GROUPS

No P&Z this week

SANFORD — The regularly scheduled meeting of the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission, originally scheduled for this Thursday, August 4 at 7 p.m., has been cancelled because of a lack of action items. The next regular scheduled meeting will be August 18, at 7 p.m. in the commission chamber of Sanford City Hall.

A helping hand

LONGWOOD — City commissioners got a helping hand, or rather paw, Monday night. During the meeting, which was sprinkled with some heated exchanges between Mayor Steve Miller and commissioner Paul Lovstrand on a variety of topics, a huge dog casually strolled into the chambers through a slow closing door. The part Rhodesian Razorback, part Labrador walked around the room and onto the platform where the commissioners were seated.
"I guess we've got an extra vote," Miller quipped. The dog which lives nearby is a frequent city hall visitor, according to insiders. He was not out to vote but continued to look through the glass door into the chambers.

Chamber breakfast

LAKE MARY — The Greater Lake Mary/Heathrow Chamber of Commerce will hold its breakfast meeting tomorrow (Wednesday) morning beginning at 7:45 at Heathrow Country Club. Speaker Wendy Kinney of INFONet will speak on the Million Dollar Minute. Cost is $3 for members, or $5 for non-members. For additional information, phone the chamber at 334-4748.

Parents night

HEATHROW — The first of two PTA/Parents nights will be held tonight at Heathrow Elementary School, 5715 Markham Woods Road. Tonight's event, beginning at 7 p.m. is for grades K-2. The second gathering will be this Thursday, August 4, also at 7 p.m., for grades 3-5 and special education.
Both events will be held in the cafeteria.

Polittbits

SANFORD — The Seminole County Friends will hold a prayer breakfast this Saturday morning in honor of U.S. Congresswoman Corrine Brown. Rev. Frank C. Cummings, presiding Bishop of the 11th Episcopal District of the A.M.E. Church will be guest speaker.
The prayer breakfast is scheduled for Saturday, August 6, beginning at 9 a.m., at the Sanford African American Academy of Arts (formerly the Star Theater) 1017 W. 13th Street. Donations are $10 per ticket.
For further information, phone Sanford City Commissioner Bob Thomas, 294-0200.

Smaller county grant stalls redevelopment of 13th Street corridor

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The director of the Sanford Community Development Department says a major redevelopment project for the eastern 13th Street corridor will be delayed due a lack of county funding.

Last week, Seminole County commissioners approved $91,899 for the city project. The city had sought $365,396 for the project, which will include installation of playground equipment at Bentley-Wilson Children's Park at the corner of Seventh Street and Orange Avenue in Georgetown.

to do," said Charles Rowe, city community development officer. "We'll meet with the community to see what they want."

Last week, county commissioners approved spending $1.9 million for 15 projects throughout the county. The spending list was recommended by a Citizens Advisory Board and funded with federal Community Development Block Grant money.

Jean Metts, CAB chairman, said her board was unanimous in recommending the spending but there was not enough money available to fully fund every request.

"Surely, this will get it started,"

Longwood irked by charges for retirement fund

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — City officials cried foul Monday night and refused to transfer over $20,000 which the state retirement system claims is owed on the salary of former city administrator James McFellin.

During his 20-month tenure as administrator, McFellin asked the city to pay his retirement funds to the International City Managers Association (ICMA) retirement fund not into the Florida State Retirement Fund. McFellin had used the ICMA fund throughout his career. McFellin came to Longwood from a job in Texas and left in November, 1993.

Mayor Steve Miller said apparently McFellin did not notify the state in writing, as required, that he was participating in a different retirement plan. After the city contributed $7,500 a year or about $12,000 in McFellin's ICMA retirement account, the state retirement plan says the city owes

One less Holiday as restaurant closes

By NICK PPSHAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Holiday House Restaurant, at the corner of U.S. Highway 17-92 and Bush Boulevard, has closed its doors leaving surprised employees who said they learned of the closure after reporting to work and finding a sign on the door.

A brief three-sentence press release was sent out from the Holiday House corporate offices in DeLand

Monday. The release stated the following:

"Holiday House Restaurant Corporation has announced the closing of their unit in Sanford. The restaurant, one of their smaller volume locations, was not operating at an acceptable sales level. The low sales, coupled with punitive employee insurance costs, necessitated the closing and all employees have been offered positions in the company's other restaurant."

Hooping it up

The hula hoop doesn't seem to lose popularity over the years. Krystine Ingle, 3, tries to maintain the momentum her mom and grandmother probably did in their day during a weekend party at the Lake Golden Recreation park in Sanford.

It's beginning to look a lot...

Chris Granus, owner of Cafe Jake's in downtown Sanford, standing left, and businessman part-time musician Gene Gizzi welcomed a Christmas-spirited crowd to the restaurant recently, in the first of several fund-raising efforts that will benefit needy children with toys at Christmas. The late children's activist Jimi Brooks started the event three years ago. Participants bring an unwrapped gift and pay a small admission charge in exchange for food, drinks and entertainment. Beane joins spirited race for judge

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A spirited race may be in the offing for the five-candidate contest to fill the position being vacated by retiring Circuit Court Judge Vernon C. Mize Jr.

Longtime attorney Kenneth M. Beane said after qualifying as a candidate in the 18th Judicial Circuit, which includes Brevard and Seminole counties, he is pleased with the support and encouragement he has received and the interest of the voters in this race.

"The calibre of the candidates in this race is outstanding," Beane said. "I think they realize that this is their one, best chance to fix the system, to be heard, to shape a judiciary that will share their concerns and address their needs."

"So many judicial races are beauty contests. Not much is discussed beyond name, rank and serial number. This race is going to be different," Beane said. "We're going to talk about issues, about crime, about feeling safe again; and I'm looking forward to the process."

Beane, 53, has practiced law in Seminole County for 25 years and is a former associate municipal court judge in Altamonte Springs and Longwood. He has served as a member of the county bar association's Unauthorized Practice of Law and Grievance committees.

Family flees home

MIAMI — The family of a girl involved in a minor auto accident that resulted in a fatal mob attack on the driver fled its Brownsville home after their lives were threatened, a friend said.

Charles Bells was robbed, beaten and shot when he stopped to help Victoria Williams, 11, after she darted in front of his car July 12. She was only slightly hurt.

The girl had been racing to watch a fight brewing nearby. But after the mishap, members of a crowd that had gathered turned on Bells. Two people have been arrested.

Joe Rucker, president of Allied Minority Contractors Association, befriended the Williams family after meeting them at a memorial service for Bells. Soon after, Victoria's mother Felicia Williams called Rucker to say her family's lives had been threatened.

"She stated to me it was the family of the boy who hit Mr. Bells over the head with the bottle," Rucker said Monday. "They felt that little Victoria turned them in."

Rucker took the family in, moving Ms. Williams and her four children first to his home, then to another vacant house he owned. The Williamses should move into another public housing apartment in about two weeks, said Rucker, who added he has been their sole support since July 18.

Shooting kills one, critically wounds one

TAMPA — A 19-year-old fatally shot his 11-year-old niece and critically wounded her older sister after an argument, police said.

Burgess Griffith was charged with first-degree murder and attempted first-degree murder in the Monday shootings at his mother's house, where the girls lived, said police spokesman Steve Cole.

"We're not sure exactly what the motive is," Cole said. "Apparently he got into some type of argument with these girls and ended up shooting them."

Cole identified the dead girl as Jaamine Kelly, who had been shot twice in the head. Her sister Tarahuma Kelly, 13, was listed in extremely critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital in Tampa, he added.

Griffith was arrested in the parking lot of a nearby school shortly after the shootings. He was being held without bond at the Hillsborough County Jail.

Four convicted for Medicare fraud

MIAMI — Three employees of shell companies and a doctor have been convicted in a $69 million Medicare fraud involving false billing for tubal feeding supplements.

Sixteen companies targeted elderly patients with offers of free government milk, but then used those same patients' names to bill Medicare for false or fraudulent services, federal prosecutors charged.

For each patient, the companies billed $400 a month for nutritional supplements and $250 a month for tubal feeding kits. Only a fraction of the supplement was delivered, and none of the kits were sent.

Marta Moris directed the fraud for three years. Elva Lamas managed one of the shell companies. Perla Martin Davis processed some of the false billing, and Dr. Emilio Valdes signed false patient certifications.

A jury hearing the seven-week trial Monday convicted all four of conspiracy in South Florida's biggest Medicare fraud case.

Fourteen other people, including four other Miami doctors, pleaded guilty to related charges.

Man mistaken for tourist killed

MIAMI — A man driving his van loaded with the family's suitcases hours before the start of a vacation was shot and killed in his own neighborhood, possibly mistaken as a tourist.

Police had no suspects Monday in the shooting death of Willie Lane, 54. His body was found lying outside his van.

There was damage to the rear bumper, leading the family to suspect that bandits, thinking he was a visitor, employed the oft-used trick of intentionally hitting another car to get the occupants to stop and get out.

The van had Duval County plates and the suitcases were piled high in the windows, also leading family members to believe he was mistaken for a tourist.

Lane, his wife and their 10-year-old son were about to embark on their annual vacation, a monthlong drive around the country. Lane decided to get a haircut at the house of a family friend Saturday before leaving.

About the time he was expected home people in the neighborhood heard shots and saw two or three men kicking someone on the ground near Lane's van.

Doctor turned down protection
Police offered help six months before shooting

By BILL KAZON
Associated Press Writer

PENSACOLA — About six months before Dr. John Bayard Britton and an unarmed escort were shot to death outside an abortion clinic, the physician had turned down an offer for protection, a police spokesman says.

Pensacola police and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement had agreed to accompany Britton to and from the Ladies Center, where he and retired Air Force Lt. Col. James Herman Barrett were slain Friday.

"We offered to draw out a course so that we could have several officers follow him and surveillance at all times," police Sgt. Jerry Potts said Monday.

But Potts said Britton "felt like he didn't need" protection.

The offer came after the clinic's director, Linda Taggart, had complained that Paul Hill, the lone suspect charged in the shootings, had been stalking Britton, a Fernandina Beach physician who performed abortions at the clinic. Police were unable to identify Hill as the suspected stalker, Potts said.

Hill, 40, of Pensacola, is charged with two counts of murder for the slayings of Britton, 69, and Barrett, 74, of Pensacola, and one count of attempted murder for wounding Barrett's wife, June, 68.

The victims were shot in the Barretts' pickup truck as it pulled into the clinic's parking lot after the couple had picked up the doctor at Pensacola Regional Airport.

In Tallahassee, Gov. Lawton Chiles said the state is offering to protect any doctors or other people connected with abortion clinics in Florida.

U.S. marshals began watching over Pensacola's two abortion clinics, both sites of slayings, on Sunday. Dr. David Gunn was fatally shot outside the Pensacola Women's Medical Services last year by Michael Griffin, who was convicted and sentenced to life in prison.

The governor also said a statewide grand jury would investigate the Friday slayings along with federal authorities.

Hill, a former Presbyterian minister, headed a militant anti-abortion group called Defensive Action that advocated killing doctors and others involved in providing abortions.

Chiles said a computer seized from Hill's home may help investigators track down any others who may have been involved. The FBI is analyzing the computer, said FDLE spokesman John Joyce.

Meanwhile, abortion rights advocates screamed "murderer, murderer" at John Burt, regional director of Houston-based Rescue America, when he held a news conference on the steps of Escambia County's administrative building Monday.

Baseball host family turned down

By The Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — A visiting youth baseball team has refused to allow two of its members to stay with a black family because of the host's race, the family said.

Randy Scott, his wife and four sons planned to put up two members of a Raleigh, N.C., team for the duration of the Babe Ruth Southeast Regional Bambino Tournament, which began last week.

A city official said Monday the team "refused to allow their children to stay in a black home," said Scott, a youth baseball coach.

"A sick feeling came over me as I looked around at all the hustle and bustle of host families being introduced to their visiting players," Scott said. "And I wondered if somehow or other I had been taken back to the 1960s in southern Georgia."

Jay Loftin, the team's manager, refused comment after a game Monday.

Scott went to pick up his guests Thursday but returned empty-handed. Scott, his wife, and his four teen-age sons were to have shared their home with two boys of the all-white East North Carolina team. Scott's son Jan. 12, plays in the team that's hosting the tournament.

"It impacted our lives and made us feel awful," said Teresa Scott, the mother.

Scott continued to volunteer at the games and lan cheered for the East North Carolina team.

Babe Ruth League Commissioner Jimmy Stewart said he was shocked and apologized to the family, saying nothing like that had happened in the 38 years he's been with the league.

"We're living in the 1990s, and that sort of thing passed us in the 1960s," he said, adding the league is investigating the team.

The Gainesville Area Sports Support Inc., a volunteer group that organized the event and made housing arrangements, refused comment.

Gainesville's interim city manager said she apologized to the Scott family. The city contributes facilities and personnel for the tournament.

"The city will not be party to such incidents even indirectly and would like to know what the group will do to prevent a recurrence," Johnson wrote in a letter to the tournament organizers.

Stewart said the league requires players to stay at the homes of local hosts in an attempt to encourage mutual cultural growth.

HRS fires man over tax evader

By The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The state has fired a social services official who knowingly hired a convicted tax evader to run a $189 million Hurricane Andrew relief program.

Reggie Smith was let go Monday amid allegations he accepted free dinners and a cruise to the Bahamas from Miguel Orta, whom he hired 22 days after the hurricane. Orta had told Smith about his felony record but Smith disregarded it, saying it wouldn't create a conflict with the job.

Orta, who along with fines now owes the federal government more than $700,000, was fired last month under allegations he abused overtime privileges.

Smith, 41, failed to provide documentation for last year's trip with Orta by the 4 p.m. deadline "Monday," said Jim Towey, secretary of the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. The state had been seeking documentation from the 16-year employee since mid-July.

"This is a serious issue and we've waited several weeks," said Towey. "I've bent over backward to be fair because he's worked a long time for our agency."

Orta, whom Smith hired to run the state's Individual and Family Grant program for Andrew victims, said he never gave his boss freebies.

"He paid his own way, that's what I recall," Orta said. "It was a Discovery Cruise, about a year ago."

The state also demanded receipts showing Smith paid for a June 4 dinner at an expensive Tampa steak house while the two men were attending a hurricane conference.

Roberta Fox, Smith's lawyer, said her client has the dinner receipts. She added she hasn't met with Smith about the cruise.

POLICE

Stolen and recovered vehicles

Sanford police recovered a Jeep Saturday at Eighth Street and Pecan Avenue, reportedly stolen in Winter Park. Police said a man was seen tampering with the vehicle, but ran off and was not apprehended.

A 1981 Mitsubishi reportedly stolen in Orange County, was found by deputies partially submerged in the water near Lake Jesup Boat Ramp on Sunday.

A 1980 Cadillac, red with brown vinyl top, license number QCP-59L was reportedly stolen Saturday in Cowan Moughton Terrace.

A 1988 Dodge, reported as stolen, was found by Sanford police Sunday on Poplar Avenue at 11th Street in Sanford.

A 1989 Chevrolet, reportedly stolen from a Port Richey woman in Altamonte Springs, was located by deputies, abandoned in a ditch on Church Road north of White Cedar, Saturday. Approximately $225 in damage was reportedly done to the vehicle.

Tailgate troubles

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the thefts of several tailgates from Ford pickup trucks over the weekend. A tailgate was reported stolen Saturday in the 8100 block of Via Hermosa, near Lake Mary. A truck bed and tailgate were reported stolen Saturday from a 1994 Ford pickup in the 12100 block of Stone Brook near Sanford.

A third tailgate theft was also reported but no specific information is available. Investigators are checking each of the thefts to determine any connection.

Trio arrested

Sanford police stopped a vehicle Sunday in the 2800 block of U.S. Highway 17-92. All three in the vehicle were arrested when police said they found handguns in the car. Arrested were James Roosevelt Lee, 18, of Kissimmee, Damon Marque Williams, 18, of 3520 Washington Street, Sanford, and Lamont Darnell Williams, 18, of 2451 Church Street, Sanford. Each of the three was charged with possession of a concealed firearm. Damon Williams, the driver, was also given traffic related citations.

Police said they are investigating to determine if the three may have been involved in an armed robbery on Friday at a store in the 300 block of Upsala Road. Two of the men reportedly may have matched the description of the men in the robbery.

In the robbery case, police said one man entered the convenience store and held the clerk hostage with a small handgun. They said the second man entered the store and removed possibly $110 from the cash register. They said the first man then released the clerk and pointed the gun at a customer, taking a wallet, before both of them fled into a waiting vehicle.

Police said an intensive investigation into the armed robbery and a possible connection with the three men placed under arrest was under way.

Men in car

Sanford police arrested two men and a woman men found in a car in the parking lot of a convenience store in the 2200 block of W. First Street Friday. Tanya Lynn Miser, 24, of 915 Maple Avenue, Sanford, Anthony Hawkins, 21, and Virgil Lamar Thompkins, 38, were arrested. Each was charged with possession of cannabis.

Bottle tossed

Wilbert Anthony McFadden, 24, of 2320 Dollar Way, Midway, was arrested by deputies near his home Saturday. McFadden was accused of throwing a bottle at a car occupied by a woman and five children. McFadden has been charged with throwing a deadly missile.

Trespassing

Chair Thomas Helen, 43, of Altamonte Springs, was arrested by Sanford police in the 2600 block of El Capitan on Sunday. Police said the woman refused to leave a residence when asked to do so. She was charged with trespassing after warning.

Sleeping in car

Sanford police arrested Michael Eugene Mims, 46, 2032 S.R. 46, on Sunday. Police said they found him in his car, slumped over and holding a can of beer, in a parking lot in the 5700 block of S. Orlando Drive. Mims has been charged with having an open container, and disorderly intoxication.

Warrants served

Sharon Jill Neamith, 31, 610 Baywood Drive, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police at her place of employment Sunday. She was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Jasper Moore, 35, 1406 Cedar Creek Apartments, was served a warrant at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Sunday. He was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of possession of drug paraphernalia.

Chin Y. Chang, 24, of Altamonte Springs, was located by Longwood police Sunday on C.R. 427. Chang was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Traffic stop

Keith Michael McManus, 24, of Apopka, was stopped by Lake Mary police Sunday at Lake Mary Boulevard and Interstate-4. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Domestic case

Diablo Dwayne Washington, 20, of 1605 W. 15th Street, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police in Lake Monroe Terrace Sunday following a reported dispute with a female. He was charged with aggravated assault, domestic violence.

Incidents reported to the sheriff

Chrome moldings and mirrors valued at $500 were reportedly stolen Friday from a Ford pickup truck parked at Mullet Lake Park.

Tools, electronic games and other items valued at $3,970 were reportedly stolen between April 15 and July 31 from a residence in the 800 block of Baywood Circle.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

An estimated $600 in rented items were reportedly stolen Sunday from a residence in the 1500 block of W. 25th Street, while the resident was reportedly sleeping in the house.

Four Thunderbird wheel covers valued at $50 each, were reportedly stolen Saturday from a vehicle parked in the 1700 block of W. Airport Blvd.

Two amplifiers valued at $1,000 were reportedly taken Sunday from a residence in the 2000 block of Washington Avenue.

An unknown number of items were reported missing Sunday in the burglary of an animal hospital in the 2500 block of Park Drive.

A TV and VCR valued at $300 were reported missing Sunday from a business in the 200 block of S. Sanford Avenue.

A wallet reportedly containing $313 in currency was said to have been taken Saturday from a car parked in the 1400 block of Medical Plaza.

Bowling balls and other items valued at a total of $470 were reportedly stolen Saturday from the trunk of a car parked in the 1200 block of S. French Avenue.

$20,800 or 23 percent of McFellin's gross salary to its plan.

"We're getting double dipped," Miller commented. Finance director Dan McNutt said, "that's about the size of it."

McNutt told the commission, McFellin apparently did not want the state to know he was employed by the city, even directing him (McNutt) to retrieve from the post office a letter to the state listing his (McFellin's) name.

City attorney Richard Taylor has contacted the state retirement program to discuss the issue but has not received their response. He suggested if the city must pay the $20,800 to the state retirement account, officials could attempt to get the money paid to the ICMA returned or seek the money from McFellin.

Miller said McFellin knew, or should have known, he had to inform the state in writing of his retirement fund choice during a specific time period, but he did not.

Commissioner Paul Lovstrand, who was at odds with the former administrator during much of his tenure, came somewhat to his defense on the retirement issue.

"He thought he was saving the city money by choosing the alternate plan," Lovstrand commented, referring to the ICMA plan. Lovstrand cautioned Miller against accusing McFellin of intentional wrong-said Metts. "There are just so many things..."

Metts said the CAB also wishes to complete several paving and drainage projects throughout the county. They recommended $440,000 to pave and drain a half-mile of 21st Street in Midway and $250,000 to pave and drain nine streets in Lockhart Subdivision.

Sanford had sought the money to repair sidewalks in the 13th Street section between Lake and Perimeter avenues and install walkways where they don't exist. The city also planned to install landscaping and to provide money to dress up storefronts. Another $100,000 would be spent for residential rehabilitation and $110,000 would be to establish a business loan program.

At the request of COMA, Concerned Organized Men in Action, the city also wanted $15,398 to install playground equipment in the Bentley-Wilson park in Georgetown.

In his application to the CAB, Rowe wrote "The activities outlined in this application are not focused on 'giving' but 'assisting.' The Community Development Department is trying to look to the future in an attempt to break the poverty cycle."

COMA president Bernard Mitchell said he recognizes the funding shortfall and the group will attempt to raise any necessary money needed to complete the project.

"We'll take whatever the city wants to give us," said Mitchell.

For other projects, commissioners approved:

$50,000 to expand emergency medical assistance for low- and moderate-income residents.

$90,000 to help complete the Rescue Outreach Mission emergency shelter.

$178,000 to install water lines in Jamestown.

$10,000 for Bookertown Park improvements, and $180,000 to provide administrative money for affordable housing agencies.

doing in the matter.

The commissioners agreed to pay about $900 to the state retirement fund for former interim administrator Gerald Korman's retirement. Korman filled the position between McFellin's resignation and the hiring of current administrator W. Shelton Smith. The city underpaid Korman's retirement calculating the amount based on about 17 percent of his gross salary rather than the required 23 percent.

In other business, the commissioners are proposing the city and county split the cost of lighting a portion of Highway 17-92. Commission members earlier balked at paying the entire electric bill and maintenance for lights which could be installed using state and federal monies in a planned construction project.

About 48 percent of the area in question is unincorporated while 40 percent is in Longwood. Two other small portions are in the cities of Casselberry and Winter Springs. Rather than deal with four interlocal agreements, city commissioners are proposing that Longwood and the county share the cost on a 50-50 basis. Under the plan the city could pay about $130 a month.

The commissioners also set the tentative millage rate of $5.06 meaning taxpayers will pay the same rate as this year. Public hearings on the rate are set for September 12 and 26. The commissioners have yet to finish reviewing the city budget with a handful of proposals yet to go.

Further, the commissioners decided all complaints, even anonymous ones, will be investigated by the code enforcement officer. Some people did not want to report possible code violations fearing retributions from neighbors if they were identified. The commissioners rants in the Orlando area."

A person contacted at the corporate office yesterday, refused to identify herself and would not say how many employees lost their jobs at the Sanford restaurant. She would not comment on whether or not employees were notified in advance.

"The press release has in it everything our corporation wants to say," she commented. "That's all. We won't answer any other questions."

Sanford has thus lost another "holiday." The Holiday Inn near the intersection of Interstate-4 and S.R. 46 closed last year. The Holiday Inn at the Monroe Harbour Marina became the Marina Hotel in June of this year.

The Holiday House Restaurant and Holiday Inn hotel system do not have any corporate relationship.

Kudos to those who made play great

The Sanford African American Academy of Arts, in association with SoQ Theatre and Repertory, Inc., gave two performances of James Weldon Johnson's "Prodigal Son." The performances were held at the old Star Theater, 1017 W. 13th Street.

The Academy was formed in order to bring more culture into the Sanford community, and the old theater is its home. Many other functions can be expected in months and years to come.

The performances were excellent. Judging by the number of cast members with extensive experience in singing and acting, there was little doubt of the play's success from the very beginning.

It should be carried beyond this point however. This play, telling a story worthy of consideration by everyone, and showing the artistic skills of people in our African American communities, should be presented more than twice. This play, with these people, should be presented in other locations as well as the old 13th Street Star Theater.

The purpose of the play may have been of a religious nature, but the concept of such an excellent local presentation shouldn't be allowed to end with this past weekend.

Just as the motion picture world has had a sequel movie called "The Prodigal Son Returns," we suggest this Prodigal Son should return and be presented on stage throughout Central Florida. Let everyone see it, enjoy it, and learn from it.

They did an excellent job.

New world order

With no disrespect toward you or your newspaper, but the time has come to tell the truth. The American people must be informed of the single biggest threat to our nation that has ever existed.

Tell the people how this nation's political parties, both Republican and Democrat, have been taken over by the one world Council on Foreign Relations. Explain to your readers why it makes no difference who they vote for, the CFR has controlled the election process for the past 30 years. All that needs to be done to research what I say is a 30-minute trip to the library.

Print the truth about the Federal Reserve: it is not a federal agency, rather it is a private, for profit corporation whose board of directors and controlling stockholders are all members of the CFR. This brings us to the Internal Revenue Service, the 16th Amendment, which gives the IRS its power over us, was never ratified by the states. Disclose to Americans how their money has been stolen by both of these unconstitutional and illegal organizations.

Publish the CFR controlled governments plan to bring in U.N. troops for gun confiscation and internment of citizens that might resist the New World Order.

Benetton corrupts discussion of AIDS

We have grown accustomed to fatuous political activism by the occasional film actor, rock star or sports figure. Jane Fonda in Hanoi. Sting in the Brazilian rain forest. Greg Louganis out of the closet. Now, of all things, a clothier has gotten into the mix.

Benetton, the Italian apparel maker that has blighted the wardrobes of America's youth for the past decade, wants the world to know what it thinks about the AIDS problem.

Benetton self-importantly publishes a quarterly magazine, Colors, which is available in its stores and at newsstands. The current issue, which features an upraised middle finger ("protected" by a condom) on the cover, is devoted entirely to AIDS.

It is unclear to whom the magazine's content is targeted, but reasonable-minded people almost certainly will be offended by a doctored photograph of Ronald Reagan, showing the former president with AIDS-related lesions marking his face. (Benetton reproduced the photo on New York billboards.)

No less offensive is an accompanying obituary which cynically mourns Reagan's death "from AIDS complications in February of last year." The twisted reasoning behind Benetton's belated attack on Reagan is that he somehow is responsible for the spread of AIDS.

Indeed, says Tibor Kalman, who edits Colors magazine from an office in Budapest: "If one person could have made a difference in the history of AIDS, it would have been Ronald Reagan. Millions will die because of this man's religious and political ambitions. I believe he will be responsible for more deaths than Hitler."

So what would the clothiers-cum-crusaders at Benetton have had Reagan do? Issue an executive order, they say. Nationalize the condom industry. Require all television and radio stations, newspapers and magazines to devote specified advertising space for AIDS education.

Order all public and private schools to provide compulsory sex and AIDS education. And order free distribution of condoms in all public buildings, including schools, post offices and prisons.

Now, of all things, a clothier has gotten into the mix.

How simple. How ridiculous. If the folks at Benetton had a clue about the American political system, they would know that the president cannot unilaterally nationalize an industry, not even condoms. Nor can the president trample upon the First Amendment rights of the media by dictating advertising.

Almost all school curriculum decisions are made at the local level, not at the White House. And while the president might have the power to order distribution of condoms in federal buildings, he has no authority over state and local buildings.

It is absurd to blame Ronald Reagan for the spread of AIDS. It was not Reagan who forced homosexual men to have dangerous sex or intravenous drug users to share dirty needles. Maybe the former president might have acknowledged the AIDS problem earlier. Maybe he might have agitated for more federal dollars to fight the disease when it first reared its ugly head back in 1981. But his failure to do so hardly makes him the moral equivalent of the genocidal Hitler.

DONNA BRITT

No fear in friend to everyone

WASHINGTON — So there I was last week, hurrying into my office lobby, minding my own business, when a security guard sidled up and whispered, "Want to see a great story?"

My reflexive answer: "Of course not!" Each week, I hear at least 20 terrific ideas that I feel guilty not writing about. But I listened anyway.

Five minutes later, I was back out on the sidewalk, talking to a horse.

Okay, technically, I was talking to Eleanor Carton, the woman atop the horse. But American Saddlebred Palominos are tall. To avoid getting a stiff neck as I spoke with Carton, I often ended up eye-to-glistening-eye with her horse, Dudley, which was interesting, but not as interesting as listening to his owner.

I had noticed Carton earlier — a slender, helmet-wearing blond woman astride a horse with a braided tail. A helmeted Washington, D.C., policeman, also mounted, sat beside her. I'd figured she was an officer too, doing some sort of cop thing.

Actually, it was a mission thing.

Carton, 33, left Wolcott, Conn., for Denver — more than 2,000 miles away — on June 4, with only Dudley and her German shepherd, Preston, for company. Since then, the trio has traveled an average of 23 miles a day, five days a week, mostly on rural back roads. They spend nights at the farms of strangers who have stable room for Dudley and an affinity for Carton and her twofold purpose. The first part: to increase people's awareness of how greatly animals contribute to human lives.

Carton's other goal, according to a written explanation she distributes along the way: "To demonstrate (that) a disability needn't be a handicap."

Didn't I mention that Carton has been deaf since birth?

When she realized as a child that her deafness made her different, Carton at first thought she must be "stupid." The horsewoman explained through Robert Meann, a Washington Post employee who knows sign language. (Carton communicates through speech as well, though some of her words are hard to follow.)

But the more she thought about her deafness, the more she figured that "I wasn't limited by what I am, but what I thought I could do," she continued. "Look at me now. I can't hear, but I know everything that's going on."

With a sweep of her hand, she took in the busy street, passerby — all of Washington. "My world is just as big as anybody's."

Maybe bigger. The Spokane, Wash.,-born Carton first dreamed of crossing the country this way as a young girl enamored of horses. "But I wanted to do more than appreciate and ride them," she said. What she wanted was to make a point, to "not go through life doing nothing."

So, this summer, after working 14 years as a veterinary technician, Carton left she knew enough about animals — how to sew wounds, administer medicine — to make her move. Packing socks, a shirt, a fannel jacket, one pair of jeans and some shorts, Carton and company set out for the Denver area, where she has a brother.

She plans to write a book about her journey.

Currently in Virginia, the threesome will in the next several months cross West Virginia, Tennessee, Missouri and Kansas before arriving in Colorado sometime in November. Carton and Preston will fly home to Connecticut for Christmas; Dudley will be shipped.

In Washington, some of the people who gawped, waved or gave Carton the thumbs up also slipped her dollar bills to help her buy hot sauce and print the photos she autographs. Most are a little envious," said Officer Robert Worrall, the police horse trainer who was assigned to hang out with Carton because his sixth-grade daughter, Christina, is deaf.

"I think we'd all like to break loose and travel across the country," said Worrall, who said that when Carton visits larger towns, friends call ahead to arrange lodging and stable care and to alert police, who sometimes help her negotiate traffic.

"It's amazing that a girl by herself, let alone a deaf one, would do this," he said.

Some things I wanted to ask about her silent world and her responses to it seemed too complex for translation on a bustling street. But Carton's trail — and the new friends who make it possible — raises an inevitable question: In a world where most people avoid strangers why is she so fearless?

"Because I am the friend of everyone," responded Carton, in Trumbull, N.J., she said. "We went through a real rough area. Many people hadn't seen a horse. They ran up and asked questions."

"There's no need to be afraid."

Suddenly Carton was rummaging through her things, searching for what seemed like forever. Finally she pulled out a small, golden pin — an angel with outspread wings.

Carton smiled.

Actually, it was a mission thing.

Reporters keep an eye on Lady Justice

OK, OK, I'm not arguing. We have witnessed a football field full of media hinesy on display throughout the O.J. Simpson case.

I thought I'd heard it all, and then NBC promoted their special on "O.J. and the death penalty": If he gets it, will that change the way Americans view the death penalty?

Is there nothing we haven't speculated on before a jury has a chance to determine Simpson's guilt or innocence? Could we at least let a jury decide if he deserves the death penalty before we worry about the sociological effects on American life?

However, I have had a belly full of legal types using the Simpson case to rail against the press more specifically: that cameras in courtrooms somehow impede the august and holy work of the judicial system. They worry about the impact of the press, yet here are just a few examples of how the press has affected the judicial process and the O.J.

Simpsons of the nation:

— Lenell Geter was working as an engineer in Texas when he was wrongly convicted of robbing a fast-food restaurant, despite the vehement testimony of several of his co-workers that he was at his job when the robbery occurred. Why was he released after serving 18 months in prison? A "60 Minutes" broadcast detailing his case allowed millions of Americans to see the holes in the investigation and prosecution of Geter's case.

— Kelly Michaels was a teacher's aide in a New Jersey day-care center when she was convicted of sexually abusing children and sentenced to 47 years in prison. Reporter Dorothy Rabinowitz, covering the case for a local TV station, realized the testimony she heard in Michaels' trial didn't add up: How could Michaels accomplish raping children with kitchen utensils and putting peanut butter on their naked bodies and licking it off, all during daily nap times with other teachers in the building? Why were there no physical marks whatsoever on children supposedly raped with knives and forks?

After a jury convicted Michaels, a stunned Rabinowitz went to work to find an attorney who would appeal Michaels' case. Most turned her down, but a civil-rights attorney finally took up the cudgel and turned up tapes of children being interviewed by investigators in which the children were appointed "deputy investigators" and given badges for being "a little detective with us," as one investigator put it.

On one tape, a small child insists her teacher did nothing and the investigator is heard asking the child, "How come you don't want to help me and all your friends have already told me?"

After five years in a maximum-security prison, an appeals court decided Michaels had been unfairly convicted and imprisoned and released her. Was it the even hand of Lady Justice, working her meticulous fairness on Michaels? Not in the least. It was the tenacity of Rabinowitz, now an editorial-page writer for The Wall Street Journal.

— When Walter McMillian of Alabama was convicted of murder on perjured testimony, with evidence pointing to his innocence withheld from his lawyers, "60 Minutes" brought the case to light. A dozen witnesses recounted again that McMillian had been at home at a fish fry at the time of the murder, and the story reiterated that there was no physical evidence linking McMillian to the crime. An appeals court later overturned the verdict.

However, I have had a belly full of legal types using the Simpson case to rail against the press.

Officials lobby for crime bill

By CAROLYN SKORNECK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Clinton administration and law enforcement officials are stepping up their lobbying for a $33.2 billion crime bill in the final days before Congress votes on the measure.

But Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, urged colleagues Monday to "take a good hard look" at the bill that would authorize 100,000 more police, send some third-time felons to prison for life and spend billions for prisons and crime prevention.

Hatch said the bill was "insufficiently tough on criminals" and that it called for "squandering scarce resources on gaudy social welfare programs."

President Clinton said Monday that police and prosecutors support the measure, which would be the major first crime bill enacted in six years.

"Every major law enforcement organization in America supports this crime bill," Clinton said in a statement. "It's time for the lawmakers to do what the law enforcers have asked — pass the crime bill now."

The House is expected to vote on final passage Wednesday. The Senate is to vote after that.

Attorney General Janet Reno was calling wavering lawmakers, meeting with law enforcement officials and planning a speech to kick off the 11th annual National Night Out — a nationwide crime-and drug-prevention program.

"We need to lobby, because it's not a done deal," said Dusty Deschamps, president of the National District Attorneys Association. "I think it's going to be a fight."

The key issue, Deschamps said after the meeting with Reno, is a ban on assault-style firearms supported by almost all major law enforcement groups. The National Rifle Association has lobbied heavily against that provision, and it barely passed the House in May on a 218-214 vote.

The provision would ban 19 named types of assault-style firearms and scores of others the government says meet similar characteristics, and would limit magazine capacity to 10 rounds. But it would exempt 650 named firearms and all guns legally owned when the law takes effect.

Another potential roadblock is general Republican opposition such as that expressed by Hatch, who has discussed a filibuster to block the bill. However, an aide said, "He didn't say he would do it."

Neil Behan of the Major City Chiefs rejected criticism that the bill is insufficiently tough, calling it "tougher than anything we've ever had before."

Bud Meeks of the National Sheriffs Association defended the crime-prevention funding: "Law enforcement is more than just arresting people and putting people in prison. It's also trying to keep people from going to prison."

The bill also would create about 60 new death penalty crimes while authorizing $11.1 billion for state and local law enforcement, including the new police; $10.5 billion for state and local prisons; $8.9 billion for crime prevention and drug courts and $2.8 billion for federal law enforcement.

Unlike most authorization bills, this one addresses how to pay for most of it: A trust fund created with savings from federal manpower cuts would cover $30.2 billion. The other $3 billion, including $2.2 billion for prisons, would come from general revenues.

One law enforcement group opposing the bill is the Law Enforcement Alliance of America, known originally as Law Enforcement for the Preservation of the Second Amendment.

Promoters cancel Woodstock

By DAVID BAUDER
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. — The times they are a-changin'. Not even for auld lang syne is the Woodstock generation willing to sit in a field for two days and listen to the music of its youth.

A nostalgia show at the same Bethel farm where the historic Woodstock concert took place 25 years ago was canceled Monday, after baby boomers stayed away in droves.

Only 1,850 people bought tickets for the Aug. 13-14 show. The promoter, Harry Rhulen, had hoped to sell 50,000 at $94.69 apiece.

"We quickly determined that people are just not interested in this event," said Harry Rhulen of Shea Entertainment Inc. "If that was the case, why should we bother to put it on?"

Promoters of the larger Woodstock '94 concert 60 miles away in Saugerties — scheduled for Aug. 12-14 — still had about 100,000 unsold tickets Monday, the day sales were supposed to end. They planned to extend sales and relax parking rules to try to attract a crowd closer to their goal of 250,000.

The Bethel show was troubled from the start. Rhulen bailed out the original promoter, Sid Bernstein, when it became clear Bernstein didn't have the money to pull it off.

The lineup featured many original Woodstock artists — Melanie, Richie Havens, Sha Na Na, Canned Heat — who are no longer popular.

Shea Entertainment said the 1,850 people who bought tickets will receive refunds. Rhulen, a local insurance executive, expects to lose $2 million.

The Woodstock festival of 1969 became famous in part because tens of thousands showed up unexpectedly, swarmed the gates and got in free.

But the $135 tickets for the Saugerties show and restrictions on what fans can bring into the show have turned some people off.

More testimony in Whitewater probe

WASHINGTON — After scolding the Treasury Department's top lawyer for her contradictions and omissions, senators investigating Whitewater are interrogating another Treasury official about diaries he disown.

Treasury Chief of Staff Joshua Steiner, who testifies today, wrote in his diary that a longtime Clinton friend, Roger Altman, was "under intense pressure" from the White House to remain as overall head of the Whitewater probe.

White House officials already have testified there was no such pressure on Altman.

Reid Weingarten, Steiner's lawyer, said on July 25 that such references were "off-hand, impressionistic" and sometimes recorded weeks after the fact. "He never purported to quote Altman. He is not purporting that Altman told him this."

Protection added to clinics

Dr. Tom Tvedten wears body armor. He's applied for a gun permit. And federal marshals watch over him as he comes and goes from the clinic where he performs abortions.

But none of this makes him feel safe. "I don't think you can protect yourself from being taken out by a hit man," Tvedten said Monday. His clinic in Little Rock, Ark., is one of dozens getting added protection from marshals under orders from Attorney General Janet Reno.

Reno's action was prompted by the killings of a doctor and his escort as they arrived at a Pensacola, Fla., clinic on Friday. A clinic in Falls Church, Va., was firebombed the same day. Another abortion doctor had been killed outside a Pensacola clinic in March 1993.

Race may be factor in welfare reform

WASHINGTON — In a policy shift designed to allay the concerns of civil rights advocates, the Clinton administration will consider race when deciding whether states should be allowed to experiment with welfare reform.

The administration's plans, outlined in a draft obtained by The Associated Press, could also make it easier for the public to influence experiments by the states to change their Medicaid and welfare systems.

Mary Jo Bane, the assistant secretary for children and families at the Department of Health and Human Services, said states are proposing substantial reforms in their welfare programs and "we believe that they deserve public attention, they deserve public comment."

"We are not trying to design a cumbersome, bureaucratic procedure that slows things down," Bane said in an interview Monday. "We're trying to design a procedure to make sure that we get public comment and that we take it into account."

Smoke deadly to nonsmokers

NEW YORK — About 47,000 nonsmokers will die from heart disease this year and 150,000 will have non-fatal heart attacks from inhaling other people's cigarette smoke, a study says.

Earlier studies had estimated that secondhand smoke was responsible for 32,000 to 57,000 heart disease deaths a year in nonsmokers.

The new figures are projected from an analysis of 1985 data that showed that secondhand smoke caused enough heart disease in nonsmokers to kill 63,000 Americans that year and cause 200,000 heart attacks.

A decline in smoking and an increase in smoking restrictions are expected to reduce these deaths, the study says.

Stones can still crank out the music

WASHINGTON — The burning music question of the year has been answered: The Rolling Stones still can crank out high-octane rock 'n' roll.

"Voodoo Lounge," their new album, offers strong evidence that the band has recaptured the spirit and vigor that once made it the world's greatest rock band. And over nearly two and a half hours Monday night, they proved they can still pull off a vigorous, varied stage show as well.

On the first night of the "Voodoo Lounge" world tour, the Stones effortlessly wrapped the old around the new, a job made easier by the fact that the new material draws so heavily on the standards of yesteryear.

"You're always nervous the first night," joked Mick Jagger after four blistering songs into the opening set. "But you can't be a virgin forever."

Black district redrawn

BATON ROUGE, La. — Thirty years ago, Alton Patton didn't care what color his congressman was. He felt more concern about restrooms and water fountains labeled "whites only."

Today he frets about losing the only black congressman he's ever had.

Three federal judges preemptively redrew Louisiana's congressional boundaries last week, eliminating the majority black district where Patton lives. The judges said the district was racially gerrymandered — drawn specifically to ensure a black person would be elected to Congress.

The state has appealed the judges' surprising move to the U.S. Supreme Court. But if the court upholds the decision, Patton's district will change and, in all likelihood, so will the color of his congressman.

Boy on trial for murder

BATH, N.Y. — The prosecutor portrays the 14-year-old with coppery hair and glasses as a methodical killer who lured a 4-year-old into a trap, then tried to cover his tracks. To the defense, he's a disturbed boy who acted out his pent-up rage.

Eric Smith wore a Bugs Bunny Tasmanian Devil T-shirt and a blank expression as lawyers began arguing Monday about whether he has the mental capacity to be convicted of murder.

After Eric spotted Derrick Robbs walking alone down the street to summer camp a year ago today, he "just plain decided at some point that that child was going to die," District Attorney John Tunney told the jury.

After coaxing Derrick to take a supposed shortcut through pine woods just 300 yards from his home in the western New York village of Savona, Eric squeezed the boy's neck, stuffed his mouth with a paper towel and a plastic bag, battered his head with a stone, then crushed his skull and chest with a 28-pound rock, Tunney said.

Geography lesson comes to life

WASHINGTON — Eight teachers posing as students systematically built two towns last week, then destroyed them with simulated earthquakes in a lesson they will take home to their classrooms to make geography come alive.

Roads cracked, power lines fell, and homes slid down hills into waterways, all in the name of learning. Under the direction of Detroit teacher Adrian Hall-Davis, the teacher-students carefully recorded their observations, and then, using charts, estimated the magnitude of the earthquakes they caused.

They were brought together with 32 other teachers from San Antonio, Texas; Kansas City, Mo.; Portland, Ore.; and Detroit as part of the National Geographic Society's effort to improve geography education in the nation's urban school districts.

Geography is more than locating countries on a world map. "It's the earth and everything on it and how people interact with those things," said Ray Hill, a geography resource teacher in Kansas City, who attended the society's Urban Institute.

O'Cubs club Suns

JACKSONVILLE — Brooks Kieschnick drove in three runs to lead the Orlando Cubs to a 10-4 victory over the Jacksonville Suns Monday. Orlando grabbed an early lead in the first inning when catcher Mike Hubbard drove in two runs on a single. Kieschnick hit the sacrifice fly in the fifth to bring in another run, and a single in the sixth to drive in two more. Ed Smith homered for the Cubs in the eighth.

Panthers tab Murray

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Florida Panthers named Bryan Murray, fired as the Detroit Red Wings' general manager, their general manager. Murray replaces Bobby Clarke, who returned to the Philadelphia Flyers after last season. Murray, 51, was fired by Detroit after last season when the Red Wings were eliminated from the National Hockey League playoffs. Murray was coach and general manager from 1990 until 1993, when he was relieved as coach. While coaching, the Red Wings had two firsts, a second and a third in their division. Before joining the Red Wings, Murray was coach of the Washington Capitals for most of nine seasons, compiling a record of 343-246-83.

Crim makes most of start

CHICAGO — Chuck Crim was victorious in his first start in seven years, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 8-5 victory over the Florida Marlins, who lost their seventh straight game. Rick Wilkins and Rey Sanchez each drove in two runs in a five-run first inning as the Cubs won for the 10th game in their last 14 games. It was Crim's sixth major-league start and first since 1987 when he pitched for Milwaukee. His only other win as a starter was June 2, 1987, over Kansas City, in his first major-league start.

Nationals a win away Longwood sweeps way into championship game

From Staff Reports

GAINESVILLE — If how you react to a loss shows your character. Then the Longwood Babe Ruth Bambino All-Stars definitely have a winning character. The 11 and 12 year old squad bounced back from its first loss in All-Star play Sunday, by sweeping a doubleheader Monday night in the Southeastern Regional Tournament at Westside Park in Gainesville to move to within one victory of advancing to the National Tournament in Henderson, Kentucky.

After dropping a heart-breaking 1-0, eight-inning decision to East North Carolina (Raleigh) in the Winners' Bracket final, Longwood bounced back to oust Tanner, Alabama 2-0 in the Losers' Bracket final, then handed East North Carolina its first loss of the tournament, 7-1, Monday night. "I know East North Carolina is going to be tough, but I think we have the momentum going our way," said Longwood manager John Melillo. "If we play our game we can take it. The kids handled their first loss in either state or regional play extremely well. We had to beat two tough teams tonight. I was very pleased with the way they responded to that first loss. "This team has a lot of character, that's why we fell we have a good chance." Statistics do appear to favor Longwood, as the team has now outscored its opponents 52-8 in accumulating a 5-1 record. The only game in which Longwood has allowed more than one run was a 9-3 triumph over Alabama on Saturday. The winner-take-all final with East North Carolina is set for 7 p.m. tonight at Westside Park. In Monday's victory over Alabama, Longwood did all of the scoring in the top of the third inning. Kevin Melillo opened the inning by reaching on an error. After a pair of fly outs, Jeff Epperson singled and Kevin Graves walked to load the bases. Jose Rosado then ripped a two-run single for all of the runs Longwood would need. Kevin Melillo and Graves made the lead stand up as the duo combined to the four-hit shutout. Melillo worked the first five innings and Graves came on to strike out all three batters he faced for the save. Doing the hitting in game one were Matt Main (2-for-3), Rosado (1-for-2, two RBI), Ryan Bono (1-for-2), Epperson (1-for-3, run), Chris Westervelt and Jeff Halbert (both 1-for-3), Kevin Melillo (1-for-4, run) and Ricardo Montalvo (1-for-4). The win over East North Carolina was never really in doubt as Longwood built a 7-0 lead before Raleigh scored an unearned run in the bottom of the fifth inning. The game even ended on an exciting third base, to first base, back to third base double play. But all of the news was not good as Longwood's leadoff batter, Montalvo, was hit in the elbow and had to be taken to the hospital early in the game. He was seen after the game in a sling and it was not known if he would be available tonight. Graves came back in the second game to pitch the first five innings and picked up a win to go with his save in the first game. Kyle Bono tossed the final two innings as the duo combined on the second four-hitter of the night. Providing the offense for Longwood were Rosado (2-for-2, two runs), Main (2-for-4), Ryan Bono (1-for-2), Westervelt (1-for-3, run), Halbert (1-for-3), Epperson (1-for-4, run), Kevin Melillo (1-for-4) and Graves (two runs).

Exciting night ends Lake Mary softball league

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — A long, long season came to an exciting end in the City of Lake Mary Department of Parks & Recreation Men's Friday Night Spring Slowpitch Softball League at the Lake Mary Sports Complex last Friday night. The 10-week season, which was supposed to end on July 8, was finally completed with make-up games originally set for July 1. Each of the games had a bearing on the next as first PRISM pounded Sanford Paint & Body, 19-5, to clinch third place and move to within a half-game of second place. Griffin Construction took the challenge to heart and used a five-run third inning to erase a 5-3 deficit, then plated 16 runs in the fourth inning to destroy Cumberland Farms, 24-5, to clinch second place and move to within a half-game of first place. This time it was Florida Manor's turn to answer and it did, scoring five runs in the fourth inning to break a 2-2 tie and going on to top the Braves 10-2 to wrap up the title. Florida Manor concludes the season with a 9-1 record, while Griffin Construction closed the season with a seven game winning streak after a 1-2 start, to finish 8-2. PRISM wound up 7-3, Sanford Paint & Body 3-7, the Braves 2-8 and Cumberland Farms 1-9. The Fall Softball League 10-week seasons will start the week of September 5th. Men's C Leagues will be offered on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights, a Women's C League will be offered on Monday nights, and the AT&T League will play on Wednesday nights. Registration for current teams will be from Monday, August 8th through Friday August 19th, with new teams allowed to start registering on Monday, August 22nd. Team fees is $280; ASA fee is $12; and non-resident fee is $5. Call Terry Diedrich at 324-3097 if you have any questions. Doing the damage for PRISM were John Donahue (triple, double, two singles, three runs), Mike Fratrik (triple, three singles, three runs, three RBI), Don Basti (three singles, two runs, four RBI), Paul Mlotkowiak (triple, single, four runs, two RBI) and Bob Palagano (double, single, two runs, two RBI). Also hitting were Andy Szymanski (two singles, two runs, two RBI), Bill Quinn (two singles, run, two RBI), Elvis Figueroa (home run, run, two RBI) and Mel Goings (single, run, RBI). Leading Sanford Paint & Body were Rocky Jernigan (triple, double, run), Johnny Eastham (two singles, run), Bob Walker (triple, run, two RBI), Brian Burgett (double, run, RBI), Terry Bellefleur (hit, run), Phil Nation (hit, RBI), Wes Childers (hit) and Mike Bernosky (RBI). Contributing to a 25 hit Griffin Construction attack were Terry Russel (two triples, two doubles, four runs, three RBI), Joe Ervin (double, three singles, four runs, RBI), Brad Hemis (home run, double, single, three runs, three RBI), Tommy Winkle (triple, two doubles, three runs, two RBI) and John Wright (three singles, run, RBI). Also, Brian Rogers (two triples, run, four RBI), Eric Cerbulis (two singles, run, three RBI), Kenny Collie (two singles, two runs, two RBI), Mike McLobon (grand slam), Sam Belfiore (single, two runs) and Chris Bacon (two runs).

IN BRIEF

Volunteers needed

The Stardust Service Unit of Girl Scouts is planning to install a small barrier at the pond in front of Lake Mary Elementary. Stardust adopted the pond two years ago. A SBA (Small Business Administration) grant helped put the trees around the pond, and a grant from the Lake Mary CIA paid for the undergrowth and is paying for the barrier. The barrier will be installed on the northwest side of the pond which is unprotected by sidewalks. Due to what's involved, most of the work will be done by parents. The project is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 13 at 7 a.m. Anyone wishing to volunteer to help can call Mary Rowell at 321-1498.

She spends a lot of time at the hospital Volunteer 'charts' 25,000 in 20 years of service

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Grace Smith has been a volunteer most of her adult life. She went from Navy relief to Gray Lady, then Pink Lady, now known as an Auxilian.

Smith and her husband, Harry, have been married 50 years. As Smith put it, "We've been loving it and living it a good long time." Her husband is a retired Navy admiral. They have two sons, Harry D. and Thomas, and two grandsons. The Smiths have made their home in Sanford for 25 years. The family attends church at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Lake Mary.

Much of Smith's volunteer work began when the children were younger and her husband was still in the military. "I worked first with the Navy Relief," she said. "A lot of that was helping take care of the wives in the military." Smith spoke of how she then moved on to volunteer as a "Gray Lady" with the Red Cross. "When we were stationed in Naples, Italy in the '60s, I worked as a Gray Lady," she said. "It too was volunteer work and the Red Cross needed help. I did a little of everything."

Smith spoke of their move to Sanford and her beginnings as a "Pink Lady" at the old hospital on First Street that was then called Sanford Memorial Hospital. "When we first came to Sanford my husband took over the Sanford Naval academy as a supervisor. At that time the Naval academy was across from the old hospital. So, I kind of drifted in there at the hospital and began working as a Pink Lady. Now they have been about 11 years at the new location and I'm still working for them." Smith has now charted a record number of 25,000 hours as a volunteer in her 20 years with the hospital. She was the past president of the auxiliary twice.

She spoke excitedly about her work at Central Florida Regional Hospital. "My main job right now is a buyer for the gift shop," she said. "I work five days a week and about five or six hours each day. The gift shop is open from 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Then after all that work I still have laundry, meals to cook, a house to clean and a husband to take care of. I think I get a lot of satisfaction out of my work at the hospital though. You can be assured that I wouldn't have worked this long if I didn't feel I was helping. I like to help people. I feel I'm doing something to help someone. I enjoy it and my husband doesn't object or I wouldn't be there."

Smith also elaborated on various duties of other auxiliarians and upcoming plans for the group. "We're growing and have more services to offer," she said. "People can work at the information desk, with the trolley, in emergency, in short stay, or in the open heart unit. We also have auxiliarians that work in CCU (Critical Care Unit) and ICU (Intensive Care Unit). We plan to have a recruitment breakfast in September. We're eager to invite more couples, husband and wife teams, and just more people in the program."

Musician drums his way to the big time

Local musician Tom Miller gets in some last minute practicing before finally packing up all of his belongings and moving to Boston. Miller recently auditioned for the opera singer Luciano Pavarotti, and will now be traveling with his orchestra. In a four-month concert tour to places such as Rome, Belgium, Spain, Holland, France, Germany, Portugal, Brazil and more. Miller is locally famous for a drum-a-thon he did for Muscular Dystrophy. He plays a vibraphone (pictured) as well as the marimba, xylophone and the orchestral bells and other percussion instruments.

Children are bright colors in tapestry of life

DEAR ABBY: Re bringing children to graduation ceremonies: About 30 years ago, when my youngest sister was planning her wedding, her three older sisters expressed concern about bringing our children — which numbered eight in all. She not only insisted that all family members share in her moment of joy, all of her five nieces dressed alike and were her attendants. The babies fused, the girls squirmed, and we did our best to maintain some level of calm and dignity. But even the minister took note of the children's activities and commented on the richness of the wedding.

ADVICE

He reminded everyone that weddings were family affairs and children were an important part of the family — a wise reminder in this day of putting children last, or omitting them altogether.

Many years later, when I graduated from college (I was the last of five children to do so), this same crowd of kids, plus a couple more who had been born in the interim, came to my graduation. They were the greatest cheering section in the auditorium.

cooking somewhere, moms and dads whispering, flashbulbs going off, or a dad with his video camera walking back and forth — and a grandfather snoring.

BRENDA P. IN PHOENIX

DEAR ABBY: I am 37 years old, and this is my first letter to you. I have a question: When did "Here you go" replace "Thank you" in our vernacular? I think I might scream the next time I make a purchase and the cashier hands me my product, and instead of saying "Thank you," says, "Here you go!" I usually will look at the cashier and say, "You're welcome." Most of the time I do this. I get a puzzled look from the cashier.

Please tell me that this is happening only in California. I would hate to think that this also goes on in the Midwest. Where are the managers of these stores? Aren't they training their clerks? Where's the appreciation for having shopped at their store?

This has happened to me in discount chains, grocery stores, Wal-Mart, J.C. Penney, Macy's, etc. In short, this happens everywhere.

Am I the only person driven crazy by this lack of courtesy and appreciation? Am I the only person ready to quit shopping where the cashier doesn't know how to say "Thank you"?

Thank you, Abby, for listening.

JENNIFER IN ROCKLIN, CALIF.

DEAR JENNIFER: If this is your biggest problem, you take the prize for being the luckiest person who ever wrote a "Dear Abby" letter. It's possible that clerks at Wal-Mart, J.C. Penney and Macy's want a little respite from the routine "Thank you" — or "Have a nice day."

THE MARCH

FACE VENTURA, P.A. 10:20

It's finally official: Jackson, Presley husband and wife

By JEFF WILSON
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — The kingdoms of Graceland and Neverland are joined.

Michael Jackson and Lisa Marie Presley have confirmed what they denied for 11 weeks: that they were secretly married and are "very much in love."

"My married name is Mrs. Lisa Marie Presley-Jackson," Elvis' 26-year-old daughter said in a statement released Monday by Jackson's production company.

"I am very much in love with Michael. I dedicate my life to being his wife," the statement said. "I understand and support him, we both look forward to raising a family and living a happy, healthy life together."

The pair said they lied for the sake of their privacy, eluding entertainment reporters for nearly three months after a quickie ceremony at a judge's house in the Dominican Republic on May 26.

"We are both very private people living in the glare of the public media," the statement from MJJ Productions explained. "We both wanted a private marriage ceremony without the distraction of a media circus."

Rumors of the marriage were first reported July 10, after the judge told the Dominican newspaper Listin Diario that he had performed the 15-minute ceremony.

The celebrities' publicists denied the report. But a Dominican immigration official said Jackson was in that country on May 26, and Donald Trump was rumored to have lent the newlyweds a New York "love nest" in his glitzy Trump Tower in New York City.

Tabloid photos purported to show the blushing bride with a disguised Gloved One at Disney World. Their honeymoon highway turned out to be — surprise — Trump Tower.

"I've known this secret for a long time," real estate magnate Donald Trump told a crowd outside the Fifth Avenue complex of expensive apartments and upscale boutiques. "They're very happy now."

Jackson, 35, made no comment. His publicist, Bob Jones, said the singer is "very happy ... like any newlywed."

The marriage has the blessing of Priscilla Presley, Lisa Marie's mother, said Priscilla's publicist, Paul Bloch.

Write A Want Ad That Sells!
YOUR CLASSIFIED AD
works best when it contains what the reader wants to know.

GIVE FACTS
Put yourself in the buyer's place. What would you want to know?
List the facts you can give. Name, phone, fax, e-mail, and address. If you're selling a car, state the type of transmission, mileage (if 100,000 or less) and special equipment.

DON'T EMBEZZLE!
It's risky business to embezzle and it won't increase your chances of success. Misleading information may get a buyer to your home. It may also get you a punch in the nose.

AVOID ABBREVIATIONS
While a few abbreviations can save you space, too many of them strong together can create confusion. A confused reader won't take time to seek out your meaning.

INCLUDE PRICE:
Survey indicates that buyers are more interested in the purchase price than they have been in the past. This applies to everything from Automobiles to real estate. Good merchandise, priced fairly, is the best guarantee of success.

BE AVAILABLE:
A telephone number is fine if you're at home when your ad runs.
If you're not going to be home, state the time you will be. Most people won't call back later.

USE YOUR NAME:
Put your name in your ad. It gives credibility to the item you are advertising. This may mean getting other business who has confidence in a name or something done the street.
Don't take advantage of being in a small community such as Sanford.

IF YOU NEED ADDITIONAL HELP, CALL THE SANFORD
SERVICES AND WE WILL HELP YOU WRITE YOUR AD.

Nails reflect many health conditions

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've heard the saying that "our nails are windows to our health." Why do I have white spots under my nails? Is this a vitamin deficiency?

DEAR READER: It's often been said that eyes and skin are also "windows" to health. Nonetheless, the nails frequently tell a lot: They can be brittle from malnutrition, spotty from a vitamin deficiency or soft from inadequate calcium in the diet.

In addition, rounded nails are seen in conjunction with chronic lung diseases, hemorrhages may appear under the nails in the presence of bloodstream infections, and certain glandular deficiencies may cause nail changes. Periods of fever are frequently associated with white spots on the nails that become more obvious as the nail grows. The most common cause of nail abnormalities is simple aging. As we enter old age, our nails become ridged and pitted; the color may change to opaque or yellow, especially in the presence of chronic fungus infection.

While it's true that the white spots under (or in) your nails could be caused by a nutritional deficiency, if you're otherwise in good health I'd attribute the markings to the aging process -- or, perhaps, to minor infections, such as colds, that you might have had weeks before. However, to be on the safe side, ask your doctor about this.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My wife had open heart surgery last year and was placed on Coumadin. As a result, she gets dark red splotches on both arms that are unsightly. We know her medication can't be stopped but wonder if we should modify the dosage.

DEAR READER: Absolutely. Coumadin causes the blood to coagulate more slowly. To achieve maximum benefit (and minimal risk), the speed of coagulation must be closely monitored using a blood test called the prothrombin time.

In an ideal situation this test will indicate that the blood clotting takes about twice the normal time: Less than this, the dose of Coumadin should be increased; more than this, the dose is reduced.

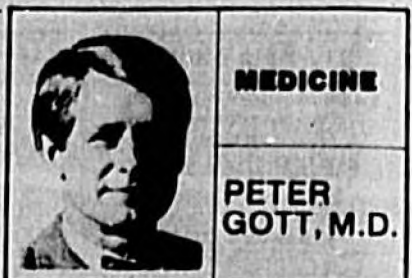

Although your wife's bruises

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Today's deal bears some similarities to yesterday's. Declarer uses a defender's signals to work out the distribution and find the winning line, but a well-timed falsecard might have thrown her off the track.

The declarer was Danielle Allouche-Gaviard from France. She was competing in the Phillip Morris European Mixed Teams Championship, held last March in Barcelona, Spain.

South's aggressive four-spade response to her partner's take-out double got her to the impossible-looking slam.

West led the heart king, under which East signaled with the 10, strongly suggesting a doubleton. West switched to the club king, East dropping the two to show an odd number, presumably three.

Declarer won with dummy's club ace, cashed the A-K of diamonds, discarding clubs from hand, and ruffed the diamond five, dropping West's queen. Concluding that West had started with 1-6-3-3 distribution, South cashed her spade king before ruffing a heart in the dummy. Now came the J-10 of diamonds, on which South threw her last club and a heart. Declarer ruffed a club in her hand and, at trick 11, trumped her last heart, the queen, with dummy's spade ace.

South was left with the Q-8 of spades hovering over East's J-6. Declarer could lead either dummy's spade nine or club six to avoid a trump loser and win 12 tricks.

Beautiful card-reading, but suppose West drops the diamond queen on the second round of the suit. Then South

HOROSCOPE

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Aug. 3, 1994

The year ahead could be a good one for acquiring material possessions, yet you should be careful not to buy items that are difficult to get rid of in case you later decide to sell them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Instead of being practical in financial matters today, you might be influenced to waste your money foolishly by a friend whose judgment is worse than your own. Leo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) For the sake of your ego it might be advisable not to set difficult goals for yourself today. Unless things come easily, your best intentions might be totally ignored.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't ignore your conscience today if it warns you not to become romantically involved with someone you know you should avoid. It might be trying to tell you something.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try not to let material considerations come between you and a close friend today. Your relationship is much more important than money or worldly goods.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you meet someone new today be friendly and sociable, but don't be excessive. You'll be more appealing if you play a little hard to get.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Co-workers will be peeved today if you look upon them as labor-saving devices by trying to get them to do work for you that you should be doing yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Being protective of a person you love is an admirable quality, provided you don't overdo it. There's a big difference between sheltering and smothering.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There's a possibility today you might demand agreement from one who loves you even though he/she thinks you could be wrong. Your tone of conversation leaves a lot to be desired.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Flattery is not likely to make an effective method of persuasion today. Persons who are your targets will innately know if your statements are sincere. Deceit is counterproductive.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It might be a good idea today to avoid stores that have merchandise you know you can't afford. Your sales resistance could be at a very low ebb.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even if you have to go someplace today you don't consider very special, be sure to look your best, because there's a possibility you may run into someone you'll want to impress.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The results might not be very satisfactory today if you let your emotions and feelings govern your intellect. Base your evaluations on a logical premise. Copyright 1994 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
