Barber styled hair until his retirement this year at age 82

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

Making the cut has been a way of life for A.L. Thomas for the last 59 years. Since December of 1935 he's strived to be a cut above the rest. From Buster Brown, crewcut and Navy-style haircuts to the present surfer look, Thomas has been up to his elbows in his haircutting business.

Remembering his growth in the industry, Thomas reminisced about his early years. "When I graduated from school I went to the University of Florida," he said. "I stayed there during the summer and looked for a job. I needed to work."

Although Thomas was seeking help from the government at $50 a month for school, his plans fell through. "After four days my daddy came over. He told me 'if you stay in school I'll help you.'"

The duo stopped in Trenton for groceries and ran into a former teacher of Thomas. He offered him a job. After completion of his employment he began barber school in Jacksonville. According to Thomas this was the only school in the state in 1934 teaching barber skills. He continued his education and training for almost a year to acquire the necessary 1,500 hours for certification. Thomas shared that he had heard that

Two dead, one injured in shooting

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Two people are dead and a third hospitalized after shooting at a condominium near the Hidden Lakes subdivision Wednesday night. Initially police speculated the incident began as a home invasion and may be drug related.

Lincoln Hunsinger, 22, 106 E. Jenkins Circle, Sanford, was found shot to death on the foyer at 205 Arbor Circle. Jeremy Michael Thomas, 21, 622 Thomlinson Terrace, Lake Mary was found dead upstairs.

A third man, Mike Allen Griffin, 21, was found shot in the abdomen and airlifted to Orlando Regional Medical Center. He is in stable condition after surgery.

Sanford police Cmdr. Dennis Whitmire said the three men and possibly a fourth suspect either forced their way into the residence occupied by Richmond Travis Fraley, 34, and his roommate Daniel Prindle, 34, or were let in by a woman temporarily staying at the condominium. The woman, Ann Gallamore Napolitano, 18, and Sean Christopher Chaubin, 18, 840 Sutter Loop, Longwood were at the residence at about 11:40 p.m. when the incident began. Prindle and Richmond told police they did not know the men.

Whitmire said Gallamore may have known Griffin and opened the door for him.

Mica requests $$ for river projects

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. John L. Mica (7th District) testified before the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Energy and Water earlier this week. He has requested over $6 million in federal funding for St. Johns River projects.

If approved, the money would have to be matched by the State of Florida, to create a total project fund of approximately $15 million.

A total of $5,453,000 was requested from the federal government for the Upper St. Johns River, for a restoration project to alleviate flood damage, improve water quality, and help maintain water levels during drought periods. In addition, Mica has asked for $600,000 for a study to evaluate water quality problems and prevent future problems from developing.

The Upper St. Johns project involves an area of eight counties in the east-central region of the state, from the Sunshine State Parkway on the south, to Lake Harney in the north, and from the coastal ridge on the east to the drainage divide on the west (between the Kissimmee and Upper St. Johns Rivers).

For the study, Mica is suggesting a study which would include a 12 county area in east and Central Florida.

In both cases, the Seminole/Volusia county St. Johns borders would be involved.

Marketplace linchpin to Oviedo's growth

By BILL KERNS
Herald Correspondent

OVIDEO — Oviedo City Manager Gene Willford sees The Marketplace At Oviedo Crossing as the linchpin to growth that is transforming Oviedo from a primarily residential city into a model for commercial growth.

"Oviedo is just beginning to emerge into a city with commercial diversification," said Willford. "We've been primarily a residential community, relying on jobs at U.C.F. (University of Central Florida) and the research park."

"The mall will be a catalyst for growth in the retail and service sectors, and Oviedo is going to see substantial commercial growth."

Noting that over the last ten years Oviedo is the fastest growing city in Florida among cities with a population over 10,000, Willford said he expects growth will "continue for the next five to seven years at a rapid pace."

The Marketplace At Oviedo Crossing is a proposed 1.2 million square foot mall north of Red Bug Lake Road. Near the Central Florida GreeneWay, developer The Rouse Co. and landowner The Viera Co. hope to draw shoppers from Seminole and east Orange counties. Oviedo hopes to annex the mall site.

Willford also sees the GreeneWay as important to Oviedo's residential growth. But, he said that Oviedo's relative isolation from the rest of Seminole County will still keep Oviedo's growth from having a large impact on Sanford or Lake Mary.

"Oviedo is fairly isolated," said Willford. "I don't see any sign of Oviedo's growth making much of an impact on other communities, except Winter Springs. I hope our growth will benefit Winter Springs."

"The big difference is, now residents in Sanford, Oviedo and Orlando are connected by the GreeneWay. If people want to live in the country, they can move here and only face a 20-minute drive into Orlando."

A difficult stumbling block to the mall was

From flapjacks to black jack, there's something for everyone.

The Junior Woman's Club of Sanford and the Sanford Rotary Club will get things started Friday evening with their annual Kasino Klassics event.

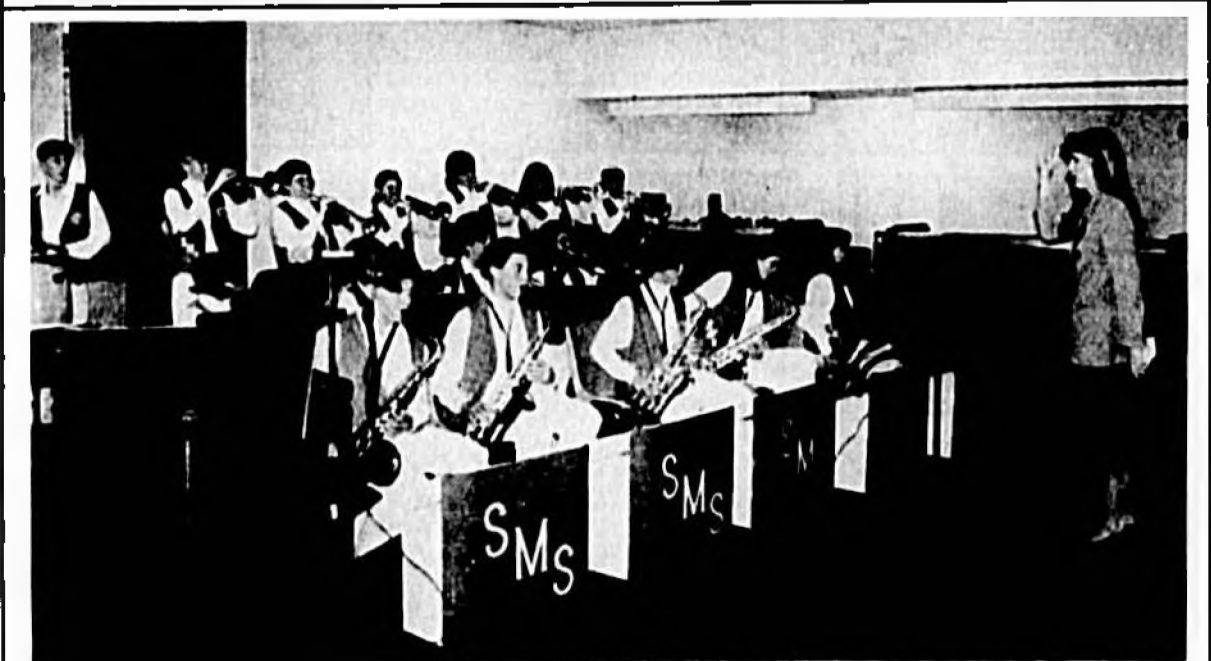

The two groups have been involved in this joint venture for 14 years.

"It's been a very good relationship," said Myra Bales, second vice president of the Junior Women's Club. "It's a lot of hard work, but it's worth it."

They hope to raise more than their record-breaking $8,000 they were able to donate to charities last year.

Among the beneficiaries of past events are the Christian Sharing Center, Serenity House, Hospice of Central Florida, Seminole County Humane Society, Rescue Outreach Mission, St. Jude's Children's Hospital, Lakeview Middle

Orphaned manatee calf dies, Sea World

ORLANDO — An orphaned manatee calf died at Sea World and its underweight twin is struggling with hypothermia after being rescued from Port Canaveral.

No one knows what happened to the twins' mother. The calves, just hours old when they were found Tuesday, had apparently never nursed, according to Sea World veterinarians.

The death on Wednesday brings to 60 the number of manatees to die so far this year. The death rate — 252 manatees, more than 10 percent of the total estimated population — concerns biologists.

During the first two months of 1995, the state Department of Environmental Protection documented 48 manatee deaths, more than double the 1994 January-February total.

"There's just a lot of animals," said Scott Wright of the Florida Marine Research Institute. "This mystifies us. We can't figure out why that's happening."

Development on melaleuca-infested land

TALLAHASSEE — Rep. Charles Sembler says it's just common sense to ease development of land already invested with wetland-destroying melaleuca trees.

Environmentalists say a Sembler amendment passed by a House subcommittee Wednesday could make melaleucas very popular.

"This is what I call the Johnny Melaleuca seed Act of 1995," Florida Audubon Society lobbyist Charles Lee told the panel, referring to the "Johnny Appleseed" nickname of pioneer and apple-tree promoter John Chapman.

The amendment would drop "mitigation" requirements for dredging or filling wetlands that are more than 50 percent melaleuca infested. Mitigation is setting aside land for preservation elsewhere to replace wetland lost to development.

"This would encourage landowners to allow if not propagate it themselves to avoid any mitigation requirements when they develop their land," said Lee.

A House resource management subcommittee attached the amendment to a state lands bill dealing with the Preservation 2000 environmental lands purchasing program. It goes next to the full Natural Resources Committee.

Sembler, R-Sebastian, said the plan made sense in light of costly efforts to eradicate invasive, non-indigenous plant species in Florida.

Melaleuca trees, native to Australia, were introduced around the turn of the century to help dry up what were then considered undesirable swamps. They form dense stands that dry up wetlands and push out native plants.

Though not as desirable as native vegetation, melaleucas still help the environment more than buildings and pavement, said Terry Price of the South Florida Water Management District.

Even with melaleucas, Price said, "An area that is open to natural vegetation and rainfall recharge provides flood protection and other benefits that wouldn't be there if there were construction."

Panel members scoffed at the distinction.

"We've been told it's a threat and we need to spend millions of dollars to eradicate it," said Rep. John Laurent, R-Bartow. "It's a little difficult to be told today it's environmentally positive."

The public lands bill also would let the state to sell unwanted parts of land parcels bought by the P2000 program, give more money to the Green Swamp Land Authority, and set up a 26-member panel to acquire and manage "greenways" — wild tracts connecting forests and wild areas of the state.

Man sentenced to 10 years, biting officer

GAINESVILLE — An HIV-positive man convicted of attempted third-degree murder for biting a police officer has been sentenced to 10 years in prison.

During a scuffle with three Gainesville police officers on November 26, 1993, Ronald Riggins, 33, bit officer Mason Byrd on the finger.

After the bite, Riggins looked up at Byrd, smiled and said, "I have AIDS," according to testimony during his January trial.

Byrd told the court Wednesday about the anguish of not knowing for months whether he had been infected with the virus that causes AIDS. He has since tested negative.

The experience was like having a bullet shot at him without knowing whether it would kill him until a year later, Byrd said.

"I spent weeks and months wondering if that bullet was going to hit me," Byrd said.

Prosecutor Liz Pooley asked the court to impose a sentence that would have sent Riggins to prison for 15 years. Riggins is a "very, very violent man," she said.

"The act of biting someone with a blood-filled mouth is particularly abhorrent," she said.

Riggins also spoke in court, apologizing to the officers and saying he had no memory of the incident. He had been drinking before the fight and acknowledged he had a problem with alcohol. He has since received treatment.

Choice may no longer be with diners Smoke-free bill wins nod from house group

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Smoking or non-smoking would no longer be up to diners at restaurants under a bill moving through the Florida House.

Restaurants would be entirely smoke-free if a bill approved by a subcommittee Wednesday passes. The measure (HB 1811) goes next to the full House Health Care Committee.

The health standards subcommittee cut portions of the bill, saying local communities could set tougher restrictions. But that won't hurt the bill if passed in its present form, since it calls for a statewide ban anyway, said the sponsor, Rep. Lois Frankel, D-West Palm Beach.

But with heavy opposition from the tobacco and restaurant industries, Frankel said, "That's a big if."

"We'll have our day," said Guy Spearman, lobbyist for The Tobacco Institute, declining further comment.

American Lung Association and American Cancer Society representatives and other witnesses told the panel about the dangers of second-hand smoke.

But spokesmen for the restaurant industry questioned the bill.

"You are being asked to make a scientific judgment. You are flat banning the product. I'm not sure this is the proper forum," objected Steve Metz of the Florida Restaurant Association.

"The science relative to the harmful effects of tobacco is well established for 40 years," argued Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services health officer Joyner Sims.

Sims said public health officials want communities to be able to set tougher restrictions than Florida's current law, which simply requires restaurants to set aside 35 percent of their seats for nonsmokers.

The tobacco and restaurant industries have an interest in keeping a milder statewide standard, he said. "It has consistently shielded the tobacco industry from voices at the local level."

John Rogers of the Florida Retail Federation said that would cause headaches for restaurant companies trying to comply with different requirements in every community.

The panel took out the provisions on motions by Rep. Marvin Couch, R-Oviedo.

"I just have a problem with government stepping in and trying to get involved in a free-market decision," said Couch.

Bess Simons (standing left) presented an update of the Sanford Main Street program to members of the Seminole Audubon Society Wednesday night. Simons, project manager for the program, spoke about the efforts being made to revitalize Sanford's downtown area.

Helmet mandate clears panel

By ADAM YERGANIS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Youngsters under age 16 would be required to wear helmets when they're biking on public roads under a bill moving ahead in the Legislature.

The measure also requires bike riders to carry infants under 4 years old or who weigh 40 pounds or less in a child carrier.

The House Transportation Committee voted 10-3 Wednesday to approve the bill (CS-HB 775). A similar bill is progressing in the Senate.

Supporters said the state should require the use of bike helmets to educate children to wear the safety equipment and reduce the number of children who die or suffer brain damage from bike accidents.

"We're trying to instruct kids that when you get on a bicycle it's a dangerous instrument and you put your helmet on," said Sen. Donald Sullivan, R-St. Petersburg, who pushed a similar bill last year.

Some lawmakers questioned the legislation, saying it was an example of government trying to mandate changes in the public's behavior.

"The problem is the government is trying to save lives but what they're going to do is create more regulations," said Rep. Luis Rojas, R-Hialeah, who voted for the bill despite his concerns.

"If you took the 27 children who died last year and stacked them next to each other in this room I assure you, you'd think differently," Dr. David Vukich of Jacksonville told the committee.

Rep. Robert Casey, R-Gainesville, who's sponsoring the House bill, said the mandatory helmet law was the best way to ensure compliance. The number of children wearing headgear in Maryland and New Jersey, where similar laws were enacted, has increased sharply, he said.

Super Bowl visitors score big for South Florida businesses

By The Associated Press

FORT LAUDERDALE — While the San Francisco 49ers were busy racking up points on the San Diego Chargers, the Super Bowl and its visitors were scoring big with South Florida businesses.

The economic impact of the Super Bowl exceeded expectations, generating between $170 million to $205 million for South Florida's economy, said Nicki Grossman, co-chairwoman of the South Florida host committee.

Bowl boosters had boasted potential revenue of $150 million when persuading Broward County commissioners last year to give $380,000 of the tourist bed tax revenue to help pay host committee expenses.

The preliminary figures Grossman presented to the Broward County Commission on Tuesday were prepared by Barry University researchers, who are expected to issue a full report soon.

San Francisco defeated San Diego 49-26 in the New Year's Day bowl at Joe Robbie Stadium in Miami.

Early figures show at least 115,000 visitors were in town for the Super Bowl and its related activities, while 74,107 actually attended the game.

Thirty-five percent of the game attendees spent more than $200 per night for hotel rooms. Grossman also said 35 percent of those who attended the game spent four to six days in South Florida while 38 percent stayed at least nine days.

Overall, 32 percent of visitors spent between $1,000 and $2,500; 13 percent spent between $2,500 and $5,000.

The figures also show visitors set a National Football League record by renting 812 limousines.

"The friends I have in the (hotel) business are very satisfied with the effect of the Super Bowl," said Jack D. Miller, general manager of Howard Johnson's at Hollywood Beach and past president of the Broward County Hotel and Motel Association.

Miller acknowledged there had been complaints about price gouging, but he said that occurs in any Super Bowl host city. Most hotels raised rates 20 to 40 percent, he said.

"We all seized upon an opportunity, but we showed reason and discretion," Miller said. "There's only four or five months a year we can get the rates we'd like to get year-round."

Abuse case mishandled

By Associated Press

TAMPA — Gov. Lawton Chiles has ordered a criminal investigation into the handling of a child molestation case tainted with allegations of political interference and shoddy case work.

Chiles on Wednesday assigned Daytona Beach state attorney Steve Alexander, whose office investigated the child sex abuse claims against Andrea Sanchez, to look into questions raised by a Hillsborough County grand jury this week.

"It would be fair to say that the grand jury was astonished by the way this particular matter was handled and it appears that there was political pressure put on some underlings at some of these agencies to not follow the standard operating procedure," Alexander wrote Chiles Wednesday in response to the grand jury's request for a new inquiry.

In his letter, Alexander asked for Florida Department of Law Enforcement agents from outside Tampa to conduct an investigation, which could last six months.

"The way this case was investigated was in the best light lackadaisical, and in the worst light politically undermined," he wrote.

The grand jury on Monday charged Sanchez, 52, with seven counts of sexual battery. He is accused by a niece of sexually abusing her between 1987 and 1993 while she lived with her relatives.

Sanchez is married to Carmen Sanchez, a Democratic activist and staunch supporter of Hillsborough State Attorney Harry Lee Coe III.

According to records and interviews, the girl went to live with the Sanchezes after her parents divorced in 1983.

She first reported the abuse in 1987 to a guidance counselor at Claywell Elementary School in North Tampa, who reported the claims after inviting the Sanchezes to confront the girl and her allegations.

Valentine Munoz, the guidance counselor who retired last year, denied such a meeting took place.

HRS closed the case after the girl recanted the allegations. Alexander has said the recantation occurred only after she was pressured by her aunt and uncle.

In July 1993, HRS reported the sexual abuse complaint to Tampa police after the girl repeated the allegations. After an examination, the department completed a criminal report affidavit charging sexual battery and shipped it to Coe's office for review in September 1993.

Seven months later, after the family told an assistant state attorney Coe had a conflict because of his friendship with Mrs. Sanchez, he asked the governor to assign a new prosecutor. Chiles assigned Alexander.

Coe said Wednesday that when he learned of the Sanchez case, he ordered his office removed from the investigation "within five minutes."

The new investigation was welcomed by the girl's family.

"I just love it," said the girl's grandmother in Virginia. "It's about time. She was 15 years old in 1993. Now she's 17. That goes to show how it was pushed off, squashed."

Tampa police spokesman Steve Cole said detectives handled the investigation properly, and the agency welcomed a review of their actions.

HRS spokesman Tom Jones said any accusations of political overtones by the agency are "irresponsible."

Coe vehemently denies allegations of political favoritism and said he was "outraged" at the suggestion.

I-95 shooting suspect in custody

By Associated Press

DEERFIELD BEACH — A man sought for over a month in the shooting death of his wife's alleged lover on Interstate 95 has surrendered in San Juan, Puerto Rico, police said.

William Ramos, 26, of Pompano Beach turned himself in to the FBI's Violent Crimes Fugitive Task Force in a meeting at a street corner on Monday.

An agent had spoken with Ramos' relatives and friends, who convinced him it was too dangerous to live as a fugitive, said Paul Miller, spokesman for the FBI's Miami office.

Police obtained an arrest warrant for Ramos after his brother told them he saw Ramos fire the three shots that killed Benigno Carrero, 47, from a speeding car next to Carrero's van on Feb. 21.

Broward Sheriff's Office spokesman George Crollus said Ramos has not confessed to the crime.

"He just agreed to talk about it," Crollus said. Carrero and Ramos allegedly traded shots in Lake Worth three weeks before the I-95 shooting. And in August, Carrero reported that Ramos beat him with a baseball bat.

At the time, Carrero told police that Ramos was trying to kill him because Ramos' wife, Mayra Diaz Lizardi, had admitted to having had an affair with him.

Carrero said Ramos yelled "Stay away from my girl!" as he repeatedly struck Carrero on his right arm and hand, according to police reports. No charges were filed in the case.

The day after the shooting, Ramos "threw a suitcase together," and flew to San Juan, taking Diaz and the couple's two children with him. It is not clear whether Diaz knew about the shooting, said Broward County sheriff's Homicide Detective John Palmer.

Diaz, 23, has not been charged. Ramos is in the custody of San Juan police. An extradition hearing is scheduled for Friday in San Juan.

Merger: let's end this now

When a child wants candy and the parents refuse, it's often for the child's own good. Children however, may find that hard to perceive, and a few, who may not have reached sufficient maturity, could seek to get even. They may even throw a tantrum.

We hope there are no such retributions regarding the proposal to merge the Sanford Airport Authority with the Seminole County Port Authority. Judging from various meetings and discussions on the matter, it doesn't appear as though a merger will occur, at least not in the immediate future.

Most entities have said there is a need for additional information regarding the merger before making a decision. This is not to say it has been turned down, but it has certainly not gained outstanding or unanimous support from the City of Sanford, Port Authority and Airport Authority.

The Port Authority has called for a meeting of the four entities which would be initially involved, the two authorities, City of Sanford, and Seminole County Board of Commissioners.

We believe, while the suggestion is good, a 2-person representation from each of the groups probably will not be able to reach any further conclusion than has already been determined.

Additional information has been requested. Little if any has been provided. It perhaps makes one think that none is available. If that is the case, this is probably not the proper time for merging the two ports.

As such, we suggest the proposal be dropped. Further meetings may be doing nothing more than beating the proverbial dead horse.

If and when it is dropped, we hope it is accepted as just that, a done deal, rather than any individuals or governing organization becoming angry and seeking revenge against those who have denied this "candy."

And once everyone realizes that the port/port merger is dead, let's look closely at the proposed move of part of the Seminole County Courthouse operations to Five Points.

That's another situation everyone needs to study closely.

LETTER

Is nicotine a drug?

I was reading Ann Landers for March 9, 1995 and nicotine was mentioned as a narcotic. If it is not, why does it turn your lungs brown or black in time. If it doesn't kill you later, you should give it to a mouse and see what to does to it.

Jesus' brother did not believe who he said he was, although he performed miracles; what does it take to convince people of some things?

There are people that have said on TV, even one that has been in the tobacco industry that he was sorry he didn't listen earlier, and now he is paying for it.

People say, it can't happen to me, but it will catch up with you, the reason George Burns is almost 100, is he doesn't inhale the cigar smoke; inhaling does the damage, chemicals sprayed on the tobacco that keeps the tobacco bug off, does a lot of damage to your lungs!

Smokers say later, I wish I hadn't started to smoke, but I was young and didn't have the foresight to see what it would do later on.

Science has proved that certain things will happen if we keep on, like, building your house on sinking sand, but who pays attention.

It's time to pay attention to Wilson

According to rumor, California governor Pete Wilson is within days or weeks of declaring his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, so it behooves political observers to pay some attention to the man and his prospects.

It's true that Wilson, on TV last fall, assured a reporter that he would serve the full four years of his second term if re-elected governor. But he now says that a number of people have asked him to reconsider that pledge, and that is widely regarded as justification enough for breaking it.

At 61, Wilson is conventionally handsome and happily married to his second wife (who is herself extremely attractive). His policies, though, are a strange mixture that tells frustratingly little about his core beliefs.

He is pro-choice on abortion, and in 1991 enraged conservatives by conniving with the Democrats in the legislature to raise state taxes by $7 billion -- the biggest hike in history. On the other hand, he battled (unsuccessfully) for a welfare-reform initiative in 1992, triumphed with Proposition 187 (withdrawing benefits from illegal aliens) in 1994, and has endorsed the California Civil Rights Initiative, which would bar all state racial quotas and preferences.

Given that piebald record, it is probably fair to conclude that Pete Wilson will be found where he thinks the votes are.

One problem is that he isn't well known outside of California.

That cloud, however, may have a silver lining. Wilson has always been able to raise plenty of money for his campaigns, and in 1996 it can be spent on TV ads describing this relative unknown in any way that seems desirable at the time.

But what posture, precisely, ought he to adopt? He can't possibly run to the right of Phil Gramm. To the left of Dole, then? In the Republican Party's present mood, that is hardly a very appealing option. In between Dole and Gramm, perhaps? They aren't far enough apart to make a compromise candidate look inviting (as Nixon looked to Rockefeller and Reagan supporters in 1968).

A fresh face may be just what a lot of Republicans are looking for.

Probably Wilson's best hope is to seem like a good alternative to Dole -- moderately conservative, but not a "movement conservative," and 10 years younger than the veteran senator.

A fresh face may be just what a lot of Republicans are looking for (though conservatives probably could, and well might, veto a pro-choice presidential nominee). If a Dole victory began to look likely but wasn't yet certain, Wilson could always withdraw and endorse him. The temptation would then be strong for Dole to return the favor, and strengthen the ticket, by making the governor of the nation's largest state his running-mate.

Serving as vice president to a 73-year-old veteran of prostate cancer surgery might well strike Gov. Wilson as a shrewd career move.

Wilson's best course at the moment, therefore, is probably to move around the country, building up his name recognition, and testing the waters in the early primaries. In addition, if the contest is still undecided by the time of the presidential primary in California (March 28), he must win that at all costs, as California's favorite son.

All in all, the vice presidency looks like Wilson's best bet.

Taking a look at the R 'n' R

"R 'n' R." No -- that's not Tony the Tiger trying to get his motor started. That's only Grandpa trying to get this week's column fired up and underway.

What does R 'n' R mean to you? Well now, I guess that much depends on your personal history and current living habits.

If you are a past or present military person, and if your memory banks are still functioning -- at least as good (?) as mine, R 'n' R means Rest and Recuperation. Sometimes, after a particularly rough military action, the troops would be sent to the rear for some of that badly needed R 'n' R. I almost had some -- once ... long, long ago.

Perhaps you are a person who enjoys a bit of libation now and then. If so, maybe R 'n' R means Rich and Rare to you. When blended with a smidge of sweet vermouth and a couple of maraschino cherries, it makes a darn good Manhattan. Well, it does if you like Manhattans.

Another possible meaning for the elusive "R 'n' R" -- and one which is rarely considered today, is the good old rights and responsibilities. Most of us -- let's say about 98 percent of us -- accept the simple fact that one goes with the other. Sort of like hand and glove. We don't think about it -- we just do it -- automatically.

This column will not be directed toward the 98 percent of responsible acting citizens in pursuit of their "rights." Rather, its direction is towards the other two percent of our citizenry who cannot spell, define or pronounce the word responsibility. Their motto seems to be: "They ain't responsible and you ain't got any rights."

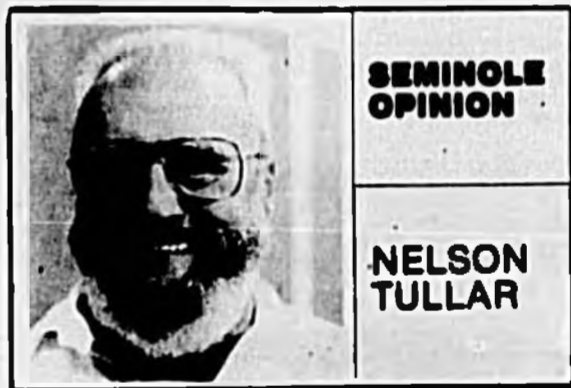

And where are they ... at least some of them? If I hunker down and take a healthy swipe at a glass, I just might come up with -- in jail, in a prison looking out, and in a penitentiary wishing they were out.

Prison time or the threat of prison time seems to mean very little to a growing number of present and future felons. Maybe it was just too homey -- too comfortable if you will -- inside the slammer ... be it called a jail, a prison, or a penitentiary. Maybe if jail time were a whole lot less comfortable, the rate of return would drop dramatically.

Our own Seminole County Sheriff Donald F. Ealinger has taken a "first step" in making a stay in his jail less appealing ... fewer comforts of home -- if you will. No more TV! It's a first step -- but a mighty important step -- and in the right direction.

Some of you out there in the Sanford Herald's readership may be asking what that direction really is and what it hopes to accomplish and how.

For years now, stretching into decades, it has become quite popular in the penal incarceration circles to offer rewards to the inmates favor not being bad ... being "well behaved" and causing no troubles. Some folks might feel that this conduct is nothing more than "bribing" the inmates to behave. First class gym equipment, libraries that would make a small town really jealous are but a couple of examples.

SEMINOLE OPINION

NELSON TULLAR

This "bribe to be good" attitude is, of course, a direct opposite to the course of action taken by millions of moms and dads who raised zillions of kids with the "punish when bad" and "reward when outstandingly good." And it worked, too.

Sheriff Ealinger's action of removing the TVs from free use anytime just might make a personal point with his guests. That point might be that the felon is solely responsible for his/her present domicile ... and privileges, like respect, must be earned.

Most people feel that the jails, prisons, and penitentiaries are populated by people who flatly refused to accept the responsibility for their own actions and held no respect for your rights. The gimme this -- gimme that -- gimme something else attitude that prevailed so strongly on the outside just came to a screeching halt.

Basic -- minimum care as stipulated by law and by the Department of Correction's rules and regulations will and should be applied. Anything extra -- anything at all -- should be earned by responsible behavior on the part of the inmates ... each and every one of them.

Human treatment -- by all means -- yes. Any and all extra bells and whistles as well as all of the fringe goodies should be out of reach until they are earned. And earning them must mean by the responsible personal behavior as displayed by the inmate on a daily basis.

The spoon-fed "freebies" of the past are now or soon will be "you earn it or you don't get it." Long overdue and richly deserved.

My congratulations to Sheriff Ealinger. Proceed forward from there.

Grandpa's gone. Bye!

Life in public housing is scary

CHICAGO -- It's a sleepy day for this city's public housing police: They've only had to launch a "tactical strike" against teen-age gang members, who have seized control of a building in order to extort money and steal groceries from the elderly.

There have been no homicides, car-jackings or random shootings today. This temporary calm is among the fruits of a "detente" forged by Chicago Housing Authority Chairman Vincent Lane with the "gang-bangers."

As the landlord for the nation's third largest and most troubled public housing program, Lane does not mince words. "Every building is controlled by a gang," he told us during a recent tour of the projects.

Some of those teen-age and even pre-teen gang members sit handcuffed to benches and each other as they wait to be processed in a procedure that has become second nature. It is an assembly line of apprehensions that never stops: In February, there were 1,446 arrests in the projects. Even more vivid proof can be found in the "evidence vault" kept by the CHA's police department.

In the vault sit the weapons of urban warfare seized during the last 6 months, but there's enough firepower to invade a small Caribbean country. Lane listens as the housing police chief points to an Uzi that was confiscated from a 15-year-old girl. There are AK-47 assault rifles, a pump shotgun like the one used by Arnold Schwarzenegger in "Terminator 2," and a sword-like knife emblazoned with "Rambo III."

In one of the vault's cabinet sits $2 million worth of narcotics. Then there are the log books, meticulously maintained by drug dealers down to every last vial of crack sold and every look-out assignment. The hand grenades and plastic explosives are not kept on the premises, but the communications equipment used by the gangs is also state-of-the-art, including police scanners and cellular pagers.

All this is from the "post-detente" era. Lane's version of detente was born back in 1991 on a day he remembers as his most painful during his seven-year tenure. He had just established a 400-man police force after concluding amid great controversy that Chicago cops lacked the motivation and manpower to protect the 150,000 people who live in some 168 low-rent high-rises that ring the city's downtown.

Lane's show of force prompted the gang members to send him a "message." Lane recalls: "They assassinated one of our police officers."

The killing occurred on a Thursday night and Lane did not sleep until the following Sunday -- nor did much of the gang community. Lane shut down three blocks of buildings during the ordeal, knowing that if he failed to take bold action his credibility with this violent constituency would be shot.

Some of the buildings under gang control generate $30,000-40,000 per week in drug trade, according to Lane. Hitting his adversaries in the pocketbook was more threatening than the unlikely prospect of putting them in prison.

"It's detente," he explains. "As long as they don't go after and injure innocent people it's fine. I can't stop them from using drugs. Everybody belongs to a gang. They are going to burglarize apartments to support their habits. You send a message. You don't say you can do these things, but over time they know that the only thing that's going to set me off is when they start hurting innocent people."

Hitting his adversaries in the pocketbook was more threatening than the unlikely prospect of putting them in prison.

Barber

only 1,200 hours are now required for the program. He was also bound to 18 months of study under a master barber.

In 1935 Thomas came to Sanford to stay with his uncle who was employed with the fire department. He recalled his father giving him $10 to ride the bus to Sanford but decided to hitchhike instead and save the money.

Within three years Thomas married Loretta Virginia Douglas. They had one child, Mary Lyn, and three grandsons and one great grandchild. His wife passed away 15 years ago.

The family attended First Baptist Church of Sanford since 1946 where he has also served as a deacon since that time. Thomas remained in his business until his retirement in December of 1994. "When my wife passed away, I told my daughter I wanted to work if I'm able until I'm 80," he said. "I turned 80, then 81 came." Before turning 82, Thomas performed his final haircut and sold the business on Palmetto Avenue in downtown Sanford by the old fire station.

In the early days of his business he "worked alone quite a bit." Originally, a workweek consisted of one to two days then increased to an average 20-hour week. Later he consistently operated on an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. schedule. "My daddy and brother owned the shop," he said. Times were hard in '35. Haircuts were only a quarter then. Sometimes you didn't get anybody." Thomas shared one of his most unusual days in his occupation. "One day I had a person die in the shop," he said. "He went to the bathroom and came back out and sat down to wait for his haircut. All of a sudden he fell out of his chair on his face. I can't remember if that happened in '42, '43 or '44." Sometimes days presented a sentimental turn with mothers bringing young children in for their "first haircut." Bartenders aren't the only ones getting their ears bent. Thomas agreed he played the role of Dear Abby and psychiatrist during many a styling session.

Changing styles were all too commonplace. "I remember the Buster Brown," he said. "Crewcuts were in for a while. In the '60s styles got longer. People wanted a lot of hair. Before then a haircut was just a haircut."

To a person considering the hair industry, Thomas said, "I'd tell them they better do something else. My legs held up real good until a few weeks ago."

He spoke affectionately of his former customers and friends. "I'll really miss seeing them," he said. "I've cut hair for at least four generations or more. I'll miss the people."

A bullet fired during the incident grazed Napolitano's leg.

When police arrived, Hunsinger was found shot in the chest and there was a large amount of blood on the floor and walls, Whitmire said.

The first officer on the scene heard a banging noise at the top of the stairs and a man, later identified as Griffin, calling for help laying face down shot in the stomach. A shotgun was found nearby. The second dead man was also found upstairs.

A black automatic weapon with a long magazine was found in the kitchen. Whitmire would not release further details about the weapons.

"The evidence suggests there is another suspect," the police spokesman said. A K-9 unit called in to search the area led police to a blue bag containing about two pounds of cannabis at 219 Arbor Circle.

"We are not certain, at this time whether the bag came from the condo or not," he added. The investigation will continue at the scene today. Drug paraphernalia was found at the shooting scene and Whitmire said it appeared someone had tried to flush a controlled substance down the toilet.

Hunsinger had been arrested March 1 at 1030 Stonebrook Drive for possession of a controlled substance after he permitted police to search the residence in a "knock and talk" visit. The police had received a complaint about possible drug activity. While police were searching, Thomas came in and placed a pillow case on the counter containing nearly $3,000. He had over $500 on his person. He was unemployed. Police found a total of $5,294 in the house, Whitmire said.

The Casino Klassics will offer 12 black jack tables, two craps tables, roulette and a game of Beat the Shooter in their luxurious gaming room at the Timacuan Country Club in Lake Mary.

"We have to literally drag them away from the gaming tables at 10:30 when it's time for the live auction," Bales said.

Throughout the evening, which begins at 7:30 p.m., there will be a silent auction of 82 items. Also, drawings will be held for 10 items such as dinners and theatre tickets. And 13 items will be placed on the block for the live auction.

Among the items up for bid are a trip to Africa, a mountain home in North Carolina and various pieces of Orlando Magic memorabilia.

Tickets for the event are $15 each. Casino Kash is extra.

The Kiwanians have been at the Pancake Day game a little longer. For 31 years, they have been serving up the fluffy, syrup-drenched goodies for the needy.

"It is our primary fundraiser for the year," said former president Walt Smith. "We donate $10,000 to $16,000 to charities each year and most of it comes from the Pancake Day."

Smith has no doubt they will raise a good deal of money again this year.

"We've been doing this for 31 years," he said. "People care about what we are doing and they try to help out if they can."

Some of the groups who have benefited from the Kiwanis project are Camp Challenge, the Teen Age Parent Program at Crooms School of Choice, Rescue Outreach Mission, the Seminole and Lake Mary high school Key Clubs, the Kiwanis Club Job Shadow program, the Boys and Girls Club of West Sanford and many more.

Activities at the Pancake Day are varied. From a merchandise mart and bake sale to a fresh produce area, from entertainment to a silent auction and various door prizes, there is something for everyone.

Meal tickets are $3 each. Take outs are available and second helpings are also available.

The hours for this year's Pancake Day have been shortened a bit this year. The event will begin at 8 a.m. and end at 2 p.m.

"We found that most people had left by the middle of the afternoon," Smith said. "So we decided to end it earlier."

The two events will help many people in the local area and are a lot of fun for those who participate.

overcome Monday.

The Winter Springs City Council voted 5-0 to drop the city's opposition to the shopping complex and give developers permission to build a northern access road at Winter Springs Boulevard.

The deal also includes Winter Springs receiving $1 million from the developer and annexing about 20 acres near the mall. The Oviedo City Council voted 4-0 Monday night to approve the deal.

Tusawilla residents fear that an access road at Winter Springs Boulevard will harm their neighborhoods and dramatically escalate traffic on their streets. The boulevard is the main thoroughfare in Tusawilla.

"We appreciate the concerns of Tusawilla residents," said Williford. "But, according to research and the traffic studies we've done, there is not any evidence to support the problems that they worry the northern access would create."

Under pressure from Tusawilla, Winter Springs wanted the entrance to run into State Road 428 and Oviedo. Oviedo countered that such a road would put traffic lights too close together and create safety hazards. The two cities had lawsuits pending against each other until Monday's deal.

The mall property lies in unincorporated Seminole County, bordering Oviedo and Winter Springs. The Seminole County Commission will have the final say on the project when it meets next Tuesday, March 28. Tusawilla residents are sure to be vocal.

"Hopefully, because Oviedo and Winter Springs have reached a settlement, the commission will approve the project," said Williford. He added that Seminole County will control the water lines running into the mall.

committee that he believes this funding is critical to Central Florida water projects.

In addition to the testimony given Wednesday, Mica identified his top environmental priority as acquisition and preservation of lands along the St. Johns River in the Wekiva River Basin.

He suggested land has been identified as missing links, in what is known as the Wekiva-Ocala Connector, which covers a 10-mile corridor of St. Johns shoreline and joins the Wekiva River junction with the Lake Woodruff National Wildlife Refuge.

In a communication from his Washington office, Mica did not immediately indicate whether his proposal was accepted by the subcommittee.

Double no-hitter

Von Dolteren gets win in real pitchers' duel

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Seminole Community College's Anthony Von Dolteren was both good and lucky Wednesday as the Raiders defeated the Valencia Community College Raiders 1-0 in a Mid-Florida Conference baseball contest.

Von Dolteren was good to the point of near-perfection, tossing a no-hitter against the Matadors while striking out eight and walking just one as he evened his personal mark at 3-3.

He was also pretty lucky as the Raiders also were the victims of a no-hitter by Valencia starter Rivera. But while the Matadors couldn't take advantage of Von Dolteren's one walk or SCC's two errors, the Raiders parlayed a walk, VCC's only error, and a Rivera wild pitch into a run in the bottom of the ninth.

"Both pitchers pitched a well-fought game," said SCC coach Jack Pantelias. "It was a shame that one of them had to lose."

"The win was a good one for the team. Tony really stayed within himself. He never lost his fire once the game came down to the end."

Second baseman Willard Renfrow, hitting ninth in the SCC batting order, led off the bottom of the ninth by drawing a walk. An out later, Ron Hollister hit a grounder to the Matador third baseman, who tried to force Renfrow at second base but threw the ball away, Renfrow advancing all the way to third base.

Rivera then uncorked a wild pitch, allowing Renfrow to score.

Von Dolteren, a sophomore from Jacksonville, retired the first 11 batters of the game before walking Trovillian in the fourth. Colombo was the only other Matador to get on base, reaching safely in the seventh and ninth innings on Raider errors.

Rivera had a perfect game going into the seventh inning, when he hit Christopher Thorne with a two-out pitch. Sanford's Corey Gochoe, who drew a two-out walk in the eighth, was the only other Raider to reach base.

Seminole (now 15-13-1 overall and 4-8 in the M-FC) plays at Lake City Community College this afternoon at 3 p.m. Valencia drops to 7-19, 1-11 M-FC.

Oviedo's Buchanan strikes out 17

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — Once you've pitched a no-hitter, what do you do for an encore?

Oviedo lefthander Brian Buchanan, who no-hit St. Cloud on March 3, may have found a way to top that Wednesday, striking out 17 in the Lions' 6-1 win over Lake Mary in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest.

"Brian was almost untouchable," said Oviedo coach Kenne Brown. "He kept them off balance all night. It was impressive to watch."

Other than Rene Perez, who broke up Buchanan's bid for a second no-hitter with a single to lead off the third inning and was 2-for-2 with a walk on the night, the Rams were at a loss as to what to do with Buchanan.

Lake Mary only had one shot at Buchanan and that was in the fifth inning, when Nick Soas and Carey Hobbs opened the frame with back-to-back doubles.

Perez followed with a walk and, after a strikeout, Carlos Colon walked to load the bases.

"That's when he really showed his composure," said Brown. "Brian came right back and struck out the next two batters to get out of the inning."

Buchanan struck out Lake Mary's first six batters. After Perez's single, he came back and struck out the next three Rams. He walked the first batter of the fourth inning, who was promptly thrown out trying to steal second base, then struck out the next two.

The Rams also got the lead-off hitter on in the sixth and seventh innings, but each time, Buchanan mowed down the next batter on strikes.

In all, Buchanan fanned the side four times. Providing the offense for Oviedo were Josh Frost (double, two singles, two runs, RBI), Andy Neufeld (triple, two singles, RBI), Mike Bergman (three singles, run, two RBI), Adam Coleman and Blade Hodges (two singles each), Mark Metcalf (single, two runs), Ryan Rinaldi (single), and Richie Wright (RBI).

Besides Perez, Soas, and Hobbs, Lake Mary's only other hit was Chris Kleib's single.

Oviedo (now 9-6, 1-2 SAC) will host Northport (N.Y.) in a 7 p.m. game Friday at Mickler Field. Lake Mary (7-5, 1-2 SAC) visits Lyman for a SAC game Friday.

Anderson takes Late Model win despite fender bender

BY PAUL MARABELLA
 Special to the Herald

SAMBULA — Wayne Anderson survived a mid-race accident to win the 25-lap Late Model feature event last Saturday night, March 18, at New Smyrna Speedway.

Anderson was running in third place when race leader Tony Ponder tangled with the second-place car of David Rogers in turn three. Anderson hit the brakes to try to avoid the melee but his momentum carried him into the pile up.

"We were at the right place at the right time, plus we were lucky to get away from that accident with only some bent sheet metal," said Anderson. "We had a real good car tonight but I don't know if I had enough for Tony (Ponder)."

Ponder returned to the competition but Rogers was finished for the evening.

John Kennedy edged Mike Kubanek by less than a car length to take second behind Anderson. Rick Johns was fourth followed by Jim DuRocher.

Orlando's Barbara Pierce charged her way through the pack to take the win in the Sportaman feature.

Pierce, making her first appearance since being sidelined with an injury suffered during a Speedweeks' fender bender, started the event from the rear of the field.

At the halfway point, Pierce moved into second place and mounted a charge on front-running Dale Clouser. Two laps later, Clouser slipped to the highside of the track, allowing Pierce to dive to the inside and take the lead.

Despite repeated challenges, Clouser could not regain the No. 1 slot, settling for second in front of Chuck Vola, David LeBeau, and Ron Lufcy.

"It feels good to be back in the car," said Pierce, a three-time FASCAR Sportsman champion. "My back is still a little tender from the accident, but while I was out there racing, I forgot all about it."

Veteran driver Mike Fitch totally dominated action in the Modified division to notch his fourth win of the season.

Fitch, who started the race from the third position, took the lead on lap three. Once in command, Fitch was never headed.

A mid-race restart brought out a yellow flag and bunched the field. Danny Bancroft and Dave Savicki closed to Fitch's rear bumper but were unable to overtake the leader.

Fitch took the checkers six car lengths in front of Bancroft, who finished ahead of Savicki, Ron Blanchard, and Butch Pierce.

"Every week, my crew seems to give me a better car than the week before," said Fitch, a former FASCAR Mini-Stock champion. "Everybody always talks about their crew. Tonight, you can see why. The car ran like it was on a rail. There was no doubt in my mind that we were the car to beat."

The other Fitch, Jeremy (Mike's nephew) outclassed a 15-car bomber field to score his fifth win of the season.

Jeremy Fitch took the point on lap three after starting the race from the ninth position. Once on the point, Fitch had clear sailing to victory lane.

Rounding out the top five were, in order of finish, Rick Clouser, Duane Waddell, Bobby Bell, and Brian Schlimmer.

Bobby Sears led every circuit to win the Limited Late Model feature, his sixth victory of the season.

Brad May was second ahead of Hank Baker, Trevor Draz, and Larry Cook.

Other feature event winners were Ted Vulpius (Mini-Stocks), Ron Adams (Run-Around), and Brett Weber (Mini-Stock Enduro).

Loud noise, music can be dangerous

DEAR DR. GOTT: My elderly aunt has nerve deafness. Is this caused by sinus infections throughout her life?

DEAR READER: No, it isn't. Nerve deafness is due to a disorder of the nerve of hearing, deep within the skull, that transmits auditory impulses to the brain.

Aside from nerve deafness of old age, the most prevalent type is caused by chronic exposure to loud sounds.

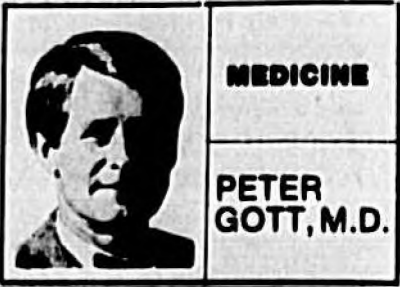

Although the discharge of firearms, the sound of jet engines and the noise in certain occupations have traditionally been recognized as causing deafness, ear specialists have become increasingly concerned about other components of modern life.

For instance, jackhammers, subway trains, rotary lawn mowers, unmuffled gasoline engines, and a host of other noisy activities will cause permanent loss of hearing. Electronically amplified music, so popular among the young, is clearly producing an entire generation of hard-of-hearing people.

If a noise is loud enough to be uncomfortable or if it causes ringing in the ears (tinnitus), it will produce nerve deafness. In the ear, such noise makes the hearing mechanism vibrate too violently, literally shaking cells off the organ that transforms sound waves into electrical impulses as sound. Once the cells have been lost, they are gone forever; they do not regenerate. Repeated exposure to loud sounds dislodges more and more cells, until permanent loss of hearing appears.

Such deafness occurs in the sound frequency called the "conversational range." Consequently, victims typically find it impossible to hear what is being said to them in a crowded room; they cannot discriminate speech when there is background noise. Also, they must turn up the volume on radios or TV sets.

In most instances, nerve deafness is preventable. I implore children to turn down the volume or protect their ears in noisy environments. Individuals in noisy occupations must wear ear protection. There is nothing "macho" about putting up with loud sounds that are bound to cause irreparable ear damage. To give you more information,

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

In his "Odyssey," Homer wrote, "Dreams surely are difficult, confusing, and not everything in them is brought to pass for mankind. For fleeting dreams have two gates: one is fashioned of horn and one of ivory. Those which pass through the one of horn are deceptive, bringing tidings which come to naught, but those which issue from the one of polished horn bring true results when a mortal sees them."

In bridge, occasionally you have to dream of a deceptive lead to stand any chance of defeating a contract — as West did in today's deal. What would you lead against seven spades? The final contract is poor, but North couldn't find out if South had the spade jack or queen. Yet with the 2-2 trump break, the contract looks laydown. But Jan Hackett, sitting West, found a way to divert the apparent course of destiny. She led the spade seven.

Now, after taking East's jack with her ace, the spotlight turned on the declarer, Mim Flynn. When it mattered, had West led a singleton trump or had she made a diabolical lead away from the doubleton queen?

According to the Principle of Restricted Choice, when East plays the jack, there is a presumption that she doesn't hold the queen, for with both honors, she might have played the queen instead.

However, South entered the dummy with a club to the ace at trick 10. Then she led a spade to her 10. When West produced the queen, South, to her credit, turned and congratulated West on a dream of a lead.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bode Ouel
YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 24, 1995

The past year might not have been kind to you, but it did teach you some valuable lessons. In the year ahead, you'll know how to use this knowledge.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You might prove a late bloomer today, so don't be disappointed if your initial efforts appear futile. Their positive effects will be viable later. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that govern you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $2 and a SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Just because something difficult comes easily for you today, don't think you aren't entitled to this benefit. Accept what you receive with gratitude, not doubt.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An important objective can be achieved today, but prepare to find alternate routes and tactics. Your original plan might not cut it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You can get more accomplished through partnership arrangements today than you can acting as an independent agent. Seek strong, competent allies.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take charge of your life and circumstances today and make an effort to change what needs changing. Do not let outside influences determine your actions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Practicing moderation in your activities today could significantly enhance your chances for success. Play it down the middle.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you might be imbued with an abundance of good ideas, but you may waste time putting them into action. If you think something will work, put it to the test.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you help somebody today, don't do it in the hopes of getting something in return right away. Accounts will be balanced, but at a much later date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Watch for material opportunities today and don't turn your nose up at anything. What may seem unimpressive could be just the tip of the iceberg.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your hunches as to how to advance your interests may be superior to the suggestions offered by friends today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Your ability to handle difficult developments will not go unnoticed today. It won't be necessary for you to tout your own horn; others will do it for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) One of your nobler qualities is your loyalty to friends who find themselves in trying situations. Today a pal will know who to come to if he/she has a problem.
