Wheelchair Worker Unwanted

MIAMI (AP) — Clara Jo Proudfoot says life has taught her that a 4-year-old girl on pink rhinestone crutches is cute but a 22-year-old woman in a wheelchair is sometimes unwanted.

In 1956, she charmed millions as the national Easter Seal poster child. Born in 1953 with half a spine, she spent her year as the poster child making public appearances. She even had her picture taken with the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Now she is a handicapped Miami woman competing for employment, and she has sometimes found it a bitter experience.

Miss Proudfoot graduated from a Miami high school in 1970 and was trained as a keypunch operator by the Florida Division of Vocational Rehabilitation and was awarded a $500 grant from the Easter Seal Society for an automobile equipped with hand controls.

After six months of searching, she was hired as a secretary by a Miami firm. She says she worked a 40-hour week but was classified as a part-time employee.

"They didn't want to put me on their hospital insurance plan," Miss Proudfoot said recently. As a result, she was uninsured when she needed an operation for ulcers on her feet.

She next worked for a data processing center, but after a week her supervisor said that co-workers complained she smelled bad. Miss Proudfoot wears a urine collection bag under her clothing, so she consulted a doctor who gave her odor-inhibiting pills for the bag.

"The supervisor didn't smell anything, but the six girls kept complaining," she says. Six weeks later, she was fired.

Seven months ago, a friend recommended her to William Smith, president of Florida Filters Inc., which needed a secretary. Smith hired her and says she will get the same chance as any other new employee.

"She's an outgoing, diligent, reliable worker," Smith says.

County May Soon Require Costly Home Fire Alarms

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer

A controversial fire protection ordinance which could require a smoke and heat detecting fire alarm system in new single family housing has been tabled until April 30 by the Seminole County Commission.

County Fire Administrator Gary Kaiser said Tuesday many of the 4,000 people killed nationally by fire last year while they slept—including most of the 18 Central Florida deaths over Christmas—might have been prevented by an alarm system waking the victims in time.

The board and the Central Florida Homebuilder's Association, which supports the alarm systems on a voluntary basis only, agreed to cooperate in a survey to test public opinion in time for the next hearing.

Kaiser, who said basic battery operated heat detectors are available for $50, ran into a debate over costs, and whether installing a total system "is required by the national fire codes."

An "absolutely bare minimum" of one smoke detector outside the main bedroom area—all his ordinance would require—will run $50 completely installed, Kaiser said.

Kaiser agreed with Homebuilder's Association representative Ludwig Goetz that a full heat and smoke detection system in all major rooms, as recommended by the national codes, could run $300 or more.

$300

Goetz, saying he is "personally considering" such a system for his own home, said $300 is too much to be required because the cost will be passed on by the builder to a buyer already hit by massive inflation.

If the county does decide to require the system, Goetz continued, it should be for all housing in the county and not just new houses.

Commissioner Greg Drummond, while supporting the system, said it might be better to make homeowners sign a waiver saying they don't want the system, rather than the county require it.

Kaiser also ran into opposition to sections of his proposed ordinance which would require all building plans to be reviewed by his department.

Chairman John Kimbrough told the homebuilders "we share your concern" over the plans approval section, which he said would further delay an already complicated process, and the board feared would add to the costs of county government.

Plans review is also unnecessary, homebuilder's said because fire escape features such as windows accessible to children and direct access from bedrooms are required by the Federal Housing Administration, the Veteran's Administration, and many other home financing groups.

FIRE burn and cauldron bubble, these two fellows seem to be chanting, MacBeth-style, as they gaze into the blaze of a modern table lamp and work magic, perhaps, about milk and mice and moonlight nights.

Area Housewives Protesting Prices

By JEAN PATTESON

One year ago a week-long nationwide meat boycott ended with its leaders calling for continued consumer action in the fight against high meat prices.

Seminole County housewives interviewed this morning, all of whom spoke out angrily against the continued rise in the price of meat, agreed almost without exception they would support another boycott if there was any chance such action would help lower meat prices.

Not all the housewives were convinced a boycott would effectively lower prices, but said they would support it anyhow, as they were prepared to try almost anything to reduce their weekly grocery bills.

The price of meat, they agreed, was the chief reason their pocket books were getting increasingly lighter after each week's grocery shopping session.

Jody Lowry of Longwood supported the meat boycott last year and said she would certainly support another this year. "I don't think it really makes much difference to prices, but it's the only thing we can do to let them know how we feel," she said.

Mrs. Virginia Irish of DeBarry said she had not noticed any of the lower food prices mentioned by the news media in the past few days, and that although she did not support the 1973 meat boycott she believed she would now. "If they were to have another boycott next week I think I would support it this time," she mused. "I think it does help to some extent."

Comments on the current meat prices all had a similar ring.

"Too high," complained Mrs. Kitty Christian and Mrs. Barbara Baker of Casselberry. "Terrible!" cried Mrs. Donna Edwards of Longwood, and Mrs. Floyd Benson of the same city agreed.

"Outrageous!" was the comment from Dawn Miller of Lake Jessup.

"Rotten — if you want to know in plain English," commented Mrs. Irene Stone of Longwood.

Most of these women said they would support another boycott, except Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Benson, who said their husbands were meat eaters no matter how high the price.

Mrs. Joyce Wagner of Sanford said she could not see a boycott working unless everybody supported it.

Mrs. Ann Carneal of Longwood said she would support a boycott. "I don't believe it helps," she stated. "I certainly didn't last time!"

Other Comments

Lake many of the women who supported the boycott last year, Dawn Miller said she had not bought meat during the boycott but it had not been a hardship as she kept a well-stocked freezer. "I'd probably support another boycott now, but I don't have much faith in it doing any good," she admitted.

Mrs. Glennia Joly of Longwood said she also favored another boycott, although she thought its effectiveness would be limited. "It does help — and it doesn't," she commented. "It works for just so long, and then people have to stock up on meat again."

"They only other way to fight it would be to only eat meat in a restaurant — but then you're still buying it indirectly. I don't think we'd be winning by a boycott, but what else can we do?" asked Mrs. Joly.

Is the current "streaking" craze sinful? Scripture tells of at least one inadvertent streaker. In the Gospel of Mark, it says a young man (possibly the writer) bade his linen cloth a hasty adieu, narrowly escaping a Roman centurion as he fled the Garden of Gethsemane.

Here you ever wondered where he went — home? To a friend's? — and what his first words of explanation were?

Reminds me of the story making the rounds of a local minister who was in one of Winter Park's more elegant restaurants. Two spinsters seated nearby almost choked on their food. . . as a streaker walked slowly through the establishment.

One and all were dumfounded, especially the minister who thought afterwards that as this "gentleman" passed by his table the least he could have done was share his glass of cold water with him. . . (ever have somebody slip up behind you at a picnic and drop a piece of ice down your shirt? Imagine the feeling with a surprising glass of ice water!)

Streaker Upstages Oscar Winners

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A nude man, waving two fingers in a peace symbol, streaked across the stage of the Academy Awards, giving television viewers a brief glimpse of the fleshy phenomenon.

(Related Story Page 2A)

The streaker later identified himself as Robert Opel, a 33-year-old Hollywood advertising man. He said he smoked backstage at the award ceremony by wearing a press badge.

He said he stripped backstage and dashed out as a symbolic gesture in favor of nudity.

He was not arrested.

Sophisticated actor David Niven, who was onstage and about to award the Oscar for best movie, appeared flustered by the exhibition and burst out laughing.

The audience laughed uproariously. Regaining his composure, Niven said, "Isn't it a laugh that the only laugh that man will get in his life will be by stripping off his clothes and showing his shortcomings."

Actress Elizabeth Taylor, who came on stage just after the streaker, said, "That's a pretty hard act to follow. I'm nervous. That really upset me. I think I'm jealous."

Most members of the audience appeared amused at the display. Best actor recipient Jack Lemmon, who left the stage just before the streaker arrived, said he had dreamed the night before that a streaker interrupted his award.

"But as it happened, he missed the streaker. 'I was in the elevator,' Lemmon told reporters.

Streaker Opel, after donning a track suit, later told newsmen that he thought his sensational appearance at the awards would be "a hell of a way to launch a career as a comedian."

Food Fraud Felony Fight

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Bills making it a felony to cheat on welfare or food stamps have run into sudden opposition that could lead to a reverse of the easy House approval given last year.

But the fraud bills were not the only items of contention today as the legislature eased into a light schedule on the second day of the 1974 session. Tuesday's opening was reserved mainly for Gov. Reubin Askew's State of the State message.

Senate leaders confined today's activities to committee meetings while the House lined up what amounts to rubber stamp approval of some 130 bills that passed last year but expired in the Senate.

"It's like a cud," said House rules chairman Murray Dubbin, D-Miami. "It's been chewed at least one time."

However, Dubbin said some lobbyists, whom he did not identify, had mounted opposition to the welfare and food stamp bills sponsored by Rep. Lewis Earle, R-Orlando.

The bills passed the House easily last year. But since then incidents such as the jailing for 10 days of a Tallahassee mother of six for a $53 food stamp fraud have sparked considerable publicity.

Earle's bill would raise the maximum penalty for fraud from one year in prison to five years.

"If there's deliberate fraud involved it should have a severe penalty on it," he said.

Askew's speech Tuesday went about as expected, although he bent on his financial disclosure and tax relief proposals to raise expectations of a compromise with lawmakers who objected to the governor's previous hard lines.

In the financial disclosure field, Askew edged away from a previous position that only reporting of income tax returns and net worth statements were acceptable. He said Tuesday that he could accept a proposed House compromise that public officials report the source rather than the amount of their income.

"The important thing is not so much the vehicle but that the disclosure be meaningful and that it be public," he said.

Askew also softened a stand that school property tax limits should be reduced from 10 to eight mills by constitutional amendment.

In fact, he asked for a statutory rather than constitutional reduction but added a request to "place a constitutional amendment on the November ballot to give Florida citizens the opportunity to make adjustments within the present constitutional limits of 10 mills."

Askew's flexibility in school property tax limits apparently helped his program. "He seemed to be more flexible in his approach," said Dubbin. "He's giving the legislature a little more freedom of will."

Bad News, Workers: Salaries Will Shrink

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The wages of the average Floridian will not quite keep pace with rising prices this year, economists have predicted in Gov. Reubin Askew's first economic state report.

"It is our forecast that on the average, wages and salaries — total personal income per capita — will just about, but not quite, keep up with inflation," said economist Jay Yelton, who supervised preparation of the report, released Tuesday.

The report said the personal income of the average Floridian could rise by about 13 per cent if national energy policies are favorable.

"Unfortunately, some people will not keep up with inflation because of the source of their income," Yelton said. "Some will do better."

The 91-page report was prepared by the state Administration Department and the Governor's Economic Advisory Board.

It included the possible effect of national policies in its projections of the ranges of personal income, nonfarm employment and unemployment.

If the ending of the oil shortage has a mild impact on Florida, total personal income could rise by 12 per cent, said the report. If the impact is severe, a 10.3 per cent increase could be expected.

The personal income estimates are stated in terms of today's dollars and include the effects of expected price increases, the report said.

Top Of Line Hamburger For Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government orders to meet packers show the Nixon administration's $45 million plan to buy super-grade ground beef for school lunches was carefully designed to require it be made from premium cuts of meat.

The objective, according to Agriculture Department sources, is to use up top cuts from as many grain-fattened animals as the traffic will bear.

The forthcoming hamburger purchases were disclosed at the White House March 26.

Two days later the USDA, without making details public, quietly sent the high-grade hamburger specifications to meat packers. The firms include prospective suppliers who will submit bid offers to the department April 9.

"The important thing is not so much the vehicle but that the disclosure be meaningful and that it be public," he said.

Askew also softened a stand that school property tax limits should be reduced from 10 to eight mills by constitutional amendment.

In fact, he asked for a statutory rather than constitutional reduction but added a request to "place a constitutional amendment on the November ballot to give Florida citizens the opportunity to make adjustments within the present constitutional limits of 10 mills."

Askew's flexibility in school property tax limits apparently helped his program. "He seemed to be more flexible in his approach," said Dubbin. "He's giving the legislature a little more freedom of will."

Stingy Sting Takes 7 Oscars

JACK LEMMON
1974 Best Actor

By BOB THOMAS
Assistant Press-Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Sting," Glenda Jackson and Jack Lemmon were the big winners at the 46th Academy Awards presentation, which had something for everybody. Even a streaker.

"The Sting" stung four other box office favorites, most prominently "The Exorcist," and collected seven Oscars, including best picture of 1973. Lemmon, tortured garment maker of "Save the Tiger," and Miss Jackson, the English lady on a swinging vacation in "A Touch of Class," won top acting honors in the awards Tuesday night. It was a second Oscar for both.

"The Exorcist," which won two Oscars, was an early favorite in the race for best picture. But its shock and violence seemed to turn off many of the Academy voters, who are predominantly mature and long-standing members of the film community.

They seem to prefer a standard and trouble-free film like "The Sting," the stylish tale of a mammoth confidence game in Chicago. Both "The Exorcist" and "The Sting" had been nominated for 10 awards. In addition to best picture, "The Sting" won Oscars for George Roy Hill's direction and David S. Ward's screenplay. Julia Phillips shared producing honors with her husband, Michael, and former actor Tony Bill, becoming the first woman producer to win Hollywood's biggest prize. Youth and age were served in the supporting acting categories. John Houseman, 71, the heartless Harvard professor of "The Paper Chase," and Tatum O'Neal, 18, the cigarette-smoking confidence girl of "Paper Moon," won in their first film roles.

Streaker
The awards ceremony was enlivened by a totally nude 33-year-old man who dashed across the stage before the Music Center audience as David Niven prepared to introduce Elizabeth Taylor.

The nudist was seen briefly by viewers tuned to the nationally televised awards ceremony.

Wage Controls Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council has lifted wage controls for workers in the newspaper industry.

"We have now determined that conditions are such that wages and salaries paid in the newspaper industry should be exempted," Director John T. Dunlop said Tuesday. "This action is in accordance with our objective to remove controls selectively where conditions permit."

Prices in the newspaper industry were decontrolled March 15 but the council at that time said it was delaying action on wages because important labor negotiations were under way in some cities.

Tuesday's action does not affect executive and variable compensation, which remain subject to Phase 4 controls.

Dean Is Due To Repeat Stories Of Dirty Tricks

WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Dean III is returning to the courtroom, where prosecutors expect him to repeat his story of massive efforts to cover up Donald H. Segretti's political sabotage.

Dean, in testimony to the Senate Watergate committee, compared the cover-up of Segretti's "dirty tricks" in the 1972 campaign to the Watergate cover-up.

His Dream World Died After Escape

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — John E. Henault's two-month parole to Miami coast him — "I lost a lot of my dream world," Henault began his story on Jan. 23, 1973, when he left the Washington State Penitentiary where he was serving a term of more than 12 years, plus another 10-year sentence for first-degree murder, armed robbery and car theft.

"I mistook me drastically in a very short time," the 36-year-old inmate said. He was free for about two months.

"I had this fantastic dream of going some place, settling down, getting a job, getting married—and maybe in 10 years turning myself in," he said in looking back over it all recently.

Using the story that he was an Oregon college student who quit school for a job in Florida, Henault made his way to Miami by plane, bus and thumb. Credit cards from a "found" wallet paid for his sometimes luxurious uppers.

U.S. Role In Vietnam ??? Still

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has defended U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin, but a Democratic senator blamed him and his chief intelligence officers for Israel's lack of preparedness for the Arab attack last October.

"I have been done an injustice," said Elazar, a hero of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, after the commission issued an interim report Tuesday. He named his chief of operations, Maj. Gen. Itzhak Hizi, as his temporary replacement.

The commission exonerated chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Eliahu Zeira, and 13 senior officers of his staff.

Public held responsible for Israel's initial setbacks in the October war. As a result, Mer's labor party lost ground in the parliamentary elections at the end of the year.

One Killer Of Yablonski Says 'Tony' Gave Order

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — Confessed killer Claude Vealey says he was convicted of first degree murder and sentenced to death, stuck to his story under cross-examination that he was the "kill Yablonski" order came from Boyle.

Gilley has testified that Silous Hudsdon, 65, his father-in-law and a former UMW local president in LaFollette, Tenn., gave him the Yablonski contract. He also said that another UMW employer, William Prater, also of LaFollette, had made the contact with Hudsdon.

Pompidou Dead At 62; France Facing Elections

PARIS (AP) — France today faced the prospect of a fierce election battle following the sudden death of President Georges Pompidou.

Pompidou, the republic's president since June 20, 1969, died Tuesday night.

Premier Pierre Messmer summoned government ministers to a meeting today to make arrangements for Pompidou's funeral. Informed sources said it would be a private ceremony restricted to his immediate family, with burial at the Orvillers, the village southwest of Paris where Pompidou had a country retreat.

An official memorial service will be held in Paris Saturday, probably in the Cathedral of Notre Dame, the sources said. Pompidou returned from a weekend at Orvillers to his private apartment on the Ile St. Louis in the Seine early Tuesday, and apparently he died there.

Cancer
A one-sentence announcement from the Elysee Palace said the 62-year-old president died at 9 p.m. The cause of death was not announced, but there had been widespread reports for the past year that he was suffering from some form of cancer. Since early last year, his face and body had swelled up and he had fatigued easily. But official reports usually said he had influenza.

At Pompidou's death, Alain Pöher, president of the Senate, automatically became interim president as served as interim president briefly after the resignation of the late Charles de Gaulle in 1969. In the election that followed, he lost to Pompidou, the Gaullist candidate.

Full Term
Pöher must arrange a presidential election within 20 to 35 days of Pompidou's death, or between April 22 and May 7. The new president will be elected for a full seven-year term, not to serve out the two years Pompidou's term.

Pompidou, the son of a southern schoolteacher, came to office in 1969 as the heir to De Gaulle and his strong presidency. He had served for six years as De Gaulle's premier, but he lacked his mentor's towering personality.

America Gripped By Heavy Hand Of Energy Crisis

EDITOR'S NOTE: Has the energy crisis left an imprint on American life? Associated Press reporters have talked with government leaders, social scientists and the man on the street to get a preliminary reading on this question. In this first of a series of three articles, the effects on the cities are examined.

By JOSH FITZHUGH
Associated Press Writer
The energy crisis will not save the cities, but it may give them time to save themselves. Pre-existing trends toward inner city living and mass transit may be accelerated, while some movement out of the cities may be slowed.

After all, says the head of Philadelphia's planning commission, "the cities are really the best energy savers that man has ever devised."

Long-range trends are difficult, if not impossible, to gauge. Officials universally say "it's too early to tell" whether lifestyle changes in the cities caused by the winter energy shortage will last. "Energy will be a new factor in the complicated equation of where people live and work," says Doug Parker, newly appointed energy adviser for the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Leaders
The Associated Press surveyed leaders and citizens in several of the country's largest cities to see what changes the energy crisis has brought.

Development along the cities' fringes, and within downtown, may increase. Brokers point to the fuel-saving benefits of attached row houses. Most important, those who love the cities, or are committed to them, feel the energy crisis provides a new psychological weapon to combat the fear of racial distrust and urban crime.

Awakening
"I think there's been something in the nature of an awakening that things can't go on the way they were," says Donald Moore, president of the Downtown Brooklyn Development Association. "Everything at least psychologically is flowing in our direction."

To Susan Keller, urban sociologist at Princeton University, it's a question whether "the fantasy of open space and the open road or the fantasy of the rich city predominates."

As gasoline dwindled this winter, mass transit ridership increased between 5 and 10 percent in some cities. Transit authorities added bus lines and special lanes for car pools and urged businesses to stagger working hours to alleviate bunting.

They'll take another look at the cities, that maybe cities are in again," she says. Still there appears a need "to combine various modes of life with new kinds of transport," she says.

Demos File Compromise U.S. Health Insurance Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional jam surrounding national health insurance has been broken by the introduction of new compromise legislation by two influential Democrats. "This could pass the House and Senate this year," Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said of the bill worked out over the last 11 months with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said he will conduct health insurance hearings April 24-26 and every Friday thereafter until all new bills have been discussed. The Kennedy-Mills bill more closely resembles the Nixon administration's proposal than Kennedy's earlier cradle-to-grave approach favored by organized labor. Mills said it carries a nearly identical $40 billion price tag, but would be financed through payroll taxes and an additional $8.5 billion rather than private health insurance premiums as proposed by the administration. Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare praised the Kennedy-Mills bill but said that administration leaders "remain strongly opposed" to the concept of total federal control of health insurance and financing through Social Security-like payroll tax increases. The Kennedy-Mills bill would limit the average American family's out-of-pocket health care payments to $1,000 a year, including a maximum $300 deductible for a family of three.

The administration's plan, in contrast, would set the catastrophic-illness ceiling at $1,500 with a $450 deductible for the same size family. Both proposals would charge consumers the first 25 per cent of bills until the limit is reached, and both would abolish Medicaid for the needy with some form of new government-financed coverage. The Kennedy-Mills bill would limit the average American family's out-of-pocket health care payments to $1,000 a year, including a maximum $300 deductible for a family of three.

State Wins Chance To Save Land

By CHRIS NELSON Herald Staff Writer The state now has 120 days to find the cash for 5,800 wooded acres along the Wekiva River slated for development into three rivers, a planned 50,000-person city in Lake County. All parties to a legal battle over a controversial development Lake County and Major Realty Corp. on one side, Seminole County and the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council on the other—have agreed to give the state four months to buy the land. Lake County commissioners and planning council officials Tuesday agreed to the 120-day "clock," in the words of Seminole County Planner Roger Neiswender. If the state can't find money from a recently passed $200 million endangered lands bond issue, then the legal battle over Three Rivers will be renewed at the time "to its eventual conclusion, whatever it might be." Attorneys for both sides flew to Tallahassee last week for a state examiner's hearing into the planning council's rejection of Three Rivers, which, as a development of regional impact, must be approved by the area it affects, and not just its home county. Although Tuesday's agreement to wait 120 days was anticipated, Neiswender said an April 23 examiner's meeting has been scheduled in Tallahassee to hear the case. However, Neiswender said, Major Realty has promised to negotiate with the state "in good faith."

WFL Paints Security Picture Despite Risk

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Long months remain before the football season opens officially, but the way things have been going in the offseason, the games could prove an anticlimax.

The National Football League, made more fully aware of the bombshell signings of the three Miami Dolphins stars Sunday, reached deep into its pocketbook Tuesday and came up with two first-round draft choices.

Massive defensive tackle Carl Barilauskas agreed to terms with the American Conference New York Jets for a three-year contract reported as high as $80,000, while Chicago Bear signed No. 1 choice Wayne Bryant of Tennessee State — a linebacker.

In both cases, the WFL made strong overtures to the college stars, only to lose in the bargaining through doubts that it — regardless of Messrs. Conka, Warfield and Klich — will prove itself viable this summer.

"I put a lot of emphasis on playing in the NFL," said Bryant, the second-round pick of the Washington-Baltimore Ambassadors. "We had doubts the WFL would get off the ground."

Barilauskas, 6-foot-6 and 265 pounds, felt the same way. The offer from the New York Stars was termed "substantial" by the big tackle's lawyer, and covered several years, but Barilauskas expressed concern over the numerous franchise shifts the WFL already has suffered.

That fact apparently didn't matter to Oakland Raider veteran quarterback Ken Stabler, who jumped to the WFL Birmingham Americans — starting with the 1976 season — for a multi-year contract one agent said made him the highest-paid player in the sport's history.

It wasn't the money that brought about the move. "Getting back to the South was pretty important to me," said the 27-year-old — the AFC's leading passer last season and engineer of a 9-1 playoff season for the Raiders.

"I was born in the South, raised in the South, played football in the South (at Alabama), and I'd like to continue to do so."

But money may draw five starting players from the Baltimore Colts to the WFL as it did former All-Pro wide receiver Gary Collins to the Ambassadors and Houston Oilers quarterback Ed Hargett to the Honolulu Hawaiians Tuesday.

Baltimore linebackers Mike Curtis and Ted Hendricks, defensive end Roy Hillen, running back Don McCauley and safety Rick Volk all are in the option year of their contracts and have expressed readiness to jump.

Miami Dolphins safety Jake Scott may find that there's enough money to purchase his services for the Honolulu Hawaiians. The Miami Herald reported in its Wednesday edition that Scott "is close" to a multi-year, six-figure contract with the WFL team.

So the Miami crisis continues. Thirteen other Dolphins have not yet signed their contracts for the coming season, and a number of that group are toying with the purse strings of the WFL owners.

WHICH WAY DID HE GO GEORGE, WHICH WAY DID HE GO? TWO BOONE High School sprinters take time to cut up at the starting blocks between events in Tuesday's five way track meet won by Winter Park Boone finished in third place behind Winter Park and DeLand.

Tribe JV Tips Greyhounds

LONGWOOD—Sanford's Curtis Wolf scattered seven hits over nine innings for the baby Seminoles as the Sanford jayvees tipped Lyman JV 2-1 in extra innings Tuesday afternoon.

Wolf pitched a nine inning sparker for the Seminoles while Lyman pitchers Scott Wolderski and Rusty Hatton combined for a three-hitter.

Ned Raines was the hero for the baby Seminoles picking up two game winning RBIs in the top of the ninth inning.

The Greyhounds scored first in the bottom half of the opening frame. Mike Andriano led off the inning with a single and stole second and third. He scored on a wild pitch for the Hoards only run.

Sanford picked up their lone regulation play run in the sixth inning. John Parozzi got on base with two outs in a walk. Wolf singled him to second and Lively scored him with a sharp double.

The Tribe won the game in the ninth inning after Lively walked. Beine and Baker were both put out when Stevens

Low-Key, Modest & Loving, Sloan AP Coach Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Norm Sloan, a low-key boss who plays down his role with North Carolina State's national championship basketball team, was named The Associated Press Coach of the Year today.

The modest transplanted Hoosier scored a runaway victory over Marquette's Al McGuire, a man whom Sloan beat just as easily for the national title.

The 47-year-old Sloan collected 81 points to 33 for McGuire in balloting by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters.

Notre Dame's Dick Phelps placed third with 24 votes, Michigan's Johnny Orr was fourth with 19 and UCLA's John Wooden, who has won this award five times, was fifth with 14.

Preaching "love" among his players, Sloan directed the Wolfpack to a 20-1 record this season, including the 76-64 victory over Marquette in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's finals.

But he's not overly impressed with his part in the formidable accomplishments.

"People give coaching too much credit," he has often said.

Pressure Builds In WHA Finals

By The Associated Press

"I played goal, defense and forward in my sleep last night, and I woke up this morning a wreck," Chicago Cougar Player-Coach Pat Stapleton.

"We all felt we had to make the Jersey Knights 7-3 to clinch a spot in the World Hockey Association playoffs.

Jan Popiel scored three goals in the victory, as Chicago moved to an insurmountable 4-0 lead going into the final period.

The Cougars will play either New England or Toronto in the first round of the East playoffs this coming weekend.

In the other WHA game, the Toronto Toros topped Edmonton's 3-2, tying the game at 2-2 with his second tally at 12:49 of the final frame.

Islanders 3, Penguins 2

Bobby Nystrom scored the winning goal from the left slot at 6:25 of the third period and Ralph Stewart got two goals to lead the last-place Islanders.

It was the Islanders' first-ever victory over the Penguins.

Flyers 6, North Stars 3

The game went into the final period tied 3-3, but Bill Flett, Ross Lombardy and Dave Schultz scored less than five minutes apart to give the league-leading Flyers their largest collection of light films, 10.

The game was the 530th and last NHL contest for Minnesota goalie Gump Worsley, who has announced that he will retire at the end of the season.

Blues 5, Seals 3

Floyd Thompson and Dave Gardner scored third-period goals to pace St. Louis.

It was California's 53rd loss of the year, equalling their poorest season ever in 1970-71.

Watching George Foreman fight like a volcano got a geayer and a volcano got a geayer. Foreman blinched it away. And every time Norton hit Norton, Norton seemed to be lifted up and back by the force of the blow — once, it seemed to me, a blow to the chest lifted Norton off his feet and up into the air. It had to be an optical illusion.

And when Norton was dazed, identical as two fighters can be. But every time Norton's fist snaked out to hit Foreman, Foreman blinked it away. They seek out the 40-year-old superstar almost anywhere.

Autograph Hounds

Late last fall, a woman in Cincinnati was almost struck by a car when she darted into a busy street attempting to collar Aaron for an autograph.

Earlier this spring in Miami, two young fans bolted over a waist-high fence and scrambled into position next to Aaron in the on deck circle so a parent or friend could snap a picture during a pregame warm-up.

Other coaches receiving votes this year: Charles Ridd, Pitt (10); Ted Owens, Kansas (8); Late Olson, Long Beach State (5); Roy Skinner, Vanderbilt (3); Eddie Sutherland (2); Don Davidson, Dayton (2) and Fred Schaus, Purdue (2).

Several months later he signed a lucrative one-a-half million contract with the Braves.

He became a demand for television programs last winter but wasn't enthralled with the Hollywood scene.

"That's a different life," he said.

Worthy Projects

He staged a celebrity bowling tournament in Atlanta about 16 months ago and raised $25,000 for research and treatment of sickle-cell anemia, a disease generally contracted by blacks.

He is in the process of raising $100,000 for the Hank Aaron Scholarship Fund and is talking about an active part in it. The money is to be used to keep needy youngsters, black and white, from dropping out of high school because of financial problems.

Aaron struggled to get his high school degree and has taken an intense interest in the education of his four children, by a former marriage to Barbara Lucas. The oldest, Gail, attends Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn. Two sons, Henry Jr. and Larry, attend a

Braves Even Celtic Slate Behind Confident McAdoo

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Some people would be satisfied with the improvement the Buffalo Braves have shown this season. They doubled their victory total in the regular season from 21 to 42, turned last season's National Basketball Association's Rookie of the Year, Bob McAdoo into the NBA's leading scorer, and on and on.

But suddenly, the young Braves are throwing a scare into the Boston Celtics in their Eastern Conference semifinal playoff series. Buffalo's 115-106 triumph in Buffalo Tuesday night evened the series at two victory apiece, and the fourth-year club appears to be gaining confidence with each game.

The Celtics had defeated the Braves in five of their seven regular season games and in Saturday's opener in Boston.

In the other NBA playoffs, the Los Angeles Lakers trimmed

Shark's Shark Prices Line

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — There may be more big money deals offered by the World Football League following the Cooke-Kick-Warfield coup. But Coach Bud Aher of the Jacksonville Sharks says his linemen needn't apply.

"We won't give an arm and a leg for a lineman because they don't call tickets," Aher said Tuesday. "But if we have a chance to get a top-rated quarterback, for instance, we'll jump right in."

Aher said that Larry Conka, Jim Klich and Paul Warfield of the National Football League's Miami Dolphins will be worth every penny the WFL's Toronto Merchants paid to sign them. The trio reportedly got $1.5 million to jump leagues for the 1975 season.

Britons Seek Title Fight

LONDON (AP) — Zaire sounds an unlikely place for a world heavyweight title fight between George Foreman and Muhammad Ali. But a British company is so sure of success that it is ready to pump $3 million into it.

Hemdale Leisure Corp. says it has put up $1.5 million in front money to ensure the fight takes place next September.

A spokesman said the firm expects the promotion to cost it an additional $1.5 million to $2 million besides the front money.

"Doubts have been cast on a world title fight in Africa. There are problems over television relay, hotels and press facilities. But if the fight comes off it could be the most lucrative sports spectacle in history."

The Hemdale group is active in movie production and distribution, music and gambling.

The firm took its name from film actor David Hemmings and his partner John Daly, who founded it. Hemmings is now out

ELMORE SMITH, traded earlier in the season from Buffalo to Los Angeles, scored 30 points and grabbed 17 rebounds to help Los Angeles trim Milwaukee and cut the Bucks' series lead to 2-1.

Smith outscored Milwaukee center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar by a point and collected two more rebounds in a game which saw a brief return to action by the Lakers injury-plagued star guard Jerry West, who finished with four points.

From Total Forgiveness To Tourist Trap

By BILL BAUL
Copley News Service

HONOLULU, Hawaii — Until 154 years ago, the City of Refuge here on the "big island" of Hawaii was the legendary sanctuary of the Polynesian gods. Anybody who could reach it, no matter what his crime, was pardoned and could return home untouched by his enemies. Then in 1819 the Hawaiians broke away from their old gods, the KI, and the missionaries came. The City of Refuge is now a national park.

The city is a six-acre slab of old lava that fronts like a shelf on the Pacific Ocean in the southwest of the island.

Defeated warriors, non-combatants on the losing side, and breakers of ancient taboos — called kapus in Hawaii — could escape death if they got to the rocky ledge ahead of their pursuers.

The Trick

But the trick was how. Entry could be only by sea, which was extremely difficult. The area of refuge was roughly a mile square with ocean fronting on two sides and a great wall, which could not be scaled, on the other two sides.

The great wall averages 10 feet high and about 17 feet wide.

There are picnic facilities where one can ponder under the palms the long-ago dramas of perhaps whole families struggling in the ocean to reach salvation on the sacred volcanic coastline.

The imagination is provoked, too, by huge replicas of wooden snarling gods, set on poles above the City of Refuge's palisades, duplicated according to drawings made by the first white men to see them.

Push-button tapes dramatize the old Hawaiian life, which took its direction from the kapus, or taboos, of the many thousands of gods, ranging from a few powerful ones to lesser deities.

The Gods

Nothing escaped the gods, no matter how small, and everything was regulated by the kapus of dos and don'ts. There was no trial of guilt or innocence for refugees. It was the edict of the gods that they should be purified ceremonially by the priests.

Visitors see a reconstructed wooden temple of the kind used by the priests. While there are at least five other ruins on the island of Hawaii, and others in the Hawaiian Islands chain, the one here is historically most important, and the only one almost intact.

Besides the original wall, there is a huge stone temple platform built about 1550, on which was once a wooden temple. Adjacent to the City of Refuge are royal fishponds and stone platforms on which stood the houses of important chiefs. Legends tell of secret passageways in the great wall of the refuge, and sections have revealed hollow honeycombed interiors, evidently left to save time and material in building.

Austrian Women On Move

NEW YORK (AP) — Though she modestly refuses to take any credit for the changes, Elfriede Kari reports steady improvement in the status of women in Austria, where she has been Secretary of State for Family Policy and Women's Rights since 1971.

"The whole government and the Social Democratic party have worked toward this end," said Miss Kari, here from Vienna to participate in an international forum of the United Nations on "The Role of Women in Population and Development."

Thanks to recent legislation starting Jan. 1, 1975, abortions will be permitted in Austria under regulations similar to those in the United States. "Abortion is not desired, either from a sociological view or from the view of the woman herself," explained the albin brunette Cabinet member, "but the option must remain open, our emphasis is on the positive-contraception."

Individual

Since Austria has no population surplus at present, she adds, family planning is looked at from the standpoint of the individual, rather than as a means of controlling population.

Women — married or single — receive free medical attention during pregnancy, get a year's sabbatical leave from their job after giving birth and there are favorable tax laws and government cash allowances for families with children.

"But we are not seeking to encourage large families," said Miss Kari. "The laws have been enacted to help people who already have children and to prevent women from having abortions for economic reasons."

Work Force

In Austria, 40 per cent of all women are in the work force, she said. In principle, every type of job is open to them, but there are occupations and professional groups where women are concentrated: health services, cosmetics, tourist business, textile and garment industries, saleswomen, unskilled factory workers and "in the lower and middle level jobs in both private and government office. In theory there is equal pay but in practice women's work is undervalued.

"More and more parents are giving their daughters a better education," Miss Kari said. "But there are still fewer women in the universities than men — only about 20 per cent are women."

Having succeeded in achieving abortion reforms, Austrian women are now demanding modernization of laws pertaining to the family, such as the legal relationship between children and parents and between husband and wife. Under present laws a man can prohibit his wife from working and the husband has authority over the children.

"Some of the laws date back to 1811 and do not correspond to the structure of today's society," Miss Kari noted. "The laws are in the process of being changed to catch up with what's really happening."

Secretary

The Secretary, one of three women in the Austrian Cabinet, says the status of women in her country is about equal to that of women in Germany and the United Kingdom. "But we are behind Sweden a little and far ahead of Italy and France."

Have Go At Some New Words

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The whole country today seems to be suffering from a bad case of "automobillitis." Not only that, but "decidophobia" and "insurism" are rampant, "rumor-ism" is rife, the "Nixonologists" are out in force, and "logocides" are filling the political air.

Loosely translated, what all this means is that the world has been changing rapidly within the past year or so, and the English language has been changing right along with it.

125 Of Them
These new words are among some 125 that have come into the language from various sources and are being studied by editors of Merriam-Webster dictionaries for possible inclusion in future editions.

"Automobillitis," as though anyone has to be told, is the problem caused by the increasing use of automobiles. "Decidophobia" is abnormal dread of making decisions. "Loserism," according to the editors, is lack of faith in oneself. "Rumor-ism" is a state or condition marked by widespread rumors — one of the more common occurrences in the year of Watergate. A "Nixonologist" is one who studies the policies and practices of Richard Nixon and "logocides" is the distortion of the meaning of a word.

"This is the first time in several years that most of the new words did not come from young people, the black experience, or such areas as sports and music," said Dr. J. Bosley Wolff, editorial director for dictionaries for Merriam. "Curiously enough, Watergate itself added few words." Dr. Wolff continued, "Such terms as 'insuperative' and 'decipia' are already in our dictionaries. Even 'water gate' is in, defined as a floodgate, although that definition could be expanded in the future."

Carroize

Among new words found by the editorial staff, which reads hundreds of publications in its search are: "courtoocracy," a form of government in which the courts make the laws; "carroize," to entice into a deal by the promise of immediate gain; "ecolomica," the application of the principles of ecology and economics to land development; "ethnoide," the deliberate destruction of an ethnic culture.

Not all new words are serious or come from the striking events of the time. From sports, for instance, there is "sky surfing," in which participants tie to delta-wing kites glide down from cliffs.

President May Borrow To Pay Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials say President Nixon, facing a federal tax bill for about half a year earlier than the Internal Revenue Service calculated he would pay, is expected to borrow some money to make the payments.
Nixon announced through aides Wednesday night he would pay some $465,000 in income taxes and interest. He acted after being told privately a day earlier that the Internal Revenue Service calculated he owed an extra $432,787 in taxes before interest for his first four years in the White House.

The President's net worth as of last May 31, was put at $888,522 in disclosures Nixon made four months ago. His cash assets were put at $432,874.
A White House source, asked how Nixon proposed to meet a taxes-and-interest bill of about $465,000, said the President would use some resources and probably borrow the balance.
The White House announced the IRS report contained no suggestion of fraud on the part of the President.
The IRS contended Nixon improperly claimed deductions for business expenses and a controversial gift of his vice-presidential papers to the National Archives.
The federal tax collectors also held that the President failed to report taxable capital gains on sales of a New York City apartment and part of his land at San Clemente, Calif.

The tax agency, which once gave the President an okay on past filings now challenged, also said by Nixon aides to report he should have included some federally-financed improvements to his California and Florida estates, and the value of air flights by relatives and friends on military aircraft.
The staff report prepared for the President should have listed the improvements as taxable income, in effect a job benefit.
The $92,298 figure is the first publicly released estimate of how much of the federal spending on the President's homes since 1969 could be considered improvements.
A report approved by a House subcommittee two weeks ago concluded the homes have cost the government $17 million, including all military and security personnel salaries and other federal expenses associated with the homes.

Baxter: No Room For New Projects

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer
ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Comptroller Denver Baxter has asked city department for a reduction of $333,482 in budgeted spending in all departments. "The city is not in dire financial straits, but there is no room for new projects," Baxter explained. He urged that already approved over-budget spending for construction of two tennis courts at the civic center and the hiring of an administrative assistant be deferred until next year.
His report included approval of already approved expenditures for two new police

$92,298 Paid To Fix Homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government paid $92,298 to fix President Nixon's private homes for his "personal benefit" and he should pay for it, the congressional staff report released Wednesday concluded.

Family, Friends On Free Flights

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's family and friends took more than $50,000 worth of free government airplane flights from 1969 to 1972, the staff of a congressional committee estimates.
Now Nixon must pay income tax on the value of at least some of the trips, the Internal Revenue Service ruled Wednesday in a part of its decision that Nixon owes $432,787 in back taxes for the four years.
The IRS decision and committee staff recommendation that Nixon pay taxes on the value of these trips is a unique finding in their twin verdicts on Nixon's taxes, which deal principally with contested deductions and tax treatment of real estate transactions.
They open the way to argument that other government services provided to the First Family also should be counted as income to the President.
The trips fall into two categories — those where the President was along, and those where he wasn't.

Nixon Tax Payment Reactions Vary

By JEAN PATTESON Herald Staff Writer
Reactions varied in Sanford today to news that President Nixon has agreed to pay more than $465,000 in back taxes, but in general his fellow taxpayers agreed: if he owes the money, he should pay.
"He's got just as much right to pay as we do, and we wouldn't get away with not paying our taxes," Mrs. L. N. Trued agreed.
Several other persons echoed these sentiments. "He should pay it," was the identical comment from George Cestar, William P. Owens and Jackie Clark.
"Good show," commented Al Skinner. "Let him pay that, and more."
"I think he ought to pay; they sure make us pay," said Glen Miller.
"He's got just as much right to pay as we do, and we wouldn't get away with not paying our taxes," Mrs. L. N. Trued agreed.
Several other persons echoed these sentiments. "He should pay it," was the identical comment from George Cestar, William P. Owens and Jackie Clark.
Less forthright in his comments was Bill Brandt: "I guess he had no choice, but frankly I'm so confused about all the different things you hear about Nixon that I really don't know what to believe any more. I just wish the whole thing could be finished and we could go back to normal."
"I'd sure hate to be faced with having to pay back taxes like that," was Larry Morris' sympathetic comment.
"Sure, everybody's got to pay taxes, but I think he's probably being victimized," Morris continued. "I'll probably have a lot to do with trying to impeach him at least. This won't help him at all."

Wow, He's Miffed At The IRS

By JOHN A. SPOLSKI
OVIEDO — Even if Clifford Pendarvis, owner of Oviedo Texaco gas station, gets more fuel next month he may not open his doors. That's how angry he is about having to let the vultures come in and get gas for nothing.
Pendarvis recently had to "cut back" his prices to make up for what the Internal Revenue Service said was $801 in overcharged gas prices at the beginning of the year.
He's now threatening to "close the doors" as soon as this month's allotment runs out which he says will be next week.
"And I don't know if I'll open back up," he said bitterly. "They say from the IRS who checked the Pendarvis' record books and said he had been overcharging gas prices messed up the whole thing."
"How can I be charging more than I am?" the South Seminole County gas station owner asked.
Pendarvis said he made up the overcharge last month. He said he used to pump more gas than any of the town's five stations. Now he receives just 11,000 gallons a month and that allotment has been cut again.

Lost Revenues

Baxter said most of the $625,000 lost in revenues will be made up in expected overcharges in utility taxes, fines and bonds from municipal court, state revenue sharing, recoveries and beginning year surplus.
Baxter said if spending is curtailed the city should end the fiscal year before the year with a carry-over of $204,256. A carry-over is necessary to operate the city government during the first few months of the fiscal year before property taxes begin coming in.
He recommended a $14,872 cut in police department budget, a $34,350 cut in the fire department, deferring purchase of a tanker truck, state related equipment, $172,000 cut in the streets department including Cranes Root-Lake Orietta-North Lake paving and paving or drainage for Ballard, Palm Springs Drive and Newburyport and $12,300 cut in other departments.

Want To Believe

"I still want to believe in him," added Brandt wistfully, "but it's not so easy any more."
Most persons were not feeling as charitable, however. "He should be impeached for it, and

Tornadoes Kill 330; Thousands Injured

By JANET BATAILLE Associated Press Writer
Tornadoes struck an area stretching from Georgia to Canada late Wednesday and early today, killing more than 330 persons, the worst tornado death toll in half a century.
Thousands of injuries and millions of dollars in damage resulted from the twisters that hit scores of cities and towns, leaving many in shambles.
Early today, two tornadoes hit the town of Meadow Bridge, W. Va., about 50 miles southeast of Charleston, killing one person and injuring several others.
Half the town of Xenia, in southwestern Ohio, was devastated. Thirty persons were killed and more than 1,000 were homeless in the community of 25,000.
Rows of bodies were arranged in the rubble-strewn streets. More victims were thought trapped in overturned cars, but heavy equipment was unable to get through the streets to lift the vehicles.
About 1,500 National Guard troops were sent to Xenia to protect against looting and help in rescue work. A

11 States In Paths Of Havoc

Here is a state-by-state death toll from the tornadoes which struck a wide area Wednesday:
KENTUCKY: 77 dead, at least 280 injured. Heavy damage at Louisville, Frankfort and Brandenburg. National Guard called up. Telephone service down in stricken areas.
INDIANA: 63 dead, at least 1,000 injured. Damage estimated at least $25 million, hardest hit areas Hanover, in southern Indiana, and Monticello and Rochester, in north-central Indiana. National Guard called up. Telephone service down in stricken areas.
ALABAMA: 69 dead, at least 350 injured. Damage estimated in millions. Hardest hit Huntsville-Decatur area. Athens, Jasper, Moulton, all in northern Alabama.
TENNESSEE: 84 dead, hundreds injured. Heaviest damage at Cleveland and Etowah in southeast and Cookeville and Nashville area. National Guard called up.
OHIO: 25 dead, most of 500 injured. Town of Xenia, near Dayton in southwest, half destroyed, thousands homeless. National Guard called up. Cincinnati damage estimated at $15 million to $20 million. Telephone service out in stricken areas.
GEORGIA: 15 dead, more than 80 injured. Heavy damage throughout northwestern area.
CANADA: 8 dead at Windsor, at least 10 injured.
NORTH CAROLINA: 4 dead. Damage at Murphy and Stecoah in western section.
MICHIGAN: 3 dead. Most damage in Hillsdale, southeast of Detroit.

'Worse Than Bombings In Germany'

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — "One witness said it was 'worse than any of the bombings in Germany' during World War II."
He referred to the wreckage of Xenia, a southwestern Ohio town which officials said was "50 per cent destroyed" by a tornado that pounced down on its 25,000 citizens Wednesday afternoon.
Officials said 24 persons were confirmed dead. More bodies were expected to turn up in interstitial searches today. At least 1,000 persons were homeless.
"It's the worst I've ever seen," said George Water-cutter, a Red Cross disaster worker. "It is complete devastation."
"Tomorrow is going to be really bad," she said Wednesday night. "I really believe about what we see."
People already numbed by the disaster were shaken again by new tornado warnings issued during the early morning hours today. But they remained calm, even as sirens wailed and trucks used loudspeakers to announce, "Take cover! Take cover!" They crowded into ballis and stairwells into the funnel clouds swept by and disappeared.
Telephone lines to Xenia were cut by the twister, but Ohio Bell restored emergency service with mobile phones.
The Red Cross set up a relief center in the downtown YMCA, one of the few buildings spared by the tornado. It took in 350 elements which guarded me, Miss Hearst said of her father's food program.
"Personally, I don't believe it," Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp., told newsmen hours later.

The announcement is made that Mooney is not planning on running to return to this position—getting out of the political arena entirely. A tremendous loss for Seminole County as far as I'm concerned.
