State Says No; Hospital Appealing

Sanford Hospital Wants Heart Testing Equipment

By Diane Petryk
Herald News Editor

The state has blocked a plan by the Sanford hospital to build a special diagnostic facility for cardiac patients, saying services in Orange County can meet the need, but the hospital will appeal, its administrator said.

Central Florida Regional Hospital decided in 1984 it would like to build a cardiac catheterization laboratory. The lab would require an addition to the hospital and that, together with equipping the lab, would cost about $2 million.

But Hospital Administrator Jim Tesar said the lab would mean perhaps 500 patients a year in the hospital's service area would not need to go to Orange County for tests provided by such a lab. That would save inconvenience and cost as well as prevent a break in the continuity of care for each patient.

Cardiac catheterization is a technique that allows doctors to visualize the interior of arteries carrying blood to the heart. Blockages can thus be pinpointed, facilitating treatment by surgery or other medical means.

CFRH Chief of Staff Dr. Jorge Gomez said the procedure involves inserting a catheter, a slender tube containing dye, into one of the main arteries, usually at the groin area. This procedure is done under local anesthetic.

The catheter is made to release dye into the arteries and their branches. The dye highlights any blockages with use of an X-ray procedure. A computer is then used to measure the dynamics of heart function, Gomez said.

Tesar estimated the cost of the procedure to be between $900 and $1,500 per patient, depending on the extent of the exam, plus the cardiologist's fee.

Because Central Florida Regional Hospital does not provide open heart surgery, acute cardiac cases, such as heart attack victims, would be transferred to another hospital regardless of the availability of cardiac catheterization at CFRH, Gomez said. But he added that about 50 percent of the patients who are recommended for the catheterization procedure do not require surgery. These are the patients who would benefit most by the facility being available locally.

Because it is a computerized facility, Tesar said it requires computer space as well as an examining and waiting rooms and X-ray darkroom. The hospital had planned to build the facility as an extension of its radiology department on the east side of the building towards the back or south side. If CFRH wins its appeal and is given the go-ahead, construction should take six to nine months to complete, according to Jim Jernigan.

'Be Cool Without Drugs'

Sanford Organizes Anti-Drug Effort

Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

An organized effort is under way in Sanford to combat drug abuse on all fronts through a support network of citizen volunteers, city officials, city staff and professional counselors.

The network's inception lies with the July 8 Sanford drug prevention rally, when more than 200 residents turned out at the Westside Community Center for the forum city officials sponsored with members of the Grace Apostolic Church.

After the session, city and citizen representatives discussed formation of the drug abuse prevention network and formalized plans during a meeting on Thursday.

Mayor Bettye Smith, a network member, said the group's rapid organization and deployment, less than three weeks after the forum, indicated to her the need for an avenue to fight drug abuse "is so great, people were just waiting for the opportunity to become involved."

The network targets preventing youngsters from turning to drugs by offering information in a manner they'll want to respond to: assisting substance abusers by providing peer and professional support; and, familiarizing parents with drug related trouble signs and the best courses of action adults can take to deal with youngsters' possible involvement with drugs.

Mayor Bettye Smith

Chief Steve Harriett

Through the network, anti-drug information and instruction will be available to children as young as six. The message for all youngsters, "Be Cool Without Drugs," will be echoed throughout the city, through an abundance of seminars, one of the first of which may include a talk by former Miami Dolphins football star Mercury Morris.

Morris is now a vocal proponent of drug abuse prevention, following his own involvement with substance abuse.

For substance abusers, professional counseling will be enhanced by "buddy systems," which will pair drug users with former abusers for peer support.

In addition to Mayor Smith, the network is composed of Apostolic Church members, other city residents, Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett, City Parks and Recreation director Jim Jernigan, and additional staff department staffers.

The group also welcomes anyone who wants to assist its efforts, and is calling out for the community as a whole to promote its message.

The city parks department will begin each of this fall's recreation programs with a drug abuse prevention discussion between youngster and professionals who have volunteered to speak with them, Jernigan said.

Through this avenue, the message will be carried to youngsters ranging in age from six to 17, Jernigan said.

On Aug. 26, the network will host an open seminar for all youngsters at the Sanford Civic Center. The support network hopes to arrange for Morris to serve as featured speaker, Jernigan said.

Reagan Eases His Position On South Africa Sanctions

By E. Michael Myers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan has eased off his opposition to new sanctions against South Africa in an effort to divert a near runaway drive in Congress to punish the government in Pretoria with harsh trade penalties.

Reagan's flexibility came in the face of a looming rebellion among Senate Republican leaders to draft new economic sanctions despite his warning that such measures would be a "historic act of folly."

"We've never closed any doors," Reagan said Thursday at a campaign stop in Columbia, S.C.

Secretary of State George Shultz, accused by Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., of supporting a policy without "moral backbone," said any new sanctions must be in cooperation with America's trade allies.

The movement was welcome news to Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

The chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, Lugar said in an interview today on ABC's "Good Morning America," that negative reaction to Reagan's policy speech "genuinely surprised" the president and "probably had a considerable impact" on his rethinking about sanctions.

Lugar said the Senate bill, now being worked out in committee, would not be the same as the stronger House-passed version but would have "some targeted sanctions that try to influence the leadership ... to end apartheid and get to power sharing."

"I think we can target sanctions ... without hurting people in South Africa that we want to help," Lugar said.

The Indiana senator said he hoped to finish committee work on the bill next week and have it pass, perhaps by two or three votes before the mid-August recess. With House concurrence, Lugar said, Congress "will have a bill ultimately by the time we adjourn this year."

Kennedy reacted by suspending his plan to attach even tougher sanctions, including bans on new U.S. investment in South Africa, to a bill extending the debt ceiling, which is vital legislation.

"He is encouraged by the fact the administration is now not ruling out sanctions and that Lugar is moving promptly to report a bill with strong sanctions," a Kennedy spokesman said.

Husband Sought In Wife's Murder

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

The husband of an Altamonte Springs woman found in her home strangled to death Tuesday is wanted on a second degree murder charge in the case.

Altamonte Springs police continued today to search for Alan Haper, 27, of 518 Baywood Court. Until Thursday, police had said that although Harper had been missing and was being sought he was not considered "a primary suspect" in the killing of his wife, Mary Harper, 23.

Now, the state attorney's office has issued a capias for Harper, who is believed to be in the Central Florida area, police spokesman Jim Viner said.

Lake Mary Budget:

Spending Up, Taxes Down

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

The roller-coaster ride of the proposed 1986-87 property tax rate in the city of Lake Mary hit "the big dip" during a city commission budget session Thursday night.

Increased property values in the city, plus some "creative financing" have sent the proposed 1986-87 fiscal year tax rate below the present year's level. The new fiscal year starts October 1.

The new proposed rate of $3.89 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, 10 cents below the present $3.99 per $1,000 rate will be advertised, and cannot increase. However, it is possible for the final rate to take another wallet tickling dip before final adoption expected in September.

The rate is set at 44-cents per $1,000 of assessed valuation less than had been initially proposed by Lake Mary Mayor Dick Fess in his fiscal year 1986-87 budget message which accompanied the proposed budget submitted on June 19.

Expenditures in the budget for all departments is now set at $1,976,636. The proposed tax rate, based on property tax base of $163,024,029, would generate $635,646, according to city treasurer Madeleine Minns. The balance of revenues to finance the $1.97 million proposed budget will come from permits, state taxes, the utility tax, franchise fees, and other governmental charges, Ms. Minns said.

Commissioners snipped away Thursday night at public works, central garage, fire, communications, and police department budget proposals.

Opponents Of Gramm-Rudman Fix Said 'Paranoid' About OMB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Authors of the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget act are running into some "well-founded paranoia" from opponents of their proposal to put the president's budget chief in charge of final spending cuts.

The questions delayed action Thursday on a crucial bill to lift the federal debt ceiling to $2.3 trillion, to which the sponsors wanted to add their Gramm-Rudman amendment intended to repair the part of the law found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Most of the opposition came from Democrats, but Republicans, too, were worried about giving up congressional power to the administration's Office of Management and Budget.

Gramm-Rudman's automatic-cut feature — the part intended to push Congress to reduce the deficit — was thrown out by the Supreme Court, which said the comptroller general, originally put in charge of automatic cuts, could not make the reductions because he is a legislative, not executive, officer.

Tax Negotiators Report Progress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional tax reform negotiators are reporting major progress toward the broad outlines of a compromise that would use the Senate's radical plan, and its lower tax rates, as the building block for a final bill.

But new revenue estimates outlined to the lawmakers Thursday in a closed-door session showed that the Senate bill, thought to be "revenue-neutral," would actually increase the deficit by $21.2 billion in the next five years.

Senate negotiators vowed to find a way to erase that shortfall quickly.

Once that is accomplished, both sides said they would begin piecing together a general outline for the compromise, which they indicated would likely set tentative tax rates either at, or very close to, the 15 percent and 27 percent levels in the Senate bill. It also would provide more help to the middle class than the Senate measure.

Conflict In Shuttle Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Contrary to testimony by his deputy, the NASA official who headed the shuttle program when Challenger exploded says he did not get details of an August briefing on serious problems with booster rocket seals.

The Rogers Commission said that briefing should have grounded the shuttle fleet, and Jesse Moore testified Thursday had he known the extent of the problem, he would have investigated before the next orbiter was cleared for launch.

The subject was raised by Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., at a hearing of the House Science and Technology Committee reviewing the commission's report on the Jan. 28 Challenger disaster.

At issue was an Aug. 19 briefing at NASA headquarters in which engineers from booster rocket maker Morton Thiokol Inc. and NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center detailed the problems with the rocket O-ring seals that triggered the explosion five months later.

Rain After Drought Increases Danger Of Sinkholes In State

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — The sinkhole threat increases in times of drought, and a sudden burst of precipitation would further exacerbate the danger, University of Florida geologists said Thursday.

Sinkholes form in areas that have layers of limestone rock and shallow water tables. Geologic evolution and slightly acidic water hollow out limestone caverns, which fill with water.

And during droughts — when underground water pockets are not replenished and farmers, industry and individuals pump water from these reserves — water tables fall. This causes roofs of underground caverns to lose support. They may begin to crack and sag, the researchers said.

When heavy rains follow droughts, water sometimes seeps through the cracks in the cavern roofs formed during the dry spell. The roof weakens so much that it collapses, forming a sinkhole, Smith said.

Prosecution To Rest Case

FORT MYERS (UPI) — A prosecutor plans to rest the state's case today against Steven Wayne Benson on trial for first-degree murder for the bombing deaths of his mother and nephew to get his hands on more of her $10 million tobacco inheritance.

In the trial's first night session Thursday, an auditor for the federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau presented evidence that showed Benson may have skimmed nearly $180,000 from a group of companies, which he operated for his mother.

Prosecutor Jerry Brock indicated he may call Benson's sister, Carol Lynn Benson Kendall, 41, back to the witness stand today to conclude the state's case. Kendall, who was severely burned in the bombing, testified for the prosecution last week.

Benson, 34, is accused of murdering his mother, Margaret Benson, 63, and the grandson she adopted as her own son, Scott, 21. He also is charged with attempted murder of Kendall, who was Scott's out-of-wedlock mother.

Family Wants Daughter's Body

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Barbara and Jim Howard do not know if their 16-year-old daughter left home willingly or was abducted. They cannot afford to have her body exhumed from an unmarked grave in South Carolina and returned for burial where she grew up.

An unidentified girl's body was found Feb. 12 along Interstate 95 in Jasper County, S.C. An autopsy showed the girl died of a broken neck sustained when she was pushed or fell from a moving vehicle. The body, still unidentified, was buried by the state March 6.

Shortly after midnight the day before the body was found, Melissa Denise Mayor left a friend's house to walk two blocks back to her home in Daytona Beach. She never made it, and her parents reported her missing.

Jasper County and Daytona Beach authorities told the parents last week they thought they had found their daughter. The couple confirmed the highway victim was Melissa by looking at a photograph.

President Promises Aid To Drought-Hit Farmers

By Norman D. Sandler
COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — President Reagan promised federal aid Thursday to farmers hard hit by killer drought while on a relief mission to boost the fortunes of GOP candidates in longtime Democratic Dixie.

Capping a two-day Southern campaign swing that saw him raise almost $2 million for Republican stalwarts in Texas, Florida and South Carolina, Reagan punctuated a pitch for the GOP ticket by announcing that help is on the way.

"The drought is reaching tragic proportions — one of the worst in our century — and I want you to know that our administration stands ready to help," Reagan told a $150-a-plate GOP fund-raising luncheon.

"I've directed Secretary of Agriculture (Richard) Lyng to provide farmers affected by the drought with emergency assistance."

In Washington, Lyng was scheduled held a news conference to announce details of the relief package.

The heat wave baking South Carolina and neighboring states with 100-degree-plus temperatures has been blamed for at least 45 deaths in the Southeast and Midwest since July 7.

Farm losses have been estimated at $1.12 billion in the Southeast alone.

Gov. Richard Riley, a Democrat, was to forward a formal disaster request to Washington by the end of the day. White House officials said the request would be approved, in whole or in part, once received and reviewed.

As he arrived in a hot and humid Columbia, Reagan saw hay unloaded from a huge Air Force C-141 transport, ferried in from Illinois, Iowa and Missouri in a program orchestrated by GOP politicians and the administration for cattle farmers faced with either liquidating or losing their stocks due to a lack of feed.

As of Thursday, Operation Haylift had delivered 10,000 bales of Midwestern hay to the area. Railroads and trucking firms offered to deliver more supplies.

Reagan hailed Operation Haylift as evidence that "Americans are together again, helping each other as we used to."

However, Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C. charged in a newspaper interview that the White House had politicized the relief effort by authorizing the airlift arranged by Republican politicians, including Gov. James Thompson of Illinois, while rejecting his request for Air Force planes to pick up 30 tons of hay from Democratic Massachusetts.

"They fly the hay in from Illinois when others call," Hollings told The (Columbia) State. "But when we have 30 tons of hay ready in Massachusetts for our South Carolina farmers, the White House says, 'Get a truck.'"

The primary reason for Reagan's visit was a fund-raising mission for Republican Reps. Carroll Campbell and Thomas Hartnett, who are bidding to capture the governorship and lieutenant governorship.

The two-hour visit netted more than $200,000.

Reagan invoked the name of Strom Thurmond, the state's venerable, staunchly conservative senior senator, in endorsing Henry McMaster in his race for Hollings' seat. McMaster, a former U.S. attorney, lags behind Hollings and his campaign has been slowed by Thurmond's reluctance to stump for him against a Senate colleague.

Pilot Whales Attempt To Beach Themselves

MARCO ISLAND (UPI) — At least eight pilot whales died from a pod of about 46 whales that beached themselves in a remote area of southwest Florida covered with mangroves and sand, officials said Thursday.

The survivors were pushed out to sea.

"They're trying to follow the remaining animals and see where they go," said Glenn Young, curator of mammals for Sea World, which was coordinating the rescue. "In this area, there are all kinds of sandbars and nooks and crannies, and they're still looking for animals everywhere."

The beached animals were discovered late Wednesday night. Workers from Miami's Seaquarium and the state Marine Patrol arrived on the scene first and began pushing whales swimming in shallow water back out into the Gulf of Mexico, said Pat Rose of the Department of Natural Resources' Bureau of Marine Research.

When Sea World crews reached the site they began tagging the surviving whales for tracking and identification in hopes of solving the scientific mystery of why whales beach themselves.

Surviving pilot whales were being monitored in fear they might again attempt self-destruction.

will also serve as base for the first of many three hour drug abuse prevention seminars the network plans for adults, especially parents, Jernigan said.

The sessions will include information about trouble signs adults should be aware of in regard to youngsters' possible involvement with drugs and offer guidance for the proper steps to deal with drug related problems, Jernigan said.

Presentations at the Aug. 5 session will be made by the Sanford police department, Seminole County Schools drug prevention officer Tom Rolls and drug abuse counselors, Jernigan said.

Follow-up sessions will take much the same tact, and Mayor Smith said the Seminole County Council of Local Mayors has already indicated it would be interested in attending such a presentation.

In light of this, Mayor Smith said the Sanford effort, "may end up serving as a prototype for other communities to launch drug prevention networks."

Jernigan said the Sanford network will approach all Seminole County School Parent Teacher Associations this fall to discuss their hosting presentations.

The network is also contacting every church in Sanford in an effort to have drug abuse prevention addressed from the pulpit and during Sunday School classes, Jernigan said.

The priority objective, network members said, is for their message be relayed whenever, wherever and however possible.

They also said those who wish to assist them, or seek assistance from them, can contact Jernigan at the parks department, 321-3161, ext. 260; or Apostolic Church member Willie Pearl Daniels, 321-1938.

County Will Hear Homeowners Group

A homeowners association has been granted a worksession with Seminole County Commissioners to levy complaints against the developers of a shopping complex near their homes.

The association wants the commission to review the commercial Planned Unit Development (PUD) document to be sure that all criteria in that agreement between the project developers, Richland Properties, and the county government are being observed.

The project complained of is the 259,890 square foot Lake Howell Square shopping center on 34.37 acres on Highway 436 between Howell Branch Road and Lake Howell Road. County Commissioner Sandra Glenn said a Wal-mart store would be the anchor for the complex, which will also include other stores, restaurants, and a theatre.

The Forest Brook Home

Owners Association says the project is impacting their nearby residential area, and have complained to their district county commissioner, Ms. Glenn. Earlier in the month, the county land management staff did not concur with the association's claim that the PUD agreement was not being observed.

The association wants mechanical equipment mounted on roofs and the ground to be concealed by a wall so they are not seen or heard from the residential areas. They have also listed other concerns to Commissioner Glenn.

The worksession for the meeting between the association and commissioners has been set for August 26.

The association has asked that the county delay issuance of a certificate of occupancy until their concerns are discussed.

Harper's car has been described as a 1979 Oldsmobile Cutlass, light green with a white top, and Florida tag number NIB 649.

Harper weighs about 170 pounds and is about 5-foot, 7-inches tall. He has brown hair and brown eyes and a receding hairline.

Mrs. Harper's body was discovered by her sister, Maurine Montag, 19, of Orlando, at about 2:45 p.m. Tuesday. The body was in the bed of Mrs. Harper's

3-year-old daughter who was in the home when Ms. Montag arrived, Viner said. The child apparently thought her mother was asleep.

A Wednesday autopsy showed that Mrs. Harper was strangled to death at about 4 a.m. Tuesday, Viner said her death is the apparent result of some type of domestic dispute and there are no suspects in the case other than Harper.

"We have good probable cause to believe he was the person," Viner said, today.

Mrs. Harper worked at Church Street Station in Orlando and Harper is an engineer, Viner said.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Scattered heavy rain did little to allay a 19-day heat wave and record drought that have cost farmers $1.12 billion in the South, where experts say it would take 16 to 18 inches of rain to bring annual levels back to normal. The heat wave has been blamed for 46 deaths in the South and the Midwest since July 7 — 18 in Georgia, five each in North Carolina, Missouri and Alabama, four in Indiana, three in Illinois, two each in South Carolina and Kentucky, and one each in Virginia and Louisiana. Temperatures in the Southeast were expected to remain in the 90s again today, the National Weather Service said. Columbus, Ga., had a high of 98 degrees Thursday. It was 97 degrees in Columbia, S.C., where President Reagan gave a speech promising federal aid to farmers. Strong thunderstorms in the Midwest spun tornadoes Thursday in Nebraska and Wisconsin and injured 16 people in Iowa. Locally heavy storms dumped more than 4 1/2 inches of rain on Cornelia, Ga., in just over an hour Thursday, and Bay Minette, Ala., was hit with nearly 3 inches. But the heavy rains covered small areas and did little to alleviate the heat or the season-long drought. "There are quite extensive areas that are well below normal (in rainfall)," NWS meteorologist Harry Gordon said. "It would take a tropical storm moving inland and giving them 16 to 18 inches of rain to bring them back to normal for the year." Gordon said most thunderstorms have a diameter of about 5 miles, while a tropical storm might spread over several states. President Reagan promised aid Thursday to farmers hard hit by the dry spell. "The drought is reaching tragic proportions — one of the worst in our century — and I want you to know that our administration stands ready to help," Reagan told a $150-a-plate GOP fund-raising luncheon in Columbia, S.C. Speaking at a news conference Thursday, Secretary of Agriculture, Richard Lyng noted several governors have requested federal disaster declarations, and he said designations would be made within a week so aid could be available in "not days, not months, but, wherever we can, in hours." When he arrived in Columbia, Reagan watched hay being unloaded from a huge Air Force C-141 transport, ferried in from Illinois, Iowa and Missouri in a program orchestrated by GOP politicians and the administration for cattle farmers battling the drought. As of Thursday, Operation Haylift had delivered 10,000 bales of Midwestern hay to the South. Railroads and trucking firms offered to deliver more supplies.

Stun Gun Needed To Nab Suspect

Longwood police, who spotted a man walking on Manor Avenue at about midnight Wednesday, offered to help the man with his car, which was stuck in front of Peoples Pallet Co., on Charlotte Street.

Police noticed the man was carrying a yellow hose and had a screwdriver in his back pocket. As they followed him to the car the man reportedly picked up a second hose that was lying in the roadway.

When they approached the car, the man was searched by police who reported finding a bottle of whiskey in the waistband of his pants. He was arrested for possession of alcohol by someone under 21.

Police determined that the car belongs to an employee of the pallet company who had not given the suspect permission to take the car. The manager of the company reportedly told police that he knows the suspect, but he did not have permission to take hoses from that property.

The suspect reportedly tried to flee and fought with police. One policeman was kicked in the stomach and a stun gun was used to bring the suspect under control, a police report said.

Jeffery Kirk Smith, 19, of 125 Genevieve Drive, Altamonte Springs, has been charged with burglary, possession of burglary tools, petty theft, battery on a policeman and resisting with violence. In addition to the alcohol charge, he has been released on $1,000 bond.

MATCHBOX TOSS
When three men on the corner of 13th Street and Olive Avenue spotted a Sanford policeman at about 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, one of the men seemed to hide something in his pocket, a police report said.

The officer drove by, and doubled back on a path. Again he was spotted by the trio and the suspect took the same action and put something in his pocket, the report said.

The officer confronted the suspect and asked the man to identify himself. The man had no identification and reportedly said he only had $7 in his pocket, the report said.

However, the officer reported that the man didn't take his hand out of his right pocket. When asked again what was in the pocket, the suspect allegedly took a matchbox out and tossed it over the top of a car.

The officer went with the suspect to the other side of the car and recovered the box which reportedly contained a razor blade and six pieces of rock

Patrick G. Jones, 22, of 1112 W. Eighth St., Sanford, was arrested in front of Joe's Pool Room on 13th Street at 1:36 p.m. Wednesday. He has been charged with possession of cocaine and was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

DUI ARREST

The following person has been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Allan Robert Pentecost, 30, of 2001 Glenridge Way, Winter Park, was arrested at 1:25 a.m. Thursday at Jo's Lounge, County Road 427 at State Road 436, Altamonte Springs. A sheriff's deputy reported seeing the suspect leave the ABC Lounge on U.S. Highway 17-92 at State Road 436, Casselberry, and turn west on State Road 436, to stop at the Eastern gasoline station and urinate beside his truck. He then reportedly drove weaving along to the lounge on County Road 427, where he was arrested. At the time of the arrest he allegedly made threats against the deputy and was also charged with resisting arrest. Bond was set at $1,000.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS
Dorothy M. Walker, 22, of 3604 Washington St., Sanford, reported to sheriff's deputies that she awakened at 5:15 a.m. Thursday to see a man who had forced entry to her home going out the front door with her purse containing $60, a gold and diamond ring valued at $1,500 and her $400 radio.

Robert Scarrillo, 24, of 2832 Red Lion Square, Winter Park, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that when he walked out of Winn-Dixie in the Lake Howell Plaza, Lake Howell Road, Winter Park, at about 10 p.m. Wednesday he was attacked and robbed by two men.

One of the men reportedly hit Scarrillo in the back, knocking him to the ground. That suspect took $27 from his pocket. When Scarrillo tried to stand, the second suspect hit him in the right eye and the first took his wallet from his pocket and discarded it. Both fled on foot going toward Charles' Bar at the corner of Lake Howell and Howell Branch roads, a sheriff's report said.

A video recorder, a cable television control box and a tape with a combined value of $315 were stolen from the home of Justin Robertson, 21, of 2012 Williams St., Sanford, on Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

A district manager for Drug Emporium, 167 State Road 436, Fern Park, reported to sheriff's deputies that between June 15 and 30, while that business building was being built, four telephones with a combined value of $880 were stolen from the site. The loss was reported Wednesday.

Two light fixtures with a combined value of $750 were stolen from 4161 Aldergate Court, Casselberry, on Tuesday or Wednesday, according to a report owner Jack A. Taylor, of 2330 Cady Way, Winter Park, filed with sheriff's deputies.

Richard D. Lovie, 20, of 1412 Banyon Drive, Maitland, reported to sheriff's deputies that a $450 surfboard was stolen from his home Tuesday or Wednesday.

A $1,500 cigarette machine containing about $300 worth of cigarettes was stolen from Jerry's Pub, Spanish Trace Apartments, 455 Wymore Road, Altamonte Springs. Victim, Stephen M. Neveleff, 32, of Casselberry, told deputies the machine was taken on July 17, by men who said they were from the company that owns it, Cigarette Vending of Winter Park. They said they were taking it to be repaired, a sheriff's report filed Wednesday said.

Pit Bulldog Shot

Seminole County sheriff's deputies and Seminole County Animal Control officials Wednesday searched for a pit bulldog that was shot in the right foot with a shotgun at about 10:40 a.m.

The dog was at 2340 Center St., Midway, when William Henry Howell, 82, of 2900 Midway Ave., Sanford, allegedly shot it.

Seminole County sheriff's deputy Richard O'Dell, who was across the street serving civil action papers when the shot was fired, said he didn't hear the dog bark before he heard the shot and saw the dog run away using only three feet.

Howell, has reportedly said the dog began barking and coming toward him when he stopped at his property. To defend himself, Howell allegedly said, he shot the dog, intending to wound, not to kill it.

Howell reportedly said that the dog was abandoned by a former resident of 2340 Center St. Howell had asked both Animal Control and the former resident's mother to do something about the dog, but he got no action, a sheriff's report said.

The investigation into the incident continued. No charges had been filed in the case.

State Agency Sues On Illegal Dumping

The state Department of Environmental Regulation is asking that a Winter Springs couple be fined $10,000 a day for every day they have land fill in the waterway of Soldier Creek in Seminole County.

The department filed suit against James and Martha Hartman. It maintains in the suit that the Hartmans have dumped fill in the flood plain of the creek and within 200 feet of the waterway.

It is asking that they be ordered to stop dumping, restore the area to what it was before the dumping, and pay for investigative costs related to the dumping.

The suit alleges that the couple have filled near the creek an area 400 feet long, 280 feet wide with fill five to seven feet deep. The department says it was done without a permit and it should be removed, including concrete and asphalt in the fill.

It says the couple was warned about the dumping by its agents several times.

The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi. No hearing date has been set.

The World: A Step Closer ...

No cheers for the human race for its most recent population milestone. Earth's human population now is — by some calculations — above 5 billion. That is just about as many people as the planet can feed, clothe, shelter and employ adequately, according to one organization that monitors population trends.

True, the growth rate has slowed somewhat in recent years. Family planning programs have had an impact in some places. Economic constraints and concern with the quality of life have caused some couples to delay starting a family.

But the effect is insignificant in comparison with the projected growth. The base is now so large that even a reduction in the growth rate points to huge population increases. It took 10 to 12 years for the world's population to go from 4 to 5 billion. Some demographers predict that the population will reach 6 billion in about 13 years and 7 billion about 11 years after that.

Even with the population at today's 5 billion, suffering and deprivation are widespread. What will conditions be in less than 25 years, when the world could have 2 billion more mouths to feed?

Nine out of every 10 babies born today will grow up in parts of the world where poverty, disease, hunger, illiteracy and unemployment make life a daily struggle for survival, according to the Population Institute. The implications go beyond the Third World. Hunger and desperation can lead to anarchy and demagoguery, which threaten peace.

More than half the governments in Africa now are encouraging their people to have smaller families. China has reduced its birthrate with a program that puts strict limits on family size.

In too many parts of the world, however, large families are still the norm. Continued efforts by governments and international organizations to change this thinking, and to provide families the knowledge and encouragement to have smaller families, are not just desirable. They are essential.

Spy Crackdown

U.S. District Judge David Kenyon did his best to ensure that former FBI agent and convicted spy Richard Miller of Valley Center would "not walk again in this country as a free man." Judge Kenyon sentenced Mr. Miller, the first FBI agent convicted of espionage, to two life terms plus 50 years in prison, and fined him $60,000.

Nevertheless, the 49-year-old Mr. Miller will be eligible for parole in 16 years and eight months. Why? Because the nation's espionage laws do not permit judges to impose either the death penalty or life imprisonment without possibility of parole.

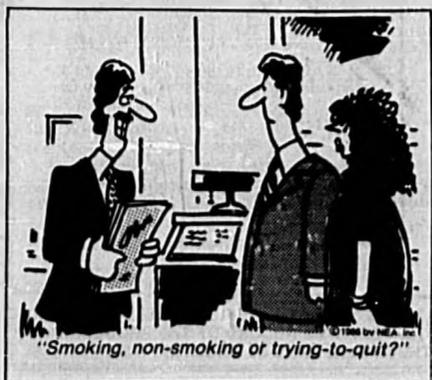

Thus, Arthur J. Walker and his brother, John A. Walker Jr., former Navy men who admitted spying for the Soviets and were sentenced to life in prison, also will be eligible for parole in 10 years. A mere 10-year prison stay for treason is so outrageous that it has produced an overdue crackdown.

Congress reacted to the Walker family spy case last year by reinstating the death penalty for members of the military convicted of espionage in peacetime. Moreover, the Senate Judiciary Committee has approved and sent to the Senate floor a bill that would permit sentences of death or life without parole for civilian spies. Clearly, such penalties should be available for cases of treason where national security is seriously compromised.

In recent years, we have seen several cases wherein Americans sold their country's most precious secrets to its avowed enemies for money rather than an ideological affinity for communism. The threat of capital punishment or mandatory life in prison should deter some of these modern-day Benedict Arnolds.

Judge Kenyon was absolutely right when he told Mr. Miller, "It seems to me a person who deliberately, for their own personal gain, betrays their country, should not walk again in this country as a free man." It is now up to Congress to grant federal judges the power to mete out such punishment.

BERRY'S WORLD

BEN WATTENBERG

Iacocca's Chances Don't Appear To Be Good

There has been a great deal of talk and hoopla about the exotic idea of running Lee Iacocca — chairman and alleged savior of Chrysler Corp., best-selling author, hero of the Statue of Liberty fund-raising drive — for president of the United States of America. Iacocca runs well in the polls, and is highly viable to the American public because he appears regularly and vigorously on television commercials paid for by his company.

Some very ill "Draft Iacocca" committee with some there is skilled operators working on it. The other day, Iacocca told the committee that he wasn't interested. In political code, that can mean one of three things: he's not interested, that he may be interested or that he is very interested.

Whatever his real feelings are, my guess is that if he ends up running, he'd be a loser. I say that not because of any particular animosity toward Iacocca. But the history of recent presidential contests since 1972 demonstrates one fact clearly: The first time anyone runs for president, he almost invariably does it poorly. There is a reason for this. The number of presidential primaries exploded in 1972. That vastly increased the television exposure that candidates received and put an enormous amount of pressure on candidates not to make gaffes, goof and dumb statements. This intense pressure has ambushed even candidates with much political experience — which Iacocca does not yet have.

The classic case was Sen. Ted Kennedy, who challenged President Jimmy Carter for the Democratic nomination in 1980. Now, Kennedy had been around elective politics since he was in diapers. He was elected to the U.S. Senate at the youngest legal age: 30. He had campaigned in scores, if not hundreds, of congressional districts. Yet when the full floodlights of a presidential campaign were trained on him, he suddenly looked like a turkey. Do you remember the famous Roger Mudd interview when Kennedy couldn't even sensibly answer the question: "Why do you want to be president?"

It wasn't only Kennedy. Remember Ronald Reagan in 1976: eight years governor of California, poised movie actor. He ran and lost primary after primary, making gaffe after gaffe, until he finally got his act together, only to end up a loser to Gerald Ford. But in 1980, Reagan was familiar with the glare of the presidential spotlight. He didn't make those kind of mistakes and he beat the field early.

My old mentor and hero, Sen. Scoop Jackson, had a somewhat similar history. He had been in public office all of his adult life. He ran for president for the first time in 1972. And he bombed. When he tried again in 1978, this time much more familiar with the electoral terrain, he did much better and won several early important primaries before finally losing to Jimmy Carter.

So, whether Iacocca runs or not, doesn't matter much. He'd probably lose anyway. He's a political rookie in the very big leagues. In addition, his reputation as a thin-skinned egotist who will not suffer fools gladly, his lack of political experience which requires dealing with suffering fools, all seem to make the Draft Iacocca venture somewhat dubious.

Still, I only say he'd "probably" be a loser. Not definitely.

For once upon a time there was a candidate who had never run for president before, who almost no one had heard of, who had a big and colorful family, one of whom sold worms.

Carter ended up with a different problem. He didn't know how to run a second time.

Capital Not Built On Swamp

By Anne Baker
WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are times in life where the large questions must be confronted. For some people, it is in church or the blackest quiet of 3 a.m. For me, it is a very hot day with the air conditioner on the blink.

Recently, a local magazine published an article dispelling a cherished myth that city dwellers have long relied upon in coping with the legendarily miserable summers of Your Nation's Capital.

No, the article said, Washington was not built on a swamp. Boom. Residents reacted as if they finally realized Columbus was right. A cult was destroyed.

The swamp myth sustained the sweltering masses through the nightmare of August when the measurements for heat and humidity meet in the rarified atmosphere of 98 and keep going up.

The myth had cachet, too; warning off unwanted visitors was easy. Don't come during the summer, we said, it's too hot because, well, you know, we live in a swamp. The visitors, horrified, stayed away, amazed at our capacity, our super-human strength.

We were smug about the swamp; it was a badge of courage.

The myth began when city planners in the 19th century drained branches of the various rivers to make way for thoroughfares and buildings. Standing pools of water were left to themselves, turning what had been heralded as a lovely piece of real estate into a boggy place.

But — surprise — there was no swamp, at least none that nature made.

Of course, the capital's unendurable Southern summers, with or without a swamp, were long and miserable; diplomats dispatched to Washington were awarded hazardous duty pay.

Nowadays, getting out of town for at least part of the summer is an Olympic event in which gigantic crowds are entered. Just watch how quickly Congress picks up the pace to finish whatever work it does when the mercury rises.

The point is, it's hot here. Maybe no hotter than other places and certainly less so than others, but there are a lot more people with high profiles whining about it.

Air conditioning only makes things worse. The outside seems hotter after the artificial, all-enveloping cool. It is a good thing in places where people really need it — hospitals and libraries.

Roy Cohn Is Treated For AIDS

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Roy Cohn, the 59-year-old jet-set lawyer recently disbarred in New York, is one of several hundred patients who have been treated for AIDS at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md.

NIH is running tests on a new experimental drug that holds some hope for AIDS patients, and Cohn has received the drug.

Cohn first gained fame as a young prosecutor of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, who were executed for passing nuclear secrets to the Soviet Union. He then served as chief counsel to Sen. Joseph McCarthy during the Wisconsin Republican's red-hunting heyday in the early 1950s. It was a time when homosexuals as well as suspected communist sympathizers were being fired from government jobs as

SCIENCE WORLD

Genetic Cancer Link

By Deltha Ricks
UPI Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A mysterious and rare genetic disorder discovered by accident during routine physicals of Los Angeles schoolchildren may provide clues to understanding cancer and immune system deficiencies, researchers say.

The childhood disorder, often misdiagnosed as cerebral palsy, is known by the tongue-twisting name of ataxia-telangiectasia, or more simply as AT.

It is an inherited trait, and studies show that as many as one in every 100 people may be carriers of the defective gene although the disease is believed to occur in only one of every 50,000 births.

"The disease appears between 1 and 2 years of age in otherwise normal-appearing children," said Dr. Richard Gatti, a UCLA research pathologist.

"They begin to walk at a normal age but become more clumsy with time and it is often after the onset of excessive clumsiness that it becomes obvious to parents that there is a neurological basis for the problem."

Carriers do not develop the disease, but when two carriers have children there are increased chances that the offspring will develop the disorder, which manifests itself in a number of seemingly unrelated maladies.

"Early in this disease there is a tendency to misdiagnose it as cerebral palsy, but it is clear that it is not when it continues," Gatti said.

Aside from the clumsy gait that develops by age 2, AT victims usually must be confined to a wheelchair by age 10 and many also develop heart malfunctions and a significant loss of cells in the brain's cerebellum — a symptom similar to that found in alcoholics.

Gatti, who has been studying the disease for 15 years, said AT was first described in the late 1950s by Dr. Elena Boder, a Los Angeles physician who identified the disorder in six schoolchildren during physicals.

Later observations led to the identification of AT in children across the country.

There is no known cure or prenatal method of testing for the fatal disorder.

The UCLA research team is studying an Amish family group in Pennsylvania with hopes of devising an accurate way of predicting who will develop the disease and ultimately finding the chromosome that carries the defective gene.

Once they locate the key chromosome, Gatti said, scientists will have a more accurate way to predict who is at risk to develop cancer.

The UCLA study indicates that one-third of all AT victims develop cancer, despite an average life expectancy of only 20 to 25.

"These children have a deficient immunity," Gatti said, "and that correlates with the general observation that all children with immune deficiency diseases have a striking increase in the incidence of cancer — about 1,000 times more frequent than the general population."

He said 80 percent of these cancers are lymphoma or leukemia although AT victims also have developed cancers of the stomach, breast, pancreas, brain and liver.

The researchers also have found that even carriers of the defective gene are more susceptible to cancer than the general population.

ROBERT WALTERS

'Pat's' Holy Crusade

DETROIT (NEA) — Here is the analysis of the first round of delegate selection to the 1988 Republican National Convention being offered by the Rev. Marion G. "Pat" Robertson: "THE CHRISTIANS HAVE WON!"

In a new fund-raising letter, Robertson explains that the "Christians" are the people recruited throughout Michigan by his Freedom Council and committed to his still-undeclared candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination.

They "won" because, prior to the May 27 filing deadline, a large number of Robertson's followers officially declared themselves candidates for precinct delegate positions in the state's Aug. 5 GOP primary election.

But if the Christians won, who are the heathens and the infidels who lost?

The only other active candidates in the Republican presidential primary here are Vice President George Bush and Rep. Jack Kemp of New York. Are they — and their supporters — to be dismissed as pagans or heretics?

Robertson's letter implies that he has become the Lord's chosen candidate in the race: "We saw the hand of God going before us in Michigan, affirming our every step."

The letter also suggests that his next political goal is nothing less than capturing total control of Michigan's Republican Party:

"Once precinct delegates have been elected, they have within their grasp the power to select nominees for numerous major offices in the state, including candidates for the state Supreme Court."

Robertson's premature reaction to the preliminary developments in Michigan illustrates the danger inherent when religious fundamentalism meets political activism.

For more than two centuries, most of the nation's political leaders — Republicans and Democrats, liberals and conservatives — have turned to God for personal spiritual guidance.

"But none has claimed to speak for God on matters of public policy," notes former Rep. John Buchanan, R-Ala., chairman of People for the American Way, an organization based in Washington, D.C. that promotes constitutional liberties.

Reinhold Niebuhr, widely regarded as the nation's leading 20th century theologian, has argued persuasively that "the tendency to claim God as an ally for our partisan values and ends is... the source of all religious fanaticism."

Cohn "asked for information on sexual practices." The nurse's report continued: "I stated that the safest sex was none, but that if he wanted to have sex he would need to use a condom and especially inform his partner that he had AIDS. I did stress that he should abstain from sex with this disease and on this (program of treatment)."

The record of Cohn's release on Nov. 23 includes a "nursing diagnosis" that lists as a "problem" the fact that the "patient stated (he is) somewhat reluctant to become celibate."

Within a month of his release, Cohn was a guest at the White House. There, according to an account in the Washington Post, "well-wishers rushed) to embrace him at a Christmas party for the Cabinet and White House staff."

Cohn was re-admitted to the National Cancer Institute's AIDS program at 4:45 p.m. last June 2.

security risks.

Cohn has denied he has AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency) affecting more than 12,000 Americans, including actor Rock Hudson. Some 73 percent of adult AIDS victims have been homosexuals or bisexuals.

Confidential medical records of the National Institutes of Health show that Cohn was admitted last Nov. 4 to its Clinical Center, and was released Nov. 23. He was readmitted last June 2 to determine his reactions to an experimental drug used exclusively for AIDS patients; he was released June 4.

Thomas Bolan, a law partner of Cohn, denied emphatically that Cohn has AIDS.

"If he has AIDS, it's a surprise to me," Bolan said. He's known as having cancer and that's what he's being treated for."

Cohn himself has publicly denied he has AIDS, saying he suffers from liver cancer.

AIDS is not directly a fatal disease, but by destroying the body's natural immune system, it renders the victim helpless against other infections or diseases — like pneumonia or cancer — that do the actual killing. The AIDS virus is transmitted through an exchange of bodily fluids, as in sexual intercourse, blood transfusions or intravenous drug use. It is not passed by casual contact.

According to the medical records, Cohn was admitted to the Center, Building 10, at 12:42 p.m. The admitting diagnosis was sarcoma" and the attending physician was Dr. Robert C. Young, chief of the National Cancer Institute's medicine branch.

Cohn's medical records indicate he has "hand tremors" and "does tire easily."

The record includes a note by a nurse that on Nov. 21, at 1 p.m.,

Juniors Roll To 10-3 Rout Of Crystal River

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer
The Altamonte Junior League All-Stars rapped out 11 hits and got a strong pitching performance from Chuck "Lambo" Lamb en route to a 10-3 victory over Crystal River Thursday night in the Section 1 Tournament final at Rolling Hills.

The win advances Altamonte to the Junior League State Tournament beginning Monday night at the Tampa Bay Little League complex. A state tournament title would give Altamonte a berth in the Southern Regional which it is hosting beginning Aug. 4 at the Eastmonte Recreation Complex.

"Crystal River's pitcher came out throwing strikes and we hit it," Altamonte manager Duke Piccones said. "And Chuck (Lamb) threw strikes and had his curve working real well. The defense behind him did the job and everyone got to play and contributed."

Lamb blanked Crystal River for the first five frames while Altamonte built up a commanding 9-0 lead.

Altamonte scored twice in the first and twice in the third and broke the game open with four in the fourth.

Baseball

In the first, Matt Albert led off with a single, stole second, and scored on Terry "Downtown" Brown's two-out single to center. Brown then stole second and scored on Andy "Dude" Spolski's base hit.

In the third, Albert led off with another base hit and again stole second by was out at third on Jared Soto's grounder. Soto then stole second and Neill James reached on an error. Brown, who had three hits and three RBIs in the game, then unloaded a double to chase home Soto and James for a 4-0 lead.

In the fourth, John Jump was hit by a pitch and stole second and Lamb followed with a single. With one out, Soto singled in Jump and Lamb. Soto then stole second, James singled and both later scored on a two-out two-run single off the bat of Spolski.

Lamb's shutout bid was broken up in the fifth but his spirit certainly wasn't broken as he went on to pitch the complete game. Lamb allowed eight hits and struck out four.

Senior Stars Pound West Hernando, 18-3

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer
DELTONA — Going, going, going....

Add two more goings to that list, with each one representing a tournament championship, and the Altamonte Senior All-Stars will have reached their desired destination.

Altamonte pounded out 16 hits Thursday night en route to an 18-3 thrashing of scrappy but overmatched West Hernando in the Section 1 All-Star Tournament final before 301 fans at Vann Park.

The Division 2, District 14 and Section 1 champion Altamonte squad advances to the Senior League State Tournament starting Monday at Palma Ceia-Fair Oaks Complex in Tampa. Two more tournament titles would give Altamonte a berth in the Senior League World Series which starts Aug. 11 at Kissimmee.

"I felt that if we got out of the division we could go a long way," Altamonte manager Woody Woodard said. "We had great pitching this tournament and if it keeps up, there's a chance we'll be there (Kissimmee)."

One of the few bright spots for West Hernando, other than finishing second when it was expected to be the first of the four teams eliminated, came in the top of the first inning Thursday when it took a 1-0 lead and broke Altamonte's string of 21 consecutive shutout innings pitched.

The West Hernando lead, though, was quickly erased as Altamonte scored twice in the bottom of the first and gradually sent the visitors from Spring Hill packing.

Alex Birle and Carlos Abreu were the main cogs in the Altamonte offensive machine Thursday as Birle was 4 for 5 with a pair of doubles and four runs scored and Abreu was 3 for 3 with four runs scored. For the tournament, Abreu was 7 for 9 for a .778 batting average. Greg James was 2 for 2 Thursday with three RBIs and ended up 4 for 4 for the tournament.

Aaron "The Sheik" Iatarola limited West Hernando to three hits over the first six frames while Abreu mopped up in the seventh and allowed one hit. For the tournament, Altamonte pitching surrendered just nine hits and gave up only three runs, two of which were unearned.

West Hernando took its short-lived lead in the first when Rob Garofano reached on a fielder's choice and scored on Joe Reese's long double to left.

Baseball

Reese had two of West Hernando's four hits.

Altamonte took the lead for good with two runs in the bottom of the first. Shane Stufflett drew a walk to lead off, stole second and scored on an over-throw after Greg James' bunt single. James went to third when Wes Weger singled off the third baseman and scored on James scored on a wild pitch for a 2-1 lead.

Altamonte added two more runs in the second. Birle and Abreu ripped consecutive first-pitch singles to start off the inning and Pat DeLuca bunted the runners to second and third. Birle scored when Stufflett reached on an error and Abreu scored on James' sacrifice fly for a 4-1 lead.

West Hernando pulled within 4-2 in the top of the third when, with one out, Sean Panno walked, stole second, took third on the only Altamonte error of the game and scored on a wild pitch.

Altamonte broke open the game with four runs in the bottom of the third. Trevor Moore belted a double to left to lead off the inning and, with one out, took third on Iatarola's groundout. Moore then scored on a wild pitch for a 5-2 lead.

Birle followed with a single and took second on an outfield error and West Hernando then lifted starter Reese in favor of Rob Garofano. Garofano walked both Abreu and DeLuca to load the bases, then issued a free pass to Stufflett to force in Birle. James then looped a ball to right field that fell in for a double single that drove in both Abreu and DeLuca for an 8-2 Altamonte lead.

Altamonte scored two more times in the fifth on a sacrifice fly by Stufflett and a wild pitch and then tacked on eight runs in the bottom of the sixth.

In the sixth, Chris Knutson had a two-run double, Iatarola a two-run single, Stufflett and Abreu added RBI singles and Val Cintron had an RBI walk. The inning ended when Birle was robbed of his fifth hit of the game by West Hernando's second baseman.

"It's nice to win one comfortably," Woodard said. "Jacksonville and Niceville were pretty competitive and we squeezed out a 1-0 win (over Ocoee) to get to this tournament."

WINTER GARDEN — The District 14 National Big League baseball team likes to crush the baseball. On Thursday night the Nationals pounded out 30 hits en route to a 23-7 thrashing over Jacksonville before 133 fans in the championship game of the Section 1 tournament.

With the win, The Nationals will travel to Dunedin to participate in the state tournament. Their first game is on Monday night at 6 on Grant Field.

"We have simply been crushing the ball," Nationals' manager Howard Mable said. "Our solid hitting has taken a lot of pressure off of our pitchers. I hope that our hitting will continue to be this good in the state tournament."

Lake Mary's Steve Shakar pitched five innings while giving up three runs and five hits. Ron Engleman pitched the final two innings. Jacksonville, the District 11 champs, used eight pitchers.

The Nationals are unquestionably one of the most powerful hitting teams that has been around in the past few years. But unlike some teams, there is not one big star. Everyone on the squad contributes. There are no weak players at all.

"We have got quite a club here," Mable said. "The players are jelling at just the right time."

The main hitting stars of the game were Brevard College's Mike Hinde, Lake Brantley's Mark Coffey, and Oviedo's Mark Merchant. Hinde went 5 for 6 while hitting a pair of homers and driving in a total of five runs. Coffey went 4 for 6 driving in a pair, and Merchant went 4 for 4 driving in three runs and belting a homer.

The Nationals scored all but one time that they were up to bat. All of the starters except for Shakar got a hit. Here is a breakdown of the hitting:

Shane Letterio got two hits, a single and a double in only four innings of work. Mike Pinckes doubled before being pulled out of the game in the third. Kevin Bass singled twice. Tony Belflower had a base hit. Jeff Watson added a single of his own.

These were only the starters hits as the substitutes contributed as well. Engleman pounded a homer over the fence adding his name to the homer list.

Despite the big victories of late, the players on the team know that state tournament won't be a cakewalk.

"The competition should be pretty tough over there," Coffey said. "Hopefully, we'll keep stroking the ball and we won't have anything to worry about."

Merchant was also very confident about the team's chances in Dunedin.

"We expect to do very well," he said. "A lot depends on our pitchers. They have done a great job so far and we hope that they will continue to do so."

Hinde is very excited about the team. "We are going to win the tournament," Hinde said. "This is really a great team and I think that we will prove that to everyone."

Mable went on to say that he has been working the athletes hard and that they know what it takes to win. "These kids are really great," he said. "They are working extremely hard and with the way that they can hit the ball, they will be very tough to beat."

If the Nationals continue to stroke the ball like they have been doing lately, it is a good possibility that they could win the state title.

Virginia Players Caught In Drug Ring

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — A federal investigation that began with a cocaine bust at a rural farmhouse led to drug charges against two former University of Virginia football stars and this season's starting tailback.

The athletes charged Thursday were described as minor players caught in the web of a four-state cocaine ring headed by a drug kingpin who faces the possibility of hundreds of years in prison and millions of dollars in fines, the U.S. attorney said.

"To assist in placing the charges against the three athletes in perspective, I point out that the largest quantity of cocaine attributable to any of them at any one time by the end of the investigation was one ounce," said Western District

Football

U.S. Attorney John Perry Alderman.

"Once we began, we followed the investigation where it took us," he said.

One of three players indicted by the federal grand jury which began meeting for several days each month last November, was Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year Barry Word.

Word, selected in the third round of the NFL draft by the New Orleans Saints, was accused of conspiring to distribute less than one kilogram of cocaine between November 1982 and July 1985. So were tailback Howard Petty and former kicker Kenny Stadlin, Virginia's second all-time leading scorer, said Alderman.

Three others were charged with the same offense. Seven people were charged with conspiring to distribute more than one kilogram of cocaine.

Among the seven accused of distributing more than one kilogram was Javier Cook of New York, identified by authorities as a Manhattan commodities broker.

The 13 were charged outside the grand jury process, which resulted in 11 sealed indictments Wednesday. Among the indicted was Trevis Poole, described as the kingpin of a cocaine ring that bought drugs in Florida and sold them in Maryland, Virginia and Tennessee.

The raid on Poole's farmhouse July 4, 1985 set the investigation in motion. Police seized 3.5 pounds of cocaine along with a stockpile of materials used to process the drug.

Poole was charged in 11 counts with possessing with intent to distribute, and distributing, a total of 34 pounds of cocaine. He was also accused of operating a continuing criminal enterprise, the charge designed to snag bosses of major drug operations.

"In the priority fight against cocaine trafficking, it is essential that every segment of our society, including our educational institutions, support both law enforcement and programs to reduce the demand for drugs," Attorney General Edwin Meese said.

Carter Steals Thunder At Smyrna

James Carter has only been racing for one year, but has become one of the top Thundercar drivers at New Smyrna Speedway. The car he has been racing this year, a 1972 Camaro, met an untimely end last week when he spun in another car's oil and crashed coming out of turn two. The car was totally destroyed and as Carter said, "I had to put it in race car heaven."

Carter is bringing his car from last year out of storage and will finish this year in a 1973 Nova. He is building a new car and will finally leave the steel body, one of his traditions, and join the fiberglass body crowd with a 1986 Camaro.

In his first year in a very low-bucks racer, Carter's best finish was a second in a feature and first in a heat. Jerry Shirley, Joey Warmack and Don Roberts help him in the pits. Carter's brother Glen and wife April also help keep the car running each week. James is the owner of Carter's Custom Tile in Longwood. He is the proud father of a 19-month-old daughter named Melinda Lee and said even she likes to watch James race. "My ambitions are to have a real competitive car in the Thunder class next year. I am looking for a ride also in a good car where I could put my driving talent to use," he said.

Once again the race fans saw another action-packed race at Volusia County Speedway last Saturday night. Tuck Trentham picked up the checkers in the late model feature. Trentham has his hands full the whole race as Steve Shuman of Deleon Springs battled him all night. Shuman started on the front row and held the lead until near the half-way point. Then Trentham, starting from the fourth spot, edged past the Shuman car and the chase was on.

The two drivers challenged each other throughout the remainder of the 30-lap feature with Trentham crossing the finish line first. Geno Evans of Orange City finished third while Seffner driver Greg Ward took fourth. Sanford driver Steve Harris finished in fifth place, his best finish this year in his Prestige Honda-BMW sponsored car.

Loynd Impressive In Debut For Rangers

Mike Loynd shares one characteristic with most of the pitchers on the Texas Rangers' staff. He is young. What's different about Loynd is that he throws strikes.

Loynd, drafted in the seventh round out of Florida State less than two months ago, made an impressive major-league debut Thursday night by pitching a five-hitter over six innings in the Rangers' 7-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

The 22-year-old right-hander, recalled Monday from Tulsa of the Texas League, was making only his sixth professional start. He struck out six and walked one. That performance was typical to those usually offered by Texas pitchers.

"Getting the first strike helped," said Loynd, who was 2-1 at Tulsa and 20-3 at Florida State.

Elliott Blazes To Historical Lap At Talladega Qualifying

TALLADEGA, Ala. (UPI) — Bill Elliott turned in the fastest qualifying lap in the history of the Talladega 500 and captured the Busch pole award Thursday for the $500,000 running of the NASCAR Winston stock car race.

Elliott pushed his CoorsMelling Ford Thunderbird around the 2.66-mile Alabama International Motor Speedway in 45.817 seconds at a speed of 209.005 mph, shattering the 207.578 record he established last year.

"Whew, it was loose. The car ran well, but it was just about out of control in the third and fourth turns," Elliott said. "If I had run any faster, I wouldn't have brought it back."

"But really, you're never satisfied, even though we ran 209. You always want to go just a little bit faster," said Elliott, who set the all-time track record of 212.229 in May for the Winston 500.

Turner Plans Goodwill For 1990

SEATTLE (UPI) — Despite losing $15 million on the 1986 Goodwill Games at Moscow, cable television magnate Ted Turner intends to proceed vigorously with plans for the 1990 event in Seattle, spokesmen for the local host committee said Thursday.

The Rev. William Sullivan, chairman of the Goodwill Games Seattle Host Committee and president of Seattle University, said the Turner Broadcasting System does not consider the $15 million loss a deterrent to supporting the 1990 Goodwill Games.

"The Turner people are convinced they have a good thing and are going to go on with it," Sullivan said. "One of Turner's people said losing $15 million is not a lot in TV. That came as a surprise to me, but as far as Turner's people are concerned, the Seattle Games are do-able."

Turner conceived the Goodwill Games after the United States boycotted the 1980 Summer Olympic Games in Moscow, because of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, and the Russians refused to take part in the 1984 Summer Games at Los Angeles.

Pirates' Tryout At Stadium

All American Legion players need a permission slip from their coach or post commander or they will not be allowed to try out. Permission slips are not required if American Legion season is over.

The Pirates will hold another camp on Aug. 4-5 at the University of South Florida in Tampa.

Record Equalled At Buick

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI) — Golfing rookie Davis Love III is a long hitter who looks like he intends to stay around a long time.

Love equalled the opening round record with a 7-under 65 Thursday to share the lead with older rookie Billy Pierot following the first 18 holes of the $500,000 Buick Open at Warwick Hills.

Pierot, 30 but in his first year on the regular tour, could have had the course first-round record but he bogied the last hole he played, the ninth, missing an 18-footer after his tee shot strayed way to the right.

The two shared a one-shot edge on veteran Ed Flori, who had a 6-under 66, and were two strokes up on a group of six that included J.C. Snead, Howard Twitty, Brad Faxon, Jim Colbert, Tom Byrum and Jim Rutledge.

Another shot back at 4-under 68 in the chase for the $90,000 first prize money is a group of nine that includes Hal Sutton, the tour's fourth-leading money winner, and David Graham.

The course played slightly easier in the morning and 75 golfers were able to crack par.

One of those was not defending champion Ken Green, who matched par of 72 on the 7,014-yard layout but will need a special round to get back in the hunt since he won it with a record 20-under last year and that may not even be good enough this year.

Johnson Takes Classic Lead

TORONTO (UPI) — Chris Johnson proved a week off was just what she needed when she took the first-round lead Thursday at the $350,000 du Maurier Classic with a 5-under-par 67 at Toronto's Board of Trade Country Club.

Johnson, who won the $250,000 GNA/Glendale Federal Classic in March, went 3-under-par on the front nine and followed with an equally steady 2-under-par 34 to give her a two stroke lead over Joanne Carner.

"I wasn't golfing well the tournament before, so I took a week off and did nothing, played cards, golfed a little," explained the 28-year-old Johnson. "When we teed off today I wasn't sure if I had enough rest ... then I birdied the first two holes."

"I just didn't know how I felt. Sometimes I do know but I didn't have the confidence going into the round."

"You don't know what's going to happen once the gun goes off. Once the gun goes off my concentration increases."

Quick starts are a bit unusual for the six-year LPGA tour veteran after golfing winless her first four seasons, then finally win-ing back-to-back titles in 1984 at the Tucson Conquistadores Classic and Samaritan Turquoise Classic.

"I've had a real problem, particularly this year, of being real slow out of the blocks," Johnson said. "So it feels good to have a good start. It's a nice position to be in because it's always harder to come from behind."

"Some courses you just feel comfortable and I feel comfortable here. What contributes to that is a mystery."

Johnson birdied all five of the par-5 holes on the 6,107 yard course.

One of Central Florida's top drivers has taken over the driver's seat in an established race car on the NASCAR Winston Cup Division. Rick Wilson, a regular at New Smyrna Speedway, is now a driver for the Morgan-McClure Team.

Wilson started the year out with limited sponsorship from Captain Cody's seafood in Daytona, but now has major sponsorship from Kodak Print Film.

The Kodak Oldsmobile performed up to expectations in last week's Summer 500 at Pocono, PA. "Our goals were to make the first round of qualifying and finish in the top ten," explained team manager Larry McClure. "Well, we qualified 20th and finished 10th, so we met them. Not that we're satisfied with finishing 10th, but we know Pocono was a learning track for us and Rick." The race was Wilson's first at the Pocono track.

The Morgan-McClure Kodak team has much higher hopes for this weekend's race at Talladega, Alabama. Wilson has driven the high-banked speedway in both Winston Cup and ARCA cars and he is considered by many to be one of the dark horse favorites to win there.

Jurors Will Read Before Settling Suit

NEW YORK (UPI) — After 11 weeks of trial, the six jurors considering the USFL's billion-dollar antitrust claims against the NFL have 30 pages of questions to answer before they reach a verdict.

The jurors — five women and one man — deliberated for about 90 minutes Thursday after listening to 155 pages of instructions on the law from Judge Peter Leisure.

They return to their jury room in U.S. District Court in Manhattan this morning to continue working their way through a 30-page verdict sheet containing 61 questions. The questions break down each of six federal antitrust claims and three common law charges to their basic elements.

The USFL is asking for damages which, when tripled as required by antitrust laws, could range from $900 million to $1.69 billion, if the jury finds that the NFL violated any of the six antitrust claims.

Those charges allege the NFL monopolized professional football, attempted to monopolize pro football, conspired to monopolize pro football, conspired to exclude competition, conspired to deny the USFL access to a national network contract and that the NFL's contracts with the three national networks constitute an unlawful restraint of trade.

The USFL did not name a specific amount it sought in connection with the three common law claims, but if found guilty, the NFL can be assessed the USFL's lost profits and any amount of punitive damages the jury deems appropriate.

The common law charges claim the NFL intentionally interfered with the USFL's contracts with ABC and the cable network ESPN and that the NFL interfered with the USFL's prospects of contracting with ABC, CBS and NBC for telecasts of its games in the fall.

Leisure told the jurors the NFL was not required to limit itself in contracting with the networks so that other football leagues would have an easier time entering the market.

Bias' Parents Offer To Appear At Hearing

UPPER MERIDEN, Md. (UPI) — Len Bias' parents have offered to appear before the grand jury, which today is expected to conclude the first phase of its investigation into the cocaine-induced death of the former Maryland basketball star.

Appearing at Thursday's proceedings were Maryland basketball players Derrick Lewis, Tom "Speedy" Jones, Tony Massenburg, Greg Nared and student manager Jim Spiro.

None were believed to have been in the room when Bias collapsed, but their testimony could shed light on what was discussed during a team meeting called by Maryland coach

Basketball

Charles "Lefty" Driesell in the hours after Bias died.

Marshall said last week the grand jury would consider charging Driesell with obstruction of justice if claims that he instructed players to remove evidence of drug use in the room or urged them not to cooperate with police are supported.

Wayne Curry, an attorney for the family, said Bias' parents, James and Lonise, offered to testify before the grand jury.

Medication Can Ease Migraines

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 31, average height and weight, married with two children (my husband had a vasectomy). I occasionally get anxiety attacks and have mitral valve prolapse. My problem is that every time I have an orgasm, I get a rotten migraine headache that lasts for two days, complete with nausea and flashing lights. I have seen four doctors, and all look at me as if I'm from outer space. What do you think?

DEAR READER — I think that your doctors are from outer space. Sexual excitement and orgasm can trigger migraine headaches in susceptible individuals. Find a doctor who is an earthing and ask for a prescription for the beta-blocker propranolol (Inderal). Twenty milligrams three or four times a day, during the times you are sexually active, may prevent the migraines from developing.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What causes constantly chapped lips? DEAR READER — Chapped lips usually result from loss of natural oils from the skin. Frequent lip licking, cold weather and exposure to sun or wind can deplete the lips' lubrication. A lanolin-containing cream will replace the oils; a petroleum-base lip balm will help protect from further injury.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am concerned about my 9-month-old grandson's feet. His toes point straight out to the sides, instead of towards the front. The doctor says they will correct themselves. What do you think? DEAR READER — Your doctor is probably right. Once children start to walk, their feet usually straighten out. If you are really worried, ask the pediatrician to refer you for another opinion to an orthopedic surgeon who specializes in children's bone problems.

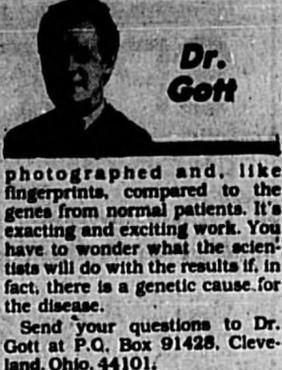

DEAR DR. GOTT — Will masturbation make me sterile?

DEAR READER — No way. DEAR DR. GOTT — I read that Alzheimer's disease may be hereditary. What can a genetics laboratory do to locate the defective gene?

DEAR READER — Many research facilities are investigating the likelihood that Alzheimer's disease (and other similar conditions) have a genetic basis. Although early reports are encouraging, the results are still too preliminary to permit definite conclusions to be drawn.

The techniques used by these laboratories involve the meticulous separation and identification of tissue genes obtained from Alzheimer's patients. These genes than have to be photographed and, like fingerprints, compared to the genes from normal patients. It's exciting and exciting work. You have to wonder what the scientists will do with the results if, in fact, there is a genetic cause for the disease.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio, 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Here is a hand from Eddie Kantar's latest book, "A New Approach to Play and Defense," which was recently commended by the American Bridge Teachers' Association. The defense begins simply enough with East taking the heart ace and returning the eight, and West makes the proper play of allowing declarer's queen to win that trick. Now you must be careful, if you are declarer, since the defenders are threatening to take three more heart tricks to defeat your contract if they regain the lead.

When you lay down the spade ace, the jack appears on your left. Since you cannot be sure the queen is not going to fall next, it is right to continue with the spade king. West shows out, discarding a low club. What next?

You should now play three rounds of diamonds ending in dummy. If West started with three diamonds or fewer, you can throw him in with the jack of hearts. He can cash his three heart winners but will then have to lead a club for you. You will make the hand regardless of the location of the club king. But if West started with four or more diamonds, then you must take the club finesse and hope for the best. For this line of play to work, you must make the assumption, based on the opening lead and the return, that West started with five hearts.

If you'd like Eddie's autograph with his book, send $9.95 to Eddie Kantar, P.O. Box 427, Venice, CA 90291-0427.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...
YOUR BIRTHDAY
JULY 26, 1986
You will achieve new heights in your work during the year ahead. This will be due to the fact that you will be more ambitious than ever before.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone with whom you may have to work closely today could be unreasonable and difficult. Be extra tactful. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Matchmaker set can help you to understand what it might take to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Do not use your love for someone as an excuse for being overly possessive today. Your good intentions could be interpreted as unreasonable restraints.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An unresolved matter that has recently caused a problem between you and your mate could burst into flames today. Have the fire hoses ready to extinguish it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is not the right day to offer others unsolicited advice or criticism. If they want input from you, they will ask for it.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) That tidy little sum you have been stashing away could be blown today with one stroke of extravagance. Spend wisely.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In your involvements with relatives or family members today, you may not be as tolerant as you should. Don't take your temper out on those who love you most.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Let your imagination work for you today instead of against you. Don't envision frustration and complications where they need not exist.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Before volunteering to work on a project for your club today, assess what it might cost you in both time and money. Once committed, you're stuck.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Being overly insistent on having things your way today could create complications. The boss may be equally inflexible and have the last word.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An inability to hold your temper in check could cause unnecessary problems today! You must keep whatever disturbs you in proper perspective.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your curiosity might be a bit more intense than usual today, and this could prompt you to poke your nose into places where it doesn't belong.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Unless you are alert and on guard today, there's a possibility you could be used as the unwitting pawn in a one-upmanship game being played by two friends.

Gardening

It's Time To Think About Fall Gardening

Those of you who have attempted to grow vegetables in the Florida garden have found that timing is just about everything. Even if the thermometer reads in the nineties right now, it's time to start thinking about planting your fall vegetable garden. Start planning and taking care of some of the pre-planting chores right now.

First, select your site for the garden. If you're new at this, think small. You don't want to overwhelm you later on. Pick a spot close to the house. And, you want it close to an outside water source to make irrigation easier.

The most important thing you really want to be sure about is sufficient light. The best gardens are located in full sun — those receiving sun all day long. Sometimes this is impossible, particularly on the small city lot. You may have to choose between morning and afternoon sun. Plan to plant your fruiting crops, such as tomatoes, corn, cucumbers, and melons, where they will get the most sun. Leaf and root crops generally can stand a little shade.

You may want to fence the garden to keep out dogs and kids. In some areas, wild animals, such as rabbits, can be a problem. A sturdy fence can serve as a trellis for pole beans, tomatoes, and other crops that need support, too.

Tree and shrub roots will compete with vegetables for nutrients and water. You may have to protect your crops from this competition. One way is to dig a trench about one and one-half feet deep all around the garden. Line one side of the trench with roofing paper or plastic film, then backfill the trench. This will form a barrier against the intrusion of roots from nearby plants.

Of course, good soil is important. Most of us will have to make do with the kind of soil

Alfred Bossesen
Urban Horticulturist
323-2500
Ext. 181

we have. Poor, sandy soil can be improved by mixing in a generous quantity of organic material, such as manure and compost. By adding organic material, you can greatly improve the texture and moisture-holding capacity of your soil — even if it's nothing but sand.

After you have prepared the soil, have a sample tested for pH or acidity to be sure it's in the proper range for best vegetable growth. You can have your soil tested at the Agricultural Center at Five Points in Sanford for a small fee. And it's well worth it if you want to be successful. Select the sample from several spots in the garden, taken from the two- to six-inch level. Thoroughly mix your sample together on a newspaper or plastic sheet with a trowel. Then, select your final sample from this mixture. You may or may not need dolomitic lime. But, don't lime your soil without prior testing and recommendations. You may create more problems than you really need.

Before you ever plant the first seed or set a transplant, you need to think about the vegetable varieties you want to grow. You could walk into the garden supply center and buy whatever you see, but remember, the vegetable varieties differ in quality, disease resistance, and climactic adaptability. These can be vitally important in the Florida garden. Some of the varieties that you may have grown "up north" simply will not perform here.

Yes, help is available in making your selection. Check with your favorite garden supply center or pick up a copy of "The Vegetable Gardening Guide" at the Agricultural Center.

You'll find that the most physical part of vegetable gardening will be getting the soil ready for planting. Whatever you do, don't give in to the temptation to cut corners in this phase of gardening. If you're planning a large garden, you may want to rent a rotary tiller, or even a small tractor and plow, to use in preparing the soil. For the small backyard garden, the work can be done with a grade or shovel.

The time to begin soil preparation is right now, especially if it is a new garden. The heavy work in building a new garden should be done at least a month before planting. At the same time, add your soil amendments, and lime if the soil test indicates the need. When spading, dig down at least six to eight inches, and turn each shovelful completely over. If you're turning in weed or a cover crop, remove all woody plant material and roots as they won't decompose very well.

After the soil is turned, break up all clods and level with a rake. Do this as soon as you can after turning the soil to prevent excess drying of the soil and to maintain the soil texture. This is important as a finely pulverized soil surface will make planting much easier, give you better seed germination, and help insure a more even stand of vegetables.

If you plan to have a fall vegetable garden, better start right now with your planning, soil preparation, and selection of crops and varieties. Before you know it, September will be here — the time to set out your fall vegetable garden.

Happy gardening!

Mrs. Jeffrey Robert Brown

Griffith-Brown Nuptials Spoken

Catherine Ann Griffith and Jeffrey Robert Brown, both of Sanford, were married June 21, at 2:30 p.m., at Central Baptist Church, Sanford. The Rev. George E. Dunn Sr. performed the double ring ceremony.

Musical selections were presented by Glenn Welborn, soloist; Gena Bukur, flautist; Sudie Stafford, organist; and Teena Nicholas, pianist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Griffith Sr., 2780 Narcissus Ave., Sanford, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Brown, 619 Bevier Road, Sanford.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose for her vows a matte taffeta gown fashioned along the Queen Anne silhouette with the beaded bodice lavishly trimmed with reembothered motifs of Chantilly and silk Venise lace. The Chantilly lace train, bordered in a wide lace ruffle, flowed from the fitted waistline. She carried a cascade of pink roses, white mini carnations, stephanotis, baby's breath and English Ivy showered with white satin plic streamers.

Gena Bukur of Sanford attended the bride as maid of honor, and Kim Beasley, Daytona, was the matron of honor. They wore lavender matte taffeta gowns with pulled sleeves. They carried wicker baskets of pink mini carnations, white snowflake pompons, lavender and purple Iris and baby's breath with streamers.

Bridesmaids were Tina Repass, cousin of the bride, Beallsville, Md.; Diane Johnson, college roommate, Hickory, N.C.; Melissa Griffith, the bride's sister-in-law, Sanford; and Jamie Nichola, junior bridesmaid, Sanford. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Andy Griffith, brother of the bride, USN, Jacksonville, served the bridegroom as best man.

Ushers were Kevin Hart, Sanford, and Tracy Moore, Longwood. Groomsman were Billy Griffith, brother of the bride, Sanford; Kevin Brown, brother of the bridegroom, Sanford; Sam Griffith, brother of the bride, USMC, Cherry Point, N.C.; and Stan Bacon, Sanford.

Katie Nicholas, Sanford, was the flower girl, and Clay Thomas, Lake Mary, was the ring bearer.

The reception was held in the fellowship hall of Westview Baptist Church, Sanford. Jennifer Page, Sanford, registered the guests in the bride's book.

Following a wedding trip to the North Carolina mountains, the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford. The bride is employed as a social worker by HRS and the bridegroom is employed as assistant manager by Winn-Dixie.

Lonely Sailors Salute And Thank You, But Might Not Be Able To Write You

DEAR ABBY: This is from a sailor aboard the USS Biddle. Last May asked your readers to write to some lonely sailors who were out at sea for months at a time and starved for mail. Well, after that ran, we were swamped! All the guys read letters, letters and more letters, then we swapped with each other and read some more! Our youngest correspondent was 8 and the oldest was 92 with fond memories of World Wars I and II!

Believe me, it did more for our morale than you will ever know. I personally feel more positive being on the front lines of defense for the citizens of the U.S. of A. My chest sticks out a little farther knowing how much you folks really care.

I hope those of you who wrote and don't get an answer will realize how much we appreciated your letters, but there were so many thousands of letters I don't know how we can answer all of them.

Thank you, Dear Abby, for what you did. When you get this, the USS Biddle will have pulled into home port in Norfolk, Va., and most of us will already have been united with our families. We want you to know we will all serve a little prouder knowing how much you Americans care.

CHRISTOPHER ROMIE,
U.S. NAVY

DEAR CHRISTOPHER: Thanks for a great letter. What a shame that Clark Stephens, the shipmate who wrote to me requesting mail, wasn't able to share in all the excitement. His father became seriously ill, and Clark was airlifted off the Biddle and flown home to help care for his ailing father. Thanks to you, Clark, and I'm praying for your father.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Call Me Nothing" — whose daughter-in-law never called her anything.

Twenty-nine years ago when I was a bride, I never called my mother-in-law anything either. Although I loved her very much, I just couldn't bring myself to call her "Mother" or "Mom" and I couldn't address her by her first name.

Then one day she said to me, "I think it's time you called me something. You know, even a dog has a name."

I said, "Yes, I know. May I call you 'Fido'?"

Having no sense of humor, she said, "No, you may not — just call me Marjorie." So I called her Marjorie.

I have three married children now, and their spouses all were told to call me anything they felt comfortable with. One calls me "Mom," one calls me "Eleanor," and the third one doesn't call me anything yet. He's only been in the family since June, so I'll give him a little more time, and if he doesn't call me something, I'll suggest "Fido."

ELEANOR C. IN OMAHA
DEAR ELEANOR: If that doesn't work, how about if he whistled?

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a wonderful girl for over three years. The problem is that when we go out to dine (two or three times a week), she purposely orders more than she can consume during that meal with me. She then takes a "doggie bag" in order to supplement her meals at a later date when she is not with me — either at home or at work.

She is not poor. I feel that she should order only what she wants to eat while dining with me. If food remains, then, of course, she may take a "doggie bag." I have told her about my feelings, to no avail.

What can I do? I don't want to lose her.

CHICAGO SCHLEMIEL
FROM SHERIDAN ROAD

DEAR SCHLEMIEL: Don't be such a schlemiel. If you don't want to lose her, she must have some redeeming features to offset this rather petty practice. There is no free lunch (or dinner), so either tolerate it or let her go, lover, and try to find a less acquisitive girlfriend.

IN BRIEF

Soviets Release New Details Of Chernobyl Nuclear Accident

MOSCOW (UPI) — Technicians at the Chernobyl nuclear plant were conducting an experiment to determine how to handle emergencies when an explosion rocked the plant April 26 and released radiation, killing 28 people, an official said.

Three months after the world's worst nuclear accident, Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov told a news briefing Thursday that power generators were being studied at the time to see if they could be turned off.

In the days following the accident, Soviet officials said the fire and explosion occurred during a regular maintenance shutdown while the reactors were operating at 7 percent capacity.

But the ruling Politburo said last Saturday that an unauthorized and poorly coordinated experiment with a turbogenerator led to the accident that released radioactive debris into the atmosphere and left 28 people dead.

Israeli-Moroccan Talks Ongoing

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Shimon Peres said his meeting with Morocco's King Hassan II added a "new dimension" for Middle East peace efforts, and an aide to Peres said Israeli-Moroccan talks would continue.

A joint statement on the talks issued Thursday in Jerusalem and the Moroccan capital, Rabat, emphasized that the talks "were of a purely exploratory nature, aiming at no moment in engaging in negotiations."

The statement made no mention of further talks, but Peres' media adviser, Uri Savir, said Israeli-Moroccan talks would continue. Savir gave no timetable for future talks.

Returning from Morocco Thursday, Peres said his talks with Hassan — head of the Arab League — were "penetrating, frank, friendly and, in my judgment, have added an additional dimension for people who seek peace in the Middle East."

Zambia Snubs British Envoy

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — British Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe met separately with black and white businessmen to outline his bid to win race reforms without economic sanctions, then flew to Zambia where President Kenneth Kaunda told him, "You are not welcome."

In Johannesburg, a university research group said Thursday it "has knowledge" of 8,400 people who have been detained without charge under state of emergency powers imposed June 12. Opposition sources reported a new wave of detentions has occurred during the past few days.

Howe, seeking racial policy concessions from Pretoria to stave off calls for Western economic sanctions, told reporters in Johannesburg "all of us are looking for a way forward that does not involve the prospect of mounting violence on both sides and mounting economic hostility."

Many black leaders — including Nobel Peace Prize winner Bishop Desmond Tutu and jailed African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela — refused to meet Howe because of his and Britain's opposition to the use of punitive economic sanctions to force race reform. They believe sanctions are the only remaining alternative to prevent further escalation of racial violence that has claimed more than 2,100 lives in 23 months.

tax rate came when the commission added a projection of $68,000 in revenues to the budget from three voluntary contributions to be made by at least two of three major developers in Lake Mary.

Two of the three Developments of Regional Impact in the city are expected to pull site permits, and another DRI outside of the city limits is expected to pull a site permit before October 1. Voluntary contributions already committed to the city by the developers mean an additional $68,000 when the permits are issued.

The Lake Mary Shopping Center on Lake Mary Blvd., which is outside the city limits but expected to have impact on the city, will pay for the purchase of a new police car and police department computer for Lake Mary during the 1985-86 fiscal year. In addition, two of three DRIs in the city are expected to pull permits, and will contribute $34,000 each.

The $34,000 will be used to purchase one new police car and pay the salary of one new officer for one year. The contributions were agreed to in addressing impacts on the city from the new development.

At least two of the three DRIs in the city limits, Timacuan, North Point, and Primera, are expected to pull their site permits during the coming fiscal year. "Big-buck" items which survived the budget trimming include $117,000 for road paving, and $90,000 for capital improvements to be used toward possible land acquisition for a new city hall location.

A land acquisition line item of $75,000 for a new city hall site was included in the present fiscal year budget which will be carried forward to the new year, and added to the new $90,000 allocation.

The budget can be further trimmed during the two public hearings on the proposed budget, meaning the proposed tax rate can decrease, but not increase. The public hearings are set for Sept. 4 and 11, 7:30 p.m., at Lake Mary city hall.

from Central Florida Regional to another facility for cardiac catheterization. And, he said, an informal survey of area doctors showed that for every patient transferred, there were one or two more patients needing the service not admitted to CFRH, but sent directly to a cardiac catheterization unit.

By 1987, Potter said, it is projected that 1,800 patients in Seminole County will need the service of a cardiac catheterization lab; 558 in the hospital's service area, North Seminole County and Southwest Volusia County.

But Health and Rehabilitative Services, the state agency charged with issuing certificates of need allowing hospital additions and major equipment purchases, sees "underutilized capacity" in nearby cardiac catheterization labs.

The state requires a facility to perform at least 300 cardiac catheterizations a year to keep its license to perform them. It also requires the average performed among labs in the area to be 800 or more per year. Although an average of 1,084 per lab were performed in the area in 1984, Potter said HRS pointed particularly to Winter Park Hospital, which performed 439 of the procedures in 1984, as an underutilized facility.

"The only major problem with that," Potter said, "is that we don't send many patients to Winter Park anyway."

Like Central Florida Regional, Winter Park doesn't offer heart surgery. So if patients were transferred to Winter Park for the test and it turned out they needed surgery they would need to be transferred yet again.

Most of CFRH's patients needing cardiac catheterization are transferred to Florida Hospital/Oriando. According to Potter, Florida Hospital has three cardiac catheterization labs and performed 4,869 of the procedures in 1984. Humana Hospital Lucerne has two labs and performed 1,461 procedures in 1984. Orlando Regional Medical Center has one lab which performed 989 procedures in 1984.

In 1981-82 the number of the procedure were limited by a limited number of facilities, Potter said. Since then the call for the service has almost doubled, increasing every year.

With a large proportion of elderly in the North Seminole area, Gomez said he feels a cardiac catheterization lab would "help us a great deal."

The hospital's appeal to an HRS hearing officer will be made in Tallahassee the week of Oct. 20. The hearing officer is expected to make a recommendation in 30 to 60 days to the Secretary of HRS.

"The secretary can agree or disagree," Teasar said, "but usually agrees with the hearing officer."

Sikh Gunmen Execute Hindus

CHANDIGARH, India (UPI) — Sikh gunmen today hijacked a bus, singled out the Hindu passengers, forced them off one at a time and shot them, killing at least 16 and wounding four in the bloodiest single extremist attack in Punjab, police said.

Police in the Punjab capital of Chandigarh said the attack occurred about 140 miles to the west, near the town of Mukhtsar. After the attack, the extremists drove off in the bus and authorities launched a statewide search, police said.

It was the bloodiest single attack staged in Punjab by Sikh radicals since they launched their violent drive in 1981 to create an independent nation of "Khalistan" in the predominantly Sikh northern state. Hundreds of people, most of them Hindus, have died this year in such attacks, which authorities say are aimed at terrifying the minority community into fleeing Punjab.

Police in Chandigarh said the latest incident occurred about 6 a.m. today when four to six Sikh extremists riding on a bus bound for Chandigarh forced the driver at gunpoint to stop at the village of Sadiq, 6 miles outside of Mukhtsar.

Pops And Putts, Rumbles and Roars

Flywheelers Take Engines Seriously

Story and Photos by Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

A call of "Gentlemen start your engines," brings a melody of pops, putts, rumbles and roars that tend to drown out chuckles and chortles from passersby when the Florida Flywheelers clubmen crank up their antique engines and tractors.

And somewhat surprisingly, the biggest gasoline engine showcased — that's Bud Miesch's 1922 Fairbanks-Morse, a 3,000 pound, 10-horsepower engine, hums rather quietly along.

Miesch of Orlando, with a dozen years as a Flywheeler, said almost faded memories of the hum of similar engines when he was a farmboy nudged him to become a collector of these machines, which for the farmers of the 1920s through 1940s were labor saving workhorses.

"I guess I just liked the sound," Miesch, a 57-year-old antenna engineer, said. "It's different, isn't it? I guess that's part of it. Most people are surprised that there is such a thing as these engines."

But for those in the know, puffering with these engines and old time tractors is a hobby that sends Flywheelers, which number about 400 in Central Florida, into the fields searching for these rusting, frozen-up hulks, which can be reborn to run again.

Miesch said he expects his 10-horse power engine, which is about the size of a small car, to chug along for another 50 years. It first served a Haines City utility company and then was later a used to pump water in an orange grove.

Francis Andrews trys his hand at farming c1940

"It could be used to saw wood or anything one would use and electric motor for now," he said. "It was in good shape as they go when I got it. Certain things were completely worn out in it. It's not a constant maintenance thing. It takes them a long time to wear out."

The Flywheelers "get together once a month to swap engines and so fourth," said, Apopka's Clint Russell. "Once a month we have a club meeting, usually a Saturday and Sunday event. We have a pitch in dinner and just generally have a good time running the engines."

And when the Flywheelers put their treasures on display, they draw a crowd that can't quiet believe what it sees and hears, said Francis Andrews, 50, of Forest City.

"People laugh, because it's strictly a novelty type thing anymore," Andrews said. "But these are the things that made farmers successful back in the '20s and the '30s and even the '40s."

"I have several engines that were Maytag washing machine gasoline engines that were used before people had electricity. They were pretty popular and very hard to start."

"I'm sure there were a lot of women that were more than aggravated by the time they got ready to wash their clothes with one of these," he said.

Tragic Brilliance

'The Prodigy' Is Filled With Pathos

By Frank Sanello
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — William James Sidis (1898-1944) may have been the smartest man who ever lived. His estimated IQ was 300. How smart is that? Albert Einstein's recorded IQ was 100 points lower!

Sidis spoke his first words at the age of 6 months. He was reading the New York Times at 18 months. He was fluent in Greek and Latin by the time he was 4 years old. At 8, he took and passed the Harvard Medical School anatomy exam. Harvard University, however, made him wait until the ripe old age of 11 before admitting him.

He graduated from college at 18 and taught math at Rice while still a teenager. It was during his teens that he was the first to write a book about the theory of black holes in outer space — a quarter-century before scientists began receiving credit for published findings concerning the same subject.

So whatever happened to William James Sidis? Why is his name missing from history books?

In "The Prodigy" (Dutton), author Amy Wallace chronicles the brilliant rise and shabby fall of the smartest man who ever lived.

Sidis was the child of Boris and Sarah Sidis, Russian-Jewish emigrants who had fled tsarist persecution in the 19th century. Despite arriving penniless in America, both Boris and Sarah worked their way through medical school. Boris ended up teaching psychology at Harvard while his wife, despite her medical degree and prodigious intellect, remained at home, a frustrated housewife.

Boris methodically applied his liberal education theories, which anticipated the Montessori method, to their only son, William James, who was named after Boris' mentor, the famed psychologist.

William was treated as an adult from birth. His parents read him Greek myths at bedtime — in Greek! He was the youngest student ever admitted to Harvard, where he stunned his professors with his public lectures on hypothetical four-dimensional bodies.

Harvard was both William's triumph and the setting for his tragic decline.

Typical of the era's anti-intellectualism, the press discovered William in the lecture hall and began writing stories ridiculing the young prodigy's eccentricities, such as his vow never to marry and his habit of cutting off his neckties at half mast.

The press' ridicule turned to rage when William's father published a book condemning public schools and offering his son's private education as an example of the correct way to raise a child.

Like most geniuses, William was an extremely sensitive child, and the attacks in the press so demoralized him that after graduation from college he withdrew from society. The great genius took a series of mental jobs under an assumed name. He spent the rest of his life self-publishing eccentric monographs and a history of America told from the point of view of the Indians.

When the press eventually uncovered William's ignominious obscurity, reporters swooped in for another vicious kill. William sued and won a libel case against the New Yorker for publishing an article filled with inaccuracies written by James Thurber.

"There were also a lot of editorials about William saying, 'See what happens to geniuses?'" says author Wallace. "'Don't worry if your kids aren't smart!'" Wallace, who is the daughter of best-selling novelist Irving Wallace and co-author with him of "The Book of Lists," doesn't place all the blame for William's failure on the press:

"It was a combination of society and his parents that wrecked William. His mother tried to live her frustrated career through her son. His father had no sense that the book he wrote about William (criticizing public education) would do any damage. In a lot of my research, Boris and Sarah are seen as stage parents, but I think they had a deluded idea that if you're brilliant, everything will turn out OK. They had no sense of the social graces themselves — or that it might be useful to teach them to their son."

So, while William could do calculus problems in his head, his parents never taught him how to tie his shoelaces. At the age of 46, living in poverty and obscurity, William James Sidis died of a cerebral hemorrhage in a shabby Boston rooming house. Wallace speculates that if Sidis had been shielded from the press and public ridicule he would have gone on to do something extraordinary. "He might have invented an international language more viable than Esperanto," she says.

"He was just too smart to thrive in a world filled with average people."

...Engine

Russell, 61, a tractor dealer, who has been a Flywheeler about four years, but who has been interested in the engines longer, has one of those one-horsepower Mogul engines that perhaps ran a washer or a water pump when it was new in 1913. He also owns a 700-pound Fairbanks-Morse engine from 1905, which only delivers two-horsepower. That machine has, he said, about half the power of some of today's lawnmower engines, "that you can pick up and carry in one hand."

Andrews not only has several of these big, but small-for-their-era engines he also has a spiffy green John Deere, Model L tractor from 1941. "I have a friend who has 16 old tractors," Andrews said. "And he's still got a wife too!"

Andrews, a mechanical engineer who has pursued this hobby about 15 years, spent three years convincing a Florida farmer to part with his tractor. "I have rebuilt it and it's strictly a fun hobby," he said. "There's no value in it as a useful tool. As a collectible it's worth about $2,000, except I have no intention of ever selling it.

"My main purpose is to preserve something that a lot of people think is junk really. It's enjoyable to show and tell about what you have. It's also a lot of fun to take something that's almost been completely destroyed by the weather and rebuilding it.

"There's a lot of satisfaction in searching out parts and sharing days like today (a Longwood showing by the club) with friends that are doing the same thing.

"You need to be prepared to make parts to fix things that have been totally destroyed," Andrews said. Russell added, "You don't have to be a mechanic, but after you fool with it for a while you become somewhat of a mechanic, or else!"

"You'd be surprised at all the questions people ask, because they don't know what these engines are or what they do," Russell said.

But for the Flywheelers, who know their engines from the inside out, the roar of these mechanical beasts is music to their ears.

Cinderella Lives

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Cinderella stories can still be found in Hollywood, the rags-to-riches girls who come out of nowhere to star in movies.

They are the happy-ending youngsters that encourage trains, planes and buses by the thousands to seek their fortunes in a hard-hearted town awash with beautiful, starry-eyed young people.

One of the most unusual screen newcomers to snag the golden ring is Charlotte Lewis, an 18-year-old British actress who has co-starred in two new films although she never even acted in a school play.

Lewis currently can be seen with Walter Matthau in "Pirates." Later this year she will be on display in "Golden Child" as Eddie Murphy's leading lady.

In some respects her personal story is more dramatic than either movie.

Lewis is the daughter of an Irish secretary and a medical doctor of Iraqi heritage. She has dark hair, tawny skin, black, almond-shaped eyes and a clear-cut English accent. There is an exotic look about her.

"I was the product of a brief affair between my mother and father," she said after completing her role in "Golden Child."

"They never married. I don't know my father. I've never seen or talked to him. I suppose

...Lives

It wouldn't be difficult to locate him, but I have no reason to try. If I met him today I would punch him in the nose."

Life was mean and difficult for Lewis growing up in a tiny flat in Finchley, a London suburb. Her mother earned a scant living, she said. It was necessary for Lewis to go to work at 12, lying about her age.

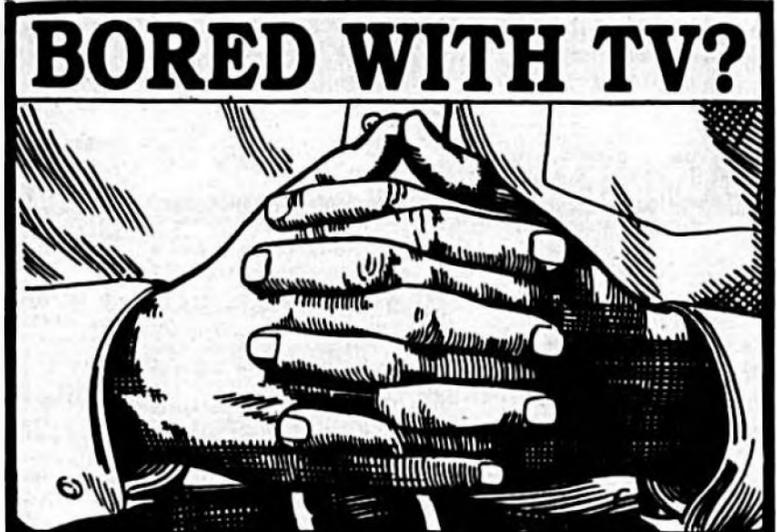

"We were poor," Lewis said. "I know what it's like to have the telephone and electricity cut off for late payment. We used to scrimp and save money to go to the supermarket on Saturdays."

To make ends meet, she recalled, "I sold clothes in a shop. I washed hair and worked in a shoe store. I was only 12 and I got sacked from the jobs. When I was 14 I began modeling and could afford a few more things for us.

"My mother is wonderful. She sacrificed all she could for me. Now that I am an actress earning good money I am making it up to her. I love taking her into a store and asking her to buy anything she likes. I want to earn a lot more money so I can buy her a proper house in England."

Two years ago Lewis was hired by director Roman Polanski to star opposite Matthau in the film "Pirates" and spent nine months on location in Tunisia. While she found life overseas "lonely," with "no TV and few books in English," she said, "I would do it again for the opportunity to work in pictures."

 (11) INCREDIBLE HULK

Is Robert Redford Really Clumsy?

Dear Debra — I recently saw "Legal Eagles" and I think Robert Redford did a fantastic acting job. What can you tell me about him? I hope he is one of those down-to-earth types and an all-around good fellow. — D.B.R., Shamrock, Texas.

Robert Redford, known for his good looks, dignity and charm, can be strong-willed and aloof. But he admits to having a looser, klutzy side, too — as shown in "Legal Eagles." Born Charles Robert Redford Jr. on Aug. 18, 1937, in Santa Monica, Calif., he is currently separated from Lola, his wife of many years. He has three children. Among his other recent films: "The Natural," and "Out of Africa." Away from Hollywood, his love of the land has led Redford to be active politically, speaking out on environmental topics.

Dear Debra — My trivia friends don't watch "Dynasty," so I'm asking you. What was the name of Joseph's daughter, played by Kathleen Beller? I recently met a girl who resembled this character and all of a sudden I couldn't remember the name! The more I try, the farther it goes. It must be an exotic name to go with Fallon, Dominique, Krystle, etc. No Sally,

Celebrity Corner
Debra Katz

Shirley, etc., like the people I know. — M.J., Portage, Mich.

Isn't it awful when it happens? We know the information is way back there in our heads and it just won't surface! Lose no more sleep over this memory lapse. It's Kirby! Beller played her from 1982 to 1984 on the series.

Dear Debra — A friend and I have a bet riding on this. How old is Marlo Thomas? I say she's about 35 years old and she says she's in her 40s. Also, when is her birthdate? — B.D., Madison, Wis.

Well, 35 is flattering, indeed. But according to the reference books, Marlo is more like 48 or 49. She was born on Nov. 21, in 1937 or 1938, depending on which book one cares to believe.

Dear Debra — Could you please tell me if Jane Pauley on the "Today" show is still married to the father of her twins? Someone said they read that she was married to someone else. — F.W., Knoxville, Tenn.

She certainly is still married to the father of her twins. And she's going on maternity leave from NBC because she's pregnant again! Cartoonist Garry Trudeau of "Doonesbury" fame, is the father of the twins and the husband of Miss Pauley.

Dear Readers — A recent column mentioned that Margaret Hamilton, the wicked witch in "The Wizard of Oz," was still active in television. It should have indicated that the actress died in May 1985 and her appearance on the children's show "Mister Roger's Neighborhood" was recorded some time before.

Dear Debra — What was the name of the movie which starred Valerie Bertinelli as a young woman who risked her marriage when she became a compulsive gambler? — F.R., Des Moines, Iowa.

You are referring to "The Seduction of Gina" which co-starred Michael Brandon, Ed Lauter and Dianh Manoff.
