Tornado Misses Seminole

From staff and wire reports

High winds and a tornado damaged houses and mobile homes in east Orange County Tuesday, but only a few storm-related power outages were reported in Seminole County.

Florida Power Corporation spokesman Tracy Smith reported 900 customers lost power during Tuesday afternoon's storm, approximately 350 of them in south Seminole County. The longest outage was two hours and was in the Winter Springs area, Smith said.

Florida Power & Light's Sanford office reported no storm damage. The Sanford area was doused with 2.4 inches of rain in 24 hours ending at midnight Tuesday.

In southeast Orange County, high winds tore up roofs of six homes, demolished several sheds, overturned boats and knocked out electricity to some residences by toppling a tree on power lines. There were no injuries, however.

A tornado followed the storm hours later near the University of Central Florida but did little damage.

The first batch of powerful winds blew through after 5 p.m., but was not declared a tornado because the National Weather Service received no report from an official source, said

Randy Davison, communications supervisor for the Orange County Fire Department.

He said winds cut a path two blocks wide and about three-quarters of a mile long through the Wedgfield area south of the intersection of state highways 50 and 520, damaging 24 homes.

Roofs of six homes were damaged by winds, Davison said. The others received only light to moderate damage to such things as shingles or siding.

Davison said several outbuildings and sheds were destroyed, boats were overturned and cars were damaged and "there was lots of damage to foliage — trees wiped out or knocked down."

Electricity was knocked out to an undetermined number of Wedgfield-area homes when a tree fell across primary lines, a spokesman at the Orlando Utilities Commission said. He said crews were working late Tuesday night, but did not indicate when all power would be restored.

A tornado was spotted around 7:30 p.m. by firefighters called out from the station adjacent to the University Mobile Home Park north of Highway 50, where the storm touched down in six locations but caused minor damage to just two trailers, Davison said.

Downtown Eatery Gets Beer, Wine Permit

The Sanford City Commission reversed itself and gave a downtown restaurant permission to sell beer and wine.

The commission denied by a 3-2 vote Aug. 12 permission for Hampton Confectionery Inc. to sell beer and wine at its Hampton Gardens restaurant at 112 E. First St.

On Monday, the commission switched its decision and voted 3-1, with Commissioner David Farr opposing and Commissioner Milton Smith absent, to let the company sell beer and wine. Smith is on vacation.

Joe Pertz, manager and operator of the restaurant, told the commission he wanted permission to sell beer and wine even though he might not sell it. He said he may need it to compete with other restaurants, like Christo's on First Street, which sell alcoholic beverages. But at the same time, he said he did not want to offend some of his customers who may dislike beer and wine.

He was pressed by Commissioner John Mercer to reveal if he would sell beer and wine if he had permission. Pertz answered, "Probably, yea."

Pertz said he would monitor the sales to make sure customers did not get drunk, a concern of residents who opposed his request when it came up before the city's Planning and Zoning Commission in July. At that meeting, residents said they feared alcoholic beverage sales would draw drunks to the downtown area. The P&Z board recommended the city commission grant Pertz's request.

But Pertz said Monday the sales would not turn his restaurant, an ice cream and sandwich shop, "into a hangout where

School Board To Ratify Employee Contracts

The Seminole County School Board is expected to ratify today the teachers' contract negotiated by its staff, despite grumblings from teachers with 15 years or more experience unhappy with their 4 percent raise. First-year teachers, under the proposed contract, get about a 13 percent raise, which vocal long-term teachers have called a "slap in the face."

The school board meets at its administrative offices, 1211 S. Mellonville Ave., Sanford, at 7:30 p.m.

The board is also expected to ratify contracts negotiated with the Seminole Education Clerical Association, Inc., Non-Instructional Personnel of Seminole County and the Bus Drivers Association, Inc. The Seminole Education Association negotiated on behalf of teachers. The bus drivers' contract has been ratified by its union members, and the contract for instructional personnel was voted on Tuesday. Those votes will be tallied on Aug. 29.

The secretarial, clerical and non-instructional personnel do not vote on their contracts until Sept. 4, 5, and 6, according to negotiators.

In other business scheduled to come before the board during its first meeting of the 1985-86 school year, several capital outlay projects are to be considered, including a drainage easement for Altamonte Elementary, Altamonte Springs, involving almost 2.5 acres of land; approval of a change order for a patio enclosure for Eastbrook Elementary, south Seminole County, which would add $358,60 to the project cost bringing the total to $112,505.60; and, awarding a

Money-Making Plan Gives Investors Sour Taste

PENSACOLA (UPI) — A Pensacola woman who was among thousands of people who invested millions of dollars in milk-culture kits was left with a sour taste in her mouth after the money-making scheme fell through.

The housewife, who wished to remain anonymous, told the Pensacola News-Journal she invested $4,000 to buy milk-culture kits in the mistaken belief a cosmetic firm would buy the molds and use them for makeup.

Bill Harris, an attorney for the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, said Tuesday that his "half-educated" guess would be that from 1,000 to 3,000 people in the state invested between $2 million and $6 million in the venture. Some 27,000 kits were apparently sold in 30 states.

The Activator Supply Co. of Nevada sold the kits for $40 each with a minimum purchase of 10. The housewife said she figured that with 100 kits, she could make over $7,000 in the 15 weeks it takes to grow the mold.

According to a company brochure, the culture would then be bought by Culture Farms Inc., of Lawrence, Kan., which would in turn sell it to House of Cleopatra for use in cosmetics.

Harris said it wasn't a pyramid scheme in the classical sense. He said that the initial investors made money because the organisms they grew were sold to Culture Farms to make more kits to sell to new investors. He said most of the culture never went into cosmetics.

Leading Dissident Jailed

S. African Police Beat Protesters With Whips

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Hundreds of police and soldiers, some with rifles, sealed off Cape Town's Athlone township today to prevent an outlawed march on the prison where black nationalist Nelson Mandela was being held.

Police with long plastic whips charged crowds that gathered for the march and detained about 15 people today. The organizer of the march, Reformed Church leader Allan Boesak, was jailed Tuesday under South Africa's sweeping security laws. The massive police and military operation — the biggest show of force in Cape Town since bloody 1976 race riots — appeared to smother plans for the march to the maximum-security Pollsmoor Prison where Mandela is serving a life term for treason and sabotage. Mandela, 67, has been in prison for more than 20 years.

Police charged into small groups of protesters that stood singing outside the Athlone sports stadium, and beat men and women with plastic whips called "sjamboks."

Among the 15 people detained was the Rev. Abel Hendricks, the former head of the Methodist Church in South Africa.

"It's like trying to keep the sea from the beach. It just keeps coming back," the Rev. Jan de Waal told reporters. "We are standing here to express our complete opposition to what is happening. We can't take it any longer."

Referring to Tuesday's arrest of Boesak, De Waal said, "It is maddest at this time. He is a man of peace."

Boesak, 40, is head of the 50 million-member World Alliance of Reformed Churches and founder

County Adopts Reimbursement System For Pet Sterilizations

County commissioners approved a proposal Tuesday requiring persons adopting a dog or cat from the county's animal control facility to pay a $35 fee, $25 of which is refunded when the pet is sterilized.

Bob McIntosh, animal control director and originator of the proposal, said the regulation would in part assure that pets adopted from the county are being sterilized — as required by state law with adopted pets. The procedure would also relieve veterinarians of some paperwork that had been part of their responsibility.

In the past veterinarians were required to notify the county when they sterilized pets adopted from its animal control and issue a certificate of such to the owner, McIntosh said. The vets were reimbursed for the service by the county from the adoption fee the county charged. The method involved the county with price variations and increases on the part of vets. And, some vets refused to cooperate with the system, McIntosh said.

With the change, after a pet is adopted the owner will have a specified amount of time, which depends on the animal's age, to have a veterinarian sterilize and inoculate the pet, at the owner's expense. After the procedure, the veterinarian will send documentation of such to the county, or the pet owner can take or mail the information to the county. The county will then issue a license for the pet and refund the $25, McIntosh said. In effect, the vet can charge whatever his market will bear and the county refunds a flat fee.

Another proposal concerning an escrow account to encourage people to have their pets sterilized has not been approved by the commission, McIntosh said. That fund would take $2 from each pet's license fee and pay $25 to anyone who has their pet sterilized, he said. The commission is scheduled to take up the matter in late September or early October, he said.

Ferry Guilty In Store Firebombing

TAMPA (UPI) — A jury found John William Ferry Jr. guilty Tuesday of murder and arson in a supermarket firebombing that killed five people and left 13 injured.

The eight-woman, four-man Hillsborough County panel deliberated two hours and 15 minutes before returning with a verdict, convicting Ferry of five counts of first-degree murder.

Ferry, who claimed he was innocent by reason of insanity, was taken to Hillsborough County Jail. He has indicated he will appeal.

The 32-year-old could be sentenced to life imprisonment or death. Circuit Judge Manuel Mendez did not set a sentencing date Tuesday.

Witnesses said Ferry walked into the suburban Tampa Winn-Dixie supermarket July 2, 1983, with a can of gasoline, doused several customers and employees at a crowded check-out lane, then tossed a lighted match at them.

P&Z Ducks Sun Drive Reroute Request

By Janis Gnat
Herald Staff Writer

A bank's proposal to reroute its access drive to Lake Mary Boulevard brought about so many complications Tuesday night that Lake Mary's Planning and Zoning Board voted 4-0 to make no recommendation to the city commission concerning the bank's site plan.

Jim Talmadge, P&Z chairman, said the board could not make any recommendation concerning the abandonment and rerouting of a portion of Sun Drive as a way to provide more favorable access to property belonging to Sun Bank because of problems with road access to other parcels of land and questions about whether Sun Bank would be willing to bear responsibility of upkeep of the roads.

"If the development is going to occur then the developer is going to have to mitigate the negative effects of that development," Talmadge said. "It doesn't seem to me that Sun Bank has any reason to concern itself with the abandonment of Sun Drive."

The city commission may, however, do as it pleases with a proposal by Sun Bank to reroute the road, regardless of the P&Z ruling, said Stan Welling, building and zoning administrator.

Sun Bank wants to re-route Sun Drive in front of the bank branch, closer to Rinehart Road, rather than have it join Lake Mary Boulevard behind the bank, closer to Interstate 4.

Sun Bank's proposal was tied in with preliminary site plans for both the Sun Bank property and land belonging to Holy Cross Lutheran Church, which abuts the portion of Sun Drive that was proposed to be abandoned.

Although Paul Hoyer, minister of Holy Cross Lutheran Church, said he is in favor of the Sun Bank proposal.

Motorist Loses Tiff With Deputy

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) — A sheriff's deputy wasn't impressed when an irate driver tore a parking citation and threw the bits in the air. The deputy gave him another ticket for littering.

George Nunes, 26, of Watsonville, Calif., found Deputy Jim Thomas writing out a ticket for his pickup truck, parked in a red no-parking zone, on Saturday.

Nunes started arguing. The deputy said he gave him the ticket anyway but Nunes ripped it up and tossed it into the air, necessitating the second citation.

Vengeance Killer Gets Suspended Sentence

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — The family of an alleged child abuser and kidnapper, whose fatal shooting was filmed by a television crew, is outraged at the suspended sentence given the father who pulled the trigger.

Gary Plauche, 39, who several months ago pleaded no contest to a charge of manslaughter for the March 1984 shooting of Jeffrey Doucet, Tuesday was given a seven-year suspended sentence with five years of probation.

"In this case the defendant's family was punished before the criminal act took place," said District Court Judge Frank Sata, who could have sentenced Plauche to 21 years in prison.

Defense attorneys said Plauche was driven to a temporarily lethal, psychotic state of mind because Doucet had sexually abused his then 11-year-old son. They said there was no reason to believe Plauche would commit another crime.

Tanker Crashes, Killing 7

MAKYSVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — An Air Force tanker described as a type of aircraft that is "very safe" to fly crashed and burned while practicing takeoffs and landings at an Air Force base, killing all seven crew members.

The Tuesday crash touched off a fire that left a swath of burned grass an estimated two miles long and 1,000 feet wide across a former cow pasture a mile or two northeast of the runway at Beale Air Force Base. The blaze was extinguished within an hour of the 12:30 p.m. crash.

The names of the victims, from Castle Air Force Base near Merced, Calif., were not released. Officials said the plane normally carried a crew of four plus three additional pilots during such training missions.

An accident board of Air Force officers began an investigation to determine the cause of the crash.

Weinberger Kills Costly, Ineffective Anti-Aircraft Gun

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In dumping the Army's costly and controversial "Sergeant York" anti-aircraft gun, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said the weapon is "not worth the cost" and "does not effectively meet the military threat."

The DIVAD, or Division Air Defense system, has been in development for more than two years at a cost of $1.8 billion. The weapon was baptized the Sergeant York, in honor of the memory of the World War I hero, Alvin York.

Weinberger told a crowded Pentagon news conference that no additional cancellation costs would have to be paid to the contractor, Ford Aerospace and Communications of Newport Beach, Calif. These costs were already covered in the $1.8 billion spent for the project.

The original program, initiated more than two years ago, called for the production of 618 of the weapons at an estimated cost of more than $4.5 billion.

Congress already has authorized $1.7 billion for 146 units and about 65 have been delivered to the Army. The lawmakers authorized another $525 million last year for 117 additional DIVADs, but held up actual acquisition until further testing proved its worth.

The weapon consists of twin Oerlikon guns mounted on an M-48 tank chassis and aimed with computer-fed radar.

Critics claim that the weapon has failed significantly in hitting simulated targets consisting of unmanned drones and at best is no better than existing anti-aircraft weapons. But the Army was said to have insisted on going on with the program in hopes of improving the weapon as development progresses.

Fumes Send 27 to Hospital

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (UPI) — A chemical plant fire started a reaction that spread irritating fumes over a 20-mile area today, sending about 27 people to a hospital and prompting authorities to warn residents east of West Chester to be prepared to evacuate.

About 27 people were treated at the Chester County Hospital.

said hospital spokeswoman Donna Pennington. One person was admitted due to complications from asthma while the rest, who were not seriously affected, were released.

The fumes came from a chemical reaction during a fire at the Sartomer Co., an Atlantic Richfield subsidiary.

Cardinal Industries Deserves Credit

Drug and alcohol use in the workplace is becoming a national disgrace and threatens the safety of those employees who engage in such a dangerous practice, as well as the safety of their coworkers.

It is, therefore, to the credit of Cardinal Industries in Sanford that the firm recently conducted an internal probe of alleged drug use at its plant.

Two employees were fired and a few others resigned when the investigation was concluded.

It had been rumored that 70 to 80 employees had been fired or forced to resign over alleged drug use or for pilfering, but John Jolinski, media relations director for the firm, quickly put those rumors to rest. He said the number of employees who resigned was considerably fewer than the rumored 70 or 80, and emphasized that pilfering was not involved.

As is the case with many other companies faced with increased absenteeism and loss of productivity because of employee drug or alcohol abuse, Cardinal initiated a rehabilitative employee assistance program. The company pays for the program, and any worker — not just those with drug or alcohol problems, but those with marital or emotional problems as well — can participate cost-free.

Cardinal protects those employees by keeping their identity confidential. It's a program well worth having.

Landmark Law

August marks the 20th anniversary of the signing of the Voting Rights Act by then-President Lyndon Johnson. Clearly, this civil-rights statute was one of the most significant pieces of legislation enacted during a tumultuous decade that saw black Americans break down most of the barriers that kept them from voting and winning elective office.

In 1964, there were only 280 black elected officials in the United States; as of last January there were 6,056. The largest increase, of course, was in the South, which has 53 percent of the nation's black population and 63 percent of all black elected officials. During the last 20 years, the number of black registered voters has increased 28 percent in the South. That brings the share of voting-age Southern blacks who are registered to 69 percent.

The landmark act abolished literacy tests and similar voting restrictions. It authorized the U.S. Attorney General to send federal officers to jurisdictions that had such restrictions, in order to register minority voters and oversee elections. The attorney general, moreover, was directed to challenge the use of poll taxes in state elections.

Although the Voting Rights Act was designed to enfranchise blacks, its provisions have since been extended to Hispanics, Asian-Americans, American Indians, and native Alaskans.

In fact, the act itself was extended in 1982 for 25 more years. The renewal came after a protracted congressional debate resulting in a compromise stipulating that aggrieved parties need only prove discriminatory results rather than intent on the part of election officials. The results test, however, is tempered by language requiring that courts take into account the "totality of circumstances" when considering complaints under the act.

All this has muddied the waters somewhat by requiring judges to scrutinize election results as well as voter representation in districts that have historically discriminated against minorities. Nevertheless, the Voting Rights Act has demonstrated its value during the last two decades by broadening the electoral base. Democracies need just that periodically to remain representative.

Guarini Says Immigrants Landed In New Jersey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — According to a lawsuit remanded to a state court in New Jersey last week, millions of immigrants who were processed on Ellis Island first set foot on American soil in the Garden State.

They may have thought they were in New York but in a case brought by Rep. Frank Guarini, D-N.J., they have another think coming.

Guarini and 10 other Jerseyites claim the Empire State wrongfully has exercised jurisdiction over that historic site, as well as Bedloe Island on which the Statue of Liberty was erected.

A suit embodying their plea was sent back to a state court after being transferred to federal court at New York's request.

More than mere jurisdiction is involved. A major tourist attraction, "Miss Liberty" generates about $50,000 a year in state tax revenues. Under a pact signed in 1834, that money has flowed into New York's coffers.

But if Guarini's argument is upheld, sales tax dollars from tickets purchased by Liberty visitors would enrich New Jersey instead. As would any such revenue springing from a proposed $50 million conference center on Ellis Island.

The impact the border war might have on the morale of naturalized citizens cannot be measured. It may be presumed, however, that few immigrants believed their initial contact with their new homeland was through New Jersey.

A glance at a Rand McNally road map shows that both Hudson River islands are indeed closer to New Jersey than to New York. Plus the state line appears to favor the Garden State.

If you care to confirm this geography lesson with a tape measure, you will find that Bedloe and Ellis islands are almost 2 miles from New York City but only about 2,000 yards off the Jersey shore.

From this distance, it appears that New Jersey has some geography on its side, too.

For instance, the islands are in what is known as New York Harbor. If New Jersey officials want to use them as a tax base, perhaps they might start by trying to persuade Rand McNally to identify the location as Hoboken Harbor. Proximity alone shouldn't decide the question (I hesitate to use words like "proximity," "embodying" and "remanded" but when writing about legal disputes, I sometimes get carried away with lawyer lingo.)

Staten Island, an integral part of New York City, is closer to Bayonne, N.J. than to Brooklyn, the nearest borough. But you don't find Guarini claiming South Beach for New Jersey.

The congressman, whose home district includes the western terminus of the Weehawken ferry, says the 1834 pact gave New York commercial and navigation rights in the area without making Ellis and Bedloe part of that state's territory.

By his lights, New Jersey has been "unjustly enriched" by asserting jurisdiction.

Guarini, incidentally, attended Columbia University and is a graduate of the New York University school of law. Since what has happened thus far is regarded as a legal victory for New Jersey, he apparently learned his lessons well.

DON GRAFF

Few Last Words On S. Africa

A few last words in this space — at least for the time being — on the subject of South Africa.

They are occasioned by an illuminating interview with a "senior administration official" that popped up on the front page of the New York Times the other day. It concerned the confidential discussions in Vienna between American and South African emissaries a week before President Pieter W. Botha's speech in Durban rejecting any immediate and specific concessions to South Africa's seething black majority.

Illuminating in several respects, the interview clearly was solicited by the interviewer to publicize the administration's version of what transpired in Vienna. It was no scoop for the Times. On the contrary, it falls into the category of managed news. The Times was being used for the government's purposes. Nothing new in that, it happens all the time. But it's worth recalling the next time someone in Washington indignantly blames the press for information leaks.

The senior administration official doing the leaking in this case was not otherwise identified in the story. But it was obvious that he was Robert C. McFarlane, the president's national security adviser who led the American team in the Vienna talks.

Briefly, McFarlane told the Times that Botha did not say in Durban what the Americans had been led in Vienna to believe he would. They understood that there would be specific concessions by the South African government that would involve some form of political participation for blacks and lead to "power sharing" — quotes by the Times, and thus apparently McFarlane's words.

On the basis of that understanding, he said, his team had agreed to a South African request to keep details of the discussions secret until Botha spoke. The Americans kept their part of the bargain. But the South Africans, as the whole world now knows, did not reciprocate.

In effect, McFarlane is saying that he and the American government were snookered.

Well, that's diplomacy. The only real cause for surprise here is that there should be any surprise at the duplicity of the South Africans. They do it all the time, as the Reagan administration should already know from experience.

Death Squads Roaming S. Africa?

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — As the death toll in South Africa mounts, disturbing charges have been made by anti-apartheid groups: They claim that many of the killings were not random acts of violence, but the work of "death squads" sanctioned by the white-minority government.

The South African government, through its embassy in Washington, has objected "sternly" to the allegations. "All cases of unnatural death in South Africa are investigated with every resource," the embassy stated.

Here is what our associate Vicki Warren has learned, nevertheless, about the alleged death-squad activities:

— The assassination of Victoria Mxenge, defense lawyer for 16 black activists on trial for treason in Pietermaritzburg, stirred reports of government-encouraged death

WILLIAM RUSHER

Falwell To The Rescue

It is just possible that Jerry Falwell, by his timely intervention, will manage to derail the great locomotive of liberal criticism that has recently dominated all discussions of South Africa and its problems.

Falwell not only has the guts to speak the truth on this subject, but commands national attention when he speaks it. As a result, his statements during and after his recent visit to South Africa clashed oddly with the coordinated rhythms of the anti-South Africa lobby. It was rather as if somebody had suddenly blown a blast on a tuba in the middle of a string quartet.

Interestingly, Falwell's comments parallel almost exactly certain points I made in a column in mid-March, just after my own most recent trip to South Africa. I reported, for example, that the South African government, far from standing pat, was "moving so rapidly" toward reform on the racial front that it was in danger of fracturing its own (white) political base. Falwell similarly confirmed that South Africa is "making progress" toward reform, and pointed out that if President Botha moves so rapidly that he leaves his constituency behind, he will probably be replaced by someone less willing to accept changes.

I wrote in March that I had "not found a single responsible South African — left, right or center, white, black or colored" — who favored disinvestment by American corporations. Falwell told a press conference in Pretoria that I have yet to find one person — black, colored, white or Indian — who wants disinvestment. I advised readers of my March column that "Bishop Desmond Tutu cuts a much smaller swath in South Africa than he does in the United States." Arriving back in Washington, Falwell called Bishop Tutu a phony.

Why do you suppose Falwell's observations are almost identical with mine? The answer is simple. These are the facts about South Africa most visible to any American who goes there and looks at the situation without being blinded by a determination to topple the present government as soon as possible, whatever the cost.

The average American can hardly be expected to know — certainly the liberal media haven't told him — that early this year the South African government invited all elements of black opinion not committed to violence to participate in a national convention to discuss ways and means of bringing the country's blacks into its political processes. Nor have our media pointed out that the recent outbursts of black violence against blacks are the work of revolutionaries bent on terrorizing those who favor a peaceful compromise with the country's whites.

The significance of Falwell's move is that he has the communication facilities and organizational infrastructure to do battle with the liberal propaganda machine on its own terms. It calls for disinvestment, very well, he will call for increased investment in U.S. companies that do business in South Africa. It calls for banning the sale of Krugerrands, he will urge his followers to buy Krugerrands.

S. Africa Has The A-Bomb?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Is South Africa a nuclear power?

With the country becoming a hot spot, new attention is being given to the claim that South Africa tested a nuclear bomb in 1979 — and the United States covered up the evidence.

On Sept. 22, 1979, a strange double flash of light was observed by the U.S. spy satellite VELA, which operated over the South Atlantic. To experts interpreting the data, the phenomenon was unusual, but they had seen similar occurrences.

Their initial top-secret conclusion was that the satellite had observed a nuclear bomb detonated in the atmosphere.

Since the flash was seen to the south and west of South Africa, it was assumed that the nuclear test had been carried out by that country — or Israel, or by both nations acting jointly.

However, as the news of the sighting became public, the Carter administration quickly moved to dispel the idea that the satellite had seen a nuclear test. It was argued, in great detail, that the satellite had actually seen a natural phenomenon — perhaps a double strike of "super lightning," which is uncommon, but not unheard of.

According to a July 1980 White House report, the State Department concluded that "although the possibility that the signal was of nuclear origin and cannot be ruled out entirely, it probably was not from a nuclear explosion."

The Reagan administration has repeated that explanation stating that the United States has no direct evidence that either South Africa or Israel is capable of producing nuclear weapons, let alone testing a nuclear device. In addition, the South African government has always denied that a nuclear test took place in 1979, or that it has a nuclear capability.

Now, however, opponents of South Africa's apartheid government have released a new study which claims that the satellite did, in fact, observe a nuclear detonation. In addition, the report accuses the Carter and Reagan administrations of covering up the fact that the mystery flashes were caused by a nuclear device.

The 29-page report — released by Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., and the private, anti-apartheid Washington Office on Africa — is the work of Dr. Ronald Walters, a Howard University political science professor.

proceedings and news reports. Koevoet gunmen tortured and killed presumed opponents and buried the victims in unmarked graves. A leader of the detainees' support group said there is a suspicion that Koevoet was disbanded but that some of its hired guns are now operating in South Africa.

— Acting on reports that victims of official violence were being buried in a cemetery in Zwijde Township, members of the United Democratic Front uncovered a mass grave containing the remains of three adults and 47 children. Authorities said the bodies were those of paupers.

Amnesty International has written: "Events have occurred in the context of many allegations that other recent attacks on known opponents of apartheid have been carried out by, or with the knowledge of, the police, and of reports suggesting the existence of death lists."

Chain Reaction

Three Orlando drivers, including Kathleen J. Behan who sits in her 1977 Toyota which sustained an estimated $1,000 damage to the front and rear, were involved in a four car accident on Lake Mary Boulevard near Interstate 4 at about 3:40 p.m. Monday. A fourth driver, who was at the head of the pack, had the rear of his vehicle tapped, but apparently drove away without realizing he had been in an accident, police said. No injuries were reported among the drivers who were all riding alone. Gilbert Lee Hendricks, driver of a 1973 Chevrolet, was cited for failure to use due care. He allegedly set off the chain reaction by driving into the rear of Ms. Behan's car and sending it into the 1980 Chevrolet of Joseph Schmidt.

Magazine: NASA Plans 'Star Wars' Experiment

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — An aerospace magazine says the space agency has come up with a plan that would help the Defense Department test Star Wars laser technology using instrumented satellites.

Aviation Week and Space Technology reported that the Defense Department will decide soon whether to give the National Aeronautics and Space Administration several million dollars to start work on two laser test projects.

One project would involve a small satellite called Chemsat that would be carried into orbit in 1987 by a space shuttle to release gases that would provide targets for ground-based lasers, the report said.

The other project would be a spacecraft that would eject four small instrument probes around the gas cloud and possibly one probe in the gas.

If approved, the magazine said laser beams could be fired toward the space cloud and the deployed instruments would be used to determine how the beam was affected by the gas. Such information would be useful if the Soviet Union developed a way to release a gas cloud around a missile as a defensive measure.

"Understanding such phenomena could make the difference between developing a successful or marginal missile defense," the report said.

Aviation Week said Lt. Gen. James Abrahamson, the head of President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative, or Star Wars, program, recently met with NASA officials to make sure SDI makes the best use of scientific data from NASA and international spacecraft.

"Abrahamson and other SDI officials said it is becoming increasingly clear that NASA's space science satellites are vital to understanding how many space-based missile defense programs could be affected by space phenomena not yet well understood," the magazine said.

The magazine said NASA is interested in SDI support of the development of the satellites "because the same spacecraft useful to SDI would be equally useful for NASA's basic science work."

Couple Do Battle, Charged With Spouse Abuse

A Longwood couple charged with battery spouse abuse following a battle at their home Monday have been released on $500 bond each.

The woman claimed her husband attacked her when he came home. She alleged to a Seminole County sheriff's deputy that the man tried to choke her and wrestled her to the ground. He also allegedly struck a friend, Sheila Johnson, 29, of 264 Azalea Drive, Longwood, and pushed her and her children onto an open door of a dishwasher, a sheriff's report said.

The man claimed he was attacked by the women who hit him and tried to wrestle him to the floor when he tried to take his car keys from his wife, the report said.

The wife claimed her neck had been injured and the husband said his neck, arm and wrist were hurt in the scuffle. Injuries to Ms. Johnson weren't mentioned in the report and she was given a referral notice, meaning she has 10 days in which to decide if she wants to press charges against the man accused in the case.

Kristen Kuhns, 20, and Michael John Kuhns, 24, of 108 Valley Circle, Longwood, were arrested at their home at about 8:15 p.m. Monday. They are scheduled to appear in court Sept. 4.

Catherine R. Myers, 69, of 3851 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, gave deputies the name of a suspect who may have stolen a television, two end tables, a bathroom carpet and a bedspread with a combined value of $145 from a rental unit at her home between Friday and Monday.

Fourteen interior doors worth $80 each were stolen from the garage of a home under construction at 531 Estates Place, Longwood, between Saturday and Monday, according to a report James Altman of J.T. Jones Co., 297 Whooping Loop, Altamonte Springs, filed with deputies.

Hospitals Cited For Mistreatment Of AIDS Patients

NEW YORK (UPI) — State health officials have cited five hospitals for mistreating AIDS patients and are investigating other allegations, including a charge one prison patient was handcuffed to his bed for seven weeks.

"It sounds like the plague," said Dr. Richard Rifkin of the state Health Department, explaining why hospital workers have isolated and ignored AIDS patients.

"You've got a disease that's fatal and infectious — that's enough," he said.

Nine complaints of mistreatment have been substantiated by the department, such as nurses failing to provide pain killers on schedule and workers refusing to help patients eat. Florence Frucher, the department's metropolitan spokeswoman, said.

State health officials said in one incident one man was shackled to his bed and left lying in his own feces for 12 hours.

Bellevue Hospital in Manhattan, one of five hospitals cited by the department, was being investigated for an incident in which an AIDS patient in the prison wing was handcuffed to his bed for seven weeks and allowed only five minutes each day to clean himself. Health Department spokesman Peter Slocum said.

The other hospitals cited, according to Slocum, were Bronx Municipal, North Central Bronx, St. Luke's-Roosevelt, and Doctor's Hospital in Manhattan.

Frucher also said most complaints concerned nurses and house-keeping staff.

About one-third of the nation's cases of AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, have been treated in New York City since 1981, city hospitals have treated more than 4,000 AIDS patients.

The incidents of alleged mistreatment by hospital workers outraged gay activists.

"People who work in a hospital setting are being paid to, trained to take care of this population but they are not taking care of this population," said Robert Cecchi of the Gay Men's Health Crisis.

While no health care worker has contracted AIDS from tending to a victim, officials conceded they cannot guarantee workers will remain disease-free if they do their job properly.

"Nor can I tell them when they take care of a patient with infectious hepatitis that they won't contract it," said Rifkin, chairman of the AIDS Advisory Council.

FSU's Williams Leads Defense Against Tulane

Sanford's Isaac Williams will figure heavily in the Florida State University's defensive plans as the Seminoles open the 1985 season Saturday against Tulane University at the Louisiana Superdome in New Orleans.

Kickoff is 11:50 a.m. Central Daylight Time (12:50 Eastern Daylight Time). The game will be televised live by WTBS.

Williams, who will wear No. 45 again this year, has had some of his better games on the tube. Last year, he sacked Miami's Bernie Kosar just before halftime when the Seminoles thrashed the Canes.

The 6-1 260-pound senior enters his last season at FSU as an bonafide All-America candidate at defensive tackle. In 1984, Williams had a total of 80 tackles including nine for losses and five quarterback sacks. In three years, the Seminole High graduate has 142 tackles, 13 for losses and seven sacks.

Williams, along with fellow defensive linemen Todd Stroud (senior) and Gerald Nichols (junior) will anchor the FSU defense.

"We've got to count heavily on our defensive front," FSU coach Bobby Bowden said. "That's where all the experience is and that's where we feel we are solid. It's a situation where those guys will have to help the secondary all the time — keep the pressure on the other team. If we can't do that I'm afraid we're going to have a lot of trouble."

Sanford's Lenny Sutton, who played on Seminole's 1981 district championship team with Williams, is battling for a spot in the defensive backfield for FSU. Sutton is currently listed as a fourth-team safety, according to an FSU spokesman. He didn't make the traveling team for Saturday's game.

Sutton, who transferred from Tennessee, was vying for a fullback spot last year. Sutton said he had worked his way up to a third-team position but was then declared ineligible because he did not have enough transfer hours.

With the suspension of first-team tailback Tony Smith, it should open the door for another Smith — Apopka freshman Sammie — who one of the most sought after players in the nation this year.

Sammie was listed as the No. 2 tailback on the depth chart but when Smith was suspended for the first game, No. 2 fullback Chuck Wells was moved into the starting spot.

Bowden is probably trying to bring Sammie along slowly but no doubt he wouldn't hesitate to insert the 6-1, 216-pounder. Sammie said he feels some pressure but he wants the fans to be patient. "I guess I have some pressure on me because of my success in high school," he said. "But people have to realize that it's a different game at this level. I have an awful lot to learn and that's how I'm viewing my first year at Florida State."

Elsewhere, the University of Florida Gators open the '85 season Saturday, Sept. 7 at Miami.

Casselberry's Bill Lang, a 1984 Lake Howell High graduate, is in his freshman year of eligibility with the Gators after being red-shirted in the fall of 1984.

Lang is competing for a spot in what is one of the deepest positions on the team, the defensive secondary.

Coach Galen Hall said the secondary is already set with Curtis Stacy and Jarvis Williams at the corners and Ricky Knight, Adrian White and Vernell Brown at the safeties.

On the Florida depth chart (as of Aug. 22) Lang is not listed among the top 12 defensive backs on the squad.

Troy Kessinger, a standout football and basketball player at Oviedo a few years ago, has accepted a basketball scholarship to play for Rollins College, according to Ken Kroog, Oviedo football coach.

Kessinger was an All-County performer as a defensive back and guard.

SAC Leaders Predict Success

New Conference Holds Organizational Meeting

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

With a confidence based on past success in the Five Star Conference and an optimism assured by the outstanding athletes in Seminole County, the Seminole Athletic Conference held its first organizational meeting Tuesday night at Lake Mary High School.

Lake Brantley Principal Darwin Boothe, president of the first-year conference, opened the meeting by welcoming a large group of principals, athletic directors and coaches from the five SAC schools — Seminole, Lake Mary, Lyman, Oviedo, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley.

"We're all very excited about the Seminole Athletic Conference," said Boothe. "We feel the SAC can be a model conference of spirit, quality, classiness and fair play."

Boothe paid tribute to Burger King's community relations director Bob Santulli and Longwood manager D.J. Harrison for providing the meal for the evening. Boothe also said Burger King will provide the SAC's All-Sports trophies, a $525 donation.

After acknowledging the important part Burger King provides for the schools in the county, Boothe introduced the principals, who in turn introduced their athletic directors who introduced their coaches.

Boothe then paid tribute to Bob Hughes, Seminole County's superintendent of schools, who Boothe said is a major factor in the county's athletic development. "Athletics in Seminole County has flourished because of the attitude of our superintendent," said Boothe. "Mr. Hughes is very supportive of our sports programs. Because of that attitude, it creates a model situation for the SAC."

Hughes then took over the podium and predicted successful days ahead for the SAC. "We're quite excited about having our own athletic conference," said Hughes. "We think Seminole County is a truly exciting place to be athletically and academically. I'd like to wish all the football coaches and the rest of the coaches a prosperous year in their initial season in the SAC."

Boothe then brought on Russ McGonegal, the SAC's executive secretary, who he called "a real dynamo and someone who has worked real hard already for the conference."

McGonegal, who was executive secretary for the Five Star Conference, said he felt right at home with the SAC since he had worked with Seminole, Lake Mary, Lyman, Lake Brantley and Lake Howell previously and he was anxious to get to know Oviedo.

"I appreciate the opportunity to serve the youth of Seminole County," said McGonegal. "After working with the Five Star the past few years, it's like coming home."

Boothe said the next three meetings for the SAC are tentatively set for Dec. 4, March 6 and May 7. Boothe said there are some discussions going on concerning the state eligibility rule of 1.5 grad point average, SAC fundraising and the conference's bylaws. Boothe any questions or suggestions concerning those matters — or any others — should be forwarded to him by letter or phone call.

Lake Mary Principal Don Reynolds, who is serving this area as district director for the Florida High School Activities Association, said some confusion has developed concerning the new class division structure.

Boothe then closed the one-hour meeting. "I appreciate the camaraderie you have shown," he said. "Keep in mind the very depth of our competition is for the youth."

McEnroe Narrowly Escapes Upset Bid

Tennis

NEW YORK (UPI) — As far as he goes in the U.S. Open, John McEnroe never will have it any tougher.

And as easy as it might get in the next two weeks, he never, but never, will take anything for granted.

McEnroe, the top seed and favorite to win a fifth U.S. crown, came within two points Tuesday of closing his act on opening day in chaotic confusion.

Facing the world's 175th ranked man, McEnroe fumbled all over himself and blew four match points before escaping with a 6-1, 6-7 (3-7), 2-6, 6-3, 7-6 (9-7) decision over Israeli Shlomo Glickstein.

"I mean this just shocked the hell out of me," the defending champion said. "I don't know what happened. I just felt really sore today for some reason, but all I can say is I'm just happy that I have a chance to regroup and think about it, to figure out what's wrong with me and hopefully correct it."

the 17-year-old Becker is taking a safer approach than the veteran McEnroe.

Becker, the Wimbledon champion, insists he isn't looking past his next opponent, and with this singleness of purpose he breezed past Australian Peter Doohan, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

All eight women's seeds to play also were successful, including No. 3 Hana Mandlikova, No. 5 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch, No. 7 Helena Sukova, No. 8 Manuela

Maleeva, No. 12 Wendy Turnbull, No. 14 Bonnie Gadusek, No. 15 Carling Bassett and No. 16 Andrea Temesvari.

Among them, only Bassett and Temesvari were extended to three sets.

Mary Jo Fernandez became the youngest player ever to win a match in the Open when she defeated Sara Gomer of Britain, 6-1, 6-4. Fernandez, from Miami,

As many NFL veterans were deemed expendable by their teams on yesterday's roster deadline, the player who for so long threatened to play forever removed himself from the gridiron.

The most notable departure as teams trimmed their rosters to 50 players was that of 14-year veteran Jack Youngblood who retired from the Los Angeles Rams.

Youngblood, who played two games with a broken leg in the 1979 playoffs, told a news conference at the Rams' training camp that he was not able to come back from a severe back injury sustained last season.

Two Rams who didn't end their careers voluntarily were Los Angeles' two most experienced receivers, George Farmer and Otis Grant.

BUCCANEERS WAIVE ARIRI
TAMPA (UPI) — Obed Ariri, beaten out of the kicking job by friend and fellow Nigerian Donald Igwebuikwe, was one of three players waived by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers Tuesday to reach the NFL's 50-player limit.

Ariri, who was 4-for-4 on extra points and converted the only field goal attempted by the Buccaneers in three exhibition games, was released along with second-year defensive back Fred Acorn and rookie free agent wide receiver Carl Williams.

With ace like Willie McGee up their sleeve, it appears the Cards are dealing from a pat hand.

McGee once again came through in the clutch Tuesday night, delivering a two-run triple in the eighth inning that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds for their seventh straight triumph.

The victory boosted the Cardinals' lead in the National League East to three games over the New York Mets, who lost to the NL West Division-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, 2-1.

With the Cardinals trailing 4-3, pinch hitter Steve Braun doubled off loser Ted Power, 4-4, to open the eighth. Tom Lawless, running for Braun, took third on Vince Coleman's bunt single. Coleman stole second — his 87th steal of the year — and McGee tripled to right-center to score Lawless and Coleman. Pinch hitter Tito Landrum then singled to score McGee with an insurance run.

McGee, who came into the game leading the National League in hitting with a .360 average, produced his 15th game-winning RBI, second highest in the league.

"All my career, even in the minors, I always felt I hit good with runners in scoring position," said McGee. "What I

Raines Connection Holds Off Geyser Systems, 9-7

Softball

For the past few years, the Tim Raines Connection has been invincible in Sanford Men's Softball League play. Monday night, the Connection kept that record intact but had to hold off a hard-hitting Geyser Systems, Inc. team, 9-7, in opening night action of the 1985 Fall League at Pinchurst Field.

The Connection jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning with a two-run double by Eddie Jackson and RBI single by Billy Griffith leading the way. Burnett Washington's solo home run in the top of the second made it 4-0.

Geyser Systems battled back with two runs in the bottom of the second as Rick Grant and Ray Mack hit back-to-back solo homers.

Neither team scored the next two innings but the Connection upped its lead to 6-2 in the top of the fifth on Levi Raines' two-run single. Geyser Systems got two runs back in the bottom of the fifth on a sacrifice fly by Jeff Prince and RBI single by Ted Miller.

The Connection added two runs in the sixth, one on Ernest Shuler's homer and one more in the top of the seventh to take a 9-4 lead into the bottom of the seventh.

Geyser Systems made a run at the Connection in the last frame as Mark Chesney singled and Grant followed with a two-run homer to make it 9-6. After two outs, Ed Lee kept the inning alive with a solo homer to trim the Connection's lead to 9-7. Prince followed with a single but Ted Miller then flew out for the final out.

In other action Monday, Eddie Sessions Well Drilling blasted Brown Boveri Electric, 14-3, and Thorne Land Clearing edged Cardinal Industries, 3-1.

Eddie Sessions Well Drilling pounded out 19 hits in the game including nine over the first two innings when it built an 8-0 lead. Leading the way was Doug Dowdy who slammed a solo homer in the first and a two-run shot in the second.

Tim Rogers and Ray Bowling had four hits each to lead the 19-hit attack while Dowdy and Don Causeaux had three hits each. Rob Hamraban and Russell Holloman had two hits each for Brown Boveri which had seven hits in the game. A two-run sixth inning broke a 1-1 tie that lifted Thorne Land Clearing over Cardinal Industries.

Cardinal took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first on Rico Peters' RBI single but Thorne Land Clearing tied it in the top of the second on Carl Thorne's sacrifice fly.

Neither team threatened again until Thorne Land Clearing broke the tie in the sixth. The tie-breaking run scored on a Cardinal error while another run scored on Ricky Roscoe's fielder's choice.

In tonight's games, McKee Development Co. takes on Suniland Corporation, Thorne Land Clearing faces Brown Boveri Electric and Cardinal Industries battles the Connection — Chris Pister

'Skins Cut Sanford's Branch

Sanford's Reggie Branch was one of seven players waived by the Washington Redskins Tuesday as NFL teams continued to pare their rosters toward the final cutdown number of 45 before opening day.

Branch, who was a prep standout at Seminole High School, played his college ball at East Carolina. He was a starting fullback at ECU the past two years and contributed to its fine 8-3 season during his junior year.

The powerful running back weighed just 175 pounds when he graduated from Seminole in 1979 but he built himself up to 230 pounds with an extensive weight program.

The Redskins also said good-bye to three familiar faces — including "Head Hog" George Starke along with three-time all-pro Mike Nelms and passer-rusher Perry Brooks.

Another longtime veteran, kicker Mark Moseley, was finally assured of his job.

Arguello Flashes Old Style

LOWELL, Mass. (UPI) — Showing flashes of his famous style in an impressive six-round exhibition Tuesday night against hometown favorite Manny Madera, Alexis Arguello took his first step back from retirement.

The former three-time world champion, who was forced into premature retirement by Aaron Pryor in September, 1983, appeared taut at 142 pounds. The 33-year-old Arguello had little trouble maneuvering his opponent for familiar combinations and short right uppercuts inside.

"I felt good," said Arguello. "I'll admit I wasn't that impressive, but I feel I'm getting closer and closer to ring condition."

To the contrary, Madera, fighting at 153 pounds, was impressed with his opponent.

"I thought he was in very good condition," he said. "I thought he had plenty of zip to his punches right through until the final bell."

"It was an honor to be in the ring with Arguello, with such a great fighter," said Madera, who is 12-6 professionally fighting on local cards.

Arguello said he is very serious about returning to championship form.

"I'm not doing this because of any financial problems," said Arguello, who once wore championship belts from the featherweight, super-featherweight and lightweight divisions.

"The question I must ask myself," said Arguello, "is whether I can dedicate myself for one more year to go after a fourth title."

Arguello is scheduled to fight Andy Nance in Anchorage, Alaska, sometime in mid-September.

"Do I have the guts and ability?" Arguello asked himself. "Well, I just sparring six rounds with 14-ounce gloves, and I feel great."

Arguello, who now makes camp in Manchester, N.H., carried Madera through the full six rounds, opening up a sizable cut under the challenger's right eye, but usually retreating into the classic defensive posture that won him world renown through a career of 84 professional fights.

Arguello carried a career mark of 78-6 into the ring, a mark that includes 23 world title fights, 17 of which were successful defenses.

He justified his reputation as a fan favorite by shaking hands with many of the 3,000 in attendance at the Lowell Auditorium. The fans honored Arguello with a standing ovation, and draped pens and pads over the ropes seeking autographs.

Cook Of The Week

Her Specialty Is Plain Old American Cooking

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

Mention two things to Margaret Wood and her face lights up with a big smile. Two lovely granddaughters and a new marriage help to keep our Cook of the Week young at heart and extremely happy.

Margaret's roots began in Thomasville, Ga. "but I don't remember anything about Georgia," says Margaret. "I was raised in Lakeland." After graduating from high school in Lakeland, Margaret's family moved to Sanford.

"I've always known how to cook," says Margaret. "I always claimed I taught my own mother how to cook," she says with a chuckle. Margaret is the second of three daughters and says, teasingly, "My older sister did the cleaning, I did the cooking, and my younger sister didn't do a thing."

Widowed since 1978, Margaret's first marriage produced a daughter, who is now Donna Smith, and two granddaughters aged 10 and 12. Friends, family, and a little bit of traveling helped fill Margaret's life for several years after she became a widow and then a very special thing happened — she became Mrs. E.R. Wood.

Married in January, 1984, Margaret and "Woody" still qualify for newlywed status and are enjoying life to the fullest. Traveling is high on the list and a trip to Hawaii last year was a special treat. "We just got back from Alaska," says Margaret. "It doesn't take us long to put a trip together and just go." After last year's trip to Hawaii, Margaret and Woody had planned to take a boat trip up the Alaska coastline, "but the boat sank before we got on it, so we made plans to go back this year," says Margaret.

Both are active in the First Baptist Church of Sanford and enjoy the fellowship of their friends. Margaret and Woody often entertain friends for dinner and sometimes hold church meetings in their home.

A focal point in the Wood home is their hot tub, complete with Jacuzzi, which Margaret says "can hold a lot of folks in it." Sunken in the floor of their family room, Margaret says its health and recreational benefits are countless.

When they're not traveling or enjoying the benefits of their hot tub, Margaret is active in the Women's Missionary Union at church, and Woody is chairman of the deacons. Margaret would like to be in the choir, she says, "but I can't sing a note."

Raising her daughter, Donna, says Margaret, "was a pure joy. She was a sweet girl and no trouble, ever. She went to the University of South Florida and taught psychology and other subjects at Seminole Community College for a while, but she gave that up and has her own business now at the Center Mall in Sanford."

Margaret's grandchildren are a real bright spot in her life, she says. "They're just the two prettiest girls in town. They spend quite a bit of time with us about two nights a week, and they go to church with us." Margaret loves to cook and bake their favorite things when the girls visit. "I try to fix what they like. The oldest one likes butternut cake, and the youngest one likes chocolate cake, but I try not to make too many sweets any more."

Besides her "Crystal Creations" at the Center Mall, Margaret's daughter also owns "Nature's Annex" which carries health food products. Margaret likes to take advantage of the organically grown and unrefined foods which are available at the shop, and often has healthful treats on hand for the grandchildren, such as dried fruits and natural cereals.

Retired from the building contracting business since 1952, Woody enjoys playing golf and Margaret says, "I was going to learn how to play, but I changed my mind."

A cheerful lady, Margaret says, "I'm just as happy as if I had good sense. We have a great time and like to entertain a good bit." Her well equipped kitchen is the center of many delicious family meals. "Just good old American cooking," Margaret says, is the usual fare. "I'm an inventive cook," says Margaret. "I make up a lot of my recipes and sometimes I don't make the same things twice, but that's okay, that way it's not so boring."

Margaret laughs when she tells about how she fought having a microwave oven. "I just didn't think I needed one, but my daughter and son-in-law bought me one last Christmas and I'm telling you, do I ever use it! It's wonderful, and I use it for just about everything."

Below are some of Margaret's best pleasin' recipes for you to enjoy:

BROCCOLI SOUP
1/2 bunch or one 10 oz pkg frozen broccoli
1 cup water
3 teaspoons Wyler's chicken bouillon
1 tablespoon butter
Cook until well done and mash fine, then add:
3 cups milk or half and half
Heat slowly, do not boil. Add 2 tablespoons instant potatoes to thicken slightly. Serves 2-3.

ROLLS
1 cup scalded milk
1 package yeast
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup sugar
6 tablespoons butter
1 egg, beaten
4 cups flour
2 tablespoons warm water
Mix milk, salt, sugar and butter. Add beaten egg. Dissolve yeast in warm water and add to above mixture. Add flour and mix well. Refrigerate. When ready to use, roll dough out and shape into rolls. Place on cookie sheets and let rise until double in size. Bake at 350° for 15 minutes. Brush with melted butter. Takes about 3 dozen.

MEXICAN CORN BREAD
1 cup self-rising flour
1 cup self-rising corn meal
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup vegetable oil
2 eggs, beaten
3/4 cup milk
1 small can cream style corn
1 cup grated cheese
1 bell pepper, chopped
Hot pepper to taste (optional)
Combine above ingredients and mix well. Pour batter into 9x13 baking pan. Bake at 400° until brown and wooden pick comes out clean. Cut into serving size squares.

COCONUT CUSTARD PIE
1 unbaked 9 inch pie crust
4 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter
1 1/4 cups flaked coconut
Mix all ingredients well and pour into pie crust. Bake at 350° degrees for 40-50 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

GINGER COOKIES
3 sticks margarine, melted
1/2 cup molasses
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
4 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon ground cloves
Add molasses, sugar and eggs to melted margarine, beat well. Stir dry ingredients together and add to above mixture and blend well. Refrigerate dough for several hours. Form into small balls and roll in sugar. Bake at 350° for 8-10 minutes until firm and brown. Makes about 6-8 dozen depending on size of cookies.

Object Of Women's Affection Is At The End Of His Rope

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I suppose most men would sell their souls to have, but I would sell mine to be rid of it. Women chase after me. I have just begun a new job, and four of the 11 secretaries here are after me — one is married. They are not even subtle; they come right out and tell me what they have in mind. One actually started putting her hands where they didn't belong, and when I sternly rebuked her, she continued to pursue.

I am not interested in any of these women because I am gay. This is no secret, but it doesn't seem to dampen their enthusiasm — they want me anyway. I have had this problem all my adult life, but now it's reached the breaking point.

Once asked four women why they thought women fell for me knowing I was gay, and I got four different answers.

Believe me, if I ever find out what it is, I am going to change it! Please rush me some advice. I'm at the end of my rope.

RELUCTANT SEX OBJECT IN OHIO
DEAR OBJECT: You should know there is nothing more tempting than forbidden fruit! Tell these predatory females that you aren't interested, just as you'd tell a man in whom you had no interest.

DEAR READERS: Even though selling or serving alcoholic beverages to persons of high school age is illegal in most states, studies reveal that 93 percent of high school students have consumed alcoholic beverages at least once — with 72 percent drinking in the past month.

The need for dealing realistically with teen-age drinking is supported by drinking and driving statistics, and the growth of treatment facilities for adolescent alcoholics.

I have just read a booklet that I think should be in every home where there are children from 10 to 18 years old. It's for children and parents to read. It's titled, "Let's Talk About Drinking."

It can be obtained by writing to: Family, P.O. Box 57008, Washington, D.C. 20037.

Correction

In The Evening Herald's Cook of the Week column featuring Elaine Drake on July 24, an error appeared in her Italian Spaghetti (An Authentic Recipe). Tomato sauce was listed in the ingredients in error. The correction is 2 small cans of tomato paste.

The Herald regrets the error.

Dear Abby

The booklet is free. And the postage is paid, too. Send for your booklet today.

DEAR ABBY: I've lived in this home for 25 years and have always used gas to heat it. Last year my next-door neighbors decided to switch to wood. The wood burning continues for 24 hours a day all winter long and the inside of my house constantly smells of burning wood. My eyes burn, my nose is stuffy and my sinuses hurt.

Wood burning is allowed in this township, so I was advised to speak to my neighbors about this annoyance. I even offered to pay them $500 a winter not to burn wood, but they told me they didn't want the money. I tried to seal my house up to keep the odor out, but it creeps in anyway.

I can't afford to move, and I'm uncomfortable with things as they are, so what do you advise?

DREADING WINTER

DEAR DREADING: Because an activity is permitted by law does not make it moral, ethical or acceptable. One's conduct should be guided by consideration for others and a sense of fairness.

Obviously if you can't afford to move, you can't afford to sue your neighbors for imposing noxious fumes on you. Pity. It appears that you are at the mercy of selfish and unfeeling neighbors. If anyone out there has a suggestion, please send it to me, and I'll pass it along.

Operation Will Help Ease Bulged Disc Pain

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have a bulged disc. I had a nerve test done in which they put needles in my legs and feet. I was told that I have permanent damage to my right side, but I seem to have more problems and pain with my left side. I don't understand this. When should surgery be done?

kidney function and you should talk with your doctor about discontinuing both Naflon and Darvocet. After having stopped the medicines for several weeks, you should have a repeat urine examination. If blood cells are still present, you will require a kidney X-ray (IVP) and cystoscopic exam, during which the urologist — perhaps one who

DEAR READER — If you have permanent damage to one side and pain on the other, you need a neurological evaluation, pronto. I make a special effort to refer all my patients with disc disease to a neurologist, before they get any permanent damage.

Ruptured or slipped discs can cause major neurological problems, including weakness. It is inconceivable to me that your back problem was allowed to progress, untreated, until damage occurred.

There's little to be done to help your right-side symptoms, but that disc may be bulging more and more to the left and I'm concerned that you may develop left-sided permanent damage if the pinched nerves are not relieved. I'm not a neurosurgeon, so I cannot advise you when surgery should be performed — or even how much.

However, you need another opinion — which, I hope, differs from the one you have had.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I often have bladder trouble. Every time I see my urologist, he finds blood cells in my urine. I've been taking Naflon and Darvocet N100 for a long time. Could these be hurting my bladder?

DEAR READER — You have a problem. Blood cells in the urine are never normal. The manufacturer of Naflon states that the drug can cause bladder inflammation, kidney disease and loss of renal function. In addition, like many medicines, Darvocet can enhance the adverse effects of other medications that are also being taken.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

North first made a temporary response of one diamond, just to see what South's rebid would be. After South had rebid two clubs, it was a simple matter for North to ask for aces and settle for the small slam. What North did not anticipate was that the slam contract would be precarious, but then the opening bid by South was a bit ragged — only 10 high-card points.

What's the best play after the queen of diamonds lead? You have a choice in the heart suit of a straight finesse or a ruffing finesse. But first you should lead a spade, either up to dummy's king or toward your own queen. Do you see what you can do if you slip a spade trick through? Next you can play ace of hearts and then the queen, discarding a spade if East does not cover. On the other hand, when you lead a spade and the opponent in front of you rises with the ace, the king of spades in dummy will eventually take care of your losing diamond. You will of course have a problem if the spade honor you lead up to is taken by the ace.

The best approach is probably to lead from dummy. When West takes your queen with his ace, you have a clue that the heart king is with East. The theory is that West, with the spade ace, Q-J of diamonds, and heart king, would perhaps have made a takeout double of one club. Since he did pass, play him for not having all the outstanding high honors in the deck.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 29, 1985

In the year ahead, you will form several constructive alliances with people whose ideals and standards are in harmony with yours. These associates will be for pleasurable, as well as commercial, purposes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today, many might be joiners, but all will not be good team players. To avoid frustration, don't team up with anyone who does not possess esprit de corps. Major changes are ahead for Virgos in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An old, neglected duty may suddenly pop up today, just when everything was going smoothly. Before grumbling, remember that you're the one who swept it under the rug.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov 22)

There are some days that no matter how hard you try, you can't please everyone. Today if you encounter these conditions, bite the bullet and just keep on smiling.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) As a general rule it's wise to keep outsiders out of the family's personal affairs. Today may give you a cause to appreciate why that axiom was written.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Bite your tongue and head for the nearest exit if you encounter a person who bugs you. Don't let unpleasant company spoil what can be a great day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today and tomorrow it may seem like everybody's financial needs are laid on you. It's nice to be a good guy, but don't be foolish about giving just because somebody asked.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 19) Although you may do everything in your power to attempt to bring harmony into a communal situation, there are always a few who no one can please.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Not everyone is as responsible a person as you are and, unfortunately, today you might get stuck attempting to cover for another's ineptness.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't take it personally if a sensitive friend of yours gets hot under the collar for an imagined injustice. Point out the error of his reasoning.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It may be true that you worked hard and contributed much to a joint project, but don't attempt to take sole credit for its success. Acknowledge everyone's input.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) A quiet philosophical discussion could turn into an argument if you refuse to appreciate the fact that others are entitled to their opinions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Something you've been wanting for the home may be on sale today at a great price. However, before making the purchase, be sure you can handle any new financial obligation.

All It Takes For Sensational Salads Is A Little Imagination

Whether you have a green thumb or do all your gardening via the local supermarket, this is the best time of year for fresh produce. Thanks to the abundant supply, many people are on the lookout for new ways to serve their favorite fruits and vegetables.

One great vegetable dish is the ever-popular salad. Salads give the perfect opportunity to combine freshness, nutrition, taste and texture all in one entree. And, they're a cool way to beat the heat of the kitchen.

All you need to invent a sensational salad is a little imagination. For example, plain lettuce takes on new life simply by adding fresh vegetables like mushrooms, onions and tomatoes. Then, for some extra crunch, top the salad with a handful of toasted walnuts. Salads don't necessarily have to begin with lettuce. Many favorites start with potatoes or fruit.

To dress up ordinary greens, add fresh mushroom caps stuffed with a blue cheese-sour cream mixture, then top with Mushrooms Dijon Dressing. Or, serve Mushroom Blue Caps and Garden Greens without the dressing for an elegant appetizer.

Fresh mushrooms are a terrific complement to any meal. They add flavor, texture and glamour to even the simplest bill of fare. Best of all, they contain only 14 calories per ½ cup serving, are 99 percent fat free and contain essential vitamins and minerals.

For a French version of an American favorite, try Country Fresh Potato Salad. Tender potatoes and peas are topped with chicken and seasoned in a mint dressing. For more flavor, toss the potatoes and mint dressing while the potatoes are still warm. This hearty salad makes a delightful warm-weather main dish.

Potatoes are a low-cost way to supplement the diet with important nutrients while curbing calorie, fat and sodium intake. A medium-size potato (about ½ pound) contains only 110 calories and is an excellent source of vitamin C as well as fiber-rich complex carbohydrates.

Walnuts are the crowning glory in Walnut Grove Salad Bowls. Just fill melon shells with assorted fruits, top with crunchy walnuts then drizzle with a tangy orange walnut dressing. For a single serving, use small cantaloupe halves; for a larger crowd, substitute a hollowed watermelon half. Walnut Grove Salad Bowls can also be served as a light and nutritious dessert.

Walnuts contribute taste and texture to practically any dish without adding sodium or cholesterol. A good source of fiber, walnuts contain a number of essential vitamins and minerals including thiamin, riboflavin, and iron.

Served alone, or together as a special meal, this delicious trio of salads fills every role on a menu.

COUNTRY FRENCH POTATO SALAD

1½ pounds (4-5 medium) potatoes
2 cups fresh cooked peas or 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, thawed

Garden Mint Dressing (recipe follows)

4 chicken breast halves, boned, skinned and poached

Lettuce leaves
Radishes, for garnish
Mint sprigs, for garnish

In heavy saucepan with tight-fitting lid, cook potatoes in about 1 inch boiling water just until tender, about 30 minutes. Drain, cool slightly and slice ½ inch thick into large bowl. Add peas and half the Garden Mint Dressing. Toss gently; cover and chill. In another bowl toss chicken with the remaining dressing; cover and chill. To assemble, line platter with lettuce. Arrange potato mixture on lettuce. Cut chicken breasts into ½-inch slices. Arrange chicken breasts across platter. Drizzle any dressing remaining in bowl over salad. Garnish with radishes and mint sprigs. Makes 4 main dish servings.

Garden Mint Dressing: In bowl whisk ¼ cup vegetable oil, 3 tablespoons cider vinegar, 2 tablespoons water and 1 tablespoon each dry mustard and honey. Stir in ¼ cup sliced green onions, 3 tablespoons chopped fresh mint (or 1 tablespoon dried mint, crumbled), and salt, to taste. Makes ½ cup.

MUSHROOM BLUE CAPS AND GARDEN GREENS
½ cup crumbled blue cheese (about 3 ounces)
¼ cup sour cream
2 tablespoons finely chopped red onion
12 ounces mushrooms
Chopped parsley

Mushroom Dijon Dressing (recipe follows)
1 quart trimmed and torn salad greens, chilled

In small bowl combine cheese, sour cream and onion; mix to blend thoroughly. Gently remove stems from two-thirds of the mushrooms; reserve stems. Fill mushroom caps with cheese mixture. Garnish with parsley. Cover and chill. Meanwhile prepare Mushroom Dijon Dressing. To serve, slice the remaining mushrooms. Toss with greens; arrange on platter with filled mushroom caps. Pass dressing separately. Makes 4 servings.

Mushroom Dijon Dressing:
1 container of electric blender combine ¼ cup vegetable oil, 2 tablespoons each distilled white vinegar and Dijon-style mustard, ¼ teaspoon each salt and pepper, and the mushroom stems (reserved above). Blend until smooth. Makes about ¾ cup.

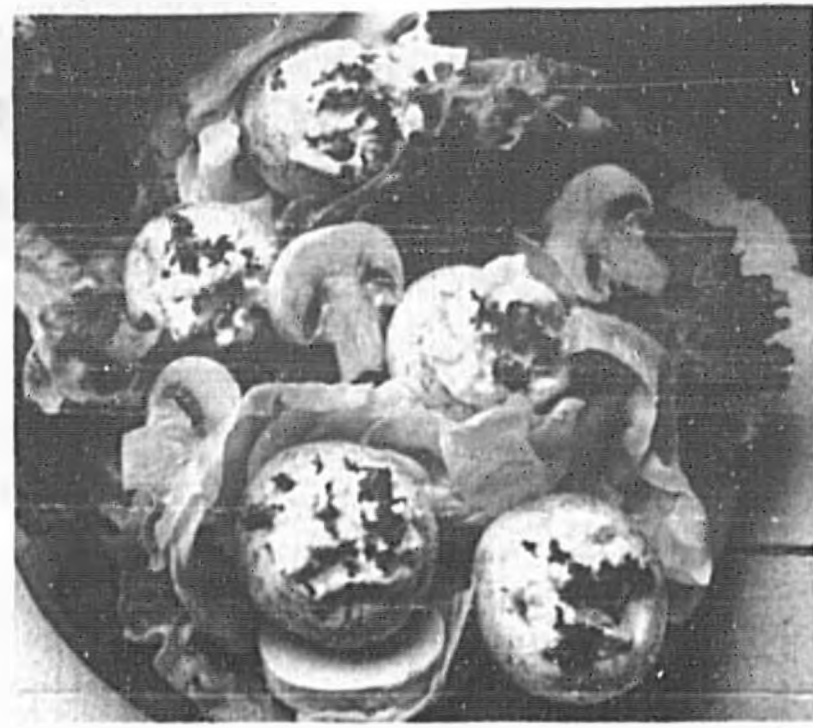

WALNUT GROVE FRUIT SALAD BOWLS
2 medium cantaloupes, halved and seeded

3 cups assorted seasonal sliced fruits (peaches, plums, strawberries, raspberries, oranges, cherries, grapes)

¼ cup walnut pieces and halves

Orange Walnut Dressing (recipe follows)

Scoop flesh out of melon halves, using melon baller; reserve shells to use as bowls. In large bowl combine melon balls and assorted fruits; cover and chill. To serve, fill shells with fruit mixture. Garnish with walnut pieces and halves. Pass

Mushroom Blue Caps and Garden Greens without dressing make an elegant appetizer.

Microwave Magic

Fruit Kabobs Excellent With Ham Or Pork

Pineapples and plums are fruits that are available now and make such good eating for lunch, dinner, desserts and snacks. A fresh pineapple is purchased for its size and weight. It can be stored for a short period of time in the crisper of the refrigerator. Pineapples do not ripen after they are harvested; therefore, holding the fruit will not improve the flavor. Fresh looking, dark green crown leaves and sweet fragrance are a sign of quality.

Fruit has a high sugar content. It is this sugar that attracts the microwave and cooks the food very quickly. As with vegetables cooked in the microwave oven, fruits should also be cooked with 100% power.

Fruit kabobs make a good accompaniment to baked ham or pork.

PINEAPPLE KABOBS

8 wooden skewers — 10 inches long

Midge Mycoff

Home Economist
Seminoole Community College

32 fresh pineapple chunks, cut into inch sections
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon light rum*
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
8 maraschino cherries

On each skewer place 4 pineapple chunks. Arrange on a rack in a 12x8-inch baking dish. Set aside.

In small dish, microwave butter on 100% power 30-60 seconds. Stir in rum. Add brown sugar and cinnamon. Brush one-third of mixture on pineapple chunks. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on 100% power 2 minutes. Turn over and rearrange skewers. Brush with one-third of sugar mixture. Recover. Microwave on 100% power 2-3 minutes, or until hot. Brush with remaining brown sugar mixture. Top each skewer with a cherry. Recover. Let stand 1-2 minutes, or until sugar melts.

* Apple juice may be substituted for light rum.

Fresh plums make a tasty side dish to serve with ham when prepared this simple way using your microwave oven.

SUGARED PLUMS

1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
6 large ripe plums, halved and pitted

In small dish, melt butter on 100% power 50-60 seconds. Combine sugar and cinnamon in small bowl. Dip plum halves in butter. Roll in cinnamon, coating well. Place in an 8x8-inch dish. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on 100% power 2-3 minutes, or until fork tender. Rearrange fruit after half the cooking time. (DO NOT overcook, or plums will lose their shape.)

When we can't have fresh fruit, canned or frozen fruit is a good substitute. Canned pineapple is a staple on pantry shelves because of its versatility. Try these recipes using canned pineapple products and your microwave oven.

SUNDAE TOPPING

1/4 cup sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons corn starch
1 can (13 ounces) crushed pineapple
1/4 cup water
1 teaspoon lemon peel
2 tablespoons honey

In a 1-1/2 quart casserole, combine sugar and corn starch. Add remaining ingredients. Microwave on 100% power 5-6 minutes, or until thickened, stirring every other minute. Chill. Serve over ice cream.

ORANGE-PINEAPPLE JUICE

1 can (8 ounces) crushed pineapple, packed in own juice
1/4 cup low-sugar orange marmalade
1/2 teaspoon parsley flakes

Combine all ingredients in a 2-cup measure. Microwave on 100% power 1 1/2-3 minutes, or until marmalade melts. Serve over chicken or pork.

APRICOT-PINEAPPLE JAM

1/4 pound dried apricots, finely chopped
1 can (20 ounces) crushed pineapple, drained (reserve syrup)
Water
6 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup lemon juice
6 ounce bottle liquid pectin

Combine apricots and reserved syrup in a 4-cup glass measure. Cook in microwave oven on 100% power 1-2 minutes. Stir. Continue cooking apricots for 3-4 minutes on 50% power. Mixture will thicken. Add pineapple and enough water to make 3 1/2 cups. Combine fruit mixture, sugar and lemon juice in a large bowl and mix thoroughly. Boil on 100% power for 19-21 (25) minutes, or until mixture comes to a full boil, stirring occasionally during the first seven minutes. Stir three times every 8 minutes. Heat an additional 1 minute. Stir pectin and skim off any foam, stir and skim foam for about 7 minutes.

Almost everyone likes upside-down cake, especially one that can be prepared in less than 10 minutes.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

1 tablespoon butter for margarine
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
5 slices pineapple (with syrup)
5 maraschino cherries
1 yellow cake mix (Jiffy, 18.5 ounce)

Melt butter in an 8-inch or 9-inch square dish in the microwave. Stir in brown sugar. Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. Arrange pineapple slices and cherries over brown sugar. Prepare cake mix according to package directions, substituting pineapple syrup for water. Spoon batter over pineapple. Microwave on 100% power 5-6 minutes, turning dish several times. Let stand 1 minute ... then turn upside down on cake plate.

Serve warm or cold.

Orange Walnut Dressing separately. Makes 4 servings.

Orange Walnut Dressing: In container of electric blender combine 1/4 cup vegetable oil, 2 tablespoons each white wine vinegar, frozen orange juice concentrate and water, 1 teaspoon grated orange peel, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper and 2 tablespoons parsley sprigs. Blend until smooth, scraping sides of container as needed. Mix in 1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts. Makes about 3/4 cup.

Spudwich Salads — Halve cooked baked potatoes and spread cut sides with mayonnaise or mustard. Sandwich your choice of thinly sliced tomatoes, meats and cheese, and a ruffle of lettuce between the halves. Wrap snugly in foil for a picnic surprise.

Walnut Salad Croustons — Heat 1 tablespoon each butter or margarine and vegetable oil in small skillet. Add 1 clove minced garlic and 3/4 cup walnut pieces. Cook and stir until walnuts are lightly toasted, 3-4 minutes. Transfer walnuts to bowl with slotted spoon. Add 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese; toss to coat walnuts. Cool. Store in covered jar. Add Walnut Salad Croustons to tossed green salads for flavor and crunch.
