Attorney Says 'No' Church Vs. State Crunch In W. Springs?

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Does the request of a Presbyterian minister for permission to rent the Winter Springs recreation building constitute a question of separation of church and state? Rev. Hugh C. Hamilton, who plans to found a church in the Winter Springs community, doesn't think so. The request for use of the recreation building was contained in a letter from Rev. Hamilton to the city, which also asked for a reduced rate for renting the facility. "We only want to rent the building on Sunday mornings and pay the commercial rate of $80 for a four-hour segment the anyone else," said Rev. Hamilton today.

"We asked for a lower rate only because someone in city hall told us that a reduction in rates is given at times if the use requested is for the Winter Springs community."

Rev. Hamilton said that he would hope to use the building on Sunday mornings indefinitely for several months—and to press on to the organization of a

10-Name Plan Voted, Page 2A

Presbyterian church in Winter Springs. Rev. Hamilton's letter was read into the record of the Winter Springs council meeting Wednesday night. Councilman John Daniels, chairing the meeting as deputy mayor in the absence of Mayor Troy Pined, said the question which came to his mind was one of separation of church and state.

He said the question would be referred to City Attorney Gary Massey, also absent from the meeting, for an opinion.

"As long as the church is charged the same rate as would be charged any other group for renting the building, there would be no problem with the doctrine of separation of church and state," said City Attorney Gary Massey, contacted at his Altamonte Springs law office today.

"I have to do some research on Rev. Hamilton's request to place signs near the facility, however," said Massey. "I didn't even realize there were even signs up there. It may be all right."

"My gut reaction is that as long as the city isn't doing anything it would not do for someone else, there is no problem. If it was voluntarily letting the church use the building or giving it a reduced rate, that would be something else," the attorney said.

Mary Wilson, the city hall clerk in charge of renting the recreation building said today that no one else in the two years the building has been available for the use of the public has ever asked to rent the facility on Sunday mornings. And, she added, as far as she knows no one has ever been denied rental of the building.

Job Suit Alive

Legal counsel for Alfred G. DeLattibaudiere, 680 1/2 South Sanford Ave., has refuted his discrimination suit against Seminole County in Orlando federal district court, according to DeLattibaudiere.

The suit against the county was dismissed two weeks ago by U.S. District Court Judge John A. Reed Jr. because Larry Jackson, DeLattibaudiere's attorney, failed to answer within the required time the county's motion to dismiss the case.

Originally the suit was filed July 25. DeLattibaudiere claims he was discriminated against because he is black in being rejected for a position as county building inspector. He has asked for $52,000 in back pay in the suit. He claims a less qualified white person was hired for the job in May 1972.

Jackson had until Wednesday to refute the suit.

David Korreich, the county's labor attorney, suggested in late January the county hire DeLattibaudiere until the case is resolved. He speculated the suit might be held up in court for two years.

The federal office of revenue sharing ruled that there may be grounds for DeLattibaudiere's claim.

In a Jan. 17 letter to Bernardine Deming, director of the office of revenue sharing, Korreich said the county had entered "conciliation negotiations" with DeLattibaudiere.

Korreich said the county has indicated its willingness to offer Mr. DeLattibaudiere a building inspector's position.

However, he, county maintained that "very little, if any" backpay would be offered DeLattibaudiere.

CAR FLIPS, SHE'S OK

Maria L. Wheeler, 24, of DeBary, is carried to ambulance after losing control of her car (upper right) on U.S. 17-82 near Lake Monroe last week of Sanford. Carrying her are David Hill (left), an off-duty Seminole County fireman who was in the area when the accident occurred Wednesday and Kyle Woodard of Herndon Ambulance Service. Seminole County rescue workers pried her car door open, and she was admitted for observation at Seminole Memorial Hospital. She was listed in good condition this morning.

Colson On Haldeman Book: It's The 'Greatest Hoax Since Irving'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Charles Colson said today he feels "great compassion" for H.R. Haldeman, but accused Haldeman of breaking his word to Richard Nixon and writing a hoax book about Watergate.

"There's, of course, a lot of money involved," said Colson. "It looks to me like the greatest hoax to come along since Clifford Irving (who wrote a book about Howard Hughes, then admitted it was a hoax)."

Haldeman, still serving a "Watergate prison sentence," was President Nixon's top aide at the White House and Colson was another top Nixon assistant.

"I don't know because I saw Bob in prison, and I want to say right at this point that I feel great compassion for Bob and for his wife. I can't understand what's in the man's mind."

"When I visited him last October, he told me that he had called the former president to tell him that the book would not contain any allegations that would be unfair or unkind or that he would not portray him badly in the book, which of course he does. He also told me there weren't any charges in there involving me."

CHARLES COLSON H.R. HALDEMAN

Colson was interviewed on the ABC Good Morning America program.

Haldeman says Nixon was involved in the Watergate cover-up from "day one" and three days after the break-in at Democratic National Headquarters on June 17, 1972, he told Haldeman they would be raising money for the Watergate defendants.

Haldeman contends the impetus for the break-in stemmed from Nixon's and presidential assistant Colson's desire to "get the goods" on Democratic Party Chairman Lawrence O'Brien. And he says Nixon later tried to destroy the taped evidence, but couldn't do so because he simply couldn't operate a tape recorder.

"Which leads me to my own theory of who initiated the Watergate break-in, Richard Nixon, himself, caused those burglars to break into O'Brien's office," Haldeman writes.

Haldeman's theory about the famous 10 1/2 minute gap on one of the tape recordings made of conversations in the oval office is that Nixon tried unsuccessfully to make the erasures himself and then left it to someone else, possibly his secretary Rosemary Woods, to do the job.

"Nixon was the least devious man I have ever known. It would be too elegant a word to describe his mechanical aptitude," he says.

Haldeman also offers an unflattering description of Colson, who earned a reputation as the president's hatchman. "Dealing with Colson was no fun for White House staffers at any level," Haldeman writes.

Haldeman indicates Nixon considered delaying the Supreme Court order to turn over his tapes if the ruling turned out not to be unanimous. The decision was unanimous, however, and Nixon announced his compliance seven hours after the court acted.

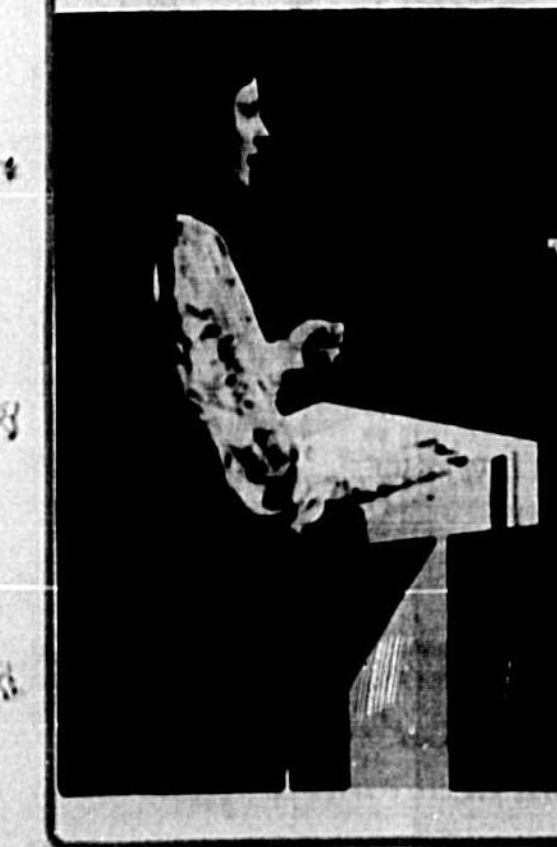

Haldeman, 51, is now serving a prison term for his role in the Watergate cover-up. He portrays himself as having been surrounded by lawyers who plotted every move to protect themselves.

Less Pressure, Lower Utility Rates?

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) —

One of the results in the race to be Florida's next Public Counsel says utility rates could be lowered if political pressure were taken off the Public Service Commission.

Philip B. Muller, who is counsel to the commission, says political pressure on the commission, which sets telephone, electric, water and sewer rates, has made lower rates for Florida utility users.

In another state, a committee charged with studying the need to check on the claim of a string of victories for the chairman.

Chairman Ed Fortane, D-Pace, completing his term as utility, said the public was interested in a steady source of electricity as well as low rates.

Complacency To Calamity?

The Congress is complacent about enacting an urgently needed energy program partly because the American people, whom it represents, are complacent about this issue.

And the average citizen is complacent because the fuel he needs for his car or home remains available at tolerable prices.

National complacency, however, is beginning to invite national calamity.

Failure to agree on a policy to conserve energy and stimulate domestic production simply means an increasingly dangerous dependence on foreign oil.

Our oil imports last year rose to almost 50 percent of our needs and cost this country an arm and a leg—$42.3 billion.

This economic hemorrhage, in turn, meant a huge trade deficit of $98.7 billion. By purchasing so much more than we sold, we have flooded the international market with dollars.

Under the law of economics, which is as inescapable as the law of gravity, an oversupply of dollars has lessened the demand for them, hence decreasing their value in terms of goods and services—and specifically in terms of oil.

Unless the United States comes up with a credible energy program, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries is likely to increase the price of oil, which will further weaken the dollar and lead to increased inflation on a worldwide scale.

Even worse, some OPEC nations are threatening to denigrate oil prices in a "basket" of currencies, or in terms of strong currency such as the German mark, instead of solely in dollars as at present.

This would hurt U.S. trade partners such as Japan, which have been buying oil with cheap U.S. dollars.

In short, by debasing our currency at home and abroad through our energy failure, we Americans are now threatening the whole world with a West German Economic Minister Otto Lambsdorff warned, "energetic monetary problems."

When our national carelessness and profligacy begin to invite national economic calamity, and moreover, threaten injury to millions of people abroad, then, clearly, we're long overdue for correction.

Our readers can individually contribute toward constructive action by simply writing their senators and congressmen to get off the dime.

Teamster Pensions

The suit filed by the Labor Department against Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons and other trustees of the union's pension fund is not likely to recover the estimated half-billion dollars lost through their mismanagement.

Although personally liable under the law, the trustees would be hard pressed to produce the funds from their own pockets if the court should order them to.

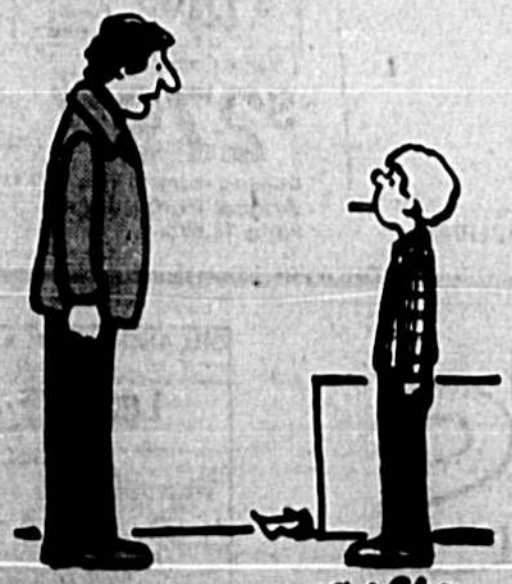

But the suit has focused the attention of the public and of union members on the misuses of the Teamsters huge Central States Fund. It does not preclude criminal charges.

The government action promises to bring order to an area historically plagued by scandal.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Hey, wow! How adult can you look?!"

Around

The Clock

By JANE CANNONBERRY

There was when going out to eat there were enticed with a good steak done to order, Southern fried chicken, or maybe some tasty seafood. No more. These days when eating out, there are more demanding. They are looking for gourmet food, fun, good service, and entertainment. Recently part of a Disney World Night Kingdom experience or the latest in the past brought on by the Mountaintop, these restaurants with gourmet chefs have sprung up — some newly with added outdoor space and a restaurant off in rural or urban areas.

Do you want to enjoy meals and old time service with your family? Play your cards and entertain guests with your own special menu? A jazz combo with your friends? A Broadway musical with your family? Or a dinner and the last of the best of the Mountaintop with your own best seafood? An exceptional gourmet dinner in a river boat? A thrilling visit with your cousin? You name it. Central Florida has it. Sounded like to Mr. P's and another restaurant with period decor is proposed for the downtown area.

But the other night we discovered one of the best restaurants around. It was like a trip into the past as if it had been built in the 1920s. In a 1927 French farmhouse converted into a restaurant for the 19th Aero Squadron located at all places in the middle of Orlando Airport.

It is perfect in detail down to the WWI ambience and the crystal chandelier in the center as you walk in, to mention that French cuisine served by the "Red Cross nurses" in their white uniforms.

Fire departments are encouraging home owners to install early warning systems that are triggered by heat or smoke to sound an alarm, but there is at least one well in Longwood that is giving the fire chief a headache. It seems the combination fire and burglar alarm has gone off when the residents were not at home, but it was unable to penetrate the "Red Cross nurse" in their white uniforms.

When several emergency vehicles rushed to the scene they found it was a false alarm. Fire Chief Charles Chapman told the city council that the fire alarm system was installed by the Greater Sanford Area Ministerial Association. The inter-denominational service will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center. His title on the theme "How to Hear God's Voice" should be especially appropriate during this Lenten season for the local Christian community.

Popular religious conference speaker Peter Lord, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist Church of Titusville, will be in Sanford Monday to Wednesday (Feb. 19-21) to conduct a Prayer Line Crusade sponsored by the Greater Sanford Area Ministerial Association. ANGLE-WALTERS Who Wants Jimmy's Assistance?

WASHINGTON — President Carter's promise to campaign for congressional Democrats in the re-election this year raises an embarrassing question: Who wants him? Although party leaders are delighted Carter will devote more time to politics than he has to date, not every Democrat in Congress is exactly clamoring for a presidential campaign appearance.

A substantial number, although by no means the majority, fear Carter could prove a liability to their own races and would just as soon not have him around embracing "my good friend and fellow Democrat."

The jitters are most noticeable among senators and House members from oil-producing states, the farm belt and the West — areas where Carter's standing in the public opinion polls is at its lowest.

"I want to be as diplomatic as possible in saying this," cracked Rep. Andy Jacobs, D-Ind. "He'll be a drag in 1979, and they expect to win the most of his colleagues — intends to run on her own record, not the administration's."

"The West just doesn't understand him," Schroeder said. "We no longer have Polish jobs, we have Georgian jobs."

In short, by debasing our currency at home and abroad through our energy failure, we Americans are now threatening the whole world with a West German Economic Minister Otto Lambsdorff warned, "energetic monetary problems."

When our national carelessness and profligacy begin to invite national economic calamity, and moreover, threaten injury to millions of people abroad, then, clearly, we're long overdue for correction.

Whistle While You Work

LIGHTER SIDE Say, Spare That Tune

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assuming a decent interval has elapsed since his recent death in Arizona, it's time for some straight talk about Tim McCoy.

Contrary to many of his obituaries, and despite his 10 films, McCoy was never in the front line of movie cowboy careers.

In the silent westerns and early talkies that constituted the golden age of horse operas, he was overshadowed by Tom Mix, Buck Jones and Hood Gribbon.

But anybody who saw them all in their prime. They'll tell you the same.

I was a Hood Gribbon man myself. Hood could do it all. Ride, rope, shoot. Fast draw. With both hands. Simultaneously. Handy with his fists. Good judge of women and horses. Strong sense of rectitude. Unspurring of the wicked. And modest almost to a fault.

Just below the top triumvirate came McCoy, Ken Maynard and Bob Steele.

I'll give you my judgment — and I was something of a connoisseur — Steele was technically a better movie cowboy than Maynard or McCoy.

In some respects, he was right up there with Mix, Jones and Gribbon. But Bob Steele had light curly hair, and therefore was not to be entirely trusted.

Tim McCoy was the "most important" cowboy in these days. You wanted a guy up there on the screen that you could count on when the did the firm merely represent oil companies; it got into bed with them.

One partner is a director of Tippecanoe Company, a $18.5 million oil and gas firm in Texas. Another partner is the board of Amstar Oil, a company that tried to win a backbone price depreciation case a few years ago.

Coleman's law partners are also involved in several interlocks with the First City Bankers of Texas, the big Houston banking company that often handles the oil industry. John Connolly, for one, is a director of the huge multibillion-dollar holding company. He sits on the board with representatives of such oil companies as Exxon, Superior and Quintana.

An alarmed Sen. Howard M. Robinson, D-Ore, has raised a series of questions in a private letter to Senate Energy Chairman Henry Jackson, D-Wash. "Mr. Coleman's long-standing ties with the oil and natural gas industry will raise continuing questions about conflicts of interest and favoritism within the new Energy Department," wrote Robinson.

He noted that the United States has 235,000 lawyers, many of them qualified to serve as general counsel of the Energy Department.

"Surely," he wrote, "the president could have found one attorney who does not have the murky and identification of oil and natural gas interests for such a sensitive position."

VIEWPOINT No Such Thing As Junk

By DON CRAFF

An antique is an antique is an antique — still. A certain amount of time must pass (U.S. Customs says 100 years) before an artifact, whatever its artistic merit, can qualify.

But a collector's item — or collector — is something else again. There is no such restriction on various odds and ends of the consumer society.

Even so, Britain may be setting a new record for the speed with which yesterday's souvenir becomes today's treasured collectible. Queen Elizabeth II's Silver Jubilee year has been consigned to history for only a few weeks, but already a thriving collectors' market is developing in merchandise of the great event.

School Plan: Compromise

By MARYLENE BRIDGMAN Herald Staff Writer

Only time will tell if Seaside County School Superintendent William Laver's team of 100 transferring more students from Forest City Elementary School are successful. Laver had proposed that 270 students from that school be transferred because of overcrowding and the opening of the new Weirha Elementary School, but that 100 more students be transferred out of six other schools for the same reason. But, parents objecting to the proposed changes won at least part of their battle Wednesday when the school board voted to transfer 100 students from Forest City Elementary School to Weirha Elementary School. The board also voted to transfer 100 students from Forest City Elementary School to Weirha Elementary School. Peril If Canal Pacts Not OK'd, She Says

By MAX BRINKLEY Herald Staff Writer

Failure to ratify the Panama Canal Treaty could add to the U.S. military presence in the Canal Zone, a U.S. State Department representative, told students and the general public Wednesday at Seminoles Community College. She was asked by one student if withdrawal of American troops from the canal zone would heighten the possibility of a "Communist threat," she replied, "I don't think so," she replied. "I think perhaps the opposite is true. There is more of a threat if the treaty is not ratified, because it will remove the anti-American feeling."

American leaders viewed the canal as a form of "isolationism." She told the gathering the canal was built to give the United States a shorter route to the Mediterranean River on the Atlantic. "Imagine trying to go from Texas to Louisiana and having to go through an area with different laws and customs where they speak a different language. That's what it is like every day," she said. "I don't think so," she replied. "I think perhaps the opposite is true. There is more of a threat if the treaty is not ratified, because it will remove the anti-American feeling."

Arms Sale Flap: U.S. Policy Real Issue

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) —

Israel's condemnation of the U.S. proposal to sell weapons to Egypt and Saudi Arabia came as no surprise, but the U.S. proposal to sell arms to the Arab states from Israel-occupied territories, particularly Egypt, has caused a major diplomatic crisis. Arms Sales Irk Critical Dayan

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

U.S. arms sales to Arab countries should be tied to a Middle East peace agreement, Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan suggested. At the same time — and sparked by the U.S. sales — Dayan says he doubts the country can maintain its "broker's role" in the Middle East negotiations.

SCC Building Cited By Panel

The Fine Arts Facility at Seminoles Community College will be spotlighted at the five day American Association of School Administrators annual convention beginning today in Atlanta. The facility was designed by the Seaside firm of Gotschall, Brogan, Association, which received the award of merit of the AIAA Florida chapter of the American Institute of Architects last December for design of the Fine Arts building. The facility contains about one acre of floor space and houses all academic and administrative functions for the art, drama and music departments.

The representatives of the Department of Defense that worked on the treaty reportedly emphasized that the canal's only military value is as a method of moving supplies, she said.

Briefly To Hillsborough College

The Seminole Community College (SCC) baseball team dropped a double-header to Hillsborough Community College. They lost the first game, 5-2, the second, 3-1. SCC's season record stands at 3-3-1. The Raiders had 13 hits in the first contest and left 13 men stranded on base. Hillsborough had only seven hits. Two high hits to the outfield were led in the sun by SCC players, costing the team four runs in the second inning. That proved to be the winning margin. Buck Buchanan went 4-4 in the losing effort. He went 3-2 in the second game. SCC plays Friday in DeLand and Saturday at the college against Miami-Dade University.

Altamonte Golf Tourney

The Altamonte Springs Recreation Department sponsored an employee-guest golf tournament at the Seaside Golf Course. Thirty-six entries competed in the first annual event. Winners were Mike Joiner, best men's score; Wally McNamee, best women's score. Dick Walker and Don Fritz won closest to the pin while Charlie Bile and Tom Siegrist won the longest drive competitions.

Las Vegas, Nev. (UPI) — It only hurt for a little while, but, hardly an hour after losing the world heavyweight title to Muhammad Ali, Leon Spinks was back on his feet. He was back up in his hotel suite, surrounded by his family, and actually joking over his defeat. "You know, he had hit the full impact of his loss sitting in his dressing room, applying a cold compress to his puffed up swollen features right after the fight," he said. "But he didn't sit in a chair in the back of the room with his wife, Veronica, standing at his side. Every few moments, she would lean down close to his forehead, purring face and whisper reassuring endearments into his ear."

Father Time (And Spinks) Beat Ali, Rematch Sought

Spinks Stages Amazing Upset

By United Press International

Leon Spinks, the oldest of seven children, learned to fight in the ghetto of St. Louis, based the skills in the Marine Corps that led him to an Olympic title and on to win the heavyweight title as a 10-1 shot. In defeating Muhammad Ali, 30, perhaps the most renowned heavyweight champion in history, Spinks claimed the greatest upset in 62 years since Jim Braddock captured Max Baer in 1935. Spinks, 34, who throws left-handed like a baseball, was seen with Gene Tunney, also an ex-Marine, and Rocky Marciano as the fighters who have beaten legends. Tunney beat Jack Dempsey in 1937 — for which some fans held him guilty. Marciano, the Spinks an untamed but strong puncher, knocked out aging former champion Joe Louis in 1951.

FORMER CHAMPION MUHAMMAD ALI

Spinks was fighting amateur exhibitions by the time he was 15 — right off the tough streets of St. Louis' Pruitt Igo Projects and out of the classroom of Vachon High School. On the stand to receive his gold medal, Spinks wept and later spoke of his plans for his mother and his family. Spinks was fighting amateur exhibitions by the time he was 15 — right off the tough streets of St. Louis' Pruitt Igo Projects and out of the classroom of Vachon High School.

Las Vegas (UPI) — Muhammad Ali grew old in the ring at the age of 38 and in a split decision reluctantly bestowed his heavyweight championship to 36-year-old upstart Leon Spinks. Spinks' victory was a surprise to many. Every punch Spinks threw, Father Time was there to double it. Every stance Ali began, Father Time was there to double it. Ali aged 10 years in an hour. "I really got my ass kicked on his back," Ali said moments after the fight, the blood still fresh on his lower lip and heavy swollen. Spinks, virtually unscathed, fought an improved 15-round bout, attacking Ali with untamed fury, completing his run from a St. Louis ghetto to sport's richest prize. Only 17½ months ago Spinks was the Olympic 170-pound gold medalist and, 30 pounds heavier, he carried one of the greatest upsets in ring history. "The world is his playpen and he wants to frolic. 'I want to relax, enjoy myself and blow a few dollars,' Spinks said as he hugged his friends and relatives in the hush-filled after-glow arena. "I've had five dreams — to be the Olympic champion and to be the world heavyweight champion. I've got them both now. I've got everything."

'There's A New Champ, There's A...'

New York (UPI) — This city, scene of many title fights, buzzed Wednesday night with the news that upstart Leon Spinks had dethroned Muhammad Ali as the 16-round fight in Las Vegas, Nev. "He's a shame," said one visitor from Canada, learning that Ali, the 36-year-old champion, lost a split decision to Spinks in a 15-round fight in Las Vegas, Nev. Valencia Stuns Seminole Shooting 86 percent from the floor in the second half, Valencia trounced Seminole 111-77 in a Division II basketball game Wednesday night at the Seminole Community College. The game was played Wednesday in Seminole and Valencia trailed 30-20 at the half. Valencia's Willie Williams led the Seminoles with 19 points and Bob Zippo had 18, but it wasn't enough to catch the blazing

Teen Wants Mom's Okay To Settle Hairy Matter

DEAR ABBY: Thanks a lot for asking that mother who didn't want her 15-year-old daughter to start shaving her legs to please reconsider. You said, "How a girl feels about herself is very important."

Dear Abby

You're right, Abby. I'm 15 and my mother won't let me shave my legs. Just about every girl in school shaves her legs, and some even slip behind their mother's backs to do it. I don't want to go against my mother, but I wish she'd let me shave. When the kids at school laugh and make fun of me, I pretend I don't care, but I do. Can you put in a good word for me?

Dear Abby: My husband is like her — only he's 12. He not only "nudges" the girls, he always has a compliment for waitresses and checkout girls. No matter what they look like, when he tells them they're pretty, they light up like a Christmas tree!

HAIRY
If you want to shave your legs because all the other girls do, it's not a good enough reason. But if you're really "hairy", ask your mother to take a good look at the age where SHE needs glasses.

DEAR ABBY: May I answer the woman who gets angry and upset when her husband "nudges" the girls?

DEAR MABEL: And as the old proverbial saying goes to say, "A woman is as old as she looks, and a man isn't old until he gets looking."

DEAR ABBY: What business requesting that they try to locate a missing relative, please to contact and do not write again. The response was being processed as rapidly as possible.

Volunteer Coordinates School Art Curriculum

By JOAN MADBON
Special Correspondent

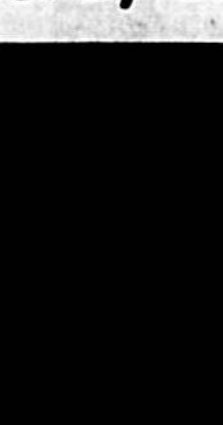

Some people see a volunteer as a person who helps out in a program or activity. They consider Others see the same volunteer. They take action. Loretta Wright is among the latter. She is a volunteer at her during Florida School Volunteer Week. Upon learning that English Estates Elementary School had no art teacher or class, she volunteered to teach an occasional art class, but found herself regretting that all the children were not getting this enrichment. She persisted. And after much consultation, planning, and organization, became the full-time volunteer coordinator of the English Estates art curriculum, with 21 enthusiastic volunteers under her leadership. She's convinced after teaching art for 20 years, that art is valuable not only from a creative point of view for stimulating the imagination and the self, but is also, especially on this level, very therapeutic for many children. Mrs. Wright is concerned about the slow learner, not quite able to keep up with the competition, who brings home D's and C's on his paper. His self-image is not too high. But this same child may excel on an art project. Art can provide a much needed ego boost not only to the slow learner but also to better students. As she demonstrated how working with small groups in a craft or using cutters develops coordination. Mrs. Wright said, "With small children art is almost a medical therapeutic thing. It helps in the development of small muscles." Mrs. Wright's office is filled with ideas for creative projects related to holidays, seasons, academic subjects — ideas she promotes, ideas the volunteers suggest, or ideas the teachers request to be used with subjects under discussion. The volunteers devote many hours each week to planning and preparing for their classes. Until recently they had to purchase their own supplies and work from scraps donated by parents, until the PTA, impressed with the program, began to donate funds to it.
