Low Fat Diet: Trim All Fat. DEAR DR. LAMB - I am on a low fat diet. Are peanut butter and soy bean oil harmful to low fat diet? What is the difference between saturated and unsaturated fats? DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 60 years old, and have mitral stenosis. I have had one heart shock, and am told I cannot have another and may need a valve replacement. I'm on heavy medication, digoxin, Inderal, Lasix, and Coumadin. My heart is very irregular. I understand that this kind of heart disease there is great danger of heart failure is that true? DEAR READER - Mitral stenosis is narrowing and obstruction of the valve between the upper and lower chamber of the left side of the heart, usually a complication of rheumatic fever. The obstruction causes the top chamber (left atrium) to enlarge, causing the irregularly called atrial fibrillation. The degree of disability is often related to the amount of obstruction. The decision whether to replace the valve or not is often made on the basis of how tight the obstruction really is. If the heart muscle is healthy, your circulation will not fail until the valve gets too tight.

HOROSCOPE. By BERNICE BEDE-OSOL. For Tuesday, December 20, 1977. YOUR BIRTHDAY Dec. 20, 1977: an unfortunate prediction for spending too lavishly. TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Domestic situations will not be exactly to your liking today, but they're not as bad as you may make them. Capricorn impulses to overact. GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Normally you're not one to keep things to yourself if something annoys you. Today you could be frustrated because you're too secretive. CANCER (June 21-July 21): How liberal you are with a dollar today will largely be governed by the company you keep or who you feel you have to keep up with. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Today you may be in for a rude awakening when you discover the world is marching to a different drummer than you are. Change your beat. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23): Hearsay information could upset you needlessly today. Don't pass the panic button till you know the facts. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): You'll be out of your element in joint ventures today if you're more than a little more aggressive than you. He could make you a sacrificial lamb. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22): Decisions made under pressure today will not be your best. Still before committing yourself until you have time to think it over.

Reagan To GOP: Don't Use Me

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ronald Reagan has forbidden the Republican Party to use his name again for fund raising, saying GOP leaders used him to bring in donations from opponents of the Panama Canal Treaty and now refuse to use the money to oppose the treaty. "My credibility is involved in this," Reagan, former governor of California and a leader of Republican conservatives, said. "After all, letters with my name on them have gone all across the country asking for money to help fight the treaties." "Now we discover that money raised by the letters will not be used for that purpose. And worse than that, we discover that the national party has no plans to campaign against the treaties." The money will go for campaign expenses of Republican congressional candidates instead, he said. Fund raising letters over Reagan's signature were mailed by the Republican National Committee and the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee. The charges were filed with the Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) in Tallahassee, but PERC officials said today they have not yet been received. According to Gene Grooms, SEA executive director, the charges state that Cowley engaged in "unlawful surveillance" of the members of SEA and that he was observed photographing members who were "engaged in a lawful, peaceful assembly gathered for the purpose of informing the public of his views."

The charges will be investigated by PERC. If the charges are properly filed and "found to be just," PERC could order that Cowley and the school board be publicly acknowledge that what they did was wrong, officials said. "In essence PERC would slap their hands and tell them never to do it again," Grooms said. "They're not going to issue a $10,000 fine or anything like that," he explained. Grooms said a similar thing had happened in Escambia County, where teachers on a picket line were photographed. "PERC did say that should not have happened," Grooms said.

William A. Moore, SEA past president and chief negotiator, said the PERC decision in Escambia County was based on the feeling that photographs of picketers would be used to intimidate employees. Cowley said today he had not yet received his copy of the charges, and would prefer not to comment until he had seen it. "I am aware they sent the charges in to PERC," Cowley said.

PERC officials said the investigation would begin as soon as the charges are received in Tallahassee. Just to determine whether to dismiss the charges or file a formal complaint will take an investigation of "a couple of months", according to PERC officials. The Students And The Tests --- III They Talk About Their Teachers' Performances

(The Evening Herald today continues its series on reactions of students to the Functional Tests. Students today evaluate their classroom experiences.) EVENING HERALD: Would you give us some examples of what you have seen in competency and incompetency among teachers? STUDENT: I had an English teacher last year at a different high school in this county who told us at the beginning of the year that she couldn't spell. EVENING HERALD: Was she kidding? STUDENT: I don't think so. I had her sixth period. By the time we got to her class she acted, most of the time, as if she was asleep in class. She would give us an assignment, tell us to do it, and that was it. She wouldn't show us anything. EVENING HERALD: How about the rest of you? Are there any other examples of what you might consider incompetency? STUDENT: I had a teacher last year who would just look in his plan book, and do only those assignments. If you asked a question he would just tell you to sit down. There are some teachers who just won't help — and there are some teachers who just look at you as if you are wasting a seat. That teacher never did help us. EVENING HERALD: Do you feel he concentrated more on the students who were doing well? STUDENT: Yes, on the ones he thought might do real well. EVENING HERALD: Why do you think he might do that? STUDENT: Probably because he doesn't want to waste his time. EVENING HERALD: If you turn in a paper and it comes back with a C grade, do you sit with the teacher and discuss it? STUDENT: When the teacher goes over the answers on a test, that is as far as it goes. If I didn't like the grade, I would tell her. EVENING HERALD: Otherwise, she will have marked what you had wrong, and that is the end of the teacher-student relationship? STUDENT: Well, you look at the test, and she goes over every answer, and if you understand the right answer, you don't say anything. But if I make an F on a test, and I really don't understand why, then I will talk to her about it. If you are making poor grades all the way through, and are three or four weeks into the nine-week grading period, they don't say, "Listen, I really think you need some help," or "Would you like to come after school and I'll give you some help." No way. They don't come to you. EVENING HERALD: Are you suggesting that teachers don't care more along the line say, "sit down. You have three C's already, and you are heading for an F. You have a particular weakness in this and so on." STUDENT: They won't do that because they think it is your business, which really it is, to know that you are doing badly. If you don't care, why should they bother? EVENING HERALD: So the teacher gives an explanation, maybe on the board and maybe just orally to the class. You then are tested on this, whether it is right after that explanation or after a few of them on the same subject. Students turn in their papers. Three or four have done badly. The teacher does not make the first move to get those who are the weakest and tell them they are heading for F's, and explain what they need to do to strengthen? STUDENT PANEL: No way. But one member of the student panel did disagree with the others. My math teacher is always telling us if we need help to come in at lunch or after school, that she will help us. She will stay with us as long as she can. EVENING HERALD: Have students been doing that? STUDENT: Yeah, at least from my class. She always tells us she has time, no matter what she is doing. EVENING HERALD: Teachers say that if they could have fewer students in a class they might be able to teach better, giving more individualized attention to students. How many students in your average class? STUDENT: There are 30 to 35 students in most classes. EVENING HERALD: And you are in class for how long? STUDENT: About one hour. EVENING HERALD: So that, if all students needed assistance, each would get less than two minutes of the teacher's time? STUDENT: Yes, but here's the thing. If you know that you need help, if the teacher is explaining something, you are supposed to sit there and try to understand it. If you know that you do not understand, you should not just sit there. You are supposed to question. I don't just sit in my seat. EVENING HERALD: And do you get answers? STUDENT: I get answers, and if I don't get the answers I want I go to somebody else, or come up to the office. EVENING HERALD: What do you think is the teacher's responsibility? STUDENT: If a teacher sees in a grade book that a student has made four straight F's on tests, and that student pays attention in class and seems interested, we think she should talk to the student aside and help him. — MARILYN SHEDDAN Next: How Helpful Are Parents?

Siamese Twins Born — But What Are They?

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Marilyn Shumate of St. Louis, Ill., gave birth to Siamese twins Monday, but she still doesn't know if they are boys or girls.

Doctors at St. Louis Children's Hospital are trying to determine the sex of the twins, who are joined at the buttocks, weigh about 8 pounds and have no external sex organs.

They were reported in fair condition, and doctors were deciding whether to separate them.

Less Smoking, More Aid?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano says an assistance program for tobacco farmers could be necessary if HEW's campaign on the hazards of cigarettes succeeds in reducing smoking levels.

Califano Monday said his office will conduct a campaign about smoking, but will not seek cuts in the federal support programs for tobacco farmers.

Filipino Nurses Win Appeal

DETROIT (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Philip Pratt, in a 58-page ruling that contained a strong denunciation of government tactics during the trial of Filipino nurses Filipina Narciso, 31, and Leonora Perez, 33, threw out their convictions Monday.

The women were found guilty July 13 of conspiracy and five nonfatal patient poisonings at the Ann Arbor Veterans Administration Hospital in the summer of 1975. The judge said, "The interest of justice and judicial conscience demand a new trial in this case."

$20 Billion Tax Cut Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, hoping to keep the new federal budget close to $500 billion, is considering a $20 billion to $30 billion tax cut to offset the impact of higher energy and Social Security taxes, according to congressional sources.

House and Senate leaders apparently agreed with Carter that the tax cut should not take effect until the start of the 1979 fiscal year on Oct. 1, 1978, because of projected increases in the economy in the first quarter of the new year.

Border-To-Border Road

ATLANTA (UPI) — Officials from the 500 Locks to the Gulf sands were to gather north of Atlanta today for the opening of the final segment of the nation's first border-to-border superhighway.

The ceremony to open the final link of the 1,564-mile I-75 highlights a week in which four new stretches of interstate highway will be opened.

Cold, Snow In Mid-U.S.

By United Press International

A cold air mass pushed deep into the center of the nation today, bringing snow and travelers advisories to the upper Midwest and promising similar conditions for the Middle Atlantic states tonight.

Snow poured over the Midwest from northeast Missouri into Indiana and from Minnesota to Michigan. More than 4 inches of snow fell at Moline, Ill., while Des Moines, Peoria, Ill., and Madison, Wis., recorded one inch apiece.

'God's' Solar Energy

SOUTH KINGSTOWN, R.I. (UPI) — The 50 members of the First Assembly of God Church are looking to the heavens for more than divine guidance.

Trying to avoid monthly fuel bills, the tiny congregation has designed what it believes will be the first totally solar-heated church in the Northeast.

"The idea originated with God. Solar heating is the only reasonable way for people to go, and this is our contribution to that quest," said the Rev. Steven Anlin, pastor.

Earthquake Devastates Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — A devastating earthquake battered the south-central Iranian villages early today, killing at least 300 people and injuring another 500, officials reported. The armed forces began a relief airlift and ordered soldiers to join civilian rescue workers in the search for survivors. The quake, measuring 6.2 on the Richter Scale, rumbled through the villages of Bab-Tangal and Zarsud, although Bab-Tangal was hardest hit, officials said.

The office of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi looked over relief operations, officials said, indicating casualties might be much higher than initial reports showed.

The Iranian armed forces flew transport aircraft loaded with blankets and tents to the town of Mirkan and then trucked the cargo to the cold and snow-covered quake site. Officials said soldiers joined civil authorities in efforts to dig through the rubble in the two villages looking for buried survivors.

It was the first major quake in Tehran this winter. Earlier this year, a series of tremors shook the southern Iranian ports of Bandar Abbas, Bandar Lengeh and outlying areas, killing an estimated 150 people.

An Iran Radio broadcast at 3:30 a.m., 6:30 p.m. Monday EST, Shajardind

Sheikholamzadeh, the minister of health, flew to the stricken area to oversee rescue efforts.

The Red Lion and Sun Society, Iran's equivalent of the Red Cross, collected blankets, tents and medicine for the relief flights.

Casselberry: New Trash Firm, Rate

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Casselberry residents, beginning Jan. 1, will be paying a little more monthly for their garbage collection service.

Service fees are to be 25 cents more than currently charged by Reliable Garbage Service, the city's present franchise holder.

But citizens under a new contract will have the right to put out an unlimited amount of garbage and trash for the semi-weekly pickups.

The city council on a 3-2 vote Monday night granted a five-year exclusive franchise to a new firm, Danjohn Services Inc. of Daytona Beach, to service the entire city with trash and garbage collection for a $1.25 monthly fee to homeowners. Opposing the action were Councilmen Carl Robertson Jr. and Nathan Van Meter.

Danjohn, lowest bidder of six firms submitting bids, was chosen over Reliable that has held the franchise for the past five years.

Reliable had submitted bids for contracts of one year at a monthly fee of $2.55; three years $5.65 and five years $5.95. Reliable had been charging $4 monthly.

Danjohn, in the bid, reserved the right to petition council for a rate increase in any year when the consumer price index (CPI) registered a six percent rate in the cost of living.

In addition to unlimited garbage and trash pickup, officers of Danjohn said the firm would conduct a "once a year spring clean up" service where residents could put out for pickup any type of trash.

In other business, the council:

- Heard Robert Forbes, on behalf of the owners, J.T. Rice and James W. Rimmer, request a change in zoning from limited agriculture to multi-family district for a 4.5 acre tract fronting Sunset Drive, 800 feet south of Button Road.
- The property, currently vacant and densely wooded, Forbes said, will be site for the construction of a 156 bed convalescent home to be built in three phases. The first stage would have 36 beds, the second 40 beds and the third 80 beds.
- Approval of the zoning request was recommended by the city's planning department. Action is to be taken after public hearings are held at a future time.
- Voted 3-2, with Councilmen Frank Schutte and John Lighty opposing, to extend open hours on New Year's from 2 a.m. to 4 a.m. for establishments selling alcoholic beverages.
- Approved a request from Seminole Raceway to hold motorcycle races on March 4 from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. at the track. Race trials will be held earlier in the day. Opposing the request were Lighty and Schutte who contended noise from the races may disturb neighboring property owners.
- Approved a rate increase by the City of Maitland from 35 cents to 66 cents per thousand gallons for sewage treatment

Sanford-Orlando Bus Fare Rising

The $1.45 Greyhound or Trailways bus ride from Sanford to Orlando will cost $1.80 beginning next month. The Public Service Commission Monday approved a 21 percent fare increase on buses running between Florida cities.

The rate increase was requested by the National Bus Traffic Association.

According to spokesmen for Greyhound and Trailways bus lines in Sanford, Orlando, Winter Park, Deland, Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami are the cities traveled to most frequently from Sanford. The new rates for one-way trips to those cities, beginning with the new year, are: Orlando, $1.80 (up from $1.55); Winter Park and Deland, $1.25 (up from $1.10); Jacksonville and Tampa, $2.70 (up from $2.20); and Miami, $1.70 (up from $1.60).

Only routes between Florida cities will be affected. The commission does not set interstate rates.

PSC Chairman Paula Hawkins did not criticize the proposed fare increase, but she did when it first came up two weeks ago. "I've heard advertising all morning about how they're discussing their national fares. They're also not answering their telephone," Mrs. Hawkins said of Greyhound.

'Life' Discovery Made In Antarctic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A project, said what appeared earlier to be two fish swimming near the bottom of the frigid, sunless waters may actually have been crustaceans, Antarctic scientists said Monday.

Dr. Duwayne Anderson, chief of polar programs at the NSF, said sediment samples taken from several inches into the sea floor included tiny shelled creatures called foraminifera and possibly some worm tubes. Anderson said the samples also included fossilized diatoms — one-celled plants — which the Antarctic scientists said were of late Miocene Age, meaning they are at least 14 million years old.

FP&L Hit With $40,000 Fine; It Got Too Chummy

TALLAHASSEE, (UPI) — The Public Service Commission has slapped an unprecedented $40,000 fine on Florida Power Light Co., for getting too chummy with a New Jersey company that later became its business partner.

The PSC also Monday imposed tight restrictions on the partnership FP&L formed with the firm, Nuclear Installation Services Co., to manufacture nuclear power plant tubing.

Commissioners approved a $59.5 million rate increase for Florida Power Corp., which means a 7.6-cent, one-shot refund to consumers because the utility has been collecting close to $61 million in interim hikes since last spring.

Major Drug Bust Made

JACKSONVILLE, (UPI) — Federal Drug Enforcement Administration agents and the Jacksonville police vice squad arrested at least 25 people and seized half of $3 million in cocaine confiscated from what official called a five-state drug ring.

"It is possible that some prominent citizens may be arrested," Jacksonville Vice Capt. John McCorkle said. He said police expected an additional 10-15 arrests today.

3 Tots Get Rey's Disease

MIAMI (UPI) — Dade health officials said today three children, ranging in age from three months to eight years, are in critical condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital after being stricken with infantile Rey's disease.

Dr. Irwin Redlener, a Rey's disease specialist at the hospital, said, "We've never seen three cases at one time before."

Rey's disease, which is fatal about 40 percent of the time, attacks the liver and brain of children.

Doctor Is Indicted

FORT MYERS, (UPI) — The arraignment for a St. Petersburg doctor indicted in the traffic death of a Sanibel Island man has been continued to Jan. 9.

Dr. Leslie McClimans, 56, was indicted Monday on charges of motor vehicle homicide and driving while intoxicated in the Dec. 2 death of Nelson Leake Jr., 57.

McClimans is free on more than $10,000 bond.

Death Penalty Recommended

STUART, (UPI) — A 17-year-old youth described by a psychiatrist as "a controlled, insensitive and seasoned criminal" will be sentenced Dec. 30 for the murder of 66-year-old Gertrude Trbovich.

The circuit court jury which found James A. Morgan guilty of the June 6 slaying last week, recommended Monday he be sentenced to the death penalty.

Drug-Related Deaths?

TAMPA, (UPI) — Police say John B. Redmond Jr., 28, of Riverview, was arrested in September on drug charges, and his death and that of a man found in the trunk of a car will be investigated as drug-related.

Redmond's body was found Saturday in a shallow grave north of the University of South Florida. William Stephen Weissman, 25, of Cocoa Beach was found at Tampa International Airport Thursday, stuffed in the trunk of a car in Redmond's care. Both men had been shot.

Fuel Adjustment Credit

MIAMI (UPI) — The January fuel adjustment for Florida Power & Light residential customers will be a $1.33 credit per 1,000 kilowatt hours, the company said Monday.

If approved by the Public Service Commission, the credit will be the second in a row and the fourth consecutive monthly decline in the fuel adjustment, the company said.

Gene Autrey, FPL executive vice president, said the credits were "ultimate proof of the value of nuclear power to our customers."

He Survived Bataan Sanford's Sgt. Harris Dies

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

World War II survivors of the Bataan Death March and Japanese Prisoner of War camps will gather Thursday to pay tribute to a Sanford war hero, retired U.S. Air Force Master Sgt. Homer C. (Harry) Harris, 59, of Rt. 3, CR 427, who died Sunday at Florida Hospital North after a long illness.

Military funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 1 p.m. at the Semoran Funeral Home Chapel by Lt. Col. Hoyt, USAF chaplain. Burial with full military honors will be in Glen Haven Memorial Park, Winter Park. Visitation hours will be Wednesday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. at the funeral home at 622 W. Semoran Boulevard, Altamonte Springs.

Harris was a member of The National and Florida American Defenders of Bataan and Corregidor which gave this account of his participation in WWII:

An aircraft mechanic with the U.S. Air Force, Harris was a member of the 7th Bomb Group, the only Air Force unit in the history of the nation forced to fight as infantrymen. In the early days of World War II, after fighting on the front lines of Bataan peninsula in the Philippines for 99 days while living on half-rations, the American Forces surrendered to the Japanese.

Harris made the Bataan Death March and spent 3½ years as a POW. Out of the 1200 airmen surrendering with Harris, less than 350 members of the unit were still alive when the prison camp in Japan was liberated. Harris weighed less than 100 pounds at that time.

Harris was awarded the American Defense Service Medal with Foreign Service Clasp, Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal with one Bronze Service Star for participation in the Philippine Islands Campaign, the WWII Victory Medal, the National Defense Service Medal, the Philippine Defense Ribbon with Bronze Service Star, the Distinguished Unit Citation Emblem with two Oak Leaf Clusters and the Philippine Republic Presidential Unit Citation Emblem.

Harris retired from the Air Force in 1966 and moved to Sanford from Goldenrod in 1969. He was critically injured while working for the Department of Transportation on Dec. 4, 1975, when struck by a car in the median strip on I-4. Harris later became ill with cancer, according to his daughter, Joy Harris.

Survivors include his wife, Mildred, Sanford; son, Benjamin Harris of Provo, Utah; daughter, Mrs. Linda O'Conner, Ft. Riley, Kans; and Miss Joy Harris at home; brother, James M. Harris, Sanford; sister, Mrs. Flossie Belle Sirman, Lancelton, Ga. and three grandchildren.

The Challenge Of Cairo

President Anwar Sadat's peace initiative seems to have given developments in the Middle East a momentum of their own. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance has an opportunity to influence the course of events, but with less certainty than ever before that the United States can be a stabilizing factor.

In Cairo, Mr. Vance could impress upon Mr. Sadat that our support of the Cairo conference does not signal a change in a basic tenet of U.S. policy — that only a comprehensive approach to all aspects of the Arab-Israeli dispute, as envisioned for the agenda at a Geneva Conference, holds any hope of achieving peace.

Much to the ire of the Russians, Mr. Vance has backed away from the position that only a Geneva conference, with all Arab interests represented and the Soviet Union as co-chairman, can take up a comprehensive agenda. The Cairo conference could serve the same purpose.

If it can, it is up to Mr. Sadat to see that it does. The danger is that Mr. Sadat, buoyed by the show of popular support in Egypt for his personal quest for peace, and wooed by the Israelis, will be propelled into an agreement with Israel that smacks of a "separate peace."

Any statesman must place the interests of his own country first, but the long-range interests of Egypt will not be served by an accommodation with Israel that serves to radicalize the other confrontation states and strengthen the mischievous hand of the Soviet Union in the region.

Mr. Vance can hope to convince Mr. Sadat that whatever emerges from the Cairo conference should be acceptable to Saudi Arabia, which is in the best position to draw Syria's President Hafez Assad around to Mr. Sadat's way of thinking.

While Mr. Assad went along with the condemnation of Egypt at the Tripoli meeting of hard-line Arab states, he is still determined to keep Syria out of the camp of the Soviet-backed radicals.

The Saudis and Jordan's King Hussein remain skeptical of the Cairo conference, and they have reason to be. They are still waiting, like so many others, to hear what Israel has to say about withdrawal from occupied territories, about the political rights of Palestinians, about the future of Jerusalem — all of the issues burning in the Arab consciousness.

The most important stop on Mr. Vance's tour may well be Jerusalem. The fate of the Cairo conference — if not the fate of Mr. Sadat himself — will depend on whether the Israelis come forth with positions on those issues that make the conference worthwhile.

No one expects a settlement to spring full-blown from Cairo, but there must be clear evidence that Mr. Sadat's willingness to recognize Israel is matched by a willingness of Israelis to recognize the baldly of Palestinian aspirations for a homeland.

Geneva is not a magic word, even if the Russians cling to the concept of a full-blown peace conference as their means of assuming a role for themselves.

If Mr. Sadat can make himself the advocate of the Arab case at Cairo, and if there is a constructive response from Israel, the conference in the Egyptian capital need not aggravate a dangerous split and polarization of hostile forces in the Middle East.

It can accelerate the momentum for negotiations between the Israelis and all their neighbors.

Students in Seminole County continue to struggle to figure out the whys, hows and whos of those controversial Functional Literacy Tests. Three percent of the county's 3,232 eleventh graders failed the communications half of the test; 25 percent, the mathematics section. The results were better than many other counties, but left much to be desired and many questions.

They are forcing us all — educator and layman alike — to take a fresh, hard look at our educational system and its priorities, potential and pitfalls. All to the good. Now, some of the students themselves, those who have taken the tests and failed, this week are sharing with Evening Herald readers some of their observations about the tests and the educational picture in general.

Some of their insights on subject matter, teacher help or non-help, assistance or non-assistance from parents, and more, are intriguing. It would behoove us all to heed them, weigh them and map positive action for the future to assure the adequacy of our educational system.

But, while this discussion goes on and the students and their families struggle for answers, other boys and girls in the county are struggling to figure out something more fundamental: how to cope. For example, legally blind students, with the guidance and help of Joyce Husted at South Seminole Middle School in Casselberry, are learning what most of us take for granted: seeing. "We had to be blindfolded and make our way around without our eyes," Mrs. Husted says in recalling her collegiate training at Florida State University. "We were taught made to learn Braille, taught to use a cane, and learned to feed ourselves without using our sight."

Mrs. Husted deserves a commendation for her dedication and compassion as a teacher in dealing with students in need. Such programs rarely make headlines, but do deserve special note. Then there is the program at the Rosewood Exceptional Child Center in Altamonte Springs where Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wagner are committed to helping boys and girls whose problems range from multiple physical handicaps to emotional or mental disorders.

The key to the Wagner operation at Rosewood is the school store. It is used as a focal point for student achievement. Here's how it works: Each child at Rosewood earns points on a punch card which is used at the store instead of money, and each child carries the card from class to class. The teachers and instructors all punch the card when a child accomplishes something special. Goals a child might have to reach to earn shopping points include learning to feed himself, to push his own wheelchair, or become toilet-trained. The Rosewood school store has been operating for a little over a year, financed by the parent-teacher organization at the school. But there is a problem: funds are evaporating quickly, and the school needs help.

"What we really would love would be to find some civic groups which would like to be responsible for funding one month," Mrs. Wagner explains. The Wagners also would welcome items to be sold.

Carter: Budget 'Master'

WASHINGTON — The White House has found a talented, hard-working government official to replace Bert Lance as director of the Office of Management and Budget. His name is Jimmy Carter.

In a virtuoso performance that has dazzled even the most cynical veterans among OMB's career employees, Carter has singlehandedly taken charge of the complex task of shaping the federal budget for the next fiscal year.

"He's become a master of the budget process. He studies it in the most minute detail," says one OMB policy-maker. Another uses the terms "extraordinary" and "unbelievable" to describe the president's grasp of the issues and procedures involved.

An understanding of Carter's unprecedented involvement in virtually every major budget-drafting decision since he assumed office 11 months ago requires a brief description of the seldom-publicized process.

In January of each year, the president presents Congress with his administration's proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning the following October. (The 8 to 9-month interval is designed to allow Congress time to debate and reshape those proposals, then pass the required authorization and appropriation legislation.)

Last January, Carter sent to Congress the proposed budget for the fiscal year running from October 1977 through September 1978. As in past years, OMB almost immediately began drafting the budget for the 1978-79 fiscal year.

The first major step in that process is the "spring review," a series of meetings at which high-ranking officials of the various departments and agencies first present their spending requirements to senior officers at OMB.

Last spring, for the first time in the memory of anyone at OMB, the man who presided over those preliminary meetings was the President of the United States. During 22 hours of intense discussion, Carter immersed himself in the budget process.

In mid-summer, OMB notifies each government department of its budget ceiling. Further fine-tuning comes at the "director's review" in early autumn, followed by the "presidential review" in late fall and early winter.

Throughout the year, Carter has requested and received copies of the fat briefing books compiled to support the requests from each department and agency for additional money. "At the meetings, he asks tough, precise questions," says an OMB official. "It's obvious he's read everything."

Says another senior OMB employee: "Carter's mastery of the material is unprecedented. When he returns his copies of the briefing books, we find the margins covered with his computations. He does the addition by himself."

All of those interviewed cited Carter's pointed questions, invariably management-oriented to one rather than a political nature. "There's been much more discussion of substance and far less of politics than I expected," says one budget expert.

VIEWPOINT

Gambling Does It Work?

By DONALD F. GRAFF

Turning the public's penchant for gambling to the public's benefit is itself a gamble, it appears.

State-run lotteries have been spreading across the political landscape for years now. More recently Las Vegas-style casino gambling has been coming into vogue in aging resort communities — Atlantic City is committed and Miami Beach is thinking about it.

The usual rationalization is that since people are going to gamble under any circumstances, society might as well recognize the fact and divert the proceeds to its own uses from the shady operators.

But does it really work that way? A federal gambling study suggests not. Reporting on a three-year study of American gambling patterns — why, who and where — the Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling finds that illegal activity tends to be even greater in states where some degree of legal gambling exists.

The conclusion is that a degree of legal gambling whets the appetite for more and increases the numbers of active gamblers and the rate of illegal as well as legal activity. In short, still more proceeds for more shady operators.

A clear majority of the adult population, 61 percent of some 88 million Americans, gambles to some degree. An even greater number — 80 percent of those responding to a nationwide survey — appears to approve of legalizing gambling to some extent.

Does this suggest that for better or worse, and for public profit or loss, gambling is here to stay? You bet.

You may have been among those who credited the Choctaw Indians with originating "OK" since they not only had a word "ok" meaning "it is," but also another, "ohk" meaning "yes."

Or you may prefer the explanation which traces the term to the presidency of Martin Van Buren, whose native village was Old Kinderhook, N.Y. So naturally the Democratic organization supporting him was called the O.K. Club.

The editors of the Merriam-Webster dictionary have now disposed of those myths, and possibly others, with what they say is the true history of the all-American word. In a newsletter on the origin of words, they report that Boston seamen in the early 19th century used it as an editing abbreviation. What did it stand for? Why, "all correct," an abbreviation of the word "correct," an intentional misspelling which somehow survived to find its way out of Boston and into the language.

That should settle the matter, okay?

Viet Urchins No More

HONG KONG (UPI) — They were urchins under the old wartime regime, the kind of kids who used to pick the pockets of American GIs on the streets of Saigon or hang around the fringes of U.S. military bases in the Vietnamese countryside.

They lived a life of "unrestricted disorder," according to a Vietnam News Agency report from Hanoi, "abandoned and neglected by their families and rejected by the old society."

But no more, according to the official news agency of the communist government. Less than six months after the end of the war in 1975, welfare authorities began rounding up the "not yet good children" and placing them in special rehabilitation schools. More than 2,000 have been placed in the special programs in the Binh Chanh district west of Saigon, the agency said.

One such youngster is 11-year-old Nam, from the Mekong Delta town of An Giang. "When I was 11, after gambling away all the cash I had made selling some of my father's things, I was afraid of being beaten so I ran away to Saigon," he said. "I happened to meet a gang leader who took me in, fed me and taught me the way I have kept alive during these last 5 years."

Now Nam is in a special school run by Mother Vo Thi Hieu and his administrator, Tran Van Loc. "I have learned now and I understand the future of young people in the new society," VNA

On Park's Bribe List

WASHINGTON (UPI) — South Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park, expected back here today to testify about Korean influence-buying, can implicate "one or two" congressmen and 14 to 18 former congressmen, an associate said today.

The associate, who asked not to be named, said Park's most damaging information is evidence that about half a dozen congressmen accepted $5,000 or more from agents of the South Korean government. Without naming them, the associate said one or two still are in office.

Sadat Vetoes Part Of Begin Peace Plan

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat already is rejecting parts of the Middle East peace proposal that Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin will bring to Egypt on Christmas Day.

Begin, who flew from New York to London today ending his six-day American visit, is proposing elections on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan to give the Palestinians there a measure of self-rule. But he has not mentioned withdrawing Israeli troops or establishing a Palestinian government.

His plan falls far short of Arab demands for a Palestinian homeland and Arabs ranging from the Palestine Liberation Organization to Jordan's King Hussein denounced it Monday. The PLO called it "ridiculous."

The Israeli prime minister will present his blueprint to Sadat in the Suez Canal city of Ismailia Dec. 26 in their second round of direct talks. The visit also falls on Sadat's 59th birthday.

Senior diplomats said Sadat — who received from President Carter the remaining details of Begin's plan Monday — had voiced at least two objections to the plan to the American president.

The objections focused on Israel's refusal to withdraw from the West Bank and its refusal to meet even Sadat's demand — modest by Arab standards — for a Palestinian state in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip possibly linked to Jordan.

The Soviet Union charged Begin's plan would continue Israeli occupation of the West Bank "in a slight renovated form." The State Department said the United States has neither endorsed nor rejected it.

Cairo's state-controlled Voice of the Arabs radio sharply criticized the Begin blueprint, saying, "These proposals do not correspond to the principles of justice and the hope for peace. Real peace cannot be based on half-solutions."

An editorial in Egypt's semi-official Al-Ahram newspaper said in reference to Sadat's Nov. 19-21 visit to Jerusalem, "Egypt, which began its peace offensive with a bold initiative, cannot accept that the reply to this initiative be a lame Israeli step, hesitation, and the outlines of a solution unacceptable to any balanced mind."

BERRY'S WORLD

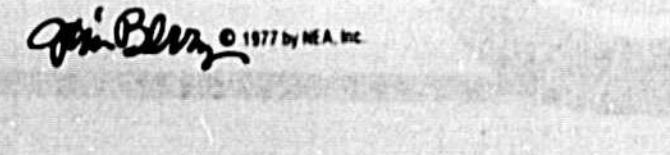

WASHINGTON — From the Papago Indian reservation in Arizona, hungry cattle shoulder through a makeshift wooden gate in the sagging, barbed-wire fence and graze at will in Mexico.

From the other direction, hungry Mexicans slip through the gate and fan out through the United States looking for jobs. This typifies the sieve that the Mexican border has become for millions of illegal workers desperate to escape the poverty of their farm villages and city barrios.

An undermanned U.S. border patrol has been unable to cope with the growing flood of illegals. An estimated six to eight million Mexicans have streamed across the border, melting silently into Mexican-American neighborhoods. They can be found working for rock-bottom wages in the lemon groves of Arizona, the potato fields of Idaho, the factories of Illinois, the restaurants of Manhattan.

Obviously, we cannot erect a Berlin Wall along the Rio Grande. Yet without a wall manned by armed guards, the border has no more meaning than a line drawn on a map. Millions more Mexicans will be driven across the border as surely as their homeland is plagued by overpopulation and poverty. The exodus has only begun.

This means Mexico and the United States, like Bismarck India, cannot be separated. An economic blow to one will send shuddering pains to the other.

Evel Knievel Sues For $210 Million Over Book

NOW HE SUES: First, daredevil Evel Knievel worked his alleged detractor over with a baseball bat. Now he's suing him for $210 million. Knievel is serving a six-month jail sentence in Los Angeles for beating writer Sheldon Saltman, co-author of "Evel Knievel on Tour." Knievel says the book labeled him. Named as defendants in the suit are Saltman, co-author Maury Green and Dell Publishing Co. The action charges the book was written in an effort to destroy Knievel's credibility and public image.

'Gloria' Gets Married

SALLY WEDS: Sally Struthers — Archie Bunker's daughter, Gloria, on the TV series "All in the Family" — got married Sunday in Los Angeles. Her husband is Dr. William Rader, a psychiatrist and film producer. The marriage is the first for the 29-year-old Miss Struthers — the second for Rader, a 39-year-old television consultant on psychology who has appeared frequently on "Good Morning America." Right now he's producing a film starring his new wife — "H's, Do No Harm."

A Slip Of The Crowbar

CHRISTMAS MOUSE: Putting up the Christmas tree proved a painful experience for Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va. He showed up at a House-Senate energy conference committee meeting Monday with an eye patch — he was injured when a crowbar he was using to erect the tree at the Keyser, W. Va., home slipped. An aide says it will be several days before Staggers knows if there is any permanent damage.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY: For Al Syed Abdul Illani, birthday parties should have become a bit of a bore. According to his Pakistani passport, he's celebrated 153 of them — which makes him the oldest human on earth. He'll celebrate his 154th on Dec. 23 at Meckenheim, West Germany — the home of Dr. Habib Khan — a mere child at 40. Khan, also a Pakistani, met Illani on a 1976 pilgrimage from Mecca to Medina. Illani arrived Monday, and promptly joined his host's children in a game of ball.

First Woman Governor Dies

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — Nellie Tayloe Ross, 101, the first woman governor in United States history, died Monday of heart failure in a Washington D.C. nursing home. "She was a grand lady," said Wyoming Gov. Ed Herschler. "She served a long and glorious career for the state of Wyoming." "She was one of the great ladies, one of the great people I have ever known," Secretary of State Thyrta Thomson said. "She was a very remarkable lady and a person of great stature."

War Commander Dies

TOKYO (UPI) — Vice Adm. Takeo Kurita, whose controversial handling of his warships cost Japan a chance to break up the American invasion of the Philippines in World War II, died Monday at his home in Kobe. He was 88. A family spokesman said death resulted from the general effects of old age. In October, 1944, Kurita commanded a squadron of battleships sent to attack American transport ships supplying the troops of General Douglas MacArthur, who had landed on Leyte island a month before. Kurita caught the U.S. Navy by surprise, by skillfully sailing his ships at night through the Sulu Sea into Leyte Gulf via the San Bernardino Strait. But just before reaching the unguarded American supply fleet, he abruptly ordered his ships to turn around and retire. Japanese navy men believe Kurita acted on an erroneous warning from a Japanese scouting plane that American aircraft carriers were in the vicinity.

With rich decor and tasteful displays, it is unlike any other resale clothing you may have visited before. You can chat whatever you're looking for in the Encore Shop. While browsing through its airy, open racks, you'll find attractive clothes of finest quality, often discovering fashions from Butte Knits, Act II, Lillie Rubin, Johnny Carson's men's wear and Levi's. But you won't find the price tags that are customary with such quality. Mrs. Long also keeps her store well-stocked with the latest in fashionable accessories. Here, you'll find purses, men's and women's belts and shoes, scarves and lower than ever prices on new jewelry for both men and women. Newcomers are finding this attractive store and are telling their friends about the atmosphere and incredibly low prices. "We have had people in here for 15 to 20 minutes who can't get over the low prices," Mrs. Long says. "They can't believe they're shopping a used clothing store."

Most of the clothing comes from people, who, for various reasons, such as a change in size, have expensive clothes that are no longer useful to them, but in too good condition or too expensive to merely give away. These they give to the Encore Shop to be sold on consignment for a 50 percent commission on the sale. These clothes must be clear and in saleable condition and the price is always mutually agreeable to both woman and the person wishing to sell. If the item isn't sold in four months, the owner will be asked to retrieve it or allow it to be donated to charity. Good news for the bride on a budget! The Encore Shop frequently carries bridal gowns, bridesmaids and mother's ensembles in great condition at a fraction of their original cost. Call 831-3400 and ask Joan what's available. If you wish to beat the ever-increasing price of clothes without a compromise in the quality of your wardrobe, visit the Encore Shop located in the K-Mart Plaza in Fern Park on US 17-92. The Encore Shop is open from 10 a.m.-9 p.m. daily and 14 Sunday. — ADV.

Saw Doctor Cures The Dull Blades

The Saw Doctor, Edgar Cross, inspects the edge of a saw soon-to-be-sharpened saw.

woods like oak and mahogany to have their carbide blades sharpened to a new condition at a fraction of the cost of a new carbide blade. The Saw Doctor also sharpens the other blades found throughout the home. He'll sharpen mower blades for $1.50 per pair; shears and scissors at 20 cents an inch; and hedge clippers for only $1. If you have an axe "to grind," let the Saw Doctor do it for you. He charges only $1 for a single-bladed axe, $1.50 for a double-bladed axe. His prices for sharpening a circular saw range from $1.35 for a 6 1/2" blade to $1.80 for a 10" blade. His prices on hand saws differ depending on the number of teeth per inch from $2 for an 8-point to $2.75 for a back saw. Compare these prices with $3.50 or more for a new circular saw blade or $9 or more for a hand saw and it's plain that the Saw Doctor can help you save your money as well as your blades. Edgar Cross is radio-dispatched over the C.B. on Channel 19 and goes by the handle: Saw Doctor. Give him a shout! On Channel 9, he's with National Emergency Radio Patrol (NERP) and can be reached at 504-7.

The Digital Watch: Its Time Gone?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only a year ago a lot of watch industry analysts were predicting the traditional sweephand or analog watch would be replaced by digital watches. But being a business prophet is at best a risky profession that is best compared with a witty Frenchman's definition of a critic — a person whose function it is to be wrong. When the first solid-state digital watches were introduced at the retail level in 1972, analysts were loudly claiming that they would quickly destroy the market for all other types of watches and that many jewelers would be driven out of the watch business. Two of the more prominent American makers of quality sweephand watches, Benrus and Green, did suffer huge losses. Even Bulova and Timex, the giants at the top and bottom ends of the price spectrum in the American watch industry, had to take their lumps. But many of the makers of mass produced digital watches were driven out completely as the digital watch market captured only 30 to 40 percent of the estimated 52 to 53 million watches that will be sold this year, with most of that share achieved only by savage price cutting. As prices of digital watches plunged from several hundred dollars to as little as $10, three big semiconductor manufacturers, Intel, American Microsystems and Lattice, pulled out of the finished watch business. Three remain, Fairchild, National Semiconductor and Texas Instruments. Benrus, Gruen, Armin, Gillette and HMW Industries also have quit making digital watches. The Japanese Seiko company, a world giant in the industry which played a leading role in pioneering the digital watch, told Modern Jeweler magazine recently it has decided the real future of the watch business lies in the quartz sweephand timepiece selling at a substantial price through the retail jeweler. Chairman Harry B. Herbel of Bulova, who was criticized for being slow to turn to the digital as Bulova's earnings were eroded, said he now feels vindicated and is convinced the quartz watch growth should be in duals both for men and women." He also said the conventional spring-powered sweephand watch will continue to be an important part of the business and that both these and quartz analog watches lend themselves best to jeweler styling and marketing and jewelry servicing. Bulova also makes a line of continuous readout digital watches. Herbel thinks the continuous readout type will gain increasing dominance in the digital watch market. As the 1977 Christmas shopping season approaches, traditionally the best period for watch sales, the sweephand watch, whether spring-powered or quartz crystal and battery operated, is holding its own — and so are the jewelers.

FSU Ponders Between Jordan, Woodham Vs. Texas Tech

ORLANDO. (UPI)—Florida State coach Bobby Bowen says he hasn't decided whether to start at quarterback for the Seminoles when they meet Texas Tech in the Tangerine Bowl Friday night.

Bowen will choose between Jimmy Jordan or Wally Woodham, both sophomores, to begin launching the barrage of passes that Tech is expecting in the 32nd edition of the bowl.

"We realize that Florida State has an explosive attack and it's going to take a top effort of our best offensive and defensive to beat them," Bowen said.

Bowen says his team respects Allison, whom he called "the best quarterback in the country when he's healthy."

Texas Tech's senior quarterback Rodney Allison, who broke a come-from-behind win over Oklahoma State. But Jordan threw three touchdowns passes in the Seminoles' 37-9 victory over arch-rival Florida.

Lake Howell resumes action Jan. 4 at home against Lyman.

Give Huskers Liberty, 21-17

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Coach Tom Osborne knew his Nebraska Cornhuskers would have to do things differently to win the Liberty Bowl against the team that gave up an average of only 7.4 points per game this season.

The changes the Nebraska coach made were seen quickly by the 49,456 fans in Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium Monday night.

The scoring passes from senior Randy Garcia, who replaced starter Tom Sorely in the fourth quarter, lifted Nebraska to a 21-17 triumph.

The Tar Heels' only touchdowns came on second-quarter passes from Matt Kupec, who completed seven of 11 throws for 75 yards.

Mathews, Snider, Wills Up For Hall

NEW YORK (UPI)—Home runs slipped Eddie Mathews and Duke Snider of the 1950s and Maury Wills, the major league's base-stealing champion in the 1960s, appear to be the leading candidates for election to baseball's Hall of Fame in the next balloting.

They are Cleo Boyer, Jim Grant, Jim Maloney, Bill Mazeroski, Denny McLain, Pedro Ramos and Hoyt Wilhelm, a great relief pitcher, who appeared in more games than any other pitcher in baseball history, probably has the best chance.

Mathews, the only player with 500 career homers who is eligible but hasn't been elected to the Hall of Fame, missed being voted into the shrine by 49 votes last year.

Mathews had 512 homers during his career and teamed with all-time leader Hank Aaron to form one of the game's most famous 1-2 punches.

Former Dodger great Snider and Gil Hodges and ex-St. Louis standout Enos Slaughter also should receive plenty of support from the voters.

Each collected more than 200 votes last January but did not receive the necessary 75 per cent.

Snider is the co-holder with Hall of Famer Ralph Kiner for the National League record of most consecutive seasons with 40 or more homers (5).

He finished fourth in last year's balloting behind Ernie Banks, Matthews and Hodges.

Wills lugged 281 with little power but led the National League in stolen bases a record six consecutive years and stole a total of 386 bases during a 14-year career. He set a modern major league record of 104 stolen bases in 1962—a mark later broken by Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals.

In order to be eligible for election to the Hall of Fame by the American Football Conference play-off games.

In National Football Conference play-off next Monday, Dallas is favored by 30 points over Chicago and Los Angeles is an 8-point favorite to beat Minnesota.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Wednesday, Dec. 21, 1977

YOUR BIRTHDAY Dec. 21, 1977. Someone who has great faith in you may impart some confidential information this coming year that could prove rather profitable. You will know exactly how to use it to your best advantage.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a likelihood you may have to return later and do it again if you insist on using "step-savers" at work today. Do it slowly, but do it. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Invite old friends if you're having a holiday dinner or open house. You'll find they're more comfortable than your new pals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You might have a rough day at the office today. Walk away and forget it. You'll feel so much better by kicking your worries in your desk.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're likely to be very easily distracted and thus quite forgetful today. Write down what you must do so you won't overlook anything.

Patient Asks About Pacemaker

DEAR DR. LAMB - Several weeks ago, I had a black-out and the doctor ordered me to the hospital. Before I knew what had happened, I was rushed to the operating room for surgery. My pulse had dropped to 31, and they had to put in a pacemaker.

Dr. Lamb, I would like to know more about a pacemaker, what it does and why I had to have one. I was so short of breath and so tired for so long. What are the symptoms to look for if something should go wrong with the pacemaker?

DEAR READER - Normally, your heart has its own pacemaker, which acts like a spark plug. It stimulates the heart to beat each time. The stimulation is really an electrical event. The natural spark plug has its own rate, and it can speed up or slow down within your normal range.

going to have time to run the low cards before the defense gets the spade suit established. South only has four diamonds but if he starts proceedings by knocking out that ace he can count two spades, one heart, three diamonds and three clubs. He has had for nine tricks; there are nine tricks starting him in the face. He plays diamonds and makes the hand. Actually, he gets a chance to try for an overtrick by taking the heart finesse which he can do safely.

Layer: Tax-Free Unit?

School Superintendent William P. Layer said he will set up a non-profit corporation to collect funds to aid school employees left with unpaid medical and dental bills since their insurance company went into receivership.

ENDANGERED, BUT HERE
Wide-eyed and curious, this rare Siamese is the newest addition to the animal family at the Central Florida Zoological Park in Sanford. Born Nov. 26, captive births of this great ape are rare. Held by Deirdre O'Donoghue, the Siamese is an endangered species, and the local birth was made possible by contributions of the Rotary Club of Seminole County South, which aided in the purchase of a female parent in October 1976.

SR-46 Landfill Plan: No Appeal, It's Dead Plan

By MARK WEINBERG
Herald Staff Writer
There will be no privately operated 275-acre landfill on SR-46, three miles west of Interstate-4. Waste Management Inc., a private garbage disposal company, will not appeal to the Seminole County Commission the Board of Adjustment's Nov. 21 decision not to allow the land-

Lake Mary Council Gives Go-Ahead To $10 Million Project

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer
A $10 million planned unit development (PUD) that could bring 1,000 new residents to the City of Lake Mary is on its way. The residential-commercial development received the "go" sign from the Lake Mary City Council Tuesday night as an ordinance changing the zoning on an 80.2-acre tract bounding Rinehart Road and near the Stromberg-Carlson plant was approved. The ordinance must be read a second time before final approval.

The development is to be constructed in three phases. Trepanier said, with park lands set aside in each phase. The PUD is called Lake Park Manor. Trepanier said price range of the single family homes will begin at $25,000. Minimum floor area of the homes will be 1,100 square feet. The 80.2-acre tract is located directly east of the Stromberg-Carlson plant. The driveway to the plant is in line with the northern entrance to the proposed PUD. Final approvals of the zoning ordinance and of the plans for the PUD could be accomplished by late Spring, permitting construction to begin soon thereafter, said Lake Mary Zoning Administrator Francis Jenor today.

The Students And Those Tests--IV Parents: How They Do, Do Not Help With Work

The Evening Herald today continues its conversation with five students who failed the Functional Literacy Tests. Today they evaluate how their parents help with school work.

STUDENT: I would ask my children if they understood the work, and if the teachers were teaching them properly, if the work is thorough explained to them. If my children were having problems, I would go and talk with the teacher and see about the problems.

STUDENT: I would help my children as much as I could and, like my mom tells me, I would tell them if they did not understand to stay after school and ask the teacher for help.

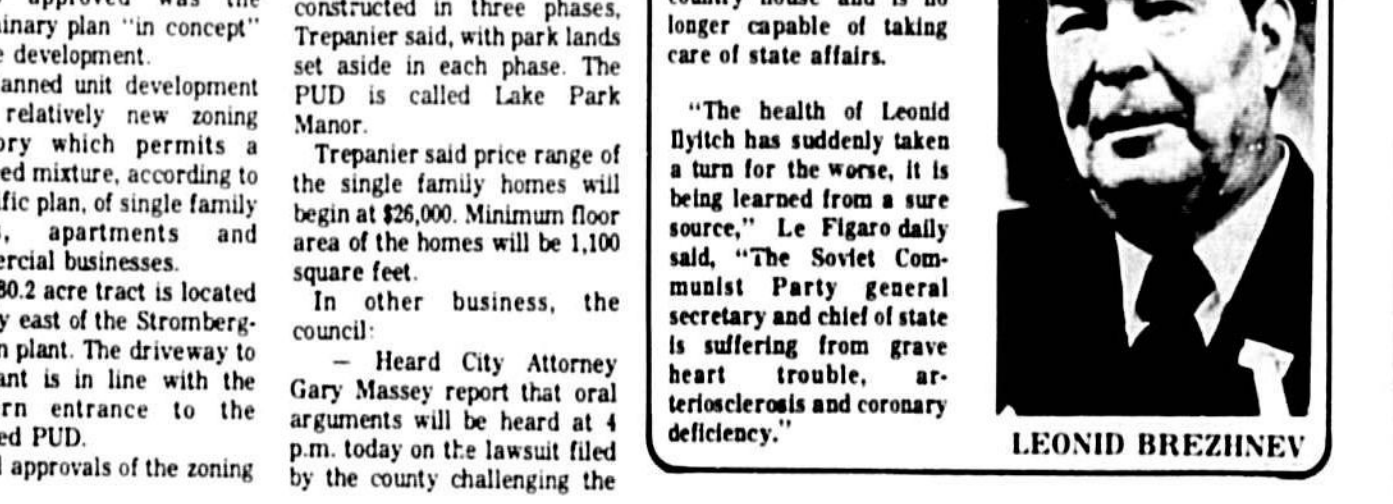

STUDENT: My mom does it every night. She says, "Do you have any homework? Do you have any tests for tomorrow?" And she asks me to get my report card, she wants it on top of the table when I get home, before anything else.

STUDENT: I would help my children as much as I could and, like my mom tells me, I would tell them if they did not understand to stay after school and ask the teacher for help.
