

SOVIET PLAN ON ECONOMICS MEETS ACCORD

Non-Aggression Pact Presented By Litvinoff To Pan-European Commission

GENEVA, Sept. 1.—(A.P.)—The Soviet proposal for an economic non-aggression pact was presented yesterday by Maxim Litvinoff, Russian commissar for foreign affairs, to his colleagues of the Pan-European Commission's co-ordinating committee and obtained "in principle" a favorable reception.

The committee referred the scheme to a sub-committee which will seek to return it today or Wednesday in a modified form acceptable to the spokesmen of the European States.

Litvinoff's project, therefore, will be given further consideration by the co-ordinating committee before that body drafts its general program for alleviating the European economic situation. This program is to be submitted to the full European Union Commission at a session beginning Thursday.

The Soviet delegate described his scheme as a negative corollary to a "most favored clause," guaranteeing the signatories against special discrimination in the economic field.

The Soviet delegate asserted that its adoption would go far toward terminating an atmosphere of distrust which now prevails among nations.

Work Being Pushed On Golf Course By City Crew Of Men

Under the direction of Parks Superintendent James Moughton, a large force of white and colored men are today at work at the Sanford Country Club where they are cutting grass, weeding greens and lawns, and spreading a carload of fertilizer which the City purchased last week for the purpose of revitalizing its municipally owned golf course.

The work will continue through the week, but play at the course will not be interrupted because of the work going on.

Leon LeRoy, president of the Sanford Country Club, said this morning that the City's part in keeping the property open to the public and in condition for play depends entirely upon the support which local golfers give during the next few months.

He said, "and it is hoped that every person in this city who is interested in golf, will become affiliated with the organization at once. The City has indicated that several players must be added to the present list of members before it feels disposed to continue to aid the club in a financial way. Our golfing population should respond, so that this valuable property may not be abandoned by the City."

Farmers Turn Attention To Packing House Move To Buoy Southern Cotton

(By The Associated Press)
With decision of the Federal Farm Board not to buy cotton, disgruntled farmers yesterday turned attention to possible concurrences in the Louisiana "no cotton" plan by Texas and South Carolina, and to a proposal by the Cudahy Packing Company to buy and store cotton in an effort to bolster the market.

Carl Williams, cotton member of the farm board, in announcing Sunday the board's decision not to purchase cotton, "under circumstances" as advocated by Senators George of Georgia, Smith of South Carolina and others, said "continued purchases in the face of over-production is not the remedy for the situation."

Williams said the board after a discussion with members of its cotton advisory committee, had decided stabilization was valuable in the face of temporary and seasonal surpluses, but had no worth in times of continued over-production. Meanwhile Governor Sterling of Texas awaited completion of a census of farmers and members of the State Legislature of their attitude toward a special session to consider Gov. Huey P. Long's "no cotton in 1932 plan," enacted into law by the Louisiana Legislature last Saturday.

J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, conferred with Governor Sterling Sunday and announced the proposed "no cotton" plan. He said the board's decision to consider cotton acreage control.

McDonald said it was his opinion that the rest of the cotton growing States "would fall in line with the Louisiana plan" taken in Texas. In view of the fact that Texas produces one-third of the cotton crop.

DRY LAW LEADER FROWNS ON USING PAID INFORMERS

Amos Woodcock Says
He Believes Practice
Is Undesirable

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(A.P.)—The use of paid informers or spies as aides to federal dry agents was disapproved yesterday by Prohibition Director Woodcock. Although indicating no general order would be issued, he warned last week prohibiting the employment of women as "blinds" or "decoys." Woodcock said he personally held the practice undesirable and thought it was on the decline.

"In some sections," Woodcock said, "officials seemed to think it necessary to employ informers. Here in Washington for instance, the police believe they can operate more successfully if informers are used, and the prohibition bureau pays the bill. Generally, however, their use seems to be declining as our agents become more efficient."

At the same time the federal dry chief said his drive for economy in prohibition enforcement had resulted in a saving of $150,000 out of the bureau's $11,200,000 appropriation, an increase of about $2,000,000 over the previous year which allowed for the employment of 600 new agents.

He said it was too early to determine whether the increase which enlarged the prohibition force by about one-third, had brought a proportionate increase in enforcement.

The director revealed that a new avenue of enforcement had been closed temporarily with the disabling of the bureau's one-plane "aircrops." It was seized in Texas, manned by a dry agent pilot, and located one still from the air. The plane subsequently caught fire.

He said delay had been experienced in obtaining repair parts. He added he hoped to get more planes if experiments with the use (Continued on Page Two)

James Young, 11-year old Sanford poultry fancier, visited The Herald office this morning with a Rhode Island Red pullet egg weighing four ounces which he claimed was one of the largest eggs he had ever seen, or produced during his two years as a poultry raiser.

The youth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Young, 1307 East Union Avenue, and he will be in the fifth grade of grammar school this winter.

Senate Campaign Fund Group Aids Attorney

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(A.P.)—District Attorney Rover today requested and received from the Senate Campaign Funds Committee the record on hearings on the use of campaign funds by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., in 1928. Rover will go before the grand jury with the case.

Senator Nye, chairman of the committee, referred the transaction of Bishop Cannon in handling the anti-Smith funds as amounting to a "diversion."

ACCOUNT TOLD OF ATTEMPT TO SLAY THREE

Ex-Marine Tells Of Argument Leading Up To Plans For Execution Of Gunmen

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(A.P.)—A 22-year-old ex-Marine told police a story yesterday of how he fought over whether he should "take" to holding or do home killing, led to the attempted triple execution in the slaughter house district of Brooklyn a week ago.

The statement, which was made by Barney (English) Wolfson, who admitted he fired some of the shots that killed one of the three gangsters lined up against a "hard fence" and wounded the other two.

While his disclosures were being investigated it was learned that the police drive on the night had resulted in so many arrests that all city jails are overcrowded.

Approximately 100 gangster chauffeurs had been lined up in a police impounded car at a street in Manhattan as an answer to the public demands for action against gangsters who had slain a number of peaceful bystanders.

A pistol fight between Patrolman William Martin and a hoodlum in a crowded Brooklyn shop district yesterday afternoon resulted in the death of the hoodlum and the escape of a stationary store, escaped.

The latest by-stander to be shot in the thigh was a woman in the high 80s who was hit by bullets fired by two extortionists at Joseph Santora, who had just been threatened with assassination for refusing to accept blackmail demands.

The man killed in last week's Brooklyn execution was Anthony Ferrara, leader of a gang that merged with Wolfson's recently. The two wounded men were among those who were arrested.

Wolfson and seven of his own men were captured in a Brooklyn apartment last week after a police siege during which several hoodlum shots were exchanged.

Complaints against the hoodlum boss of a state lunatic asylum in his apartment led to the discovery of the death of Dr. William Hurst, taxicab company physician who was found with hand tied behind his back.

GERMANY'S CHALLENGE TO THE PEACE TREATY

Whitney Estate Distribution Is Finally Settled

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(A.P.)—More than $200,000,000 to be divided among 100 heirs and legatees in the Whitney estate, which was finally settled yesterday, was the subject of a long and heated argument in the court yesterday.

The bulk of the estate, which was valued at $200,000,000, was divided among 100 heirs and legatees, between the death of Mrs. Whitney on May 25, 1927, and the distribution of the various legacies to her widow, two children and a son-in-law. They received approximately $100,000,000 between them.

Mr. Whitney's estate at the time of his death was valued at $180,000,000, which was added to the $20,000,000 of the Whitney family trust, which was valued at $20,000,000. The executor still held $3,000,000 of this amount.

Mr. Whitney's widow, Helen Hay Whitney, received $1,000,000, two children, Jean Whitney Payson and John Hay Whitney, $5,000,000 each, and a son-in-law, Charles S. Payson, $2,000,000. Charitable and educational institutions have been given $10,000,000, which was nearly half of the total $20,000,000.

The Whitney estate was the largest in the history of the transfer tax bureau. Most of the legacies were paid prior to the stock market crash so that the appreciated value of securities represented a sum considerably higher than those same securities are now worth on the market.

Of the inheritance, transfer and estate taxes paid nearly two-thirds, at $17,564,012, went to the State of New York. The United States collected $4,300,014 while income taxes assessed against Mr. Whitney total another $2,223,067. Debt, funeral expenses and administrative expenses consumed $13,542,076.

Oviedo Agricultural Club Holds Meeting

Fertilizer and its value as a food for the successful growing of farm products formed the major subject under discussion at the third meeting of the Oviedo Agricultural Club held at the Oviedo high school last night with almost 50 farmers present.

It was one of the most enthusiastic meetings of its kind ever held in Oviedo. Fertilizer and its uses in Florida soils formed the major topic of discussion, and, with Alex R. Johnson, of the Seminole Agricultural Club as leading speaker, a profitable session was reported.

A short business session preceded the round-table discussion on fertilizer, during which time the advisability of becoming affiliated with the Seminole Agricultural Club was discussed. No action was taken on the matter however, pending a further discussion at a meeting next Monday night.

Huge Fortune Left To Relatives, Friends, And For Education

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(A.P.)—More than $200,000,000 to be divided among 100 heirs and legatees in the Whitney estate, which was finally settled yesterday, was the subject of a long and heated argument in the court yesterday.

Lehmann Is Working Upon Citrus Project

Karl Lehmann, newly elected secretary of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce who will assume his duties here late in October, is now busily engaged in an intensive membership drive for the Florida Clearing House Association, according to a dispatch from Orlando today.

The Clearing House is making a state-wide canvass of shippers and growers in an effort to effect the most workable and efficient organization it has ever known, and Mr. Lehmann's services were said to have been sought for some months as the organizer of the entire movement.

STREET URGHINS IN GOTHAM PLAY COPS, GANGSTERS

Children Re-Enact Recent Slaying Of Innocent Child Victim

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(A.P.)—Twenty or 30 children were playing among crows and cobwebs yesterday in a guttering Harlem tenement when a spray of lead from a gangster's gun sent them to a hospital, one mortally wounded.

Today, while police were still hunting the late killers, a new game has been inaugurated among the sons and daughters of that "Little Italy" district "Gangster and Cop" it is called.

In front of a building still pock-marked with bullet holes that memory of the slain boy, last victim of the former playmate's gun, yesterday afternoon were arguing over rules for their new game.

They had carved machine guns from packing box boards and were caps pulled down over their eyes.

A "small express wagon, with sales limit on it, too, responded a sedan, stood at the opposite curb.

Down the street youthful owners of a fleet of tricycles and kiddie cars were waiting for the "turn" to begin.

But there were many problems to be settled. How about innocent bystanders? How much of a start would the gangsters be allowed before the cops began their chase?

Some of the tricycle owners, with pieces of tin foil pinned on their chest to represent police shields, came into the conference and insisted "the cops 'ave gotta win."

Finally positions were taken. Someone shouted "let's go!" The baby carriage started careening wildly down one sidewalk. The 7-year-old occupant went through furious motions with his stick of wood.

RECEIVERS ARE APPOINTED FOR F. E. C. RAILWAY

Henry M. Flagler System Is In Financial Difficulties Because Of Several Factors

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 1.—(A.P.)—The Florida East Coast Railway which under the guidance of the late Henry M. Flagler stretched its rails down the Atlantic coast and spanned the waters to Key West is in the hands of receivers today.

The road, which figured in the development of many resort centers, was placed in receivership by Federal Judge John W. Strain here on application of the Standard Oil of Kentucky, which contended the railroad had failed to carry operating expenses and fixed charges since 1927.

William R. Kenan, Jr., president of the road, and today the road went into receivership on its first and refunding mortgage Series A, five percent bonds of 1924. In a statement Kenan said the situation was due to a culmination of several long-range "All of which in a given measure affected the income of the road and reduced its income. What came the collapse of the rail estate boom. Later came the Mediterranean. Later, by guaranteeing more than a year during which only small quantities of citrus fruits and vegetables were shipped out of the state. Then came the worldwide depression affecting every line of business."

In addition to the above the extension of the Seaboard Airline into West Palm Beach and paralleling of its road from there to Homestead affected our business seriously and resulted in a great loss of revenue. Kenan also pointed to the development of the Miami harbor to permit steamship competition, completion of hard roads and bus and private motor cars paralleling the tracks as contributing causes of the present situation.

He recalled that the earnings in 1923 to 1925 were approximately two and a half times the fixed charges, whereas due to the reasons cited the succeeding years' operations produced an annual deficit totaling in four years approximately $6,700,000.

Kenan and Scott M. Lotkin, vice president and general counsel of Jacksonville, were named to receivership.

Demonstration To Be Made On Farm Of Fred Zerrenner

A farm demonstration which should prove of interest to every farmer in this community is scheduled to take place at the farm of Fred Zerrenner, Navasota Avenue, just north of the old site plant on the West Side, tomorrow morning, starting at 10:00 o'clock and continuing all day.

There, under the sponsorship of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Florida, Hugh School, two tractors will pull a new type of shredder or pulverizer designed to plow cover crops.

An International Farm tractor and a Fiat Farm Co. tractor will test the possibility of pulling the pulverizers which will be plowed in the soil to a considerable depth.

Funeral Services Conducted Today For Mrs. Waters

Routine Matters Are Met By Commission

Meeting at the City Hall last night for the purpose of beginning the task of setting the 1931-32 City Budget figures, the Sanford City Commissioners were unable to make much more than passing mention of the matter because of the press of other business, mostly routine matters, which arose.

Most of the items discussed last night pertained to reductions in assessed valuation of property in Sanford. Numerous letters of complaint were read and ordered referred to City Clerk F. S. Lamson for further investigation. He will report his findings at the next meeting of the Commission on Monday night.

Two of the Commissioners, C. A. Byrd, and W. A. Leffler, were absent from the meeting, which was attended by Mayor T. L. Dunas, City Commissioners H. J. Lehman and V. A. Speer, City Clerk Lamson, City Attorney Fred R. Wilson, and Parks Superintendent James Moughton.

Band and stories will feature the 10th presentation of a community program at the Band Shell, scheduled for tomorrow night at 7:50 o'clock, with various local merchants acting as hosts.

Under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Clark, pianist and program director, the following program will be presented:

Little Miss Cecelia Trulock will sing a number of blues songs.

Miss Caroline Biggers will offer a group of selected readings.

Miss Clark has several unusual piano arrangements of popular songs which she will play for the first time.

R. Hendel and daughter will offer several old time violin and piano selections.

Charley Tew and T. M. Vickery have a brand new blackface menologue which they will offer.

Attended by a large number of friends from all sections of Central Florida, funeral services for Mrs. H. C. Waters, Sr., 39, were held this afternoon from the First Presbyterian Church at 2:00 o'clock. The Rev. E. D. Brownlee, of the First Presbyterian Church, assisted by the Rev. A. S. Peck, read a brief burial service.

The pallbearers were: O. H. Anderson, W. S. Colman, G. E. Ward, E. E. Drady, S. M. Lloyd, and E. H. Bennett. Burial was made in the Apopka cemetery in the Witherington family plot, with the Erickson Funeral Home handling arrangements.

The sudden death of Mrs. Waters early yesterday morning plunged the community in gloom, for her friends were numerous. As a mark of respect all business houses in the Magnolia Avenue area between Second and Third Street closed their doors for five minutes during the services.

Mrs. Waters was born at Apopka, Dec. 3, 1891, and had lived in Sanford for the past 14 years. She is survived by her husband, H. C. Waters, Sr.; four daughters, Miss Katherine Waters, Miss Caroline Waters, Miss Minnie Waters; two sons, H. C. Waters, Jr., and Thomas W. Waters, all of Sanford; her mother, Mrs. H. H. Witherington; a sister, Mrs. Agnes Berry, of Apopka; and three brothers, Harry P. James R., and Allison Witherington, all of Apopka.

Writer States U. S. Has Gone Through Big Merger Period

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(A.P.)—Dr. Harry W. Laidler, executive director of the League for Industrial Democracy, in a book published today (Thomas Y. Crowell) declares the United States has just passed through the most extensive period of concentration in its history.

As the result, Dr. Laidler states, 7000 mining and manufacturing firms merged between 1919 and 1928, one corporate system controls three-fourths of the telephones, another the same proportion of telegraph business and still another dominates the field of radio.

A few great holding companies and investment trusts, the economist asserts, now dominate the electrical field, and one corporation owns more than half the country's iron resources. Another, he says, controls more than 90 per cent of the world's nickel resources; from great concerns rule the major portion of the country's copper and eight, closely allied with the railroads, own about 80 per cent of the nation's coal.

Other giant forces in industry he lists as: United States Steel and Bethlehem, 52 per cent of the steel industry; Henry Ford, 40 per cent of the automobile production of 1930, and General Motors, 30 per cent. In food packing, Dr. Laidler declares two companies handle more than 50 per cent of meat in interstate commerce.

One corporation and its affiliates do a "large proportion" of the sugar refining.

One corporation makes "practically all" of the sleeping cars.

Three corporations "divided the locomotive field."

One per cent of the country's banks hold resources equal to the other 99 per cent.

MANY THRILLS ARE PROVIDED AT AIR RACES

Lieut. A. J. Williams, former navy flier, introduced novelty into his flying by taking instructions from the ground by radio. John Livingston, Aurora, Ill., pilot, initiated his campaign to repeat a high number of victories in last year's races, by taking first place in a dead stick landing contest.

He landed one foot, nine inches from a red flag, a margin of five inches over his nearest competitor, Lloyd Yost, Pipehurst, N. C. Third place was taken by Arthur Davis, East Lansing, Mich. Qualifiers in the one mile straightaway speed dash for men in planes of 175 cubic inch displacement were led by S. M. M. Lambert, Niles, Mich., who flew a heat at an average speed of 134.30 miles an hour. Second place went to Barton Stevenson, Kansas City, 130.06 miles an hour in a monoplane with Arthur C. Chester, Joliet, third at 128.43 miles an hour in a Dvalse. Three other pilots exceeded 125 miles an hour, well above the 75 mile qualifying speed.

What Have You To Swap?

It Has Come To This!

The United States and Brazil have recently consummated a deal whereby Brazil agrees to SWAP some of her surplus coffee for some of our surplus wheat. When two wealthy nations find it beneficial to use the ancient system of BARTER, while the world is suffering from financial ills, why shouldn't you take advantage of the same method to accrue personally?

Perhaps you have a radio you would like to trade for an ice box, or perhaps you have a dog, a cat, a piano, a piece of furniture you would like to exchange for a cow, a canary, a victrola, or a farm implement. Everyone has some article about the home or farm which is not being used but which would be servicable to someone else. The difficulty is in finding out what the other fellow has and of telling him what you have. You cannot use television yet, to peer inside of homes, nor can you go from house to house and inform each owner you have something you would like to swap. But you can attain the same end, and without any effort, by using The Herald Swap Column.

The Feds lost their tenth game of the second half yesterday when, not satisfied with an umpire's decision in the ninth inning, they walked from the field, forfeiting the 8 to 6 game to Winter Park by a 9 to 0 score. The game had been a nice hurler's duel between Strickland and Minor, and it appeared to be going into extra innings. However, the ump called Strickland out at the plate after he had a full swing on a round ball on Marlin's fly ball to the outfield.

At Daytona, Olin Hutto again proved himself the most valuable man in the league when he hit the league-leading Indians to two hits, shutting them out 2 to 0. It was his sixth shutout win of the year, and three of those victories were over the Indians. He struck out nine men, and did not walk a man, giving up five a performance as he has this year.

While the Indians were leaving, the DeLanders lost a great opportunity to go into a tie for first place, when they lost a 4 to 3 decision in the Saints in the Cathedral City. The defeat was a huge surprise to the large crowd of DeLand fans who followed their team, and peasant champion in DeLand are said to be plenty gloomy today. Although Ferrasi was a trifle wild, he and Hernandez battled about on even terms for nine innings, when a double off the bat of Cape scored Rooney and Williams, and the game was over.

Remarkable pitching performance by Derringer and Hallahan gave the Cards a double-victory over the Pirates yesterday. Derringer shut them out 6 to 0 in the first game in which he allowed six hits, and struck out 10 men. He was his 21st consecutive inning of scoreless pitching, and he and the Cards made merry off Kremer and Osborn, getting 14 hits. Hallahan held the Pirates to seven hits in the nightcap, beating them 4 to 1. He struck out 13 men. Chick Hefey aided materially in both wins, getting five hits in nine tries all day, including three doubles and a triple. Spencer and Wood toiled for the Pirates in the second game.

Pat Malone weakened in the eighth inning of the Cubs' game with the Reds and before May could stop the runs, four had come over and the Reds won a 4 to 3 decision. The Reds got eight, the Cubs nine hits. Heathcote, pinch-batter in the eighth, doubled to score two runs, and scored later when Crabtree and Sukeforth put he and Sukeforth over for the winning runs.

Darry Vance was the victim of bad support in the first game of a double bill with the Braves, so the Robins split a pair.

Brandt held the Robins to five hits in winning the first game 2 to 1. He would not have a shut-out had it not been for Hernandez's home run with O'Dool on first in the ninth. Vance was removed for Moore in the eighth. . . . Last inning rallies off Heibold and Hefey saved the day for the Robins. . . . Thurston gave up 11 hits, but they came early in the game and accounted for only three runs.

One-hit pitching by Phil Collins gave the Phillies an even break in their double-game with the Giants. . . . Bengie, J. Elliott and Boien had been pounded for 16 hits and 8 to 2 win in the first game as the Giants took advantage of every break. . . . Collins came along and nearly entered the hall of fame in that second game, a 3 to 0 affair, but Shanty Hogan had to get a single in the second. Walker gave up nine hits in that game.

Led by Gehrig and Chapman, the Yanks got 21 hits off MacFayden, Lincoln, Morin, and McLoughlin, and beat them 11 to 4 before a big crowd. Chapman got two homers, Gehrig one, with every player on the club getting one or more hits. Ryne got four out of five for the Red Sox who got nine hits off Johnson.

Only a tiny crowd greeted the Senators when they returned home from a disastrous road trip, and their victory over the Athletics failed to worry their supporters to any extent. Crowder beat the Macks 5 to 1, being opposed by old Ed Rommel. Myer, Manush, and West led the Washington nine hit attack which brought runs in in four different innings.

Although the White Sox made eight errors, and Thomas, Weland, Lyons, and Frasier gave up 10 hits in a hectic 12 inning game, the Tigers were unable to beat the Sox who got 10 hits of Uble and Huggett to win a 10 to 8 game. The game was one of the most interesting and yet rugged ever played in Detroit, with both teams holding the lead three times during the game.

After losing three straight games, the Browns turned on the Indians and won a double bill. Stewart held them to seven hits in the first game which ended 8 to 3 in favor of the Browns. Jablonowski, Lawson, and Harder were nipped for 11 hits. Averill hit a homer off Stewart. . . . Coffman gave up 11 hits and had a hard time, but he beat the Indians 6 to 3 as the result of a four run, eighth inning rally. Brown and Harder gave up 14 hits, including a homer by Golia.

Who Deserves The Praise?

Shortly after the government's announcement that it would exchange 25,000,000 bushels of wheat for 1,050,000 bags of Brazilian coffee, when praise was first being showered upon the Farm Board for this unique, somewhat unorthodox, but soundly economic-sounding scheme, many different individuals and factions came rushing forward to receive credit for the origin of the plan. Friends of Mr. Hoover were showering him with praise; Mr. Legge of the Farm Board was carrying his chest a little full, with his thumbs stuck into his suspenders. And a couple of New York business men, high in financial circles, were given credit by those "in the know" for negotiating the entire deal, with Hoover and Legge having nothing to do with it except to give their approval.

But at about the same time that the credit for the plan was passed along to the New Yorkers, it developed that a number of phases of the wheat and coffee swapping program had been overlooked. It developed that from a political point of view—whatever it might be, economically speaking—the undertaking was not all it had been cracked up to be. For instance, if the Farm Board could take 25,000,000 bushels of its wheat out of government warehouses, and send it to Brazil—although Brazil had not been in the market for American wheat—why shouldn't the Farm Board have engineered the deal in such a way that the wheat farmers themselves, now getting less than cost for their product, could have received some of the benefit from the transaction? Certainly it was not contemplated to gain votes for Hoover through the farm belt.

Shipping circles too are highly incensed. It seems that in the hurry to close the deal, the negotiators overlooked the fact that by all the rules of right and decency, both the wheat and coffee should be transported in American ships. American ship companies are paying big taxes in support of the United States government. They too are feeling the effects of the depression. Freight transportation as well as tourist travel has fallen off an alarming degree. The transportation of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat, and 1,050,000 bags of coffee is not to be sneezed at by any self-respecting shipping line. But Hoover and his cohorts overlooked American bottoms completely.

Then too there was the squawk raised by the National Coffee Roasters' Association. How in the world can the coffee roasters make money with the federal government competing against them in the same business? The acquisition of 1,050,000 bags of coffee makes the government the largest single owner of coffee in the United States. The amount of coffee which the government has contracted for is sufficient, the association points out, to supply three cups of coffee daily to every man, woman, and child in the United States for more than a month. Business is bad enough now, they say, without having the government take their best trade away from them.

So it goes. A wise man is not hasty in taking credit for any public achievement. He never can tell when this praise he receives at first will come boomeranging back and bite him on the ears. The best policy for public officials and civic leaders is to do the best they can and let the praise fall where it will.

The Goal Of The Citrus Exchange

In continuing its fight for 75 per cent control of the citrus crop, we believe that the Florida Citrus Exchange is actuated by a sincere desire to be of greater service to the growers of this state and that their campaign, already showing substantial results, will sooner or later reach its goal. Lack of co-operation among the growers of Florida has been their chief problem for many years. The Exchange provides the only recognized means of co-operation available.

"The Exchange has been handicapped in its operation and in the benefits it can bring to the industry and the grower because of the lack of support of the growers," says the Tampa Tribune. "If the growers would realize that, with 75 per cent control of the crop, the Exchange would be enabled to do much more than it has already done for their advantage and profit, they would not hesitate to become affiliated with it. With that control, the Exchange could greatly enlarge its facilities, extend its service, increase its advertising of Florida fruit, which would produce a greater demand, get access to markets which it has hitherto been unable to reach, give valuable assistance to the grower by investigating and applying new ideas in production, grove management and pack, and immeasurably improve conditions all along the line. This, the Exchange asserts, it would be able to do without increasing the cost per box now retained for its operation.

"The Exchange has been recognized by the Federal Farm Board as the only organization of its kind in the state to which the Board will extend financial aid. This recognition should establish the value of the Exchange to every thoughtful grower in the state.

"The grower cannot accomplish anything for himself by remaining on the outside and kicking. He can get on the inside and become an active factor in making things better for himself, for the industry and for the state. If the Exchange does not succeed in attaining the goal it now seeks, the industry will continue in the unfortunate condition which now exists, lacking stabilization, cooperation and constructive operation. It can attain that goal in only one way—by the growers who are now on the outside, tearing down, becoming growers on the inside, building up."

STABILIZING COMMODITIES TAMPA TRIBUNE

The proposal of Governor Hoop of Louisiana, to negotiate with foreign powers to the end of declaring a year's holiday in cotton raising, as a method of stabilizing that commodity is regarded in market centers, according to the New York Times, as but the first of a series of plans which will enter the negotiating stages within the next few months, each of them aimed at clearing conditions in various commodities. The progress of the Chamberlain plan for the stabilizing of the sugar market has been watched with interest, and the announcement that Cuba had been successful in disposing of the allotted portion for this year out of the surplus segregated last year for disposal over a five-year period has given stimulus to plans which have lain dormant pending the results of the effort in the sugar industry.

Thomas L. Chamberlain, organizer and chief negotiator of the sugar stabilization plan, has been commended by Albert Street, industry which has a large sur-

THE FLYING LINER NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

At last, after so many months of anticipation and so many advance notices, New York has seen the impressive majesty of the famous "flying ship." Riding easily on the tremendous thrust of her twelve motors, and with several ordinary planes buzzing like swarms beside her great hull and huge spread of wing, the DO-X passed up the North River looking, indeed, like a liner of the air. She makes an instant appeal to the imagination. The fact that it is possible to lift a great structure of this sort into the air—a true ship, with her large crew and sixty passengers, with her fuel and stores, her three decks, her pilot house and engine and radio rooms and all her elaborate living quarters—is still just a little difficult to credit. But we have now seen it done.

In spite of the many misfortunes which have followed the DO-X in her long course from Europe, the achievement which she represents is a very fine one. When in 1928 Dr. Dornier undertook his bold experiment in the new field of size it was confidently supposed that the airplane was reaching a structural limit. The larger the plane, it was assumed, the greater would be the proportion of dead weight which would have to go into the structure itself. The DO-X disproved the thesis, and Dr. Dornier now sets no limits to the possible size which flying vessels may reach. The DO-X can take off with a total weight, plane and load together, of more than fifty tons, but her designer thinks that within a decade, we may see flying boats of 100 tons displacement.

Because of her size, many people leaped at once to the idea that she was intended for long ocean passages. It was, of course, a mistake. Increasing the size of the airplane does not increase its radius; like all other planes, the DO-X can get radius only by conceding to be a much more difficult task than was the sugar stabilization, because of the various anti-trust and industrial espionage laws which exist in the United States. Any agreement on restriction and segregation would have to be a governmental matter as corporations or individuals would be answerable under either the Clayton or Sherman act so far as the federal government was concerned and probably to one or more of the state laws of similar import.

The prohibition director opposed the use of paid informers during a discussion of economy measures. He exhibited a resolution adopted by a recent meeting of deputy prohibition administrators gathered in New Orleans from Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

The deputies pledged "belief in and support of the provisions of the Eighteenth Amendment," and favored "limitation of the use of paid informers, except in rare cases where regular agents cannot make the desired contacts." The resolution named other avenues of economy such as limitation of the shifting about of agents so as to reduce traveling expenses, and the grouping of prohibition cases on court dockets in order that agents may spend less of their time in the court rooms.

Woodcock said he intended to leave Sept. 9 to continue his tour of inspection in the South, visiting Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida. He will then have visited every state in the union since taking office little more than a year ago.

Citrus Inspection Men Begin Duties Today

WINTER HAVEN, Sept. 1.—(A.P.)—The citrus inspection bureau opened its fourth season here today with O. G. Strauss, federal supervising fruit inspector in charge.

Strauss believes the green fruit law will be greatly aided this season by the recent decision of Federal judges upholding the constitutionality of the state law prohibiting the use of arsenic spray in groves.

He said unlike the first day of last season, no applications had been received yet for the opening of packing houses. Despite the prospect of a smaller crop, he said he expected as many inspectors will be employed.

"The announcement was made at a tea given by the bride-elect's sister, Mrs. F. K. Tyler, yesterday afternoon, at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Albert Stalder, 12 S. E. "The central decoration of the lace-covered tea table was a miniature bridal couple encircled by pink radiance roses and fernery, with tall unshaded pink tapers in crystal holders at either side.

"Assisting in serving was a group of young women, intimate friends of the bride-elect, including Miss Lucy Moore, Miss Della Hart, Miss Nina Mae Cook and Miss Nettie Rodgers. Miss Mildred Horton presided at the punch bowl, and Miss Dolly Coyle greeted the guests at the door.

Eastern Air Transport

Smoking compartment, Washington-New York plane. Hostess offering Chesterfields. Photos by courtesy Eastern Air Transport, Inc.

Dear Peggy

I'm almost too excited to write, and there's so much to see, both inside the plane and out. We've left Washington behind now, and I've just had a Chesterfield in the smoking compartment—they serve them on every ship.

"Among the eighteen passengers there's a senator and a foreign diplomat, and I'm surprised at the number of women. The trip is two hundred miles and the meter in the cabin reads two miles a minute, think of that.

"For me, the Chesterfields were the nicest touch of all. I was just dying for a smoke, and when the hostess passed them (and my favorite cigarette at that) everyone else seemed as tickled as I was. And my—they did taste good!

Chesterfields are served in the smoking compartments of all these planes—the largest and most luxurious in the East. With the fast growth of air travel, Chesterfield makes many new friends each day, here as in city streets and country homes—wherever good taste counts.

A mild cigarette—delightfully mild and smooth—with a tobacco fragrance all its own.

Whether you're air-minded or not, you'll always find Chesterfield on the air-line to taste—the quickest way to get there. They Satisfy!
