Inflation Strangling School Reading, Math Programs

By DIANE JEFFERSON
Herald Staff Writer

A federally-funded program to help schools raise the reading and math levels of third, fourth, and fifth grade Seminole County students is slowly being strangled by inflation, fixed budgets and President Reagan's budget trimming.

The program is called Title I Compensatory. It is designed to help schools with large numbers of students from low income families improve the learning environment of the entire school. Twelve Seminole County schools rely on Title I aid to give special help to students reading two levels below their classmates and working arithmetic problems on a level four grades below their peers. Title I helps provide special tutoring during 30 minutes each school day to 2,083 Seminole County students—1,385 in reading and 698 in math.

But federal allocation for the program has been cut 15 percent. Teachers are leaving the program because of fixed salaries, staff has been reduced and Director of Special Projects Guy Garrett said he is having to work on modifying the program while continuing to provide the same degree of help to the same number of students. He said he does not know at this time what the modifications will be. One thing is certain: there will be less federal dollars in the future with more reductions possibly to come.

Garrett and Director of Federal Programs and Transportation Fred Taylor said they did not think the federal government would ever cut Title I completely, but due to recent federal cutbacks it would be difficult to say what form the program will take in the future.

Title I is strictly funded through federal money. Unlike the Exceptional Child program, which includes physically handicapped and gifted children, Title I does not receive state and local funds.

In speaking of the federal cutbacks to Title I and federal money available for education programs in general, Taylor said, "The children who need special help won't get it with federal funds. The funds would have to come from somewhere else—state and local. It's going to be a real problem. The reduction in funds means reduction in programs and staff. Two years down the road it may be more."

The Title I program is "shrinking," said Garrett. When he began with the program there were 50 teachers serving 100 percent of the children in Seminole County, grades one through 12. Last year there were 46 teachers and 20 teacher's aides. The numbers have changed this year to 24 teachers and 20 aides. And there is only enough money available for a concentrated effort in grades three through five.

"We've reduced programs since I've been here," said Garrett. "Up until this year the cause of the reduction was rising cost. We had the same dollar allotment. So our teachers are used to 'Hey, we got a raise—but one of us got fired'—that kind of thing. This was a drastic cut this year, although we had anticipated it somewhat."

From an operating budget nearing $1 million the federal allocation was cut to $862,773. Funds not used last year will be added to this year's budget, to bring the money available for Title I to $930,025. So, Garrett said, the impact of the cut has been softened. He has already been told "any dollars that we can save from this year's program can slide forward into next year to improve programs to some degree."

Garrett described the program as being "bare bones" right now.

And the teaching staff is diminishing with the funding. Teachers are leaving the program and being replaced by aides. Teacher's aides still are supervised by a Title I teacher, but they do not have the four year college degree a teacher has nor do they have the same certification, he said. Aides undergo a training program when they begin with Title I.

Garrett said aides were hired to replace teachers who had left "because we have no control over salaries, and our money didn't increase." He gave an example: if $100,000 were budgeted for salaries, and the program had 10 teachers at $10,000 annual wage each and they were given a $1,000 raise, he would have to let one of them go. He could not afford to pay the salaries of all 10 teachers.

Another reason more aides have been hired is it is difficult to sign a teacher under contract for a period of time at a certain wage when the budget may be cut further.

Steve Larsen, truck driver for the Charlie Daniels Band, created quite a stir at the Union 76 Truck Stop on French Avenue Saturday morning as fans of the progressive country-western singer turned out hoping to see Charlie Daniels himself. However, Larsen was alone and just stopping in town to eat before heading on to Orlando with some equipment. Right now, Daniels is recording a new album for release sometime around January, according to Larsen. Not at all a typical truck driver, he stands about 6 feet tall and has longish hair. Larsen said he has been driving the brightly painted 16-wheeler for the band on and off for about 6 years. The truck and trailer are black with five cowboys mounted on horses silhouetted against a bright sunset. Fans and people curious about the truck asked Larsen, and he agreed, to take pictures of them posed next to the truck. Larsen says this is usual procedure wherever he goes.

$47 Million Budget On Tap For Adoption By Seminole

By DARLENE JENNINGS
Herald Staff Writer

Adopting the proposed budget for the 1981-82 fiscal year will be tonight's main event at the Seminole County Commission public hearing at 7 p.m. in the county court house.

At the 10 a.m. public hearing, commissioners will also hear discussion about the Metropolitan Alcoholism Annual Implementation Plan (MAAO).

The commissioners have already held one public hearing for the tentative $47.9 million budget. The proposed tax rate accepted by the county will be $5.23 per $1,000, if the board adopts the budget, as expected.

Two weeks ago, at the first budget hearing, the commissioners exchanged criticisms with Seminole Community Action (SCA), a service organization, which saw its budget request slashed from $17,000 to $6,500—less than half of its original request.

Several times during the SCA discussion between commissioners and recognized SCA supporters, there were moments of hostility and applause that interrupted the meeting.

However, Rev. Amos Jones, SCA director, said he will attend tonight's meeting only to hear what the board has to say. "All the score cards are in," said Jones. "I'm just going to the meeting to listen to what the commissioners have to say."

Other county departments were briefly overviewed at the first budget hearing. No other speakers argued or defended their budget requests.

Dr. Jorge Deju, director of Health and Human Services, planned to present "a clear picture" of the amount of services provided by MAOC to county residents during this morning's hearing.

On March 17, the board asked MAOC to clarify the plan.

Deju says the clarified plan also offers consideration for negotiations for hospitalization of Seminole County residents at the Altamonte Springs Hospital. Deju intends to ask the board to approve the renewed plan.

Other agenda items for the earlier public hearing include a request to vacate a portion of the Lake Howell Road and Currier Street.

The board will also hear a request from Julius Muschawek to extend an existing boat dock on 10 Lot B, Sweetwater Oaks, Sweetwater Shores, located at 532 Blue Lake Court.

Robbers Do More Than 'Shop N' Go' At Store

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

It was a bad weekend for area Shop & Go convenience stores as two of the businesses were robbed of an undetermined amount of cash.

The first holdup occurred Friday evening at the Shop & Go, 1905 Country Club Road, Sanford. According to 36-year-old clerk Thame Sparks, a man 35-40 years old entered the store at about 8:45 p.m. and after a few minutes browsing, brought a can of beer and a package of cigarettes to the counter.

However, Sparks said when she started to ring up the purchase, the man showed her a revolver tucked into the front of his pants and demanded money.

Sparks said she handed the man an unknown amount of cash out of the register. The bandit then fled on foot, she said.

The second robbery was reported about 11:48 a.m. Sunday at the Shop & Go at 1498 State Road 434 in Longwood. Owner Madhukanta Patel, 48, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that a small man about 25-years-old came into the store, bought a beer and left.

Patel said the man returned about five minutes later, saying he wanted something to eat. He decided on a package of cookies and handed Patel money to pay for them. Patel said when she opened the cash drawer to make change, the man reached over, toppling several displays as he did so, and grabbed a handful of cash and cigarette coupons from the register.

Patel said when she tried to close the drawer on the thief's hand, he slapped her on the face. The bandit escaped on foot with an unknown amount of money, Patel said.

Hospital Costs Are Doing 'Well' In The Area, State Study Shows

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

"Can you afford to be sick?" Most people can't. But, there are times when sickness is unavoidable and a hospital stay is necessary. The question, then, which hospital should you choose?

Seminole County area residents are fortunate to have several easily accessible hospital facilities offering a variety of services. But how do the facilities compare in cost to the consumer?

According to recently released cost comparison statistics by the state Hospital Cost Containment Board of Florida's 257 hospitals, the average cost per day for hospital care would be $273; Florida Hospital; $264, West Volusia Memorial Hospital; $243, Orlando Regional Medical Hospital; $235, Winter Park Memorial Hospital; $234, Fish Memorial Hospital-New Smyrna; and Seminole Memorial Hospital $213.

According to Melinda Howes, vice-president of Florida Hospital, the costs per day for a specialty hospital such as Florida Hospital will run more than a community hospital. "It costs a lot more for a heart transplant or extensive orthopedic surgery than it does for an appendectomy," she said. "Therefore, the Board's statistics could be misleading."

Cost per day for a semi-private room, according to the hospital board's statistics, runs $138, Orlando Regional Medical Hospital; $132, Florida Hospital; $120, Seminole Memorial Hospital; $115, Winter Park Memorial Hospital; $110, West Volusia Memorial Hospital; and $105, Fish Memorial Hospital-New Smyrna.

Statistics from the hospital board also show the varying costs for hospital emergency room care. The board encourages consumers to use emergency care only in emergencies because of the high costs of such services compared with other available care.

Emergency room care for area residents costs $18 to $31, with West Volusia Memorial Hospital being the least expensive and Orlando Regional Medical Hospital being the most expensive.

Operating room costs in area hospitals, for 60 minutes use, according to the hospital board statistics, are averaging $317; Florida Hospital; $263, Seminole Memorial Hospital; $244, Orlando Regional Medical Hospital; $212, West Volusia Memorial Hospital; $190, Winter Park Memorial Hospital; and $160, Fish Memorial Hospital-New Smyrna.

Consumers can write the Hospital Cost Containment Board for a copy of the consumer guide to hospital costs at Larson Building, Tallahassee, Fla., 32301, or call toll-free 1-800-342-0828.

"The fact is that daily rates and charges for services differ widely at competing hospitals within a community," state Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter said. "So, a major point being emphasized by the release of these pamphlets is that consumers should shop around."

10 Area Seniors In Scholarship Race

Ten Seminole County high school seniors will be competing with 15,000 students across the nation for 5,000 National Merit Scholarships ranging from $1,000 non-renewable college scholarships to $8,000 for four-year scholarships.

The Seminole County semi-finalists for the awards are: Jeffrey Brown, Jennifer A. Davila-Aponte, Lisa E. Greenboro, Edith I. Kindle, Scott A. Krise and Deborah S. Sabkowski, all of Lake Brantley High School; James D. Kinkade, Lyman High School; Roy W. Long, Lake Howell High School; Karen L. Whitaker, Oviedo High School and Melissa G. Rolfe, Seminole High School.

More than 1,500 of the awards in 1982 will be non-renewable national merit $1,000 scholarships for which all finalists will compete.

The one-time national awards are allocated on a state representative basis. A selection committee of college admissions officers and secondary school counselors will be convened to choose the winners. The $1,000 scholarship winners represent the finalists in each state who are judged by the committee to have the best combination of abilities, accomplishments and personal qualities important for success during and after college. About two-thirds of the $1,000 awards will be underwritten by grants from corporate and business sponsors that regularly finance four-year scholarships.

About 3,500 renewable scholarships, most of which are worth between $1,000 and $2,000 over four years of undergraduate study, will be awarded in 1982. Of these, 1,500 will be financed by 420 corporations, company foundations and business organizations that designate the four-year merit scholarships.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Haig Counters Soviets With Germ Warfare Accusations

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig countered a massive protest against U.S. military policies by accusing the Soviet Union of waging deadly biological warfare against opponents in Laos, Cambodia and Afghanistan.

Haig chose encircled Berlin, within sight of the wall dividing the city, to say Sunday that the United States now has proof the Soviet Union used lethal toxins in the three countries in violation of international law.

As Haig spoke, 50,000 jeering Young Socialists, Communists, pacifists and squatters marched through the city carrying pacifist banners, some wearing masks and skeleton-like suits.

"It's not the Americans we're against," said a demonstrator. "It's their nuclear arms policy."

Iran's Power Fight Resumes

United Press International

Urban guerrillas fought revolutionary guards in the fifth straight day of blazing street battles in Tehran amid disclosures that the head of the Islamic regime's security council set the bomb that killed Iran's president and prime minister last month.

The government announced Sunday that elections would be held Oct. 2 to replace slain President Mohammed Ali Rajai and parliamentary deputies assassinated recently.

Tehran Radio said 78 members of the Mojahideen Khalq guerrilla group were executed during a three-day period ending Saturday for armed robbery, assassinations and attacks on military centers.

Undeterred, exile sources said fighting erupted Sunday in two separate areas of Tehran as leftist guerrillas struck for the fifth straight day.

Soviets Warn Of Collapse

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Poland's Communist leaders warned of "total economic collapse" unless miners increase coal production dramatically and Moscow marshaled Soviet workers in a propaganda war against Solidarity.

A special government task force Sunday blamed the slump in coal production "first of all" on the five-day work week won by Solidarity last year and warned that shortages of coal would have a devastating impact on Polish industries.

"Unless there is a radical growth in coal extraction in the closing months of the current year, a dramatic worsening of Poland's economic crisis may occur, with the closing down of a considerable proportion of industrial plants and deep cuts in electricity generation," the task force said.

"The result would be even deeper distortions in the economy up to the danger of a total economic collapse," said the announcement carried by the official PAP news agency.

Grenades Kill 2 In Market

ZAMBANGO, Philippines (UPI) — Grenades tossed into a crowded downtown restaurant and a public market killed two people — a woman and a girl — and injured 13 others in Zamboanga, authorities said today.

Restaurant owner Hilaria Alvarez, 53, and an 11-year-old girl were killed and six people were wounded in the grenade attack Sunday night.

Less than 24 hours after the grenade blast, authorities reported a store of potassium nitrate exploded at a stall in the Zamboanga public market today, wounding seven people.

Authorities said paramilitary national police troopers were searching for an unidentified man who threw the hand grenade he had hidden in a brown envelope at the restaurant.

Thieves Get More Trouble Than Worth

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Sometimes it doesn't seem to be worth the trouble—a thief will break into a home or business and come away with so little loot as to make his effort not worthwhile.

Take a couple-of-weekend Sanford burglaries, for example: Between midnight Saturday and 9:30 a.m., someone broke into Church's Fried Chicken, 2561 S. French Ave., by forcing open the take-out window and crawling through.

Once inside, the bandit(s) took $2 in change from the cash register and tried unsuccessfully to break into the restaurant safe.

Then there was the burglary at the home of Sherily Dobson, 69, of 1910 Sanford Ave. On Saturday, Mrs. Dobson discovered that someone had broken into her house by unknown means and stole several items of personal property.

But the stolen merchandise wasn't the usual fare—televisions, stereos, or cash. Mrs. Dobson said she lost six rolls of toilet tissue, a fan, a bottle of bleach, and some laundry detergent and fabric softener.

Maybe the crooks are going to use cleaning items on Jack Howell's clothes, which were stolen from a Sanford laundromat Saturday afternoon.

Howell, 28, of 111 W. Ridge Dr., Sanford, told police that he was doing his washing at the B&G Laundry, 2010 S. French Ave. when he left for a few minutes to get a cup of coffee.

Howell said when he returned, his clothes were gone. Taken were some T-shirts, blue jeans and several pieces of work clothing.

EVEN THE ANTENNA

Thieves stole $170 worth of radio equipment Saturday night from a Deltona woman's car, which was parked behind a Sanford restaurant.

According to a city police report, thieves removed the left rear window from 35-year-old Lynn Hunter's car between 6 and 11:15 p.m. and stole a 40-channel CB radio and an AM-FM radio. They also cut the cable to the CB antenna and removed it from the truck, the report said.

The car was parked in the rear of Cook's Corner, 2617 Orlando Drive, at the time of the theft.

REELING IN

Nine fishing reels—valued at $331.91—were stolen from a locked display case at J.C. Penney's in Sanford Sunday.

Police reported that the reels were taken between 2 and 5 p.m. after someone pried open the display case.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

A 63-year-old Longwood retiree accidentally shot himself in the finger Sunday while examining a pistol and holster.

William B. Albertson of 103 Windmill Way was treated at Florida Hospital-Altamonte and released following the 1 p.m. incident.

According to a sheriff's report, this is what happened: Robert D. Chrisman, 24, of Apopka, was showing Albertson his new holster in Albertson's home. Apparently not knowing the .357-caliber pistol in the holster was loaded Albertson pulled the trigger. The gun discharged, a bullet striking Albertson in the index finger and exiting through his knuckle.

HEAVY-DUTY BURGLARY

Thieves using cutting torches and a forklift stole an unknown amount of merchandise from a Sunnland Corp. warehouse over the weekend, hauling away their loot in a company truck.

Sheriff's deputies said the bandits entered the warehouse—located in the Midway community east of Sanford—by cutting a lock off the back door with an acetylene torch, then burning a large hole in an inside aluminum door.

Using a forklift, the burglars broke a plate glass window in the office area and stole the keys to a large flatbed truck, deputies said. Again using the forklift, the thieves loaded three hydraulic jacks and a welding set onto the truck and fled.

Several other items were also taken, deputies said, but a complete list and their values could not be determined until an inventory is made.

Bank Lowers Prime Rate

NEW YORK (UPI) — UMB Bank & Trust Co., a small New York bank, today lowered its prime rate to 20 percent from 20 1/2 percent as banks slowly reduced their interest rate for top-rated business loans to reflect a sharply lower cost of funds.

Marine Midland made a similar move late Friday. Chase Manhattan Bank and First National Bank of Chicago have been at the lower rate for a week.

A spokesman for UMB Bank said the lower prime rate is warranted in view of the lower cost of overnight funds.

The federal funds rate banks charge each other for overnight loans and a prime source of bank money went down to the 15 to 15 1/2 percent range Friday after trading in the 16 1/2 percent range most of the week.

The cost of other sources of bank money, such as the large certificates of deposit on which many banks base their prime rate, also has gone down substantially, widening the "spread" between what banks pay for funds and what they charge to lend.

Budget Cutbacks Force Schools To Buy Fewer Buses In 1982-83

The Seminole County School Board will be buying only half as many new school buses for the 1982-83 school year as it did for this school year.

Roger Harris, assistant superintendent for business and finance, said today the school administration will buy fewer buses because of budget restraints. He said the number was kept to a minimum to keep the budget down.

Fred Taylor, director of federal programs and transportation, will ask the school board at its 7:30 p.m. meeting

Wednesday to continue pooling its purchases of new buses with other school districts through the state.

Taylor will recommend the board authorize purchase of 18 new buses, 10 of them to replace other vehicles to be phased out because of age, for the next school year.

Meanwhile, 42 new buses for the current year began arriving in the county in June. The new ones' costing $796,500, included: five 19-passenger; five 47-passenger; five sidelift buses for the exceptional children that accommodate wheel-chairs; and 27 buses with seating for 65 passengers each.

The buses for next year include three with seating for 47-passengers; 13 with seating for 65-passengers; and two sidelift buses for handicapped students. Estimated cost of the proposed new buses is $368,500.

The school bus fleet currently has 242 buses, 34 of which are spares and kept on stand-by in case of breakdowns. — DONNA ESTES

The Title I program, changes must be made to take up the slack, he continued. Title I teachers and aides may be having more students per class; as an example.

Last year the average student-teacher ratio was 25 students per teacher and 18 students per aide. However, Garrett said last year there was one school in the county which had 45 students per teacher due to overcrowding.

Already the ratio for this year has gone up. Last year's maximum was one teacher per fifty students, although the average was 25. This year, the ratio has been raised to one teacher per sixty students. The ratio is based on how many students a teacher sees during the day.

Garrett said more flexibility is being written into the program.

"But when you're out of dollars, you're out of dollars," he said.

Begin: Can't Trust AWACS Won't Be Used Against Israel

NEW YORK (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said today he could not rely on assurances that the AWACS reconnaissance planes the Reagan administration plans to sell to Saudi Arabia will not be used against Israel.

Begin, however, declined in an interview with CBS-TV to say if he would order his nation's warplanes to attack the AWACS if he felt they posed a direct threat to Israel.

"I certainly can't rely on such a pledge," Begin said when asked if he received any guarantees from the United States the special radar planes would not be used against Israel.

"Perhaps the Saudis will not give such a pledge," he said. Even if they did, Begin said, he had no reason to accept it.

Begin said Israel also would not rely on U.S. forces to come to the aid of the Jewish state in the event of an Arab attack, saying "we will defend ourselves."

Appearing on the NBC "Meet the Press" program Sunday, Begin said the new Middle East strategic cooperation agreement worked out with President Reagan outweighs the effects of the proposed sale of the AWACS to Saudi Arabia.

"It (the sale) is a danger to Israel's security, but the strategic cooperation is of the highest importance to Israel and the free world," Begin said.

Begin, winding up a 10-day visit to the United States, denied in both interviews he has been lobbying to block the U.S. arms sale to the Saudis, but said he wanted to make it clear he considered the deal a possible threat to his country.

Anti-Nuke Protest Crowd Smaller Than Expected

AVILA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Even the law enforcement officers waiting to arrest them were getting impatient today waiting for some 1,000 anti-nuclear protesters to launch a "blockade" to prevent startup of the Diablo Canyon reactor.

Abalone Alliance members decided Sunday night that if general agreement were reached at a 1:30 p.m. PDT "readiness meeting" today, the blockade would start Tuesday along the scenic Pacific coast midway between Los Angeles and San Francisco, spokesman Jeff Kalbach said.

Anti-nuclear activists trickled into the test camp Sunday in smaller numbers than expected to launch the long-planned human "blockade" of roads to the Diablo Canyon reactor aimed at preventing it from going into operation.

Law enforcement officers, backed by 800 National Guardsmen, mobilized for logistical support and a force of 136 Highway patrol officers cruised the two lane roads, ready to establish road blocks on a moment's notice.

"I think everybody is getting tired (of waiting)," San Luis County Sheriff's Sgt. Leon

Cole said. "The news media, us, and I wouldn't be surprised if some of (the protesters) are getting tired, too."

Pacific Gas & Electric Co., largest privately owned utility in the country, has said there was nothing the protesters could do to prevent activation of the reactor for low-power tests when a final federal license is granted, probably Sept. 21.

The plant has become a symbol of the conflict over nuclear power, and a demonstration to test whether the anti-nuclear movement can cause enough trouble to discourage power companies from investing millions of dollars in nuclear plants.

The turnout was far short of the 5,000 to 20,000 demonstrators authorities had prepared for and only one of the many entertainers who fired up crowds at "stop Diablo" rallies for the past year signed up at the camp Sunday.

Robert Blake, star of the television police show "Baretta," enrolled in the required 8-hour non-violent civil disobedience tactics class, saying "I can use that — I'm a violent person."

NATION IN BRIEF

Reagan Gearing Up For New Cost-Cutting Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan is gearing up for another cost-cutting campaign — one that includes cuts in defense, but not nearly as big as earlier contemplated.

During the next three years, Reagan — trying to get back on track to his goal of a balanced budget by 1984 — wants to slash another $77 billion from domestic programs and a comparatively small $13 billion from defense.

Anticipating criticism, Reagan said Sunday the Pentagon has been treated like a "poor relative" in the past and now needs a relatively bigger portion of the federal financial pie.

Arms Sale Battle Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., opposes President Reagan's proposed arms sale to Saudi Arabia, but he respects Reagan's power of congressional persuasion.

Therefore, although Cranston is leading a mounting Senate drive to kill the $8.5 billion sale, he openly concedes Reagan could turn the tide and get it through.

The vote now is "very, very close," Cranston said Sunday in an appearance on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program.

For the proposed sale to be stopped, both the House and the Senate must pass resolutions of disapproval. The administration concedes it will lose the battle in the House, but hopes to win the Senate vote.

Cardinal Fights Back

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cardinal John P. Cody took to the pulpit to defend himself against charges he diverted up to $1 million in tax-exempt church funds to a woman friend, saying his accusers want to divide the Roman Catholic Church.

"When they cannot disperse the flock they strike at the shepherd," Cody told churchgoers Sunday during a 25th anniversary celebration in a Westchester, Ill., church.

The cardinal broke a self-imposed silence earlier during the weekend to say he forgave "700 times seven times" those who have charged he diverted tax-exempt church funds to his lifelong friend and step-cousin, Helen Dolan Wilson.

HRS To Test New System In Dealing With Children

Delinquent or dependent children in Seminole County who come under the jurisdiction of the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) will now be assigned to just one counselor as long as they are in the system.

Previously such children could be assigned to as many as four or five counselors for different needs and often other children in the family would be assigned to still other case workers. But under a pilot program to be tried in Seminole and the three other counties of HRS District 7, one case worker will follow through with all the children in a family under HRS.

The new system was explained by Steve Shacosi, area manager for HRS.

The program, called the Case Management System, will be given a one-year trial beginning Oct. 1, he said.

If the pilot program is successful in this district which includes Seminole, Orange, Osceola and Brevard counties, it may be used statewide, Shacosi said.

In the past, he said, if a child or youth came in to the system for the first time for an offense such as shoplifting he would go in an intake officer who would make recommendations to the state's attorney and a judge.

If the judge ruled the child should have supervision, a community control unit counselor would be assigned to the case. Then, if the child is abused by a parent or guardian or kicked out of his home, he would qualify as a dependent child and a third counselor would be assigned. In cases where long-term foster care is called for when a child is handicapped, still other HRS's got involved. Different children in the family might have been assigned to other case workers.

Under the pilot program, Shacosi said, a child or youth will be assigned a counselor for intake supervision. Ideally he will have the same counselor until he is out of the system and any other children in the family who came under HRS would have that same counselor.

There will be 18 case workers in Seminole County: five will be assigned to the emergency unit at the Juvenile Detention Center; eight will be assigned the office at the Welaka Building in Sanford and five to the Live Oaks Center office in Casselberry, he said.

The emergency unit is on duty 24 hours-a-day, seven days-a-week to screen incoming delinquents or investigate crisis cases such as suspected child abuse. In the emergency unit workers handle the intake, the judge makes a final determination on the delinquent or dependent child within 24 hours. Once the determination hearing is over the child is assigned a permanent counselor.

"We're trying to streamline the operation," Shacosi said. "All our people are getting cross-training in areas with which they have not been working and are not familiar so they will know their job. We're hoping it will work out."

The real key to the success of the new system will be keeping the staff without a lot of turnover, he said.

"There is a lot of burnout in this type of job," Shacosi admitted. "Case workers are constantly being second-guessed on their handling of cases by the courts, the

School Contracts Await Approvals

Although ratification of the proposed contracts with the Seminole Education Association (SEA-teachers' union) and non-instructional school personnel union are on the agenda for the Seminole County School Board's 7:30 p.m. meeting Wednesday, neither proposed contract will be ratified at that time.

Ernest Cowley, the school administration's chief negotiator, said today it will be three-to-six weeks before the School Board considers ratifying the contracts. The School Board will take action only after the members of the two unions approve the proposals.

Cowley and his team of negotiators and the unions' negotiators ironed out final contract disputes with the help of federal mediator, Dick Deem, at midnight last Thursday.

The proposed contracts calls for increased salaries, fixed costs and benefits for the county's 2,000 teachers totaling $3.8 million. The proposal is retroactive to Aug. 24, the first school day of the new year for teachers.

The contract proposal for the 600 non-instructional personnel calls for benefits, salary increases, and fixed charges totaling $660,858. It is to be retroactive to July 16.

Ron Boeth, SEA executive director, said earlier it will be a month before the teachers vote on whether to ratify the proposed contract. Boeth said the contract cannot be considered until it is printed in final form.

Cowley said his secretary will be typing up the new contract with revisions and when it is fully prepared it will be given to the SEA to check. — DONNA ESTES

Meanwhile, hurricane Harvey, packing 85 mph winds and still strengthening, turned slightly to the northwest Sunday night and forecasters said the threat to the United States had diminished but not disappeared. At 10:30 p.m. EDT, Harvey was centered at latitude 24.4 north and longitude 62.5 west. That position was 460 miles north northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico and about 575 miles south southeast of Bermuda. Harvey was moving toward the northwest at 12 miles an hour and was expected to continue on that course through today. Hail an inch and a half in diameter was reported late Sunday in the Texas Panhandle near the town of Wheeler and in northeastern Texas thunderstorm winds blew down small trees near Roxton. A tornado was reported near the Texas panhandle community of Summerfield, but no damage or injuries were reported. Heavy rain caused flooding of streets and homes in Vicksburg, Miss. The rest of the nation basked under fair weather with clear skies over the Southwestern deserts, the Northern Rockies and Pacific Northwest along with New England, the upper Mississippi Valley through the Northern and Central Plains.

Irish Father Vows To Find 'Moonie' Daughter

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An Irish farmer, who battled Moonies at a Unification Church campground in a futile attempt to regain his daughter, says he won't go home until he meets her for a family talk on neutral ground.

Some 50 people marched peacefully outside the Unification Church headquarters Sunday to show their support for James Canning, 50, who traveled from his farm outside Donegal to find his 23-year-old daughter, Mary, a schoolteacher from Dublin.

Canning and about 40 supporters from the Irish community in San Francisco broke into a Moonie campground near Calistoga Saturday, knocking down a gate and engaging in a jostling match on a wooden bridge with church inhabitants who would not allow them to enter.

Mrs. Canning, who joined the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's church while on vacation in San Francisco in July, was not at the camp but at a church residence in Berkeley.

She denied being brainwashed by the Moonies and said she was willingly staying with the church.

"I'm 23 years old. I went to college for four years and I'm free to make my own decisions," Miss Canning said in a telephone interview.

Canning arrived in San Francisco looking for his daughter on Sept. 3, accompanied by another daughter, Mairead Connolly, 24.

Mrs. Connolly told the rally Sunday that Unification Church representatives admitted to her that they were moving her sister around so there could be no family conference.

She said her sister looked pallid and appeared "like she was hypnotized. She was not the same person at all. We're very worried about her."

Canning said he merely wanted to privately meet with his daughter on neutral grounds — like a police station — for 24 hours.

"And, I won't go back to Ireland before I do so."

Joshua Cotter, who was at the Unification Church camp instructing a seminar when Canning and his group tried to enter, described the group as "a mob. They were uncivilized. They were shouting and disturbing our seminar."

"The Moonies were very upset," Sonoma County Sheriff's Lt. Jim Brown said. "They said they were being attacked."

But Niall O'Dowd, editor of the Irishman newspaper in San Francisco, said some of the Moonies carried crowbars and a Roman Catholic nun with the group, Sister Anna Mary, said the Moonies used insulting language and "threatened to split my skull" during the confrontation.

Concern Over Soviet Cheating

The SALT II treaty foundered in the Senate partly because of justifiable doubts about whether the United States would be able to detect Soviet cheating. Put another way, the adequacy of the treaty's verification provisions was suspect.

Clearly, ample verification measures ought to be the sine qua non of any Soviet-American arms control agreement. The Soviets have never provided any reason to believe that they could be trusted in the absence of virtually foolproof procedures to monitor compliance with any agreement, most especially ones limiting arms.

On the contrary, the lengthy list of suspected Soviet violations of SALT I, the 1972 anti-ballistic missile treaty, the treaty banning production or possession of biological warfare agents, and the 1974 Threshold Test Ban Treaty is persuasive testimony to Moscow's willingness to deceive.

It's also worth noting that throughout the years of negotiations on a SALT II treaty, the Soviets steadfastly resisted U.S. efforts to expand verification measures beyond less-than-fool-proof satellite photography and electronic monitoring of weapons testing.

Thus, we think the Reagan administration is on very solid ground in adopting its new verification criteria for any Soviet-American arms control agreements. These new criteria reportedly include on-site inspection, designation of arms production sites, and mutual exchange of information on demand.

The more comprehensive and meaningful arms control agreements the Reagan administration plans to propose will necessitate verification requirements far beyond the ability of a satellite to count mere numbers of Soviet missile launchers.

The destructive power, accuracy and other technical characteristics of nuclear weapons count for a lot, and these qualities are often difficult to measure by electronic surveillance of tests and impossible to gauge by satellite photography.

Furthermore, the newest nuclear weapons technology permits bigger bangs to be carried in smaller packages—cruise missiles, for example—that can be concealed from even the most sophisticated reconnaissance satellites. All the more reason, then, to move toward monitoring the output of arms factories and to some form of on-site inspection as well.

The Soviets already enjoy a staggering advantage over the United States in monitoring compliance with arms agreements. Every dollar of the U.S. defense budget is accounted for publicly. Every new weapons system is reported by the press and analyzed in detail by defense trade journals available to anyone.

By contrast, the full extent of Soviet defense spending is never disclosed and the Kremlin trends even the most basic information about Soviet weaponry as a state secret.

What the Reagan administration is saying is that if the Soviets are serious about arms control they are going to have to lift the secrecy lid that now makes any treaty with Moscow a calculated risk at best.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I've been turned off by the second half of this baseball season. Now, I think I'm turned on by boys."

Break out the cake and ice cream, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) is celebrating its 10th birthday on Sept. 23.

During its young life, the RSVP program has grown from 11 projects in 1971 to 707 projects with approximately 260,000 volunteers across the nation, in the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam, according to RSVP director Joan Madison.

On Sept. 23, at the Casselberry Senior Citizen Multipurpose Center, 200 N. Lake Triplet Drive, at 2 p.m., the RSVP will celebrate its birthday with refreshments and a patriotic program given by children enrolled at the Northside Christian School, Altamonte Springs.

The Seminole County RSVP began in July, 1973 with four volunteers serving 16 hours. As of July, 1981, that number grew to 320 volunteers serving 5,355 hours.

Through RSVP, a program funded jointly by federal and local funds, senior Americans work to provide a variety of services to the community.

Florida's First Lady, Adele Graham, will personally recognize the decade of service by RSVP volunteers at the opening session of the Florida Council on Aging conference at the Sheraton Twin Towers at 1 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 15.

According to RSVP officials, volunteers are encouraged to attend the session, however transportation to the conference is limited to the first 15 volunteers to call the RSVP office.

Seniors interested in volunteering to work at the Casselberry Senior Center greeting visitors, answering phones, booking meetings and doing other tasks are urged to drop by the Center and find out how they can help.

ROBERT WAGMAN On The Fish And Federalism

BALTIMORE (NEA) — The Reagan administration's "new federalism" requires states and cities to start helping themselves and to stop relying on the federal government.

This idea has met with no small measure of skepticism — especially among big-city mayors, who doubt that their communities can survive without the continued substantial involvement of the federal government.

On their next trip to Washington, the doubling mayors might detour 40 miles to the north to visit Baltimore's National Aquarium, a spectacular new attraction built without a cent from the U.S. treasury.

The aquarium is the capstone to Baltimore's Inner Harbor project, which over the past 10 years has transformed an area of rundown warehouses into one of this country's more glorious examples of urban renewal.

The ultra-modern aquarium soars 200 feet above the old Pier 3. Eventually it will house more than 5,000 fish, birds and mammals. Visitors travel through its exhibits on escalators that rise from the dolphin pool on the main level to the glass-roofed Amazon rain forest at the top of the structure.

"We looked at every major aquarium in the world while we were designing this one," says Kathy Cloyd, a National Aquarium official, "and we feel we have taken the best of what we have seen and combined it here. This is absolutely the state of the art."

The financing of the aquarium is as interesting as its architecture and exhibits, for it provides a textbook example of cooperation between a city's public and private sectors.

The city fathers saw the need for a major tourist attraction to be the centerpiece of their new Harborplace. Mayor William Schaefer and others hit upon the idea of an aquarium and set out to build what they called "the best that has ever been built."

The cost of the structure was first estimated at $16 million. The city had $8 million in the bank from the sale of a large parcel of land; a bond issue provided another $8 million. But as plans for the aquarium were upgraded, the construction costs rose to $22 million.

So, the city set out to persuade the Baltimore business community of the value of the project. The balance of the construction funds was obtained from businesses and private foundations.

For years the Smithsonian had been lobbying Congress for money to build a new aquarium in Washington as part of the National Zoo. But Maryland congressmen instead got their colleagues to designate the Baltimore attraction "The National Aquarium in Baltimore" although no federal money had been used in its construction.

"We are much more than simply an exhibit," says Ms. Cloyd. "We are a major educational and research facility. As we become better established financially, we will begin to stress these functions more."

Once the structure was built, the city turned day-to-day operations over to Baltimore Aquarium Inc., a not-for-profit corporation. Operating costs — about $2.5 million for the first year — will be met through admission fees ($4.50 for adults and $2.50 for children) and through foundation and corporate grants.

Death Brings Secret Communications

WASHINGTON — There is no longer any doubt about it. Chen Wen-cheng was viciously tortured on a recent visit to his native Taiwan. The episode ended in his violent death.

The fate of Chen Wen-cheng has become the subject of secret communications between Washington and Taipei. Underlying the exchange of cables is a quiet outrage over the brutal treatment of this inoffensive professor.

Chen had come to America as a graduate student and was teaching at Carnegie-Mellon University. He was a young man, just 31 years old, with a sense of dignity.

He had gone back to his homeland for a happy visit to show his infant son to his family. He was picked up by the Taiwanese authorities and interrogated for 13 hours. A few hours later, his battered body was found on the pavement beneath the fire escape of a high-rise building.

The official Taiwanese version of Chen's death was that it must have been either suicide or an accident. His friends think he was either pushed off the building or died under torture — his body perhaps dumped from the building in a clumsy attempt to simulate suicide or accident.

In 1978, Congress enacted a law requiring that total budget outlays "shall not" exceed total government receipts, beginning with the 1981 fiscal year.

In 1979, the House and the Senate approved another law that explicitly stated that "Congress shall balance the federal budget" in 1981 and all subsequent fiscal years.

When the 1981 fiscal year comes to a close on Sept. 30, however, the government's budget for the 12-month period will reflect a very substantial deficit, expected to exceed $55 billion.

Notwithstanding those legal transgressions, it's not likely that a detachment of FBI agents, U.S. marshals or police officers will invade the Capitol on Oct. 1 to arrest the nation's 535 lawbreaking lawmakers.

Because of its special status, power and influence, Congress can (and does) violate its own laws with impunity — but the legislators presumably would be more respectful of a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

In a little-noticed action last spring, the Senate Judiciary Committee took the first step toward enactment of such an amendment, voting 11-5 to recommend that the full Senate approve the proposed measure.

The pending legislation still has not been called up for a vote on the Senate floor and a hostile House Judiciary Committee is determined to thwart any action in that chamber.

To become effective, the measure must be approved by a two-thirds majority in each house of Congress, then ratified by the legislatures in three-fourths of the states.

Despite those formidable barriers, the eminently sensible concept — aggressively promoted since 1975 by the Washington-based National Tax Limitation Committee — may well be an idea whose time has come.

Here's how it would work: The proposed amendment would firmly establish a balanced budget as a standard practice by requiring Congress to draft a budget each year in which "total outlays are no greater than total receipts."

To provide flexibility in the event of extraordinary circumstances, that provision could be overridden — but only by a three-fifths vote of each house of Congress.

To ensure that Congress does not purposely overestimate expected receipts, projected federal income would be allowed to increase at a rate no faster than the growth of the national economy — unless the legislators approve a tax increase.

Finally, Congress would waive the entire procedure during any fiscal year in which a declaration of war was in effect — but that provision wouldn't apply to undeclared wars such as those fought in Vietnam and Korea.

The need for stringent restrictions on deficit spending becomes especially obvious when examining the history of federal budgets since the founding of the nation.

For 143 years, from 1789 to 1932, balanced budgets or end-of-year surpluses were the norm — but the government has failed to avoid a deficit in 42 of the past 50 years. With the sole exception of 1969, there has been no balanced budget within the past 20 years.

The national debt, which has grown exponentially in recent decades, will reach $1 trillion for the first time in the nation's history within the next few months.

Critics of the proposed constitutional amendment argue that it fails to provide the flexibility that may be needed to deal with unexpected economic crises and that enforcement could pose serious problems.

Others fear that congressional ingenuity would lead to unprecedented growth in off-budget expenditures, loan-guarantee programs and other devices specifically designed to evade the constitutional restrictions.

JEFFREY HART Narcotics: Whose Business?

The Attorney General's Task Force on Violent Crime has called for an "unequivocal" commitment to combating domestic drug traffic, and Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., has complained in the House that the United States has not had a serious national narcotics policy since the Nixon administration. But our anti-narcotics effort does cost the federal government one billion dollars a year. How much more "unequivocal" could a commitment be? How much more "serious" our narcotics policy.

The Task Force calls for higher bail for drug defendants, the use of the military against drug smugglers, etc. In addition, a beefed up program would require more federal personnel, court cases, jail cells—all expensive. Where is the evidence that it would all do any good?

We are now spending a billion a year on the problem, and, as the New York Times said editorially: "A new heroin trade... is sweeping the Eastern Seaboard, and drug abuse of all sorts is an increasingly common fact of life in all parts of the country."

Perhaps it is time to ask whether there should be any attempt to block the drug trade.

Does the whole federal program accomplish anything other than driving the price of drugs up and providing lucrative profits for the mob?

If all the drug laws were repealed and the entire federal program scrapped, the price of heroin, cocaine, marijuana and all the rest would be set by the free market. It would certainly fall to a fraction of the present cost.

There would be no role for the mob in the drug trade if it were perfectly legal to engage in it.

There would be much less incentive for addicts to commit robberies, since the price would be within reach for most of them.

Some of the pressure on our overcrowded courts and prisons would be relieved. The police could turn to the pursuit of criminals with guns, rather than with pills and cigarettes.

That people take narcotics has not always been a concern of government. As Jack Kerouac wrote in "On The Road": "Bull had a sentimental streak about the old days in America, especially 1910, when you could get morphine in a drug store without prescription and Chinese smoked opium in their evening windows and the country was wild and lawless and free, with abundance and any kind of freedom for everyone. His chief hate was Washington bureaucracy; second to that, liberals; then cops."

It is certainly not the purpose of this column to recommend the use of narcotics to anyone. It is, rather, to raise the question of whether narcotics use is any business of the government.

As the New York Times admits editorially, even while calling for more billions, the whole program has been stunningly ineffective in halting the drug traffic.

Why don't we just... forget about it? It can come as a tremendous relief to wake up and find that you really don't have to do something you have long been doing.

Intelligence Agency have been investigating Chen's death. Some of the secret findings tend to corroborate the darkest suspicions of his friends.

In one cable from Taipei, an American diplomat informed the State Department that he had openly expressed his doubts to Taiwanese officials about their account of what happened to Chen. He told the Taiwanese that he was troubled over the relationship of "Chen's 13-hour interrogation by the security police to his death which took place, at the latest, a few hours after that interrogation."

The language is even less diplomatic in a confidential State Department memorandum obtained by my associate Lucette Lagnado. "There is ample reason to be critically skeptical of the prosecutor's report on Professor Chen's death," the memo states.

Noting that one important Taiwanese source "believes Chen may have been murdered," the memo adds: "The generally shaky versions of Chen's interrogation and subsequent release from custody, disseminated by the authorities, together with the substantial inconsistencies in some of the authoritative stories, lead us to share these misgivings."

What were these inconsistencies that have led American officials to suspect foul play? A confidential cable to the State Department from U.S. officials in Taipei lists some of them:

— Nongovernment experts who examined Chen's body found "many injuries, obvious even to laymen, which are not explained by a fall." In particular, the cable says, these outside experts "believe that Chen was tortured by a variety of means, including needles inserted in sensitive areas." They noted such suspicious injuries as small lesions under the fingernails and on the left wrist, and four puncture wounds in the kidneys — none of which, they believe, would be caused by a fall from a building, accidental or otherwise.

— Once it is established that at some point prior to death Chen was subjected to torture, it is difficult then to argue that he would go to the top of a fire escape, get dizzy and fall off," the cable states. Yet that is the theory offered by the Taiwanese authorities when confronted with the even greater absurdity of their suggestion: that the new lather committed suicide.

— Chen's interrogators claimed to have shared meals with him during his prolonged questioning. The authorities also say Chen had dinner with a friend after the interrogation. Yet the official autopsy showed Chen's stomach was empty.

These are just a few of the doubts raised by the U.S. investigations. Rep. Steve Solarz, D-N.Y., is doing still a separate investigation of Chen's death. We are also checking into the glaring discrepancies in the official Taiwanese version of the tragedy and will report our findings in a future column.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS: "Democratic Kampuchea" — the highfalutin name adopted by the murderous Cambodian regime of Pol Pot — is asking for help in its public relations campaign. The rump government has already achieved a certain respectability by winning a seat in the United Nations, and it throws elegant parties to impress U.N. delegates in New York.

But it is apparently worried that its press releases are in need of improvement. Its latest propaganda sheet says that "although we have been improving the Press Release's quality — adding some pictures — we still think that is not enough." Enclosed is a questionnaire, asking readers to rate the press releases in various ways, and to make suggestions for improvement — of the press releases, that is, not the government.

Host Greyhound Boys Place Second

Lake Brantley Rides 'Stern' Effort To Title

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Lake Brantley's girls cross country coach Jim Marshall was looking for a stern effort from his ladies in a Greyhound Invitational Saturday at Seminole Community College.

Marshall got what he was looking for as junior Ellen Stern cruised the two-mile course in 12:48 to pace an easy Lady Patriot victory in the first big meet of the 1981 season.

Stern's winning effort was complemented by Kathryn Hayward — third in 12:53 — and Tracy Bonham — fourth in 12:53 — to hoist the Lady Blue to a 29-point victory over Tom Hammontree's Lake Howell girls.

The Patriots tallied 51 points, the Silver Hawks totaled 80, while Bishop Moore was next with 104 followed by Father Lopez of Daytona Beach with 108. Boone, 132, Trinity Prep, 132, Lyman 168, Oak

Cross Country

Ridge, 168, Seminole, 241, and Oviedo, 247, filled the remaining spots.

Boone and Lyman were awarded the tiebreakers with Trinity Prep and Oak Ridge since their sixth runner finished ahead of the opposition's sixth place finisher.

"Our first three (Stern, Hayward and Bonham) really ran well," said Marshall Monday morning. The Patriots cemented the victory with a 19th place finish from Shari Killam and a 24th spot from Traci Rowland.

"We wanted Stern, Bonham and Hayward to go out together," informed Marshall. "They did for the first mile and Ellen just stayed in front."

Lady Hornet Liz Louis ran second in 12:51, while Trinity Prep's precocious eighth grader Adrian Politowitz was fifth in 13:00. Two Silver Hawks — Kerry Ryler and Kathy Compton — were sixth and seventh. Both juniors were clocked in 13:01.

Lyman's Susie Bringardener, 13:16, was eighth, while another Greyhound, Dawn Bender was ninth in 13:24. Father Lopez's Ann Marie Lill was tenth in 13:27.

In the boys portion of the meet, Bishop Moore tipped David Huggins' Greyhounds 29-40. Lake Howell was a distant third with 121, Oak Ridge was fourth, 144, and Lake Brantley finished fifth, 174.

Oak Ridge, 177, Seminole, 193, Trinity Prep, 231, Mt. Dora Bible, 238, and Luther, 265, completed the field.

The Hornets used a one-two finish to hold off the Greyhounds. Pat Descormier cruised in with a 10-second victory over teammate Masha in 16:18. Tasha's second in 16:28 was followed by Jim Hubek in 16:49.

Lyman senior Handy Beary was next in 16:58, followed by another Hornet, Mike Olvey, in 17:04. Greyhound sophomore Doug McBroom, 17:10, was sixth and teammate Craig Stapleton 17:13 was seventh.

Bishop Moore's Dan Cashin was eighth in 17:16, while Lyman's Brett Stockdale edged Lake Brantley's Tommy Palmer for ninth. Both were timed in 17:25.

Junior Mike Wooten was the first Fighting Seminole to cross the line. Wooten finished in 18:04. Next came Tyler Johnson in 18:29 for 25th place, while Richard Grey was 28th in 18:33. Scott Meck, 20:31 (56th) and Dave Sullivan, 22:33 (66th) completed the Tribe five.

"Wooten, Johnson, Grey and Meck all improved their times," said a satisfied Ted Tombras Monday morning. "Seminole was last a year ago, so I'm real happy with seventh place."

The Lady Seminole were paced by Brenda Davis and Susan Neiswender in their ninth place finish.

On the junior varsity level, Lake Mary's Kim Averill broke the school two-mile record and captured first place with a time of 14:01. Averill's time eclipsed the old mark by two seconds, which she set in the Seminole Community College Jamboree.

"If Kim keeps improving she'll set a new record every time out," laughed Rams' Coach Mike Gibson who is attempting to build the first-year school into a county powerhouse.

Andrea Beardslee, 15:10, was the next Ram in ninth place. Andrea Fenning, 18:26 (32nd), Michelle Loudermilk, 19:28 (36th), and Lisa Gregory, 19:28 (37th) completed the Rams' front five.

Hammontree's girls won the meet easily with 33 points. The Hawks bunched five runners in the first 13 places. Kim Martin, 14:09 (third), ninth grader Lynn Lucas, 14:24 (fourth), Pat Dost, 14:46 (sixth), Heather Biscoe, 14:58 (seventh) and Denise Ebel, 15:31 (13th) paved the way.

Lyman's boys JV topped Bishop Moore, 35-45, for the top spot. Lake Mary's Mark Blythe ran an 18:55 for second place. The Rams finished fourth with 119 points.

The next big meet for county runners will be the Edgewater Invitational Thursday. The meet will be held at Trinity Prep beginning at 5 p.m.

Quarterback Shuffle?

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

As University of Central Florida trainer Ron Ribaric gingerly led a dazed Mike Wood from the gridiron Saturday night, one got the feeling the former Lake Howell Silver Hawk had been welcomed to college football.

It was late in the fourth quarter and Wood had been blindsided by a Presbyterian College lineman. The shot was first diagnosed as a broken jaw, but later it was learned that Wood's caps on his teeth were jostled a bit.

Former Lyman quarterback Bob Burkhart took over, and although he moved the Knights into Presbyterian territory later in the fourth quarter, UCF never did dent the scoreboard in the 3-0 loss at the Tangerine Bowl.

It was a game the Knights could just have easily won. After a scoreless first half when Wood engineered several drives that didn't quite make it, it was obvious one score was going to win this game.

The one score came with 6:30 remaining when John Hanson booted a 33-yard field goal. It was the only chink in an awesome performance by the UCF defense.

Linebackers Billy Giovanetti and Scott Rebbitt had solid games. Ex-Silver Hawk Jim Bray was voted player of the game for the Knights.

The Knights once again have put together a stellar defensive unit, but the offense is lacking. Offensive line coach Tom Murphy felt inexperience hurt the Knights.

"It's a good offense (the Delaware Wing-T) we've put in," said Murphy. "But it's going to take time to learn. The timing has to be just perfect."

"We started five freshmen. It's a tough job for them to be playing college ball and learning a new offense," said the former Purdue University center.

Speaking of quarterbacks, it looks as if there may be a few changes in the county outlook this week.

Lyman was the only county winner, which is quite a contrast to last year when the Greyhounds didn't win a game. Junior Jerry Axley bailed out fellow junior Dwayne Johnson to help lead the Greyhound 14-10 victory over Boone Friday night.

Johnson, who gained a lot of playing time last year as a sophomore, was ineffective, so Coach Bill Scott turned the reins over to Axley in the second half. The Bishop Moore transfer guided a late-period drive climaxed by Vince Presley's game-winning TD run.

At Oviedo, starting signal callers had trouble too. Karl Jones, who Lion boss Joe Montgomery called "the best quarterback in the county" during the preseason, didn't do much either.

Oviedo was shut out, 14-0 by Umatilla. The Lions rallied in the last quarter behind junior Jody Huggins, who hit a series of passes down the stretch before time ran out on Oviedo.

In Sanford, starter Jeff Litton passed for just 27 yards, while hitting 5-of-10 tosses. Passing the ball, however, is not the Seminole strong suit, so Coach Jerry Posey probably doesn't have any changes in mind.

The Tribe ground attack looked devastating at times with speedy Johnnie Littles darting inside and outside, and bullish Lenny Sutton slammung up the middle.

Sutton rumbled for 89 yards before going down with an ankle sprain at the most crucial point in the ball game. Seminole was smelling a lying score on the five yard line when Sutton went out after a two-yard loss.

With Sutton went the Seminole scoring chances as another three-yard loss plus a five-yard penalty moved the Tribe the wrong way. Paul Griffin then missed a field goal attempt from 32 yards. Littles finished with 88 yards on just nine carries.

I'd like to personally thank Tampa Bay's Jerry Eckwood and Tom Blanchard for insuring my first week of football predictions with their bumbling, fumbling performances Sunday against Kansas City.

I finished the week at 7-3. Seminole County Commissioner Sandra Glenn hung in there for a while to finish at 5-3. Sportswriter Billy Stripp was 4-6, as was Linda Bealhard.

Joe "Now You Know Why He's The Former Sports Editor" DeSantis and Martha Posey were both 3-7.

Lake Howell and Oviedo—both unanimous picks by the panel—blew everybody's mind by getting shutout. The difference came when Colonial tipped Lake Brantley in overtime and the bumbling Bucs reverted to 1980 form and handed the game to Kansas City.

I was the only Colonial-Kansas City believer.

Presbyterian Bowls Over Knights

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Sports Writer

Deep in the bowels of the Tangerine Bowl, some 30 minutes after his University of Central Florida Knights had lost an excruciatingly tough 3-0 season opener to Presbyterian College, the desire for victory was still clearly etched in head coach Don Jonas' eyes.

Presbyterian and UCF, the second time around. The third season opener for the Knight's fledgling football program. Junior place kicker John Hanson's 33-yard field goal with 6:30 left in the fourth quarter was the only difference between the two squads.

One with better than 50 years of competition under its belt and 40 scholarships. The other in its juvenile third season, comprised of players whose desire clearly rests in putting the Knight football program on Florida's pigskin map.

Jonas had termed this year's season opener, played before almost 9,000 fans, "A Bowl game for UCF."

Head staff for a season opener considering the Knights have nine games in front of them. Not so, considering the fact the first time these two teams met, Presbyterian spanked the then first-year Knights 48-0.

"They did the things we expected," said Jonas of the visiting Blue Hose. "We just missed some assignments and some execution. You get that with young people."

The Knight's '81 starting roster indeed reflects UCF's youthful approach to gaining Division II status as quickly as possible, and eventually constructing a national football power in the next 10 years. Neither the University, the coaching staff, nor the team itself has been shy in expressing the future football aspirations of UCF.

No less than five freshmen graced opening night in starting berths, including first-year quarterback Mike Wood, who turned in three gutsy quarters before Presbyterian knocked him out of the fray midway through the final period.

Another adolescent contributor was sophomore Jim Bray, voted the game's Most Valuable Player, for his toils at defensive end which included a pair of drive killing sacks against Presbyterian quarterback Paul Scott.

Both served previous duty under new associate coach Sam Weir at Lake Howell.

Neighboring Lyman made its contribution in the form of junior linebacker Billy Giovanetti, credited with nine solo tackles and a pair of near interceptions.

That pair, combined with strong safety Jim Scargle's pass interception, anchored what he termed the key to UCF's early season success.

"We felt the defense had to come on early in the season, and it did," said Jonas. "I think the kids can be proud, especially looking at the score from two years ago. You have to be proud when you play a Division II team like that. To play like that, takes guts and desire."

The Knights stacked up fairly evenly in the statistical match up against the Division II Blue Hose. UCF's defense played a strong role throughout in checking Presbyterian on 220 yards total offense. Just 49 of that coming in the air against the Knight's linebacking corps.

The Knight put together three impressive drives that accounted for most of its 290 yards total offense.

A trio of untimely penalties halted any scoring hopes.

"We had a few break downs in execution too," noted Jonas. "Looking at the game film Sunday night, we had the plays that worked, but it was a matter of execution."

"We put in the new offensive system and we had to look at different defensive sets tonight."

The Knights displayed a Delaware Winged-T set that saw halfback Greg Atterberry lead the rushing attack with 51 yards on seven carries.

Before leaving in the fourth due to injury, Wood connected on 7-of-13 passes for 87 yards with one interception. Bob Burkhart came on in the final minutes to hit on two of seven tries for 19 yards and one interception.

"We were just a step away from breaking a couple of plays," explained associate head coach Sam Weir. "We have an offense that calls for execution and we missed some execution."

Weir feels the Knights may go up top a little more against next week's foe, Elizabeth City College.

"We'll probably spread things out a little more to open our game up," he said.

In Elizabeth City, the Knights will face their second straight Division II squad, something Jonas is well aware of.

"There aren't too many schools our level that play up a division," he said.

KNIGHT NOTES — After a tough physical battle against Presbyterian Saturday night, Jonas had his squad on hand Sunday morning for a light workout.

"After a game like that we thought we'd be better off coming out, a few patterns and just running some laps to ease the bumps and bruises," said Jonas.

UCF came out of Saturday's contest relatively healthy. Nose-guard Rick Manayrd suffered a slight ankle sprain while Lyman's defensive tackle Danny Allen has a slightly hyperextended knee.

Defensive tackle Ed Gantner is still slowed with bruised ribs while a bright note came up Sunday afternoon.

The solid shot that Wood took in the head in the fourth period was originally deflected as a broken jaw. Jonas confirmed Sunday night there was no break or fracture. "He's got some cuts in his mouth but that's all," informed Jonas. "Mike will be there Saturday night for Elizabeth City."

"He picked the wrong time to get his mouth hurt," kidded Jonas. "Today was Mike's birthday and I know a couple of nice dinners were planned."

'Ebenezer' Astros Pull Scrooge Act On San Francisco

By United Press International

The Houston Astros boast the best pitching staff in the major leagues and they are as stingy with runs as Ebenezer Scrooge was with a penny.

Bob Knepper and Frank LaCorte scattered nine hits between them Sunday night in hurling the Astros to a 3-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants. It was their 16th shutout this season.

The Astros, who hold a three-game lead in the National League West, have won 11 of their last 14 games and in 12 of those games the pitching staff has surrendered two runs or less.

The Giants had plenty of chances against the Astros but left 12 men on base in an attempt to solve Knepper, 33, and LaCorte, who earned his fifth save. Knepper allowed six hits and walked three in seven innings, retiring the side in order only in the first. LaCorte allowed three hits in the last two innings but also had the "out" pitch when he needed it.

"He (Knepper) seems to pitch best when he's in a problem situation," admitted catcher Alan Ashby. "But tonight he was not getting hit all over the place. He'd just get into a bind and pitched like crazy. He has the ability to get a popup or a strikeout when he needs it."

Houston scored its first run in the first off Doyle Alexander, 37. Phil Garner reached on a fielder's choice and Jose Cruz singled to put runners on the corners. With Denny Walling at bat, Alexander threw a low and inside pitch that eluded catcher Bob Brenly to allow the run to score.

In the seventh, a single by Craig Reynolds and a run-scoring, pinch double by Danny Heep made it 2-0. Reynolds knocked in a run with an infield hit.

NL Baseball

Dodgers 4, Reds 2

At Cincinnati, Dusty Baker hit a solo homer in the second and Rick Monday singled home the tie-breaking run in the fourth to pace the Dodgers to victory. Bob Welch went the first four innings for Los Angeles and stranded 11 runners before Bobby Castillo, 24, took over in the sixth to receive credit for the victory. Castillo struck out the side in the sixth and fanned five batters in 3 2-3 innings.

Expos 10, Cubs 6

At Chicago, Andre Dawson and Larry Parrish drove in three runs apiece to pace the Expos' victory. Scott Sanderson, 36, picked up the triumph with Mike Krukow, 39, taking the loss. Tim Wallach homered for Montreal and Jody Davis and Mel Hall homered for Chicago.

Padres 6, Braves 4

At Atlanta, Juan Bonilla singled home pinch runner Mario Ramirez and Luis Salazar added a two-run triple in the 10th inning to lift the Padres to victory. Relieve Gary Lucas, 37, was the winner with Rick Camp, 33, taking the loss.

Pirates 3, Phillies 2

At Pittsburgh, pinch hitter Jason Thompson singled home two runs in the eighth inning to lift the Pirates to victory. The triumph went to starter Odell Jones, 42, and Kent Tekulve pitched the ninth to pick up his third save. Ron Reed, 42, took the loss.

Cardinals 4, Mets 2

At St. Louis, reliever Jesse Orosco's balk in the sixth inning allowed the tie-breaking run to score and helped the Cardinals complete a sweep of their three-game series.

Righthander Bobby Castillo drove in the eventual winning run Sunday and turned in a solid relief job as the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped the Cincinnati Reds, 4-2.

Twins Topple Sox For 6th Straight

By United Press International

The schedule says the Minnesota Twins are headed for Toronto. So what if the Twins believe they're going to Oz?

"A win like this should really get our kids going," Minnesota Manager Billy Gardner said Sunday after the Twins rallied for four runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to score a 7-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox for their sixth straight victory.

The victory left Minnesota with a 16-18 record, not a great record but certainly good enough to keep them in contention in the knighting contest that is the AL West. Right now, the Twins trail the Kansas City Royals by 2 1/2 games.

Gardner, who replaced John Goryl earlier this season, was asked if he inherited a pennant winner.

"I think so, if the kids keep playing like this," said Gardner.

Pinch hitter Kent Hrbek singled in two runs with two out in the ninth to win it.

"We just have to keep hustling and stay alert like we are and we can control where we end up," said Twins sparkplug Mickey Hatcher. "Ever since the rookies have come up we've played good ball. It has seemed most of the season that the pitchers have been waiting for the hitters to pick them up and the hitters have waited for the pitchers to pick them up, but right now, it seems like we're all just going up and playing instead of waiting."

In other games, Detroit topped Cleveland 8-6, Milwaukee shut out Baltimore 5-0, New York outslugged Boston 10-6, California nipped Texas 8-7 in 12 innings and Kansas City beat Oakland 6-5 in 12 innings.

In the National League it was St. Louis 4, New York 2; Los Angeles 4, Pittsburgh 3; Philadelphia 2; San Diego 6, Atlanta 4 in 10 innings; Montreal 10, Chicago 6; and Houston 3, San Francisco 0.

AL Baseball

Tigers 8, Indians 6

At Detroit, Rick Peters singled home the tie-breaking run in the sixth and Kirk Gibson followed with a two-run, pop-fly double to help the Tigers to a sweep of their three-game series. Milt Wilcox improved his record to 10-7 while Dan Spillner, 24, took the loss.

Brewers 5, Orioles 0

At Milwaukee, Ben Oglivie's bases-loaded single triggered a four-run fourth to back the combined six-hit pitching of Pete Vuckovich and two relievers. Vuckovich, 12-4, allowed three hits over seven innings. The loss went to Steve Stone, 4-6.

Yankees 10, Red Sox 8

At New York, Willie Randolph drove in three runs and Dave Winfield hit a two-run homer in support of Ron Guidry, 11-3, to sparking the Yankees. Guidry, 5-0 in seven starts since the beginning of the second season, allowed five hits over five innings. Frank Tanana fell to 3-9.

Angels 8, Rangers 7

At Anaheim, Calif., the Angels snapped an eight-game losing streak on Juan Beniquez' sacrifice fly in the 12th. Dan Ford opened with an infield hit off Steve Comer, 7-2. Comer wild-pitched Ford to second and Bobby Grich's grounder moved him to third. After an intentional walk to Ed Ott, Beniquez fled to right to make a winner of Steve Renko, 6-4.

Royals 6, A's 5

At Oakland, Calif., Willie Wilson's blop single scored Cesar Geronimo from second with two out to give the Royals a two-game lead in the West. Wilson, 8-for-14 before an 11th inning single, blooped his hit in front of a diving Rickey Henderson off Dave Beard, 0-1, follow-up singles by Geronimo and John Wathan.

Police Recruits Fired For Using Marijuana

MIAMI (UPI)—Two Police Academy students have been fired as a result of a pre-graduation party at which marijuana allegedly was used, a Dade County Metro Police spokesman said.

Spokesman Pete Cuccaro said Sunday other students at the academy also were under investigation.

He said the two recruits were fired on administrative charges, one for testifying falsely while under oath during the investigation, the other for giving false information on his application form. Neither was charged with a crime, Cuccaro said.

The administrative charges were brought by the police Internal Review Board.

One of the two was scheduled to graduate last Friday, the other next month.

Cuccaro said the Public Safety Department has an obligation to make certain "the people we put on the street are of the highest character and are above reproach."

Sister: Verdict Wrong

TAVARES, Fla. (UPI)—The sister of a Fort Myers hospital worker sentenced to life in prison in the shooting death of their father says the jury made the wrong decision.

Lake County Circuit Judge Jackson O. Brownlee sentenced Richard C. Fowler on Saturday after a 12-member jury returned a guilty verdict in the March 2 shooting of his father, Richard H. Fowler, 67.

During the trial, the defendant's sister, Sharon Divillo, had testified that her father had abused her brother for years.

After Fowler was sentenced, his sister ran from the courtroom in tears.

"They (the jury) have no faith in human nature," she said. "They are all fools."

Public Defender Ronald Fox said Fowler believed his father killed his invalid mother and the slaying of the elder Fowler, a retired civil service engineer who lived in Leesburg, came after 37 years of psychological abuse of his son.

Search Comes Up Empty

MIAMI (UPI)—Police in south Florida Sunday came up empty in their search for a Mariel Cuban refugee who fled after a Miami policeman was shot in the leg and face.

The suspect was identified as Jorge Martinez, 34, a brown-haired, pencil-thin man who may be armed with the pistol used Saturday to fire two slugs into the body of officer Raymond Martinez, 25.

Two other Mariel refugees—Rafael Fernandez Garcia, 22, and Eduardo Victor Del Bunto, 24,—are in custody. Police said the search for the refugee would continue today.

Crime Comments Get Orlando Mayor In Hot Water

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Some Miami-area tourist officials are incensed with Orlando Mayor William Frederick for alleged remarks Frederick made about south Florida's crime problems at a press conference in London.

A London news report quoted Frederick—in London to promote Orlando area tourism—as saying "Miami's problem is its closeness to South America. Drug people are killing drug people. The visitors get caught in the crossfire... It should be understood that Miami Beach is not Florida."

During a telephone interview Sunday with Orlando radio station WKIS, Frederick denied making any such statements.

"There was absolutely no discussion about the Cuban refugees in reference to that," he told the radio station. "I can't account for how that got in the press release."

The news report angered some south Florida tourist officials and sparked disbelief in others.

Nat Potamkin, a member of the Miami Beach Visitor and Convention Authority, was angry.

"A gentleman like that shouldn't be in public life," Potamkin said. "To play up to the people of his own city at the expense of Miami... to play politics like that is criminal in my mind."

In Miami, Mayor Maurice Ferre expressed disbelief at the report.

"I know enough of him (Frederick) that I'm positive that statement is false," Ferre said. "But if he did make it, I am amazed."

Ferre said FBI statistics show that Orlando, Tampa and Fort Lauderdale have crime problems even worse than Miami's.

Joseph Nevel, president of the Miami Beach Chamber of Commerce, also said he couldn't believe it.

"If it were true, I would be appalled," Nevel said. "Miami is the gateway to the rest of the state. I certainly can't imagine a mayor of a city in Florida that would make that statement to tourists there."

Miami Beach officials hope this year to attract more than the estimated 200,000 British tourists who visited the area last year.

Orlando, which plans to open a new $300 million airport next week, is making a major bid for British tourists.

'Hill Street' Sweeps Emmys

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Hill Street Blues" wreaked its revenge on the ratings Sunday night, winning eight Emmy awards, more than any series in the history of television.

"Taxi" took the comedy honors for the third consecutive year. The highly praised but little watched "Hill Street" took awards for best actor, actress, supporting actor, writing, cinematography, sound editing, directing and capped the night with the award for most outstanding dramatic series of the year.

The cast and producers rejoiced, calling it a victory for quality and hoping the triumph will attract enough viewers to keep it alive.

"Taxi" won six awards in the comedy class, including best comedy series—for the third straight year—and a best actor award for star Judd Hirsch.

"Shogun," the romance of an English navigator shipwrecked in feudal Japan, won the prestigious award for outstanding limited series, beating out "Masada."

"Hill Street," based on fast-paced tales of a dozen idiosyncratic police officers coping with life and death in a northeastern city slum, is the lowest rated series ever renewed by NBC.

Daniel J. Travanti, who plays the concerned, beleaguered Capt. Furillo on "Hill Street," was chosen outstanding lead actor in a series and the top actress award went to Barbara Babcock for her portrayal of the man-hungry interior decorator, Grace Gardner.

The award for best supporting actor in a drama went to Michael Conrad, who plays the warily paternal but unflinchingly competent Sgt. Esterhaus.

"It's better than anything I've ever seen on TV and our audience is growing," Conrad said.

Nancy Marchand, who plays the publisher, Mrs. Pynchon, on "Lou Grant," was named best supporting actress in a dramatic series.

JUDD HIRSCH
... Best Actor, Comedy

ISABEL SANFORD
... Best Actress, Comedy

The comedy series actress prize went to Isabelle Sanford, Louise on "The Jeffersons," who was so surprised to win that she went on stage still chewing the cheese she was nibbling on in the audience.

"I waited so long, all my humility is gone," she cracked.

The award for best supporting actor in a limited series went to David Warner of "Masada."

Named best supporting actress in a comedy series was Eileen Brennan, who plays Capt. Lewis on "Private Benjamin."

"Playing for Time," the story of women musicians in a Nazi death camp, picked up four awards. It was chosen outstanding drama special and the script won celebrated playwright Arthur Miller the writing prize in the special program class. Jane Alexander was picked best supporting actress and Vanessa Redgrave took the statuette for outstanding lead actress for her portrayal of Jewish musician Fania Fenelon. Miss Redgrave held onto the role over widespread protests from Jews who objected to her anti-Israeli political activities.

The best actor award in the same category went to Anthony Hopkins, coincidentally enough for playing Adolph Hitler in "The Bunker."

DANIEL TRAVANTI

No Love Lost From This Kind Of 'Proof'

DEAR ABBY: About 15 years ago, you wrote a column telling girls how to answer boys who asked them to prove their love by committing fornication, which is a sin.

Many teen-age girls cut that column out and carried it in their purses. Today's sex education makes it seem OK for teen-age girls to have sex as long as they "love" the boy. I wish you would reprint that column. It is badly needed now.

WASHINGTON, N.J. DEAR N.J.: Here it is: Girls need to "prove their love" through illicit sex relations like a mouse needs a hat rack.

Why not prove your love by sticking your head in the oven and turning on the gas? Or playing leapfrog out in the traffic? It's about as safe.

Clear the cobwebs out of your head: Any fellow who asks you to "prove your love" is trying to take you for the biggest, most gullible fool who ever walked. That proving bit is one of the oldest and rottest lies ever invented!

Does he love you? It doesn't sound like it. Someone who loves you wants whatever is best for you. But now figure it out. He wants you to:

- Commit an immoral act.
- Surrender your virtue.
- Throw away your self-respect.
- Risk the loss of your precious reputation.
- And risk getting into trouble.

Does that sound as though he wants what's best for you? This is the laugh of the century. He wants what's best for him... he wants a thrill he can brag about at your expense.

Love? Who's kidding whom! A boy who loves a girl would sooner cut off his right arm than hurt her. If you want my opinion, this self-serving so-and-so has already proved that he doesn't love you.

The predictable aftermath of "proofs" of this kind always finds Don Juan tiring of his sport. That's when he drops you, picks up his line and goes casting elsewhere for bigger, and equally silly, fish.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in my last month of pregnancy and my husband and I still can't resolve a serious disagreement. Jeffrey says if it's a girl I can name her anything I want, but if it's a boy, he wants to name him "Jeffrey Jr." Abby, I am very much against that. If we have a son, I want him to have his own name and his own identity.

I don't like nicknames, and I don't want our son going through life being called "Little Jeff" or, worse yet, "Junior."

I favor "Michael" for a boy's name. Jeffrey likes "Michael," but he insists that the only name he wants for our son is "Jeffrey." I suggested we forget both "Jeffrey" and "Michael" and select another name as a compromise. Jeffrey refuses to budge.

What do you think? I need some support.

PRAYING FOR A GIRL. DEAR PRAYING: Would your husband consider "Jeffrey" for the boy's middle name? If not, hang in there. Wanting your son to have his own name and his own identity is both valid and sensible. If you absolutely cannot agree, a compromise is the only fair solution.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, September 15, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
September 15, 1981
In the year following your birthday your creative and artistic touch will be more predominant than usual, and all that you put your hand to will show the effects of your special talents.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Matters relating to your material picture are the hot spots today and need to be handled with asbestos gloves. Be wary in all your financial dealings. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Concentrate on a sense of fairness and you should be able to overcome a tendency today toward being overly insistent that everyone do things your way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You could be forced to give a little more attention today to tasks which you may consider unpleasant. It might help to keep in mind the rewards.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Pressure from your peer group could make you feel uncomfortable in a social situation today. Treat all equally. Don't take sides under any condition.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
If there is a little problem in your home today, try to be forgiving to those who created it. Otherwise, the chill could linger for a few days.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Don't take it personally if you get outvoted every time you make a suggestion today. It's not that your ideas are bad, it's just that others might have limited vision.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
A philosophical outlook will prove extremely helpful when coping with delays or obstacles which could have you stymied today.

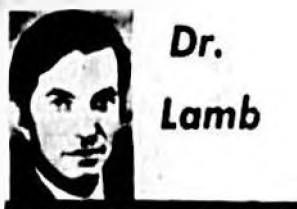

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
If you persevere in a project which you've just discovered is not going in the direction it should, others who can help will follow your lead.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
In a social situation today, if you're exposed to a clique whose members behave as if they are better than everyone else, don't stoop to their level in retribution.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Don't hedge one bit on your highest ideals today when confronted with more opposition than you expected. Right eventually does prevail.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You are blessed with friends who know how to soothe your nervous system when you have a frustrating day. You might want to plan to get together with them this evening.

Some Antibiotics Cause Diarrhea

DEAR DR. LAMB — More than a year ago my doctor gave me tetracycline for the flu. I have had trouble with my bowels ever since then. I have had diarrhea continuously and have had all kinds of tests. The doctor said I have to take Metamucil the rest of my life, three times a day. Please tell me if there is something I can eat or take so I can get rid of this.

DEAR READER — What you should do depends entirely on what is causing your diarrhea. Some antibiotics can cause diarrhea. In most instances the problem is caused by the chemical irritation of the antibiotic itself. This may also cause nausea. In other instances there is a change in the bacterial flora of the colon with colitis. Authorities disagree whether the change in bacteria in the colon is really responsible for the colitis (pseudomembranous enterocolitis). Neither of these complications is likely to exist for more than a year. Your doctors have done extensive examinations which would certainly have identified any of these complications of antibiotics. This suggests that your current problems may have been triggered by the antibiotics but they are not the cause of your persistent problem.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had a vasectomy in 1948. I'm glad I did, I had no problems until this past year. I feel a small nodule above each testicle occasionally which becomes mildly tender or a bit painful. It lasts a few days and then goes. This happens every other week or so.

DEAR READER — No one can give you good advice without knowing what the nodules are. That means an examination is in order. Whenever anyone has a lump, bump or cyst and doesn't know what it is, it should be examined.

It may be a spermatocele, a little cyst-like accumulation of sperm cells, but you should not guess. It doesn't sound like a tumor that could be a cancer because it comes and goes, but cancer can be one cause for lumps of the testicle area. I recommend that old surgical adage, when in doubt, cut it out (the lump, not the testicle). But a doctor will probably be able to tell you with a simple examination what it really is.

In this simple hand from 'The Drawing of Trumps and Its Postponement', Fred Karpin just says the contract is six clubs.

Alan: "This is the second hand in his book designed to show when you must preserve a high trump as an entry to dummy. It is a simple hand, but it clearly shows why South can't afford to draw all West's trumps before going after spades."

Oswald: "He wins the heart lead and plays ace and jack of trumps. East shows out so West is still left with the nine spot. Now South must go after spades. East will probably duck the first spade, but will have to win the second one."

Alan: "Now if East can lead a red card and West can ruff it, South will be down one. Or if West started with just two spades, a third spade led by East will defeat the slam."

Oswald: "Our bidding gets South to the slam, but even in five clubs the same play would be made. Incidentally, six notrump is a laydown and many players would get to that contract."

Oswald: "One of the difficulties of writing a book on play is to find a logical way to get to the final contract."
