Strike up the band

The students at Idyllwilde Elementary School who are interested in showing off their musical talent have formed a band they hope will entertain their fellow students, parents and others from the community. Above, Blair Cox and Elliott Reed checked out the trumpets they'll be playing after the instruments arrived at school recently. At right, Katie Gatlin is working on her technique on the flute she'll be playing in the band. The students rehearse at school and will start performing soon.

Community leader, musician Mary Whitehurst dead at 79

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — Mary Hardemon Whitehurst devoted her life to music and to the community, using her God-given talents to bring others together in the joy she possessed.

Whitehurst, 79, passed away early Friday morning after a long battle with cancer. Nearly to the end she played her music in church and in the community and gave of herself for various civic organizations.

"She was one of the most selfless people I have ever met," said Dr. Lurline Sweeting, a friend of Whitehurst's for many years. "She loved people. She had an indomitable spirit. She would get up and go until she just couldn't get up any more."

Born in 1916 to George and Alberta Hardemon in Leesburg, Ga., she moved to Orlando when she was six years old. Even then, she had a great interest in music and in serving God.

As a member of the Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church in Orlando, she was involved in the music program from the time she was a six. By the time she was 12 she had begun playing piano and organ in church and by the time she was 16 she was the organist for the church's number one choir. She continued to lead the musical programs at that church for 61 years. "She played for other churches also," her grandson Marcus Kendrick said. "She brought her music to the community in several ways."

Whitehurst, throughout her many years of service, was the dean of music for the Progressive Baptist Convention for 30 years; the dean of music for Congress No. 1 of the First South Florida Missionary Baptist Association for 17 years and the music director of the National Baptist Convention Choir.

She was also the organizer of the Sanford Martin Luther King Jr. Choir.

"That was one of her proudest things," her grandson said.

She was married to the late Rev. Harold B. Whitehurst.

A graduate of Seminole Community College and Bethune Cookman College, she graduated summa cum laude from both institutions and had the unique opportunity to provide the music at both of those commencement ceremonies.

Whitehurst also taught music at several Orange County elementary schools.

She was the recipient of many awards including the Martin Luther King Jr. Brotherhood Award and the NAACP Founders Award in 1988.

Chief Ralph Russell will discuss department policy and procedures which are required. The meeting will be at the Sanford Boys and Girls Club and is open to NAACP members.

You can still catch pioneer, arts festivals

Though people browsed the stalls of the Pioneer Days and Ways Festival in Sanford, many of those who were in attendance sought out the roof of the Seminole County museum and the agricultural center to escape the oppressive summer-like heat.

In Heathrow, a few miles away, there were few places to escape the heat beating down on the damp ground at 1.84 Acres Farms, enveloping the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts in a damp blanket of warm air.

The two very different events drew crowds of people looking to find unique, handcrafted gifts for themselves or for family and friends.

Marella Kendrick said she has attended the Pioneer Days and Ways Festival every year since its inception. She said she "won't have anything to do with" the Lake Mary Heathrow event.

"It's too big and too crowded," she mused. "I like this little thing. It's like crafts festivals used to be. Everyday people making everyday stuff you can use in your house."

The elegant works of art that characterize the Lake Mary event, from watercolors to oil paintings to hand-blown glass to delicately crafted jewelry by artist from across the country, were of no interest to Kendrick.

"Too fancy, Schmaney for me," she said.

David Lloyd, on the other hand, traveled from Tampa specifically to attend the Lake Mary festival.

"There's a festival down in Tampa today with all kinds of crafts and country items," he said. "You can get that kind of stuff anywhere. I try to seek out the truly unique items. I've been very pleased with the offerings at this festival in the

Disney insures gay employees' partners

ORLANDO — Walt Disney Co. will extend health benefits to domestic partners of gay workers next year, becoming one of the last major entertainment companies to do so.

The change will be explained to Disney's 70,000 employees — 38,000 of whom are in Central Florida — in a company newsletter this week.

A Disney spokesman at corporate headquarters in Burbank, Calif., said the rules were changed as part of an annual review of health benefits.

"We felt we should bring them in line with our nondiscrimination policy," said John Dreyer, Disney's vice president of corporate communications.

Dreyer said the decision came about "very simply." He would not answer questions on the policy's impact on Disney's image.

"We are a family-oriented company," he said.

A notice to employees states that starting Jan. 1, workers can name "same-sex domestic partners as dependents under their Disney medical, vision and dental coverage" if they submit an affidavit verifying the partner is the equivalent of a spouse. The partner's dependent children are also eligible for benefits.

The policy does not apply to unmarried heterosexual couples.

"We're just not going to extend it and we're not really interested in debating it," Dreyer said.

2 Homeless women slain, burned

MIAMI — Two homeless women have been killed and set ablaze in the same neighborhood in the past nine weeks, and authorities are investigating whether the murders were the handiwork of the same killer.

Both victims were in their early 40s who lived in the Allpattah warehouse district; their bodies were found less than 100 yards apart in an area where a number of homeless people smoke crack-cocaine.

Both were killed by a blow to the head.

Vida Hicks, 43, was discovered Aug. 1.

Diane Nelms, 44, was found Thursday behind a soot-covered warehouse wall. Police found a gasoline can near her body. Her body was so badly burned that people who knew her had trouble identifying her.

"We immediately recognized the similarities between the two homicides," Miami Assistant Police Chief John Brooks said Friday. "We have brought both homicide teams together to work the cases jointly, but the investigation is in its early stages."

A third homeless woman was also burned, but she escaped alive.

Up to 100 homeless people populate the area, sleeping and living anywhere they can.

Several fellow homeless people warned women to move away.

"I have a strange feeling this person's right out here," said Alphonso Marshall, 45, shaking his head disgustedly. "I tell the ladies, 'Y'all got to be doggone fools to be out there on those tracks at night.'"

"What is it going to take for them to leave? Three bodies?"

Florida unemployment climbs

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's unemployment rose to 5.6 percent in September from 4.8 percent in August, a state official said. But the significance of the gain is limited because it's only a monthly change, according to Rebecca Rust, chief of the state's bureau of labor information.

"The last three months we've had a lot of variation," she said, pointing out that the August rate reflected a big drop from July, when the rate was 5.2 percent.

A year ago, Florida's unemployment rate was 6.5 percent, Rust said.

With the latest change, Florida's unemployment drew level with the national rate. Florida's September unemployment rate fell right in the middle of the rates posted by 11 populous states. California had the highest rate with 7.2 percent and North Carolina the lowest with 4.7 percent.

Last month in Florida, 388,000 people were looking for work and 6.5 million had full- or part-time jobs. The unemployment rate doesn't count people who don't work and aren't looking for work.

In August, 315,000 people were trying to get work and 6.5 million had jobs, a figure that remained unchanged last month.

Through August, Florida's employers created 197,000 new jobs over the year, for a gain of 3.4 percent and a total number of full- and part-time jobs of more than 5.9 million.

Construction, which has been experiencing some weaknesses, was up 1.8 percent, or 4,800 jobs, for a total employment of 308,100. But, Rust said, construction gains could be expected because of Opal recovery.

Shuttle delay No. 4 and counting

By MARCIA BURN

CAPE CANAVERAL — It was Strike 4 for NASA's oldest shuttle. A computer failed late in the countdown Saturday and grounded Columbia, already plagued by sluggish hydraulics, leaking fuel, even a hurricane.

The flight was not rescheduled. Launch director James Harrington expected a delay of at least a week.

NASA came within a half-hour of liftoff, but a computer needed to process vital commands for Columbia's solid-fuel rocket boosters and fuel tank simply would not work.

"We did our best," NASA test director John Guidi said, apologizing to the crew.

The seven astronauts looked glum as they crawled out of Columbia.

The failed computer — called a master events controller — is Astronauts participating in the scheduled space shuttle Columbia mission will have to wait again. On Saturday, the crew suited up and positioned themselves inside the orbiter, only to have the mission scrubbed a fourth time.

The Seminole High School Class of 1965 will hold its 30-year reunion on Oct. 13-15.

Activities planned are a reacquainted party at Fitzgeralds on Friday night, a dinner dance at Timacuan Country Club on Saturday night and a barbecue at Gator Landing at noon on Sunday. The Margaret Reynolds Museum in the former Sanford Grammar School will be the scene of a tour on Sunday morning.

I recently met with four members of their reunion committee for an interview. We met at Idylwild School where class member David Scott is principal.

Another school principal in the group was Terry Rabun, now at T.W. Lawton Elementary. Also present was Pat Chapman Rockett, wife of Lake Mary's mayor, Lowry Rockett, and Kathy Butler Skyes, a former president of the Downtown Merchants Association and presently a student at SCC.

Pat and David are former students of mine. I have known Terry practically all of his life, and I remember Kathy standing outside my classroom door almost every day with her then boyfriend who was in my class. So these were old friends with whom I enjoyed reminiscing.

We had three elementary schools represented — Southside, Lake Monroe and Lake Mary. Westside was also an elementary school at the time.

Pat and Kathy remembered that some of their teachers at Southside were Miss Zillah Welch, Miss Ernestine Westphal, Mrs. Nancy Brock, Mrs. Titshaw, Mrs. Morgan, and Mrs. Patrick. Principal was Mrs. Velma Mitchell.

The annual Halloween carnival stood out as a special memory for both these girls, especially the haunted mansion. Kathy remembered being impressed by the fact that when Paul Rumbley was hit by a swing in the first grade, he didn't cry.

A traumatic event recalled was the lining up in the auditorium to get polio vaccinations; Kathy even passed out. And as if the procedure weren't scary enough, that night they heard on TV that you could get polio from the shots! Terry and David also remembered a similar experience at their schools.

Terry Rabun, a student at Lake Monroe through the eighth grade, especially remembered Mrs. Pauline Kirkpatrick who was his teacher for four years, from first through fourth grades. Then when he became principal of Wilson School several years later, she was a teacher there. John Angel was principal of Monroe School while Terry was a student.

Terry recalled going home for lunch everyday and only on special occasions getting to eat in the lunchroom. And one day, while in first grade, Mrs. Kirkpatrick sent him to school. Terry didn't think this was right as he had been sent home.

David Scott's favorite teacher at Lake Mary Elementary was Mr. Floyd Richards who he had in the sixth grade. He also remembered Mrs. Ola Cochran, Mrs. Edna Humphrey, and Mrs. Mildred Tillis. He was in multi-

Almost everyone has, or has access to, a car, but for some people, this goes beyond simple transportation. Some people buy an old car and spend much of their free time restoring it. Others spend countless hours — and dollars — installing an elaborate stereo system. And still others modify their cars to be unlike anything else on the road, either by boosting the engine, adding custom bodywork, or enhancing the interior. For these people, their car is an extension of themselves, and after spending so much time and effort to get it the way they want, they love to show it off. One popular place to show off your custom or collectible car is at the monthly auto show sponsored by the Celery City Cruisers, held at 7 p.m. on the last Saturday of every month (weather permitting) in the parking lot at the Wal-Mart on 17-92 in Sanford.

classes throughout his eight years at Lake Mary — each teacher had two grades in one classroom.

David said that when corn on the cob was on the menu in the lunch room, at 10 a.m. one class would be sent out to shuck the corn. He also remembered Ronnie Nixon bringing a goat to class for show and tell. And every morning before school, the entire student body would line up outside where they had the pledge to the flag, Bible reading, and the Lord's Prayer before marching into the school.

The Sanford students progressed to grammar school for fifth and sixth grade and then attended seventh grade at Pinecrest School. This was a growth period in the area and school construction hadn't caught up. They moved to the school building on French Avenue for the eighth grade in the fall of 1960. For their first semester there, they were on double sessions with the high school students until the new high school was opened in January of 1961.

Some junior high teachers they recalled were Mrs. Georgene Hellenschmidt, Mr. Kosky, Mr. Moretz, Mr. Ferguson, Mrs. Ann Samuel, Mr. Teddy Barber, and coaches Dan Pelham and Owen McCaron.

A real highlight of their junior high years were the weekly Friday night dances held at the civic center. It was a time to socialize and just have fun together. The worst punishment their parents could give them was to deny their attending these dances.

Everyone remembered being out of school for an entire week following Hurricane Donna in 1960.

Lake Mary and Lake Monroe students came into Sanford for the ninth grade, but again, because of a space problem, only part of the class attended Seminole High for ninth grade. The others remained at Sanford Junior High on French Avenue. Finally, as sophomores, the entire class came together for the first time at SHS.

The chorus members recalled quite an active schedule each year. There were large productions such as "Oklahoma," district and state contests, and performances at community events. Miss Ollie Rose White was their director. David admitted to putting David Johnson's underwear in the freezer during a trip to Daytona.

Terry said that the scariest words to hear in Mrs. Coleman's Latin class were "Translate, please, Terry." (I know that all of us who took Latin would understand.) The Latin banquets were fun and someone suggested that perhaps a reunion of all Latin students be held sometime at a giant "toga party."

This group believes that they held one of the last dances at the Mayfair Inn before it closed. Dress-up dances remembered were the May Day Ball, Glee Club Ball, Homecoming Dance and the Junior Senior Prom.

Another homecoming memory was gathering firewood for the bonfire during their freshman year.

David had a vivid recollection of Dr. Luis Perez mesmerizing the students in chapel one day with a talk about his Cuban homeland. At the end of his speech, he told the students that everything he had said was a lie; it was Communist propaganda. The students realized how easily they could be duped.

Speaking of Cuba, each one remembered how scary the Cuban Missile Crisis was to them. They recalled that all navy personnel were on full alert and that they mobilized at the Sanford stadium.

Another memory of theirs, and of anyone's who attended SHS during the 1960s, was the school being in the flight pattern of the Navy jets. Classes were almost impossible to hold during touch and go exercises as the planes flew over one right after the other.

A tragedy recalled was the crashing of a plane on the school grounds late one afternoon. Fortunately, students in the area had left a short time before. The pilot was killed, but there were no other injuries. The area was cordoned off for several days.

Senior officers of the Class of 1965 were Charles Hunter, president; Ronnie Risner, vice president; Carol Torres, secretary; Linda Rich, treasurer; and Terry Rabun, chaplain. David Lanier was student body president. Valectorian was Helen Mann and Bonnie Caolo was salutatorian. Class motto was "Nothing Without God," and sponsors were Ernie Cowley, Mary Joyce Bateman, Dorothy Morrison, Rebecca Stevens, Nellie Coleman, Tom Richey and Principal Andrew Bracken.

The SHS Class of 1965, composed of 299 students, was graduated on June 7, 1965. A reception was held immediately afterwards in the cafeteria for all graduates and their parents. F.A.O. (Fun After Graduation) Night was continued with an Elvis movie at the Ritz Theater followed by a party at Mid Florida Country Club where there was swimming, food and fun. Then several trekked to the beach to continue their merry-making until the next morning — just as SHS graduates have done for many a year.

Since I taught a large number of these people, I am going to give you some of my memories of them next week.

supposed to process commands for igniting the rocket boosters. It also controls separation of the spent boosters two minutes into the flight and the fuel tank six minutes after that.

There are two such controllers. The failed one is the prime and will have to be replaced.

Saturday's scrub cost $800,000 in overtime pay and wasted fuel. It was the fourth delay in 10 days for the laboratory-research mission.

NASA had feared rain might delay Saturday morning's launch, but the weather turned out to be perfect.

There were other other last-minute problems: birds at the launch pad and nitrogen fluctuations in an orbital maneuvering system.

NASA had to fire a shrill siren several times to scare away starlings. Launch officials were taking no chances: Woodpeckers damaged the external fuel tank of Discovery earlier this year, forcing a long, costly delay for that shuttle's mission.

Friday's launch attempt was ruined by an inadequate amount of fluid in a hydraulic line, apparently the result of worker error. A fuel leak and Hurricane Opal caused earlier delays.

The latest delay disrupted the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's flight plans for the rest of the year.

Atlanta is supposed to blast off Nov. 1 on a docking mission with the Russian space station Mir. Depending on the length of Columbia's latest delay, NASA could opt to fly Atlantis next and bump Columbia's mission into mid or late November. NASA prefers at least five days between shuttle landings and launches.

Other options being considered: shorten Columbia's 16-day flight or possibly even — and this is a long shot — scrap the mission altogether, said launch manager Loren Shriver. He said a decision on all this would be made early this week.

Columbia made the first shuttle flight in 1981. It has not flown since July 1994; it's just back from a periodic tuneup.

Duty to find the killer

You mean that's it? While Johnnie Cochran and Robert Shapiro make their appearances on Larry King Live and former jurors tell their little jury room secrets to the panting press begging for more O.J. copy, the L.A. County Prosecutors Office is going on to other things.

Frankly, most of us are sick to death of O.J., O.J., O.J., but if it was not, as the jury has said, Mr. Simpson who killed and mutilated Nicole Brown-Simpson and Ronald Goldman, then who was it?

It would seem that the weary prosecutor's office no longer cares. With the acquittal of Simpson, they have declared the murders of those two people closed.

Were they really, as some have suggested, merely "out to get O.J."? Or will they re-open the case to find out who murdered Simpson's ex-wife and her friend?

These were not accidental deaths that can be passed off. These two people were killed by a crazed person who did not just kill them, but who also continued to slash at their lifeless bodies with a knife.

If the man who stood trial for the murders for nine months was set free by a jury of his peers, it would seem obvious that the real killer is still out there. He could, perhaps, strike again.

If Orenthal James Simpson is, as the jury said, not guilty on all charges, someone is guilty on those charges.

Despite the costs, it is the duty of the the Los Angeles Police Department and the Los Angeles Prosecutors Office to seek out the real killer.

Of course, that's the duty from the very beginning.

Wonderful article

Thanks very much to Vicki DeSormier for the wonderful article she wrote about the Academy of Construction Trades, Sept. 27. Experience with affirmative action

Our 35th president John F. Kennedy heralded the "New Frontier" when he took office. He indicated "Beyond that frontier are uncharted areas of science and space, unexplored problems of peace and war, unconquered pockets of ignorance and prejudice, unanswered questions of poverty and surplus." His legislative agenda called for: speeding economic growth, cutting unemployment; rehabilitation of depressed areas; reform of the tax structure; aid to farmers and education; and provision of medical care for the aged.

Our 36th president, Lyndon B. Johnson fulfilled many of the objectives of Kennedy's New Frontier. However, President Johnson dubbed his initiatives "The Great Society."

Historians attribute affirmative action to Presidents Johnson and Nixon. President Johnson in his 1965 message to the graduating class of Howard University entitled, "To fulfill these rights," expressed his views clearly desegregating schools. Providing legislation to change discriminatory laws and practices was not enough. It was imperative that access to opportunities to improve the quality of life be made available to African Americans. Johnson's Executive Order 11248 required federal contractors to practice "affirmative action in employment," but did not detail what was to be done.

It was President Richard M. Nixon who introduced employment quotas to affirmative action. In 1970, the Department of Labor, under George Schultz, issued Order No. 4 that delineated what affirmative action expected of affirmative action expected of companies with governmental contracts. They were to create goals and timelines for the increased hiring of

SEMINOLE OPINION

African Americans. A revision of Order No. 4 in 1971 extended the affirmative action umbrella to women.

The 1980s and 1970s changed the collective relationships between African Americans and the majority population with the enactment of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965. This was the first phase. The second phase signaled the entry of federal agencies and courts as the chief interpreters of affirmative action. The agencies created were the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) under Title VII and the Office of Federal Contracts and Compliance (OFCC) under Title VI.

Institutional racism in American society was and is traditional. Poverty and unemployment have been orchestrated consciously and unconsciously. African Americans have always been disproportionately at the bottom of the economic ladder, from slavery to the present. Affirmative action was viewed as a means of reversing institutional racism. Affirmative action was never universally accepted by Americans and court challenges ensued.

From my personal perspective, affirmative action was the door to access and an avenue of hope — access to education and jobs for a segment of Americans previously entitled to nothing. I did not believe it to be an unfair advantage for African Americans but rather a change in American thought and actions that included African Americans in the circle of opportunity. That persons committed to working diligently to achieve would receive positive reinforcement in the actualization of their goals and objectives.

Contrary to some opinions that unqualified African Americans were given preference over qualified majority members, that was not my experience. As a participant in the doctoral program at Pennsylvania State University I met all of the academic requirements for admission to and completion of the program. I believe that if African Americans who benefited from affirmative action programs were polled, I am certain their experiences would mirror mine. While at the Seminole Community College Library I happened to mention this to Richard Young, who shared thusly. The state of Alabama needed more African Americans in library science and grants were obtained from the federal government and the Kellogg Foundation to train minorities striving to help themselves. He was held strictly accountable for meeting all criteria for obtaining his master's degree.

My vision of affirmative action was that all facets of American citizenship conferred as a birthright or through naturalization upon the majority population, was to be shared with African Americans via affirmative action.

'Promoting Sanford' does that

The narrow escape that we almost had with not having the Fourth of July '95 fireworks convinced me that a non-profit organization was needed to promote Sanford the way that it should be promoted. Consequently, a non-profit trust was established to handle our Miss Sanford Scholarship Pageant and Fourth of July fireworks and family day.

Last year our budget fell short for the Miss Sanford Pageant and we broke even with the fireworks. For 1996, it is anticipated that the Miss Sanford Pageant will break even if the public participates in the event and the Fourth of July fireworks will be successful if enough people continue to send in their contributions. Promoting Sanford appreciates the assistance given by both the city of Sanford and Seminole County governments, and after 1996, it is anticipated that these events will not require any assistance donated by these two governments. Consequently, Promoting Sanford is arranging in 1996 for a Golf Tournament, Taste of Sanford, Civil War Re-Enactment and a Haunted House at Halloween in anticipation of raising the funds necessary to cover expenses of the two main events. Johnny Cox of Hellig-Meyers Furniture will be taking care of the golf tournament. John Olbert, Impact Media Productions, will be managing the Civil War Re-Enactment and Haunted House. We are still looking for some civic-minded individual to step forward to manage the Taste of Sanford. John Siegel of Siegel's clothing store in Lake Mary has graciously agreed to act as advisor for our Taste of Sanford, so all that is needed is for someone to step forward and volunteer.

Another way that we are raising funds for expenses is through the sale of Entertainment '96 coupon books. Last year SHDWA undertook the sale, but with the merger of SHDWA with Main Street, Main Street felt that they could not give the sale of the books the attention needed, so Promoting Sanford has taken over this fund-raiser. Each book contains hundreds of "Two-for-One" discounts for fine dining, family dining, fast food, movies, sports activities, special attractions and hotels... 50 percent savings on almost everything! The Entertainment '96 Book is now being sold by the following Sanford merchants or businesses: Kustom Krafts, Chamber of Commerce, The Antique Shop, Knight's Shoes, A Second Image, Downtown Sub Station, Hellig-Meyers Furniture, Seminole National Bank & Main Street (Program). We will be adding others as time permits, or you can call Rod Leyer, 407-322-8522 for your copy(ies). This is a fantastic deal and at the same time you will be helping to promote Sanford.

The books sell for $30 each and must have over $150,000 in discounts deals. We doubt if you will be able to use up every discount coupon between Oct. 1, 1995 and Dec. 31, 1996. So stop in at one of the merchants indicated and look over the sample book. Your merchant can sell you one right then. You will not be sorry and you will be helping a good cause. They also make wonderful Christmas gifts.

The Fourth of July fund-raiser is continuing at this time. To date, we have in hand $2,456.85 for 1996. We would like for people to continue to send in their donations to Promoting Sanford — 4th of July, PO Box 4158, Sanford, FL 32772-4158 at their convenience. The goal is to raise at least $20,000 for the fireworks and fun day event for 1996 with the fireworks being held on Wednesday, July 3, 1996 at Ft. Mellon Park starting at 9:15 p.m. The quicker that we raise the money, it will make it easier for our pyrotechnician, Randy Pritchard of Great Show Fireworks, to plan our fireworks for that night. So please keep the donations coming to help us meet our goal. To make our Fourth a terrific day, and a follow-up to the fireworks on the evening of the third, activities and events are planned at the civic center and in Ft. Mellon Park all day for both the kids and adults. So come on folks, get those check books out and write your check now while it is on your mind. Cash contributions may be dropped off at the Sanford Herald or call Rod Leyer, and we'll arrange for a pickup. Our thanks to our latest contributors, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Walker.

Miss Sanford, Meredith Miller, has been very active away from Sanford promoting our town. To date, she has participated in over 35 events letting people know what a fine town we have and how we have some of the finest antique shops in Florida. Any time that she can mention the name Sanford, she jumps at the occasion. Martha Yancey and I, as trustees, escorted Miss Sanford to the opening of the Towne Center Mall on Thursday, Sept. 21, and I was very impressed with her attention to people. After Miss Sanford took part in the ribbon-cutting ceremonies, we walked every inch of the mall. She was asked by so many people for her picture to be taken with them, and this included the general public as well as the managers and employees of the mall.

This year's Miss Sanford Scholarship Pageant is scheduled for Jan. 20, 1996 at the civic center. We promise a show that you will not forget. The new Miss Florida, Kristin Ludeckz, will be in attendance and Miss Florida 1995, Megan Welch, will emcee the pageant. Our own Miss Sanford will crown her successor. A special event is also planned for this year. We will be looking for young Miss Sanfords between the ages of 5 to 8 years young to participate in the opening ceremonies. One of these young ladies will be selected as our Junior Miss Sanford. For information, please call Martha Yancey at 323-0784. This will be the gala event for Sanford for the year. Tickets will be on sale at various merchants around Sanford starting Dec. 1. Another wonderful Christmas present for some loved one. So, for a terrific evening of fun and entertainment, mark your calendars for Jan. 20, 1996, 7 p.m.

The Marina Hotel will be one of the pageant's sponsors this coming year. Dennis Baldwin, manager, will provide accommodations for the two-day event and an evening meal on Friday for the Miss Florida Pageant judges who will be in attendance to judge our contestants. Closed interviews will be held on Friday evening, Jan. 19, 1996 for the contestants at the hotel. The public is invited to come to the hotel that evening and visit with the lovely contestants prior to their private interviews.

Anytime that we can promote the name Sanford, we feel that the Promoting Sanford organization is doing just a small part in people hearing and learning about Sanford.

Speaking of promoting Sanford, the Sanford Advertising Co-Op, headed by Sara Jacobson, has been doing TV commercials on Channel 9 which have been seen by thousands. I hear from the merchants that people come into their stores and mention that they saw the ad on TV. Terrific job, Sara, and to all of the merchants that contribute $85 to $250 a month to promote Sanford. This is what is needed to make our town the greatest there is.

Before closing this article, I must thank the Sanford Herald for being there for all of us. We never realize how much a newspaper means to a town until it is no longer there. I see a trend with the Sanford Herald getting away from the distant news and focusing more on our local area. We all rush home from work and turn on the TV for the latest news. So why duplicate it in the local newspaper. There's a lot of the local information that we don't hear on TV, so this is where our Sanford Herald comes to our enlightenment.

WRITER'S BLOCK

Let's end year round school

LAKE MARY
MARY ROWELL

Mrs. Mary Rowell left the Seminole County school board with a tough decision. Where do you put a makeup day? The original makeup day was scheduled for Oct. 12. So, for blue track, that meant they would go off track Oct. 6, be out of school Oct. 9, 10 and 11, go back to school on the 12th, then be out of school the rest of intercession.

Fortunately, enough parents pointed out the stupidity of this that the school board changed the date. The new scheduled date was not much better for blue track students. Lake Mary Elementary, for example has two blue tracks. One of those tracks has their own room. The other track roves. That means they move to a new class every three weeks. That's bad enough for fourth and fifth graders, but imagine how the younger children feel having to move every three weeks. They certainly can't learn much on moving day.

What this means for the new makeup day is that there is absolutely no place to put those roving classes because the makeup day is for all the tracks. That's 25 to 30 children at every grade level with no classroom. Needless to say, I'm not sending my children to school on the makeup day. A lot of people aren't. But there are some people who have no choice.

Well, one disruption the whole year isn't that bad you might say. But it's not just one disruption. The week that blue track comes back to school, the schedule is nothing but a pure mess. The blue track roves will be in one classroom for two days, a second classroom for one day, and a third classroom for two days. That's three moving days in one week. How much learning can possibly go on in that kind of shuffling? While I'm willing to keep my child out of school for one day, I can't keep him out for a whole week.

Does the school board care about this situation? No. Do they listen to you when you call and complain? Yes, but they don't care what you say, they just tell you you don't understand the logistics of year round school. Do the children come first in any of the planning that goes on at the school board? Obviously not.

The schools are always sending home these little helpful hints talking about how important family is for education. We know they don't believe that because all year round schools do is divide families. I know someone who has children in three different schools. They haven't been able to take a vacation since year round began.

What is it going to take for us, as parents to stand up to the school board and say we're tired of our children coming last? We need all parents to call and complain to the school board, not just the parents at the multi-track schools who are having most of the scheduling problems.

Year round school is a failed experiment that the school board is determined to hang onto because they don't want to admit that they lied when they said it would be better for the children.

The Seminole County school system has a lot of very caring teachers. All the ones I've talked to hate year round, but they're afraid to say so for fear of losing their jobs. Teacher burnout is increasing. Does the school board care about these teachers? If they did, teachers wouldn't be afraid to speak out about what they believe in.

past. I'm not disappointed with the selection this year."

Jordan Shanker of Longwood attended both festivals.

"I like to see what people are creating," she said. "I want to get some ideas for things to make, but I have bought some gifts for my friends."

She said she hoped she could afford the several hundred dollars for a stained glass bird cage she had spotted at the Lake Mary-Heathrow event.

"I want to see what I need to get here (Pioneer Days and Ways) first," she said, eyeing the balance in her checkbook.

Dan Lokey said the entertainment at the Days and Ways Festival was the draw for him.

"I love the Indian dancers and the traditional crafts," he said. "I don't want all that gits they have down there."

Traffic slowed to a crawl on Lake Mary Boulevard as the parking lot filled, but as the crowd ebbed and flowed, spaces became available and the traffic eased.

"I hated the traffic," Shaniee Kelly said of the Lake Mary event. "They gotta do something about that next year, but other than that it wasn't too bad. But I think they need to get this thing moved to a cooler time like January or February."

Mid-afternoon rain briefly soaked the festivals and increased the humidity on Saturday afternoon, but the crowds remained steady. Umbrellas used previously to keep the sun off, served the same purpose with the rain. Artists' tents served as temporary shelters.

"It's all a part of the art festival thing," Karyn Lewis said. "I love the rain. It gives me a chance to take a really close look at an artist or two."

The festivals continue on Sunday. The Lake Mary-Heathrow festival will be open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. and the Pioneer Days and Ways event will be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

County.

"Things are underway for Phase I of the operation," said Bruce Johnson, director of the Humane Society. "We hope to have the job completed by mid-January or February."

The Humane Society of Seminole County has been ravaged by much-publicized internal battles which centered around concerns that the society's focus had shifted from caring for animals to that of the concentration of the power in the board of directors.

Some supporters of the society had met in June to voice concerns that the facility had not been rebuilt since the devastating fire of April 1993 in which the entire dog kennel was destroyed, that adequate fundraising activities had not been developed and that the public was not invited to become more actively involved in the society's general meetings.

There were also complaints that the board members did not open their records to the general membership, a move those opposed to the board's activities characterized as "un-professional, unethical or uninformed."

All that is in the past, Johnson said.

"We are ready to go," he said. "We have money in hand and we've broken ground."

According to Johnson, the humane society has $500,000.

enough to complete Phase I of the project.

The first phase will provide the society with the space for just under 300 dogs and some temporary office space from which the staff can operate the facility.

There is presently some space for the cats to live until Phase 2 is completed during the next few years, Johnson declined to estimate when that phase might be complete, or even when it might begin.

Johnson said the society's dog kennel will include facilities for housing the animals as well as laundry facilities to keep the towels and blankets that are used for the animals clean.

Office space is not planned for the first phase, Johnson said, because providing space for the animals is the society's first priority.

"We'll just use the temporary office space until we have the money for the next phase," he said.

The full society plans call for three phases of construction.

The Seminole County Humane Society, unlike some other humane society facilities does not euthanize any animals. All of the dogs and cats who are brought to the society here are available for adoption. If they are not adopted, they are allowed to live out their full, natural lives at the society complex.

National Down Syndrome Month

A mother reflects on her child's Down Syndrome condition

By KATHY BYRNES
See also the front page

It was hectic and required Kary to work very hard, but well worth the time. She is now keeping up with other normal children in her pre-k class. She also does well in ballet and gymnastics. We are looking forward to her attending a regular Kindergarten this year.

My daughter is only one of the thousands of children with Down Syndrome who are striving to live normal lives in our country.

October has been named National Down Syndrome Awareness Month. It is an opportunity for us all to learn about how much people with Down Syndrome have to contribute to our society. During this month the Central Florida Down Syndrome Association will kick off an area-wide program of community awareness. It will be sending speakers to local schools to teach children about people with Down Syndrome.

Down Syndrome is a genetic condition that occurs in approximately one out of every 800 births. It is one of the most common birth defects. There have been so many advances made toward improving the quality of life for these children that mental achievement for people with Down Syndrome is on the rise. Due to early intervention, better social environment and aggressive medical care, people with Down Syndrome are leading full and independent lives.

Anyone interested in finding out more about Down Syndrome should contact the Central Florida Down Syndrome Association at 894-8401 or attend one of the meetings at St. Mary Magdalen, 861 Matland Ave., Altamonte Springs (meeting room A) on the fourth Friday of every month.

CFDSA plans celebrations

The Central Florida Down Syndrome Association (CFDSA) including chapters in Seminole, Orange, Osceola, Volusia and Lake Counties will kick off their observation of National Down Syndrome Awareness Month in October with a message of compassion and understanding aimed at area school students.

Kathy Byrnes, one of the founding members of the Central Florida Down Syndrome Association, said the condition is one of the most common of all birth defects. Children with birth defects are born to families of all ages, races and countries. While the chances of having a baby with DS increase with the mother's age, Byrnes points out that 80 percent of babies with Down Syndrome are born to women under 35.

Some common characteristics of the syndrome include heart defects, low muscle tone, upward slanting eyes and short stature.

Five years ago when Kathy and her husband David learned their daughter Karylyn had Down Syndrome, they knew of few resources to which to turn.

"Our obstetrician and pediatrician both offered the same advice — just take her home and love her," Byrnes said. "They didn't know about all the different therapies and different resources available right here in Central Florida."

Byrnes' best advice came from another mother of a child with Down Syndrome.

"There has been so much advancement in the understanding of Down Syndrome in the last twenty years that doctors often unknowingly give out dated advice," she said.

That experience led Byrnes to help form the Central Florida Down Syndrome Association, which now has more than 250 members.

"Babies with Down Syndrome need many different forms of therapy, and they need it early, literally as soon after birth as possible," she said.

Most are available through Easter Seals and private clinics. The Central Florida Down Syndrome Association serves as a clearinghouse for parents of children with Down Syndrome and works to educate both the medical community and the general public.

"When babies and their parents get help early, they can lead longer, more independent lives," Byrnes said. "It is our hope that by going into the schools we'll be able to separate the facts from the stereotypes and create a more accepting environment for all children."

The Central Florida Down Syndrome Association is affiliated with the National Down Syndrome Congress and meets monthly at St. Mary Magdalen Catholic Church in Maitland.

Anesthesiologist: patient safety has improved over last decade

By DAVID P. HARTSON, M.D.
Special to the Herald

Patients have always had questions about the safety of any medical procedure and rightly they should. It is unfortunate, however, that journalists at times tend to misrepresent facts and present only the sensational side of the story in order to attract an audience. This is particularly true when it comes to the safety during anesthesia. The facts are that the safety record for persons receiving anesthesia has improved drastically over the last ten years. A mere decade ago the mortality (meaning death) rate was stated to be 1 in 10,000. Today with the advent of new monitoring techniques that number is stated to be 1 in 250,000. This is particularly remarkable when one considers that the cases being performed in surgical suites throughout the country are considerably more difficult than they were 10 years ago. Children are younger and the elderly are more frail than candidates we would have accepted for an anesthetic in the 80s. The fact is that with modern anesthetic drugs and monitoring techniques the risk of having an anesthetic is less than the risk of driving in traffic.

The members of the American Society of Anesthesiologists, which has over 34,000 members practices with the motto of vigilance. Our state and national society has developed standards of care which greatly enhance patient safety. The insurance carrier for anesthesiologists insured through the Florida Medical Association requires our specialty to adhere to strict guidelines defining practice parameters which enhance patient safety. These guidelines must be strictly maintained by all anesthesia providers covered in order to maintain their insurance. The end result has been increased comfort and safety for our patients.

A few definitions would be in order to promote understanding of our medical specialty. An anesthesiologist is a physician (either an MD or a DO). This means that physicians had undergraduate training at a college or university plus four years of medical school training. In addition, this person has had a year of general medical training followed by three years of anesthesiology specialty training. During this time the resident physician is exposed to literally hundreds of different cases of all types and all ages of patients. Also, subspecialty training and certification in the areas of pediatric, cardiothoracic and pain medicine are additionally available. Certified registered nurse anesthetists (CRNA) is the professional title given to registered nurses who, in addition to their nursing degree, have an extra two years of anesthesia training. Many CRNAs come from critical care background areas such as intensive care units, cardiac care units or recovery rooms before going on to CRNA training and certification.

The Florida Hospital system employs the "anesthesia care team" mode of practice. This means there are anesthesiologists providing anesthesia services to numerous patients and there are also teams of certified registered nurse anesthetists which are practicing under the medical direction of an anesthesiologist. We believe that this team approach gives us the greatest flexibility to meet the needs of our patients. It allows for "extra hand" at the beginning of cases and at times when difficulty may occur. It permits the supervising anesthesiologists to be available for emergencies which may occur in the recovery area or emergency room. It should be emphasized that a nurse or physician trained in the administration of anesthesia is always in attendance of a patient. This means that the trained anesthesiologist specialist will not leave the room where the surgical procedure is taking place, rather they are in attendance throughout the procedure until the patient is handed over to the care of the recovery personnel. We never administer an anesthetic and then leave the patient unattended.

The combination of a high standard of vigilance, technical improvement in equipment and continuing research into the pharmacology of anesthetic agents has resulted in drastic reduction in morbidity (illness) and mortality (fatality) from anesthetic administration. Approximately 25 million anesthetics are administered in the United States each year. As previously stated, the estimate is that mortality is now less than 1 in 250,000 anesthetics. The drastic decrease from 1 in 10,000 a decade ago should give confidence to the public that we have their best interests at heart and are working hard to continually improve our record.

Dr. Hartson is an anesthesiologist with Florida Hospital and is a member of the Seminole County Medical Society.

Southern Bell's new name; does it 'ring' true?

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Southern Bell is now officially BellSouth. The change became effective this past Tuesday. Changing all logos and signs however, will be a gigantic task according to BellSouth official Larry Strickler.

For example, BellSouth has over 6,000 vans, trucks and other vehicles in Florida, the majority of which have the company logo.

The company also has 15,000 pay phone enclosures in the state plus 5,000 buildings.

Locally, Strickler has determined the work required just in Sanford and northern Seminole County.

Sanford has 70 vehicles which will require logo changes. Additionally, there are 90 employees, many of which will be getting new uniforms with the BellSouth logo. All BellSouth technicians will wear uniforms, "instead of showing up with blue jeans with holes in the knee or scraggly T-shirts," said Jero Drummond, the company's president and chief executive officer. Strickler said there are 90 employees in the Sanford area who may be involved.

Districtwide, the 27,000 uniformed employees will have a choice of styles, ranging from tailored shirts and slacks to golf shirts and walking shorts, to be comfortable from the Kentucky mountains to Miami Beach, Drummond said. "And of course, the BellSouth logo will be all over everything."

Strickler said there are eight buildings in the Sanford area which will have their logos changed.

The Sanford area has 98,700 access lines as well.

All letterhead stationery will require changes, including the bills which are mailed out and city directories, of which there are 114,646 in Sanford.

Gradually, all of these will be changed.

Strickler gave some of the company's history in Sanford. "Southern Bell purchased the Sanford Telephone Company in 1915," he said. "At that time there were more telephone lines in Sanford than in Orlando, because Sanford was then the center of commerce in Central Florida."

On the national level, Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company was founded in Atlanta in 1879. It opened for business in 11 cities in January of 1880 and by the end of the year, it had 1,653 telephones with 1,200 miles of wire connecting them.

On July 1, 1968, Southern Bell split into two separate companies. The Southern Bell region included North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, while South Central Bell covered Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Drummond said the official change of names is in keeping with the company seeking brand name recognition and customer loyalty in a new age of competition.

"We want to be the one-stop shop" for local and long distance telephone service and for cable television, entertainment, including interactive TV and movies on demand," he said.

It's "a symbol that we're moving away from the regulated monopoly to a competitive, customer-focused company," Drummond added.

The companies are adopting the name of their parent, Atlanta-based BellSouth Corporation to operate in nine Southern states.

In some places, the change will be immediate.

Birmingham's new phone directories come out Tuesday with the BellSouth logo. New Orleans will get a BellSouth book in a couple of weeks. October phone bills also will carry the new logo.

In Miami, the state headquarters for Southern Bell in Florida invited its local employees to a Tuesday afternoon name-change celebration, complete with cake, ice cream and balloons, at a regional mall.

Changing signs on 2,576 buildings, 26,000 vehicles and 181,351 pay phones will take a little longer — perhaps six months. Most vehicles in major markets will sport the new name Tuesday.

Drummond declined to discuss the cost of the name change, saying it was part of a series of changes in the company.

"We're much more customer focused," he said. "We've reorganized the entire company around customer segments, such as small businesses."

Larry Strickler

Drummond said he hopes legislation allowing BellSouth to enter the long distance telephone service field will pass Congress this fall.

"That," he said, "is what we're working toward."

A Texas touch reopens

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — During the later part of September, potential customers heading to Long Horn Steakhouse at 3700 Lake Emma Road in Lake Mary, were often surprised to find it was closed for refurbishing. Effective this past weekend, it was open once again and now boasts of many improvements, including the addition of 10 new items on the menu.

The newly renovated restaurant displayed its Texas roots proudly on Sept. 28, as the new look emerged. Company President Richard E. Rivera has refined the menu and the look of the restaurant as he and his executive team aim for a broader customer base and a more polished look that retains the distinctiveness of the original Long Horn.

The new look is evident in the restaurant with an updated version of the Texas steakhouse interior, including subtle changes such as adding new lighting, decor, treatments, and finishes which brighten and open up the restaurant.

There has also been a subtle change in the restaurant's name. Rather than being "Long Horn Steaks," the official name is now "Long Horn Steakhouse."

The steakhouse concept that George Meyerowich introduced is very strong, Rivera said. By adding another dash of Texas to the original recipe, we have more to offer our guests the way of fun, food and atmosphere.

The first Long Horn opened in Atlanta in August of 1981. Since that time, the company has created a total of 16 Long Horn Steakhouses in Florida and 67 others in nine additional states.

At the Lake Mary facility, Fab Duran is the general manager.

The restaurant is open seven days a week. For information, phone 414-3001.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Consumers dissatisfied with banks

SAN FRANCISCO — Rising fees, bad service and inflexible rules are infuriating bank customers nationwide, says a study released today.

In its first-ever survey of consumer attitudes, the American Bankers Association, a Washington trade organization, found that customers don't think banks care about their needs or adequately serve their communities.

Nearly half the people surveyed don't think banking is an honorable profession. The results alarmed bankers attending the ABA's annual convention in San Francisco this weekend.

"Why doesn't anyone like us?" Thomas G. Strohm, chairman of the group's communication council, said in a convention speech.

The ABA survey, conducted by the Gallup Organization of Princeton, N.J., provided an ample response, Strohm told bankers.

Consumers think "banks put profits above performance and customer service," he said.

The survey found that:

- Forty-nine percent of consumers surveyed said bank fees are inappropriate and most of them believe they already pay too much for services.

- One in five customers have changed banks recently. The No. 1 reason was poor customer service, followed closely by fees and interest rates.

- Forty-one percent of those surveyed said applying for loans is difficult and 60 percent said that bankers don't do a good job of explaining services.

- Three out of four consumers said they still preferred to do banking in person, instead of electronically, which costs banks less money.

- About 70 percent said bankers don't care about the communities they serve.

The Gallup Organization surveyed 1,000 consumers in September and October 1994. The margin of error was plus or minus 3 percentage points.

Pope celebrates farewell mass

NEW YORK — Central Park was transformed into a giant open-air cathedral Saturday as Pope John Paul II celebrated Mass before a flock of 130,000, urging Americans to stand up for family life and side with the homeless, the disabled and people with AIDS.

"Do not be afraid to search for God. Then it will truly be the land of the free and the home of the brave," the pope said at the end of the service. "God bless America."

The celebration was the pope's farewell Mass in the New York region during his five-day U.S. trip, and the city the pontiff describes as "God's playground" did not disappoint.

A gold carpet in the shape of a cross stretched across the Great Lawn, while performers such as Natalie Cole, Roberta Flack and the Boys Choir of Harlem were among the performers who filled the park with sacred music in the muted light of a cloudy October morning. The tenor Placido Domingo sang at Communion.

Even though the pope appeared no more than a speck for many, his mere presence was enough for the faithful.

complaints against officers and we follow that procedure."

Whitmire could not comment specifically on internal investigations currently underway. The local department requested Altamonte Springs police department to investigate a complaint from a woman injured during a domestic violence arrest.

The chief of police may enlist the assistance of other law enforcement agencies to investigate use of force incidents as necessary, under the department policy.

"That's why we went to Altamonte Springs in this particular case," Whitmire added.

A complaint was made by a woman injured during an investigation of a domestic violence complaint. The woman is African-American, the officer is white.

Russell will not discuss specific cases during the meeting with the civil rights group but will explain what information is required and the procedures used to investigate citizen complaints.

The new NAACP president and executive board have met with Russell and share a common goal.

"We want to provide fair law enforcement to everybody, regardless of race or sex," Whitmire said.

Under department policy, uses of non-deadly force are investigated by appropriate supervisory or command level police personnel which may include the criminal investigations division commander, Whitmire said.

"Investigation are initiated when complaints are alleged in writing by citizens against officers or there is blatant deviation from the use of force policy," Whitmire said.

Pickets, television coverage and news stories of the woman's complaint about her arrest have prompted the outside investigation as prescribed in the department policy.

Activist Johnell Jackson picketed the police station following the domestic violence case. A woman was injured when a policeman attempted to restrain her. The woman was told to stand away while police questioned the man involved in the disturbance. According to the arrest report, the woman went toward the man after being warned. An officer attempted to guide her away but the two fell to the ground. The woman was injured.

Jackson said the picket signs calling for the FBI to investigate a situation is called advertising. He recalled picketing on New York Avenue in DeLand with the FBI listed on the sign.

"The next day I got a call from the FBI, and when I asked why they were calling, they said you advertised us," he said. "Advertising gives them the authority (to investigate)."

"I'm advertising (for the FBI) because there are some things in the Sanford police department that have affected me," Jackson explained.

An earlier request for an investigation filed by Jackson involving an altercation over a code violation was turned down.

"I have my letter from the Department of Justice. It is just a pre-printed letter saying they didn't have enough evidence at this time to warrant an investigation," Jackson said. "More people in this community are fed up with the way the Sanford police department is operating, the methods of operation and based on some of the arrest reports I have compared to court documents...the arrests, there were no information filed which means there were a lot of bad arrests. I'm doing a survey but right now, I'm not worried about that."

"I'm worried about mostly the harassment and the lack of due process they give people, to include myself, when they go down there to file a complaint. They don't allow you to do these things through their internal affairs investigations like they should," he commented.

Jackson said the picketing was meant to draw the attention of another agency to come in an investigate.

"I went to the FDLE (Florida Department of Law Enforcement) and they said, 'They don't police, police' so where do you go from there? Who do?"

In another recent case, a Deltona man arrested for making a threat against a public servant attempted to file a complaint against the arresting officer. Both are African-American. The man would not provide information required by the police, Whitmire said.

It is a place where people can either show off their cars, or simply check out some of the area's custom and collectible cars. A typical show has over 150 cars, and although most of them are of the classic and collectible variety, there are usually plenty of newer, modified, and "mega-stereoed" cars present. So, there's something for just about everyone. In addition, a band is usually present, so you can enjoy live music while you enjoy the car show.

At the most recent show (Sept. 30), there were plenty of classic cars on display. Among them was a 1966 Thunderbird, owned by John Rio. He had done much restoration work on this car, and his advice to anyone wishing to undertake a restoration project is to stick to using original quality parts. You can save money initially on a cheaper part, but it may not last nearly as long as a quality part.

Another classic on display was a 1963 F85 Cutlass with a 4-speed, owned by David Wight of Altamonte Springs. He has done extensive bodywork on this vehicle, transforming it from a rust-bucket to a showroom-quality car, and he had photos that showed his progress each step of the way. One bodywork tip he offers is to use bead-blasting, instead of sand-blasting, to remove rust, because bead-blasting is less likely to warp body panels. When filling holes in body panels, he suggests a process called "leading" (as in the metal, lead), instead of using bondo or putty, because the lead is much less likely to crack.

If modified cars are more your thing, then you'd appreciate the 1948 chop-top Ford, owned by Hugh and Diane Shaw, on display. This car has been shaved (all outside door handles removed), nosed (chrome removed from the hood), and decked (chrome removed from the rear). With the door handles removed, you may wonder how they get into the car. The answer is by remote control. For comfort, seats from a Ford Tempo were installed, and air-conditioning has been added. And for convenience, they installed power brakes and power steering.

If you enjoy sports cars, then you would have not been disappointed. Several members of the Corvette Club of Orlando showed up with Corvettes from the 50s through the 90s. Peggy Caccavale of DeBary had an impressive Burgundy 1981 model on display. She keeps the engine bay as well as the rest of the car, exquisitely detailed. She said that cleanliness is the most important thing in car shows, and that in shows where the cars are judged, points are taken off for any dirt or paint over-spray. Therefore, everything under the hood has to be painted by hand.

Jay Peterson of Orlando brought his 1987 Mustang GT to the show. This car has an elaborate CD-based stereo system with several amplifiers and subwoofers, as well as custom interior neon lighting. He said that when wiring electronic equipment directly from the battery, it is very important to fuse these wires right where they connect to the battery. Forgetting to install a fuse is a common mistake that people make, but it is also a fire hazard. Another common mistake that people make when installing amplifiers (which are typically mounted in the back of the car) is running the amplifier power cables and RCA-signal cables next to each other. This can add noise to the music, so the best way to run the wires is to run the power cables along one side of the car (usually the driver's side), and the RCA-signal cables along the other side of the car.

Other sports cars present included a 1966 Jaguar E-type, a 1981 candy-apple-blue Corvette with an 1100 horsepower blown engine, a Cobra kit, and several classic Mustangs.

Of course, these are just a few of the cars that were on display. Many of these cars will probably return at next month's show. If you would love to show off your custom car, or if you just love cars, then you owe it to yourself to check it out.

730 Days Of Getting The Job Done.

730 Days Of Sharing.

730 Days Of Living.

When does two years mean more than just 730 days?
When each day is viewed as a miracle.

In the two years since the Central Florida Heart Center at Central Florida Regional Hospital opened its doors, miracles have occurred daily.

Open Heart Surgery. Cardiac Catheterization. Cardiac Rehabilitation. Cardiac Diagnostic Services. Angioplasty. These are all miracles of science that occur daily at the Central Florida Heart Center. But even more important are the miracles of everyday life. Like watching a child's eyes light up at the discovery of a new book or feeling pride in a job well done. Because without the miracles of science being performed daily at the Central Florida Heart Center, many would not be able to experience the everyday miracles of life.

COME HELP US CELEBRATE TWO YEARS OF MIRACLES.

Come see where miracles of science help to promote the miracles of life.

Panthers drop opener

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — The Stanley Cup champion New Jersey Devils opened the season in playoff form, getting two goals from John MacLean and a shutout from Martin Brodeur in a 4-0 win over the Florida Panthers.

The performance was a typical Devils' team effort as they scored twice in a 29-second span of the first period and then frustrated the young Panthers on both ends of the ice in spilling the NHL head coaching debut Doug MacLean.

Only a spectacular job in goal by Florida's John Vanbiesbrouck kept the score from being more lopsided. He made 28 saves, including at least five on excellent scoring opportunities.

Brodeur, who didn't play in the preseason because of contract negotiations that extended into last weekend, had 17 saves, just seven over the final 40 minutes.

Gators bite LSU

BATON ROUGE, LA — Fred Taylor ran for touchdowns on his only two carries and No. 3 Florida shook off a slow start to beat No. 21 LSU 28-10 on Saturday.

Florida's misfiring fun-and-gun offense, averaging 544 yards and 44 points a game, was held to 28 points for the second straight week, but it was enough for the Gators (5-0, 4-0 SEC) to remain the only undefeated team in the Southeastern Conference.

Florida, which had just 321 yards total offense, did most of its damage with three rushing touchdowns in a span of 5:05 to build a 21-0 lead early in the second quarter.

LSU (3-2-1, 2-1-1), which hadn't lost since the season opener at Texas A&M, lost to Florida for the eighth straight time.

FAMU improves to 5-1

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Kwame Vidal rushed for two touchdowns as Florida A&M dominated North Carolina A&T in a 20-3 victory.

Vidal finished with 86 yards for the Rattlers (5-1, 2-0 Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference). He scored on a 6-yard run late in the first quarter and an 11-yard rush at the nine-minute mark of the second quarter.

The second touchdown came after a punt struck an A&T player and was recovered by Boris Jackson at the A&T 33. Four plays and 33 yards later, Vidal had his touchdown.

The Aggies (2-3, 0-1 MEAC) could only muster 255 yards on offense, and stopped themselves with nine penalties for 77 yards and four turnovers.

Luther Leak kicked a 30-yard field goal with five minutes left before the half to help A&T avert the shutout.

Suns-Cavs make big trade

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. — The Phoenix Suns traded three-time All-Star Dan Majerle, second-year forward Antonio Lang and a first-round draft choice to Cleveland on Saturday for center John "Hot Rod" Williams.

The Suns said the Cavaliers could exercise the draft choice any time over the next three years.

Lake Mary boys earn tie for SAC volleyball crown

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary clinched a tie in the Seminole Athletic Conference Friday with a 15-13, 9-15, 15-7 win over Lake Howell. The Rams are now 16-1 overall and 8-0 in the SAC, while the Silverhawks are 5-3 in the conference.

"This was a classic Lake Mary vs. Lake Howell match," said Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen. "Everybody played well, and our team showed tremendous character. I give all the credit in the works to Lake Howell. It was pleasing to beat them because they came to play."

Before the match, the Rams lost a key starter from the roster. Whalen would not specify which player or the reason for the loss, but emphasized the play of Adam Sewell. Sewell filled the hole with 13 service points and 29 assists in his first varsity start to lead Lake Mary.

"We stress team work," Whalen said. "We are a program, and playing together as a team is what has made us great in the past. We lost a player before this match, and Adam did a good job stepping in."

Sewell gave Lake Mary a 3-1 lead in game one before Lake Howell took a short-lived 8-7 lead. Devin Hale, Darrel Dilmore, Erik Larsen and Sewell then combined for seven service points to close out the game. The first game featured ties of 8-8, 9-9 and 13-13.

The Silver Hawks took a 3-0 lead to start game two, but Lake Mary rallied to knot the score 3-3. Lake Howell reassumed a 7-5 advantage and Randy Cook ran off seven service points to push the lead to 14-5. Hale, Dilmore and Jeremy Dilmore helped the Rams close to within 14-9 but the Silver Hawks closed out the game.

"That changed the momentum of the match because we outscored them 4-1 at the end of game two," Whalen said. "We got into a groove at that point."

Sewell served Lake Mary to a 4-0 lead in game three, and Jeremy Dilmore, Adam Messier and Hale pushed the Rams lead to 8-4. Lake Howell closed to within 8-7 before Larsen, Sewell and Hale combined for seven service points. Sewell had nine service points in game three.

Darrel Dilmore had 14 blocks and 10 kills for Lake Mary, while Hawkins added 10 blocks and five kills. Larsen had eight blocks and seven kills for the Rams; Hale had six kills and two blocks; Jeremy Dilmore had five blocks and four kills; and Sean Whitman had two kills.

"Darrel was a tremendous force in the middle," Whalen said. "He and Jason really dominated at the net. You can't ask for more than what they gave us. Everybody played well for us."

Seminole, 4-2 in the SAC, could still tie Lake Mary for the title. The Tribe has four SAC matches left to play. Seminole hosts Lake Howell Monday then plays at Lake Brantley, at Oviedo and closes its SAC schedule at Lake Mary.

Rick Liefander (No. 24, white) runs for his life as Lake Mary defensive end Richard Badger pursues the Lake Howell quarterback during the Rams' 19-18 SAC, 6A-District 4 upset of the Silver Hawks Friday night.

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary Rams gave the Lake Howell Silver Hawks something that they hadn't received yet this season; a loss.

The Rams (5-1) edged the Silver Hawks (4-1) 19-18 in a Seminole Athletic Conference and 5-A District 4 football contest at Don T. Reynolds Stadium Friday night. With the victory, the Rams move into second place in the District standings behind Lake Brantley.

"I told the guys at the beginning of the season that something magical was going to happen to us, and, I really think it happened tonight."

Seminole back in hunt for playoffs

ST. CLOUD — Dismissed as too young after a 1-4 start, the 1995-96 Seminole High School football team may have come of age Friday night with a gutsy 14-13 win over the host St. Cloud Bulldogs in a 5A-District 6 contest.

The win keeps the Tribe (2-4, 1-2 in the district) in the hunt for a postseason berth. St. Cloud drops to 3-2 overall, 1-1 in the district.

"We needed this one, big-time," said Seminole coach Ernie McPherson. "We needed this to boost our confidence. We've been telling the guys that they can do the job if they just hang together and play as a team. And that's what they did tonight."

"The guys never gave up tonight. I'm very proud of them."

Tied 7-7 after three quarters, Seminole took its first lead midway through the fourth quarter.

Starting from the St. Cloud 39-yard line following a shanked punt, Seminole needed just three plays to score. Tim Raines Jr. did most of the work, sprinting to the Bulldog 2-yard line. Terrell Jackson then attempted a pair of quarterback keepers, scoring on the second one.

Joe Battista's point after put the Tribe up 14-7 with less than seven minutes to play.

"I'm just glad to be able to contribute to the varsity team as an underclassman," said

Lake Brantley running back Dell McGee high steps his way around the Lyman defense as he helped the Patriots improve to 5-0 overall and 3-0 in the SAC with a 21-7 victory over the Greyhounds Friday night.

Unbeaten Lake Brantley goes to 5-0

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Brian Gonzales rushed for 169 yards and two touchdowns to lead Class 6A No. 8 Lake Brantley to a hard fought 21-7 victory over Lyman Friday at Tom Storey Field.

"Lyman has been in every football game this year," said Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon. "They are a tough football team, and they gave us all we wanted. We sputtered a little bit offensively, and I told our kids not to go to sleep in this game. We didn't expect them to be as tough as they were."

Lake Brantley scored on its second drive of the game. The Patriots drove 73 yards in 5 plays, and Gonzales capped the effort with a 1-yard touchdown run with 2:15 left in the first quarter. The point-after attempt by John Berardi was no good because of a bad snap, and Lake Brantley led 6-0.

Lake Brantley squandered a scoring opportunity on its next drive when John Berardi missed a 44-yard field goal. Berardi's attempt was hurt by a 5-yard illegal motion penalty when the Patriot field goal team lined up the first time. The Lake Brantley defense responded by sacking Lyman quarterback Ryan Aring for an 11-yard loss on third-and-5 to force a punt.

The 15-yard punt by Lyman's Kyle Johnson gave Lake Brantley the ball at the Greyhound 35-yard line. Dee Brown capped the six play drive with a four yard

Caravan headed to Tampa to watch Sanford's native son

By FRED GOBALL
AP Sports Writer

TAMPA — Jeff Blake sounded weary, almost bored, until the line of questioning shifted to what will be a homecoming of sorts for him when his Cincinnati Bengals face the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Family and friends will make the two-hour drive across Interstate 4 from his hometown of Sanford for Sunday's game, taking advantage of a long-awaited opportunity to see him play in person instead of on television.

"They started getting their tickets before the season," the Bengals quarterback said by telephone this week. "They wanted good seats. They didn't want to sit in the end zones."

He's not sure how large his personal rooting section will be, but it's hard to imagine the supporters catching him at a point when he's playing any better.

Blake leads the NFL in touchdown passes-to-interceptions ratio, tops the AFC in passing yards and is second in the conference in passing efficiency behind Dan Marino.

The Bengals are 2-3 after finishing 3-13 each of the past two seasons, and Blake's last start (103-for-188, 1,339 yards, 11 TDs, one interception) is one of the main reasons. The offense is averaging 368.4 yards per game, sixth in the league, and features three receivers on pace for 1,000-yard seasons.

Even though he's coming off throwing for a season-low 201 yards against Miami, his three-TD, no-interception performance was almost good enough to knock off the unbeaten Dolphins, who escaped with a 26-23 victory when Doug Feltrey missed a 45-yard field goal in the closing seconds.

"I've just been blessed, go out each week and play football," the fourth-year pro said, playing down his success while looking ahead to Tampa Bay (3-2), which is off to its best start since 1992.

"There's no pressure on me at all. I'm not forcing the ball. I'm talking what defenses give me ... not expecting to go out and do miracles. I just want stay consistent and have fun."

As the coach of young Trent Dilfer, Tampa Bay's second-year quarterback, Sam Wyche appreciates what Blake has accomplished in a relatively short period of time.

A sixth-round draft pick in 1992, Blake appeared in just three games in two years with the New York Jets. He was released before last season, signed with Cincinnati and wound up starting nine games after getting an opportunity because of injuries to David Klingler and Don Hollas.

Last Tuesday, the 24-year-old quarterback who would have been a free agent after this season was rewarded with a contract extension worth an estimated $3.1 million per year through 1998.

"It's unusual to have a guy rise (so) fast," said Wyche, who coached the Bengals from 1984-91 and is facing his former team for the first time in a regular-season game. "But he's got his chance, and I think a lot of it is just a matchup of the players. He's got the kind of receivers that can go get that long ball, box out the defender and make the catch."

Wide receivers Carl Pickens (34 receptions, 423 yards) and Darnay Scott (16-330) and tight end Tony McGet (22-357) all rank among the top 10 in the AFC in receiving yards. Pickens leads the conference with seven touchdowns and has caught at least one TD pass in 10 consecutive games.

Tampa Bay's secondary, playing without injured free safety Thomas Everett, will be tested.

"They throw the deep ball better than most teams do, in fact probably as well as anybody does," said Wyche, adding it would be a mistake to read much into Tampa Bay's 31-7 domination of the Bengals in an exhibition game two months ago.

"They are so much better than when we played them in the preseason," the coach said.

"They are a scary offense because they can score so quick. ... And now, their defense has started to show signs of being very, very good. They have good players. It's just taken some time to come together."

Statistics don't support Wyche's assessment of the defense.

The Bengals, who have lost three straight after starting 2-0, are last in the NFL in pass defense and also are allowing a league-high 406.4 yards per game overall.

Tampa Bay fans hope that bodes well for the Bucs' sputtering offense, which is 28th (276.2 yards) among 30 teams.

John Booty, who had a key interception last week when he replaced Everett after the leader of the secondary sprained his left knee against Carolina, will start against Cincinnati.

Meanwhile, the offense will get Dilfer back. He missed the second half of the team's 20-13 victory over the Panthers with a mild concussion.

"A lot of guys in this league suffer concussions, get through them and get better the next week," the Bucs quarterback said. "That's what I've got to do."

Rams

Lake Mary coach Doug Peters said. "A game like this is really a pivotal part of the season, no matter how it turns out."

The turning point for the Rams came with under 3:00 left in the game and the Rams trailing 18-13. Donnie Casey managed to swipe the football from a stunned Lake Howell running back and scamper 24-yards into the endzone giving Lake Mary a 19-18 lead with 2:42 left in the game.

"I just had a hold on him and was able to reach in and grab the ball away from him," Casey said. "I can't take all of the credit, though, this was a total team effort. We really pulled together tonight and played like crazy, we played awesome."

With the Rams' leading rusher, Reolon Jupp, sitting out with a stretched tendon in his knee, the bulk of the Rams' rushing duties fell on Casey, who, except for a fumble, which led to a Lake Howell touchdown in the first half, performed flawlessly. Casey led all rushers with 158-yards on 23 carries and accounted for all but one of Lake Mary's points with two rushing touchdowns and the winning touchdown on defense. Chad Kessler added the other Lake Mary point on an extra point kick following a Casey touchdown.

Lake Howell scored 12 points in the first quarter on one-yard rushes by Rick Lieflander and Lucious Cooper. The final Silver Hawk touchdown came in the third quarter on a 27-yard rush by Cooper.

Lake Mary's defensive played superb holding the previously unbeaten Lake Howell offense to 13-passing yards and 172-rushing yards. The defense also pressured Lieflander throughout the night allowing him to complete only two passes and also caused an interception. The Ram defense held its ground on third down situations, as well, forcing the Silver Hawks to punt three times.

"It really could have gone either way tonight because Lake Howell is such a tough team," Peters said. "I really think now we have the momentum going into the second part of the season."

The Rams will be off next week and will travel to Orlando to play Edgewater in two weeks. The Silver Hawks will host DeLand next Friday night. Gametime is set for 7:30.

Tribe

Raines, who also provided a very Tim Raines Sr.-like 40-yard kickoff return in the second quarter that started the Tribe on the way to their first touchdown.

St. Cloud came back with a nine-play drive, Chad Smith lofting a 6-yard pass that Jimmy Dietrich snared in the left corner of the end zone with 3:24 on the clock.

The snap on the point-after skipped by holder Todd Kozloeky, who managed to corral the elusive bladder (the two teams combined for 12 fumbles) and get off a pass that was dropped in the end zone.

A botched onside kick allowed Seminole to keep the ball near midfield, offensively and defensively, until the clock ran out.

"This is the second half," said McPherson, referring to his team's final five games. "It's a whole new season as far as we're concerned. If we can win the rest of our games, we've got a shot at making the playoffs. We're not out of this thing by a long shot."

"We played without three starters tonight. Two of them were dismissed from the team for disciplinary reasons. The other, our All-American candidate, line backer Ron Moore, had to miss the game for other reasons. But the rest of the team stepped up and did the job."

Especially 5-foot-3 Phillip Eubanks and 6-foot-2 Chris Youmans, who were thrust into the midst of the Seminole defensive scheme because of the personnel moves.

Eubanks spent most of the night chasing

St. Cloud running back Jon Grey (who had a game-high 115 yards on 19 carries), prompting the stadium public address announcer to say, "Eubanks on the tackle . . . again." Meanwhile, Youmans and Reggie Holloway were harassing Smith into a 6-for-11 passing night.

"Everyone had to step it up tonight," said Eubanks. "We had a couple of players out. We missed those guys, but we're not just one or two players, we're a team. Tonight, we played like a team and we showed ourselves what we can accomplish if we play as a team."

"We're not out of this (the district race) yet. We're going to get back into this."

Running 24 offensive plays in the first half to Seminole's 11, St. Cloud went up 7-0 when Smith connected with Sheddric Williams on a 14-yard touchdown pass play at 5:32 of the second quarter. Robbie Keels kicked the extra point.

Keels' kickoff went right to Raines, who took the ball on the hop at the 5-yard line and wove his way back and forth through teammates and Bulldogs until his was finally pulled down at the St. Cloud 46-yard line.

Four plays later, D.D. Hampton bulled 17 yards through the heart of the St. Cloud defense for a touchdown. Battista added the extra point.

Raines finished with 68 yards rushing on five carries (all in the second half). Hampton, who gained 37 yards on three carries in the first half before suffering a slight injury, was limited to two yards on three carries in the second half.

After a week off, Seminole returns to home Thomas E. Whigham Stadium on Friday, Oct. 20, for another 5A-District 6 game against Satellite. St. Cloud is scheduled to play at home against Mount Dora this Friday, Oct. 13.

run to put the Patriots ahead 12-0 with 1:31 left in the first half. Dell McGee then added the two point conversion and Lake Brantley took a 14-0 lead into the locker room.

Both defenses stifled their opponent's opening drives of the second half. Johnson sacked Brown on fourth-and-2 to end Lake Brantley's first possession of the half. The Greyhounds 30 yards in 12 plays before Brown intercepted Lyman quarterback Freddie Young at the goal line to end the threat. Lyman's defense then set up its only score of the game by forcing a Lake Brantley punt.

Skip Clayton's 27-yard punt gave Lyman the ball at the Patriots 40-yard line. Two plays later, Young found Joey Gause in the endzone with 11:52 remaining to pull the Greyhounds to within 14-7. Lyman then attempted an onside kick, but the ball was fielded cleanly by Lake Brantley's Matt Mazefsky at the Lyman 49.

"We work on onside kicks every week," said Lyman coach Larry Baker. "We had just scored and we thought we had a little momentum. Sometimes, you have to take some chances and we almost had it. Our defense played very well. We had some defensive schemes that we tried, and we had nothing to lose. I'm very proud of our entire team."

Lyman later recovered a Brown fumble at its own 46, but Lake Brantley forced a punt. Gonzalez gained 74 yards on the first play of the Patriots next drive, and scored on a 10-yard run one play later. Berardi's extra point closed out the scoring with 2:21 left in the game.

The Patriots improved to 5-0 overall and 3-0 in the Seminole

Club season opens; love is in the air

Autumn was in the air as the Sanford Woman's Club opened the fall season Wednesday. Arrangements of fall flowers and other fall accents decorated the quaint clubhouse.

Sanford attorney Mack Cleveland Jr., a Sanford lawyer for 44 years who was also a state representative and later state senator from 1952-1967, installed the following department chairmen: Martha Yancey, arts; Pat Foster, education; Betty Halback, home life; and Rose Jacobson, public affairs.

President DeLores Lash presided over the business meeting and heard routine reports.

Faye Sider, second vice president, introduced three new members: Edith McNeill, Mae Paulson and Alice Potter who will be inducted at the November meeting.

Viola Frank announced that club members will man Gate 2 at the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts Oct. 8. The festival committee will provide a $1,000 scholarship to a 1996 graduate of Seminole High School in the club's name.

The Bridge Social will be held Oct. 11 at the home of Rose Jacobson. Those who are planning to attend are asked to please call Rose.

Ruth Gaines, sponsor of the Sanford Junior Woman's Club, reported on the Juniors and mentioned the Juniors made a $100 contribution to the senior club toward maintenance. It was announced that the Juniors are also in charge of keeping the grounds.

Beth Abbruzzo read a recommendation from the board of managers to the membership to disband the club's Long Range Planning Committee which won a majority vote.

The president awarded her Sharing and Caring award to Isabel Wilson for all her endeavors. Isabel is chairman of the telephone committee and supports all club functions.

The president announced that the club won a ribbon for its scrapbook at the state convention in the spring. The book was compiled by Mary Tillis.

Pat Foster, chairman of Oktoberfest, told the members about the forthcoming event on Oct. 20. Tickets, at $10 each, are available from any club member.

Oct. 5 was Rose Jacobson's 82nd birthday. In celebration, her daughter, Sara, surprised her mom by showing up at the club bearing lovely words and a huge birthday cake with 82 candles — more than enough for the luncheon dessert.

Following lunch, the public affairs department was in charge

Kids with pioneer spirit

They churned their own butter, they built their own cabins and the children had to do chores after school! That's a few of the things that the students from Lake Mary Elementary learned Monday when they visited the Pioneer Art Settlement in Barberville.

One of the coolest parts of the trip, according to some of the students, was riding in a bus with a bathroom. A lot of the students thought that was neat, even if the smell wasn't quite what they were used to.

The settlement itself was an eye-opening experience for adults and children alike. A couple of chaperones were overheard saying they'd never have made it in pioneer days. Among the things the children saw was the post and beam barn built in 1986, the way barns were built in the 1800s. The timber was all hand cut, no nails were used and no electric tools were used. The boards were put in place using ropes and pulleys.

The animals were a very popular attraction. The children were allowed to pet and feed the horse, donkey and sheep.

The cabin they visited was built in the 1800s in Georgia. The settlement bought the cabin and moved it to Florida. A two-room cabin with a loft, it was owned by a couple with 11 children. The mind boggles at the thought of that many people in a two-room cabin. One mom said she had enough trouble with three kids in a minivan. It was at the cabin where children

Antiques, stories shared

LONGWOOD — The Longwood Civic League Women's Club celebrated their October meeting by sharing some interesting antiques with the group. Carolyn Bistline brought two quilts. The first was a gift to her from her mother-in-law which was signed by the ladies who made the quilt and dated 1878, one of the names on the quilt is Eliza Atwater. The other quilt is one made for Carolyn by her mother when Carolyn was a little girl. It is very unusual for its time, made completely of silk pieces and bound by satin. The neighbors who happened to stop by while the quilt was being made and helped to make it put their initials on the quilt in different squares, and Carolyn put her name on the quilt in little girl stitches.

Florence Wagner brought in several interesting pieces including an "insulator" from the old telephone poles, this particular one is the petticoat design of blue green color. Other insulators come in different designs and colors, the most familiar being the amber color. A beautiful hat pin holder which looked like a precious small vase designed with a flora bouquet, until closer inspection revealed the tiny holes in the top to hold the hat pins, was presented. A hair receiver and matching powder dish with lid made of celluloid of that dull yellow gold color was explained, there was much discussion as to why the hair was kept and whether it was for disposal later or to make something from the discarded hair and both scenarios turned out to be true for different times. A buttonhook was presented and a stocking darning which looked like a black egg attached to the end of an ornate spoon.

Wagner also brought a "shell and jewel" pressed glass pitcher and drinking glass which was her favorite as it had belonged to her grandmother.

Mary Monas, who was born in 1902, brought a mug that she remembers her mother drinking out of when she was a young woman. The mug is Royal Ironstone China, Alfred Meakin, "Made in England."

Lydia Melville brought in a metal tray of old Victorian motif, that was "Made in England," designed by Daher, Long Island, N.Y. and numbered 11101.

Elda Nichols brought in proof sets by the U.S. Mint of uncirculated coins dated 1985.

Eloise Duncan brought a small "last" for repairing children's shoes, a tumbler that was given to her by one of her grandmothers when she was such a small child that she could never remember

Kiwanis Club leads installation

Under the leadership of President Phil Gunster, the Sanford Kiwanis Club installed officers at the annual installation banquet at Timacuan Golf and Country Club. Outgoing officers and board members were commended for their leadership during the past year, according to incoming Lt. Gov. Walt Smith who installed the following 1995-96 officers and board members: Harry Reid III, president; Rev. David Liddell Jr., president elect; Ron Jernigan, vice president; Don Coleman, secretary; Harold Hartsock, treasurer; and Steve Hartsock, financial secretary.

1995-96 directors are: Al Meyers, Don Waller, Vivian Wheeler, Don Stanford, Walter Padgett, Clyde Long and Jim Carroll.

New club members Eron Walker, Ruby Blake, Al Rosh, Don Stanford, Tim Puthoff, Suzanne Wells and Nancy Julian were recognized. Club distinguished Kiwanians honored were Harry Reid, Ned Kindy, Meta Brooks, Jim Carroll, David Liddell, Walt Smith, Goni Human and Phil Gunster.

The Timacuan Country Club banquet tables were decorated with Kiwanis balloons and from the opening singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" to closing stanzas of "God Bless America" and the benediction it was a memorable evening for the Kiwanians and their spouses, Smith said.

Bride honored

Bride-elect Rayna Valerino was the guest of honor at a bridal shower Sunday, Oct. 1, at the Rose Cottage Tea Room in Sanford. Thirty-two guests revelled in the luxury of Old World ambiance at the charming English Tea. Hostesses were the bride's two sisters, Jamie Lunde and Laurie Figuerro, from Southern California, who flew in for the wedding and shower, and Janaree Valeriano, the bride's sister-in-law.

Rayna received "a ton of gifts," as her mother put it.

Among the others attending were the bride's mother, Charlene Valerino, and the groom's mother, Diane Gazil, both from Sanford; Charlotte West, grandmother of the bride, Utah; Bonnie Ferron, also grandmother of the bride, Bradenton; and Donna Miller, the bride's aunt, Texas.

Rayna became the bride of Michael Gazil Saturday, Oct. 7, at All Souls Catholic Church. A reception followed at the Sanford Woman's Club. The complete wedding story will be forthcoming.

Lions feed a success

At about 6:30 last Saturday night, lines were forming at the Sanford Civic Center. The tantalizing aroma of spaghetti wafted out into the parking lot to lure patrons inside for a delicious feast.

We're talking, of course, about the annual Sanford Lion's Club spaghetti dinner to benefit its Mayor Bettye Smith was at the door greeting and selling tickets to the event. Then it was on through the line where Lions piled mounds of steaming spaghetti high on the plates.

A long table held a variety of cakes which were sold as desserts.

Many dining patrons wandered into the main auditorium where bingo was in progress. Once again, nearly every place was taken as supporters played bingo — six cards for a buck.

We have attended these dinners for years, but this one seemed to attract the largest crowd yet.

Hobbyist of the Week

Dollhouses, ship replicas are Bosley family traditions

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

WINTER SPRINGS — Although Tom Bosley has been retired for many years he still spreads himself throughout the community through his hobby of miniature shipbuilding and dollhouse assembly.

Bosley began first with ship-making. "I saw my son-in-law doing this and saw how he was doing it," he said. "I decided to take it up as a hobby."

Many of his ships have sailed to family and friends but he still has a few in his possession. A large Cutty Sark measuring two feet long by eight inches wide with three masts and sails. "It's the largest one I have," he said.

According to Bosley some of the smaller ships he has made measure anywhere from 12, 13 to 18 inches long. "I've also made a replica of the Constitution, Old Ironside," he said. "I ended up giving it away as a gift."

Now, after approximately five years of ship building Bosley has built almost all of his children and grandchildren a ship of their own.

Bosley also enjoys making dollhouses. He begins with a kit and his wife paints details on some of them.

An old family tradition was buying his oldest daughter a dollhouse and assembling it so she would be surprised on Christmas morning. "She furnished it," he said. "She bought a kit from a man in Leesburg and I assembled that one for her too."

Various furniture that came with the dollhouses kits Bosley would assemble but he noted that he didn't make anything from scratch.

Since hobbies don't take up all of his time Bosley and his wife, Mary, are members of the South Seminole Church of Christ. Together they have seven children, Mary, Tom, Peggy, Janet, Jean, Nelly and John as well as 15 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.

Bosley previously served on the Benevolence Committee at

Organization makes neutering animal affordable

DEAR ABBY: Stemming the tide of pet overpopulation is a never-ending battle, and I'd like to tell you that your recent series of letters about the advantages of neutering pets was appreciated. The letters were triggered by a Florida woman who said her husband wouldn't allow her to neuter their cocker spaniel. Although the dog was urinating everywhere, including the house, her husband just "couldn't do that" to his dog.

Unfortunately, there's another reason why some people do not have their pets neutered: They cannot afford it. You would help prevent a tremendous number of unwanted dogs and cats and do your readers a great service if you would let them know about SPAY USA.

SPAY USA is a nationwide network of spay/neuter clinics. When people call SPAY USA they will be referred to one of more than 4,500 veterinarians from coast to coast who perform this surgery at an affordable price. (Some vets charge more than $120 to neuter a female cat.)

Please, Abby, help those who cannot afford to pay the full price by letting them know about our service. With the help of animal lovers like yourself, we can make this a better place for all of us — humans and animals alike.

ESTHER MECHLER, DIRECTOR, SPAY USA

and cats that are not intended for breeding should be neutered. Not only does this prevent a homeless population of millions of unwanted dogs and cats, it also eliminates the risk of ovarian or testicular cancer, and greatly reduces the risk of prostate disorders as well as eliminating the urge for the pet to mark its territory.

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with your response to the mother of the rejected "two-toned" bridesmaid. What happened to freedom and the right to express yourself? If a bride chooses a bridesmaid, she chooses ALL the qualities of that individual, not just the ones the bride wants or the ones the bride's mother wants.

You said that the attention should be focused on the bride. If the bride can't capture the attention at her own wedding, I don't think a bridesmaid with a different hairstyle should be responsible.

What happened to marriage as the focal point of the wedding?

I personally think bridesmaids and groomsmen and everyone involved in the wedding are there to assist in the grand celebration, not be dressed up like dolls! And certainly they should not be thrown out of a celebration just because of the way they look! I think the bride's mother acted very immaturely and is just as responsible for apologizing for her behavior.

On a personal note, I would say believe it or not: "Way to go" to anyone in my wedding party who would choose to express herself (or himself) in a unique way. My friends always have freedom in every way — even on my wedding day.

 were allowed to try their hand at churning butter and to taste some fresh churned butter.
 In the candlemaking room, children learned that pioneers had to make their own candles for light. There was no power company. Each child was allowed to try their hand at dipping candles. The settlement makes their candles with a mixture of paraffin, beeswax and a little dye for color. Pioneers, the candlemaker told the students, had to use beeswax and tallow.
 Weaving was how the pioneers made their clothes, their rugs, even their sheets. Children got the chance to work one of the looms. The weaver, a very enterprising fellow, showed the students a new rug he was making using plastic bags from grocery stores. He was even able to make patterns by using both the brown plastic bags and the white. Chaperones were especially impressed with this ultimate recycling.

 The most popular parts of the tour were the blacksmith and the wood shop. At the blacksmiths, the students got to see how tools were made. At the wood shop, they actually got to saw a log.
 The trip was definitely an educational experience for students and chaperones. If you're interested in visiting the settlement, they're having their 18th Annual Fall Country Jamboree Nov. 4 and 5. There'll be arts and crafts, food and music. Maybe they'll even let you try your hand at sawing a log.

Festival moved

For the past two years, Old Lake Mary Days has been the day before Mother's Day. This was a very good day for people doing last minute shopping, but it proved to be a trying day weather-wise. Both years saw almost record highs. The heat became the festival's enemy.
 For 1996, the festival has been moved to a cooler day. The historical commission recently voted to move Old Lake Mary Days to Saturday, March 30. Planning has already begun.

As in the past, there will be arts and crafts, entertainment, a Kids Korner and civic displays. If your civic, social or church group is interested in participating, call Betty Dedman at 322-0491.

Still doing the write thing here

The students at Sanford Middle School have been hard at work producing fresh new writings.

Their work ranges from a brief, descriptive poem to a whimsical look at how a student might change how learning occurs in the classroom if she were in charge.

Students at the school vie for the chance to be the Writers of the Week at the school and to be published in the Sanford Herald.

Students at other schools are, certainly, producing good work. We'd love the opportunity to print their writings here.

Put your feelings on paper and send them in. Send your best to the Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, 32771.

Turn on Your Imagination

By ELISE DANTUMA
Grade 8

If I got to run language arts class, I would change two things. The first thing is the rules. I would keep only one rule we use now, and that is be on time. The other rules are: 1. No cheating on the course. 2. Don't give up. And last but not least, HAVE FUN! Those are the only rules that I would use.

The second thing that I would change is the way I teach the kids the lessons. I like active things like biking and climbing and things like that. Well, in my class you will do all that. Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday I would have them try as hard as they could to set a record. The obstacle course would be like this the first time.

First they would have to run hurdles. On the hurdles there would be words. The words would be nouns, pronouns and verbs. But the trick is not to jump over the nouns. Second, they would do a rope climb. At the top there would be a word and a chalkboard. On the chalkboard they would have to find a word that is a synonym to the other word. Next they would run and get a bike and ride it around the campus. But they would have to follow the signs that had verbs on them. After that they would have to get a boogie board and on a slip-and-slide, slide their way to the finish! That would be the obstacle course.

Now on the days we don't do the obstacle course, we would run class like it is now!

In conclusion, my class is weird and different. I like to teach my classes with games and things that kids like to do!

On Differences

By ANGELA GRANKOW

I wonder why people are so quick to judge on another.

They will take one look at a person and automatically they are thought to be a certain type of person, when in fact, the person judged can be absolutely the opposite of what he is thought to be.

I just watch sometimes and see how people are accepted or rejected based solely on their looks. The human race has realized this and separated into their stereotype groups. It has segregated the American nation.

I don't see the need to know what everyone is like or how they do this or that. Others (not all) do feel that need. I mean, why else would they spend so much time evaluating others?

To even think of trying to rectify this problem takes so much thought and major consideration that it gives me a migraine headache. I can see no immediate solutions, or for that matter, long-term ones either. It baffles me more than the riddles my brother asks me.

I wonder if anyone has ever tried to solve that problem

(besides the person who made up "Don't judge a book by its cover.")? I've thought about that before and I've always wanted to know the answer.

Maybe I will go research it some time later on in my life.

Then again, I think I'm much too lazy.

Courage highlighted as month's value

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

The month of October brings a new "Value of the Month" to the students in Seminole County schools.

Courage is the next in the series of character traits that the school board, teachers and administrators believe will help the students in our schools live better lives.

The Seminole County schools have been promoting a new "Key to Your Character" each month during the school year since July.

The characteristics so far this year have been Fairness, Respect and Honesty.

Later this year, characteristics ranging from Patriotism to Knowledge to Caring will be highlighted.

"We just want our young people, the next generation of leaders, to grow up to be caring, responsible adults," said Edie Valentine of the school district.

Courage, the school district says, is the "acceptance of responsibility, of challenges and of disappointment or rejection in the face of difficult tasks and/or choices."

Students and teachers will be

discussing the various aspects of courage in their classrooms this month.

Red Ribbon Week activities have been woven into the concept this past week and will be continued throughout the month as the school district celebrates drug abuse awareness.

Students will role play situations involving dilemmas and heroes who met challenges or who overcame disabilities. They will debate appropriate issues involving choices.

"Everyone involved is excited about the program," said Rose

Raska, guidance program specialist and parent-community liaison.

Spaghetti, sauce, garlic bread and salad were on the menu for the event which was a fundraiser for the marching band members to purchase uniforms, music and other related materials. Host of mythical creatures found in October night skies

By JERRY REED
Special to the Herald

October brings a host of mythological creatures and heroes to our evening skies.

First to rise is Pegasus, the winged horse of Greek mythology. The most visible portion of this constellation is its great square, representing the body of this famous steed. Four bright stars form an almost perfect square in the center of the body, and these will be clearly visible just east of overhead by 9 p.m.

Legend says the fabled flying horse sprang from the bloodshed by the horrible gorgon Medusa — whose gaze could turn men to stone — as Perseus slay her. Pegasus later became the steed for the Greek hero Bellerophon and carried him on many more great adventures.

As befits such a heroic animal, Pegasus is a large constellation, with the central square alone spanning an area of sky about 15 degrees on each side. This means that the square could contain about 400 full moons. If you hold your hand outstretched, the square in Pegasus is about a palm's width in each direction.

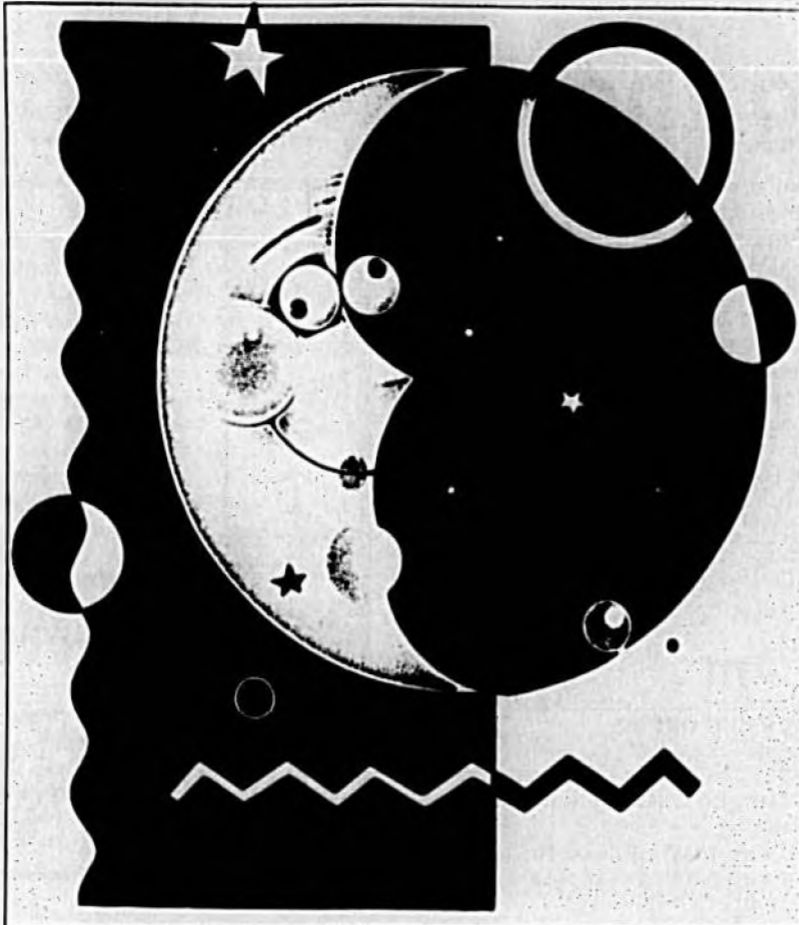

Dangling from the bottom corner of the square on the northern edge of Pegasus is another character from the legend, lovely princess Andromeda. She forms an elongated "A" downward and to the left of Pegasus, with two stars in her middle for a belt, and two stars nearest the horizon representing her feet. When you spot the square in Pegasus you have already spotted one star from Andromeda, since astronomers count only the three of the corner stars as belonging to Pegasus — the bottom left is counted as a part of Andromeda.

North of both Andromeda and Pegasus is Queen Cassiopeia. Cassiopeia was Andromeda's vain mother, whose boasts of her own beauty so offended the gods that they punished her, ordering that daughter Andromeda be sacrificed to a sea monster. Fortunately, nearby Perseus, fresh from destroying Medusa, rescued her.

In our skies, Cassiopeia looks like the letter M or W turned askew. Cassiopeia is very easy to spot at this time of the year since its bright stars are concentrated in an area less than half that of either Andromeda or Pegasus.

Farther to the north, and at the feet of Andromeda, look for the constellation of her rescuer, hero Perseus, son of Zeus and Danae. Perseus has the shape of a partially collapsed umbrella with two arcs of stars low in the northeast at 9 p.m. Look especially for the orange star Algol, the "demon" star, which the ancient Greeks claimed was the deadly eye of Medusa's severed head. Many ancient astronomers found Algol indeed terrifying because amongst the supposedly unchanging heavens, they could not fathom its periodic changes in brightness.

Today we know that Algol is only the most striking of many variable stars visible to the unaided eye. Astronomers know it as an eclipsing binary, dimming in brightness by more than a magnitude for a few hours every three days, as one of its stars blocks the light from the other. In other words, Algol varies in brightness from a minimum equal only to the dimmest of the stars in Cassiopeia's W, to a maximum shining as brightly as the brightest of the queen's stars.

These mythological constellations are joined in your backyard this month by mighty planet Saturn who, as myth would have it, is the father of Zeus and thus the grandfather of hero Perseus. Saturn's prominence contrasts with the fading of mighty Jupiter and warrior Mars which remain visible in the southwestern sky only for a couple of hours after sunset now. Saturn, in contrast, is halfway up the southeastern sky by 9 p.m. this month. It shines with a steady, white light and since it is currently located in the dim constellation Aquarius, seems the brightest object in its region of the sky.

Spotting Saturn in a small telescope will reveal the famous rings as a bright line bisecting the planet from Earth's current edge-on vantage point.

The Orionid meteor shower with a peak rate of about 20 "shooting stars" per hour will be best for backyard observers on the 20th and 21st of this month. Those who venture out after midnight will see the most meteors. Look generally east toward rising constellation Orion but watch for meteors to appear on either side and above the hunter.

Question of the month: What is a light year?

Since it ends in "year," the term light-year first seems like a measure of time. "We could argue for light-years and never agree..." But astronomers use light-years as a measure of distances, although we will see that a fascinating connection to time remains as well.

One light-year is how far a ray of light will travel through space in one year. Since light travels very, very fast — about 186,000 miles per second, a light year is a long way. How many miles is a light-year? Here's how the arithmetic works out:

186,000 miles per second X 60 seconds (in a minute) X 60 minutes (in an hour) X 24 hours (in a day) X 365.25 days (in a year) equals 186,000 miles per second X 31,557,600 seconds equals 5,889,713,600,000 miles. That's almost 6 trillion miles, not exactly a trip around the block.

But what is the connection to time? Consider this: Look for the Andromeda galaxy on any clear evening this month. It's that faint smudge of light just to the left of the two stars in constellation Andromeda's belt. The Andromeda galaxy is the most distant object we can see with our unaided eyes. It consists of a hundred billion or so stars, located an astounding 2.2 million light years from Earth. That means that the light we see this month from the Andromeda galaxy left that region of space over 2 million years ago, and has been traveling here ever since.

So when we look at very distant objects, those many light years away, we are actually looking back in time since the light we are seeing left its source long ago. Tonight we see the Andromeda galaxy as it appeared before the first humans walked the earth. This is another case where stargazing gives us a trip through both time and space.

For further information, please contact the Seminole Community College Planetarium at 328-2360, or attend one of the free planetarium shows offered every Friday and Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. A special matinee presentation of the story of Perseus and Andromeda especially developed for children is available each Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m.

Jerry Reed is assistant director at the Seminole Community College planetarium.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You might have to deal with someone today who recently did something you didn't like. You can either forgive and forget, or bear a grudge and frustrate yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unless you're extremely disciplined in the management of your finances today, you might waste funds on things of questionable value.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may create complications for yourself today by behaving against your better judgment. Why make problems for yourself where none should exist?

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Self-doubt and indecisiveness could be your worst enemies today. Instead of trying to see whether something will work or not, you might just spend time fretting about it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Several persons you're closely involved with might try to impose upon you today, even someone who is normally reticent about asking favors from anyone.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try not to let an inept advisor influence any decisions you make today. Do not seek counsel from persons whose lives and affairs are in disarray.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Before attempting a do-it-yourself endeavor today, make

STUMPED? Call for Answers @ Touch-Tone or Rotary Phones 1-800-454-3636 ext. code 100 @ $54 per minute certain you're aware of the hazards involved in your undertaking. If you're not, an expert may have to bail you out later.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Lending things to others that are not yours in the first place could create problems for you today. Say no unless you have the owner's consent.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Once you make a determination today, do not alter or change your course unless it's absolutely essential. Vaccination could deprive you of success.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Several tasks you've been neglecting could vie for attention today. You might give the minor ones a lick and a promise. The bigger ones, however, you may not even attempt.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Conditions that have a direct affect upon your financial position might be iffy today. Play it safe and avoid taking financial risks.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Where does the word "cybernetics" come from? Some bridge experts play like robots, grinding out one percentage play after another. Others use table presence to help them find the winning line even if it isn't the "correct" play according to the cybernauts.

After West led the spade king, how should South have planned the play in four hearts?

The South with table presence won with dummy's spade ace, drew trumps, cashed dummy's diamond king, played a diamond to his queen and then finessed dummy's diamond 10. When it held, he nodded knowingly and cashed the diamond ace, discarding his spade loser. A club to the nine lost to West's 10, so the contract made exactly.

The cybernaut shook his head disappointingly. He had seen the right line of play. After winning with the spade ace and drawing trumps, South should cash the three top diamonds. If the jack appears, the contract is safe. But when the jack doesn't drop, South ruffs dummy's last diamond before exiting with his remaining spade. Whichever opponent wins the trick must either concede a ruff-and-discard or open up the clubs. In both cases, South has only two club losers and wins 10 tricks.

Norman Wiener, the American mathematical logician who was the founder of cybernetics, said, "We have decided to call the entire field of control and communication theory, whether in the machine or in the animal, by the name of Cybernetics, which we form from the Greek $\frac{1}{2}$ for $\frac{3}{4}$ steersman."

Young explorers celebrate Columbus

Students at St. Peter's Episcopal Church kindergarten spent Columbus Day doing some exploring of their own. Rather than sailing the ocean blue in the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria, the youngsters boarded a boat operated by the St. John's River Cruises and explored the natural beauty of our area. At top, Capt. Robert Hopkins led the youngsters on the expedition. Center, Spenser Moreland was among the youngsters who took to the water in the boat. As they sailed off into the midday sun, the kids knew that, if nothing else, they'd find fun as they explored the region.

New lease on life of land

SANFORD — Sanford commissioners have finalized two lakefront leases, ending years of tenuous business dealings that included past due rent and bankruptcy.

Investors and/or corporations may own the buildings on Monroe Harbour Marina, but the city of Sanford owns the land. The building owners therefore, pay a certain amount of rent to the city.

That is the general intent. Regarding the property on which the Marina Hotel is located (former Holiday Inn), however, the city has had difficulties collecting.

After several years of attempting to collect past-due payments, then litigation, and considerable discussion, the city almost lost ownership of the property. Finally, a new lease has been arranged.

Damp, sticky, rainy weather continues

SANFORD — The summer-like weather will continue to drench Seminole County for at least a few more days, according to officials at the National Weather Service in Orlando.

"Don't put your umbrella and your galoshes away until at least the end of the week," a spokesman for the weather service said this morning. "The weather pattern will stay as is for at least a couple more days."

While today's rain chance remains high at about 70 percent, the chance drops to 30 percent tonight and only rises to about 40 percent tomorrow.

Weather prognosticators believe the rains, the heat and the high humidity will continue to torture us through about Friday when the skies will begin to clear. Temperatures are not expected to drop much over the next few weeks though they will start creeping down a bit as Halloween approaches, Weather Service officials predict.

SANFORD — The Sanford City Commission officially approved an Economic Development Incentive Program last night. An ordinance was adopted on second reading by a unanimous vote.

After the adoption, the city agreed to its first assistance.

The aim of the program, according to the wording of the ordinance, is "...to encourage the development of strong, healthy, commercial/industrial activity for the city of Sanford." It is also designed to help increase the tax base.

The program will provide financial assistance to businesses or industries which may need capital for development, aimed primarily at providing jobs for local citizens.

To be eligible for such financial help, the ordinance requires that the business must be located within the immediate city, especially areas of need, or with the prospect that the businesses will create at least 10 full time equivalent jobs for every $20,000 of city assistance.

The jobs would have to have a salary of at least $15,000 per year, and be expected to last at least five years.

City Manager Bill Simmons said the money will come from reserve funds.

After approval of the Economic Development Incentive Program last night, the city also
