Hoover Emphasizes Law Enforcement in Speech To Press

President Says Life Is More Unsafe In United States Than In Any Other Nation

NEW YORK, Apr. 22.—(INS)—Before a large gathering of newspaper editors from all sections of the country, assembled at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, President Hoover today met the crime wave face to face and called for a new deal in the matter of law enforcement and observation. He asked for the united support of the press in his fight against the crime wave that is being waged against the country. He said that the very foundations of government are being undermined by the crime wave.

The President stung out no particular law. Rather, he made a number of startling statements such as:

"Life and property are relatively more unsafe in the United States than in any other civilized country in the world."

"In many of our great cities murder can be committed with impunity."

"More than 9,000 human beings are killed every year in the United States while little more than half as many arrests follow. Less than one-sixth of those arrested are convicted, and these are relatively small percentages."

"At least 50 times as many burglaries as in the United States are committed in Great Britain, three times as many premeditated crimes as in the United States, and a much larger percentage of those arrested are convicted."

Mr. Hoover told the editors that the crime wave in the United States is a national problem that is being met by the federal government and state authorities to take prompt steps to stamp out the pest.

C. Harold Hume, of Jacksonville, said that the state acting through the legislature now in session would do everything humanly possible to halt the spread of the pest. Government aid was also necessary, he said. M. S. Youmans, of Atlanta, urged the adoption of a federal quarantine against Florida products in the infested area.

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 22.—Request for a small body of troops to guard Dade county areas suspected of Mediterranean fruit fly infestation was received by Governor Carlton Sunday.

The request was made over telephone by Sheriff M. P. Lehman, of Dade county, who asked that 10 militiamen be ordered to guard duty. The governor referred the Dade county sheriff to plant board officials in Orlando, adding that full cooperation would be accorded the Miami area by all state agencies in any fight against invasion of the fruit fly.

Two carloads of fruit, infested with the fly, were found in Dade county yesterday, according to information given to the governor by Sheriff Lehman.

GIBSON ISSUES CHALLENGE ON LIMITING NAVY

Envoy At Meeting Of League Of Nations Shows Where U. S. Stands On Navy Cut

WASHINGTON, Apr. 22.—(INS)—A frank and wide-open challenge to the world's great naval powers to join with America in not only limitation of naval armament—but actual reduction in all classes of ships—was put forward today by the American government, speaking through its Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, at the League of Nations' preparatory commission for disarmament, sitting in Geneva.

The burden of the American position was that the time has passed for quibbling and equivocating about reducing naval armament toward the eventual goal of disarmament. Ambassador Gibson said the time was ripe to act, and he challenged the representatives of Great Britain, France and Japan to go along with the United States for "real disarmament."

For boldness and directness, the American challenge today was comparable to that which Charles Evans Hughes, as secretary of state, threw into the astonished faces of the world's statesmen at the Washington Conference in 1921, proposing the first limitation of naval armament.

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 22.—Request for a small body of troops to guard Dade county areas suspected of Mediterranean fruit fly infestation was received by Governor Carlton Sunday.

DOHERTY SAYS OIL SUPPLY IS BEING WASTED

Oil Magnate Requests Action To Conserve Oil So Necessary In National Emergency

By James L. Kigallon (International News Service Staff Correspondent)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Apr. 22.—America through wasteful methods is facing a shortage of oil that might affect the country seriously in the event of a national emergency.

This is the opinion of Henry L. Doherty, internationally known oil and public utilities magnate, as expressed today in an exclusive interview with International News Service. Mr. Doherty is one of the wealthiest men in the country, his riches being variously estimated from $25,000,000 to $200,000,000.

Assisting him are district chairmen each to have supervision of the securing of growers' advertising agreements. Their respective sections, as follows: Roy Syms, West Side; T. F. Adams, East Side; H. Warren, Oviedo; and A. Holmes, Eureka Hammock.

German Government Seems To Lose Hope Of Debt Agreement

Pennsylvania University Official Makes Protest Against New Fumble Rule

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service
Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Apr. 26.—The first of the first class blast against the new fumble rule, as a protest against the rule committee, promulgated by the National Football League, was made by the chairman of its athletic council, Sydney Hutchinson, who forthwith came a backfire on the rule committee, promising the gentlemen faithfully that he would pay no attention at all to an article in Franklin D. Roosevelt's official athletic journal at Pennsylvania State University, Mr. Hutchinson declared nonoperative until 1926, so that public sentiment against it, can be gathered. With the same purpose in view, he also suggested that the important football legislation for the future be postponed in its consideration for one year.

The committee, through its secretary, W. S. Langford, announced that it planned to stand pat on what it had done to and with the rule at the meeting in February, 1925. Mr. Hutchinson's demand for a re-deliberation on the important changes yet to be made, the committee is highly unimpressed thereby. There are no important changes yet to be made, according to Mr. Langford. The rule, he says, will be officially adopted in 1926 and rejoining is general.

On an honest difference of opinion, Mr. Hutchinson speaks querulously about the dead ball "being thrown upon the game" in the form of a "radical innovation" which offends the millions who have been made to make football America's most popular sport. He claims to have sounded public opinion and to have found it "almost unanimously" favorable to this rule. Mr. Hutchinson also has been heard in his soundings over the air, and he has said, and has repeated, that the rule is about 75 per cent in favor of the new rule.

University Offered Gift Of Large Tract Of Land By Lamont

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Apr. 26.—(INS)—The University of Michigan will receive 28 acres of land near University Hospital as an outright gift if the state legislature acts favorably on an appropriation of $200,000 for a new university observatory.

The conditional donation is that of Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce and donor of numerous sums to the university for various purposes.

Among his gifts are $100,000 to the women of the University for their league building, now being completed and the Hanes Lamont Observatory to Bloomsfield, Orange Free State, South Africa. Lamont, a strong backer of the university astronomy program, will spend the 28 acres to the board of regents, as soon as the state legislature passes the appropriation for the new observatory.

At present the university owns a portion of a site near Fortage Lake and seeks to acquire the remaining land necessary for the construction of a 75-inch reflecting telescope, the second largest in the country. The appropriation from the state would cover the cost of the land and the cost of the observatory.

BRITONS INSTALL HAGEN AS LIKELY TO WIN TOURNEY

Sir Walter Has Jinx—On English Who Believe Him Destined

Davis J. Walsh
International News Service
Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Apr. 26.—Walter Hagen, the man with the piping Rock manner, has been installed an early favorite today in the English "Bucks" on the open golf championship at Muirfield, which means that Hagen still has the British "blessing" by the shrewd frontiers of his game, his nerve and his fame. Over here, that society fan and noble mien run straight out Third Avenue to the soot but, then, we know the man: His name is Hagen and he plays golf. Over there, he is held to be closely associated with destiny.

It's all a matter of results. Hagen has won an American open championship since 1919 and all other victories and that magnificent stride of his as he stalks down the fairway can't change the simple fact that he is one of our best golfers, no more, no less. Whereas he has won three of the last seven British championships and so, regardless of Farrell, American open champion; Horton Smith and Melhorn, the winter circuit champions; Dierck, Canadian and P. G. A. champion; Macdonald Smith, Sarazen and other outsiders, they bet Hagen against the field.

"Torch Slayer" May Miss Electric Chair

NEW YORK, Apr. 26.—(INS)—Life imprisonment and not the electric chair for Henry Close, alias Colin Campbell, contester of Jersey Torch slayer, now held in Union County Jail, Elizabeth, N. J., loomed as a possibility today when it became known his attorney Francis Gordon, proposes asking that his client be allowed to enter a plea of guilty on a second-degree murder charge.

Charles H. Close, vice-president of the Manufacturers' Trust Company, and Albert Close a teller in the Chase National Bank, brothers of the prisoner declared they had not seen him in 20 years and did not wish to have anything to do with him or his affairs now.

From Winter Haven camp word that citrus interests would be well represented at the hearing on possible quarantine of the state, set for April 22 in Washington.

J. C. Chase, head of Chase and Company, Orlando; C. C. Commander, manager of the Florida Citrus Exchange; Mr. Scott of the American Fruit Growers, Inc., Orlando; Lawrence Gentile, of Gentile Brothers and Jack Robinson, of the International Fruit Company, will attend the Washington hearing, it was announced today, by Judge Allen E. Walker, president of the Florida Citrus Growers Clearing House Association. Judge Walker will not be able to go.

Dr. Montgomery of the Florida State Plant Board will represent Dr. Wilton Newell, the eradication chief. Other representatives of growers and shippers were expected to join the party as well to Washington.

Chicago Cubs And Yanks Are Slated For Finals Of Baseball Pennant Race

NEW YORK, Apr. 26.—The heart of Cornelius McGillicuddy was a bit heavier and his venerable head dropped a bit lower as he led his Athletics against the Yankees here today, for the world's champions demonstrated yesterday that they still have the Indian sign on the Mackmen.

John Pius Quinn, the 44-year-old Ponce De Leon of the A's, lost a 2 to 1 decision to Waite Hoyt in a brilliant pitching duel only because Mule Haas, Mack's inexperienced center fielder, lost two flies in the red glare of the descending sun. Al Simmons, out with injuries, probably would have caught both. And Connie, who has spent more than a million dollars and tried out some 40 rookies since 1914 in an effort to win just one more pennant, got off on the wrong foot again because of the ever-present jinx.

Hoyt allowed only four hits in challenging up his 140th victory in a New York uniform. Quinn yielded five. Another impressive performance was turned in by Ed Brandt of the Braves, who held Brooklyn to three hits and beat Dazzy Vance 5 to 1 after the Beaneaters had won the morning game by 6 to 5 count.

Believe it or not, the Braves, regarded as the worst team in the Majors, top the clubs of both leagues today with three wins and no losses.

Chick Hafey was the batting hero of the day, his two homers enabling the Cardinals to down Cincinnati 9 to 4. Today Chick will wear through his new "spec" at the Chicago pitchers in the first game of a series that will test the new-found batting power of the Cubs.

Carl Mays, veteran submarine pitcher, started his comeback campaign auspiciously as the Giants shelled the Phillies, 14 to 5. A flat fight between Hurst of the Phils and Harry Kelly of the Giants enlivened the fray.

The St. Louis Browns lost their first game of the season, 5 to 4, when Chalmers Cissell, one of the White Sox "bad boys," stole home in the ninth. Washington finally broke into the victory column by trouncing the Red Sox, 3 to 1. Marberry holding the Sox to five hits.

as I say, I changed my mind." Doherty smiled affectionately at the charming bride. It was apparent, however, that he was more a hand at discussing business and national affairs than his love affair. But he made no secret of the fact that he was very happy and contented, and so this reporter took occasion to remind him that Eltona A. Edson, the noted inventor said during his annual birthday interview two months ago that "there is no such thing as a happy man."

"I'm happy," replied Mr. Doherty, sincerely. "I don't quite agree with that statement of Mr. Edson's. Happiness is like the weather, changeable. Sometimes there is sunshine and again there is a rain cloud. Right now the sun is shining for me. I'm greatly improved in health, after a long illness, and I have a devoted wife. My inclination is to be happy anyway. I could jolly with the nurses and doctors throughout my illness. It is only when I see any accident or something happen to a friend that I feel unhappy. Generally speaking, if a person is in good health he should be happy."

Now and then during the interview he asked his wife if this or that wasn't so and, invariably before he could catch himself, he would call her "Mrs. Eltona." And she would find herself calling him "Mr. Doherty."

"You see," explained Doherty, "we have been keeping our marriage a secret for so long that we forgot that the secret is out."

By preference, Germany will continue to pay under the Dawes plan, which fixes the maximum annual payment at $250,000,000, but does not set forth the total sum due. The question of how much Germany owes, still will cause uncertainty in the economic stability of Europe, until such a time when another conference or perhaps the same conference, favored with a greater degree of fortune, will work out a plan acceptable to all factions.

It is obvious that the annual payment by Germany of a large sum to the Allies without the "satisfying" knowledge that it is being applied to reduce a recognized and fixed debt, will become more burdensome and likely to cause discontent. Striving to reach a goal, even though difficult and remote, will help Germany much more than the onerous paying on a phantom obligation.

A National Park For Florida

Certain sections of the country, favored by nature with unusual beauties recognized by the government and being preserved through the establishment of national parks, have become the mecca of great caravans of tourists. Florida has no such park to add to its lure and upon the efforts to locate one in the southern part of the state, the Tampa Tribune writes:

"There is every reason to hope that the movement to designate a national park in Florida will be successful. Our national parks are a great asset to our nation and also to each of the states in which one or more are located. Over 3,500,000 tourists registered in the national parks in 1927—a substantial increase over the preceding year, showing the great popularity of our national parks, and their appreciation by the public.

"Florida is to be congratulated on having within its borders a great area so unique and possessing physical phenomena and human interest in such outstanding proportions that Congress, carrying out the purposes of Senator Duncanson U. Fletcher's bill, has instructed the Interior Department, through the National Park Service, to make an official investigation and report back to Congress. Also a special committee made up of members of the Committee on Public Lands will make a report covering the same objective. Both of these official reports may be expected to be forthcoming within the present year.

"This is America's only tropic area within the bounds of the states. Here wild jungle life, both plant and animal, still abounds undisturbed by the inroads of development. If not saved now it may be lost forever which would be a tragedy no thinking citizen would tolerate.

The proposed location of this new national park is in the southernmost end of the Everglades, including the Cape Sable region of Florida and extending south from the Tamiami Trail, being partly in Dade, Monroe and Collier counties, extending along the Gulf shore line from about Chokoloskee island, taking in Chatham, Shark, Lostman's river, Great White Water Bay, Cape Sable beaches and round by Madera hammock shore line, well over to the Key West Highway and as far inland as is consistent with the economic equation from a farm land standpoint. The area roughly speaking is about 2500 square miles or about the size of the new McKinley National Park in Alaska, which is the second largest of the national parks areas.

"Our national parks represent areas wisely set apart by our government as representative of America's scenic wonders in outstanding proportions as compared with other similar exhibits.

"This great Cape Sable area is, in the opinion of many, of outstanding character, and its inclusion in the sisterhood of national parks will be the means of preserving for all time a tropic wonderland with no counterpart in the country.

GETTING INDUSTRIES JACKSONVILLE JOURNAL

In accordance with suggestions of Governor Carlton the Florida Legislature is preparing to help stimulate industry. Measures have been introduced to exempt from taxation for a period of 15 years new industrial concerns. Approval of the people is necessary for the plan in the form of an amendment to the constitution.

A proposed amendment which, if the Legislature approves, will be submitted to the people in 1930 would exempt those plants which are primarily engaged in the manufacture of steel vessels, automobile tires, fabrics and textiles and various other kinds of products.

The exemption would not apply to real estate owned by the plants except that required for the location of the factories.

If the Legislature passes the measures there will be ample time to study the provisions. If they will really help Florida to get more plants and payrolls they should be acted upon favorably.

Governor Carlton in his message said that other Southern states had adopted similar plans and that they had been beneficial.

Florida has made an appeal for outside capital with its law against income and inheritance taxes. That amendment has helped. Similar measures within the bounds of reasonableness ought to help as much as they in bringing money and people to Florida.

With agricultural development proceeding Florida should now think more of its industrial outlook.

ADVERTISING CELERY VIKRO BEACH JOURNAL

Celery growers in the Manatee, Sanford and Sarasota sections are energetically pushing a plan to advertise their product nationally. This is a move in the right direction and should be vigorously followed up to a definite conclusion. A campaign has been outlined by one of the leading advertising experts of the south, and the growers will do well to go into the matter thoroughly, for it will mean much to them in the way of increased consumption and the stabilization of prices.

We have only to look at the celery industry, not alone in Florida, but in California as well, to discover that advertising has played a leading part in the marketing of its products. Fifteen years ago, when the California advertising firm started, the per capita consumption of celery was about 33 cents. Today it is better than 50 cents. In recent years the advertising of Florida oranges and grapefruit has greatly augmented the California program in bringing about this result. Growth of lima beans, cranberries, pineapples and many other products have both

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II

"At midnight in his guarded tent the Turk lay dreaming of the hour when Graves, her knees in suppliance bent, would tremble at his power."

If Mussolini has dreamed that Florida would tremble at his heel, the Orange men have rushed to arms and it is war to the hilt.

William C. Lawson, defeated for congress by Ruth Bryan Owen in a fair field, has resurrected once more in Washington the ancient complaint that she is technically disqualified for office because, he says, she has not regained the citizenship she lost when she married a British army officer. Shortly after the election just fell when it was announced that Mr. Lawson would try to prevent Mrs. Owen from taking her seat in congress because of this technicality, he repudiated the announcement and declared he was interested in the question purely as a matter of law and without any desire to rob Mrs. Owen of her victory at the polls. Now, apparently, he has repudiated his right to the podium of his fellow Floridians who place sportsmanship and manly virtues above strained technicalities.

If a woman who is the daughter of William Jennings Bryan and who is as nobly identified as Mrs. Owen is with all that is best in American life today, isn't an American the term needs a new definition.

With the merging in Jacksonville of two great national banks which stood like Gibraltars through the fiscal storms of 1928-27 Florida gets for its new economic day an institution "four square to all the winds that blow."

Apparently successful in his war on Romanism had rebelion President Gil de Mexico launched now an attack on rum. If he is successful Mexico may soon be bottling the Rio Grande against Volstead liquor from the United States.

Before anybody asks us to do it or denounces us for not doing it, we hushly repudiate our recent unkind and disrespectful remarks on Mr. Coolidge's magazine articles. Some things are better left unsaid, particularly when they reflect upon an ex-president of the United States.

Churches in the United States gained 1,115,000 members in 1928. This was almost twice as many as they gained in 1927. If, as some of the latter-day intellectuals think, religion is an illusion it is the most persistent one in all history.

George Bernard Shaw, the freethinker, admits that the world cannot get along without some sort of religion. Religions in the past have been based on fear and the need for comfort against pain and distress. Religions in the future, as far as more and more eliminated from the human equation, will be based on beauty and the human yearning towards perfection. They will be based, too, on a sense of human dignity. Modern-day churches will remain the vehicles for genuine religion only if they understand and give its true basis.

"Nor all your pretty nor wit," quotes Editor Hanson of the Titusville Star-Advocate, "shall lure a back to change a single line." In Fitzgerald's translation Omar's expression was "Nor it back to cancel half a line" but if Mr. Hanson has done some translating of his own we have nothing but compliments for his Persian.

"A spade is a spade," asserts a dogmatic writer. Folks who have drawn to four of them say it is generally a heart club or a diamond.—The Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

of them a record of proven success in their campaigns to increase consumption.

According to the latest testimony the per capita consumption of celery is about a stalk a year. The average person could consume that much in one meal, and that gives us a fair basis upon which to judge the possibilities of making the nation "eat more celery." With a fund of $150,000 to $200,000 judiciously spent in getting the celery story over to the consuming public in the territory east of the Mississippi, this war capital demand can be materially increased, and it is to be hoped that growers and shippers leave no stone unturned to put this publicity engine on the main track for the 1929-30 season.

Representative L. G. Light of Marion county is quoted by the Tallahassee Democrat as saying that the present "economy" legislature will be the most expensive piece of legislation in the long run cost the state more in de-liberation and in debate than it will save through its program of economy.

The cost of 1930 session was stopped. Presumably, there is nothing in the United States postal laws and regulations prohibiting sending unopened merchandise by air mail approval, and if this is correct legislation should be passed prohibiting manufacturers doing this. It is a matter for congressional action, as it is not within the powers of any state legislature to control in anyway the United States mail.

"April 13th records show there were appointed and recommended 108 attorneys. How many will be appointed, no one knows. There were 18 or more attorneys April 5th than members of the House. The House, in the seven days, has been but five hours and fifty minutes in actual session.

"The cost of the 1927 session was $250,000. The 1928 session cost more than three times as much as the 1927 session. The 1929 session cost in round numbers, per day, $1,480. The 1927 session cost in round numbers, per day, $4,480. There are many reasons for saying I believe this 1929 session will be the costliest session ever held.

A DARNED NUISANCE OCALA STAR

The Orlando Sentinel suggests that legislation be passed to stop attempts to force the purchase of unwanted merchandise. A person receives a box of goods, which on being opened turns out to be a kettle, a box of soap, a book, or something else that he hasn't ordered and doesn't want. A circular enclosed states that it has been sent on approval, and if you wish to keep it to send a check for a certain amount. If not wanted you are requested to rewrap it and mail it back. Sometimes a self-addressed wrapper, possibly stamped is enclosed, and sometimes it is left up to you to furnish your own wrapper and pay the postage.

"I have you keep the stuff, and perhaps you don't. You may get mad and throw it away. You may lay it aside with the intention of wrapping it up when you get time and if it gets lost, or you forget about it. No matter how it happens after a while you get a bill with a request for a remittance. Perhaps you have forgotten all about it till then. You can't find the stuff to send back, and you don't pay for it. Then comes another dunning letter still stronger, and this keeps up for a while, after which a collection agency takes a hand. Perhaps eventually you pay for something you didn't want and haven't got, and then if you are hard-boiled enough to stand the annoyance you don't."

That is the kind of annoyance that the Sentinel wants to see

Feed Your Crops the Food They Need

HUMITE-HUMUS

is the food element to make a fertile soil and your plants strong, healthy and profitable. HUMITE-HUMUS is a plant food element just as necessary in the growth of plants as nitrogen, super-phosphate, potash, or other plant food elements. It makes no difference what the crop is—grapes, grapefruit, grapes or other fruit—ferns, bulbs or other ornamentals—potatoes, beets, onions or other root crops—celery, cabbages, lettuce, beans, or other green vegetables—ALL respond equally well to this universal plant and land food, Humite-Humus. Your land, moreover, will benefit permanently by the use of HUMITE-HUMUS.

HOW HUMITE-HUMUS WORKS

— The ready solubility of a large percentage of its 85% humus content and its high carrying power of various bacteria beneficial to plant life make HUMITE-HUMUS immediately available as a plant food when mixed with the soil, creating the healthiest and most productive root system of any plant food element known to science. This rapid root growth means resultant plant development above-ground in order to supply the root system with the nitrogen and other elements of the air which are "breathed" through the leaves or "lungs" of the plant.

No matter what you are growing, you are not producing the crops and reaping the consequent profits you should unless you are consistently using HUMITE-HUMUS.

Atonement Studied By Scientists Here

"Doctrine of Atonement" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text was from Ephesians 5:2. "Walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given himself for us an offering and a sacrifice to God for a sweet-smelling savour."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And we have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world. And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him." (1 John 4:19, 20)
The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus atoned in reconciling man to God by giving man a truer sense of Love, the divine Principle of Jesus' teachings, and this truer sense of Love redeems man from the law of matter, sin, and death by the law of Spirit,—the law of divine Love."

TO LOCATE TERRITORIES

Inspired By Feats Of Byrd To Attempt To Get More Lands

CANBERRA, Apr. 22—(INS)—Inspired by the vivid messages passed through the air from the barriers of the South Pole by America's aerial explorer, Commander Richard E. Byrd, telling of the discovery of new lands in Antarctica, Australia has decided to try her luck at a little "land-grabbing" before it is too late.

The Commonwealth Government has announced that an expedition headed by the famous Australian scientist and explorer, Sir Douglas Mawson, will leave Australia at the end of the year for an exploratory tour of the antarctic region lying direct south of Tasmania.

It is generally acknowledged that this move has been prompted by the success of Commander Byrd's aerial expedition. Great interest has been shown all over Australia in the reports sent out by the American explorer's party and his announcement of new land intensified this interest to such a pitch that the question of an Australian expedition was brought up in Parliament.

The main purpose of this expedition is to make a geographical survey of the area known as the Australian sector which extends from Ross' Land on the west to Enderby Land on the east.

This region was visited by Sir Douglas Mawson on two previous occasions, in 1911 and 1914, and very little survey work was carried out. The expeditions were progressing very far beyond Wilkes Land.

Another important aspect of the expedition will be to investigate the habits and feeding places of whales and seals in this district.

The famous polar expeditionary ship, Discovery, has been placed at the disposal of the expedition free of charge by the British Government. It was in this vessel that Captain Scott made his first Antarctic exploration trip in 1901 and in which Sir Ernest Shackleton led another expedition in 1902.

This ship, which is now on service in the Falkland Islands, was specially constructed for work in ice regions and is probably the finest ship for polar expeditionary work in existence.

It is estimated that the expedition will cost approximately $50,000. Most of this will be met by the Commonwealth Government, though small contributions are expected from all corners of the British Empire. An aeroplane will be included in the equipment.

According to plans the expedition hopes to complete its work during the next summer season of the Antarctic, that is between November, 1929, and March, 1930.

problem. I have purposely omitted the extent of murder, burglary, robbery, forgery and embezzlement, for but a small percentage of these can be attributed to the eighteenth Amendment. In fact, if the total number of convictions for felony last year, less than eight percent came from that source. It is therefore but a sector of the invasion of lawlessness.

Indirectly, however, the executive came back to the prohibition problem when he asserted that "no individual has the right to determine what law shall be obeyed and what law shall not be enforced."

"If a law is wrong," he said, "its rigid enforcement in the strictest sense of its spirit, if it is right, its enforcement is the surest method of compelling respect for it."

"Whatever the value of any law may be, the enforcement of that law written in plain terms upon our statute books is not in my mind, a debatable question. Law should be observed and enforced until it is repealed by the proper processes of our democracy. The duty to enforce the law rests upon every public official and the duty to obey it rests upon every citizen."

The revitalizing of the law enforcement agencies, President Hoover said, should be undertaken through systematic construction of buildings, the elimination of automatic displays and violent attacks in order to make head and tail of the law itself through the use of the law in its enforcement.

In coming to the press of the nation, he said he had several suggestions. He asked the newspapers, of course, to unite in appealing to the finer sentiments of the people, but he also had some ideas on the manner in which news stories should be prepared.

"I wonder sometimes," he declared, "if perhaps a little more support to our laws could not be given in one direction if, just by

Richard Dix Film Makes Big Hit Here

Richard Dix's first all-talking picture, "Nothing But The Truth" is a masterpiece of his best. At the Milburn Theatre, yesterday, jubilant audiences looked at and listened to his artistic acting and indicated by their frequent bursts of laughter that they consider him a great favorite of the middle silver screen. The picture will be presented again today and tomorrow.

"Nothing But The Truth" is that favorite of large success recompiled for the screen and retold with newer and better comedy situations and an adequate trimming of music, singing and dancing.

Dix plays the part of the young man who makes a wager that he can tell nothing but the truth for 24 consecutive hours.

Jazz Shares Ancestors With Music of Old Spain

Common Origin Explains Striking Similarity

New York City—Although the Spanish rhythm, the slow waltz of the mambo and the syncopated heavy bass of jazz, have been traced to the Spanish music of the 16th century, it is now being pointed out that the common ancestry is even older.

The common ancestry is seen in the fact that the Spanish or Moorish influence is discernible in our modern American music. The Spanish influence is seen in the fact that the Spanish influence is discernible in our modern American music.

Fables for The Fair

By Marguerite Mason Marshall

The Woman Who Woke Up
Once upon a time there was a woman who had married for love Ten years before, but who had now reached the point
Where she wished her husband a more different person from what he was—
And where she felt that in her present state, he got on her nerves most terribly.
He was a rather slight person, about five feet nine inches, and she thought herself very much taller than he would be. It stood six feet and possessed the spread of a pair of football players.
Like many another man in the middle thirties,
His light brown hair thinned around the circumference of an ever-widening bald spot.
And whenever his super-sensitive wife looked at it, she shuddered! And thought how wonderful it would be to have a husband through whose thick, wavy locks a wife could run her white fingers.
He was earning a good salary, and working slow but sure advances in his profession.
To his wife, however, he seemed totally lacking in the all-important quality of go-getters!
She couldn't understand why he didn't rush into his boss's private office.
And tell the old gentleman how much better he himself could run the business.
And threaten to leave the office, unless he were made first Vice President at once.
Within five thousand more a year, she often called his attention to magazine stories, in which the hero of the line was paid.
And explained to him that he let everybody walk on him, and that, if he weren't more aggressive he'd never get any where and they'd die in the gutter.
Each day she reminded him, each of her friends had a more expensive fur coat and a better make of car.
Then she could afford their husbands got them things!
There were other points about the man that his wife found hard to learn.
She didn't like the way in which he crossed his legs and forked his plate, at the table.
After finishing his dinner, she wished he wouldn't always want milk with his coffee at dinner time.
And that he would eat less butter and more salad.
His general taste in food she considered both unhygienic and unsophisticated.
When they went out in the car, she often was provoked because he seemed so certain that he knew all the short cuts.
And because he'd rather get lost than ask a cop for directions.
She wished he wouldn't read so late, and keep the light burning after they had gone to bed, and she wanted to go to sleep.
She thought him most inconsiderate because he disliked to go to dances at the country club.
And frequently found some excuse for wriggling out of them—
She said he never wanted to go anywhere with her, to have a good time.
And what he found to amuse him in all those books, or in poking around in that dirty little box, she couldn't imagine!
She scolded him for being inexcusably careless with cigarette stubs and burnt matches.
She noted with pain that he occasionally snored.
When he took a nap on the couch, after dinner on Sunday—
In fact, she had about decided that, as a man and a husband, he was in need of such complete rebuilding that it would be cheaper to turn him in and take a new model.
Then one winter day the man woke up and decided he wouldn't get up—
Every bone in his body ached, his head was throbbing dizzily, and felt as big as a balloon.
He was feverish, and yet chills were running all over him.
He had a hard, racking cough, and his nose was running.
While he couldn't bear to think of food or even of coffee.
He looked so gray and ill and wretched.
And was obviously in such discomfort and pain.
That, despite his feeble protests, his wife called the doctor.
Who of course diagnosed a fine, flourishing case of influenza, and said that the patient must stay in bed, keep warm, and be carefully nursed.
The wife could have hired a nurse but, somehow, it didn't occur to her.
Neither did a lot of other things on which her mind had been dwelling.
Such things as her husband's in-cipient baldness and lack of aggressiveness.
His manumbers at the table and in the car.
His disinclination for dancing, his disinclination, even his occasional snores.
What did occupy her was a tremendous sympathy for his illness and suffering.
And an even more tremendous anxiety.
She remembered all that she had been reading about the case of King George.
Whose illness, at the beginning, seemed no more serious than that of her husband;
She remembered how easily influenza develops into pleurisy, and pleurisy into pneumonia—or double pneumonia;
She remembered how swiftly pneumonia burns up even a strong man—
And she winced, thinking of her slight, overworked, harassed, tired husband.
Meanwhile, he was doing all that she could to help—
Giving him his medicine and cold water to drink,
Bathing his hot head, rubbing his aching back.
Following each least direction of the doctor's with earnest fidelity,
Sleeping only in cat-naps, waking

Soviet Government Is Determined To Exploit Its Resources

WASHINGTON, Apr. 22 — (INS)—The Russian Soviet government is offering the world another demonstration of its determination to exploit Russia's great storehouse of natural resources by an effort to regain dominance in the platinum market.
Before the war Russia produced 200,000 ounces of platinum annually. Then war, revolution and economic upheaval reduced the production to 11,000 ounces. Meanwhile, Colombia increased production from 10,000 to 85,000 ounces, achieving first place in the world market, according to a National Geographic Society survey.
During her slow economic recovery at touch or voice of the man whom she loved as she thought she had forgotten how to love.
For, in the grip of such a real trouble as his illness, she realized how petty, how childish the troubles she had constructed for herself.
She understood how petty she was to criticize her husband for being himself, instead of some fanciful creation of her own.
For having the courage of his own temperament, tastes, even idiosyncrasies.
She saw that she had been living in a dream of silly dissatisfaction.
When she might have been aware to a real life
Of struggle and comradeship and loyal tolerance and tenderness—
A real life with a real mate.
"And now," the cold thought haunted her, "it may be too late."
"But if he only gets well, I'll never be unhappy and discontented and critical again!"
Not all the happy endings are in books—
Some of them end life's true stories, and that's what happened in this case.
The husband recovered; so did the wife—
From her bad case of ingrowing discontent about non-essentials;
She woke up to the fact that she was still in love with her man "as is"—
And they lived happy ever after!
