Library back in business

LAKE MARY — It was business as usual Saturday morning at the Northeast Library branch. A few missing ceiling tiles, an empty book table in a roped off area and some wrinkles in the carpeting were the only indications of water damage which resulted in the library closing Thursday.

Water poured through the roof when Mother Nature played a wild card in the game of chance called Florida summer weather Wednesday afternoon. Forecasters were predicting only a 20 percent chance of showers and workers began removing portions of the old roof. The sudden downpour sent contractors scrambling for plastic sheeting and tarps.

Air blowers and dehumidifiers were brought in to dry out the library. Most of the water fell in the children's and young juvenile sections although water also came down in the non-fiction section as well. Children's programs were conducted in the meeting room. Damage estimated were not available Saturday.

School board adopts policies

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board adopted revised policies and manuals on their consent agenda Tuesday night and also put into place a new Discrimination Policy Statement in accordance with state law and the Educational Equity Act Plan update.

The new policy reads: "No employee, student, or applicant shall on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, disability, marital status, age, religion, or any other basis prohibited by law be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of or be subjected to discrimination under any educational program or activity, or in any employment conditions or practices, conducted by the Seminole County Public School System."

Sanford lakefront to light up

By SARA ELLIOTT

SANFORD — In two days, the 219th birthday of our nation will be here. The citizens of this country will celebrate this holiday in many different ways, but one way will be common to almost all — watching Fourth of July fireworks.

Although it is still two days off, Sanford will be able to enjoy fireworks for the first time in two years tonight over Lake Monroe.

The on-again, off-again event was on again after head organizer Rod Layer found another sponsor in May SANFORD — Hidden dangers can lurk behind the sparkle and beauty of fireworks in the night sky.

The rockets bursting with red, white and blue are a proper salute to this country. The colors and rockets tonight in Sanford will be beautiful, but if the idea strikes you to recreate it on Tuesday, think again.

Those rockets bursting in the air are set off by a pyrotechnist who is a professional. In Florida, anything that shoots into the air or explodes

Pioneer urban planner says Sanford needs stricter codes

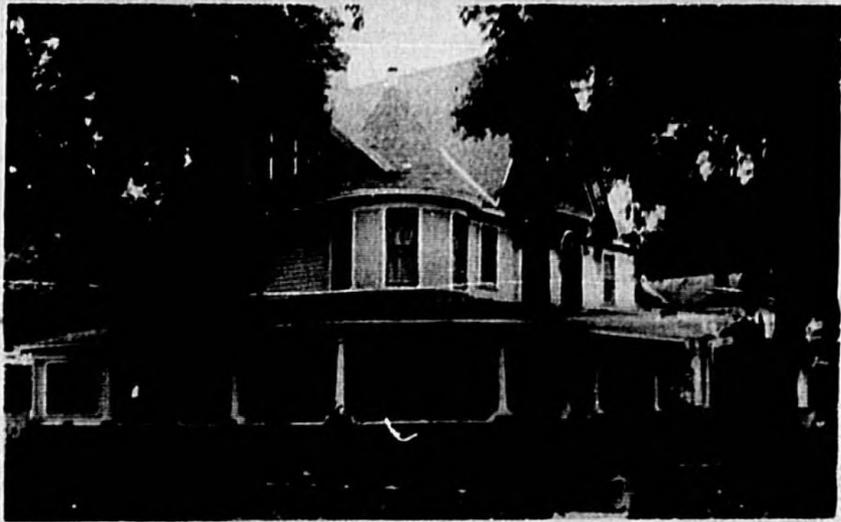

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — There is so much potential in Sanford, the representative of a world-renowned community planner said, but there will be little progress as long as there is resistance to change.

Several years ago, Andres Duany, his wife Elizabeth Plater-Zyberk and representatives of their Miami-based architectural firm (Duany Plater-Zyberk, also known as DPZ) visited Sanford with hopes of helping the Sanford Historic Trust revive the city as an ideal small urban community.

They studied the city, they met with committee after committee and they offered an architectural

Grants effective; at-risk juveniles will benefit

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The administration of three grant programs for juveniles totalling $173,000 was assumed by the Florida Department of Juvenile Justice July 1.

The Project Pay-back, Middle School Alternative Education and Middle School Truancy programs will be directed by DJJ. The programs have been under the jurisdiction of the Department of Legal Affairs.

The grants are funded from the state's Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Trust Fund and are awarded yearly. Organizations applying for grant funding provide services to juveniles such as alternatives to out-of-school suspensions, mentoring and school safety projects.

The three Seminole County programs are:

- Project Pay-back — This program is a work restitution program for non-violent juvenile offenders. Youths accepted into this program are helped to find a job in which 75 percent of their salary is used to provide restitution to their victim. The youths learn work ethics and accept responsibility for their criminal actions. The grant is for $52,878.

- Middle School Alternative Education Program — This program targets youths who have experienced failure in a traditional school room setting and are at-risk of entering the juvenile justice system. The youths will work on competency-based, school-to-work transition curriculum. This educational alternative allows the youths to remain in school and also receive counseling and other additional services. The grant is for $60,000.

- Middle School Truancy Program — This is a truancy intervention program for middle school students. Truant students are provided counseling, home visits, and follow-up activities. Prevention strategies include family workshops, academic tutoring and referrals for outside counseling.

New laws at a glance

Florida legislation that kicked in Saturday:

- Outlaws gill nets, which snags fish in their mesh, from all Florida waters. It also bans the use of any kind of net bigger than 500 square feet in inshore and nearshore waters.

- Streamlines the process for victims whose spouses violate court injunctions and expands the definition of domestic violence to include aggravated assault, aggravated battery, stalking and aggravated stalking.

- Requires drunken drivers spend more time behind bars and impose tougher drivers' license suspensions. Anyone convicted a second time of driving under the influence within a five-year period must serve 48 hours of a 10-day mandatory jail sentence consecutively.

- Imposes harsher penalties on anyone charged with deliberately abusing or neglecting an elderly person or disabled adult faces a third-degree felony, punishable by up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine, instead of a first-degree misdemeanor.

- The security officers posted statewide after the September 1993 slaying of a British tourist will only patrol rest areas during nighttime hours.

The way we were: Sanford High, 1916

The 1916 Salmagundi was published by the literary and debating societies of Sanford High School. The editor was Anna McLaughlin and those on her staff were Etta West, Gladys Morris, Frances Aspinwall, Ruth McDaniel, Susie Brown, John Kurrell, Joe Laing, and Hume Rumph.

GRACE M. STINE-CIPHER

There are 16 seniors pictured in the book; Hume Rumph was class president. All of the Salmagundi staff listed above were seniors; other members of the class were J. Oscar Brown, Agnes Anderson, Alma McGoertz, Frances A. Leavitt, Allie Anderson, Eather W. Woodburn, and Jessie C. Graves.

The literary and debating societies

The two societies were named the Irving Literary Society and the Boys' Debating Society.

Officers of the Irving Literary Society were Gladys Morris, Fannie Reba Munson, Virginia Brady and May Thrasher. Critic was Miss Stevenson while the program committee consisted of Susie Brown, Ruth Hand, Edna Chittenden and Frances Chap- pell.

This group held four debates during the year while expression and music played prominent parts in other programs. A parliamentary drill was given at each meeting by Mrs. Wight.

Officers of the Boys' Debating Society were Hume Rumph, Joe Laing, Roby Laing, and Paul Ezell. Professor Hutchison was critic and the program committee was composed of Joe Laing, John Murrell and Professor Ezell.

Their debate topics will give you an idea of the times. They included:

Resolved: That the United States change its naval policy, and put the money into submarines that it is putting into dreadnaughts.

Resolved: That the United States did right in recognizing Carranza as president of Mexico.

Resolved: That widows should be taxed only one half of their property.

Resolved: That the Sanford High School should have a military company.

Resolved: That the Philippines should be given their independence in a period of three years.

Sports

Officers of the 1915-16 SHS Athletic Association were Morris Spencer, Joe Laing, Thomas Meredith, and Roby Laing.

Professor J.C. Hutchison was coach of the football team while W.B. Pope was captain and B.F. Ezell, manager. Those on the team were Joseph Laing, John Murrell, W.B. Pope, Morris Spencer, C. Brown, Thomas Meredith, Arthur Greene, P. Ezell, Oscar Brown, G.W. Spencer, Eugene Roumillat, Washburn, Wickham, Arthur and Robinson.

The Salmagundi explained that even though the team won only one game that season (Osceola High), the boys were not discouraged from their efforts as they were highly complimented everywhere they played for the clean and many games which they gave their opponents.

Other schools they played were Orlando, St. Augustine, and Kissimmee.

Gladys Morris was captain of the girls' basketball team and Ruth McDaniel was manager. Other team members were Etta West, Ruth Kanner, Susie Brown, Virginia Brady, Maud Entzinger and May Thrasher.

They played teams from St. Augustine, Stetson, and Eustis, winning one game with St. Augustine and both games with Eustis.

Advertisements

Some of the advertisements in the 1916 Salmagundi are quite amusing by today's standards. I'll give you some examples.

The Peoples Bank had as its officers H.R. Stevens, C.M. Hand, O.L. Taylor, F.L. Woodruff and R.R. Deas. They had a full page ad which encouraged everybody in the family to have a bank account. "Those with regular incomes should have checking accounts, others will find our Savings Department more to their liking. A bank account makes for accuracy and businesslike-ness. To pay by check gives prestige wherever one goes. Checks are cleaner than money and there is not the temptation to spend unnecessarily."

The Seminole County Bank, located in the courthouse building, had as its officers Forrest Lake, D.L. Thrasher and A.R. Key. They wanted the business of the new graduates and their full page ad read "Your Home Institution desires to assist you on the road to success, for the 'Student of Today' is the Business Man of Tomorrow," and the Seminole Bank welcomes the opportunity to assist and advise the young business man. Start your reserve fund now by opening a "savings" account, which will pay you four per cent interest."

Dickens' Shoe Store, with a half page ad, encouraged business by advertising thuly. "We desire to call your attention to our splendid lines of Oxfords, pumps and sandals for men, women and children. We have canvas and outing shoes, also, and all our shoes are as handsome as summer footwear can be made. Prices count for little unless you see the shoes — so we say, come in for a look."

C.H. Laffer at the corner of Fourth Street and Sanford Avenue, advertised himself as "The Oldest and Youngest Grocer in Sanford."

Wight Grocery Company explained that they were wholesale exclusively. They had their provisions, hay, grain, etc. Cigars, tobacco and rice were their specialty.

Hotel Carnes, formerly The Sanford House, advertised free sample rooms. Rates were $2.50 up. American Plan, with special weekly rates during the sum-

School hours change slightly

SANFORD — Construction and heavy traffic are daily challenges to most commuters and school bus drivers are no exception.

Next year, the opening and dismissal times at the six county high schools will be moved back five minutes to allow a little extra time between routes.

High school classes will begin at 7:20 a.m. and dismissal will be at 2:20 p.m. The change will allow 40 minutes rather than the present 35 minutes between routes in the afternoon.

Some buses which transport high schoolers to and from school also run middle school routes.

All middle schools, except Crooms, will open at 8:15 a.m. and dismiss at 3:50 p.m.

under next year's schedule. Crooms classes begin at 7 a.m. and dismiss at 2:10 p.m. The majority of elementary schools will begin classes at 8:30 a.m. and dismiss at 3 p.m. However, Heathrow, Keith, Pinecrest, Red Bug and Spring Lake elementary schools classes will be from 7:50 a.m. until 2:20 p.m. Geneva Elementary School will operate from 8:20 a.m. until 2:50 p.m.

The Seminole County School Board approved the request Tuesday.

In other business, the school board agreed to keep student meal prices in elementary and middle schools at the present level of $1.35 and $1.50, respectively. High school student lunches will increase 25-cents from $1.50 changed in 1994-95 to $1.75 for the coming year. "Combo" meals will be priced from $1.75, $2 and $2.25. A la carte prices will be implemented for adult meals rather the $2 meal price paid during the last school year.

"It is our intention at this time to eliminate adult meal pricing due to increased costs," Daniel J. Andrews, food services director said, in a written explanation of the new price structure. Seasonal meals, such as Thanksgiving, will be priced as a unit for adults. "This should help enable us to maintain current pricing for basic student meals, although we will be piloting a strategy to build ticket averages within the student category."

"We are very proud of the fact that Food Services has not requested an increase in basic student meal prices for six years in the elementary and middle school markets and we are working very hard to maintain a pricing structure that is a benefit to the students and parents in our community," he added.

Travel agencies to issue refunds

By MICK PFENFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

Two travel agencies in Altamonte Springs and Fort Lauderdale have chosen to repay over $13,000 to dissatisfied customers. One will issue partial refunds, while the other will issue refunds, but also pay a state fine.

The refunds were announced Friday by Bob Crawford, Florida Commissioner with the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Service.

Crawford said that Cruises International, of Altamonte Springs, has agreed to voluntarily pay the reimbursements, rather than face a fine. Complaints were reportedly made to Crawford's department alleging that Cruise International was not honoring consumers' cancellation requests.

Under Florida law, consumers purchasing vacation certificates have seven days from the date the contract is signed, to cancel and obtain a refund. Effective Oct. 1, 1995, the cancellation period for vacation certificates will be increased from seven to 30 days.

"Travel-related complaints are one of our major problem areas," Crawford said, "and I am pleased we were able to secure the issuing of refund checks for these customers."

Flagship Tours, Inc., formerly known as VIP Cruises and Travel, Inc., of Fort Lauderdale, will not only make refunds, but has been ordered to pay a $5,000 fine. The department charged that VIP Cruises engaged in "unfair and deceptive trade practices" when it:

• Mailed packages to its customers with a demand for additional monies as "registration" fees and "port tax service charges" and customers were not advised of these additional charges at the time of the sale.

• Did not honor timely requests for cancellation despite its customers being told that they may cancel the cruise package "without cost or obligation" within seven days of purchase, and...

• Employed a method of selling vacation certificates that involved unsolicited mailings of a "certificate of guarantee" which advises the recipient that he or she has been "selected" to receive a cruise package.

Crawford urged consumers to be wary when dealing with companies, especially over the phone or through the mail.

"Believe the old adage, 'if it's too good to be true, it probably isn't true,'" he added.

In all, 37 customers were issued refund checks. Crawford encourages anyone who believes that they have been victimized in a travel scam to file a complaint with the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

Couple busted in home drug raid

By MICK PFEIFFER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Members of the City/County Investigative Bureau, CCIB, conducted a drug raid Thursday at a residence at 1033-A West First Street in Sanford. Three persons were arrested on a number of charges.

Deputies reportedly had contacted a resident of the home, Donell Troutman Sr., 40, and made a number of arrangements to purchase various types of drugs. During the transactions, deputies were armed with hidden microphones to verify the activities.

Then, armed with a search warrant, they converged on the home Thursday. Deputies subsequently filed eight separate reports in connection with each of the drug transactions, on charges of sale/delivery of a controlled substance. Troutman was also charged with possession of a controlled substance and possession of cannabis under 20 grams.

Maria L. Cabezas, 50, identified on one report as being Troutman's wife, was also arrested at the residence and charged with conspiracy to the sale/delivery of a controlled substance and possession of a controlled substance. CCIB agents reported finding what was subsequently identified as crack cocaine, hidden under her bed.

During the execution of the search warrant, a man identified as Antonio Holley, 21, of 1500 Roosevelt Avenue, drove up to the house and parked in the driveway. Deputies investigated

Holley, and subsequently charged him with possession with intent to distribute a controlled substance.

Fungicide recall issued

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A California company has issued a voluntary limited recall for a mislabeled fungicide which may have been distributed in Florida.

The Solaris Group is asking consumers to assist in the voluntary recall of certain mislabeled Ortho Multi-purpose Fungicide Daconil 2787 in green plastic one-pint containers.

The recalled product has a Daconil label on the front of the containers, with a label for Sevin Liquid brand Carbaryl Insecticide 2 on the back of the containers. The product is being recalled because of the incorrect back label.

The recall is being conducted primarily because the eye irritation potential of the Daconil product is much greater than the Sevin product. The label for Sevin does not provide the appropriate precautionary eye statements. In case of accidental exposure, Daconil could cause severe eye irritation, while Sevin does not. The Sevin label advises consumers to flush eyes if contact occurs, the Daconil label specifies that eyes are to be flushed for 15 minutes and advises consumers to consult a physician.

Instructions for the two products also are different in the areas of application rates and harvest times for fruits and vegetables and proper attire when applying the product. For example, the Sevin label does not instruct consumers to wear long pants and gloves when applying product, whereas the Daconil label does.

The Declaration of Independence

It took until August 2, 1776 before everyone had an opportunity to sign the Declaration of Independence, but a majority of signatures were affixed on July 4th, thus establishing that as the official day of celebration.

The document was not quite as acceptable as some historians may lead people to believe. There were many changes made before the proposal came up for a vote. Even so, some members of congress still had objections.

That was 219 years ago, and we still have people who are continuously trying to change it or interpret it in a manner other than what may have been the original intent.

The Declaration of Independence wasn't put together by professional politicians. The 56 men came from a variety of areas and occupations. They ranged in age from 27 to 70 (Benjamin Franklin was the oldest signer).

While almost half of them were listed as lawyers or judges, some were merchants, iron workers, and farmers.

The bulk of the document concerned atrocities against the people of this new nation brought about by the King of England.

The point here, is to suggest, on this Independence Day holiday weekend, to find a copy of the Declaration of Independence, read it, study it, and discuss it. We would suspect few people have read it except possibly back in school days, and perhaps not even then.

The declaration, along with the Constitution, form the way our government is to be run; not just the federal government, but state and local as well.

This editorial doesn't need to suggest a point to ponder today. The Declaration of Independence will supply plenty of that for those who will take the time and give it some thought.

Veterans programs

As Congress debates ways to end our budget deficit, many programs, including those for America's veterans, have been the focus of intense scrutiny. Unfortunately, in the debate on veterans' programs, much of what is being said is just plain wrong.

Despite statements from some quarters that veterans' programs have escaped the budget axe, the fact is that veterans' programs have been hit — and hit hard! The cuts in veterans' health care and benefits contained in the deficit-busting budget proposed by the Congress go far beyond the fair share expected by most Americans to help this nation get its fiscal house in order. In fact, the cuts proposed for veterans' programs will be disastrous.

Specifically, budget proposals being considered by the Congress would result in significant cuts in veterans' entitlement, construction and support programs — $8.3 billion in the House and $15 billion in the Senate. But largely unreported because of budget "gobbledygook," these budget proposals also would freeze total funding for the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) hospital system for the next seven years. Even Medicare and Medicaid get nominal, if inadequate, increases under both budgets over that same time period. The result to the VA system, according to the Senate and House Budget resolutions, would equate to losing nearly one-quarter of the VA work force and up to 41 300-bed hospitals.

VA critics also say veterans' programs were immune from cuts in recent years. Again, this just is not true. In 1986, Congress means-tested health-care for veterans with non-service connected disabilities, all but denying access to the system to 17 million of the then 28 million veterans. The action saved the government billions of dollars by drastically rationing care for the growing number of aging World War II and Korean War veterans.

Subsequent federal budget cuts have reduced veterans' entitlement and discretionary spending by more than 410 billion. At the same time, some veterans were required to pay for using VA services "through their own insurance, user fees, copayments and deductibles. These payments, designed to offset the cost of VA care, actually will go straight to the U.S. Treasury and reduce the deficit by some $5 billion during the next seven years. Budget reductions have forced VA to reduce its work force by some 3,500 hospital workers in the past two years, and to close more than 32,500 acute operating beds in the past 15 years.

Media reports routinely repeat statistics from VA critics who use distorted calculations to state that "only" 10 percent of the veteran population utilize and therefore somehow "like" to go to the VA. This ignores the fact that only 41 percent, approximately 11.5 million of our country's 27 million veterans — most veterans with service-related disabilities and means-tested low-

Independence and the black experience

America's first Independence Day was celebrated July 4, 1776. The colonists objected to taxation without representation. It was Charles Townshend's acts of 1767 that were a precursor of the Revolutionary War. His act reorganized the custom service and taxed glass, lead, paint, paper and tea. The celebrated Boston Tea Party, Dec. 16, 1773, townsmen dressed as Mohawk Indians in war paint tossed almost 350 chests of fine taxable tea into the harbor. After this affront Parliament passed the "Intolerable Acts" that further infuriated the colonists.

America has had a rich, colorful and prosperous history from 1776 to the present. America has been viewed worldwide as the mecca for opportunity. The waves of immigrants who came to these shores were over time accepted and assimilated into the American culture while maintaining their identity, if they desired.

Another group of Americans who have been here for centuries and contributed to the building of this land have never been totally accepted in spite of the fact they came to these shores centuries ago and labored under the cruel yoke of slavery. When this land evolved, Americans of African descent were set apart and were not even recognized as whole persons.

The Civil War precipitated President Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation and this followed by the 13th Amendment ratified Dec. 6, 1865 granted independence to Americans of African descent. Before African Americans could celebrate their independence the Southern States through restrictive legislation and physical intimidation (lynchings) robbed them of freedom.

Finally in 1896 Plessy vs. Ferguson became the paradigm for race relations in this land. In essence it sanctioned "separate but equal facilities." All of us who grew up under that doctrine realized that separate facilities were according to the 1954 Brown vs. the Board of Education of Topeka, Kansas, inherently unequal.

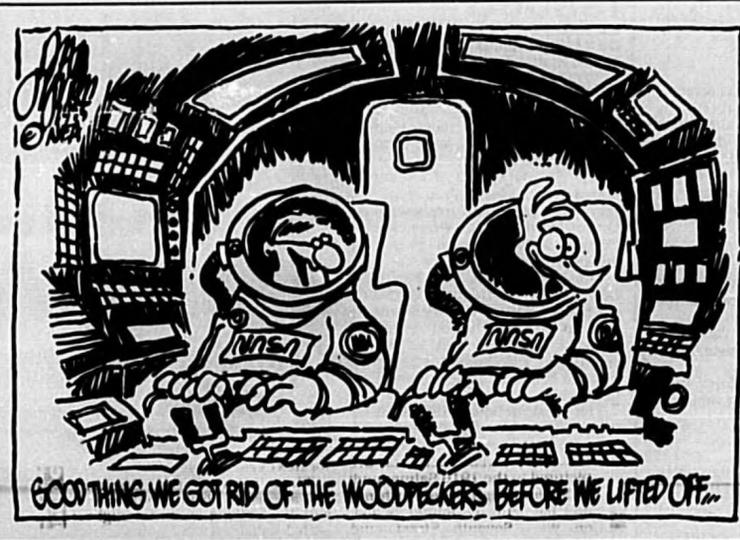

Thus the nation under the leadership of President John F. Kennedy, President Lyndon B. Johnson, Dr. Martin Luther King, Malcolm X and Sen. Robert Kennedy brought changes to the nation that permitted African-Americans to sit at lunch counters, register at hotels, vote and live with fewer imposed restrictions. Now almost a hundred years since Plessy vs. Ferguson the Supreme Court like someone whittling a new design, has delivered rulings that will negatively impact affirmative action programs, college admissions and financial assistance, and restricting that enhanced African American representation in Congress.

Andrew Hacker, professor of political science at Queen's College in his book "Two Nations Black and White, Separate, Hostile, Unequal," discusses how deeply the issues of race shape the thinking of all Americans. He suggests that the "freedoms we pretend to share may simply be illusions."

I am encouraged when a religious leader like Pastor Jini Henry, First Baptist Church Orlando affirmed the importance of race in America and at the Baptist Convention over which he presided, had the members publicly apologize to African Americans for their treatment. It took great courage and deep Christian commitment to make such a public pronouncement.

African Americans must remember the words of Booker T. Washington in his 1895 Atlanta Exposition speech. He admonished African Americans to secure an education, a trade, and work for economic stability. In America our independence will be inextricably bound to our economic independence.

GUEST COLUMNIST

SEMINOLE OPINION

DAVID GEOFFREY COE

No scathing issues but some bits of life

All right, so I'm a little dry this week regarding scathing issues I want to compose my pompous words around. It's not like you don't have one of those days, now is it... but as I've got a column to do, please bear with me.

Q. What do you get when you cross a new car with a swarm of blind mosquitoes?

A. Well in my case, the result is a daily addition to my morning ritual. I.e., a daily trip to the one dollar car wash every single morning last week. I could have probably limited such things to every two or three days if it wasn't for the fact that by the time I hit 1-4 every morning, I can virtually not see out my windshield. The windshield washer doesn't help much; it just seems to turn the little red and gray specks into sort of a grayish white mush. Add more solution to the mix, a streaky grayish white mushy paste. So, as long as I've got to clean that all off anyway, I might as well do the whole car.

I must admit, however, when it's all squeaky clean and the top's down, I look fabulous.

I've been traveling along the Internet a lot lately, and it is truly a vast and amazing thing to behold. One is not only able to obtain the answer to almost any question one might wish to ask, but to further talk to people on the other side of the planet without ever having to pick up a phone. As it becomes more commonplace in our homes, there should be some interesting ramifications.

Oh, and personally, I've learned two additional things. First, the service fees add up a lot quicker than I ever would have imagined. If anyone out there knows of some way to limit the on line time, I'm sure there are many out there who would appreciate your writing in. And secondly, through the wonders of the Internet and the speed of response, I've somehow managed to bomb out with more young ladies in the last two weeks than I ever could have done in an equivalent period of bar cruising. I just don't understand it. Every time I tell them I'm a writer... as a result of those two lessons, I decided to sign off... at least for now....

Just got my May-June FPL bill today. As predicted, the stockholders of that company must be smiling a lot at the unseasonably high temperatures which came upon us around the end of last month. I'll fix 'em though. Starting next December, I'm going to turn my A/C completely off... for two or three months.

There's been a new warning posted at our apartment complex in the last week apparently due to a call by the Fish and Game Department. It's quite simple really, just words of wisdom for those of us living just on the edge of Florida's primordial wilderness. To wit: we have all been advised to look under our cars before starting off in the morning.

It seems that due to the above-mentioned heat, and the recent scarcity of rain, alligators find the shade under cars somewhat appealing for the pursuit of their carnal pleasures. Yup, it's breeding season, and for some reason the little nippers have been known to choose the shady spots underneath cars for such activities. Personally, I think my car is a bit too low to the ground for the problem to arise, but I still have the tendency to look. It would be hard to use a clutch with one foot missing.

And finally (and aren't you glad) this one remaining question: What is the difference between Judge Ito's courtroom and a New York City landfill?

A: They're on opposite coasts!

Independence

Independence Day is one of America's greatest patriotic holidays. It reminds us of freedom, one of our most prized possessions. We are entitled to personal freedoms of many kinds — freedom to develop our personalities and our potential, freedom of personal choice in our religion, our politics, our careers, our opinions. These are guaranteed by our Constitution.

However, freedom of choice must exist for everyone, or it is not safe for anyone. To suppress, stifle, ignore, or intimidate anyone else's personal liberties is to jeopardize our own. If we want freedom for ourselves, we have an obligation to see that everyone else has equal opportunity for the same full measure of freedom. Unless we cherish it, respect it, share it, we are very much apt to lose it.

If we accept the privileges of our American liberties as granted in the Constitution, then we have an obligation to maintain them by strengthening the moral fiber of our nation, and by assuring that law and justice be effective enough to prevent their deterioration and decay.

The price of freedom is not cheap — has not been easily bought. We remember those who gave themselves as a costly sacrifice on the altar of war, that we, and the people of many nations might have the right to enjoy the fruits of democracy and independence.

Many Americans served their country as they fought for freedom from oppression, from tyranny — for freedom to worship, to govern, to speak openly. They sought freedom for equal rights and opportunities, not only for ourselves but for freedom-loving people everywhere in the world.

America has no magic formula. She is not free from human faults and errors. She does, however, have the determination not to forsake the weak and oppressed, not to compromise her integrity and promises made. America wants to give of her power and her resources that the hope of freedom might not flicker out in the yearning hearts of the oppressed peoples of the world.

That is why we remember our veterans on Independence Day. They served that freedom, justice, peace might prevail throughout the world, that barriers of hatred, mistrust and prejudice might be dissolved — that the diverse peoples of the world might learn to live together in brotherhood, understanding, friendship and peace.

On America's Independence Day she encourages ideals that independence become more meaningful to those recently emerging from totalitarian bondage, and not let their new-won freedom disintegrate into political chaos. Independence is not complete until democracy, personal freedoms and human rights are achieved by all minority groups within the borders of the fragmented "Communist" empires of the past.

Nice job

Congratulations are definitely in order. Your new section addition to the Sanford Herald is really great, be it a "one shot effort" or a periodical supplement to a genuinely fine hometown paper.

I refer, of course, to your "Our Town — Sanford." The staff writers, correspondents and columnists did, as per usual, a top shelf job, and should be commended. In fact, this letter does exactly that. Great job, gang.

and zoning code that they felt would guarantee the success of an example of "the new urbanism."

The Sanford City Commission later adopted what Tom Lowe, project manager with DPZ called a "watered down version" of the codes.

"It was at that point that we asked them to remove our name from the codes," Lowe said.

"When last we left it (Sanford) we felt the codes that had been adopted did not guarantee the quality needed to produce a successful program," he added.

Laura Straehla, a founder and former president of the Sanford Historic Trust, said the codes Duany suggested were, indeed, enacted. But, she said, some changes were made to make sure the old codes jelled with the new ones.

"Some things had to be grandfathered in, some things required rezoning," Straehla said. "We adopted the guidelines and codes."

Lowe said that while some of the suggestions Duany made were heeded, the omissions "robbed the plan of its spirit."

While Duany and his associates enjoyed their visits to Sanford, Lowe said, they believed the "power struggles" between the city government, the Sanford Historic Trust and a host of other groups sapped the plan of its strength.

"What they ended up with was very superficial," Lowe said. "We never could understand all those committees. We had the unanimous support of the (Sanford Historic) Trust."

Straehla said she did not see such a struggle between the groups.

"We worked on the plan together and came up with a plan that is very viable for Sanford's needs and has helped us make some needed changes and to move in the direction we want to go."

Sanford's downtown historic district is blossoming slowly, but steadily. The narrow streets, smaller yards, corner stores, canopies of ancient oaks, a variety of green spaces and a town center are the stuff of which Duany's new urban dream are made.

"There's so much potential there," Lowe said of Sanford.

Still, there need to be mandatory design codes for it to work properly, Lowe said.

"People naturally resist change," he said. "Sooner or later, Sanford will come around. Meanwhile, they will do all right and things will be fine."

To really succeed, he noted, the strict codes they planned would have to be followed.

Lowe said that Duany and Plater-Zyberk felt Sanford will, one day, come around and adopt the rules needed to make Sanford a successful town that is beautiful as well.

Duany and his associates are looking forward to having the opportunity to return to Sanford to assist with the planning. Lowe said since then-organizer Sue Olinger has left Sanford and Straehla is planning a move, Duany will wait until someone "picks up the cause" and invites him back.

Meanwhile, they will continue to work at their present project: Seaside Institute, a totally-planned resort community in the Panhandle.

Lowe said that Duany, in response to situations like Sanford's, likes to quote Winston Churchill. "Americans have tried to do the right thing after they have tried anything else," he said.

Another historic city struggles with the future

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

TAUNTON, Mass. — What does the future hold for Sanford? I spent part of the morning sitting on a park bench near the Taunton (Mass.) Green.

The Green is a grassy spot near the center of town. It is on the register of historic places because it is the only remaining portion of the town's Colonial training field.

The town grew around it. Stores, Restaurants, Homes, Government offices.

Some of the stores have been there for as long as most people can remember. Others are still hosting their grand opening celebrations.

But about half the stores on the Taunton Green are empty.

Taunton is a city a lot like Sanford.

A sprawling community with a large minority population (in this case Portuguese) and high unemployment, its life once centered around the Green. There, stores of every imaginable sort were crammed in close proximity with the Bristol County Superior Court, the U.S. Post Office, some tiny apartments and the Taunton Daily Gazette offices.

Five years ago, the Green was a bustling place.

"We used to come down here for everything," Donna Silva told me. "We could shop here, take care of business here, have lunch here. Whatever you needed."

That all changed five years ago when the Silver City Galleria Mall, a mega-mall about the size of the soon-to-be-completed Sanford Towne Centre, opened about five miles from the Green.

"Practically all the good stores moved out here to the mall," said Laura Bernier as we walked along the sidewalk around the Green.

Stopping in front of what must have been a grand store once, she points at the tattered paper sign that had announced a move to the mall. Behind it, empty shelves flop askew away from the walls.

"See what I mean," she said. "They're all going out there."

The mall is stealing the lifeblood of the town, she said.

Community efforts are being made to bring the people back to the Green. A festival is being planned for the Fourth of July, a concert series will kick off a few days after that.

"We want to bring people back here," Donald Larson told me. "The Green is the traditional center of this community. A community has to have a center and that can't be the mall."

Larson said, like Taunton, Sanford has to re-establish the downtown historic district as a center of civic pride and community activity.

The Sanford Towne Centre Mall should bring an economic boost to our community, one officials and residents are welcoming with open arms.

"But don't allow it to steal the heart of the community," Bernier said.

mer. There was hot and cold running water and also private or connecting baths. S.J. Carnes was the proprietor.

The Ohio House advertised its rates as $2 per day with special rates by the week. They had large airy rooms and were centrally located at the first door east of the post office. R.H. Smith was manager.

If you wanted a college pompadour, Buster Brown, or Mary Jane, you were encouraged to patronize Albert Gramling's barber shop. There was no guessing or experimenting there.

T.W. Lawton, S. Runge, and J. Rowland Wildmon each had ads asking for voter support in the upcoming Democratic primary. They were running for superintendent of public instruction. I know that Mr. Lawton won and held that office for many years, finally losing to R.T. Milwee in 1952.

B.L. Perkins, the haberdasher, advertised as the Home of Correct Styles. "If you wish to dress right up to the minute, buy your furnishings at the haberdashery." This shop was located in the Imperial Theatre Building.

Sanford Public Schools had an ad on the inside back cover and called themselves an up-to-date public school system. They had separate buildings for high school, grammar school and primary school departments. (Each of these schools are pictured in the 1918 Seaside Guide.) — Sanford High School at Ninth and Palmetto, Grammar School on West Seventh Street, and East Side Primary at Palmetto and Sixth).

They boasted a faculty of 20 teachers (for all three schools). There were special teachers for vocal music, drawing, and physical training. The high school department was well equipped with physical and chemical laboratories and also had a gymnasium.

Fireworks

when the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association backed out.

"I had been planning this for a year to be an all day family event, but in May the association decided not to do it. They gave me two weeks to raise $6000, which is impossible. So I went around to stores to raise money, and by the end of two weeks I had raised $3500, and had the rest of the $2500 in pledges," he explained. "But the association said no, so I decided to find a new sponsor," said Layer.

The new sponsor is the Paralyzed Veterans of America, and the event has been getting donations from many people in the Sanford community. "I have been amazed at the number of businesses and individuals who are supporting this. The community has been really behind it," said Layer. Along with raising the money for the fireworks this year, the organizers have already started raising money for next year.

That is what the Bunker Brigade is all about. Volunteers will be walking around tonight with buckets to raise money for next year. (More volunteers are still welcome. If you want to join the brigade, please call Martha Yancey at 323-0794.

The fireworks start at 9:15 p.m. and will be dedicated to the memory of Victoria Alford, who was killed in a motorcycle accident recently. Her husband, Steve, spearheaded the effort for the People's Fireworks, with her support, until last year.

Spectators drawn downtown tonight for the fireworks are encouraged to come early to find a parking spot.

Sanford police Cmdr. Doug Bishop, who is in charge of traffic control, said a variety of parking options are available. The pyrotechnic display, which will be launched from a baseball field in Ft. Mellon Park, can be viewed up and down Seminole Boulevard and the downtown area.

Parking is NOT allowed in the post office parking lot because mail trucks must enter and leave that site. Police will also enforce a no-parking zone at U.S. Hwy. 17-92 and Seminole Boulevard. In the past, landscaping and sprinkler heads in the city's irrigation system have been damaged when vehicles parked in the grassy area there.

Ample parking is available downtown, at the Civic Center on Sanford Avenue and Chamber of Commerce lot on First Street, as well as the City of Sanford on Fulton and Seminole County Courthouse on Fulton Street and Palmetto Avenue parking lots. In addition, Bishop said parking in the County Services Building lots at First Street and Melonville Avenue will provide an excellent vantage point to view the show.

Police will close Seminole Boulevard near the fireworks launch site before the display begins just after dusk.

4th OF JULY

Independence Day is the most important national holiday in the United States. The day has always been celebrated with parades, picnics, sports, games, and fireworks.

Due to the numerous injuries caused by fireworks, many cities and states have passed laws forbidding the sale of fireworks.

Fireworks should be used only under adult supervision and should not be treated as toys or launched at people, pets, or other objects. Young children should never handle fireworks. Fireworks are safest when handled by trained professionals.

The answer is not number one, two, three, or five.

Good for you, kids

Seminole County youngsters are excelling around the community and around the nation. We are very proud of their accomplishments and want to take some time to pat them on the back. Good going, kids!

Students check up on health careers

Special to the Herald

The Central Florida Area Health Education Center held its annual Summer Health Careers Camp for high school students at the University of Central Florida Campus June 11 through June 18. Forty high school students from nine Central Florida counties participated in the week-long activities. The camp is sponsored by the Central Florida Area Health Education Center, a program of Nova Southeastern University College of Osteopathic Medicine.

The Health Careers camp was instituted in 1989. Its purpose is to identify and encourage high school students from underserved areas with an emphasis on rural and minority recruitment, to pursue careers in health care professions and to provide these students with information and experiences that will help them make intelligent educational and vocational choices.

Selected students from high schools throughout Central Florida were invited to participate in this exciting one-week program. Seminole County students who took part were Kiralia Ortiz, Sanford; Dianne Bachand, Lake Mary; Lauren Szydio, Geneva, and Michael Rosado, Longwood.

During the week, students obtained the knowledge needed to make realistic decisions about their future career in the health care field. A day dedicated to academic and financial orientation provided practical experience for students to develop their own "action plans" for the future.

Goals and objectives touched on:

- To expose students to multiple career opportunities in health professions.
- To provide realistic view of choices of health careers through actual, on site, hands-on experiences.
- To visit a wide range of health care facilities in both rural and urban environments.
- To discover the numerous educational and financial opportunities available.

● To create an individual action plan for reaching career goals.

● To meet and interact with high school students from counties throughout South and Central Florida.

During the Health Careers Camp, students observed Emergency Medical Services (EMS) communications systems, toured large Central Florida hospitals, toured a community health center, met and interacted with high school students throughout Central and South Florida, spent a day receiving financial and academic advice from representatives of Florida universities and community colleges, and learned cardiac pulmonary resuscitation (CPR). In addition, students met with representatives from Nova Southeastern University's Health Professions Division in North Miami Beach. They interacted in a hands-on experience with the faculty and students from the colleges of osteopathic medicine, pharmacy, optometry, and allied health, which includes programs in physicians assistant, physical therapy and occupational therapy.

Probably the most important aspect of the program is the mentoring activity in which the students are lined up with a health care professional in their local area to follow or "shadow." During this time, the student will have the opportunity to observe and experience first hand the work conducted by this professional and discuss further options in that field or other related fields. Support of the student's choice to enter the health care field is critical at this time and mentoring fills that need. This also strengthens the likelihood that the student will return to his or her hometown after receiving their training.

The Central Florida Area Health Education Center is located in Apopka.

Information about the Summer Health Careers Camp may be obtained by contacting Paul Comeau, Special Projects Coordinator, at (407) 889-8427.

Fireworks can be dangerous

Every year during the first week of July in the United States more than 10,000 persons are injured by fireworks, some seriously. Unfortunately, Florida is no exception when severe injuries occur every single July Fourth holiday period.

Nearly all fireworks are dangerous including even the innocent looking sparkler which can heat to 1800 degrees F.

But, statistics prove, it's the vicious bottle rocket which is the major threat. It is highly dangerous and has caused some serious injuries sustained by innocent people sometimes yards away from the ignition.

Saddest of all — as the Florida Society of Ophthalmology and its president, Leslie L. Hale, M.D., document, many of the injuries (one out of five) are to the eyes. The accidents sometimes destroy precious eyesight. They have that constant potential as long as someone lights them.

Improper handling is the major cause. Florida's ophthalmologists urge that children not be allowed to ignite fireworks, certainly not without close adult supervision. Youngsters under the age of 18 account for about half of injuries reported.

Your medical eye doctors recommend that citizens attend only presumed safe, community-sponsored fireworks displays.

Don't let summer leave you 'cold'

Summer is here, but you still have a lingering cold that refuses to go away. Or do you? Sinusitis — an inflammation of the nasal cavities, located above, behind and below the eyes — is often mistaken for a summer cold. In fact, according to a recent survey of allergists, 75 percent of patients mistake sinusitis for a lingering cold.

"Because sinusitis and colds share symptoms, such as nasal congestion, sore throat, and cough, it is easy to confuse the two conditions. However, unlike a cold which is transient, sinusitis is an infection of the sinuses that can become a chronic condition. It requires physician supervision and rigorous treatment," says Michael Kaliner, M.D., president, American College of Allergy and Immunology.

This summer, don't let a little problem become a big headache. Make an appointment with your physician for a check up; only your physician can best determine the source of your discomfort and prescribe an appropriate treatment plan.

Hotline solves dry eye dilemma

The next time your eyes feel gritty and irritated, don't close them to what may be a real problem: dry eyes. Dry eyes, a condition characterized by symptoms of redness, burning and itching, affect almost everyone at one time or another. Unfortunately, most people either ignore their dry eye symptoms, or they mistakenly assume that their eyes are red and irritated because of eye strain or fatigue.

"Eyes, like the rest of the body, require moisture to stay healthy, especially during the warmer months. Heat and sun tend to dry out the eyes, resulting in a scratchy, sandy, irritated feeling," explains Dr. Alan L. Shabo, clinical professor of ophthalmology, Jules Stein Eye Institute of California at Los Angeles.

A brochure, "Questions and Answers About Your Dry Eyes," offers a comprehensive guide to the symptoms and treatment of dry eyes. It is available as a public service from Allergan Inc. For a free copy, call 1 (800) 998-1870.

Munching and chomping

Fruits and veggies promote healthy aging

Special to the Herald

Could it be that munching on an orange or chomping a carrot each day helps defend against the ravages of time and illness on our bodies? Many health professionals now believe the right kinds of daily munching and chomping can help protect against serious diseases of aging and perhaps prevent the aging process itself.

Fruits and vegetables are loaded with antioxidant vitamins — C, E and beta carotene — which have been shown in numerous scientific studies to protect against heart disease, stroke, cancer, cataracts and other age-related conditions. For example:

- Daily supplements of Vitamin E, beta carotene and selenium showed a 21 percent reduction in the death rate from stomach cancer in a study by the National Cancer Institute of 30,000 people in rural China.

- The risk of cataracts may be reduced by 50 percent in people who have higher levels of Vitamins C and E, according to research in Canada.

- A national study of 122,000 U.S. nurses age 30 to 55 demonstrated a 22 percent lower risk of heart disease in those with high levels of beta carotene intake.

- Vitamins may boost the disease preventing powers of the immune system in older persons, according to studies at Tufts University and the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.

In fact, the Alliance for Aging Research, a leading national health advocacy organization, recently assembled a panel of leading health experts to explore the ability of antioxidants to promote healthy aging. The panel cited more than 200 clinical and population studies showing the "prevention potential" of antioxidants. It also convinced the Alliance to become the first health organization in the United States to make specific recommendations on daily intake of Vitamins C, E and beta carotene.

The Alliance now recommends the following daily intakes of Vitamins C, E and beta carotene to help prevent age-related diseases: Vitamin C, 250 to 1,000

milligrams; Vitamin E, 100 to 400 international units; and beta carotene, 17,000 to 50,000 international units. These amounts of Vitamins C and E are four to 16 times higher than the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances. An RDA for beta carotene has never been established by the government. "Although the best sources of antioxidant vitamins are fresh fruits and vegetables, many people find it difficult to maintain optimum levels of these nutrients in their daily diets," points out Aruna Lalwaney, nutrition and brands director of Leiner Health Products. "Therefore, many health professionals suggest combining the right dietary choices with the use of daily nutritional supplements."

To make sure the vitamins you take will be properly absorbed in the body and are manufactured according to the highest standards of purity and potency, check for U.S.P. (U.S. Pharmacopoeia) quality standards printed on the label.

For answers to your questions about nutrition and a free nutrition brochure, you can call the Leiner Health Products "Your Life" Vitamin Hotline at 1-800-533-VITA. The toll free hotline operates Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., EST.

Diet rich in tofu may ease menopause

Special to the Herald

A diet rich in tofu, flax seed and other sources of phyto-estrogens could serve as an alternative to hormone-replacement therapy (HRT) drugs for easing the symptoms of menopause and lowering the risk of heart disease and osteoporosis in middle-aged and older women.

The Menopause Clinic at Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center in Jerusalem is seeking women willing to follow such a diet and to undergo health checks once every three months for a year. It is the first hospital in Israel, and one of the few in the world, to study the effects of phyto-estrogens in the diet of menopausal women.

other cancers at a young age, tend to suffer considerably because they are not permitted to undergo HRT," he adds.

"Women who are reluctant to undergo HRT by taking estrogen-progesterone pills — because they fear it increases the risks of breast cancer or because they already had cancer — are good candidates for the soy diet," says Dr. Amnon Brzezinski, head of the Hadassah Menopause Clinic. "Women who have gone into menopause prematurely because their ovaries were removed due to cancer, and those who have

Japanese women, whose diet is rich in soy, are known to have relatively mild symptoms of menopause and a much lower risk of breast cancer. Eating soy schnitzel or hot dogs as a source of phyto-estrogens is not very helpful, says Brzezinski, because they contain relatively little soy. But tofu, the tasteless white paste is 100 percent soy, and flax seed is also rich in phyto-estrogens.

Many teens fear catching AIDS from doctors

By BRENDA G. COLEMAN
AP Medical Writer

CHICAGO — A survey of ninth-graders revealed a "frightening" misconception about AIDS: Many are afraid of catching the disease from doctors or other health professionals.

Only six of the estimated 1.5 million HIV-infected people in the United States are believed to have gotten it from a health professional — and all six from the same dentist.

When ninth graders in the survey were informed of this, they "expressed both shock and relief," researchers report in today's issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association.

"It surprised all the experts, because the experts did not know that teen-agers had this misconception," said the lead researcher, Dr. Kenneth R. Ginsburg, a specialist in adolescent medicine at the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia.

The 1993 survey of more than 8,800 ninth-graders in 39 Philadelphia public schools was designed to identify what teens most want in a health-care provider. Proper hand-washing topped the list, followed by using clean instruments, honesty, respect and overall cleanliness.

After the survey, researchers learned from 215 youngsters in small groups that the preoccupation with cleanliness reflects a fear of acquiring diseases, particularly AIDS.

In seven of the 21 groups, teens immediately said concern about AIDS explained their preoccupation with hand-washing and overall cleanliness. In the 14 other groups, the initial concern was "germs." When asked what kind of germs, youngsters in seven of the 14 groups mentioned the AIDS virus.

"Our findings suggest a pressing need for better public education about the near-zero risk of acquiring HIV through routine health care," the researchers said.

Teen-agers may spurn preventive health care because they are afraid of getting AIDS, Ginsburg said by telephone Monday.

The survey findings cannot be applied to other age groups, nor to suburban or rural teen-agers.

Early in the discussion groups, Ginsburg said, he told the youngsters that 1.5 million Americans have the AIDS virus, and he asked the teens to estimate how many got infected by health professionals. Responses ranged from 100,000 to 1 million, he said.

"That's frightening that they had that perception, when the reality is six," he said.

Many of the teens mentioned the best known case, that of Florida dentist Dr. David Acer and patient Kimberly Bergalis, which made headlines in 1992.

"The people in this study were 10 to 12 years old during media coverage of that story," Ginsburg said. "What is clear is they ... blew it wildly out of proportion."

Acer infected five patients besides Bergalis, federal officials say, though they do not know how. Acer, Bergalis and four other patients have died.

Teens in the discussion groups readily acknowledged that many adolescents practice unsafe sex, which is far more likely to result in infection with the AIDS virus than treatment by a doctor who does not wash his hands.

The teens admitted they are less rational when deciding whether to have sex than they are when deciding on health care.

Fifty-three percent of U.S. high schoolers are sexually active, and 47 percent of them do not use condoms, according to the latest federal survey on the topic. In 1993, AIDS has been diagnosed in 1,965 teens, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, which began counting in 1981.

In an accompanying editorial in JAMA, two researchers not involved in the survey, Dr. Tina L. Cheng of George Washington University School of Medicine and Dr. Jonathan D. Klein of the University of Rochester School of Medicine, said doctors should take simple steps to allay youngsters' fears, such as washing their hands in front of them.

is illegal for novices. A fireworks rule of thumb for non-professionals is, if it goes up or blows up, it is illegal.

A reminder from Sanford Fire Marshall Richard Cohen, "If you are going to the fireworks on Lake Monroe, do not bring fireworks to shoot off the seawall. People do it every year, but it's not allowed."

For centuries, fireworks have been used around the world to mark special events. Many Americans will buy fireworks in the days ahead to add sparkle to their Fourth of July festivities.

But, since most fireworks contain gunpowder or similar ingredients, they can be extremely dangerous.

Bob Crawford, Florida's Commission of Agriculture said the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that in 1994 about 12,600 people were treated in hospital emergency rooms for injuries associated with fireworks. Of those cases, 9,080 occurred in the 30-day period surrounding July 4th. One-third of the victims were under 15 years of age.

To enjoy the holiday and avoid possible injuries, citizens are encouraged to attend community fireworks displays conducted by trained, licensed professionals, Crawford said.

The Federal Hazardous Substances Act prohibits the sale of the most dangerous fireworks, including reloadable shells, "Cherry Bombs," aerial bombs, "M-80s" and "Silver Salutes."

Florida law is even more strict and prohibits almost all devices that contain explosives, he continued. "Black Cats," "Ladyfingers" and similar firecrackers are illegal in Florida. Also illegal here are "Roman Candles," "Skyrockets" and other devices that are ignited and emit projectiles or launch into the air.

In fact, the only fireworks legal for the public in Florida are sparklers approved by the State Fire Marshal's Office. Sparklers are defined as hand-held or ground-based devices which emit showers or sparks upon burning but do not detonate or emit showers or explode and cannot propel themselves through the air. Toy gun "caps," "smoke bombs," "party poppers" which pop when a string is pulled, "snappers," which pop when thrown on a hard surface and "snakes," which produce a large snake-like ash when lit, are not defined as fireworks and are also legal.

For those who celebrate with legal fireworks, the following safety tips should be observed:

- Do not allow young children to play with any fireworks, closely supervise older children.
- Use only fireworks that are legal in Florida, and follow all written warnings and instructions.

- Do not use homemade devices or alter commercial fireworks.
- Light fireworks in a clear area away from bystanders, homes, dry leaves, glass, unlit fireworks or other combustibles.

Always keep water close by for emergencies. Douse fireworks that don't properly ignite and never try to relight them.

substance abuse, parenting classes and other family social/health services. The grant is for $60,000.

"With state budget cut-backs, these funds have become essential to juvenile delinquency prevention, intervention and diversion programs," said DJJ secretary Calvin Ross. "With these type programs targeting at-risk youths, the youths have an opportunity to interact with positive role models and influences thus helping them to avoid contact with the juvenile justice system."

The Office of the Attorney General recently awarded the 1995/96 Community Juvenile Justice Partnership grants totaling $6,677,909 to 121 grants applicants. The funding is effective July 1.

He made it to the mark by grounding a single through the right side for the Cleveland Indians off Mike Trombley.

Early start for baseball

NEW YORK — The baseball season will begin in March next year, the earliest start ever. The season will start March 31, a Sunday night, with the Chicago White Sox playing the Seattle Mariners in the Kingdome, a game to be telecast by ESPN. Most other teams will start play the following day. Baseball officials moved up the start by a week in order to avoid playing World Series games in November next year. If next season was scheduled to start a week later — April 7 — Game 7 of the World Series would have been scheduled for Nov. 3. By starting March 31, the seventh game will be scheduled for Oct. 27.

NBA imposes lockout

NEW YORK — The NBA locked out its players Friday, the first work stoppage in league history. It was the third work stoppage to affect major league sports in the last 12 months. Baseball players went on strike last Aug. 12, and NHL owners locked out their players Sept. 30, forcing a delay in the season.

Knicks talk to Nelson

NEW YORK — The New York Knicks are having serious discussions with former Golden State coach Don Nelson about their vacant coaching job, G.M. Ernie Grunfeld said. Grunfeld met in New York with Nelson's attorney, John O'Connor, but said no job offer had been made. The Knicks are searching for a replacement for Pat Rues, who resigned June 15 with a year remaining on his contract. Nelson, 55, has coached the Milwaukee Bucks and Golden State Warriors.

Seminole C.C. to host summer All-Sport Camps

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Summer is a terrible thing to waste!

In today's age of sports, an athlete cannot afford to be inactive in the summer, the athlete must be ever striving to improve his or her game or they will be left behind.

And now the Seminole Community College athletic department is offering Seminole County athletes something that they have not had before — a summer of fun and fulfillment with the opportunity to improve their skills without having to leave the area to do it.

For the first time SCC will offer an "All Sports Camp", with all of the coaches offering their expertise in their specific sports.

The camp staff in baseball (head coach Jack Pantellas and pitching coach Ed Dickmyer), men's basketball (head coach Bernard Merthie and assistant Rod Henderson), women's basketball (head coach Heana Gallagher and assistant Ken Patrick) and fast pitch softball (head coach Courtney Miller), which have over 50 years of coaching experience, will teach and improve the athlete's skills in one or more areas.

Basic skills will be stressed in the four day camps which are open to athletes ages 7-17 and will be offered in three sessions, July 10-13, July 24-27 and July 31-August 3. The camp will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.

Cost is $125 per person, per session or $100 per person for multiple family entries. Included in the cost will be a camp T-shirt, lunch and awards for each participant.

"SuCCess is our motto at Seminole Community College," said Miller. "SuCCess is the result of knowledge and hardwork. At SCC we provide instruction based on the most current compilations of knowledge, and strive to deliver this knowledge in an enthusiastic and motivational environment.

"By instilling this love for learning and dedication to hard work, whether in sports, academia or an appreciation of the arts, we can enhance our opportunities for SuCCess! So why not enroll for a summer of fun and fulfillment."

Another outstanding feature of the camp is that it will take place at the beautiful Seminole Community College campus. A lot of the instruction will take place in the air-conditioned Health and Physical Education Center.

SCC will also be the site of a Summer Adult Basketball League on Monday and Wednesday nights at the Health and Physical Education Center.

Cost is $250 for the 10-week season. There will also be a tournament following the season. Players must be high school age or older. For more information, call (407) 328-2090.

Gordon wins one lap dash

By PAUL NEWBERRY
AP Sports Writer

DAYTONA BEACH — The "Big Three" were at the head of the pack again in the Pepsi 400, with Jeff Gordon holding off Sterling Marlin and Dale Earnhardt in a final-lap sprint to victory Saturday at Daytona International Speedway.

It was the season-high fourth victory for the 23-year-old Gordon, but Marlin maintained his lead in the NASCAR Winston Cup standings when he edged Earnhardt for second, about two car-lengths behind the winner.

After 15 of 31 races this year, Marlin is seven points ahead of Gordon (2,200-2,193) and 16 ahead of seven-time champion Earnhardt. All three drive new Chevrolet Monte Carlos, which have won 12 times.

The race was a rather boring affair by Daytona standards, with Gordon and Marlin overpowering the field until things got interesting at the end. Both Gordon and Marlin led 72 of the 160 laps, and there only eight lead changes among four drivers.

Earnhardt, who started from the pole and led the first 11 laps, fell back after his crew made an errant adjustment. After returning to his initial alignment, Earnhardt worked his way back through the field and passed Marlin for second with just 13 laps to go.

With his car running higher in the corners, Earnhardt closed on Gordon before Mike Wallace's spin brought out the third caution of the day with just over three laps to go.

It took two laps to clear the track, setting up a 2.5-mile dash to the finish with 19 cars bunched on the lead lap. While Earnhardt and Marlin battled behind him for position, Gordon kept his rainbow-colored car in front for a

Hornets pull off repeat

By DEAN SMITH

LONGWOOD — This is one habit you hope is never broken.

For the second consecutive year the Hornets from the Central Florida Sports Academy are the Florida AAU (Amateur Athletic Union) girls' 11-and-Under state champions.

In a time when sportsmanship, team spirit, leadership, commitment and dedication are all values that some sports fans might question as part of the driving forces of team athletics, the young Hornets personify everything that represents those "old fashioned" values!

Led by tournament Most Valuable Player Barbara Gray and All-Tournament selections Christina Testa and Jennifer Forst, the Hornets ran through the tournament undefeated to defend their championship and show that teamwork, and not stars, win titles.

"It all begins by example," said head coach Dan Dunkman, who also coached the team last year. "We play old fashioned basketball. Everyone plays defense, everyone can shoot and we use the pick and roll constantly. But the key is that they all do it together as a team.

"We don't have stars, everyone contributes and have great attitudes. No one on this team is a 'Know it all', they practice as intensely as they play and are learning constantly."

The Hornets will now get ready to hit the road this Thursday, July 6th, to take part in the national tournament in Kenner, Louisiana.

"We're proud to be going to Louisiana to show the best of Florida's young athletes to the nation," said team mom Pat Forst. "We're also pleased to be helping produce the athletes who will bring Florida into the new age of women's sports by representing the growing movement of girls' basketball in Florida."

As it is with every traveling team, the squad can use all the financial aid it can get.

If anyone wants to help, they can make donations to: Central Florida Sports Academy Hornets P.O. Box 91653 Longwood, Florida 32778

Other members of the Hornets are assistant coach: Carmin Testa and players Holly Aracich, Alexandra Cartaya, Holly Hodges, Kayla Mann, Jackie Miller, Mattia Mitchell, Bryn Mosler and Erika Dunkman.

Success in sports has drawbacks

By TONY DESORNIER
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — It didn't take long for the reality of the situation to set in for first-year Lyman High School principal Dr. Peter Gorman.

As the Greyhound baseball team and fans celebrated the victory that qualified Lyman for its first trip to the FHSAA state baseball tournament — which would require a two-day trip to Sarasota — Gorman looked around and said, "It's expensive to be successful."

Specifically, Lyman athletic director Tom Lawrence said that it cost the school $4,000 to send the team, coaches, a trainer, manager, and an administrator to the state tournament. Less the $1,300 the school received from the FHSAA, that left Gorman with a $2,700 shortfall.

That's not counting how much it cost for Lyman girls' golf team to spend three days in Naples winning its state championship. And the FHSAA does not compensate schools for participating in the state tournaments of individual sports.

"We're in trouble," said Dr. Gorman. "We're successful, therefore, we're in trouble."

"When athletic teams are successful, it's expensive to send them to play, especially when we (Seminole County) were redistricted with the Panhandle for the first round of the state playoffs. The travel really hurt us."

Gorman said that the combined success of the Greyhound athletic teams resulted in a $10,000 deficit above Lyman's 1994-95 athletic department budget of $40,000.

Of that $40,000, Lawrence estimated that between $15,000 and $20,000 goes toward equipment and another $3,000 to $5,000 is spent on training room supplies.

"Here at Lyman, the coaches submit their requests for the coming year," explained Lawrence, who stepped down as athletic director at the end of the school year. "Then I look through the inventory and see what we need and what we can make do with."

"There are certain expenses that are a constant, like travel, administrative help for home games, and officials. You know you're going to have to pay for that, every year."

Because the high schools receive no financial support from the county for athletics, each school is left to its own devices to finance its athletic program.

"Our athletic booster club does fund raisers to help pay the bills," said Lawrence. "When it comes to paying the bills, we never break even from our gate receipts to cover expenses. Most athletic programs operate in the red. That's common at every school."

"The problem is, there's no way to budget for things like traveling to state tournaments. But every year, we seem to be able to be able to do it."

Dr. Gorman said there are three methods to dealing with financial deficits.

"No. 1, you can cut services," said Dr. Gorman. "No. 2, you can reallocate the pie you already have or, No. 3, you can raise more money. What we're going to do is some combination of all three."

Those financial gymnastics will allow Lyman to meet this deficit. But what about the future?

"What I'm afraid of is that we may come to the point where we have to look at what sports we can afford," said Dr. Gorman. "Before we get to that, though, we may have to limit travel or choose not to participate in state level events."

"The very last step would be to cut sports."

Next week: Oviedo principal A. Wayne Epps describes fundraising for athletics as a perpetual activity.

Budgets getting harder to cover

By TONY DESORNIER
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — Every year, Lyman High School baseball coach Bob McCullough knows that much of his team's portion of the Lyman athletic department budget will be spent on one of three things: baseballs, umpires, and travel.

"We'll spend about $2,070 on equipment," said McCullough, adding that the Greyhound varsity and junior varsity teams go through 17 dozen baseballs a season at $46 a dozen.

"Our biggest expense is transportation, traveling by bus. There's no way to make budget anymore strictly out of gate receipts."

FGFWFC offers hunter ed course

Would you like to learn more about the outdoors? How to survive in the wilderness? The best way to conserve Mother Nature? Then sign up for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission's hunter education course, where you'll get tips on those subjects and more.

The free course began as a way to improve firearms safety among hunters, but as many non-hunters will now tell you, it's grown to much more. Topics include wildlife conservation, wildlife identification and wilderness survival, along with other outdoor skills.

"Our course is not just for hunters anymore," said Capt. Ed Tyer, the commission's supervisor of hunter education. "Everyone who uses the outdoors — hikers, campers, bird watchers — can learn something that could be helpful."

The course is still mandatory for hunters born on or after June 1, 1975. Proof of completion must be presented when purchasing a hunting license. Hunters under 16 years of age are not required to buy a license, but must pass the course and have their hunter safety card with them while hunting.

"The general rule is if you want to take any wild animal, whether by gun, crossbow or bow, you must take and pass the course," Tyer said.

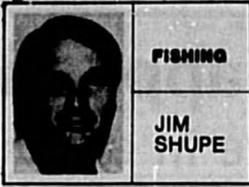

However, there are several exemptions to the rule. Anyone hunting in his or her county of residence on their own homestead does not need a license or to take the course. The same is true for any minor child hunting on the homestead of his or her parent, and any parent hunting on the homestead of his or her minor child.

The course includes a minimum of 12 hours of classroom instruction, a test and the actual firing of a firearm. The classroom portion includes discussion of firearms laws, Florida's wildlife code, safe gun handling, firearm and cartridge terminology, hunter ethics and responsibility, wildlife identification, wildlife management, survival, field first aid, marksmanship and fundamentals of archery and black powder gun use. For those specifically interested in bow hunting, a bow hunting course also is available.

A majority of states now require hunters to have hunter safety training, and successful completion of Florida's program is accepted in all states and Canadian provinces.

Florida's course is offered hundreds of times each year throughout the state, but class sizes are limited, and admission to fall classes can be difficult.

"I suggest anyone who wants to hunt later this year take the course as soon as possible."

FISHING
JIM SHUPE

Tyer said. "The fall classes fill up quickly, and some people are turned away."

For more information on class schedules, call the nearest regional office of the commission. The numbers are: Northwest Region (904) 265-3678; Northeast Region (904) 758-0525; Central Region (904) 732-1225; South Region (941) 648-3203; Everglades Region (407) 640-8100.

SHUPE'S SCOOP
The issue of hunter safety is more critical than ever, as more and more hunters take to the woods each fall. Virtually all of the senseless hunted related shootings can easily be avoided by the use of good judgment and the practice of hunter safety procedures.

FISHING FORECAST
Puzzle Lake will continue to be good for bass as long as the water remains within the banks. Tiny Rapalas are taking good numbers of bass in the 1-4 pound range. Slough mouths and deep curves are the best bet.

Sebastian Inlet still has good catch and release action for snook in the 8-15 pound range. Also mixed in with the snook are redfish, trout, flounder, ladyfish, and a few small bluefish. Snook and tarpon are also hitting back in the Sebastian River.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral has little to report in the way of offshore action due to the stormy weather. Expect good action with dolphin further offshore and plenty of king mackerel on Pelican Flats and 8-A reef. A few king mackerel and tripletail are in the busy line, while sheepshead and flounder are hitting inside the Port. Trout and redfish are rated as good on the flats of the Banana and Indian rivers.

Sheepshead continue to reign supreme at Ponce Inlet, with large numbers being caught on fiddler crabs or live shrimp. Drum, redfish, jack crevalle, bluefish, and a few flounder are also mixed in. Trout and redfish are rated as very good in Mosquito Lagoons.

Gordon

0.21-second victory. Marlin rubbed sheet metal with Earnhardt coming into the trioval, but edged him by less than a half-car-length for second.

"We had a great practice (Friday), and I told the guys not to mess with the car, we've got what it takes," said Gordon, whose four victories are two more than anyone else on the stock-car circuit this season.

"We proved that today," Still, Gordon, who became the youngest winner of Daytona's summer race, wasn't pleased when the yellow flag came out on lap 157.

"I didn't want to see that caution," he said. "Earnhardt is the last guy you want to see in your mirror with one lap to go."

The other driver to lead the race was Ricky Rudd, who ran in front for five laps after the leaders came into the pits just past the midway point of the race. Rudd finished eighth in a Ford Thunderbird.

Gordon went to the lead for good after Jeff Purvis spun out coming out of turn four on lap 129. The leaders came in for their final pit stops, with Gordon barely beating Marlin back onto the track.

"That's where we won the race," Gordon said. "It was very hard to pass the leader. You could pass for second and third, but not for the lead. The only time me and Sterling passed each other was when I bobbed or he bobbed."

The youngster zealously guarded the lead while Earnhardt showed off his passing ability. The intimidator, who had dropped as low as 14th, began picking off those in front of him and moved past Marlin for second on lap 147. But Earnhardt never made it back to the lead, even losing a spot on the final lap.

"It was one of those Daytona finishes," Earnhardt said with a shrug. "The car was really bad after we made the first change, but we were able to fix it and I got back up."

Marlin was just happy he was able to slip back into second. "Me and Dale were having a good race there at the end," he said. "That slowed both of us up and the pack caught up."

Mark Martin was fourth in a Ford, followed by teammate Ted Musgrave, the Chevrolet of Ken Schrader, Kyle Petty's Pontiac, Rudd and the Ford of Jimmy Spencer, the defending race champion who equaled his best finish in what has been a miserable season.

Gordon won with a fast average speed of 166.975 mph in a race slowed only by the spins of Wallace and Purvis, and Steve Grissom's brush with the wall. Gordon collected a record $96,580 for the victory before a crowd of 120,000.

Expenses

Beyond that, players provide much of their own supplies, which can run into several hundred dollars apiece.

It begins with the big ticket items of gloves (from $36.99 for a basic Rawlings Fastback to $84.99 for a Miuno Pro Scoop catcher's mitt) and shoes (from $34.99 for Reebok BSB 350 Lo's to $64.99 for Nike Air).

Then there are sundry items such as protective cup and supporter ($7.99, Wilson), sanitary socks (three pair for $5.99), undershirts (Russell three-quarter sleeves, $9.99), batting glove (between $10 and $16), and compression or sliding shorts (Bike, $19.99).

Other potential expenditures include flip sunglasses (Regent, $7.99), equipment bag (Easton Diamond Equipment Bag, $29.99), and bats ($89.99 for a Louisville Slugger TPX).

"We have a couple team bats, but some guys buy their own and let the other guys on the team use them," said McCullough.

Other team gear such as catcher's equipment and batting helmets are replaced on an as-needed basis, with the varsity team getting the new gear while the used but serviceable gear is handed down to the junior varsity.

Often, the needs outweigh the resources.

"I know what we (the school) can afford," said McCullough, whose been the varsity baseball coach at Lyman for 23 years. "You can only spend the dollars if they're there to spend."

"But sometimes, you have to have something, so you go and buy it out of your own pocket. You'll find that a lot of coaches end up spending most, if not all, of the supplement they receive for coaching on their teams."

An expense that doesn't show up on any ledger sheet is field maintenance.

"The supplies like sprays and fertilizers comes out of the school's grounds budget, but I provide the labor," said McCullough. "Maintaining an athletic field isn't like cutting the lawn."

McCullough incurred an additional expense this past season: the cost of rings commemorating the Greyhoun's state championship, which he doesn't consider a luxury, but a near necessity.

To cover the cost the championship rings, McCullough organized a fundraiser that consisted of an alumni baseball game and barbecue. He also canvassed the community, looking for donations.

"I don't mind going out and begging for the kids," said McCullough. "A lot of people in the community are willing to help. They're more than glad to help if you ask them."

Business

IN BRIEF

County rises in employment growth

SANFORD — The University of Florida's Bureau of Economic and Business Research has released its latest statistics on projected employment growth during the next decade as well as during the past decade.

Seminole County is predicted to be the tenth fastest growing county in the state between now and the year 2005.

This is in comparison with figures showing Seminole County was the 19th fastest growing county in the past ten years.

Figures cannot be taken literally however, as in some cases, a relatively small influx of new jobs to a county with an extremely low population could make percentages shoot up drastically.

The figures listed as follows however, are measured in the growth rate for new jobs rather than population.

New leases negotiated

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The Hill Rom Company, a major regional medical equipment dealer, has leased over 9,000 square feet of space in the North Lake Business Park, in Altamonte Springs. Wendy Krepak negotiated the transaction for Faison Orlando.

Also at the North Lake Center, Marshall Industries, Inc., renewed its lease on 4,600 square feet of space, and Master Craft Builders likewise renewed a 1,000 square foot lease.

The announcement by Faison Orlando was in addition to other leaseings arranged at Village Plaza in Lakeland, and Formosa Garden Village and Poinciana Place Shopping Center, both in Kissimmee.

According to Frank W. Herring, Jr., Faison Orlando partner, the transactions total 32,800 square feet of commercial space.

Sales consultant named

HEATHROW — Stirling International Realty, Inc., has named Nancy Spain-Platt as sales consultant. The appointment was announced by Stirling co-owner Roger Soderstrom.

Morrison models completed

Morrison Homes of Orlando has announced completion of a new model, the "Sheffield", at Eagle Watch, in the Tusawilla section and the "Fairfield" at Howell Creek Reserve.

There are 153 homesites at Howell Creek Reserve with 143 still available. Prices range from $157,400 to $207,400.

Eagle Watch has 110 homesites with 95 still available. Prices range from $106,400 to $128,400.

Both of these communities are located in Seminole County, off Vistawilla Drive and State Road 434 in Tusawilla.

SNAP mortgage offered

LONGWOOD — Community State Mortgage, in Longwood, is now providing what is described as an innovative mortgage program that is said to provide prospective borrowers immediate loan approval, "with barely a snap of the fingers."

It's called SNAP, and the Longwood-based mortgage company is one of the few Central Florida lenders offering the program which literally shaves the entire home buying process from weeks to days, said President Lena K. Wasserman.

Community State Mortgage provides a full-range of lending services to a four-county Central Florida market including Seminole, Orange, Osceola and Lake.

Float for IHOP

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Bethany Bourque has been named the Florida Regional winner in the International House of Pancakes' 1996 "Dream Up Our Float" contest. Bourque, a student at St. Mary Magdalen School in Altamonte Springs was selected as one of seven regional winners across the state, in a contest which drew over 8,000 entries nationwide.

She and approximately 30 of her classmates were recently honored by IHOP at a pancake party held at St. Mary Magdalen School. In addition to a plaque, she has also won a bike, camera equipment and sportswear.

The competition, involving youngsters ages six to 12, was to design a new float to be used by IHOP in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade, based on the theme, "Laughter in Your Life."

Ryland names president

Douglas Cohen has been named president of the Orange-Seminole division of Ryland Homes. Cohen has 10 years experience, and was formerly affiliated with Centex Corporation.

Prior to being named as president of the Orange-Seminole division, he was manager of the newly organized Tampa division of Ryland Homes.

Ryland has approximately 11 active communities in Central Florida including a number in Seminole County.

Dave Thomas, happy birthday! Entrepreneur is active in adoption causes

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Business Analyst

SANFORD — It is doubtful employees at Wendy's restaurants located at 3880 Flaggt Lane in Lake Mary and 3717 Orlando Drive in Sanford will be jumping up and down today singing "Happy Birthday To You."

They will be observing the event however, Today is the 63rd birthday anniversary of Dave Thomas, founder of Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers Restaurants.

Only a handful of business founders have been as prominent as Dave Thomas in recent years. He not only appears in his own television commercials, but often makes personal appearances in some of his over 4,500 restaurants worldwide.

His appearance on TV often allows him to exhibit some of his kindly beliefs, yet remain as a prominent and concerned businessman. Few people however, know what Dave Thomas is doing behind the scenes, for himself, and his fellow man.

Thomas, who dropped out of high school at the age of 15, opened the first Wendy's in Columbus, Ohio in 1969. He named it after his fourth child.

He was not satisfied with his education however, and 45 years after he left high school, he obtained his GED in 1993. He also earned the Horatio Alger Award for his real life rags-to-riches success story.

With Thomas as the star since 1989, Wendy's advertising campaigns have provided the highest advertising awareness levels in the company's history, even surpassing the original slogan, "Where's the beef?" launched in 1984.

Thomas has now written two books, an autobiography, "Dave's Way" published in 1991, and "Dave's Way and Well Done!" published in 1994. Proceeds from both books are being donated to adoption-related causes.

Why the adoption concern? Thomas himself was adopted as a small child at a very young age. He realizes the importance of having a home and loving family.

In 1992, he established the Dave Thomas Foundation for Adoption. Prior to that, in 1990, he served as national spokesperson for the White House initiative on adoption, called "Adoption Works... For Everyone."

Earlier this year, Thomas testified before the House Ways and Means Committee, as part of his ongoing effort to promote adoption awareness and adoption benefits. He urged Congressional approval of a proposed $5,000 refundable tax credit for those who adopt a child, as well as an additional $5,000 refundable tax credit for those who adopt a special needs child.

Whether individual Wendy's restaurants will be observing Dave Thomas' birthday today may be up to them. But as far as a person who deserves more than just a happy birthday wish, Dave Thomas is a man to be appreciated by everyone.

Homes and new construction up

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

Regardless of what a person reads or hears, indications are that the number of homes, new construction or sales, are increasing. The increase may be slow in some areas, but in others, expansion is outstanding.

Jim Macon Building Contractor, Inc., a general contracting company, has started a home on speculation, the Marie, at Cross Tie Ranch in Sorrento. Macon is one of several participating custom builders in the community now in the third phase of development, with 210 homes planned overall.

M/I Homes of Altamonte Springs has completed a new model home, the Milano, at its community of Carrington at Hunter's Creek in southwest Orlando. There are 106 homesites in the community with 85 still available.

Calton Homes of Altamonte Springs has announced sales of 63 homes for a dollar volume of $9.1 million during the second quarter, March through May of this year. The sales were in seven communities in Seminole and Orange counties. The average Calton Home is priced at $140,000.

Dye Construction and Development Company of Winter Park has formed a new custom home division and named builder Rick Jennings to head up the division, to be known as the "Collectors' Series of Custom Homes." The new series will begin with construction of a home at the Butler Chain of Lakes, Alaqua, at Wolf Branch Road in Lake County, and one in Altamonte Springs.

Without a doubt, construction and the start of new developments is being announced almost daily in Central Florida, many in Seminole County.

Marte Powell, Florida Association of Realtors (FAR) president commented, "What a great time for homebuyers to be in the market. Sales have been slow the last few months so there is a wide variety of homes on the market."

FAR retail sales figures show 1,298 homes sold in the Orlando Metropolitan Statistical Area alone during May of this year. Only the Tampa/St. Petersburg/Clearwater MSA, had more Realtor home sales in May.

What may be even more important, the costs of new single "family existing" homes in the Orlando MSA increased by only one percent since May of 1994. In comparison, home prices in Gainesville increased by 16 percent in the same period and 11 percent in the Sarasota/Bradenton MSA.

One excellent example of the expansion in residential housing is by scanning planning and zoning meeting agendas and commission meeting agendas from Seminole County and its cities.

Growth is upon Central Florida. It has been that way for decades, and regardless of slow periods which may occur from time to time, growth gives every appearance of continuing.

Inspectors show their appreciation

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

MAITLAND — The Central Florida Mechanical Inspectors Association has presented a "Plaque of Appreciation" to the Mid-Florida Home Builders Association (HBA) for continued support to the chapter.

HBA President Tony Martin accepted the plaque at HBA's Maitland office on June 7. The plaque was presented by Sam Gerace, manager of the Southeast Regional Office of the Southern Building Code Congress International (SBCCI).

Also during the event, Gerace installed the chapter's new officers for the ensuing year. Bill Culbertson has been named president. Culbertson serves as the building official for the city of Longwood.

Also named as new officers were Ralph W. Jones III as vice president, Donnie Pittman as secretary, Chris Walsh as treasurer, and Bennie Tillman as chaplain.

Last year's officers were also presented with plaques for their service to the chapter.

The Central Florida Mechanical Inspectors Chapter was organized in 1972 and is the only mechanical chapter under the SBCCI.

Mid-Florida Home Builders Association is located at 544 Mayo Ave. in Maitland.

Couple mark 50th anniversary Bridesmaids honored; Pilots install

It was more than 50 years ago when a Sanford woman, Grace Kimball McMullen, and her daughter, Ada, were sitting on a park bench in downtown Sanford in the early evening trying to cool off after a hot summer day.

"There was no air conditioning in those days," Ada said. She added that she and her mother, who owned an apartment house at First and Palmetto, would often sit on the bench and the firemen from the fire department would come over to pass the time of day.

On this particular evening, a carload of sailors circled the block before one emerged and approached the attractive young Stetson coed, Ada, who was obviously not interested in his amorous advances.

The mother took charge and made a quick decision. "If you want to go out with her, then meet her at the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning," she said, never expecting to hear from the sailor again.

But guess who came to church bright-eyed and smiling? Sure enough the sailor, George Sires, couldn't wait to again see the girl of his dreams who was later to become his bride. "It was love at first sight," Ada beamed.

She was attending Stetson and the winds of World War II were raging for George who was stationed at Sanford Naval Air Station and subject to overseas duty at any time. After about a year, they were married on June 30, 1945 by the Rev. Dr. Edward Brownlee at the First Presbyterian Church.

Ada said, "He gave me my ring sitting on a swing at Stetson." After their marriage, they honeymooned to Silver Springs. "George got a call to be shipped over," Ada said, "but it didn't happen."

In August the war ended and George, who is from Massachusetts, was soon discharged and wanted to settle down in Florida. Later, he went to work at Cape Canaveral where he retired.

After moving to Sanford in 1930, Ada graduated from Seminole High School and attended Stetson University for two years.

She was always interested in education and received her BS degree from Rollins College, Winter Park, in 1979.

She was a school teacher in Seminole County for 18 years and has been employed by the Head Start Program since its inception. Before Head Start, Ada was a teacher at the Little Red Schoolhouse. Still happily employed full time, Ada said, "I love teaching children and helping families."

The Sireses are the parents of five children: Rick Sires, Tampa; Connie Raymond, Orlando; Sherri Sammon, Los Angeles; Kay Sayed, Orlando; and Kim Harrington, Orlando, all graduates of Seminole High School. There are 10 grandchildren. After the July Fourth week, all the families plan to go to the beach. In talking, Ada constantly mentions her family. "Having family get-togethers is our big thing," she said.

The couple enjoy sports of all kinds, swimming, reading, crafts and tropical fish, among other activities.

Seniors working on dolls for RSVP Christmas Store

It may only be July but the Lake Mary seniors are already getting ready for Christmas. Every year, the Lake Mary seniors and other seniors in the area work with RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) to provide a Christmas store for needy children.

The Lake Mary seniors have begun working on dolls for the store. Besides the dolls for the store, the seniors are also making baby items for the school of choice. You can help by donating material or time.

Right now, the seniors need baby yarn, 4-ply yarn, various shades of tan and brown cloth, fabric paint and new dish towels. If you would like to donate time,

Rotary distributes contributions Groups receive funds to continue charities

The Rotary Club of Longwood celebrated one of the final events of its fiscal year and the most important event — the 1994-95 Distribution of Contributions Program. Members work so hard all year long on this program raising money in order to provide contributions for community services and projects for organizations that serve the public. This year as in the past, the two major fund-raisers, the golf tournament and the casino night, raised enough money to help support 15 different organizations. In addition, the Rotary Club of Longwood also contributed to 10 other activities and/or causes that occurred during the year.

Chris Boyko, Quest, Inc. (formerly Life Concepts and the Central Florida Sheltered Workshop) accepted the Rotary's contribution for scholarship assistance to "Camp Thunderbird," a camp for developmentally disabled adults and children, located within the Wekiva Springs State Park.

Steve Rabb, the field director of the Boy Scouts of America, accepted the contribution from the Rotary Club to install the values of scouting in urban areas in the form of a paid scoutmaster position.

Lt. Greg Frank of the Salvation Army thanked the Rotary Club for their contribution which will serve underprivileged children in a day camp setting as a relief to the year round school situation.

A wonderful spokesperson for the Alzheimer Resource Center, Dr. Ralph Gunter explained the plight of those stricken with this disease and the circumstances of some of the family members as a result.

Don Nolt, director of Neighborhood Association Bringing Home Repairs to Seminole, St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, and Pastor Charles Wallick, entertained the audience with a rendition of "Shanty Town" in which the men sang of the "rats, cockroaches, and termites abound, neighbors will help..."

David Whitehead, a graduate of Lyman High School and son of Spencer and Janet Whitehead of Longwood, was introduced as this year's scholarship recipient and announced his plans to attend Stetson University to study music in the fall.

Annie Evans of Habitat for Humanity, Kay Hawkins of Hospice of Central Florida, and Ed Thomas of Seminole YMCA also accepted contributions. See Longwood, Page 6B

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Larrell C. Walker

Lisa Mobley, Larrell Walker exchange vows

SANFORD — Lisa Diane Mobley and Larrell C. Walker were married May 27, 1995, at 1 p.m. at the New Bethel AME Church, Sanford. The Rev. Mary Conaway, United Methodist Church, Baltimore, Md., performed the double ring ceremony. Communion was accepted by the couple as part of their vows. Assistants for the communion were the Rev. and Mrs. J.L. Bryant. He is pastor of New Bethel.

The bride is the daughter of Freddie and Lenora Mobley of Sanford, and the groom is the brother of the Rev. Mary Conaway, Baltimore.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose for her vows a white silk organza over tulle, ankle-length, gown. The skirt was decorated with tiny white silk roses. The fitted, decollete bodice featured a square neckline covered in organza and dotted with white satin sweetheart roses. The transparent sleeves were in the tulip design with leaves of applique. Her illusion veil of imported netting was held by a circlet of white silk roses interspersed with sprays of white pearls. She carried a nosegay of white roses accented with greenery and tied with white and gold streamers.

The groom wore a white tuxedo with tails, white satin bowtie, and carried a single white rose boutonniere in his lapel.

Mauchal Jackson Hardy served the bride as matron of honor. She wore a street-length white suit trimmed in gold with gold accessories. She carried a bouquet identical to the bride's. The Rev. Randall Hall served the groom as best man.

daughter Kim entertained at a reception Saturday, July 1, at her home in Orlando. Featured at the reception was a large tiered wedding cake embossed with gold leaves and in a fountain.

Before the reception, the surprise of the day came when a limo arrived to take the couple on a tour past the First Presbyterian Church. Then, it was on to Orlando to Lake Eola for a carriage ride. As a tribute, the family plans to donate a park bench in their parents' name for the lakefront, one of their favorite spots today.

Kim said, "We have the plaque and the bench will come later."

The couple have had a happy life together. Ada said, "Our happiness has outweighed everything. The power of God has very much to do with it."

Would Ada do it all over again? "I'm sure, I sure would...I sure would. No ands, ifs and buts about it."

Bridesmaids luncheon

The Rose Cottage Tea Room was the attractive setting for the traditional bridesmaids luncheon on May 19 given by Kristi Meriwether for her bridal attendants. The luncheon menu featured a three-tiered tray stacked with four kinds of sandwiches, pastries and a fruit bowl accompanied by raspberry tea and coffee.

The bride presented her bridesmaids with a decorated bag containing earrings for each to wear at the wedding and a heart-shaped crystal box. Each attendant received a crystal box.

The honored attendants are: Ashley Grimshaw, matron of honor; Jenni Meriwether, Cindi Meriwether, Virginia Lommerse, Frances Lommerse, Annette Lommerse and Audra Sanborn, bridesmaids; Katie Quinn, flower girl; Carrie Zoss and Maureen Quinn, altar servers; and Jennifer Lindamood and Lisa Bakowski, readers.

Others attending included: Vicki Meriwether, mother of the bride; Helen Meriwether, grandmother of the bride; Bernice Zoss, great aunt of the bride; Zexie Zoss, cousin of the bride; Cindy Sanborn, aunt of the bride; Pam Weaver, aunt of the bride; and Myra Schanel.

Sawyer addresses garden club

The Rose Cottage Tea Room in Sanford provided a delightful meeting place for the Lake Mary Garden Club's last meeting before summer break. The club met at the tea room for a short business meeting followed by a delicious luncheon of soup, fruit salad, finger sandwiches, and, of course, tea. Club members also took this time to present past president Mary Jane Duryea with a gift of appreciation for her six years as president.

The guest speaker for the meeting was Lake Mary City Commissioner Sheila Sawyer. Sheila came to inform members about the three ballot issues up for vote in the August election. One of the issues is the Public Safety Complex. The current complex was adequate for the city's needs when it was built. Since then, Lake Mary has entered into an agreement with the county to provide advanced life support. This means that Lake Mary citizens are only minutes away from advanced emergency help. But for the Public Safety complex, the addition of the county vehicles has meant extreme overcrowding. A Citizens' Building Committee has recommended that a new 10,800 square foot police facility be built at the current site. The current facility would then be renovated to provide the expanded space that the fire and rescue squads so desperately need. It would also provide space for an emergency operations center, something the city currently lacks.

The second item for consideration is Parks and Recreation. This would provide for a maintenance and storage facility at the sports complex. It would also provide for either building a new multi-purpose building for the city or renovating an existing building for that purpose.

The last item for consideration is paving and drainage. This would provide for their paving of five streets that are in desperate need of it. It would also provide for a stormwater system for downtown Lake Mary, something the city also needs rather desperately.

The bottom line for the vote is that each of these projects is good for Lake Mary and none of them will cause a property tax increase.

The Lake Mary Garden Club will not be meeting again until September 24. They will return to their usual meeting place at the Frank Evans Center.

from the Rotarians for their organizations.

In addition to these substantial contributions, the Rotary of Longwood also supported the following organizations during the year: Salvation Army with 50 turkeys at Thanksgiving; Rotary District 526 for earthquake and Oklahoma relief; Lyman, Lake Mary and Lake Brantley Project Graduation; Apopka Breakfast Club charter gift; balance of two Paul Harris Fellows and Idylwild field trip.

As Carmen Anzivino retires as president for this year, he reminded his fellow Rotarians of their motto, "Be A Friend," and of their national goal to eliminate polio in this century of the 50th anniversary of the United Nations in which two Rotarians will speak, and locally, the blood drive on July 18 of which the Rotary Club of Longwood is number one in participation.

AARP craft event huge success

The recent first annual craft show and sale of the Winter Springs AARP Chapter 4949, was a huge success with many participants and a large audience. A number of vendors displayed art work and handcrafts that ranged from water color paintings to ceramics, a variety of handmade baskets, jewelry, T-shirts, tableware and treasures of all shapes and sizes.

Ada Johnson of Winter Springs won first place with her watercolor painting, several ceramic pieces and a book of her own poetry. Gaynell Sadowski of Casselberry placed second with a large variety of handknit items, dolls, and a unique table-size Christmas tree; Ethel Spencer of Casselberry won honorable mention with her colorful hand woven baskets.

Richard A. Kay, Seminole County Sheriff's Office, gave an informational speech regarding residential security and cautionary tips on crime prevention, and the Vial-A-Life Program.

Olive White, SHINE (Serving Health Insurance Needs for the Elderly) counsel coordinator, distributed literature describing the program which is sponsored by RSVP and AARP.

Mark your calendar for the next meeting to be held on July 17 at 1:30 p.m. at 400 N. Edgemon Avenue, Winter Springs when the founder of the National Alzheimer's Foundation, Pat Jiminson, will be the guest speaker. For further information, call June Sunderland at 695-1861.

Auto thefts solved

Investigators have solved 72 auto thefts that occurred in the Wekiva and Sweetwater areas of Seminole County since August of 1994, according to police reports. Investigators have asked the state attorney to file "grand theft" charges against six youths believed to be responsible for over 200 thefts in Seminole, Orange and Volusia counties between August 1994 and April 1995 when the youths were apprehended, the report states. Not one auto theft has been reported since the suspects were arrested in April of 1995.

The Sheriff's Office advises vehicle owners to take the following precautions to avoid becoming a crime victim: park in a locked garage overnight, secure steering wheel with a locked mechanical device, never leave valuables in your vehicle overnight.

Church Mass Choir was indeed a spiritual success. The theme "Look How Far We've Come with the Lord" befit the occasion. Saturday evening, June 24, the mass choir, under the direction of the minister of music, Eloise L. Williams-George, presented music with a spiritual upbeat in nearing the heavenly gates. The opportunity to present this praise program was shown on the faces and heard through their melodious voices. The audience was most receptive to the opening praises led by the Rev. Marcus King, radio gospel personality of Jacksonville's WGLL. He served as worship leader and master of ceremonies for the evening.

Special thanks goes out to guest musicians Charles Jackson, president of the Sanford/Central Florida Musician's Guild, Joshua Ferguson, Rodney Quarterman and Chris Nears. The message of Christian love, prayer and power in song and words was expressed in the choir's selections. Pastor Dwayne K. Gaddis's voice added thunderous joy and beautiful tones as he led a spirit-filled selection.

Members of the Sanford community are very proud of Angela's accomplishments. Many have joined together to admire, applaud and support her for her efforts. The Full Service School drop-out prevention teacher, Helen Morris, community servants and churches have given her financial and moral support to make this trip possible.

Duke accepts Wiggins

Angela Wiggins, one of Seminole High's rising 12th graders, will be attending Duke University's pre-college program in Durham, N.C. Only those students who are recognized as being in the top one percent in the nation are invited to participate in such prestigious programs. Angela will join 119 other students who have been chosen for this six-week program on the basis of academic status, extra-curricular activities, and written essays. Angela will be enrolled in college courses and will earn college credits.

Man, wife should compromise

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, my husband, "Al," took a notion to buy property in a nearby state. He has a tendency to be depressed, and I have a tendency to say yes to make him happy. So, seven years and $70,000 borrowed dollars later, we own a family cabin in West Virginia. Al is now semi-retired, and it's the center of his world.

My problem: He expects me to accompany him and share his enthusiasm for the place, but I'm no more interested in it than I am in the man in the moon. I'm quite happy staying home and pursuing my own interests, which are many. (None of them involves "fooling around.") When I'm at the cabin, I feel isolated, trapped and homeick.

Al is so attached to the place that he takes my rejection of it personally. (Or else, when I tell him how I feel, he just doesn't hear me.) I dread the approaching summer.

Surely I'm not the only wife in a long marriage (35 years) whose husband finds a new pastime — golf, a boat, bridge — and insists that his wife go along with it. How have other women dealt with this problem? What do you suggest I do?

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I bought a house last year, and we are building an addition onto it. I have been working on it during the day, and some nights, too. I used to go to the gym about two days a week for two or three hours. My wife complained that I wasn't home enough, so I asked her to go to the gym with me. She refused, so I stopped going, too.

She spends a lot of time watching television. When I try to talk to her, she hushes me up so she can hear the TV, so I go and do more work on the house. She can't physically help me, but she could hand me nails and tools, and keep me company.

Sitting around watching television and drinking beer is not my idea of spending time with my wife.

I have offered to take her out to dinner, but that didn't work either because she would have to miss one of her television programs.

We don't have children yet, although we hope to have some, but she isn't working very hard on that either. Can you help me?

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: The person in your family who needs advice is your wife. She appears to be very immature and needs to reorganize her priorities. If she doesn't wake up to the fact that she is doing very little to make a successful marriage, she is due for a rude awakening.

If you haven't considered marriage counseling as a couple, please do. And please do not have children unless (and until) your marriage is secure.

DEAR BOXED IN, IN MARYLAND: Sit down with your husband and work out a compromise. You are entitled to spend some of the summer watching what you enjoy. But don't put Al in the position of doing everything alone — or that will be the beginning of the end. Even though you're not joined at the hip, you are married, and marriage requires compromise.

Perhaps you could pursue some of your interests at the cabin. For instance, catch up on books and magazines, start (or complete) a craft project, or knock off a chore you've been putting off for months, such as putting loose pictures in an

HOROSCOPES

By Bernice Bode Ouel
YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 2, 1995

In the year ahead, your circle of friends and contacts might expand significantly. A word of warning, however: Do not enter into business arrangements with new acquaintances.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You mustn't shelve or postpone responsibilities that you should take care of today. They could mess up your schedule if you attempt to squeeze them in later. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10183.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Even though material conditions show evidence of improving, this is not the time to be extravagant or wasteful. Make every penny count.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Poor judgment and impulsiveness could prove to be the two biggest detriments to your success today. Try not to adopt a rash attitude.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Think before speaking today, or you might let the cat out of the bag regarding something that is supposed to be kept secret for at least for a little longer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It could prove wise to keep your friends out of your financial affairs today. Although they may try to help, they'll probably jam up the works.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You cannot afford to be slack or undisciplined in career matters today. One mistake could let something opportune slip through your fingers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone who knows how to manipulate you might try to take advantage of your generous nature today. Try not to trot after the carrot on the stick.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you borrow something valuable from a friend today, you will

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

There is something fascinating about a deal in which the declarer brings home a game despite a paucity of trumps. True, seven trumps are often enough. Even six might be sufficient in a strong 6-0 or 5-1 fit, but what happens when they are split 4-2? Usually trouble is waiting just around the corner. But not in today's deal, which occurred during the Women's Teams at the Zone 4 Championships, held in Amman, Jordan, from April 22 to May 3.

The auction isn't on record, so I have guessed how South, Quasia Dossa from Pakistan, ended in four hearts.

West led a spade, East taking dummy's queen with her ace. The best return is a spade, removing dummy's potential entry, but East switched to the club queen. After declarer ducked smoothly, East, thinking she was onto a good thing, continued with the club jack. Dossa won with her ace, played a trump to dummy's jack and ran the diamond queen successfully.

Declarer unblocked dummy's heart queen, played a diamond to her ace, drew trumps, discarding a spade and a club from the dummy, and exited with her last diamond.

For once, luck was at home. East won with the king and, with only spades remaining in her hand, had to give the lead to the dummy. Declarer's 10 tricks were one spade, four hearts, four diamonds and one club.

A very well-played hand -- to lose one international match-point! Three no-trump by North made 11 tricks on a low-spade lead in the other room.

Phillip Alder's new book, "Get Smarter at Bridge," is available, autographed upon request, for $14.95 from P.O. Box 169,

Eighth grader's sketch chosen to represent waterway cleanup

By ANDREW CARDONA
Special to the Herald

LONGWOOD — In an effort to involve county students in the Great Seminole County Waterway Cleanup, the Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service and the Florida Department of Environmental Protection launched the 1995 cleanup campaign with their first annual T-shirt design contest.

This first year art contest attracted 150 Seminole County middle and high school students.

After the judges reviewed all the drawings, first place was awarded to a sketch by Khlem Nguyen, an eighth grade student from South Seminole Middle School in Casselberry.

His sketch reveals a view of a calm river with billowy clouds. Wildlife is portrayed in the foreground of the drawing with a person canoeing in the river. The artist displays litter floating in the river. The judges agreed that the winning design is an excellent representation of the volunteer effort needed to clean up the county's extensive waterways.

As the top finisher in the art contest, Nguyen will receive a proclamation from the Seminole County Board of County Commissioners declaring his drawing the official logo for the 1995 Great Seminole County Waterway Cleanup campaign. The commissioners will issue the proclamation at their July 11 meeting at 1:30 p.m. in the commission chambers located in the County Services Building in Sanford.

Nguyen's drawing, name and school will be printed on the front of the T-shirts that will be given to volunteers for their participation in the July 8 water cleanup.

The judges also selected second and third place finishers. Lake Mary High School artist, Leah

Khlem Nguyen

Sag, placed second in the contest and third place finisher Paul Kreuter, made it a double win for the Rams.

In addition, 11 runners-up were chosen. They will also be recognized by the Seminole County Board of County Commissioners at their July 11 meeting and their art work will also be displayed in the lobby of the County Services Building. The decision of the judges was based on the following criteria: artistic skill, creativity and design as it related to the event.

The July 8 event still needs volunteers to help clean up Seminole County's waterways. Interested persons and organizations are encouraged to call the Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service for more information at (407) 328-3247.

Hot weather tips

When the heat index moves up, it's time to start cutting back on eating meat and other food with lots of protein. The heat in your body increases metabolic production in the body and also increases water loss, which makes eating meat like "putting fuel on your inner fire," according to the National Weather Service.

Some other tips for dealing with hot, muggy weather:

- Slow down. Your body cannot do its best in high temperatures and humidity.
- Head your body's early warnings of heat exhaustion — headaches, nausea, dizziness — and get out of the sun and cool down with water on pulse points.
- Drink for summer with lightweight, light-colored clothing that reflects heat sunlight.
- Drink plenty of water.
- Unless you are on a salt-restricted diet, increase your salt intake. The salt goes into cells through the large end of capillaries and is then forced to exit through the little end, essentially blocking the cells so liquids stay in the cells longer.
- Sunburn makes the job of heat dissipation more difficult. If you can't stay out of the sun, at least use sun block.
