666.64 for costs of working on the ponds.

Orioles said today his crews have pumped out the ponds four times over the past five months to keep them functioning in even a limited fashion.

The city threatened to take the institution to court to force it to fulfill its guarantee on the ponds that was given to the city more than two years ago when the plant was deeded over at no cost to the city.

As for replacing the faulty pump at the plant, Fox noted Friday afternoon that the city commission has "gotten a lot of heat from Forest residents over the sewer system reserves" and some of those residents have demanded that the money in the reserves be refunded to them. Part of each sewer bill includes a small differential for reserves.

"This serves to show that the reserves are necessary and how quickly the fund can be spent. We've spent all this money in a heartbeat," Fox said, referring to the $3,500 for a new pump and check valves.

Orioles said there is no immediate danger of raw sewage overflowing from the plant into the yards of the mobile homes, adding he expects the new pump to be installed early this week. In the meantime the second pump is functioning.

37,500 Students Enter School In Seminole

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

About 37,500 students and 2,000 teachers were expected today for the first day of classes at the Seminole County School District's 42 schools.

The projected enrollment represents an increase of about 1,500 students over enrollment at the beginning of school last year. An increase had been projected because of development in the county, particularly in the Oviedo, Casselberry, Forest City and Wekiva areas.

School officials in those areas said the number of new students who signed up for classes during the summer months exceeded school board predictions. But those weren't the only areas which experienced growth.

At Seminole High School in Sanford, the number of new students far outstripped the number anticipated, according to Principal Wayne Epps. He said many of those students had previously attended private schools.

The district was projecting attendance of about 1,750 at Seminole High.

Seminole High will also receive about 550 students from Crooms High School, the ninth grade center which was closed by the school board this year. Crooms had handled all ninth grade students in Seminole High's attendance zone since a 1970 federal desegregation order. Prior to the desegregation order the school had been attended primarily by black children.

The board's decision to close Crooms was challenged by a group of blacks who wanted the school kept open. But a U.S. District Court judge in Orlando said the board could close the school this year if it is re-opened for regular use as a school in the 1984-85 school year. District officials are currently studying how the school will be used next year.

A new school also opened its doors to students for the first time today. Keeth Elementary School in Winter Springs, named after 16-year school board member Allan F. Keeth, opened to about 550 students today. The school was built to alleviate crowding at Red Bug Elementary School near Casselberry. About 435 students who attended Red Bug last year were transferred to Keeth this year.

At Oviedo High School and Lawton Elementary School students and teachers will utilize portable classrooms to cope with crowding. Oviedo High officials are expecting about 1,700 students in a facility built for 1,100. Lawton will have 650 students but the portables are needed while an old building is torn down and a new wing is built at the school.

At left, Amber Stenstrom, 6, contemplates her second grade activities before entering South Side Elementary School in Sanford, while Amanda Hope Carroll, 5, above, a kindergarten at Wilson School in Paola wears a they-can't-scare-me look.

Also in the planning stage is Hamilton Elementary School behind the school board offices on Mellonville Avenue in Sanford. That school is expected to be open for the 1984-85 school year and replace Sanford Grammar, South Side and Hopper elementary schools which will be closed.

Telephone Company Near Normal Today

Members of the Communications Workers of America and two smaller unions are back at their jobs with Southern Bell today and routine service has been restored to normal in the Sanford area, according to Sanford Southern Bell manager Larry Strickler.

But Strickler said it could be two weeks before phone installers catch up with requests for new installation which were made during the strike.

The Southern Bell offices in Sanford opened at 8:30 a.m. today, half an hour earlier than usual. "We'll have open lines for incoming calls to take as many new connections as possible."

Phone installation and operator-assisted long distance and information calls were affected by the strike which began Aug. 7 and affected about 130 Southern Bell employees in the Sanford area. An agreement reached late last week sent operators and installers back to their consoles and repair trucks today.

Management personnel manned the long distance and directory assistance switchboards during the strike but requests for new service were not accepted during the strike. Strickler said only a handful of emergency connections were made during the strike. Normally, more than 100 connections are handled each week.

"It could be 10 days to two weeks before we're completely back to normal," Strickler said.

But he added that procedural changes made during the strike could enable workers to expedite service.

"Service may be better than before," he said. "Anytime you have a strike and management has to do the nitty gritty parts of the business you uncover some things that can be corrected."

He said new procedures have been adopted giving priorities to certain tasks and letting other, less productive tasks, wait.

The strike — the second longest in the history of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. — officially ended at 2:05 a.m. EDT Sunday, in time for 675,000 phone workers to resume a normal business week for the first time since they walked off the job.

Cities Want Gas Tax Share For 10 Years

Seminole's cities may go to the Florida Legislature in 1984 to try to force Seminole County to share revenues from the 4-cent county imposed gasoline taxes for the life of the 10-year tax.

In a memo to city commissioners, Sanford City manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles recommends going to the Legislature to force county officials to devise a distribution plan which is good for more than one year. City commissioners are scheduled to meet in work session at noon Tuesday in city hall at 300 N. Park Ave. to discuss the city's transportation needs and how to spend the $320,000 Sanford expects to receive in fiscal 1983-84 from the county gas tax.

The county has agreed to use a distribution formula designated in the state law which permits the county to levy the new 4-cent per gallon tax beginning Thursday. But the county has committed itself only to a one-year distribution plan.

The state formula calls for the sums spent by the county and the individual cities to be added together and an average percentage for each of the governing bodies computed and then applied to the $3.4 million expected in revenues from the tax in fiscal 1983-84. Under that plan the county would receive 65 percent of the tax revenues and the cities would share the remaining 35 percent.

2 Marines Killed; Shiites Grab TV Station In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite militiamen seized a government television station in daylong street fighting and artillery battles today that killed two U.S. Marines and wounded seven others, radio reports said.

The first Marines to die in actual combat in Lebanon were killed during a five hour barrage of mortar fire that struck U.S. positions outside the airport just south of Beirut, Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said.

The Marines returned fire for the first time since arriving in Lebanon last summer, using two Cobra helicopter gunships, 155mm Howitzers and 81mm mortars against Shiite Muslim positions south of Beirut, Jordan said.

Christian Phalange radio said 60 armed men from the Shiite Amal militia group stormed the government television station in Tallat Khayyat in West Beirut.

The radio said the gunmen threatened the employees if they did not cooperate and a picture of Musa Sadr, a Shiite Muslim who disappeared five years ago, appeared on two channels with a commentary.

The takeover came amid daylong warfare that erupted as the Lebanese army conducted a house-to-house search in Shiite neighborhoods for gunmen who attacked a joint U.S.-Lebanese road checkpoint Sunday, engaging the Marines in their first full gunbattle.

Street fighting quickly spread to the center of Beirut and Muslim west Beirut as armed men fanned out through the capital, exchanging fire with the Lebanese army, state-run Beirut radio said.

The airport remained closed for a second day because of shelling and Christian east Beirut was effectively cut off from Muslim west Beirut due to sniper fire and sporadic clashes on major arteries.

State-run Beirut radio broadcast a warning to citizens to keep off the streets.

"Most streets are dangerous," the broadcast said.

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

Reubin Askew Laments Begin's Plan To Resign

MIAMI (UPI) — Former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew Sunday lamented the decision of Israel Premier Menachem Begin to resign, calling him a "forceful leader."

Askew told more than 300 condominium owners on a stop in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for president, Begin was understandably "deeply affected" by the death of his wife last November.

Askew also told his audience that the nation's relations with Israel had deteriorated under President Reagan.

"This country needs Israel and Israel needs this country," Askew said.

Dolphin Found Dead

MIAMI (UPI) — A dead dolphin with what appeared to be two bullet wounds in his tail was found along the Rickenbacker Causeway.

The remains of the adult mammal, which apparently had been dead a couple of days before it was found Sunday, was taken to the nearby Seaquarium for an autopsy.

The Seaquarium also was the site Sunday of its first Dolphin birth in three years. The pup was described as in "very delicate" condition and veterinarians were watching it closely.

Another Dolphin born exactly a week before at Fort Lauderdale's Ocean World died over the weekend of unknown causes. It was named after Miami Dolphin defensive lineman Bob Baumhower, because the former Alabama star was in the pool with the mother when she went into labor.

Oil Tanker Loosed

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — An Amoco oil tanker carrying 240,000 barrels of gasoline has been freed without damage after running aground off the Florida coast.

Coast Guard officials said the 15,000-ton Amoco Delaware got stuck in shallow water less than one mile from Port Everglades south of Fort Lauderdale on Saturday.

The vessel became stuck during low tide but was freed during high tide Sunday morning. No damage to the tanker was reported, said Lt. Joel Sasser.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Violent thunderstorms lashed the nation from the Rockies to the East Coast but did little to ease the steamy 100-degree heat that shriveled crops in what officials are calling the worst drought since the Dust Bowl of the 30s. The storms battered the Southeast Sunday with heavy rains and 68-mph winds while Hurricane Barry fizzled out and slid ashore over desolate northeast Mexico. With Hurricane Alicia still fresh in their minds, some 10,500 people fled their coastal Texas homes, but were allowed to return as Barry died out. Thunderstorms rumbled from North Dakota to Minnesota, spinning twin tornadoes and bombing Reillys Acre and Fargo, N.D., with baseball-sized hail. Eighty-mph winds rushed through Osakis, Minn. Thunderstorms knocked out power in Minnesota and New Jersey and downed trees in New York.

Teen To Be Tried As Adult In Bomb Case

A 16-year-old Fern Park boy accused of planting a pipe bomb near a doctor's home was charged as an adult and faces 15 years in prison if convicted.

Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler set a $2,500 bond for Daniel Huguenard, 16, of 330 Spartan Drive, at a Friday hearing.

Huguenard posted bond and was released from Seminole County jail.

Assistant State Attorney Kurt Erlenbach said he will also seek adult charges against a 15-year-old Fern Park boy who admitted making the bomb.

Leffler will hold a hearing Sept. 8 to determine if Scott H. Andrew, of 1921 Collier Drive, will also be tried as an adult. Leffler released Andrew to his parents.

The 8-inch pipe bomb was found a week ago in some bushes near the front door of the home of Dr. Victor Hochman, 2141 Yarmouth Road.

Investigators said that if it had exploded it could have destroyed part of the living room wall. It failed to detonate due to faulty wiring.

Detectives say Huguenard placed the bomb at the home the afternoon of Aug. 3 because he wanted revenge for an incident several years ago in which Hochman reported the boy to police. Huguenard had been involved in an act of vandalism against Hochman's home, detectives said.

The said Huguenard bought the bomb from Andrew for $30.

Hijackers Set Deadline; One Of The Hostages Ill

By United Press International

Four hijackers holding an Air France jetliner at the Tehran airport with 17 hostages aboard, including three Americans, warned today they would order the plane into the air unless France met their political demands.

An Air France official in Paris said the Arabic-speaking hijackers set a new deadline for 6 p.m. Tehran time (10:30 EDT) after their earlier ultimatum passed without incident at 2:10 p.m. (6:40 EDT).

A Tehran airport control tower official said "The plane is still here," in a telephone call to London. "We don't know when the plane will take off."

Tehran Radio said the four hijackers were armed with guns and grenades. The Boeing 727 has stood on a runway at Mehrabad Airport, surrounded by Iranian police, for more than 24 hours.

Iranian officials denied a hijackers' request that a nurse be sent into the jetliner to take care of two sick hostages, one of them a Frenchwoman. The officials demanded instead the two be released, said Iranian government sources reached by telephone.

After negotiations between the hijackers and officials in the control tower, the ill hostages were briefly allowed to leave the plane for medical treatment. But they then returned to the plane, the sources said.

Earlier Iranian foreign ministry officials summoned French Charge D'Affaires in Tehran, Jean Perrin, and demanded an "early resolution of the hijacking," Tehran radio said.

The 17 passengers and crew members were reported "safe" this morning by a Mehrabad control tower official who spoke with UPI by telephone.

"They are in the airplane, but I cannot give you more information about them," said the airport official, who declined to give his name. "I tell you only they are in the aircraft and the crew has not been released yet."

In Paris, Air France officials said the hijackers warned they would force the plane to take off and continue its 3,500-mile odyssey unless France gave "an immediate response" to a set of political demands.

"They are asking for a reply in the next few hours," an airline spokesman said. "They are threatening to take off for an unknown destination this morning if their demands are not met."

The French foreign ministry said the hijackers demanded that France release unspecified prisoners from jails and justify French policy in the Iran-Iraq war, the Chad conflict and the Lebanese crisis.

Tehran Radio, however, said the hijackers had specifically demanded the release of Lebanese prisoners in French prisons.

— Michelle Rose Pernicano, 22, of 240 Quail Circle, Casselberry, was arrested Aug. 20 on U.S. Highway 17-92 at Normandy Road in Casselberry at 2:35 a.m. when police noticed that he was driving with his high light beam on facing oncoming traffic.

Challenger Is 'Go' For Night Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The shuttle Challenger was reported in "fantastic" shape, the weather was great and America's first black space crewman and his four colleagues were set for launch at 2:15 a.m. EDT Tuesday in a nighttime spectacular.

The spaceship's two pilots, veteran Richard Truly and rookie Daniel Brandenstein, practiced emergency landings early today on the 3-mile Kennedy Space Center runway they would return to in the event of a launch emergency.

Astronauts Robert Crippen and Paul Weitz — commanders of the two previous shuttle missions — rode with Truly and Brandenstein as they guided two NASA shuttle training jets from a black midnight sky onto a glowing marshland runway illuminated by eight searchlights.

Mission specialists Dale Gardner, William Thornton and Gulon Bluford, one of four blacks in the NASA corps, reviewed their checklists for the six-day orbital mission before the crew met for a pre-dawn "lunch."

Launch director Al O'Hara said forecasters were predicting "the best weather we've ever had" for launch hour. Mission managers reviewed all aspects of preparations for the nation's eighth space shuttle flight Sunday and said everything was "go."

Six rats that will make the trip in a sophisticated cage called an Animal Enclosure Module were to be selected from a group of 15 "astronaut" candidates later today. They go aboard the Challenger tonight.

Also aboard are 260,000 commemorative stamped envelopes the Postal Service will sell for $15.35 apiece. NASA and the Postal Service will split the profit. The countdown went into a 10-hour 55-minute "hold" — a planned rest period — on schedule at 2 a.m. today.

Engineers were prepared to pump a half million gallons of supercold liquid hydrogen and oxygen into Challenger's massive external fuel tank at sunset today. Fueling was to be completed at 10 p.m.

The astronauts were scheduled to be awakened the same time. Their schedule called for them to board the Challenger at midnight.

"Everything is just fantastic," said Lt. Gen. James Abrahamson, associate NASA administrator in charge of the shuttle program.

This is the first shuttle mission to begin and end at night and the astronauts have been working "graveyard shift" hours in recent days to get acclimated to their unusual work schedule.

The night launch is necessary because of the launch requirements for the $50 million Indian communications satellite scheduled to spring out of Challenger's cargo compartment early Wednesday.

The space agency predicts the rising space machine will be visible within 450 miles of the cape. That means people as far north as South Carolina and as far west as Alabama should be able to see the fiery exhaust as a bright orange fireball climbing skyward.

Reagan Sees No Major Shift In U.S., Israeli Ties

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — President Reagan was surprised by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin's announced intention to resign but doesn't expect any major shift in U.S.-Israeli ties or the Middle East peace process, aides say.

Begin's announcement and a clash between U.S. Marines and Shiite Moslems came at what presidential spokesman Larry Speakes described as "an important and critical time in the peace process." The developments also came as Reagan began a week of long-sought leisure on his 688-acre ranch.

Reagan learned of Begin's announcement from White House chief of staff James Baker. He discussed the implications with national security adviser William Clark in a second telephone call a short time later.

The exchange of gunfire between U.S. Marines and Shiite Moslem militiamen — the first time U.S. members of the multinational peace-keeping force had returned fire — confronted them with another short-term crisis.

2 Sought In Slaying

JOLIET, Ill. (UPI) — Authorities hunted for two suspects in the slaying of an elderly widow and hoped fingerprints found in her home might match those at the scene of 16 other murders in the area this summer.

The victim, Mary Mae Johnson, 82, probably was beaten and stabbed to death with two knives and two other objects, one blunt and one rounded, Will County Coroner Robert Tezak said Sunday.

"That makes it appear two people probably were involved because of the multiple death instruments," he said.

Mrs. Johnson's blood-spattered body was found Friday in her home, about three miles from a small pottery shop where four women were found stabbed and shot to death Aug. 20. Mrs. Johnson's body was discovered by a man delivering newspapers.

The slaying of the elderly woman brought to 17 the number of violent deaths in the Joliet area in the past two months. The quiet, working class area is southwest of Chicago.

Last Fugitive Sought

ATMORE, Ala. (UPI) — A posse of police officers using tracking dogs today recaptured the 10th of 11 inmates who cut through the fence at a maximum security prison and escaped under heavy gunfire. A convicted murderer was still at large.

A Highway Patrol spokesman said that Kenneth Henley, 47, serving 25 years for robbery and escape, was caught at 12:22 a.m. CDT, about 2 miles from the prison.

More than 35 officers with trained dogs continued to search for the remaining fugitive, identified as Howard Barr, 26, who was sentenced to life without parole for murder.

Prison officials were investigating the break, the second largest ever at Holman, which houses the state's male death row inmates. Investigators were questioning inmates and guards to determine how the prisoners managed to cut through the metal fences surrounding the facility.

Nicaraguan Minister Sees 'Another Vietnam'

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Fighting between the Sandinista army and American-backed rebels could soon involve U.S. troops but they "will have a worse time than they did in Vietnam," Interior Minister Tomas Borge says.

His statements came Sunday with a claim security forces surprised anti-Sandinista rebels in a northern province, killing 16 insurgents in the 10th day of heavy fighting near the border with Honduras.

Barricaded, official newspaper of the leftist Sandinista Party, quoted Borge as saying fighting could worsen in the next few days and could involve U.S. troops, a charge the Sandinistas have frequently made.

A Hero Welcomed Home

CONCEPCION, Philippines (UPI) — Benigno Aquino came home for the last time today and tens of thousands of friends and neighbors lined the main road for an emotion-packed final farewell to the slain opposition leader.

In the capital, the newspaper Tempo reported the government declared a "red alert" for all members of Metropolitan Manila police forces after reports that demonstrations are planned to coincide with Aquino's burial Wednesday.

The English-language daily quoted police sources as saying all police leaves have been canceled and officers were placed on 24-hour standby alert.

It appeared nearly all Concepcion's 80,000 people left their wood frame and thatch houses today to line the town's main thoroughfare to bid farewell to "Ninoy" Aquino, their best-known native son.

Stone To El Salvador

United Press International

Officials in El Salvador awaited special U.S. envoy Richard Stone today with the prospect he could iron out last-minute details for face-to-face talks between leftist rebels and the government to begin within several days.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said Stone would arrive today in San Salvador from Honduras on his fourth visit to Central America since being appointed in June.

Official Salvadoran sources said Stone would meet with the government-backed Peace Commission, perhaps to arrange the final details of the first-ever face-to-face meetings between the panel and leftist guerrilla leaders.

RGK Inc. equipment rolls along at the construction site of the railroad overpass on State Road 46 in Sanford. RGK Inc. of Burlington, North Carolina, is general contractor of the project. Estimated completion date for the federally funded project costing $2.5 million is Jan. 2, 1984, said Henry Fuller, state Department of Transportation project manager today. The project is right on schedule, Fuller said. The construction site runs seven-tenths of a mile from the railroad crossing west. During the construction phase traffic has been rerouted to the north side of the highway for some distance on 46.

Do Your Children Qualify For The Free, Reduced Price School Meals?

The Seminole County school administration today released the eligibility requirements (see list below) for free and reduced meals for children unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch and School Breakfast programs.

Application forms are being sent out today to all homes with a letter to parents. To apply for free or reduced price meals, the application should be filled out and returned to the particular school or schools children will be attending. Additional copies of the application forms are available at the principal's office at each school.

School authorities point out the information in the application is confidential and will be used only for determining eligibility and may be verified at any time during the school year by school or other program officials, according to Darrell F. Kirkpatrick, assistant director of food service for the school district.

Kirkpatrick said in order for school officials to determine eligibility, "the household must provide the following information listed on the application: names of all household members; social security numbers of all adult household members over the age of 21, or a statement that the household member does not possess one; total household income and the signature of an adult member certifying that the information provided is correct. A change in federal regulations now require that household incomes be verified. In order for the application to be processed, documentation of income must accompany the application."

In addition, according to Kirkpatrick, if there is an increase in monthly income of more than $50 or $600 a year, that must then be reported to the school district, as well as a reduction in the number of household members should that occur after acceptance into the program.

"Under the provision of the free and reduced price meal policy, school officials will review the applications and supporting income documentation and determine eligibility. If a parent or guardian is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he/she should discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. If the parent wishes to make a formal appeal, he/she may make a request orally or in writing to me, D. F. Kirkpatrick, assistant director, school food service; 407 West Fourth St., Sanford, or call me at 323-4220."

"If a household member becomes unemployed or if the household size changes, the family should contact the school. The change may make the children of the household eligible for free or reduced price meals if the family income falls at or below the income levels making them eligible," Kirkpatrick said.

Kirkpatrick also said in certain cases foster children are eligible for these meal benefits. "If a household has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals, the household should contact the school for more information."

Children from families which qualify for the reduced price meal will pay 40 cents for lunch and 30 cents for breakfast, according to Kirkpatrick.

The following is a breakdown of the eligibility requirement according to family size and income for free or reduced price meals. The first list is for free meal eligibility, the second for reduced price meals. The first figure in each category indicates number of persons in the family, the second figure the annual gross income.

the third figure the monthly income and the last figure the weekly income:

Free meal eligibility: Family size: 1, $6,318, $527, $122; 2, $8,502, $709, $164; 3, $10,686, $891, $206; 4, $12,870, $1,073, $248; 5, $15,054, $1,255, $290; 6, $17,238, $1,437, $332; 7, $19,422, $1,619, $374; 8, $21,606, $1,801, $416. For each additional family member in the household, add: annual income, $2,184; monthly, $182; weekly, $42.

Reduced price meal eligibility: Family size: 1, $8,991, $750, $173; 2, $12,099, $1,009, $233; 3, $15,207, $1,268, $293; 4, $18,315, $1,527, $353; 5, $21,423, $1,786, $412; 6, $24,531, $2,045, $472; 7, $27,639, $2,304, $532; 8, $30,747, $2,563, $592. For each additional family member in the household, add: annual income, $3,108; monthly, $259; weekly, $60.

Meet The Candidates Today

A "Meet the Candidates night," sponsored by the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce and moderated by the League of Women Voters of Seminole County will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Lake Mary City Hall, 158 N. Country Club Road.

The special event is scheduled to give city residents an opportunity to meet and hear the seven candidates for three city commission seats whose names are on the ballot in the Sept. 6 city election.

The candidates are: Seat 1, Martin "Marty" Bacon Sr. and Colin Keogh; Seat 3, Robert Stoddard and Harry Terry; and Seat 5, Burt Perinchieff, incumbent, and Arthur "Buzz" Petsof and Dennis Smathers.

Begin Postpones His Resignation Decision

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin has postponed his "final decision" on whether he will resign until later today or Tuesday, Education Minister Zevulun Hammer said.

In a three-hour meeting, Begin heard pleas from his Likud coalition partners to remain as Israel's leader.

"The prime minister agreed to a special request made by his partners in the government coalition to postpone his definite decision to the evening or tomorrow morning at the latest," said Begin's press adviser, Uri Porat.

Porat said the issue was not the coalition or government unity. "The issue is the future of the state of Israel," Porat said.

Begin also promised to call another meeting of the coalition partners before he goes to the president, should he decide to resign.

Ehud Ulmert, a Likud party Knesset deputy who attended the meeting with Begin, said "the scale is still tilting toward resignation."

Before the session adjourned, Cabinet Secretary Dan Meridor arrived at the residence of President Chaim Herzog, Armed Forces Radio said. The report gave no reason for Meridor's visit to the president.

In order to make his resignation official, Begin must tender it to Herzog.

"I received no indication from him he would retreat from his decision," said Likud deputy Ehud Ulmert after meeting with the Israeli leader late Sunday.

Israel Radio reported Begin, 70, told close aides he had not announced his intention to resign Sunday in order to contradict himself a day later.

Nonetheless, Begin agreed to meet with party leaders in his Likud coalition today to consider their pleas that he remain in office.

Israel Television predicted Begin would hand in his resignation to Herzog and designate Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir as his successor. Begin would stay on as caretaker prime minister until a new government was formed.

Herzog would then pick a parliamentary deputy to try to put together a majority government. The nod most likely would go to Begin's designated successor, as leader of the Likud bloc, which currently commands 64 votes in the 120-member Knesset, or parliament.

Alternatively, the Knesset could vote to dissolve itself and hold early elections. Begin's present term, his second as prime minister, ends in 1985.

We Goofed With Berezkhov Case

Maybe 16-year-old Andrei Berezkhov did not want to defect after all, and maybe he was more than willing to return to the Soviet Union with his mother and diplomat father. Maybe. But the State Department could hardly have reached that conclusion with any degree of certainty based on the staged "interview" at the Soviet Embassy or on young Andrei's even briefer encounter with American reporters that afternoon at Dulles Airport.

The regrettable truth is that Andrei Berezkhov did not receive the full measure of protection he was due under American law. The State Department could have insisted that Andrei be given a chance to discuss his wishes in full with U.S. officials. It could have insisted a real interview be conducted in a non-intimidating setting conducive to candor and, if Andrei so wished, a request for political asylum.

Instead, the State Department settled for a "compromise" that kept young Berezkhov in the company and custody of a retinue of Soviet Embassy officials at all times. None of the precious few questions he was allowed to answer came from any official of the U.S. government, as American law all but requires in such circumstances.

Granted that Andrei's age and the possibility of a family conflict made this a special case. But Andrei's very youth and the vulnerability that implies was all the more reason to insist that this boy be given the opportunity to register his feelings outside the shadow of Soviet coercion. Andrei Berezkhov never got that chance.

Denying a 16-year-old the last chance he may ever have to opt for life in a free society was deplorable enough. But the State Department officials who mishandled the Berezkhov affair also permitted Soviet diplomats to circumvent American law on American soil. And that should always be unacceptable at any time and in any circumstances.

However long the diplomatic impasse over Andrei's fate might have lasted, a proper exercise of American sovereignty required that the State Department see to it that the minimal requirements of U.S. law were met. That law was effectively trampled when Andrei Berezkhov was permitted to board his plane at Dulles without having spoken a single word to a single U.S. official.

Cop Killer Bullets

Rep. Mario Biaggi of New York is a former policeman who was wounded 10 times while on duty. This gives him 10 good reasons for sponsoring a bill to outlaw teflon-coated bullets, which are called "cop-killers" because they can penetrate the bulletproof vests often worn by law enforcement officers.

There is no reason why bullets that can penetrate 1½ inches of cold-rolled steel need to be on the shelves of sporting goods stores or elsewhere on the civilian market. Yet the Biaggi bill is by no means assured of easy passage in Congress. It has aroused the resistance of the National Rifle Association and other organizations which oppose legislation that hints at gun control.

The NRA bases its opposition on principle more than any affinity for the teflon-coated bullet. Such legislation, says an NRA lobbyist, attempts to control criminal behavior by controlling an object. Ban a bullet, this argument goes, and the next step is banning guns. We understand why the NRA takes its position but do not agree with it. Surely legislation can be adopted to control especially dangerous ammunition or weapons without lowering all barriers to the kind of gun control the NRA fears.

The Biaggi bill is supported by the International Association of Police Chiefs, which has noted that half of the nation's 500,000 police officers are using bulletproof vests which could not stop the cop-killer bullets. Some ammunition manufacturers have voluntarily abandoned the manufacture of the bullets. A federal law would persuade the rest to follow suit. Congress should stand up to the gun lobby on this issue and pass the Biaggi bill.

Sometimes it just doesn't pay to be Mr. Nice Guy. And Dr. Thomas Hegert of Orlando is finding that out the hard way.

As medical examiner for Florida's 9th district, which includes Orange and Osceola County, he assumed responsibility for the Seminole County medical examiner's office when the Brevard County medical examiner, pleading logistical problems, didn't want Seminole County in his district.

And as a result, Hegert's bosses, Orange County, wound up paying for workers' compensation for an injury suffered several years ago by one of the Seminole County medical examiner's aides.

According to an assistant county administrator in Orange, Seminole directed the claim for workers' compensation to Hegert. Since Hegert is on the Orange County payroll, Orange County was left to pay the workers compensation cost for the employee.

Dr. Hegert said he was trying to help Seminole County when he named at their request Dr. G.V. Garay, Seminole's medical examiner, his assistant and that he provided general supervision of Garay's office all at no charge to Seminole County.

There doesn't seem to be anyone in the county commission office who was there in 1971 and remembers how it all happened.

As attorneys often say, one should not confuse what is morally right with what is legally permissible and Seminole County apparently ended up a winner in this deal.

The Sanford City Commission at a workshop luncheon Tuesday in the city manager's conference room at city hall will review transportation needs to establish priorities for spending Sanford's share of the revenues from the county imposed 4 cent gas tax.

Last week, City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles submitted a three-level list of needs for city-county joint projects, intracity streets and transportation equipment replacement from which the commissioners may select their choices.

However, Knowles believed at the time that the city would be considering a 10-year program with revenues of over $3 million as the city's share of the gasoline tax revenues.

However, county commissioners this week adopted a resolution calling for the $3.4 million it expects the tax to bring in annually to be split on a ratio of 65 percent to the county and 35 percent to be shared by the seven cities for the 1983-84 fiscal year only.

It is expected that Sanford will receive about $320,000 from that source in the new fiscal year.

Clerk of the Circuit Court Arthur H. Beckwith Jr. has held his courthouse office so long that he has become almost a fixture there. All one who wants to talk with him directly need do is call the courthouse number 323-4330 and ask for him and he answers his own office telephone. Come to think of it, perhaps that's one of the reasons why he is returned to his office at every election by the voters.

Dawkins Up For President?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It began a year ago when Pete Dawkins, who has excelled at everything he has ever done, was in bed for six weeks because of back surgery.

Now, one of West Point's most luminous graduates, 1957 Helmsman trophy winner, Rhodes scholar, musician, Princeton Ph.D. and the Army's youngest retired general is looking to new vistas, and despite abundant speculation, he is not yet willing to commit himself to a political career.

Dawkins, 45, dressed casually but impeccably in a blue shirt open at the neck, tan slacks and loafers, sat on his patio and talked about what led him to retire from a brilliant military career and about whether he may run against Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., in 1984.

"The fact is I have no plans to run for political office. I'm certainly not going to launch off at this point right now into a political campaign. That's not where I am."

He weighed his words, and his entire manner during several conversations up to and including a 45-minute interview were convincing evidence he would plot his future with consummate care.

His caution was clear even in refusing to rule out a 1984 race. "Again, I'm uneasy in framing my comments that way," Dawkins replied. "Since I haven't decided what I'm going to do, it's very difficult logically to rule out anything. But the fact is, I sure don't plan on it."

When Dawkins was an all-America halfback, enthusiastic supporters predicted that he was a cinch to become Army chief of staff some day. They were underestimating him. In the eyes of Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, who counts Dawkins as his best friend.

"I think he's the quintessential candidate, if he should run," Cohen said. "He's going to make a wonderful president."

But Cohen said Dawkins should not run for office now, but Kennebec River in Maine.

Reflecting on his changed life, Dawkins said, "It was triggered a year ago when I had back surgery.... It took me out of action for six weeks. My life has been, particularly the last 10 or 12 years, one of very busy times, each day trying somehow to grapple with the challenges of that day, not really standing back and questioning broadly where it all is fitting."

The surgery followed a tennis injury that left him with excruciating pain.

"Suddenly I began to think about things," Dawkins said. "If you're lucky, at my age, you have 20 or 25 vigorous, active years to invest ... and you have an obligation to make that choice consciously, not simply to keep doing what you're doing because you're doing it, but to be convinced that for you that's the most important thing to be doing."

"So Judy and I launched on a kind of 11-month odyssey."

Dawkins said the best counsel he got was from House Chaplain James Ford, who previously was chaplain at West Point.

JEFFREY HART

Are There Any Limits?

The position taken by the Reagan Justice Department in the Grove City (Pa.) College sex discrimination case strikes me as sound and even admirable, but in the present climate of excitement about "women's rights" it will be seen as yet another assault upon such rights. It will almost certainly turn out to be another dose of political arsenic for the administration.

The New York Times has already fulminated over the position taken by the Justice Department. An editorial entitled "Compartmentalized Discrimination," concludes that "minorities and women are not getting the civil rights champions they deserve." The Grove City College case is now pending before the Supreme Court.

It raises profound and troubling issues about the nature of our system, and only from one perspective is it about "women's rights." At its most important level, the case is about the limits of government. It raises the question of whether there are indeed any limits to federal power once a right is asserted and a penny of federal money accepted.

Instead of addressing the great constitutional issues involved, the Supreme Court will probably base its decision on the language of Title IX of the Education Act of 1972. This states that "no person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, or be denied the benefits of, or be subject to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance."

One easily nods assent to that language, since no one would wish to "exclude" or "discriminate," those being obviously bad things; but the trouble comes when the question comes up of just what that language means in practice.

Does "program" and "activity" have a broad or a narrow focus? Any college or university has numerous programs and activities. Does Title IX refer to these? Or does it comprehend the entire operation of the college?

For example, suppose under one of its myriad assistance programs, say the Defense Education Act, the federal government is supporting the study of physics at Old Siwash University. Does Title IX mean only that the physics program there must be free from discrimination? Or does it mean that the federal government is obliged to make sure that, if Siwash has a men's hockey team, it also has one for women.

Grove City College does not receive direct federal support for a single program, but federal money does go to some of its students for tuition. While the Reagan Justice Department concedes that tuition money goes into the general operating fund of the college, and thus filters out to perhaps all of its activities and programs, it argues that the provisions of Title IX apply only to the college's financial aid program.

That is what the Times' editorial calls "compartmentalized discrimination." The Justice Department is trying to limit the ability of the federal government to intervene in the rest of the college's activities. The liberal critics of this view desire no such limits.

But the consequences of that are alarming.

It means that as soon as a college or university accepts, even indirectly, federal support, the government has the right to intervene across the board in absolutely all of its activities. Federal investigation might discover, for example, that in the curriculum of the English Department more works by male authors are being taught than works of female authors. Clearly, something would have to be done about that. Federal power could extend itself into every aspect of the life of the school, from admissions, to hiring, firing and promoting.

All Is Quiet On The Straits

MAKUNG, Pescadores Islands (NEA) — Let me tell you, it wasn't easy getting here.

The original plan was to take the train from Taipei to Kaohsiung — I reported on that, remember? From Kaohsiung there is a ferry to Makung — a four-hour trip and, I thought, a nice change from plane and train.

The ferry, however, was booked full and had been for a week. So were all the flights from Kaohsiung to Makung. This is a very popular vacation spot for Taiwanese, even in the broiling high summer.

Deciding my luck might improve if I flew back to Taipei, from where there are more flights, I did. And it did.

I was on standby, but finally made it here on what is now my top candidate for the world's worst airline, Far Eastern Transport, FAT for short, whose personnel sets a new standard for an attitude of "Why are you bothering me?"

I'll spare you further details, and have only given you these in order to set up this line: Fat chance you'll ever catch me flying FAT again.

Back to "here," the Pescadores — the old Portuguese name, the currently preferred Chinese is Penghu — are a cluster of islands and islets in the Taiwan Straits, where the two Chinas glare at each other across a few miles of water that neither is able to cross.

The islands are a military outpost of considerable strategic importance to Taiwan, of which fact there is ample evidence. Squat concrete bunkers and an occasional observation tower line the road in from the airport.

Military compounds are spotted around the town, armed guards at the gates. Battle-gray ships, in from the straits, tie up at the main pier — the same one where the ferry I didn't take docks — under the melancholy gaze of a semi-hercule statue of Chiang Kai-shek.

But what most advertises Makung's garrison character are the troops. They roam the streets day and night, on duty and off, in American-style — army in field green, navy in crisp white and air force in cool blue.

There is no sense of tension in any of this military show however. The Republic of China is in a continuing state of war with the People's Republic, but this outpost is very much at its ease.

All the real action is down at the fishing wharf and in the gift shops along the main streets where Makung's entrepreneurs push coral jewelry, a local specialty, on the bargain-hunting vacationers from Kaohsiung and Taipei.

As for the wharf, it alone is almost worth the trip. The harbor is packed with brightly painted boats — a vibrant lavender the dominant shade.

If you're at all on the squeamish side, however, forget I've mentioned any of this. It might be best not to visit the wharf before dinner.

It's very quiet in the Taiwan Straits these days. One might almost think the war had gone away.

Aquino's Murder Smells Of Setup

WASHINGTON — The brutal murder of Philippines opposition leader Benigno Aquino Jr. apparently came eight years later than his killers had planned. The world knows the grim end of the drama; perhaps I can report the beginning.

I played a small role in the drama back in April 1975. Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos had jailed his arch rival on charges of murder and subversion. The defiant Aquino claimed the charges were trumped up to stop him from criticizing the Marcos dictatorship.

The case was brought dramatically to my attention by Aquino's mother in a handwritten letter. She expected her son to die. "For freedom, for justice, for truth, he will die," she wrote me.

He could save his own life, she said, if he would abandon his opposition: "If he signs statements endorsing martial law and the New Society, everything will be dropped; he will be released."

She knew in her heart that he would not capitulate but would "die for his convictions. He believes in the freedom of man and his dignity...."

"I really don't know what to do," she concluded. "As a mother, I am 'sorrowful unto death.' Please do something for us here."

All I could do was appeal to Marcos, who had been my friend before he seized dictatorial powers. He responded by return cable that the charges were too serious to be dismissed but would have to go to trial.

"It is my hope," he added, "that you will not listen or give credence to an alleged plot to liquidate former Senator Aquino as mentioned in your cable, for it has no basis in fact."

There was a black edge to his next comment. Marcos mentioned that some witnesses allegedly had been murdered after testifying against Aquino. "If he is released," suggested Marcos, "he might be killed by relatives of the witnesses."

When a dictator advertises in advance that his chief opponent may be killed by unidentified enemies, it has the smell of a setup. As it happened, Aquino had a perfect alibi; he couldn't possibly have killed the witnesses. He was safely in custody when the mysterious witnesses allegedly were done in.

Yet eight years later, after Aquino was gunned down as he arrived back in the Philippines to lead the opposition against Marcos, the dictator resurrected the same implausible story. He suggested on Philippine television that his opponent's assassination may have been arranged by vengeful friends or relatives of those murdered witnesses. Or it could have been the communists. "These are all just theories," he said.

I also have a theory. Aquino was in the custody of Marcos' security forces when he was shot through the head at close range. The assassin had to be close enough that the security guards could have seized him. Instead, they shot him to death, thus leaving no one to interrogate. The crime occurred in a secure area where there were no unauthorized witnesses. Reporters accompanying him were detained on the plane until after the shooting.

It still smells of a setup.

Footnote: The Philippine courts found Aquino guilty and sentenced him to death in 1977. But Aquino refused to defend himself, contending that the verdict had been prearranged by Marcos. The dictator was under international pressure to suspend the sentence and release Aquino when the opposition leader came down with heart trouble. First Lady Imelda Marcos, fearing her husband would be blamed if Aquino died in prison, arranged for his release to get medical treatment in the United States. On a recent visit to this country, she urged Aquino not to return home to lead the opposition. She repeated the 8-year-old warning that unidentified assassins might await him. She was right.

Gaskell, Kingsbury Look Impressive At Jamboree

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

For a pair of Seminole County high school girls, Saturday's Seminole Summertime Cross Country Jamboree at Seminole Community College was a good indicator of things to come in the 1983 season. One is preparing for her final season before the curtain comes down, while the other is just waiting for the curtain to rise.

On one hand, Cindy Gaskell, a senior at Lyman High, is warming up to lead the Lady Greyhounds one more year before exiting the prep scene. On the other hand, Sue Kingsbury, a freshman at Lake Mary High, is getting ready to step in as one of the top runners for the Lady Rams.

While Tampa Leto's Juanita Segura cruised to first place in the girls two-mile, her time of 12:06 was eight seconds better than second place finisher Louis Schweitzer of West Orange, both Gaskell and Kingsbury turned in impressive performances. Gaskell finished in seventh place with a clocking of 12:59.7 while Kingsbury was right behind in eighth place with a time of 13:04.7. Kingsbury's time, if it was a high school meet, would rank her as the third best at Lake Mary behind Kim Averill (12:26) and Liz Stone (13:01).

Saturday's Jamboree may have been a good indicator for individuals, but it wasn't for teams. Kingsbury was the only one of Lake Mary's top seven to run in the Jamboree. The Lady Rams were ranked ninth in the 4A Cross Country Preseason Poll. A few of Lyman's people were also missing as was Lake Brantley's Kathryn Hayward, the 16th ranked runner in the state in the preseason rankings. The Lady Patriots are ranked 4th in the preseason poll.

While Lake Brantley and Lake Mary are ranked in the top 10 in the preseason, Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks could be the first to break into the rankings when the season starts. Five of Lake Howell's top seven, all underclassmen, finished among the top 35 at the Jamboree. Leading the way was sophomore Angie Smith who finished 13th with a time of 13:32.2 followed by junior Lynn Lucas who came in 16th at 13:35.7. A trio of freshmen completed the list as Lisa Samocki finished 28th, Mary Fonseca was 32nd and Martha Fonseca was 35th.

Other than Kingsbury and Gaskell, the top finisher for Lake Mary or Lyman was the Greyhounds' Julie Greenburg who came in 59th. Lyman's Vaun Tschieder was 64th followed by Lake Mary's Tracey Blakely in 69th, Lyman's Robin Wilbur in 74th, Lake Mary's Michelle Osonski finished 102nd and the Rams' Kim Waeger was 106th.

Lake Brantley's top finisher was senior Barbara Holmes who was 18th. Joanne Hayward, a junior, came in 27th followed by Kim Lubenow (50), Kim Pacetelli (54) and Tracy Rowland (58).

The Seminole High girls team will have a completely new look this season as only one runner returns from last year's team (Tonya Payne). In the Jamboree, Debbie

Other places included Katrina Walker (85), Glenda Bass (91), Sheila Crawford (95), Jackie Sims (17:30), Lovisa Strickland (100), Payne (107) and Andrea Sessions (110).

In the boys three-mile, Lyman's Doug McBroom finished fifth at 16:06, he was the only Seminole County boy to finish in the top 10. McBroom was ranked fifth in the state in the preseason poll while the Greyhounds were ranked third.

A pair of Lake Mary runners made the top 20 in the Jamboree as Derek Tangeman came in 12th at 16:33 and Mark Blythe finished 18th at 16:51. Tangeman was 12th in the state preseason rankings.

Largo's Chris Palmer won the three-mile, which was run in a heavy rain, in 15:29. Largo, the top ranked team in the preseason poll, had five of the top ten finishers.

The Seminole High boys team will start to build for the future in 1983 as there is only one senior on the team. The Tribe's top finisher Saturday was Billy Penick who was 33rd at 17:33 followed by Kent Troutman who was 68th at 18:36. Other finishers included Kelly Faint (80), Kelvin Abney (87), Larry Cosby (104), Ray Hardy (116), James Hersey (129) and Vernon Ramassar (133).

In Saturday's other races, Little Kristen Henriquez, of the Sunshine State Striders, almost beat her male counterparts in the 10 and under race as she clocked in at 2:48.1 while the second place girl, Meggan Higgins, had a time of 5:11.5. Henriquez had the second-best

U.S. Gets Best Of Cuba In Track

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — The Pan American Games track and field competition always seems to come down to the United States vs. Cuba, and the 1983 meet was no different in that regard.

What made this one special, however, was the way the U.S. did it. Without most of its male weight throwers, the Americans still ended up as the medal champions, behind superb final-day performances by hurdler Roger Kingdom and relay anchor Elliott Quow.

Pan Am Games

Kingdom, of Pittsburgh, despite starting in the difficult inside lane and facing a headwind, outworked Cuban Alejandro Casanas to the 110-meter final Sunday in 13.44 seconds. Tonie Campbell of Carson, Calif., was third.

The U.S. team got a big lift by winning all four relays, with the highlight being the men's 4 x 100 triumph in 38.49, one of the fastest times in the world this year. Quow, of Brooklyn, N.Y., who at 21 is rapidly maturing into one of the top sprinters anywhere, rallied from a 5-meter deficit on the last leg to overtake Cuba at the wire.

The men's 4 x 400 team set one of five Pan Am records on the day with a time of 3:00.47. Another was the long jump of 21 feet 11 3/4 inches by veteran Kathy McMillan of Knoxville, Tenn.

Following Kingdom's lead, Cindy Bremser of Madison, Wis., and Missy Kane of Knoxville came up with an impressive 2-3 finish in the 1,500 behind 800-meter gold medalist Ranza Clarke of Canada, who had a time of 4:16.18.

The U.S. didn't fare nearly as well in its boxing showdown with Cuba, losing four of six gold-medal bouts. In all, eight of Cuba's 10 fighters won golds on the 12-bout card.

U.S. gold medals were won by Pernell Whitaker, a lightweight from Norfolk, Va., who scored a unanimous decision over Angel Herrera of Cuba, and Louis Howard, a welterweight from St. Louis, who stopped Jose Aguilera of Cuba in the first round.

Sparked by Darrell Pace of Hamilton, Ohio, the U.S. also picked up four gold medals in archery.

Three Californians led the U.S. to gold medals in table tennis and equestrian events. Insook Bhushan of Aurora, who won the women's singles ping-pong title Saturday night, teamed with Diana Gee of San Carlos to win the doubles crown. Anne Kursinski of Pasadena won the equestrian show jumping event.

Oklahoma Is No. 1

Major Hoople and his system have been around a little too long. The Nebraska Cornhuskers will beat Penn State tonight, but they won't be the number one team when the year ends. The Oklahoma Sooners are the No. 1 pick in the '83 Fister Forecast.

Oklahoma has 16 starters returning including the electric Marcus Dupree who could come away with the Heisman Trophy as a sophomore.

The Texas Longhorns will be in the '83 title hunt and they are in the No. 2 spot, with its only loss coming at the hands of Oklahoma. Texas has an early scare when they travel to Auburn to open the season, but Texas will come out on top.

College Football

Even though they may be ranked on top for most of the season, Nebraska will be knocked off in the finale by Oklahoma, sending the Huskers to third in the rankings.

A surprise out of the Pac 10 is the No. 4 pick for 1983. The Arizona Wildcats showed promise a year ago and they have the ingredients to win the Pac 10 and go to the Rose Bowl.

A rather easy schedule will help the Southern Methodist (SMU) Mustangs to the No. 5 spot in 1983 after many people believed they should have been national champs with a 11-0-1 record a year ago.

Gerry Faust will have the Irish back in the thick of things in '83 as Notre Dame is the No. 6 pick in the Fister Forecast.

The USC Trojans have a new coach, and a new system, but they have enough talent to earn my No. 7 preseason spot. USC will finish with a 9-2 record, falling only to UCLA and Notre Dame.

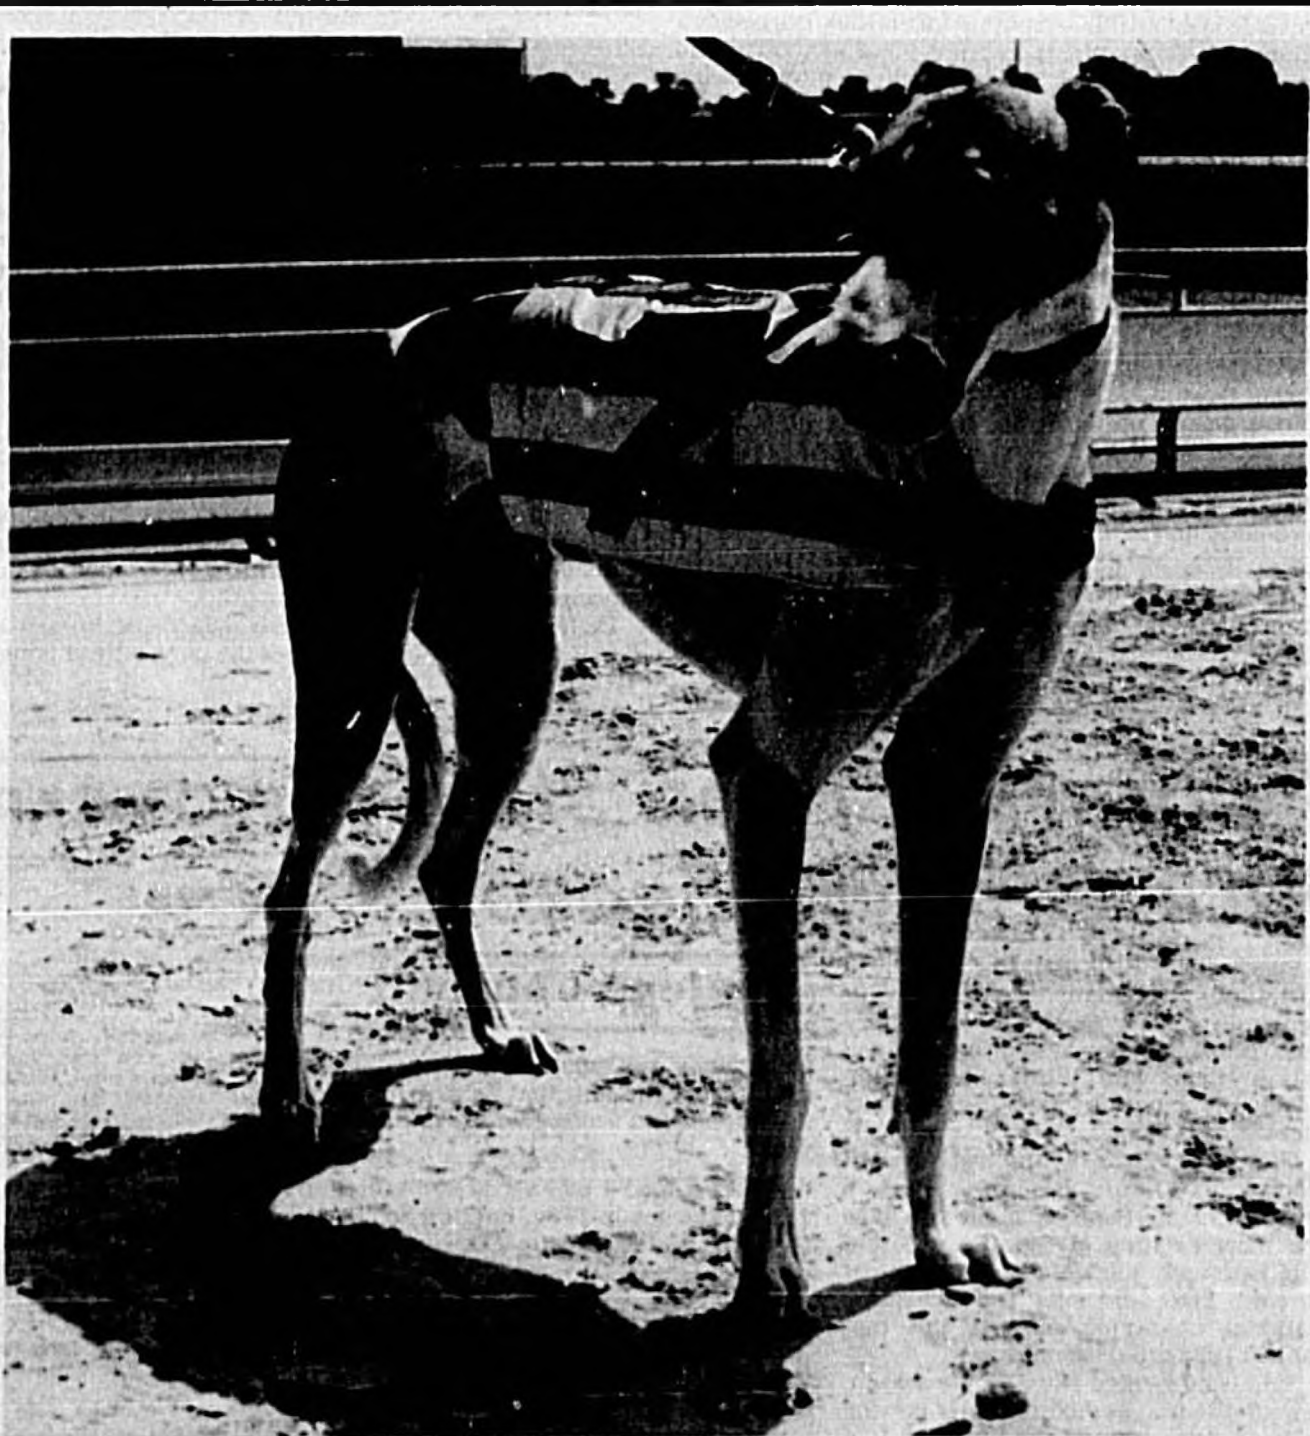

Although they will finish with a 10-1 record, possibly 11-0, a very easy schedule and a loss in its bowl game will turn the pollsters against the North Carolina whore No. 8 on my preseason list.

North Carolina could even be bumped by Michigan, my No. 9 selection. Although they start off tough, with Washington and Wash. State, Michigan should edge out Ohio State for the Big Ten crown.

Although the Bear Bryant era is over, Ray Perkins will have the Alabama Crimson Tide ready for another shot at the SEC title and the Sugar Bowl and the Tide gets my No. 10 selection. Auburn won't be as good as the experts think.

Rooster's Spur sailed to the Super Seminole Puppy Stakes title Saturday in near-record time.

Rooster's Spur Wins Stakes

Dog Racing

Rooster's Spur bolted out to an early lead and sailed to victory in near-record time in the Puppy Future Champions Stake in the season finale at the Super Seminole Greyhound Park. Rooster's Spur bolted out of the number three box and covered the 5-16th course in 30.75. The record this year is 30.74 set by J.D.'s Irma Topper on July 26.

The Spur outran Rare Racer, which finished second and Sargent Bilko came in third. My Unicorn, Tight Schedule, Rowdy Texan, Dash A Poco and More Tax Graham were also in the Puppy Stakes finals but finished out of the money.

Rooster's Spur came in as the favorite of Central Florida racing fans as it amassed 81 points, 21 points more than Rare Racer which came in with the lowest point total put had a 9-2-1 record in 14 starts. Rooster's Spur had one seven of its last eight races prior to the Puppy Stakes. Rooster's Spur is owned by M.C. Manikis and H.A. Phillips and is trained by Jack Shaver of the Wayne Strong kennel.

Major Hooples '83 Forecast

Nebraska Is No. 1

Egad friends, I'm back! Ever since the last bowl games I've been receiving the same inquiry on college football. "Who'll it be in '83?"

Would you believe — kaff-kaff — we may get the answer right off the bat, so to speak, in the Kickoff Classic on Monday, Aug. 29?

Yas, dear readers, the schedule makers have provided us with a Dream Game to get the festivities underway — Penn State, the defending national champion, vs. Nebraska, the defending Big Eight champion at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J.

College Football

For 1983, the Cornhuskers are the Hoople choice for No. 1.

Mike Rozier at I-back is the preseason Hoople choice for the Heisman Trophy.

In the opinion of the Hoople system, the Gill-Rozier-Fryar trio will just be too much for Penn State to contain. We look for a high-scoring affair with Nebraska prevailing, 38-24. Har-umph!

The Texas Longhorns — Hoopie's pick for No. 2 — return six starters on offense and nine on defense. They should win the Southwest Conference crown and a berth in the Cotton Bowl.

Our No. 3 choice, the Oklahoma Sooners, had a mediocre (for them) 8-4 season in '82. But '83 will be very different as Barry Switzer's club is loaded with talent. Kaff-kaff!

Pat Dye has brought his winning formula to Auburn, the No. 4 Hoopie pick. We look for the Tigers to pick up where they left off last season. Hak-kaff!

Defending their well-earned national title will be a difficult, but not impossible task for our No. 5 pick, Penn State.

At Notre Dame — Hoopie's No. 6 pick — Gerry Faust has had his third straight top recruiting year. The Irish are hurting to get back to their accustomed place near the top.

The No. 7 Florida State Seminoles of Bobby Bowden will be an excellent, well-balanced football team. FSU will need super efforts from all concerned.

If Ohio State's Buckeyes, the Hoopie No. 8 pick, can keep winning formula they had in second half of '82, they will make a strong run at the Big 10 title.

North Carolina, No. 9, and Michigan, No. 10, round out Hoopie's top ten.

Schirard-Gladman Vows Spoken In Church Rites

Susan Martha Schirard and W. Daniel Gladman were married Aug. 13, at 3 p.m., at All Souls Catholic Church, Sanford. The Rev. William Authenrieth was the officiating clergyman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. (Jack) Schirard of Sanford.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carolyn Milton, Houston, Texas, and Willard Hallam Gladman, Lakeland.

Mrs. Tammy Layton, vocalist, sang nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal white tulle gown with a ruffled bodice and a ruffled drop shoulder neckline. The fitted bodice was lavishly embellished with Alencon lace and seed pearl motifs. The controlled skirt gracefully cascaded into a sweeping cathedral train, bordered in a double ruffle. A pear-shaped Alencon lace cap held her short tiered veil of illusion gently caught to a soft pouf in the back. She carried a cascading bouquet of blue iris, white stephanotis, white roses and baby's breath with trailing ivy.

Wendy Schirard attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a hyacinth colored taffeta gown with a ruffled neckline and a hairpiece of blue iris and baby's breath. She carried a cascading bouquet of blue iris, white stephanotis, yellow sweetheart roses, lavender baby's breath with purple thistle and ivy.

Bridesmaids were Lori Schirard, cousin, Mary Rogers, Trish Connors and Suzanne Ross. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Jim Henson served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were brothers of the bride, Kurt, Pat and Michael Schirard.

Groomsmen were Bruce Gonzalez, John Ehlenbeck, Steve Layton and Bill Charles.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Mayfair Country Club.

After a wedding trip to the mountains in North Carolina, the newlyweds are making their home at 2050 E. Edgewood Drive, Lakeland.

Treaty Of Paris Bicentennial

National DAR Sets Celebration

Mrs. Walter Hughey King, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, today announced plans for DAR activities to commemorate the bicentennial of the Treaty of Paris, which established the sovereignty of the United States.

Mrs. W.S. Brumley, regent of the Sallie Harrison Chapter DAR, Sanford, says the chapter will join in with the commemoration festivities.

Mrs. King has just returned from Paris where she made arrangements for the DAR to host a midnight supper at the Palace of Versailles Sept. 2, following the Sound and Light Show, which will feature fireworks and lighted fountains. Dignitaries from France, England and the United States will be guests at this event.

The National Society DAR will also dedicate a bronze tablet in memory of the American Peacemakers — John Adams, Benjamin Franklin and John Jay — who negotiated and signed the definitive treaty of Sept. 3, 1783. This tablet will be placed in Yorktown Square near the tablet placed by the DAR in 1932, listing the Frenchmen who died at Yorktown.

Mrs. Gavin C. Barr, Chairman of the NSDAR Treaty of Paris Bicentennial, who accompanied Mrs. King to Paris, noted that more than 3,000 chapters in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, France and other overseas units will hold special programs on the Peace Treaty during a year-long observance. The 210,000 members will participate in numerous projects and activities to "Perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence."

Beauty Lies In Eyes Of Ugly Woman

DEAR ABBY: I just returned home from a consultation with my fourth plastic surgeon. I've always been a very homely woman, and my one wish is to be considered "pretty."

Dear Abby

Surgeon No. 1 told me to learn to live with it. No. 2 called in his receptionist and told me I'd be prettier if I wore my hair like hers. No. 3 agreed with No. 1. And No. 4 told me that since I was already married, I couldn't have been too ugly.

Abby, I've been to make-up artists, hair stylists and I keep my weight down, but I'm still an ugly woman. I've raised a son and made a good home for my husband. Now I want to do something for myself. Don't tell me that beauty lies in the eye of the beholder. It doesn't. Ask any homely person.

Plastic surgeons have performed miracles with accident victims. Why won't they help me? Not one took the time to show me where improvements could or could not be made. All I get is a bill for telling me I should be satisfied with the way I am. Can you help me?

MISERABLE IN P I T T S B U R G H

DEAR ITTERABLE: If four plastic surgeons refused to accept you as a patient, they all must have concluded that regardless of what they did, they could never please you.

Massive reconstruction surgery is possible. Noses are reshaped, jaws are reconstructed, faces are lifted and peeled, etc. But it would require numerous surgical procedures (which are very costly) after which there is no guarantee that you would consider yourself "pretty."

A competent and caring plastic surgeon would have taken the time and effort to explain this to you.

DEAR ABBY: We live in Hawaii, which is about as close to paradise as a person can get without dying.

Of course, we pay for the privilege, as the cost of living here is the highest of anywhere in the United States. I'm sure a lot of people don't know this. That's why I'm writing.

We have many friends who come from the mainland to visit us, and they have no idea how expensive it is to feed houseguests and drive them around sightseeing.

Is there some way we can let them know this without making enemies out of our friends? Hurry your answer, as we are expecting guests in September, October, November and December.

NOT MILLIONAIRES IN HAWAII

DEAR NOT: Yes. Level with them. If they're good friends, they will offer to pungle up. If they're not, who needs freeloaders? Aloha!

DEAR ABBY: Talk about insensitive mothers-in-law, hear this: Twenty-three years ago, shortly after my husband and I were married, he took me to meet his mother for the first time.

Her first words to him were, "Is she pregnant?"

"Of course not," said he.

Says she, "Then why in the world did you marry her?"

Nothing has changed since.

Son Dubs Father Into Knighthood

Paul Mock, right, a member of the Seminole Chapter Order of DeMolay, Sanford, and also a member of the Central Florida Priory, Order of Knighthood, another degree of DeMolay, dubs his father, the Rev. Fritz Mock, left, a knight wh'le Rick Lyle, state chairman of Knighthood, looks on. This honor, a son dubbing his father took place for the first time in Knighthood at the 50th Annual DeMolay Conclave in Sarasota. DeMolay is a fraternal organization for young men sponsored by a group of Free and Accepted Masons. Membership is open to interested young men, 13-21, who believe in God.

Dawn J. Gress Bride Of Richard F. Smith

Dawn Janette Gress and Richard Franklin Smith were married July 16, at 7 p.m., at Church of Good Shepherd, Maitland. Father Jim Shortless performed the candlelight and double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lincoln Sanders, Altamonte Springs. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mathew Smith, 2014 Mellonville Ave., Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal long-sleeved white chiffon gown fashioned along the Victorian silhouette. The lace bodice was enhanced with motifs of pearls and sequins. The controlled skirt gracefully cascaded into a flowing chapel train. A lace hat held her tiered veil of imported illusion. She carried a white orchid cascade interspersed with baby's breath.

Mrs. George Knox, Orlando, attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore an off-the-shoulder styled peach taffeta gown and carried a candle surrounded by peach roses and white orchids.

Bridesmaid was Mrs. Harold Amat of Ocoee. Junior bridesmaid was Jennifer Britt Sanders, sister of the bride. Altamonte Springs. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Charles Park III served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Jim Smith, brother of the bridegroom, Jim Talmadge and Bob Gatchel. Groomsman was Roy B. Dalton.

The reception was held at the Westmonte Civic Center, Altamonte Springs.

Following a wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, the newlyweds are making their home at College Park, Orlando. The bride is a court reporter employed by The Reporting Company of Orlando. The bridegroom is an auditor employed by Martin Marietta, Orlando.

QE2, Other Cruise Ships Flunk Sanitation Tests

ATLANTA (UPI) — The luxury liner Queen Elizabeth 2 and almost half the passenger cruise ships that sail from U.S. ports do not meet sanitation standards, federal health officials say.

Names of the cruise ships failing to meet the sanitation standards, and those that passed, were listed Sunday by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Service, which oversees the operations of the U.S. Public Health Service and the national Centers for Disease Control.

Quarantine officials found 27 of the 67 ships inspected did not meet sanitation standards set by the CDC.

Most of the inspections of the ships were carried out within the last few months.

The QE2 was one of 16 ships that failed among a group of 50 that regularly sail from U.S. ports. Of nine other ships that sail on a seasonal basis from U.S. ports, four did not meet the standards. Of eight other vessels that occasionally sail from American ports, seven failed the test.

The inspections are conducted semi-annually, with followup inspections done on an "as needed" basis.

Chuck McCance of the CDC said the inspections program was started in 1975, following "several large outbreaks of gastrointestinal illness aboard ships in the 1970s."

Ships that flunk the sanitation inspection are not subjected to penalties, said McCance, who described the program as a "cooperative" effort of the federal government and the cruise ship industry.

"But if we found a situation that was a threat to public health we could recommend to the company that owned that ship that the ship not sail," he said. "That has happened a couple of times in the last seven or eight years. They have always complied with our recommendations in regard to canceling cruises."

He said the fact a ship has failed to meet the standards does not mean there is an imminent threat to the health of those on board. "But the chances are greater they could get ill on that ship than on one that has met the standards," he added.

Hypoglycemia: It's Overused

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—Can you send me some information on hypoglycemia? For the past year I have been having muscle spasms around my middle rib section and have lost around 40 pounds.

At first the doctor thought I had an ulcer but after running tests and X-rays he couldn't find anything other than some degeneration in the spine. He sent me to a bone specialist who sent me to a neurologist who sent me back to my original doctor for a glucose tolerance test.

They found I have hypoglycemia and said that could be causing my nerve irritation. I have never had any reactions from eating or not eating. In fact I feel better when I don't eat too much. The doctor has put me on a diabetic diet to see if I can get my sugar level up.

I would like to know what triggers the body to produce insulin and what causes it to overproduce? Will an excessive amount of sweets cause it to produce too much too quickly?

DEAR READER—Your version of your complaints does not sound like hypoglycemia. It is often an overused diagnosis. The American Medical Association became so concerned about this that it even made an official statement on the problem. The gist of it is that you have to have both the symptoms of hypoglycemia and the low blood glucose value at the same time to establish the diagnosis.

Stated another way, a low value seen on a glucose tolerance test without the characteristic symptoms of hypoglycemia is not an adequate basis for a diagnosis of hypoglycemia.

There are two main types of hypoglycemia: those reactions which occur fasting and those episodes that occur after eating. The latter are called rebound hypoglycemia or reactive hypoglycemia. In these latter cases, eating sweets or starches may trigger an excessive or inappropriate release of too much insulin.

I am sending you The Health Letter 18-8, Hypoglycemia.

DEAR DR. LAMB—My daughter is 19 years old. She is 5 feet, 1 inch tall and weighs 130 pounds. I think she eat a well-balanced diet, but even these measures would be an improvement.

DEAR READER—I'd like to see a food diary to see what her daily consumption really is before being too specific. However, if your description is accurate she is headed for disaster. She could develop any number of nutritional deficiencies from scurvy to rickets along with loss of muscle tissue and vital organ tissues from protein deficiencies.

She may shake her leg, though, from a simple nervous habit. You might suggest she capitalize on her sweet tooth and at least eat sweets that contain lots of milk. That can be puddings, cream pies, ice cream and milkshakes. The milk will help some but won't solve all the problem. And try to encourage her to take an all-purpose vitamin tablet each day.

I would prefer that she eat a well-balanced diet, but even these measures would be an improvement.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 30, 1983

Important objectives can be attained this coming year, provided you are motivated by valid reasons. If desire to get ahead is merely to outshine others, you may fail.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try not to let your guard down in competitive situations today. You could be tripped up by your own optimism. Rate your opposition realistically. Grow: The NEW Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic compatibility for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Send $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be so give your zodiac sign. Mail an additional $1 for your Virgo Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Instead of rationalizing or making excuses, "fess up to your mistakes today and try to correct them. Passing time will hurt your image.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Joint ventures should be avoided today if the person with whom you're involved can't make a contribution on a par with yours.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Subduencies today which urge you to act against your better judgment. Ignoring the warnings could produce undesirable results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be doubly sure you have competent assistants today if you are tackling tasks of which re uncertain. Expert aid can help prevent trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be yourself today instead of trying to make a big impression on someone you recently met. Coming on strong will cost points instead of making them.

PISCES (Feb.-March 20) Don't let disenchantment with your present circumstances cause you to make unsound moves today. Change for change's sake won't produce advantages.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's important to maintain credibility with your associate due temptations to exaggerate or embellish the facts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Normally you don't count your chickens before they're hatched, but today you might bank on things which are not yet realities.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't try to be coy in your one-to-one dealings with others today. If you try to manipulate them, they may end up manipulating you in the long run.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful what you volunteer today. Others will hold you to your word, and they may pass you hot potatoes that they can't handle.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't inject yourself into groups or cliques today that contain individuals who rub you wrong. There's a possibility either you or they will make waves.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Oswald: "How about discussing some book plays that practically never actually appear?"

Jim: "Well, there is the 'smother' play, in which a defender's apparently sure trump trick is taken away from him by his partner."

Oswald: "It looks as if West has a sure trump trick. South wins the diamond lead with his king, promptly leads the queen of spades and finessees successfully. He continues with the jack for a second finesse and East discards a diamond or heart. West is left with king-small of trumps, and dummy with just the ace."

Jim: "Some South players would give up and concede a trump and a club; others would play on to the bitter end in hope of a miracle. The expert would see a slight chance to make East smother his partner's trump trick. It depends on West having started with 4-3-3-3 and on East having to win the third club, but it costs the expert nothing to try."

Oswald: "The exact order of play is immaterial. He starts by taking the top clubs, so that East, if he holds Q-x-x, will hang on to the queen. Then come three hearts, a diamond to the ace and a diamond ruff to come down to a three-card ending. He leads his last club. East wins and must lead a red card."

Jim: "South ruffs. If West overruffs, dummy's ace takes his king. If East underuffs, dummy's last club is discarded. Either way, that trump trick has disappeared into thin air."
