Health Officials Gear Up For Swine Flu Shots Program

ATLANTA (AP) — "Roll Up Your Sleeve, America" is the theme of a national campaign to get Americans to line up for swine flu shots. But if everyone rolls up when the shots first become available, there won't be enough vaccine to inoculate them.

The public awareness campaign sponsored by the Federal Center for Disease Control and the National Medical Audio Visual will be presented in radio and television spots, newspaper and magazine ads and other materials. There is no plan to buy national advertising for the campaign.

Storms Develop On Coasts

By The Associated Press
Storm centers developed today along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, with large areas of cloudiness accompanying the low pressure systems.

One storm center appeared to be over South Carolina, while the other was in the vicinity of western Nevada.

Mostly cloudy skies covered the nation west of the Continental Divide except for a portion of central California. Most of the Atlantic Coast states, the Ohio Valley, the Great Lakes and most of New England have cloudy skies. A portion of the central and southern Plains states were also cloudy. The remainder of the nation had partly cloudy skies early today.

Navy Plane Crash Probed

ELBERTA, Ala. (AP) — An investigation is continuing into Wednesday's crash of a Navy trainer airplane which injured the flight instructor and his student.

A spokesman at Pensacola Naval Air Station, said the two officers were evacuated by helicopter from the crash site near this Baldwin County community. They were identified as Lt. (j.g.) Jeffrey G. Sherrar, the instructor, and Lt. Larry R. Fay.

Ford Strike May Last Weeks

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers are prepared for at least a two-week strike against Ford Motor Co. as bargainers show no signs of resuming formal contract talks until Monday.

DAW President Leonard Woodcock said Wednesday he was not optimistic that the nationwide walkout by 170,000 workers would end soon.

Trailwood Loses School Bus Bid

that there are other areas in the county where children the same age walk through areas as bad or worse than the Trailwood section, or are accompanied through them by their parents.

"This is not the first time this question's come up," Lauer said. "The (Trailwood) point accumulation is lower than several other areas which would have to be considered first because they have higher point accumulations. And under present funding, the county couldn't afford to bus all K-through-3 students."

Parents also complained about youngsters having to negotiate the dirt road on rainy days when mud and puddles are present, and Charles De Moor asked if the school board would be responsible for accidents that might occur along the single-lane route.

"Absolutely not," replied Chairman Robert Feather. Feather directed De Moor to check with the property owners about liability and suggested that since the lane is a "platted road," perhaps the county commission could supply information.

"We established this committee for a definite purpose," said Board Member Allan Keith. "I think if they had come up with 47, 48 or 49 points we might have some cause for overruling their recommendation. But if we're not going to support them with a figure as low as this, I think we ought to do away with them entirely."

Keith then moved to rescind the 1974 action and was seconded by Board Member E. C. Harper Jr. Following the vote Lauer said that when construction gets under way in Trailwood and heavy machinery poses a threat to walking students, he would recommend temporary reinstatement of the busing service.

In a related action the panel voted to install one or more gates near the bridge spanning the Little Wekiva River on the other side of Spring Lake Elementary. The action was taken as a temporary measure to prevent children from using the bridge and its steep approaches as "obstacle course" for bicycles and motorcycles.

Lauer said the gate(s) would be installed "immediately," and the board agreed to allow two weeks for architects to examine the area and submit a cost analysis of various methods for making it safer and less attractive as a "playground."

Sheriff's investigators today were seeking clues to the identity of burglars who broke into the Shanty Pub, Lake Mills and SR-419, Chuluota, and hauled away beer, cigarettes, snack foods and cash from vending machines.

Deputy John Thorpe reported the business establishment was entered when yeggs used a crowbar to destroy a rear door. The crowbar was found inside where it apparently was also used to rip open coin boxes on a pool table, juke box and cigarette vending machine.

Sheriff's reports listed at least $25 cash as missing. Also reportedly hauled away were 31 cases of beer, 68 cartons of cigarettes and small snack food items including a pool table, juke box and cigarette vending machine.

Assistant State Atty. Claude Van Hook was expected to finish presentation of the state case against Jerry this afternoon.

The trial could go to the jury for deliberation today, depending on the number of defense witnesses who may testify.

If the jury should find the elderly suspect guilty of first-degree murder as charged the panel would then deliberate a second time, to recommend mercy (life in prison) or death in the electric chair.

Schorr May Not Face Contempt Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Television newsmen Daniel Schorr apparently will not be charged with contempt of Congress for his refusal to name the person who supplied him with the House intelligence report.

Nine times during Schorr's sworn testimony Wednesday, Ethics Committee Chairman John J. Pity Jr., D-Ga., warned him that he could be held in contempt of Congress and be jailed or fined if he refused to identify his source and answer other questions about the source.

Nine times, Schorr refused. After the hearing, an informal poll of the members showed that six of the 12 committee members opposed any attempt to cite Schorr for contempt and two others believed that way or were uncertain. This means any contempt resolution apparently would fail by at least a tie vote.

Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., who had led the move to subpoena Schorr, said he learned against a contempt citation. "I never intended in the first place that this would send him to prison," Bennett said. "This was a step to let him give his views and be did that."

But others who had voted to subpoena Schorr were opposed to holding him in contempt, including Rep. Donald J. Mitchell, R-N.Y. Mitchell said he wanted to prevent a constitutional confrontation over the issue.

Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., who had opposed summoning Schorr, said he didn't think contempt action would even be proposed in committee. For all practical purposes, he said, Schorr's testimony had ended the committee's $100,000, five-month attempt to locate Schorr's source.

The committee still must prepare a report to the House on its search for the leader and on its recommendations for improving security measures for committees dealing with sensitive subjects.

Both Schorr and committee members have said the hearing constituted a showdown over the constitutional rights of Congress to investigate and guard its materials versus the rights of a free press to gather and report the news.

Schorr has been on a paid leave of absence from CBS News since House action against him began. The apparent end of the threat of contempt action against him left uncertain his status with CBS.

Sanford Man Robbed

Sanford police today were investigating the reported strangulation robbery of John L. Bryant, 32, of 27th W. 23rd St., in an alleyway Wednesday at 1612 W. 13th St.

Bryant told officers that an unidentified man knocked him to the ground, took his wallet containing $129 in cash and checks, and fled on foot. Patrolman Jacob Cohen reported the man wasn't injured in the incident.

Blackburn Testifies

TAMPA (AP) — Reputed Florida underworld figures Santo Trafficante and Harlan Blackburn head a list of witnesses being summoned by a federal grand jury making its second sweeping probe of organized crime this year.

This investigation was reportedly triggered by the contract slaying last October of former Tampa police detective Richard Cloud.

The panel indicted 14 persons last spring on racketeering charges, including charges of conspiring in other contract murder plots, in its first probe.

Trafficante, who now lives in Miami, spent 20 minutes in a locked room with the grand jury Wednesday. Blackburn, of Maitland, was before the group for about 30 minutes.

State To Push For Completion Of Waste Plans

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Study, said the company had balked at turning over data on emissions at its Panhandle generators.

The commission and the companies agreed to the study last year after the panel eased emission standards. The study is to determine possible health hazards associated with increased emissions.

DEH Secretary Jay Landers told the commission that a proposed rule controlling odors emitted by Florida's eight paper mills should be ready for initial discussions in six months.

But Commissioner J.R. Midgeman — who described the smell similar to that of rotten eggs as "a small man cannot get away from" — complained that the rule had been three years in the making.

Frederick attributed the delay to foot-dragging by local officials fearful of raising taxes to pay for increased costs often incurred by the new waste water treatment projects.

He said several cities — Hollywood, Orlando and Pensacola among them — had not put existing waste water treatment facilities up to full operation because officials feared cost increases.

The 250-project list, arranged according to each project's priority, would also cover an anticipated $300 million in fiscal year 1977 federal funds for the massive works.

Frederick said the one-quarter portion of the project cost that falls on the local government might be another reason for the delays. For the projects to qualify for the three-quarter federal funding, they must have specifications ready for bidding.

Under the deadline schedule, projects will be dropped from the priority list if plans aren't complete by Dec. 31. However, local officials may re-submit completed plans and be put back onto the list by March 15, 1977.

In other commission action, a power company-funded study of sulfur dioxide emissions from Gulf Power Corp. had withheld data it needs.

Florida In Brief

Jury Recommends Life For Rapist-Killer Carr

MIAMI (AP) — A jury has recommended life in prison — "with no parole at any date" — for Robert F. Carr III, confessed rapist-killer of two boys, a teen-aged girl and a housewife.

But under the Florida death law passed in late 1972, Dade Circuit Court Judge Natalie Baskin does not have to follow the sentencing jury's recommendation. She can order Carr to be electrocuted.

And if she does go along with it, parole officers don't have to abide by the "no parole" stricture. They can release Carr, 32, after he serves the minimum 25 years called for under the law.

Smathers Opposes Streaker's Pardon

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Secretary of State Bruce Smathers says he can't go along with the pardon of a streaker who was convicted of indecent exposure for romping in the buff on the Florida State University campus.

It's not that streaking is such a heinous crime, Smathers explained, but the pardon board officially forgave the streaker on Wednesday. It's just that the action set a bad precedent.

"We might be opening up that gate" so that every college student who gets into a minor park one year later would be coming before the board," he said.

Gov. Reubin Askew and the cabinet members who serve as the pardon board disagreed, voting 4-1 to pardon FSU junior William Joseph Merolle.

"I don't think we're condoning streaking if we vote for a full pardon for this man," Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin said. "It was a relatively minor offense. He served five days in jail, and I think he paid his debt to society."

Charles Scriven, Parole and Probation Commission chairman, described Merolle's streak as a "boish prank." He said the student was in a group of about 21 FSU streakers who were caught one night in the spring of 1975 at the peak of the streaking craze.

Smathers, however, contended that

Health Care Ills
Need Attention

The recent dramatization of ripoffs in the Medicaid program by Sen. Frank E. Moss of Utah and others who actually went to clinics and got assembly line treatment or worse cases as no surprise. The problems of delivering health care to the poor have been well ventilated in recent months.

The question, as always, is what is Congress going to do about it? One of the basic problems is that the Medicare-Medicaid scope is so vast and so fragmented that nobody really knows how to begin to get a handle on it. Sen. Moss' subcommittee studying the problem estimates that fully 25 percent of the money being spent on medical care for the poor is wasted through poor administration and outright fraud by about 4 per cent of the doctors and facilities involved. With $32 billion budgeted for Medicaid this year, that is a fraud of immense dimensions. And with 21 million indigent persons receiving medical subsidies, the ripoff also is a major human tragedy.

Congress has been approaching the Medicaid fraud in typical fashion. A measure by Sen. Herman E. Talmadge would put further restrictions on doctors and doctors' fees, place arbitrary limits on hospital costs, and in general have more federal involvement in health care delivery.

However, as Gov. George T. Busbee of Georgia noted, the "present Medicaid program is the most complex, confusing, duplicative and administratively wasteful system ever conceived by man."

And the reason why it is so forcefully underlined to the Talmadge committee by Edgar T. Beddingfield, speaking for the American Medical Association, Congress, he said, takes an "all-or-nothing" approach to force patients on doctors and to limit their incomes. Quality medicine and "bargain basement rates" are mutually exclusive, he added.

Medicare and Medicaid are here to stay, although we've had many of those who supported the programs in 1966 are having second thoughts about them.

That being the case, it is not realistic to penalize the 96 per cent of the doctors and hospitals who are endeavoring to bring quality medical care to the poor at sacrifices to their own incomes by applying against them the stringent regulations that are intended only for the 4 per cent who cheat.

Hopefully Congress will give the matter deep second thought before the 95th Congress convenes in January. In the meantime, an energetic attack on the kinds of fraud exhibited by Sen. Moss should be the first order of business.

As Sen. Everett Dirksen used to say, "A billion here and a billion there and pretty soon the first thing you know it adds up."

Lockheed's Web

The Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in its drive to sell its airplanes abroad, paid out more than $24 million to facilitate sales in foreign countries.

Since a Senate subcommittee made that report last February, the web of scandals has spread around the world, embarrassing governments, disgracing leaders and giving strength to anti-American feelings.

The latest highly placed official to be humiliated is Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands. He was forced to resign from all his government and business positions, after conceding his imprudence in relationships with Lockheed.

Four weeks ago, former Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka was arrested and charged with taking a bribe of $1.6 million from Lockheed. Seventeen other former officials and business government and business leaders have been indicted.

In Italy, authorities are investigating to see if a prime minister took Lockheed money. West Germany is planning a probe concerning possible Lockheed bribes to German officials.

The Lockheed drama is continuing. But already it has been far more costly to the national interest than justified by any conceivable profits that could have been made on the sale of Lockheed planes.

Around

The Clock

By AUDIE MURPHY

Because I hadn't seen my leprechaun sidekick Timothy Decker in over a week, I was beginning to get worried that his magic had faded him, or the cat had finally caught him.

But he showed up again recently, with a twist in his eye and a new corncob pipe stuck between his teeth.

"So you've decided to come back. You could have at least mentioned you were leaving," I said.

"Ah, now, I may be only 900 years old, but I can take care of myself," Tim replied. "I simply decided to take a vacation."

"And where do leprechauns go for a vacation? Shangri-La?"

"Sometimes," Tim said. "But usually Las Vegas or the Bahamas. We have a weakness for vagrancy, ye know."

"That seems hard to believe," I said, suspecting a shrewd bit of Marney was being hurled my way.

"It's true, nevertheless," Tim said. "Of course, we always win at the gaming table, but we give the money back. Rules, you know."

"What place did you visit? — Las Vegas or the Bahamas?"

DON OAKLEY

Bill Gives Students A Break

Should a student holding down a part-time or vacation job as, for example, a bagger in a grocery store, be required to give up part of his small pay — in some cases as much as 40 per cent — in order to receive a student discount, no longer will be if a bill introduced in Congress is passed.

Sponsored by seven senators, the legislation would amend the National Labor Relations Act and the Railway Labor Act to create a student discount for students enrolled in a high school, college or technical or trade school on the requirements of compulsory unionism.

"Students are not especially wealthy individuals," points out the bill's principal sponsor, Sen. Paul J. Fannin (R-Ariz.). "The average student works less than 15 weeks during the summer, and most of them hope to earn enough money during that short period to carry them through the following school year," he said.

However, he says, "under the present system, many of these young men and women are required to pay full initiation fees and dues in lieu of membership in a labor union in order to keep that job. Yet, in most instances, they cannot participate in the so-called benefits such as health insurance, sick pay and wage increases, which have been negotiated by the union and for which compulsory dues are supposed to be paid."

Human nature being what it is, not much can probably be done about "the law's delay" of which Shakespeare complained. Thanks to the computer, however, lawyers are being relieved of the delay and tedium involved in preparing cases.

An outstanding example of computerized legal research is a system called LEXIS, developed and marketed by West Data Center, Inc. Law firms, law schools, government agencies and others subscribing to the system have central computers.

In a typical example, a lawyer, using a typewriter keyboard, asks the computer what cases it has in its memory on a broad subject, such as civil disobedience in opposition to school busing. There are, say, 15 cases.

On command from the lawyer, the computer next displays the titles of each of the 15 references and if one looks promising, the lawyer asks it to display part of the text. If that seems appropriate for his case, he directs the computer to display the full text. Finally, he can press a key and a high-speed printer will type out the complete text for his use.

LEXIS contains every decision of the U.S. Supreme Court since 1933, all federal courts of appeals since 1959 and all district courts since 1950.

JACK ANDERSON

My Daddy's A Senator

WASHINGTON — Sen. Vance Hartke's daughter, Sandra, has found some unique employment opportunities with special interest groups that benefit from the senator's votes.

Her employers didn't seem to mind that she came to work only when she felt like it. They continued to pay her, sometimes mailing her paychecks to her home, while her father tended to their interests in the Senate.

Vance Hartke, an Indiana Democrat, is a friendly fellow who resembles the small-town Jaycee he once was. He has all the appeal of a tramp dog, wagging his tail for approval.

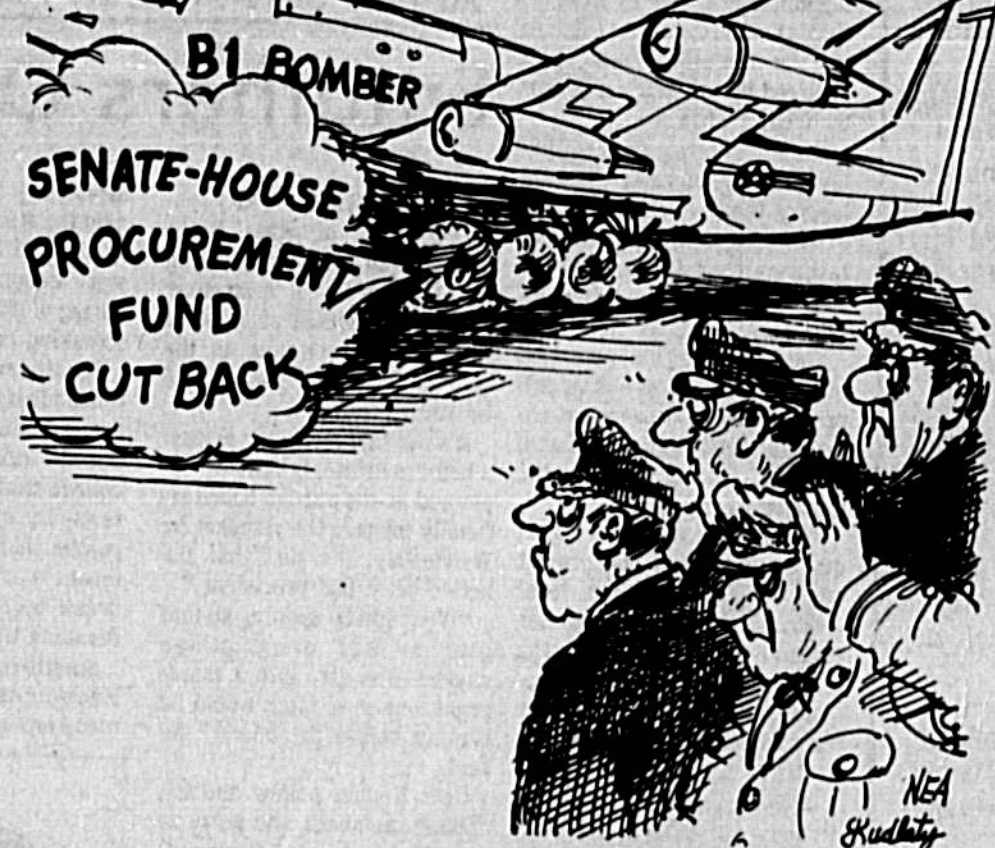

He has fetched many a bone for the special interests a tax break for the Harvey Aluminum Co. A special amendment for the tobacco lobby, government subsidies for the railroads.

He voted down the line for the legislation endorsed by the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks. By the Brotherhood's own scorecard, he voted "right" 114 times, "wrong" only 17 times, on issues that concerned them.

His daughter, meanwhile, turned up on the Brotherhood's payroll for about $10,000 a year. A spokesman acknowledged Sandra had a record of excess absences but insisted her work was satisfactory. She was useful, the spokesman conceded, in locating her father quickly when a Brotherhood lawyer wanted off to speak to him.

In 1970, she simply took off for a while to campaign for her father in Indiana. Despite this, the Brotherhood continued to pay her for four years until she found a better job. The Brotherhood also contributed generously to the senator's campaigns.

In 1971, Sandra found even more suitable employment with the Travelers Insurance Co. at a higher salary, around $12,000 a year. She reportedly spent most of her time, however, attending to personal interests and operating the Letter To The Editor

Limited Knowledge Preferred

Editor: I read Mr. S.R. 'Jim' Crowe's letter to the editor defending the removal of the letter to the editor. I read several columns and editorials on the same subject.

It is hard for me to believe that the FBI is a greater threat to our freedom than a few secretaries.

A free press is the life blood of democracy, we are told. Isn't it paradoxical? Couldn't a completely free press be the death of democracy? All the other nations have intelligence agencies. We no longer have secrets and it gives our enemies a dangerous advantage.

When the Soviet Union allows its newspapers to expose members of the KGB, I'll believe "Comptemps" magazine has the right to exist.

It is hard for me to believe that the newspapers always turn a mere mortal into a model of particular excellence. Newsweek come in all flavors: sincere liberals, sincere conservatives, Communists, and the ones without convictions who are often just plain snooping gossipers.

Why should we trust newsmen to know better how much our enemies should know or to be more patriotic than the men we elect to run our government?

I think the public has a right to know — but not everything. I prefer limited knowledge to giving aid to our enemies that could lead to our defeat and a complete blackout of trust.

JOHN D. LOFTON, JR.

Mao Ruled In Style Of Despot

WASHINGTON — The most important question about Mao Tse-tung's hegemony is not whether there was any progress achieved during his rule — obviously there was. But rather, the crucial issue is: How high a price was paid for this progress? What has been the cost to the Chinese people, in human terms, of Mao's particular brand of Communism?

Yet all the network television specials I saw immediately following Chairman Mao's death conspicuously omitted any attempt at all to come to grips with this issue.

In the considered judgment of Richard L. Walker, the James P. Byrnes professor of international relations who heads the University of South Carolina's Institute of International Relations, the cost of progress under Communism in China "is too high for the conscience of the world to abet its perpetrators."

In terms of human life and human suffering, and in terms of destruction of moral and cultural values, says Prof. Walker, this cost cannot be condoned by any rationalization.

"The high Chinese Communist Party leaders who sit down at convivial banquets with visiting Westerners, the 'professors' declared, "may be guilty of as great crimes against humanity and their own people as were Hitler and Stalin and their followers."

Those who wish to rationalize public assassinations, purges of classes and groups or slave labor as a necessary expedient for China's progress, he observes, "are resorting to the same logic which justified a Hitler and his methods for dealing with economic depression in the Third Reich."

In a thoroughly documented study for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, titled, "The Human Cost of Communism in China," after closely observing Chinese Communism for two decades, Prof. Walker estimates the Communists killed anywhere from 34 million to 64 million human beings. Prof. Walker writes:

"Since 1949, China has been subjected to a pattern of wave after wave of mass campaigns breaking upon the countryside and only gradually receding. These campaigns, sometimes overlapping, have followed each other in a way as to allow few moments of calm."

"Mao has indeed been a proponent of permanent revolution. Each of these campaigns has claimed millions of victims; all have been infused with the Maoist belief in the destructibility of struggle and the necessity for violence; some have resulted in large-scale purges or the elimination of whole groupings within the society."

Many of these executions took place after mass trials, in which assembled crowds, whipped to a frenzy by planted agitators, called invariably for the death penalty and for no mercy for the accused.

During this period, Mao and his supporters made no effort to conceal the violent course being followed. On the contrary, the most gruesome and detailed accounts were printed and broadcast over the official radio for the purpose of amplifying the condition of mass terror which the trials were clearly intended to induce. Prof. Walker observes:

"The time is at hand to break away from the kind of double-entry moral bookkeeping which has characterized the approach of all too many Western intellectuals to the facts of the rule in Mainland China under Mao Tse-tung."

"The cost in human terms — whether related to social improvements which Communist insurgency prevented during Mao's drive for power, or to the grandiose schemes of the Great Helmsman during his 26 years of rule — stands as a formidable indictment of half a century of Communist experience in China."

"There can be no rationalization for the attack upon those civilized qualities which have made the Chinese among the world's most advanced nations. Their civilization has a long memory, and this period will be remembered as a blot on their approach to the human condition."

Mao Tse-tung was a cut-throat, Leninist revolutionary who believed that "political power grows out of the barrel of a gun." He summed up his philosophy saying:

"A revolution is not a dinner party, or writing an essay, or painting a picture, or doing embroidery... A revolution is an insurrection, an act of violence by which one class overthrows another."

The only thing tragic about Mao's death was that he took so long to die.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Thousands Flee Region Shaken By Earthquakes

UDINE, Italy (AP)—Thousands of residents of the quake-devastated Friuli region abandoned their homes today in an exodus to the Adriatic coast or the Dolomite mountains, seeking ground that doesn't tremble.

Long lines of cars, trucks, buses and horse-drawn carts led the streets of this area of northeastern Italy. The fleeing thousands left behind the ruins of homes leveled by a series of quakes that began May 6 and still continue.

The government assigned three army units with hundreds of trucks to assist those choosing to leave. Several thousand persons have already reached hotels and empty houses at summer resorts on the coast or in the mountains.

Strike Ends; Boycott Begins

JOHANNESBURG South Africa (AP)—Thousands of blacks streamed back to work in Johannesburg today after a three-day general strike, but in Cape Town a similar work boycott was spreading.

Police in the Cape Town area, which has a large population of "coloreds," as persons of mixed race are officially called, stepped up patrols of segregated colored and black townships to prevent any attempts to intimidate people trying to go to work.

Up to midday there were no reports of violence, but at Wellington, about 40 miles from Cape Town, about 500 armed white residents patrolled the streets during the night. Groups of men armed with shotguns stood guard on almost every street corner and on the roofs of some factories.

Egyptians To Vote On Sadat

CAIRO (AP)—About 9½ million Egyptians were voting today in a yes-or-no referendum certain to see President Anwar Sadat re-elected to a second six-year term beginning Oct. 16.

All Cairo newspapers printed Sadat's photograph on their front pages with the headline, "All Egyptian people will say yes to Sadat."

Ford: Trust Must Be Earned; Carter: Caused 'Disaster'

By The Associated Press

President Ford faced a crowd of enthusiastic hecklers as he began his campaign at his alma mater, but some of the most energetic heckling came from 30 miles away, where Jimmy Carter charged him with being a cause of economic "disaster."

Leaving Washington for the first time in the fall campaign, Ford flew to the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor where he said, "It is not enough for anyone to say 'trust me.' Trust must be earned."

Carter was appearing at a state AFL-CIO convention 30 miles away in the Detroit suburb of Dearborn. There, in the shadow of the strike-led Ford Motor Co. assembly plant, he blamed Ford and former President Richard M. Nixon for the country's economic ills.

"When Richard Nixon resigned, Gerald Ford inherited a difficult situation, but in a few short weeks he unerringly turned difficulty into disaster," Carter said.

Carter's Democratic running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, quickly jumped on Ford's speech, saying Ford "has a record that belies and puts the falsehood to everything he now says he's for."

The boss and catalyst greeted the mention of nearly everyone, but the loudest came with mention of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Ford took no notice of the heckling and barely paused when a cherry bomb exploded in the upper tier of the basketball stadium.

Episcopalians Agree To Admit Women Priests

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—If representatives of Episcopal laity and clergy agree with their bishops, the church will end the 2,000-year tradition of a male-only priesthood.

The House of Bishops voted 81 to 61 Wednesday at the Episcopal legislative convention to make church laws "equally applicable" to men and women where they concern admitting candidates to the holy orders of priest and bishop.

The proposal was expected to be taken up today by the House of Deputies, which is considered more hostile to the proposal. If the House of Deputies approves the resolution, it would ordinarily go into effect at the end of this year. However, another proposal would make the change effective immediately to coincide with the Canadian start of the practice.

In recent years the church has been in turmoil over the issue. Fifteen Episcopal women were ordained in 1974 and 1975 without the authorization of their bishops. More than 100 Episcopal women now are deacons, the first step toward priesthood, and 24 other women are in Episcopal seminaries studying for the ministry.

The debate in the House of Bishops — before packed galleries — was long and tense. Bishop John S. Spang of Newark, N.J., said admitting women to the priesthood would "bring new wholeness to the ministry, new wholeness to our church and I hope new wholeness to the world."

Bishop C. Kilmer Myers of San Francisco said it meant an "unfolding of our catholic faith and not a departure from it."

American Party Gains

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The American party has won the right to field candidates in one congressional race and seven state House contests in addition to having its presidential candidate on the ballot in Florida.

The elections division certified Wednesday that Clyde Adams of Lake Park had collected 15,073 signatures and would be placed on the Nov. 2 general election ballot opposing Congressman Paul Rogers, D-West Palm Beach.

However, Robert Dupree of Brandon, who had hoped to challenge incumbent Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Tampa, failed to get enough signatures and H. Martin Murray of Fort Lauderdale announced he was withdrawing as a congressional candidate.

The American party succeeded last week in getting the 108,000 signatures statewide to place their presidential candidate, Tom Anderson of Pigeon Forge, Tenn., on the Florida ballot.

Joseph Mullane of New Port Richey failed to get the needed signatures to get on the ballot as a Senate candidate. However, he qualified Wednesday as a write-in candidate to challenge Sen. Alan Trank, D-Fort Meade, who has no other opponent.

Jack York of Vero Beach failed to get enough signatures to get on the ballot against Rep. Phil Lewis, D-West Palm Beach, who also is unopposed.

The seven House candidates who now have opposition were also unopposed until American party candidates qualified in the races.

Marion Ryan of Port Orange qualified to run against Rep. Hyatt Brown, D-Daytona Beach. Mrs. Ryan grabbed headlines last year when she took her children out of school to protest the school textbooks being used.

Louis Morehead of Titusville

qualified to run against Rep. Clark Maxwell Jr. of Melbourne.

The other five incumbent House members challenged were Broward Democrats: John Nast of Hollywood against Rep. Tom McPherson; Curtis Illmer of Hollywood against Rep. Walter Young; Neal Bohanon of Hollywood against Rep. Harold J. Dyer; Henry Ford Sr. against Rep. Charles Boyd; and Linda Scott of Hollywood against Rep. David Lehman.

Jean Tepsic Conducts Ballet Guild Auditions

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Correspondent

Girl dancers are asked to wear black leotards and pink tights with their hair in a bun. Boy's attire is optional. All try-outs must bring ballet shoes and pointe shoes if they have progressed to the point level.

Conducting the auditions will be Jean Tepsic, artistic director of the Atlantic Dance Company Inc., co-director of Kinetics Inc., a professional dance company, and director of the Jean Tepsic School of Dance in Daytona Beach and Ormond Beach.

While completing her Master's Degree at Florida State University, Ms. Tepsic worked as a graduate assistant, teaching both ballet and modern dance technique classes. A college teacher for four years, she has had considerable experience in classical repertoire and modern works and in musical theatre. She has also danced in original choreography and experimental pieces.

Ms. Tepsic's reputation in Dance is recognized regionally as she has worked with three universities and six civic companies in the Southeast alone. Her choreography has been seen on five television stations in Florida alone and one program on which she collaborated, received a national award from the National Association for Primary Education.

Among her other accomplishments, Ms. Tepsic was named an "Outstanding Young Woman of America."

Shop Smart. Cook Smart.

Let's face it, economizing today means pinching every penny until it says "Ouch!" Smart homemakers are using every trick they know to shave grocery and utility bills.

If you buy large quantities of economy meats that need long, slow cooking to tenderize them, you will use far less electricity or gas if you cook them all at once in a 325 degree oven, or in a large Dutch oven or kettle on top of the range at medium to low heat.

Divide the cooked meats into meal-sized portions and freeze. Before you reheat them, let them thaw in the refrigerator. Heating time will be greatly reduced, saving more energy. Or, if you have frozen whole cut-up raw cuts of meat, thaw them the same way before cooking to help reduce your utility bill.

You don't need to preheat the oven when you are using it to prepare roasts or stews. Most ovens are fully preheated within 10 minutes.

CHANGES NEEDED As a woman grows older she needs to take an objective look at her make-up. For example, a mature woman should use bright and clear lipstick colors. Whiteners tend to create and emphasize lip wrinkles.

one extra step in dressing before feeling satisfied. This is taking a long look into a full-length mirror, turning from side to side.

To keep corduroy looking its finest, never iron it on the right side. Turn it inside out and steam iron gently.

Elderly Big Winners Under Pending Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new tax bill could mean a savings of hundreds of dollars a year for elderly Americans with modest incomes and provide an extra break for persons over 65 who are blind or handicapped. Other actions of the bill contain some good news and some bad news for those concerned about capital gains. Perhaps the biggest change in capital gains is a lengthening of the time period required for an asset to be owned.
