Sanford Annexation Verdict May Be Appealed

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

A court decision that Sanford's annexation of property in the Airport Boulevard-Bever Road area is legal, despite county arguments to the contrary, may be appealed to the Fifth District Court of Appeal.

County Attorney Nikki Clayton told county commissioners Tuesday night that Judge C. Vernon Mize's ruling in the case, in which he denied the county's contention that the annexation creates an enclave, "is contrary to law as we understand it concerning enclaves."

Enclaves of property in another jurisdiction are prohibited by state law, but the law does not specifically define what an enclave is, she said.

Clayton said the case, if allowed to stand, could set a precedent which could have an effect on future annexations by cities within the county. However, she said the county has two more decisions pending concerning Sanford annexations, which have similar arguments concerning enclaves. If those decisions come down in favor of the county, the appeal will not be filed because the Mize decision will not be as strong a precedent, Clayton said.

The Mize decision which may be appealed involves property owned by the Marley, Conway, Cooper and Siegler families, and was annexed last May. It is located south of State Road 46 between Airport Boulevard and Bever Road and north of Jewett Lane.

The part of Judge Mize's ruling which Clayton does not agree with is Mize's definition of what is not an enclave. She said Mize ruled that because the property that the county contends is an enclave has access via county roads, it is not an enclave. Board Chairman Fred Streetman also objected to another part of the ruling that says the property is not an enclave because it is not completely surrounded.

Streetman said those two interpretations of an enclave could mean that property along a county road could be left in the county while all land around it was annexed, and still no enclave would be created.

Clayton said, "As a principle of law, I would like to appeal this case regardless of what the decisions on the other two cases are. But I am aware that the county does not want to be considered overlitigious, so I propose that it be appealed only if decisions in the other similar cases also go against us."

Commissioners Sandra Glenn who, along with Barbara Christensen, have opposed all challenges of city annexations, moved that the appeal not be filed. However, in the usual vote on an annexation appeal, she and Christensen lost on a 3-2 vote. Bill Kirchhoff then moved to accept Clayton's recommendation.

Experimental Plane Flips Out

An experimental aircraft owned and flown by John Casey flipped over after landing at the Flying Seminole Ranch, a private air strip near Oviedo Tuesday afternoon.

Kanui Kjenstle, who operates the air strip, said the plane evidently strayed off the runway after landing about 5 p.m. and the pilot apparently applied the brakes, flipping the aircraft over. "These experimental aircraft have such small wheels, they usually don't land on grass strips like this because they turn over easily," he said.

The pilot received only minor injuries and an unidentified passenger was not hurt. Both were taken to a Winter Park hospital for observation and released.

Oviedo firefighters were called to the scene and doused the fuel-drenched ground with foam. No fire broke out.

The Federal Aviation Administration was notified of the crash and investigators were expected to be at the scene late Wednesday. —Brad Church

Dog Pack Attacks, Kills Cat

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

A pack of wild dogs attacked and killed a cat at 4 a.m. Tuesday, according to Betty Horn, 310 Brown Ave., Sanford, owner of the cat.

"He said that the pack of dogs living mainly in the old Rand Yard railroad shop area, has been in the area for about five years and has grown from three to six dogs.

This incident comes on the heels of a recent discussion among Sanford City commissioners about animal problems in the city. Commissioner A.A. McLaughlin wants the city to investigate setting up its own animal control.

Bob McIntosh, animal control official in Seminole County, said he and other officers would be installing a dog trap in Horn's neighborhood by Tuesday afternoon.

"The Horns were distraught Tuesday morning. 'A pet is an extension of your family,' Horn said.

Mr. Blue, their cat, was five years old and weighed about 35 pounds, according to Betty Horn. The couple had raised him from a kitten. He was also part Siamese and was cross-eyed, like Clarence, the cross-eyed lion, Horn said.

He added that the cat never went out of the yard and was sleeping in a big planter at the front of the house when the dogs attacked him. By the time he and his wife got outside, two dogs were pulling at the cat, tug of war fashion, Horn said.

Horn said that a year and a half ago, animal control officials told him they would be installing traps in the area, but that the Horns would have to be on a waiting list. Horn was told it might take as much as six months to get a trap, he said.

But until Mr. Blue was killed, they hadn't heard anything about the traps, he said.

"We have called them (about the dogs) and they'd show up two days later," Horn said. "They'd say, 'Did you call us?'"

County To Keep Reins On Charter Commissioners Vote No Independence For Panel

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

County commissioners voted Tuesday night to appoint a commission to draw up a proposed charter for the county, as recommended by the charter committee.

But commissioners ignored the committee's unanimous recommendation that the charter commission propose a charter independent of the board of commissioners' input.

To be adopted, a charter must be approved by a majority of residents voting in a referendum. A charter acts as a constitution for the county, setting out the form of government and its powers and limitations. It gives more home rule to counties, allowing county government to take action which must be approved by the state legislature under the present form of government.

A vote on the charter committee's recommendation has been delayed for a month. Commissioners deadlocked on a motion to appoint a commission on Jan. 12, with Commissioner Sandra Glenn absent. Commissioners Bob Sturm and Barbara Christensen voted against a Bill Kirchhoff motion to appoint a commission to write a charter, which would be submitted to the board of commissioners for final approval.

The board then tabled consideration of the charter commission until all county commissioners were present, and Tuesday night's meeting was the first since then that all commissioners attended.

Kirchhoff made a motion, identical to his Jan. 12 motion. Sturm said he had changed his mind about an independent

Action Taken

Topic: A commission to write a proposed charter for Seminole County.

• The proposed charter will go to county commissioners for final approval, contrary to a study committee's recommendations.

• Members of the study commission will be appointed to the board, which will write the charter.

• The new charter commission must be appointed within 30 days, and begin meeting 30 days after that.

commission, and voted for the motion. However, Christensen, citing the charter committee's unanimous recommendation that the commission be independent, voted against it.

The charter committee's report, recommending an independent charter commission, cited testimony from many representatives of cities in the county, and other citizens, that they did not trust county government, and viewed charter government as an attempt by county government to gain more power at the expense of the cities. The committee said an independent charter commission would help insulate the proposed charter from politics in the public's eyes.

State law provides for either of two types of charter commissions. One, which the charter committee recommended, would

Longwood Water Tower To Tumble

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

A Longwood landmark for 63 years, the 75-foot city water tower on Bay Avenue at County Road 427 will have to come down for economic and safety reasons. That was the consensus of the four city commissioners that were at the work session Monday night. They authorized the money to be transferred from the contingency fund to pay a contractor to remove the structure, which engineers say would not survive an 80 mph hurricane force wind.

The Longwood Historical Commission, which had recommended the water tower be fixed up and kept as a "historic landmark," accepted the decision with regret. Richard Zartman, chairman of the Historical Commission, said none of the members were happy that the tower has to come down, but understands the city has to operate on a budget and has a need for such funds elsewhere. The Historical Commission had hoped for voluntary support from the community to keep the tower, but no such grassroots support was forthcoming, it said.

The tower has been inspected by City Engineer Charles Hassler and a state-certified tower inspector. They determined that the leaky elevated tower is unsafe to fill with water and recommended it be demolished.

The law had submitted Jan. 30, 1987 by Security Maintenance Inc. to dismantle the tower was $89,500, as compared to bids ranging from $26,760 to $52,026 to refurbish it. According to Hassler, the 75,000-gallon tank was refurbished, it would still require a minimum of $3,000 a year for maintenance costs and insurance fees.

Acting City Administrator Lon Terry said the Longwood Historical Commission would like to have a small park at the site after the tower is taken down with perhaps a commemorative plaque. He said this could be accomplished with city resources at minimum expense.

The commission asked Hassler to check with Security Maintenance to make sure the bid still stands. Terry recommended that if the minimum bid price is no longer available, the city solicit new bids for dismantling the water tower.

The tank has been empty since 1982. It was removed from service after failure of fittings connecting the tower, which could not be replaced without major modifications. According to Hassler, the internal structure fittings have not been refurbished for more than 17 years and it should be done at no greater than 10-year intervals.

Hassler said to the best of his knowledge the 63-year-old tower has had no general or major maintenance or repairs. He said the tower has been partially filled and flushed on three occasions within the past three years and the water from the tank is not fit to drink due to the interior condition of the tank.

Hassler said when the tank was filled in 1986 it started leaking so much due to holes in the tank that citizens called Public Works and said the city was wasting water.

Hassler pointed out to the Historical Commission that there is a danger of the tower falling on a passing car on County Road 427. He said that even if the tank was restored, the city has excess water in the new water tower and does not need the additional storage space.

In other business at Monday's work session, the commission was in consensus that the $3,944.06 in the dormant Developmental Fund account should be transferred to the contingency fund. According to Acting Finance Director Mary Treplet, records show that from October 1984 to June 1985 funds were received from contractors for road repairs, waterline construction, fire hydrants, road assessments,

A Decision Is Made

Item: Longwood Commissioners vote to demolish the old water tower on Bay Avenue.

Reasons: The tower has been empty since 1982 and no maintenance has been done on it for 17 years.

• A hurricane force wind could blow the tower down, causing property damage and possible injuries.

• It would cost more to refurbish the tower and make it safe than to have it demolished.

IN BRIEF

CIA Denies Handing Noriega Personal Data on Congressmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The CIA denies providing classified personal information on members of Congress to Panama's Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, as alleged by one of the military leader's former colleagues.

Senators investigating Panamanian corruption, however, are disturbed by the allegation from Jose Blandon, who left his post last month as Panama's general consul in New York and is testifying against his country's de facto ruler.

Blandon lodged his accusation against the CIA Tuesday, at Senate hearings set to continue today with testimony from a former Noriega pilot who admits flying guns and drugs as part of an international network run by the general.

Pilot Floyd Carlton, identified as a leader in the civilian arm of the illegal network, was expected to back up the drug-smuggling charges filed against Noriega last week in federal indictments in Florida.

Fight Is On For 'Reagan Country'

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The race for the White House moved to New Hampshire Tuesday, and Senate Republican leader Robert Dole and Vice President George Bush immediately began a battle for the "Reagan Country" vote in next week's first-in-the-nation primary.

Dole, coming off a strong win in Monday's Iowa caucuses, is looking to use the Feb. 16 primary to strengthen his grip on the GOP presidential nomination, while Bush, who finished a severely disappointing third in Iowa, must win big in New Hampshire to put new spark in his effort.

Both men opened New Hampshire week with similar strategies — each trying hard to tie himself to President Reagan, who is enormously popular in the tiny, conservative state.

Report: Soviet Rights Better

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department, in its annual review of worldwide human rights practices, said today political conditions in the Soviet Union have slightly improved under Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

"The changes were more than cosmetic and less than fundamental," the department said in avoiding a decisive judgment. "We need to see what 1988 will bring."

The Soviet ruling elite retains its powers, backed by the secret police and a comprehensive network of informers.

"Unlike other government agencies, the KGB has largely been exempted from the policy of glasnost (openness), and there is no indication of movement toward reform of that agency," the report stated.

Mize Continues Hearing On Impact Fees

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

Judge C. Venon Mize, saying more time for argument is needed, and more study by himself of state law and opposing briefs, continued a hearing on the county's efforts to have Casselberry and Winter Springs moratoriums on the collection of county impact fees thrown out.

Judge Mize heard arguments from attorneys representing those cities, and the county, Monday. A hearing on the Sanford moratorium was scheduled for later in the day before Judge Joseph Davis, but was cancelled, and all three cases will be combined in the next hearing, expected to be in about three weeks.

The county Board of Commissioners authorized the levying of road impact fees, to be paid by developers, last year to provide for improvement to county roads needed because of development. The three cities all passed ordinances imposing a moratorium on collection of the fees within their borders.

Judge Mize asked "Couldn't the county set a fee high enough so that a city couldn't impose its own impact fee on top of the county's? I'm thinking ahead," he said, "and wondering how many other cases like this are coming."

Both the county and the two cities at Monday's hearings

Impact Fee Hearing

Topic: Seminole County has imposed road impact fees.
At Issue: Several cities have passed moratoriums on the collection of such fees.
The county is challenging the moratoriums in Casselberry and Winter Springs in court, claiming the cities had legal basis to pass them.

The cities claim the moratoriums are valid until they complete traffic studies.
A Seminole Circuit judge has told both sides he wants additional study on the issue before making a ruling. The next hearing is expected to be in approximately three weeks.

based some of their arguments on the state law pertaining to the growth management act of 1985, and Judge Mize said he wanted time to study that section of the statute.

The county argues that the state legislature gave the county authority to maintain county roads both within and outside of city limits, and the 1985 growth management law requires counties to state how they plan to improve their transportation systems, and how to pay for those improvements.

Because of those state laws, the county argues that city ordinances establishing a moratorium on collection of the fees should be declared null and void because they are contrary to county ordinances passed to comply with legislative requirements. City ordinances cannot conflict with state law.

The county also argues that the cities have no "municipal purpose" in imposing the moratoriums, and that cities have no legal authority to act without a municipal purpose.

Donna McIntosh, representing both the cities of Casselberry and Winter Springs Monday, told Judge Mize that affidavits from the Casselberry mayor, planner, engineer and consultant, all attest to the fact that the moratorium was placed on collection of the county impact fee until the city could complete its own traffic study. That, she argued was the "municipal purpose" of the moratoriums. She said cities too are bound by the growth management act, and have to plan for road improvements.

McIntosh said the affidavits attested to the fact that the county used "old and erroneous data" in compiling its road improvement plan and that Casselberry and Winter Springs want a moratorium on collecting impact fees for the county plan until they can study what future county road needs are within their borders.

Frank Kruppenbacher, attorney representing Winter Springs, told Judge Mize that according to the growth management act, counties only have the authority to plan improvements within city boundaries if there is an interlocal agreement between the two governments, allowing such planning. He said no such agreements had been signed with the county.

Judge Mize said he needed more time to research whether and interlocal agreement is needed in order for the county and cities to consult about planned county road improvements within city borders.

He gave the county 10 days in which to file briefs on his argument, and the cities five additional days to reply.

Sanford Makes Deal To Get Rid Of Sludge

Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

The need of a disposal site for processed sludge produced at Sanford's wastewater treatment plant has prompted Sanford city commissioners to authorize the city attorney to draft a contract with Frenz Enterprises of Ft. Pierce.

The authorization came during a regular city commission meeting Monday night at city hall.

However, the city staff may continue looking for a company which could take the city's sludge at a lesser cost. City Commissioner Whitey Eckstein recommended the search be continued. Bill Simmons, director of engineering and planning, said Tuesday that should another company be found which offers a more economical package, the city could contract with that company also.

"As I read the contract, it is a non-exclusive agreement we have with them (Frenz)," Simmons said. "We don't have to haul all the product to them." Simmons added that some area residents said they wanted to use some of the sludge on their land.

Frenz hauls liquid sludge from the Iron Bridge Wastewater Plant and has agreements with several large landowners in the Osteen area who allow Frenz to use their land to apply the sludge.

Simmons discussed two other options with the city commission. However, Frenz Enterprises offered the most economical rates.

Frenz will accept and spread the sludge for $15 per ton, according to a memo from Paul Moore, utility director to City Manager Frank Faison. Assuming a 20 mile round trip at 80 cents per mile, trucking costs would be $4,160, the memo said. The lease fees at $15 per ton would be $58,000 and labor costs for one man would be $16,000. That brings the total cost of Frenz' services to $78,660.

Moore, in the memo, explained that the new sludge facility at the wastewater treatment plant is producing about 15 tons during each of the five operating days. He said he estimates, at the beginning of the sludge handling operation, that Frenz would be making about two trips per day.

He noted that the Orange county landfill would "reluctantly" take Sanford's sludge at a cost of $18 per ton. Orange County's total costs would be $98,000, Simmons said. Simmons also discussed with Stanley Sandefer the possibility of leasing 185 acres of property from him, north of the airport on State Road 46. Moore said the cost estimates there would total about $135,456.

IN BRIEF

Martinez Protests Coast Guard Cutbacks In Drug Patrolling

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Plans by the U.S. Coast Guard to reduce drug patrols by 55 percent would have "profound and far-reaching" adverse impact on the nation's war against drugs, Gov. Bob Martinez warned Tuesday.

In a letter to Adm. Paul A. Yost Jr., commandant of the Coast Guard, Martinez warned the cuts would leave state and local law enforcement agencies "strained beyond capacity" to fill the void.

The governor said the Coast Guard's District 7, which runs from South Carolina to near Panama City in the Florida Panhandle and the Caribbean, accounted for 90 percent of the guard's drug seizures in recent years.

"Cuts in the Coast Guard's drug interdiction efforts would create profound and far-reaching impacts, not only on Florida's war on drugs, but on the entire U.S. effort to reduce illegal drugs coming through our southern borders," his letter says.

'Cops' Convicted On Drug Charges

MIAMI (UPI) — Just when it seemed a second federal jury was deadlocked in deliberating the notorious "Miami River Cops" drug case, the jurors returned guilty verdicts Tuesday against two former officers and sighs of relief breathed from the tarnished city police force.

Miami Police Chief Clarence Dickson said when word of the verdict reached police headquarters, "A great deal of relief just came out through the halls of the building."

Mario Carballo, 32, was found guilty of all five racketeering, conspiracy and drug charges he faced. Osvaldo Coello, 27, was found guilty of six similar charges but was acquitted on three civil rights charges involving the deaths of three drug smugglers who drowned in the Miami River during a police drug theft in July 1985.

The decision Tuesday by the federal jury came after 11 days of deliberations in a trial that began Dec. 7. The jury at least twice told U.S. District Judge Kenneth Ryskamp they were hopelessly deadlocked.

IN BRIEF

Iraq Reports Attack On Iran Ships; Iran Ship Scores Own Hit

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iraq said today its jet fighters had attacked two large ships off the Iranian coast, and shipping insurer Lloyd's of London reported a Liberian tanker was attacked by an Iranian frigate.

The official Iraqi news agency, in a dispatch monitored in Kuwait, quoted a Baghdad high command spokesman as saying the fighters attacked two large naval targets — Iraq's standard reference for shipping in Iranian service — after sunset Tuesday, scoring "accurate and effective hits."

In another gulf flare-up late Tuesday, Lloyd's of London, the shipping insurer, reported an Iranian frigate attacked the Veronique, a 38,795-ton Liberian tanker, off the United Arab Emirates' coast.

Army Overthrows Government

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Military officers angered by allegations of corruption in the nominally independent homeland of Bophuthatswana today overthrew President Lucas Mokoape, South African officials said.

The military immediately replaced Mokoape with Rocky Malebana-Metsing, leader of the opposition People's Progressive Party. South African Foreign Minister Roelof "Pik" Botha said the new president assured Pretoria in a message that his administration would "cooperate fully with the South African government."

Sanford OKs Land For New Gymnasium

Sanford City commissioners voted unanimously Monday night to request that the city attorney draw up a lease between the city of Sanford and the Sanford Gymnastics Association.

The association plans to construct a gym facility on a portion of 10 lots it will lease from the city. The property is located between 25th Street and 26th Street, between Poinsettia Avenue and Princeton Avenue.

The city commission also voted unanimously to vacate a utility easement on those lots. No utilities are on the lots at this time, according to Bill Simmons, director of engineering and planning. The proposed location for the building lies partly on the easement.

Richard Whittaker of Whittaker construction plans to erect a 10,800-square-foot building, which also will house offices and four restrooms.

Jeanette Stiffey, president of the association's board of directors, told commissioners that construction costs will be about $81,000. The group has $50,042 in the bank right now, she said.

She also told commissioners that Sun Bank N.A. will loan the association $25,000 for construction. Construction costs to the association may be cut further, she explained, saying, "Other people in the business world would donate more money, they have told us. But they want to see what we will do with what we have now," she explained. The association has received pledges of about $20,000 once those business people see construction action, she said.

Stiffey also noted that volunteer labor also could cut total construction costs down to about $71,000, and that if the association could get a 10 percent reduction in electrical and other construction costs, the overall costs could be brought down to about $60,000.

She told commissioners the association wants to include restrooms at the facility which would be open to park use, should the city want to use any of the surrounding vacant land as a city park. Stiffey said park users could also use the gym's parking lot.

The association will be saving money by moving into the facility, Stiffey told commissioners. It is now paying $1,365 per month to rent the former Total Fitness Center at 303 W. First St. Payments on the completed gym facility would only be about $641 per month, she said.

The gym association wants to lease the property for 30 years at the price of one dollar per year. Sanford Gymnastics Association is a nonprofit organization which has been in existence since 1977. About 1,000 have participated in the gym association program since that time and about 200 are involved now, Stiffey said. Any young people are welcome to join. Stiffey told commissioners that the gymnasts have performed at meets in various parts of the country.

Tampa Lawyer Denies Contempt Charge

Richard Whittaker
 Herald Staff Writer

One of the two Tampa attorneys facing possible criminal contempt charges in Seminole County for allegedly accosting members of a jury after it handed down a verdict against their client in a civil suit has denied the charge.

Geoffrey B. Steiner and Chris M. Limberopoulos have been ordered by Seminole County Circuit Court Judge Kenneth M. Leffler to appear Wednesday and show why they shouldn't be charged with contempt of court. The hearing is set for 3:30 p.m. at the Seminole County courthouse in Sanford.

Steve Plotnick, chief trial attorney for the Seminole County State Attorney's Office, said the two lawyers verbally accosted members of a jury that ruled against their client, Mark P. Weichselbaum, in an auto negligence lawsuit on Nov. 18. After the jury didn't award Weichselbaum any damages from Dorothy Edwards Lee for negligence he claimed resulted in an auto accident on June 1, 1986, the two lawyers approached jury members in the parking lot, according to Plotnick.

It's against Florida law for attorneys to initiate contact with a jury member after a trial unless they have prior written consent from the judge who heard the case, according to Plotnick. He added that neither Steiner or Limberopoulos had such permission.

Steiner said neither he nor Limberopoulos had any intention of committing criminal contempt. He said they were both stunned the jury ruled against their client and they were trying to find out why.

The two lawyers were seeking damages amounting to $190,000 in the case, Steiner said. The jury decided Weichselbaum didn't sustain a permanent injury in the accident and gave no award to him.

"The jury went out for an hour and a half and then they sent a note to Leffler asking three questions," Steiner said. One of the questions the jury asked was whether they were limited to giving just a $190,000 award to the plaintiff, he said.

"When we heard that question we thought to ourselves, Wow, we won this thing and they're going to give us even more than was asked for," Steiner said. When the jury came back an hour and a half after they asked the questions of the judge and gave Weichselbaum no damages, Steiner said he and Limberopoulos attempted to discover what had happened.

"That jury was out for three hours, when they stay out that long they're really thinking long and hard about something."

Steiner said what really baffled him was that if the jury wasn't going to rule their client sustained a permanent injury why did they bother to ask if they were limited in the amount of money they could award in damages. "The first question on the jury verdict form is do you find the Plaintiff received a permanent injury," Steiner said. He said the form instructed the jury to sign it and return it to the judge if they believed no such injury was sustained. "That's what the jury should've done if they can read and write," Steiner said.

"I don't understand why they didn't just sign the form and give it back to the judge, instead of then asking if they could award more than $190,000," Steiner said.

Steiner said he has filed a motion to quash Leffler's motion to make them show why they shouldn't be charged with criminal contempt for approaching jury members after the trial.

If Steiner and Limberopoulos are found in criminal contempt of court they could face a second degree misdemeanor penalty of a $500 and a six-month jail term, according to Plotnick.

Fireworks Gala Possible At Sanford Airport

By Nancy Simmons
 Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford Airport is being considered as a possible site for a Fourth of July extravaganza sponsored by Home Video Network, Inc., Miami and Orlando, according to Bob Noble, executive vice president.

Noble said Tuesday he will be talking to J.S. "Red" Cleveland, Sanford airport manager today by phone, and hopes to come to the area to talk to him and members of the airport authority in person Thursday.

Cleveland said Tuesday that the whole thing might sound good, but said he has a lot of unanswered questions. He says the airport authority has appointed a committee to talk with Noble.

Noble pointed out that Opa-Locka Airport in Miami is also being considered as a possible site, but said he believes the Sanford airport and the city of Sanford have the most potential for projecting the image HVN wants in the celebration. He said he is meeting with Opa-Locka officials today. Once Noble talks with Cleveland and other officials here Thursday, he expects HVN to make its decision possibly by the end of this week.

The three-day celebration,

July 2-4, would include daily airshows as well as celebrity concerts and performers, he said. "We are negotiating with the military and with civilians for the air acts," he said, adding that World War II "warbirds" would be involved in part of the airshow. He said he could not release the names of any air or concert performers until a contract with an airport is secured.

Cleveland said he knows that military flying teams such as the Thunderbirds and the Blue Angels have their schedules set a year ahead of time. He said he wonders how any military team could schedule a show at such a short notice. He also has questions about who the concert performers might be. "These people haven't done their homework," he said.

The celebration, "America Is Together Again," is to be televised on national cable networks from 1-4 p.m. on Monday, July 4, Noble said. And he is hoping that the final family concert and fireworks will also be televised. Noble said he is negotiating with two cable companies but said that he could not release any names.

Noble said that while Miami is being considered, he believes that Sanford would be the best location. "Sanford is very much a typical American town," he said. "It has a real hometown atmosphere."

Which city is chosen to host the event depends on several things, Noble said, including availability, cooperation of local civic, government and airport officials and FAA approval. He said he must reach a decision quickly as to which airport to use in order to gain FAA approval, so that he can also finalize contracts with performers.

By the end of this week, Noble said he will have talked to representatives of both airports. "We'll then make our decision based on that input," he said. At that point the chosen airport would have to file a waiver with the FAA, to request that the airport be reserved exclusively for the celebration during that time period.

Noble estimates that with extensive advertising, attendance at the event could reach a total attendance of 150,000 to 250,000. Tickets would be $7 for adults, he said, and $5 for children. Tickets at those prices would have to be pre-purchased, he explained, adding that at the gate, tickets would be $10 for adults and $7 for children.

Cook Of The Week

One Of Life's Joys For Former School Cafeteria Worker Is Feeding The Clan

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

She must have been doing everything right all these years, and that's why Marcella Benham, our Cook of the Week, will be celebrating 50 years of marriage to her husband, Charles, in March. That's also why three loving children will be honoring their parents with a festive gathering of friends and relatives from far and near on that special day. "I don't know what they have planned," she happily explains, "they won't tell me a thing. But, we're really looking forward to it."

There are many other reasons for honoring Mrs. Benham, who is just six months shy of being a true Sanford native. "I was born in New Albany, Indiana," she says, "but I wasn't but six months old when my daddy, Ed Smith, moved down here. Daddy farmed out on West First Street for many years, and Mother canned, and, of course, I learned from her. Momma never let anything go to waste. She canned everything. We canned everything from soup on."

The oldest of six children, Mrs. Benham and her sister, Bernice, helped in the kitchen. "Naturally, we helped with all the canning and the cooking and helped with the younger children," says Mrs. Benham. "Mother played the piano, so we'd get in there at night and sing and all. And we helped Daddy in the field, too. There was nothing of great importance then," she adds. "We just grew up."

When she wasn't helping on the farm, our cook also worked as a waitress, and that's how she was introduced to her future husband. "I met him through his sister-in-law," she recalls. "He was driving a truck, and I was working in a restaurant here in town, and she brought him in there. Since we met, we've raised our three children and have four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. We have more in our life now that's more important than when we first met."

Both are retired now and enjoy spending time together with their family, friends, and favorite hobbies. "We love to do the same things together," she says, "and we've really had a wonderful life." Adding to that wonderful life is the Benhams' daughter, Margaret (Mrs. Charles "Chuck") Wirth. She has two children, David and Barbara, and four grandchildren. Margaret is a new accounts representative at First Federal Savings & Loan of Seminole. The Benhams' son, Charles Jr., lives at Cape Canaveral with his wife, Brenda, and they have two daughters, Dana Lynn and Tara Joy. "My youngest girl is Anna Corine," says Mrs. Benham. "But she's better known as 'Cookie.'" She works for Sherwood Industries and she doesn't have a husband, but she has a little child now, a little bitty poodle called "Buddy," she adds with a laugh. "And both girls are real good cooks, too."

Happy people can usually call upon happy memories, and Mrs. Benham is no exception. A product of the Seminole County school system herself, she returned to school to make it her occupation for 28 years, and thoroughly enjoyed it. "I had 28 years in the Seminole High cafeteria," she says, "and I loved that. Our manager and I would work with the football boys. We'd stay after school and they'd practice and we'd give them tea and cookies or tea and cakes. I just enjoyed the school work no end. Charles and I both

Both These Ailments Will Ease With Time

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've had Bell's palsy since 1970. Now I've been told that I have Horner's syndrome on my face. Is there any connection? I also received a blow just above my right eyebrow the night before the symptoms appeared, but the neurologist doesn't think it caused the Horner's. Should I consider plastic surgery?

DEAR READER: Bell's palsy is paralysis of the facial nerve. It can result from injury or infection, and causes a weakness of the side of the face. Horner's syndrome is a narrowed pupil and drooping eyelid, usually resulting from a nerve injury to the spinal cord.

The two conditions are usually separate. Plastic surgery probably won't help you, but the ailments tend to improve with time. However, your neurologist is the most qualified person to advise you about your options. DEAR DR. GOTT: My mother is 78, and up until three months ago, she was very active — a real swinger. Now she can't walk or stand alone, has lost bowel and bladder control and is experiencing severe weight loss, tremors, dry mouth and watery eyes. However, her mind is as alert as ever, and she has great strength in her hands and feet. For example, she can wring out a washcloth but can't bring it to her face. She's had nerve-conduction tests, MRIs, X-rays and ultrasounds, and has thorough, caring doctors. But no one can figure out what's wrong. Could this be dystonia?

DEAR READER: Your mother's progressive and disabling nerve disease does not sound like dystonia. Dystonia is a rare genetic disorder marked by uncontrollable muscle spasms that contort the body. It usually occurs in Ashkenazic Jews and appears before age 15. Your mother's condition is more likely to be an age-related neurological disorder, perhaps due to malfunction of the motor nerves in the brain or spinal cord. Ask her doctors to refer her to a teaching hospital that specializes in the diagnosis of neurological diseases.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My son and daughter-in-law moved into the parsonage in their new parish. The former pastor kept chickens in the house, and they had to scrape it from top to bottom to get it clean. Soon after, she became ill. She has memory loss and drops things, and sometimes she can hardly walk. She's 47. The doctors tell her she has a chemical imbalance in the brain, but could the chicken dust have caused this?

DEAR READER: Chicken droppings can contain a variety of infectious microorganisms. When the droppings are dry, the dust can be inhaled and cause human infection. Although I cannot say with certainty that your daughter-in-law may have contracted a neurological discase from the droppings, this is a possibility. She should have a neurological examination, which may include blood tests and X-rays, to determine the cause of her problem.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

To tell the truth, North was dogging it when he raised to only two hearts. Although he has only 13 high-card points, the KQ of spades can be upgraded after West's overcall, and the good heart support plus singleton diamond brings the hand up to about 16 support points. At any rate, when South mustered a three-club game try, North was happy to jump to four hearts.

Getting to game is unfortunate, since any sort of reasonable defense by West will result in a set. After leading the singleton club, West now had to hope that his partner held a singleton spade. When declarer played a low heart toward dummy's K-10-9-6, West rose with the ace and played ace and a spade. East ruffed and returned a club, which West refused to set the contract. So why did we say that any reasonable defense will set the hand?

Suppose West starts with the ace of spades. When he sees the dummy, he will realize that his partner may have only one spade. But he should still play his singleton club before playing the second spade. That way, he will still get his club ruff for the setting trick. What about a diamond opening lead? Sorry, but that just isn't reasonable.

Bridge hand analysis showing North, South, East, West hands and a vulnerable East-West deal. Opening lead: ♠5.

did. We had three children in school and all three were in the band for the four years they were in high school and we'd do with the band." If they didn't have a band parent to accompany the children on the bus headed for a football game, Mrs. Benham and her husband gladly joined the group. "Of course, having our kids in the band, we enjoyed that," she says.

"And I loved working with the kids in the cafeteria," she continues. "If you're nice to them, they never forget you. I picked up some of my recipes there, too. I started learning how to cook from Mother, but I learned a lot from the school because they had certain recipes that were so good that I picked them up." Occasionally, Mrs. Benham will meet a former student, she says, who will exclaim, "Oh, Mrs. Benham, I never will forget those rolls that Seminole High made. They were the best rolls!" "I had one boy tell me one time that he will never forget how we made asparagus with cheese," she recalls. "He said he would never eat it at home, but he liked that and had to tell his mother how to fix it."

Mrs. Benham started her work as a salad cook, preparing the salads in the morning, then at noon time she became the cashier. "And for five years, I worked at Crooms," she says. "I'd leave Seminole at 10 o'clock and go over to Crooms. They catered the food then. They'd send the food over and I'd go over and take the money and give out the tickets. Then I'd leave and go back to Seminole and finish up there. What is interesting is that a lot of the teachers, in the latter years that I worked there, were students when I first started in the cafeteria and now they had children that were just coming up!"

Our cook is a talented woman who likes to keep her hands busy with embroidery and crochet work. She also enjoys quilting or reading a good book, and is a member of the Jacaranda Circle of the Sanford Garden Club. "And I babysit real well," she laughs. "I just love the great-grandchildren, they're little dolls." But, perhaps the most delightful of all hobbies is one she shares with her husband, collecting seashells. She estimates that they have accumulated between 800 and 900 of the decorative objects, but it doesn't end there. Using an artistic eye, Charles Benham creates lovely frames for mirrors, photographs and more. And Mrs. Benham designs and creates the prettiest ornaments and decorative wall hangings that catch the eye, using the various shapes and sizes of the colorful shells to form her handiwork. An entire room of their home is set aside to handle the collection and work on their projects.

"That's our hobby," she says, "and I can tell you a little story about it. We love to go to the beach and we've always wanted to find a bottle on the beach with a note in it. Well, several years ago we were walking the beach at Playalinda and we found a little bottle with a letter in it! It was thrown into the Caribbean by a couple from France. It took 21 days to get from the Caribbean to this coast, and I don't know how long it had been there. The sun had faded part of the note, but it asked if we would write to them, so I did." According to Mrs. Benham, the couple who penned the note were from France and had won a trip to the Caribbean and had always wanted to visit the United States. "She wrote to me all in French," says our cook, "and I couldn't read it, so I took it to school to the French teacher. It took him about a week to decipher it and put it down in English so we could read the letter. It was written up in the Herald with a photograph of us holding the letter and the bottle. Well, I sent that to the lady in France and I told her that we were elderly and would never get to France, but if she ever got to Florida to try and come to see us. I enjoyed it no end, to think that I corresponded with somebody from across the world! I really got the biggest thrill out of that." The legendary bottle with its precious contents is proudly displayed in the Benhams' living room surrounded by their countless shells—perfect companions from the sea.

At other times the Benhams busy themselves in their garden, growing all the fresh vegetables our cook can eat. On Sundays, they join other members in worship at First Baptist Church of Sanford, where they also attend an adult Sunday School class. "We're both members of the Woodmen of the World," says our cook, "and Charles is also the treasurer." Woodmen of the World is a non-profit fraternal organization affiliated with the field of insurance which helps people through monetary donations or with packages of needed items, and in many other ways. Charles Benham is a 50-year member, and Mrs. Benham has 42 years' membership to her credit.

Noting the changes which have taken place in Sanford since she arrived, Mrs. Benham recalls seeing a streetcar down on First Street. "And on the farther end where the Chamber of Commerce is now, there was a blacksmith shop, and during the hurricane season I've seen the water come up to the third step of the old court house!" she says. "I remember, when I was a child, the Indians came up and pitched tents on the lakefront. I think it was in 1926, the hurricane that killed all those people in Miami—well, the Indians moved up here, pitched their tents, and told us there was a 'big blow' coming. My daddy took us down to see the Indians!"

Things are a little less hectic these days, and Mrs. Benham simply enjoys her family, her friends and her hobbies. An occasional luncheon or family meal with everyone gathered around the dining table is what pleases her the most. "When I fix a meal, there's more food on the table than anybody can eat," she says. "I make baked eggplant, or macaroni and cheese, deviled eggs, and, of course, green beans. I take after my mother and Charles' mother that way." Her husband is a diabetic, therefore, Mrs. Benham carefully plans her menu taking that into consideration. "He can't have macaroni and cheese or dried beans or anything like that on account of the sugar," she explains.

Using the canned and fresh harvest from their garden, Mrs. Benham has a host of vegetables and relishes to pick from. "We raise green beans, and beets, carrots and okra," she says. "We raise greens and freeze that. We've got pickled okra, fried okra and I put okra in my soup. And if the family is coming, I fix dried beans and put okra on top of that. Now that's four ways I can use the okra."

A special creation of her own is her delicious pimiento cheese spread. That, she explains, her husband can eat for his in-between snacks. "I usually take about a pound and a half of yellow cheese and I grate it," she says. "I put it in my mixer and add a large jar of whole pimientos. Then I put in a couple of spoons of mayonnaise and let it start to beat. Then I add more mayonnaise and a pinch of salt and beat it up, beat it up. You want to see something good—it's delicious!"

Her family often requests her tasty baked eggplant, although she sometimes fries it for herself. "That's the way I like it," she says.

One thing is for sure—everyone who sits at Marcella Benham's table comes away with a smile of satisfaction.

Following is a list of Mrs. Benham's deliciously easy recipes:

BAKED EGGPLANT
2 medium eggplant
1 egg, beaten (1 large or 2 medium)
3 tablespoons butter
4 salt-free crackers, or cracker crumbs
1 pound cheddar cheese (or yellow cheese) grated
½ cup milk
Peel eggplant, cut into cubes and cook in boiling water until soft. Drain well. Mash the eggplant. Add the cracker crumbs and ½ the cheese. Place in greased baking dish. Top off with remaining cheese. Add egg and milk on top, then dot with butter. Bake at 350° for 35-40 minutes or until nicely browned on top. For a nice variation, add a small container of fresh oysters, chopped, to the filling before placing in baking dish. Serves 6 to 8.

CHICKEN VEGETABLE SOUP
1 fryer chicken, cut up
1½ packages frozen mixed vegetables

1 small can tomato sauce
3 stalks celery, chopped
1 large onion, chopped
½ cup catsup
5 or 6 pieces okra, cut up
½ cup noodles
½ cup rice
Boil chicken until tender. Skin and debone. Cut chicken into small pieces and place in large soup pot. Add vegetables, tomato sauce, catsup, rice and noodles. Simmer for 1½ hours, or until all ingredients are done. Serves 8.

LOW CALORIE BAKED CUSTARD
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 teaspoons liquid sweetener (if concentrated, cut down to 1 teaspoon)
2 teaspoons vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups skimmed milk
Dash of nutmeg or cinnamon
Combine eggs and sweetener, vanilla and salt. Stir in milk. Pour into a one-quart baking dish. Sprinkle with nutmeg or cinnamon. Bake at 350° for 1 to 1½ hours. Test for doneness by inserting knife in center. If it comes out clean, custard is done. Serves 4.

GREEN TOMATOES AND PEPPER RELISH
1 gallon green tomatoes
2 large onions
4 large green peppers, seeded
2 large red peppers, seeded
½ cup salt
1 teaspoon mixed pickling spices
3 cups vinegar
1 cup water
2 cups sugar or ½ cup Sugar Twin

Wash, chop and mix the vegetables in a large bowl with the salt. Let stand several hours or overnight.

Drain and discard the liquid. Tie the pickling spices in cheesecloth and put in a large kettle with the vegetables, vinegar, water and sugar. Bring to a boil and simmer 30 minutes. Ladle while hot into hot sterilized jars and seal. Makes 12 pints.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT JELL-O SALAD
1 large package lime flavored Jell-O
1 can crushed pineapple with juice
½ cup grated carrots
½ cup cottage cheese
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup grated cabbage
½ cup grated yellow cheese
¼ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
¼ cup chopped pecans
Dissolve gelatin in 2 cups boiling water. Add ½ cups cold water. Add remaining ingredients, blending well. Chill overnight.

FANTASTIC MICROWAVE FUDGE
1 box (1 pound) confectioners' sugar, sifted
1 stick butter or margarine
½ cup Hershey's cocoa
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon vanilla
½ cup chopped pecans
Mix cocoa and sugar together in a large bowl. Place stick of butter on top. Microwave on high for 2 minutes. Have remaining ingredients ready to add. Remove cocoa mixture from microwave and stir immediately to blend; add remaining ingredients before mixture begins to harden. Blend until smooth. Spread in buttered 8x8-inch pan. Freeze for about 20 minutes to set. Cut and serve. For a delicious change, omit cocoa and nuts and add ½ cup peanut butter for a smooth and creamy fudge.

CREAMY PIMIENTO SPREAD
2 pounds yellow American cheese, grated
1 large jar whole pimientos with liquid
½ pint mayonnaise
Pinch of salt
Place grated cheese in large mixing bowl. Add pimientos with liquid. Beat until smooth. Add mayonnaise and salt, beating until creamy, smooth and of spreading consistency. Serve with your favorite crackers.
