Rich Turn From God BY PASTOR E. A. REUSCHER

Lutheran Church of the Redeemer

Here are some questions to ponder. Do you think of yourself as being rich? Does everyone get more or less what he deserves out of life?

Jesus Christ once said that it is very hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. The context makes it clear that Jesus did not mean His remark as a condemnation of rich men. Rather this was a warning that affluence has enormous power to distract people from love of God and love

Anyone who doubts the truth of that statement should take a good hard look at present-day America. In our time incomes have soared to the highest level in history. Even the "average American family" today enjoys luxuries beyond the dreams of the Caesars. But as living standards have gone up, in recent years church attendance has gone down. Many people have called attention to the "who needs God?" attitude that is widespread.

Many factors are probably involved in this religious disinterest. But easy-come, easy-go money certainly is one of them. Because one of the dangers of affluence is the temptation to regard your prosperity as the well-earned fruit of your own labor and ingenuity.

The person who thinks this way is not likely to be thankful and humble. His attitude fails to acknowledge the large part played in man's success by happy accidents, by the help of others (his parents perhaps), and above all, by God-given talents and opportunities. An equally prideful idea is the notion that wealth is a gift from God in reward for superior

Christian teaching offers no encouragement for the view that goodness leads to prosperity. Think of Christ, A blameless life of love and service led Jesus through trials and troubles to an agonizing death on the cross. And Christ plainly warned his followers that if they really wanted to follow His Way, "the world will make you suffer."

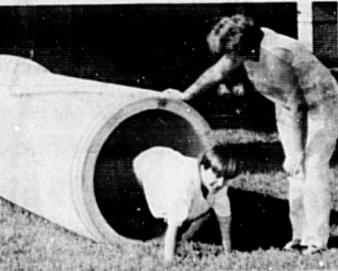

Another danger of riches is that it tends to harden a person's heart against the needs of others. How often haven't we heard a person who is well off express the notion that poor people could be just as prosperous as he if only they'd get off their lazy bottoms and go to work?

To say that poverty is just punishment for shiftlessness is a blanket judgment sharply contradicted by all that the social scientists have discovered in recent years about the handicaps visited upon the poor from the very hour of their

And it also is directly contrary to the teaching of Jesus. Christ warned people again and again against being selfrighteous, judgmental, and being insensitive to the needs of

In only one of his many parables did Jesus speak directly of an individual going to hell. And that individual was a rich man who had no sympathy for a beggar who starved to death at his doorstep.

Few of us think of ourselves as being rich. I suppose that is because we measure our prosperity against the prosperity of others around us. That's unfortunate. Because it seemingly prevents the great majority of us from taking to beart the warnings of Jesus Christ about the perils of being rich. We are rich but do not realize it. And we do not realize that it is still very hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of

Douse That Smoke

How You Can Strengthen Your Heart

your chances of having a heart attack are about the same as if you had never smoked. That is the opinion of Dr. Daniel Steinberg, professor of medicine and head of the division of metabolic disease at the University of California at San Diego College of Medicine. Steinberg recently returned from the Soviet Union where he visited with Prof. Anatoly Klimov at the Institute of Experimental Medicine, USSR Academy of Sciences, in Leningrad

Klimov is conducting research, and Steinberg was there as an extension of the agreement reached last year between the United States and the Soviet Union for a cooperative attack upon

Asked in an interview about the influence of cigarette smoking on the heart, Steinberg said: "Terrible. Awful. There is just as good a correlation between cigarette smoking and the incidence of heart attacks as there is between cholesterol and heart attacks. "In this case we have better data showing that stopping smoking reduces your risk than we have regarding the cholesterol level.

"Between people who once were smokers but stopped and people who never smoked you find very little difference in the incidence of heart attacks." Steinberg called the influence of cigarette smoking "clearly a reversible effect." Steinberg, 51, is a thin little man who smokes pipes but quit cigars some years ago when he feared he was inhaling them.

Other Thoughts

One of every 20 American children under the age of 18 is being arrested, a ratio so high as to cause crime experts everywhere to wonder how it may be curtailed.

Some concentrate their attacks on rising crime rates among juveniles in the family, which they contend is crumbling from withinand at all economic levels. Establish a normal family environment, they advise and children will grow up an asset to their community and Admitting the breakdown of discipline in many homes, is poor family environment the prime cause of juvenile crime? Many noted contributors to the short history of American civilization came from such homes.

Tough Year For Chinese Farming

Ediotr's Note: The writer visited China for 28 days earlier

By EDWARD NEILAN Copley News Service

WASHINGTON-Drought and floods, traditional enemies of China for centuries, are once again causing trouble for the world's most populous nation. Visitors are able to see firsthand the attention paid throughout the countryside to irrigation projects and dam-building and river-diversion efforts. At first glance, the official Peking pronouncements give no indication that anything is seriously wrong on the agricultural front. After assembling random bits of information from a variety of sources, however, it is apparent that in China, things are not all well down on the farm.

Among the eveidence: - After announcing 1971 grain production as 246 million tons, Peking with some reluctance revealed the 1972 total as

- The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that the shortfall was more secious, placing China's 1972 production at about 210 million tons and signaling a decline in production that is predicted to last into 1974. - Reports persist that a combination of floods in some areas and drought in others have seriously disrupted plan-

- Increased Chinese purchases of wheat and other grains - including sizable orders from the United States indicate that Peking is trying to compensate for its decline in grain production through increased purchases abroad. Unlike India, where the two-headed evil of drought and floods always results in famine, China has made sufficient strides to insure an adequate rice bowl at each meal for its

After laying to rest the visconception that famine may stalk the land in the wake of floods and drought, two serious problems remain. One is the fact that China depends to a large extent on agricultural production for the capital accumulation needed for construction. A poor crop year means that some planned development projects may have to be curtailed. A corollary to this is that China has to dip into foreign exchange holdings to buy grain from foreign suppliers, in-estimated 800 million population.

cluding the United States. The other problem, on which State Department officials and other reliable China Watching analysts refuse to be quoted by name, is political.

Significant failures in reaching planned production goals can no longer be blamed on the "weather" and "natural disasters" even though this in fact may be true. Various factions in the Peking political lineup are fond of making political hay out of failures in one or another sector

Specifically, analysts believe a serious agricultural year could aggravate political jockeying that is known to be going on now in Peking's corridors of power.

BRUCE BIOSSAT Puerto Rico deaf to snub by Nixon 6

Whef President Nixon's representatives come here within days to open talks on establishment of a new ad hoc committee aimed at refining Puerto Rico's unique commonwealth diate repair work to do.

In the first place, the President delivered the proud islanders a careless snub when he failed to send Vice President Agnew here to represent him at Puerto Rico's 21st anniversary celebration July 25 of the constitution which gave them their special freedoms under commonwealth.

Originally, Attorney General Elliot Richardson was coming, but the President's constitutional difficulties over Watergate kept him home. In his stead was a mere assistant attorney general. It was an act of gross insensitivity, upon which young Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon nevertheless

According to some Puerto Rican sources, these ambiguities reflect pressure on the President in Washington by the island's defeated statehood forces, with the intent of slowing down if not halting the movement toward a freer but stil firmly binding commonwealth status. In the eyes of the governor and his victorious Popular Democratic party, the fundamentals of the issue are simple.

In a 1967 plebiscite, Puerto Ricans voted to keep and further develop the commonwealth status with the UUnited States. They rejected statebood Meantime, the Puerto Rican Supreme Court ruled that any

If the concept of separation of powers is to be a workable one, it has to be on the basis of equality among the three branches of the federal government.

If Congress may not interfere with the legitimate functioning of the executive, neither can a president interfere with that of the legislative branch. Nor can either one tread upon the constitutional prerogatives of the judiciary, and vice-On this basis, there may be at least two recent precedents that cast serious doubt on the legality of President Nixon's refusal to turn over to the Watergate committee tapes of esidential conversations that the committee believes could On the same day in June, 1972, the Supreme Court ruled in two cases AGAINST congressional separation-of-powers claims that we are strikingly similar to the argument now being put forward on behalf of the presidency by Mr. Nixon, says Nathan Lewin, a Washington attorney and former deputy assistant attorney general. The first, he recounts in the New Republic, concerned Sen. Mike Gravel of Alask . In this case, the Justice Department was investigating the circumstances of Gravel's midnight reading of the Pentagon Papers and their subsequent publi-cation by the Beacon Press, a Massachusetts publisher.

The question put to the court was whether the senator's assistant could be subpoened by a federal grand jury and compelled to testify about publication of the papers. Justice Byron White, speaking for himself and the four Nixon court appointees, went beyond the issue presented by the government and ruled that even the senator himself could be called by a grand jury and asked about his sources of information if they were "irrelevant to investigating possible third-party crime" and where the questions "do not require testimony about or impunge a legislative act."

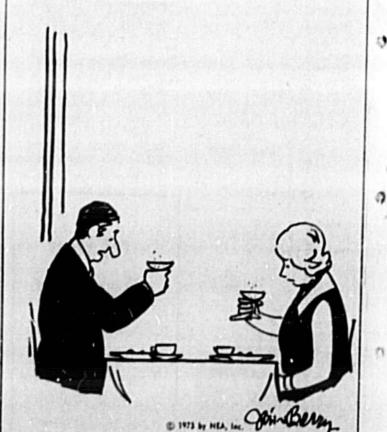

The other ruling concerned former Senator Daniel Brewster of Maryland and was written by Chief Justice Warren Berger. It involved the criminal prosecution of Brewster for having received a bribe to influence his action on postal rate

"Taking a bribe," said Justice Berger, "is, obviously, no part of the legislative process or function." The Consitution, he ruled, "does not prohibit inquiry into activities which are casually or incidentally related to legislative affairs but not a part of the legislative process itself."

This is precisely what the entire Watergate affair involves, claimed Lewin. By shielding his records and tapes, the president is not securing against a prying Congress the internal workings of legitimate executive functions; he is cloaking "third-party crimes" and conduct that are "executive functions" only in the sense that they were performed in

"The robbery on the White House lawn does not become an executive function merely because it occurs at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue," says Lewin, "nor do unconstitutional invasion of privacy, obstructions of justice, perjury and other forms of misfeasance come within even the broadest definitions of legitimate executive powers."

Should 'other woman' go to daughter's wedding?

By Abigail Van Buren E 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been separated for over a year. He has been living all this time with the woman he left me for-after 26 years of marriage. My husband is 60, she is 46, and I am 58, I knew he had been seeing her, but I ignored it, hoping he'd get over

Our daughter is getting married soon. She wants a small garden wedding with a few close friends and relatives. We were once a very happy family and my daughter wants her father at her wedding

I hear he is planning on bringing this other woman to the wedding. I've never seen her, but friends say she is the clinging, loud, possessive type.

I have not been in communication with him since he left me, so there is no way I can ask him not to bring his lady friend to the wedding. If he brings her, how far must my good manners be stretched? Unfortunately, I still care for him, but I don't want to play the role of the poor DISTRESSED IN N. J. rejected wife

DEAR DISTRESSED: If your daughter wants her father to attend her wedding, she should, without any prompting, ask him to come alone. If he is as much a gentleman as you are a lady, he'll not insist on bringing his friend with him. If he does, and your daughter makes her welcome, feeling as you do, you have a right to stay away. and I wouldn't blame you. Your daughter should see to it that your feelings are protected and if she doesn't, she will have made the choice

DEAR ABBY: Seymour and I went together for about a year. We declared our love for one another and talked about marriage. We fought a lot over trivial things. It was one of those off-again, on-again romances from the start.

Last month, in anticipation of his birthday which is next week. I bought him a silver wine goblet and had both our names engraved on it. Well, we just had a terrible fight and broke up for good. Seymour asked me to return all the gifts he'd given me, but I refused.

Abby, since I bought the goblet for Seymour I think I should give it to him anyway. My friends say I shouldn't. What do you say?

DEAR NOT: If you give Seymour the gobiet anyway, he will think you want the romance to be on again. [Do you?] "To thine own self be true."

DEAR ABBY: I am an adult and I want to change my WHOLE name. I never liked my given name. It is confusing inasmuch as it's used for both males and females. My family name is very long and difficult to spell and pronounce, and even more difficult to remember. What is the procedure? Does it cost anything? How long does it take? Whom do I have to see, and where is that person [or office] located? Thank you. I. M. SERIOUS DEAR SERIOUS: The procedure is a legal one, so see WHOLE name for the above mentioned reasons.

Problems? You'll feel better If you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69766, L. A., Calif. 20069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope,

Screen Cleaning Is a Risky Endeavor By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY - Gladys should be able to remove the bugs from her home movie screen with a paste of baking soda and water. This is also great for removing bugs from car grills and windshields even if the stains are old. We make a rather wet paste and rub lightly until the stains are gone. Gladys should first try this on a small corner and hen blot dry. - TAMARA

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, AUGUST 11, 1973

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) It is better to postpone a visit with a bigwig who is in poor humor now since the data you want is not available. Do nothing that could spoil your credit. Don't break any regulations TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Not a good day to go after the data you need, but tomorrow you could get far better results. Listen carefully to what a newcomer has to say, but hold in abeyance. Visit interesting people. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Attend to important obligations instead of casting them aside or you could get into trouble. Keep quiet calm when a close tie rants and raves.

Avoid a troublemaker in the evening MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can come to a fine understanding with a partner today, but don't spoil it by being overconfident. You feel the public is not treating you right, but you may be too sensitive LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Forget a new outlet that is not for you and get busy at the duties that are really important. Don't be on the defensive with higher-ups. Take time to improve physical health. Be logical VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You want to spend a lot of money for some new kind of pleasure, but this would be foolish and not worth it, so stick to the economical. Put humor into the life of mate. Be thoughtful. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct 22) You should take steps and make improvements at home instead of waiting for others to do so. Get rid of those tensions there that are building up. Evening is fine for entertaining friends SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Use extreme care in motion, otherwise you could meet with some unfortunate accident. Try not to argue with others Be more courteous Avoid one who is a terrible gossip Relax tonight. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Although monetary matters are hardly satisfactory, this is not the right day to do something about them, as you could get into a worst muddle, Plan how to economize more. Be alert. CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) You have to be very tactful in the handling of business and personal matters today. Take time to improve your appearance. Be wary of one who has an eye on your assets. Take it easy tonight

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Plan how to become more successful and prosperous in the future. Being of assistance to a good friend who is in need is wise and right. Don't be tempted to go off on some tangent PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be certain you keep personal promises you have made to others. A good day for shopping and getting repairs make in your home. Attend the social tonight and make interesting contacts IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those young people who likes to keep busy on practical affairs. Teach the uselessness of quarrels, since the temper here is truly phenomenal. Confessions of a humbled househusband and Joshua to nursery school.

(Note: Today's column is written by Lew) When we knew that Joanne would have to spend three weeks in the hospital, I told her confidently that handling the kids and the house would be no problem at all.

The anxieties about Joanne's health aside, I looked upon the job of "househusband" as a kind of adventure, a challenge. After all, I had written several columns in the past about just how easy housewifery really is. Well, dear reader, you see before you a repentant sinner.

The first morning without Joanne, I awoke early, go!

milk, doled out vitamin pills and cracked a bunch of eggs ready for scrambling - all this before the children rubbe the sleep from their eyes. I got them dressed, combed their hair, cajoled them into the kitchen, joked and sang songs while I cooked the eggs and toasted the bread, then waited outside the house with them for the bus that would take Lisa and Rachel to camp dressed, fried a pound of bacon, poured orange juice and

Then I looked at five dirty plates, 10 dirty glasses, two pans, one with egg remains, the other with bacon fat. Where do you pour bacon fat? In the drain? In the garbage

Dinner the first night consisted of my specialty of the house - chicken and shrimp cooked in tomato sauce, with corn, green beans, selad and homemade chocolate pudding

Twelve dirty dishes, four dirty glasses and five dirty pans, pots and containers remained in the kitchen while I gave the children baths, read them stories, tucked them in bed, gave them glasses of water and lots of goodnight kisses. Strangely, while I was putting the kids to bed, the dirty dishes, pans, and garbage didn't go away as they did when Joanne was home. By 10 o'clock that night, two hours after the children were asleep, the kitchen was back to normal.

Just before I flopped into my empty king-sized bed, my bare foot found Lisa's metal jack. My scream of rage woke up Josh who asked for Mommy and made me realize that having no privacy and being lonely at the same time was about the worst combination there is. The next morning the children had cold cereal and their orange juice and milk in paper cups. Our evening meal consisted of TV dinners and fudgesicles. There was more to being a househusband than domestic

As a househusband, I discovered the joys of actually being able to care for three young children, to provide them with love and care and tenderness and having them, on rare occasions, return those same deep emotions.

Nevertheless, when I brought Joanne home from the hospital after three weeks. I was relieved, thrilled, practically euphoric that the siege was over. Only one thing disturbed me a bit she didn't even notice that I had polished the Garriott reported Thursday that Arabella learned quickly to spin an apparently normal web without the aid of gravity. He said that during the first day or two of the experiment, Arabella was disoriented by weightlessness and could only build a rudimentary web in the corners of her cage. By the third day, however, she had managed to spin a web with a normal circular pattern. The idea for the web spinning experiment came from Judith Miles, 17, a former Lexington High School student who will enter the University of Massachusetts this fall. She is one of 19 high school students from 16 states participating in Sky-lab experiments they proposed. "I feel that Skylab has been a wonderful success," Judith said, "and Arabella is wonderful."

Kimbrough: 'Let's Bite The Bullet'

'County Owes Adequate Service'

Herald Staff Writer

One way or another Seminole County will have proper and adequate ambulance service according to County Commissioner John Kim-

Kimbrough's statement came in the wake of the County Commission's decision, on Thursday to eliminate the $20,000 subsidy for Herndon ambulance service.

Herndon has used the subsidy money to provide coverage to North Seminole County through a Sanford-based ambulance unit.

The owner of Herndon, Idus Willis, contends that without the subsidy his company will lose $27,000 a year and thus will have to cease the North Seminole operation. Even with the subsidy Willis claims a $7,000 loss. Indications are that South Seminole County coverage will not be cut back regardless of the subsidy situation.

Robert Turney, president of the Physicians and Surgeons Ambulance service told The Herald he "does not want a subsidy, but if the

"If we have to bite the bullet for $20,000 in order to meet this responsibility then let's bite the bullet!" Kimbrough declared.

If the proper ambulance service could be provided without a subsidy that would be fine Kimbrough explained. But he added that he felt that the commissioners would want to look at the type of service that could be provided without a

Kimbrough stated there would be little purpose in providing adequate and proper medical facilities if the same type of ambulance service is not available

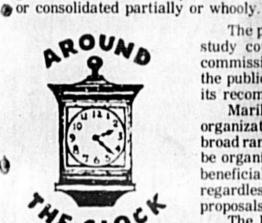

However Herndon ambulance service has stated that they cannot provide service to the county unless the $20,000 annual subsidy is
