Port official recognized for economic development work

SANFORD - Dennie Dolgner, long-time Seminole County Port Authority administrator, was named District 6 "Economic Develop-ment Professional of the Year" by the Florida Economic Development Association, a professional organization. The district encompasses eight Central Florida coun-

Dolgner began at the port in 1974 as assistant administrator and assumed leadership of the 120-acre industrial facility in 1978. Doigner serves on the county's Economic Development Oversight Committee and is currently vice president of Economic Deviopment Commission of Mid Florida Inc.

High speed chase
Lake Mary police Friday arrested Joshua Lee
Burngarner following a high speed chase down
Lake Mary Boulevard.

According to a police report on the incident, an officer observed Bumgarner, 18, of 393 Dawn View Court, Lake Mary, run a red light at the intersection of Lake Mary Boulevard and Lake Emma Road.

Burngarner headed west on Lake Mary Boulevard initially at 40 mph. However, after the officer following Bumgarner turned on his lights, the chase accelerated to 60 mph and then to speeds nearing 100 mph. the report said.

After it became clear Bumgarner was not going to slow down, the police officer turned off his lights and slowed down to reduce the chances of an accident occurring.

As the chase neared the I-4 on-ramp. Burngamer lost control of his vehicle, went off the road and onto an embankment.

When police arrived on the scene, Burngarner was arrested for reckless driving.

Cop asks EEOC to investigate narassment

by J. MARK BARPIELD Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD - A female Sanford police officer alleges Chief Ralph Russell is trying to embarrass and intimidate her for filing a sex discrimination complaint against him in March.

In a letter to the Equal Employment Opportunity Council and Sen. Bob Graham, D.Fla., Sharon Sheafer states Russell ordered copies of her husband's personnel file from the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, Several weeks later, Sheafer states members of her squed received from an anonymous source copies of documents from the same file.

"The trouble that my husband had almost 20 years ago has no bearing on my job what-so-ever." wrote Sheafer in the Sept. 3 letter. "The intimidation that is being brought against me by Chief Russell for filing with the EEOC is becomine unbearable. EEOC must do something and quickly to stop this intense and dirty form of harasement."

Sheafer declined to be interviewed. Ricky Sheafer has said his wife filed an EEOC complaint against Russell in March, asserting the chief promoted less-experienced male officers over her because she was a female. The Sanford Herald has reported similar complaints were flied by another female officer and a former Community Policing Team member. Russell denied the allegations in the complaints.

Russell denied distributing information from Ricky Sheafer's pereannei Nie.

"I empiratically deny any part of that," and Russell. "It's a baidfaced lie. When it came to my attention. I made a request to find out who was responsible." ☐ See Cop. Page 3A

Relics from the ruins will live on Treasures salvaged from burned Montezuma Hotel

By KAREN LACHENAUER Special to the Herald

SANFORD - The massive Montezuma Hotel, ruined by fire last month in its 107th year, will live on in timbers and relics reclaimed by a curious citizenry - even if only in "a barely discernable way," as Sanford restoration architect Jerry Mills puts it.

Flooring from the first floor, that supposedly covered the city's first indoor swimming pool in what was reputed to have been Sanford's turn-of-the-century nightspot, part of the staircase that was so grand it was "like something you'd see in a movie," according to a close friend of the former owner, and window trim, windows, doors made of preclous curly pine, carved woodworking - even the proverbial kitchen sink but in the form of antique clawfoot bathtubs and Gee Salvage, Page 5A

'gooseneck" tollets - have been pulled out by a DeLand salvage company for reuse in other buildings old and new or just for resale as items of interest. A major find was a cast-iron safe apparently built into the hotel under the statrease and behind the front desk when the hotel was first built in 1887 according to the city records.

Both the salvager and present owner have allowed other interested parties to - very carefully excavate the three-story shell that now looks more like a movie set about to cave in on itself. Passersby at Third Street and Magnolia Avenue will see a fairly intact white frame facade with a big porch leading up to it, but backed up by a building with no roof and a twostory pile of wood and rubble behind where buildozers initially cleaned up after a still unexplained

Racial complaint about gifted programs

WEST PALM BEACH — The federal office monitoring desegregation in the Palm Beach County School District has received a complaint about the small number of black students in the district's gifted classes.

Last week, the U.S. Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights notified the district it had gotten a complaint in September alleging that the school system's gifted programs discriminate against black students. The Palm Beach post reported Saturday.

Letters of complaint to the Office of Civil Rights are confidential until the case is resolved, and the office gave no further details of the allegations in its letter to the school district. As part of its normal process, the office will begin an investigation unless the district wants to negotiate a solution immediately.

The system has 5,659 children in classes designed for students with high IQs. Of those, 84 percent are white, although white students account for 57 percent of the district's total enrollment. Black students make up 6 percent of the gifted enrollment, compared with 28 percent overall.

Proposed water restrictions irks farmers

CLEARWATER - A coalition of farm groups is fighting pending water restrictions in west central Florida, contending the rules will dry up profits by needlessly increasing production costs.

"There is no water crisis that justifies these egregious rules," said Tampa attorney Doug Manson, who filed a challeng Friday to a new water management plan that is coming under increasing fire. "Farmers have already spent hundreds of millions of dollars so they don't waste water."

The farm coalition includes the "Farmers have already spent hundreds of millions of dollars so they don't waste water."

The farm coalition includes the Florida Fruit & Vegetable Association, the Florida Tomato Exchange, and Florida Citrus Mutual.

The Way We Were: History downtown

While working on the articles about the drugstores and also helping select pictures for the Sandord Historical Society calender, I became interested in knowing more about the downtown buildings. I knew they all had names such as Rand and Pico, but I was forever mixing them up, and I had no idea who they were named after or much else about them. So, after a couple of afternoons researching in the Sanford researching in the Sanford Museum, I now know a ot more about those in the 100 block of East First Street and I'll pass this rmation on to you.

My research for this article and for any in the future is certainly not exhaustive nor will the information be complete. I am relying on easily accessible material such as found in the museum files, city directories I can find (the Sanford Museum is in great need of earlier ones, 1800s through the 1950s), various books such as Peter Schnal's "Sanford As I Knew It" and "Sanford and the World War I Years." Other resources I have at my home plus my personal memories. If you can add to or correct any information at any time, please contact me.

Today we will learn about the Brussley-Puleston Building, located at 100 E. First St., with a few relevant digressions.

As mentioned in a previous article, there was another building on this site before the present one that contained the L.R. On March 6, 1922, Dr. Samuel Puleston bought this building for $4,000 and had it demolished soon afterwards. Dr. Puleston acquired a pariner, Lester A. # A haunting you should go

The Haunted Woods Hallowe'en adventure is now operating at Camp Challenge, Florida's Easter Seal Camp. (See below for dates and

It's only about 15 miles west on S.R. 46. from the heart of downtown Sanford, and we believe it's worth the drive, the time, and the nominal cost.

The camp is sponsored by the Florida haster Seal Society, a group that really knows how to stage this kind of event. Although it's for Hallowe'en, it is not just for one night or one weekend, but is presently underway, with a number of nights still set for the event.

As such, it won't interfere with traditional home parties, trick-or-treat goers, church events, or Hallowe'en parties sponsored by various organizations.

The number one purpose is to raise money for the continuing operation and improvements at the 63-acre camp in Lake County. Since 1961 events such as these have allowed the camp to expand from seving 108 campers the first year, to an estimated 2,300 last year.

It should be pointed out that this isn't an ordinary camp. It is specially dedicated to serving the needs of the handicapped. All areas are wheelchair accessible, and the camp personnel are specially trained at handling the needs of those who use the camp as a getaway from restraints faced every day.

Other Camp Challenge projects include a vocational training facility for people with mental retardation, a financial aid program to help pay for special equipment, an information and referral service, and other group

As far as we are concerned, had there been no special event, we would urge support for this worthwhile project anyway. It serves 11 counties in Central Florida, and is deserving of support from everyone.

With this special event however, it's an extra reason for showing support. Take the entire family. The Haunted Woods is designed to be scary, but in a humorous way that won't terribly frighten the children. The price of admission is 86 per person. Children 12 and under are 84. The best part is that the money spent for admission (well worth it for what you will see), will help continue the outstanding work done by Camp

Challenge. Don't miss it.

Limit net fishing

False claims have been published that Amendnent 3 (Limiting Marine Netfishing) is just a battle etween recreational flahermen and commercial letters. However, leading impartial conservation roups have come on record as supporting the onstitutional amendment for well-founded envionmental reasons. These independent conservaion groups are interested in the overall food chain hat has been so woefully depleted by excessive letting.

The depletion of forage flah by nets has caused a 0 percent decrease in the number of nesting brown pelicans over the last five years.

Regarding sea turtles killed in nets, the Florida Department of Environmental Protection has now tailed for a ban on netting in a four-county area along the east coast because dead endangered green sea turtles continue to wash ashore in increasing numbers, some still entangled in the hets that took their lives.

For good reasons, support for Amendment 3 comes from a variety of people and organizations. all keenly interested in protecting Florida's precious marine wildlife populations. Among the prominent conservation organizations that are on record as endorsing Amendment 3 on the Nov. 8 ballot are the Florida Audubon Society, United States Humane Society - Southeast Region. The Wilderness Society, Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund, The Conservancy (Naples), National Save The Turtle Foundation, Florida Defenders of the Environment, Caribbean Conservation Corporation/Sea Turtle Survival League, National Coalition for Marine Conservation, the Florida Wildlife Federation, and the Florida Conservation Association. Join them in the effort to limit marine netfishing, vote yes for Amendment Three.

The meaning of poverty in America

What is the meaning of poverty in America. It means that many children are our poorest citizens. There appears to be concurrence that the fundamental causes of poverty are: (1) the lack of two parent families and (2) the decime in jobs for the unskilled that pay adequately to support a family. Hence some children end up as our powest citizens. Poverty amid plenty is interpreted differently than it would be if America was a poor country. Robert Samuelson has indicated that "the American dream is passing by a big part of the population."

Statistics confirm that poverty is engulfing many young families. In 1992, 42 percent of families headed by adults younger than 30 were living in poverty. Of that number 74.3 were headed by females. The median income of these families plummeted by approximately one-third between 1973 and 1992 after adjustment is made for inflation. Two-thirds of all young families with children are headed by adults between the age of 25-29 and three percent are headed by teen-agers.

Cliff Johnson, director of programs and policy for the Children's Defense Fund, suggested that an agenda for aiding young families should include health care reform, welfare reform.

education and training, child care, support and encouragement for two-parent families. Health care reform would provide medical coverage. Welfare reform must have components providing for education, training and the creation of jobs. Terminating welfare benefits without providing other options would further exacerbate the poverty status.

Family counseling: economic, psychological and social should be employed to strengthen families. Child care services should be provided to eliminate the latchbey phenomena and other children growing up without proper adult ture of funds ouring 1993 did not indicate that her children were her number one priority. The 18th edition of World Military and Social Expenditures compared America with 140 countries. America ranks number one in the fallowing arms experts, military expenditures.

Onnelli indicated that the future will depend on what we do in the present. All children living in America are part of the future of all other Americans. Therefore it behaves us to work diligently towards eliminating poverty. Every 30 seconds a baby is born into poverty, circum-stances totally beyond the child's control.

The debate relative to whether heredity (nature) exerts the most salient influence on a child's future accomplishments has to consider recent findings. Family income is a "more powerful correlate of a child's IQ at age 5" than Assessing America's priorities in the expendi- a single parent family.

The plight of working Americans

Did you hear the big news the other day? The federal government announced that the unemployment rate is down for this quarter. An impressive piece of information that, except for the qualifying comment afterwards. Yes, unemployment is down, but the majority of those fortunate enough to have found work did so in the lesser paying sectors of our economy. And folks, that's where the problems lay.

I heard neveral weeks ago that Manpower, Inc. is the single largest employer in this country. Now having recently been on the dole myself, I can appreciate the existence of that particular type of company, but for it to surpass all others for the distinction of being the single largest employer in the land was a bit troubling to me.

If you haven't made the acquaintance, Manpower is a temporary employment firm. one of several dozen throughout the greater Orlando area. Their pay rate is par for the industry, ranging from minimum wage to the heady heights of about eight or nine dollars (for nuclear physicist). Generally speaking, there are no benefits, few ever achieve enough time in to obtain a paid holiday, let alone vacation time, and jobs listed to run for several weeks or months can miraculously be finished before one can even learn the name of one's supervisor. Now don't misunderstand. Manpower serves its function admirably, and in no way should you construe that I am singling them out for their less than unique faults. They pay and give the going rates and benefits for this area, and they are also considered to be one of the better temporary agencies with whom to secure work. The problem is that they and their competitor represent a rather disturbing trend in this country these days, and that is the unfortunate disintegration of the American work force.

I'm 41. When I was growing up, my father instilled in me the principles that one should go forth into the world and find a good company to work for, be loyal to and productive for that company; and in return that company would take care of me for the rest of my life. That's the way it tended to be for those reaching maturity during the post WWII era, and he earned his golden parachute by acting that way throughout his whole working life. Well, being a writer, obviously, I didn't listen but there are times when I'm just as glad. Perhaps due to the world business community growing ever smaller and competitive, the unions asking for more than the companies could manage, or maybe because of those games they were playing on Wall Street during the late '70s and '80s, job security is virtually a thing of the past. President Reagan's firing of the air traffic controllers pretty well broke the back of the unions, and the employment policy introduced by the Japanese auto industry of hiring young to avoid the costs of health related and retirement benefits has swept throughout much of the employment sector in a way which has made it very difficult for anyone over 40 to find a job which will lead someday to a comfortable

DAVID GEOFFREY COE

In the apartment complex in which I live, there are a lot of young people just starting out in life. I find it quite disheartening to listen to their comments on what jobs are out there, especially as many of them moved to Florida in order to obtain a decent standard of living (it's cheaper to live in this state, remember?) ... For the most part they are coupled, married or not. and it is only through their combined income that they can even barely scrape by to afford the next month's rent, let alone look to the future of possibly one day becoming homeowners. Minimum wage or nearly so has become the norm rather than the rule in this state, and as each new week heralds the announcement that one or more of our local big employers is having yet another lay-off, the competition by the overqualified with the barely qualified tends to heat up.

There's a joke going around that it now takes a PH.D. to be an assistant manager at a fast food restaurant; a few years ago it was only a master's degree. Unfortunately, however, within that joke there is a grain of truth. During my employment hlatus. I met quite a few ex Martin or l'ell people who having been laid off, were forced to accept after many months of not being able to find a job appropriate to their skills, temporary or part-time work in their failing attempts to hang on. Many of them had higher degrees or specialized skills, but many of them also made just too much money or were perhaps a bit too old (past 40). In all probability, they are destined to remain in their new income brackets, and woe be to he or she who doesn't somehow manage to keep their skill level competitive. And as for the folks without the education or training out there who used to get the part-time and temp jobs, well, have you been to the welfare office lately? They have and are doing so in an ever increasing rate across the country these days. The jaded among my readers might say its their own fault for not trying hard enough, but having been within their masses just recently, I know that such is not necessarily the case.

So where does that leave us? Is America going down the tubes in that proverbial handcart? Should we all bow down in homage to the words of King Perot and look to people like him for our economical salvation? Nah ... just watch this space next week, because I plan to spew forth my opinions concerning how we need to turn this ol' country around. See you

SEMINOLE B. CARTER

How we see our sons

First, I want to thank you for running Donna Britt's columns. She always speaks to me. I don't recall the last time I read the Washington Post, but thanks to the Sanford Herald, I remi Beltt regularly.

Some months ago she wrote a column about "The Talk" she would soon have with her 12-year-old son - not about sex, but about the dangers of being a teen-aged black male. It is a snoving and sober column.

Recent events in my family spurred a series of introspective letters and phone calls between me and my sister, as we try to help black and I don't know in what part of the country she was reared. But we all three are mothers of sons. And we all three know some about fear and prejudice.

Betti worries that her son will be harmed by racial prejudice. It is a fact that black males die disproportionately by violence and her son is black. This frightens her. My sister's son is about to graduate as a helicopter ptlot in the Marines. She would be a liar if she said that does not frighten her. (Proud, yes, but scared.) My own son, at 11, is closer to the age of Britt's. He is white and middle class and being reared in a two-parent household.

All of those things — statistically speaking — make him safer. But the first week of school he was robbed (not at school) and I, too. realized he is getting older and his world is getting larger and by extension, my ability to keep him safe is diminishing. This is a scary thing for me.

It is difficult to explain how this theme of parenting and keeping kids safe and fear and prejudice are all tied together in these recent conversations between me and my sister.

But I just need to write down somehow that the children in our community are all of our children. I just wanted to my what a sad mistake it is to assume that because someone a different in color or speech or their sense of humor or the way they dress that they should be avoided or feared. My sister teaches teen agers who are mentally challenged in some way. She's told me about the cruel ways those kids have been treated by other kids and adults in the school. I work with teen-agers in my job and teach pre-teens in Sunday School. What I notice about all of thee kids, irrespective of color or ethnic origin, is that they are trying to figure out a way to survive adolescence and do it in a faster, more violent world than most of us adults did. It is a parent's job to set limits, to inspire a child to strive for their highest potential. It is a community's job to be there for its children - even when they are teen-agers.

Most respond to a smile. Most speak back when spoken to. Most are not dangerous.

in recent weeks I've seen adults looking fearfully at teen-aged boys — black, white, hispanic — whom I know from my church or at school. They are good boys. How sad for those adults they held onto to their fear instead of smiling a greeting and getting a smile in return.

Lord knows there are enough real bad guys and hatefulness out there, without looking for them where they don't exist - except through the distorted views of our own prejudice and fear.

That is what I was trying to say in my letter to my sister. It is what I want to say now. Thanks for letting me.

The salvage company, itself located in an old building near the police station in DeLand, is Florida Victorian. It is the brainchild of a former community college teacher who bought the ruins of an old building and discovered the value to other people who bought pieces to build or rebuild or decorate their own buildings. His name is Mark Shuttleworth.

Shuttleworth bid an undisclosed sum for the rights to the salvage; the bid was accepted by Ingria. Shuttleworth beheld a beautiful sight on the site of minable materials even if a great deal had already been substantially chewed - by

"There was fairly serious termite damage and live termites in the building despite the fire." Shuttleworth said.

"It wasn't obviously too bad in what we brought out of there. We tried to bring out stuff not affected but sometimes it's worth it to have materials treated" to kill the termites. "We were going to recover three or four of the floors upstairs but we couldn't" because of the damage. Donahue had said that termite drilling had made the building though heated, bonechilling in the winter, and city building official Gary Winn said that in later years the fire department had only allowed occupants on the ground floor. Oddly enough, the lobby floor and some of the staircase were unaffected by the bugs, Shuttleworth said - and made of the rare "heart" pine that can't be DeBose has half a shoeber full of old Florida State Bank of Sanfo checks with a picture of a bunch of celery in green in the corners and health cards for workers circa 1950 signed by longtime Sanford doctor Leo Starke. De-Bose said he bought about 14 Queen Anne-type dressers of the type that might be seen in a turn-of-the-century Sears & Roebuck catalogue — the hotel itself was Queen Anne construction and originally named the Wilton Hotel before it became the Bi-Low and then the Montesuma, according to city rec-ords — before Mrs. Seaton sold the building. He in turn sold the dressers to a northern dealer. He gave the old hotel register to a Shuttleworth said of the recovery when it was freed from its century-long home under the stairs. Fortunately it had rollers but "we could barely roll it. It literally weighed a ton." He expects a bar or restaurant owner might pay $1,000 for it as a novelty item.

Pointing out a classic scene on the back of the red-painted safe showing the factory where it was made in Cincinnati and "17 smokestacks" beiching smoke, Shuttleworth said, "I think that's great. We'd never advertise like that today."

"The nice thing about archi-tectural materials is that if you're just a little bit creative, a lot of times you can save a lot of money and have really inter-esting stuff," the salvager said. Architect Mills, who is "really bitter about what happened" to the hotel which he believes could have been restored, said he got 16 20X2X10 floor joists for which he paid about $1.25 per foot for a total of about $480 "which was pretty expensive but still less expensive" than new

Had the matter not been resolved, several merchants said they had planned to picket the movie sets in the downtown area beginning Monday morning.

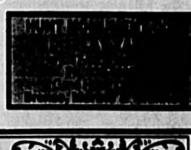

Earlier Friday, downtown merchants and business owners began phoning the Sanford Herald voicing complaints about the situation. They said several attempts to have the closure changed or cancelled had already failed.

According to Rod Layer, President of the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association. (SHDWA) representatives of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, SHDWA, police, fire department, parks and recreation and others, met with City Manager Bill Simmons Wednesday, to discuss planned closures of the First Street area from Park Avenue to Palmetto Avenue.

'Nothing was decided." he said, "so early Friday afternoon, we met with the director of the filming scheduled to be done in Sanford. For awhile, they said they would shoot on Palmetto Avenue, and use the vacant lot at the northwest corner of First and Sanford Avenue, near the Chamber of Commerce building for parking areas. Some of us wouldn't have any problem with that," he added.

"We asked them if they would agree to close First Street for only two minute intervals then keep it open for five minutes," he continued. "But the woman who supervises the film crew told us there is no way they would agree to that. She told us she had the permit and nothing would stop them. They would have the area closed off and on for possibly five hours."

Layer said downtown merchants believe they should receive some type of compensation from the movie company for the loss of business caused by such a closure of the street. "But they said there was no way they would ever do that." he said.

Layer also said he was told by the film producer that she did not like the way the production company operations were treated by some merchants, and indicated she did not want to return to Sanford.

The company has been filming various scenes for the continuing TV series in the Sanford area, using a building on Fulton Street, an area near the main offices at the Central Florida Regional Airport, and other sites.

This special pep rally will boost the football players' de-termination to win through per-formances given by the drama club, the cheerleaders and the dance team. There will be a special "Alma Mater" sung by all the sentor Chorus members.

More information on the dance will be released later.

Obviously, the Homes celebration at Seminole High School will involve may hours of hard work provided by many administrators.

The hard work, however, will pay off in the long run as the students create memories to take with them for the rust of their lives.

Understanding asthma Breathlessness, wheezing characterize disease

SANFORD — Seatrice (Sea) Young lives an active life but it doesn't come easy.

Young lives with the draw backs and complications that go along with being asthmatic. She has a partitime dependency on oxygen and several different types of prescription medications including Alapera (an in-haler). Theo-dar and Azmacort.

"In the morning, I'm very congested and I have to wait for my lungs to do some clearing out, this in turn will allow me to breathe with less laboring on my lungs," Young said.

According to the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America, and Dr. Steven J. Jurnick, with the American Academy of Allergy and Immunology, asthma is described as recurrent attacks of breathlessness characteristically accompanied by wheezing when breathing out and varying in severity from day to day and from hour to hour.

There are two main types of asthma: extrinsic, in which an allergy, usually something in-haled, triggers an attack; and intrinsic, in which there is no apparent external cause.

Jurnick said.

The familiar form of asthma is more correctly called bronchial asthma; this use of the full name distinguishes it from a condition associated with wheezing caused by heart failure, asthma cardiac. Although asthma frequently begins early in life, Jurnick said.

Several new goodies in Microsoft Windows

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald SHIP Patrolman

Greetings from Chica..., er Windows SS, again. We'll start out this week with a look at some of the letest additions to the new Windows. Although it's still a "work in progress," it is getting closer to a finished system. So much so, Microsoft is no longer shipping out updates to us pioneering hair-pullers bearing the Chicago project name. The latest CD-NOM I got from them bears the name Windows SS, the official name of the product.

The latest release, Verston 1.4

The latest release, Version 1.4 if you're counting, has several new goodies not included in earlier releases. But they're glimpses of features to come in the final product when it hits the streets "sometime in the first half of 1995."

First of all, as you'll recall two makes are a mentioned the ser-

First of all, as you'll recall two weeks ago, I mentioned the earlier version of Chicago couldn't find my floppy drives. This was a bit annoying because I couldn't back up data files. I haven't updated my household Quicken files in weeks. My computer has no idea how little money I have! Also, I wasn't able to load new programs. Ahh, but the new version found my floppies! Happiness is active floppy drives. You don't realize how isolated you can be with your menacing acreen glaring at you without your floppies for support and comfort. As best as I can tell, the new version of Chicago first tries to use its internal access routines, called "drivers." If they don't work, it gives up and lets you use the ones already loaded into your computer.

The latest version also supports tape backup. My Colorado Backup Lite, which is the software I happen to use, worked fine. There's also a backup applet (little application) that recognizes most tape drives, so by the time Windows 95 is released, it should work fine with any brand of tape drive your system may have. My initial dabbling shows it works fine, but doesn't compress data enough to squeeze it all on the casette. This may (or may not) be resolved for the final products. I'll let you know how it works next time.

There's also a nice new CD player applet. To use it, you obviously need a CD-ROM drive, sound card and speakers or headphones. But if you have all this stuff, you'll like this little gay, it has the look and feel of an audio compact disc player, complete with buttons, volume control and title listing. These are features normally found in third-party programs costing $50 or more, so this is a nice touch. This will need a bit of refining. If you load a CD in after starting up CD Player, it can't seem to find it, although the light on the front of the CD-ROM player lights up periodically. If you start the applet with a CD loaded first, it works fine.

"Media Player," if you're familiar with it, is still included in the package but you won't need it to play your favorite tunes while you work, or pretend you're working.

Tools

If you recall, I told you Win95 will finally merge Microsoft Disk Operating System and Windows. It has moved a step closer to that with the addition of disk maintenance utilities of "Defrag" and "ScanDisk." If you're unfamiliar with these, read the section below. You'll learn how to improve the operations of your present Windows system. You can Defrag and ScanDisk under Windows now, but you must exit Windows before running them because they need a lot of the memory normally hogged by Windows. Because Win95 does away with most of those memory complications, you can run them under Windows. even in the background while doing other computer things. These applications are also being refined. Defrag currently deatroys Win95's long filenames, so Microsoft provides a safety routine which allows me to restore them after Defrag wipes 'em out. By the time Win95 is finally released, all this will be done for you. It should be foolproof. But then, what is, eh?

Oddly, my printer is now running real slow, although it did not under the earlier Chicago. I suspect this new "bug" will be resolved soon. You should expect printing to be much quicker than current Windows versions. Also expect less system slowdown while a print job is being completed, a common problem under Windows now.

Although there's more work to be done, Win95 is shaping up to be a dramatic improvement to current Windows. We'll keep you up to date on future improvements.

Chores...

Do you find your Windows computer system seems sluggish these days? Oh, it seemed to run slick out of the box a few months ago. But now it just seems tired.

It's time to set up a routine for a monthly checkup. Fortunately, the friendly folks at Microsoft give you several tools to perform these little time-killers. The two key tools are Defrag and ScanDisk. Defrag looks for all the bits and bytes of your files scattered all over your hard disk and lumps them together. Defrag also gives you a nifty graphical lunage of what it's doing. Watching it is alightly more exciting than watching water boil. ScanDisk locates acrossible files and tries to unscrassible them. It's less exciting than watching them and tries to unscrassible them. It's less exciting than watching tweeter boil.

Both of these tools require you to exit Windows and enter the frightening world at the et\> prompt. Don't worry. You can't screw up. Not too much that is. To use them, exit Windows like you're about to shut down for the night. DO NOT use the MS-DOS prompt in your blain directory. It shouldn't work, but if it does, you might do damage to the stuff on your hard disk. You don't want that to happen. You abould have a prompt that looks something like et\>. If you have something that looks like et\visible with fire ex\> by you're ready to forge about. Now you're ready to forge about.

ScanDisk is an MS-DOS tool which looks at your hard disk to make sure nothing's amiss. If it finds a problem, it will ask you if you want to fix it. All you have to do is type seasolisk at the prompt. Upper- or lower-case letters are fine. Off it goes, checking out all the files on your disk. If you're lacky, it won't find any problems and when it's done, select "Exit" and life is wonderful. If it does find a problem, you'll be asked to "Fix it," "Don't Fix it' or look at "More linfo." I'd recommend selecting blore info, then jotting down the file names you find. It will help you keep an eye on those programs for future problems. After you do this, select Fix it, ScanDisk will also ask you if you want to create an "Undo" disk. I'd recommend you do thus and label it. It will enable you to restore those files if they don't work properly.

you do this, select Pix R. ScanDisk will also ask you if you want to create an "Undo" disk. I'd recommend you do this and label it. It will enable you to restore those files if they don't work properly.

That's about it unless your computer flashes the dreaded "File not found" message. In that case, type abidsk or at the prompt. It just message you have an older version of MS-DOS which didn't come with ScanDisk. Chicksk does about the same thing as ScanDisk, but isn't as clever at fixing files. If you type chitchik /f. It will nove scraps of files to new files with a .chik extension on your computer. If everything seems to work fine after a few days, you can delete these. If a program doesn't work, it's probably best just to delete it and reload it. After you're done, go out and spend the $10 to buy an upgrade disk for MS-DOS 6.2 or MS-DOS 6.22. Then you'll have ScanDisk.

Defrae.

After you've saved and deleted files a few times, the data on your hard disk gets about as scattered as cats at a dog show. They're all over the place. The reason this happens is every time you delete a file, you create a gap in the data. Then, when you come along and save something, your computer sticks information in that empty apat. If the spot ten't large enough for the information, it sticks the rest of the file in other empty spots. Your computer can find all these bits and bytes and assemble them into a working program or file, but the seek and assemble process slows things down. That's where Defrag comes in, it "defragments" your files and puts 'em back together. You should run it after you run ScanDiak or

'em back together. You should run it after you run ScanDisk or childsk just to keep things tidy.
To do this, type deling at the ex's prompt. Defrag does the rest.
It will ask you which drive, select
"e:' then "OK" if c: is your hard drive. It probably is. Defrag will first take a look at your disk and recommend a defragmentation option. The first time you run Defrag. I'd recommend clicking on "Configure" and then selecting "Full Optimization" if that's not the recommended option, then select "Begin Optimization." Depending on the shape of your data, this could take a half hour or all night. During the first step of the process, you'll see a safty graphic representation of the process. You'll be impressed with this display for about a minute, then get bored. When Defrag is done, select "Exit" and you'll be back at the et\> prompt. You can either turn off your computer or type win to restart Windows.

By fun.

Born in the building boom of the 1920s, the park now known as Seminole Greyhound Park. Casselberry, first opened as a horserace track, reportedly for the amusement of tobacco tycoon R.J. Reynolds. It has undergone a number of transformations and name changes through the years. Some newspaper clippings state. the track was thought to be the first track in Florida to introduce pari-mutuel wagering. However. historian and author Arva Moore Parks claims pari-mutuel wagering began at Hialeah race track in the 1920s although it was not legal until a decade later.

The Sanford Orlando Kennel Club, Longwood opened about 1925 and has remained a dogtrack. The State of Florida issued a racing permit to the club on Aug. 11, 1931 when regulations went into effect. The club remained open during the Depression years when the ot track closed. County records show there was construction at the club in 1950, more in 1980 to 1963 and the latest addition in 1974. Longwood building director John Brock said. The current owners have had the club since 1954 or 1956, said club spokesman Bob Nash. "I found both dates and I'm not sure which is correct."

Although originally a thoroughbred racing park. Seminole Greyhound Park on Seminola

Boulevard has also been used for harness racing, quarter horse racing, a winter training facility for horses and even automobile racing over the years. The facility reopened as Seminole Downs in 1967 for a 57-night program of thoroughbred racing but closed after 31 nights.

In 1970, investors spent $4 million on improvements including a $1.5 million club house called Osceola Terrace. Virginia Beach builder Lewis Keller was chairman of the board for Seminole Management Corporation and John Leib, Glen Head, N.Y. investment banker served as president.

At the April 20, 1970 opening, a horse named Musical Breeze, owned by E.C. Ryder and ridden by jockey Larry Gold won the first race. About 3,500 people attended the track's ballyhooed opening night.

However, just three months later, track owners requested a shortened racing program. Beset with attendance and betting problems, operations were suspended July 11. Closing seven weeks ahead of schedule, the park racked up losses of $70,000 in less than three months according to newspaper reports at the time. The park was converted to a greyhound race track in 1980.

The Orlando Seminole Jai-Alai Fronton, operated by Florida Jai-Alai, Inc. completes the third side of what some referred to two decades ago as the "Golden Triangle," three pari-mutuel sites within five miles of each other in southern Seminole County which can be reached from Highway 17-92.

Under the proposed constitutional amendment on the Nov. 8 ballot, all three pari-mutuel sites could build casino gaming areas up to 75,000 square feet. Casino gaming is not authorized to begin operation until July 1, 1995 if the amendment is OK'd by the voters.

Backers are waging a $10 million campaign to convince voters casinos are good for the state, while opponents charge casinos will bring more crime and damage the family tourist destination image cultivated by the "Sunshine State."

At a meeting of the Seminole County chapter of STOP (Stop Turning Out Prisoners) last week. State Representative Lee Constantine (R-Altamonte Springs) outlined crime statistics from Gulfport. Mississippi where casinos opened in the fall of 1992. Company of the County of the County theft, 88 (218) and vehicle accident, 1,411 (2,227).

During fiscal year 1992-93, the Sanford Orlando Kennel Club, Inc. paid the state $2,941,003 taxes. Seminole Greyhound Park, Inc. paid $2,327,148 and

(1.114): burglary, 262 (551):

larceny, 1,219 (2,423); vehicle

Florida Jai Alai. Inc. paid 92,409,141. Florida collected over 992 million in taxes from all tracks and frontons. There are 33 pari-mutuel permit holders but only 30 pari-mutuel facilities currently operating.

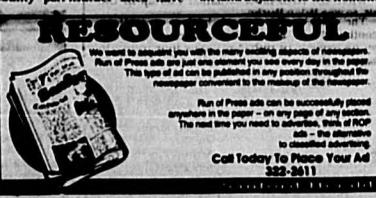

If the constitutional amendment is approved, 47 casino operations are possible, 30 at existing parl-mutuel venues, 7 new casinos, one each in Duval, Escambia, Hillsborough, Lee, Orange, Palm Beach and Pinellas counties. In addition, the amendment allows two casinos in Broward County and three in Dade County, two of which would be in the City of Miami Beach.

Five riverboat casino facilities having gaming areas not to exceed 40,000 square feet are also possible under the amendment in counties without free standing casinos. Seminole County could also get a riverboat casino.

All three of the Seminole County pari-mutuel atten have room to expand. Data from the Division of Pari-mutuel Wagering. State of Florida Department of Business Regulation lists 150-15 acres owned by Seminole Racing Inc. and a 96,420 square-feet facility at Seminole Greyhound Park. The greyhound track on Dog Track Road. Longwood is a 77,000 square-feet facility on 35.97 acres. However, land records indicate about 41,25 acres. 27.23 acres inside Longwood and the remainder in the county are owned by individuals or stockholders of the club. In addition, several acres of vacant land abutting the property are for sale. The land is currently a tree service company.

The Jai-Alai fronton is 101,801 square feet situated on 13,269 acres. The racing company owns property behind the nearby K-Mart a spokesman said. K-Mart recently announced it is closing the Fern Park store located in a strip shopping plaza on land adjacent to the fronton.

Baseball: Owners, players clash

NEW YORK - One day after a new mediator was bired to help settle the baseball strike, the conflict heightened Saturday when owners rejected attempts by Jack McDowell and Jim Abbott to file for free agency.

Nine players filed on the first day of the 15-day filing period, including Texas pitcher Kevin Brown, San Francisco pitcher Billy Swift and Chicago Cubs first baseman Mark Grace.

But owners rejected four others, including pitchers Kenny Rogers of Texas and Erik Hanson of Cincinnati, saying they lacked the required six years of service time. McDowell, of the Chicago White Sox, and Abbott, of the New York Yanhees, would be among the premier free agents of this year's group.

The first thing I have to do is talk to the player relations committee Monday," said Eugene Orza, the No. 2 official in the players' ansociation. "My suspiction is it will be a brief convergation."

The union says the 52 days of the strike count for service and the players are eligible, and intends to challenge the action before arbitrator George Nicolau.

As many as 165 players potentially are eligible to file. The others who filed Saturday were Atlanta shortstop Jeff Blauser. Chicago White Sox outfleider Darrin Jackson, Cleveland outfielder Candy Maldonado, Milwaukee pitcher Jesse Orosco. Louis pricher Rick Sutcliffe. As part of a promotion. ESPN offered one year of free schooling, including room and board, to anyone making a halfcourt shot during "Midnight Madness" activities at the University of Cincinnati's Shoemaker Center.

Cory Clouse, a junior, made it, sending 11,385 fans into a frenzy.

After two years of schools not being allowed to begin getting ready for the scanon until Nov. 1. the date was back to the traditional Oct. 15. And just over one-third of the 302 Division I men's programs wasted no time, starting practice at 12:01 a.m. Saturday.

Tyson 'hates the world'

FORT WASHINGTON, Pa. - Imprisoned former heavyweight champion Mike Tyson is scething with anger, according to Ring Maga-

'Mike Tyson hates the world," Tyson says of himself in the upcoming issue of the magazine. "That's just a fact. I hate everybody. I know they say, 'Now, you can't hate the world, don't be bitter.' But I just hate everybody.'

The publicity release from Ring did not say when the interview took place. The issue in which it appears will be on sale next week.

Rams win homecoming with 'D', ground game

By TONY BUCCHEN Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY - What had promised to be a showdown between the two most prolife possing transatin Seminole County turned into a one-man shootout Friday night as the Lake Mary Rams rolled to a 36-15 homecoming wint over the Lyman Greyhounds.

It was the most rollets arrowed by

It was the most points accored by a Lake Mary team since the Rams put up 35 to a win over Seminole on Sept. 23, 1986.

This is a real feather in our cap," said Lake Mary coach Doug Peters to 2-4 (1-2 in the Seminole Athletic Conference and 2-3 in 6A:District 4) with the win. "We played pretty good football tonight. Lyman's two wine in a row were real impressive and we knew we had to play well to beet them."

Coming in, it was expected that the game would be an aerial circus featuring the talents of Lyman's Tommy Dixon (641 yards passing. 45.2 percent completion rate) and Lake Mary's Tyson Hinehaw (506 yards, 37.2 percent), the top two throwing quarterbacks in the David Henkel's kick on the point after gave Lake Mary a 13-0 lead with 2:50 left in the opening period.

Casey's heroice gave the Rams a decided tactical advantage. Where Lake Mary could protect the lead and control the clock with an attack more run dominated than originally planned. Dixon and the Greyhounds had to sir it out to try and get back in the same.
White Dixon had reasonable succeas, completing 13 of 25 passes for 153 yards and two touchdowns, he was sacked six times for 46 yards in losses, more than negating what rushing attack the Greyhounds were able to mount.

Dixon hooked up with Freddie Young on a 53-yard touchdown pass play in the second quarter and hit Willie Jones with a 24-yard scoring strike in the fourth quarter. Dixon also passed to DeWayne Bell for a 2 point conversion following Jones'

DeLAND — Looks definitely can be deceiving.

On first glance, it would appear that undefeated Lake Brantley was facing a possible upset when it defeated DeLand by a 17-8 score in a 6A-District 4 football contest Friday night at Spec Martin Stadium.

And while the Buildogs did keep the Patriots in sight. Lake Brantley controlled the action as the Patriots tuned up for next Friday's district showdown with Mainland.

"DeLand had a good defensive game plan for us." said Lake Brantley head couch Fred Almon. "They took the pitch away from us and also clogged the middle with big people. We haven't moved No. 99 (Mike Jackson) or 77 (Ryan Timko) yet. No one takes our fullback away from us, but they did tonight. Luckily, we got loose for a couple of long runs."

The Patriots improved to 6-0 overall and 5-0 in district play. Deland fell to 3-3 overall and in district. Lake Brantley will host Mainland (also 6-0 and 5-0) next Friday night at Tom Story Field, while DeLand will trek into Seminole County to play at Lyman. Both game will start at 7:30 p.m.

The Patriots got on the board first as junior quarterback Dee Brown capped a 12-play, 87-yard drive with a 7-yard scamper with 10:20 left in the second period. John Berardi added the extra point.

Lions pass by Deltona

DELTONA — The pass was a huge play for the Oviedo Lione Friday night, both on both offense and defense

Brian Buchanan threw for 115 of defense set up two third quarter touchdowns with interceptions as the Lions handed Deitona its fifth straight loss, 28-12, in a 6A-District 4 battle at Deltona.

Oviedo is now 4-3 overall and 3-2 in district, while Deltona fell to 1-5 overall and 1-4 in 6A-District 4.

The Lions will get a muchdeserved week off this week before returning to play DeLand on October 21. The Wolves will travel to Lake Howell to play the Silver Hawks at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

"Brian (Buchanan) threw the ball well," said Oviedo assistant coach Ken Kroog. "But the defense really loomed large.

Deltona took the lead in the first quarter as the Wolves drove 50 yards on nine plays, all on the ground, but had to settle for a 38-yard field goal by Jimmy Chico.

The Lions then went to the strong left arm of Buchanan to take the lead for good as the senior signal caller took the team 70 yards, with 55 coming via the pass. Brion King got the touchdown on a 10-yard flip from Buchanan. Kallan Eslich added the extra point.

Deltona came back to get another. field goal from Chico, this time from 33 yards, to make the score 7-6 at halftime.

The Lions defense turned the game completely in Oviedo's favor quickly in the second half as, after ☐ See Liess, Page 3B

Last-minute TD gives Auburn upset of No. 1 Florida

By RICK WARNER AP Footbell Writer

GAINESVILLE - Patrick Nix threw an 8-yard touchdown pass to Frank Sanders with 30 seconds left and sixth-ranked Auburn stunned No. 1 Florida 36-33 Saturday in a see-saw game to extend the nation's longest winning streak to Plorida's Dunny Wuerffel came off the bench in the second half and threw three touchdown passes, including a 28-yarder to Jack Jackson that put the Gators ahead 33-29 with 5:51 left.

But Auburn's Brian Robinson intercepted his third pass with 1:20 remaining to set up the winning drive.

The Tigers (7-0, 5-0 Southeastern Conference) drove 55 yards in seven plays, and took the lead when Sanders made a leaping catch in the end zone between two defenders.

Following the kickoff, Florida took over an ita own 11. But the Gators (5-1, 4-1) couldn't move the ball and saw their 17-game home winning streak in the SEC come to an end before a record crowd of 85,562 at Florida Field. The victory pushed Auburn into serious contention for the national championship, even though the Tigers are on probation and can't play in a bowl.

It was a remarkable game that featured six lead changes, including four in the fourth quarter.

It looked like Wuerffel would be the hero after he entered the game in the third quarter following starter Terry Dean threw his fourth interception. But Auburn, which has shown amazing resilience during its winning streak.

Nix, who was 28-of-51 for 319 yards and three touchdowns, kept the final drive alive with a fourth-down, 14-yard pass to Thomas Bailey. Two plays later, he connected with Sanders for the winning touchdown.

It was the second straight year that Auburn beat a Florida team that was 5-0. Last season, the Tigers railied to beat the Gators 38-35 at Auburn.

Florida trailed 22-14 when Wuerffel came off the bench, but the sophomore threw scoring strikes of 26 yards to Reidel Anthony and 17 yards to lke Hilliard to put Florida ahead 26-22 early in the fourth quarter.

Auburn regained the lead 29-26 on a 30-yard TD pass from Nix to Andy Fuller with 8:45 remaining. Wuerifei struck again about 3 minutes later, hitting Jackson with the go-ahead TD pass.

Wuerfiel, who replaced Dean as the starter for a seven games last season, completed his first nine passes and finished 10-of-13 for 171 yards. Dean was 9-of-17 for 126 yards and one touchdown.

Auburn's Stephen Davis rushed for 113 yards on 20 carries, while Bailey and Fuller each had more than 100 yards in receptions.

Three first-half interceptions - two by Robinson -- helped Auburn take a 22-14 lead at intermission. One interception stopped a Florida scoring threat and other two led to 10 Auburn

Muzzleloading hunt seasons begin this week

Muzzklonding gun hunters will have an exchi nity to use their primitive weapons in the South Zone Oct. 15-23 and in the Central Zone Oct. 29-Nov. 6. The mussleloader season in the Northwest Zone will be Nov. 18-20.

Mussicloading gun seasons may vary on public wildlife management areas. Hunters should consult wildlife management area regulation sum-maries for specific dates.

The Everglades and Francis S. Taylor, Rotenberger and Holey Land wildlife management areas are closed to public access for 90 days due to high water.

muzzleloading guns firing a single bullet must be at least .40 caliber. Those guns firing two or more balls must be 20 gauge or larger. The use of unleashed dogs, except bird dogs, while muzzleloading gun hunting is prohibited as is possession of guns other than legal muzzleloading guns.

SHUPE'S SCOOP

Muzzleloading has become tremendously popular in Florida because of the extension of the season for these "primitive" weapons. New, state-of-the-art muzzleloaders are extremely accurate and reliable, and bear no resemblance to the originals.

Is it hot in here, or is it the chili cookoff at WOFL?

The air conditioning was working at maximum, but the sweat was still beading on everyone's forehead. Why? Because it was the First Annual Chili Cook-off at WOFL-FOX 35 in Lake Mary. The heat from the stoves was nothing compared to the heat from the chili. For this momentous event, seven teams came to cook it out to decide who had the best chili. Almost every team had a secret ingredient. One team used Jim Beam, one used mushrooms, another used beer. The one thing no team used was beans! This cook-off was to decide who would represent the station at the Sixth Annual Central Florida/Florida State Chili Championship Cook-off to Engineer Jim Doyas, Pete benefit United Cerebral Palsy. site. When the time was up, the judges picked up their spoons and dug in. Judges for the contest were WOFL's general manager, Norris Reichel, his wife, Barbara Reichel, Chief Roxanne Rusinko. It was a very close contest on points, but in the end, only one chili could win. ☐ See Lake Mary, Page 5B

Elegance reigns at bridal fete State recognizes Distinguished Kiwanians

Ashley Schanel was the excited guest of honor at a perfectly lovely bridal luncheon and shower on Saturday, Oct. 1, in the elegant Private Parlour Rooms of Church Street Station in Orlando. Hostesses were Fran Hammerli, cousin of the bride, and her daughter, Meredith, a bridesmaid, of Winter Park.

Ashely is the daughter of Myra "Mynnie" and Brian Schanel of Sanford. Her maternal grandparents are Maryed Meeks and the late Charles Meeks. The bridegroom-to-be. Gregory Grimshaw of College Park, is the son of Gary R. and Judy Grimshaw of Palm Harbor.

The pretty bride-elect greeted the guests attired in an exq tvory-colored tea-length silk dress accented with a handcrocheted vest and complemented with a cornage of candida roses, baby's breath and ming fern.

The luncheon site was the very distinctive Wright Brothers Room which features a glass opy and a colorful stained ss wall section flanked by ornate French doors. The 30 guests were seated at a long 28-foot table centered with a runner of springeri fern, delicate white carnations and sprays of baby's breath running the entire length of the attractively ap-pointed table. Interspersed along pointed table. Intersperson altred name tag as well as a gift memento of and hurricane glass from the hostesses who also arranged for traditional classical wedding music to be played during the entire event.

Each guest received a person-

In addition to the main dining table, the punch table held a huge sterling punch bowl and crystal stemware while another table was arranged with the beautifully packaged gifts. Kristi Meriwether, maid of honor, recorded each lovely gift in

The Crooms High School extraordinary class of 1963 worshiped with their former classmate, the Rev. Rufus Boykin Jr. at his first apprecia-tion banquet as pastor of the St. Paul Missionary Baptist Church of Holly Hill. The class gave greetings, felicitations and accolades to the participants. With Sheralyn Jackson Brinson, coordinator, the class presented a visual presentation, "Don't Let Nothing Shake Your Faith in God." Music was rendered by The Consolers. The recitation "I Don't Feel No Ways Tired" was created by Tom Wilson III and Freddie Barrington. Music by James Cleveland.

says Cherlyn: "It makes you think when you listen to people of different faiths and opens your mind," says Kim. The following day opened with a breakfast hosted by U.S. Senator Don Nickels. The students were then given an option to chose two of 20 speakers listed with their topics called dialogue sessions. Our students chose, "False Dreams We Pursue" with Cal Thomas and "Leadership in Sports" with Brad Edwards, the latter because they are such avid football fans. Both Cherlyn and Kim thought both speakers were excellent and many interesting ideas were shared later in the small group sions by all the students who went in various directions and came back with reports and new viously articulated.

That same evening, each of the small groups were invited to different homes of the leaders who live in the Washington D.C. area. Cherlyn and her group went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Donnelly who surpised them with a traditional Thanksgiving turkey dinner with all the trimmings. These people were just so wonderful; you would have thought they were entertaining royalty the way we were treated; they wanted to know all about us and we all felt so special." Three of the groups including Kim's went to the home of Scott Thompson, a facilitator for the forum and student of the University of Maryland. "It was great," says Kim: "we played volleyball, talked, and Scott and his roommates had lasagna for us and we were able to see some of the university.

The last day began with two large group sessions who were later transported to their work session assignments. Cherlyn and her group were bused to an inner city elementary school for the purpose of cleaning the achool grounds. Cherlyn was saddened to see the crack vials, the bullet casings, the trash, but she was actually shocked to pass the two funerals as the bus rode them to the school; the funerals were for children and "you could " tell from the intensity and age of the crowd that these children were young." The emotion in her voice was intense. Kim was not initially thrilled with her group's assignment which was called "Gleaning the Fields." The 200 or so students were bused three hours one way to upstate Maryland to a farmer's already picked cucumber fields. The purpose for this work group was to pick as many cucumbers as possible in about a two-hour time period. The food would be donated to those in need. Kim was surprised and shocked that there was so much food left after the initial harvest still to be harvested and they were not the first nor would they be the last to glean the fields. ## Whatever happened to Murphy?

NEW YORK - Whatever happened to Murphy, the fellow who hangs around the marketplace trying to convince people that if anything can go wrong, it will? This fellow has influenced a lot of people in his time, and he has a large following in spite of his simplistic approach to life. You can see and hear his influence every day in the comments of stock market gurus.

The month of October, he reminded us in recent days, is historically a very bad month for stocks. It's not to be trusted, he says. Year after year, something happens in October. Can you ever forget the crash of 1987?

Keep your eyes on the Federal Reserve, he was saying early in the month. The Fed is bound to raise interest rates, and you know what that does to corporate profits, not to mention that it drains money away into bonds and CDs.

And remember, he adds. you can't take your eyes off inflation for a minute. It's a devillah factor, he explained, one that develops right under your nose without you seeing it until it's too late to do anything about it.

Murphy was spotted in his usual hangout the other day, just before the Chrysler earnings were to be reported. They'll be down, he said. Chrysler's not much sood in the third quarter. much good in the third quarter, he advised.

A few of his friends nodded. Even if the profits are up it might be wise to sell because that's the best they'll do for a long time, one said.

Murphy was last seen scurrying away on Tuesday, the day Chrysler reported a 54 percent jump in third-quarter earnings to $651 million, the rapid accep-tance of several new models, and a massive contribution to its penaton fund.

Chrysler wasn't alone. Motorola and Pepsico also contributed to the rout, both reporting profits higher than anti-cipated by analysts, helping the Dow Jones industrial average climb 55.51 points.

And right before Murphy's eyes, if the glare didn't blind him, were reports that the interest yield on the 30-year Treasury bond, an indicator of borrowing costs and mortgage rates, had fallen back to 7.84 percent.

It was a bad day for Murphy and his friends, some of whom were known to be short-traders. the kind who seek to make money on declines rather advances, their idea being to borrow stock now and replace it later at lower price.

Some of them have been right enough times to persist in their beliefs, although some of the biggest of them have taken very bad hits over the past few years. Some are habitual bears who take encouragement from Murphy.

For the time being, it appears that corporate profits, and more jobs and perhaps some good news on inflation will keep Murphy and his crowd in hiding. But they'll be back, outlook unchanged.

Wherever they go, it isn't far, maybe a bar. You can always feel their presence, as Chrysler chairman Robert Eaton probably did in suggesting to a reporter that in the car business you never know what'll happen to-

One of these days they'll be back. You'll know them by their woeful greeting. "I told you so." Economies don't rise forever and markets don't either. Nobody knows the future, so fellows like Murphy always have their day. It wasn't on Tuesday.

The third and fourth floors contained 16 rooms each and the vision was for these to be occupied by offices or used as an annex to the Valdez Hotel next door. In fact, though, these remained unused until the present owner. Seminole County, bought the building in 1980.

Puleston and Brussley were referred to in the Sanlard Herald at the time of the building's completion thusly, "They tore down an old frame building that had cuttlived its surfainess and had outlived its unefulness and in its place erected a building that shall stand so a monument to them long after they have pesseed away.

No major changes have been made to this building since its erection, though the street level facade has been altered at various times.

Doc Bower still had an interest in the drugstore which he sold to his partners in 1925 so he could enter the real cotate field. He wanted to participate in the statewide "boom."

Bruce Anderson sold his interest to Roumillat in 1954. Thereafter, the drugstore was owned and operated by Gene Roumillat and his son Francis (F.E. Jr.) until it was closed on Sept. 3. 1977, a few months after Gene's

Francis Roumillat reminisced about the drugstore in a newspaper article soon after the closing. He remembered that on Saturday nights during the 1930s, the grocery stores would stay open until midnight. The drugstore closed at 10 p.m. so people would have coffee there and then go grocery shopping. Since its location was just a few teps from the county courthouse, the drugstore later became the place where area lawyers and political figures would gather. Prancis would even put upon on the tables, "No visitors, please — private conversation." Probably more decisions and deals were made here than in the courthouse. When the Sunshine Law was enacted in the 1970s, the signs had to go, but political figures continued to patronize the Roumillet and Anderson was a landmark drugstore for almost 55 years. Following its closing. Francis became a pharmacist at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

The only thing I remember about the Anderson family is the death of their only daughter. Patricia Ann, of polio on Oct. 6. 1945. My grandmother, Clara Grounde Stemper, had died the previous June and Patricia's grave was located just a few lots away from hera in Evergreen Cemetery. I was nine years old and I recall seeing the huge display of flowers following the neral and also how the Andersons kept the gravesite really beautified for many years. Well. a couple of years ago, out of curiosity I tried to find her grave and couldn't. The other day, while researching in the Sanford Museum, Alicia Clarke and I were speculating about L.R. Philips and why he sold the drugstore. She thought that perhaps he had died, so she called the Parks Department for his gravesite. She also got Patricia Anderson's. Well curiosity got the better of me and the next day I trooped out to the recessed in the ground and could have been covered before. Written on it is her name and "Beloved daughter of Bruce and Juanita Anderson." She was only 16; the 1946 Salmagundt has an In Memortum page dedicated to her.

Located in the same cemetery lot to Bruce Anderson with dates August 15, 1889 — March 22. 1966. There is a space between the two graves with no marker which presumably contains 1065-1926 Peter School to the rescue again — we find in his books that L.R. Philips retired as city clerk Jan. 13, 1928, so I assume that he left the drugatore for this position. In October 1937 he was catured in an interview relating to his arrival in Senford in 1801. He would have been 21 years old. His obituary claims that he apent 40 years as a pharmacist so that would mean 1881-1921. This after he sold the business. One never knows what diverse paths you will be led down while doing research! Back to the Brumley-Puleston Building. It was sold at auction Nov. 2, 1936 to C.H. and Nettle Storr for $2,324.42. Remember that this was during the De-presson. The estate of C.H. Storr sold the building to Doug Stenstrom, Joe Davis, Jr., A.K. Shoemaker, and Vincent Robertaon Oct. 6, 1971. They, in turn, sold if to Seminole County April 30, 1980. The county has cemetery. Patricia's grave used it ever since then for the marker is still there though it is state attorney's offices.
