Up, up and away with Ike & LBJ

Bill Clinton is coming to Florida next week to watch John Glenn lift off in the space shuttle Discovery.

This is a fine gesture. One day, a president might consider putting himself in space. He could have his own shuttle - Space Ship One. It would be equipped with an Orbit Office.

Occasionally, the president could take friends and contributors on Space Ship One. The larger the contribution, the more orbits for the donor.

Teddy Roosevelt would have made a terrific astronaut. John Kennedy would have been good, too. William Taft wouldn't have fit in, however. Spacemen can't weigh 300. The whole payload doesn't weigh that much.

It's hard to imagine Abraham Lincoln in space. He would have to shave his beard. We've never had a bearded astronaut. George Washington wouldn't be a good choice, either. The powdered wig would have to go.

Dwight Eisenhower would be an obvious choice for space exploration. He'd be known as Ike the orbiter. Richard Nixon could be Ike's backup. His jowls would be advantageous in space.

Our third vice president, Aaron Burr would have been able. He'd be called Buzz Burr. And Nelson Rockefeller could have funded the whole space program on his own.

Bill Clinton is probably better off watching Glenn's launch than being on the spaceship itself. Hillary wouldn't let him stray that far from home, anyway.

The guy who might have been the best spaceman of all is Ronald Reagan. Above and beyond with President Ron, an Air Force Captain in World War II. Flight Time for Bonzo. Lyndon Johnson would also get a call. Up, up and away with LBJ.

It might not be a bad idea to include some first ladies on the space roster. Eleanor Roosevelt would be the No. 1 choice as long as she chucked those hideous shoes. Jacqueline Kennedy would wear Oleg Cassini space suits.

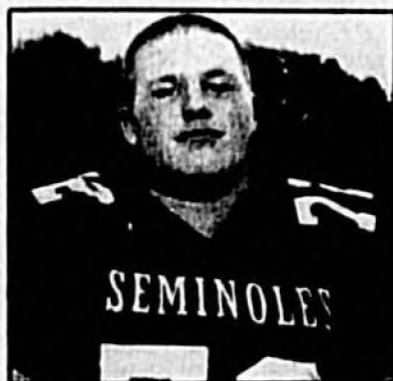

NASA officials say that Clinton's presence will not put extra pressure on the launch. Discovery, they said, will fly only when it is deemed safe. The president will be among 500,000 watching the launch. Senator Glenn didn't make it to the White House but he has orbited the earth - which no president has done. That's far out.

Everything comes to him who hustles while he waits. -Thomas A. Edison

The way we were: Spotlight on 1925

Today we conclude the article on the 1925 Sanford businesses as spotlighted in "Sanford, Florida in Pictures and Prose."

J.L. Miller Bakery

J.L. Miller Bakery had been established in Sanford for 31 years and Mr. Miller was one of the most known men in the county. He was one of the most widely experienced men in the baking business in this part of Florida and had made a success through open, modern and legitimate lines.

Mr. Miller had previously owned the Miller Bakery Company, but had sold it to Orlando people and in 1925 had a well equipped bakery and grocery at the corner of First and Oak. He baked all kinds of high grade bread and pastry goods and carried a full line of fancy groceries.

Mr. Miller was one of Sanford's pioneer citizens and had contributed both time and money toward making Sanford what she was. He was courteous and obliging and had many friends in all walks of life.

Edward Higgins, Inc.

This was an old established enterprise located at the corner of Commercial and Palmetto where it occupied a building which covered a quarter of a city block. The firm sold Fords and Lincoln's and Ford tractors. There was a sales room for new cars, a supply department, service department and a second hand department.

GRACE M. STINE-CIPHER

Officers were Ed Higgins, president; C.D. Couch, secretary-treasurer; and T.M. Fox, sales manager. They were described as having an active and intelligent interest in good roads and streets, civic improvements and the upbuilding of the town and county.

E. Kinlaw, Groceries

Throughout the area, the name Kinlaw was synonymous with thrift, enterprise and prosperity as E. Kinlaw was one of the enterprising retail grocers in the city. He had opened his doors for business July 6, 1922 at the corner of Ninth Street and Maple Avenue, not far from the ACL passenger depot.

His policy was to carry the best groceries, table delicacies, fruits, produce, etc. that money and experience could bring together to sell at rock bottom prices. This had made his store a favorite trading place.

Mr. Kinlaw was a progressive citizen who was very interested in the future of Sanford and was a faithful worker for the betterment of the community.

Woodruff and Watson

The owners of this business were Frank L. Woodruff and W.E. Watson. Mr. Woodruff had been connected with the business life of Sanford for 32 years while Mr. Watson had been in business here for 16 years. They were among the best known and most highly respected men in this community.

The firm was located at 208 E. First Street; they dealt in men and boy's furnishings plus shoes for every member of the family. It ranked with the most excellent retail houses of its kind in the area.

Laney's Drug Store

This business was located on East First Street, the second door west of the post office, and was owned by J.O. Laney, registered pharmacist. Mr. Laney knew the drug business in every detail as he had been in those lines since 1910.

Mr. Laney had bought out the Landers Drug Company on July 22, 1924. The store was equipped with mahogany finished fixtures and was stocked with medicines, toilet articles, magazines, etc. There was also a large new soda fountain together with neat service tables. No detail was lacking to make it one of the foremost leaders in its industry in the area.

Piggly Wiggly Store

This was a branch of one of the largest retail grocery companies in the United States and had opened its doors for business in Sanford January 1923. The name Piggly Wiggly was synonymous with thrift, economy and fair dealing; it sold the best pure food, groceries and table delicacies at the lowest possible prices.

The local store was located at 222 First St. and was managed by W.L. Stoudenmire, a gentleman of pleasing personality and excellent business sense.

The Piggly Wiggly Stores were conducted on the cash and carry plan which was the modern way of operating a retail grocery business and more economical for both buyer and seller.

Sanford was also the headquarters for a number of other Piggly Wiggly stores operating in this area.

The Sanford Herald

The Sanford Herald, established in 1908, was published every afternoon except Sunday, and stood second only to the large metropolitan newspapers in the state. It was ably edited, well printed and had a broad circulation in Sanford and also in the prosperous trade territory surrounding the city. Roland L. Dean was editor and R. Howard, business manager.

John Stemper Grocery

John Stemper's establishment dealt in staple and fancy groceries, fruits, produce and western meats. He was one of the most widely experienced men in his line of work in the entire county, having been established here about 11 years and in his present location at 211 West First St. for three years.

Mr. Stemper selected his stock with an eye for quality and excellence. He made it a point to sell goods on as low margin of profit as possible and this had made his establishment widely known as a store that "teaches your dollars to have more cents."

Mr. Stemper was well known locally and had the entire confidence of the community.

John Stemper was my grandfather. He was born in Yorkshire, England and had come "across the pond" circa 1900 to seek his fortune in the Klondyke Gold Fields. Evidently, he did not succeed as I never heard of a gold fortune. He met my grandmother, Clara Grounds in Montana where they were married January 1904. My mother, Marie, was born Oct. 31, 1904, in Montana.

John Stemper had apprenticed as a butcher in England and either worked in or owned butcher/grocery shops in several parts of this country. My mother described him as a wanderer. I know that they lives in Los Angeles; Ely, Nevada; and Phoenix.

He owned a large store in Phoenix where his daughter, Gladys was born in 1909. Then for some reason he bought land near unseem in Homeland, Georgia where they stayed only one year; long enough for son Jack to be born.

Their next home was Sanford, and I am not sure what attracted them here, but I'm glad they came! They arrived here in June 1913 and their fourth child, William Herman, was born here in 1916. All of us in the next generation were born in either Sanford or Orlando.

Police said they conducted a traffic stop on his vehicle and while they were checking his identification, he began to run from the scene. Longwood

The needs assessment will begin "probably toward the end of the month or the beginning of next month," and it "should be complete in 60-90 days," Manning said.

The city commission has allocated $30,000 to be spent toward either refurbishing the Ed Myers Building or building a new community center. Any decisions on the community center, including use of the funds, are "on hold," Manning said, until the needs assessment is complete.

The city commission is investigating where a new center should be located. Manning said three acres will need to be used, including space for paving and parking.

One possible location of a new center lies on Florida Avenue, west of Wilma Street, on lots collectively known as the Rostler Property.

The Rostlers are under contract to sell the property to Longwood at an appraised value of $128,500. The city has paid $2,400 for an appraisal on the property, plus $150 for a title search. Longwood is negotiating with the Rostlers over the purchase price and which lots to buy.

The lots Longwood particularly covets have an appraised value of $65,500, Manning said.

Location is the key to Longwood's interest in the property. Manning said the city could block off adjacent streets, giving the city the ability to control traffic flow and have adequate parking space.

The commission voted 3-2 Monday to continue with negotiations on the property, with Steve Miller and Paul Lovstrand dissenting.

"We don't need that land," Lovstrand said. "We should forget about this property."

vodka while at the beach. Taylor provided a bottle of vodka in his truck, and Moore's vision was impaired that day from drinking, school board attorney Ned Julian said.

"The school board has claimed disciplinary rights over my son 24-hours a day anywhere he is," Thomas Moore, the father of one of the student-athletes whose suspension is on appeal, said.

On Sept. 8, school principal Gretchen Schapker investigated reports of vodka consumption and by the next day obtained signed confessions from the participating students. Moore and Taylor were found to be the "principal offenders," Julian said, and suspended 30 days from participating in school sponsored extracurricular activities, including football.

Schapker suspended Moore and Taylor as first offenders of the school district's citizenship policy, adopted in 1993. The policy provides for the suspension of students from extracurricular activities for drinking, gambling, using illicit drugs, smoking, or having a fake identification off campus. Julian said the students signed confessions first on Sept. 9, then again Sept. 28 with their parents and with Schapker.

Julian said he will go before a circuit court judge at a yet to be determined date to try to compel the testimony of Moore, Taylor and other students at a future special session of the school board in Sanford. At Tuesday night's school board meeting, Taylor, Moore, and the other football players involved, cited their fifth amendment right against self-incrimination in refusing to testify.

"Extracurricular activity is a privilege," Julian said. "It is not a right. The federal courts have held that the educational role of the school board is not limited to teaching reading, writing, and arithmetic. There is a natural nexus between the act and the interests of the school in students' health and safety, and in promoting community standards and morals. The entitlement to school and education is not impacted."

Julian said "a couple of cheerleaders from the high school who were witnesses" of the Labor Day drinking at the beach brought the incident to the attention of Pamela Dunn, an instructional assistant and cheerleader sponsor at the school, on Sept. 8. Dunn notified Schapker, who began an investigation.

Moore's father, Thomas, said the appeal has nothing to do with his son playing football, noting his son has a knee injury and is possibly out for the season. He said he is appealing the constitutionality of the school board's citizenship policy.

Thomas Moore is the President of Sunniland Corporation. Lee P. Moore, the student's grandfather, is a former Sanford mayor.

"This is a violation of his right to privacy," Thomas Moore said. "It violates my rights as a parent. It is up to me to punish my son's impetuous act at the beach. My son has gone through terrible duress, stress and abuse because this has been so grossly mishandled. I am fighting for my son's rights as an individual and as a student."

Taylor and Moore remain on Seminole's football team while the suspensions are under appeal. Both players are defensive linemen. Seminole is in a competitive playoff race with a 4-2 record, 2-1 in the Seminole Athletic Conference and 2-1 in 5A-District 3 play.

State fines long distance telephone companies

FROM WIRE REPORTS

TALLAHASSEE- Penalties totaling $200,000 were imposed on two long-distance companies by the Florida Public Service Commission (PCS) Tuesday for allegedly changing customers' telephone service without authorization, a practice known as "slamming."

LCI International Telecom Corp., and Home Owners Long Distance, Inc. (HOLD), agreed to the financial penalties in addition to changes to business practices to prevent future complaints.

The LCI settlement included payment of $110,000 to the state's General Revenue Fund, an agreement to verify every request for a change in service before submitting the requests to local phone companies, and a commitment to turn over to the appropriate law enforcement agency any service change authorizations found to have forged signatures.

The HOLD settlement included a $90,000 fine, also payable to the General Revenue Fund, and an agreement to stop using sweepstakes programs to enlist customers.

In a separate case, the Commission refused to reconsider a decision made earlier this year that rejected an attempt by Minimum Rate Pricing, Inc., to dismiss a show cause order involving slamming allegations.

The company was ordered to show cause why it should not have its operating certificate canceled or face a $500,000 fine for 50 apparent violations of slamming rules.

A show cause order is a preliminary finding that a company may be subject to penalties for violation of a Florida Statute, a Commission rule or order. A show cause order provides the company an opportunity to contest the finding and request a full evidentiary hearing.

Florida Water ranks among top companies

FROM WIRE REPORTS

ORLANDO - For the fifth consecutive year, Florida Water Services was chosen as one of the top 100 companies for working families in Central Florida.

These criteria were established by a panel of community and human resource leaders, then analyzed and compiled by Central Florida Family. Florida Water and other selected companies will be honored at a luncheon on September 29.

According to Deborah Lee, Ph.D. and author of "Having It All, Having Enough," most workers are putting in longer hours, but wanting to spend more time at home. And according to a 1998 survey on workplace changes and their effect on families, nearly 62 percent of families say that changes in the workplace have affected their family negatively—through time infringement, pay cuts or stress.

Companies were judged on the following categories: benefits and options, family-specific programs, employee rewards, innovative programs and in-house communications.

Florida Water Services has more than 30 years of experience in providing services to the state's citizens and communities such as the treatment and distribution of potable drinking water treatment of wastewater. Currently, more than 500,000 Floridians in 25 counties rely on Florida Water Services, making it the largest privately-owned water and wastewater service company in the State. Florida Water Services is also a strong proponent of protecting and preserving the state's natural water resources, and is deeply involved in conservation and education efforts.

Check those grills

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

TALLAHASSEE - As outdoor activities increase with the arrival of spring, Florida Agriculture and Consumer Services Commissioner Bob Crawford is encouraging Floridians to give their propane gas barbecue grills a quick safety check to enjoy safe outdoor cooking.

Among the suggestions:

- Always transport your propane tank in a secure upright position and in a well ventilated space.
- Check your tank after each use to make sure that it has been turned to the "off" position.
- Keep the tank service valve closed when not in use.
- Use a safety plug when your tank is not connected.
- Never operate your grill under an overhang, awning or indoors.

- Propane containers should never be stored in enclosed areas or left in vehicles.
- If your container is dented or damaged, take it to a licensed gas dealer for replacement.
- Check grill fittings periodically by brushing them with soapy water. Bubbles will appear if the tank is leaking.
- If you smell a strong odor of gas or suspect that your container is leaking, contact your gas company immediately for assistance. Check the tank's valve to make sure it is turned off.

Veterans seek chance through covenants

FROM WIRE REPORTS

WASHINGTON D.C. - When American service personnel returned home from World War II fifty years ago, the federal government assured them that their brave defense of freedom would be rewarded with a unique opportunity to seek a better life--the GI Bill. Today, U.S. Senator Bob Graham commended the U.S. Senate for passing his legislation designed to make sure that the federal government keeps that promise to veterans.

The present version of the GI Bill--now known as the Montgomery GI Bill--was made permanent in 1987. It guarantees basic educational assistance for most individuals who are or have been in the armed services for a significant period of time. The U.S. Department of Defense has identified this program as its best tool for recruiting outstanding young Americans to join the armed services.

Under previous law, colleges and universities were required to consider the educational benefits that veterans received under the Montgomery GI Bill when determining eligibility for financial aid. This burdensome requirement often reduced or completely eliminated their access to non-military assistance.

Graham's "Veterans' Educational Benefits Protection Act of 1998," which the Senate included today when it passed the Higher Education Reauthorization Act, will end this inequity. It ensures that the 94 percent of veterans who sign up for the GI Bill are not financially penalized for using the benefits to which they are entitled.

Forestry survey published

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

TALLAHASSEE - Florida Agriculture Commissioner Bob Crawford has published the 1997 Silviculture Best Management Practices Compliance Survey.

"This is the most comprehensive evaluation of forestry operations since BMP monitoring began in 1981," Crawford said.

The Division of Forestry evaluated more than 5,600 forestry practices on 202 operations involving more than 120 forest landowners, representing a collective ownership of approximately 31,000 acres stretching from the state's western Panhandle to Lake Okechobee in South Florida.

The compliance survey, an essential part of DOFA Silviculture Best Management Practices Program, critically examines forest activities, such as timber harvesting, site preparation, and tree planting adjacent to surface water bodies or in forested wetlands to determine if they were performing according to the state's 1993 Silviculture Best Management Practices Manual.

Copies of the 1997 BMP Compliance Survey report are available by calling the Florida Division of Forestry at (850) 414-9934 or by contacting the nearest division field office.

Alligator populations are growing

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

The American alligator story has become one of the truly successful, sustainable-use management programs ever implemented. American alligators have been off the endangered species list since 1987 and populations are still growing.

A sustainable-use management program is a conservation strategy to prevent the depletion of a natural resource. In essence, to protect the alligators in the wild, farms were established to raise alligators for harvesting while allowing the wild population to increase. Land and wildlife management programs regulate the farming and harvest of the alligator and the sale of its products. According to 1998 Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission reports, Florida, the second largest producing southeastern state, harvested 26,970 skins from farms and 7,967 skins from regulated wild harvests. Wild harvests are periodically conducted because the American alligator population rebounded so extensively by the late 1980s that there was a need to gently control the growth. Limited hunting licenses are issued to trappers to be used at specific times. Wildlife officials also issue permits to collect eggs in the wild to hatch and raise on the farms. This type of responsible harvesting increases the economic value of the alligator and the human awareness of its natural habitat.

Commercial wild harvests and farming operations contribute revenue to alligator management. Portions of the revenue collected from farmers, trappers and hunters for tag fees and licenses finance sustainable-use management programs. Consequently, American alligator commerce has a positive effect on the species as a natural resource.

One of the current challenges of the American alligator industry includes educating the public about their successful population comeback. Although selling and buying American alligator products is perfectly legal and actually contributes to sustaining their existence, there is still some fear and hesitation from some consumers. This is largely due to the lack of understanding and knowledge about the various species. The similarities in appearance of the American alligator (Alligator mississippiensis) and the endangered black caiman (Melanosuchus niger) of Brazil cause much of the confusion. Because of this difficulty in distinguishing the two species, the American alligator is listed as threatened, not endangered, in the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES) doctrine under Appendix II. This CITES listing allows regulatory monitoring. To prevent illegal trade, CITES requires the hides to be tagged with a serial number. This tag remains attached to the hide until the leader goods manufacturer produces the finished product.

The successful turnaround of the American alligator population is a tribute to conservation efforts through sustainable-use management programs and the industry's conscientious involvement in the implementation of the regulations.

Community meeting to feature Brown and Hastings

By Marva Hawkins
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

SANFORD - Congresswoman Corrine Brown and Congressman Alcee Hastings will appear at a special community meeting Saturday, at 10 a.m. at the New Life Word Center, 1311 Oak Ave. and 13th Street.

Brown has been a public servant for more than 18 years. She has worked for more funding for Florida's citizens, to improve the Central Florida area, as one of three members of Congress on the Committee on Transportation. She was involved in changing the funding formula that determines how much money Florida will receive over a six-year term.

There will be $750 million accessible to job programs that will fund projects to transport current and former welfare recipients to jobs. Brown has worked with the Veterans Equitable Resources Allocation (VERA). This new program for veteran's health care distributes funds to veteran's hospitals. She also won $14 million in funding for the Central Florida Veterans Out-patient Clinic.

In addition, Brown worked toward getting 200 new police officers in the district through the COPS Program.

Hastings is a native of Seminole County and a graduate of Crooms Academy. He continues to be a part of Central Florida's growth.

Restaurants promote clean hands

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

GAINESVILLE - Gloves are out and hand-washing is in at some Florida restaurants.

State food safety rules that went into effect earlier this year give restaurant operators the choice of allowing employees to handle ready-to-eat food with protective gloves or their bare hands.

"If they're going to work with their bare hands, food handlers must complete a rigorous new food safety training program that requires frequent hand-washing and use of hand sanitizers," said Mark Tamplin, food safety expert with the University of Florida's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences who is coordinating the statewide training program.

"It's a major change for the state's $17 billion restaurant industry that serves some 40 million people annually, and it should improve food safety for consumers," he added.

The new rules replace part of the 1995 federal food safety code, which prohibits food service workers from handling ready-to-eat food with their bare hands. When some Florida restaurant chains objected to the federal ban on bare-hand contact with food, the Florida Division of Hotels and Restaurants approved alternative procedures.

option must train employees in a program such as the one offered by UF in cooperation with the Florida Restaurant Association. Restaurants also must have a written operational plan on file for restaurant inspectors. Restaurant owners who break the rules face up to $1,000 per day or license revocation.

"Allowing the use of bare hands in exchange for more food safety training is a good trade off," Tamplin said.

"Hand-washing can be a life-or-death issue when it comes to preparing food," he said. "You could make people sick or even kill them. That is the reality we have to bring home in our training programs."

Oviedo boys on way to retaining VolleyFest title

SANFORD - This column has doomed more sports teams than the Grim Reaper.

Sometimes, we sportswriters start to think we actually know what we are talking about. That, of course is dangerous, as you can tell if you've followed some of the predictions that have flown through this space in the past two years.

There was North Carolina to win the Final Four and Penn State to take the NCAA football championship.

Green Bay would walk all over Denver in the Super Bowl and Mark McGwire would stall at around 55 while Fred Funk was going to be the dark horse U.S. Open winner.

I picked Oviedo to upset Lake Mary in girls basketball last year and touted Lake Howell as the county's best football team.

Don't blame those teams; blame me. I doomed them.

So naturally I'm out of the prediction business, right?

Oviedo is about to win the unofficial state volleyball championship.

There, it's said.

In case I still have any speck of being reputable, read on; if not, you'll see after Saturday.

Why Oviedo?
Simply, they are on fire right now with only two losses in the past 17 games, both to Dr. Phillips.

But, Dr. Phillips is in VolleyFest also, aren't they, you ask?

Sure they are, and the Lions have what it takes to beat them. Simply, they are the cockiest, most assured of themselves, team in Central Florida.

You have to see the Lions to really enjoy what volleyball is all about. There isn't a team around that has more fun and is more fun to watch.

It's a team that cracks up laughing when it makes a mistake during one of its many blowout wins.

The leaders of the band of revelry are Anthony Bracco, Del Wynegar and Turner Elliott. They, along with the rest of the Lions, aren't afraid to admit that they enjoy their cocky streak, an arrogance surely recognized by their opponents.

But it isn't bragging if you can back it up and that's what Oviedo does best. What's wrong with a little chuckle when Elliott tries to pound the ball through the floor when the score is 13-1?

An opponent's spike that has Bracco eating leather?

He just laughs and comes right back with a winner.

It's the attitude.

And give coach Tim DeZego lots of credit for the Oviedo success story. Last year, he took a strong team with a mental block about beating perennial champion Lake Mary and, well, beat the Rams to claim the school's first ever VolleyFest championship.

After opening this season 3-3 the internal mood of the Lions wasn't Brady-esque, but DeZego kept the team together and, since then, the Lions have been unbeatable.

Wipe out that slow start and the Lions have three losses dating back to the beginning of last year.

It's a roster full of talent, maybe not the deepest in the state, but a group that's played together for several years and know each other's game like their own.

Elliott is the best player in central Florida. He gets the ink, but Bracco and Wynegar, along with Brian Mullin, Alex Gonzales and Christian Pultz provide the backbone and, more importantly, a healthy dose of attitude.

Dr. Phillips will be tough, but the Lions went three games with them in their first meeting and were missing several players last time around at Dr. Phillips.

Ask any of the Lions if Dr. Phillips was beatable, and they hardly answer.

They laugh in disdain at such a stupid question.

So the pick here is Oviedo. I have to get one right sooner or later.

Last Second Shot: Hey Los Angeles Dodgers: What are you waiting for. Seminole County's Davey Johnson is worth the trouble.

Cornell propels Lake Brantley girls to Seminole Invitational cross country team title

By Jeff Berlinicke

SANFORD - In cross country, the race usually comes down to whoever wants it more. Much like the entire season.

Yesterday, the Lake Brantley girls cross country team was one of a host of schools who traveled from all over the state to compete in the Seminole Just For Feet Invitational at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium.

For the Patriots, it would be a perfect test to see how they measure up against some of the best in the state as they prepare for the conference championship next week.

Lake Brantley is currently ranked second in the state behind Spanish River which didn't. Please see Running, Page 2B

Tribe boys stretch out season finale

By Jeff Berlinicke
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - Apparently there aren't a lot of baseball fans on the Seminole boys volleyball team.

On Senior Night, the 'Noles forgot that the World Series was going on and enjoyed a care-free, fun final game of the season with a 15-13, 7-15, 15-6 win over a rapidly improving Winter Springs team at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium Wednesday night.

The game marked the final of the year for both teams as they were shut out of VolleyFest.

So, the teams decided to make their final appearance stretch out for as long as possible.

The 'Noles, which graduate 11 of the 12 players who suited up last night, split their team throughout the night as one went in the first game and the remaining six in the second.

Everyone had fun, but it made for a sloppy match throughout.

Graduating from Seminole are Joe Chick, David Hunt, Eric Larson, Carson Stone, Rick Mendez, Matt Davidson, Vernon Harris, John Bryant, Chad Whitman, Damian Mahanna and B.J. Pratt.

While the 'Noles have a lot of players going, rookie coach Matt Hibbard, a long-time fixture in the Sanford volleyball scene, said he hopes to come back for next season.

"We had our ups and downs all year," Hibbard said, "but I enjoyed it. We were probably the third best team in the county. We had some tough stretches and they got down on themselves sometimes, but we really picked it up. Unfortunately, the season's over."

Hibbard said he and his team held out hope that VolleyFest would extend a third county invitation, but the 'Noles were shut out.

So, after pre-game festivities, everyone went out and had a good time. Winter Springs, which took VolleyFest participant Bishop Moore to a third game last week, played tough but their lack of depth and inexperience wasn't enough.

The Bears threatened to take the first game, leading 13-11, but Seminole reeled off four straight.

In the second game, Seminole started sending the ball all over the gym as the Bears forced a third game, but Seminole jumped out to a big lead and put it away.

VolleyFest '98 serves off tonight

By Jeff Berlinicke
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

One school wants to repeat, another wants to reclaim what's theirs.

Two Seminole County schools - Oviedo and Lake Mary - making up part of the eighth-team VolleyFest field which begins play tonight at Lake Mary High School. The tournament, which concludes Saturday afternoon, crowns the unofficial state champion for boys volleyball.

Other teams include undefeated and tournament favorite Dr. Phillips, University, DeLand, Osceola, Bishop Moore and Edgewater.

Dr. Phillips has two wins each over Oviedo and Lake Mary. The Rams and Lions split their season series, but Oviedo won when the two teams squared off two weeks ago, and have won 15 of 17 with both losses coming to the Panthers.

Lake Mary was a perennial champion until a down year last season saw an early exit from the tournament. Oviedo, led by Turner Elliott and a host of seniors, won the tournament, their first ever championship.

This season, Elliott returns with a team that has been awesome since some early struggles. Anthony Bracco and Del Wynegar have combined with Brian Mullen, Alex Gonzales and Christian Pultz to provide a strong support system for Elliott, probably the best player in Central Florida.

Seminole girls survive scare from Pine Ridge

By Jeff Berlinicke
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - The Seminole girls volleyball team wasn't going to walk off its home court for the final time that easily.

Up against seven match points in their final home game at Bill Fleming Gymnasium, the Seminoles roared back to pull off a 15-2, 8-15, 16-14 win over district rival Pine Ridge to even their record at 8-8.

The win gives the Seminoles a third-seed in the west division in the District 5-5A tournament which begins next Tuesday at Oak Ridge. The 'Noles will take on second-seed Mainland at 5 p.m. to open it up.

Last night, seniors Amanda Cook, Melissa Witte and Emily

Wontenay played their final home game and were honored with pre-game festivities and the result was the emotional victory to cap off their home career.

Seminole came out struggling in the third game, falling behind 8-0 and 14-8 before coming off the canvas to even it at 14.

Witte served up an ace to give Seminole a 15-14 lead and forced a Pine Ridge error to take the match.

"We've come back before," Witte said. "We were down 13-2 a couple of weeks ago. I have a lot of memories here."

Coach Beth Corso said her team needs some work before it comes time for single-elimination.

"We have come back before this year, but this team just keeps on taking mental vacations," Corso said. "Now is the time to prove they can win."

"TEAM" efforts on Lake Griffin

SANFORD - Nobody said it would be easy, and Lake Griffin in Lake County at Leesburg will be one of the more challenging bodies of water in the "TEAM" (Team Effort Accomplishing Management) approach to restoring five of Florida's more notable "fishin' holes."

Beginning last year, Florida's Game & Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) employees embarked upon an ambitious program to make several major lake systems more attractive and productive for freshwater anglers.

Targeted lakes include Griffin, Talquin, the Orange Lake complex, the Kissimmee complex, and Lake Istokpoga. The TEAM concept enlists support from several state agencies, local and state lawmakers, the media, university representatives and private citizens.

Lake Griffin is a 9,290-acre hypereutrophic lake where anglers have experienced a rapid decline in quality fishing in recent years due to stabilized water levels, a loss of rooted aquatic plants, an overload of nutrients, and the diking of associated marshlands for farming operations.

Although anglers sporadically catch trophy largemouth, GFC Biologist John Benton rates Lake Griffin at only a "2" or "3" on a 10-point bass scale.

Griffin's bass spawning is severely limited due to poor water quality and aquatic habitat, resulting in the recruitment of fewer fish into the population.

Speckled perch (crapple), though generally small, are reasonably abundant, while bream (bluegill and shellcracker) get just "fair" marks at best.

Historically, Lake Griffin was considered one of Florida's leading bass hotspots by local and out-of-state anglers. As quality fishing declined from the mid-1970's to the early 80's, a 1984 drawdown was performed which produced notable gains in sportfish populations and angler success rates. A second attempt to draw Lake Griffin down in 1995 was stalled, due primarily to public opposition.

According to Benton, a meeting on the proposal was packed with winter residents who objected to a temporary inconvenience that a drawdown would cause.

"One winter resident said he 'wouldn't buy green bananas and wants access to the lake now.'"

"Unfortunately," mused Benton, "bass anglers assumed a drawdown would be an easy 'sell' and failed to show up to support the proposal."

Local politicians community leaders and businessmen also have been inconsistent in expressing support for a different management approach for Lake Griffin, and there is a general lack of public awareness of the problems and potential solutions to improve the lake's quality.

There is county-wide interest in boosting tourism, but, presently, no guiding force is in place to encourage or promote the concept that improved fishing will expand the tourist base.

A drawdown is probably the best avenue available to restore Lake Griffin to past glories. But, from a practical standpoint, the very earliest it can be accomplished will be in the fall of 1999, assuming that public and political support for such a measure will be forthcoming.

If a drawdown is deemed feasible following a scheduled May, 1999, public hearing, work could begin in November, with the actual removal and relocation of organic bottom sediments taking place in March, 2000.

Until then, the GFC will embark upon several programs to improve aquatic habitat in both the quality and quantity of submersed aquatic vegetation.

In cooperation with the Department of Environmental Protection, the GFC is now controlling at least 50 acres of cattail in selected areas of Lake Griffin to promote expansion of such desirable native plants as knotgrass and bulrush.

SHUPE'S SCOOP

Many anglers think that fishing with shiners is not fair. Those who have tried realize that shiner fishing is an art form unto itself. It is very difficult to get a live bait to do what you want. Shiners tend to have a mind of their own, and they are often uncooperative. In fact, it is much easier to manipulate a lure than a live bait.

FISHING FORECAST

River action is picking up and bass are hitting along grassy edges and weed beds. Vet-crans anchor and work proven areas. Bass tend to hold and feed in certain spots. Look for blue herons on the shoreline. I have found many good spots this way. These birds are expert fishermen and know where the baitfish hang out. Bass will not be far away.

Count on good snook action at Sebastian Inlet. Large live shrimp and pinfish are the top baits. Work these baits slowly around rocky structure for sure strikes. Also expect a few redfish, flounder, trout and a stray tarpon or so. Trout are hitting just inside the Inlet over grass flats.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that offshore action has been spotty due to high seas. There should be some king mackerel on B A and Pelican Flats. Sheephead and flounder will be biting inside the Port. Trout and redfish are rated as fair on the flats of the Banana and Indian Rivers.

Sheephead and flounder are the big news at Lance Inlet. Sheephead are hitting fiddler crabs and live shrimp around the rocks, while flounder are taking finger mullet along the south jetty. Drum, redfish, and jack crevalle are also being caught in fair numbers. Trout and redfish are rated as good in Mosquito Lagoon.

crowd, but started 3-3 before coach Tim DeZego and his players had a team meeting to discuss the problems.

Since then, Oviedo has dominated and carry a cocky presence that has the Lions believing the third time could be the charm against Dr. Phillips.

Lake Mary started out fast before hitting a few speed bumps on the way. Brett Pockock is dominating at the net and vividly remembers walking off the court last year after his team failed to defend. Barrett Klinger, Vick Gill, Scott Henderson and Corey Ruckdeschel and Eric Otero are two of the Rams who have had solid seasons to go with Pockock.

The two teams don't like each other, but they might not even get a chance to square off. Oviedo opens play with a 5 p.m. start against Bishop Moore and Lake Mary, in the other bracket, plays Edgewater at 6:30 p.m. tonight.

If the Lions win, they would likely draw Dr. Phillips Saturday at 9 a.m. The soonest the two county rivals could face off would be noon Saturday assuming they make it to that point without a loss.

Running

complete yesterday. Lake Brantley's leading runner, Stephanie Cornell was neck and neck with her main competition from Seabreeze High School going into the final mile on Seminole's short, flat course.

Cornell and her competition entered the stadium and Cornell made her move.

"I kept catching her and she kept catching me," Cornell, a junior, said. "When it came down to the last mile, it was whoever wanted it more." Cornell took a small lead coming down the final stretch and won by about a yard. Several more of her Lake Brantley teammates followed close behind as the Patriots won the team competition.

Lake Mary runners Jasmine Dornford and Claudia Bettef each broke the Rams' school record.

Lake Brantley now gets to look forward to states and a shot at finally getting a state championship. The Patriots have finished close enough to taste the title several times over the past couple of decades, but this year, the talent runs deep.

Cornell finished ninth in states last year and has been tested by teammate Belinda Bargmann all season.

Also running for the Patriots are Tori Brown, Jen Mills, Jen Eichelberger, Dara Wise and Megan McMillan.

Fine Ridge took the boys competition and Lake Mary was the county's highest finisher in fifth. Nick Stuart of Lake Mary led all county runners with his ninth-place finish.

Next week, the Bithlo track will host a School Bus Figure-8 Race along with a regular full race program.

Racing begins at 8 p.m. every Friday night at the track located 17 miles east of Orlando between Orlando and Titusville on Highway 50 at the 520 Cocoa Cutoff.

New Smyrna Speedway will also run a regular program of Late Models, Limited Late Models, Open Wheeled Modifieds, Sportman, Mini-Stock, Bomber and Run-A-Bouts, plus the exhibition race.

Next week the prestigious Florida Governor's Cup, 200 lap, $5,000 to win Late Model event will be run, plus a regular full race program.

Racing begins at 7 p.m. every Saturday night at the track located 10 miles south of Daytona Beach at the corner of Highway 44 and SR-415, between I-4 (exit 58, east) and I-95 (exit 84, west).

For more information on FASCAR racing events, call

(904) 427-4129.

In racing at New Smyrna Speedway last weekend:

LATE MODELS: B.J. McLeod took fast time with 18.242 and Jack Cook was 2nd fast with 18.285 but after the draw everything changed as the eighth fast time of Jacob Warren ended up on the pole for the Fairway Jeep, Chrysler, Plymouth Late Model 125 with Pete Orr on the outside. Jack Cook was third and B.J. McLeod was fourth!

The first 10 laps were all Jacob Warren's in the Your Season Ticket Sports Pub #51, but Jack Cook changed that as he took the lead and it was tight racing between Cook, David Rogers and David Russell.

Cook led the majority of the laps but spun on lap 108 coming out of turn four putting Rogers in the lead for good.

Following Rogers across the line were Warren, Cook, Bruce Lawrence and McLeod.

LIMITED LATE MODEL: Osteen's Bobby Sears will tell you his car hasn't been right since the wreck during Speedweeks but he didn't give up and led the race from the pole to the checker with Sammy Graham close behind taking second. Chad Allman, Larry Osteen and Mike Murphy rounded out the top five!

MODIFIEDS: It was a first time win in the Modified division for Robert Ham!

Jerry Symons stayed just behind Ham keeping him on his "toes". Ricky Wood finished third with Jimmy Winks and Tom Root fourth and fifth!

SPORTSMAN: Chuck Vola looked like the man to beat as he took the lead early in the race but Randy Hecker in the Speedway Auto Parts #62 put an end to his lead as he took over with Chad Pierce right on his tail...when the checker flew it was Hecker, Pierce, Vola, Pat "Big Cat" Buckley and Mike Trocki in the top five.

MINI-STOCKS: The competition was back in the Mini-Stocks!

When the final lap came around it was Bob Doxide taking the checker with Ted Vulpius, in his son Timmy's new ride, right there to take second. Wes Filyaw, Wayne Clark and newcomer Jimmy Jordan rounded out the top five!

BOMBERS: Greg Saylor in the Autoworks #99 led the race until about lap six when Rich Clouser took over and never relinquished his lead.

Mike Hendrix was in the right spot at the right time and he took second ahead of newcomer Billy Morton. Saylor ended up fourth with Charles Fry fifth.

RUN-A-BOUTS: You can't help but respect these guys, they come out with no practice and always put on one of the best races with a full field of cars!

Jeff DeFreece put the All-Around Tree Service sponsored #33 in the Winner's Circle with Jeff Brogan, Butch Cassidy, Brandon Johnson and Gary Smith in the top five.

APALACHICOLA RIVER RACING CLUB: This visiting division is a group of racers that race for fun and the trophies. The cars are '32 Coupes/Modifieds, you have to see them to enjoy this blast from the past.

The top three on Friday night were Larry Cook, Clinton Mears and James Kelly, while on Saturday it was James Kelly, Carlton Pass and Buckshot Whittington in the top three.

ENDURO: Only 20 cars showed up for this event that is all green, unless the track is blocked or a driver is in danger, which unfortunately happened on Saturday.

Todd McCreary came out of three and did not see the car of Leon Harriman disabled on the track. McCreary was injured in the wreck and had to be airlifted to the hospital, where he remains in the ICU in serious condition. But the good news is he is alert and stable.

When the green flew again only 25 minutes remained on the clock and when the checker fell it was waved over Matt Scheffler from Auburndale with Darren Gould, Sanford's John Ripley, Mike Pitts and Roger Wren in the top five.

What causes nonagenarian's fatigue?

DR. GOTT

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 91 years old and, until about two years ago, I was active and healthy. Then I started feeling tired all the time. Could poor circulation be the cause of my fatigue?

DEAR READER: Probably not entirely. Vascular disease does not usually strike quickly; it is slowly progressive.

Some fatigue in the elderly is simply a consequence of the normal aging process. Nonetheless, older people do tend to develop a variety of ailments and diseases. You should see your doctor for a full checkup. You might have anemia, hypertension, heart disease or thyroid deficiency — all common causes of fatigue in patients over 80. If there is no physical reason for your tiredness, the doctor may be able to suggest activities or special exercises to perk you up.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 71-year-old wife was diagnosed with early-stage leukemia two years ago. Her blood count is now 21,000 and increasing every month. The doctors say nothing can be done until the count exceeds 50,000. Why can't she get treatment now? This waiting is very stressful.

DEAR READER: Leukemia, cancer of the blood cells, can take many forms. Some are acute and extremely dangerous; others seem to be more indolent and less severe.

Your wife probably has chronic lymphocytic leukemia (CLL), an abnormality of the blood cells called lymphocytes, which help fight infection. This type of blood disorder often doesn't behave like leukemia at all; it appears to be an uncontrolled production of certain blood cells that doesn't affect health. As the lymphocytes become more numerous, the blood becomes heavier and stickier, leading to clots and other consequences. When the count exceeds about 50,000, the blood needs thinning. This is usually done easily with medicine that inhibits the production of lymphocytes.

Patients with CLL can live long and productive lives as long as their blood counts are monitored and periodic treatment is given when necessary. Your wife should follow her hematologist's advice.

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Blood: Donations and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, N.Y. 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Are hair dyes dangerous? Are the chemicals absorbed through the scalp and into the blood?

BRIDGE

Life must go on

By Phillip Alder

The day after Hurricane Bonnie left a waterlogged coastal North Carolina last August, there was a photo in our paper of a bikini-clad woman sunbathing on a beach that was covered in car tires. Where did they come from?

Was, in declaring a bridge contract, you walk into a sudden squall — perhaps a foul trump break — don't panic. Put up the hurricane shutters (pause for thought), wait for the storm to blow itself out (find a way to get home), then move back into the sunshine (make the contract).

Here, you get to six spades. West leads the club king. After winning with dummy's ace, you take an immediate spade finesse. Good news — it wins; bad news — West discards a club. What now?

South could have opened with a strong two-bid. With a fit, two aces opposite a strong two virtually always equals a slam, and no doubt six spades would have been reached.

When you see the 5-0 spade break, you seem to have two sure losers (one spade and one diamond), along with a possible heart loser. You need two dummy entries to pick up the rest of trump suit. Yet you don't have those entries — do you?

There are two entries if West has the heart jack. At trick three, lead a low heart to dummy's 10. When that works, take a second spade finesse. Return to dummy with a heart to the ace, complete the third trump finesse, draw the missing trumps, and claim 12 tricks: five spades, four hearts, two diamonds and one club.

The tires were part of an artificial reef that had been built offshore.

MOROSCOPE

Your Birthday
 Friday, Oct. 23, 1998

Someone either older or more experienced than you could have a stabilizing effect on your life in the year ahead. It will give you a solid base from which you can develop your ideas and creations.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try to help a friend if you can today, but draw the line at loaning any money. This is especially true if it involves funds you have earmarked for essentials. You may never get them back. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Should your mate not be as accommodating or cooperative as you think she or he could be, find out why before sounding off. Your spouse might be involved in something equally as important.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Chances are problems you're confronted with today could be the result of past procrastination on your part. Bite the bullet and get them done. Stop sweeping them under the rug.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Go alone with the will of the majority instead of bucking it today. You'll make everyone feel uncomfortable if you try to assert your desires over theirs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Don't think you won't have to pay the price later for stepping on someone else's toes to get what you want today. You might get away with it now, but he or she will even the score.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Although it's not your style to behave in an inharmonious fashion, you be may be called upon to stand up to someone who behaves like a bully. Do so without hesitation.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you don't want to max out your credit cards today, put definite limits on what you intend to spend before you go shopping or withdraw any money.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) When nego-listing an agreement today, be prepared to make some reasonable concessions to foster a meeting of the minds. Make the first move and the other guy will follow suit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's an asset that you're an easy going person, but don't go overboard by allowing someone to dump all his or her responsibilities on your lap today. That's just plain masochistic.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Avoid hanging out with an individual who likes to throw his or her weight around. This person is not only likely to embarrass you in public, but draw you into a confrontation as well.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Should you feel knocked around at work or abused by the cruel world, leave your pent up emotions at your doorstep. Don't take out your frustrations on the family.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) So what if a companion's opinions conflict with yours? It's our personal right to differ. If you make it a big deal, it could ruin an otherwise friendly relationship.
