Senate approves wage increase

WASHINGTON — The Senate, handing President Bush a sharp defeat in their first major legislative battle of the year, approved an increase in the minimum wage to $4.55 an hour, but the victory may be short-lived.

On a near party-line ballot of 61-39, the Senate voted Tuesday for the Democratic proposal that Bush has threatened to veto. The margin of victory was six votes short of enough to override a veto.

School vote tonight

Board ready to take final action on rezoning plan despite some opposition

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board will vote tonight on the final plans for rezoning for secondary and middle schools.

Some students, parents, teachers and administrators at Seminole High School are not happy with the proposed changes. Their group, the Local School Advisory Committee (LSAC), feels the proposed rezoning will only worsen enrollment problems at Sanford schools, especially at Seminole High.

The group said small numbers of students has left them in the cold in terms of educational funding and they had hoped that the rezoning process would bring in more students, thus allowing them to get more money for improved academic programs.

"The school board has been very stand-offish with us," said advisory board member Amelia Royster. "We feel that some of the decisions regarding Seminole High School were made in a very negative tone. It's like they aren't listening to our side."

The school board feels that the rezoning measures are necessary, however, to avoid immediate needs for construction of new schools, which must be built within the next twenty years.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be in the school board chambers at 1211 Mellonville Ave. in Sanford.

The group leaders contend they are not poised for a battle, but that they are working hard at trying to open the lines of communication with the school board.

They want to get the message out that the failure of the school to be able to improve is not only a school problem, it is a community problem as well.

"This is a Sanford problem," said Royster. "If the school is not up to par it effects on everyone from the grandma to the business person."

Another LSAC member, Gail Stewart, said a dialogue must be established before any hope for improvement can be made. "Mr. (Seminole High School principal Wayne) Epps has asked for additional funding to help bring up the school's

Commissioners look for help to polish image

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners Jennifer Kelley, Pat Warren and Bob Sturm said Tuesday commissioners should hire a public relations consultant to tell them how to improve the public's image of the county.

The proposal was strongly opposed by commissioners Sandra Glenn and Fred Streetman, who said the county employees and commissioners define the image of the county by their actions, not by how they're promoted.

Commissioners will make a final decision on what services they want the consultant to perform April 25. The consultant could be hired by mid-May.

Kelley, who proposed hiring the consultant Tuesday morning, said the public needs to know more of the good things done by the county.

"If all they hear about is the negative, then they get a negative image of the county," Kelley said. "They need to look at all the other things we do, too."

Kelley said daily newspapers often devote more time and space to more controversial actions by the county and less to the good things. To promote more good actions by the county, officials need to contact magazines, television stations and trade publications as well as local newspapers to publicize the accomplishments of the county.

Motorist enters 'no contest' plea in homicide case

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A 17-year-old will be sentenced June 1 after pleading "no contest" to two charges filed in connection with the death of a Casselberry 14-year-old last January.

Jorge DeJesus, a native of Puerto Rico, of 4502 Silver Star Road, Apt. 26L, Orlando, entered the plea to charges of vehicular homicide and leaving the scene of an accident involving a death.

DeJesus was charged with being the driver of a car which sideswiped a van on State Road 436 near Jasmine St. in Casselberry Jan. 7. The impact caused the driver of the van to lose control and Loren Quinn, 14, who was riding in the van with her family, was thrown through a window of the vehicle and was killed.

Police said DeJesus was driving the vehicle which collided with the van. Officers said he was drag racing with another vehicle at the time and attempted to pass the van on the right. Police said

McClanahan was behind ouster, Carli contends

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN

SANFORD — Brent Carli yesterday accused City Commissioner A.A. McClanahan of playing a behind-the-scenes role in his ousting from the planning and zoning commission.

McClanahan disputed the allegation. Carli said, "I am more than disappointed at not being reappointed to my last three-year term. It's just unfortunate that Mack McClanahan has tried to be manipulative."

McClanahan, who voted with the 4 to 1 majority at the Monday meeting, said, "I certainly have disagreed with him on many times with his philosophy, but he has been on there a while and it's just time to put some new blood in TALLAHASSEE — Despite objections from the Lottery Department, a Senate committee voted Tuesday to start a treatment program for compulsive gamblers with about $188,000 of the money bet on the numbers games.

The Senate Health and Rehabilitative Services committee rejected an amendment that would have limited future increases in the lottery's advertising budget. That proposal will be addressed in other pending bills that would tinker with game operations.

Sen. Carrie Meek, D-Miami, originally proposed using a half-percent of all lottery bets for treatment of compulsive gamblers. She amended her

Leavenworth escapes captured in Florida

PENSACOLA BEACH — A man who escaped from the U.S. Penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kan., last month was captured in Florida Tuesday, ending an intense search for the escapee known for his ability to change his appearance.
Robert Allen Litchfield, 41, was arrested by U.S. marshals in Pensacola Beach as he left an elevator at a condominium complex, according to U.S. Marshal Kent Pekarek in Kansas City, Kan.

State joins Richardson's cause

MIAMI — A state prosecutor issued findings Tuesday that could lead to the release of James Richardson, who has been jailed for 21 years in the poisoning of his seven children.
In a 18-page report, Dade State Attorney Janet Reno, who was appointed a special prosecutor for the case by Gov. Bob Martinez, said the state during Richardson's trial "knowingly used perjured testimony on two critical occasions."
Richardson, 53, was told of Reno's report in his jail cell at Tomoka Correctional Institution in Daytona Beach.

Special session on abortion sought

TALLAHASSEE — If the U.S. Supreme Court approves tighter restrictions on abortion, the governor should call a special session of the Legislature to amend state law, a lawmaker told a rally of about 100 anti-abortionists Tuesday.
State Sen. John Grant, R-Tampa, said such a move would make Florida "one of the first states in the nation to stand up for life and for the lives of the unborn."
Brian Ballard, a top aide to Gov. Bob Martinez, said it was too early to start thinking about a response to a pending high court ruling. The justices are scheduled to hear arguments later this month in a challenge to a Missouri law restricting abortion rights.

The case gives the high court, which now has a conservative majority, the chance to significantly restrict its 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision that legalized abortion.
Martinez met briefly Tuesday with about 50 anti-abortion leaders, but they did not discuss a special session, Ballard said.

Dare leads to federal charges

TAMPA — The decision to pull a pin on a Marine attack jet on the dare of a friend blew the twin canopies off the Grumman EA-6B during an open house at MacDill Air Force Base and landed two men in federal court.
Pat Deleahanty, 29, of New Port Richey, and Bill Spiseak, 25, of Bayonet Point, are charged with causing $250,000 damages to the $30 million plane and face up to 20 years in prison.
They are charged with willfully damaging, destroying, disabling or wrecking a military aircraft and U.S. Magistrate Elizabeth Jenkins set bond Monday at $10,000 each.
Air Force officials said Deleahanty and Spiseak were at MacDill Air Force Base Saturday during open house festivities when Deleahanty pushed aside a latch pin and removed an access panel marked by the word "RESCUE" in 3-inch letters and a directional arrow.
Inside was a yellow lever with the notations "PULL" and "CANOPY EJECTOR," and Deleahanty is alleged to have dare Spiseak to pull it.
Authorities said Spiseak did so, igniting explosives which blew the twin canopies off. They struck the tail of the plane before falling to the ground.

Bill would discourage frivolous bids

TALLAHASSEE — The Senate voted 38-0 Tuesday to approve legislation intended to discourage frivolous challenges to Department of Transportation contracts.
The bill (CS-68 188) would require companies challenging contracts to post bonds of $5,000 or one percent of the lowest bid submitted, whichever is greater.
A protesting company would forfeit bond if a hearing officer determined the bid challenge was filed to harass the DOT or the winning bidder, or to unnecessarily delay projects.
The bond would be used to cover the state's costs of upholding the original contract.

Bill targets illicit police badge trade

United Press International
TALLAHASSEE — The Senate passed its first bill of the 1989 session Tuesday, a measure that would make it a crime to buy police paraphernalia with the intent to impersonate a law officer.
It is already against the law to impersonate a police officer or sheriff's deputy, a ploy used by some criminals to gain access to a house for the purpose of robbing and assaulting the occupants.
The bill by Sen. John Grant, R-Tampa, adds penalties for impersonating a corrections officer or lottery security agent and investigator.
The measure (CS-SB 77) also provides for jail terms up to one year and fines of up to $1,000 for selling a police badge, identification or uniform to a person who is not a law enforcement officer, member of a criminal justice agency or an agent.

Purchasing such items would carry the same penalties, providing the buyer intends to impersonate an officer. Grant stressed that the intent clause means the sanctions would not apply to actors or collectors of police memorabilia.
"The mere purchase does not constitute a crime," Grant said. "But if it's in order to impersonate a law enforcement officer it is a crime."
Dade County police confiscated 25 police badges from home invasion robbers in 1988.

Bio-hazardous waste bill goes to House

United Press International
TALLAHASSEE — A bill designed to keep infectious needles and other hazardous medical waste from turning up on Florida beaches was unanimously passed by a House committee Tuesday, clearing it for a vote by the full House.
The bill (HB 14), sponsored by St. Rep. Tom Banjanin, R-Pensacola, had no opposition in the Health and Rehabilitative Services Committee Tuesday afternoon. It was unanimously passed in a subcommittee Monday and should go before the full House in the next three weeks, said Banjanin.
The bill has two purposes," he said. "No. 1, it's to protect all the citizens of Florida who use our beaches and swim in our waters from the fear of such an incident and to give them peace of mind that they're not going to get stabbed by AIDS infected materials while they're using the beach or are in the water.

"Secondly, it's intended to protect our tourist industry, because it would have a seriously adverse effect on our tourist industry if people were being infected with AIDS while swimming or using our beaches," he said.
Under current law, dumpers can be fined $2,500 a day for improperly dumping hazardous medical waste.

Fires blanket Miami with smoke, force evacuations

United Press International
MIAMI — A 19,000-acre brush fire in the Everglades forced the evacuation Tuesday of an immigration detention center and spread a blanket of acrid smoke over the city, prompting warnings for people with respiratory illnesses to remain inside or wear surgical masks.
Winds from a cold front that moved down the peninsula pushed the flames into the swampy area about 25 miles west of Miami and away from heavily populated areas of Dade County.
"It's out and running," said Seb Farina, a spokesman for the state Division of Forestry.
A second brush fire that burned more than 3,700 acres near Perry, 410 miles northwest of Miami, was contained Tuesday. Fire investigators said the fire was started by lightning.

There were no injuries or property damage reported in either fire.
The larger fire, which burned about 19,000 acres and was "caused by man," spread rapidly in the grassy Everglades, nicknamed "River of Grass," and was within five miles of a small Miccosukee Indian village. There were no evacuations.
"We can't put fire lines in there (the Everglades) because of the water table," Farina said.
"They are using tracked fire engines with 350-gallon (water) tanks in advance of the fire to mat down the grass and wet it down, in hopes of keeping it from burning."

Gene Dempsey, also a spokesman for the Forestry Division, said the fire was about half contained by Tuesday evening and firefighters hoped to have full containment in a "couple of days." He said the fire was "caused by man," but investigators did not know if it was arson or accidental.
Flames reached within a mile and a quarter of the Krone Avenues Detention Center west of Miami, forcing the evacuation of 745 people. The facility housed 230 people more than its capacity of 625 and included 281 refugees picked up in a wooden boat off Miami's Fisher Island Monday.
The evacuees were taken by bus to the Bobby Maduro Miami

Baseball Stadium, the spring training home of the Baltimore Orioles.
"You can't take a gamble," INS District Director Perry Rivkind said in ordering the evacuation. "The better part of valor is discretion, so I'm moving them."
The wildfires blanketed the Miami metropolitan area with acrid smoke, prompting warnings for people with respiratory illnesses.
"Anybody with a serious respiratory illness should stay indoors as much as possible and if that doesn't help they should wear some sort of surgical mask," said Dr. Alejandro Chediak of Mt. Sinai Medical Center.

Citrus crop estimate lowered for second straight month

United Press International
WASHINGTON — The government for the second straight month shaved its estimate of the U.S. orange crop, lowering it to 208 million boxes Tuesday because of smaller crops in Florida and California, the two leading orange producing states.
The Agriculture Department's estimate was one percent lower than in March, which was two percent smaller than February's projection of 214.85 million boxes. Even so, the orange crop would be four percent larger than last season, based on conditions as of April 1.

About 87 percent of the orange crop has been harvested, slightly ahead of last season's pace.
The reductions in the U.S. estimate were based on a two percent cut in Florida's early and mid-season orange crop, to 85.3 million boxes, and a four percent cut in the size of California's Valencia orange crop, to 25 million boxes. The Valencia harvest is just beginning in California.
Overall, Florida was projected to produce 144 million boxes, a one percent drop from the March estimate of 146 million boxes, but five percent larger than last season. Growers harvested 138 million boxes last season, including 78.5 million boxes of early and mid-season oranges and 59.5 million boxes of Valencia.

With harvest of the early and mid-season varieties nearly complete, production was expected to be nine percent above last season while Valencia production would be one percent below. The Valencia estimate of 59 million boxes was unchanged from last month.

Citrus production is still recovering from frosts in the early 1980s in Florida and Texas. U.S. citrus production is forecast to go up this year for virtually every type of citrus fruit except for tangelos.
Frozen concentrated juice yield from Florida oranges was estimated at 1.53 gallons per box, up slightly from the 1.52 gallons projected in March. The record is 1.55, set last season. Before that, the record was 1.51 gallons a box, set during the 1986-1987 season.

GENEVA — Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating an animal that had been found tortured and killed on the shores of Lake Harney in Geneva.

The animal was found by a sheriff's deputy at 7:20 p.m. Sunday after an anonymous caller reported the location of the animal. The deputy said the animal had been speared with a bamboo stake and charred by fire. It is believed the animal was killed at about midnight Saturday, according to a sheriff's report.

The woman reportedly tried to flee and struggled and scratched the arms of the deputy, who works as a security officer at the store on Airport Boulevard.

Vernita Friason, 19, of 47 Lake Monroe Terrace, Sanford, was held at the store for Sanford police. Police charged her with battery on a policeman, resisting arrest with violence and retail theft. The arrest was made at 8:45 p.m. Monday. Bond is $1,000.

Police said baby clothes believed to have been stolen from the store were found in the woman's purse.

Joannides was arrested at 4:10 p.m. Monday on State Road 434, Oviedo.

In the Longwood case two messages were left on the victim's answering machine. The Winter Springs woman talked to the caller. In both cases references were made to the Nazi death camps and the victims' lives were threatened, Seminole County sheriff's reports said.

Residents want Broadmoor closed to traffic

By SANDRA BOUGHANINE

LAKE MARY — Residents who live on Broadmoor Street off Country Club Road (C-15) want their street closed to traffic.

They say they are tired of the heavy traffic caused by motorists using the road as a shortcut to Highway 17-92, County Road 427, Seminole Community College and other points. The Lake Mary road crosses into Sanford city limits.

In the morning, during one of the four traffic peak hours, Leonard Sgarlata of 165 Broadmoor said he has to wait up to 15 minutes to back out of his driveway on his way to work. Sgarlata, who has been a resident there for 2½ years, said he is concerned about what is going to happen when road-widening construction begins on "Lake Mary Boulevard" this year.

"They're turning our residential area into a major thoroughfare. We've seen this really nice county estate-type area turning into a four-lane highway," he said.

Sgarlata said he is concerned about children waiting for school buses along Broadmoor. He said the cars "fly by" as they're waiting.

"We have seen everything from Greyhound buses to small semi trucks," he said.

Sgarlata, the neighborhood spokesperson, presented his concerns to the commissioners at a meeting last week and received a positive reaction. Commissioner Bill Greene, who lives on the corner of C-15 and Broadmoor, said it is a major concern.

"There's a steady stream of traffic on Broadmoor Street going into the college. Northbound traffic (on C-15) comes to a complete halt allowing people to turn left onto Broadmoor. The northbound traffic is so heavy that if they didn't allow them to turn, it would be completely backed up on the south lane."

County creates commission to study children's issues

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — In an effort to study how children's conditions can be improved, Seminole County commissioners Tuesday created a Commission on Children.

The Commission on Children, expected to be appointed within a month, will review current county spending for children's services and determine where more money or more services are needed.

The 12-member Commission on Children will have five members appointed by county commissioners and one member each appointed by the Seminole League of Homeowners Association, Inc. and the League of Women Voters. Each of the five chambers of commerce in the county will also each recommend three candidates and commissioners will select one candidate from each chamber.

The commission was proposed by commissioners Fred Streetman and Pat Warren. In a Feb. 2 note, Streetman wrote that the county currently funds over $150,000 annually for services that directly benefit children. In addition, over $500,000 is spent for the Health Department and the Mental Health Unit that also serve children.

But with growing numbers of alcohol and drug abuse by the young, single mothers and other problems, Streetman and Warren said the county needs to do more for children in the county. They said the county needs to expand services for children in the county by having a specific dollar amount set aside each year for children's services.

The state allows 50 cents of the tax rate assessed on each $1,000 of taxable property in the county to be set aside for children's services, but Streetman said the resulting $3.5 million would be too much, at this time, for a county the size of Seminole County.

"We need to do more than we are now, but something less than $3.5 million," Streetman said.

Dumping Carli was bad idea

The Sanford City Commission exercised poor judgement Monday in refusing to reappoint Brent Carli to the planning and zoning commission.

Carli, the current chairman of the commission, is respected as one of the most knowledgeable volunteer city officials on matters of land use and planning. He began serving on the commission in 1983.

Sanford is poised on the threshold of mushrooming residential and other development of its land. Retaining a person with Carli's expertise and dedication should have been of upper-most importance by right-thinking commissioners.

But City Commissioner Lon Howell said he had received complaints from at least five developers who said they did not care for what was termed Carli's ramrod tactics.

Indeed, Carli was no pushover and special interests do not like people they can't get their own way with.

Carli himself put it like this: "When (city commissioners) see me walk in the room, they get jittery because they know Brent Carli does his homework." Sure, he said, "I'm outspoken and sometimes sarcastic." But, he added, "I'm honest. All I do is ask the questions."

The vote was 4-1 to get rid of him when his term expires in June. Commissioner Whitey Eckstein opposed the sacking. He defended Carli as an expert who always was well prepared.

Carli might not always have been right. But it is clear that he has had the city's best interests in mind when he has raised relevant objections of "alleged" pertinent criticism publicly.

To unceremoniously dump a man with his sound knowledge of planning and zoning and his dedication to public service over some six years, in an unscheduled, surprise move, certainly is not in the best interests of Sanford.

Planning and Zoning Commissioner Jay Malone was more blunt. He called the move to gang up on Carli a vindictive political maneuver.

Simply put, Carli is the victim of narrow, unimaginative and petty thinking, the kind of thinking Sanford and its residents cannot afford and should not tolerate.

The changing of the racial guard

After Richard M. Daley's decisive win as mayor of Chicago, one can only wonder how many of the cat's proverbial nine lives the Rev. Jesse Jackson has left. The changing of Chicago's racial guard in City Hall also raises new questions about whether black mayors are as mediocre and incompetent as their white predecessors.

Chicago's late Mayor Harold Washington was a dramatic exception. Before his unexpected death, the charismatic Washington had begun pulling that fractious city together — despite Jackson's divisive tactics. Washington shrewdly understood the imperative to bring whites and blacks together. Jackson does too, but doesn't know how. That may explain Jackson's compulsion for losing.

Nationally, Jackson has been badly defeated twice in his bid for the presidency. In his hometown of Chicago, he suffered five consecutive defeats in only 18 months:

• First, the election of black Alderman Eugene Sawyer, whose support was predominantly white, over Jackson's favorite, Timothy Evans, to succeed Washington.

• Second, independent candidate Evans' refusal to support Sawyer in the Democratic primary that followed not long after that — despite Jackson's pleas.

• Third, Sawyer's defeat by Daley in the Democratic primary, largely because of a lower turnout of black voters — despite Jackson's pleas that voters support Sawyer.

• Fourth, Sawyer's refusal to support Evans in the general election — despite Jackson's pleas for "unity of the family."

• Finally, Evans' massive defeat by Daley — despite Jackson's energetic campaigning.

"A woman hath nine lives like a cat," wrote the 16th century dramatist John Heywood. So do politicians. Jackson has at least two more to go. But let's go beyond the polarized ethnicity of the "toddlin' town" and Childre Jesse's Pilgrimage.

Do the defeats of black mayors by white politicians in Chicago and Charlotte, N.C., signal a creating of black mayoral power?

Not necessarily. If a white mayor is doing a cruddy job and an outstanding black candidate surfaces, an increasing number of whites will vote for the black.

Other than the emotionalism of an inspiring symbol, have black mayors raised their people's standard of living?

Absolutely not. Newark's Ken Gibson turned into such a political disaster that black voters eventually dumped him. Gary's Richard Hatcher never solved one of the worst black teen-age unemployment problems in America and was turned out. Under Willie Wilson Goode, Philadelphia became the second city in history to be bombed by its own officials. (Tulsa, Okla., was the first.) The bomb incinerated an entire city block of black middle-class homes. With the City Council now running the corruption-infested city, Goode is a budgetary eunuch.

But where black mayors have failed even more abysmally is their inability to stanch the hemorrhaging murders, drug wars and official corruption.

Of the 13 largest cities with the highest percentage increases of homicides over the last year, eight are governed by black mayors.

Signal a creating of black mayoral power?

Kudos to Dayton's machine

DAYTON, Ohio — History is spread across this country as evenly as honey on toast. You can not drive for long down any highway without coming upon some site of the distinctive American genius for democratizing historymaking. Dayton, for example, is the site of one of those commonplace developments that altered habits of thought as well as action.

Something that happened in this middling-sized city in a corner of the state that begins the Middle West shows how middle-class concerns shape the history of our commercial society. Dayton may be famous for the bicycle shop where the Wright brothers tinkered with the technology that would democratize the experience of long-distance travel.

But Dayton also deserves fame for a more mundane machine. A list of cities that have shaped our world would include London and New York (finance), Washington (freedom), Moscow (revolution), Paris (art), Vienna (philosophy and psychology). And add Dayton, birthplace of the cash register.

In the 1870s, James Ritty was running a saloon here and wondering why business was brisk but profits were slim. He suspected that his bartenders were dipping their fingers in the till. Driven by distress to a breakdown, he embarked on a vacation voyage to Europe. While on board, he became fascinated by a machine in the ship's engine room that recorded each rotation of the propeller shaft. It was an epiphany. Perhaps a machine could be built that would record each sale in the saloon.

Cutting short his vacation, he dashed back to Dayton and invented the cash register. "Ritty's Inconvertible Cashier" was soon refined to record all transactions on a paper roll. Retailing — among other things — was on the way to being transformed.

Ritty soon sold his struggling business for $1,000 to a clever fellow who added a bell that rang when the cash drawer was opened. The official history of Dayton's National Cash Register Company (now NCR) said that the bell "like the historic Revolutionary shot fired at Lexington... would be heard around the world."

What was heard around America was the new phrase "ringing up a sale." Historian Daniel Boorstin writes: "Americans had thus found a way to give a new publicity to the shopkeeper's smallest transaction. Shopping now was a semipublic, communal activity, announced by the ringing of bells."

The company soon was owned by John Henry Patterson, a coal dealer who found that his business became profitable only after he replaced his cashbox with a cash register. A company report from 1888 contains this gem: "A hotel keeper when asked why he did not discharge his bartender who had purchased a $1,000 diamond pin, out of the salary of $10 per week before he had been at work six months, said that if he did so, he would only have to lose another $1,000 on the next man because the new man would do the same thing."

Patterson encountered resistance to cash registers in businesses whose employees considered the machines a slur on their characters. However, he was not one to be defeated. When his doctors ordered him to do daily calisthenics, he ordered his executives to join him at 5 a.m. One executive whose performance displeased Patterson arrived at work one morning to find the charred remains of his desk and other office effects in a smoldering pile in front of the factory. Nowadays that is called negative feedback.

Patterson added to his machines devices for printing customers' receipts and classifying sales by sales persons and departments. All this, according to Boorstin, "reinforced the nation's number consciousness." As a result, people "began to think quantitatively about their activities, their products and their income. They were putting themselves in countless new statistical communities." The most important came to be called income brackets.

Next came calculating machines. As more and more precise information became available about the quantity of things, Americans acquired the habit of thinking quantitatively, especially about incomes. In a national of mobile immigrants, where people moved around geographically and up and down the social scale, income (rather than Old World categories of "property" and "wealth") was the most useful way of quantifying standards of living.

By the end of the 19th century, a powerful political movement for a new kind of taxation was forming around this way of thinking. And in the 20th century, as Boorstin says, "income consciousness, no longer merely a byproduct of technology or of government statistics, became a civic obligation, under penalty of fine and imprisonment" and under an annual mid-April deadline.

Dayton also deserves fame for a more mundane machine.

OSHA's bark much worse than its bite

WASHINGTON — The Labor Department wants to look like the tough guy when it comes to protecting the American worker. The department goes on a public relations binge when it decides to penalize an employer for safety violations. But long after the headlines have been recycled, the government too often ends up going easy on the bad-boy companies.

The job of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration is to monitor the workplace for hazards and to fine employers who break the law. Those fines are couched in tough talk by OSHA officials, but the companies have a right to their day in court — that's when the government's tough talk turns weak.

Employers can contest a fine. Then attorneys from the Labor Department — OSHA's parent agency — sit down at the negotiating table with the offender, aiming to reach a settlement both sides can live with.

Our associate Scott Sleek has obtained confidential OSHA records showing that, on the average, companies cough up less than half of the original fine that was publicly touted by OSHA. Frequently those puny settlements are not published and the Labor Department certainly doesn't brag about them. Often the last to know about the settlement is the labor union representing the employees who are at risk.

The case against Scott Paper Co. is an all-too-common example. In 1987, OSHA charged the company with concealing a number of employee injuries and illnesses at its Winslow, Maine, plant. The proposed fine was $813,000.

Scott Paper contested the charges, and lawyers for the company and OSHA met in Washington, D.C., to hash out a settlement. The company promised to correct its errors by the end of 1988 and the government lowered the fine to $475,000.

Nobody bothered to tell the paper employees union about the settlement meeting or to ask for input. The president of the local was called at the last minute, and union members say he was pressured into endorsing the settlement. OSHA officials said it was a Thanksgiving holiday and they had trouble reaching union members. Apparently, the settlement talks couldn't wait.

OSHA officials say they try to include labor representatives in all talks. But labor doesn't see it that way. "They just cut us out," said Peg Seminario, associate director of occupational health and safety for the AFL-CIO.

Cutting workers out of the negotiations has some members of Congress concerned about whether the settlements are fair. They are also considering adding more teeth to OSHA laws. "All too often, you'll have OSHA and the companies meeting and the unions banging on the door but not being allowed in," said Stuart Welsberg, who works for a Government Operations subcommittee chaired by Rep. Tom Lantos, D-Calif.

Behind those closed doors, are the companies that endanger their workers really getting the bruising they deserve? Our sources in the labor movement don't think so. They say the settlement talks weigh more in favor of the companies and that the law doesn't require OSHA to monitor the companies to make sure they hold up their end of the bargain.

Bargaining in itself is not a bad idea. If a company appeals the charges by OSHA, the matter can be corrected. The government offers to reduce the fine if the company promises to clean up its act. But without effective follow-up, a rogue employer can make promises it never keeps.

Companies cough up less than half of the original fine that was touted by OSHA.

Stocks still rising

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened higher Wednesday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues, extending gains won in the previous session.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 9.71 Tuesday, was up 4.95 to 2316.53 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 478-320 among the 1,134 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Early turnover amounted to about 9,140,000 shares.

Stock prices closed higher Tuesday in moderate trading, supported by futures-related buying and bargain hunting in the technology sector as investors focused on key economic reports expected later this week.

After drifting aimlessly in early trading, the market rose for good beginning at midday, when stock prices got a boost from activity in the futures market.

Futures traders said stock prices got a lift when stock futures premiums rose above their estimated fair value levels. The gap encouraged arbitrage players to sell the perceived overpriced stock futures and buy the underlying stocks.

Dollar mostly higher

United Press International

The dollar was higher against most key foreign currencies Wednesday in quiet trading on world currency markets. Gold edged lower.

In Tokyo, the dollar rose against the yen in dull trading, closing at 132.85 yen, up 0.23 yen from 132.62 Tuesday.

Dealers said trading was slow ahead of the release of the U.S. trade figure for February, scheduled for Friday.

The U.S. currency was also higher in Singapore at 1.9585 Singapore dollars, up from 1.9555, but the dollar slipped in Hong Kong to 7.7825 Hong Kong, compared with 7.7835.

The dollar was mostly higher at the open in European trading.

In Frankfurt, the dollar began the day at 1.8845 German marks, up from 1.8825 at Tuesday's close. The currency rose in Zurich to 1.8845 Swiss francs, compared with 1.8605.

In Paris, the dollar opened at 6.3615 French francs, up from 6.3565, and in Brussels, the dollar started the day at 39.67 Belgian francs, up from 39.57.

The dollar slipped in Milan, opening at 1,379.50 Italian lire, off from 1,379.85.

In London, the pound began the day lower at $1.8908, compared with $1.8910.

In early New York trading, the dollar was firmer against key foreign currencies in light trading.

Dealers said they expect the U.S. currency to test a narrow range as currency traders prepare for the scheduled Friday release of a barrage of economic data, including the February trade balance and producer prices for March.

Traffic

Greene said. Construction has begun for a turn lane on the west end of the roadway for turning out onto C-15.

Greene said the problem is multifaceted. He said the college has doubled enrollment in the last four years and plans to expand. Forty acres of land along the road will soon be a major subdivision of single-family homes.

Greene said the county did a traffic study this year and considered a traffic light on the corner, something he said he is against. Cost for the design and installation of the light would be about $30,000, which would be shared by the county and the city, according to the study.

Greene said the solution must be a joint effort with the college, the county, Sanford and Lake Mary working together.

"There's no easy solution," he said. Greene says he will speak with other officials and that a study is forthcoming.

Lake Mary police recognize the traffic hazards and the road is constantly patrolled.

Police Chief Charles Lauderdale said it's been a problem for the past 3 1/2 years.

He said the situation is caused by volume of traffic, speeding, and prohibited vehicle traffic which are commercial trucks more than 5,000 pounds. The problem exists about three times a day, Monday through Thursday, he said.

The speed limit is 25 miles per hour in compliance with state statutes for a residential area, Lauderdale said.

"It has been a major enforcement effort," he said.

He said city staff has never considered closing the road. A study is being done to "find out the best solution for the road."

"It's not going to be a simple matter to simply say close it. It needs some well-thought-out alternatives," Lauderdale said.

The departments of public safety and public works will study it and present their ideas to the commission on May 18.

standards," she said. "We feel that the curriculum is our only problem."

She added that facilities at the school, while they are being improved, are still not up to par with the other high schools in the district.

"We are in a wait-and-see period here," Royster said. "We don't want to fight the school board. We want to communicate with them."

Epps said Tuesday the rezoning is not creating an immediate problem for his school, but plans to build a new high school within the next two decades at a site four miles north of Lake Mary High School will take away future potential for Seminole High School.

Royter argues that Seminole High's poor reputation has caused developers and realtors to take their business elsewhere and that is a problem which needs to be addressed immediately.

"This is hurting all of us," Royster said.

The school board and its various subcommittees have worked on the rezoning plans for more than a year and have consulted with parents and principals of the effected schools. School board member Joe Williams Jr. said in January that

"We've been directed that the educational inequity is a matter of rezoning." He and fellow board members have maintained that the only way to be sure that there is parity in the educational programs at all district schools is to rearrange student populations.

Another problem the LSAC members see is that many students falsify their addresses to attend schools outside their zone.

They feel that without accurate potential student numbers, all the rezoning efforts may be in vain.

School board members hope the recent acquisition of a $78,400 Edulog computer program for tracking address inconsistencies among student populations will remove that factor from the inequities perceived by the LSAC.

bill to commit just one-tenth of 1 percent for the compulsive-gambling program, which would be run by the health department.

Meek said that would amount to about $188,000 for counselling programs, research and public-awareness advertising about the gambling disease.

Under her bill, the treatment money would come out of the Lottery Department's administrative fund — approximately a dime on every ticket sold. Meek said the department's operating costs, including its advertising and promotion budget, are not running 10 percent of sales.

"It's been estimated that as many as 360,000 Florida residents are compulsive gamblers," Meek said. "What we want to do is start somewhere to ameliorate some of the problem."

Casselberry police, acting on anonymous tips, found the car involved in the collision about a week later in the garage at 959 Jericho Drive, the home of DeJesus' mother, with whom he was living at the time.

Although his mother, Nerida DeJesus, told police her son had returned to Puerto Rico, police believed he was still in the area and continued to search for him. DeJesus surrendered to police Jan. 17.

The case was transferred from juvenile to adult court at the request of the state attorney's office.

Beirut violence mars peace talks

United Press International

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Syrian and Moslem militia gunners bombarded Christian areas today shortly after a Christian delegation left for a meeting in Kuwait with Arab League officials on ways to resolve the protracted crisis.

Christian forces retaliated, hitting a Syrian-policed waterfront area in Moslem west Beirut.

The flare-up came on the eve of the 15th anniversary of Lebanon's civil war.

Police said the Christian residential region of Sin El Fil in east Beirut and a coastal area north of the city came under artillery attack during the morning rush hour.

Minutes later, shells hit the seaside region of Al-Manara in west Beirut, where the Syrians maintain artillery and rocket batteries, police said.

Simultaneously, fighting with rockets, cannons and automatic weapons erupted around the army-controlled town of Souk El Gharb, 7 miles southeast of Beirut. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

The clashes around Souk El Gharb pitted Christian army units against Druze militiamen.

The morning fighting broke an overnight lull and caught many people in the streets of the city.

About 30 minutes before the attacks erupted, a delegation from the Lebanese Front, a coalition of Christian leaders, left for Kuwait via Cyprus for talks aimed at ending the civil war.

George Saadeh, the president of the Phalange Party, and Dani Chamoun, the leader of the Christian National Liberal Party, were among the Christian figures who headed to Kuwait.

Political sources told the Christian Voice of Lebanon radio station that Kuwaiti officials contacted Syrian Vice President Abdel Halim Khaddam late Tuesday, requesting that the fighting be stopped to allow the Christian leaders to depart safely.

The Christian leaders were expected to meet with a six-man Arab League committee headed by Kuwaiti Foreign Minister Sheikh Sabah Al Ahmed As-Sabah.

At least 179 people have been killed and more than 750 wounded since the latest round of fighting broke out March 13.

The fighting has paralyzed many businesses, created food shortages in east Beirut and forced more than 250,000 people to flee the city.

A naval blockade by the forces of Gen. Michel Aoun, the commander of Christian army units, on three Moslem-run ports March 13 triggered the latest round of fighting.

Aoun says he wants to drive some 35,000 Syrian troops out of the country. Syria's military intervention started in 1976.

Li Peng begins visit to Japan

United Press International

BEIJING — Premier Li Peng indicated today that during his five-day visit to Japan he would invite Emperor Akihito to become the first Japanese monarch to set foot on Chinese soil.

Li, speaking to reporters at Beijing's old international airport before boarding a plane for Tokyo, also said he felt Japan's most serious post-war scandal would not affect talks with Prime Minister Noburu Takeshita.

The 60-year-old premier and a delegation that included his wife, Zhu Lin, and Foreign Minister Qian Qichen, left Beijing on a special CAAC flight scheduled to arrive this afternoon at Tokyo's Haneda Airport.

When asked about reports he would extend an invitation to the 55-year-old Japanese monarch, Li indicated it would depend on how well his talks go and how Akihito receives the invitation.

"During a meeting with the emperor we will respect Japanese customs," Li said. "As to what we will talk about, now is not the time to disclose it as it will depend on how the talks proceed."

Though the aim of such a visit would be to heal the deep wounds left by Japan's brutal occupation of China during World War II — an issue that still plagues relations — a majority of Chinese harbor strong feelings about Tokyo's war role and may give the emperor a welcome that is less than warm.

"I am absolutely against it," said one Chinese worker. "I feel China's leaders are getting too close to Japan simply because they have money and can help us economically."

Li also said the recent Recruit Co. stock scandal that has led to calls for Takeshita's resignation would not undermine the purpose of his visit — the further development of friendly ties between the two nations.

"The political situation in Japan will not affect my visit," Li said. "The Japanese side has not expressed any difficulty in receiving me there so therefore my colleagues and I are going ahead with the visit as planned."

Chinese leader has heart attack

United Press International

BEIJING — Hu Yaobang, former head of the Chinese Communist Party and once senior leader Deng Xiaoping's chosen successor, is being treated in a Beijing hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack, Premier Li Peng revealed Wednesday.

Li, speaking to reporters as he left Beijing for a five-day trip to Japan, said Hu, who who was ousted in January 1987 after student demonstrations for democracy, was in a Beijing hospital and that his condition had improved.

"Comrade Hu Yaobang is feeling somewhat indisposed in his health and is receiving treatment in a hospital," Li said in a rare public admission of illness among China's aging leadership.

"We are all concerned about the health of Comrade Hu Yaobang. I personally went to see him Sunday morning at the hospital and his condition is improving," he said.

But Li denied rumors that Hu, who recently appeared to be making a limited political comeback, had collapsed in his chair during a weekend Politburo meeting.

"I should point out that the fact that he is ill now has nothing to do with the Politburo meeting," Li said.

Hu, once expected to succeed Deng as China's most powerful leader, was ousted as head of China's Communist Party on Jan. 15, 1987, for mishandling nationwide student demonstrations for democracy.

Hu, who retained his membership in the Politburo, has been a close associate of Deng for more than 40 years, a relationship that helped propel him to the party leadership post after Deng toppled former party chief Hua Guofeng in 1981.

Concorde loses stabilizer

United Press International

SYDNEY, Australia — A British Airways supersonic Concorde jetliner carrying 100 American passengers on a round-the-world charter flight landed safely in Sydney Wednesday after part of its tail stabilizer was torn off at 47,000 feet.

Mascot Airport workers were put on full emergency alert after a controller saw through binoculars that part of the sleek jet's tail section was missing.

The world's fastest commercial jetliner made a perfect touchdown as fire trucks and ambulances chased it to the end of the runway. No injuries were reported.

After a brief inspection, emergency crews gave the all-clear and the Concorde taxied to the terminal building.

Most of the 100 passengers, who had paid $39,000 a head for the 22-day round-the-world charter flight that left London April 1, were unaware of the extent of the damage.

Charges fly in Wright probe

WASHINGTON — Friends and foes of House Speaker Jim Wright are exchanging charges of distortions and leaks while the House ethics committee tries to conclude long deliberations on whether he violated House rules.

The committee went through another day-long meeting Tuesday without reaching a final conclusion and planned to resume work Wednesday in hopes of finishing this week or early next week.

Committee leaders refused to comment on reports the panel has decided to cite Wright for rule violations, but an aide to the Texas Democrat accused political opponents of spreading misinformation.

Several news reports said the committee has found some 30 instances of apparent violations, mostly involving Wright's financial relationship with Fort Worth, Texas, developer George Mallick, a long-time friend and business associate of Wright.

Mark Johnson, Wright's press secretary, challenged the reports, saying "There have been numerous leaks about the committee's deliberations, creating tremendous misinformation. Clearly these leaks are coming from the speaker's political opponents."

Johnson singled out Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., who last year filed the formal complaint that led to the committee's investigation.

North: Lies were wrong but legal

WASHINGTON — Faced with the accusation that he told Congress "flat-out old-fashioned, all-American lies," Oliver North acknowledged he knew his false 1985 letters to lawmakers were wrong but did not believe them unlawful.

The former staff member of the National Security Council bristled under questioning Tuesday from prosecutor John Keiser suggesting that in his White House years, North had forsaken the high morals demanded of military officers.

North — who was to return for a fifth day of testimony today — responded with a defense of his larger goal, to keep the Nicaraguan Contra rebels alive and fighting at a time when Congress had banned official U.S. aid.

"I thought it was extraordinarily immoral for the United States to put a force in the field... then leave it in the lurch. I thought it was heinous," North said.

But Keiser, not to be deterred from the case before the jury, pressed the witness about letters he drafted in 1985 to two House Democrats that claimed North was abiding by "the letter and spirit" of the congressional aid ban.

"Did you ever say, 'Gee, maybe this is wrong?'" Keiser said about the letters.

"Sure. Absolutely," North answered. "I'm not proud of this... But the fact is, I didn't think it was against the law."

Bush reads ethics proposals

WASHINGTON — President Bush wants clearer distinctions between right and wrong and fewer sacrifices for public service as part of an ethics-in-government initiative that skirts the issue of congressional pay.

In a speech Wednesday to members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Bush planned to outline a set of proposals for setting and enforcing more definitive standards of ethical conduct for government officials.

Having made ethics an issue in the campaign and a first order of business in his new administration, Bush readied proposals that would subject Congress to some safeguards now applied only to the executive branch and judiciary.

On at least one point, however, advocates of tighter financial restrictions on Congress were to be disappointed. For all his emphasis on ethics, Bush was to withhold a call for an end to the acceptance of outside speaking fees.

White House officials explained Tuesday that the ban on so-called honoraria from corporations, conventions and other interest groups should be considered only in the context of an offsetting increase in congressional salaries.

To avoid having his ethics proposals embroiled in controversy from the start, Bush has chosen to leave the inflammatory issue of its own compensation to Congress while supporting raises for judges and some senior civil servants.

Meat inspection change opposed

WASHINGTON — Federal inspectors and consumer advocates attacked a government proposal to change its system for inspecting meat processing facilities, warning Congress the plan might weaken food safety.

At a House subcommittee hearing Tuesday, the inspectors and activists faulted the Agriculture Department's Food Safety and Inspection Service for what Tom Devine of the Government Accountability Project called a "half-baked" idea.

The department, already facing heavy criticism about the plan, announced last week that it would hold public hearings on the so-called risk-based inspection program. However, it intends to finalize a key component of the proposal that would allow less-than-daily inspections of the nation's 6,300 meat processing plants. Currently every facility is inspected every day.

Lester Crawford, the FSIS director, said the U.S. food supply "is one of the safest in the world" and the program would let the inspection service focus on troubled sites while reducing the frequency of inspections at facilities with excellent records. When the plan was unveiled last fall, it called for halving the current force of 2,200 inspectors within four years.

Senate wage bill faces Bush veto

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Senate, handing President Bush a sharp defeat in their first major legislative battle of the year, approved an increase in the minimum wage to $4.55 an hour, but the victory may be short-lived.

On a near party-line ballot of 81-39, the Senate voted Tuesday for the Democratic proposal that Bush has threatened to veto. The margin of victory was six votes short of enough to override a veto.

Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla., sponsored the $4.55 figure as a compromise between Bush's $4.25 an hour figure and higher Democratic proposals. Graham's press aide, Mark Riordan, said more amendments that could change the figure will be considered today before final passage later today.

At the White House, deputy press secretary Steve Hart said Bush "has made his position on minimum wage very, very clear, stating his last offer was his last and best offer."

Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole said the vote "makes it more likely we will go another year without an increase in the minimum wage. Senate Democrats squandered the chance, the first chance in eight years, to increase the minimum wage."

The Senate was expected to pass the bill either Wednesday or Thursday and send it to a conference committee for minor reconciliations with an almost identical House-passed bill. A barrage of Republican amendments were still pending.

Immediately after voting for the Democratic plan, which would raise the minimum wage from $3.35 an hour to $4.55 an hour over three years, the Senate rejected 58-41 a no-compromise proposal by Bush that would have raised the minimum wage to $4.25 over three years and included a lower "training wage."

Led by Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine, Democrats urged Bush to reconsider and work with Congress on raising the pay floor.

"If there is one thing the 101st Congress must do, it is to increase the minimum wage," Mitchell said. "It is a test of whether we are indeed a kinder, gentler nation."

"I remain hopeful our differences can be resolved," Sen. James Exton, D-Neb., said, adding that the 30 cents an hour difference is not "of such significance that the former is wise and the latter is foolhardy."

But Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas responded, "The president, in my view, is firm. He has already compromised. There is not going to be a compromise. It's going to be $4.25 an hour and a training wage. He's going to veto it (the Democratic plan) and then we can start all over again and the president may start with $4.10."

The Democratic package, almost identical to one already approved by the House on a 248-171 vote, would raise the minimum wage in three annual steps, beginning Oct. 1, of 50 cents, 40 cents and 30 cents an hour.

In a partial concession to Bush, the plan would allow for a 60-day training wage of $3.35 an hour in 1989 and 85 percent of the minimum level in the next three years.

More bodies may be in grave

United Press International

BROWNSVILLE, Texas — Authorities suspect there may be more bodies buried on a border ranch in Mexico where the corpses of 12 men mutilated during voodoo sacrifices were discovered in a mass grave.

The grisly discovery was made Tuesday by authorities after one of the four suspects arrested a day earlier led them to the grave site. Among the 12 bodies, all men, was that of a 21-year-old pre-medical student at the University of Texas who had been missing for three weeks.

Sheriff's Lt. George Cavito said the scene "was like a human slaughterhouse."

Police could not confirm there were more bodies, but were expected to resume digging Wednesday after suspending the search late Tuesday night. At least five other suspects were being sought.

The sheriff's department scheduled a news conference this afternoon to discuss the murders, and Mexican police also were expected to release more details in the case.

Although only 12 bodies were found, Cameron County Sheriff Alex Perez said he was told that one of the suspects confessed to taking part in at least 14 slayings at the ranch.

Evidence of satanic and voodoo rituals was found in a small cabin on the ranch about 20 miles west of the border city of Matamoros, where the men are believed to have been killed, said U.S. Customs agent Oran Neck of Brownsville, who helped uncover the bodies.

Neck said police searching the cabin found candles and pots filled with blood. "There also was a small kettle with the heads of goats," Neck said. "You couldn't even stand within 80 feet of these graves and not feel like leaving."

He added that two of the 12 victims "had evidence of being tortured before they were killed."

Four men, including some U.S. citizens, have been arrested and were being held in Matamoros, just across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, Mexican and U.S. officials said.

A Cameron County sheriff's spokesman said there was evidence of drug trafficking and voodoo rituals, and Perez said in Brownsville that the killers believed they "would have the sacrifice so the police would not arrest them, so bullets would not kill them, and they could make

Bradley captures 5th term as mayor

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — Mayor Tom Bradley got a scare in his bid for a record fifth term as chief executive of the nation's second largest city, narrowly avoiding a runoff election.

With 2,341 of the city's 2,353 precincts reporting at 1:30 a.m. Wednesday, Bradley had 153,762 votes — 51.98 percent of the total. He needed 50 percent plus one vote to avoid a June 6 runoff in the non-partisan election. City Councilman Nate Holden had 83,036 votes — or 28 percent, and former county Supervisor Baxter Ward received 44,816 votes, or 15 percent.

Obscure candidates, including a socialist oil field worker and a singer-dancer, shared the remaining votes.

SWAPO guerrillas fail to surrender

OSHAKATI, Namibia — A British peacekeeping officer said SWAPO guerrillas are unlikely to surrender and return to Angola as long as South African-backed troops remained at U.N.-operated assembly points with orders to interrogate the rebels.

Hours into the multinational attempt to lure SWAPO guerrillas out of Namibia, U.N. peacekeeping troops said Tuesday not a single fighter had surrendered.

U.N. flags and makeshift banners rose above wild fig trees at noon at two stations in the northern bush and seven others along the border, signaling the start of a program intended to return the fighters to Angola and restart Namibia's U.N.-run independence plan.

British members of the U.N. Transition Assistance Group set up radio links between the nine operational stations Tuesday. Their commander, British Col. Neil Donaldson, said in the northern town of Oshakati no SWAPO fighters had turned up in the first five hours.

With South African-backed forces at each of the surrender points and an announcement in Windhoek that the South West Africa People's Organization fighters will be "interrogated" at the assembly area, it was "damn unlikely" the insurgents would come out, he said.

Soviets want to raise sunken sub

MOSCOW — Soviet investigators want to retrieve a nuclear attack submarine that sank in icy waters more than 4,000 feet deep off the Norwegian coast with two nuclear armed torpedoes aboard.

Vice Adm. Sergei Vargin, head of the Northern Fleet Political Department, Tuesday told the evening television news program Vremya that raising the "Mike" class submarine would help naval experts determine why the vessel burned and sank, killing 42 sailors.

"It is filled with water now, and we consider it necessary to raise it," he said. "Experts ... think it is necessary to retrieve it to fully investigate the reason for this disaster."

Vargin said the navy believed the sunken sub with two nuclear-tipped torpedoes aboard had not been crushed.

Soviets reportedly selling jets to Syria

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The Soviet Union has decided to supply Syria with at least 10 sophisticated all-weather Sukhoi SU-24 strike aircraft as part of a deal aimed at enhancing Moscow's military posture in the region, an Arabic-language magazine reported.

The Al Oubou Al Arabi, a magazine published in Paris that is widely distributed in the Middle East, said Tuesday the new addition to Syria's Soviet-supplied air force will also increase the Arab country's ability to strike targets inside Israel.

Independent confirmation of the report, which coincided with similar remarks attributed to Israeli Deputy Chief of General Staff Ehud Barak, was not immediately available.

Three questioned in Jerusalem shooting

JERUSALEM — Three Jews were held for questioning in the killing of a Palestinian just outside the Old City as more than 1,000 mourners marched in a funeral procession for the slain man.

Police fired rubber bullets Tuesday at several dozen mourners who stoned a police station, but did not disperse the march through Jerusalem's Old City. Two people were wounded by rubber bullets.

Khaled Shawqeh, 26, was killed Monday night by an apparently Jewish gunman who opened fire with a sub-machine gun outside the wall of the Old City near Jaffa Gate. Three other Arabs were seriously wounded in the bloodiest incident in Jerusalem since the start of the 16-month-old Palestinian uprising.

Mir space station to be unmanned

United Press International

MOSCOW — The Soviet Mir space station will be unmanned for the first time in three years after April 27 when its three cosmonauts return to Earth, the Soviet news agency announced.

The Tass dispatch Wednesday — on the eve the 28th anniversary of the flight of the first man in space, cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin — confirmed a United Press International report Friday that the three-man Mir crew was unlikely to be immediately replaced after their mission ends.

"The space flight of Soviet cosmonauts Alexander Volkov, Sergei Krikalev and Valery Polyakov is drawing to a close," Tass said. "The cosmonauts will return to Earth April 27, while Mir will continue its flight unmanned."

Soviet sources have cited public disapproval over the costs of the space program, the need to assess the results of the long-duration space flights and "preventive measures" as reasons for the apparent change in policy.

It will be the first time since March 15, 1986, that Mir, showpiece of the Soviet space program, will be left unmanned — a departure from earlier plans.

Teachers suspended after marijuana arrest

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board was to decide this afternoon whether Seminole High School dean of students George Zeiss, 43, and science teacher Glen Malolini, 37, should be suspended without pay as a result of their March 26 arrest in Altamonte Springs on charges of possession of marijuana.

The two pleaded not guilty at their arraignment. The school board has suspended them with pay.

"They are innocent until proven guilty," Seminole High School principal Wayne Epps said Tuesday. "No one knows the whole story yet."

John Reichert, director of personnel services for the school district, said, "The arrest was after-hours and did not involve any students. We have to look at each case individually and see all the details before we take actions toward termination."

According to Jeff Hawkins, public information officer with the Altamonte Springs police department, Zeiss and Malolini were arrested March 26 at 10:10 p.m. in the parking lot of the Altamonte Springs Hilton.

Police reports state that detectives observed the two men parked for several minutes in Zeiss' car, believed them to be suspicious, and searched the vehicle.

Assisted by the department's K-9 unit, the arresting officers said they found 9.5 grams of cannabis, including several partially-smoked marijuana cigarettes as well as a package of rolling papers, a pipe with cannabis residue and a "roach clip" used for holding cigarettes while smoking.

The possession of less than 20 grams of a controlled illegal substance is a misdemeanor under Florida law.

Ball for each man was set at $500. Both posted bond and a court date was set for April 6.

At that arraignment, both Zeiss and Malolini pleaded not guilty and a trial date has been set for May 17.

School employees who are arrested on criminal charges are suspended with pay by the superintendent. It takes a board vote to suspend without pay, however.

The department of professional practices, which certifies teachers, has been notified of the actions against Zeiss and Malolini and an investigation by that body is pending. Depending on the outcome of that investigation, the two could have their teaching certificates revoked.

According to Karen Coleman, director of community relations and public information for the school district, such an investigation can take a month or more.

Principal Epps said that while the two are suspended, Malolini's classes are being taught by a substitute and other administrators are "taking up the slack" left by Zeiss' absence.

Malolini has 11 years of teaching experience, including eight years in Seminole County. He transferred from Lake Howell High School to Seminole High School two years ago. In addition to his teaching duties, Malolini was the Seminole wrestling coach.

Zeiss was named dean of students at Seminole High in December, replacing Roger Beathard. He has 21 years experience as a physical education instructor, including seven years in the Seminole County district. Zeiss also coached the freshman football team. He transferred to Seminole High five years ago.

Epps said he has spoken with both Malolini and Zeiss and they have maintained their claims of innocence.

New Jersey company to service county's vehicles

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners Tuesday unanimously approved a $1.2 million contract with a New Jersey company to maintain the county's vehicles.

On April 28, the county's 29-employee Fleet Maintenance Department will be eliminated and Managed Logistics Systems, Inc., of Westmont, N.J., will take over maintenance of the county's several hundred fire trucks, ambulances, cars, trucks, tractors and fire trucks.

County manager Ken Hooper said the county will save $250,000 a year over the six-year life of the contract over maintaining county vehicles with its own maintenance department.

Managed Logistics will charge a cheaper rate to the cities, $20 instead of $25 an hour for service, and will work from 7 a.m. until 9 p.m., offering a shorter time to get vehicles back in service than now done by the county, Hooper said.

Six of the 29 fleet maintenance employees will be transferred to other county departments by the end of the month. Three maintenance employees have gone to work for Seminole County schools and another has gotten a job with Volusia County.

there. It's just time for a change...My vote was certainly not a reaction to his front page exposure."

Carli criticized the city commission last week for its effort to reduce the minimum living area requirements for single family homes against a planning and zoning recommendation.

Carli said, "With McClanahan having influence in suggesting who should or shouldn't be planning and zoning chairman, then the board has gone beyond being an effective advisory board. At that point, we have become a puppet show. Brent Carli is not a puppet."

McClanahan said, "If Mr. Carli wants to be an elected official, he should run like the rest of us."

Kelley said she doesn't think the county has a bad image, but needs to enhance its good image. "We need to get a better image," Kelley said.

Kelley said all information released by the county should not be slanted solely in the county's favor, but said the accomplishments of the county need to be emphasized.

County manager Ken Hooper said county officials need training in presenting positive aspects of their work, without concealing errors or controversial actions.

"The county needs to improve the manner in which information gets out," Hooper said. "Most of the things we do good are mundane and don't get much coverage."

Warren agreed with Kelley that the county needs to do a better job of presenting its accomplishments. During the last three years of Warren's tenure as county commission officer director from 1981 to 1987, she was also the county public information officer. She said she acted as a central source of county information for the public.

With the influx of a lot of new people into the county, we need to manage our information to structure, not control the actual information and education that gets to the citizens.

Sturm said he favored hiring the consultant because he said the county needs to publish an annual report to the citizens that emphasizes the accomplishments and work of the county.

"We need to enhance our presentation to the public," he said.

But Glenn and Streetman said spending money for a consultant and promotional materials is wasteful because the county doesn't have an image problem.

"I don't think the taxpayers of Seminole County need to pay for a public relations person to get me elected," Glenn said. "We don't hear a lot of complaints, so I think that shows we're doing our job even if a lot of people don't know about it."

Streetman said a telephone survey conducted during his reelection campaign last year showed only four percent of county residents thought commissioners were doing a poor job. He said the image presented by county employees is the best public relations the county can have.

"I have no problem with spending the money needed for people to have access to information about county services," Streetman said. "I am not interested in some PR company saying only the good things about the county. By nature, they are not going out where we've stepped on anybody's toes."

Anderson: Twins best team ever

To Sparky Anderson, the Minnesota Twins must resemble the 1927 Mudcrabs' Row Yankees.

"They're the best team of all time, as far as I'm concerned," Anderson said after the Twins shelled Detroit 14-0 Tuesday at Tiger Stadium. "They're the best hitting club in our league. They don't have a player in that lineup that hasn't hurt us at one time or another."

Minnesota beat Detroit for the 12th straight time over two seasons and it was Detroit's worst shutout loss since Boston bombed the Tigers by the same score on Sept. 24, 1973.

Tuesday Allan Anderson pitched seven innings of seven-single ball and Carmen Castillo clubbed a pinch-hit grand slam.

In other AL games, California downed Oakland 7-1, Kansas City edged Baltimore 6-5, Toronto beat New York 11-6 in 10 innings and Chicago topped Seattle 8-6.

BASKETBALL

Risk on Nance pays off for Cavs

The Cleveland Cavaliers, heading into a crucial Central Division home-and-home showdown with the first-place Detroit Pistons, took a risk with an injured player Tuesday night and came away with a more secure outlook.

Larry Nance, who has been bothered by a sprained left ankle for the last month, scored four straight unanswered field goals late in the third quarter that triggered a 12-2 run and led the Cavaliers to a 92-90 triumph over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Nance led Cleveland with 20 points, and his presence was a great relief to the Cavaliers.

"You want to know how significant it was to get Larry back in the lineup?" swingman Craig Ehlo said. "It was awesome. He's our security. He lets you play better defense. When a man gets by us, we rely on him for help."

NHL PLAYOFFS

Hextall's goal latest Cap fluke

No contest, putting a goaltender known for puck-handling skills against a team famed for flops — Ron Hextall scored against the Washington Capitals.

The Philadelphia Flyer Tuesday night became the first goaltender in NHL history to score in a playoff game, providing the final indignation in a four-goal rally within the final 15 minutes of Washington's 8-5 loss.

With Hextall's biggest play coming at the wrong net, the Capitals were less concerned with being at the wrong end of another fluke bit of playoff history than with standing one game from Stanley Cup playoff elimination.

Wrigley finally christens Grace

After 500 at-bats, Mark Grace finally found out what all the fuss was about.

The Cubs first baseman belted his first home run at Wrigley Field Tuesday to help the Chicago Cubs post their fourth straight victory with a 5-4 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Grace collected three RBIs, including the game-winner in the eighth inning. Calvin Schiraldi, 1-0, picked up his first victory of the season in relief, and Mitch Williams earned his third save.

Grace hit seven home runs in 134 games with the Cubs last year, but none in the hitter's haven on Clark and Addison streets. He used strong winds blowing to left field for an opposite-field, two-run homer in the sixth inning.

In the National League, it was Chicago 5, St. Louis 4; Philadelphia 6, Montreal 2; Pittsburgh 4, New York 3 in 11 innings; Houston 5, Cincinnati 3; San Diego 3, Atlanta 2; and San Francisco 8, Los Angeles 3.

Tribe boys take first in frosh-soph

LAKE MARY — Seminole High's boys took just 14 athletes to the Seminole Athletic Conference meet and came up with a strong performance from everyone to take the title.

The meet, held at Lake Mary High School, was close as the Tribe finished with 171½ points with Lake Howell totalling 160. Lake Mary was third with 133½ followed by Lyman with 52, Oviedo with 45 and Lake Brantley with 39.

"Our kids did a real good job tonight," Seminole coach Ken Brauman said. "We didn't enter three events because we didn't want anybody participating in events they haven't practiced. We did well in the events we entered and that's what brought us through."

Henry Williams and Eric Walker each had spectacular performances as did Dalvin Davis. Williams won the 100 meter dash with an 11.2 clocking, along with a third place finish in the long jump and a fifth place finish in the 120 high hurdles.

Walker won the 120 hurdles with a 17.0 performance, took fourth in the 440 at 55.2 and ran on the winning mile relay team. Davis also ran on the mile relay team, won the 880 and took second in the mile run.

George Frison tied for second in the 220 and took third in the triple jump and 100 meters to help pace Seminole's attack. The Tribe also won both relay's to give them some insurance points.

"The fact that eight places were scored hurt us," Brauman said. "We didn't have much depth but we had quality and that's what pulled it through for us."

Lake Howell was led by Marquette Smith who took top honors in the long jump at 21-3¼, won the 220 with a nice time of 23.0 and took second in the 100 meters while running on the second place 440 relay squad.

Kevin Goins aided the Silver Hawks by winning the high jump, clearing 6-2, placing third in the LAKE MARY — Lake Brantley came up with strong efforts in the distance events to claim the girls portion of the Seminole Athletic Conference Freshman-Sophomore meet at Lake Mary High School before 201 fans Tuesday night.

The Lady Patriots piled up 148 points as Lake Howell took second with 131, Lyman was third with 124 points with Seminole placing fourth with 118, Oviedo fifth with 36 and Lake Mary with 30.

"We were loaded in the distance events and our sprinters are starting to come along," Lake Brantley coach Brian Shafer said. "Ryan Pauley is just in her second meet and she really helped us tonight in both her events."

Pauley won the 880 in a tight race and took second in the mile run to help pace her team to victory. Joyce Tullis won both the mile and two mile runs with strong efforts as Amy Ginnette was third in the mile and second in the two mile run.

Railroaders, Rinker win

SANFORD — The National Division of the Sanford Little Major League got started Tuesday night with a pair of games at Roy Hoffer Field.

In the first game, the Railroaders defeated First Federal 15-10 and in the second game, Rinker Materials defeated the Sanford Police Benevolence Association 15-5 in a game called after five innings by the 10-run rule.

First Federal jumped out to a 4-2 lead after one inning in the first game, but was unable to maintain the advantage. The Railroaders came up with 11 runs in the third inning to turn the close game into a rout while collecting only three hits in the contest — a triple by Thomas Isrial, a double by Jason Rozell and a single by Robert Dickerson.

In the run scored department it was Isrial scoring four runs; Dickerson, Tony Lewis, and Anthony Morales two each; and Cedrick Williams, Rozell, Eric Johnson, Ronnie McNeil, and Rob-

SANFORD — It's been that kind of year for Lance Abney and his Seminole High School girls softball team.

On Tuesday afternoon at wind-blown Fort Mellon Park, the Fighting Lady Seminole dug themselves a 13-0 hole against the Oviedo Lady Lions going into the bottom of the sixth inning. Then, just as everybody was wishing they were some place warm, the Tribe rallied for 10 runs in the last two innings.

Granted, it wasn't enough to win, but the effort was enough to warm Abney's heart.

"Actually, we were playing much better at the beginning of the season than we have lately," said Abney, whose team had a slew of games postponed or cancelled due to the rains that plagued the early half of the season.

"At the beginning of the season, they just wouldn't quit. They displayed a little bit of that today and that's good. They're starting to get that spirit back. We're really young. We're starting four freshmen in key positions."

Oviedo, now 5-3 in the Seminole Athletic Conference standings and 8-5 overall, took advantage of one Seminole error after another to build its nearly insurmountable lead.

In the first inning, for example, a ball hit by second baseman Anna Hollis was misplayed and she was able to circle the bases to cap a five-run explosion. Melony Schrupp, Cindy Wilming and Carrie MacLeod all had hits for the Lady Lions in the inning.

A two-out three-base error in the second inning on a ball hit by Schrupp got Oviedo started on a two-run rally. Wilming and pitcher Lisa Hollon had back-to-back RBI singles.

Waring's shutout helps SCC beat Santa Fe

SANFORD — Jim Waring threw a five-hit shutout and Steve Roberts drove in a pair of runs with a double and a single as the Raiders of Seminole Community College posted a 6-0 victory over the Saints of Santa Fe Community College in Mid-Florida Conference baseball action at Raider Field Tuesday afternoon.

Waring's fastball kept the heat up on the cold, windy day as he struck out nine and walked only one in pitching his seventh complete game in twelve starts. The win raised Waring's record to 5-7 on the season. He allowed only two runners to reach as far as third and both times with two men out.

The win advanced Seminole to 9-23 on the season and 4-12 in the conference. The Raiders will now play host to the Matadors of Valencia Community College on Thursday in a conference game starting at 3:00 p.m. at Raider Field. Santa Fe fell to 23-12 overall and 10-8 in the conference.

Bret Rutzebeck collected three hits in four at bats to pace the Raiders. Roberts was 2-for-5 as was Teddy Craig. One of Craig's hits was a double. Dan Peters contributed two RBI to the Seminole total. Joe Russo was the only Saint batter to pick up two hits on the afternoon, going 2-for-4 with a double.

The game was scoreless until the fourth when the Raiders came up with a pair of unearned runs.

With one out, Dale Stevens reached on a throwing error by the Saint second baseman. After Craig grounded out, Byron Overstreet walked. Roberts then doubled to center to score Stevens and Overstreet scored when the throw from center got past the third baseman.

Seminole added some insurance in the seventh when they came up with four runs.

United Press International

TORONTO — A Canadian sprinter told a government inquiry Tuesday that he left Ben Johnson's coach for four years because he didn't want to use anabolic steroids and returned after he decided to try banned drugs in 1987.

Desai Williams, sixth in the 100-meters at the Seoul Olympics, told a government inquiry into drug use in Canadian sport that coach Charlie Francis tried to push him into using performance-enhancing drugs before Williams left the coach in the fall of 1983.

"I wanted to develop my own capabilities of running natural before I tried anything to assist me," testified Williams, 29. "That was my opinion and I don't think I was given a fair chance because I think it was being pushed on me a little too often, so that's why I left."

Much of Williams' testimony contradicted evidence given last month by Francis and sprinter Angella Issajenko, who admitted to a decade of drug use. During cross-examination, Williams often gave confused and contradictory answers.

Williams said it wasn't until the 1987 world championships in Rome, when sprinters he'd beaten regularly defeated him, that he decided to use steroids.

"You see guys you're beating consistently and all of a sudden you get to this meet and they're kicking your butt," said Williams, Canada's top male sprinter before Johnson. "My interpretation was that if you can't beat 'em, join 'em."

Williams is the eighth Canadian track athlete to testify at the inquiry set up after Johnson was stripped of his gold medal and world record in the 100-meters at Seoul after testing positive for the anabolic steroid stanozolol. Francis testified last month that both Johnson and Williams began using banned drugs in 1981.

Johnson, who said in his only public comment since the Olympics that he never "knowingly" took "illegal" drugs, will testify in several weeks.

Williams said he reconciled with Francis and began receiving twice-weekly injections of the anabolic steroid Estragol from Francis in October 1987. Williams said he stopped using the drug two months later and hasn't used banned drugs since.

Issajenko, Canada's top female sprinter since 1979, earlier read into the record a journal entry for Feb. 25, 1988, describing a meeting which Williams and others attended to discuss their spring steroid cycles. Williams said he attended the meeting, but made no decision about a new cycle. Later, he said he had decided before the

Split ends Lady Raider regular season Softball

By DEAN SMITH
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — The Lady Raiders of Seminole Community College finished the regular season part of its schedule with a split of a Mid-Florida Conference softball doubleheader with the Lady Matadors of Valencia Community College at cold and windy Raider Field Tuesday afternoon.

Seminole won the opener 5-3 before dropping the nightcap 2-1.

The doubleheader marked the last home appearance for the five sophomores on the Lady Raiders team. Playing in their last home games were: shortstop Julie Clark from Apopka, second baseman Jessica Bradley from Oviedo, outfielder Maria Garavaso from Orlando Edgewater, first baseman Sue Migliori from Apopka and outfielder Jaudon Jonas from Lake Howell.

But this will not be the last games for the Lady Raiders as they have qualified for the first state tournament appearance in Seminole Community College softball history. The tournament will be played in Panama City starting next Friday.

Inole finishes the regular season at 31-16 overall and 15-9 in the conference, which is good enough for third place. The Lady Raiders will join Lake City Community College and Florida Community College of Jacksonville as the Mid-Florida Conference state representatives.

Seminole won the opener despite being out-hit eight to seven. The Lady Matadors were very generous to the host Lady Raiders as they committed five errors.

The Lady Raiders scored in the bottom of the first when Tracie Smith reached on an error, went to second on a ground out, advanced to third when Theresa Liak beat out an infield hit and scored when the shortstop threw the ball away in an attempt to get Liak at first.

Valencia came up with three in its half of the third when the SCC defense came up with a case of butterflyers.

ert Dece one each. For First Federal it was Rod Brown collecting two hits, and Bartholomew Dixon, Eddie Key, and Herbert Rivers getting one each. Rivers was a triple. Brown, Rivers, and Lorenzo Dixon scored a pair of runs with B. Dixon, Key, Alvin Smith, and Fred Brown scoring once each.

The winning pitcher for the Railroaders was Cedrick Williams while the loser was Bartholomew Dixon.

In the second game, Rinker was out-hit 5-3 but was helped by the wildness of the SPBA pitching staff. The game was tied 2-2 after the first inning but Rinker came up with five runs in the third and six runs in the sixth to put the game out of reach.

The story in the second game was just the opposite as Seminole out-hit Valencia 10 to seven but could not get the runners home.

The Lady Raiders scored in the first on singles by Smith and King and a sacrifice fly by Liak, but it would be the last scoring done by SCC on the day.

As they had done the previous day against Florida Community College, the Lady Raiders held the lead until the seventh, when Valencia came up with two to take the lead. Linda Frana singled and Stanley went in to run.

Mike Williams (a double) and Tony Quanciale and Victor Peterson (singles) were the hitters for Rinker. Linwood Davis led in the run column with three scored while Quanciale, Willie Williams, Greg Stafford, and Peterson scored twice each. Scoring one run apiece was Alberto Williams, Mike Williams, Alexcee Reddick, and Troy Brown.

For SPBA it was James Young and Tim Watson picking up two hits each. One of Watson's was a double that drove in two runs. The other hit was by Phillip Reynolds. Young and Watson scored two runs each and the fifth run was scored by Cedric Church.

Quanciale was the winning pitcher for Rinker while Young suffered the loss for SPBA.

four-base error in the third inning to score Oviedo's eighth run, then April Manning capitalized on two Seminole errors for the Lady Lions with a three-run home run. Two errors and singles by Cheryl Buntz and Corrie Lawson combined for the last two Oviedo runs in the sixth inning.

"This particular team starts slowly," said Abney of his team, which is now 1-4 in the SAC and 1-8 overall. "We finish all right. We definitely finish better than we start."

Tuesday was no different. Laura Pope hit a two-run triple to drive Seminole's first runs and start a seven-run rally. Angela Orioles plated Pope with an RBI infield single. Amy Hawkins and Cindy Lyon then added consecutive singles and, after Latrelse Turner hit into a fielder's choice that was thrown away by Oviedo, Tiffany Jones singled, two runs scoring on the play.

After retiring Oviedo in the top of the seventh, Seminole opened the home half of the last inning with a single by Bobbie Osborne, a triple by DeAnne Rathbun and Pope single. But other than a walk to Sarah Klein and a sacrifice fly by Hawkins, that was all the offense the Tribe could muster.

Despite another close loss (Seminole has lost five games by one run), Abney was able to see things in perspective.

"If we played schools a little more comparable to us, then we'd be all right," said Abney. "Lake Brantley and Lake Howell are excellent. Lake Mary and Oviedo are no slouches, either. That's four excellent teams in this conference."

"Playing Lake Brantley or Lake Howell is like being sentenced to hell, no matter what you do. They both have good athletes."

So does Seminole. But what has crippled Seminole this season has been a lack of consistency.

"Being so young, that will happen," said Abney. "We shut down Lake Howell for three innings, then they exploded for 20 runs. And then we didn't score any runs for five innings against Lyman."

"We're so inconsistent. We've played good teams bad and good teams good. We've also played bad teams good and bad teams bad. We're just inconsistent all the way around."

Seminole will see if it can put a pair of solid outings back-to-back when the Lady Noles travel to Lake Mary on Thursday. Oviedo will also return to action on Thursday, hosting Lake Brantley at Red Bug Park.

Lake Howell 18 DeLand 0

CASSELBERRY — It didn't take long.

In the bottom of the first inning, the Lake Howell High School Lady Silver Hawk softball team exploded for 10 runs and cruised to a 18-0 win over DeLand on Tuesday in a Seminole Athletic Conference game called after five innings because of the 15-run rule.

The win improved Lake Howell to 12-4, 6-2 in the conference.

Leading the Lake Howell attack was Missy Martinez (3-for-4), Michelle Nason (2-for-2), Lealie Barton (2-for-4), Julie Barton (2-for-4) and Valerie Monico (3-for-3).

meeting not to use steroids again. Williams also didn't recall discussions which Issajenko described expressing concern that the circle of drug-users was getting too wide. He disputed Issajenko's testimony that he'd told her, after Johnson's positive test in Seoul, that he'd passed his Olympic drug test with 28 days clearance time and that Johnson had just cut it too short.

Williams also testified that Francis lured him unwittingly to a doctor in April, 1982, and got Dr. Gunter Helge Koch to provide the anabolic steroid, Dianabol. Williams said there was no discussion of side effects, clearance times, or even which does to use.

Williams said he threw the Dianabol pills away without telling Francis because if Francis knew he wasn't taking them, he wouldn't have coached him.

"For Charlie, it was either my way or the highway," Williams said.

Williams denied that the doctor gave him a physical examination or that he had blood and urine tests until Dr. Koch's lawyer produced medical records documenting such tests. Williams then said he couldn't recall such tests.

Son's energy drains cook's

By JANE MALE
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Compared to keeping up with her active little boy, cooking is a snap for our Cook of the Week.

Carol Tregear was born in Sanford, but was raised all over the South. "We moved often and frequently because I was a Navy brat, so we didn't stay very long in one place," Tregear said. "I attended so many schools, they are hard to keep up with."

She said she attended Baldwin High School in Jacksonville before returning to Sanford. She graduated early from Seminole High School because of her many class credits, she said.

Tregear's mother, Carolyn Leonard, is a native of Sanford. She is the housewife who likes woodcrafting as well as being a housewife.

Tregear's father, a retired Navy man, works as an electrician for a company in Sanford.

Tregear is the oldest of five children. Her brothers, Richard, Dwayne and John, all live in Sanford.

"We never stayed in any one spot for very long, so my brothers were my best friends," Tregear said. "I was always trying to get the best of them and occasionally I would."

Her mother and maternal grandmother taught Tregear how to cook as she looked on.

"They are two of the greatest cooks I have ever known," Tregear said.

"My biggest accomplishment when I was learning to cook was to make homemade biscuits. I tried and tried to make them and finally one day I succeeded. My family thought they were great because the biscuits disappeared faster than I could fix them."

"I never did get one of them," she said.

Tregear said she is no gourmet cook. Rather, she concentrates on preparing dishes that are "quick and easy," she said.

She met her husband, Steve, through a mutual friend who introduced them. Steve is a construction superintendent for C.A. Meyers Paving Company.

"He is a very fine young man whom I admire as well as adore," Tregear said.

The Tregears are the parents of Steven, a very active 3-year-old.

"He loves to drive his mama crazy," Tregear said.

Steven enjoys Monster trucks, tractor pulls and beaches, she said. He has now discovered trains and gets a kick out of riding them.

Tregear said she doesn't have time to work because being a housewife and mother takes up most of her day. She does have time, however, for a few hobbies:

going to the beach, shopping and dancing.

Her philosophy in life is "Get by on what you can get by on," she said. She said she also believes, "If you don't judge people then you won't be judged."

Listed below are some of Tregear family's favorite recipes.

While opportunity knocks this spring, seize the asparagus

A week or two ago I included in this column two recipes for those springtime favorites, asparagus and rhubarb. This week's column will be dedicated wholly to one of these harbingers of the season—asparagus. (Next week, we'll take up rhubarb.)

In the next few weeks, asparagus will be at the peak of availability and the absolute lowest price. Its cost at the time of writing this column is 89 cents to $1.49 per pound. Take advantage of the price and enjoy while it is at its best.

Cook asparagus whole or break it into 1- or 2-inch pieces. Allow about 1/2 pound per serving for whole asparagus. The basic recipe for microwaving asparagus is as follows:
1 pound fresh asparagus
2 tablespoons water

Snap off tough ends of asparagus spears. Arrange in 10-by-6-inch baking dish. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave on 100 percent power for 6 1/2-7 minutes or until tender. Drain. Serve with butter or one of the following sauces:

ALMONDINE SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup slivered almonds
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
Microwave on 100 percent power butter and almonds in 1-cup glass measure for 3-4 minutes or until almonds are golden brown, stirring every minute. Stir in the grated orange peel. Spoon over asparagus.

Hollandaise and Creamy Dill sauces are delicious with aspar-

MICROWAVE MAGIC

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

1/4 cup butter or margarine
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 egg yolks, beaten well
2 tablespoons evaporated milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
Melt butter in small bowl or 2-cup glass measuring cup for 30 seconds. Stir in lemon juice, egg yolk and milk. Microwave on 100 percent power for 15 seconds; stir and microwave 15 more seconds, or until mixture begins to thicken. Let stand a few seconds, then stir and serve.

CREAMY DILL SAUCE

1/4 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
1/4 teaspoon Beau Monde seasoning
1/4 teaspoon dill weed
Combine sour cream mayonnaise, seasoning and dill weed. Spoon over cooked asparagus.

Asparagus combines well with other vegetables for tasty, colorful side dishes.

ASPARAGUS AND CARROTS

3 carrots, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch pieces
2 tablespoons water

1 pound fresh asparagus, cut into 1-inch pieces
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1/4 teaspoon tarragon leaves
Combine carrots and water in 1-quart casserole dish. Cover. Microwave on 100 percent power 3-4 minutes or until carrots are tender, stirring once. Add asparagus. Cover. Microwave on 100 percent power 5-5 1/2 minutes or until asparagus is tender, stirring once. Drain. Add butter and tarragon; mix. Serve.

A combination of asparagus and tomatoes is attractive. Serve as a salad or vegetable.

ASPARAGUS VINAIGRETTE

1 pound fresh asparagus spears
2 tablespoons water
1/2 cup cooking oil
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
10 cherry tomatoes, halved
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese

Snap off tough ends of asparagus spears. Arrange in 10-by-6-inch baking dish. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave on 100 percent power 6 1/2-7 minutes or until tender. Drain. Add oil, wine vinegar and garlic powder; mix lightly. Cover and refrigerate until well chilled. Just before serving, mix in tomatoes. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

Long-suffering mom languishing over slovenly son

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from "Wife of a Slob," I had to write. My son makes this guy sound like "Mr. Clean!"

He layers his pile of clothing with dishes (with the food still on them) plus orange peelings, apple cores, egg shells, etc. Our house smells like a compost pile. This is not just confined to our home. His employer had to demand that he clean the food and garbage out of the company vehicle.

Instead of putting garbage in the garbage container, he throws it downstairs or under the cupboards. He never vacuums his room or changes his sheets. He has absolutely no regard for our furniture—he thinks nothing of using my good crystal glasses (when all the other glasses are dirty in his room). These good glasses join the others—full of mold, under his bed or wherever he leaves them. This has been going on for 10 years. When I ask him to please clean his room, he becomes belligerent and doesn't speak to me for days.

I have just told him, for the 100th time, that he must clean his room or move. Abby, he is 26 years old and is impeccable about his personal hygiene and his appearance.

I cannot help but believe that this is an illness. I find it hard to believe that anyone could be this gross (by choice) without a deep psychological reason. I consulted a psychiatrist some years ago. He said my son would outgrow this.

Please help me, Abby. I know you often consult professionals. If one can help, I will be forever grateful. I don't mind paying for help. If only I knew where to look.

I love my son very much, and I know when he gets married, you'll be getting another letter from "Wife of a Slob"—but this time, it will be my slob. Please don't print my name. Sign this...

MOTHER OF A SLOB
DEAR MOTHER: At first, I soliloquized: "Tell this tormented mother to find a psychiatrist with two couches—one for her son, and one for herself for putting up with him for so long. He didn't turn into a super-slob overnight. Why didn't she nip this gross, slovenly behavior in the bud before it reached the point where her lovely home smelled like a compost pile?"

Then I further soliloquized: "Telling her what she should have done won't help her. What should she do now?" And here's the answer:

You can't change anyone but yourself. Give your son an ultimatum: "Clean up your act within 24 hours, or you will find your clothes packed and on the porch because you can no longer live like a pig under this roof." Then make good your threat—if you have to change the locks on your door.

Tough? You bet. The ball is now in your court, Mother. Please write again and let me know of your decision. I wish you well.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Got an itch for pasta from scratch?

Christopher Columbus, an Italian by birth, discovered America, and now—at long last—Americans are discovering Italy through its straightforward, versatile foods.

We've finally learned, for example, that pasta sauces encompass a realm of flavors beyond the classic ragu or meat sauce.

Fish often flavors macaroni dishes because it is so plentiful in this Mediterranean country, which is, after all, a giant peninsula. Fish often is paired with tomatoes and parsley for a flavorful pasta complement. Tuna (tonno) is a favorite; so is shrimp (scampi).

This Americanized version of Fusilli (curly pasta) with Tuna Sauce is a "made from scratch" recipe with the help of some convenience foods, such as canned tomatoes, tomato paste and tuna. This trio is highly compatible with America's favorite cheese, Cheddar, and with Parmesan used as a topper. Make sure the finishing touch of black pepper is freshly ground for superb flavor.

Spaghetti with Shrimp Sauce is a convenience recipe since it uses packaged seasoning, as well as canned sauce, mushrooms and frozen shrimp, which are already cooked and cleaned. Provolone cheese, with its robust and smoky flavor, shines through to give the dish a savory taste.

Complete the menu with Italian bread, and butter, and a tossed green or fruit salad. Ice cream makes a fitting dessert, and why not spumoni flavor?

Tuna and shrimp are two unlikely but delicious candidates for pasta dishes.

FUSILLI WITH TUNA SAUCE

- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 1/4 cup minced fresh parsley
- 1 can (28 ounces) Italian-style tomatoes
- 1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
- 1 teaspoon basil, crushed
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 cans (6 1/2 ounces each) tuna
- 1 pound fusilli, cooked and drained or 1 pound thin spaghetti
- 1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) grated Cheddar cheese
- 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
- Parsley
- Freshly ground black pepper
- Melt butter in large skillet; saute garlic 2-3 minutes. Add parsley, tomatoes including liquid, tomato paste, basil and salt. Simmer, uncovered, 20 minutes. Drain tuna; flake. Add to sauce; heat thoroughly. Pour one half of pasta into heated serving bowl; pour on half of tuna sauce; sprinkle with half of Cheddar cheese. Add remaining pasta, then sauce, then Cheddar cheese. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Garnish with chopped parsley and grind black pepper over the dish. Makes 6 servings.

America hasn't bitten into real Italian cuisine

United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO — Lorenza de' Medici, one of Italy's most accomplished cooks, has a pet peeve—the Americanization of pasta by garnishing it in salads.

"It's one thing I object to very strongly," said Medici, who specializes in making authentic regional dishes of Italy using the highest quality ingredients and the simplest methods of preparation.

Medici said Italian food in the United States is generally prepared with too many spices or sauces, although she's enjoyed many restaurant meals and especially likes the cooking in San Francisco's North Beach.

"The food's wonderful, but generally distorted," said Medici during a tour to promote her latest creation, "Italy, the Beautiful Cookbook." (Knapp Press, $39.95). "Our best cooking is much more simple."

In Italy, said Medici, she prefers home cooking to most restaurants and said the kitchens are small but functional, a good meal being spaghetti, a salad and two side dishes.

The coffee-table cookbook gives both the feel and flavor of Italy by blending picturesque photographs with profiles of the regions and their culinary traditions, from the hearty fare in the south to the delicate dishes of the north and the classic cuisine in between.

Garnish is fancy illusion

Food magazines are a good source of garnishing ideas because the food featured in them is "dressed up" for photographs.

Following are some ideas culled from ARTCullinaire, starting with the most basic.

A plain main dish such as chicken, fish filets or steak can be made fancy simply by artfully arranging a serving of vegetables—baby carrots or sugar snap peas laid out in a "fan" for example—next to it on a plate.

Slicing and fanning is a simple trick that makes a wide variety of vegetables look extremely sophisticated. Zucchini, summer squash, cucumbers and carrots, for instance, can be sliced crosswise, or sliced lengthwise for a different look, and fanned. (Try slicing squash lengthwise without cutting all the way through at the top and then fan out the slices from where they are still joined near the "stem" to create an interesting shape.)

Fruits work the same way. Strawberries, peaches, pineapples, oranges, etc., look lovely thinly sliced and spread out next to a dessert.

Healthy salads need not be wheatgerm

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It's time to think about salad as a main course that delivers nutrients economically. Start now to ease off the extra few pounds gained during winter months and be ready for body-revealing summer fashions.

Heavy salads packed with protein, vitamins and carbohydrates can combine chicken, shrimp, potatoes and fresh vegetables in season for added color and flavor. These are salads to repeat for a summer buffet, picnic or office lunch. Add a piece of fruit, low-calorie whole-wheat or crisp bread, or crackers and a beverage for a well-rounded lunch.

CHICKEN AND VEGETABLE POTATO SALAD

- 1 6-ounce package Idaho hash brown potatoes
- 1 3/4 cups boiling water
- 2 boneless, skinless chicken breasts, cooked and cut in small thin strips
- 1 cup shredded carrot
- 1 small zucchini, thinly sliced
- 1/2 cup chopped red pepper
- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon dried basil leaves
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

In a large bowl, combine potatoes and boiling water; let stand for about 10 minutes, or until water is absorbed. Add chicken, carrot, zucchini and red pepper.

In a small bowl, combine oil, vinegar, mustard, garlic, basil, salt and pepper. Pour over potato mixture; toss to coat well. Cover and refrigerate for at least 2 hours. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

Variation: Potato Salad Nicoise: Follow recipe for Chicken and Vegetable Potato Salad. Omit chicken, carrot, zucchini and red pepper. Substitute one 7-ounce can tuna, drained and flaked; 1/4 pound green beans, cut into 1-inch pieces and cooked; 1 large tomato, chopped; and 1/4 cup sliced pitted ripe olives. Use 1/2 teaspoon dried tarragon leaves in dressing in place of basil.

CREAMY SHRIMP AND POTATO SALAD

- 2 Idaho potatoes (8 ounces each), unpared and cubed (3 cups)
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 3 tablespoons ketchup
- 1-2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
- 1 pound shrimp, peeled, cleaned, cut in half lengthwise and cooked
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1 green pepper, cut into thin strips

1/4 cup coarsely chopped red onion

In a medium saucepan, bring potatoes and 1-inch salted water to boil. Simmer for 5-8 minutes, or until tender; drain. Cool slightly.

Meanwhile, in a large bowl, combine mayonnaise, sour cream, ketchup, horseradish, salt and hot pepper sauce until smooth. Add potatoes, shrimp, celery, green pepper and red onion; toss to coat well. Cover; refrigerate for at least 2 hours. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Her spasms should be treated instead of pain

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have arthritis of the spine and other joints. I take Motrin but this does not help the painful muscle spasms in my back. Nothing my doctors have tried works.

DEAR READER: Spinal arthritis is often characterized by back pain, especially because of muscle spasms, as tired muscles attempt to compensate for the arthritic changes. Thus, treatment is sometimes more successful if it is directed toward relieving spasm rather than simply controlling pain.

For example, you might be helped by a massage or chiropractic manipulation. Or, if you wish, ask your doctor for a referral to a physiatrist, an M.D. trained in rehabilitation medicine.

In addition, physical therapy — including special stretching exercises, ultrasound treatments and application of heat — may relieve your spasms.

Finally, muscle-relaxing prescription drugs, such as Robaxin or Flexeril, can help. For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Understanding Osteoarthritis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My adrenal glands were removed because they were producing three times the amount of cortisone needed. Now I must take steroids for the rest of my life. What's my life expectancy?

DEAR READER: The adrenal glands produce substances that are necessary for life. If the adrenal glands are removed, the patient will not survive unless these substances are administered to make up the deficit.

Fortunately, adrenal steroids are readily available by prescription. Under proper medical supervision, your longevity will not be affected, as long as you

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Aggressive bidders have to play their cards well or they become quickly ostracized from polite bridge society. In today's deal South really had no right to hang his partner by bidding slam after North had carried on to five hearts. South, of course, was hoping for more high cards in North's hand. And, truthfully, either the queen of diamonds or the king or jack of clubs extra in the North hand would have provided a reasonable play for slam.

West led two rounds of spades. South ruffed with the ace of hearts and played the queen of clubs. West covered with the king and dummy won the ace. A spade was ruffed with the king of hearts, and the heart 10 was overtaken by the jack in dummy. Dummy's last spade was ruffed with the heart queen, and the heart eight was overtaken by dummy's nine. Declarer now led out the remaining hearts from dummy, throwing a club and a diamond from his hand. On the last heart from dummy, East had to come down to three cards. In order to preserve the jack of clubs, he reduced to only two diamonds. Meanwhile declarer, since he did not see anybody throw away the club jack, had nothing better to do than keep three diamonds to the ace and hope for the best. Sure enough, the seven of diamonds became a winner, thus ensuring that South would continue overbidding for the rest of his days.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 13, 1989

In the year ahead you are likely to experience a substantial alleviation of troublesome factors. In fact, some of the crosses you've been forced to bear could now turn into crowns.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You should have the enviable ability to keep events in proper perspective today and this could mean that little annoyances that devastate others aren't even likely to faze you. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today is a good day to provide a small luxury that will please a family member. Even if the cost bruises your budget a bit, the appreciation it will generate will be worth it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's a possibility your smaller interests may bomb out today, but don't despair because your successes are likely to come from larger issues. Focus your efforts on them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If there is something substantial you're hoping to achieve today, don't permit yourself to get caught up in insignificant details, because they could stall your momentum.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could be extremely lucky today in any dealings you'll have with your more influential friends. The same might not be true in involvements with people who lack clout.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your intuition could be equally as reliable as your intellect today. Success in your endeavors is likely if you utilize your gifts collectively.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Good things could happen for you today through the friends with whom you'll associate. A word of caution, however: for best results overlook their minor failings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A sudden and fortunate shift could occur for you today in matters that are meaningful to you financially. Lady Luck will be taking a personal interest in your affairs and she'll be trying to put a smile on your lips.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Trading on your own personal experiences could be of more value to you today than acting on the advice offered by others. If something worked successfully for you in the past, it can be replicated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't shortchange people for whom you are performing services today. Instead put forth your very best efforts. A good performance promises commensurate remunerations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Partnership arrangements should work out fortunately for you today, but not necessarily in adding to your resources. In this area they might even cost you a few pennies.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Evaluate merchandise you bring into your household today in terms of quality rather than price. A dollar saved could turn out to be a dollar earned if you focus on bargains, not value.

SEMINOLE SCENES

When on assignment, Herald photographers shoot a variety of pictures, each with a different composition, pose or angle. Not all of those are published. From time to time, the Herald intends to assemble some of those "outtakes" for a second look, from a different perspective, at news and feature events. Here is a collection of recent scenes from around Seminole County.

As if they'd never heard of Isaac Newton and the discovery of gravity, these hot doggers were up to some skywalking earlier this month. EVEN IT UP!

GIVE YOUR CHANGE TO FEED THE HUNGRY.

The statistics about hunger in America are shocking. More and more children and elderly people don't have enough to eat. But you can help make a change for the better. WINN-DIXIE and The Salvation Army have put together a simple, effective program called "Even It Up." When you buy groceries, just ask your cashier to "even up" your grocery total to the next dollar. The funds collected will go to The Salvation Army to provide fresh food items for needy families.
