Germans Launch New Attack Against U. S. First Army

The battle flared along a 60 mile front from Rotgen, 10 miles southeast of Aachen, on south into Luxembourg, where at least two small penetrations were made before the Americans held.

Associated Press Correspondent William F. Bond said the land assault was concentrated some 23 miles south of Aachen, where German infantry and from 30 to 50 tanks overran advanced American positions in the area of Honsfeld on the route to the Ardennes forest.

From Honsfeld, two miles inside Belgium, the Germans pressed on west to within 10 miles of Malmedy before the attack ceased late in the afternoon. The doughboys appeared to have the situation fairly well under control.

Rundstedt's order to his troops declared, "Strong attacking armies are advancing today against the Anglo-Americans. I don't need to say more to you. Bear in your-elves a holy duty to give everything and achieve the super-human for our fatherland and our Fuehrer."

Headquarters Not Alarmed Supreme headquarters said that while the German drive represented a major effort which is not under estimated, there was no reason for alarm or anxiety.

Information at supreme headquarters was that the Germans made three major advances toward the American lines, and had attempted others which were sealed off.

A dispatch from the First Army front said the German intent appeared to be to ease pressure on the Duren front east of Aachen and on the Saar and Palatine fronts.

One from the Ninth Army front said it was doubtful if the German high command hoped to capture and hold any large amount of territory.

The German army does not appear to have resources for such adventures, and it seemed likely the main objective was to disrupt Gen. Eisenhower's winter offensive.

Smaller attacks were mounted all along an 80-mile front from Duren south to the area of the German fortress city of Trier in what looked like a grand attempt

Jap Airfield Captured On Leyte Island

Advance On Mindoro Continues Unopposed As Airmen Hit Enemy Shipping

(By Associated Press)
American infantrymen driving into the center of the crumbling Yamashita line on Leyte Island captured the enemy headquarters and seized the airfield intact clamping down a prisoners on thousands of trapped Japanese. Other Yanks reinvading the Philippines continued unopposed their advance on Mindoro Island. Allied planes destroyed between 80 and 100 enemy planes in ferocious attacks. Enemy reports said B-29s were over Tokyo again last night. The airfield is now in use. Gen. Douglas MacArthur said it will provide another base for American planes which have been pressing a war of attrition against the enemy. Headquarters also announced that the First American Cavalry has taken Lolo, six miles north of Valencia in Ormoc corridor. Valencia had been the headquarters of Gen. Suzuki, commander of the Japanese Thirty-fifth Army. The advance beyond Valencia apparently placed the Seventy-seventh Infantry Division within striking distance of a junction with the Thirty-second Division which is driving down the corridor from the north. Former Sanford Man Heads Drive In New York City

"Red" Barber Makes Fine Record Aiding American Red Cross

Walter L. "Red" Barber, well known radio sports announcer at Brooklyn, N. Y., and former graduate of Sanford High School and the University of Florida, did such a good job promoting the Brooklyn 1944 Red Cross War Fund drive, that the Red Cross has put him in charge of the Greater New York drive for 1945. Arthur Halliburton, writing in the New York Herald Tribune, recently had this to say about this noted former citizen of Sanford: "Red" Barber, the veteran of Brooklyn from Dixieland, was named yesterday as chairman of the Greater New York Red Cross War Fund drive for 1945. Last year's campaign in Brooklyn, where he has reported the career of the Brooklyn Dodgers by radio since 1938. "I just want to make one thing very plain," he told a reporter yesterday. "I haven't got any illusions about the value of what I'm doing. It's the volunteers who'll be getting the job done." (Continued on Page Five)

Sgt. Herbert Thurston Awarded Bronze Star

WITH THE BATTLE DIVISION MORITALE, Dec. 19 (Special)—Sgt. Herbert A. Thurston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thurston, Route 1, Box 60, Sanford, Fla., was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for gallantry in action. The sergeant, a member of the Medical Department of the 31st (Aix) Division, while appreciative of the honor, first of the greater recompense in the knowledge that a few of his comrades were saved. The citation read: "When the infantry battalion to which Sgt. Thurston was attached moved out of its perimeter to take the offensive, it was pinned down by enemy machine gun and sniper fire. With utter disregard for his own safety he advanced to aid to his wounded comrades in unprotected positions under continuing enemy sniper fire. Even when the snipers concentrated their fire on him, he coolly and calmly proceeded with his work. This gallant act reflects great credit upon Sgt. Thurston and upholds the highest traditions of the service." Before induction, four years ago, Thurston was employed by the American Cyanamid Corporation, Bound Brook, N. J. After the war he intends to return to New Jersey but only long enough to marry Miss Gena Geer, 400 South Washington Avenue, Dunstable, N. J. After that he plans to live in the Sanford area. Sanford. Sgt. Thurston who is 35 years of age, graduated from the Sanford High School and spent one year at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

Losses On Celery Are Estimated At 20 To 35 Percent

Damages Caused By October Storm And Recent Cold Spell

Losses on the yield of celery in the county are estimated at from 20 to 35 percent, in Seminole county were estimated by growers Monday evening at a supper meeting of the Seminole County Farm Bureau held at the Celery (City) Restaurant Annex. These losses, they stated, were due to the October hurricane, recent high winds, and damage and frost. Most growers are reluctant to estimate freeze damage, feeling that it is too early to forecast. The estimate was, however, set at a minimum figure, according to M. L. Callum, county bureau president. Future weather will determine whether there is additional loss, he said. This information will be passed along to the Florida Vegetable Growers Association. (Continued on Page Five)

Accord Among Big 3 Stated By Churchill

Briton Has No Doubt As To Co-operation Of U.S. And Russia In All War Aspects

LONDON, Dec. 20. (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons in a debate on British foreign policy today that the three great powers were in "entire agreement about the general aims which bind our allies" but added "whether there is complete agreement on every aspect of these matters is another question altogether." He asserted that so far as the United States and Russia are concerned he had "not the slightest doubt that the complete and effective cooperation will go on in all aspects of the war." The Prime Minister and his colleagues retreated before persistent labor party demands last night for immediate consideration of the Greek situation in the House of Commons and agreed to debate the question today. The administrative committee of the labor party met after yesterday's session of Commons during which Churchill repeatedly refused to discuss Greece and unexpectedly covered with a demand that Parliament take up the subject of British intervention in Greece immediately. Churchill's insistence that no such purpose could be served by further public discussion now. During question time in the House, American Bureau's leading labor speaker and longtime parliamentary enemy of Churchill asserted the country was surely divided on the Greek issue and badly needed a statement of debate on the subject. He asserted that the vote of confidence which Churchill forced in the Greek issue only 11 days ago did not represent the true sentiment of the House. Churchill admitted that the vote, in which only half of the total membership of the House participated, might not fully represent the opinion of the House.

He revealed that after the recent hurricane the Seminole County chapter had made the most nearly complete survey of relief needs of any county in the state.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

HE KNOWS WHERE RICH PASTURE IS. IT IS FOOTING FOR US TO SEEK OUT WEEDS AND THORNS FOR OURSELVES. THERE IS PLENTY WHERE HE LEADS US. The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. In a green pasture he leads me, and beside still waters he refreshes me. His path is straight, and his ways are peaceful. He is my shepherd, I shall not want. In a green pasture he leads me, and beside still waters he refreshes me. His path is straight, and his ways are peaceful. He is my shepherd, I shall not want.

THE COMRADES
 (From Talaris)

Though we have made no covenant,
 We have a faith to keep
 A deed for our hands' doing
 Before we sleep.

We paid these vows before us
 Who are they at our need?
 We march now well accompanied
 By the deathless dead.

They were not born of granite,
 Their blood like ours ran warm,
 But they remain our bastion
 Against the storm.

Upon a stubborn fortune
 They broke their holy youth,
 The dream upon their parched
 Mouths.

Was simple truth
 Across an age-long silence,
 Out of the wordless loam,
 Their hands are stretched as comrades
 To lead us home.

What they asked not, we grant them,
 Owing a faith to keep,
 A greatness for heart's daring
 Before we sleep.
 RACHEL HARRIS CAMPBELL

The Miami Herald was found guilty of contempt. Well, aren't we all?

Don't forget to send in your Christmas Seal money before Christmas and do your bit in the tuberculosis campaign.

Some of our generals are now wearing five stars making their uniforms look more like Christmas trees than ever.

Forty of Florida's sixty-seven counties have gone over the top in the Sixth War Loan. Seminoles is close, and will, before the month is up.

Remember the good old day when you could give a carton of cigarettes for a Christmas present? Well, now you will have to be contented with a frightful necktie.

Harry Robson writes from France of the value of blood plasma in treating wounded soldiers. He says tell all your friends to give all they can. They need lots of it.

Draft officials have upped the January quotas by one-third. The new German offensive may not get anywhere but it is causing Allied casualties we can ill afford to have.

We see where a horse ran away on Fifth Avenue the other day badly frightened shoppers. The poor thing was probably completely fed up gasoline rationing, food points and the cigarette shortage.

The Rockefeller interests are planning an addition to Rockefeller Center in New York which will be built as soon as war restrictions are lifted at an estimated cost of 50 to 100 million dollars. There's one organization which apparently is not pessimistic about the future.

The Times-Lion says that the farmers are not getting any more break under the present Social Security program. A man works all his life in a coal mine, factory, or business establishment and when he reaches 65 he gets a nice fat pension for the rest of his life. But he spends his life working on a farm, growing the things that keep other people alive, when he reaches 65 he gets nothing under the Social Security program. He gets no help on raising things for others to eat.

Academy For Diplomats

Where would the army be without its West Point graduates, or the navy without officers from Annapolis? Then why should not a state department, whose blunders, by bringing on a needless war, might lose more lives than the best trained general or admiral could save, also have officials trained at a government academy?

Such an academy is proposed in the magazine "Coronet" by Congressman John M. Coffee of Washington. It should be by examination, and he says no one who passes this examination should be rejected. The course of study would include foreign languages together with detailed studies of the civilization of the countries with whom the United States has diplomatic relations. It would include a period of service aboard.

Out of such an academy the state department, and the diplomatic and consular service, could pick their fill of well-trained graduates. Such a foreign service, says Congressman Coffee, might have avoided the mistake of not maintaining diplomatic relations with Russia between 1918 and 1933.

More and more in the post-war world the brilliant but untrained amateur is going to be out of luck. This goes for our foreign service as well as our domestic life.

Jap Tricks

Many of us, hearing that "X island" in the Pacific has been taken, assume that it means our men are in peaceful and undisturbed possession of every foot of the atoll. Every so often comes a dispatch which indicates that nothing could be farther from the truth. Latest of these is one dated Nov. 28 from Tinjan in the Marianas, which has been in our hands since July, to the N.Y. Times.

According to this, there are still enough Japanese at large there so that almost every night one or more come to an airstrip, apparently in search of planes for sabotage or escape purposes. Once in a while, when too much annoyed, the Americans put on what they call a "rabbit drive" which kills or captures some.

In the incident which preceded the dispatch, four Japs had crept to a field at dusk and were seen by Seabees crawling into the fuselage of a Ventura bomber loaded with depth charges. Troops surrounded the occupied bomber and opened fire, while other planes were hastily removed. Meanwhile the Japs were trying all the switches, probably hoping to escape by air. Suddenly one of them dropped a grenade in front of the cockpit and it went up in flames, Japs and all.

Possession of former Jap territory is seldom peaceful.

Smokes For All

Our American Indians had the tobacco business pretty well established when the whites came over, four and half centuries ago. Just how they operated it is not very clear. Cultivation of the heavenly weed seems to have been a personal or tribal matter, and rather irregular. They never imagined that tobacco would spread over the whole world, creating a means of livelihood for millions or that about half of mankind would come to regard it as one of the necessities of life.

Far less could they have imagined that the government of a great nation dominating this continent would get excited about a tobacco shortage and settle down to study the problem, as our Senate has been doing lately.

It seems that the Senate has been "packaging a lot of ne vestimony" on this subject, as a Washington correspondent expresses it. The American people, both army men and civilians, including both sexes, will get their quota of smokes or demand the reason why. And it is conceivable that even the fate of a great war might turn on the fair and adequate distribution of cigars.

RAILROAD SAFETY
 RAILWAY AGE

Statistics based upon reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission which have been compiled by Charles E. Hill, general safety agent of the New York Central system, show what great progress in safety of performance has been made by American railroads between World War I and II. In the two World War I years, 1917 and 1918 there were 8,614 employees on duty killed in train, train-service and non-train accidents. This was at the rate of one fatality for every 570 employees. In the two World War II years, 1942 and 1943 there were 1,829 employees killed, or one fatality for every 1,100 employees. This was a decrease in the death rate in proportion to the number of employees of 38.2 per cent, although both passenger and freight traffic handled per employee was more than twice as large in 1942 and 1943 as in 1917 and 1918.

An even more striking decrease was made in the number of passengers killed in train accidents. In 1917 and 1918 there were 174 passenger fatalities, or at the rate of 0.413 fatalities per ten million passenger-miles. The number of passengers carried one mile increased from 8.1 billion in 1917 and 1918 to 14.5 billion in 1942 and 1943, but only 24.3 passengers were killed in train accidents in the latter two years, fatalities being at the rate of 0.167 per ten million passenger-miles. This was a decrease of fatalities in proportion to the passenger traffic handled of 42.5 per cent.

Former Sanford Man Heads Drive In New York City

The dapper chronicler of the Dodgers' fortunes, who was christened Walter Lanier Barber, sat in the Brooklyn Red Cross headquarters at 130 Clinton Street, where he will stop in from time to time to direct the money-raising in the borough, in addition to running the drive in the city as a whole.

"If you've got a good bunch of ballplayers, for instance," he said, "you don't need any master mind. But if you haven't, you can master mind till the cows come home and it won't do any good. We haven't really closed this office here since last year's campaign, and we've been working on our organization and assigning key personnel since last summer. March is 'Red Cross Month,' but we're not going to take all month about it. We're going to break the back of this job on March 1."

Mr. Barber, who recently finished all three volumes of Douglas Southall Freeman's "Lee's Lieutenants," insisted that all one needed on a big job was a reliable chain of command.

The announcement of Mr. Barber's appointment was made by Colby M. Chester, chairman of the board of the New York Chapter of the Red Cross.

"Since the outbreak of the war, few men have rendered more devoted service to the Red Cross," said Mr. Barber. "Under Mr. Barber's leadership, the Brooklyn committee raised more than $2,500,000—an all-time high—in last year's city-wide appeal. Equally outstanding, however, has been his work for the Red Cross blood-donor service."

The day after the attack on Pearl Harbor, Mr. Barber began donating his own blood and soliciting the gifts of others because of a newspaper account of civilians standing in line at Honolulu to give blood for the wounded.

"I figured lines of civilians weren't always going to be so handy in combat areas," he said yesterday. "During the 1942 baseball season he substituted many appeals for blood donations in place of commercial announcements and his audience responded with 27,000 pints, or one-half of the total collected in Brooklyn that summer."

While he is as closely identified with the Brooklyn scene as Borough Hall or Ebbets Field, Mr. Barber, a thirty-six-year-old native of Mississippi, spent mostly in Florida, doesn't live in

Casualty Telegrams Are Often Delayed

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 20. (Special)—More than 4,000 casualty telegrams are delayed every month. The figure was revealed in a statement by Major General Frederic E. Uhl, chief of the Fourth Service Command, acting all emergency addresses of Army personnel serving overseas to keep the Adjutant General (Washington, D. C.) informed at all times of changes in address.

"Because of incomplete or incorrect addresses," General Uhl's statement added, "large numbers of casualty telegrams are being returned undelivered to the Adjutant General. Practically every case of non-delivery can be traced to outdated addresses resulting from failure of emergency addresses to notify the Adjutant General of any change."

"Emergency addresses who move after departure of a soldier overseas should write to The Adjutant General, War Department, Washington 25, D. C., Attention: Casualty Branch, giving both the old and new address. Also included should be the soldier's full name, rank, serial number and his organization and APO number."

Pioneer Business Will Be Honored

PANAMA CITY, Dec. 20. (Special)—Florida business enterprises in continuous operation from 1845 to 1945 will be presented with a specially designed plaque by the Florida State Chamber of Commerce as a part of the Centennial Celebration next year, Walter C. Sherman, president of the State Chamber announced today.

"We feel that every business enterprise having a record of 100 years of service to the State has well earned special recognition and that the Centennial Celebration period will be a fitting time to give this reward."

"Details of our plans for presenting these plaques have not been completed, but we propose to make the presentation a ceremonial affair, with the communities where the services have been rendered being invited to join with the State Chamber in paying the recipients the honor and respect to which they are entitled," Sherman said.

Committee who represent Florida growers before the OPA. The law requires consideration of crop damage in setting ceilings. Otherwise it is believed ceiling prices probably would have come into effect on January 1. It is the hope of all growers that Washington will give sufficient consideration to crop losses and set fair ceilings which will enable the growers to recover at least some of their losses.

Donna Lee, president of the Florida Farm Bureau, gave a report on accomplishments of the Federal Farm Bureau at its recent meeting which he attended in Chicago. He stressed the advantages of being a Farm Bureau member.

"You gentlemen do not yet really appreciate what a wonderful opportunity you have in Seminole County in your Bureau," Mr. Lee declared. "If you could attend a National convention, you would get some enthusiasm for your organization which would pay you big returns."

"I have been devoting approximately 20 percent of my time to Florida Farm Bureau work without money consideration, but when I see the fine things accomplished, and the real work ahead of us, for the good of all farming interests, I feel I have been amply repaid for my efforts," he added.

Growers were assured by County Agent C. R. Dawson that machinery has been set in motion to bring into this territory to help harvest the crops this winter and spring. At the present time, it is not known whether this labor will come from Panama, Jamaica, or whether German war prisoners will be furnished, he stated.

Following a discussion of the need in this county for better housing conditions for laborers both white and colored, a movement to initiate steps to secure a housing project to remedy this condition was unanimously endorsed.

A committee, consisting of B. Mann, C. R. Dawson, Roy Laine, Roy Spivey and Lee Samuels, was selected in order to start a movement for a housing project of this nature, and it was instructed by President C. R. Dawson to contact other organizations in the county which may be interested in furthering the project.

Alex R. Johnson, Seminole High School agricultural instructor, who at a county delegation recently attended the Florida Farm Bureau meeting in Tampa reported on the meeting, particularly on the subject of labor. He said that through efforts of various groups, including the Farm Bureau, the state was on the way to a definite policy of water conservation. He added that it would be necessary to co-ordinate the water conservation policies of different districts, each of which would have a committee, and that these would form a central committee to cover state water conservation needs.

Henry Thurston, who as a delegate also attended the Tampa meeting, spoke of a new plan for family health insurance, available only to far families at low cost. He was instructed by President C. R. Dawson to get further information on this subject for consideration at the next meeting.

It seems somebody told them that Santa could be expected any day now and they've been making regular searches about the house just in case he should arrive before Christmas. (International)

Arkansas Boasts Football Team Of 11 Mighty Giants

DALLAS — The Arkansas Razorbacks are in the familiar role of favorites in Southwest Conference basketball. Few years have found them otherwise and seldom have the giants of the Ozarks disappointed.

This time Dr. Eugene Lambert comes up with one of the tallest teams ever seen in these parts—a quintet that averages 6 feet 5. And it is loaded with experience.

But the genial coach of the Razorbacks points to a tough schedule which includes such powers as Oklahoma A. and M. and the Phillips Oilers, in addition to a jinxed team, the one where Arkansas plays Pittsburgh Teachers, 4000 miles from New York and Westinghouse at New Wilmington, Pa.

And that's not discussing the situation that prevails inside the conference where Southern Methodist boasts the same number of lettersmen as Arkansas, and Rice still has giant Bill Henry, the circuit's all-time scoring champion.

Arkansas has its tallest player in history—center George Kuk, who measures 6 feet 10. All conference Bill Flint and Mike Schumchek are the guards and Melvin McGaha and Frank Schumchek are back at forward. Earl Wheeler and Charley Joffe are other returning lettermen. A. I. Arkansas has some very promising new material.

Also has three lettermen in coaching the 6 foot 8. He is one of the best men to coach the conference has ever seen. Tommy Scamman and Tommy Rouse are the other veterans and among the newcomers is Dick Webb, 6 feet 3, who played freshman basketball at Ohio State. Coach Joe Davis considers Dan Davison, just also 6 foot 8, a strong prospect.

Southern Methodist picked up a couple of good men from other conference schools in bringing in lettermen. However, he figures Arkansas will be as good as last year when it tied Rice for the championship "if we keep our present personnel."

Year-end Reports Are Given Doss At Kiwanis Meet

Mr. Dingfelder told of aid extended to the Kiwanis Club by underprivileged children, particularly in securing books, and in their dental work. He added that reports of Sanford citizens to appeals for aid in this direction had convinced him when he first came here what a wonderful organization it was. He told of the organization in 1941 of the Kiwanis Club among students of Seminole High School. He praised the work of former chairman Jack L. Smith, Ralph A. Smith and B. E. Crumley in aiding boy scout work, particularly Troop 6, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

D. F. Harlan outlined the duties of attendance finance and publicity committees.

Paul E. Wilson told of the better standards proposed by the Kiwanis Club and in giving primary emphasis to the human and spiritual rather than material values of life. He appealed for cooperation in public relations and civic government and in support of churches.

Mr. Lawson requested his report on agriculture, Kiwanis money and social events be delivered to another meeting when he could give more time to these subjects.

President-elect Doss announced he would form a new president's advisory committee.

German Attack Is Seen As Crucial Battle Of This War

 German defense systems in the eastern Czechoslovakian mountains. Vanguard units were reported within artillery range of the city of 84,000.

In Italy the Eight Army and Polish and Indian troops virtually cleared all enemy forces from the area south of the Senio River and west of the Bologna-Rimini highway.

Late yesterday an emergency call brought a big force of U. S. Flying Fortress and British Lancasters from British fields to spread 2,000 tons of fragmentation and high explosive bombs on rail and road junctions immediately behind the attacking Nazi forces.

They were forced to bomb through thick ground-clinging clouds and fog which shrouded the battlefield. The attack denied the hard-pressed doughboys the invaluable support of fighters and fighter-bombers.

Nazi Claim Break-through
 As Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt's battered army smashed into the deeply-dented American line south of Aachen, Allied leaders reported only the barest information that "the attack is continuing." This curtain of silence appeared to indicate that the enemy's forward momentum had not been halted.

The German High Command declared that Nazi tank forces "have broken through, smashed and dispersed units of the American First Army deep into the enemy rear." Like the Allies, however, the Germans dealt only in generalities.

Up to tonight the only specific clue as to the extent of the German penetration was the report that British typhoons had attacked a score of enemy armored vehicles "west of Stavelot, a town 22 miles by road from the Reich frontier. Stavelot is 4 1/2 miles southwest of Malmedy and 24 miles from the fortress city of Liege."

In one of the few fighter-bomber operations carried out today, 24 Thunderbolts sprayed two long enemy convoys of tanks and guns near Zolpich and Monchau, damaging at least four tanks and destroyed U. S. Ninth Air Force figures claimed 112 German tanks, half-tracks and other vehicles destroyed or damaged Monday.

Nazi Airmen Land Punched
 As weather permitted the German air force, continued to hit back hard in support of the counter-offensive, and it was estimated the enemy was dipping into his gasoline reserves at the rate of 650,000 gallons a week. An RAF officer indicated the enemy's fuel shortage was becoming acute.

Despite the terrific enemy pressure against its right, the First Army sustained its pressure along the Roer River east of Aachen, sending patrols across the stream into the Nazi stronghold of Duren, 20 miles from Cologne. Fog rolled like grey surf along the Ninth Army front just to the north, while ever-increasing floods in Holland limited the British and Canadians to patrolling. Clouds clung to the treetops.

German resistance stiffened markedly all along the Siegfried Line from Luxembourg to Switzerland and it was plain that the Allied Winter offensive had been fought to a temporary standstill.

Leut. Gen. George B. Patton's Third Army lines remained practically unchanged—his gains dwindled to almost nothing after 41 days of steady advances. Yesterday's prisoner count on the entire Saar front was only 63, by far the lowest since November 8.

Boys In Pacific Use Milk to Shave In

STARKE, Dec. 20. (FNS)—In a special dispatch to the Bradford County Telegraph, T/Sgt. A. W. Anderson, Jr., former member of the Telegraph staff, gives an interesting account of life in the Netherlands East Indies as experienced by our boys stationed there.

"The ingenuity of the overseas soldier is endless," he states, "when we invaded this island we couldn't even find enough water to drink, much less for washing and shaving. That didn't stop G. I. Joe, we shaved in coconut milk, which gave us water and lotion in one."

"Bamboo is raised in commercial quantities on this isle, not small stuff like you see around Starke, but hogg bamboo as thick as eight inches and up to 70 feet in height."

Anderson tells how Private James Scott of Tampa conceived the idea of using bamboo stocks as receptacles for liquid refreshment by converting them into ersatz Thermos bottles.

Scott, with a long slender stick broke out the thin partitions that seal each bamboo joint into an individual compartment, except for the bottom partition. This made the interior of the bamboo pole into a recepacle of several quart capacity. A wooden plug fits into the top of the stalk to keep out bugs and trash, while a small hole in the base serves as a spigot when the plug is removed. Designed originally for drinking water, Scott found that by adding sugar and currants he had a very palatable wine in a week's time. Other GIs took up the fad and now when visitors drop in they make with the hospitality by serving a Lily cup of home-brew or bedstead wine.
