Senate Halls Seethe With Excitement As Solons Hurl Rebukes

Bingham Declares He Was Framed And Accuses Committee Of Political Intrigue

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—(INS)—Casting the traditional senatorial courtesies to the high winds, Senator Hiram Bingham (R) of Conn., and members of the Senate lobby investigating committee indulged in a vitriolic debate this afternoon over his employment of a paid lobbyist in aid in writing the new tariff bill.

While the chamber seethed with excitement, Bingham charged the committee was "framed" against him and every interest of the administration and with "conducting a modern Spanish Inquisition." He declared it had avoided its duty of investigating lobbyists in order to "beamish" his reputation and character.

Two committee members—Senator T. H. Caraway (D) of Ark., chairman, and John J. Blaine (R) of Wisconsin—replied in like vein.

The climax came when Caraway challenged the whole Republican side of the Senate to defend or uphold Bingham's action, only to find every Republican senator present remain in his seat. No such rebuke to a senator has occurred with the memory of present senators.

The Senate sat silent and amazed as Bingham launched into one of the most vitriolic attacks heard on the floor in years, in defense of his actions in placing Charles L. Eyzman, employee of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association, on the Senate committee during framing of the tariff bill.

He charged the committee was using "police court methods" and the "tactics of criminal lawyers" in subjecting him to cross examination when he voluntarily appeared before it to defend his actions.

Bingham charged Senator Caraway (D) of Arkansas, with making "misstatements" in attacking him after presentation of a partial report of their lobby committee to the Senate on Saturday. In attacking the committee, he charged that one member used a Capitol policeman as a chauffeur to drive him to a western state last summer.

"I demand that the Senator name him—I know who he is referring to," shouted Senator Blaine (R) of Wisconsin, rising angrily to his feet.

"Very well, it was the senator from Wisconsin," said Bingham.

"I reply later," said Blaine.

"I had not supposed that there was so much untruth in a group of senators," said Bingham. "I had not supposed that for political purposes, to damage a New England senator and friend of the administration that they would go so far as they did."

"I was asked the same question a half dozen times by the members of that committee when I appeared before it, in the hope that I would contradict myself—and I would do so if a criminal lawyer tries to do so."

Rumbley Son Proves To Be Fine Fisherman

Sanford's leading fishermen use strategic methods for catching the big ones. They leave early, and go to the best places for an all day trip. This son evidently doesn't meet with the approval of one of the youngest anglers in this section.

Early Saturday morning, Mrs. Rumbley, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Rumbley, 2205 Park Avenue, accompanied by several friends crossed Lake Monroe to try his luck. In less than an hour's time the boy landed an eight pound black bass, which he brought back and proudly presented to his friends for their approval.

"Like Father like Son," is an old adage, but at the same time fits this case perfectly. H. M. Rumbley, the father of the lucky lad, is claimed by many local anglers to be one of the best fishermen in this section.

"TIGER" AWAITING DEATH

STOCKS AGAIN DROP IN FLOOD OF UNLOADING

U. S. Steel Falls Below 200 In Descent Attended By Sales Of Liberal Volume

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(INS)—Wall Street held the spotlight again today when stock prices, under an avalanche of selling, declined sharply in the first hour of trading. United States Steel fell below 200 for the second time in months, slumping to 198 1/2, five points below Saturday's close.

General Electric dropped 27 1/2 points to 250 and Westinghouse declined 10 1/2 to 103. These two issues showed the most pronounced weakness in early trading. All stocks, however, did not weaken.

Many issues were selling only a fraction after holding firm.

Trading was heavy; sales averaging 816,000 shares for the first half hour. The tickler was 22 minutes behind in reporting rates.

Other pivotal issues that were easier on early trading were: Radio 14 1/4, down 7; Johns Manville 135, down 5 1/2; National Cash Register 20, down 4; American and Foreign Power, up 1, down 9; and Sears Roebuck 121, down 6.

The declines were no great surprise to brokers. They had anticipated considerable liquidation.

Called weak accounts, here and elsewhere throughout the country, yesterday closed worked in Wall Street brokerage houses checking "cleaned up." All day up on accounts.

Brokers professionals took advantage of the long lull to prepare operations for the decline and as the noon hour approached, the whole market was under severe pressure. At 11:15 A.M. the tickler had fallen even further behind, being 37 minutes late this period.

The Curly Market trading was also tremendous in volume. The curb tickler was 23 minutes behind.

General Electric slumped further under renewed pressure, declining to 262 1/2, a 35 point drop from Saturday's close. Most of the market favorites, however, were only from two to 10 points lower at this juncture, although several major and classified stocks more than 10 points. For example, Westinghouse Electric was down to 161, off 18, and Johns Manville dropped 13 1/2 to 117.

No commentings to the jury were made. The government has attempted to prove that Cattis committed a counterfeiting in connection with their operations.

Jacob Diaz, former Tampa attorney, is serving a federal prison term. Cattis' innocence is unknown.

In a brief change to the jury:

Federal Judge Al McRae, a counterfeiter as one of the few crimes mentioned in the Constitution.

Gathering Cattis' testimony just brief. He denied he had counterfeited an instrument prior to last year's general election to print two fifties of the peace in this country as a part of an alleged "trine" with Diaz for 1500 votes in Ybor City and West Tampa.

The alleged incident has been mentioned frequently in previous testimony.

"Have you heard of testimony offered in this case to the effect that there was an agreement between you and Cattis?" said Diaz.

The Governor said, "I have read about it in the newspaper."

"Tell the court what your recollection of it was."

"Cattis came into my office in Tampa before the election. He came with Diaz, who had made the appointments. Diaz, however, did not come into my private office. Cattis and Diaz wanted the appointments made in Hillsborough county. I told him I would not make promises during the campaign."

"Then he told me that he would expect to make some financial gain from the appointment.

"Then I terminated the interview abruptly. Diaz asked me if I would talk about it and I told him I did not care to talk about it."

"At no time," the Governor emended, "did I make any promises to Mr. Cattis," said the chief executive.

"I heard nothing about the matter further," said the witness until after this case was started."

"As far as my making any political promises to Cattis is concerned, that is absolutely untrue."

"Further, I want to plainly understand that my conversation with Mr. Cattis in my office did not occur immediately after he mentioned his expectation to get revenue through the appointments."

"While the governor testified, the courtroom was jammed to its full capacity. Cattis sat in the prisoner's dock, chewing gum.

Defense and government counsel said they had no more witnesses to offer, and the defense proposed that the case go to the jury without argument, which was accepted by the government.

Court then recessed for a short while to permit the bench to prepare the charge.

Wealthy Magnate To Serve Term For His Attack Upon Young Eunice Pringle, 17

Jury Deliberates On Case 53 Hours

Clemency Recommended But Law Cannot Recognize Motion

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28—(INS)—Found guilty of criminally assaulting 17-year-old Eunice Pringle, Alexander Pantages today faces a prison term in San Quentin penitentiary from one to 50 years.

The jury of seven women and five men returned the verdict sealing the millionaire theater magnate's fate, last night after being out a trifle more than 53 hours.

The jurors signalled the court last night at 9:30 P. M. that a verdict had been reached. Ten minutes after they had filed into the jury box they pronounced Pantages guilty of an assault on the girl dancer who applied to him for a booking on his vaudeville circuit.

Detention was recommended. Pantages was unknown as the radio

Gaffney was taken in the Gopher Gang. He won local glory as a tough and rough lad. When he was approaching 21, he clashed with Charlie Tucker. Gaffney pulled his gun and shot Tucker.

They leave Gaffney 20 years in Sing Sing. While waiting to be transferred from the Tombs in New York, Gaffney broke through his prison bars and hitting over the hedges made his get away.

Detectives figured Gaffney would try to see his sweetheart. He did and they cornered him on Third Avenue. A gun battle followed during which two children were wounded by bullets. Gaffney got away then but he was finally captured in a police hall in North Bergen, N. J.

Nineteen guards escorted him to Sing Sing. Later they took him to Dannemora in peg traps surrounded by 10 state troopers.

Meanwhile Kathryn was waiting. Visconti was just released for good behavior. He is now 52.

The whole neighborhood turned out for the marriage ceremony at the Sacred Heart Church in Fifty Fifth Street. And it was just around the corner from where Gaffney had killed Tucker.

The Governor said, "I have read about it in the newspaper."

"Tell the court what your recollection of it was."

"Cattis came into my office in Tampa before the election. He came with Diaz, who had made the appointments. Diaz, however,

did not come into my private office. Cattis and Diaz wanted the appointments made in Hillsborough county. I told him I would not make promises during the campaign."

BIG CROWD SEES FARMERS DEFEAT LEAGUE LEADERS

Business Men Beaten By Score Of 8 to 3; Tied For 1st Place

By J. M. Stedinger
Before a crowd estimated to be the largest yet to witness a game on the local diamond, the West Side Farmers humiliated the Business Men last night by the count of 8 to 3, leaving these two teams tied for first place.

Although out-hit by the Business Men, the West Side Farmers took advantage of the six free passes issued by Palmer, the four errors made by his team-mates and bunched their hits in the fifth and with innings to account for the winning margin. The Farmers also established what we believe is a record so far, as not a man on the team was credited with an error in the field.

The Business Men's scoring was done in the first and third innings; the first two runs being accounted for by Palmer's home run with Cordell on base, and the other two came in the third after Anderson tripled and Cordell singled. During the other innings they seemed unable to solve Hunter's snappy delivery, as he kept them hitting pop-flys or grounders which were handled by his mates. In the fourth, sixth and seventh innings, the Business Men went out in one, two, three order, while in the second, third and fifth, only four men came to bat.

The Farmers were shut out in the first two innings by Palmer, who was faced by four men in each inning, two of which struck out in each inning. However, in the third inning, Palmer became a little wild, and passed three men, the third one walking in the first score for the West Side. The second run came when Bally hit a long sacrifice fly, scoring W. Bach from third. The game was won in the fifth inning when Hunter walked, W. Bach singled, P. Bach and Hogan dropped Bende's fly to left, Bally sacrificed and Whelchel tripled, giving them a total of four runs. Two more counters were added in the sixth frame after two men were out.

Bill Bach received quite an ovation from the crowd when he made two running catches in deep right field, once colliding with Muskrat, but both times snagging the ball for an out.

Yale Elects Lineman As Captain Of Team

On National Gridirons

By International News Service

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 27.—(INS)—Yale today had upheld its custom of selecting a lineman to lead the football team. At the annual dinner of the gridiron squad last night Francis Thomas Vincent of Terrellton, Conn., right tackle, was unanimously chosen captain of the 1929 Blue eleven. His election came as no surprise, even though he was serving his first year on the team and did not receive his "Y" last year.

Yale's new leader prepped at Hotchkiss and captained his fresh man team at Yale.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 27.—(INS)—Encouraged by the excellent shape in which the squad emerged from the Ohio Wesleyan tilt, Army today was to settle down on a week of intensive work in preparation for Notre Dame. The work, however, was of a light nature, consisting of sprinting, kicking and passing.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 27.—(INS)—Heavy snows making outdoor work in preparation for the Navy game impossible, Coach Jackson Cannel has decided to move his Dartmouth squad to Atlantic City. Al Masters will make the trip with the team, but his back is still in a metal brace it is certain that he will set out.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 27.—(INS)—Schooled in Army formations and plays, a Notre Dame reserve eleven this afternoon was to face the varsity in a shadow's running and defensive drill. According to the coaches, a portion of the drill period today is to be given over to work on fundamentals, a department in which the Irish team has excelled thus far this season. Today's program of defensive drill is to be repeated tomorrow in a similar session, it was announced, and Thursday the team will leave for New York.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 27.—(INS)—Possibility that Notre Dame University will participate in the annual tournament of Roses football game at Pasadena was seen today with the faculty announcement that it will decide next week on when to terminate the year's gridiron season.

It was first reported that the Army game would close the season. Pacific coast rumors have named Notre Dame and Pittsburgh as the two possible contestants in the annual game. No official invitation to the Tournament of Roses game has been received, according to the Rev. Michael McGuire, vice president of Notre Dame University.

AMONG THE NEW STUDENTS

BABY GATORS ARE EXPECTING TOUGH LITTLE PRACTICE GAME SATURDAY FOR W & L TILT

Mercer Is Reported To Have Best Freshman Team In The South

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 27—Florida Gators, ranking among the leaders of the Southern Conference, have little time in preparation for Washington and Lee, their seventh and final conference game, which comes to Jacksonville Saturday. After losses to Auburn and Georgia, the Rats' triumph was a refreshing occurrence, and will give Brady Cowell's boys new confidence for their final stand.

Four changes in the starting lineup next week were hinted at by Line Coach Pierson for the Mercer game. Toph, left tackle, was badly hurt last week and will be replaced by Cornelius, while McQuatty probably will take over Woodall's assignment at right end.

Some of the up and coming guards are slated for a chance at Macon, either Hilliard or Billings to oust Anderson at the left guard slot and with either Wynne or Larche likely to get the call at right guard over Causey. Developments here this week however will determine if these changes materialize.

Gunn's job at center is also regarded as insecure, with Knight apt to dislodge him.

Cherry, Florida left end, and the two tackles, Toph and Ashkenazy, played star ball against Clemson, while the performing of Roger and Melton in the backfield was of the highest order.

Parnell will divide the left end position with Harry Green, a senior, who for two seasons was the chief and capable understudy to VanSickel.

Washington and Lee, though not an outstanding team in the conference this year, is smiting under the licks given them by the Mercer Freshmen. The Mercer Freshmen are said to be the greatest freshman team in the South, beyond any dispute, and will be decided favorites to beat the "Baby Gators," who have not demonstrated any much strength in their engagements thus far.

Southern expects enrollment jump with winter term

SOUTHERN COLLEGE, Lakeland, Nov. 27.—(Special)—Simultaneous with the beginning of the winter term at Southern College Dec. 4 will come a slight increase in enrollment in virtually all departments of the institution, Dean Carl S. Cox announced today.

Final examinations for the fall term will get underway Saturday and continue through Monday and Tuesday. Students are being required to register during spare moments for the forthcoming session, since no special day will be set aside for registration.

Among the new students will be several who have been attending high schools this fall to complete final courses for graduation.

Several new courses will be offered for the winter term.

Dr. Howard J. Barnum, head of the department of music, announced that several students from nearby towns recently have registered for work in the conservatory.

Present indications point toward a marked increase in the number of special students, particularly public school teachers of Polk and Hillsborough counties who wish to take advantage of the special classes held on Saturdays. Most of the teachers prefer work in the department of education, though they are represented in several other departments.

Proud White Waves
(From The Commonwealth)

The ocean heaves its thunder upon the sand.

While combers, preening their bright disdain to the shore, Combers crested with languor,
pulse toward the land,
like proud white swans, arching
over the roar.

Proud white waves interrogate not
the sea,

But—too much aware of the hour they are the heart of—

They cannot exit in their leashed, white liberty

Nor feel the lavish power they are a part of!

Nuit d' Eve
(Saint Germain-en-Laye)

Beguiled and saffron Gleamed the fairy tewts of Sare-Coeur,

In the setting sun
As the purple haze drifted over the roofs of Paris;

Slowly the firefly lamps began to glow

And Paris,
The city of springtime and love, Danced lightly into the night.

Singing a gay little shanson
And winking a red rose jauntily
Over one ear.

Charles Howard Marsh

Apparition
(From The Bermondsey Book)

None saw whence she had come Men only knew

A sudden whisper where the fern hung wet,

And magical light footsteps weaving through

The hyacinth and vine and violet

And where the larkspur burned

they saw her pass

A tremor of pale music that the flowers

Scarce sensed or knew; never in the pallid grass,

She moved flowerlike, to meet new twilight's hours.

And none knew when she left. It seems she went

When no man heard her passing of her feet

Late, late that day the laurel creams bent

A little lower there were steps less feet.

Where she had gone, they say...

Perchance she passed

With wind-swept hair, along forgotten ways,

To some soft loveliness, too due to last,

Or dream-like world of all the yesterdays...

The Plumber
(From Poetry)

Down in a corner, crushing of a cellar,

Striking in the darkness, a fat
gray snake.

Jabbing down the calumet, numbing lots of jokum,

Jabbing all the calumet that the joint will take;

Squatting in the colwedge, scattingullen spiders,

Humbling himself before the proud outsiders,

Fumbling and fumbling, rising
up and stumbling,

Fumbling in the shadow for his lost dividers...

Back in a cavern underneath a stairway,

Flattened in the blackness a-time
ent glows,

Glowing at the plumber, sweating at the plumber,

Eyeing the newcomer with the
cobwebbed nose,

Down on his knaps by the torch
that roars,

Roasting at the lead in the cast
iron pot,

Boiling tempests mixed, tongue-
white hot,

Bellow at the lead in a burning spot...

Here kneels the plumber at his shrine winter, summer,

Humbling, mounding, fumbling in the shadows;

Bowing at his altar, mindful of the nation,

Worshipping obscurely the goddess
Sanitation,

The ton-claw flowers and the spiders bulk,

Awaiting the departure of the

Put Them To Work

All Florida cities at this time of year, and from now on for the next six months, are more or less annoyed by numerous itinerant peddlers, alms bibles, sometimes known as "Knights of the Road". At the height of the season it is almost impossible for a motorist to drive more than two or three miles upon any main highway without being hailed and asked for a lift.

While most of these gentlemen look companionable enough, and are probably college graduates put out for a lark, still it is bothersome to have to stop at almost every mile post and pick someone up, or to be faced with the necessity of sticking your nose in the air and passing out the high hat as you speed shamefully off. Furthermore it sometimes happens when you, the good Samaritan that you are, generously give some of these mendicants a lift, that you wake up in the hospital, if at all, with a bullet hole in your shoulder and your wallet gone.

The Salvation Army located in Tampa has hit upon a novel idea for helping "The Knights of the Road" to help themselves. It has arranged an enormous woodpile and has collected a large and varied assortment of axes and saws. Over the woodpile it has placed the sign, "Welcome Weary Willie", the idea of course being, if it works, to hand out a piece of pie and perhaps other necessities of life to any "down and outs" who have sufficient energy and ambition to put in a day's work.

That thought has inspired us. We have a wonderful golf course on the edge of the city limits, gradually going to ruin as weeds kill the grass and destroy the turf on the greens. The traps need cleaning and the grass needs cutting and the greens need fertilizing. Such labor costs money and the City which owns the course can ill afford to spend the necessary amount and can ill afford to lose its investment in the course. The City fathers are in a quandary.

Why not place a sign, "Welcome Weary Willie", on Park Avenue with directions toward the golf course, and at the course itself another sign, "Welcome Weary Willie". Have someone there to tell these highway men what the course has to offer and how it can be obtained. Put them to work on the golf course. Help the hobo to help them selves. And help the golf course get rid of some of its weeds. That would be killing two birds with one stone.

The Prexies Didn't Know

The report issued by the Carnegie Foundation regarding the existence of evil conditions in collegiate athletics in most of the American institutions has been the cause for some interesting flare-backs. Officials at the schools, which came within the devastating fire of the committee's findings, have been almost unanimous in assuming an attitude of naive ignorance of any infraction of the ethics of inter-collegiate sport. Many college presidents have expressed keen resentment at the accusations and by their attitudes have conveyed to the public the suggestion that the Carnegie report is unfounded.

This line of defense might have been very successful if it had not been for the sports writers of the country who did not take the report so seriously. In fact, so lightly did some of the writers receive the news that they admitted all the unfriendly things mentioned and then asked, what of it? It seems then that there is a difference of opinion existing between the college officials, doubtless eager to defend the honor of their institutions, and the sports writers who don't give a hang about subsidized athletes and proclivity, so long as the football teams play in top form.

In other words, what has been obvious to almost every one apparently escaped the notice of college officials, the ones who should be the best informed. We don't believe, however, that university presidents are as ignorant as they sometimes appear and in this case we attribute their actions to overzealousness in an effort to avoid scandal and not to the fact that they belong in Santa Claus.

IN TIMES OF war men seem perfectly willing to recognize the place of the church; but, alas, in times of peace, how forgetful. Even individuals, no matter how forgetful or how resentful they are of the church, and its activities, when things are going well with them, will turn pleading to the church when misfortune and serious trouble overtakes them. Thousands of men who stray far from the religious life, arrive, some time, at the place where they found the inspiring influence of the little brown church in the land of Report, stay.

GOOD TIMES AHEAD

America is in the development of every type, and in the wonderful, property-wise. This country is continuing its march and prosperities have had but few setbacks. Purchases of equipment, there is no question, have increased very much. In fact, it has been the fat and happy years for manufacturers, particularly the canning industry. Naturally there has been a demand for services. The new business is putting up a great deal of confidence in our country and the canning industry will undoubtedly add greatly to the prosperity of the country shippers.

Here in Florida, the general several periods of industrial depression. These recurring times of the state, their new era of prosperity is in the offing. This year more people will visit Florida than ever before in the history. The fact that real estate has been stabilized and land values have gotten on a reasonable basis should have an influence on those who are still doubtful about the continuance of our present prosperous conditions.

A very significant feature of the present situation is that men who have to do with big affairs, our leaders in industry and commerce, are all in accord in predicting unbroken prosperity for the American people. It is but a day or two since Charles E. M. Mellon, Secretary of Treasury, has recently expressed himself along the same line, in no uncertain terms. The fact is there has not appeared a contrary leader in any note for some time. Every line of industry is expanding.

Notwithstanding the transportation field has been enlarged by a nation-wide bus and truck service and hundreds of aeroplanes are carrying freight and passengers

Governor Roosevelt And The Presidency

CONCORD TRIBUNE

Newspaper men couldn't get much information from Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, as to his presidential hopes when he visited this state several days ago. For some months now the New York Chief Executive and former Vice-Presidential candidate has been mentioned as Presidential timber but if he has plans for the 1932 campaign he kept them to himself when he visited Raleigh.

In fact when mention was made of the next presidential campaign Mr. Roosevelt explained that a gubernatorial battle must come before that, leaving the impression that he had no time for national affairs in the face of another State campaign and he didn't say he would be pene.

One significant utterance he did make, however. Asked if the powers that he had given Senator Simmons for the latter's bid for the ticket last year, Governor Roosevelt replied that Mr. Simmons seems to be a pretty good Democrat after all, and that he would support him in the present tariff fight.

What means, he could, that would be best for the Democratic nomination in 1932? He refused to talk national affairs so long as he is head of the State government.

Now comes the days of autumn and trying of the year, too hot for vacation, too cold for kickups. That will "take" through the winter.

Theatre Group Holds Meeting Last Friday
Owing to the growth of the Little Thespian Group of the Woman's Club it was decided at the meeting which was held Tuesday evening at the City Hall at 8 o'clock that the Group should become an independent organization rather than a committee of another club. Functioning as the Fine Arts Committee of the Woman's Club, the group has given a number of theatrical performances which began last year with the presentation of East Is West, a three-act play; and continued through the summer with one-act plays which were given each week at the Moyer Theatre.

Mr. H. M. Papworth presided over the meeting when the Rev. Mortimer Givens was appointed chairman of a committee to nominate officers for the ensuing year after which Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. Ernest Hunsicker and Mr. Givens were chosen to draft the constitution and by-laws for the new group.

Those in charge of the arrangements for the next play are Mrs. R. C. Maxwell, Frank McMahon and Mr. Givens. They were instructed by the president to report at the next meeting which will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the City Hall.

It is urgently requested by all members of the Group that residents of Sanford, who can in any way assist in dramatizing production, attend this meeting to help elect officers for the coming year and formulate the rules governing further procedure. Those who are merely interested and available are invited to be present. After passing a resolution to extend to the Woman's Club thanks for their launching of the group, and for their interest and help, the meeting adjourned.

NOAH'S ARK

Copyright 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.
NOAH'S ARK, starring Dolores Costello and featuring George O'Brien, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel. It is based upon the scenario by Darryl F. Zanuck.

The soft drizzle of rain that had been slowly saturating the already dreary countryside was turned into a steady downpour as the late summer evening wore on. It filled the rushing gutters to overflowing, sent wide rivulets spilling violently across the muddy highway, covered the lush growth of soft green grass, and swelled the streams swirling madly about the bridge piles that had for so long reared their proud heights above the little river.

Heavy drops splashed the glistening foliage of thick shrubs, making them quiver violently in the gray-green light of the departing day. Through the silver screen of golden moisture low, white-washed houses gleamed likeullen clouds behind forth arms of walls in search of a resting place. Tracts of cool forest lands loomed black and disturbing, forming square patches of deepest darkness against the dark.

The headlight of a swiftly moving train cut the rain-soaked dusk. Against the red glow of the firebox, the gleaming, half-naked body of the conductor appeared.

So he said, '....and the tower, which the children of men had built...will go down, that ye may not say, 'We have built ourselves a name' before me, I will scatter you abroad upon the面 of all the earth and you shall be known as the people that I have scattered.'"

Young Princes Unable To Pay Hundred Dollars For House Rent

By ALFRED TYRNAUER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Vienna, Oct. 25—Prince Ernest
Windischgrätz, great grandson of Emperor Francis Joseph, and member of a family which was only a few years ago one of the richest of the world, is unable to pay his rents to his landlord, amounting to somewhat less than $1,000 dollars, according to a suit filed recently at the court of bankruptcy in Vienna.

The young prince, now about 21 years of age, is living in a suburban villa of Vienna, and is earning his living by painting portraits and illustrations for various magazines.

Talented Painter.

Though he is a talented painter, his idealistic antipathy against commercialism, and the poor economic conditions of his native country have considerably curtailed his income.

He received a regular, though modest, income from his mother, Princess Elizabeth Windischgrätz, but her resources were also strongly reduced by her idealism and love of the poor.

Princess Elizabeth, who was the favorite granddaughter of Emperor Francis Joseph, left her first husband, the sick Prince Otto Windischgrätz, for the sake of a poor schoolmaster, Leopold Petznek, who is now a social democratic deputy in the Austrian parliament. She spends her time in solving social problems, and has spent her money on charity.

Popular With People.

She is perhaps the most popular member of the former ruling House among the Austrian masses, and is generally called "the Red Princess." But she is certainly not a favorite child of fortune. First she lost the largest part of her property, then only a few months ago, the fiancee of her first-born son, Francis Asenb, committed suicide, and now her second son Ernst is bankrupt. It is assumed that Prince Ernst has also other petty debts, which are complicating his financial distress.

of its general fairness I had decided not to make a reply.

"I did not know what the senator from Kansas would attack me personally and the Connecticut Manufacturers Association by torturing and twisting of evidence, by implications and occasionally by misstatement, corrected a few minutes later by expression of doubt.

"I was so amazed that I was in doubt whether to reply. I recalled a statement made by friends when I appeared before the lobby committee. They told me that it was 'framed' against the administration.

"Bingham frequently charged that the investigating committee was singularly framed against any one supporting the administration." He pointed out that it is composed of two Democrats—Caraway and Walsh of Montana, two insurgents, Borah and Blaine and "only one Republican," Robinson (R) of Indiana.

"This committee was fear to one against the administration," he explained, "and against any administration senator."

Bingham complained, too, that Edward A. Cooley, representative of the Massachusetts Fisheries Association "had not been investigated as a lobbyist."

"They only investigated the fact that he had tried to annoy men" said Bingham.

Bingham said that the Caraway report was submitted to him before it was presented and that "in spite of many inaccuracies, in view of the four occupants of the plane, first to cross the Northern Pacific from west to east, are: Semion Shestakov, Philip Bolotov, Boris Sterligov, and Dmitry Pavlov."

A large crowd was present at the airport to greet the flyers here. William B. Maya, chief engineer of the Ford Motor Company was present, and the aviators were the guests of the Ford company at lunch. They are to remain here until tomorrow and will be honored by various local Russian societies during their stay.
