Warming Trend Is Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Polar air conditioning cast an unwelcome chill across Florida for the second straight day this morning, dropping citrus groves with frost and turning the breath of bundled school children into steam in the crisp, clear air.

Most temperature readings at dawn were in the 30s in North Florida and 40s elsewhere, but Tallahassee reported an early morning low of 28. Some other temperatures were Gainesville, 33; Tampa, 37; Palm Beach, 46; Miami, 49; Orlando, 43; and Jacksonville, 34.

A warming trend was forecast for this afternoon. The Weather Bureau said high temperatures today would reach the low 70s over most of the state. Low temperatures were forecast in the 40s in the extreme north and 50s elsewhere.

40,000 Cars Inspected Here

By DONNA ESTES

Contrary to early predictions of detractors of Seminole County's efforts with the state motor vehicle inspection program, the county's two stations have completed through the first five months of the program right on schedule.

Officials in the Casselberry election area: Raymond Morris, chairman; Mrs. John Zimmer, Mrs. Myron Jacobs, Mrs. Frank Stendle and Mrs. Burnham Stivers. Polling place will be the Woman's Club on Overbrook Drive.

At the same time in the City of Altamonte Springs with two seats on the City Council open in the election, 918 persons are eligible to vote. Polling place will be the Community House on Maitland Avenue.

Officials in the election are Charles Moore, Daniel Dorfman, and Donald Martin, district three and John Myrick, Albert Sabarava and Gordon Loggren, district four.

In the event that no majority is obtained by the candidates in the Dec. 2 election, a runoff will take place two weeks later, in compliance with the city charter.

The superintendent pointed out that in the first few weeks of the program, vehicles were turned down for small items such as a burned out turn signal light or tag light, which would have been found by the owner if he had visually inspected the vehicle before taking it to the station for the official going over.

Complaints are few and far between, according to Niederer, who revealed he has made a habit of late in checking thoroughly into each and every complaint.

Nov. 30 is the final day of the extended period for those vehicles with license plates carrying the numbers 2 or 3 at the last digit. Nov. 30 will conclude inspection of all vehicles.

County records list the youth as being bitten on the hand by a large rat which had just before attacked a cat.

The child was bitten near his home while his parents were away, and the boy was being cared for by a baby sister.

Deer Herd Getting The Fall

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — It's just an open deer hunt — the kind that takes place in the woods near here. But soon, it will be a full-blown hunt.

Sanford's Deer Herd, managed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, have been giving whitetail deer daily feed treatments.

Palm Brook, part of the center, has a large deer herd — too large to suit the space research effort and too large for the amount of feed the crew can handle.

The daily rations of apples, alfalfa pellets, cracked corn and other feed will be given "the pill" shortly because the deer are better known for multiplication than for their size.

It's all part of a program which has "widespread implications" in deer herd management, according to Dr. Tony J. Pascoe, head of the Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit at Ohio State University.

The birth control drug to be used has been tested on Sanford cattle and found safe. Pascoe expects to use it on deer.

Some deer removal is essential at Palm Brook but conservationists would rather have the deer kept alive, trapped and transferred to other areas.

NASA has considered aerial and ground methods of population control and decided traps would be the best.

Pascoe says the Palm Brook project will be a two-year effort and may be longer.

If the "pill" effort proves successful, the same technique might be employed in national forests or park areas where hunting is forbidden but where deer are too plentiful and literally starve to death.

Cigarettes Yield $5

Some $77,280.27 in cigarette tax collections have been distributed to the six municipalities of Seminole and the county — from funds collected during the month of September. Don D. McIlhenny, director of the State Beverage Department, reported to The Herald today.

Total of funds given back to the county government and the cities in Seminole during the fiscal year is $197,425.85. Receiving the major portion is the City of Sanford with $80,000.78, up from the amount received during the same period last year of $15,548.36. Total for Sanford in the fiscal year is $106,486.22.

Holding second place is the City of Casselberry with $7,322.80 for total of $85,809.02 for the fiscal year to date.

Other cities and amounts reported for the month and the fiscal year are Longwood, $2,022.67 and $16,889.70; Altamonte Springs, $2,000.00 and $12,100.00; Oviedo, $1,837.28 and $8,236.57 and Village of North Orlando, $206.17 and $1,406.76.

At the same time the county officers received $9,094.04 for total of $10,822.20 for the year to date.

'Bring Us Together'

DESIGNER. Ohio (AP) — Young Vicki Lynn Cole wanted to wave a sign when Richard M. Nixon's campaign trail rolled through this tiny community last month.

She had lost her own placard, so she picked up one she saw lying in the street and held it high, hoping Nixon would see it.

The sign read: "Bring Us Together Again."

Unknown to Vicki, Nixon saw the sign and remembered it.

Appearing before a crowd of supporters last night, the president-elect announced that "Bring Us Together" would be the motto and first great objective of his administration.

Nixon said that the placard that "touched me most" was one he had seen at Deshler last month.

Vicki, a 15-year-old eighth grader, said she didn't have time to notice the words on the sign when she picked it up. The sign she originally planned to hold up read: "LBJ convinced me to vote Republican."

Beginning in 1959 with Marie Heister Monroe, seven daughters of Presidents have been married to the White House. Vicki Cleveland was the only President's daughter to marry twice.

At Miami Beach a high reading of 83 degrees was the second coldest recorded in the month of November. The record is 60 set on Nov. 26, 1950.

Another traffic accident occurred at Orlando, the wife of Orlando Mayor Carl Langford is reported to have sustained a minor leg injury in an accident involving a Sanford physician Dr. John Johnson.

Orlando authorities have charged Sanfordite John K. DeKle, 47, driver of an auto involved in a two-car accident, with running a stop sign after his car failed to stop when crossing Livingston Street and heading south on River Avenue.

Police report DeKle and his mother, Mrs. Elma B. DeKle, 77, also of Sanford and riding with DeKle, as being in "badly factory" condition last night at an Orlando Hospital.

The report stated the Langford reported Dietrich's front car had stopped at intersection of SR 436 and then pulled out directly in front of the Johnson vehicle.

U.S. Warns Hanoi: Could Wreck Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has warned North Vietnam that continued violations of the demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam could wreck the Paris peace talks.

The warning given to North Vietnamese representatives in Paris by U.S. representatives was disclosed by the State Department in a cautiously-worded statement Wednesday.

Officials said that beginning last Saturday there had been at least three instances in which American or South Vietnamese forces near the demilitarized zone had been hit by artillery shelling from enemy forces inside the DMZ.

The statement said the United States takes a serious view of such incidents and "our representatives in Paris have brought this situation forcefully to the attention of the North Vietnamese."

"As the President and Secretary of Defense have made clear," the State Department added, "our position is that serious talks could not be conducted if the DMZ were abused."

The statement issued by State Department press officer Carl E. Barth was mainly designed to provide some fresh assurance to Saigon that the United States has not agreed to any special status for the Viet Cong's political arm, the National Liberation Front—and also to make it clear that the United States does not consider the NLF to be an independent entity in South Vietnam.

In addition, the statement rejected implied claims of North Vietnam in recent statements that U.S. reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam violate the understanding which led to President Johnson's decision Oct. 31 to halt bombing and other attacks on the North.

"The activities that we understand to be going on in the DMZ," the statement said, "were all bombardments and all other acts involving the use of force." This precise phrase was used repeatedly with the North Vietnamese in contrast to the words they suggested simply because reconnaissance is not an act involving the use of force. The North Vietnamese accepted this phrase.

South Vietnam has so far refused to send a delegation to participate in the Paris peace talks. President Nguyen Van Thieu has instead sought arrangements which would clearly treat such a delegation as representatives of a sovereign government and treat the NLF delegation as part of the negotiating team of North Vietnam.

One other aspect of the bomb attacks on major cities of South Vietnam was touched on in the statement. There have been reports of what the statement called "indiscriminate attacks on major cities" of South Vietnam. The statement said that "we are following the situation very closely indeed."

One of the conditions laid down by President Johnson for stopping the bombing was Hanoi's understanding that indiscriminate attacks on the cities would have to cease.

Heavy Red Attack Repulsed

SAIGON (AP) — While U.S. planes and helicopters rained down flames, bullets and bombs, the other bodies were strewn along the border. Do was held by a battalion of South Vietnamese rangers and a U.S. helicopter circling overhead.

Four South Vietnamese were reported killed and 23 wounded. No American casualties were reported.

The North Vietnamese crossed the Cambodian border to storm the jungle camp, named Landing Zone Dot, in an area where allied forces are sweeping for an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 North Vietnamese.

Red Threat Appraised

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Pentagon official says a report prepared by his own office for the U.S. delegation to a NATO meeting was wrong in its assessment of the Soviet threat in Central Europe after the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Alain C. Enthoven apologized in a letter to Sen. John S. Cooper, R-N.Y., for what he said was the erroneous conclusion that the Soviets were weaker after the Czech invasion last August.

Enthoven said he believes instead that the net Soviet threat to Central Europe "has significantly increased, not reduced."

Enthoven is the Defense Department's assistant secretary for systems analysis, a key post created by former defense chief Robert S. McNamara in 1961.

He referred to an appraisal drawn up by his staff for top U.S. officials including Cooper as they prepared to attend the meeting of NATO Assembly now under way in Brussels, Belgium.

The thrust of Enthoven's original memorandum remained unchanged: That NATO forces remain inadequate and should be upgraded.

"The systems analysis appraisal contended that in rough numbers of men NATO forces can match those of the Warsaw Pact countries."

"If NATO's military posture is inadequate—and we think it is—it is not because we are grossly outnumbered," the paper said. "Rather, it is because of mediocre deficiencies that NATO has not thought worth fixing."

"Among other things, Enthoven's office contended that:—Aircraft shelters costing $100,000 each should be built to protect NATO fighters against sudden attacks. —Some NATO countries need to build up ammunition stocks to support their full combat potential. —NATO allies must place more emphasis on keeping their reserve units well equipped. The paper noted that the West Germans now have no major reserve combat units.

3 Arabs Arraigned

NEW YORK (AP) — Three Yemeni Arabs, a father and his two sons, have pleaded innocent to a charge of conspiring to kidnap President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

Ahmed Raheem Namer, 43, and his sons, Hussein, 20, and Abdul Rahman, 17, were indicted Wednesday by a grand jury before being brought into Brooklyn Supreme Court for a hearing.

Justice John R. Stankey reduced bail from $100,000 to $25,000 each, but the trial date was not posted. No other bond was set.

Defense counsel asked lower bail on grounds that the defendants had no criminal records and had been steadily employed in Manhattan's garment district.

The grand jury handed up indictments on four counts: conspiracy to kidnap Nixon, criminal solicitation of an unidentified person to commit the crime, possession of two rifles, and possession of switchblade knives.

If convicted, each of the trio faces a maximum of 23 years in prison.

Piper Unfolds $2 Million Plant

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — A $2-million assembly plant to build Piper Aircraft's new 18-passenger shuttle airplane will be located at Lakeland, the company announced today.

The decision dealt out three other cities which had been under consideration—New Smyrna Beach, Deland and Melbourne.

Howard Piper Jr., vice president of the company, said the plant on a 300-acre site adjacent to Lakeland Municipal Airport.

The $200,000 airplane, to be called "Pococan," is aimed at cracking into the scheduled air taxi market now dominated by Beechcraft's Beech 99, a plane that costs twice what the Pococan will sell for, Piper said.

Fabrication of parts and sub-assemblies will be done at Piper's Vero Beach plant with final assembly at the new factory.

Piper told the Lakeland Area Chamber of Commerce his plant would open with 350 jobs and go on to 2,000 within two years.

Nixon Selecting Staff

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon is pushing forward an early announcement of his choice for a new federal budget director.

Source close to Nixon said that those under consideration for the important post included: 7. Norman Hurd, budget director for New York State, and Casper Weinberger, California's director of finance. It was understood that Maurice Stans, who once headed the budget bureau in the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, is not interested in returning to that slot, although he was actively involved in the Nixon campaign.

An early choice of budget director is dictated by the fact that the budget-making process for the 1970 fiscal year that begins next July already is well under way.

Nixon aides said that, since President Johnson will present the new budget to Congress before leaving office Jan. 20, the President-elect will be severely limited in making major changes in what is always a massive and detailed blueprint for predicted federal outlays.

Quite naturally, Nixon wants his own man to be as active as possible in the budget-making process.

The President-elect, while in New York, has been holding a series of staff conferences aimed at lining up his prospective White House staff and, further in the future, recruiting staff for the Cabinet and other top positions.

He took a breather Wednesday night and with his family went to the Broadway musical "George M."

On Friday evening, he will fly to a seaside home at Key Biscayne, Fla., for a stay that could last a week. Associates said Nixon hoped to get in a good deal of relaxation during this Florida visit.

On Wednesday, Nixon announced that J. Willard Marriott, co-chairman of the Marriott Corp., which operates a chain of roadside restaurants and motor hotels, will be chairman of the 1969 Inaugural Committee. Robert J. McChesney, Lockheed Corp. will be executive director.

Must Be Some Cat

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Florence Howard of nearby Fort Thomas was granted a divorce Wednesday and her former husband was given custody of the couple's cat although she received visiting privileges.

A two-page agreement, signed by the woman and Porter Howard and approved by the Campbell County circuit court, said: "Mr. Howard shall keep the cat, and permit wife to visit same."

The couple had no children.

How To Win

BLOOMFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Last week a group of fifth graders used machines in a mock election in the town clerk's office.

Third-party candidate George C. Wallace received one vote.

Ernest Woschnak of DelRay placed second in sculpture.

In cooperation with Deltona Art Club, sponsors of the show, Frank Hendersen in charge learned possible economic circumstances and predicted the total deficit would be closer to $139 million because of needs not listed in Hendersen's figures.

Former speaker Ralph Turington, D-Gainesville, chairman of the House appropriations committee, agreed that it was a very serious problem and said he did not know yet if a tax increase could be avoided.

"The figures show where we are going if nothing else is done," Hendersen said, explaining that the only new program included was Medicaid.

The program will cost $4 to $6 million for the Medicaid but the state would lose $2 million in federal funds if it did not participate.

In addition, Hendersen said, changes in federal regulations on welfare payments probably would cost the state an additional $23.5 million.

"I have not accepted to mention all the financial problems, or opportunities, you will face," he told the legislators.

Red Threat Appraised

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Pentagon official says a report prepared by his own office for the U.S. delegation to a NATO meeting was wrong in its assessment of the Soviet threat in Central Europe after the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Alain C. Enthoven apologized in a letter to Sen. John S. Cooper, R-N.Y., for what he said was the erroneous conclusion that the Soviets were weaker after the Czech invasion last August.

Enthoven said he believes instead that the net Soviet threat to Central Europe "has significantly increased, not reduced."

Enthoven is the Defense Department's assistant secretary for systems analysis, a key post created by former defense chief Robert S. McNamara in 1961.

He referred to an appraisal drawn up by his staff for top U.S. officials including Cooper as they prepared to attend the meeting of NATO Assembly now under way in Brussels, Belgium.

The thrust of Enthoven's original memorandum remained unchanged: That NATO forces remain inadequate and should be upgraded.

"The systems analysis appraisal contended that in rough numbers of men NATO forces can match those of the Warsaw Pact countries."

"If NATO's military posture is inadequate—and we think it is—it is not because we are grossly outnumbered," the paper said. "Rather, it is because of mediocre deficiencies that NATO has not thought worth fixing."

"Among other things, Enthoven's office contended that:—Aircraft shelters costing $100,000 each should be built to protect NATO fighters against sudden attacks. —Some NATO countries need to build up ammunition stocks to support their full combat potential. —NATO allies must place more emphasis on keeping their reserve units well equipped. The paper noted that the West Germans now have no major reserve combat units.

$219 Million Needed For State Operation

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The 1969 Legislature will have to find at least $219.2 million to operate state programs at present levels, budget director Wallace Hendersen told legislators Wednesday.

And, he said, the deficit for the next two years could go much higher if the lawmakers rank the requests for additional money to improve present programs or add new ones.

Sen. Tom Slade, assistant Republican leader in charge learned possible economic circumstances and predicted the total deficit would be closer to $139 million because of needs not listed in Hendersen's figures.

Former speaker Ralph Turington, D-Gainesville, chairman of the House appropriations committee, agreed that it was a very serious problem and said he did not know yet if a tax increase could be avoided.

"The figures show where we are going if nothing else is done," Hendersen said, explaining that the only new program included was Medicaid.

In addition, Hendersen said, changes in federal regulations on welfare payments probably would cost the state an additional $23.5 million.

"I have not accepted to mention all the financial problems, or opportunities, you will face," he told the legislators.

Tickets for the gospel sing sponsored by the Sanford Fire Department at Civic Center Nov. 29 at 8 p.m. are now available from any city fireman, according to information today from Assistant Fire Chief W. C. Gailey, program chairman.

Gailey said the event will feature such well-known gospel groups as Florida Boys from Pensacola, Naomi and the Segs Brothers from Nashville and Little Steve Sanders of Pensacola.

Refreshments, coffee and hot dogs will be served along with the singing, Gailey informed.

Money realized from the event will go to the Firemen's Benefit Fund and tickets are now on sale.

Addicted Newborn Babies Common Sight In Nursery

Editor's Note: A small, new-born baby twitches and screams. The cause: the baby is born a drug addict. The mother's last—her need—for drugs is transferred to the yet unborn child. At birth, the child—just like the mother—has a need for the drug.

By JANET CHISMIR
Miami Herald Staff Writer
MIAMI (AP)—He is a beautiful baby, dimpled and darling with a fuz of dark hair topping his well-shaped head.

His mother is a nurse after the doctor has checked the baby and the mother's record as well. "Yes, she does need a lot of pain killers and they don't seem to help her at all."

Seconds later the doctor is in the new mother's room.

"What are you hooked on?" he asks.

"En I have to tell you the truth?" she asks.

"Yes, if you want your baby to live."

"He is a beautiful baby, dimpled and darling, but now he's fighting for his life. He is experiencing withdrawal symptoms that are possibly every bit as cracking as those that would torture his mother or any other drug addict if they were suddenly deprived of the drug they crave."

He is suffering from neonatal addiction—a condition passed on by his mother the same way the vitamins she might take pass through the placenta barrier.

His is a confirmed case his mother admitted it.

But there are many, many more cases pediatricians can't confirm. There are enough so that at Jackson Hospital, at least, "any baby who presents unusual behavior at birth, at least," says Dr. Dorothy Ariza, instructor in the department of pediatrics, who also saw 10 confirmed cases there last year—cases so severe it was known in advance the mother was an addict.

They're getting in by a common sight in the nursery—infants who are fighting for their lives with the availability of different kinds of drugs and the abuse of them. "Defined broadly," one doctor points out, "a lot of people are taking a lot of things and a lot of them affect their babies."

How it affects them is a variable. Some just don't look well. Some have bad color. Some fall to thrive. Others are irritable, or twitch, or jerk. Or go into convulsions. Or stop breathing. Their symptoms will vary depending on the drug the mother is taking—whether it is heroin or morphine she is addicted to, or amphetamines, barbiturates, or psychotropic drugs or a myriad of combinations she's missing. It will depend on dosage, frequency of use and the maturity of the infant at birth.

Unintentionally, they'll die, says Dr. Louis Gluck, professor of pediatrics at the University of Miami's School of Medicine. "Treated more will live, but some will die."

The treatment is other drugs, generally morphine, one of the tranquilizers used for psychotherapy. It is given to the infant orally, or intravenously if he can't take it by mouth, to relieve the symptoms of withdrawal.

"Sometimes it can take up to six months to withdraw a baby," says Dr. Ariza. "The average is three months."

Compounding the problem at times is the difficulty of detecting it in advance. There is hope that someday, in the near future, some procedure will be designed to pick out the expectant mother who is abusing drugs.

Even today, certain psychotropic drugs can be detected through chemical urine analysis.

Usually the mother who is using a needle to give her addiction has the marks to give doctors the clue. "But not always," says Dr. Ariza. "They're also remarkably clever about hiding the sites."

Some women don't realize that excess in various drugs acts as a narcotic to the baby they carry within them as heroin or morphine. "But it's excessive," says Dr. Ariza. "The doctors point out, 'We don't want to punish the woman who is taking drugs under a doctor's care.'"

It is not these women, but the increasing numbers of others addicted to hard narcotics, who are the increasing concern of pediatricians and their babies.

Miss Rachel Erwin, director of Social Services for the Dade Public Health Department, Material and Infant Care Project is concerned because, "We used to hear of one or two a year, now we're seeing about one a week—women who are addicted to drugs of all kinds."

Mothers who are nonusers often bring other "gifts" to their unborn babies along with neonatal addiction, she says. "Some they know little about sterile procedures, we see hepatitis and other diseases which have disastrous effects on progenies."

Even marijuana, Miss Erwin

Roman Cosmetics Says: Men Favor Mature Women

By ARLEEN ABRAMSON
Associated Press Writer
American women in general are more naturally beautiful than their European counterparts, asserts Eve of Roma. "It's the natural heritage... the mixed nationalities."

But, adds the Hungarian-born queen of Italian cosmetics, "The American woman's natural advantage is more than offset by the European's woman's know-how. On the continent, knowledge is passed down from generation to generation and the women there try harder."

Eve, beauty adviser to celebrities and members of royalty throughout the world, has been in the beauty line for more than 35 years. When she was a young girl, "interested in making myself beautiful," she sat at the feet of her mother, a chemist and cosmetician in her own right. She attended all the cosmetic schools on the continent and ultimately, in 1944, set up her own salon in Rome in part of the building she now occupies on the Via Veneto.

If the inspiration and making of beauty came naturally to her—she was the first to introduce the pale lipstick and the blush, among other cosmetic innovations—beauty itself did not. "At a child I felt unattractive," she recalls. "I was insecure and self-conscious about my appearance. It was not until I had created my own unguis and searched out my own secrets of beauty that I realized that almost all women, even some of the most beautiful ones, were equally insecure."

She says that woman's fear of growing older and becoming unattractive to men is completely needless.

"I've never been happier than now," comments the 34-year-old Eve. "Men enjoy mature women. A mature woman is God's gift to man because she has a lot to say that he wants to hear and she is clever enough to do a little listening."

ETERNAL EVE... happy to admit she's 34. For the skin to remain elastic, she asserts, "to do this the skin must be prepared and must be nourished."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I went with this guy for four years. We obtained around like a couple of animals because he was married. He said he loved me and I believed him. He said he'd be with me for the rest of his life. He was working on it. He even told me that they were married. "I'm name only."

I turned down a lot of swell guys for this bum. How can he do it? He says he can't even mention "divorce" to his wife right now. Now how in heck could this have happened if he was telling me the truth?

DEAR REEN: I've bet against an immaculate conceit. Obviously, he wasn't telling you the truth. Lose the bum.

DEAR ABBY: Every day after school a group of us girls walk home together. We have to pass a certain barber shop, which is located in the basement of a building. Well, this particular barber seems to have very little business because every time I walk by he's got almost parked in a chair right in front of me. I can look up and see us.

Supreme Court Will Decide Courthouse Fight

Florida's Supreme Court is to be the site of the next legal battle in the county's effort to build a new courthouse in the City of Sanford, with judgment given by Circuit Judge Roger Dykes yesterday.

Judge Dykes refused to reverse his previous decision approving the $2.9 million bond validation for construction of the facility and withheld official judgment on the matter until the county's period for appealing recent decision from the Fourth District Court of Appeal has expired.

District court's decision was that Sanford is only a temporary county seat and a new courthouse cannot be built in a temporary location.

District court further instructed the county to cease expenditure of funds for the proposed new facility.

Dykes indicated he will leave the bond validation as is until Nov. 23 and at that time if the appeal has been filed, he will reaffirm the validation.

On the other hand, if the appeal has not been filed, the validation would be set aside.

Dykes said, in his opinion, this way would get the issue to the Supreme Court by way of the fastest route possible.

The legal gymnastics of the courthouse fight is continuing to say the least. The Supreme Court last Friday refused to review the courthouse case until Dykes could render a decision on the re-hearing of the bond validation.

Although the issue involves two separate law suits—one on the county seat and property of building a new courthouse in Sanford and the other on validation of certificates of indebtedness to construct the facility—the two matters have become intermingled.

Original suit was filed nearly two years ago by Robert Tucker, Thomas Pratt and James L. Moore, of South Seminoles, who had suspended his son during his nine-week extension period, thereby denying the youth the opportunity to take his tests.

Lee Moore told the board this was not fair and asked that his son be given the opportunity to take his examinations for grading purposes.

Moore said it clear he was not protesting the suspension, but did think his son was being punished twice since his suspension was not allowed tests.

Several other county principals attending the board meeting were questioned about policy at their schools and they affirmed students on suspensions were allowed to receive examinations before suspending.

John Angol, principal of South Seminoles Junior High and Carlton Hestley, principal of Lyman High, said their school policy allowed the testing before students serve suspensions.

Board Chairman Mason Wharton, in a discussion, informed that School Board did not set the policy of each school.

John Bryant, board member, approved that suspending students should only come as a last resort and she wanted a policy of using suspensions as a punishment.

James Birkenmeyer, board member, said he was not for forcing something on the principals but he felt the board should be given the tests.

A. F. Keeth, board member, said he could not believe Wharton would penalize a child for the whole nine weeks and recommended the tests be given.

Finally the board, on a motion by Birkenmeyer, moved to have principals meet with school superintendents and work out a policy for reviewing the suspension policy at all county schools.

Multi-$$$ Complex Set

$400,000 Site At Altamonte

Construction is expected to begin before the first of the new year on a new multi-million dollar apartment complex and shopping center on a 65-acre tract at the northwest corner of SR 436 and Palm Springs Road in Altamonte Springs.

The tract recently annexed to the City of Altamonte Springs is to be used in part as a site for commercial development. It is planned a shopping center to include a supermarket, several national chain stores and shops to be built.

The 16.7 acres scheduled for immediate development of the apartment complex has in addition to four, six, eight- and ten-unit apartment buildings, plans the swimming pools, fountains and parkways.

Remainder of the property is set aside for future development.

Recently, another developer, the City Council of Altamonte Springs, has approved the plan to build a shopping center of prestige shops in the drawing books for the south side of SR 436 near the Altamonte Avenue intersection.

At the same time, a developer of this week was successful in gaining recommendation of the county planning and zoning commission for rezoning from agriculture to multi-family dwelling district and commercial zone 306 acres of property fronting SR 436 at Howell Branch Road.

Plans for this tract include an auditorium for the County Commission of the rezoning. It is planned to build apartment house units and a shopping center on the tract.

Author Speaks Before Retirees

Mrs. Edith J. Brooks, past president of the Florida Federation of Art and author of the new historical book, "Saga of Baron Frederick Delany and delany Hall," was speaker for the November meeting of the Delany Chapter, American Association of Retired Persons.

Mrs. Brooks, in her address based on extensive research of the Delany family in America and Germany, and on local history, presented a colorful picture of the coming of Baron Delany, of his life on his huge estate, and the early development of the Lake Monroe area. She reviewed the changes of ownership of delany Hall, culminating with the final arrangement of permanent ownership and management by the Florida Board of Parks and Historic Memorials and the long-term lease providing for continuation of the home there as headquarters for the Florida Federation of Art.

Senator Everett Dirksen was credited his assistance in negotiations to name the estate as a historical park.

Mrs. Beatrice Hamilton, chapter president, announced officers and committee chairman for the coming year, following presentation of her annual report.

Serving will be Mrs. Hamilton, president; George Loefer, vice president; Mrs. Irma S. Brooks, secretary; Charles B. Hart, treasurer; James York, assistant treasurer; Oscar Kerk, membership chairman; Rev. Arthur Sawyer, legislative and activities chairman; Howard Middleton, program chairman; Mrs. Robert Harrison, honoraria chairman; Earl Merrill, publicity chairman; Mrs. James York, speech chairman, and James York, service chairman.

Middleton reported that the Christmas program will include a dance presentation by Miss Joy's Dance School of DeLand, singing of Christmas music, and instrumental music. Refreshments and a social hour will be at 9:30 a.m.

FINANCIER Back From S&L Meet

L. E. Estridge III, assistant executive vice president, First Federal Savings and Loan Association, has returned from the national convention of the United States Savings and Loan League.

The five-day session was replete with government financing, industrial and financial authorities who used speeches, seminars, work shops and discussion groups to bring to the 5,000 delegates the most current information affecting the savings and housing fields of the economy, Estridge said.

Repeatedly emphasized was the 1968 housing law passed by Congress, the S&L officer said. In its provisions are financial supports from the federal agencies to improve the sub-standard housing in urban areas, he added. But in a "new approach" government is looking to private corporations to furnish the expertise to spearhead action to use the funds to best advantage.

Estridge said that the measures are designed not so much to donate money to the less fortunate, but to afford means through which these people can help themselves.

Financial institutions and other civic-minded leaders of private industry are being called on to reduce or eliminate "poverty pockets" by helping citizens make use of the low-interest mortgage loans that are established in the 1968 housing law.

The solution to many social problems, the re-establishment of human dignity and drive and, through these efforts, the improvement of municipal institutions and other areas in which it is held, public officials, finance and industrial leaders will cooperate to achieve.

Schools Nix 69-70 Zones

Seminole County School Board yesterday suspended a custodian at South Seminoles Junior High School who was charged with eight counts of letter violations.

Taylor Greenberry Rountree, a three-year employee at the school, was booked by Seminole County sheriff's office after he was arrested while driving along SR 427 near Lake Mary and was reported to have bolts tickets in his car.

The janitor was placed on suspension by the school board until disposition of the charges.

Rountree is now free of a total $10,000 bond available for future court action on the allegations.

In another suspension matter, the board requested a review of the policies of students suspensions after a Sanford city commissioner appeared before the group to protest the action of Sanford Junior High School Principal Hugh Carlton, who had suspended his son during his nine-week extension period, thereby denying the youth the opportunity to take his tests.

Lee Moore told the board this was not fair and asked that his son be given the opportunity to take his examinations for grading purposes.

Moore said it clear he was not protesting the suspension, but did think his son was being punished twice since his suspension was not allowed tests.

Yule Tree For Nation

HEBER CITY, Utah (AP)—A 74-foot Erlenmann spruce is on its way to Washington, D.C., where it will serve as the nation's Christmas tree.

The 115-year-old tree was cut Tuesday from a 2,000-foot elevation area of the Uinta National Forest east of Salt Lake City.

The elderly tree will be baled until it stands decorated, in the Ellipse Gardens near the White House.

Slings were placed on the tree prior to cutting. A crane lifted the tree onto a specially constructed 65-foot trailer.

A will-proof solution was sprayed over the tree for insect protection and it was transported to the railroad siding at Heber City.

Frost Hits Panhandle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain, driven by high winds, and heavy snows soaked the Pacific states today, while frost covered the Florida panhandle.

Heavy snow and sleet warnings were in effect for the California Sierras and the Oregon Cascades. In Shasta, Calif., near the Oregon border, measured 3 inches of snow in six hours, while north coastal points got 1/2 inch of rain. State police warned motorists that chains were required for travel on mountain areas of New Mexico and wet snow created hazardous driving conditions in parts of southern Nebraska and southwestern Kansas.

Locally heavy snow hit the central Plains to the west of the Sierra and Interstate 2 in the Sierrita Mountains.

Thunderstorms a common feature of the Gulf air that flowed up the plains of Texas and Oklahoma to the mid-Mississippi Valley. Some 6-hour rainfall amounts included Lubbock, Tex., 1.53 inches; Childress, Tex., 1.13; Mollis, Ill., 1.11; and Chicago, 1.01.

The mercury during the pre-dawn hours tumbled into the 30s in the panhandle of northwestern Florida.
