Polish Rank-And-File Ask Party Resignations

WARSAW, Poland (UPI)—An unauthorized national meeting of rank-and-file Communist Party members declared "loss of trust in the party apparatus at every level" and called for mass resignations in an unprecedented grass-roots challenge to Poland's rulers.

A Western observer, assessing the meeting Wednesday of representatives from 14 of Poland's 49 provinces in the northern town of Torun, said, "If anything brings in the Russians, it will be changes in the party not the Solidarity" trade union.

The gathering was the first national session of local party discussion groups which have been springing up without Central Party directives to discuss preparations for the coming party congress, and the delegates' language minced few words.

Hess Breaks Silence

BONN, West Germany (UPI)—Rudolf Hess, Adolf Hitler's second-in-command, broke 40 years of silence to announce that his mysterious wartime "peace mission" to Britain was made without the fuhrer's knowledge.

In breaking his public silence, the jailed Nazi official also disclosed in a pamphlet marking the 40th anniversary of the flight that he made three unsuccessful attempts to fly to Britain before he finally took off on the mission that ended with his imprisonment in the Tower of London.

Since Hess landed in Scotland May 10, 1941, the world had wondered if Hitler sent his deputy to make a separate peace to clear the way for his attack six weeks later on Russia. Hitler at the time denounced Hess as a madman.

WIESBADEN, West Germany (UPI)—A jailed Baader-Meinhof terrorist on a hunger strike died and a bomb was planted in an Army headquarters today in a campaign against the U.S. military. Police defused the bomb before it exploded.

The bomb incident occurred before Hamburg authorities announced the death of Sigurd Debus who had refused food for two months. The news was expected to spark further violence, with U.S. installations a prime target.

State Nixes Track In Polk

Longwood entrepreneur Marc Robinson lost his second bid to build a pari-mutuel quarter-horse racetrack Wednesday.

The Pari-Mutuel Wagering Commission, after two public hearings in Polk County, turned down the request from Harness Racing Inc., a group represented by Robinson, to build a racing facility in Polk County.

Gary Rutledge, executive director of the commission, said the refusal came because it appeared the Longwood group lacked qualified, experienced personnel and could not begin operation of the track soon enough. Another reason for the refusal was the opposition from residents of the area, he said.

To seal the demise of Robinson's announced plans to build a similar pari-mutuel wagering facility in Lake Mary, the site proposed for the track has been sold.

Mid-Stage Development, the company which was to build the facility, has sold the proposed site to Florida Land Co. for $1,251,300. Florida Land is the original developer of Greenwood Lakes, a new planned unit development near the proposed site of the racetrack.

During a referendum in December, the citizens of Lake Mary turned down the track proposal by a 2-1 margin.

Meanwhile, State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, and Sen. Clark Maxwell, R-Melbourne, have run into opposition on their jointly sponsored bill to repeal a portion of state law which Robinson said months ago would allow him to build the harness racetrack in Lake Mary whether the people wanted it there or not.

The section of law exempted capital improvements at pari-mutuel wagering establishments from city laws, rules and regulations.

Brantley said from Tallahassee today State Rep. Carl Ogden, chairman of the Regulated Industries committee, spoke before the pari-mutuel wagering sub-committee in opposition to the repeal.

Brantley said he hopes it outright repeal of the section cannot be accomplished, that a committee compromise will at least define the term "capital improvements" and provide that while cities and counties must issue the necessary building permits the pari-mutuel will have to abide by city building codes and zoning ordinances. —DONNA ESTES

BASS BY THE BUCKET

These young fingerling bass being weighed by James Dillard, biological technician with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, at Weka, may be only a drop in the bucket now, but some day with a little luck may be some fisherman's prize catch. The fish were being weighed Wednesday prior to distribution at the Imperial Station on State Road 46, Sanford, delivery provides largemouth bass, sunfish and channel catfish free for stocking ponds of one-fourth acre or more with a depth of 5-6 feet. Application for the fish must be made by July 1 with the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service in Orlando.

Young and Crippen met at the Lunar and Planetary Science Institute Wednesday afternoon to start an exhaustive eight to nine days of debriefing, the first two days of which were scheduled to focus on technical aspects of the mission.

For Series Of Burglaries

'One-Man Crime Wave' Gets 5 Years

A 25-year-old Sanford resident who police described as a "one-man crime wave," was sentenced in Circuit Court Wednesday to five years imprisonment and 20 years probation for a series of burglaries committed last summer.

Ronald Thomas Alcott of 114 Summerlin Ave. was suspected of more than two dozen area break-ins, but agreed to plead guilty to four counts of burglary providing that he received seven years or less in jail. Judge Joseph Davis Jr. accepted the deal, but also ordered Alcott to pay back the estimated $30,000 taken in the robberies.

The offenses to which Alcott admitted were the July 18 break-in at Harry's Bar, Park Avenue, Sanford; July 23, the Orlando Helicopter building at the Sanford Airport; and the July 29 burglaries at the National Chemical Corp. in the 14 Industrial Park, and the Bowling Alley at 1800 W. Airport Blvd.

In other court action, Timothy Scott Perkins, 20, of 750 Lorman Circle, Longwood, was sentenced to five years in prison, suspended for three years and two years probation, after his conviction in November of assaulting a Longwood policeman with a shotgun.

Because of the nature of the offense, Perkins will have to serve the entire three years in jail. He will not be eligible for early release.

Perkins was charged with aggravated assault after he pointed a shotgun at officer R.G. DeFallo and threatened to shoot him during a domestic squabble at Perkins' home.

It took a six-member Circuit Court jury just 20 minutes to convict 25-year-old Willie Gene Miller on a charge of attempted robbery in connection with an ill-fated robbery try at the LIJ Champ convenience store, 119 W. 25th St., Sanford on May 15.

Sentencing was deferred pending completion of an investigation into Miller's background.

Miller, of 54 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, was accused of entering the store, showing clerk Doris Bertrange aside and trying to rifle the cash drawer.

Failing, Miller fled the store and was captured in a wooded area a short distance away.

In another trial, Joseph Robert Tully, 20, of 9003 Lake Chertiff Drive, Maitland, was found not guilty of the June 22 theft of an automobile belonging to Janet Davis.

Also Wednesday, three persons pleaded guilty to various offenses. They are:

- Sassy Evelyn Freeman, 26, of 1301 W. 13th St., Apopka, grand theft. Freeman was accused of trying to use a stolen check to buy $300 worth of jewelry from K-Mart, 961 W. State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, on Oct. 27. When confronted with the fact that the check had been stolen, Freeman reportedly ate it.

FIRM Suing CASSELBERRY

They can't very well repossess the street, so representatives of the Mason contracting firm of Orlando are suing the city of Casselberry for not paying the entire cost of road paving job performed by Mason last year.

In a civil lawsuit filed in Circuit Court in Sanford Tuesday, Mason contends that the city still owes it $12,686.30 from a total bill of $197,219.70 and asks the court to order the city to make the final payment.

The suit claims that on July 1, 1980, Casselberry contracted with Mason for paving and installation of gutters and storm drains along Lake Triplett Drive.

The work was completed in December, the suit says, and the city paid all but $12,686.30 of the bill.

Casselberry City Clerk Mary Hawthorne said the money is being withheld because a portion of the job was not done to the city's satisfaction. However, she said further details would have to come from city engineer Ken Ehlers who is in New York.

The case has been assigned to Judge Joseph Davis Jr. No hearing date has been set.

SECOND STRONG-ARM ROBBERY

A 23-year-old Gainesville woman Friday night became the second victim of strong-arm robbery in a week at the Phillips 66 Service Station located at State Road 477 and Plumosa in Casselberry. She had stopped to ask directions.

The first victim was attacked April 6 when she was returning to her car. Although police have not determined both women were robbed by the same thief, investigators suspect the incident was related.

The latest victim, Lora Martin Berger, an administrator for the city of Gainesville, reported she stopped to ask for help when she had stopped in the location about 8:00. As she returned to her car, she said, a young black male about 5'11", 170 lbs. ran up behind her while she was trying to unlock the door.

Hooking his arm between her right shoulder and the purse strap, he spun her around and knocked her to the ground as she realized what was happening and attempted to fight for a moment.

Mrs. Berger told police she was then dragged along the ground until she released the bag. In the struggle, she suffered a head injury and lacerations on both knees.

The first victim was attacked about 9:00 p.m. also as she returned to her parked car. A black male, estimated to be in his late teens or early twenties, suddenly pounced on her as she passed the pay phone just outside the door snatched the purse from her side, tearing the strap from her shoulder, she told police.

The thief then fled down Plumosa, preventing the victim and witnesses from getting an adequate description of him.

But the Friday night victim was able to give police a reasonable description of the man, reporting that he jumped over a low brick wall after obtaining the purse and disappeared behind the Food Mart. He was wearing long, dark pants and a light short-sleeved shirt with the tails out, she said.

RAPIST STRIKES SLEEPING WOMAN

A 51-year-old Winter Park woman was raped early Sunday morning by a man who had apparently crawled into her bedroom through an unlocked window.

The victim reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that she was awakened about 4 a.m. by a man standing over her with a knife. He threatened to kill her if she did not cooperate.

THE OLD BREAD SCAM

A 19-year-old Longwood woman was victim of the old bread scam at a local grocery store Monday night and wound up $431 poorer because of it.

Wendy Cadd of 1401 Speard St. told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that she was shopping at the Pantry Pride, State Road 436 and U.S. Highway 17-92, about 8 p.m. when she was joined at the Bread rack by two young females.

One of the girls dropped a loaf of bread at Cadd's feet and when Cadd bent over to pick it up, the second girl grabbed Cadd's purse out of her shopping cart and ran out the front door.

Cadd said there was $56 cash and a $375 tax refund check in the purse.

Winter Springs Council Seeking More Space

By BRITT SMITH, Herald Staff Writer

Winter Springs city councilmen think the city has outgrown its quarters and they want a new city hall.

But the question is, where? Hoping to find an answer, the council Tuesday voted to accept an offer from the Architects Design Group of Florida, Winter Park, to work on the city's behalf at no cost to find state and federal grants to build a public safety complex on eight acres of municipal property on Moss Ross.

If the firm is successful, "we would be under no legal obligation to retain them to do any later architectural work," according to City Attorney Wally Stalaker. "All they would ask is that we consider them along with other firms."

City Manager Richard Rozanaky said he doesn't know how much such a facility would cost or even what departments it would house.

"I'm not real sure how the council would want to work it, but something needs to be done," he said.

"We (city hall) are in what is supposed to be a recreation building, and the police are pushed in with the fire department. We're really overcrowded."

In other action, the council gave unanimous final approval to rezoning changes for three separate parcels of land from a rural to residential classification to commercial. These were some of the same rezonings which, when they came up for initial discussion on March 10, sparked a discussion of whether the city was becoming too commercialized.

Specifically, some residents wondered whether the zoning changes would attract more convenience stores to the city, businesses they felt were eyesores and hangouts for unruly kids.

There was no debate Tuesday. Piland had made the council's feelings clear a month ago when he stated flatly that members would not go along with a suggestion to put a cap on the number of convenience stores allowed within the city limits.

"You're talking about interfering with people's right to free enterprise, to make a living," Piland said. "We can't do it."

Changing from a rural to commercial (allowing such things as neighborhood-type retail stores and professional offices) were two-and-a-half acres on the southeast corner of Hayes Road and State Road 434.

Three lots on Sherry Avenue were changed from residential to commercial zoning, and on seven acres of land along State Road 419 opposite Edgemon Avenue will now be allowed not only small retail outlets and offices, but also light industry such as chemical analysis firms and non-polluting manufacturing plants.

Also Tuesday, the council voted to buy a 1,500-gallon tanker fire truck at a cost of $192,000. The pumper, which will not be delivered for two months, will replace two dilapidated trucks both over 25 years old.

NATION IN BRIEF

Boston's Fiscal Crisis Worsens

BOSTON (UPI)—City officials struggling with a fiscal crisis worked today with a court-appointed master to avert a shutdown of public schools for 64,000 students. Police angered by budget-cutting layoffs threatened to disrupt 7,000 runners in Monday's Boston Marathon.

The School Department officially ran out of money today as the city's students began a 10-day spring vacation. Officials were hopeful a settlement can be worked out before they return April 27.

Because of Proposition 2½, the radical tax-cutting measure approved by Massachusetts voters last fall, Wayne Kevin H. White has laid off 200 police and 200 firefighters and has vowed to let up to 4,000 city workers from all departments go by July 1. More than 1,700 city workers have been laid off to date.

Karate Blow Injures Youth

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—School officials say they will not cancel a self defense course, despite an accident in which a girl seriously injured a ninth-grader by using a move learned in the class.

Ron Barnes said Wednesday his son, Michael, was "just horsing around in the lunchroom with a good friend of his, like kids do," when the friend rammed her palm up against the boy's nostril.

The blow damaged the cartilage in the youth's nose. An infection developed, and Michael was hospitalized Sunday. "The girl told me she probably would have just popped Michael in the arm when they were horsing around," Barnes said, "but she had learned the nose blow move in a self defense unit in her class the day before and she just used it without thinking."

FBI Agents Pardoned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Reagan felt so strongly about the convictions of former top-level FBI officials W. Mark Felt and Edward S. Miller he granted them full pardons before they asked for them.

Reagan granted a full pardon Wednesday to Felt, the FBI's former No. 2 official, and Miller, head of its intelligence section, who were convicted of approving illegal break-ins in a search for fugitive Weathermen in the early 1970s.

"Four years ago, thousands of draft evaders and others who violated the Selective Service laws were unconditionally pardoned by my predecessor," Reagan said in a statement.

'Fugitive' Linked To Murders

MIAMI (UPI)—A Salvadoran "fugitive" allegedly linked to the January murders of two Americans and a land reform official in El Salvador has been placed in custody of the U.S. Marshall following his arrest by federal authorities.

Hans Christ, 30, was arrested by FBI agents at a Miami Beach condominium at pre-dawn. State Department officials in Washington said the arrest was made at the request of the San Salvador government.

Sources close to Christ's family in San Salvador said he is a former director of the Salvadoran Association of Industry and a son of a cotton planter owner whose land holdings were recently nationalized by decree of the ruling Salvadoran junta.

Harbor Pilot Negligent?

TAMPA, (UPI)—The Coast Guard has charged Tampa Bay harbor pilot Harry Eugene Knight with misconduct and negligence aboard the tanker Capricorn when it collided with the buoy tender Blackthorn last year killing 23 Coast Guardsmen.

The charges could result in suspension or revocation of Knight's federal maritime license.

"I think it's unfair and we'll fight it," his attorney William Dorsey III said from his Baltimore office Wednesday.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Gov. Graham Pledges Help For Poverty Stricken

TALLAHASSEE, (UPI)—Gov. Bob Graham has promised Florida's poverty stricken the state won't stand by and let vital federal programs they depend upon come to a halt.

About 200 persons marched on the Capitol Wednesday to protest President Reagan's plans to abolish the Community Services Administration and eliminate most other anti-poverty programs launched in the mid-1960's by then-President Lyndon Johnson.

Graham came out on the Capitol steps to address the crowd. He wouldn't promise the Legislature will replace all of the $20 billion a year in federal money going to CSA programs in Florida, including Operation Head Start programs, day care centers and special assistance for the elderly, but he vowed that Florida's needy won't go unassisted.

Annapolis Mayor Dead

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI)—Gustav J. Akerland, who served as acting mayor of Annapolis for just over a month, died Wednesday, four days after shooting himself in the head because he couldn't cope with the city's financial condition.

Dr. Jack Kushner, who operated on Akerland Saturday night, pronounced him dead at 2:35 p.m.

Police said the 60-year-old retired Air Force Colonel shot himself because he could not deal with the financial problems left behind by former Mayor Jon C. Apostol, who resigned to join a bank in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in March, three months before his term as mayor would have expired.

More Rape Arrests Expected

RICHMOND (UPI)—Additional arrests are possible in the alleged weekend rape of a 14-year-old runaway girl by three University of Richmond football players, police said.

The players allegedly raped the unidentified teenager early Sunday at a temporary modular residence hall on campus. They were arrested Tuesday, said Henrico County police, adding that additional arrests are possible.

Students who refused to be identified told the Richmond Times-Dispatch the incident involved a girl who had been staying at a dormitory for two days. The girl's parents had reported her as a runaway.

Man With Naked Wife Arrested In Store

DEERFIELD BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Police were still trying today to unravel a strange series of events that led to the arrest of a prominent Johnstown, Pa., businessman who was found with his naked wife Wednesday brandishing a pistol in a convenience store.

Walter A. Stiles, 49, owner of Johnstown Aviation Corp. and Al-Mar Manufacturing Co., was charged with aggravated assault and reckless display of a firearm.

Lt. Frank Landuskey of the Deerfield Beach police department said a call was received at 1:30 a.m. Wednesday that someone was holding up a convenience store.

When police arrived they said they found Stiles and his naked wife inside the store and saw a car speed off. Stiles was brandishing a .22 caliber pistol, officers said.

One officer went into the store and handed Mrs. Phyllis Stiles, 49, a blanket to cover herself and arrested her husband.

Pulitzer-Winning Story Was Fake

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A tragic tale of an 8-year-old ghetto kid hooked on heroin has turned into the real-life tragedy of a "talented and promising" young reporter who faked the story and won journalists' highest award.

Executives of The Washington Post disclosed Wednesday Janet Cooke, 26, who won the 1962 Pulitzer Prize for feature writing this week, admitted under several hours of intense questioning she fabricated details of "Jimmy's World," the account of a child addict living in Washington's slums she wrote for the paper last fall.

The Pulitzer Prize board, informed of the hoax by the Post, withdrew the $1,000 prize from Miss Cooke and awarded it to Teresa Carpenter of the Village Voice newspaper in New York.

Benjamin Bradlee, executive editor of the newspaper, then wired the Pulitzer Prize Board. "It devastated me."

Joint Chiefs Get Their Due

During his 1961-68 tenure as secretary of defense, Robert S. McNamara did more than just mismanage the war in Vietnam.

Specifically, McNamara sharply diminished the role of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in strategic planning, management and the budgeting process so vital to the implementation of defense policy.

Recounting all of the blunders attributable to this overcentralization of power would fill volumes. Suffice it to say that the armed forces and the country they serve have paid a severe price indeed for discounting the professional advice of those appointed to head the armed services.

Moreover, the ill-advised concentration of management and budget authority in the defense secretary's office has inevitably detracted from the larger task of shaping strategic doctrine, which should be the overriding concern of the cabinet officer responsible for defense policy.

Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger has now begun the job of undoing Mr. McNamara's unfortunate handiwork. Henceforth, the Joint Chiefs will have more to say about the decisions that determine defense policy, and the makeup of forces assigned to carry out that policy.

The service secretaries, whose responsibilities have dwindled drastically since the McNamara era, will now be given a more worthwhile role in policy and management. That too is good news.

When President Reagan selected Caspar Weinberger as his secretary of defense, there were those who questioned the appointment on grounds that Mr. Weinberger lacked experience in defense matters.

We are pleased to note that Secretary Weinberger is proving to be a quick study. He has already learned enough to know that the Pentagon's decision-making processes should be decentralized and that civilian officials, including the secretary of defense, can only benefit by taking full advantage of the professional knowledge and experience available to them.

That is more, much more, than can be said for many of Caspar Weinberger's predecessors.

What's Good For...

The Reagan administration has followed through on its promise to help the auto industry through a hard time by easing up on federal regulations. Relaxing or eliminating 34 safety and anti-pollution regulations of questionable value will save the manufacturers $1.3 billion in capital investment during the next five years.

The cars being built in that period also would be cheaper by about $150 because of equipment they would not have to carry. The savings to the public would be about $9.3 billion.

The big question is whether we should be giving up important health and safety protection for the sake of saving money for the auto companies and for ourselves. We doubt it. New cars would meet the same standards they are meeting now. It is requirements for future models that are affected.

The expensive air-bag and self-locking seat belts are safety innovations that lost their luster the more they were examined. The benefit of heavier bumpers is questionable weighed against the cost and the sacrifice in gas mileage.

The authors of these and other regulatory demands have dreamed of a more ideal automobile, not always considering the cost of manufacturing it. Federal mandates are complicating Detroit's effort to survive a disastrous drop in earnings and re-establish its position in the auto market. Lifting the regulations targeted by the administration will not solve everything, but this is surely one way the government can help.

BERRY'S WORLD

"You caught me at a bad time for doing yard work. I am about to go into my napping mode."

Around

The Clock By BRITT SMITH

Just let 'em call him cheap again. For the benefit of all those who: (A) called him cheap; (B) said he had no imagination; (C) accused him of being unfair to his children; and (D) called him cheap, my neighbor George wishes to announce his 1981 vacation plans.

Last year, George took the girl who promised to love, honor, and plan vacation trips, plus the two children, on vacation in Orlando. He thought the 21-mile trip from Park Avenue, Sanford, to Orlando — where they took in the sights, shopped downtown, stayed at a nice motel, enjoyed a good meal and movie, then went home the next day — was a terrific vacation.

They got to travel — 80 total miles. They went by the planetarium, the art museum, and the Orange County Library, but they didn't stop. George said he and the family saw several historical markers and didn't stop to read them either.

He figured they wouldn't stop to read the markers if they were in Jacksonville, or Savannah, or Atlanta, or Charleston, so why do something different just because they were vacationing near home?

George said the family had a nice meal at a local steak house. It was identical to the nice meal they had at an identical steak house the year before that was more than 500 miles from home.

So what? The kids got to swim in the motel pool and dive off the diving board. They didn't have to get up real early to start their trip, or leave early to get back home. And "we let the boys take the difference between what we would have spent if we'd gone out of state and what we did spend in Orlando and buy clothes with the money," George said.

He expected the chamber of commerce to present him with a plaque. He expected to hear from the conservation folks praising him for not wasting gasoline. He expected a lot of nice things from his fellow central Floridians.

But Nooooooo! The chamber of commerce wasn't interested, the conservation people totally ignored him, and practically everyone who knows him castigated poor George with hecrites and hoets of derision. "I still think we did the right thing," George said unrepentant. "I gave the children a choice — we could go either to the beach, home (North Carolina) or deep-sea fishing. Or, we could take the mini-vacation in Orlando and spend the difference on clothes."

They choose the clothes. See? George isn't cheap. It's just that the girl who promised to love, honor, and have very intelligent children did a really good job. But there are a lot of smart alecks around here who took it as a personal insult. Evidently, they figure central Florida is a good place to live, but a rotten place to visit.

"Everyone gave me a tough time for not spending a wad of dough going SOMEWHERE ELSE," George groused. So, listen up. He is announcing right now that things will be different this summer.

"I am NOT going to vacation in Florida. I've already told the kids that when school is out, we're heading for the hills." They have rented a house and plan to spend an entire week in the North Carolina mountains. "I'll probably spend a fortune," George moaned.

He has already spent $100 just to make sure the car is perfect. So quit calling him cheap.

ROBERT WAGMAN Visiting South Africans

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The State Department and the U.S. Embassy in Pretoria knew the identities of the five South African military officers well in advance of their U.S. visit that came to an abrupt end in mid-March.

The State Department instructed the embassy to issue U.S. visas to the five — including Lt. Gen. P. W. Van der Westerhuis, head of South African military intelligence — because the South African government had guaranteed that their visit would be both quick and private. This order ran counter to the U.S. policy that since 1965 has barred members of the South African armed forces from entering this country.

These assertions from a member of the embassy staff contradicts official statements made by the State Department when the five were ordered to leave the United States once their presence became public knowledge.

According to State Department spokesman William Dyeas, the South African government applied for diplomatic entry permits so that the five could "consult with the South African Embassy here in Washington." Dyeas said that they were admitted to this country largely because the South African government "inadvertently omitted" their military ranks from the official letter requesting the entry permits.

Dyeas said that the identities of the five were not discovered until well into their visit because their names are as common in South Africa as is "Smith or Jones" in the United States.

This story is disputed in its entirety by the embassy official, who says that several of his colleagues in the embassy knew the identities of the traveling party almost from the start. They were also aware that the visit was being arranged by the American Security Council, a right-wing lobby that supports the apartheid government of South Africa.

Members of the Council include a number of influential businessmen and politicians who comprise a who's who of the Reagan administration's far-right supporters.

"It's kind of insulting to us here to say that we did not know who Van der Westerhuis was, even though the name is rather common," the embassy official said by phone from South Africa. "That would be like saying that a major foreign embassy in Washington did not realize who J. Edgar Hoover was because Hoover is a rather common American name."

The source reiterated that Washington had been apprised of the situation and had approved of the visit so long as it remained private and brief. But problems developed once the American Security Council began arranging briefings with the South Africans for some members of Congress and when the visitors began paying "courtesy calls" to friends in the Defense Intelligence Agency and the National Security Council.

Still later it was learned that several in the group had met with U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, who has since said that she thought that she was meeting with private South African citizens, not military officers.

JACK ANDERSON Men In Kremlin Hold Mankind's Fate

WASHINGTON — A small, super-secret group of old men—seven or eight at most—bear responsibility for the Kremlin's decision on military intervention in Poland.

This gray-haired, gray-clad inner circle of Communist Party elders is known simply as the Defense Council. Its deliberations in the byzantine elegance of the czarist council chambers produce decisions that affect the peace and well being of the whole world.

Little is known about the Defense Council. In fact, its very existence was not officially acknowledged until 1976, in a passing reference to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, a civilian technician; Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko; Premier Nikolai Kosygin, replacing the late Alexei Kosygin, his lifetime boss; KGB boss Yuri Andropov; Nikolai Smirnov, military chief of staff, and Leonid Smirnov, chief of the Military Industrial Command. Yakov Ryabov was believed to have been a member, until he was dumped from his post as Communist Party secretary for defense affairs.

ROBERT WALTERS Buying Into The Presidency

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Reagan's proclivity to seek out wealthy donors to finance various semi-official projects may have gone a long way toward undermining the political-finance reforms adopted during the 1970s.

Rich individuals and corporations, whose contributions to presidential candidates have been severely restricted by the relatively new campaign-finance laws, now can ingratiate themselves with the White House by donating large sums of money to underwrite Reagan's favorite programs.

Moreover, the president's aides were not entirely candid when they promised those funding schemes a bonanza for the country's taxpayers on the grounds that collecting the money from private sources would relieve the federal treasury of a potential financial obligation.

In almost every instance where committees have been established to solicit funds from private sources, special provisions have been made to ensure that the contributions could be treated by the donors as tax-deductible expenditures.

Those deductions lead directly to lost government income that must be recouped from other sources — and the federal treasury's largest single source of revenue is the personal income tax.

In other words, millions of middle-income taxpayers are indirectly sharing the burden of the "fat cat" who donates $50,000 to $100,000 or more to support Reagan's pet projects.

Like incoming presidents in the past, Reagan relied almost exclusively upon voluntary contributions to finance the work of his inaugural committees — but his aides also established an unprecedented Presidential Inaugural Trust Fund with a fund-raising goal of $1.5 million. Donors to that fund were able to reap the benefits of a tax deduction applicable to their contributions.

Similar arrangements prevailed for those who donated to the $800,000 to now-defunct fund to promote the president's economic program and those who gave more than $75,000 to refurbish the residential area of the White House.

The largeness of Reagan's aides in raising large sums of money while providing deductions for the contributors was demonstrated when they failed to convince any of the three television networks to broadcast the inaugural gala, an evening of entertainment, as a special program.

Undeterred by those rejections, Reagan's staff paid the American Broadcasting Co. $500,000 for two hours of prime evening time, spent another $400,000 on television production costs and laid out another $75,000 to rent the cavernous arena where the gala was being held.

To recoup those costs, they sold commercial time, at the inflated rate of $250,000 per minute, to sponsors that included many of the country's largest corporations — Merrill Lynch, Atlantic Richfield, Eastern Airlines, Bristol Myers, Pfizer, General Motors, American Express and others.

With that lineup, the Defense Council has undeniable clout. As the DIA report puts it, "Since key Defense Council members are also the top Politburo personalities most concerned with military-political issues, (its) recommendations are probably almost assured of party approval." In fact, sources said, there is no known instance of the Politburo overturning a major decision by the Defense Council.

The Defense Council occupies an intermediary role between the highest party and government organizations involved in national security affairs, the DIA concluded. "It provides top-level coordination for all government activities relating to defense, establishing the general guidelines for Soviet military development."

The council probably reviews Military Industrial Commission decisions that authorize the design, development and production of major weapons systems. Defense Council approval may also be necessary for any program revisions.

In Federal Court Cymbal-Making Family Clashes

BOSTON (UPI) — The heirs to a secret formula that produces some of the most melodious cymbals in the world are clashing in federal court over control of the family company.

The secret formula and control of the Avedis Zildjian Co. have been passed to the oldest male heir for the past 350 years. But that tradition ended with the current generation of Zildjians.

Soon after the death of the man for whom the company is named, his sons began maneuvering for control, court papers say.

The battle has become so bitter an attorney for Robert Zildjian argued in documents filed in U.S. District Court, "there exists innumerable and potentially irreconcilable differences between his brother, Armand, and himself which have made it impossible for the two men to co-exist as shareholders and directors of the company."

Avedis Zildjian, an alchemist near Constantinople, discovered the formula in 1623 for a cymbal that pleased the sultan as well as the Armenian church, which uses cymbals in worship services.

Taking the name of Zildjian, or "cymbal-maker," he began manufacturing the instruments in Europe, passing on the formula — which includes about 60 percent copper and 20 percent tin — to the next generation.

In 1929, Aram Zildjian brought the formula to the United States to pass on to his nephew, also named Avedis, who formed a company in suburban Quincy. The firm moved to Norwell in 1973.

Most orchestras use Zildjian cymbals, as well as such famous percussionists as Gene Krupa and Buddy Rich.

When Avedis died in 1978, he passed ownership of the company to his two sons, Robert and Armand, and their children. Each son got 49.472 percent, with the remainder going to a trust controlled by both men.

Robert Zildjian claims he has been leader of the company since his father assumed less of a role in 1968. Robert is arguing Armand and his sons have conspired with the bank that holds the trust to freeze him out of any role in management of the company.

TV Gave Millions Vicarious Ride

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rome never built and creases never Tuesday's mooning. But the real miracle of space ship Columbia was its audience.

Tens of millions in the United States and uncountable millions elsewhere in the world vicariously rode the space shuttle through its atmospheric ball of fire, sweating at the controls with astronauts John Young and Bob Crippen and cheering a perfect landing as though they themselves had made it.

Through the medium of television, triumph or tragedy were but a heartbeat away — as was the knowledge that had the epic mission ended in tragedy it would have been replayed again and again until its pain was part of the human soul.

Television does that. It cushions no shock, leaves nothing to the imagination. Marshall McLuhan said it — the medium has become the message. The television set breathes with a life of its own at such times.

Three commercial networks competed to give the unique and hazardous mission, and they covered it well considering the whole thing was a segment straight out of "The Empire Strikes Back."

ABC, CBS and NBC made it believable — right down to the giant praying-mantis trucks that crawled out at the finale to meet the thing from space.

To their credit, the networks resisted any temptation to turn the thing into an orbital cliffhanger because of a few missing heat tiles. Following Sunday's launch, when the tiles were lost, NBC's John Chancellor played briefly with that scenario, but astronaut Joe

The result was a giant step for mankind of a television audience. On Tuesday, we discussed "entry interface," "sensible atmosphere," and "roll, pitch and yaw jets," and we understood. ABC's Frank Reynolds may have been the smoothest and most articulate of the anchor-men. Increasingly, he takes on the calm aura once detectable only about the head of Walter Cronkite.

Dan Rather's excitement rendered him a bit tongue-tied from time to time for CBS' Tom Brokaw and John Chancellor delivered solidly for NBC, most effectively shifting coverage from shuttle mock-up to crowded scenes.

McCloud, Poppa Jay's Still Cookin'

Sanford D.A.V., winning only its second game of the season, upset the Railroaders 17-11 Wednesday in the Sanford Little League national League.

In other games, Poppa Jay's topped its record to 4-0 with a 14-4 win over Clem Leonard Shell, while Suniland Corporation bombed Cardinal Industries 15-5.

Two of the three teams that are tied for first place in the Sanford Little American League, Seminole Petroleum and Atlantic Bank, squared off today at 5 p.m. at Westside Field, at Fort Mellon Park, the other first place team, triple I.I.I. Trucking, plays Kravola Kollege at 5 p.m., while Butch's Chevron Service battles Jack Prosser Ford at 7 p.m.

D.A.V. scored six runs without a hit in the top of the first and added a single run in the third before the Railroaders scored nine runs on five hits in the bottom of the third to take the lead. A home run by Walter Hopson was the big hit of the third inning for the Railroaders.

D.A.V. regained the lead with four runs in the top of the fourth and the Railroaders could never catch up again. Reginald Lawrence was the winning pitcher for D.A.V., with relief from Dwight Everett.

Ira Hall Jr. pounded a home run and double for D.A.V. and Lawrence added a double.

Hopson was three for three for the losers, while J.D. Paul added a double and single.

Leading only 7-4, Poppa Jay's scored seven runs on five hits in the top of the fourth to break the game open.

Lawrence Ayers pitched to the first few Clem Leonard batters and had trouble getting the ball over the plate. He yielded to Willie McCloud, who pitched a no-hitter, striking out nine.

Ronald Blake and Stewart Gordon each slapped a double and single for the winners.

Suniland Corporation scored nine runs in the bottom of the first and in the second to lead. Dwight Brinson went three for three for Suniland, including a double, while Rod Medlock belted a home run.

Miller Tames Moose

Frederick Miller tamed Moose with a one-hitter Wednesday as Knights of Columbus won 11-1 to move into the Sanford Junior League.

Kiwans and Knights of Columbus are both 3-0, while Moose dropped to 2-1.

In Wednesday's other game, Elks topped Rotary 11-5.

The first nine Knights of Columbus batters to step up to the plate reached base, and the first six crossed the plate as the Knights scored a half-dozen runs on just one hit. Three errors and five walks figured in the first inning scoring.

Miller allowed only two base runners in the fourinning contest. He gave up a secondinning walk and then was touched for a fourthinning single by Richard Leonard. Miller fanned six.

Jo Jo McCloud had a home run for the winners and Lee Fredrick added a triple.

Elks also won on the strength of a big firstinning, sending 11 batters to the plate and scoring eight runs on two hits.

The highlight of the game came in the bottom of the fifth when Rotary turned the first triple play of the season. Elks was winning 6-3 and had runners on first and third when Control Knight hit a high infield pop. Rotary third baseman Roger Mann back-pedded and caught the ball and then fired the ball to first for the second out. Rotary first baseman Pat Robinson then threw the ball to catcher Billy Penick, who tagged out Reginald Lawrence as he tried to score from third.

Boxer Louis To Be Buried In Arlington Cemetery

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, who demolished the pride of Nazi Germany in the eve of World War II, will be buried in the military cemetery at Arlington following a public viewing today and funeral Friday at the boxing arena where he spent his last night.

An administration official said Wednesday President Reagan has waived eligibility requirements to permit Louis, who held the world heavyweight championship longer than any man in history, to be buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

"The Brown Bomber," meanwhile, lay in state at the sports pavilion of Caesars Palace, where he watched Larry Holmes successfully defend his heavyweight crown Saturday night against Trevor Berbick. Louis died the next day of an apparent heart attack at his home. He was 66.

The gold-colored casket was attended by an honor guard at one end of the pavilion. Louis was dressed in a brown tuxedo with a yellow shirt and a flag was folded near his shoulder.

The funeral was scheduled Friday with the Rev. Jesse Jackson to deliver the eulogy. The arena was set up to seat about 4,000 people.

Date of the burial was not confirmed. Louis, who served in the Army during World War II and fought exhibitions for service men, would be the 38th exception to the eligibility criteria for burial in Arlington.

Wrong Time Trance Costs Boggs, Game No-Hitter To Astros

By United Press International
After mesmerizing Houston for six innings, Atlanta's Tommy Boggs fell into a trance himself—at the wrong time. Boggs held the Astros hitless entering the seventh inning of a scoreless duel with Nolan Ryan Tuesday night. Two batters later, the no-hitter was over—and so was the shutout.

Craig Reynolds spoiled Boggs' no-hit bid with a leadoff single to center and Cesar Cedeno then attempted a sacrifice bunt. A visibly rattled Boggs picked up the bunt and threw wildly into the right-field corner of the Astrodome for a three-base error, scoring Reynolds. Cedeno then came across on a wild pitch by Boggs, 0-1, who lost 2-0 despite finishing with a two-hitter.

"It was just stupid," said Boggs. "I picked the ball up and rushed it. It's not one of those things you can say you're old. It—I just did it."

Ryan struck out nine in seven innings in his first outing of the season after being hampered by a pulled hamstring muscle. He moved into the No. 3 spot on the all-time strikeout list by fanning Boggs to end the seventh, recording a 2,118 to pass Bob Gibson. Ryan allowed three hits and walked three. Frank LaCorte pitched the final two innings for his first save.

"Boggs was super," said Reynolds. "It's a shame either he or Nolan had to lose."

Mets 5, Cardinals 3
Mookie Wilson's two-run triple climaxed a four-run secondinning added by two St. Louis errors, helping the Mets to a victory in their home opener. Pat Zachry went 5 1/3 innings to earn his second victory of the season with strong relief help from Tom Hausman and Neil Allen.

Expos 5, Cubs 4
Gary Carter's RBI single capped a two-run, eighthinning rally to boost Montreal to a fragile home-opening victory. "I have never played in game conditions that were cold like this," said Carter, referring to the temperature of 39 degrees.

Sanford's Tim Raines singled twice, drove in one run and stole his second base of the year.

Raines has five hits in 12 at bats for a .417 average.

Phillies 4, Pirates 3
Gary Matthews led off the bottom of the 11th with his first home run since the 11th to lift the world champions past Pittsburgh. Tug McGraw, 1-0, pitched the 11th to gain the victory.

Reds 10, Padres 1
Dan Driessen drove in four runs, three with a homer, and George Foster and Dave Concepcion drove in three apiece behind Mario Soto's three-hitler to lead Cincinnati to a sweep.

Dodgers 4, Giants 2
Burt Hooton scattered six hits over 7 2/3 innings and doubled in two runs, giving unbeaten Los Angeles its sixth straight triumph. Bobby Castillo got the last four outs and gained credit for his second save.

Rozema Blanks KC; A's Win 7th

By United Press International
Dave Rozema pitches like his career with the Detroit Tigers is on the line. And perhaps it is.

"I don't want to be traded," Rozema said Wednesday night, after scattering six hits to lead the Tigers to a 4-0 victory over the Kansas City Royals. "I've been with this team all my life... When you hear you're going to be traded to Texas or that you're going to be traded to Seattle, you can feel the pressure to produce."

Steve Kemp knocked in two runs with a sacrifice fly and single in support of Rozema's first shutout in almost a year.

"I never thought I'd see a shutout pitcher against that lineup," said Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson. "... He's matured. He's only 24 years old... sometimes I think we expect too much."

Detroit added two runs in the second on a walk to John Wockenbus, a triple by Al Cowens and a single by Mick Kelleher. Detroit scored again in the eighth on a single by Lou Whitaker, a sacrifice by Peters and a single by Kemp, giving him at least one hit in all five Detroit games this season.

Doc Medich and John Henry Johnson combined on the Rangers' first shutout of the season and Al Oliver drove in three runs. Cleveland catcher Ron Hassey suffered possible damage to his left knee in a play at the plate and was removed on a stretcher.

Mariners 6, Twins 5
Joe Simpson belted a solo homer and Dave Winfield stroked a two-run single to give a five-run fourth. Rudy May, 2-0, allowed four hits over seven innings while Jackson Todd fell to 0-1.

Rangers 8, Indians 0
Tony Armas capped a four-run eighth with a two-out, three-run homer to keep Oakland unbeaten after seven games. Kirk Langford became the sixth Oakland pitcher to go the distance this year.

Reynolds 'Rams' Into Lake Mary

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor
Don Reynolds had it made. The polished 46-year-old principal was in his eighth year at Seminole High School. He could have easily spent his remaining working years in Sanford.

But the challenge beckoned. What he believes will be the "super school" was being built just a few miles south in Lake Mary.

Reynolds decided to accept the challenge, but not without reservations.

"It was a very difficult decision," he recalled the other day. "I'd been at Seminole so long and I knew everybody. I was very comfortable.

"The challenge of opening something like this school and building it into something, is something few people ever have in a lifetime," explained Reynolds.

And why was he picked? "I have no idea," Reynolds laughed. "Maybe it's because I've been around so long.

"I guess I've survived a lot. The longer you live, the more you survive. I think you get a little of the odds going for you," Reynolds conceded.

With Lake Mary, Reynolds has more than the odds going for him.

"It's an excellent complex," said Reynolds not trying to hide his enthusiasm. "The school board has really out done themselves. They've done it. It has the finest science department I've ever seen. Our computer area should be fantastic."

BATTLING RAMS

Reynolds. "We'll also have a day care center a few hours in the morning."

Another area dear to Reynolds is the Educable Mentally Handicapped, which will be county-based at Lake Mary.

"We're tired of putting them in the backyard," Reynolds said about the EMH students. "They need as much help as anybody else, probably more."

Reynolds will also look for a strong student government, which he plans to accommodate with its own facility.

"The kids will have a government conference room and work area," maintained Reynolds. "I'll tell them, 'You kids are important. Let's develop this school into the best.'"

Among the other developments will be a complete lunchroom facility with walk-in coolers.

Just off the kitchen on the west side are four tennis courts, three softball fields, a baseball field and a combination marching band-football practice-soccer field.

The main football field is encircled by an eight-lane track.

Why, though build a new school, but only fill it full of students? (Lake Mary will have 900-1000 freshmen and sophomores.)

"It's a shame in one sense that it's only going to be half full," agreed Reynolds. "But it would be good to pull kids off a curriculum they've already started somewhere else.

"Really, a curriculum is the most important thing," said Reynolds.

Burger King 2nd In Jari Tourney; Boatworks Wins 2-0

Sanford's Burger King soccer team competed in the Jari International Tournament last weekend and came home with a second place trophy.

The eight and under group was among six teams in the competition held at the Sheraton Twin Towers. In all, 47 teams participated in the two-day affair.

In Sanford Soccer Club action, Sanford 200 Boatworks staged a major upset by shutting the goal on Matiland 200 2-0.

Boatworks received goals from Mike Renaud and Shea Whigham to knock Matiland from the unbeaten ranks in "B" Division play. Chris Ray assisted on Renaud's second half goal.

Keeper Cary Smith turned in an outstanding 12 saves. He was helped defensively by Brandley Robert, Lance Broderick, Chandler Tyre, Vicky Pakovic and Bess Arnall.

Sanford Boatworks, 3-2-1, hosts Winter Park April 25 at the Sanford Airport.

In another "B" Division game, Sanford's Rich Plan of Florida 281 lost to F.C. United 200 2-0.

Eddie Chaplin was the only high light for Rich Plan which dropped to 2-2-1. They play Pine Hills April 29.

In a 12 and under "C" Division match, Pine Hills 200 stomped Sanford's Kiwanis 6-1 with five first-half goals.

Raffaello Matilano tallied the only goal for Kiwanis who had just 10 players.

Kiwanis, 1-5, plays Downtown April 25.

Swinging to eight and under "C" Division action, Winter Park 202 nipped Sanford's Ellman Battery 800 2-1.

The setback keeps Battery winless at 0-5-1. They play Pine Hills April 29.

In 10 and under "B" Division games, Downtown tripped Sanford's Dell's Auction 2-1 and Southeast Orange blanked Sanford 001 3-0.

Jamie Dellacroce, with an assist from Drew Horn, booted the Dell's Auction goal, 24, plays Matiland April 25, while Sanford 200 scores Downtown the same day. Sanford is 1-4.

Sanford 400 Odeley City Printing demolished Seminole 401 9-0 by scoring six second-half goals.

Steve Sapp was the big man for Celery City Printing, scoring five goals. Three came unassisted while Darrand Richards and Tom Chermesty aided two. Sapp also had an assist.

Richards scored two goals and Chermesty one. Scott McCaskill moved to forward for the first time, registered his first goal.

Celery City Printing, 3-1-1, plays Pine Hills at the Sanford Airport April 25.

76ers 'Back Off' Bucks; Spurs Square Series 3-3

By United Press International
Don't be surprised if the Milwaukee Bucks make a collective visit to a chiropractor upon their return home from Philadelphia.

Forced to play most of the second half while forward Marques Johnson was nursing an injured back, the Milwaukee Bucks were downed by the Philadelphia 76ers, 118-99, Wednesday night. They now have their bruised and battered backs to the wall with a 3-2 deficit in their Eastern Conference semifinal.

"We knew he'd have problems," said Bucks Coach Don Nelson. "We were hoping someone could pick up the slack, but tonight was not one of those nights."

Maurice Cheeks and Lionel Hollins scored 20 points each to lead a balanced 76er attack. Julius Erving added 19 and Steve Mix 17 as the 76ers placed six men in double figures to move into position to clinch the best-of-seven series Friday night in Milwaukee.

"When you have a player of Marques' caliber missing because of an injury, there's no question it would have an impact," said Sixers' Coach Billy Cunningham.

Philadelphia led 58-47 at halftime but the Bucks, behind the hot shooting of Sidney Moncrief, cut the margin to 5 points on four occasions, the final time at 78-73 with 2:41 left.

But they could come no closer.

Moncrief and Mickey Johnson paced the Bucks with 20 points each but Johnson was held to 9 points before leaving.

In Western Conference semifinal action, San Antonio defeated Houston, 101-99, to tie their series at 3-3 and Phoenix downed Kansas City, 101-89, to force a sixth game in their semifinal.

Suns 101, Rockets 96
Reserve center Dave Corzine and George Gervin hit shots in the final minute to help the Spurs avert elimination. The best-of-seven series, tied 3-3, goes back to San Antonio for the finale Friday night. Houston, led by Moses Malone's 36 points, failed to get a field goal in the final two minutes as four players missed five shots.

Suns 101, Kings 89
Walker Davis scored 20 points and Tracy Robinson pulled down 20 rebounds, to keep the Suns alive. Kansas City leads the series, 3-2.

Robinson also sparked the Suns with 15 points to go with his 20 rebounds. Game 6 is scheduled for Friday night in Kansas City.

Lopez-Melton Out Of Suds, Off To Rio Pinar

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—Nancy Lopez-Melton has had her hands immersed in soapsuds for a week instead of clutching a golf club, but she's back to menace her competitors today in the opening round of the $100,000 Lady Citrus Classic. The leading money-winner on the LPGA tour so far this year, Lopez-Melton will battle the 6,138-yard Rio Pinar Country Club layout following a week's layoff. She said the break may have hurt her grip, but she's not complaining. "My hands got a little sore," she said Wednesday. "I guess the callouses got soft from washing dishes for a week. But I feel pretty good about the way I'm playing."

Bazaar Picks 1981's Most Beautiful And Visible Women

Great beauty is just a little shocking. More than the pretty assemblage of fine skin and delicate features, it contains that element of the unexpected that makes people do a quick double-take...then keep on looking. In the current issue of Harper's Bazaar, its editors reveal their collective choice for the top beauties of 1981. "Each has a look," say the editors, "that's startling and undeniably her own—a look and an attitude that do not yield easily to conventions of a tailor-made image. Their unique self-confident styles have made them among the most visible women of the year. And they're just getting started."

Natural Childbirth Repugnant To Pair

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are in our early 20s and plan to have at least one child in the future. We are curious about "natural childbirth," where the mother is fully conscious and is given nothing for pain. Also, the father is present to coach her breathing and stays to witness the actual birth. Personally, I wouldn't care to be present in the delivery room, yet I've heard that the father who witnesses the birth of his child feels much closer to the child as well as to his wife. Abby, my parents and my wife's had a total of 11 children between them. Neither her father nor mine was present when any of their children were born, and none of us seems to have suffered any deprivation of love. Our friends who have experienced natural childbirth praise it highly. The whole idea of natural childbirth is the mother's being conscious without taking anything for pain, and the father's witnessing the entire procedure — seems repugnant to both my wife and me. Although my wife has a fairly high tolerance for pain, she would prefer to have some type of anesthetic, and I really don't think I would love my child less if I sat in the waiting room during the delivery. Our friends can't believe that we still prefer the old-fashioned private-type delivery. Is there something wrong with our thinking? CURIOUS IN N.H.

DEAR CURIOUS: There is nothing "wrong" with your thinking, but since you are curious about natural childbirth, you should learn more about it. Your doctor, or friends who have praised it, can provide you with some illuminating literature on the subject. DEAR ABBY: A couple with whom my husband and I was present when any of their children were born, and none of us seems to have suffered any deprivation of love. Our friends who have experienced natural childbirth praise it highly. The whole idea of natural childbirth is the mother's being conscious without taking anything for pain, and the father's witnessing the entire procedure — seems repugnant to both my wife and me. # Library Gets Donations

The Board of Trustees of the DeBary Public Library met in the library on April 8. Attending were: President Walker Gloger, Jacqueline Whiteford, Charles Emery, May Kling, Hannah Stone, Marian Evers, Marcia Carson, John Accardi, James Wheeler, Director of Volusia County Libraries, Norma Hines, Librarian and Marjorie Alliger. April 15 was Library Day. Board members were asked to write to T. W. Welber, 418 House Office Building, Tallahassee, Fla., urging his support for full funding of state aid to public libraries. Recent gifts received by the DeBary Library were as follows: $100 donated by Mrs. E. M. Grierson for the Building Fund; $25 from the Business and Professional Women's Club; $25 from Mrs. E. H. Cleaver in memory of a friend and $25 from Mr. and Mrs. Merle Swanger for the purchase of a large print book, given in memory of Mr. Harry Miller. Mrs. Hines reported registrations doubled over last year but circulation is down. Mrs. Accardi reported the annual card party was a success. McDonald's sponsored a Public Library poster for Library Week. There were 124 responses to the telephone survey. The DeBary Library plans to change the closing time on Tuesday to 4:30 p.m. and on Thursday to keep open until 9:30 p.m. in order to avoid conflicts with meetings of other organizations. The next meeting will be held on July 8th.

Orchestra Given Challenge Grant

The Edith Bush Charitable Foundation, Inc. has recently awarded a major challenge grant to the Florida Symphony Orchestra in the amount of $60,000. The $60,000 is in addition to the $30,000 given to the Council of Arts and Sciences last fall to publicize the Symphony Season and to promote increased contributions. The Symphony has to raise $100,000 from contributions and memberships in order to receive the $60,000 grant. The Edith Bush Charitable Foundation has offered this grant for the express purpose of developing a broader and stronger contributions base for the Florida Symphony. Half of the grant is to be used to assist children's concerts and the other half is to be used for the general purposes of the Symphony. In order for the Symphony to receive any of the grant money, it must raise $100,000 in contributions and memberships within the prescribed period. Proceeds from tickets sales or any other earned income will not count toward that total. An additional requirement is that all revenue from ticket sales for next season must be put in trust and used for next season's expenses. The 1981-82 Subscription Series tickets have just gone on sale.

Why Lose Weight Only To Gain It Back?

Don't Let Glaucoma Rob You Blind

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD
 Pharmacists across the state are joining the National Society to Prevent Blindness, Florida Affiliate, in alerting the public to the danger of glaucoma, the nation's leading cause of blindness. An estimated two million Americans have glaucoma — 86,000 in Florida — and half of them don't know it. Some 5,400 in the U. S. go blind from this disease each year. The pharmacy program adds impetus to the Society's nationwide Glaucoma Alert. Most drugstores cooperating in the Alert display campaign posters in their windows or on their counters. "If your pharmacy is participating," advised Thomas R. Ugarte, M.D., Chairman of the Medical Advisory Committee of the Florida Affiliate, "ask for a free pamphlet on Glaucoma. "Even though treatment can halt its progress and prevent further damage to sight," Ugarte continued, "people are still going blind from this eye disease. Since there are usually no early symptoms, its victims frequently don't realize anything is wrong until their vision has already been significantly affected." Warning all Americans, "Don't let glaucoma rob you blind," the NSPB sponsors screenings to find those threatened by the disease. The Glaucoma Alert, backed by prominent national organizations and strong medical leadership, seeks to expand glaucoma education and detection projects in communities nationwide. Supplementing the Glaucoma Alert is the film "Seeing," featuring Helen Hayes and highlighting the value of early detection and treatment in controlling glaucoma. Available to groups on free loan, this film is the centerpiece of a complete program, with a free Leader's Discussion Guide and public education materials. For more information on glaucoma, the Glaucoma Alert Program or the film "Seeing," contact the National Society to Prevent Blindness, Florida Affiliate, 3741 Neptune Street, Tampa, 33609.

Mickey Rooney: An Old-Fashion Actor At Work

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD/NEA — I would have liked to have dragged many of today's actors — who take themselves and their trade so seriously — over to watch Mickey Rooney at work.

Many actors today are the kind who must go into a deep study — undisturbed, communing with their souls — for hours and maybe days before they do a scene. They resent anything that intrudes into their introspective cocoon. Woe to anybody who breaks their self-imposed spell.

But, on the other hand, there is Mickey Rooney. Maybe you scoff at comparing Rooney with today's "serious" actors. But real pros will tell you Rooney is one of the best actors we have ever had.

And watching him work is a joy. Here is a man who needs perhaps an eighth of a second to prepare a scene. As for introspection, he thinks it's the first chapter in a book. All he needs to get ready for a scene is to hear the director say "Action!"

His was one of the most amazing performances I have ever watched, as he did a scene for director Jackie Cooper in the TV movie "Leave 'Em Laughing," to be shown on CBS April 29. Rooney plays a character based on a real person, a Chicago circus clown named Jack Thum who (with his wife) helped raise dozens of homeless kids. The scene they were shooting was one in which Thum was hospitalized — lung cancer, the doctor said — and he was in pain, physically and mentally.

His wife (Anne Jackson) agonized on one side of his bed. His doctor (Allen Goorwitz) ministered on the other side. And Thum (Rooney) gasped and groaned and suffered.

It was a difficult scene to shoot. The nurse had to appear with the tray holding the medication at precisely the right moment. The doctor had to do his thing, the wife had to shade a bit to one side so the camera could catch the action and, through it all, Rooney had to be in obvious pain and suffering.

But Rooney, during the dozens of breaks, sat up in bed and turned on the old Rooney charm. He was fooling around, telling jokes, carrying on as only he can. But the moment Cooper called for "action," Rooney turned on the misery.

"He can turn it on and off like a faucet," Cooper said later. "I think he does it in self-defense. If he took the whole thing too seriously, it would be too depressing for him."

(Cooper and Rooney, incidentally, are both former child stars, and hadn't worked together since they were boys. Cooper prefers directing to acting these days.)

Cooper called another cut. Rooney sat up.

"God, this is depressing," he said. "I need a laugh. Did you know that a crowded elevator smells different from an empty elevator?"

There were a few dutiful titters. Rooney groaned. But, undaunted, he began a long story that nobody paid much attention to. He was right in the middle of it when Cooper called "action" again, and he immediately lay down flat. In an instant he was back in character, moaning and groaning.

When they broke again, Rooney beckoned to Cooper and the director went over to the bedside.

"Hey Jack," Rooney said. "How about if I keep going 'Ohh, ouch, yeh.' And Anne will say, 'Poor Jack, does it hurt terribly?' And I'll say, 'No, you're standing on my oxygen line.'"

And he broke into shrieks of laughter. Cooper snickered politely and went back to his work. But again, as soon as the camera rolled, Rooney was instantly back in character.

"Did you ever go up in the mountains and pick ferns?" Rooney asked, during another break. Nobody answered his question, so he continued. "I went up in the mountains once with Fern and we picked sunflowers."

"Mickey," Cooper said, "you should thrash around more."

"OK," Rooney said. "You will see such thrashing as you've never seen."

And on and on, for hours. Rooney was two different people: himself, or whoever that clownish, puckish little man is, and Jack Thum, on his death bed, once Cooper started the action going.

And that is what is meant by acting.

And that is what is meant by acting.

Mickey Rooney is an actor who needs little preparation time to play a role, even for a scene in which he has to show strong emotions. Says Jackie Cooper, who is directing Rooney in a new TV movie, "He can turn it on and off like a faucet."

Ringing In Ears Has Varied Causes

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband has had ringing in his ears for a long time. The doctor told him that his high blood pressure was the cause of it. He has been taking blood pressure medicine for years and his pressure is normal with medication. But he still has ringing in his ears. Could you please tell us what causes this and what medicines can help?

DEAR READER — It is true that high blood pressure can cause ringing in the ears (tinnitus). But there are many causes of tinnitus besides high blood pressure and many people who have high blood pressure do not have tinnitus.

DEAR READER — His immediate health is the first consideration. It makes a great deal of difference what type of malignancy was present. It is somewhat rare to have both testicles involved, if that was actually the case. But it may be that to control the tumor the doctors wanted to decrease the amount of testosterone hormone that was present.

DEAR READER — Americans' personal income rose at about a 10 percent compounded annual rate in March, and they continued to put more of it in the bank, the Commerce Department reported today.

Lewis Cox, who took over the reins of the Sanford Housing Authority (SHA) last November on an interim basis, has been named executive director of the organization.

After reviewing the applications, it appears the position could best be filled by someone in-house," Blackshears said. "I recommend Lewis Cox."
