

Men Who Got Around During War Develop Acute Cases Of Wanderlust

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON—A lot of young people who got around the world during or just after the war have developed an acute case of wanderlust.

"I never want to settle down again—not even when I get decrepit."

So says pretty Emily Towe, who was a newspaper woman in New York and Washington until she joined the Red Cross last year.

Emily has itching feet all right. She joined the Red Cross in a public relations job and was sent to India in September, 1945. In November she flew over the hump to Shanghai.

Then she got all over north China, flying around in Army and Marine planes till the middle of March.

In Peiping she went shopping with a couple of Marines. She was looking for a pair of earrings. She found the pair she wanted in a tiny little shop in the courtyard of an old palace. The shopkeeper served tea-free.

He said the earrings, which were hand made, were worth $6.

The Marine said that was too much. The shopkeeper, accustomed to bargaining, came down to $4. The Marines told the wizened old man he was the Jesus James of China. Of course he had never heard of Jesus James, but he had an idea that he must be a big shot in America.

"Jesus James—me. Ah Jesus James." He grinned with pride. "You can have the earrings for $3."

The Marines and Emily walked toward the door.

"All right, $2," he said. Emily was wearing the bangles when I had lunch with her the other day.

Later she went to South China to Canton and Hong Kong. Stopping off in Tokyo and Honolulu. Emily came home only to tramp off again. This time it was to Alaska. Emily had resigned from the Red Cross and was doing freelance writing.

She says women are streaking up to Alaska on the theory that prospective husbands grow on trees. There are still more men than women there, she says, but they're mostly rugged characters and not too willing to pop the question.

A lot of gals seeking matrimony end up waitresses, teachers and clerks and life is just about as it is back home, only more so. In Nome, for example, life's most difficult moments seem to be when the boat steams in from the states with supplies.

She says Nome is bleak and grim, because only one street with wooden sidewalks. Every late May, she says, ice is piled up in front yards and a half mile out on the Bering Sea. Eskimos come to town in their wolf parkas. Nome is a metropolis to them.

Ex-Soldier Makes Friends With Pair Of Live Pythons

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz.—Two of the strange souvenirs brought back by world roaming GIs are a pair of live pythons, pets of William Woodin III, grandson of the first secretary of the treasury under President Franklin D. Roosevelt. He brought back three Indian pythons but he swapped one with the Bronx zoo for an African variety which subsequently died.

Young Woodin has been interested since he left home as to what happened. So he sees nothing strange in the fact that among the souvenirs collected while an ambulance driver with the U. S. Field Service in India and with the British in Burma, should be a couple of eight-foot, 15-pound pythons.

And he'll be disappointed if they don't know to 25-foot adulthood.

It would make a better story if he had captured them in the jungle. But, he says, look for them as he did, he failed to see a single wild snake all the time he was overseas. He bought the pythons at $7 each in the native sections of Calcutta and Hyderabad.

None of his cabin-mates on the ship bringing them back to America objected to sharing their room with the snakes, so long as Woodin kept them locked up.

The nonpoisonous pythons have bitten him a few times, drawing plenty of blood. But, Woodin explains, they meant no harm.

In addition to the snakes, Woodin has 45 other live snakes in his reptile house, including a type of rattler. He brought eight scores of the latter, and was bitten once. That was the time he reached far what he took to be a dead rattler stretched across a desert road and it promptly swung around and bit him on the arm.

There is no chance of his pythons breeding little pythons which might introduce this snake to the southwest because they are both female, says Woodin. How does he know? By the length of their tails, he says.

very soft soil. If you get off the sidewalk you sink into it up to your knees. Each year when the snow melts the wooden houses buckle up. So do the sidewalks. All this gives a lopsided appearance to the town.

Emily said she never saw darkness while she was in Alaska. She came in from a date at 11:30 or 12 o'clock, it seemed broad daylight.

Now she is off again—this time on a freighter for South America. She hasn't figured out where she'll go after that.

New York Port Hit By Maritime Strike

Walkout To Roll On Until Wage Board Decision Reverses, Union Heads Say

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—President Truman has announced that the A.F. of L. maritime strike is in the hands of Secretary of Labor Schweinhaut. Mr. Truman said that he himself has not intervened.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. (AP)—The scheduled nation-wide maritime strike today hit the country's busiest port. A.F. of L. seamen began walking off ships in New York harbor despite the fact that the actual strike deadline has not yet been announced.

Yesterday, officials of the Seafarers International Union had said that the men probably would begin moving ashore at noon (Eastern Daylight Time) today and that picketing would not begin until tomorrow. The sailors quit their vessels in New York harbor shortly after 9:00 o'clock this morning—joining thousands who jumped the strike deadline on the west coast by walking out yesterday.

SIU Vice President John Hawk says he can't give definite figures on the number of seamen who have left their ships in New York. He asserted that the ones who were streaming into union headquarters were men who were reporting for strike duty.

Hawk declared that strike plans are rolling and he added: "We will stay rolling until the decision of the Wage Stabilization Board is reversed."

A last minute offer by the Wage Stabilization Board failed to avert the scheduled maritime walkout. Union leaders have ordered A.F. of L. seamen to quit work at every port in the nation in protest over a WSB ruling which denied them the full wage increase which they were granted in recent negotiations with ship operators. Yesterday the board declared that it was willing to hold a hearing today to consider additional information, but the unions replied that nothing but a complete reversal of the board's decision would satisfy the seamen.

Phillips' Condition Reported Improved

The condition of J. B. Phillips, Florida Power and Light Company employee, who on May 18 suffered serious burns and injuries while at work in a power line pole near Road 44, is reported to be much improved. He can now visit visitors and will probably be confined at Fernandina Memorial Hospital for a few more weeks, according to his sister, Miss Vera Phillips.

The severe electricity burns necessitated amputation of the right leg above the knee. Grafting of skin on his back has been necessary. Dr. Orville L. Barka has been in attendance.

V. W. TO MEET

Comdr. Bradley Odham of Seminole County Post No. 382 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars announced this afternoon that a dinner meeting will be held Monday night at the Legion Hut. Army Wife Beats Stork To Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany—Sept. 5. (AP)—It was a close race, but Mrs. Margaret Allen, Santa Ana, Calif., has beaten the stork to Germany.

Mrs. Allen started ten days ago to rush her plane and train from the United States to Germany to join her husband, Lieut. Jack Allen, stationed in Erding, Germany.

Mrs. Allen arrived safely with her two-year-old son, Bobby, yesterday afternoon and now awaits the birth of her second child.

The reason for all the rush: Army regulations forbid transportation of children under the age of six months. Mrs. Allen set out to beat the stork's arrival in order not to delay her reunion with her husband.

Larger Tourist Industry Urged By Miss Truluck

Herald Writer Lauds Efforts Of Jaycees At Weekly Meeting

Miss Cecilia Truluck, society editor of The Sanford Herald, declared today that the tourist business is one of Florida's largest industries and she called on members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to continue their current efforts to enlarge the industry in this section of the state and particularly in Sanford and Seminole County.

President Jack Italiani announced that a kickoff breakfast for the house-to-house canvas to raise money in the city to see how many tourists can be accommodated during the coming season will be held tomorrow morning at 9:00 o'clock at Motors Inn. All Jaycees members and workers are requested to attend.

Jerry Silverman, Sanford right fielder, posted a single into center field last night at the Municipal Park during the fifth inning of the series opener between the Sanford City Feds and the St. Augustine Saints to score Manager Ed Levy from third and Byron Sharpe from second to break a five-inning scoreless contest and give the locals their first two runs. The Feds defeated the Saints 5 to 0.

President Says Special Session Not Anticipated

Chief Executive Endorses New York Democratic Ticket

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—President Truman today virtually ruled out any possibility of a special session of Congress before the new year. The Chief Executive told his news conference that he knew of no emergency that would require a session before the November elections, and that he had given no consideration to a special session after that time. Therefore, according to the President's comments, Congress will not convene until the new session in January.

Mr. Truman said he thought that all members of Congress should have a chance to devote their time to campaigning. He endorsed the New York state Democratic ticket headed by Senator James Mead for governor and former governor Herbert Lehman for United States Senator. Mr. Truman said he intended to support Mead and Lehman and predicted their election.

Mr. Truman disclosed that he still is working for the immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine. The Chief Executive declared he was pushing the plan and that conferences were still under way on the Palestine problem between American and British representatives.

The President stated that he expects OPA Administrator Paul Porter to keep up his price control job. The Chief Executive was asked at his news conference today if Porter had asked to resign as a result of differences with Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson. Replied the President, "No." Porter has fought for the restoration of price ceilings at the levels of June 30, while Anderson has urged meat ceilings increased above the June 30 levels, the date when the old OPA law expired.

The President also was asked to comment on the recent stock market decline, but he begged off on the grounds that he had not had enough experience to make a competent statement.

PICKET IS SHOT

KEARNEY, N. J., Sept. 5. (AP)—A truck strike picket was shot through the chest today in Kearney. A union spokesman said the picket was wounded by the driver of a truck who refused to stop. The truck driver had been flagged by a group of pickets. West Hudson Hospital attendants said his condition is serious.

Sanford Cops First Series Tilt, 5 To 0

Howington Handcuffs St. Augustine With Five Scattered Hits Before 1,500 Fans

By JULIAN STENSTROM
Jesse Howington dug his way a little deeper into the hearts of local baseball fans last night at the Municipal Park when he handcuffed Manager Bill Stanek's St. Augustine Saints with five scattered singles to rack up a 7 to 0 verdict over the ancient city crew.

Equally acclaimed by a majority of 1,500 fans, who paid their way into the local park to see the initial tilt of the first post-season Florida State League playoff series, was the fast right fielder Jerry Silverman. The youth from St. Petersburg came to the plate in the fifth frame and drove one of Saint pitcher Gene Smith's deliveries straight into centerfield to score Manager Ed Levy from third base and Byron Sharpe from second for what turned out to be the only margin needed for the Sanford victory.

Although Howington's personal ability last night was strictly outstanding, a portion of his success was the result of a sparkling bit of play field by his mates. The only error chalked up behind Howington was Al Bryant's miscue in the sixth on Gene Colek's hot grounder after the latter had made a brilliant stop. Howington's ability field him well, other than his hurling, was also brilliant.

The Fed southpaw displayed sparkling control on the hill by allowing only one Saint to scamper down to the initial sack with a free base. Meanwhile, he sent three ancient city crewmen down via the whiffing route.

The Saints scored their final three runs in the eighth frame. Steinbeck saw fit to yank Smith in the eighth for a pinch hitter. He sent Dick Nelson to the hill to face the locals in the latter half of the same inning Bryant dropped a bunt into center and went to second when Bill Tuttle rapped a drive into right. Dave Brude worked Nelson for a few passes to fill the sacks. With the count two balls and no strikes on Buddy Lake, Nelson was given his ticket to the showers and followed. Jack Finch was called in from the bullpen to fill the failing line. He went on to walk Lake and Bryant came over with the third Fed tally. Bob Tattie started when Ossie Glorig worked for another home run and Brude later came home with the final marker when Art Stillwell, Saint receiver, let one of Finch's hooks slip from his mitt.

The Fed attack was paged by Bryant and Tuttle who obtained two singles in four trips during the contest. Not a single member of either squad was able to drive out a hit for more than one base throughout the afternoon.

The first information gave no indication that Jack Finch was responsible for the crash. Trans-luxury liner officials say that 21 passengers and the crew of three were killed. The only survivors were said to be a woman and a baby who are in the Elko, Nevada hospital.

The plane is said to have been piloted by a Capt. Campbell of Miami, Fla. The cockpit's name was given only as "Weatherman" of New York City. The stewardess was identified as Marjorie Cox of San Francisco.

Delegate Declares, However, Russia Will Abide With Big Four Decision

PARIS, Sept. 5. (AP)—Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky today called upon the Paris Peace Conference to reject Italian claims to Trieste. In speech—Russia's Policy on Trieste, Vishinsky told the conference Italian commission that Yugoslavia had an inalienable right to Trieste. In reference to a Big Four proposal to make the disputed port a free territory, Vishinsky declared that he was supporting the Big Four only because of what he termed a political consideration.

He made it plain that Moscow would abide by the Big Four decision but he said sharply that Yugoslavia had a right to the port and that the decision of the Foreign Ministers contained a minimum of justice. He added that in his opinion it should contain a maximum of justice.

The Soviet move further reflected the intent of Rapallo by which Yugoslavia joined the Trieste. The Soviet Foreign Minister said he had no objection to the decision.

We are sorry to learn of the death of Frank D. McRae, Sanford, resident of the county commissioners when Sanford was incorporated.

Mr. McRae was an influential man in the earlier days of this community, and he was a man of running for office without asking his advice and even to his last day, he probably had more influence with any other man in the country.

Progress against the spread of infantile paralysis in Florida has reached such a point in spite of the fact that the disease has already grown worse as the summer wears on that even the most optimistic don't think it can be stopped.

That's why they've raised this sum of money for the campaign against the disease.

It must be hard to live in Russia. A Kiev funny paper has just been launched by Pravda, the Moscow newspaper, for letting spite and vulgarity replace humor in its columns. As Pravda is almost an official organ, this means that Stalin doesn't think the Kiev funny paper so funny. And to have Stalin's disapproval is not healthy in Russia.

How would the artists of our comics like to be told by Washington that they had better be cleverer and funnier?

Man's Best Friend

From New York, Chicago, California; many parts of Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, the Far South and Canada, they came and brought their dogs. They assembled, these blue-ribboned animals and their proud owners, on a recent sunny summer day under tent in the famous polo field at Shaker Mills, Ohio. It was the first big dog show since the war began.

What varieties of dogs there were, all shapes and sizes from miniature pinchers no bigger than rats to lumbering St. Bernards as broadbacked as ponies. Rare varieties included Afghan hounds, taupe-colored weimaraners, Siberian huskies, longhaired foxes from the Congo, Boston terriers looked like Walt Disney toys. Woofstone hounds bayed for Hawkshaw the Detective. Saucy pugs, so popular with Victorian ladies, paraded beside more familiar collies, cockers, Boston bulls and setters. More familiar and grooming demonstrated dogs don't strain and bloat.

Show exhibitors as well as visitors raised their dogs for fun, others for profit. All of them liked dogs. Even the most aristocratic of the dogs returned this affection with adoration.

It is good that the time has come when the world can again be interested in dog shows.

Steel Barns

A barn in flames—struck by lightning—with the accompanying loss of grain or livestock or both, is a common result of a thunderstorm in the country. This hazard may be done away with if the modern farmer builds his barns and other buildings of steel.

Steel barns are built with tests of steel farm buildings. After several years of use, the Agricultural School issued favorable reports on their suitability for dairy farms and corn and livestock farms. They can be insulated against heat and cold and are expected to last a long time. Small buildings, such as sheds, granaries, and nail houses can be prefabricated, but it will be more practical to build the larger structures on the site itself. Sprayed with paint, the insides of these structures will be sanitary as hospitals.

These will be wonderful barns, from a practical standpoint, those who never have the atmosphere of the old wooden barns can then buy them. That's what that next boom which sweeps this state will not be a real boom, but a steady one.

We'll bet the Greeks would be satisfied if we could find a king, but they'd rather have a king than a communist dictator.

Well, we'll let the Greeks know that we're a nation that's not afraid to die for its king, but they'd rather have a king than a communist dictator.

It's raining in New York, City, where over 100,000 drivers quit work has threatened seven million people with food shortages and some who professed to believe that labor legislation needs no reparation.

THE CLUBHOUSE

By BILL KOZUSKO
AP Newsfeatures

WEST ORANGE, N. J.—Give foreign players a little more time to gain needed experience, says Russell B. Kingman, treasurer of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association, and you will find them winning in general world tennis."

Kingman, who also is chairman of the association's international play committee, returned recently from a two-month European tour with America's Wightman Cup team and selected male players.

During that trip he had opportunity to see in action the court representatives of England, France, Australia, Belgium, Sweden and other foreign countries—and came away pretty well impressed. Putting occasionally on his well-smoked pipe, he reviewed highlights of the trip in an interview in his office.

"The foreign players' greatest need, he feels, is experience before crowds."

"It is one thing to play practice games," says Kingman, "and another to get before 15,000 spectators at Wimbledon."

Despite this drawback of "stage fright," to which every player is susceptible, the contestants did very well, Kingman says.

He is particularly excited about Czechoslovakia's Jaroslav Drobný who first made himself felt in the all-England championship and later in the French competition.

Drobný is most promising of the front-line stars he saw abroad.

"Considering the difficulties under which Drobný had to work," Kingman says, "it is beyond comprehension how he managed to develop the game he possesses."

Australia's two-man delegation of Geoff Brown and Dicky Potts at Wimbledon left favorable impression on Kingman who terms Potts the one who probably will go farther in a year or two. "Brown's game at present may be more brilliant," he explains, "but Potts is more soundly founded. In addition, Potts has a contagious personality that makes him a great attraction for spectators."

In Kingman's opinion Australia made a "great strategic mistake" in failing to permit Potts and Brown to play the American grass court circuit before returning to their homeland to prepare for defense of the Davis Cup in December.

The tour included Sweden as well as England, France and Belgium and when it comes to talking about tennis in Sweden, Kingman is all superlatives.

"The manner in which the country has gone tennis mad because of their tennis-playing King Gustaf was unique," Kingman says.

Lennart Bergelin, who will head Sweden's Davis Cup team for its matches with the United States is, in Kingman's opinion, "one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of board players in the world today."

England, he says, has "no great tennis talent because it applied itself to the war effort in such a degree it had no thought of tennis." In time it will bounce back, he says, as France which already has produced the Wimbledon winner in gigantic Yves Petras. Kingman describes him as "Tibblesque" in his style and adds, "I never saw a player as fast as Petras" in the Wimbledon finals.

"Petras was inspired," Kingman says, "and the result was fantastic."

So far as the American players' success abroad was concerned, it left Kingman very happy. The women players were all-triumphant and he explains that the United States is now reaping the harvest of the tennis association's long-view program of developing young players.

As for the men, although they did not come away with the French Open, Kingman is happy. They have good accounts in that play while walking off with double titles.

Ketcher's record for the current season was 12 victories. He was beaten nine times.

Game To Be Played In Ancient City; Ketcher Slated To Hurl For Saint-

Celery Fed skipper Ed Levy announced this morning that he would send Goose Kettles to the mound when the Sanford aggregation meets the St. Augustine Saints tonight at Francis Field in the ancient city.

Although Manager Bill Steinbeck failed to announce his starter for tonight's contest, it is probable that Bug Jim Ketcher will be handed the Saints' mound duties to oppose Kettles.

Tonight's contest will be the second game of the post-season playoff, Sanford having copped the opener here last night by a 10-6 victory over the visitors' here last night.

Kettles' record this season was the second best of any member of Levy's mound corps. The Seminole High gridiron mentor captured 10 regular season wins while being beaten an even dozen times. Kettles, recently, hand-cuffed the Saints in St. Augustine when he puffed his famed knuckler over the platter continually.

St. Augustine officials said last night that they anticipated a crowd of 1500 to 1600 for tonight's contest and that they did not believe last night's defeat here would cause a drop in attendance.

Ketcher's record for the current season was 12 victories. He was beaten nine times.

Coach Diana Bible of the University of Texas grid teams is known for his inspiring talks to his players. Bible's classic performance probably was the time he fired his team up to win an important game by delivering a two-and-a-half-hour sermon which he concluded with the remark: "Well, girls, shall we go?"

PLAYOFFS TO START

ST. PAUL, Sept. 5 (UPI)—The American Association's post season playoffs will start under way next Tuesday. President Roy Hamey says the first place club will meet the third placers and the runner-up nine will tangle with the fourth placers. That still is considerable doubt about the outcome of the peasant race. Louisville has a three-and-one-half game lead over the field but has not yet clinched the flag. Indianapolis is second. Four games separate third place St. Paul and fourth place Milwaukee while Milwaukee also is in the running for a playoff spot, being one-and-one-half games behind Minneapolis.

China, India and the United States could be spread out like carpet over Africa and there still would be enough space to accommodate the whole of Europe and Russia.

battled up and that the team got the break in the opening tilt.

Manager Levy and Spokane were both whistled last evening when coming home late, seated in their limousine. Bill Givens, the Tax Collector had put on an appearance at the Municipal Park. However, they entered just at gametime and he did not begin to schedule.

The first customers at the park box office last night at 15¢ each were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ingley. They purchased the first pair of tickets to the opening series. However, they were obviously followed by Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Morrison.

Orlando Senators Down Red Hats 1-0 In First Tilt

Scott Cary Allows But Five Sparingly Bingleys

TINKER FIELD, ORLANDO—Sept. 5 (Special)—Little Scott Cary mixed his fast ball and change of pace last night to completely baffle the DeLand Red Hats in turning in a 1-0 victory over the visitors' here last night.

Cary's record this season was the second best of any member of Levy's mound corps. The Seminole High gridiron mentor captured 10 regular season wins while being beaten an even dozen times. Cary, recently, hand-cuffed the Saints in St. Augustine when he puffed his famed knuckler over the platter continually.

It was a single off the bat of Cary that spelled victory for the Senators. With two out in the seventh and Sam Cozzi a second, Cary singled to send Cozzi across the platter with the margin of victory.

In the ninth frame the Red Hats threatened to score. With two men down Pawlick singled and Williams drew a free pass followed by an error by Burm on an infield ground ball hit by Edwards. Manager Fuchs sent Morton in to hit for Sloan and Cary quickly sent him down via the strike-out route on three pitches to end the tilt.

The Senators move to DeLand tonight to meet the Red Hats in the second game of the current series. It is likely that Howard Martin will hurl for the Senators and Bill Morton for the DeLand club.

How to Operate the New Parking Meters

LARGE ALL RED TURNING DIAL IN FRONT, AND FACING THE FLOW OF TRAFFIC, SHOWS AT A GLANCE TIME REMAINING TO PARK.

Enforcement of parking regulations as provided by installation of parking meters has now commenced.

Parking meter regulations must be observed in accordance with instructions found plainly inscribed across the meter.

The important thing for the automobile owner to remember is that he must manipulate the meter handle by turning it clockwise when the timing device is operating.

In certain circumstances will police officers be authorized to manipulate the meter, except for the purpose of possible instruction when enforcement is first started.

In parallel curb parking, the operator must park so that the front wheel is adjacent to the meter.

Parking meters have been found in most cities to provide ample parking spaces by eliminating the tendency to double park. Double parking will not be tolerated.

To avoid a violation, the operator must set the meter in operation as directed on the face of the meter. This meter is exceptionally easy to understand and use, so failure to operate as shown will be inexcusable.

It shall be unlawful for any person to deface, tamper with, damage, open or wilfully break, destroy, or impair the usefulness of any parking meter installed on the streets. This provision will be enforced rigidly, and parents will be responsible for any damage done by their minor children.

Meters have been installed for the benefit of the whole community, to better traffic conditions. The cooperation of the entire public is requested.

French Claims To Rhineland And Ruhr Rejected By Byrnes

Secretary Says U. S. Does Not Consider German Border Fixed At Oder River

STUTTGART, Germany, Sept. 6, (AP)—Secretary of State James Byrnes today rejected France's claim to the Rhineland and Ruhr and notified Russia that the United States does not consider Germany's eastern boundary fixed at the Oder River.

These statements were made by the United States State Department chief in an unprecedented speech before 2,000 German and Allied leaders that packed the Stuttgart State Opera House to hear Byrnes outline American policy.

Byrnes presented a broad plan to unify Germany eventually under a national council. He said the council should be charged with drafting a federal constitution for what he described as a "United States of Germany."

The Secretary told his audience that security forces probably will have to stay in Germany a long time and as long as an occupation force is needed in Germany, the United States Army will be a part of that force.

The speech was addressed to the German people, but it was obviously a reply to an address made by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov on July 10 in which he opposed the federalization of Germany. In effect, Byrnes warned Moscow that any drive to enlarge Russian influence in western Europe would be strongly opposed by the United States.

The Secretary stated flatly that it is in the interest of world peace that Germany should become a pawn or a partner in a struggle between the east and west.

Byrnes also held out to the Germans not only the prospect of political rebirth, but also the hope of more favorable border lines in the east.

Byrnes emphasized the determination of the United States to see Germany rise as a powerful, centralized nation, as he rejected French claims to the Rhineland and Ruhr. He recommended a central German government, but he said that federalization should come later and only after the Germans approved it in a plebiscite.

Five Greeks Are Killed In Fight With Communists

ATHENS, Sept. 6, (AP)—The Ministry of Public Order has announced that three sailors aboard a Greek mine sweeper in the Gulf of Vlora have been killed in an attack on the ship by Communists operating shore batteries.

The Ministry said that five mortar shells exploded aboard the mine-sweeper.

The official statement also said that two soldiers were killed in a ten-hour battle yesterday near Vlora. Six others were wounded and two are missing. The battle occurred when a band of 300 men attacked a detachment of soldiers. The Public Order Ministry said that losses of the attacking band were heavy.

Two Greek rightists also are said to have been killed in separate incidents yesterday.

Police Chief Says Meter Crank Must Be Turned To Right

STUTTGART, Germany, Sept. 6, (AP)—Secretary of State James Byrnes today rejected France's claim to the Rhineland and Ruhr and notified Russia that the United States does not consider Germany's eastern boundary fixed at the Oder River.

After depositing the coin, the chief explained, "the small crank must be turned clockwise to put the meter into operation. If a coin is deposited and the crank is turned counter-clockwise, the meter will not be effective and there is no way the coin can be returned."

Except for one vacancy at the Oviedo High School which is expected to be filled by Monday, all assignments of principals and teachers have been filled, Prof. Morris reported.

Seminole High School with an estimated enrollment of 175, will have its largest attendance in four years, he predicted. Rooms ready for colored pupils of the fourth through the 12th grade will have about 600 pupils according to Principal J. N. Gray.

School buses will call at the usual time on Monday and will return children from school at 12:00 o'clock after a half day of school during which pupils will be assigned to class and free textbooks will be issued. No busses will be served.

Pupils will have returned from vacation within the past two weeks and are required to present certificates signed by physician, stating that no evidence of contagious disease or poisons is prevalent in the community in which they stayed. This does not apply and no certificate is necessary if the pupil was in voluntary custody.

Blitzed Britain, More Than Year After War, Clamors For Glass

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
AP Newsfeatures

ST. HELENS, Lancashire Blitzed Britain, more than a year after the war, still is clamoring for glass, and the industry is struggling with new, efficient, war-born techniques and perhaps 80,000 or more workers to satisfy this demand and at the same time hang on to its export market.

Houses need windows, shop-fronts are boarded up, museums lack skylights and train sheds are partially destroyed in cities bombed in 1940 and 1941 and attacked by flying bombs and rockets in 1944 and 1945.

Glassmakers say that, even with plant expansions they have planned, production will not catch up with demand before the end of 1948. Glass is so scarce that manufacturers ration it monthly to glaziers and glaziers pass it on to consumers under Ministry of Supply priorities.

Domestic need at V-E Day, says experts, approximated that of 20 normal years. Imports from France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Germany and Japan had not been replaced in spite of the fact that imports were bigger than exports before the war. They go mainly to South Africa, South America, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, India, Malta and North Africa.

Glass manufacturers will not put out figures on profits or production. That, they say, only would give false impressions to house-
