County Clerk To Open Branch Office In Altamonte

If you live in the south end of Seminole County it may soon be easier to pay traffic fines, child support payments or apply for a marriage license.

Seminole County Clerk Art Beckwith plans to open a branch office in the south end of the county at the Palm Springs Center on State Road 436 and Palm Springs Drive in Altamonte Springs.

The office lease will cost $16,500 for the first year. Commissioners have not approved its funding beyond that.

Beckwith is the county's fourth constitutional officer to open a branch in the heavily populated south end.

Tax Collector G. Troy Ray has offices in the Interstate Mall in Altamonte Springs and Seminole Plaza in Casselberry which renew auto licenses. Supervisor of Elections Sandy Gourd and Property Appraiser Bill Suber also operate out of Ray's Interstate Mall office.

Beckwith said he looked at several other locations in Altamonte Springs and Casselberry but finally settled on the Palm Springs Center site because it offered sufficient space at a good price and "they want a governmental operation there."

County commissioners gave their approval Monday to Beckwith's plan on a narrow 3-2 vote with Commissioners Bill Kirchhoff and Robert G. "Bud" Feather in opposition.

Feather opposed the move because he feels the offices should work out of one central location, preferably the county's Five Points complex while Kirchhoff said there's no justification for Beckwith opening a branch office. It probably won't pay for itself, Kirchhoff said.

Ray's two branches attract a lot of Orange County residents, shopping in Altamonte stores, to renew their license plates in Seminole County, the tax collector said. A total of 206,000 vehicles — more than the county's population — were licensed by his office last year.

"The $17,000 lease cost (at the mall) is just a drop in the bucket compared to the hundreds of thousands of dollars it brings in," Ray said.

Commissioners Sandra Glenn, Barbara Christensen and Robert Sturm said they have no opposition to the new office on a one-year trial basis.

Beckwith agreed to limit the lease on the Palm Springs Center property to one year.

The services available at the branch office will be almost the same as at the Courthouse, Beckwith said. People will be able to pay traffic fines, make child support payments, drop off documents for recording, apply for marriage licenses and passports, pay intangible taxes and collect information on recorded documents on file with the clerk's office.

Death Toll 207

Added Danger For Marines

By Wadie Kirolos

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — U.S. Marines, fearing another suicide attack, went on their highest state of alert today after reports that three trucks loaded with explosives were circling their devastated Beirut airport base. The death toll in Sunday's attack rose to 207.

"We have intelligence that there are three vehicles circling in nearby neighborhoods loaded with explosives. We have them under surveillance," Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said.

A group called the Islamic Holy War said it carried out the attack and a similar suicide mission on the French barracks 3 miles away that killed 51 French soldiers, according to the latest toll reported by Beirut Radio.

"We are the soldiers of God and we crave death," the group said in a statement published by Beirut newspapers today. "Violence will remain our only path if they (foreign forces) do not leave. We are ready to turn Lebanon into another Vietnam."

"We are not Iranians or Syrians, or Palestinians. We are Lebanese Moslems who follow the dictums of the Koran," it said.

In response to reports of another attack on the Beirut airport, the Marines were put into their highest state of alert, Jordan said.

Marines put a two-ton military truck at the entrance of their compound to prevent a repetition of the suicide mission. Marines, wearing helmets and black jackets, crouched behind barriers and deep bunkers.

A traffic lane running past their compound to Beirut airport was closed by huge concrete pillars to impede any traffic.

"The gate is closed, the gate is closed," yelled a Marine sentry to reporters who were approaching the front gate of the Marine base.

Where the four-story Marine Battalion Landing Team

headquarters had stood near the Marine base at Beirut airport, sweating Marines used massive cranes, axes and shovels to dig through tons of twisted concrete for comrades who might still be trapped under the debris.

Marine officials in Beirut said many were still missing and that the search will continue until the last soldier is accounted for. Unofficial sources listed 32 soldiers as missing.

An angry and frustrated Congress, not satisfied with administration explanations about the Beirut tragedy, sought more answers today on how the bombing happened and why the Marines should be left in Lebanon.

Congressional leaders tried to head off demands for an immediate U.S. pullout from Lebanon, but several members called for prompt action to get the Marines out of danger. "There's no question there will be a move to pull the troops out," said Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis.

"Let's put them back on the U.S. Marines load bodies of their killed buddies onto a helicopter near the Marine base in Beirut.

ships and let the dust settle," said Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss.

Secretary of State George Shultz and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger spent several hours on Capitol Hill Monday trying to answer congressional questions, but with only limited success.

Weinberger returned today for a meeting with the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"There was a lot of anger in that room," Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., said after a private briefing by Shultz for House members. "The anger was very much bipartisan."

Casualty Information

Families of servicemen serving in Beirut, Lebanon, seeking information about their condition may call these numbers: Marines, 1-202-694-4309; Navy, 1-800-368-3202; and Army, 1-202-697-7589 or 697-5332, according to the American Red Cross Central Florida Chapter at Casselberry office.

Priorities

Commissioners Cite Transportation, Data Processing As Top Needs

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Transportation and data processing projects will continue to be the top priorities of Seminole County commissioners in fiscal 1983-84.

Commissioners Robert Sturm, Barbara Christensen and Sandra Glenn set transportation as their top priority in a Monday work session. Commissioners Bill Kirchhoff and Robert G. "Bud" Feather placed data processing at the top of the list with transportation next. Transportation was also the top priority in fiscal 1981-82 and 1982-83.

Steps were taken during fiscal 1982-83 to identify the county's most urgent transportation needs. The Seminole County Expressway Authority was formed and a study commissioned on sites for projected toll highways in the county during the past year, Public Works Director Jack Schuder said.

Commissioners also enacted a four-cents-per-gallon county gasoline tax and plan to use the $2 million they will receive this year to improve several county highways.

Though studies have begun, no projects have been selected yet, and as Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather said last year, "Transportation should be at the top of the list until we do something about it."

Data processing has received a boost this year as well but the projects begun in 1982-83 have not yet been completed. Computer Services workers are integrating each department's records for use with the IBM System 38 computer.

New computer personnel were hired this year but the changeover from manual to computer record keeping has not yet been completed.

Kirchhoff said the computerization of county records will enable other priorities to be addressed much faster. "Computerization is what lets you take care of transportation and everything else."

Another top priority for the coming year involves growth and dealing with fire and police protection, water and sewer service for new residents. Seminole County's population is expected to grow from its present 205,000 to about 340,000 by the year 2000.

Other high priorities for the coming year include managing water resources, development of a 911 emergency telephone system, jail expansion, library expansion and hazardous waste legislation.

DER Keeps After Sanford Over Lake Monroe Pollution

While the city of Sanford is preparing a two-pronged attack to solve its sewer system problems, the state Department of Environmental Regulation is looking at the city's storm water drainage which is dumping into Lake Monroe.

The city commission instructed city staff Monday night to get information together to appeal the denial by the DER of a continued permit to dump effluent from its Poplar Avenue sewer plant into Lake Monroe.

The city has until next Monday to notify the state agency of its intent to appeal.

At the same time, the commission told staff and consulting engineers, Conklin, Porter & Holmes, to find alternative solutions just in case the appeal is also denied.

The only alternative solution available to the city, under current DER regulations, is to provide a spray irrigation method of disposing of the effluent. Costs of this alternative, including modifications to the sewer plant, piping, construction of lift stations and the purchase of as much as 2,000 acres of land on which to spray the effluent, have been estimated at between $17 million and $20 million.

And Alex Alexander, manager of the DER's St. Johns River District, which includes Seminole County and seven other counties, said that not only is the city sewer plant a contributor to Lake Monroe's pollution, storm water drainage piped into the lake are also polluting.

He said that the DER is currently preparing drainage regulations.

The city's consulting engineers told commissioners Monday night there is a possibility of getting some state grants for the sewer system project. To take advantage of the grants plans for the alternative method of sewage disposal must be completed for submission to the state by March, 1985.

Mayor Lee P. Moore said the city has been fighting the DER idea of converting the sewer plant to spray irrigation for 14 years and perhaps the end of the line is at hand.

The reason for fighting is not only the initial costs, but also the probability that sewer rates to city sewer customers will have to be tripled as a result.

Marching Rams In Festival

The 200-member Lake Mary High School Marching Rams demonstrate one of the intricate maneuvers they will perform at the ninth annual Seminole County High School Bend Festival Saturday night. The event will be held at the Lake Brantley High School stadium on Sand Lake Road in Forest City starting at 8 p.m. It will feature bands from seven area high schools. The festival is co-sponsored by the Sanford Optimist Club and the Evening Herald.

United Way Campaign Nears 50% Of Goal

Key workers and division heads met this morning at NCR's Lake Mary plant for a last minute strategy session as United Way of Seminole County's month-long campaign goes into the home stretch. Campaign Chairperson Sharon Dickerson announced gifts and pledges garnered since last Thursday's report breakfast have brought the total up to $219,456. This is 49 percent of the record $450,000 goal. At this point last year the campaign stood at $236,366 or 70 percent of the 1982-83 drive's $338,000 goal.

"It's looking a lot more promising," said Mrs. Dickerson, "but we can't slack off."

Sent Home Early

About 2,000 students were sent home from Lak Mary High School at 11 a.m. today due to a power failure caused by a malfunction of the school's main generator at 5 a.m. The malfunction caused a motor in a utility room to overheat at about 7:35 a.m. The Seminole County fire department checked the motor but found no fire.

Principal Don Reynolds said the generator "blew up" and the generator's metal top was found 75 feet away. The school's emergency generator provided lights in the hall ways, but classrooms were dark.

NATION IN BRIEF

UAW Doesn't Want Japanese Import Hike

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber wants quotas on Japanese imports kept at current levels and says an increase means laid-off workers will not be called back to their jobs.

Bieber said Monday the U.S. government should ask the Japanese government for a fourth year and perhaps a fifth year of the current limit of 1.68 million Japanese imports.

Current quotas, which have been in effect since March 1981, expire next year. U.S. Trade Representative William Brock confirmed last week the Reagan administration is seeking a fourth year of import quotas at a 1.8 million level.

On another subject, Bieber said the House likely will act this week or next on UAW-backed content legislation, which would require cars sold in the United States to contain up to 90 percent American-made parts.

The "build American" bill won House passage last year but did not see Senate action.

Woman Runs For President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Outspoken feminist leader Sonia Johnson says she decided to run for the presidential nomination of the Citizens Party because she believes a woman has no chance fighting the "old boy" network of the Republican or Democratic parties.

Ms. Johnson, who was thrown out of the Mormon Church for her campaign on behalf of the Equal Rights Amendment, said Monday, however, that she may have to fight the male establishment within her newly chosen party. Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark has been mentioned as a possible challenger for the nomination, which will be decided at the party's convention next spring.

The Citizens Party, which ran Barry Commoner for president in 1980, is committed to nuclear disarmament, full employment, environmental protection, equal rights and economic democracy. Since 1980 it has run candidates in 215 local races, about half of them women, and won 11 times.

Teachers Back In Class

CHICAGO (UPI) — Teachers voted overwhelmingly to accept a 5 percent pay raise and end a record three-week strike, reopening classes today for 435,000 students whose angry parents were preparing "to pull their kids out of the public schools."

Teachers approved their new contract with the Board of Education by a margin of 73 percent to 27 percent Monday and classes in the nation's third largest school district were to resume today for the first time since Oct. 3.

Schools Superintendent Ruth Love said the pact will not upset the board's budget, although projected deficits were what first led the board to deny a raise, triggering the strike.

NATIONAL REPORT: Icy Canadian winds swept the Plains and triggered thunderstorms in the Southwest today, and the Red River climbed toward a record crest along the Texas-Oklahoma border where earlier flooding left hundreds of people homeless. Freezing temperatures left parts of northern Colorado and Wyoming shivering while heavy thunderstorms raked southeast New Mexico and west Texas early today. Showers and thunderstorms soaked southern Florida and a few showers dotted the mid-Atlantic Coast. Heavy rains in Fort Stockton, Texas triggered some flooding. Brisk northerly winds gusting near 40 mph raked the southern high Plains. The mercury plunged 12 degrees in one hour when the cold front swept through Hobbs, N.M. Monday night. Sudden storms in Arizona Monday triggered lightning that struck a young woman walking near her home in Fountain Hills, critically injuring her and melting the pavement where she fell.

New Car, Housing Costs Nudge Inflation Upward

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Price hikes for new cars and housing lifted the September inflation rate by 0.5 percent, the strongest increase in five months, despite a big improvement in back-to-school costs, the Labor Department said today.

A major influence holding down the department's Consumer Price Index was a 1.4 percent drop in tuition costs and school fees and no change at all in clothing costs, department analysts said.

January-through-September inflation was 3.7 percent on an annual rate, the department said. However, the average for the most recent three months climbed to 5.3 percent, in line with the view of most private analysts that the underlying rate of inflation for 1983 will turn out to be in the neighborhood of 5 percent.

Last year's inflation rate was 3.9 percent.

The department said the major categories of transportation, consisting mainly of new and used car prices, and housing costs together accounted for about 70 percent of the increase in the price index in the past six months.

The transportation index climbed 0.8 percent in September, the most of any of the seven largest categories of prices, mostly because new cars went up 1 percent in price and used car prices jumped 2.1 percent, after seasonal adjustment.

Energy prices overall were up 0.7 percent, with gasoline up only 0.4 percent after a far larger 1.1 percent increase in August.

Although the increase in September food costs was only a moderate 0.4 percent, it was the largest rise since April.

Cooking oils jumped 2.6 percent, reflecting a drought-caused soybean shortage. Fruits and vegetables were up 1.6 percent for the month.

Meat and poultry prices dropped 0.3 percent, less than the declines in the previous two months as the effect of the summer heat that drove threatened cattle and hogs to early slaughter began to wear off.

Housing costs were up 0.5 percent, also the biggest jump since April. Among the ingredients of the housing index, only maintenance and repair became less expensive during the month.

Rents were up 0.7 percent and homeowner's costs were up 0.5 percent.

The medical care index was up only 0.4 percent, continuing a moderating trend that began in March, despite a 1.4 percent increase in hospital room charges.

Entertainment costs were up 0.4 percent in September. A miscellaneous category of other goods and services, heavily influenced by tuition costs, went down 0.1 percent.

While tuition and school fees dropped 1.4 percent the prices of school books and supplies were up 0.3 percent, the department said.

The other major back-to-school expense, the index for new clothing, was unchanged.

The Labor Department's Consumer Price Index was 301.8 in September, equivalent to a price of $301.80 for the government's sample "market basket" of goods and services that cost $100 in 1967.

In September the 1967 dollar was worth 33.1 cents, the department said.

The September change in prices, if repeated for 12 months, would be an inflation rate of 5.7 percent, department analysts said.

Marines In Beirut The Search Goes On For Bombing Victims...And Answers

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Weary U.S. Marines, wearing surgical masks against the stench of death, today picked through jagged concrete in the search for more victims of the smiling fanatic whose suicide bomb killed at least 207 Americans.

The search also continued at the ruins of the French barracks 3 miles away where a terrorist driving a truck laden with explosives detonated a blast Sunday in a similar attack a minute after the American building fell.

A survivor at the U.S. center said a witness told him the driver "was smiling" as he sped to his death in a Mercedes truck with about a ton of explosives that blew apart the building.

Amid increasing speculation in Washington that "Iranian elements" masterminded the devastating attacks, both Iran and Syria denied any involvement.

As late as Monday night, state-run Beirut radio reported, one man trapped under the rubble of the collapsed French building could still be heard moaning for help — some 36 hours after the explosions.

The death toll continued to climb. The Pentagon said 207 U.S. servicemen were killed and at least 75 wounded, 18 in serious or critical condition in military hospitals in Italy, Cyprus and West Germany. Unofficial Marine reports listed 32 soldiers as missing.

Forty-one French paratroopers were listed as killed, 16 wounded and some 15 missing. Eleven of the French wounded arrived at a military airport near Paris Monday night to an emotional welcome from Prime Minister Pierre Mauroy.

Marine Commandant Gen. Paul X. Kelley flew to Beirut to review security and U.S., French and Lebanese officials worked feverishly to identify those who launched the attacks, claimed by two Moslem fundamentalist groups.

Kelley was expected to direct the investigation. Western diplomatic sources said American and French security services were collecting data about the bombings and those behind them.

CBS News, quoting U.S. intelligence sources, reported the bombings were masterminded by a "renegade Lebanese Shiite Moslem loyal to Ayatollah Khomeini" identified as Abu Musawi.

The local Marine commander, Col. Timothy Geraghty, described the attacks as "well-planned, timed and coordinated" and vowed the perpetrators would be caught.

French President Francois Mitterrand, who paid a 7-hour visit to Beirut Monday, and President Reagan, who called the bombings "vicious, cowardly and ruthless," said they would keep their troops in the multinational peace-keeping force in Lebanon.

Reagan said he wants to improve the Marines' "overall defensive structure," but said he does not want to give them a combat role in Lebanon.

Outraged U.S. congressmen, however, voiced new demands to end the role of the 1,600 Marine peace-keepers in Lebanon's virtually unending civil war.

In Washington, Secretary of State George Shultz told members of Congress the available evidence points to Iranian radicals in the bombings, but he said Syria and the Soviet Union must bear a share of the responsibility.

"Iranian elements in Lebanon operate from behind Syrian lines and are allied with Syria," Shultz said.

He said he and the foreign ministers of Britain, France and Italy, the nations that make up the peace-keeping force, would meet before week's end to discuss their course of action.

Where the four-story Marine Battalion Landing Team headquarters had stood near the Marine base at Beirut airport, sweating Marines used massive cranes, axes and shovels to dig through tons of twisted concrete for comrades who might still be trapped under the debris.

Some wore surgical masks against the stench of corpses.

There were similar scenes by torchlight at the rubble of the French barracks, where France brought in 14 experts with trained dogs and electronic detection devices to aid the search.

"I did not know what had hit us," said Lance Corp. Robert Calhoun, 21, of San Antonio, Texas who was on the roof of the building as it collapsed. "There were about a thousand people screaming, help me, God help me."

Rescue workers continue the grisly task of searching for the bodies of those killed in bombing attack.

Did Bullet Intended For Robbers Hit Sanford Man?

A 30-year-old Sanford man was shot in the leg behind a Goldsboro bar early today, possibly in connection with a robbery that was occurring nearby.

Walter Dixon, of 1707 W. 16th St., was treated in the emergency room at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, for a gunshot wound in the left thigh and released, a hospital spokesman said.

Dixon said he was standing behind Pearl's bar, 1007 W. 13th St., at about 2:30 a.m. when two shots rang out, one of the bullets striking him in the thigh, a police report said.

Dixon said a man and a woman who were sitting in a car parked at the side of the bar were apparently being robbed at the time and the couple may have been shooting at the robbers, the report said.

The shots were believed to have been fired from a handgun, the report said.

A man and a woman reported to police that a group of men stole the woman's wallet from their car while they were parked at Pearl's bar at the time of the shooting.

The pair said they were sitting in the car when a group of about six men approached and one of them reached in and stole the woman's wallet which was on her lap.

The pair said the men ran toward the bar, a police report said.

The pair in the car were identified as Cheryl Cartwright, 23, of 2525 Sanford Ave., Sanford, and John Elias, 21, of 119 Reel Court, Sanford.

The police report made no mention of the couple shooting at the robbers. Assistant Sanford Police Chief Herb Shea declined to comment on any possible connection between the robbery and the shooting.

Peace Movement Asks For Missile Referendum

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) — The peace movement asked the West German parliament to call a referendum on the basing of new U.S. nuclear missiles in the country, planning at the same time to keep up protests in the streets.

Several hundred police were called in Monday to break a blockade of a U.S. Army munitions depot in Frankfurt by anti-nuclear demonstrators who said the site is an assembly point for American Pershing-2 missiles. Nearly 100 people were arrested.

In Bonn, spokesmen for anti-missile campaign organizers said Monday at a news conference that plans were under consideration for a blockade of parliament when it discusses the impending deployment in a Nov. 21 debate.

The anti-nuclear Greens Party later filed a draft bill calling for a plebiscite on the deployment with the office of the president of the Bundestag, the lower house of the West German parliament.

'Superior Ordered Rape'

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — A former national guardman charged in the slayings of four American churchwomen testified that his commander received an order from a superior officer to rape the women, court documents showed.

Five former national guardmen are charged with the slayings of Maryknoll nuns Ita Ford and Maura Clarke, Ursuline social worker Jean Donovan and Ursuline nun Dorothy Kaze after abducting them from San Salvador's international airport Dec. 4, 1980.

On Monday, reporters obtained documents dated Sept. 25, 1983 that quoted Carlos Joaquin Contreras as testifying that his patrol leader — Sgt. Luis Antonio Colindres Aleman — was ordered by a superior officer to rape the four churchwomen.

Court officials said a trial could be held later in the week.

Ambassador Wounded

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — An unidentified gunman firing an automatic weapon critically wounded the Jordanian ambassador to India today near his home, officials said.

Ambassador Ali Kourme was hit with six bullets on the right side of his body as he walked home from the Jordanian Embassy to his nearby home at about 2:30 p.m. (5 a.m. EDT), the domestic news agency Press Trust of India said quoting government officials.

Police said they have no motive or suspects in the shooting.

Charges Against Toole Could Take Months

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Police concede they have no physical evidence against the 36-year-old drifter who confessed to killing 6-year-old Adam Walsh, and prosecutors say it could take months to file charges in the case.

Police searched unsuccessfully Monday and last Friday for the body of the boy, whose highly publicized kidnap-murder led to the passage in Congress last year of the Missing Children's Act.

Information on where to find the boy's shallow grave was provided by Otis Elwood Toole, a drifter serving a 20-year arson term.

Invasion U.S. Troops Battle Government Forces In Grenada

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States joined six Caribbean nations in an invasion of the island nation of Grenada to restore order and democracy and to protect foreigners in the midst of a bloody coup that toppled the government last week, President Reagan said.

American paratroops backed by helicopter gunships invaded Grenada before dawn today and were engaged in battle with government forces, Radio Free Grenada said.

"At 5:40 this morning foreign troops began landing in Grenada," an excited announcer for Radio Free Grenada said.

The radio said the landing included U.S. paratroopers and gunships and said, "Our revolutionary armed forces are engaging them in battle."

The radio called on "all Grenadians to report to militia stations" to fight off the invaders and urged citizens to "block all roads and obstruct the enemy's progress."

Radio Free Grenada went on the air at 6:15 a.m. with the announcement and called on all doctors and nurses to report to duty.

The reported invasion came less than a day after 50 Marines were seen landing in Barbados amid reports Caribbean forces were massing there to move on Grenada, which was taken over by the military last week.

Grenada Monday charged an invasion was imminent and put its forces on full alert, the official Cuban news agency Prensa Latina said in a dispatch monitored in Mexico City.

"Any such invasion can only lead to the loss of lives of thousands of men, women and children," the island's military rulers said in a message to the U.S. Embassy in Barbados, 160 miles northeast of Grenada in the Caribbean Sea.

The Marines arrived Monday afternoon amid increased U.S. military activity in the southeastern Caribbean less than a week after Grenada Prime Minister Maurice Bishop was killed and a military council took control of the tiny island.

Official Radio Free Grenada said two unidentified warships had been spotted cruising within 6 and 9 miles off the island's shores and accused the seven-nation organization of Eastern Caribbean states of mobilizing troops for an invasion.

The arrival of the Marines in Barbados also coincided with that of troops from six Caribbean nations for "military exercises," officials said.

U.S. Embassy Vice-Consul Michael Morgan said the use of Marines was "one of the options to evacuation" of at least some of the 800 to 900 U.S. citizens on Grenada, most of them students or faculty at St. George's University Medical School.

About 50 or 60 Marines were seen boarding three helicopters at Grantley Adams Airport before departing for an undisclosed location.

Caribbean leaders have harshly condemned the killing of Bishop and five of his associates. At least 17 people were reported killed and 69 injured during a shooting spree at a pro-Bishop demonstration.

Soviets To Deploy New Missiles

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union says it will install new nuclear missiles in East Germany and Czechoslovakia if NATO deploys American missiles in western Europe this winter, the strongest signal yet the Russians think chances are slim for agreement on new weapon limitations.

In a statement carried by the official Soviet news agency Tass Monday, the Soviet Defense Ministry said the approaching NATO deployment date "compelled" preparations to place the new weapons on the territory of its two allies.

The announcement has long been expected by Western diplomats following increasing Soviet and Warsaw Pact threats of "retaliatory measures" if NATO deploys the first of 572 cruise and Pershing-2 medium-range missiles on schedule in December in western Europe.

NATO has vowed to go ahead with deployment unless an accord is reached at the Intermediate Nuclear Force talks in Geneva on limiting medium-range missiles in Europe. The negotiations have largely been deadlocked.

The Soviet statement, which came as Warsaw Pact defense ministers prepared for a meeting in Moscow to discuss the U.S. missiles later this week, said Soviet weapons would be deployed to maintain what the Kremlin claims is an existing Warsaw Pact-NATO nuclear balance in Europe.

"NATO says the Soviets have nuclear superiority on the continent and wants a reduction in the more than 300 Soviet SS-20 missiles aimed at western Europe."

"The Soviet Union is compelled to adopt additional measures to ensure its own security and the security of its Warsaw Treaty allies," the statement said.

The Soviets have repeatedly threatened in recent weeks to walk out of the Geneva INF talks — and break off as well the separate talks on reducing intercontinental nuclear weapons — once deployment begins.

Soviet officials have accused the Americans of not negotiating seriously in Geneva.

But Western observers said also they believed Moscow had deliberately waited to make the announcement until after the massive peace demonstrations in western Europe during the weekend.

"Moscow counts very much on the support of the western European peace movement and its efforts to stop the U.S. missiles and it wants to do as little as possible to antagonize them," one observer said.

DeLorean's Trial Delayed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal judge delayed John DeLorean's cocaine trafficking trial indefinitely, saying justice "may have been severely compromised" because FBI videotapes of DeLorean's arrest were shown on national television.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert Takasugi, whose order Saturday blocking CBS and its local station from televising the tapes was reversed 24 hours later by an appellate court, said the action was "improper, disrespectful and certainly not ... productive."

"The CBS interference in (the legal) process may have devastating effects," Takasugi said Monday in deploring the airing of the tapes. "Justice and the judicial system may have been severely compromised."

Takasugi also delayed a continuing pre-trial hearing on the admissibility of polygraph evidence to Nov. 8, and said he would set a new trial date at the time. The trial was to have begun Nov. 1.

"The future of this trial will require some thought and consideration," Takasugi said, predicting that airing of the videotapes on the network and local TV stations would make it very difficult to seat an impartial jury.

Defense attorney Howard Weitzman told Takasugi that it would be "suicidal" to push forward while segments of the tapes were still being televised.

Poll: Proposition 1 Popular Among Voters

By United Press International
Despite an admitted ignorance about Proposition 1, many Floridians plan to vote for the measure next year, a statewide poll revealed.

More than 70 percent of those surveyed in a Florida Newspaper Poll said they don't know the details of the proposed constitutional amendment on the 1984 ballot that would limit state and local government revenues.

But the poll, published Monday, also showed that 46 percent of those participating in the survey favor Proposition 1 while 36 percent oppose it. Seventeen percent said they were undecided.

Proposition 1 is considered the chief weapon of a statewide taxpayer revolt. However, elected officials warn it would cripple government operations.

Another Harmful 'Baby Doe' Rule

Doctors who care for newborns with birth defects are in the business to save lives. But even the lifesavers acknowledge that sometimes the humane act is to forgo extraordinary measures — to allow a doomed and suffering child to die. Those who face such life-and-death dilemmas need help in determining when that choice is right and when it is wrong. But they do not need the sort of help the Reagan administration wants to give under its recently proposed revision of the "Baby Doe" rule.

The Baby Doe rule was first enacted to prevent incidents like one last year in which an Indiana infant born with Down's syndrome was denied corrective surgery and food at his parents' orders. A federal judge revoked that rule last spring, partly on procedural grounds. The replacement rule, due to take effect sometime this fall, is virtually the same as the original: it would require that signs be posted in hospital nurses' stations listing the number of a hot line where callers could anonymously report suspected cases of poor treatment or improper feeding of handicapped newborns. Federal investigators would respond to any tips; a hospital found to have withheld food or treatment could lose federal funding.

The plan seems to be an honest attempt to guard handicapped children against mistreatment. But, as many doctors who oppose the rule have argued, the rule would probably do more harm than good to the youngsters it is intended to protect. It would do nothing to help doctors resolve medical dilemmas. But it would allow federal bureaucrats without medical training to second-guess sensitive decisions that should be made by doctors and parents.

Despite the good intention behind it, the rule would intrude upon the private doctor-patient relationship, distract doctors from their duties and aggravate parental anguish. Worse, it could keep fearful parents and doctors from choosing the best care for handicapped newborns. Ultimately, it could prolong the suffering of dying babies. And if hospitals found in violation of the rule lose federal funds, the lives of even more infants could be endangered.

Handicapped children deserve sensitive care, but the Reagan administration's rigid rule is not the best way to provide it. A better solution is offered by the American Academy of Pediatrics, which favors the creation of federally supervised local ethics committees to review difficult cases involving handicapped newborns. The committees would consider each case separately, basing decisions on the doctor's prognosis for the child, the limitations of medicine and the demands of law and morality. That reasonable approach would protect handicapped children against abuse. It would keep government bureaucrats out of maternity wards. And it would give doctors and parents the help they need to make the right decision in difficult circumstances.

Both Ways, We Pay

U.S. News and World Report calculates that the federal government will borrow 62 percent of all money loaned in the United States in 1984.

Two questions:
Isn't a country socialist when the government is the biggest borrower during peace-time?

What's the difference between taxing the people to pay the cost of government and borrowing their money to pay it?

The Democrats tax and the Republicans borrow. Both ways, the American people pay.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Software!"

It was working perfectly when you drove it off the lot.

But a day or so later you were standing by the side of the road with the hood up, at the mercy of the weather, the tow-truck operator and the nearest mechanic.

How did yesterday's shiny gem on the used car lot turn into today's clunker?

If you knew, you might save yourself similar problems next time. If you learn more about cars you might save some headaches and some dollars.

With that in mind General Services Administration's Consumer Information Center is making available The Backyard Mechanic, a 3-volume compilation of 42 popular car-care articles from the Air Force's Driver magazine.

It costs $9.50 but it just might be worth it.

While some automotive self-help books read too much like textbooks to be practical and others are a bit simplistic ("Car won't start? Check the fuel gauge...") The Backyard Mechanic, according to the information center, strikes the perfect balance.

Designed "to help the novice working at home, as well as to provide a few reminders to the experienced hobby-shop mechanic," the articles are concise but conversational, in the manner of a patient friend with a good sense of humor and a thorough knowledge of the subject.

One article, for example, takes you step-by-step through a general tune-up; another tells you how to avoid getting ripped-off when you trust the tune-up job to someone else.

There are chapters on doing a general safety check and on how to make sure the used car you select isn't someone's discarded lemon. There are chapters on body repair, carburetor rebuilding, ignition rewiring, brake relining and general reconditioning — each accompanied by photos, graphs, charts and illustrations.

The Backyard Mechanic can be obtained by sending $9.50 with a request for the publication to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 221L, Pueblo, Colorado 81009. With the set you will receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog, which lists more than 200 free or moderately priced government publications of consumer interest.

Clark Move Sensible

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The shift of William P. Clark from the National Security Council to the Interior Department may have astounded many people, but it's an especially sensible move for the man who made the decision — President Reagan.

The replacement of James Watt with Clark as interior secretary provides that department with a leader who doesn't thrive on confrontation politics — and that's beneficial for the president because Watt's belligerent style and abrasive personality unnecessarily antagonized too many people.

At the same time, the substitution of Robert C. McFarlane for Clark as head of the NSC will help the president because it provides him with an assistant for national security affairs qualified to hold that especially demanding position.

The allegation that Clark is somehow "unqualified" to be interior secretary is specious in several respects. Like both Reagan and Watt, Clark embraces a pro-development philosophy toward the land and natural resources under the government's control, but sensitivity to environmental concerns unfortunately is not an official prerequisite for the job.

Clark hasn't demonstrated much of an interest in the issues he will have to deal with at the Interior, but that consideration also is irrelevant. Every president in modern times — Republican and Democrat, liberal and conservative — has filled his cabinet with men and women who had little or no experience or expertise in their department's specialties (with the exceptions of the secretaries of state and treasury, both of which demand highly specialized backgrounds).

Far more scandalous than the pending nomination were the first two assignments Reagan gave to Clark. Both were important foreign policy positions even though Clark has repeatedly demonstrated that he is a geopolitical illiterate.

Clark's first post in the Reagan administration was under secretary of state. When he appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations committee for his confirmation hearing, he provided a dazzling display of ignorance about heads of state and forms of government around the world, leading one European newspaper to characterize him as a "nitwit."

McFarlane may be a colorless careerist, but he is, according to most accounts, a well-qualified professional capable of handling the delicate job of providing national security advice to the president.

At the Interior, Clark will have to do more than merely perpetuate Watt's policies to be successful, because Watt not only antagonized virtually everyone who cared about the environment, but also failed to achieve his own stated goals.

The Reagan administration's policy of aggressively leasing federal lands for the development of oil, gas, coal and minerals, for example, was specifically promoted as a means of producing new revenues for the government.

In the case of Watt's program to offer almost the entire outer continental shelf for oil and gas exploration and production, he predicted that the first four major sales would produce almost $9.9 billion for the federal treasury.

Experts Predict Another Recession

WASHINGTON — This is a story about your dollars — how many you'll have and how much they'll buy.

The story is told in confidential studies by the Federal Reserve Board and the International Monetary Fund. There is not 100 percent agreement, of course, on the economic outlook. But here's what the Fed, the IMF and the administration's own economists are privately telling the White House to expect in the coming months:

The economic recovery should last at least through the 1984 election, though the growth rate will be far slower than it was earlier this year.

The economy could be thrown into another recession by some unexpected international debacle — like a loan default by a major Third World debtor. That possibility is why the administration is fighting so hard for the IMF "bail out" that is so vehemently opposed by President Reagan's conservative constituency.

Tempering this optimistic forecast is the economists' private assessment that the economy will begin to "deteriorate" in 1985. In fact, some experts told my

"We already know who's going to die if you can't come up with the $44,000 deposit... What we want to know is, who's going to pay?"

WILLIAM RUSHER

Good News For Airlines

NEW YORK (NEA) — The current trials and tribulations of the U.S. airline industry, five years after the deregulation of routes and fares, are a useful reminder that economic freedom is a wonderful thing even if it is a little messy when it suddenly replaces decades of government regulation.

Up until 1978, the operating assumption was that poppa — in the form of Washington — knew best. Poppa told the airlines which routes they could fly and how much they could charge. Since it was understood that they would be allowed to charge enough to make a reasonable profit, the airlines didn't mind greatly that they had forfeited their right to take bigger chances and reap bigger profits: open new routes, offer innovative variations in service and undercut their competitors' prices.

Those were the good old days, if you happened to be in the right spot or knew somebody who was. Many a congressman became a hero to his constituents by pulling enough wires in Washington to make sure that some major carrier kept flying in and out of the chief city in his district, even if the local air traffic didn't justify it. As for the airline unions, they were in hog heaven. Pilots' salaries rose as high as $90,000; stewardesses could earn up to $39,000.

Then, in 1978, in a spasm of free enterprise rectitude, Congress voted to deregulate air routes and air fares. The airlines were summarily turned loose, to see how well they could do on their own.

Not surprisingly, some did a lot better than others. Among the gainers were United, American, Delta, Northwest and Piedmont. Among the losers were Braniff (which overextended itself and went bankrupt), Eastern (which ran into stiff competition from lean young outfits like People Express and New York Air) and Continental. In Continental's case, and several others, the problem was the swollen salaries being paid to its employees — salaries that the line's earning power simply couldn't justify in any market but a heavily regulated one.

Also unsurprisingly, the first few years after deregulation has seen some wild swings in both service and fare structures. Congressman McNair and his constituents now have to fly in and out of their one-horse metropolis in a noisy propjet operated by a commuter line, rather than the 727 to which they had become accustomed. And it now actually costs more to fly from New York to West Mudbucket, Colo., than all the way to San Francisco — which sounds absurd, until you reflect on the relative demand for seats to San Francisco and West Mudbucket and recall the famous old law of supply and demand.

Above all, and least surprising of all, the average basic cost of airline transportation is coming down — and that's what it's all about, isn't it? There are a few more bumpy years still ahead, while this once heavily-protected industry is sorting itself out and finding the right mix of routes, service and fares. In the process, the inefficient operators will be chased out of business by the more efficient ones, to the accompaniment of a few dolorous bankruptcies and the wails of the pilots' and flight attendants' unions. But in the long run the result will be what a free market system always delivers — not merely the biggest, most complex and freest airline industry in the world, but the most varied, the most ingenious and the best.

Funding Radical Causes

One of the most disturbing developments in American political life is the role of certain tax-exempt foundations in funding radical causes, including movements aimed at weakening national security.

Documentation for this development is available from a number of respected sources, including Foundation News. A few months ago, the journal, which reports on the activities and interests of philanthropic foundations, stated that a total of $20 million had been raised by 90 so-called peace groups, and that 31 percent of their budgets came from private foundations. Another 25 percent was provided by private philanthropists. Sixty-five of the 90 groups reported receiving an average of $82,000 from foundations.

Foundation News reported a number of meetings by foundation officials, beginning in 1979, which were aimed at obtaining funding for opponents of a strong national defense. One of the earliest conferences, attended by 100 foundation representatives from 20 states, featured Randall Forsberg, director of the Institute For Peace and Disarmament and a leader of the nuclear freeze movement.

The U.S. public knows very little about the foundations involved in promotion of a "peace" movement that dovetails nicely with the foreign policy objectives of the Soviet Union. Funding of the Left has been as influential as it has been unpublicized. According to Foundation News, some of the foundations involved in support of the "peace" offensive include the Stern Fund, the Ottinger Foundation, the W. Alton Jones Foundation of Charlottesville, Va.; the New World Foundation, the Rockefeller Family Fund and the Field Foundation. In 1982, the Field Foundation spent $416,000 on "military peace and defense issues." Of course, the participating foundations promote unilateral disarmament in one form or another.

The liberal and left-oriented foundations that fund the "peace" movement are directly interested in support of or opposition to legislation. The groups they fund are interested in halting production of the MX missile and in enacting a nuclear freeze that would leave the United States in a position of military inferiority. In directing their funding in this way, these foundations act in a manner that seems incompatible with the laws governing tax exempt organizations, which aren't supposed to attempt to influence legislation. It's time, therefore, that the Justice Department look into this grant process which is a form of political lobbying.

At the same time, responsible foundations, which aren't engaged in attempting to influence legislation, have a heavier burden to bear, for serious scholarship and public service projects need strong funding from foundations. The diversion of foundation monies into radical political action, for that is what's happening, leaves many, many important and worthy activities underfunded.

For the layman who isn't familiar with the work of non-profit foundations, the most distressing thing about all this is that tax-exempt private foundation grants are being used to promote the unilateral disarmament of the United States.

LABOR CASE UPDATE: Cher Mungovan will get her chance to testify on Capitol Hill today, as the Senate Judiciary Committee holds hearings on a bill to close the labor law loophole that helped ruin her husband's construction business and drove him into hiding under the federal witness protection program.

I reported last month on the Mungovan case. Walter Mungovan's business was wrecked and his family life shattered by labor union harassment, some of which is apparently legal under the Hobbs Act. The Supreme Court has held that union members and officials are immune from prosecution for acts of violence and intimidation so long as they are committed in pursuit of legitimate union goals.

The hearing, being held at the behest of Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, has also scheduled testimony from a former U.S. attorney who argued and lost the case that gave union goons carte blanche under the Hobbs Act, as well as from others who will ask Congress to close the loophole.

Netters Shoot For Upset Against DeLand Tonight

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

The final week of the prep volleyball regular season will be a very important one for three Seminole County teams. With the right combination of victories, or losses, Lake Howell, Seminole and Lake Brantley could secure the seed they are looking for going into next week's district tournament at Lake Mary High.

The Lady Seminoles go up against conference co-leader DeLand tonight at 5 at Seminole High. Apopka will be the third team in the tri-match. On Thursday night, at Lake Howell, the Lady Hawks host Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots with junior varsity action starting at 4.

Seminole stands at 5-3 in the Five Star Conference while DeLand's Lady Bulldogs are 7-1. Lake Howell is also 7-1, but its only loss was to DeLand. Lake Brantley is 5-3 in the conference. A DeLand victory would clinch the top seed in the tourney for the Lady Bulldogs. However, a Seminole victory would open the door for Lake Howell to take the top seed if it beats Lake Brantley.

Seminole would clinch the third seed in the tourney with a victory tonight. The only way Lake Brantley could take the third seed is if DeLand beats Seminole and the Lady Patriots knock off Lake Howell, but stranger things have happened in the conference this season.

Prep Volleyball

Genene Stallworth

Since Seminole and Lake Howell are playing on different nights, don't be surprised if Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano and her squad are sitting in the stands and pulling for the Lady Seminoles tonight.

Seminole has had its shares of ups and downs this season, but, if they play up to their potential, the Lady Tribe can play with anyone. Seminole coach Beth Corso feels her team will be in good shape if it can go into the district tournament seeded third.

Seniors Genene Stallworth, Katy Barbour and Dee Goblebecker and Juniors Beth Nelson and Janet Hauck have performed well all season for the Tribe. The sixth starter the past few matches has been senior Toni Washington and she has filled in well for the Lady Seminoles. Junior Keri Lake is the Tribe's top server off the bench while seniors Jill Janak and Kaylyn Witherow and junior Jill Witherow will also be ready when they are needed.

DeLand's top performer is 6-1 junior Bridgette Gordon, who is considered one of the top players in the Central Florida area. The Lady Bulldogs' only loss of the season was at the hands of Dana Gebhardt and Lake Brantley.

While Seminole has been looking for a steady sixth starter, Lake Howell has no weaknesses. Caryn Krumweide is perhaps the highest percentage server around while Christy Scott can be devastating on the front line. Kathy Barma, Cathy Saunders, Beth Saunders and Eileen Thiebauth are excellent all around players. Kim Montegny is the Lady Hawks top performer off the bench.

Toni Washington, Seminole senior, has moved into the starting six for coach Beth Corso's netters and helped the Tribe contend for the third seed in the district. Tonight, Seminole hosts top-ranked DeLand.

'Distracted' Shula Breaks Off USFL Talk

MIAMI (UPI) — Don Shula has broken off contract negotiations with the USFL New Jersey Generals and Miami Dolphins owner Joe Robbie says he will sit down with his coach to talk money "in the next day or two."

Shula's contract, reportedly for $450,000 a year, runs out Feb. 28 and Generals owner Donald Trump has been courting him with an offer of $1 million a year.

But Shula opened his weekly news conference Monday by announcing: "To end some speculation, I have decided I am no longer interested in the New Jersey Generals."

Shula said all the conjecture and questions surrounding the New Jersey offer was distracting him from week-to-week preparations of the Dolphins. He also was apparently ranked by statements Sunday by Trump, who said Shula was ready to sign, and a lavish condominium in the real estate magnate's Manhattan complex was the only obstacle.

"I had the opportunity to review a (television) tape in which Donald Trump said that I was all set and ready to go and the only thing he had to do was meet certain economic conditions. I've never felt that I have in any way committed myself to that extent."

"When I was approached I said I had interest in what they had to say and in order for me to be able to make an intelligent decision, the only way that I could do that was to get all of the facts, which was all I ever intended to do without any commitment at all."

Shortly after Shula's announcement, the Generals issued a prepared statement saying the negotiations had been terminated.

"The reason is that Trump felt the arrangement to attain a coach like Don Shula were just too complex and time-consuming at this point," the statement said. "A prime example of this was the possibility of an apartment at Trump Tower as a part of a contractual agreement."

Then followed a statement by Robbie, which said: "This confirms my impression that Donald Trump has been engaged more in ballyhoo for his grand entrance to the U.S. Football League than in a serious effort to build his franchise competitively by sound professional management. Headlines in the sports pages and network television can be mighty heady to Fifth Avenue tycoons."

Shula said although there was no meeting scheduled with Robbie he expected to talk with him soon. Robbie said that would be this week.

"Coach Shula and I will meet again privately in the next day or two to discuss his contract free from outside interference," Robbie said.

"I said from the beginning I was interested in giving Joe Robbie and the Dolphins every opportunity to work something out," Shula said. "So far nothing has been resolved. In the event that it isn't, I'll wait until the end of the year I'll review all my options."

McKay, Bucs Glad To Leave

TAMPA (UPI) — The home field advantage generally is considered worth about three points in the NFL, but faced with mounting fan discontent, Tampa Bay Coach John McKay said Monday it will do his team good to hit the road for the next three weeks.

"It will be good to go on the road," McKay said. "I think the fans have seen enough of us. I don't think we will get booed as early."

The Bucs dropped their eighth straight game 24-21 Sunday after holding 14-0 and 21-10 leads over the New Orleans Saints, and quarterback Jack Thompson and McKay were the prime targets of vocal discontent.

Late in the game when the Bucs were unable to take advantage of turnovers manufactured by the defense, many in the crowd of just over 48,000 screamed McKay with "Goodbye Johnnie," a parody of "Goodnight Ladies."

"There's a tremendous amount of good fans there, and a tremendous amount of people who are discontent," McKay said, "and we haven't done anything to get the discontent away from them. So, I think we will be a little bit better on the road."

While the fans in the stands were making their views known, so were the thousands who had purchased tickets, but stayed away.

In the past two weeks there have been 25,505 no-shows at Bucs games — 11,816 last week against St. Louis and 13,689 Sunday against the Saints.

The Bucs now face Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Minnesota on the road before returning home.

Thompson never got Tampa's offense going against the Saints and the Bucs wasted several scoring chances which would have blown the game apart had they been converted in the second period.

With Tampa leading 21-10 the Bucs got the ball in scoring territory twice on interceptions of Kenny Stabler passes but came up empty handed both times.

Thompson completed 16 of 34 passes for 124 yards, but lost 57 yards on seven sacks and was intercepted three times.

McKay defended Thompson, who was obtained from the Cincinnati Bengals in the off-season for Tampa first round draft pick next year after it became apparent Doug Williams and the Bucs would far apart in contract talks. Williams since has signed with Tulsa of the United States Football League and Thompson has been taking the heat from fans who think Williams would have had a better season.

"I think he's had an awfully tough year," McKay said. "I think this is possibly as tough a year possibly as any quarterback I've had to go through."

"He had been warned that the great Doug Williams fans who have been here over the years would not be great Jack Thompson fans," McKay said. "He has to learn to play through that."

Dixon Resumes Workouts For Gators

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Wide receiver Dwayne Dixon began practicing again Monday for the first time since he strained knee ligaments Oct. 1 against in a Florida game against LSU.

Dixon had his knee heavily taped as he went through limited work-outs. Gary Rolle, another receiver who has had knee difficulties, did not practice.

Offensive tackle Lomas Brown, who suffered a back strain Saturday against East Carolina, did not participate in most of the drills. But he was jogging apparently free of pain and is expected to be in good shape in time for Saturday's game at Auburn.

'Old' Rookies Realize Childhood Fantasies With Boys Of Summer

They were two of the Boys of Summer meeting again in the Autumn of their lifetime. In Dodgettown, in all places, and the way Carl Furillo and Preacher Roe hugged and embraced each other, you'd think they hadn't seen one another in almost 30 years.

They hadn't. The last time the 61-year-old Furillo and the 66-year-old Roe had been in each other's company was 1954, Roe's last season with the Brooklyn Dodgers, and who knows, had it not been for this special occasion in Vero Beach they might never have gotten together again. Anywhere or anytime.

As it was, here the two of them were along with such other former Dodgers as Joe Black, Ralph Branca, Roy Campanella, Tommy Davis, Carl Erskine, Clem Labine, Don Newcombe, Wes Parker and Ron Perrano. They all were wearing their uniforms, too. Including Campy, with his old familiar No. 39 on his shirt. Tommy Lasorda was due in Wednesday, so you knew everything was under control.

The occasion for this grand reunion was the official launching of the Los Angeles Dodgers Adult Baseball Camp Monday. The camp will be operated by the Dodgers at their spring training site in Vero Beach until Saturday.

The prime object is to help the participants, ranging in age from 20 to 63, fulfill their fantasies to live like and do everything any Dodger player would do in a regular camp.

The cost is $2,400 plus the air fare to Florida. Why would anyone go to that expense to wind up with a set of aching muscles you ask?

Look, there are all kinds of fantasies. Some guys dream of going out with the centerfold girl in Playboy. Others imagine what it would be like bringing down an oncharging elephant in Botswana. Different courses for different horses.

To add some realism to the illusion, the Dodger management is providing regular Dodger uniforms with the names of the participants sewn on the back. They can have whatever number they want as well. Favorite among them was No. 4 — Snider's old one which is retired now.

Somebody has to give the "players" instruction and "manage" them during the games in the camp, and that's where the former Dodgers come in. They're getting paid, so they're not working for nothing. After all, this is not a complete fantasy world yet.

Among the 62 "players" who reported to the Dodgers' camp were Tom Hayden, the state Assemblyman from California and long-time activist; Gary Hart, the California state Senator; a criminal court judge from New York, and one woman, a sports photographer with a Los Angeles paper who said she wasn't on assignment but was paying her own way.

Erskine managed one of the teams that played Monday and Branca the other. Erskine's team was called San Antonio after the Dodgers' Double A farm in the Texas League and Branca's Albuquerque for their Triple A affiliate in the Pacific Coast League. Erskine's team won, 4-0. In a game limited to four innings for the sake of self preservation.

"I have 16 super gentlemen on my team and they include an obstetrician, a couple of attorneys and a judge," explained Erskine, now President of the First National Bank in his hometown of Anderson, Ind.

"Every one of them was like a 10-year-old boy in the game today. My two pitchers, Tony Falanga and Bob Casaruta, pitched a no-hitter between them. Falanga is a 48-year-old attorney from Long Island, and reminds me of Sal Maglie. Why? Because he has a nice little slider, he has a short-armed delivery and he's Italian."

Erskine laughed. "My shortstop twisted his knee a little bit," he said. "But we got through the game without any serious injuries. All these fellows are eating in the same dining room the Dodger players do in the spring, using the same lounge and dressing in the same lockers. You should've seen their eyes when they walked into the clubhouse and saw their brand new Dodger uniforms."

O'Donoghue Misses Chip Shot, Cardinals, Giants Settle For Tie

Pro Football

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The snowball started at the hand of New York linebacker Brad Van Pelt and wound up at the feet of St. Louis kicker Neil O'Donoghue.

O'Donoghue, a seven-year NFL veteran with 72 career field goals including two earlier in the evening, blew three field goal attempts in the overtime period Monday night to allow the New York Giants to escape with a 20-20 tie against his Cardinals.

The 6-foot-5 Van Pelt, who stands behind the middle of the line in New York's field goal defense and leaps straight up in an attempt to deflect low field goal tries, got a hand on O'Donoghue's 45-yard attempt six minutes into the overtime period and it sailed wide left of the uprights.

O'Donoghue got a reprieve later in the overtime when Neil Lomax completed a 32-yard pass to Roy Green to give the Cardinals a first down at the New York 2. After an incomplete pass by Lomax, O'Donoghue trotted onto the field for a second-down field goal try from the 10-yard line — a mere extra point attempt — but this time was wide right.

Incredibly, the Cardinals gave their frustrated kicker a third shot at victory when Lionel Washington intercepted a bomb by New York quarterback Jeff Rutledge and returned it 25 yards to the Giant 20 seven seconds later. After a Randy Love plunge was stopped for no gain, O'Donoghue attempted another second-down field goal, this one from 43 yards, and again was wide right.

"I got a hand on the first one," Van Pelt said, "and he might have been thinking about that when he tried the second one. The pressure of having missed the first two was probably weighing heavily on him when he tried that third one. It's hard to believe he missed all three."

"It's not the end of the world because O'Donoghue missed three field goals," O'Donoghue said. "Maybe it is in here (St. Louis lockerroom), but no where else. There are more important things going on in the world — Lebanon, for instance — and that's the way I approach it. It was just one of those nights that things didn't work out for me."

Ironically, it was a 22-yard field goal by O'Donoghue with 54 seconds left in regulation that set the extra session. That bailed out two of his teammates — Green and Willard Harrell — who had each dropped a potential game-winning touchdown pass on consecutive plays after a pass interference call against rookie Terry Kinard had given St. Louis a first-and-goal at the New York 4.

But there was nothing to soften the blow of O'Donoghue's muffed field goal try from the 10-yard line 14 minutes later.

"It was a chip shot," St. Louis Coach Jim Hanifan said. "It's an extra point. You expect us to make those. You win the game with an extra point. It's automatic. You kick it on second down because it's safe — you don't fumble, you make it and the game's over."

"There's not much you can say," O'Donoghue said. "If I could have them back I would. I'd do anything to change it. But I have to live with it. If a guy working 9-to-5 screws up he still goes to work the next day. I hate to get down on myself. I'll keep scrapping."

The game belonged to the defenses. The Cardinals had six sacks in addition to the interception by Washington and also scored a touchdown on a 32-yard fumble return by Benny Perrin.

The Giants had three sacks and three interceptions, including one returned 30 yards by strong safety

Bill Currier for New York's first touchdown of the game. Van Pelt also had a sack and an interception in addition to his field goal deflection.

Each team also scored a rushing touchdown — New York on a 1-yard plunge by Rob Carpenter and St. Louis on a 7-yarder by Stump Mitchell — and each kicker had two field goals. O'Donoghue also connected from 34 yards and rookie Ali Haji-Sheikh was successful from 40 and 29 yards to set a club record with 14 consecutive field goals.

But that streak came to an end on the final play of regulation time when the Giants sent the rookie from Michigan out to attempt what would have been an NFL record 66-yarder. It fell considerably short.

"Streaks don't impress me," Haji-Sheikh said. "You've got to think about the game, not yourself. Disregard how long it was; that field goal could have won the game for us. If a hurricane blew in from the gulf coast it might have made it."

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Sanford Tips College Park; Pine Hills Shuts Out 880

Sanford 801, under eight recreation division, scored a goal in the first half and got a clutch all-around team performance en route to a 1-0 blanking of College Park in Sanford Soccer Club action this past Saturday.

Sanford 801 now stands at 3-1-1 for the season and it will host Downtown Orlando this Saturday at 12:30 p.m. at the Sanford Airport.

In other action Saturday, Pine Hills scored two goals in each half and shut out Sanford 880, under eight division three, 4-0. Chad Bass, Jason Kaiser and Bo Davis just missed goals for Sanford. The defensive leaders included, Shawn Stewart, Mark Cann, Travis Crawford, Meda Williams, Chris Gills, Matthew Bowlin and Steve Keple. Sanford now stands at 1-5 on the season and will host College Park 880 this Saturday.

Winter Park 261 exploded for three goals in the first half and tacked on four more in the second en route to a 7-0 blanking of Sanford 480 Celeste Industries in under 14, division one action. Celeste Industries now stands at 1-5 for the season and will go up against Maitland 461 Saturday at 9 a.m. at the Sanford Airport.

Offensive leaders for Sanford 480 Saturday included Steve Edwards, Mike Altizer, Chris Ray and Troy Deppen. Winter Park kept Sanford's goalkeepers busy all day long. Sean Sundvall came up with nine saves in the first half while Chuck Roll added seven in the second half. Fullback Cindy Benge was the defensive standout for Celeste Industries.

Corder Leads Warrior Win

The Junior Midget Winter Park Warriors moved one step closer to winning their division by defeating the Eustis Lynx Saturday, 28-18, and bringing their record to 4-0-1 for the season.

Saturday's rainy weather made playing conditions tough on both teams, but the Warriors came out on top with super efforts from running backs Gary Corder and Mike Jullian. Corder bolted for touchdown runs of 10, 40 and 65 yards while Jullian scored on a five-yard run and ran back a kickoff 30 yards to set up another TD.

Best efforts on the offensive line was turned in by guard Julius Bennet while Zac Thomas intercepted his third pass in five games. Thomas is in his first year of organized football and has been selected captain for two of the games this season.

The Warriors get back into action this Saturday against the Southside Steelers.

Hibbard, Washington Hurl Softball Shutouts

Alan Cook and Marty Ceresoli slapped three hits each while Don Hibbard allowed just one hit — a fifth inning single by George Morris — as Uncle Nick's Oyster Bar demolished Sanford Landing, 15-0, in Sanford Men's Softball League action Monday at Pinehurst Field.

Cook, who was hitting a league-leading .824 going into the game, singled twice and tripled driving in two runs. Ceresoli added three singles while Don Causeaux and Don McDonald had two hits each. Mark Bartlett drove in two runs as Uncle Nick's, 8-1 and tied for first with the DeLuxe Bar, ripped 17 hits off loser Morris. Sanford Landing fell to 0-9.

A big, seven-run fifth inning helped Uncle Nick's win by the slaughter rule. Bartlett's two-run triple was the key hit in the inning which also featured RBI hits by Ceresoli, Cook and McDonald.

DeLuxe Bar, meanwhile, kept pace as Burnette "Slim" Washington tossed a three-hit shutout at the Pookie Bears as 8-1 DeLuxe rolled, 15-0, in a six-inning contest.

Washington also slugged two hits and drove in two runs. Levi Raines clobbered his league-leading fourth home run while "Steady Eddie" Jackson, Lee Barnes and Kendall Aiken stroked two hits apiece. Lenon Anderson drove in three runs with two singles and a sacrifice fly.

Scott Millsom, batting .688 going into the game, had two hits for the 2-7 Bears. Gary Muse was the losing pitcher.

Wednesday night, DeLuxe Bar plays Session Time, 4-4, at 6:30 and the Pookie Bears take on Uncle Nick's Oyster Bar at 7:30. The DeLuxe-Uncle Nick's rematch will be Wednesday, Nov. 2. The two teams have split two games thus far.

Honeycutt Wins Comeback Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite finishing the season in the National League, Rick Honeycutt left his mark in the American League this year.

Honeycutt posted the best earned run average in the AL before being traded to the NL with six weeks remaining in the season and that achievement helped the 29-year-old left-hander earn the United Press International's AL Comeback Player of the Year award.

A dismal failure in 1982 during which he recorded a 5-17 mark with a 5.27 ERA, Honeycutt rebounded to post a 14-8 record with a league-leading 2.42 ERA for the Texas Rangers before being traded to the Los Angeles Dodgers on Aug. 19.

In a balloting conducted of 32 UPI baseball correspondents, Honeycutt had seven votes to narrowly beat out outfielder Ken Griffey of the New York Yankees for the award. Griffey received five votes, while pitcher Dave Righetti of the Yankees and catcher Ted Simmons of the Milwaukee Brewers each received three votes.

"It's something that's nice, coming back after a poor season," Honeycutt said when reached at his home in Arlington, Texas. "It's two-prong because you have to have had a poor year the season before to win it."

Honeycutt adopted a conditioning program similar to the type used by Steve Carlton and John Denny of the Philadelphia Phillies.

"Last winter there was a lot of pressure on Frank Tanana and I, so we decided to go on a new program," said Honeycutt. "We got it from Gus Hoefling, the fitness coach for the Phillies. I got the idea from an article on Carlton. We pursued it and tried it."

"Steve does a much more intense workout. The program we were on was a stretching and flexing routine. We did it every day (last winter). I'm going to get together with Gus sometime this winter and get a program that will hopefully be at a next level."

In 25 starts for the Rangers, Honeycutt completed five games and recorded two shutouts. He worked 174 2/3 innings and walked just 37 while striking out 56.

Gators, Miami Move Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nebraska used a rout while Texas was in doubt Saturday, yet both clubs kept their unbeaten status intact and continue to head the college football ratings list.

In balloting by the UPI Board of Coaches released Monday, Nebraska maintained its season-long No. 1 ranking with 38 first-place votes and 628 overall points and Texas collected the other four first-place votes and 600 points to remain second.

Both teams received the same amount of first-place votes as last week after Nebraska crushed Colorado 69-19 and Texas nipped previously unbeaten Southern Methodist 15-12.

No. 3 North Carolina, idle last Saturday, is followed by No. 4 Florida, No. 5 Auburn, No. 6 Georgia, No. 7 Miami of Florida, No. 8 Michigan, No. 9 Illinois and No. 10 Maryland.

While the Cornhuskers, Longhorns and Tar Heels remain the nation's only major college schools with unblemished records, a series of games beginning this weekend will have a major effect on bowl bids and promises to shake up the ratings.

North Carolina visits Maryland in an Atlantic Coast Conference showdown Saturday; Florida, Auburn and Georgia engage in a Southeastern Conference round-robin the next three weeks; and Michigan visits Illinois in a Big Ten battle. Also, independent Miami entertains No. 13 West Virginia in a game that will be keenly watched by bowl scouts.

Rounding out the Top 20 are No. 11 Washington, No. 12 Southern Methodist, No. 14 Oklahoma, No. 15 Brigham Young, No. 16 Ohio State, No. 17 Iowa, No. 18 Boston College, No. 19 Alabama and No. 20 Pittsburgh.

Florida and Auburn, schools which have alternately passed each other the last two weeks, meet at Auburn Saturday. Georgia plays host to both schools in the two following weeks after playing Temple in a non-conference game Saturday.

Florida jumped back in front of the Tigers with a 24-17 win over East Carolina last week while Auburn smashed Mississippi State 28-13. Georgia toppled Kentucky 47-21.

Miami trimmed Cincinnati 17-7. Michigan held off Iowa 16-13 and Illinois topped Purdue 35-21 to move up two places apiece.

Lawrence Drives Firebird To Thundercar Victory

Stock Car Racing

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Bruce Lawrence of DeLand drove the Sunbelt Car Carriers-Kenny's Sheet Metal, 1983 Firebird to a wire to wire victory in the Fifth Annual 100-lap Thundercar Championship of Florida on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

"The car performed beautifully," Lawrence said after the race, but an old neck injury suffered years ago when he and his bicycle were run over by an errant Volkswagen, really bothered him late in the event. Finishing second and third were Chuckie Lee and Ricky Wood, two much improved youngsters who ran their best race ever on the fast high-banked asphalt oval. All top three finishers completed one hundred laps.

Rounding out the top five were David Russell and Robbie Burkhalter who both were set down a lap when they allowed their crews to work on their cars during a red flag caution period.

After another spectacular high speed duel with arch rival LeRoy Porter, David Rogers won the 25 lapper for the super late models. Porter, whose team members took the State's fastest pit crew title last year, successfully defended their title.

Rapid Rick Clouser won the street stock finale. The four-cylinder feature went to Stan Eads. Mike Fritts defeated all opponents in spectator drag competition.

In And Around Longwood

School To Hold Clean-Up Day

Students from Sabal Point Elementary School were thrilled and mystified this month when magician extraordinaire Bill Clary put on a magic show for them. As part of the school's on-going cultural arts program, the magician made things appear and disappear before a packed house. The show, sponsored by the school's PTA, was a great success with the students.

The PTA invites all concerned parents to attend the PTA meeting being held in the media center on Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m.

Plans are already made for the school's "balloon day" celebration to be held on March 22, 1984. Over 750 helium-filled balloons containing names and addresses of teachers and students will set off, with the hopes of those finding the balloon will write back. The goal is to encourage pen-pal relationships.

The Longwood Rotary club learned some interesting things about the local YMCA recently. Special guest speaker was YMCA associate director Joe Warwick, a 14-year veteran of the YMCA, explained to the members, "Why the Y."

Other meetings included a film presentation by Jim Herod, who shared a film of Earl Nightingale, giving his famous speech, "The Strangest Secret."

The Longwood Rotary Club meets every Tuesday morning, for breakfast at 7:30 a.m., at H.P. Cassidy's restaurant, Markham Woods Road.

On Saturday, Oct. 29, Longwood Elementary school will hold a "Campus Clean-up" day. Students, parents and teachers are all invited to come out and form work crews to work on the school grounds from 8:30-11:00 a.m.

Work crews will trim hedges and trees, plant grass plugs, weed out, transplant shrubs, remove dead or dying trees, and pick up papers.

Prior to the clean-up day, Howard Jeffries, who is with the Sanford Recreational Department and a local horticulturalist, will check the grounds and mark the trees that need to be removed.

On Tuesday, Nov. 1, the school will celebrate "Spirit Day," and ask all the students to come to school wearing their Longwood Elementary school T-shirts. To complete the day, a school skating party is set for 8:30 p.m. at the All American Skating Rink. Parents and students of the school are invited.

Parents of students attending Woodlands Elementary school are invited to attend a PTA today. According to Nancy Bennett, cultural arts chairman of the PTA, two special guest speakers will be there.

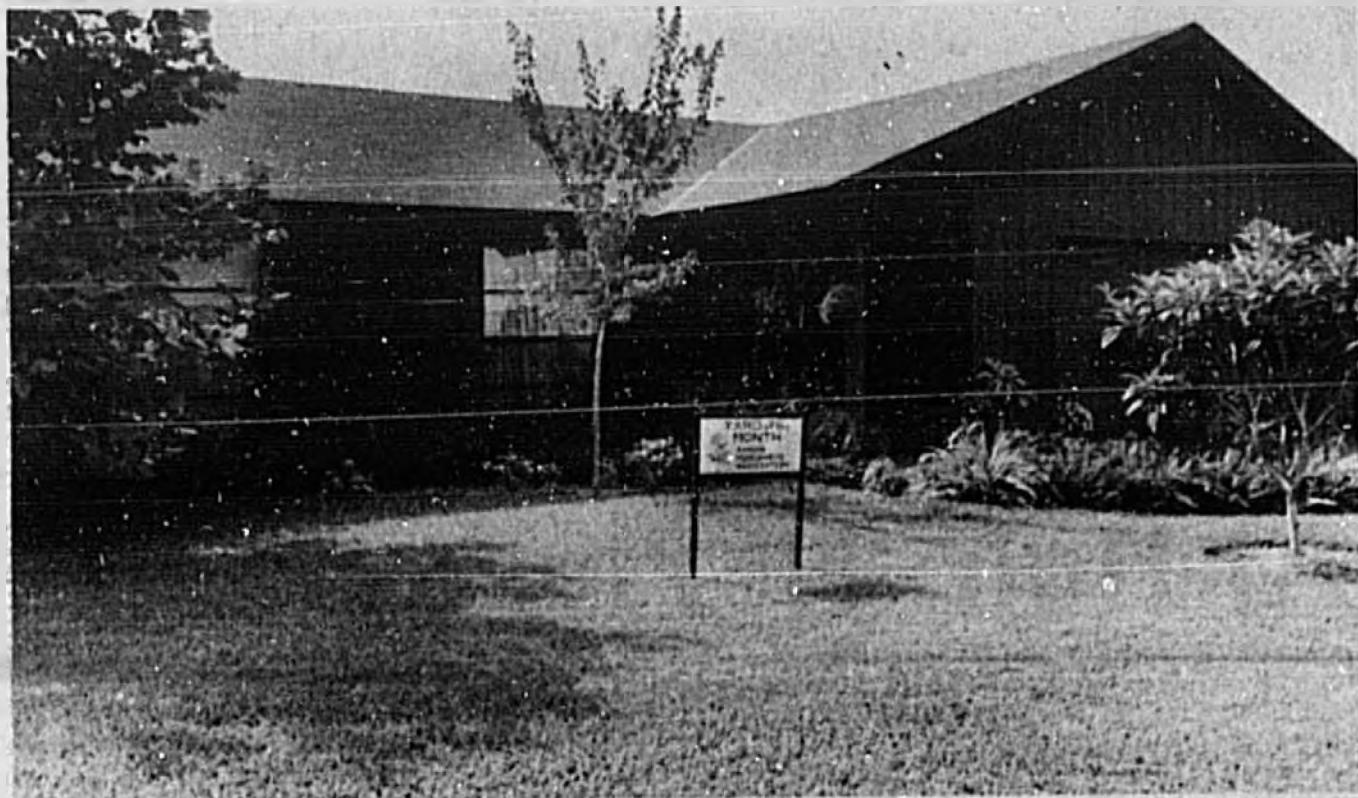

Explaining the use of computers in the schoolroom will be Gary Becker, the coordinator of Instructional Data Processing for the Seminole County School Board.

Secondly, Hank Bierly of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department will explain what the "Helping Hands" program is, and why it is needed.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m., in the school's multi-purpose room.

As part of the school's weekly cultural arts program, students will be entertained by the Junior and senior dance troupes of the Showtime Dance Studio in Longwood. Two shows will be performed due to the size of the student body, of modern dance numbers. The shows will run from 9-10 a.m. for grades kindergarten-third and 10-11 a.m. for grades fourth-fifth.

Coming up will be special Halloween Theme program put on by the school's kindergarten class for the entire student body.

Yard Of The Month

The home and grounds of Judy and Bill Hensley, 202 McVay Drive, Sanora, Sanford, has been selected for the Yard of the Month award by Sanora Homeowners Association. An association spokesman said the couple spend a lot of time in their yard. "It is neat with good foundation planning."

Cub Scout Dens On The Increase

Cub Scout Pack 196 of Winter Springs opened the autumn program with School Night, Sept. 15. The number of dens increased and registration grew.

Tiger Cubs became an established group at the School Night meeting. This group consists of seven-year-old boys and their parents.

At the pack meeting held Sept. 28, Boy Scout Troop 529 of Paola gave a performance demonstrating Indian ceremonial dances. The troop invited the Cubs and parents to join in the dancing of the Snake Dance.

Tom Craven, commander of VFW Post 5405, was presented the Pack Charter. The Post is the packs sponsoring body. Craven presented Cubmaster John Kelly with a check from the Post and Ladies Auxiliary.

Oct. 13 through 15 was a new experience for Keith Murphy and his Webelos Dens as they joined in the Fall Camporee held at Lake Alry. The highlight of the campout was the Order of the Arrow Ceremony.

October pack meeting was held Monday, Oct. 24. Theme for the month is Ghost and Goblins. Anyone interested in helping the Cub Scout Pack may contact John Kelly at 327-2321 or Maryanna Dusing at 327-2675.

Senior Citizens Annual Dinner

The Sanford Senior Citizens Club will hold its annual dinner at the Sanford Civic Center, Friday, Oct. 28, beginning at 5 p.m.

According to the president, Wilma Rasey, the installation of officers will be held. Lou Baker will be installed as president.

Mrs. Rasey says the dinner will be covered dish with the following format: members whose last names begin with A to H are asked to bring vegetables; those with last names beginning with H to P, will bring salads; and all others will supply the desserts. Meat, drinks and bread will be furnished by the club, Mrs. Rasey says.

She adds that for those who may not want to come out after dark, there will be transportation available. A variety of entertainment is being planned.

GETTING MARRIED

Engagement and wedding forms are available at the Herald offices to announce these events. The forms may be accompanied by professional black and white photographs if a picture is desired with the announcement. Wedding forms and pictures must be submitted within two weeks of the wedding.

HIS Dirty Magazines Soiling HER Marriage

DEAR ABBY: What can a wife do about a husband who constantly buys porno magazines? I don't mean just Playboy and Hustler, I mean magazines with one nude picture after another — no articles at all.

We've had many fights about this. It's been going on for five years. I've threatened to leave him, then he promises he won't buy any more, but I keep finding them hidden all over the house. I even found some stashed under his car seat.

We have three kids, and when I think of how much money my husband has spent on this filth when it should have been spent on the kids, I could cry.

I am not bad-looking, Abby. I'm 27, have a good figure and I'm still asked for my ID when we go out. I even get whistles from guys when I'm in the car or walking by myself.

Why does my husband keep buying this filth? He knows how much it hurts me. He will get up in the middle of the night to read these magazines, then he wakes me up for a little fun. I feel so used. What can I do? He says he loves me just the way I am.

HURT AND BETRAYED

DEAR HURT: Believe it or not, your husband's preoccupation with nude pictures has nothing to do with you. If he loves you and wants your marriage to survive, he will see a therapist about his problem — and it is a problem if it's damaging your marriage.

See a family therapist with him. You both need to understand why your husband needs these magazines. Share this letter with him today. It could save your marriage.

DEAR ABBY: Please answer this in the paper because there are some folks who need to see it. I am a widow, 85 years old. I just had a wedding anniversary, and not one friend or relative sent me a card or wished me a happy anniversary. It was just like I never had an anniversary to remember.

I always remember them on their anniversaries, but if they keep forgetting mine, they are going to get exactly what they gave me — nothing!

They think that just because my mate is gone that date doesn't mean anything to me anymore. Well, they are wrong. It still means a lot to me.

HURT IN LEXINGTON

Dear Abby

DEAR HURT: I'll print your letter to let those who ignore the wedding anniversaries of widows know that their remembrances are missed. In most cases, however, the date is not forgotten; friends and relatives think they're being kind by not reminding the widow of her loss.

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago you had a poem in your column that started with, "Thank God for dirty dishes." I clipped it, hoping to make a needlepoint sampler of it to frame and hang in my kitchen. Now I can't find it, and I'm going crazy looking for it. Can you help me, please?

ANNA IN ASHTABULA

DEAR ANNA: Yes. Thank God for dirty dishes. They have a tale to tell; While other folks go hungry, We're eating well! With Home and Health and Happiness We shouldn't want to fuss. For by this stack of evidence, God's very good to us!

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Still Upset," warning people against carrying priceless pictures and souvenirs in their purses, prompts this letter.

I learned another lesson the hard way. I lost my key ring. On it I had attached my name, home address and telephone number, thinking if my keys were lost, the finder would return them to me. Wrong! The "finder" beat me home and cleaned me out before I was able to get there. Print this, please. It might wise up some other dummies.

DUMB IN MUNCIE, IND.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Jesse Joins The Staff At Hair 'N' Place Shop

Hair 'n' Place wants to welcome Jesse and his clientele to our shop. He is new to the shop, but well-known in the Sanford area, where he has been styling hair for many years.

Come in to Hair 'n' Place at 503 French Ave. and meet Jesse and all the other friendly and talented hairstylists on the staff. They can give you an analysis of your hair and looks and show you how you can appear at your best at all times. If you need a new look, come see us.

Guys, it may be time for a cut, or just a trim. Carol, Betty, and Wendy are here from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. and on Saturday until 2 p.m.

We're a full service beauty salon offering all types of perms, hair coloring, cuts and styles, as well as nail sculpturing, manicures and facials.

Nail sculpturing is an art offered by Hair 'n' Place that can give you the long beautiful nails that you have always dreamed of having. You can have your nails looking like a fashion model.

We feature many excellent products. Redken, Clairol, and Zotos, just to name a few.

We are always ready to meet your needs. Call us at 323-8950 for an appointment. Our staff is here to please you.

Appointments are not always necessary. Call today— you'll be glad you did. The way you look is as important to us as it is to you.

Steve and Don Myers of Don's Glass & Mirror

Don's Glass & Mirror For Expert Workmanship

For expert service and workmanship in glass and mirror work, you can rely on Don's Glass & Mirror at 318 S. French Ave., Sanford. Owner Don Myers has 35 years experience in glass work, most of which has been in Sanford and Seminole County. Don believes in treating his customers fairly and honestly.

He opened his own store on Sept. 1. In business with him are his son, Steve, who has been learning the trade under his tutelage for the past three years, and wife, Joyce, who is bookkeeper and receptionist.

They do all types of resident, commercial, and auto glass and mirror work, including storefronts, shower doors, wet bars and customized table tops. Their specialty is customized mirror walls.

Mirror walls make your rooms seen larger and give them a professionally decorated look. It can provide various illusions and effects like bringing the outdoors inside.

Don can give you helpful decorating hints and show you books with decorating ideas for innovative ways to use mirrors in living rooms, dining rooms, halls, bedrooms and baths.

To help you with your holiday gift buying from now until Christmas, Don's is offering the framed mirrors in stock at 30 percent off list price. There is a mirror for all types of decorating styles from art deco to antique.

They also have etched mirrors and hanging macrame tables on display.

They carry glass in one-fourth, three-eighths, and one-half-inch thicknesses. They also have available patterned or obscure glass for decorative panels and shower doors, smoked glass in gray or bronze, and all types of plexiglass, including colors, for builders and hobbyists. They will be glad to cut glass to order.

Don's can also equip your store with security mirrors to protect against shoplifters.

They are glad to work with insurance companies for glass replacements in autos and buildings.

Don and Steve will be glad to come to your home or business and give you a free estimate. Just call 321-2360 for an appointment. The store is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday and 8:30 until noon on Saturday.

Uterine Fibroids: Surgery Needed?

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 39-year-old woman. Five years ago I was diagnosed as having uterine fibroids. During the past year I have noticed an increase in the duration of my periods. My flow is heavier and more clots are evident.

ones because the uterus was not left in to progress to something more serious. So while I don't approve of just taking out a uterus because it is there, I believe that in a number of instances a so-called unnecessary hysterectomy may have prevented cancer. It is not a black or white situation as some believe.

I firmly believe in the saying, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it." But I wonder if an elective dilatation and curettage (D&C) might not eliminate more severe problems and a possible hysterectomy in the future.

DEAR DR. LAMB—What is the danger from a trephination operation done to evacuate blood from a subdural hematoma? Are there any side effects? How many incisions do you make to do the drilling for a hole in the skull?

Since I am aware that approximately 50 percent of all hysterectomies performed in the United States are unnecessary, I'm sure you can appreciate my concern. DEAR READER—Go see your gynecologist again. I am more concerned about your bleeding than about your fibroids. While the size of the fibroids is important, if smaller ones cause bleeding then it might be wise to remove them.

DEAR READER—You are asking very complicated questions. Trephining is an ancient medical treatment done in prehistoric times to allow evil spirits to escape.

Your fibroids sound like they are so small that your doctor probably hopes that they may not enlarge much more before your menopause. They often shrink then. Your bleeding may be unrelated to your fibroids. If it is excessive or changed, a D&C may be wise to check the lining of your uterus. And it may stop the excessive bleeding. Don't ignore it.

The bored hole through the skull is still used to relieve pressure from a blood clot from a hemorrhage inside the skull, most commonly from an epidural hematoma, meaning a clot outside the membranes (dura) that encases the brain.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

But whether trephining or actual removal of bone for more exposure is done depends upon the nature of the hemorrhage and location. The symptoms or damage that might occur are usually from the damage that may have already occurred to the brain from pressure, or from the injury that caused the hematoma in the first place, not the operation.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Bridge game hand details including North and West cards, dealer, and opening lead.

when he led a club to dummy's queen at trick two and wound up losing a club trick.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby The correct way to play today's club suit is pretty well known. If you are a good player you should know it.

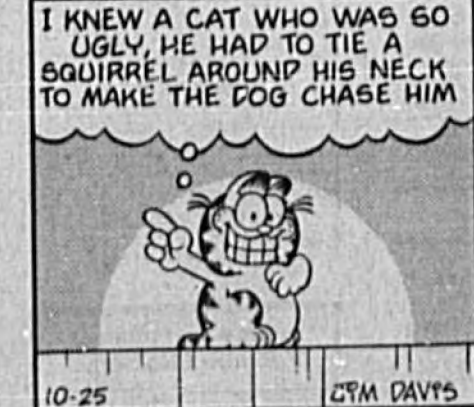

When his partner chided him, South argued that the 10-spot finesse would have cost him a trick if clubs had broken 3-3 and East held the jack.

That statement is correct, but his play was bound to lose against all 4-2 club breaks while the 10-spot finesse would succeed any time West held J-x, J-x-x or J-x-x-x in clubs. Of course, the 10-spot finesse would also cost him a trick against a singleton jack in the East hand.

Incidentally, our young hero got his trick back later. When West scored his club jack, he led the spade queen, which was allowed to hold. Then when South cashed his spade king and the good clubs, East was squeezed in the red suits and declarer made five-odd.

Of course, some of the real experts found that same squeeze after proper club play and made six no-trump, but five no-trump wasn't a bad score.
