County Teacher Union Endorses Candidates

Herbert Eckstein

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

The union representing Seminole County teachers doesn't think two of the three incumbent school board members up for re-election this fall are knowledgeable and responsive to teachers' and students' needs, and wants them out of office, replaced with two political newcomers who have worked with students and teachers.

One endorsed candidate is a high school teacher, while the other is a school team coach.

Louella Rahming, Seminole Education Association president, revealed the SEA endorsements of district one candidate Larry Betsinger, 43, Longwood, and Herbert "Whitey" Eckstein, 41, Sanford, for the district five seat. The incumbents are Bill Kroll in district one, and Jean Bryant in district five. This shapes up to a three-person race in each of those districts. Also running in district one is Rudy Sloan and in district five, Ann Nelswender both of Sanford.

SEA Executive Director Marshall Ogletree said the SEA, whose membership is made up of slightly more than 50 percent of the 2,449 teachers in the school district, saw no reason to make an endorsement for the district 4 seat, since there is no announced opposition for Pat Telson, the third school member up for re-election this year.

Ms. Rahming gave campaign contribution checks of $800 each to Betsinger and Eckstein.

Kroll is seeking his third four-year term, as is Bryant, while Telson is running for her fourth term.

"I want to be responsive to the people, sensitive to the needs of special children, an advocate for the people and have a board that works together for the benefit of all," Betsinger said.

Betsinger is a soccer coach at Lake Mary and Oviedo high schools.

Eckstein said. "Teacher morale is at an all-time low," and that attitude is rubbing off on teachers. He said one of his five children no longer wants to become a teacher because of low pay and morale. Eckstein is a veteran of 17 years as a teacher at Seminole High School.

He also said he is concerned about the county-wide school construction under the $105 million bond issue, and the reported need for an additional $2 million in funding for projects at Lake Howell and Lake Brantley high schools.

Ogletree promised to activate as many SEA members as possible to work for the election of Betsinger and Eckstein.

Sanford Sets Bond Issue Talks

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford commissioners are tentatively scheduled to meet Friday at 4 p.m. for consideration of the $18 million bond issue the city anticipates floating in August for its wastewater management program.

Commissioners had considered holding the bond meeting today at 4 p.m., although it will now be delayed until at least Friday while Sanford investment bankers, Hough and Co., work to secure insurance for the issue, which would bring it in at a higher market rating and lower payback rate for the city, City Manager Frank Faison said.

The city hopes to secure the bond issue before anticipated fall adoption of federal tax reforms which are expected to adversely affect tax benefits enjoyed by municipal issues, Faison said.

The $18 million bond issue is one of two planned to fund the city's revised wastewater management program, which targets effluent disposal on city-owned properties through

Price Fall

OPEC's excess oil production has brought reduced gas prices but it took a gust of wind in Sanford early today to really bring the price down. At Highway Oil service station at U.S. Highway 17-92 and 24th Street, the price of regular appeared to be 7.9 cents-a-gallon. But a quick check of the other side revealed the true price — 77.9

Troopers Ticket Hundreds

Almost 800 speeders were ticketed by Florida Highway Patrol troopers on Interstate 4 Sunday in a campaign to slow down traffic on the coast-to-coast throughway.

The crackdown was not unexpected. Motorists had been warned by FHP through the news media that they would be snagging speeders on the interstate.

During the 8-hour period, troopers gave unsuspecting drivers 777 tickets. Normally, FHP hands out 600 a month statewide.

The crackdown is part of FHP's statewide effort to induce drivers to obey the 55-mph speed limit. The reason is economic: If studies show that more than half the drivers in Florida do not obey the speed limit the state stands to lose $13 million of federal transportation money. About 47 percent of the state's driver travel an average of 7 mph over the limit, according to the FHP.

The ticketing stretched for 93 miles, Daytona Beach to Tampa. Fifty-five troopers and six airplanes worked the highway from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The planes were equipped with special stop watches and were undetectable by radar devices used by motorists. The pilots identified the speeding vehicles for roadbound troopers, who then made the stops.

County for county breakdowns of ticketing was not available but in Polk County 184 speeders were ticketed: 100 for driving 60 to 64; 67 for those driving 65 to 69; twelve for going 70 to 74; and, five tickets for motorists

Compiled from Staff and Wire Reports

Florida Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner today will inspect the parched Panhandle where a summer drought threatens to drive over the edge many farmers who have been barely surviving because of low prices and high costs.

Starting in Marianna, Conner will work his way west to meet with county agents and farmers in Jackson, Washington, Holmes, Walton and Okaloosa counties. Some areas have been without rain for 40 to 50 days.

Farmers say they are depleting their stores of cattle feed because the current hay crop hasn't grown enough to be cut. Meanwhile, only a third of some corn crops may be harvested; soybeans, cotton and peanuts are wilting in the fields.

Most farmers are predicting below-average yields. As the drought continues, estimates of losses grow.

"I know of people who have sold all their land just to apply (the money) to their debts," said Florida Cooperative Extension Service agent Edsel Thomaston in Walton County. "People who have been farming for three generations, their sons are looking for other employment and it goes on and on."

Conner also hopes to attract a visit by a U.S. Department of Agriculture task force that is taking a two-day tour of dry areas in Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas. Across the Southeast on Sunday there was no respite from the two-week heat wave that has caused an estimated $700 million in crop damage.

The number of heat-related deaths climbed to 26 Sunday when North Carolina officials updated their figures to six dead.

At least nine people have died in Georgia, two in South Carolina, one each in Virginia and Louisiana, three in Alabama and two each in Indiana and Missouri.

"It would be nice for people to encourage their friends to take care of any elderly people they know during this heat," said Dr. Brad Collins of the Charleston County, S.C., medical examiner's office.

The National Weather Service said parts of the Southeast, which has been under a stagnant high-pressure system for weeks, could expect some relief this week but that temperatures would return to 100° by Thursday.

Policeman, Prisoner Hurt In Crash

A Sanford police officer and his prisoner were injured early Saturday when the patrol car he was driving was involved in a two-vehicle accident while on the way to the county jail.

Officer Tim Black, 24, of Sanford, and his prisoner David Lewis, 34, of Sanford, were treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital and released.

Also treated and released was the driver of the second vehicle, Blake Gebhart, 21, of 202 Geneva Gardens, Sanford.

According to Police Chief Steve Harriett, Black was driving the patrol car south on French Avenue around 2 a.m. when his vehicle and a northbound car, attempting to turn left, collided at the intersection of French and 25th St. The patrol car then ran into a utility pole, according to police.

Black's prisoner was handcuffed and in the back of the patrol car at the time of the accident and received a cut on the head. He was under arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct and had been arrested only a few minutes earlier.

Although Black was wearing a seat belt and a loosely fitting shoulder harness, his head smashed into the windshield, shattering it. His chest bent the steering wheel and his knees dented the bottom of the dashboard, investigators said.

According to Harriett, Black was suffering from "moderate pain" to the forehead, knees, jaw and chest. Gebhart received a 1-inch cut on the forehead, a 1½-inch cut on the knee, and minor chest cuts.

Charges are reportedly pending against Gebhart. —Karen Talley, Deane Jordan

18th Traffic Fatality

A 32-year-old Orlando man was killed in Longwood early Saturday when the motorcycle he was riding was struck from behind by a car. Dead is Kim R. Heath, of 5271 Angus Ave.

According to Lt. Mark Smock of the Longwood police, the incident occurred at 2:32 a.m. on State Road 434 near Ichabod Trail. Heath's westbound 1980 Harley Davidson was struck from behind by a 1982 Mercedes Benz also westbound.

Heath died of injuries around 4:15 a.m. Police have not disclosed the identity of the driver of the car, though charges are pending. The Mercedes is owned by Ronald Brian Haendiges of 707 Blue Lake Drive, Altamonte Springs.

Vote On Judge's Impeachment Scheduled For Wednesday

Compiled from Staff and Wire Reports

WASHINGTON — The House is scheduled to vote Wednesday on the impeachment of U.S. District Judge Harry Claiborne of Nevada, which could result in the first Senate impeachment trial in 50 years.

Claiborne, 69, is serving a 2-year sentence for tax evasion at the federal prison at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. He refused to resign following his conviction and continues to receive his $78,800 a year salary. Claiborne could return to the bench following his release, if not impeached, since federal judges are appointed for life.

The House Judiciary Committee voted unanimously last month on four articles of impeachment against Claiborne, based on his conviction on two counts of tax evasion and his bringing "disrepute on the federal judiciary." Claiborne was appointed by President Jimmy Carter in 1978.

Newlyweds Now Honeymooning

CAPE COD — Newlyweds Caroline Kennedy and Edwin Schlossberg left for their honeymoon Sunday but the remainder of the clan remained at Cape Cod to celebrate the birthday of Rose Kennedy, who will be 98 Tuesday.

Mrs. Kennedy was reported as being bed-ridden and was unable to attend her granddaughter's wedding Saturday or the six-hour reception which followed at the family's Hyannis Port estate.

The newlyweds visited her before leaving for Boston where they spent the night. They left Sunday for an undisclosed honeymoon site.

Titanic's Stern Found

WOODS HOLE — Explorers found the stern of the Titanic about 200 feet from the main portion of the sunken luxury liner, the expedition's leader reported Sunday.

Robert Ballard said by radio from the research vessel, Atlantis II, that he estimated the stern section to be about 250 feet long and that it was discovered Saturday by a remote controlled camera.

Ballard also reported finding an engine room telegraph and more ship boilers. The wreckage is at the bottom, about 2 1/2 miles below the surface of the Atlantic Ocean and about 450 miles from Newfoundland.

The 882-foot Titanic was on her maiden voyage from Southampton in Great Britain when it was struck by an iceberg and sank in 1912.

Home Village of Britain's Princess To Be Pulls Out All The Stops For Celebration

By Gregory Jessen
UPI Senior Editor

DUMMER, England (UPI) — Dummer's 500 people have been reveling in the limelight for weeks, but that's nothing to the all-day party they plan Wednesday when village girl Sarah Ferguson becomes a princess.

"We've been told 120 television crewmen are coming," said Richard Waterman, manager of Dummer's only pub, the 400-year-old Queen Inn. "I'm getting up at 5 a.m. to cook breakfast for them."

There will be early risers aplenty in Dummer's immaculately kept thatched cottages and spread-out brick houses. No one will miss a moment of the day red-haired "Fergie" marries Prince Andrew, Queen Elizabeth's second son, in London's Westminster Abbey.

"There's great excitement in the village now," Waterman said. "Everybody's very happy. We feel as though we're celebrating it with her."

In part they already have. Sarah's father, Maj. Ron Ferguson, threw a pre-wedding party for the whole village at Dummer Down Farm, his luxurious estate three-quarters of a mile from the village. Sarah and Andrew both came. So did the butcher, the mailman and the baker.

Dummer Down Farm is at the end of a long lane running from the top of Dummer's boomerang shape. The Ferguson house is a square, red brick Queen Anne-era mansion whose walled lawns open onto rolling lush fields.

Where the village's boomerang bends is little All Saints church, a 700-year-old stone chapel whose amazing timbering holds up a squat wooden tower. Sarah was christened there, and on her nuptial evening is a "royal wedding thanksgiving service" beneath its medieval half-barrel roof.

"It'll be an all-day party," Waterman said in the beamed, spacious Queen beside a poster for "Fergie Fizz," a wedding concoction of champagne, grenadine and much else.

"We're having a barbecue, with a brass band and Morris dancers and everything — there'll be lots going on. All our staff will be dressed in red, white and blue: That sort of thing."

Sarah is from Dummer but not really part of it. "Not many people here really know her," Waterman said. She went away to school, worked in London — a commutable 49 miles east — and spent weekends at the farm outside the village.

But every villager is acutely aware of the connection — and proud of it.

"The 900-year history of Dummer will be all the richer for this announcement," said the parish council when the engagement was made known. It sent a telegram to Sarah and Andrew at Buckingham Palace "to wish you both every happiness."

Then came a trickle of people eager to see Fergie's roots. The trickle is now a flood.

"There are lots more tourists now than last week, even," Waterman said. And the media came.

"I've been on radio. I've been on television — it's been great," grinned Pat Shelley in her tiny all-purpose store, the only store in Dummer. "I'm sure it's going to take us a while to get down to earth again."

"It'll be very quiet when it's all over," echoed a shopper at the store's post office window. "It's a once-in-a-lifetime thing, a real excitement. I think it's lovely."

So do most people lucky enough to call Dummer home. It is hard to find a dissenting voice on the village's tree-bowered streets — there are only two, both of them minor roads leading from nowhere to nowhere.

"Some people are remaining sane in spite of all the fuss," said the manageress of a craft shop-gallery in a former Methodist chapel built in 1863.

And the fuss, in truth, only grazes Dummer's surface.

Its hottest current argument is over parking restrictions. It is putting on no wedding airs — thatchers are manuring an immaculate new thatched roof on the stone house called Glebe Cottage as routine refurbishment, not royal wedding dressing.

When the excitement passes, this sleepy, comfortable hamlet will revert to what it has been for centuries — a nice place to live, a typical example of Britain's attractive rural villages.

With the one added cache that Dummer will be the village of a royal princess.

Four Lawyers Running For Circuit Judge Seat

Four attorneys qualified to run for a judgeship vacated in the Seminole Circuit while incumbent Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. drew no opposition.

A newly created judgeship spanning both counties of the circuit, Seminole and Brevard, has drawn one candidate from each county.

Qualifying for judge candidates ended Friday.

In the race for a seat being vacated by Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi are C.H. "Bill" Eaton, Altamonte Springs, Ned N. Julian Jr., of Sanford, Jim Lavigne, of Casselberry and Leonard Wood, of Altamonte Springs. Salfi is resigning after 16 years on the bench to go into private practice and to teach.

The four will face each other Sept. 2. If one of them does not get a clear majority, the highest two vote-getters will face each other in the general election Nov. 4.

Unless there is a write-in candidate, Davis will automatically be reelected Sept. 2. He was elected to the position in 1980 and currently hears civil and domestic cases. A write-in candidate would have to face the judge in the November general election. Also returned to office without opposition, if there is no write-in candidate, was Circuit Judge Gil Goshorn of Brevard County.

In the race for the newly-created judgeship, Lake Mary attorney and former Maitland City Judge Joe Rosler will face off against County Judge Lawrence Johnston, of Merritt Island.

The judge who takes that seat will hear cases in both counties.

Townsppeople Say Cross To Stay; Wisconsin Atheists Say Go

STARKE — The lighted cross atop the water tower at Starke serves as a Christmas decoration, an aircraft beacon, and a symbol of the townspeople's commitment to religion, say the townspeople of the north-central Florida town.

But Anne Gaylor, president of the Freedom From Religion Foundation in Madison, Wis., wrote Starke's Mayor Charles Schaefer last fall that the 4-foot high cross should come down and states her organization of atheists and agnostics is concerned about separation of church and state.

The city pays the electric bills for the cross and all of the 34 churches in Starke support the continued presence of the cross. So do 99 percent of the citizens of the city, according to Schaefer.

Gaylor hasn't seen the cross but states that one of her organization's 150 members did see it. A Florida attorney has been retained but they can find not plaintiff living in Starke to file suit.

Investors Await Treasure Split

KEY WEST — About 500 investors and employees of Mel Fisher's Treasure Salvors, Inc. are waiting for their share of the bounty from the Nuestra Senora de Atocha found by divers in July, 1985.

Company representatives have estimated the value of the treasure at least $130 million.

The so called "mother lode" of the sunken galleon, sunk in a hurricane in 1622, contains 2,935 emeralds, 122 gold bars and discs and nearly 1,000 70-pound silver bars.

European Tastes In Reagan Suite

MIAMI — President Ronald Reagan, Midwesterner, will be surrounded by European decor when he arrives in Miami this week and checks into the Hotel Inter-Continental.

A special five-room suite has been especially redesigned to make the president feel right at home. The apartment is designed in the French Regency style and features silk draperies, hand-painted and hand-waxed Italian wallpaper, Portuguese needlepoint rugs, a baby grand piano and a king-sized bed.

One feature of the room will make the transplanted Californian feel at home: paintings of horses.

After the president checks out, the suite will cost $1,500 per day, according to Lesli Summers, spokeswoman for the hotel.

Hemingway Days Said Success

KEY WEST — The week-long Hemingway Days Festival drew more than 10,000 visitors to this tip city in the Keys as a Dade City resident beat out 41 other contestants in a Papa Hemingway Look-Alike Contest.

Fred Johnson was judged closest in appearance to the bearded, gray-haired author who would have been 87 today. Hemingway died in 1961.

Jonathan Haws of Miami beat out 457 contestants to place first in short story competition with his manuscript, "Saving the World."

Libyan Terrorist Could Drive Into U.S.

By Tom Tiede

MORSE LINE, VI. (NEA) — Ever since the United States dispatched that fleet of warplanes over Libya last April, there have been worries about repercussions on America's international borders. The fear is that foreign thugs are going to sneak across the lines to commit terrorist acts in this country.

The concern has been particularly prevalent on the southern boundary. Tension has been rife all along the Rio Grande. The Border Patrol has increased its vigilance, residents are passing around ominous rumors, and at least one sheriff has asked the federal government to send in military reinforcements.

But there is some argument whether the almost frenetic justified. Or at least whether it may be misplaced. Many immigration officials say the 3,987-mile line that separates the contiguous United States from Canada is actually the most vulnerable at the moment.

One reason is that there may be less risk crossing the northern boundary. And certainly there can be less inconvenience. Terrorism is a science now, its adherents consider the variables of success, and the fact is the U.S.-Canada border is the least protected line of its kind in the world.

With that in mind, officials say a sophisticated terrorist would have few problems invading the United States from the north. Immigration agents say they could just drive in at leisure. The agents have even drawn up remarkably simple scenarios on how a fanatic killer might plan his way into the country.

One of the scenarios follows: The terrorist in this case will be a young Libyan attending school in France. His education is financed by Moammar Gadhafi, and so he is occasionally ordered to return a favor. He is 23, single and personable, he is well traveled and speaks several languages, and he has a French passport and driver's license.

He might have obtained the passport and license in two ways. He could be a naturalized French citizen, still holding allegiance to Gadhafi, or he may have purchased the documents in the illegal market. Papers can be printed in Paris for $1,000 to $5,000, depending on quality, and the best are very good.

In either event, the Libyan terrorist is not just a Libyan terrorist. He is on the face of it a French citizen. He can therefore buy a ticket on any of the direct flights to Canada, there are a dozen or more each day, and he can be in, say, Montreal, 40 miles from the United States, in less than seven hours.

Why Montreal? It is the center of the French-speaking province of Quebec, so the language would be compatible; it is the Canadian city closest to New York and Washington, the most likely terrorist targets; and it sits above a part of the border that is lengthy, sparsely populated and altogether porous.

Immigration officials speculate that the Libyan terrorist could have a pre-positioned colleague drive him across the border from Montreal. But the easiest tactic would be to rent a car. Agencies in Canada, like those in the United States, recognize the French driving license.

And so the man has arrived in Montreal, on Air France Flight 39, at 6 p.m. He gets his bags and rents a car by 7. He can then leave the city on Dominion Highway 10, turn east on Route 104, and south on 133. He might stop on the way for refreshments and still be at the Vermont border before 8.

Once there he has a choice. He doesn't want to cross over by way of one of the 24-hour customs stations, because of the risk of detection, thus he can either drive through one of the stations that close in the evenings, or look around for one of the dozens of roads that do not have checkpoints at all.

Looking around also carries a risk of course. And so the terrorist might decide to enter the United States here at the remote point of Morse Line. The customs house shuts down at 6 p.m., the immigration officer is gone, and the Libyan visitor is more or less free to drive through without inspection.

Uganda: New Calls To Re-Establish Ancient Monarchy

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — As Uganda attempts to stabilize under President Yoweri Museveni after years of almost constant civil war, new calls have been issued to re-establish the ancient monarchies under which the country flourished.

The two most ancient kingdoms in the country were Bunyoro and Buganda, whose people form the majority tribe in the modern nation. Tradition has the Bugandan monarchy going back 22 generations, the Bunyoro 18. But the Ankole, Koki and Kiziba kingdoms were comparable.

When 19th century Europeans penetrated the Ugandan interior, they were shocked to discover three main surviving monarchies of remarkable civilization.

"Without any precedent to guide them or any outside help, they had achieved a native culture which was far in advance of any south of the Sahara," states a typical modern assessment.

But alongside the sophisticated courts and the regal palaces was an intense barbarity, matching the worst bloody excesses of dictator Idi Amin.

The travelers reported that Mutesa, the young Buganda king in the 1850s, was a strutting psychopath whose reaction to the slightest offense was as murderously whimsical as Lewis Carroll's Queen of Hearts.

Mutesa's direct descendent was King Freddie Mutesa. His pre-eminent position as "kabaka" (king) of his people was recognized in Uganda's 1962 independence constitution. He became Ugandan president but quickly fell out with Prime Minister Milton Obote.

Following an alleged coup plot in the kabaka's name, Obote ordered his army chief, then Idi Amin, to attack the king's palace outside Kampala in 1966. King Freddy, beloved of British gossip columnists, fled to end his days in alcoholic poverty in London three years later.

Obote abolished all five remaining monarchies.

But the legendary attachment of the Buganda to their kings survives.

Sanford Set to Reduce PUD Size Requirements

Sanford will promote innovative construction projects without sacrificing its development control by markedly reducing size restrictions for planned unit developments, according to the city staff and citizen board planners who developed the proposal.

The proposal, which involves a zoning amendment to decrease PUD size restrictions from 100 to one acre, went without citizen input during a public hearing at Thursday night's Planning and Zoning Board meeting. The P&Z, which developed the amendment with city planning staff, has now forwarded its recommended approval to city commissioners, who will also hold a public session and then vote on final adoption.

P&Z chairman John Morris, City Engineering and Planning Director Bill Simmons and City Planner Jay Marder describe the PUD amendment as way to encourage creative growth in Sanford, without compromise to city building controls.

They say there are few if any 100-acre tracts in Sanford and that reducing PUD size restraints will make this manner of development accessible to developers previously prohibited from the mixed uses of land and the variations on specific structures allowed through PUD rezoning.

Implementation of these variations and mixed uses also necessitates developers submit detailed development proposals and go through at least three public hearings, which leads city representatives to believe there will not be too many developers with smaller parcels seeking PUD rezonings.

As required by the city, the specific plans of development must include the exact locations of various land uses, open spaces, community facilities and internal traffic circulation patterns.

Once rezoned PUD by the city, the targeted area can become a mini-community, containing schools, churches, offices, shopping centers and single family and multi-family residences.

In addition to mini-community development, PUD rezonings can also be sought for less ambitious projects. Sanford Arbor and Building Inspector Bettie Sonnenberg said. As example for a smaller tract of land, Ms. Sonnenberg cited more laxity in the development of cluster homes, as long as the number of structures does not exceed the city building restriction of eight residences per acre.

She said a PUD rezoning for this type of project would enable a developer with a 10-acre tract to build 80 homes in a relatively concentrated area and thus open up the parcel's remaining land as park space.

Without a PUD rezoning, city density controls necessitate structures be planned in accordance with specific lot size regulations, Ms. Sonnenberg said. —Karen Talley

Toward A Better Japan

Washington could hardly have scripted a better outcome for Japan's recent parliamentary elections. The results augur well for almost everything that the Reagan administration wants from Japan these days: most especially more spending by the Japanese on their own defense plus a narrowing of the trade deficit now so lopsidedly in Japan's favor.

These and more should flow from the landslide victory won by Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone's Liberal Democratic Party. The politically conservative, pro-U.S. LDP scored a stunning win, piling up majorities in enough legislative districts to be assured of 304 seats in the lower house of the Japanese Diet where parliamentary power is concentrated. This total was far more than the 271 needed for an absolute majority and it will enable the Liberal Democratic Party to rule on its own, dispensing with its current parliamentary coalition. By contrast, the opposition Socialist Party suffered its worst drubbing in many years, losing 26 seats in the lower house.

What is more, the remarkable 304-seat total run up by the LDP makes it quite possible that Mr. Nakasone could stay on as party leader and, accordingly, be allowed to serve an unprecedented third two-year term as Japan's prime minister. Alternately, Mr. Nakasone might simply seek to extend his current term beyond its scheduled expiration in October. In any event, this most outspokenly pro-American of Japan's recent prime ministers is strongly positioned to interpret his party's victory as a mandate for the Nakasone agenda and then to act accordingly.

That agenda is much more than merely a transitory effort to appease Washington and ease strains in U.S.-Japan relations. Mr. Nakasone argues that Japan must assume responsibilities commensurate with its economic power. That means bearing more of the burden of its own defense and spending more than the present 1 percent of gross national product on that defense. It means restructuring Japan's export-oriented economy in order to shrink trade surpluses with such trading partners as the United States. It also means further reducing those trade surpluses, and in the process improving living standards in Japan, by opening up more of the Japanese market to foreign goods.

To accomplish these goals and to stimulate Japan's domestic economy, Prime Minister Nakasone is pushing a list of supply-side, Reaganite reforms: Cuts in personal income tax rates, fewer economic regulations, and privatizing such state-owned enterprises as Japan's railroads and telecommunications network.

Taken together, these internal reforms plus Mr. Nakasone's forthrightly stated objectives could lead eventually to a better Japan, a nation providing more for its own citizens and contributing more equitably to the global trading system. This evolution would serve America's interests nearly as well as Japan's.

The Liberal Democratic Party's remarkable victory, its most resounding electoral win since 1960, makes it far more likely that these reforms will be achieved. The chances will be greater still if, as the election results suggested, Yasuhiro Nakasone can stay on as prime minister. Good news indeed.

Contra Aid From That Old Gang At The 'Y'

Strange are the ways of Washington. The front-page stories read "Reagan Wins Contra Battle in Congress."

Yet behind the scenes were four unelected Democrats, most of them relatively liberal, who played a critical role in passing the contra legislation. The four are:

Robert Leiken, Latin American expert at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, a liberal-to-moderate think tank. Leiken started out as a supporter of the Sandinista government in Nicaragua. After many visits, however, he saw the betrayal of the Sandinista revolution by the Marxist-Leninists who now rule. Leiken wrote a blockbuster article about the Sandinistas for the influential New Republic magazine.

Bernard Aronson, a Washington consultant, former speech-writer for Jimmy Carter and for Walter Mondale, former labor organizer for insurgent coal miners. Aronson visited El Salvador and was horrified by both the right-wing death squads and the communist guerrillas. He testified to Congress about supporting a democratic center. He visited Nicaragua and found similarities: an abhorrent Sandinista regime, and the residue of Somoza's army among the contras. He too, wrote a New Republic article: it pleaded for aid to Nicaraguans who were neither communists nor Somocistas, but democrats.

Bruce Cameron was the most left wing of the four. He was a lobbyist on human rights for the Americans for Democratic Action, the hyper-liberal Democratic activist group. In his own words, his roots were in the "congressionally oriented, anti-imperialist, anti-war movement." But he came to the view that "Leninism is the greatest threat to human freedom in the world today." Cameron took a leave of absence from the ADA to lobby in Congress for his beliefs. The ADA demanded his resignation soon thereafter.

Penn Kemble was the most conservative. Although a veteran of the civil rights and labor movements, in recent years Kemble has been a leader of the Coalition for a Democratic Majority. CDM is a group of Democrats who stand for the pro-defense views of the late Sen. Henry Jackson. Kemble helped found "Prodemca," a group dedicated to its acronym: "Pro-democracy in Central America." A longtime colleague of mine, Kemble made an early trip to contra base camps. The four men had different skills and backgrounds. Each did his own thing: lobbying, drafting legislation, working with and setting up Central American trips for congressmen, writing articles, responding to congressional invitations to elaborate on their articles, working with the Democrats and the administration to broker a compromise that could pass the Congress.

The four shared something more than views on Central America. They all worked out at a Washington YMCA. Periodically, members of the group would see each other, occasionally in the locker room, often on other Washington by-ways. They would swap information, argue, and go on about their activities.

As it evolved, their goal became clear: to put conditions on U.S. military aid to the contras in ways that would not hamstring the effort. That meant guarantees that the contras would honor human rights, that the contra factions would unify, that civilians would dominate the military, that financial controls would be tight, that economic aid be offered to neighboring countries and that diplomacy continue even as the military pressure increased.

Poison Ivy Acts Quickly

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Jere Guin was out collecting samples of poison ivy in the mountains of California when his glasses slipped off his nose. He picked them off the ground, popped them back on his face and five hours later felt a rash spread across the bridge of his nose and under his eyes.

"You see, poison ivy appears on the face quickly because the skin is not as thick," he said, using his misfortune as a perfect illustrative example. "I put some on my forearm and it took 10 days to appear."

Poison ivy, a red itchy rash that crops up after exposure to plants such as poison ivy and sumac, is a condition so prone to variation and change that doctors have few rules as to how it is acquired, who is at risk and when it will appear and disappear.

They say a person's susceptibility to the condition can change over a lifetime, or even over a summer.

"People say they aren't allergic to poison ivy and then one outing changes everything," said Guin, a professor of dermatology at the University of Arkansas.

Poison ivy is known to be caused by urushiol, an oily substance in a number of plants — most notably poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac, according to a report from the National Institutes of Health near Washington.

After urushiol makes contact with the skin it seeps between cells into the epidermis and connects with white blood cells, triggering the body's immune system into an allergic reaction.

The process can take hours, days or even weeks, depending how much oil is involved and how thick the skin is, say doctors. Rashes rarely appear on the thick skin of the palms of the hands and soles of the feet and are at their worst on eyelids, the face and stomach.

Some people have a mysterious immunity against the pesky plants.

"Perhaps 15 percent of all people are tolerant," said Guin, who said these people may still become allergic to poison ivy at some point in their lifetimes.

A nasty outbreak of poison ivy will also make a person more sensitive to the plant's urushiol in the following months, according to the NIH. People appear to go through periods when they are more susceptible to poison ivy and periods when they can weather an exposure with only a mild itch.

Bulgaria Attacks Turkish Minority

By Jack Anderson
And
Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Cultural genocide is being systematically practiced against Bulgaria's Turkish minority by the communist regime. Those who resist the government's attempts to stamp out all traces of Turkish language and customs, and the minority's adherence to the Moslem religion, are either imprisoned or shot.

The plight of Bulgaria's ethnic Turks, who number about 1 million, or nearly 10 percent of the population, is described in cables to the State Department from the U.S. Embassy in Sofia. Our associate Lucette Lagnaud has seen the cables and interviewed experts on the subject. Here's what she learned about this little-publicized tragedy:

— The communist regime does not acknowledge that there are Turks in Bulgaria. One embassy

WILLIAM RUSHER

Redoing Constitution

An article in the Washington Post of July 13 affords a fascinating and almost unprecedented look at the process by which Supreme Court justices, or at any rate some of them, arrive at their often-extraordinary conclusions.

The story, by Post staff writer Al Kamen, involves the alleged original decision of Justice Lewis Powell to vote with four other justices to overturn Georgia's anti-sodomy statute, at least so far as it applies to two males, and his subsequent change of mind. (Powell actually wound up voting with the other four justices to uphold the constitutionality of the Georgia law.)

From internal evidence, it would appear that Kamen's story is probably based on information obtained from a law clerk to one of the justices in the minority in the Georgia case. If Powell did indeed send "a brief memo to his fellow justices saying that he was switching his vote," it must have come as a terrible shock to those on and near the court who thought they had carried the day and had invalidated, in one fell swoop, the anti-sodomy laws of 24 states.

Kamen's explanation of Powell's original view of the case is painfully clear. According to Kamen, four justices, led by Harry A. Blackmun, were prepared to hold "that a constitutional right to privacy protects homosexuals," at least unless "the state can show important reasons" to the contrary. Now, if you happen to have a copy of the Constitution handy (any World Almanac contains it), you will search it in vain for any reference to a "right to privacy," involving homosexual conduct or anything else. Never mind: In recent decades a majority of the court has held that it is there anyway, and has been gradually enlarging it.

But four is not a majority of the Supreme Court. Fear not! "Though Powell did not agree with the above reasoning," Kamen writes, "he voiced sufficient distaste for the anti-sodomy law that he agreed to provide the crucial fifth vote for an overall decision striking the Georgia statute."

And there, in all its splendor, you have as gross an example of what is called "judicial legislation" as you are ever likely to see. Kamen goes on to underscore the point: "The sources said Powell would vote to repeal anti-sodomy laws if he were a legislator." Not being one, his first impulse was to repeal them anyway, by casting his crucial vote with four colleagues who claimed to have found a "right to privacy" covering the matter somewhere in the Constitution.

To be sure, in this particular case Powell had a last-minute change of heart: "He was reluctant to have the court recognize more special rights not spelled out in the Constitution, the sources said." We must be grateful for Justice Powell's last-minute decision not to join Blackmun and the others in writing more brand-new provisions into the Constitution.

But now you see why Bismarck was so opposed to letting the public know how sausage is made. Someone in the Blackmun faction, outraged at losing the Georgia case because of Powell's change of mind, twitches back the curtain that normally cloaks the court's decision-making processes, and we glimpse Justice Powell initially agreeing to vote to kill the Georgia anti-sodomy law merely because of his "distaste" for it, even though he "did not agree with the reasoning" whereby it was declared unconstitutional.

VIEWPOINT

Nominee Antonin Scalia

By Judi Hasson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Antonin "Nino" Scalia, now on his way to the Supreme Court, had his first taste of lawyering at age 5, pleading the case of a kindergarten mate.

Scalia was at the scene of a scuffle where another youngster had broken a school window, recalls his aunt, Eva Panaro, who taught at Scalia's elementary school in Trenton, N.J.

Panaro remembers that her brainy and likeable nephew pulled the crying child into the principal's office at Grant Elementary School to plead his friend's case.

The annals of legal history did not record the outcome of the incident, but his aunt says young Nino was always "the kind who was going to take care of things."

From that early taste of advocacy, Scalia became a prominent legal scholar, a law professor at four universities, a federal appeals court judge and now a candidate for the Supreme Court.

Although his family had ties with the local Democratic party, the dark-haired, stocky jurist has always been a conservative.

And while Scalia, 50, is expected to win confirmation easily, his critics say he is out of step with the mainstream of legal thinking. They say his opinions have ignored years of legal precedents.

"It is clear that Judge Scalia is following a politics that is far right-wing of this country," said Audrey Feinberg, a New York lawyer who has analyzed his work for Supreme Court Watch, a think tank monitoring potential court nominees.

"The question is whether that is truly a rigid ideology or whether he can do what a Supreme Court justice is supposed to, and come to the court with an open mind. His record raises strong questions about that," she said.

President Reagan nominated Scalia in June to step into the seat being vacated by another conservative, William Rehnquist, who was tapped to replace retiring Chief Justice Warren Burger.

The National Organization For Women is one of a handful of organizations opposing both Scalia and Rehnquist, although a number of senators also have said they intend to oppose one or both nominations.

NOW president Eleanor Smel said recently that both nominees are extremists on two fundamental issues — women's rights and civil rights laws.

cable noted that the government "eliminated from statistical existence more than 1 million persons previously identified as (Turks)." This official creation of "unpersons" is "a socio-political feat of truly Orwellian proportions," the cable commented.

— In the past two years, the embassy reported, there have been "well-documented ... police terror tactics used to isolate remote villages and force inhabitants to change their full names from Islamic to Slavic/Christian Bulgarian names."

— The embassy reported that violence has resulted when ethnic Turks chose to resist the name changes and other attempts to eradicate their cultural identity. The militia, backed by the army, entered major Turkish communities and used "deadly force to reduce resistance," an embassy cable stated, adding: "There were several reported cases of mass civil violence, which resulted in hundreds of deaths and many more injuries."

— While some resisters were imprisoned on political charges, this relatively mild treatment was reserved for the "Turkish minority elite — party officials, teachers, etc.," the embassy reported. Most of the recalcitrant ethnic Turks were subjected to naked force. "Refusal to agree quickly to a name change was met by documented cases of summary executions. ... Individual killings seem to have been more widespread."

— As the poorest, least assimilated and already worst-treated of any minority in Bulgaria, the ethnic Turks are considered easy targets for Khomeini-style Moslem fundamentalism — a possibility that frightens the communist rulers. The embassy has received "reports of razed mosques and ... pressure against fundamental Islamic religious practices such as circumcision and funerals."

— Turkish-language publications were once numerous and widely read by the ethnic minority. But last year the government stepped in and the publications were "abruptly published only in Bulgarian," the embassy reported. At the same time, Turkish-language radio broadcasts were eliminated. "Today, not a single word of Turkish is published in Bulgaria," the embassy reported.

— The communist regime prudently applies its anti-Turkish discrimination to military service. As the embassy has explained, "The Bulgarian constitution's alleged 'equal treatment' of ... citizens does not apply to the Turks when it comes to military duty. The Turks are placed into uniformed labor battalions and are not entrusted with weapons. Very few Turks serve in the normal armed forces."

Campbell Runs Leg On Record

Sanford's Clifton Campbell is a tired but happy young man today. The Auburn University freshman concluded a spectacular first season Sunday by helping the United States' 1,600-meter relay team to a world record in the World Junior Track & Field Championships at Athens, Greece.

Campbell ran a key leg as the USA team crased the 1983 standard of 3:02.46 by turning in a 3:01.90 effort. William Reid, a 16-year-old Philadelphian, ran a 44.44 anchor outdistance Cuba for the gold medal.

Chip Rish, who runs for Arizona State, and Percy Waddle, a Columbus, Texas product, joined Reid and Campbell for the record run.

On Friday, Campbell finished fifth in the 400-meter run with a time of 46.52. The 400 was won by Australian Mile Murphy in 45.64. Pre-meet favorite Robert Hernandez of Cuba was second at 45.64.

Ormond Shackles Sanford For District Championship

David Thomas tossed a two-hitter and struck out 13 while Billy Glenn powered a mammoth two-run homer as Ormond Beach concluded its march through the Florida Junior Major League District 4 Baseball Tournament with an 8-0 victory over Sanford before 89 fans Saturday at Chase Park.

Ormond Beach, which won four games by a combine score of 47-10, advances to the Florida Junior Major League State Tournament at West Palm Beach.

"Thomas pitched a wonderful game," Ormond Beach manager Bill Rocca said. "Billy Glenn's homer was a big one."

Thomas faced just four batters over the minimum. Julius Bennett singled to right field in the second and Mike "Dr. K" Merthie singled to right center in the fourth. Thomas, who relied heavily on a dipping curveball, walked just one and hit one.

"We couldn't handle that kid (Thomas)," Sanford manager Duane LaFollette said. "He had a super curveball and just enough heat (on his fastball) to keep us off balance."

Sanford's lone scoring threat came in the first inning when James Jackson walked and stole second. Thomas, though, fanned Von Eric Small and Anton Reid for two outs. Jackson stole third with Merthie at bat, but Thomas struck out Merthie to end the threat. No Sanford runner reached third base the rest of the game.

Merthie, who was pitching with one day's rest, hurled six gummy innings, allowing five hits, striking out five and walking one. Merthie retired nine of the first 11 hitters he faced before broke the scoreless battle in the fourth.

Baseball

Tommy Lee, who had three hits, beat out an infield single and went to second when third baseman Reid overthrew first base. Glenn, a 6-3, 220-pound 14-year-old first baseman, was next. He picked on a Merthie fastball and lined it over the 310-foot sign in center field for a 2-0 lead.

"That took the wind out of our sails," LaFollette said. "We weren't up for the game and that really got us down."

Merthie retired the next three hitters but ran into trouble again in the fifth. Bill Settlemyr walked and moved to second on a wild pitch before Tom Clemons went in to pinch run. Mike Rocca dropped a bunt single and moved to second on a wild throw by Merthie as Clemons went to third.

Randy Hearne followed with a looping single to left to chase home Clemons and Rocca for a 4-0 lead.

Merthie worked the sixth, getting to strikeouts before exhausting his 16 tournament innings. Derrick Taylor came on to finish the seventh and was roughed up for four runs on four hits. Lee had a two-run single. Two Sanford errors aided the other two runs.

Norman Wins Major Victory

TURNBERRY, Scotland (UPI) — After two near misses in the United States this season, Greg Norman finally claimed his first major golf title with a victory in the British Open Championship.

Winning in Britain made the victory that much more significant for Norman, an Australian.

"It's most special because, outside of Australia, (Britain) was the first place that accepted me as a professional golfer," he said. "Everybody out here supported me for five years playing the European Tour and I appreciate it very much."

"To win my first Open in front of (the British public), especially the gallery up here in Scotland, is the greatest feeling ever," Norman said after carding a 69 for a four-round total of par 280 and a 5-shot victory.

The Australian, who has played the U.S. Tour since 1983 and leads the current money list, refused to comment about his run-in with spectators at the U.S. Open at Shinnecock, New York earlier this year, when he headed the field into the last round but lost to Raymond Floyd.

"I experienced something at the opposite end at Shinnecock," Norman said, comparing the two tournaments. "It's just great to come here and be accepted as a professional golfer and hit great shots and be appreciated."

Norman said his first major victories should make the rest easier.

"When you start as a pro, winning your first tournament is a big rung to climb. Then the rungs get closer together, until you get to winning a major. Then the rung seems a long way up again."

Winds, sometimes gusting and at

Golf

Other times blowing persistently across the fairways or straight down toward the tees, made it a difficult week on the 6,957 yard Ailsa Course.

Rain also fell in torrents, at times, particularly during the closing stages of Norman's third round Saturday.

The weather made the narrow fairways look even smaller and seemed to lure the ball into the thick, heavy rough.

Caught in the worst of the weather Saturday, Norman matched his first-round 74, and in-between he cashed in on favorable conditions to equal the course record with a 7-under-par 63.

As at this season's U.S. Open and the U.S. Masters before it, Norman entered the final round one stroke up on the field.

He was determined not to let things slip this time, keeping himself keyed up and not letting his concentration lapse.

When Japan's Tommy Nakajima, had a double-bogey 6 at the first hole Sunday Norman had a 3-stroke cushion.

Kept on the right track by the advice of his American caddie Pete Bender, the 6-foot-3 Australian walked onto the final green with five shots in hand to complete a 1-under-par 69.

Britain's Gordon Brand Snr took a surprise second place at 285 with a 71 that was pulled together through a 32-stroke back nine.

One shot further back were Bernhard Langer of West Germany

Altamontes Look For Bat Revival In Sectionals

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Coming off narrow victories in their district finals, the Altamonte Senior and Altamonte Junior All-Stars will look to get the bats back on track when they open play in sectional tournaments tonight.

●The Altamonte Senior All-Stars, District 14 champions, will go up against District 11 winner Arlington tonight at 7:30 in the second game of the Section 1 All-Star Tournament at Vann Park in Deltona. The first game, starting at 5 p.m., pits District 15 champion West Hernandez against the District 1 winner.

●The Altamonte Junior All-Stars, unbeaten District 14 champions, take on District 1 champion Jay East tonight at 7:30 in the Section 1 Tournament at Rolling Hills. The first game has District 11 winner Yulee going against District 15 champion Crystal River.

For the Altamonte Seniors, righthander Alex Birle will be on the mound. Birle was the losing pitcher in Thursday's 10-0 district loss to Ocoee. Altamonte bounced back to win the final on Friday, 1-0, behind the pitching of Aaron "The Shlek" Iatarola and the solo home run of Pat DeLuca.

"Alex (Birle) was a little off the last game but the defense made some mistakes that contributed," Altamonte manager Woody Woodard said. "I believe he'll do better this time."

Woodard also believes the offense will come alive again after getting just eight hits in the last two games. Altamonte had nine hits in a 5-0 win over Ocoee in the first of the three district games. "We haven't hit the ball well at all the last couple of games," Woodard said. "I expect us to get at least nine hits a game. Three and four is well below what we're capable of. If we get the hitting going, it'll look good for us."

The most consistent hitters in tournament play for Altamonte have been second baseman Carlos Abreu, first baseman Trevor Moore and infielder-outfielder Shane Stuffed. Woodard said he is hoping for two players — Iatarola and Jimmy Kremer — whose bats carried his Dodgers to the regular season title to come alive in the section tournament.

Defensively, Altamonte has gotten outstanding play from shortstop Wes Weger, second baseman Abreu and first baseman Moore along with Stuffed who plays almost every position and is one of the team's starting pitchers. Iatarola and Weger, who combined to one-hit Ocoee on Friday, will also see mound action.

"I've never been this far before and am looking forward to it," Woodard said. "The kids are enthusiastic and ready to go."

After rolling through the Division 2 Tournament without being threatened, the Altamonte Junior All-Stars finally got some competition on Friday and pulled out a 5-4 win over Windermere despite being held to two hits.

Altamonte manager Duke Pleicones said he welcomed the stiff competition, though, because he knows his squad will get more of the same in the section tourney.

Pleicones said pitching is the key for the Juniors and he will start Andy "Dude" Spolski on the mound in tonight's opener.

"If the pitching comes through and throws strikes, we have a good chance of winning," Pleicones said. "I believe the bats will come around and the defense has been solid the entire tournament."

Neill James has been swinging a big bat for Altamonte in tournament play and he had a key two-run single in Friday's win over Windermere. Defensively, outfielder Jared Soto made the play of the tournament on Friday when he threw out the tying run at the plate to end the game.

Altamonte also depends on Chris Pleicones for strength on the mound.

The Section 1 Junior Tournament also has a number of players who went against each other in last year's Section 1 Major Tournament. Altamonte, Yulee and Crystal River were all in that tournament.

BIG LEAGUE TO PLAY INVERNESS

With some of the top talent from Seminole, Orange and Lake counties, the District 14 National Big League All-Stars open play in the Section Tournament tonight at Winter Garden.

District 14 National takes on Inverness tonight at 5 while Jacksonville faces the District 14 Americans at 7:30.

District 14 National has six players with high school state tournament experience including Shane Letterio, Mike Pinckes and Steve Shakar of Lake Mary and Tony Bellflower, Mark Merchant and Craig Duncan of Oviedo. The team also has five returnees from last year's Big League squad that made it to the World Series including Kevin Bass, Dave Westgate, Mark Coffey, Merchant and Duncan. Letterio and Coffey also played on the Altamonte Senior League team that won the World Series two years ago.

Hawks Soar To Title

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

The Seminole Hawks tuned up for the upcoming ASA Southern Regional Tournament by soaring to three straight victories and the North Brevard Youth Softball Association Tournament title this past weekend at Titusville.

The Southern Regional Tournament, which features 20 teams from Florida and Alabama, will be played Aug. 1-3 at Clearwater with the top three teams qualifying for the ASA 12 and Under National Tournament in Marietta, Ga.

The Hawks, who now have an overall tournament record of 37-5, opened the North Brevard tourney with a 16-1 rout of the host team, then downed arch-rival West Orlando, 8-2, before wrapping up the championship with a 19-2 shelling of Ormond Beach Foxfire.

The only game that was remotely close for the Hawks was West Orlando. Seminole fell behind, 2-0, in the second but came back to tie it in the third and then scored six times in the sixth to break it open.

With two outs in the sixth, Michelle Davis reached on a fielder's choice, Renee Sanville singled and April Manning singled to load bases. Christa Schroeffel then ripped a two-run single and Mario Montalvo walked to load the bases. Christine Risse followed with a single to score two more runs and Nicole Rathbun and Marcle Schroeder also added RBI singles.

For the three-game tournament, the Hawks had eight players hit .555 or better. Connie Bonaventure led the way with an .857 average (6 for 7) that included two triples and a home run. Risse followed at .833 (5-6) with a triple and five RBIs and Montalvo and Schroeffel both hit .714 (5-7) with Montalvo driving in seven runs with a triple and homer and Schroeffel adding five RBIs.

Kristy York (6-9) and Sanville (4-6) both hit .667 with York slugging a double and triple and drive in four runs while Barbie Bartels hit .600 (3-5) with a double and Rathbun finished at .555 (5-9) with a double and home run.

Manager Larry Risse said he went to the ASA State Tournament this past weekend in Deltona to check out some of the competition the Hawks will see at regionals.

"Lake Lytle won the tournament and gets an automatic bye to nationals," Risse said. "Three runnerups got to regionals and they are Pembroke Pines, Hollywood Hills and Plantation."

"We're going to get in seven or eight three-hour practices between now and Aug. 1," Risse added. "We want to brush up and be ready for the tournament."

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Lake Worth Eliminates Ponies; Mustangs Open State Tuesday

Managing just three hits in two games, the Seminole Pony Baseball All-Stars were quickly eliminated from the State Pony Tournament this past weekend at Lake Worth.

In Seminole's opener, Tampa's Jeremy Williams tossed a no-hitter to offset the three-hit pitching of Seminole's John Connelly as Tampa claimed a 2-1 victory.

In the second game, Seminole fell to host Lake Worth, 6-1. Seminole had just three hits in the game with two of them by Jason Sewell, one a home run. Mike Senechek had the only other hit.

The Seminole Bronco National All-Stars hope to stay around longer than the Ponies when they open play in the State Bronco Tournament Tuesday at the West Seminole Complex in Forest City.

The four-team, double-elimination tournament also includes teams from Tampa, Miami and host West Seminole. The winner goes on to the Southern Regional Tournament which is being held at the Seminole Pony Baseball Complex. The Seminole Bronco American All-Stars have already drawn a bye into the Southern Regional as the host team.

Jack, McCormick Carry FBS II

Knuckle baller John Jack tossed a four-hitter and Scott McCormick slugged the game-winning homer as Florida Baseball School Red II continued its torrid run through the Buddy Lake Summer Baseball League Friday with a 3-2 victory over Boulevard Tire at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

Jack struck out six and walked two while outdueling DeLand's Buddy Underwood who allowed six hits, fanned four and walked two.

McCormick's homer in the bottom of the fifth snapped a 2-2 tie for FBS II. Robert Tucker added an RBI double for the winners and Brennan Asplen chipped in a pair of singles. John Brenner had two hits and an RBI for the losers.

In games Saturday, FBS II outslugged FBS I, 10-8, and Boulevard Tire topped FBS I, 4-1. FBS II improved to 12-2 in the league and opened a 4 1/2 game lead over Boulevard which is 8-7. FBS I is 3-13.

Both SYSA Cage Teams Falter

Both the SYSA of Central Florida 14 and under and 12 and under girls basketball teams opened with losses at the AAU/USA Junior Olympic National Tournament Saturday at Roanoke, Va.

The 14 and under team fell to West Virginia, 70-61, despite 12 points from Tracy Brandenburg and 11 each by Vicki Smith and Jennifer Clark. The 14 and under team will play Kentucky in the losers' bracket today.

The 12 and under squad ran into a powerful Arkansas team and dropped a 46-29 decision. Becky Mayes was high for SYSA with eight points while Betsy Hughes tossed in six and Denise Gerrity added five. The 12 and under team plays Seattle in today's losers' bracket action.

Rinker Camp Set For July 28

Wes Rinker's Florida Baseball School will hold its summer camp from Monday, July 28 through Saturday, Aug. 2 at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

The fee for day campers is $105 and the charge for overnight campers is $295. The classes run from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. each day. Lunch is included.

Rinker, one of the foremost authorities on throwing a baseball, and Dave Barnett, a specialist in hitting, will operate the camp.

(68), and Ian Woosnam of Britain (72).

Best round of the day came from Severiano Ballesteros of Spain, who shot a 6-under-par 64.

Five-time champion Tom Watson and fellow American Jack Nicklaus, owner of three Open titles, both carded 71s for 296 and 298 respectively, while Lee Trevino had a 75 for 301.

Ballesteros, who entered the tournament as the favorite, was unhappy with the set-up of the course. He complained bitterly, even after his excellent final round, that the links was too tough, its narrow, hard fairways and savage rough posing too much of a problem in Britain's notoriously changeable weather.

Watson was also dissatisfied, saying he would be writing to tournament organizers, the Royal and Ancient Golf Club, to express his criticisms.

Valuable Monico Leads 'Gades' Past Savages To Brevard Crown

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer

Val is short for Valerie most of the time, but it can also be considered short for Valuable when it comes to one particular young lady.

Val Monico, a sophomore-to-be at Lake Howell High, contributed in a big way both offensively and out of position defensively this past weekend as the Fern Park Renegades took home the North Brevard Tournament Title with a 4-1 record at Titusville.

Renegades' coach George Frey said the team will attempt to go to the USSSA National Tournament in Muncie, Ind., which it has already qualified for. Frey said the team will attempt to raise funds for the trip.

In this past weekend's tournament, Monico, regularly a second baseman, filled in for Tracy Brandenburg at shortstop and Frey said she had an excellent tournament defensively. Monico also had some clutch hits at the plate including a three RBI performance in one of two wins against the rival Seminole Savages.

Softball

The 'Gades opened the tourney with 10-8 victory over South Sumter in which Sanford's Bobbie Osborne and Kristen Bates had three hits each. Fern Park then downed the Jacksonville Fireballs, 7-5, with Jeannie Woods, Leslie Barton, Marcie Tooke and Tina Wilson with two hits each and Julie Barton adding a home run.

The Renegades then went up against the Savages, who eliminated Fern Park from an automatic berth into the ASA Regionals, and the 'Gades came away with a 6-4 victory behind Monico's three RBIs.

The Savages came back through the losers' bracket to face the Renegades in the final and the Savages took the first game, 6-5, despite home runs by Fern Park's Tooke and Woods.

The Savages took a 6-0 lead into the fifth inning of the final but the 'Gades rallied to tie it in the fifth and scored three times in the seventh for a 9-6 victory and the championship.

Monico and Christy Wilson, the number nine and 10 hitters in the order, got base hits to start the seventh-inning rally and Woods smacked a two-run single to put the 'Gades on top.

For the tournament, Bates and Woods both carried .500 averages for the Renegades who played with just 10 players.

18-UNDER TEAM HAS MAGIC
The Orlando Magic team won three straight games to claim the Metro Tournament 18 and under title this past weekend at Lake Fairview Park in Orlando.

The Orlando Magic, which includes Lake Mary High player Marnie Frey, who plays second and third base, and Lake Brantley High pitcher Niki Burke, advances to the ASA 18 and Under Southern Regional Tournament on Aug. 1-3 at Mobile, Ala.

Magic opened the tournament with a 2-1, 12-inning win over West Orange, then scored two times in the seventh for a 2-0 win over Conway and downed West Orange again, 5-1, for the title.

The top three teams from the regional tournament go on to the ASA 18 and Under National Tournament in North Carolina.

Wiebe Takes Tournament

Golf Roundup

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (UPI) — Golfing buddies Mark Wiebe and Curt Byrum both left the Oakwood Country Club with personal victories after their see-saw battle in the $400,000 Hardee's Golf Classic.

For Wiebe, finishing atop the leader board Sunday with a 12-under-par 268 meant his second PGA tour victory in a little more than a year and $72,000 in first-place prize money.

For Byrum, the second-place finish garnered him $43,200 but more importantly earned him a temporary exemption for the remainder of the 1986 PGA tour. Byrum, 27, of Onida, S.D., who lost his tour card last year, entered the Quad-Cities' tournament through a special sponsor's exemption.

What everyone predicted — a one-on-one.

Wiebe said after overcoming Byrum's two-stroke lead after three rounds.

Wiebe, 28, of Denver, outgained Byrum in a final-round shootout Sunday by knocking in a 15-foot putt on the 17th green and sinking a 3-foot putt on No. 18 to close the final round at 2-under 68 before 22,500 spectators.

Wiebe, who won the 1985 Anheuser-Busch Classic last July and finished tied for fifth at Oakwood last year, entered the four-day event 28th on the 1986 PGA money list and boosted his career winnings to $444,750, including $246,598 this year.

"Boy, was this a great match today. It pretty much boiled down to

GEDDES WINS BOSTON

DANVERS, Mass. (UPI) — After winning the U.S. Open, Jane Geddes thought about taking a week off to relax. She's glad she didn't.

Geddes finished with a display of brilliant golf Sunday to capture the $275,000 Boston Five Classic, becoming only the third player on the LPGA Tour this year to win back-to-back tournaments.

She fired a 4-under-par final round 63 to finish with a 7-under-par 72-hole total of 261, one stroke ahead of rookie Deb Richard. Veteran Pat Bradley was two strokes back at 283.

Shriver Wins Slims Finale

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Pam Shriver joined the United States team today for the Federation Cup in Prague, Czechoslovakia, fresh from her 13th tournament victory.

The top-seeded Shriver from Lutherville, Md., defeated No. 5 seed Lori McNeil of Houston, 6-4, 6-2, Sunday in the final of the $150,000 Virginia Slims of Newport at the Newport Casino.

After pocketing the $30,000 first prize on this lone American grass court stop on the women's tour, Shriver went to Boston for a flight to Prague. She will play doubles with Martina Navratilova, who will be playing in her native country for the first time since becoming a U.S. citizen five years ago today.

"It should be pretty neat," Shriver said, "what with the story behind the deflection."

Shriver, 24, of Lutherville, Md., ranked sixth in the world, lost to Chris Evert Lloyd in the 1985 final. She won her last tournament in June at Birmingham, England.

The $13,600 earned by McNeil marked her second runner-up check. McNeil, 23, who is ranked 57th, was a finalist at the Virginia Slims of Oklahoma last winter.

"I hope this dictates the way I play the rest of the summer," said Shriver, who lost in the first round at Wimbledon. "It's a nice win, but I didn't beat a top 10 player this week."

Shriver broke McNeil's first service game en route to a 3-0 lead in the first set. But McNeil came back to break Shriver in the ninth game with four return winners, marking the first and only time Shriver lost her serve in five matches.

"I got a little disturbed," Shriver said, "but I played all the deuce points well in the 10th game."

That final game of the first set took 12 points. On the fifth set point, Shriver put away a forehand volley after setting it up with a forehand lob.

She got the only break she would need in the fourth game of the final set when McNeil had a double-fault at 30-40.

Shriver broke again in the eighth game when McNeil sent a forehand groundstroke long at 15-40, double-match point.

"She was serving and volleying well," McNeil said of Shriver. "Maybe I could have volleyed a little better, but she covers a lot of court."

En route to the final, Shriver beat Jenny Byrne of Australia, Tina Mochizuki, Claudia Monteiro of Brazil and Anne White. McNeil ousted Elena Reinach, Caryn Copeland, Terry Holladay and Cammie MacGregor.

In the doubles final, Holladay and Heather Ludloff defeated MacGregor and Gretchen Rush, 6-1, 6-7 (4-7), 6-3. The winners split $10,800, while the losers divided $5,500.

LONG POND, Pa. (UPI) — Tim Richmond is accustomed to winning. It was the margin of victory that was new to him.

Richmond edged Ricky Rudd Sunday to capture the rain-shortened Winston Summer 500 in a photo finish — his second consecutive NASCAR victory at the Pocono International Raceway.

"When we got to the finish line, I looked at Ricky and tried to motion to him to see who won," Richmond said. "He looked at me and just laughed and shrugged his shoulders."

Richmond and Geoff Bodine battled for the lead in the final two laps when Rudd shot from behind on the final turn and nearly overtook Richmond at the finish line.

Auto Racing

NASCAR officials had to study a photograph of the finish before they were able to declare a winner.

The race, which was delayed for 1 1/2 hours because of rain and dense fog, was marred by several accidents due to poor visibility and track conditions. On the 141st lap, NASCAR officials gave notice the normally 200-lap race would last only 9 more laps.

There were 20 lead changes among six drivers during the race, with Richmond, Bodine, pole setter Harry Gant and Darrell Waltrip holding the lead most of the way.

"The last lap was a real shootout — a barn-burner," said Richmond, of Cornelius, N.C., who drove a Chevrolet with the Folgers-Exxon team. "In most of my wins, I had been in front most of the time and didn't have to go through something like this."

Richmond, who was fifth overall in qualifying on Saturday, was almost knocked out of the race on lap 122 when he collided with Richard Petty's car. He fell two laps behind while his car was being repaired.

With the victory, Richmond became the third man in the past five seasons to win both NASCAR events at Pocono in the same year. It was also his third NASCAR triumph this season, coming on the heels of victories at the Miller High Life 500 and the Pepsi Cola Firecracker 400. He currently is fifth among the leading money-winners this season.

Rudd, of Chesapeake, Va., drove a Ford for the Motorcraft team and was 13th in Saturday's qualifying. Bodine, of Chemung, N.Y., was second in qualifying and drove a Chevrolet for the Levi-Garrett team.

Bolivian Official Asks U.S. For Means To Wage Drug War

From Staff and Wire Reports

TRINIDAD, Bolivia (UPI) — A Bolivian official has asked the United States to provide money and helicopters so Bolivia can wage its own war on drug trafficking.

The request came shortly after Bolivian soldiers, who have teamed up in an anti-drug strike force, canceled a narcotics strike Sunday because of rain.

Jacobo Libermann, a close advisor of Bolivian President Victor Paz Estenssoro, said the airlifting of 160 U.S. troops and six combat helicopters into Bolivia last week to help the government crack down on cocaine producers triggered controversy in Bolivia.

"Many people believe that the size of the campaign is like the invasion of Normandy," he said, but some sectors "believe firmly that this assistance is positive for us."

Libermann called on the U.S. government "to transfer all of this in the very, very near future to Bolivian hands."

"We would like to have under our own control and sovereignty those helicopters and all the financial assistance necessary to carry out the anti-narcotics action," he said.

The rains began in the province Saturday after U.S. helicopter pilots took 30 members of the Bolivian Leopards police unit on raids of two innocent ranches in the mistaken belief they were cocaine processing facilities.

Friday the Leopards captured an abandoned cocaine laboratory capable of producing 3,000 pounds of cocaine weekly.

Botha Refuses To End Emergency

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — President Pieter Botha refused a plea today by anti-apartheid crusader Bishop Desmond Tutu to end to the state of emergency and release detained black leaders, Tutu said.

Emerging from the 45-minute talk with Botha in the imposing Union Buildings in Pretoria, Tutu said the meeting — the second time the two have met — "could have been better" and that Botha "did not mince his words."

The government Bureau for Information said today two people were shot and killed Friday and Saturday in clashes with police, bringing the death toll under five weeks of emergency rule to 179. The toll includes deaths in the self-governing tribal homelands.

Tutu said Botha explained that he was fearful that a premature lifting of the state of emergency would return the country to the condition when an earlier state of emergency was lifted.

The emergency was declared June 12 and allows arrests without charges for 15-day periods. It was the second declared in the last two years in South Africa. The earlier one lasted seven months and was lifted in April.

Mothers Picket For Freedom

TEL AVIV, Israel — About 80 mothers whose children are being prevented from leaving the Soviet Union and emigrating to Israel formed a group Sunday to urge Israel to do more to obtain their freedom.

The mothers carried posters of their children still in the Soviet Union. Calling themselves Mothers for Freedom, the group asked Israeli officials to work harder in pressuring Moscow to allow their families to be reunited in Israel.

Many of the women arrived in Israel during an influx of Soviet immigrants in the 1970s, but their grown children were not allowed to leave at the same time.

Men Devise Successful Escape

HAUGSDORF, Austria — Two men escaped from Czechoslovakia by using homemade trolley devices slung from a power line to cross the border, police said Sunday.

A police spokesman in Haugsdorf, 40 miles north of Vienna, said that Robert Ospald, 35, a forestry worker, and Zdenek Pohl, 20, a locksmith, made the trip early Saturday.

Hanging about 80 feet above the ground, the men rolled on boards suspended from sets of casters along an inactive power line for 300 yards. They had made it when they reached the first pylon on the Austrian side of the border.

They appeared at a police station several hours later and asked for political asylum. They were taken to a refugee reception center.

Jailed Reporter Can See Family

PEKING — New York Times Peking correspondent John Burns, being held in the Chinese capital on suspicion of espionage, was told Sunday he could receive visits from his wife and a British official.

British Embassy consul Frank Savage was to see Burns, 41, early today.

Burns holds dual British-Canadian citizenship. He has been held incommunicado since he was detained by public security officials Friday when trying to leave the country on vacation.

Mexico Sees Economic Change

MEXICO CITY — Mexico will grant tariff concessions on 373 products such as medical equipment, chainsaws, agricultural hardware and electronic components and put a tariff ceiling on others in conjunction with its pending entry into the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, the world's top trading group.

Economic forecasters say the move will force Mexico's industry to become more efficient, with an accompanying rise in production and greater competitive mentality.

Trade barriers that will soon lessen under the plan have kept prices up.

Panama Sees Canal Losses

PANAMA CITY — Up to $10 million per year in revenue from the Panama Canal is being lost due to unscrupulous accounting, charges Panama President Eric Arturo Delvalle.

"It's really pitiful and shameful," he said in a statement.

Government newspapers reported last week that the U.S. majority on the nine-member canal commission's board of directors rejected a government request for permission to audit records.

Reagan Revolution At Supreme Court Doors

By Henry J. Resnik

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After more than six years and two elections, the Reagan revolution has finally reached the doors of the marble palace.

The Supreme Court, called the marble palace for its imposing neoclassical building, has resisted the administration's conservative agenda like no other branch of government or segment of society. But if the Senate confirms Justice William Rehnquist's appointment as Chief Justice and Antonin Scalia's appointment to replace Rehnquist, the doors may open to a slow and steady shift of the court's ideology.

Reagan's conservative initiatives, such as a return to "family values," restrictions on abortion, school prayer, and military muscle, have been pushed by the administration and adopted to some degree by a willing Congress. Reagan has also taken his theme of a strong, revived and patriotic America to the people, who, if election results and the president's popularity are any indication, have embraced it with open arms.

But the Supreme Court is another matter. In this past court term alone, the justices sharply rejected administration moves to overturn the famous Roe vs. Wade decision that legalized abortion, to allow the government to investigate the care of severely handicapped infants in the so-called Baby Doe case and to outlaw affirmative action programs.

Made up of nine people appointed for life, the court sits impassive while the country and administrations change. Justice William Brennan, 80, has been on the bench almost 30 years and through the administrations of seven presidents.

A new political theory doesn't sway such people.

So far in Reagan's six years in office, he has only been able to make one appointment to the court, that of Justice Sandra Day O'Connor. She, for the most part, has supported the Reagan agenda. However, if all goes as expected in the confirmation hearings, Reagan will make two important changes in the court's makeup in the next two weeks.

Retiring Chief Justice Warren Burger is generally considered a conservative, but has disappointed the administration in a number of areas, including abortion, and has been unable to lead the court firmly in a conservative direction during 17 years as Chief Justice. In fact, on many sensitive issues, it has been the liberal wing that continued to hold sway.

Rehnquist, appointed by President Richard Nixon, joined the court in 1972. He is a "strict constructionist," meaning he favors a literal interpretation of the Constitution, and has been an advocate for most of the Reagan agenda. Scalia, appointed by Reagan to the powerful U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in 1982, is of similar views. The two are solid conservatives, have strong intellects, are well-liked and expected to be coalition builders.

Rehnquist also clearly understands the role of chief justice.

spray irrigation systems. Project revisions became necessary in April, following Sanford's inability to acquire the previously targeted Yankee Lake parcel, which had received state approval to serve as the city's effluent disposal site.

Sanford's land application system is being developed to comply with a state edict requiring the city to cease lake disposal by November, 1988, of its approximately five million gallons of annual average daily effluent flow.

City representatives will appear before the state Environmental Regulatory Commission on Aug. 20 to seek approval for project revisions and also to propose transfer to the new program of $8.6 million in grants the state was to have provided Sanford for implementation of the Yankee Lake based project.

Speeding between 56 and 65 results in a fine of about $44. Traveling in the 66 to 79 range is a fine of about $74. A speed of 80 mph and more will net a $99 fine plus $2 for every mph they were over the limit.

The stepped up enforcement Sunday is another in a series of wholesale ticketing. A similar operation last week on Interstate 10 and 75 resulted in 2,450 tickets issued.

FHP says it will continue to target various byways this summer through the state and intensify ticketing.

Philadelphia Strike Ends; But Detroit's Continues

By United Press International

Philadelphia's striking blue-collar city employees returned to work without a contract today, ending a 20-day strike that halted trash collection and left 45,000 tons of garbage rotting on streets, in homes and at dumps.

In Detroit, a walkout by 7,000 city workers seeking higher salaries and 5,000 sympathy strikers entered its sixth day today, crippling trash collection and bus service for 200,000 people. The city's top negotiator said the strike could last at least another week.

Some 50 chemists and microbiologists employed by the city decided to support the strike today. Roger Cheek, the city's chief labor negotiator, said the walkout by the scientists could mean trouble for Detroit's water supply.

"It is going to hurt," Cheek said. "We may lose our ability to provide good water to our citizens but we have been trying to provide adequate and reasonable protection" to the Water Department experts, who had been crossing picket lines until today.

Michael Heide, president of the Detroit Water Systems Chemist Association, said his union wanted to support the city but that there was assurance of safely crossing the picket lines.

Cheek predicted the strike could last at least another week.

Both sides returned to the bargaining table under court order during the weekend but talks broke off early today after a 17-hour session.

A brief hearing today before Wayne County Circuit Judge Sharon Finch, who last week rejected the city's bid for an immediate back-to-work order, was recessed after city officials said they would try to get their case heard by the Michigan Court of Appeals today.

The vote to end the Philadelphia strike came Sunday during an emotional meeting attended by about half the 12,885 members of District Council 33 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which went on strike July 1 with the 2,500 white-collar workers in District Council 47.

The workers, who voted by lining up on opposite sides of the Philadelphia Civic Center, approved the resolution to return to work — without a contract — by a narrow margin, a union spokesman said. No exact count was given.

The union's negotiating position was damaged by two developments in the last week — the ratification of a new contract by the white-collar union, and a judge's order that 2,400 striking sanitation workers return to work.

"As far as I know everyone has returned to work," said Officer Theresa Young, a spokeswoman for the Philadelphia Police Department.

"We could probably have gone on, but it would have been a hard battle," said District 33 President Earl Stout, who said the union's bargaining position was weakened when a Common Pleas Court Judge ordered striking trash collectors to return to work last week.

"We should have never gone on strike," muttered Tom Zemartis. "For three weeks we had nothing at all and now we're going back with nothing."

The sanitation workers went back to work Saturday — wearing blue face masks to block the stench — to remove some of the 45,000 tons of trash that piled up at 15 dump sites designated by city officials, on streets and in homes.

District 33 President Earl Stout said negotiators reached agreement on all major issues except wages. He warned union officials would never agree to the wage package accepted by District Council 47, which ratified a new contract July 12 calling for a 10 percent wage increase over two years.

Philadelphia Mayor Wilson Goode insisted the city would not budge on wages.

"I am disappointed that the last and best offer from the city was not, in fact, put up for a vote," he said. "There will be no other offer."

Negotiators for the city of Detroit and District Council 25 of AFSCME returned to the bargaining table Sunday under court order issued Saturday.

An estimated 13,000 tons of garbage piled up in the city in the first five days of strike, and trash cans overflowed at city parks. Residents were urged to take their garbage to six city-operated dump sites.

Detroit Elections Director Ed Wilson said it may be necessary for Gov. James J. Blanchard to send in the National Guard this week to protect non-union employees who may have to be hired for an Aug. 5 primary election.

Wilson said he immediately needs at least 120 workers to process absentee ballots and prepare voting booths.

The strikers are demanding a 26 percent wage increase over three years. The city is offering 2 percent the first year and increases based on its ability to pay during the next two days.

Taking Stock Of Marriage Need Not Result In Split

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't believe your advice to "Don't Do Shirts In Florida." You suggested that she learn to maintain her car and her husband learn to iron his own shirts — that way, neither would be at the mercy of the other. Perhaps. But what is marriage if not the sharing of "mercies" for one's mate?

If more couples did for each other without keeping score to make sure it was 50-50, there would be fewer divorces.

IDO SHIRTS IN MICHIGAN

DEAR I DO: You read me wrong. I didn't suggest that couples keep score in order to keep things 50-50. I recommended that they do away with the old stereotypical "women's work" as opposed to "men's work."

Please read on for the sad tale of a couple who were entirely dependent on each other:

DEAR ABBY: My grandparents adjusted well to retirement. They were a loving couple who shared almost everything, but Gramma always said her job was to take care of Grandpa.

Last February Grandpa died, and Grandpa was devastated. He would have been so much better

Dear Abby

MY OWN CHAUFFEUR

DEAR ABBY: I am a 38-year-old male who recently moved from a rented house to a large high-rise occupied predominantly by elderly widows and widowers. I mean 85 and up.

How is it living with all these old people? I find them charming, witty, intelligent and a pleasure to be around. They are of a generation taught impeccable manners and are always polite. They are lonely and love to engage in pleasant conversation. They are experienced in life and I learn from them. Instead of coming home to mowing the lawn, I come home to helping a 90-year-old lady with a walker up to her apartment with her groceries, which I consider much more important than cutting the grass.

Please tell your readers that when they are apartment hunting, not to overlook the seniors buildings. They could be passing up the greatest place they ever lived.

I could be from Anywhere, USA, but please just sign me...
HAPPY IN SYRACUSE

DEAR HAPPY: Thanks for a lovely day brighter.

off if he had learned how to cook a little and do the laundry. He's helpless around the house.

Abby, please encourage husbands to learn how to look after themselves. It's hard to learn "womanly chores" after their wives are gone.

KAY

DEAR KAY: Here's the other side of the coin:

DEAR ABBY: Sam and I were married for 49 years. I know how to drive a car, but I seldom drove because Sam thought that was his job, and we had only one car. He died last year and I had to learn how to drive all over again. I was petrified of traffic and had never driven on a freeway. It was a nightmare, but I knew I had to learn how to drive in traffic or I would be isolated. So, women, don't let your husbands be the chauffeur. The time may come when he's not around.

Reach For The Stars

On Oct. 17, 1984, President Reagan launched the Young Astronauts Program, designed to foster an increasing interest in science and mathematics. In his remarks, the President noted: "In order to maintain our position of leadership in the world of high technology, we need to rekindle the spirit of scientific adventure and help nurture it in our nation's schools."

Today, the Young Astronauts Program has chapter in schools and community organizations across the U.S., with some 250,000 children participating in it.

Sears, as a national sponsor of the program, is offering a new line of Young Astronauts apparel, designed by another national sponsor — Adidas. A portion of the proceeds from the sale of the merchandise will be used by the Young Astronauts to fund educational efforts.

For more information on the Young Astronauts Program contact: Young Astronaut Council, P.O. Box 65432, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Sons Of Italy Picnic Held

The Sons of Italy Vince Lombardi Lodge #2441 recently held its annual summer picnic. Those attending indulged in an afternoon of hot dogs, hamburgers, corn-on-the-cob, watermelon, and Italian style sausage and peppers.

After the meal, members participated in a few challenging games of volleyball (equipment donated by Jim Kile). The president of the club, Tony Monteleone, and team walked away champions.

The afternoon was highlighted by a visit from Zigi, a multi-talented capuchin monkey.

Zigi's trainer, Rosemary Minsterl, explained to club members the monkey's abilities for assisting a 36 year old quadriplegic, the victim of a skiing accident. When Zigi's training is complete, he will be able to complete such tasks as putting food in a microwave, turning off and on a radio or computer and opening and redoing a zipper.

The afternoon was completed with cake and coffee donated by the ladies of the lodge.

The lodge is sponsoring a fun filled day on Sea Escape, Aug. 5. The tickets include 3 meals, entertainment and roundtrip bus fare from Deltona Plaza. Anyone interested, please contact Sam Barone at 789-4486.

See Neurologist About Injuries

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband has been in two car accidents in the past year. In both, he either hit his head on the steering wheel or went through the windshield. He sustained no spinal injury, but continues to have blurred vision, severe headaches and nausea, and sometimes glass fragments come out of his forehead. Could remaining fragments cause his symptoms? He refuses to see a specialist, but he might take your advice.

take my advice, because continuing symptoms after head injuries may be caused by treatable conditions.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Why do people get goosebumps and chills when thinking of something scary or sad?

DEAR READER — Goosebumps and chills are caused by an involuntary reaction called the pilomotor reflex. The reflex is triggered by nerves

In the spinal cord, causes an erection of the hairs on the skin and is probably a holdover from far-distant human history. It's one of those flight-or-fright reactions we inherited from our prehistoric ancestors.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio, 44101.

DEAR READER — Without knowing the exact nature of your husband's injuries, I cannot comment on his visual difficulties and headaches, except to say that a concussion (brain bruise) would be a common cause for his symptoms. Glass fragments can appear in a healed wound for many months after an accident. Unless the shards caused internal damage, I doubt they are the source of his problems.

I think that he should see a neurologist for two reasons: First, the specialist needs to define the extent of your husband's injuries. Was there a simple concussion or did he have a fractured skull? Was there bleeding to the brain that might contribute to his blurred vision and headaches? What other structures in the head might have been damaged? There are lots of questions that need answers.

Second, I'm concerned about why your husband had two serious car accidents within the past year. Did he have a small stroke or cardiac irregularity that might have affected his motor skills or judgment just before the accidents? Could his blurred vision and headaches be due to an underlying medical condition, and not at all to the accidents? Is there some health problem that should be corrected so that your husband can avoid further accidents in the future? Why does he refuse to see a specialist? Could this reflect a subtle change in his thought processes that might have come either from the accidents or from some undiscovered illness? I hope that your husband will

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

South should have doubled three clubs. (With accurate defense that contract would be set 800.) Instead he bid four spades, a contract with a bleak outlook. He won the club ace and played a spade to dummy's queen and East's ace. Back came a club, West following. If East had only five clubs, he would surely hold the ace of hearts, so declarer's chances now rested upon a 3-3 split in diamonds. But maybe those odds could be improved.

South played three more spades, discarding a heart from dummy. East could afford to let a club go. Next came the A-Q-J of diamonds, with the jack of diamonds overtaken by dummy's king. East had another discard to make, so he threw the jack of hearts, but he still held the A-Q of hearts and the J-10 of clubs. Now the fourth diamond was played.

You would think that East could throw another heart, since declarer would be ruffing with his last spade, and the last three cards in the East hand would then be winners. But declarer does not really have to ruff the fourth diamond. Instead he can throw a losing club on it. West would be forced to lead a heart. South would play low from dummy to East's ace, and declarer could ruff the club return and score the heart king for his 10th trick. If East tossed a club and kept his heart A-Q, declarer would ruff dummy's fourth diamond and play a club, forcing East to lead from his A-Q of hearts, again allowing dummy's heart king to score.
