TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE
 None of the greatest have had no money in their purse. He said unto them, "I am going to a territory that I may see it."—Mark 12:15.

Beware of the rumormonger, particularly at any time of national crisis. You may not be able to believe anything you see in the paper, but you will find it nearer the truth than what you hear on the streets.

The Orlando Sentinel estimates that 29,000 homes in Orlando during its first year, 1950-51, are worth more than $1,000,000 a month. This figure is based on an estimate that each of the 5,900 tracthouses down there spends an average of $50 a week.

Some idea of what the tourist business means to Florida is gained from the report of the State Chamber of Commerce that a total of 1,237,830 out-of-state automobiles came into Florida last year. The average passenger load of each automobile was 2.48 persons. All of which tends to show not only the importance of tourists but also of good highways.

Are you worrying about the possible draft of your husband, son, or yourself? Well, Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell warns that in the next war our civilian population probably faces graver dangers from atomic bombs and air raids than our soldiers in uniform. Perhaps the safest place a person can be in when war comes with Russia will be in the Army.

The trials and tribulations of a newspaper editor are being learned the hard way by Orlando's young John A. Baker, student editor of the University of Florida's Alligator, which is trying desperately to be as fearless as it is independent and is running into all sorts of opposition from entrenched interests. We all believe in freedom of the press, of course, that is, until someone's views clash with our own.

Although it is depressing to note that American casualties in Korea have nearly reached the 50,000 mark, that nearly 8,000 Americans have been killed, it is encouraging to read reports of the slaughter being inflicted upon Chinese troops. For every American killed a hundred Chinese lay dead, seems to be about the way the score is running. And yet if this thing keeps up much longer, as the Japanese general used to say, there won't be any of us left.

A report from Washington reveals that President Truman will not seek another term in the White House but will content himself to run for the Senate from his home state of Missouri. But this is promptly denied by close associates who seem to feel that the President's prestige may be undermined if the shortness of his remaining months in the White House became generally understood. However the idea fascinates us, Missouri is welcome to him. She deserves him.

From Roger Babson comes a copy of one of his recent newspaper columns in which he says "There is no more certain way of wrecking our economy and our democracy than by allowing the value of our dollar to continue to decline". It does not take a false economist who has spent his entire life in the study of government and financial problems to know this. Even the man in the street realizes that the dollar he earns today or receives from his old age pension is worth only about half as much as it was ten years ago. What it will be worth ten years from now it is hard to say. But it is certain that the man who receives a pension of $7,700 a year (about $5 cents) will be worth only 77,000 cents.

"For The Army"

Someone who used the false claim that an army shipment was involved, in an attempt to get a trucker and his overloaded vehicle free from the clutches of the law, apparently will get away with it. Federal District Attorney Otto Kerner Jr. of Chicago said there was no ground for prosecution because the ruse was not successful and hence nothing of value was obtained by the impersonation of an army officer.

No doubt the district attorney knows what he is doing. But to the lay mind this is like reasoning that a safecracker who fails to get the safe open therefore has not committed any wrong.

It is a serious matter to seek advantage by engaging falsely to be connected with the government, or engaged in an enterprise for the government. It is especially serious in a time of emergency such as the present. Certain materials are in short supply, and are restricted to government-approved uses. If there are transportation bottlenecks; or if manpower becomes scarce, precedence must be given to things and jobs which are for the defense program. In this situation it means something quite special to say, "This is for the Army," or "This is for defense."

When the claim is made falsely, the nation is defrauded. There is a diversion of attention, materials or energy away from the needed works of defense and toward an undeserving beneficiary. We cannot fail to heed the designation of things which should have precedence because of military need; nor can we take lightly the false use of that designation.

Hoover Asserts

 evidence against Stassen's "improbable interpretation" of the pact was overwhelming.
 Wherry took the offensive against the two Republican leaders in a strongly-worded 8,500-word statement read to the Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of Foreign Relations and Russell (D-Ga) of Armed Services have prepared a substitute for the resolution. It would, in effect, give the President the advance backing of the Senate to send troops to Europe provided he consulted with top defense and congressional officials.

Connally and Russell said they would reject two amendments offered yesterday by Senator Taft of Ohio, the Senate Republican policy leader, one of which would require congressional approval for any troop commitment.

The issue has split the leadership of the Republicans. Roughly, it finds Dewey and Stassen lined up on one side, and Taft, Wherry, Forrest, Truman, Herbert Hoover on the other.

Hoover had an afternoon appointment to testify.

Both Governor Dewey and Stassen aroused Wherry's ire when they urged the defeat of his resolution.

The New York Governor said last Saturday:
 "I'm for taking up the Wherry resolution at the earliest time and leaving it by the highest possible vote, so that the world will know we are not going to turn tail and pull out of Europe."

Stassen, the day before, had testified two-thirds of the Republicans backed troops for Europe. He said Wherry's resolution was fundamentally wrong.

Wherry said today Stassen had presented "no supporting evidence" for his Republican support statement.

And in another biting reference to Dewey, the Nebraska said:
 "Then there are those, including Governor Dewey, who urged that the well-defined legislative procedure required pursuant to the (North Atlantic) treaty should be scrapped, tossed out of the window, and that the President in line with exploded philosophy of divine right of kings, decree by character and the United States shall furnish."

Wherry contended that what he called the surrender of power by Congress to determine whether U. S. troops will join the North Atlantic defense force would set a dangerous precedent.
 "That is a road to government by men and not by law," he declared.

 U. S. First Marine Division—apparently has thwarted or delayed a Chinese counter-offensive by four to six armies.

A U. S. Army spokesman said 100,000 Chinese had been shifted into defense positions. He added that it would require several weeks for the Reds to regroup for any drive against the Allies.

A P. correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported "all evidence along the central front continued to point to a planned withdrawal" behind stubborn rearward actions.

The disclosure that the First Marine Division is pacing the drive in the mid-section of the central front was the first report of the hardened Leathernecks in action since December.

They inflicted tremendous losses on the Chinese before boarding ships of an Allied evacuation fleet.

There was no news about the Marines after they landed in southeast Korea, but it was disclosed they have been mopping up bypassed Reds since early in January.

In Tuesday's action, the Leathernecks seized commanding hills south and southeast of rubble Hoengsong. The town has become a no-man's land with Communists on the north and Communists on the south.

ista dug in on hills to the north, on the approaches to the Red stronghold of Hoengsong. Hoengsong is 16 miles northwest of Hoengsong.

The Marines are one of seven U. S. divisions in the Allied line stretching irregularly from the Yellow Sea west coast to the east-central front town of Pangnim, an airline distance of 150 miles from the east coast.

A P. correspondent Leif Erickson at Eighth Army headquarters said all seven American divisions are being used on a single front under a single field commander for the first time in the Korean war.

On the east end of the line are the U. S. Seventh and Second Divisions. The Seventh Division captured the small village of Malta, three miles west of Pangnim, while the Second was smashing the Red counter-thrust on the left flank Tuesday.

The Marines are on the left flank of the Second Division. West of the Marines are the 24th Infantry and First Cavalry, between Hoengsong and Yangpyong 27 miles east of Seoul, and the 25 and Third Infantry, in the west sector between Seoul and Yangpyong.

Arrayed with these American outfits are four Republic of Korea (ROK) Divisions, and elements of British, Canadian, Greek, Turkish, Australian, French and Dutch.

The west-central and western sectors were relatively quiet early Tuesday. The U. S. First Cavalry and British elements met determined Red resistance near Yongju late Monday. Yongju is 15 miles northwest of Hoengsong.

A 24th Division patrol tangled Monday with a Red force twice its size 13 miles southwest of Yongju. Infantrymen, using their rifles for clubs after their ammunition ran out, took a hill from the Reds.

In the Seoul area, U. S. Third Division units exchanged artillery and mortar fire with the Communists. The Reds drove back attempts by Allied patrols to cross the Han River east of Seoul.

There were continuing reports of Red buildups behind Seoul and the mountain central front.

A P. correspondent Tom Bradshaw reported reconnaissance estimates of 40,000 Chinese in the Hoengsong area north of Seoul. He said Seoul and the Pukhan River, north of the Han, another 10,000 Chinese were spotted. An estimated 100,000 Chinese were dug in above the central front battline in an area between and north of Yangpyong and Hoengsong.

Air spotters reported an intricate network of trenches.

Inexcusable Gap

One of the easiest tasks in the world is to get a legislature to stiffen the law for hunting down animal pests such as hawks and foxes. One of the hardest is to enact a statute which will make it easier to run down human vermin. Of the 48 states only 11 have laws which force runaway husbands to provide for their deserted wives and children in another state. In these lucky 11 a deserting husband from any other state in the group can be brought into court and made to support his dependents. Extradition to the state where the dependents live thus is not required.

Why only 11 states have taken this action is a mystery. Much talk is heard nowadays of states' rights, and the encroachments of the federal government in fields of which the states should take care. These encroachments will continue as long as the states neglect areas where action is needed. State lines should not provide a refuge for deserters of wives and children.

This is a year in which the great majority of legislatures meet. States outside of the enlightened 11 should consider closing this loophole in their laws.

Communism In Africa

Communism may be spreading in Asia, but strong feeling against it is evident in Africa, according to Dr. George H. T. Kimble, director of the American Geographical Society, who has spent some time on that continent recently.

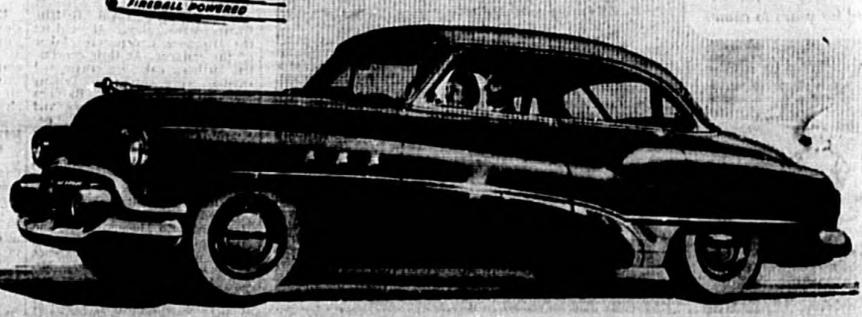

The traditional loyalty of the natives to the family and to the tribe militates against Communism's exclusive emphasis on the state, says Dr. Kimble. In the course of his travels he has observed that the population has begun to feel the threat of Communism, citing as evidence the maul-head motto of one African newspaper; "We prefer self-government with danger to servitude in tranquility."

The economic and political backwardness of Asia has without doubt been a strong factor in the susceptibility of Asian peoples to Communism. It might be supposed that the same factor would apply in Africa. Perhaps there is justification for hope that this will not be so.

 the name of Young and Rosenbaum.
 "Taken alone, without regard to other business transactions," Fulbright said, the incident of the coat might seem unrelated to the inquiry.
 Rosenbaum was a witness before the subcommittee last Friday but at that time was not asked about the coat.
 He protested the subcommittee's description of him in a recent report to the Senate as apparently wielding influence on the RFC.
 As a matter of fact, Rosenbaum contended, his law firm had not had unusual success in handling RFC cases. He said it had represented 30 loan seekers, and that in 15 cases loans were granted while in 15 they were "denied or abandoned."
 Giving his recollection of the coat sale, Wheeler said Frank Rosenbaum, whom he believes to be a brother of Joseph Rosenbaum, telephoned him that Young would come in to buy a coat.
 He said Mr. and Mrs. Young did select the garment—"one of the better coats" in the store. It was ing: "I'm not going to vote for any appropriation where I feel that it can be postponed for another biennium."

 The Legislature convenes for its biennial session Apr. 4.
 Of the sales tax, Shands said: "Revision is the only program I have to offer. Many people have suggested what they would call an across-the-board tax and a probable reduction in the overall rate. But I am fearful that those advocating this have not taken into consideration that it would be charged to Young, but a few days later on instructions from Frank Rosenbaum it was shifted to the account of 'Col. Joe Rosenbaum' and paid off in two installments in the last two months—$50 in January and one in February."
 Wheeler supplied the subcommittee with what he said were the available records of the sale, but said he could not find the original sales slip which Young signed.
 "Nothing is in question now," he added, to show the coat over was charged to Young.

He added that since the sales tax has been in operation for two years, "I feel that we will have an opportunity to put the state on a sound fiscal policy and one that will keep pace with the growth of the state."
 Shands said he felt that funds should remain in the exempt column.
 When asked about the $100 maximum in the present tax law, the Senator replied:
 "That is an item that deserves considerable study on the part of everyone. Many feel that that is a protection to the so-called large industry thereby penalizing the small man."
 "But he noted, 'a change in this might mean a barrier to industrial development. We should take into consideration that the development of industry means the development of substantial sources of taxes to counties and to the municipalities."
 Shands expects that "there will be many demands on the coming legislature for expansion of various services and I recognize that these various services are highly desirable."

Bradley Batters Oklahoma Aggies; Kentucky Retains Lead In AP Poll

By JOE FALLS

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—Kentate joined Kentucky and Arizona in the NCAA basketball fold today, but two other hopefuls—Oklahoma A & M and Brigham Young—were still on the outside looking in.

Kentucky whipped Nebraska, 74-48, last night to clinch the Big Seven championship and an automatic bid to the national playoffs.

But Oklahoma A & M, driving to sew up the Missouri Valley title, was sidetracked by Bradley, 61-50, when Fred Schlickman connected with a 30-foot field goal in the fading seconds.

Now the Aggies must whip St. Louis Saturday in St. Louis. The Billikens have lost only one game at home all season.

St. Louis, sparked by Ray Steiner and Bob Koch, took full advantage of Oklahoma A & M's misplay and crushed Detroit 64-50. Steiner and Koch scored 18 points each.

Oklahoma A & M with three league games to play has a 10-1 record. St. Louis (11-2) concludes its season against the Aggies Saturday.

Brigham Young's situation is not so serious. The Cougars are assured at least a tie in the Skyline Conference so their 50-49 loss to Wyoming merely delayed the clinching date.

Two other teams—Columbia and North Carolina State—are expected to gain NCCA berths this week.

In the Big 10 race Indiana crept to within one game of leading Illinois with a 63-53 victory over Iowa. Indiana built up a 20-6 lead at the start and it was easy from there on. Bill Toshoff scored 19 points for the winners but Iowa's Chuck Darling took scoring honors with 20 markers.

Other Western Conference action saw Northwestern win Wisconsin 84-83; Michigan edge Wisconsin 82-50 and Minnesota down Michigan State 66-39.

In other games NYU stomped on Notre Dame 87-72; Vanderbilt bounced Georgia 69-57; Toledo roared past Xavier 70-41; Kansas edged Colorado 58-56; Marquette defeated Bowling Green, 60-56; Drake turned back Creighton, 60-50; Missouri downed Iowa State, 52-44; TCU trimmed Arkansas, 62-42, and Denver thumped Utah State, 50-73.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—With one week left, Kentucky is firmly entrenched as the No. 1 college basketball team in the country.

The Wildcats again topped the Associated Press poll today, and they figure to be in front this time next week, when the final returns are in. Only a near-miracle can keep them away from their second poll victory in three years.

Oklahoma A & M placed second to Kentucky, but the Aggies lost considerable stature last night when they dropped a 51-50 decision to fifth-ranked Bradley.

Votes from the 106 sports writers and broadcasters who participated in the balloting were cast before Oklahoma A & M's setback. Kentucky, with 24 victories in 28 starts, attracted 75 first-place A & M drew 28 first-place votes and 954 points.

The rest of the top ten consisted of Columbia (3), Kansas State (4), Bradley (5), Illinois (6), Indiana (7), North Carolina State (8), St. John's (9) and St. Louis (10).

Here are the leaders with first place votes and season's record through last night's games in parentheses (points are awarded on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for second, etc.):

The Top Ten:

1. Kentucky (75) (24-1)	1221
2. Oklahoma A. & M. (28) (25-2)	954
3. Columbia (11) (19-0)	801
4. Kansas State (3) (19-3)	681
5. Bradley (2) (27-4)	492
6. Illinois (5) (7-3)	454
7. Indiana (8) (17-3)	441
8. North Carolina State (3) (25-4)	390
9. St. John's (2) (20-3)	354
10. St. Louis (21-6)	298

The Second Ten:

11. Brigham Young (2) (23-6)	224
12. Arizona (22-4)	175
13. Toledo (6) (21-6)	100
14. Dayton (3) (23-4)	79
15. Villanova (3) (22-4)	77
16. Belmont (5) (17-4)	69
17. ULA (1) (16-8)	62
18. Southern California (4) (20-4)	51

Straight from the Horse's Mouth

By ED HARPER

Until this year major league baseball rules stipulated that no organized training could begin before the first of March. The rule was changed at the mid-winter baseball conference partly in recognition of the fact that it takes longer than a month to get hoga players in condition for the grueling 154 game summer schedule and partly in recognition of the money which has been pouring in at exhibition games.

Sunday the Giants played an exhibition game here which was in its own way unique—it was free. The stands and bleachers were packed and the Giants—headed by master showman Leo Durocher—put on a watered down imitation of a big league game.

The pitchers were bearing down harder than usual in spring training but taking no risks with their winter-stiffened arms. They didn't have to with the batters eyes as rusty as they were.

Clint Hartung hit the only home run. The lanky pitcher turned outfielder lumbered up to the plate looking down on the heads of his relatively diminutive teammates and tapped the ball 400 feet over the left center field wall. He couldn't hide a grin as he rounded third.

The big guy has been a disappointment as a pitcher in the past two seasons and Durocher—master of expediency—is going to utilize his power in left field this year. He is one of the imponderables which may give the Giants their first pennant in way too long.

Castoff Jim Hearn looked like a winner as he reared back and burned the ball in from a tremendous upward step during the windup.

As a matter of fact the Giant pitching staff was impressive all the way down the line. Control was there in almost every pitch and every pitch and Sal Maglie, 18-4 winner last year, looked as if he could go nine innings right then as he burned them past the second string. Giants and farm club players who made up the majority of players in the intra-

VERO BEACH, Feb. 27—(AP)—Hugo Don Newcombe, Brooklyn Dodgers' pitching star, has discovered a more effective way to lose weight than hard work.

The Negro ace, who came to camp weighing around 240 pounds, is just getting over the effects of the flu. He says that during the past three days while he was out of action he discarded more poundage than in the four days he had worked out.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 27—(AP)—The New York Yankees' variety pitchers, who have attempted little more than easy tosses thus far, are scheduled for more serious chores Thursday, when they'll pitch in batting practice.

That is the day when the team's regulars really get into harness for the training grind.

CLEARWATER, Feb. 27—(AP)—Pitcher Bubba Church, still a holdout, works out today for the first time with the National squad game.

Bob Thompson, rangy outfielder, hit the second longest ball, a sizzling triple. The big scotman has all the physical equipment and easy relaxed alertness which goes into the making of a great ball player. He had a good season last year and the feeling in this corner is that he will have a better one next year.

The antithesis of the Thompson type is frenetic, eager Dave Williams. A second baseman with-out peer as a fielder, the little guy wields a weak stick compared to Eddie Stanky, but yet he beat the ruly Alabamian out of his position in the next couple of seasons.

As always Durocher demanded and got hustle from the team. One of the great secrets of the former Brooklyn manager is his ability to have an "up" team when a vital series or game is at stake. Inspiration isn't exactly the word—maybe the former member of the Gas-house Gang just infects his players with some of his own combattivens.

Whatever the reason the spirit was there even in a spring drill which saw pitchers playing in the outfield and an outfielder looking inonense on first base.

It was a good game and this column would like to express the thanks of Sanford to the Giants for putting it on—free.

Bubba Church pitched for Jim Konstanty, Robin Roberts and Russ Meyer take turns on the mound yesterday and commented: "Days like this kinda make you hedge a little on your demands."

BRALENTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—Roy Hartfield who didn't shine as expected last summer while playing second base for the Boston Braves may do better this season.

Manager Billy Southworth explained today "We're going to give Roy his head this season and let him make the double play his own way. We changed him last year and it didn't work too well."

TAMPA, Feb. 27—(AP)—President Warren Giles of the Cincinnati Reds expressed mild alarm yesterday at the way some of his pitchers were hurling. They're throwing too hard, he said.

There isn't a sore arm in the camp, manager Luke Sewell assured him. Luke added that the chubbers are just getting good earlier than usual.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 27—(AP)—Manager Marty Marion of the St. Louis Cardinals sees some hot fights shaping up for first and third base positions.

He said yesterday he expects a big battle for the first base job. The veteran Nippy ones, plagued last year by back troubles, seems to have the inside track. Other contenders are Rocky Nelson, Steve Bilko and Don Bollweg.

Viewing for third are Tommy Glavinio, Eddie Kask and rookie Don Richmond who came up last year from the International League.

train for St. Petersburg early to-morrow morning.

Big Bob Thompson hit the longest ball of the morning drive over the center field wall. He promptly followed up with another fence clearing hit off the offerings of Sheldon Jones.

After watching the rangy Thompson hit these two, Durocher declared the lanky outfielder should have a very good year.

Monte Irvin took a bet from the former Brooklyn manager and slammed the first ball pitched to him over the left field fence. He lashed out two more line drives which pushed the outfielders back before batting practice ended. Irvin one of the early virus victims, has regained his strength and gives every indication of being one of the Giants' mainstays in 1951.

Durocher pointed out that Allen Gettel may be the solution to his relief worries. Pointing out that eight pitchers is the ideal staff, the Giant pilot said this number allowed every hurler to work regularly and to stay in condition. A ninth pitcher might be carried for relief, he added.

In Gettel Durocher said he sees an ideal reliever. The Norfolk, Va. hurler throws sidearm, over hand and has excellent control—all necessities in the clutch.

Wes Westrum, regular Giant catcher, seemed to have his strength back today as he slammed out sizzling line drives. Clint Hartung, pitcher-outfielder, also hit the ball well, battering the left field fence with two balls.

The other Giant catcher who will start with the team, according to present plans, is Ray Noble. Durocher was enthusiastic about the way he handled himself behind the plate, but the squat Cuban ended up owing the New York manager a case of soft drinks after a miserable session with the bat.

Some 75 people attended a barbecue at the Seminole Country Club in honor of the ball players last night.

Ed McGhee and Bill Higdon, who hit 352 and 330, respectively for the Memphis Chickasaws, are getting trials with the Chicago White Sox next spring.

Jersey City was the only team to beat Rochester in a season series in the International League last season. The Little Giants beat the Red Wings 12 out of 22.

Brundage Expects Tough Competition In Latin Olympics

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 27—(AP)—Athletes in 10 of 18 sports moved into action today for the opening competition in the Pan American games.

Today's schedule began with a horsemanship event of the Modern Pentathlon at 5:30 A. M., but the first real signs of strength and weakness were expected in baseball, track, basketball and swimming.

Shortly before the athletes got orders to go out and do their best, Avery Brundage, of Chicago, president of the Pan American Congress which is sponsoring the giant sports festival of the Americas' told reporters:

"Look for real competition all down the line, with no pushovers for anybody. This is because the magnificent progress of sports development in Latin America over the last 15 years means spirited competition in all fields."

Mexico got a tough break by drawing Cuba as a baseball opponent and world champion Argentina in basketball. Other ball games pitted the United States against Argentina, Colombia against Nicaragua and Brazil against Venezuela.

The baseball drawing was lucky for the U. S., represented by the Wake Forest College team, since that game is virtually unknown in Argentina.

Other basketball games scheduled were United States vs. Ecuador, Cuba, vs. Paraguay, and Colombia vs. Panama.

In soccer, called football in Latin America, Costa Rica was to face Chile and Venezuela was to tackle Argentina.

Other sports today included tennis, in which Mexico has made great strides in recent years.

(Continued From Page One) Rogemore, his personal attorney and he (Glover) contacted a number of operators, advising them they could be immune from arrest for a 5 percent take. About Feb. 22, 1950, Glover stopped making the collections and he was informed "there were certain affidavits in existence that Glover was collecting the money and sending portions to Tallahassee and to Sheriff Williams." (Woolfolk did not elaborate on the Tallahassee angle.) After Glover discontinued the gambling collections, Rogemore called on the lottery dealers and told them he was the new collector. Rogemore told them they could check with Jennings or Sheriff Williams to verify his position. Two operators did check. Rogemore's attorneys turned over his collections who in turn paid them to Williams.

PROFESSOR GIFFIN

Stetson Glee Club Will Perform At Southside School

The Stetson University Glee Club, directed by Harold Milne Giffin, will be heard Thursday night at 8:00 o'clock in a benefit performance at the Southside Primary School. The concert, which includes both popular and concert music, will be staged under the sponsorship of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority. Born in China where his parents were missionaries, Professor Giffin came to the United States at college age, and in 1929 received his bachelor of arts degree at Denison University, Ohio. Three years later, he was awarded his master's in voice and musicology at Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y. The following year he received his bachelor of music degree with highest honors in voice.

After two years as head of the voice department at Judson College, Alabama, he joined the faculty at Stetson in the same capacity. From the first, he set his goal as building a fine choral ensemble. Four years later, the Stetson Glee Club was selected by the National Federated Music Clubs as one of the 12 outstanding clubs in the Nation. The Stetson singers accepted an invitation to appear at the NCMC Convention in Baltimore. Since that time, the standing of the Stetson Glee Club has always been high, and more than once the club has toured the east, singing in metropolitan centers and over nation-wide radio hook-ups.

Buyer Resistance Brings Prices Down For First Time In 18 Weeks

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 (AP)—The high cost of living is taking a breather. For the first time in months it has halted its advance. And the prices of some foods, chiefly meat, have slipped back. It's probably no more than a breather while getting its second wind, but take what joy from it you can while it lasts.

The chief credit is being given to the housewife. It seems she took a look at the law of supply and demand. She was told there was an abundant supply of food, in almost all categories. So the trouble must be in the demand—her demand for the most expensive cuts of meat, for instance. "Consumers resisted buying the higher-priced cuts of meat enough to drop dollar volume in retail store somewhat," say the American Institute of food distribution. "Beef, cattle, hog and lambs weakened as buying interest backed up. There were small declines by dressed beef, pork and lamb." The Associated Press Wholesale Commodity index reflects the drop in livestock prices. It took a sharp drop last week, the first since September. The government's wholesale price index of all commodities was halted on its upward climb for the first time in 18 weeks. Price controls apparently have had little to do with it. The consumer, faced by the dozen prices in the retail butcher shop, turned to the cheaper cuts of meat, or stocked up on eggs and macaroni. The meat industry has been telling the consumer for a long time for only the best cuts that kept them so expensive. At the moment the housewife appears to be taking the industry up on its tip. Wholesale meat dealers in several cities report their lockers are filled and retail food dealers not buying because the consumer isn't. The food institute isn't much perturbed, however. It notes that Americans are the eatingest consumers in the world and continue "to cater to their appetites so generously, except sporadic flare-ups of resentment at sky high prices for fancier meat cuts, that live retail merchants are dazzled by prosperity gold."

The institute also notes another working of the law of supply and demand. The housewife, turning away from the choicer meat cut, bought so many eggs that the sent their price up. However, over the long range the prospect is still for higher prices. The price of food at the farm is not controlled. And as it moves higher, controls will doubtless be relaxed all along the processing and distributing road. The price of non-food goods in the stores is also about ready for another step higher. Merchants will soon be allowed to take their customary mark-ups on goods they bought from suppliers at higher prices. An average advance of five per cent is expected in the prices of non-food items as a result. All of this is based on the present international tension and Government rearmament program. American rearmament spending for defense and for stockpiling will keep demand high and supplies limited—and will keep the pockets of many consumers filled with cash. And all of this could be changed very quickly by a "peace scare." Easing of international tension would act like the price-resisting housewife. The demand would fall off sharply and prices would ease. Meantime, enjoy the breather in inflation. You may need it for the next whirl. Neon signs became popular in the United States toward the end of the '20's.
