Cops can fight crime from home

By MARIA OREM
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - A new federal program designed to keep crime out of neighborhoods through police presence will make homes available to law enforcement officers at a 50 percent discount.

Through the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development's Officer Next Door Program, instituted in August by the Clinton Administration, 15 areas have been designated in Central Florida. In Seminole County, most of those sites are in Sanford, according to Bob Osterman, director of HUD's single family housing division for the nine-county Central Florida region.

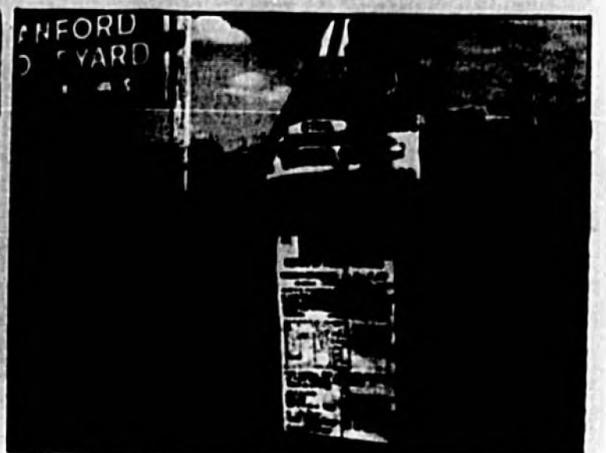

"We expect most of the activity in Sanford with three or four properties coming in a month," Osterman said.

The discount applies to HUD foreclosed homes in distressed neighborhoods. To qualify for the program, police officers must agree to live at the property for at least three years.

"The idea is to sell HUD foreclosed properties acquired in See Home, Page 3A proposed rezoned property. Howe is surrounded by the three designated sites chosen by the county for adult businesses in Sanford.

SANFORD - They are identified as sites 10, 11, and 18. At each are signs posted by Seminole County Planning Manager John Dwyer. "Plan Amendment" is colored in green. "Re-Zone" is in orange. Alarming

These are three areas designated to be possible adult entertainment war zones. They were approved by the county's P & Z (Planning & Zoning) and LPA (Land Planning Agency) on Wednesday night. The County Commission will review them at two public meetings in December. Sanford Mayor Larry Dale visited the sites Thursday.

He said the sites were the "least obtrusive" areas in the Sanford area - better for the city and its residents than the real estate near the Orlando Sanford Airport. See News, Page 5A

Best family grateful for outpouring of love

By RUSSELL WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The family and friends of Chuck Best said goodbye Wednesday to a Sanford man who died while saving his 85-year-old stepfather's life after a boating accident Saturday.

A cross, a wreath and flowers were placed at the old Melodee Roller Rink which Best and his dad ran for more than three decades.

Best's sister, Sheila "Dee" Best Stanley said today that she was grateful that the family had been blessed with so many people wanting to help, arms to hold and shoulders to cry on.

"I just want to make sure you know that the outpouring of love, visits, meals, hugs, and tears has brought comfort to the family of Chuck," she said.

Using the words of her 7-year-old son, Drew, Stanley said, "There was a lot of food and a lot of people. It seems like a party. It just wasn't as much fun without Uncle Chuck."

New year brings lots of road construction to Lake Mary

By SHARI BRODIE
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - Bids for the widening of Rhinehart Road fell "well within the estimates" David Gierach told Lake Mary city commissioners Thursday.

Bids for work on the road, from Lake Mary Boulevard to County Road 46A, were opened Friday, and Gierach, an engineer with Conklin, Porter & Holmes, said the firm should have a recommendation for the award by the Dec. 18 city commission meeting.

If the commission approves the recommendation, construction should begin on the eastern two lanes just after the first of the year. The contract length is 450 days, with construction to be completed by March of 1999.

The bidders and the total bid prices are: M.K. Eby Construction, $5,119,129.67; Bergeron Land Development, $5,151,115.98; Hubbard Construction, $5,190,697.20; Southland Construction, $5,421,347.69; Htrac Construction, $6,238,114.34; Baker Heavy and Highway, $6,698,953.65.

The low bidder is the same contractor who built the second phase of Lake Mary Boulevard. All bidders are required to be DOT qualified.

The money for the road construction will come from Seminole County's one-cent sales tax. Gierach said that the cost of acquiring the right-of-way, which includes the purchase of land for two retention ponds and the gateway park at the northeast corner of Rhinehart and the boulevard, will be $1 million more than was expected.

The widening of Rhinehart will include the installation of a 16-inch reclaimed water main and a 20-inch potable water main along the See Road, Page 5A

Main Street gearing up for Winterfest holiday activities

By DAVID FRAZIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Sanford Main Street is gearing up to kick off Winterfest '97 which will commence December 5th. Preparations are in full swing. Winterfest is a three day event that will feature music, light displays, arts and craft exhibits, children's activities, etc.

Sanford Main Street officials are now asking people to submit their entries for the "Florida Christmas" themed parade taking place on December 6 at 11 a.m. and it will come right down Main Street.

Floats, musical groups, specialty cars, civic, service and social groups are all welcome to participate. Entry deadline to be in the parade is December 1 at 5 p.m.

And Main Street is asking for a volunteer effort on Saturday, Nov. 22, at 12 noon. Any and all can come out to help decorate downtown by putting up holiday lights and decorations. Apple cider, snacks, the lights and decorations will be provided for all those who come out. Citizens are asked to bring their time, energy, enthusiasm, love of the season, and, if possible, a ladder. "We are trying to build a sense of community," said Jennifer Singelsen, program manager for Sanford Main Street. Singelsen also encourages all parents to bring their children out to help decorate.

On December 5, the festivities will begin at 6:30 p.m. as sheet music is handed out for participants to sing along with a local husband and wife group at Magnolia Square. Then at 7 p.m., Sanford mayor Larry Dale will light up Main Street. Music will then continue at 8 p.m. On December 6, the aforementioned parade will take place. And from noon till 3 p.m. there will be a lunch with Santa See Holiday, Page 5A

Religion and rollerblading with Pastor Hinn

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

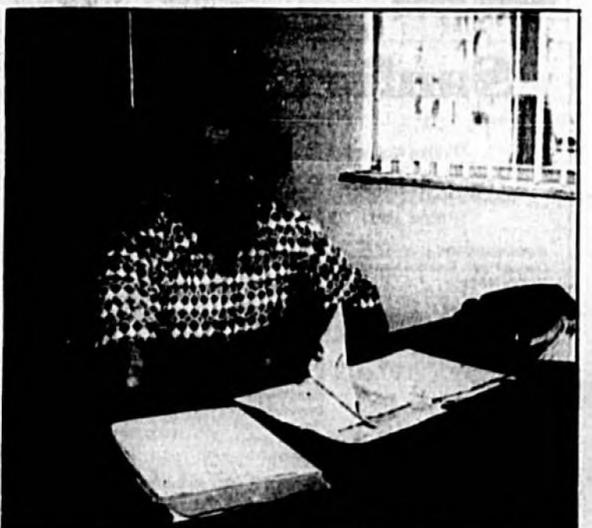

LAKE MARY - The Gathering Place has been in Lake Mary since January, 1996 but Sam Hinn, pastor of the church has visions for growth both in numbers and spiritually that will not only lead the lost to Jesus but entertain the youth in an outreach effort.

He and Co-Pastor Larry Keefauver recently shared their thoughts. Hinn, brother of Benny Hinn, the famous televangelist and author, had only words of praise for the influence and support that his sibling has brought his way. "My brother's ministry has affected me," he said. "It's been all positive. I pastored there with him for 12 years. I have served with him for some 20 years. It was Sept. 25, 1996 that God burdened by heart for this area. I would not have begun this work in Lake Mary without my brother's blessing."

He continued by saying, "We have never advertised this work. God has blessed us. We decided that if its gonna go its because God is there and the Lord has touched people's hearts to come. At first we thought it was just going to be my family and Larry's but we had 108 at the first service. Now we have about 300 to 325 in attendance."

Pastor Hinn adds, "I would sum up our mission statement by saying, worship, word, witness, win the lost and worship again. We need to worship God, get into the world, witness to others and win them to the Lord and then worship again with them and praise God for it all."

According to Hinn, the name "The Gathering Place," came from a vision the Lord gave him as well as giving him a heart for this area. He desires to minister to a body of believers here and also build a multi- See Hinn, Page 5A areas designated for revitalization and to encourage them to move into those neighborhoods and rehabilitate the property," Osterman said.

Osterman said his office will coordinate with local law enforcement agencies to provide keys and a list of homes that are available.

"We're expecting to get a lot of phone calls," he said.

Seminole County Chief Deputy Steve Harriett said although his office has had a similar program in place for several years and there are some deputies already living in the communities they police, "we would certainly encourage deputies to check out the federal program."

"The concept fits in nicely with community policing," Harriett said.

The areas slated for revitalization had already been identified by local governments. Osterman said he consulted with the county and city before developing the list of sites. Other targeted communities in Seminole County include Bookertown, Winwood, Jamestown, Johnson Hill, Lockhart, Midway and Roseland Park.

To sweeten the deal, HUD is asking for $100 down payment on the homes, which normally sell at an average of about $60,000, he said. Through its 203K program, which according to Osterman has been very successful, HUD can include repair costs in the FHA mortgage amount. In addition, HUD is offering a 30 percent discount to local governments and nonprofit organizations wishing to purchase the homes. The maximum FHA loan amount is $102,000.

"For example, in Sanford we have worked in the past with the Center for Affordable Housing. They buy the houses and then resell them," he said.

Osterman stressed the program, effective today, is geared to revitalize communities and not toward people wishing to make a profit by buying the homes and then reselling at a much higher price.

"These aren't meant to be cream puffs," he said.

Although the entire city of Sanford has been targeted for the program, Osterman said certain areas to the south may be excluded because the HUD homes there are in fairly good condition. Homes in the historic district will be included in the program because of the proximity to distressed neighborhoods that are in transition, Osterman said.

Charles Rowe, director of housing and development for Sanford, said when working with Osterman he requested all of Sanford be included in the program.

"We would like to see this happen especially in the Goldsboro and Georgetown areas," Rowe said. "Residents want to see a police presence. Let's get the cops in the neighborhoods."

Rowe said he saw the program as a good thing and he expected a good response. And although on one hand he didn't like to see people lose their homes to foreclosure, on the other hand the way HUD is disposing of the properties is good and beneficial to the community.

Get serious; Get together

The sooner the Sanford Police Department is able to shape up and gain the respect of this city the better equipped Sanford will be to enter the new millennium. Will it take a year or two or three?

Sanford should be grateful for the jump start the city's Law Enforcement Options Committee rendered on Tuesday. All it took was eight meetings. The committee members didn't waste time. They came up with a recommendation for the city commission.

Option "A" they said. Stick with the SPD. Give Chief Joe Dillard some support, give him time to work. Evaluate the work, and if the results aren't there in six months or a year, try something else.

The City Commissioners now must make their decision. They asked for help, and they got it. The options committee has done its job, made its statement a month earlier than almost anyone imagined it would. The committee chairman, Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning will make an oral presentation to the commission.

Major Larry Dale expects the commission will need as many as a half dozen work shops and a public meeting to make its call. There may be some snags along the way. Dale expects it will be late January when the commission decides what is best for the city.

Meanwhile, it is imperative the commission and the SPD cooperates with each other. Heal the wounds. Get on the same wave length. Work for a solution. Make it the right one. Move on.

Morris: Chairman's job is a snap

By RUDY WHITE
Herald Commentary

It's time again for the Board of Seminole County Commissioners to pick a chairman. They do this each year to keep each other in line. And because it would be preposterous not to have a chairman.

Grant Maloy, the new kid on the commission, says he may nominate himself. He's the current vice chairman, and says it would be the natural thing for the older commissioners to give him a promotion.

Win Adams, who fancies himself a good picker, says he is going to recommend Randy Morris be retained as chairman. "He's our best quarterback," Commissioner Adams said Wednesday.

Politicians are always telling us how much like athletes they are. How they go to bat for the community, shoot straight, and tackle tough issues.

When Richard Nixon was president he once sent Washington Redskins Coach George Allen some plays he thought the team might use against the Dallas Cowboys.

For years, presidents threw out the first ball at Washington Senators home openers. Harry Truman always made two pitches - one left-handed and the other as a righty. Most of the Washington pitchers had trouble throwing with one hand yet two.

It is customary in Washington, for the congressmen to have an annual baseball game. They are outfitted in Senators uniforms - Democrats vs. the Republicans. D.C. lost its major-league baseball team but the congressional game is still on the town agenda.

We're delighted that Win Adams (Win is a great name isn't it?) calls Randy Morris the county commission's best quarterback.

Being a chairman and being a quarterback are similar, of course. Each position requires a strong passing arm, ability to work a precise two-minute drill and to look good on television.

The Seminole commissioners might be joining the cable TV programming soon. That will make them as visible as the big time comishes from Orange County. They'll be in the same league with the evangelists and guys in sneakers.

To be sure, Morris is a glib fellow with a sense of humor. He ribbed a county staffer at a public meeting a few weeks ago by addressing him as "comrade." The man was a dropdead look-alike for Nikolai Lenin. Hey, Letterman and Leno aren't this good.

Anyone who has been to a public meeting, has to be impressed with the way Morris keeps the ball moving. He got the commissioners through the adult entertainment-public nudity meeting in less than eight hours. Hundreds were lined up to talk that night. If not for Morris, there would still be a line outside the County Services Building.

The chairman sets the tone for each meeting or work session. This means being conversant of a variety of topics - everything from garbage disposal to emergency rescue. The chairman can't ram through the line or sidestep anything without the support of at least two other commissioners.

Win Adams said that he is convinced the reason the commissioners had such a good season in 1997 was that Morris was the commission quarterback. "Check the record of how well we did with Dick Van Der Weide a year ago and how well we did this year with Randy Morris," said this man named Win.

The selection of a chairman is so important that Bob McMillan, the county attorney, is called in to officiate. He'll get the game started Tuesday following a prayer and pledge of allegiance.

If he gets the nod, Adams will nominate Morris. Daryl McLain would probably second the motion and when the vote was tallied, Morris would be chosen, 3-2. The third vote would come from the old quarterback himself.

This means Maloy, the freshman vice chairman, would have to be a backup quarterback in his sophomore season for the Seminole Commission. In those skirmishes he had to fill in for Dandy Randy Morris, Maloy performed capably.

He's got plenty of time to be the No. 1 signal caller, and he knows if Morris isn't careful he could get sacked by the voters in 1998. Happens all the time to the best of quarterbacks.

Constant rejoicing, continual thanksgiving

"Every furrow in the Book of Psalms is sown with the seeds of thanksgiving," someone has said. Indeed the Psalms would be almost nonexistent if one were to chop away all the beautiful praise and gratitude addressed to God in them.

The constant hope of every Christian has ever been the glorious hope he has in his Lord and Savior. This is a constant reason for thanksgiving! If there were nothing else (and there is always so very much more) in our lives for which to give thanks, this alone would be far more than enough.

So the person who has committed all to Jesus and walks with Him daily has this springboard of faith and hope in which to rejoice at all times. Christians do not have certain "Thanksgiving Days." They have "Thanksgiving Years" and a "Thanksgiving Life." We are always giving thanks to the One who made us for himself since we know the joy of belonging to Him completely.

Thanking Him is not something I must make notes to remember to do each day. Or check the calendar to see how often it should take place. What has been born in my soul and spirit is a constant rejoicing and a continual thanksgiving!

The au pair case

Just a few words to comment on this trial of this teen-age English nanny that has so many people jumping up and down.

Yes, I believe this girl did kill the baby. But let's look into the whole picture. This girl was brought over here to our country to live in as a housekeeper/nanny for three children, one of which was an infant. Now she's alone, lonely and no one to talk to. She can't just say "I quit", she has no place to turn. Did she receive her whole salary of $739 per week, or was half sent back to her parents????

No time away from the screaming and yelling of the older children, so the baby cried because of the noise. She had no break.

Every mother should lose her "chain" by having something to get away to for a few hours. This girl knew no one enough to talk about it.

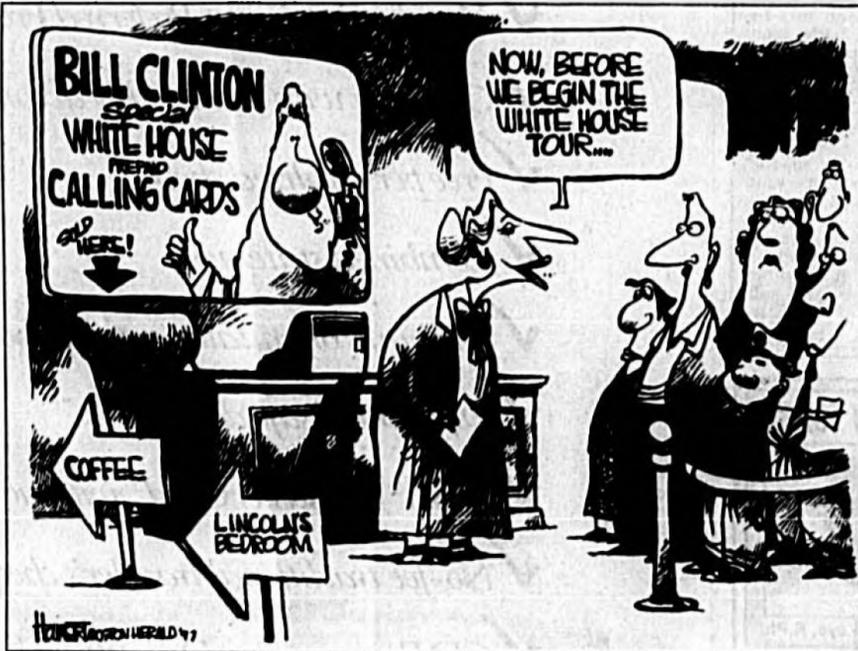

Now let's look at these two parents. Both worked, never home to take the burden off this girl's back. The children must be allowed to express themselves. Now, just why did these people have to go so far to get a live in domestic?? Could they not call one of the agencies that provide this kind of care, and are from this country, and pay wages by our law?

At least this person would have known "this" country. Maybe something is wrong that hasn't been told?? The court stated the baby had old injuries to the head from being dropped before. Who did that? ?????? up as both parents happened to be doctors. Where is the old nanny to ask her questions as to what went on in that household?

Why did her family allow her to come over here? Was she into things over there?

The way and manner in which she conducted herself in the courtroom was not someone who was frightened of what was going on. Puckering up her lips at the men and on the stand, that act with her lips, she is a tough little "cookie."

Yes, I believe she killed this child. But I believe the couple is to blame. This case reminds me of this boy from our country who went over to China or someplace to start up a gang of hoodlums over there. The first big job was to tear up cars along the street, breaking windows and slashing tires.

Well, they were caught, so our little American cries for mama to get him out. His punishment was, as all of them, seven lashes in the public square. Oh, did he cry that he couldn't be touched because he was an American. The papers picked it up to make copies to sell papers. I wish we had that law here. I'm sure less crime would be found. That's why all the foreign gangs come over here.

Now through the Congress, his sentence was seven years like the rest. They brought him home and guess what happened? Three months back he went off his "rocker" all over again. I think it was in the paper very briefly. He beat his mother, was high on drugs or something like that.

Now he is in a mental hospital for rehab. If people had stayed out of it maybe the jail time would have made a man out of him. We will never know, will we?

Something is very wrong with the background of these two doctors. It worries me for some reason. Why send all that way for a domestic? So she couldn't leave, lower wages or what?

Let's look up the old nanny and ask some questions. Ask the neighbors. find out facts on both sides. Quit jumping into something until you know all the facts. Quit being led by your nose by what you read.

Tobacco crackdown

I am deluged with "Gimmees" letters in my mail box, and ordinarily I would not write to the organization involved. However, your organization's request struck a raw nerve because I cannot and WILL NOT support any group which ignores the real culprits who MURDER millions of Americans every year with lung cancer because our National Leaders are too gutless to pass federal legislation making it a felony to grow, process or sell or give away any kind of tobacco products.

The several tobacco producing states -- primarily North and South Carolina and Virginia -- are just as evil as the peasant farmers in Central and South American who grow the coca plant which is processed into cocaine. In fact tobacco kills at least 10 TIMES as many people as does cocaine -- yet until this year our government subsidized tobacco farmers to keep them growing this deadly substance!

How outright STUPID can they be? And what about the 30 million or so "Tobacco addicts" who go right on puffing despite all the health information flowing forth about the deadly effects of cigarettes? Then along comes the American Lung Association begging for money to help people TOO STUPID TO STOP TO help themselves by quitting smoking!

No, I will not be a party to anything having to do with helping idiots who won't help themselves. I am now 80 years old, and I was "on the front lines" more than 30 years ago when Dr. Ochaner of Tulane University first dropped the bombshell linking smoking with lung cancer. I published a little pamphlet at that time showing a pack of cigarettes with the brand name: "DEATH wrapped in Cellophane. It's Milder that Way!" It was mailed from Valley Center, California, a small country town about 20 miles from Escondido in San Diego County.

An organization such as the American Lung Association should be spearheading a movement to have our Congress pass federal legislation making it a felony to grow, process or sell this poison, with a MANDATORY MINIMUM SENTENCE OF 10 YEARS WITHOUT PAROLE!

When I hear you (the American Lung Association) have undertaken this kind of crusade, I just MIGHT consider contributing, but not otherwise.

purpose complex for worship and recreation.

Being an avid hockey buff, Hinn shares, "I want to preach on Sunday morning," he said. "Then I want to take off my jacket and put on my roller blades. Then I can roller blade with the kids. I want them to have memorable thoughts about coming to worship."

Co-Pastor, Larry Keefer, cites with a laugh, "We want it to be sort of a Barnes & Noble but with a Christian atmosphere. I'll do the cappuccino bar and Sam will roller blade. Instead of the parents going to Denny's after church they can fellowship and watch their kids play with the pastor."

The pair consider the worship experience to be "very contemporary and spontaneous and a heartfelt type of worship," Keefer cites. "We have drums, a flute, a saxophone, a keyboard and a bass guitar. About one third of the church members are children. A nursery and children's program is provided at each service."

Speaking of Hinn, Keefer said, "Sam's heart is for the children and youth. He wants them to be changed for Jesus in a greater way. He says we always know that Christianity is only one generation away from extinction unless we give our children a permanent inheritance of faith."

They also said that Pastor Mark Myers works with the youth group. It consists of approximately 25 to 35 core group of young people. They participate in a program called, "Stirring the Fire," that meets every Friday evening. The group plans numerous evangelist outreaches throughout the year and will visit Yugoslavia on one such venture next summer.

Hinn concludes by saying, "This body of Christians really loves one another. They reach out to one another like a family."

Weekend at Nativity is a 'Weekend in Dodge City'

The old West was never as fun as it was at the annual fall festival of Church of Nativity in Longwood. "Weekend in Dodge City" featured three days of food, fun, music and prizes. The food was probably a lot better than it was in the old West, there was Italian, German, Oriental and American hamburgers, hot dogs and chicken. One of the biggest prizes at the festival was a 1998 Saturn automobile, being guarded by cameragris Kathy Johnson (left, upper photo) and Chris Boissonneault. The car was won by parish member Jim Poucher. Out riding fences on a wooden horse, Kelsey Andersen (right) got into the spirit of the event.

County Commissioner Daryl McLain worked with the city to eliminate previously named airport locations and replace them with the three sites in northwest Sanford.

"We wish there were no sites at all," Dale said. "No one to offend."

On his Thursday site inspection, Mayor Dale didn't get to talk to Don Howe.

He may do so, today.

Don Howe is 73. He and Sylvia Howe have been married 54 years. Their 55th wedding anniversary is in January. They live in a ranch house he built for their retirement years. This house is on N. White Cedar Rd. between Narcissus Ave. and Iowa Ave.

There's a county "Plan Amendment" and "Re-Zone" poster 40 yards away from the Howe's Little Acre of heaven.

The Howes are very troubled. "I feel like we have no rights at all," Sylvia Howe said on Thursday.

When he was 19 and an infantryman in the U.S. Army, Don Howe fought at the Battle of the Bulge. "I remember laying out there in the snow, freezing and afraid. But I felt what I was doing was good for the country."

"I didn't feel quite as helpless then as I feel today," he said. "There's so much power out there. I really don't know how to fight it."

The Howes aren't so worried that some nudie bar will begin business near their home as they are about the re-zoning process (agricultural to industrial) hiking the taxes they pay on their property.

They're on a fixed income. They fear that they may be forced to move. "They may try to tax us to death," Sylvia Howe said. "This is our home.

We want to stay. So do our neighbors."

"Will my taxes go up?" Don Howe asked someone he reached on telephone at the County Services Building.

"Probably no," Howe said he was told.

Six years ago, the Howes say they were baffled when the county notified them about its plans to rename the road where they lived.

"This used to be known as Old Monroe Road," Don Howe said. "One day we received a notice from the county that it wanted to change the name. That it was causing confusion. County Road 15 was Monroe Rd."

"We were told that if our road name was changed it would mean improved services from the county. They asked us if we had any suggestions for a new name. We said we liked Old Monroe Rd. just the way it was. What everyone around here knew it to be."

A week or so later, the Howes were notified Old Monroe Rd. was now going to be White Cedar Rd.

Here's why the change wasn't as grand as the county folks thought it would be. Sylvia Howe had to call 9-1-1 one evening when her husband had heart problems.

"The ambulance crew couldn't find us," she said. "Told us they never heard of White Cedar Rd."

So she told the dispatcher that it used to be Old Monroe Rd.

"Why didn't you say so...we'll be right there," the dispatcher said.

Ludicrously, the 1997-98 BellSouth director lists the Howes' residence as Old Monroe Rd.

Mayor Larry Dale said Thursday afternoon that he will personally visit with the Howes to explain the re-zoning dilemma for the city and Seminole County.

"I'd rather not see this happen to them - or to anyone," Dale said. "This is something that has been mandated by the courts. We're very concerned. We're trying to do what is best and has the least effect on people."

The Howes live in a "growth corridor" that is expected to be dramatically changed by the turn of the century.

Bill Suber, the property appraiser for Seminole County, said Thursday that he would do his part to let the Howes know that they "would be able to length of the roadway, medians with landscaping and irrigation, five stormwater retention ponds and four new traffic signals. Dual left turn lanes, from eastbound Lake Mary Boulevard onto Rinehart and a right turn lane, from westbound Lake Mary Boulevard onto Rinehart, will also be installed.

In addition to the widening of Rinehart, work is scheduled to begin on the new Interstate-4 interchange at Rinehart and C.R. 48A. Bids will be let in January. That project is expected to start in June and take two years to complete.

Gierach said that the winning contractor will submit a construction schedule and a traffic maintenance plan to the city so that residents can be notified of what to expect.

The presentation by Gierach was made at the request of new city commissioner Al Crump, who focused on the issues of the Rinehart Road widening during his recent campaign.

stay on their property for as long as they wanted."

Suber, also, said he would visit with the Howes. They are protected by agricultural and homestead exemptions that would keep any tax increases at no more than three percent a year, he said.

He - or no one else - can predict future real estate values in the area where the Howes reside.

Obviously, Old Monroe Rd. - White Cedar Rd. - isn't what it used to be.

Sister's letter of appreciation

This letter is written to the many friends and family members that have been drawn together this week due to the tragic death of Chuck Best.

The Lord knew that this would be a tremendous loss and would bring great pain, but He is so faithful and has brought many hands to help, arms to hold and shoulders to cry on.

I will not begin to mention names, there are so many of you - you know who you are. I just want to make sure you know that the outpouring of love, visits, meals, hugs and tears has brought comfort to the family of Chuck.

I will use the words of my 7-year-old son, Drew, as we drove home from Chuck's home Sunday evening: "There was a lot of food and a lot of people, it seems like a party, it just isn't as much fun without Uncle Chuck."

To my brother, I miss you baby brother - you have made my life a real experience - I love you.

Your sister,

Sheila "Dede" Best Stanley.

Oviedo faces state-ranked Dr. Phillips

By JEFF BERLINCKE
Herald Staff Writer

ORLANDO — As Oviedo coach Greg Register prepares for his first playoff game as head coach of the Lions, he can't seem to find any magic answers.

"If you win you go on, if you lose, you go home," was the way Register described his preparation for the Lions' first-round game at Dr. Phillips tonight.

There's a good chance that the Lions will be going home. Dr. Phillips is ranked eighth in the state and may have the best defense in Central Florida. Still, don't count out Oviedo. Quietly, the Lions earned a playoff berth after a rocky start to the season.

Oviedo is a team by committee. No one has jumped out to play the role of superstar but there is a great cast of team players.

"Everybody played great as a team all season," Register said. "Everything has been a team effort but we have to have someone to make the big plays Friday. Dr. Phillips is getting over 40 points per game and we have to stop them."

Register said he knows the Lions will come in as heavy underdogs, but he relishes the role.

"They (Dr. Phillips) are bigger, faster and stronger," Register said. But we're ready to go. I wish we could play them right now."

The Lions are led by quarterback Josh Cullen. Running back Jaime Scott is the main offensive weapon for the Lions which spend most of their time keeping the ball on the ground. Kevin Quintero and Leroy Jackson also carry the ball for the Lions.

On defense, David Burkey is the main man for Oviedo.

Calvin McCall leads Dr. Phillips offense and is one of the best all-around athletes in Central Florida.

For Oviedo to win, they will have to control the ball and the clock. The Lions aren't going to win a shootout against the Panthers and they won't be able to stop them for 48 minutes. If Oviedo doesn't establish the tempo early, it could get ugly.

To get to Dr. Phillips, take I-4 West to the 535 Exit (Universal Studios), go north past Universal and turn left at Turkey Lake Road. School is approximately a half-mile on right.

SHS opens at Merritt Island

By KELLIE WERNER
Herald Staff Writer

MERRITT ISLAND — Running back Joe Knight summed it up perfectly.

"Our second season begins on Friday night." For Seminole High School, that is a fact.

Tonight, Seminole (8-2) will travel to Merritt Island (8-1), to play the eighth ranked team in the state and begin its race for the state championship. It is a race that the players believe they have a good chance of winning.

"We have to continue to play one game at a time and focus on what we're doing," Knight said. "If we can do that, I truly believe that we have a real shot at going all the way."

First year Seminole coach Jim Worthington also believes that if the Seminoles play to their full potential, they have as good a chance as anyone, despite being the underdogs in tonight's match-up.

"We're going to stick with the same game plan we have played all season," Worthington said. "Only we're going to hopefully do it better. The kids may be a little nervous and excited going into the game, but they should calm down as soon as they hit the field."

Knight also agreed that the team's nerves might be a little frayed.

"As soon as we get in the first hit or two, all of that will be gone and we'll just be concentrating on doing what we need to do to get to the next level."

The Noles will be without their 1,000 yard rusher when they take the field. Knight injured his knee in the final game of the season, in which the Tribe beat Lake Mary in overtime, 7-6.

Deon Howard, the other 1,000 yard rusher on the Seminole roster, and Tim Raines will make up for the loss of Knight. Howard has been unstoppable all season and Raines has the best speed in the line up. If the veterans have trouble, Clarence Lattimer has been brought up from the junior varsity ranks and has already proven that he can fill the void.

That running game will have to be flawless if Seminole hopes to get by Merritt Island. The Mustang defense is tough and knows how Seminole attacks, since they scouted the end of season brawl between the Tribe and the Rams.

Led by Jeff Miller and Wes McNeely, Merritt Island has had great success in stopping their opponents. However, their only loss, which came in the first game of the season, was against Rockledge, a team that also runs the Wing-T offense.

Although it hasn't been used much this season, sophomore quarterback Garrett Goldsmith has proven that he has quite an arm. Erick

Peters makes it official Lake Mary football coach resigns after nine seasons

By JEFF BERLINCKE
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Weeks of speculation and rumors came to an end Wednesday as Lake Mary High School dotted the I's and crossed the T's on Doug Peters' resignation.

The coach of the Lake Mary football team suffered through an 0-9 season that ended with a heartbreaking 7-6 overtime loss to Seminole last Friday and Peters made his resignation official in a small meeting at the school.

"There's been a lot of speculation all season so I'm am officially accepting the resignation of coach Peters," Lake Mary Principal Raymond Gaines said. "It's a tremendous loss to the school and he is going to be missed in terms of his leadership and what he brought to the school."

Despite three Rotary Bowl appearances including a come-from-behind win two years ago, Peters nine-year tenure came to an auspicious end this season as the Rams failed to win a game for the first time in school history.

"Winning is the American way," Gaines said. "If you look at all the spirit and spectacular athletes we have here, it is important to win and I'd like to think we can be competitive. Winning is not the only thing like Vince Lombardi said, but it is important and we can't pass over that."

Gaines lauded Peters' success at getting his players into college - over 40 players signed football scholarships during Peters' tenure - and pointed to the fact that Peter will remain an important part of the athletic program in his role as Athletic Director.

Peters said he plans to remain an important part of the Lake Mary program.

"I'll be as supportive as possible," Peters said. "I love Lake Mary and I want to see all of the sports flourish."

There has been speculation on Peters' replacement and Gaines said he would like to have the new coach in place by Jan. 1. He said the search committee should include a parent, faculty member, and a student as well as a member of the athletic department.

Gaines didn't rule out hiring a member of Peters' current staff but said he will be advertising the opening and meeting with coaches during the state football playoffs early in December.

"We're proud of where our overall program is," Gaines said. "We think we can be as competitive as anybody in the state of Florida. We have an excellent opportunity here and we want the best person we can find."

Peters said he'll look back fondly on his career at Lake Mary, especially the overtime loss to Seminole.

"The Seminole game will always be special to me," Peters said. "There were also a lot of other moments but it's time to close the book at Lake Mary on Doug Peters."

Peters achieved an overall record of 37-55.

Three team race to wire at Chase

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — It looks as if the championship of the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Chase Park Thursday Night Slowpitch Softball League will be decided on the final night of the season.

Stooges saw its chance of winning the title outright by winning its final three games denied on November 6th by Franklin Ball Bonds, which whipped Stooges 13-3 to throw the race wide open.

Also on that night, Beer :30 blitzed the Power Team 14-0 and Blake's Boys kept their hopes alive by edging Bill Heard Chevrolet 11-10 in eight innings.

Last night, the Power Team handed Bill Heard Chevrolet a gift win, but Bill Heard missed a shot at a sweep when Franklin Ball Bonds erased a 5-2 deficit with a seven-run third inning and went on to an 11-5 victory. Stooges then crushed Beer :30 20-8 to stay tied for first.

Franklin Ball Bonds and Stooges are both 7-2, while Blake's Boys are 6-3. Trailing are Beer :30 (5-4), Bill Heard Chevrolet (4-5) and the Power Team (1-8).

On December 4th the league will make up games rained out on November 13.

At 6:30 p.m., Blake's Boys will take on Franklin Ball Bonds and must win to keep its hopes alive. See Chase, Page 2B

Lyman humbles Winter Springs in girls hoops

By JEFF BERLINCKE
Herald Staff Writer

WINTER SPRINGS — Bruce Bonaventure can expect to see some long faces on his team this year.

It's not that his Lyman girls' basketball team isn't going to be successful after last night's 66-30 thrashing of Winter Springs, the Lady Greyhounds improved to 4-1 on the season.

Bonaventure's biggest problem is finding time for his nine seniors, all of who are counting their minutes.

"It's tough to juggle nine seniors," Bonaventure said. "They are all starting to want more minutes so they have to learn their roles on this team."

Last night, the Lady Greyhounds roles were to score early and often. Winter Springs (0-5) never threatened and Lyman's attacking press shut down Kris and Beverly Dedelow. Winter Springs main scoring threats.

Lyman has its own set of sisters. Brienne Hickey (12 points) and Megan Hickey (10 points) led Lyman to its second conference win of the young season.

It also marked the second straight win, coming on the heels of an upset of Oviedo Saturday. Lyman also gave powerful Lake Mary a game before succumbing late.

Still, Bonaventure, who led Lyman to a berth in the state playoffs last season, his first as the Lady Greyhounds' coach, wants more improvement.

Smith appears to be his receiver of choice and if the two can connect, Seminole's passing game is very effective.

Key to Seminole's offensive success is the offensive line. All season, they have created holes for the running backs and protected their first-year quarterback. They were not quite up to par in the season finale, but each member of the squad was well aware of their needed improvements. If the adjustments have been made, the Mustang defense will have trouble getting to the ball.

On the flip side of the line, Merritt Island has an offense to rival the 'B's.

The Mustangs run a Pro-set offense and run it well. Most of their power comes from quarterback Kevin Verpacie. He has high numbers on the season, including a 60 percent passing efficiency. Dan Chamberlain is Verpacie's wide receiver of choice and the two have combined for 425 yards and six touchdowns.

The running game is not lacking at Merritt Island, either. Hugh Smith has racked up over 1,000 yards and has escaped the grasps of defenses all year.

However, the Mustangs haven't come up against Seminole.

Steve Brown, T.J. Martin and Nate Williams, who has 96 tackles on the year and a county high seven sacks, have been almost impenetrable all season. And if a running back or wide receiver happen to escape them, the secondary is ready and waiting.

Arnack Footman, Ned Raines, Bobby Williams and Smith have the tackling abilities of line backers coupled with the speed of receivers. That is a nasty combination. Add to that the fact that they always seem to be just where the ball is thrown and Merritt Island could have a long night on their hands.

"We have to play mistake-free football," Worthington said. "They won't be making any mistakes and neither can we. We have a strong team on both sides of the ball and we've been tested this season. This time we have to pass that test."

One final weapon for the 'Noles is Jason Armstrong. He is the sure thing and has even been looked over in pursuit of touchdowns because the coaching staff knows they can always count on Armstrong's leg.

In all, tonight's District 5A, Class 3 playoff game will have one team playing next Friday night and the other enjoying a long Thanksgiving break. The name of the game will be offense. Whichever team can move the ball and not turn it over will come out on top.

To get to Merritt Island, take SR. 46 East (25th Street) to I-95 go South to 528 (See Line) go East and look for the Merritt Island exit. After exiting, turn right on SR. 3 and look for school on left.

"There have been some bright spots for us but there are also some spots where we need to improve," Bonaventure said. "We see everyone to learn their role. Everybody has a different one and I need to define what those roles are."

Last night, Lyman jumped out to a 15-6 first quarter lead and never looked back. Brianne Hickey scored the first six points of the game and the Lyman defense took over from there. Everyone played early and often for the Lady Greyhounds and everyone got into the scoring column.

For the Lady Bears, it's been a frustrating start as coach Betty Hughes has had to compete in one of the toughest counties in the state despite having only freshmen and sophomores in uniform. Winter Springs is still trying to combine all of its talent but it could lead for a frustrating first year as the Lady Bears continue to suffer growing pains.

"Winter Springs is building a really strong basketball tradition," Bonaventure said.

Next up for Lyman is a trip to Eustis tonight while Winter Springs prepares for a trip to Father Lopez Saturday.

How to select items for food drives

During the holiday season there are many food drives that help supply local agencies to provide food for people in need. Although people are very generous during this time of year, there are some suggestions recommended to help problems to a minimum and accomplish the goal of providing appropriate and nourishing foods to families.

At this time of year, many people donate traditional holiday foods. As a result, an overabundance of foods, such as pumpkin and cranberry sauce, are collected. Agencies are, therefore, limited in their ability to provide the variety of foods necessary for a good diet. Some items do not have adequate cooking equipment and/or refrigeration. Foods that require minimum preparation or do not have to be cooked are excellent choices. It is best to select items that may be served right from the container or prepared by simply adding a small amount of water.

EXAMPLES OF CANNED GOODS: fruits, vegetables, beans, soups, peanut butter, tuna, chicken n' dumplings, other meat and meat dishes.

When donating, avoid giving larger size cans and packages. Smaller cans are often more appropriate. For agencies who must manage the storage for food pantries, medium to individual cans are very helpful. In addition, needy clientele often have a variety of limitations, including refrigeration. Therefore, items packaged in small containers of only one or two servings are most desirable. This allows food to be consumed in one sitting rather than coping with leftovers that need to be refrigerated.

In addition to canned goods, there are numerous staples that can also be used. EXAMPLES OF STAPLES: rice, pasta, grits, oatmeal, dry beans and peas, powdered milk, spaghetti, ready-to-eat cereal.

Again, small packages of dried goods are also desirable.

The contents can be used before they become stale or contaminated by insects. Agencies ask that people look over packages of staples to insure that there are no bugs. One contaminated item can lead to the destruction of numerous food packages.

Foods that are donated should be of good quality. The dates should be current and the cans clean and not rusty or bent. Unfortunately, some people clean out their own pantry of unused food items that have been pushed to the back of the cabinet or in the freezer for several years. Items that require a lot of sorting and discarding add additional work for the service agency.

Depending on the season, fresh foods may be food donations. Donate fruits that do not require refrigeration. EXAMPLES OF FRUITS: orange, apples, bananas.

Fresh vegetables that are in season are also good to donate. EXAMPLES OF VEGETABLES: potatoes, onions, tomatoes, carrots.

It is recommended that donors stick to common foods that are popular in the local area. People who receive donations are often not accustomed to a vast array of foods and have not acquired a taste for the non-conventional. Sauerkraut, soy sauce and sardines are examples of foods that may be unfamiliar. A good rule of thumb would be to avoid selecting something that you would not enjoy yourself.

EXTRA FOODS FOR SPECIAL TREATS: cocoa, peppermint candy, nuts.

Perhaps some of the items suggested might seem more costly if larger quantities were used, or if from "scratch" items were selected rather than fully prepared and ready to serve. But, the purpose of the contribution is to provide a nutritious meal to low income families who might not have the facilities to prepare from "scratch" or to store foods properly.

Many agencies eagerly accept donations of cash or checks for their food pantries. They also could use donations throughout the year rather than just during the holiday season. Families in need, just like yours, get hungry every day of the year—not just at holiday time.

Sister with financial problems should take charge of family till

DEAR ABBY: I am deeply disturbed by the situation my sister has gotten herself into. She calls me often to ventiliate and seek my advice. I care a great deal about her, but the telephone time and expense are beginning to affect my marriage, and she never takes my advice anyway.

"Nancy" and her husband have been married 23 years. They are both well-educated. He is a professional and Nancy has worked off and on to supplement their income. They have three children, one in college and two in high school.

Any, their main problem is that they are heavily in debt due to his excessive use of credit cards. Nancy has allowed the situation to continue for many years, claiming she has no control over him. He manages their money and feels that as the primary wage earner, he has the right to control their finances. They have gone to credit counselors, but have never gained control of their debt situation.

Now they are having trouble qualifying for a mortgage, and their son who is in college is being held liable for $3,900 in telephone charges his roommate incurred.

I have urged my sister to take control of the money in their family, but apparently she hasn't. Every time a new crisis arises, she seems surprised and angry.

Abby, what advice can I give her?

J.A. IN EL PASO, TEXAS

DEAR J.A.: Since your sister has never taken advantage of your wise counsel, stop giving it. Listen to her other problems if you wish, but when she starts to replay this broken record, end the conversation. If she asks you why, tell her that you love her, but that her refusal to handle financial problems is beginning to affect your marriage.

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letters in your column about forgiveness, I remembered something that I read in "Reader's Digest" the morning I had my first real argument with my husband. We had been married only a month. It read:

"To forgive is holy.
"To forget takes restraint.
"To forget what you forgave is the mark of a saint."

Abby, it was true then and it's true today.

K.C. IN PUNTA GORDA, FLA.

DEAR K.C.: Thank you for sharing this bit of wisdom. Readers, I urge each of you to adopt this sage philosophy, for who among us does not need to be forgiven more than once in a lifetime?

DEAR READERS: With Christmas approaching, I have recently discovered an outstanding new reading resource for parents, grandparents, teachers and mentors who want to find books especially for young African American males. Beginning with books for very young children, it progresses to books for high school and adult readers — and contains lively, informative descriptions of more than 100 outstanding works of literature by such authors as Langston Hughes, Walter Mosley, Martin Luther King Jr., Malcolm X, Frederick Douglass and James Baldwin.

Created by the Uivens Foundation for African American Literature, "Spirited Minds: African American Books for Our Sons and Our Brothers" (W.W. Norton, N.Y. & London), sells for $11 in softcover.

Adults can create a lifelong love for reading in children by reading to them and with them — and the most powerful way to teach is by engaging the imagination.

For an excellent guide to becoming a better conversationalist and a more attractive person, order "How to Be Popular." Send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope (which we'll return you $1.00 on) to Central Im Design Abby Proprietary Studio, P.O. Box 607, Stuart, Florida, 34984-0607. (Shipping is included.)

Learn to develop relationship

Dear Mary,
I am really getting disgusted. I would like to get married again but it seems like I only fall for men that are still attached to their mothers, or are afraid to allow themselves to get involved with a woman.

It makes me mad because I didn't have a good relationship with my dad and my husband was an immature baby who ran around on me all the time till I finally got sick of it and left. I would like to have the experience of being married to a man that I could both love and trust. Does that seem like too much to ask?

I've dated a lot since I've been single and really had some good times, but I haven't dated anyone who I wish I could marry. In fact, many of the men I date have never been married. One of them had a relationship with his mom that made me nervous. It was like she was his wife, not his mother, and her wish was his command. Another man that I really liked, openly admits that he's never had a serious love relationship because when a woman gets interested in him, he loses interest in the woman. Both of these guys are really great people but obviously not good marriage material.

So, where do I need to look to find someone who is ready to have a healthy love relationship. I must not be doing it right.

Ready and Willing, But Not Able

Dear Ready,

Have you heard the aphorism, "We attract not what we want, but what we are." It seems to hold true very often. Therefore, let's concentrate on what you can do that may be more productive than launching the great "mate" search. As you stated in your letter, you didn't have good programming in finding a good husband because you didn't have a good relationship with your dad.

Then, the programming didn't get any better with your husband. So, why don't we work on changing the program? Read books, go to seminars, join discussion groups, take classes—anything and everything that will help you learn how good relationships are developed and what to look for in the men you are dating. You may also want to invest in some counseling to see if you are still working on some issues from your childhood or marriage. As you're doing these things, just relax and don't make hard work of learning new ways to relate to and evaluate men as possible marriage partners. Just keep learning and laughing and going places where other people are learning, too. Who knows when lightning might strike!

Sumo wrestlers slim down

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am enclosing a newspaper clipping about Japanese officials who recommend that sumo wrestlers slim down. Can you use it? DEAR READER: I'll try. Sumo wrestling is a national sport in Japan; its participants are traditionally fat and wrestle only in loincloths. Most sumo wrestlers average over 300 pounds. Recently, however, some champions have weighed in at over 400 pounds. For example, the American-born wrestler Konshiki tips the scales at 605 pounds and is the heaviest sumo participant. Japanese officials, noting that such astronomical weights lead to poor training practices and an increased incidence of injuries, are pleading for these athletes to slim down. Evidently, box-office receipts are declining because the Japanese public is showing less interest in the sport. Thus, as your newspaper story indicates, even culturally sanctioned obesity is being questioned as being unhealthy. This is consistent with Western concerns about overweight and its association with a variety of serious diseases, including hypertension, heart disease and diabetes.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Following a diagnosis of prostate cancer, I received extensive radiation treatments. This resulted in persistent diarrhea, which my doctor diagnosed as "burns" after examining my lower colon. Why did this happen and what can I do about it? DEAR READER: Radiation burns tissues; this is how it works. Although radiation therapists try to angle the X-ray beam to minimize damage to normal tissues, radiation proctitis — the complication that you seem to have — often results from such treatment for prostate cancer. Although your doctor may be able to suggest other options, I believe that your best choice would be to use an over-the-counter anti-diarrhea drug, such as Imodium AD. Ask your physician if this approach would be appropriate for you. To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Constipation and Diarrhea." Other readers who would like a copy should send $3 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10154. Be sure to mention the title. DEAR DR. GOTT: Although I am 74 years old, I run every day to keep in shape. For the past few weeks, my heel has been very painful. My doctor diagnosed "Achilles' tendonitis" and gave me ibuprofen, which didn't work. What's next? DEAR READER: Inflammation of the Achilles' tendon commonly affects runners. This painful condition is probably caused by the trauma of repeated heel-strikes. Conventional treatment with anti-inflammatory drugs such as ibuprofen is usually effective. Obviously, rest is important, too. If this treatment is ineffective, physical therapy is the next logical step. This would include heat and ultrasonic stimulation. Ask your doctor to refer you to a physical therapist in your community.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am a healthy 60-year-old woman with fecal incontinence. This embarrassing problem is beginning to take over my life. I'm afraid to go out, exercise, be with other people. My behind is raw. To whom can I turn? DEAR READER: Your family physician. Fecal incontinence is a common handicap that affects many older patients. It is, as you've discovered, more than a mere embarrassment. It can dictate your life's activities. You need a complete examination and colon testing, in my opinion. I often refer patients with this problem to gastroenterologists, who are experts at treating this distressing condition. You should have medication to modify stool consistency, exercises to strengthen the anal sphincter or surgery to correct a muscular weakness. Don't simply put up with this situation; get medical assistance.

WIN AT BRIDGE

From my past

By Phillip Alder

I still have a soft spot for the third British monthly, Bridge Magazine, which began in May 1926. I was its fourth editor, working on 52 issues. Aimed at tournament players, it is worth the money if only for David Bird's articles about the monks of St. Titus. Here is one of Bird's deals. How should the Abbot have played in four hearts doubled? West cashed a top diamond, then switched to a trump. East won with the ace and returned a trump. Brother Xavier (North) made a disciplined pass in the first position. However, when the Abbot opened light third-in-hand, Xavier applied the maximum pressure with his jump to game. After winning the third trick, the Abbot could see only nine tricks: one spade, four hearts, two clubs and two ruffs in the dummy. So, he had to establish the spades. The Abbot led the spade jack: queen, ace, four. He ruffed a spade in hand, then returned to dummy with a diamond ruff. Now came another spade. East discarding his last diamond. If the Abbot ruffed, returned to dummy with a club, and ruffed the spades good, he would have no dummy entry left. So he threw a diamond too. However, after winning the trick, West returned a diamond, East overruffing the dummy: one down. "Appalling lie of the cards," observed the Abbot. East said, "You can't ruff three times in your hand." "I realized that." "So duck the first spade. Then we can't touch it." (Try it and see!) To subscribe for one year, send a check for $60 payable to The Bridge World to 39 West 94th Street, New York, NY 10025-7124.
