Britain's Desire For Colonists In Florida
Promoted Plan

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Britain's desire for colonists in her newly obtained Florida territory led to the establishment of New Smyrna by the Minorans in 1776.

Dr. Andrew Turnbull, a member of the Governor's council, conceived the plan. His execution of it, however, forms one of the darkest pages in the history of British occupation.

Turnbull sailed to the Mediterranean and, on payment of 400 pounds sterling to the governor of Modon, obtained permission to convey a number of Greek families to Florida. On his westward voyage he stopped at Minorca and other islands, where he recruited a total of 1,500 persons.

He promised to transport them to Florida free of expense, supply them with provisions and clothing and at the end of three years grant 50 acres of land to the head of each family and an additional 25 acres to each child. If, at the end of six months, they were dissatisfied, Turnbull agreed to return them to their original homes.

With high hopes and these fine promises, the immigrants braved a stormy passage of the Atlantic. After four months of sailing they reached Florida. Sixty thousand acres of land were granted them. Arriving in the fall, they built palmetto huts to shelter them through the winter, and in the spring set to work on the plantation.

They called their settlement New Smyrna. In time all the settlers became known as Minorans. For three years all went well. There was some complaint over the quality and small amount of clothing given them, but the colonists looked to the time when the land would be their own. They raised great stores of provisions, and turned their attention to indigo.

But Turnbull declined to divide the land as he had promised. Instead he selected a few overseers who reduced the others to slavery. Tasks were assigned as large as they possibly could perform during the winter. He promised protection. The envoys returned. There followed what is described in some histories as an "insurrection." This was a secret meeting in the absence of Turnbull at the home of a man named Pallio. There they organized a column. The women, children and old men were placed in the center. Younger men, armed with wooden spears, took places in front and to the rear. Then, like the children of Egypt, they started a march through the wilderness.

Turnbull was informed and rode furiously after the band. He made every effort to induce them to return, but they marched on. On the

NO MORE FIGHTING FOR THESE CHINESE

Linked together with a strong rope, a group of Chinese prisoners, captured near Shanghai, is led to the rear of the fighting zone by Japanese guards. Nipponese soldiers, now in possession of all the city not under international control, daily round up Chinese who were left behind. Most of them are barefoot; some are hardly more than boys.

A week's food was reduced to seven quarts of corn weekly for white persons, ten quarts for Negroes and three and a half quarts for the sick.

Any complaining or alleged shirking of duty brought the lash, wielded usually by Negroes. Many died of brutal beatings, others perished of exposure after being left, stripped and tied, overnight in the open for the mosquitoes to bite. A number ran away and died in the forest.

At the end of nine years, of the 1,500 who set out for Florida, and their offspring, only 600 remained alive.

In the summer of 1776 some Englishmen from St. Augustine dropped in on New Smyrna while on an excursion along the coast. They were astonished by what they saw. One of them questioned a boy, then remarked to his companions that if these people knew their rights they would not suffer under such slavery.

The boy told his mother, who summoned a counsel of friends during the night. They decided upon a course of action. Three of them asked permission to go on a turtle hunt. Instead of seeking the turtles, they trekked to St. Augustine, where they laid their wrongs before the attorney general of the province. He promised protection.

The envoys returned. There followed what is described in some histories as an "insurrection." This was a secret meeting in the absence of Turnbull at the home of a man named Pallio. There they organized a column. The women, children and old men were placed in the center. Younger men, armed with wooden spears, took places in front and to the rear. Then, like the children of Egypt, they started a march through the wilderness.

Turnbull was informed and rode furiously after the band. He made every effort to induce them to return, but they marched on. On the third day they reached St. Augustine. Meantime there had been a change of Governors. Governor Grant, suspected of having been in league with Turnbull, was superseded by Governor Tryon. The latter ordered provisions served to the strange group that had marched out of New Smyrna.

Sanford's line was stopping Leesburg's tricky attacks and the Sanford guards were surprising even Bob Lockett, the Leesburg coach, due to the fact that a give-away had been discovered by alert eyes of Coach McLucas and that was the fact that after Leesburg was in the huddle and returned to their formation, the short man, nearest the center, would unknowingly shift in the direction the play was to go and both Sanford guards would shift over in that direction and the play was easily broken up.

When the second period opened, Sanford's long point lead was not held long for on the second play, Golden passed to Kenny Matthews who was on the 40 yard line and Jacket end went over to bring the score up to 12 and 7 in favor of Leesburg as Andrew's kicked was no good.

Leesburg gained possession of the ball again but was forced to punt and Sanford took the ball on its own 14 yard line and began its best drive of the game. St. Hoff went for a first down for a first down and Ferguson went off tackle for a first down. Sanford plowed through the Leesburg line and placed the ball down on Leesburg's 29 yard line with a second down and three yards to go. Sanford pulled a quick play which Morgan intended a pass for Ferguson but it was intercepted by Rountree who went through the entire Sanford team for a 70 yard touchdown run and placed Leesburg in a good lead. Andrew dropped the extra point.

Leesburg again gained possession of the ball and another long pass placed the ball on Sanford's one yard line and Jimmy Golden took it over for his first touchdown in his four years of football with the Yellow Jackets.

The Feds made their final score when Ferguson passed to Sam Watts who placed the ball in scoring position and Ferguson plunged over center for the tally and also kicked the extra point.

Sanford outgained Leesburg in scrimmage and also gained more yardage in the passing department.

Sanford made ten first downs to eight by Leesburg.

The fatal accident occurred when young Wells pulled the loaded .22 repeating rifle from the car barrel first and caught the trigger on a projection discharging the gun.

Seminole County law enforcement officers investigated and termed it an accidental death. A coroner's jury was summoned to view the body and an official verdict will be made today.

The two boys, both members of the Winter Park High School, were enroute to Lake Harney where they planned a hunting expedition over the holiday, and had stopped to make a temporary camp when the accident occurred.

Funeral services were held in the St. James Catholic Church in Orlando this morning at 9:00 o'clock.

Children's Home Grown Holds Meet To Further Plans

The Sponsoring Committee of Seminole County for the Florida Children's Home Society in Jacksonville met with Marcus Farr, superintendent of the Home, in the Parish House of the Episcopal Church recently to formulate plans for work to be conducted in the county, according to Martha Bram, secretary of the Home in Seminole County.

Winter Park Boy Dies By Accident While Hunting

The first tragedy in Seminole County during the current hunting season occurred late Wednesday near Lake Harney and just east of Geneva when an accidentally discharged bullet from a .22 rifle pierced the heart of Albert Wells of Winter Park.

The Sheriff's Office reported today that the 18-year old youth died a few minutes after the shot entered his body while his companion, Hyron Grande also of Winter Park, was administering first aid.

U.S. Protests Over Customs Aim Of Japan

Concern Is Expressed Over Japanese Interference With Shanghai Customs Britain, France Join In Protest Jap Says His Government Has Right To All Authority

The United States formally expressed concern over the Japanese government over any attempt to interfere with the integrity of the Chinese maritime customs system. Secretary Hull announced the step had been taken in commenting on reports that Japanese authorities in Shanghai intended taking over the Chinese customs organization.

Similar action has been taken by other world powers, including Great Britain, the United States and other foreign powers are interested in the Chinese customs because these revenues are largely pledged for the payment of foreign loans.

Since conquering the Shanghai area the Japanese have greatly increased their power in the customs and have taken control of all Chinese communications facilities there.

A spokesman for the Japanese at Shanghai declared his government considered it had a clear right to take over all authority and agencies of the Chinese government in the Shanghai region and intended to exercise its rights immediately.

Japanese legions continued their drive toward Nanking, China's evacuated capital. In the Spanish civil war the government reported minor victories for its bombing planes blasted at communications between Madrid and government territory to the east.

Figures Disclose Farmers Warned Florida Grows As Against Evils Of Industrial State

Wendell C. Heaton, chairman of the Florida Industrial Commission, today issued a warning to farmers that Florida is becoming an industrial state and that they must be prepared to meet the competition.

While these statistics are not complete and only indicate reports we have received up to Nov. 1, Heaton said, "they definitely show the trend of industry in the state."

"As in most other states, wholesale and retail stores lead all other industries in the number of workers, and the amount of contributions, but pushing this classification closely for the lead is manufacturing. Reports received from employers throughout the state show a large and varied assortment of manufacturing units of which the public as a whole is in complete ignorance.

Mason Asks Help Of Hunters In Checking Birds

Seminole County hunters are likely to run across a number of birds this year bearing the metal bands of the United States Biological Survey, due to activity of bird banders in this section of the country as well as throughout the Northern States, according to C. Such bands are attached to the legs of the birds by survey operators, he said, with the idea that if the birds are captured or killed later, their movements during a migration may be traced and then ascertained.

President Writes To Barkley In Sizing That Expenses Be Kept Within Income

New Taxes Are Seen Possible

Sound Financial Administration Is Said To Need A Balance

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today suggested that expenditures under the new farm program be kept within the $500,000,000 mark in an effort to bring federal spending within income.

"It is obvious," the President said, "that a constant increase of expenditures without an equally constant increase in revenue can only result in a continuation of deficits. We can not hope to continue on a sound basis of financial management of government affairs unless regular annual expenditures are brought within revenues."

"I feel that every effort should be made," he said "to keep the new farm program within the present limit of $500,000,000 per annum."

In addition, he listed at a press conference a number of measures to be taken to provide the necessary increase in revenue to meet any expenditures under the new farm program in excess of this sum.

There will be only one-third enough money in the State School Fund to pay school teachers in Seminole County on December 1, though Florida taxpayers are paying millions of dollars more to the state government this year than they were last year. Unfortunately the money is earmarked for other things, though some of us are wondering what other things are of more importance than the payment of school teachers.

The tragedies of the hunting season were brought close to home Wednesday when a Winnebago boy, off with a friend on a hunting expedition, grabbed the rifle by the barrel as he took it from his car. Something struck the trigger and it discharged sending the bullet straight through his heart. R. H. Jackson, local farmer, narrowly escaped death himself the other day when a young fellow in Lake county, turkey hunting, mistook him with shot by mistake. The warning to be careful to them emphasized.

Smootly Thompson who knows so much about foreign affairs as anyone outside of the White House says there isn't much question about the next war in Europe, that it has in fact already begun. There have been no official declarations as yet, but he actually declares war is old fashioned, old-fashioned. He says the nations just go ahead and wage war. Witness, Ethiopia, Spain, and Spain, and to show that the undeclared warfare is not confined to the East, he says that the British and the United States are already at it.

An Appalling Tax Burden

It is encouraging to note that something is going to be done on tax revision and we hope that the scope of this program will be broad enough to include some aid for little business. While it is all very well to modify the surplus profits tax and the capital gains tax, senators and congressmen should not lose sight of those countless small enterprises which do not have any surplus profits but which are nevertheless staggering under the burden of recently imposed taxation. The so-called Social Security taxes, which business for the first time has had to pay this year, are so unjust and so excessive as to be a major cause in the present recession which finds unemployment again on the increase. They consist of taxes on payrolls gradually increasing year by year until they represent nine percent of every business payroll in the country, big and little. If they are not drastically changed, or at least modified on small businesses, they will be the principal cause in forcing many of them to the wall.

A little business with a $500 a week payroll is this year required to pay to the government no less than $780 in Social Security taxes, and an additional $260 which presumably is deducted from his employee's pay. Next year the tax on the employer alone will amount to $1040. And within a very few years the tax on the employer with the same $500-a-week payroll will be $1,580 while an additional $780 will be deducted from the employee's pay, making a total of $2,360 a year in Social Security taxes for this one little business, in addition to all the other taxes, including city, county and state taxes, which he has to pay.

Now for a business which is making money, this extra taxation should not prove disastrous. Certainly any business which is making as much as five or ten thousand dollars a year net, over and above all expenses, should not object too strenuously to this additional contribution to government. But what about a business which isn't making money? What about a business which happens to be losing money, or has been hanging on by its eyebrows for five or ten years hoping that conditions will improve? What about a business which is making merely two or three thousand dollars a year? And there are thousands of them in this country.

In such a business, these Social Security taxes mean the difference between success and failure. There is only one way that this business can raise the money for the extra taxes now required of him by the government and that is to take it out of his expenses, to reduce payments which he has been making for other things. That is, he must cut his rent, his power bill, his freight expenses, or perhaps his payroll. Since most of the costs of the average business are fixed by powers over which he has no control—such as freight, power, and the prices of the things he has to buy—the average business man has no alternative but to cut his payroll. Thus unemployment increases.

In considering the revision of taxes, Congress should give serious thought to the plight of the little business man. Little business men on the whole furnish more employment than big business. If the little business man is forced to the wall by burdensome taxation, the government will have an unemployment problem on its hands which no amount of Social Security funds will be able to satisfy. Congress should exempt from the payment of Social Security taxes all businesses earning less than $5,000 a year.

Florida Construction

There has been a steady increase in Florida construction for the past 10 years, a report prepared by the research department of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce revealed today. The high mark for the decade has already been passed by this year's construction which totaled more than $58,000,000 in the first 10 months. This is an increase of almost $10,000,000 over the figure $48,925,315 chucked up in the entire 12 months of last year, the State Chamber said.

Complete reports of the past decade are: 1927 (ten months), $58,304,787; 1928, $48,925,315; 1929, $29,209,248; 1930, $17,052,588; 1931, $9,441,374; 1932, $3,738,227; 1933, $15,285,078; 1934, $19,881,050; 1935, $32,864,270; 1936, $37,204,951; and 1937, $62,424,555.

For comparison it is interesting to note the figure for 1926 B. B. (Before the Boom Hurst) was $206,207,587.

Crooms Academy Football Season Ended Thursday

Coach J. A. Foster's Crooms Academy Panthers closed their 1937 football season Thursday afternoon when they fought to a scoreless tie against the strong Hastings Vocational School eleven at the Sanford Municipal Athletic Field.

Sanford received the kickoff from Hastings and Johnson, speedy halfback, took the oval on his own 20 yard line and returned the ball 60 yards before being knocked out of bounds on the Hastings 20 yard stripe. The Hastings eleven held the Panthers and Crooms lost the ball on downs. After an exchange of kicks in midfield, Don Wilson, Panthers left guard, intercepted a Hastings pass on the Hastings 15 yard line and took it the 30 before being downed but again the Hastings eleven strengthened and forced the Panthers to lose the oval on downs. The remainder of the second quarter was played in midfield and neither eleven attempted to talk.

Hastings received the kickoff from Sanford opening the second half and a Hastings back returned it to his own 30. They were forced to kick and the oval was downed deep in Sanford's territory and the Panthers pushed back into Hastings territory.

The game ended with neither team producing a single point but the Sanford team was well commended for their fine work. Crooms went into the game as the underdog and Foster had shown his own defensive style of play last year.

CANDLELIGHT

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

"Day! Faster and more fast, O'er night's 'brim, day bolts at last—"

"Not all of us can be school boys, but there is a lot to this 'shining morning face' business when the day is fresh and beckoning and as full of promise as an untraveled road. There is something about early morning—foot prints in the dew, spider webs that make silver embroidery on the trees, the air cool on your cheek—these make one feel with Pippa 'Oh Day, if I consider a wretch of thee, a mile of my twelve hours' trammels!'"

I have a friend who collects rare illuminated manuscripts, and after looking at them one day, I said, "I'm a collector too you know. Have you seen my surriance?" She took a bit surprised and I explained that of course you must have a certain kind of rose colored spectacles, with one lens made of imagination and the other of memory. It's very satisfying too because unlike most collecting, it doesn't cost a cent. And oh, I have some beauties! There's a surriance over the cotton fields of Mississippi, one over English lanes and hawthorn hedges in Kent, one over the olive trees on the hill above Florence where the copy of Michelangelo's David stands, one over the bronze bust of Diamond Head in Hawaii. But the one I like best I have every morning—over the St. John's River.

Once at the University of Virginia there had been a Bots German with pink roses climbing on a white lattice fence around the ball room and young voices singing lustily, "How'd you like to be a Bots a sweetheart?" Afterward, drifting home across the lawn, a group gathered on the Rotunda steps and made the status of the blind Homer almost open his eyes singing, the Eli Hanana song, "The Old Rotunda, We'll Make To Thunder."

One of the boys, Dick Byrd, (not the admiral but a relative) pointed to a grayling sky and recited a little poem called "The Expectation of the Dawn" which I could remember, it all anyway the idea was that in the one day that was breaking there lay all the possibilities of life itself, and that one should so live that all his yesterdays put together, would have meaning and beauty. The boy had started the thing just in time to mock heroic fashion, but oddly enough, the crowd of youngsters grew silent, strangely moved by the stirring thought of the poem. That was a good many years ago, and I often wonder if the others in that group still remember as I do the beauty of that moment.

How many of us can look at the pattern of our yesterdays and feel that they make sense? Of course all of us want "no!" to make sense some of the time—that's essential—but few of us would like to think that our whole personal adventure from beginning to end was just a joke. Marry! I'm getting in awfully deep water. I'll leave that thought to the philosophers and skip along to breakfast.

And there's quite as much to be said for breakfast, that much maligned meal, as there is for the dawn, whether you eat a Jucosa egg and a dainty slab of ham like Jack Dempsey or orange juice, rye crisp, and banana. I'm all for breakfast and it's not because I agree with the cynical lady who said that breakfast was her favorite meal because so far nothing had happened to spoil the day.

I like the custom of the Central Florida Council of Chambers of Commerce of meeting for breakfast every year. These men get up in the grey dawn with the enthusiasm of a bunch of hunters and drive (far miles to get to breakfast on the stroke of eight. They bring something with them, something of the heartening spirit that made them willing to rise so early.

In Sanford recently, the Council met. The sun came through the windows, the glasses of orange juice stood in bright rows on the table, and there really were "shining morning face" faces.

Ben Carpenter from Orlando with his twinkly eyes and Crawford Bleckford, banking Karl Lehmann from Lake County and Winter Park's Carter Bradford, Bank Sawyer of Coosa, "the shrimpy man from the Gold Coast," Sanford's Tom Simpson, outgoing president of the Council, Ralph Engwell the incoming president, and Harry Papworth, former president. And for a really illuminated face there was Helen Smith's look when Elvira Garner read from her unpublished manuscript the story of Eschelin's trip to Silver Springs.

To finish it off, Earl Brown of DeLand, the Florida Exhibit manager, and Eschelin's only competitor for plucking Florida, sent a shudder around the table with the story of the politician gentleman who died, and, having led a clean honest life went to heaven. When he arrived, he showed his credentials and was admitted by Saint Peter. Every thing was just as glowing and glamorous as the politician had dreamed, but the most beautiful angels of all were in a cage. "Why," he asked, resentfully, "Have you got those good lookin' angels shut up?" "Because," answered Saint Peter, "They are from Florida and if we open the cage, they'll all fly home."

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
"Ancient and Modern Necro-mancy, Alms Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced," is the subject of the Lesson Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, November 28, 1937.
The Golden Text is: "Do they not say that devils still? but mercy and trust shall be to them that devils good." (Matthew 12:28)
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson Sermon is the following from the Bible:
"Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly

pardon." (Isaiah 55:7)
The Lesson Sermon also includes the following passages:
from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Let us feel the divine energy of Spirit, bringing us into newness of life and recounting no mortal nor material power as able to destroy.
Let us rejoice that we are subject to the divine powers that be. Such is the true Science of being." (pp. 249; 2-10).

Live, Love And Learn' Is Story Of Gay Village

Life in faded Greenwich Village with much of its love and its little of its learning is packed in the new comedy romance, 'Live, Love and Learn,' which opened yesterday at the Ritz Theatre.

With Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell in the starring roles, supported by an excellent cast, the story is witty, logical and extremely well presented. The direction was by George Fitzmaurice who not long ago made 'The Emperor's Candlesticks' with William Powell and Luise Rainer.

The narrative describes Montgomery as Bob Graham, a happy-go-lucky artist of the Village patterned much after the traditional type, who goes up to Connecticut to capture sylvan still life on his canvas. A fox hunt disturbs him at work, but Julie, a lovely girl who tumbles off her horse victoriously into his lap is even more disturbing.

Together Again In 'Live, Love And Learn'

A gay, bantering tale of life under the 'L' in Greenwich Village brings Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell to the Ritz screen Wednesday and Thursday in 'Live, Love and Learn.' Robert Benchley adds his special brand of humor to the amusing plot and Helen Vinson is prominently cast another of her highly-applauded 'other woman' portrayals.

'Magnificent Obsession' Returns To Ritz Screen For Friday Engagement

Tragedy stalks the lives of two lovers in 'Magnificent Obsession.' Universal's absorbingly dramatic John M. Stahl production to be seen on the screen of the Ritz theatre Friday in a return engagement. In the story Irene Dunne has acquired a bitter hatred of Robert Taylor and it is only after long maneuvering that he is able to induce her to enter his automobile.

directly in the path of an oncoming car, suffering in the ensuing crash a brain injury which brings on apparently incurable blindness. The story in its subsequent development progresses to situations of the utmost pathos. The locale of the drama is in both the United States and Paris.

PROGRAMME FOR WEEK OF NOV. 28 AT THE RITZ

Sunday, Monday—Laughter and Melody blended in joyous comedy, Grace Moore in 'I'LL TAKE ROMANCE' with Melvyn Douglas and Stuart Erwin. Tuesday only—A cash and carry husband... mostly cash 'EXPENSIVE HUSBANDS' with Beverly Roberts and Patric Knowles.

'I'LL TAKE ROMANCE'

Grace Moore comes to the Ritz Theatre Sunday and Monday in 'I'll Take Romance,' a gay comedy filled with laughter and melody. Melvyn Douglas and Stuart Erwin.

'Expensive Husbands' Will Show At Ritz With New Team In Leading Role

Playing together for the first time as Patric Knowles comes to the Ritz Theatre Tuesday in a Warner Brothers romantic comedy called 'Expensive Husbands.'

The story is about a movie actress who, through no fault of her own, is sliding downward into the has-been class. She figures the best possible publicity she could obtain to bring the affections of her fans would be to get a titled husband. This is Beverly's part.

Ritz Features 'Fun Mystery' As Friday Film

William Gargan and the screen's new 'find,' Orion Heyward, give an entirely new slant to mystery and murder in 'She Asked for It,' which plays Friday at the Ritz Theatre, both contributing romance and gypsy to one of the fastest moving comedy-mysteries the screen has seen.

This is Orion Heyward's first starring role in pictures, and from her performance in 'She Asked for It' her popularity and screen future are assured. Miss Heyward and William Gargan both turn to a chance for rollicking comedy with a zest that cannot fail to carry over to any audience.

Hull Protests Again Against Japan's Policy

Demand Is Issued For Japan To Consult U. S. Before Seizing Chinese Customs

British Join In Protest At Tokyo

Japanese Claim Right Of Full Control Of Maritime Customs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Secretary Hull announced today that the United States has served a virtual demand on the Japanese government that it consult with this government before undertaking any changes in the Chinese maritime customs. That the United States had made new and more vigorous representations to Japan against any attempt by the Japanese military at Shanghai to disturb the Chinese maritime customs, was disclosed today at the State Department where it was explained that the new American diplomatic move was in the form of a formal written presentation to the Japanese foreign office of views submitted earlier in an informal manner. The new representations were made in Tokyo by Ambassador Joseph G. Grew yesterday on instructions from the State Department. The Japanese were reported moving more cautiously today in assuming full control of the (Continued on Page Four)

Roosevelt Embarks For Fishing Trip Near Florida Keys

MIAMI, Nov. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt embarked on yacht "Potomac" today for a week of fishing around the Florida Keys. A warm sun broke through the mist as he was piped over the side of the 165-foot former Navy patrol boat, its rails manned by sailors in service white. Governor Coker talked with President Roosevelt for about half an hour in Jacksonville last night as the presidential special train passed on its run to Miami. The governor and former Senator Scott M. Lottin were the only persons who boarded the train. Lottin remained with Senator Pepper in the presidential suite when the special left. Come told newspaper reporters afterwards he "had a good general talk" with Mr. Roosevelt. The governor said the president asked about Florida citrus, reforestation, and civilian conservation corps camps in the state.

"Tricycle" Plane Will Visit Florida

MIAMI, Nov. 29.—The Waco N-7 "Tricycle Landing Gear" biplane, claimed by its designers to be the solution to the problem of safe and simple flying for everybody, will arrive in Florida for the Miami All-American Air Maneuvers and a month's demonstration in Florida and Cuba. The N-7 has a third landing wheel directly under the motor, which, it is claimed, eliminates take-off and landing difficulties and makes the ship as easy to learn to operate as a modern motor car.

Japanese Report Capture Of Three Key Strongholds

SHANGHAI, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Japanese reported the capture today of three key strongholds in Nanking's defenses bringing them within striking distance of the last fortifications before China's capital. Official communiques said the Japanese had occupied Klauyin on the Yangtze River, Wushu about 20 miles north of Wushu on the Shanghai-Nanking railroad, and Ding about 85 miles southeast of Nanking. Army spokesmen admitted, however, that the Klauyin forts which have been held by more than a half million Japanese and air and river bombardment still flew the Chinese flag. The forts and submerged boom of concrete laden vessels bar the way up the Yangtze to Nanking and prevent Japanese warships from reaching the evacuated capital. A spokesman for the Japanese army said also that Japanese forces driving towards Nanking had entered Anhui Province and occupied the town of Sha-Szean. The advance cleared the way for an attack on Wuhu on the Yangtze River above Nanking and was believed to have rendered untenable the positions held by the Chinese army in the Nanking area. "Anticipated" that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his staff would flee from Nanking in airplanes during the week. The Japanese had established a strong base at Changshing, on the southwest shore of Lake Tai, whence the column invading Anhui advanced. This base is linked to Shanghai by a series of canals which enable the rapid movement of munitions on big Japanese motor flatboats. Meantime the Japanese tightened their hold on Shanghai taking over communications and the censorship bureau formerly operated by the Chinese government. The telegraph office was refusing to accept messages to all points in China.

New Deal Hits At Monopolies In New Move

Cummings Calls Upon Nation To Destroy Monopoly As Roosevelt Makes Plans

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Attorney General Cummings called upon the nation today to "destroy monopoly" even as President Roosevelt off on a Florida fishing vacation, consulted with ideas on new anti-trust legislation. "Unless we destroy monopoly," Cummings said, "monopoly will destroy most of our reforms and in the end lower the standard of our modern life." The Administration's expected attack on monopolistic practices still is a formative stage, Cummings' assistant Robert H. Jackson said in the South after talking to President Roosevelt. Jackson accompanied the President on the fishing trip carrying with him data on anti-trust prosecutions and studies the department of Justice has been making in preparation for the suggested new legislation to improve the enforcement of the Sherman and Clayton acts.

H. H. Coleman, local manager of the Florida Power & Light Co., was the speaker today before a group of 35 high school boys in the first of the vocational guidance programs for this year sponsored by the Sanford Rotary Club. Declaring that the boys should decide early in life the vocation which they intend to pursue for the rest of their lives, Mr. Coleman, who was introduced by J. L. Ingley, chairman of the Rotary Club's Community Service Committee, said that once a vocation is decided upon a boy should then proceed to bend every effort in preparing himself to the fullest extent for his chosen profession. First Round Lost By Gerardo Machado

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—First Gerardo Machado, former Cuban dictator, today lost the first round of a battle to escape extradition to Cuba on murder and embezzlement charges which grew out of the 1933 revolution in which he was overthrown. The Commissioner based his denial on grounds that "The Treaty provides that the petitioning government (in extradition cases) shall be given 60 days after the arraignment of the defendant to prove the government's charges." The Commissioner agreed to conduct a hearing tomorrow at the hospital where Machado is confined.

New Aids For Housing Asked By Roosevelt

President Calls Lag In Building One Of Main Reasons For Decline In Business

Says Wage Hikes Came Too Rapidly

Plans Conference To Adjust Costs To Consumers' Means

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today to liberalize the existing law to encourage billions of dollars worth of new housing construction in the next five years. In a message to the special session completed before he left for his Florida fishing trip, the President asserted, "The long continued lag in building is a drag on all industry and trade" and was "one of the principal reasons why general business had failed to forge ahead" in recent months. He proposed eight changes in the National Housing Act of 1934 to make possible through federal insurance of low-interest mortgages private financing of large numbers of housing units. Declaring that increases in hourly wage rates and material costs had been "too rapid and the great for the consumer to bear" and had checked production and buying in other industries, he said he would confer with representatives of industry, labor, and finance in an effort to adjust such costs to consumers' means. He proposed eight changes in the National Housing Act of 1934 to make possible through federal insurance of low-interest mortgages private financing of large numbers of housing units.
