Petition cancelled

LAKE MARY — Centrex Property has withdrawn an application for rezoning of seven acres in the middle of Hills of Lake Mary subdivision. Had the rezoning been approved, the land could have been used for commercial development rather than professional office.

The matter was scheduled for public hearing this Thursday night at the Lake Mary City Commission meeting. City officials had said the rezoning request had drawn so much citizen interest that it had been moved up to near the beginning of the meeting.

City Manager John Litton announced this morning that Centrex has withdrawn the application, and the matter will not be considered at this week's meeting, "nor at any other meeting unless the applicant applies again," he said.

A notice was sent out early this morning to all Hills of Lake Mary residents announcing the withdrawal.

Time capsule

SANFORD — Pine Crest Elementary School will be celebrating the 40th anniversary of the school by planting a time capsule.

The public is invited to attend the planting, which will be on May 14, but anyone who has some sort of memorabilia they wish to place in the time capsule is invited to do so at any time before May 7.

Former teachers, students, staff members and anyone who has any connection with the school can bring the items they wish to have included to the school office. The items that will be included will be recorded on videotape before the time capsule is buried.

For more information, contact the school at 322-1711.

Man arrested for lewd acts

CHULUOTA — A Chuluota man was released from the John E. Polk Correctional Facility this morning after posting $10,000 bond.

Rulison Archer, 31, of 100 E. Second Street, was charged with two counts of child abuse and three counts of committing a lewd act in the presence of a child.

Investigators from the Sheriff's Office major crimes section arrested him at his home Monday evening.

He is accused of having two 11-year-old girls over to his home last January and during the visit, he allegedly had the girls take off their clothes and lie on the floor. He then put luncheon meat on their bodies, investigators said, and had his pet dog eat and lick off the meat.

He also, allegedly, did the same thing with an eight-year-old boy on another day.

The female victims said he was nude during the incidents and he is accused of giving both girls alcoholic beverages.

Sellers trial underway

SANFORD — Opening arguments were scheduled to begin this morning at 9 a.m. in the trial of 49-year-old George Sellers.

Sellers, of 426 Wild Fox Drive in Casselberry, is charged with 11 counts of engaging in a sexual act with a child and one count of promoting a sexual performance.

The charges stem from a consensual affair that Sellers had with a 17-year-old girl from July through October 1994. The affair occurred while Sellers was a teacher and the girl was a student at Lake Howell High School.

The trial is being held in Courtroom B of the Seminole County Courthouse with Circuit Court Judge Uriel Blount presiding.

Borrow pit owners to be fined

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Developers of the controversial Marquette Shores borrow pit may be fined for failure to fulfill requirements specified by the Seminole County Commission after it denied a request to expand the pit from 11.9 acres to 27 acres.

The denial came during the February 13 county commission meeting at which time many residents in the area near the pit turned out to voice their objections.

In denying the expansion, the county called for a requirement to have the surety bond increased from $50,000 to $100,000, to cover the cost of rebuilding the area, should the pit owners decide to cease operations.

In addition, there was an order to post a $25,000 reclamation bond for a period of two LAKE MARY — Getting a taste of international business, a pair of Lake Mary High School students, their teacher and a business partner recently returned from the Czech Republic where they made the final arrangements for their entrepreneurial enterprise.

Seniors Patrick Duffy and Shawn

Ebert, their applied economics teacher Anna VanLandingham and Nancy Walk, co-owner of Florick South of Orlando, spent a week in the emerging nation seeing first hand how a capitalistic society is created from a former communist regime. They also had the chance to learn about the cultural differences between the Czechs and themselves.

Ex-cop pleads no contest to sex with teen

By The Associated Press

SANFORD — A former police officer originally charged with 78 counts of sex with a minor has sidestepped a second trial by pleading no contest to two counts in exchange for probation.

Guy Brewster, 39, was convicted two years ago and sentenced to 15 years in prison for having sex with a teenage boy. But the conviction was thrown out by a judge because a state witness mentioned during the trial that the victim took a lie detector test.

Brewster, who was suspended from the Sanford Police Department in October 1991 and fired in June 1993, was to be retried on eight counts on Monday.

He will serve no prison time. The state agreed to a sentence of 1 1/2 years of community control, followed by 8 1/2 years of probation. He also is forbidden from having any contact with minors until the probation is complete.

Assistant State Attorney Meryl Allawas said the victim was satisfied with the out-of-court agreement.

"He has rebuilt his life," the prosecutor said of the victim. "He feels like he won the first time and he didn't want to have to go through that LONGWOOD — A former Longwood police officer has been arrested on federal government charges of income tax evasion. Gene Webb, 39, of Pine Hills, was taken into custody and made his initial court appearance in Orlando yesterday.

A federal grand jury returned an eight count indictment last Thursday, charging Webb with income tax evasion and failure to return income tax returns. Specifically, he was charged with a two-count indictment with violating Title 26 of the U.S. Code.

The indictment charges that Webb, during the calendar year 1989, had gross income of $25,410.30 with a taxable income of $12,750.63, but did not file a tax return or pay any income tax.

During 1990, he had a taxable income of $26,909.02 but again didn't file a return or pay taxes. The same situation occurred in 1991 and 1992.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Meningitis strain not contagious

PENSACOLA — A 14-month old Pensacola boy has died of meningitis, but hospital officials say his death resulted from a strain of bacteria that does not cause outbreaks.

Two other Florida Panhandle children have died this year of meningitis or suspected meningitis and an outbreak of the disease prompted a mass inoculation of about 10,000 children in the Fort Walton Beach area in late January and early February.

William Hylar Hempfleng died Monday at Sacred Heart Hospital here. Parents of other children at a day care center he attended at Pensacola Junior College were told the case was isolated but warned to watch for symptoms.

Meningitis is an infection of brain and spinal tissue that can be caused by several types of bacteria and viruses.

The Hempfleng infant died of streptococcal pneumoniae bacterium, doctors said.

Shooters plead guilty to drug charges

MIAMI — Two men involved in a shootout last spring with federal agents at a Walmart parking lot in south Dade County pleaded guilty to federal cocaine conspiracy and firearms counts.

The men evaded the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents after the May 1995 shootout, but were subsequently arrested.

Rodolfo Del Oro, 32, and Modesto Del Sol, 34, each face a mandatory minimum of 15 years and a maximum penalty of life in prison under sentencing guidelines. Assistant U.S. Attorney Guy Lewis said Tuesday.

Sentencing was set for June 27 by U.S. District Judge Federico Moreno.

The shootout at the Walmart parking lot in a suburb south of Miami followed an attempt by the agents to trap a group that plotted a home invasion to seize a cache of cocaine from Colombia, said ATF agent Francisco Saavedra in an affidavit.

Businessman charged with murder

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad — A well-known businessman was charged with murder Tuesday in the shooting of a U.S. environmentalist found fatally wounded on a rural roadside.

Bryan Hobbs, 37, of Dania, Fla., died Monday in Trinidad's main hospital. He was found late Saturday night with two bullet wounds to his abdomen on a road in Toco district, about 50 miles northeast of Port of Spain, the capital of this Caribbean nation.

After he died, police arrested Jai Ramkisson, a chicken farm operator who had been consulting Hobbs. Witnesses told policemen they last saw Hobbs drinking in a Toco bar with Ramkisson Saturday night and then driving off with the businessman, according to police Superintendent Llewlyn Francis.

Ramkisson was not asked to plead when he was formally charged with murder at Sangre Grande Magistrate's Court, in a town 20 miles (30 kilometers) from where Hobbs was found. Ramkisson was to appear in the court again Wednesday.

Gas prices highest since 1990

LAKE MARY — The highest gasoline prices in Florida since 1990 are the result of low inventories caused by a long, cold winter, the American Automobile Association says.

The average price for self-serve regular unleaded gas is up 11.1 cents over the same month last year, the AAA said Tuesday. The statewide average is $1.28 per gallon.

"Heavy heating demands throughout the winter drained stockpiles of crude oil, which pushed the price of oil up. When oil prices increase, gas prices increase," said AAA spokeswoman Rena Callahan.

Mid-grade, self-serve unleaded prices rose 10.4 cents from April 1995 to an average price of $1.37 per gallon, the AAA said. Premium unleaded increased 10.5 cents to an average $1.457.

Sex charges dropped

ORLANDO — Prosecutors have dropped felony sex and firearm charges against an Orlando entrepreneur who helped found the national magazine "Esence."

Assistant State Attorney Robin Wilkinson said just before trial was to begin Monday that the key witness in the case, a 14-year-old girl under psychiatric treatment, refused to testify.

Jonathan Blount, 50, was charged in July 1994 with two counts of having sex with the girl, two counts of possession of firearms by a convicted felon, aggravated assault with a firearm and possession of 1.3 grams of marijuana.

Blount, who spent a year in jail until his release to home confinement in October, said he was not bitter.

"I'm better for it," he said. "This whole thing was political."

Blount became a community activist in Orlando after moving here in 1992. He was convicted 18 years ago of attempted grand theft, and as a convicted felon, he cannot legally possess a firearm in Florida. He still faces a misdemeanor charge of marijuana possession.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Gov. Chiles presses on with his campaign against tobacco companies

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles and a group of black leaders have rallied together for his anti-cigarette campaign as the governor prepared for another attempt by lawmakers to sink the state's $1.4 billion lawsuit against big tobacco.

The move comes after several black lawmakers, usually aligned with the Democratic governor, failed to back Chiles' effort to defuse opposition to a 1994 law that made it easier for the state to sue tobacco companies.

While Chiles railed against the tobacco industry for targeting blacks and other minorities, a Senate panel again postponed a hearing on legislation that would narrow the disputed law to only cigarette makers.

The governor said it's a tactic he expected from tobacco lobbyists in the last weeks of the regular session. He said he is preparing for another push by the Senate to override his veto of the bill that repealed the 1994 law. He thwarted an earlier attempt March 13.

"I think the tactic now is, 'We're going to delay and delay and delay.' Then of course at some stage I think they're feeling like they can get another shot at the veto override," Chiles said Tuesday.

John French, one of the industry's lead lobbyists, said he expected the Senate to vote again closer to the end of the session, scheduled to adjourn May 3.

The Senate Judiciary Committee rescheduled a bill (CS-SB 12 & 406) that would make the 1994 law apply only to tobacco from Wednesday to next Tuesday. The governor supported the legislation to allay concerns from business lobbyists who claim the state could use the law to sue other industries.

But one of the state's most powerful business groups said it doesn't like the bill designed to stop an override.

"No business can afford to leave this precedent on the books," said Jon Shebel, president of Associated Industries of Florida. He said the business community remained unified against the law, although he believed the governor could still sustain his veto.

The governor's latest anti-tobacco blitz, which included a four-city tour Monday, followed a stinging 16-14 defeat last week in the House Commerce Committee of the same compromise bill.

Hood keeps job as mayor of Orlando

By The Associated Press

ORLANDO — Orlando Mayor Glenda Hood easily won another four-year term in an election that attracted an entertaining challenger but less than 13 percent of eligible voters.

An entertainer who ran a write-in campaign under the name Bonita Conchita Marilita Havana Banana-Poluvsky received 98 votes. Hood got 7,475 votes, or 81 percent of the vote, while her closest rival, Steve Villard, received 1,623 votes.

"I'm very pleased that things turned out as well as they did," she said after Tuesday's vote.

Homeowner: death threats linked to bomb at home

By The Associated Press

CAPE CORAL — A bomb that exploded on the front porch of a home may have been related to death threats the homeowner reported receiving.

No one was home and no one was injured in the blast Tuesday that blew out the front door and windows, and ripped through the front section of the roof of Susanne Ferguson's home.

Ferguson, 53, told the Fort Myers News-Press for a story published today that the explosion may be related to death threats she and her boyfriend received.

"I'm not sure," she said. "But I'm not ruling that out." She declined to give details about the threats.

The explosion in an affluent neighborhood in the southwest section of this city, near Fort Myers, forced the evacuation of nearby homes while a bomb squad made sure there weren't any other devices.

"I can't believe this happened here in this neighborhood," said Roxanne Sherman, who lives behind the home and called 911. "It's generally quiet around here."

Agents from the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms would not speculate on what type of device it was or its power.

It was the second time in two days bombs exploded in Lee County. Monday three acid bombs exploded in a North Fort Myers driveway, but caused no damage.

Authorities estimated Ferguson's three-bedroom canal-side home suffered $30,000 in damage.

Sherman said she was reading a story in the newspaper about Monday's acid bomb explosions in North Fort Myers when she heard the loud boom.

Health officials: Texas Ebola virus doesn't pose a threat to humans

By PAULINE ARRILLAGA
Associated Press Writer

ALICE, Texas — The Ebola virus that struck two monkeys at a research center in Texas is not the same strain that killed hundreds of people in Africa and poses virtually no threat to humans, health officials said Tuesday.

"Nobody's sick. There's not a big outbreak of something," said Dr. Pierre Rollin, chief of the special pathogens branch at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Rollin, an Ebola expert who has studied the deadly strain Ebola Zaire, acknowledged human infection was possible but has never occurred with the strain diagnosed at the Texas Primate Center.

The virus killed one monkey and led authorities to put another monkey to death at the breeding center, which provides primates to researchers around the world.

State health officials also confirmed that a third monkey was infected and that the monkey and 47 others would have to be destroyed Wednesday, the Corpus Christi Call-Times reported.

An additional 98 monkeys, part of a shipment that arrived March 21 from the Philippines, remained quarantined and were being tested. Eight people were exposed to Ebola at the Texas center: two veterinarians, five monkey handlers and one lab technician, said Kate Hendricks, an epidemiologist with the state Health Department. All were wearing protective gear such as masks and gloves and reported no cuts or scratches.

They remain under observation.

This is the first time since 1990 that Ebola has been diagnosed in the United States, officials said. The last infection also occurred at the Texas Primate Center in a shipment of monkeys from the Philippines.

Rollin said the Texas Ebola strain is highly similar to the virus that struck a Reston, Va., primate center in 1989. Four people there were exposed to the virus but never got sick. All the monkeys were put to death.

Officials called a news conference to stress that the Texas strain is not as dangerous as the one that infected 316 people and killed 245 last year in the central African nation of Zaire. Earlier this year, at least 13 people died from Ebola in Gabon in western Africa.

State Health Commissioner David Smith said rabies and tuberculosis are more serious threats in Texas than Ebola, which was the subject of the best-selling book "Hot Zone" and the movie "Outbreak," both of which were based on the 1989 incident in Virginia.

Report: Board recommends discipline for 10 ATF agents

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A review board has recommended that 10 agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms be punished for their behavior at Good Ol' Boy Roundups where racist activity occurred, USA Today reported today.

The board, made up of five senior-level ATF managers, recommended punishments for the 10 ranging from verbal cautions to four-day suspensions and that they receive special training in diversity and sensitivity, the paper said. In addition, it reported the board recommended diversity counseling for three other ATF agents.

The agents' supervisors will make final decisions on the recommended punishments.

Treasury Secretary Robert Rubin referred 15 Treasury Department employees, including seven ATF agents, for disciplinary reviews two weeks ago because they witnessed racist incidents at the roundups and didn't try to stop them or may have misused government vehicles at the roundups. In addition, he referred 16 Treasury employees — including six ATF agents — for fact-finding inquiries or counseling.

The roundups, gatherings for law enforcement officers held at a southeastern Tennessee campground for the past 16 years, turned in recent years into marathon drinking bouts where women feared for their safety and some participants engaged in racist conduct.

Cheering 'Hillary-san'

First Lady keeps low profile in Japan

By MARI YAMAUCHI
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO — She's a heroine to many Japanese women, but few of them had a chance today to turn out and cheer "Hillary-san."

Hillary Rodham Clinton, accompanying President Clinton on a three-day state visit to Japan, made lunch with prominent women her only solo event. She mainly accompanied her husband to ceremonial events, including a state dinner at the Imperial Palace this evening.

At the luncheon, hosted by Joan Mondale, wife of U.S. Ambassador Walter Mondale, the first lady chatted with more than a dozen women, discussing women's concerns over Japanese spring salad, tomato cream soup, asparagus salad and orange mousse with assorted fruit.

"Women throughout the world ... have much more in common than that which separates us," Mrs. Clinton said before the meal.

It was a sharp contrast to Mrs.

Clinton's 1993 visit, when she made a string of public appearances alone, drawing crowds of Japanese women who wanted to catch a glimpse of her.

Kiniko Furubashi, coordinator of an Asian women's network, gave Mrs. Clinton a bagful of material on Japanese feminism and praised the candor of the first lady she called "Hillary-san."

"I was so happy that we could talk about women's issues as equals," she said.

Mrs. Clinton has captured the imaginations of many women in Japan, where women's career options are sharply limited. For most, the idea of combining a high-powered career and a high-profile public role with marriage and motherhood, as the first lady does, is hard to even imagine.

"I don't think I could be such a superwoman," said Miwa Uehida, a 27-year-old company employee. "Mrs. Clinton seems very strong — I think she is a very hard worker."

In Japan, the wives of politicians work behind the scenes. The type of public role Mrs.

Clinton has claimed in the United States is rarely seen.

Mrs. Clinton's Japanese counterpart, 54-year-old Kumiko Hashimoto, wife of Prime Minister Ryutaro Hashimoto, describes herself as a housewife and does not comment publicly on policy matters. When interviewed in the Japanese press, Mrs. Hashimoto is generally asked questions such as how much hair gel her husband uses.

The low-key nature of Mrs. Clinton's itinerary during the visit, which began Tuesday, did not seem to dampen enthusiasm for her at the luncheon.

"I like her because she doesn't act like she's so special," said Shizuka Kuromasa, 21.

New drug crackdown

Only the names are different; the aim is the same. The latest coalition established to fight drugs, as reported by Associated Press writer Ike Flores yesterday, is a combination of school administrators, the entertainment industry, and the National Drug Prevention League. Leaders include representatives of Walt Disney, Universal, Nickelodeon, and the Motion Picture Screen Cartoonists union.

The aim, announced at the National School Board Association conference held this week in Orlando, is to curb drug use and addiction among children, especially those in middle schools.

We find it difficult to jump up and down and shout hurrah over this new move.

We already have the DARE program (Drug Awareness Resistance Education) being conducted in our schools by our law enforcement agencies. Many teachers in our school system are also bringing drug abuse problems up for discussion in their classes.

And look at the phone book. The Central Florida Phone Book for 1996, just under the classification of "drug", lists the Drug Abuse 24 Hour Action Helpline & Treatment, Drug & Alcohol Abuse Treatment, Drug Detection Services, Drug Enforcement Administration, and Drug Testing Professionals Inc. Also listed are phone numbers for hospitals offering drug addiction assistance, and in the yellow pages, almost one entire page devoted to assistance in combatting drug abuse for adults as well as children.

Not having been at the Orlando meeting in person, we can only imagine what was, or will be decided. With the type organizations involved, there is little doubt they will come up with a series of cartoons to be seen in movie theaters and on television, urging children to stay away from drugs.

But we must question what good, if any, it will have on our children.

We firmly believe that the only way we will begin to have an effect on the children of today is to continue the crackdown on the adults and for everyone to get involved, not just a few organizations.

We appreciate the efforts of our schools, cartoon industry and anti drug organizations in trying this new approach.

But we believe only when every individual, parent, sibling, role model and everyone else, launches their own personal crackdown on drug abuse, will we see the situation with children and drug abuse begin to improve.

Manatees, portable fans, and politicians

Floridians know manatees are in mortal trouble but most of us don't realize these gentle animals—most of them in Florida well before humans—could be extinct in the wild within a very few years. It makes us angry, frustrated and even sick to our stomachs because we also know humans are the primary cause of the manatees' demise.

Is there any vital thing each of us can do quickly to help save these wonderful creatures? The answer is YES. Absolutely! Are you surprised? You'll be shocked to find out how simple it is...and probably enraged to learn that our elected representatives in Tallahassee have turned a deaf ear to this common sense solution.

As you've read, heard and seen, boat propellers are slashing manatees to death every week. The single most important solution to this wholesale slaughter is a PROPELLER GUARD. Would you be stupid enough to have a portable fan in your home without some sort of guard or cage protecting you—and those you care about—from the high-speed whirling blade? I don't think so! Why then do we allow our boats, with their high-speed propellers, to menace the tranquil waters of Florida without this reasonable protection? It's time to wake up and take responsibility and not allow politicians to make excuses! We are running out of time!

Here's what you can do today: (1) If you own a boat, ask a marine mechanic to install a prop guard for you, or find out how you can do it yourself; (2) Ask your friends to do the same...put some pressure on them; (3) Get kids and schools involved in speaking out about this simple solution; (4) Write and telephone your representatives in Tallahassee and ask them why the state is spending so much more on complex solutions when prop guards can do the job (we are well aware manatees have other concerns but this is the main one); (5) Write to me and enclose a legal size, stamped and self-addressed envelope and I'll be happy to send you additional information about how you can help.

This is something each of us can do...and must do quickly. Enough is enough folks! Let's all do the right thing today.

Different border, different standard

Enrique Funes Flores and his common-law wife, Alicia Sotero Vasquez, have become folk heroes to the Mexican people. Several rallies have been held in their honor. And they've been feted by the consul general of Mexico.

So what did the couple do to deserve these accolades? They were roughed up by Riverside County sheriff's deputies after they crossed the U.S. border illegally and led the officers on a one-hour high-speed chase.

The apologists for illegal immigration have exploited this beating incident to the hilt. The fault lies not just with the overzealous sheriff's deputies, they say, but also with us racist, xenophobic Americans who dare complain about the hundreds of thousands of Mexicans who steal across the U.S. border year by year.

But let's put this incident in perspective. No reasonable-minded person condones the brutal beating that Flores and his companion received. But it is not unreasonable to suggest that any fleeing felon of any race or nationality who leads police on an hour-long chase along the highway at 75 miles an hour is not going to be treated with kid gloves once apprehended.

If it were not bad enough that "immigration rights" advocates are using the illegal couple to bash Americans who want to protect the integrity of this country's southern border, two shameless contingency fee lawyers have also gotten into the mix.

No sooner had Flores been treated for his injuries (at U.S. taxpayer expense) than self-styled "human rights" lawyer Peter Seley filed a $10 million claim on the illegal immigrant's behalf against Riverside County. Another multi-million dollar claim is to be filed on behalf of Flores' common-law wife by David Lynn Ross, an ersatz lawyer who has yet to pass the California bar.

Even those who are tolerant of illegal immigration have difficulty defending these lawsuits. Fine, let the taxpayers of Riverside County foot the Mexican couple's emergency medical bills. But no way should they be hit up for $10 million. That would amount to rewarding the Mexican couple for illegally crossing the border and endangering the lives of hundreds of motorists as they fled U.S. law enforcement.

The apologists for illegal immigration have exploited this beating incident to the hilt.

It's interesting to note, as the Riverside beating incident receives national coverage on both sides of the border, that there is almost no coverage of a similar incident that occurred on the Mexico side of the border last week.

After a 130-mile high-speed chase from southern Los Angeles County to Tijuana, Mexican police did not merely beat 16-year-old Elizabeth Asuna into submission. They shot the American teen in the back before taking her into custody.

There was no "human chain" formed along the border to protest the girl's shooting. There were no indignant pronouncements by high-ranking government officials in either Sacramento or Washington. There were no lawyers filing multi-million dollar damage claims on Asuna's behalf.

That's the dirty little secret that the Mexican government tries to keep quiet. While they blast Americans for not graciously welcoming illegal immigrants from south of the border, they are anything but hospitable to undocumented aliens who cross their own southern border.

Mexican bishop for the Indians

SAN CRISTOBAL de las CASAS, Mexico -- He is revered as a savior by Indian peasants whose hundreds of villages dot the mountains of Chiapas state in southern Mexico.

At the same time, for the same cause, he is denounced by government officials as El Obispo Rojo, the "Red Bishop." The implication is that his pursuit of equal rights for indigenous Indians is leftist -- even Communist.

Samuel Ruiz Garcia, the Catholic bishop of this area bordering on Guatemala, is a lightning rod for both love and epithets. Word of his good deeds has spread around the world, and he has been nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize.

Still, his advocacy on behalf of the armed, rebellious Indian peasants known as "Zapatistas" has made him the subject of intense Mexican government surveillance. U.S. intelligence sources tell us that the bishop's church offices have been wiretapped.

Considering both the reverence and the controversy, Bishop Ruiz is noticeably nonplussed by it all. During a recent interview here with our associate Dale Van Atta, he was optimistic about the prospects for peace in the region.

"Everything is going in a good way," he said. "We are in the midst of a transformation here. We have more and more participation from (the Zapatistas) and the government. The Mexican population is in support of it. Of course, there are several groups that don't want the transformation, but they will be swept aside."

The bishop allows that if he had his wish, there never would have been an armed rebellion. But the Indians, who have been getting the short end of the stick in the five centuries since the Spanish first arrived, found that Mexico's long-time one-party rule wasn't working for them.

So in January 1994, they came in from the jungles and took over three towns and this city before being beaten back by government troops during a 12-day battle that left at least 145 Zapatistas dead.

Ruiz says the bloodbath was almost inevitable. Not only had the Indians' land been taken, but they had been left illiterate, impoverished and diseased. "It was only natural that the Indians would break up through all this like a volcano, with an eruption," he said.

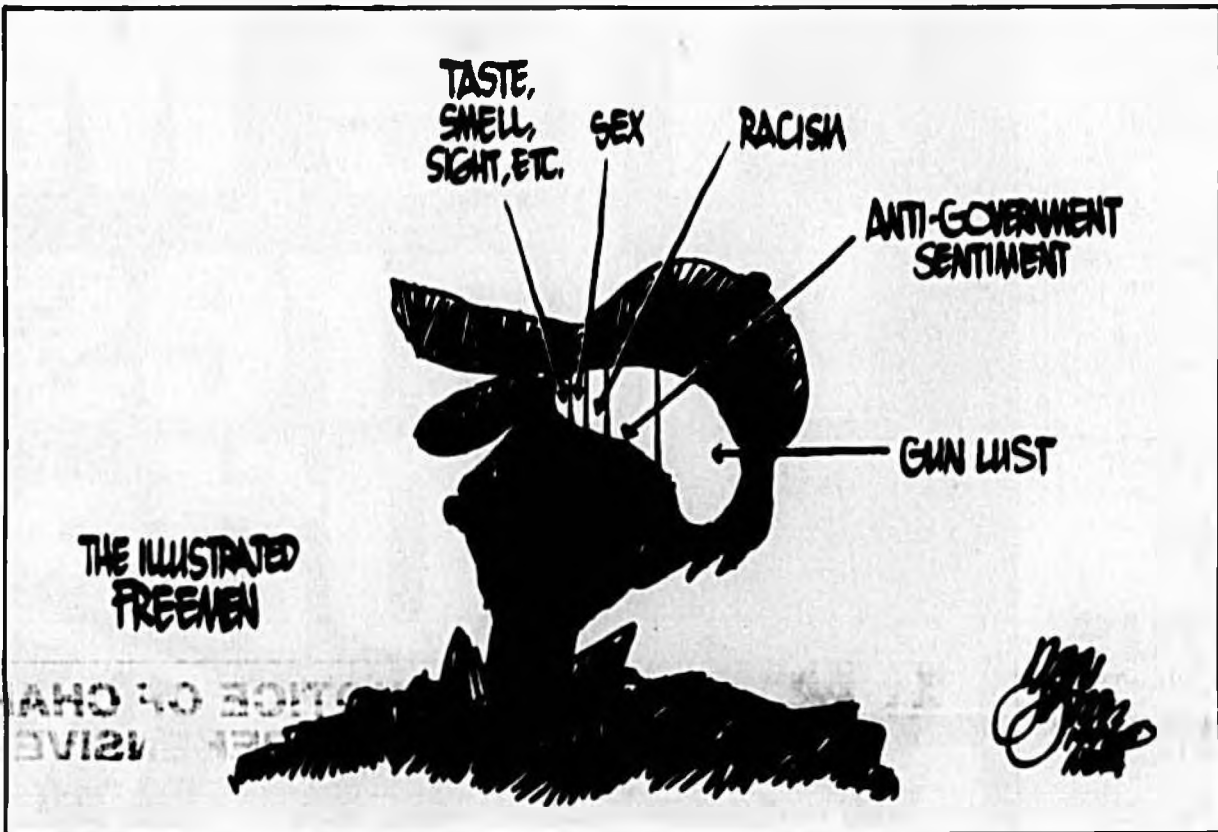

The bishop becomes animated while speaking of their lot. "Just an hour's drive from here," he says, "on a paved road, no less, is a community of Indians where 99.9 percent of the people have glaucoma. ... In my diocese, we have an area nearly the size of El Salvador where more than 70 percent of the people have tuberculosis. This should not be allowed."

Stung by international criticism, the Mexican government negotiated with the Zapatistas during a year-long truce. But the government broke it off in February 1995 to arrest several sympathizers and redeploy troops. Once again, though, Bishop Ruiz helped bring both parties back to the negotiating table.

The first of a series of accords was signed this past February, but the Zapatistas believe that some of the reforms promised will not be real until it is codified as part of the Mexican Constitution.

Samuel Ruiz Garcia, the Catholic bishop of this area, is a lightning rod for both love and epithets.

Amazing, what makes up a life

WASHINGTON -- Amazing, what makes up a life.

Thoughtless, everyday stuff, mostly. You wake up, fix the coffee, splash down some juice. You shake out a bowl of whatever cereal appeals to you. Like a thousand times before.

But sometimes, the news reminds us of how fast people's private everyday beginnings can veer into public nightmares.

The death of Commerce Secretary Ron Brown has me thinking this way. So does the story of the Washington girl, 14, who was mauled after a strange man sicked a pit bull on her for refusing to undress for him. On Tuesday, the girl told her story to the city council, which voted to muzzle all such animals in public.

In everyday life, as most of us know it, beloved husbands and fathers come home after business trips. Middle school girls stroll safely down the street. Dogs are amusing in their awfulness—like my colleague's pet, which ate all the cash in his money clip.

In everyday life, as most of us prefer it, things tend toward the boring. They're neither as catastrophic as the crimes and crashes flashed by the news, nor as ecstatic as the septa-tinted births, weddings and reunions that coax our tears in TV commercials. The momentous, good and bad, should be icing on events as mundane as your son making his bed without a reminder, or the 500th time your husband mutters, "I love you" without thinking.

I hate it when everyday life refuses to stay everyday, when it twists itself into some errant thing that forces "God, no" from your lips even before you learn why everyone is asking, "Did you hear about Ron Brown?"

And it never should result in an innocent like 14-year old Allison Judah needing plastic surgery to repair scars she received for refusing to be debased. Healing Allison's psychic wounds may be tougher—though it may help her to know that she helped persuade the city council to require the public muzzling of Rottwelers and pit bulls.

But everyday life doesn't promise to be nice. Sometimes, it's noticing, all of a sudden, the aage, stiffenings and increasing slips of memory of an aging loved one. It's having the doctor call to say that your "routine" test suggests something frighteningly non-routine. It's the look on your child's face when he says that a boy at his school was killed in a car crash, and that the child's mom "is OK in her body, but she's emotionally hurt."

It's hearing that someone as gifted, glamorous and influential as Brown is suddenly and preposterously gone—and being struck by stuff that has nothing to do with his eminence. Stuff that has more to do with you.

"The abruptness of it made me think about his wife," said a friend who called after the tragic plane crash. "What were his last words to her, and her last words to him? I thought of how I wonder, whenever I leave the house and my husband's asleep, should I just slip out or kiss him goodbye? Should I ensure that my last interaction is one of love?"

How many of us felt queasy watching footage of Brown filmed early on the day he died? Knowing what he couldn't have known, we watched him making a speech and hugging a servicewoman, warmly wrapped up in the everyday.

What I saw made me shiver. It also made me long to have known this charming, committed man; made me wish I'd heard a bit more about his wonderfulness when he was among us, and a bit less about allegations about his finances.

The day Brown died, my lunch date happened to be a longtime friend of his. She was in the midst of a running tiff with her husband—and secretly enjoying its recriminations and stabbing silences—when she learned of the crash. Her first thought: "I have to let this go."

"In the scheme of things," she told me, what she and her husband had fought over "wasn't so important. We're alive—and we can fix anything."

Interesting, what makes up a life. Mostly, it's choices—from deciding which cereal to start with to turning, unknowingly, down the street where a fool with an attitude is walking his dog.

The main choice, of course, is deciding what to focus on. Thinking before choosing could mean learning to speak well of the living. Or deciding before tragedy strikes that whatever ridiculous things those in our everyday lives do, they deserve the best we can muster.

It could mean remembering that even when we fail to give our best, those whom we love will remember it anyway.

Amazing. All we're ever dealing with is love—or the lack of it. Which one we focus on determines everyone's everyday life.

In everyday life, as most of us prefer it, things tend toward the boring.

Me and my shadow...

Students from Seminole High School took the opportunity this morning to meet with professionals from the area to spend some time seeing what happens over the course of an average work day in the profession in which they are considering. Dale Whitman, coordinator of the COMPACT program at Seminole High, gave the young people last minute instructions over breakfast before they left for their unique learning experiences.

"I really loved learning about things," Duffy said, back in class last week. "It was a wonderful experience."

The group made the trip as a part of Junior Achievement's Project Globe which brings students from around the world together for the purpose of forming international business partnerships.

Duffy, the president of Lake Mary International, the school's company, said he was impressed with the "mystical" qualities of Prague, the capital of the Czech Republic, but it took some doing for the student business people to understand one another's cultures.

VanLandingham said the Czechs did not understand that the American students could not provide anything they wanted in terms of a product.

"They just thought we could get anything we wanted here," she said. "They didn't understand that in order to get a good price on the t-shirts (Lake Mary International's product), we have to order a certain number and they have to be all one color, for example."

Still the youngsters enjoyed one another's company and cultural barriers were easily overcome. The Czech students spoke English, sometimes haltingly, but always well enough to converse with their American counterparts.

Here, Lake Mary International will be selling small wicker baskets made in the Czech Republic, decorated with candles, ribbons or flowers. The $5 baskets will be perfect Mother's Day gifts, VanLandingham said.

While overseas, the students also toured the city of Prague, including its famous castle. They went to the opera at the National Theatre and attended a ball in their honor.

"It was like something out of World War II," VanLandingham said. "There was a 30-piece orchestra and we were at the best table in the house, up in the balcony."

The Lake Mary group noted that the work ethic that comes with free enterprise has not quite taken hold in the Czech Republic. Everywhere, they said, construction is under way to build a new country but, often, the workers are not motivated to complete the job quickly.

"But they're learning," VanLandingham said. The students and teacher said

Walk has been very dedicated to their company and proved invaluable in working with their Czech counterparts. The business expertise she was able to offer helped smooth over any cultural differences.

"She's very dedicated to the program and to the students," VanLandingham said. "In the nine years I've been involved in the Junior Achievement program, she's the best business partner I've seen."

The business partners have become friends, Duffy said, and look forward to working together for a successful business partnership.

Gore: Broadcasters can help parents with kids' TV choices

By JEANNINE AVERSA
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS — Broadcasters generally say it's a good idea to post local programming and information collected by individual stations on the Internet as a way to help parents make better viewing choices for their children.

Vice President Al Gore suggests that stations put the public files they are required to keep on computer disk or e-mail them to the Federal Communications Commission, which would post the information on the Internet. He offered his proposal, dubbed the "family right to know," in a speech to the National Association of Broadcasters convention here Tuesday.

"I think it makes a lot of sense," said Larry Ryan, a vice president at WDTN-TV in Dayton, Ohio.

Rick Henry, a vice president at WTAE-TV in Pittsburgh, called it a "good and natural idea." He said Hearst TV stations, including WTAE, are posting program schedules and other information on the Internet now.

But NAB president Eddie Fritts said he preferred to see stations post the information on the Internet on their own and not through the FCC.

"I don't know we need a national headquarters of children's guidance" at the FCC, he said.

Jim Hedlund, president of the Association of Local TV Stations, another broadcast trade organization, questioned the utility of the idea. "Howdred,

The price of newsprint, the chief recent worry, has leveled off. Two or three announced price increases have been canceled and newspapers have gotten smarter about eliminating waste.

One continuing sticky point is newspaper circulation. It is not keeping up with population growth.

According to the trade paper, Editor & Publisher, daily weekday sales of newspapers dipped by 506,158 in 1994 and by 1,112,045 last year. Big city papers closed in Houston,

Baltimore, Md., Milwaukee, Wis., and New York.

The country had 1,748 daily papers in 1970 and 1,533 as of last Feb. 1.

The statistics are misleading, said Robert Picard, editor of the Journal of Media Economics. The typical American paper, he said, has a circulation of about 30,000 and is the dominant medium in its area. "The average circulation of the average newspaper is in fact increasing," Picard said.

Lake Mary agenda

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The regular meeting of the Lake Mary City Commission will be held this Thursday evening. One last minute change has been announced.

A number of residents had planned to appear to speak on Ordinance 787 scheduled to be heard. In order to accommodate the citizens, the city had moved the item high on the agenda.

This morning however, the rezoning application for certain property located in the Hills of Lake Mary had been withdrawn at the request of the applicant. The city has subsequently announced that the matter will be dropped and not brought up for consideration at the meeting.

With this one exception, as of earlier this week, the following items are listed on the meeting's agenda:

- Call to order — ceremonial matters
- Citizen Participation
- Report of city manager (see below)
- Report of mayor — Proclamation of Law Week
- Reports of commissioners and city attorney
- Ordinance 788 — 2nd reading — Amending code of ordinances to reduce the qualifying period for candidates running for city commission.
- Public hearing — Street lighting assessments, Manderly Subdivision. NOTE: If the special assessment is approved, the commission will adjourn and convene as the Board of Equalization to hear and consider any and all complaints as to the special assessment, to equalize and adjust such special assessment, approve and confirm the assessment roll so equalized. The Board of Equalization will then adjourn and the regular city commission meeting will be continued.

• Resolution 542 — Street lighting assessment — Manderly subdivision.

• Public hearing — Final subdivision with variances for Baytree Center, Waymont Development Corp., applicant and owner.

• Emergency Ordinance 789 — Requiring final subdivisions and site plans in Crystal Lake Basin to be approved by the City Commission.

• Resolution 543 — Approving sale of stock of Western Waste Industries to U.S.A. Waste Services, Inc.

• Request for six month extension between Preliminary Subdivision and Final Subdivision for Heathrow International Business Center, Mark Evans, Pizzuti Development, applicant.

• Adjournment.

As of early this week, the following items were listed for discussion in the city manager's report:

- Request commission direction on request from Home Builders Association to locate signs in right-of-way during Parade of Homes scheduled from April 21 to May 5, 1996.
- Request commission approve summer recreation program.
- Additional information.

The Lake Mary city commission meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the commission chambers of city hall, 100 N. Country Club Road.

years, upon completion of the excavation.

Even with that amount, some residents in the area surrounding the pit told commissioners it would not be enough to cover the cost of rebuilding the area.

In addition to requesting the pit expansion, the pit developers, Sid Vihlen and Ben Benham, also requested an extension of the authorization permit from two years to four. That was also denied by the commission. The decision was reportedly made to allow time for the removal of dirt which was still available in the original pit, estimated at 850,000 cubic yards.

Other requirements specified by the commission were that Vihlen and Benham provide a water truck on-site or central irrigation system for erosion control, and matters regarding berms, to be located near adjacent property lines, were to be grassed by no later than March 1, 1996.

On March 29, Seminole County Development Review Manager Glenn Semanisin sent a letter to Vihlen.

"On February 17, 1996, the previous borrow pit approval lapsed, and you are now operating under the terms and conditions listed above (in the letter)," he wrote. "On Monday, March 25, a site visit revealed that the berm grassing and water truck/central irrigation requirements have not been fulfilled."

He continued, "A review of our files has found that an increased bond has not been posted for the project."

As a result, he directed Vihlen, "to submit a bond in the amount of $100,000, complete the grassing of the berms and provide a water truck or central irrigation system within 14 days of receipt of this letter."

"Failure to comply with this request," he added, "may result in the imposition of a fine of $100 per day for each day of continued violation."

As of Monday of this week, no bond has been received.

Yesterday, Semanisin said the decision on when to actually begin imposing the $100 fine on Vihlen and Benham will begin will be made by the Code Enforcement Board, probably at their next hearing.

"I've sent my men out to the site to post notices," he said, "and Vihlen has not responded to any of my communications on the matter."

Magic equal season record

ORLANDO — Shaquille O'Neal and Aronie Hardaway scored 26 points apiece as the Orlando Magic equaled a franchise record for wins in a season with a 113-95 victory that damaged Washington's playoff hopes.

The Bullets, who had a seven-game winning streak snapped, fell two games behind Miami in the race for the eighth and final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference with three games to go.

Dennis Scott made four 3-pointers and scored 20 for Orlando, which bounced back from Sunday's subpar road performance against Milwaukee to improve to 36-4 at home and match last season's 57 victories.

O'Neal finished with 18 rebounds and Hardaway had eight assists.

AROUND THE STATE

Dolphins sign linemen

MIAMI — The Miami Dolphins on Tuesday signed free agent offensive linemen Cal Dixon, a four-year New York Jets player, and Elbert Belts, a newcomer to the NFL.

Dixon, 6-4, 302 pounds, played in 13 games last season with 12 starts, 11 at center and one at guard. The 26-year-old Merritt Island native and four-year starter at the University of Florida was drafted by the Jets in 1992, playing 56 games in his four-year NFL career.

Belts, 24, was waived by the Dallas Cowboys before training camp in 1995. The 6-3, 312-pound, Bloomington, Ill. native played four years for Illinois State University.

ELSEWHERE

Raines activated by Yankees

NEW YORK — The New York Yankees activated outfielder Tim Raines from the disabled list and replaced him with pitcher Mark Hutton.

Hutton was placed in the 15-day DL with a strained right groin muscle.

Bulls set wins record

MILWAUKEE — The Chicago Bulls won their 70th game, breaking the 1871-72 Los Angeles Lakers' record of 69 wins in a season.

The Bulls shot just 39 percent and needed a scoreless final four minutes from the Bucks to get past lowly Milwaukee, 86-80. Michael Jordan led the Bulls with 22 points.

Flyers soar past Lightning

PHILADELPHIA — Eric Lindros and Pat Falloon each had a goal and two assists as the Philadelphia Flyers made Tampa Bay's playoff debut one to forget, beating the Lightning 7-3 to take the first game in a best-of-7 playoff series.

Trailing 6-0 with eight minutes left in the second period, the Lightning, playing the first playoff game in their four-year history, made it respectable with goals by Jason Wiemer, Michael Anderson and John Cullen.

Game 2 of the series is Thursday night.

Klesko powers Braves

ATLANTA — Ryan Klesko hit his seventh homer, a two-run drive in the second inning, that sparked the Atlanta Braves past the reeling Florida Marlins 5-2 Tuesday night.

Klesko, who didn't hit his seventh home run last season until June 28, connected for a 405-foot drive off Kevin Brown (0-3).

Florida has lost three straight and has scored only 30 runs while beginning the season 4-10.

Sieve Avery (1-1) allowed both runs and six hits in 5 2-3 innings, walking five, hitting a batter and striking out five.

Mark Wohlers pitched a perfect ninth for his third save after Brad Clontz and Greg McMichael retired seven consecutive batters.

Gary Sheffield hit a solo homer in the third, and Chipper Jones gave Atlanta a 3-1 lead in the fifth, driving home Marquis Grissom.

Devon White hit an RBI single in the sixth.

Atlanta added two runs in the seventh on a Mark Lemke RBI double and Jones followed with a run-scoring single.

Close game goes Rams' way on Senior Night

By GARY GOATOAM

LAKE MARY — Senior Nick Alexander scattered five hits and four walks over six innings Tuesday to lead Lake Mary to a 2-1 win over Deltona on Senior Night at Lake Mary high school.

Before the game, the Rams honored Alexander along with senior teammates Carey Hobbs, Mike Buky, Nick Sosa, Luis Rivera, Jason Yero, Robert Vessey, Shawn Savage and Ryan Mau.

"This group of seniors never gives up," said Lake Mary coach Allan Tuttle. "They always hustle, and they are always battling. It was a pleasure to be around this group, and I'm going to miss them."

In the top of the first inning, Deltona set out to spoil the night for Lake Mary. Chris Thompson drew a lead-off walk for the Wolves, took second on a sacrifice bunt, advanced to third on a sacrifice fly, and scored to make the tally 1-0 on a single by Christian Morales.

Deltona had a runner on third base with one out in the fourth inning, but a ground out and a strikeout ended the threat. The Wolves had runners on first and second with no outs and loaded the bases with a two-out walk, but Alexander stuck out three of the last four batters he faced in the inning to end the threat.

Mau got Lake Mary started in the fifth inning with a one-out walk before Jimmy Smith came on to run for him. Smith took second on a passed ball, reached third on a wild pitch, and knotted the tally 1-1 on another passed ball. Hobbs and Buky followed with consecutive walks, and Shawn St. Dennis drew a two-out walk to load the bases. Hobbs then put the Rams ahead for good at 2-1 on an error.

"The luck finally went the other way for us tonight," Tuttle said, referring to the fact that the Rams have lost several one-run games this season. "Nick pitched a great game, and he has pitched that way all year. He's a gutsy pitcher who gets the job done."

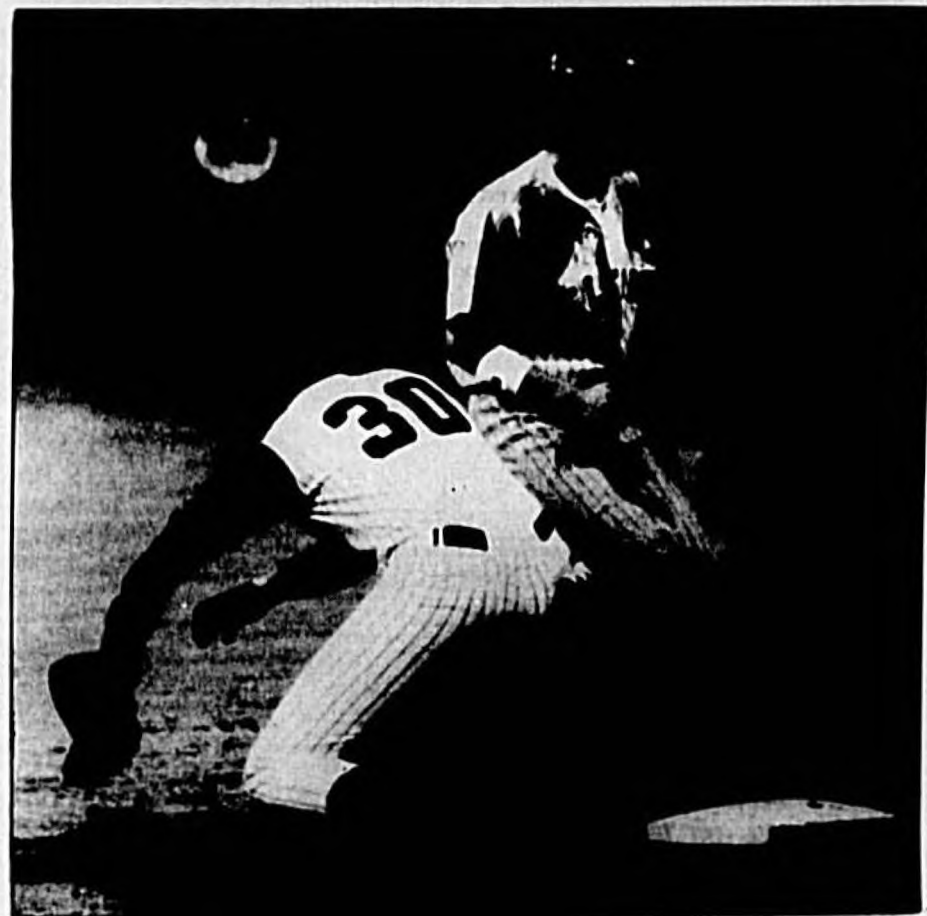

Hobbs, Buky and Smith each had one hit for Lake Mary, while St. Dennis walked three times. Hobbs, Buky, Sosa, Rivera and Mau each drew one walk in the game. Alexander, who recorded eight strikeouts in the game, improved his record to 6-3.

Lake Mary (15-11) hosts Mainland today at 7 p.m.

Mike Buky (above, left) and Nick Sosa (No. 30, right) were two of the nine seniors honored by Lake Mary High School on Senior Night Tuesday. Buky had one of the Rams' three hits and also drew a walk, while Sosa walked once as Lake Mary edged a tough Deltona nine 2-1. The Rams will host Mainland tonight before closing the regular season with a game at Boone on Friday. The Class 6A-District 4 Tournament will start next Monday at Lyman High School.

Prime meals, on the double

Quick recipes replace fast food habit

By MARIALIBA CALTA
NEA Food Editor

I feel the need to be brief here, as the subject at hand is quick meals. Cookbooks for fast food (home style) keep pouring in, and I can do nothing but stand and applaud. The families of yesteryear were probably just as busy as we are today (can't you just picture yourself doing all your laundry BY HAND?), but they most certainly didn't dash around as much, sprinting from work to school to evening meetings and children's sports events.

Now, we can all throw up our hands and give in: We can use the local drive-thru as our kitchen and eat in our cars, but that is expensive, repetitive and unhealthy. Or we can arm ourselves with some quick recipes, and produce reasonable meals on the fly.

Here are some books to help you do so: Perla Meyers' "Spur of the Moment Cook" (William Morrow, 1994), Sarah Fritschner's "Express Lane Cookbook" (Chapters Publishing, 1995) and "The Eating Well Rush Hour Cookbook" (Eating Well Books, 1994).

The "Express Lane" is probably going to give you the easiest, quickest recipes for weeknight dinners with the family, while Perla Meyers offers slightly more sophisticated dishes, perfect for feeding weeknight company or a last-minute, special-occasion meal. The "Rush Hour" cookbook is a combination, offering full menus (with helpful timetables) and an emphasis on low-fat cookery. All three books are in constant use at our house; our first line of defense against the drive-thru lane.

Look at it this way, you may have to clean up the kitchen, but that's easier than cleaning out the car.

LINGUINE WITH SPICY SHRIMP AL'AJILLO

6 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
2 small dried red chili peppers, broken
1 pound medium shrimp, peeled (see note)
4 large garlic cloves, peeled and sliced
Coarse salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste
1/2 pound imported dry linguine (see note)
1/4 cup finely minced fresh Italian parsley

Bring a large pot of salted water to boil.

Meanwhile, heat 4 tablespoons of the oil in a large heavy skillet over medium heat. Add the chili peppers and cook until they darken; remove them and discard. Add the shrimp and cook until they just turn pink. Add the garlic and cook for 30 seconds longer. Season with salt and pepper and set aside.

Drop the pasta into the boiling water and cook until just tender, or to taste. Drain well and return to the pot. Add the remaining 2 tablespoons olive oil, the shrimp and parsley. Toss gently and taste to correct seasoning. Serve immediately.

Note: According to Meyers, you don't have to devein the shrimp; she says it only makes them lose their juices during cooking. I would make this amount for 4 as a first course, and consider that it serves 2 to 3 adults with healthy appetites as a main course.

Yield: 4 servings (see note, above).

— Recipe from "Spur of the Moment Cook," by Perla Meyers (William Morrow, 1994).

QUICK CHICKEN CURRY

1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1/2 cup chopped scallions (green onion) or regular onion
2 garlic cloves, peeled and minced
1 tablespoon ground coriander
1 teaspoon ground cumin
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground turmeric
1 28-ounce can tomatoes, with juices
4 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves

Heat oil in a large skillet over medium heat; add the chopped scallions and garlic, and cook until softened, about 15 minutes. Add coriander, cumin, salt and turmeric, and cook, stirring, for 1 to 2 minutes.

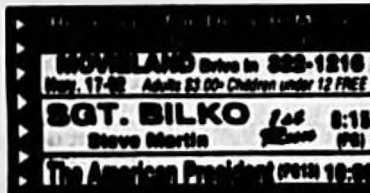

Add tomatoes, chopping them into small pieces as you add them, along with their juice. Simmer, uncovered, for 5 minutes.

Add the chicken, cover and simmer for 15 minutes, or until the insides have lost all trace of pink. Serve with tomato sauce spooned over top.

Yield: 4 servings.

LAMB AND RICE CASSEROLE

2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 onion, peeled and minced
2 teaspoons ground cumin
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground cayenne pepper
1 pound ground lamb or turkey
1 14-ounce can crushed tomatoes
1 14-to-16 ounce can (about 2 cups) beef broth

1/3 cup dried currants or raisins
1 cup raw long-grain white rice
Salt, to taste
Crumbled feta or grated Parmesan cheese

Heat oil over medium heat in large skillet or Dutch oven. Add onion, cumin, cinnamon and cayenne and cook until onion is soft, about 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, cook lamb or turkey in a medium-size dish in the microwave or in a medium skillet over medium heat, stirring occasionally to break up clumps. Drain all fat. Add meat to the skillet over the seasoning, along with the tomatoes, beef broth, currants (or raisins), rice and salt. Bring to a boil over high heat, reduce heat to low, cover and simmer gently until rice is cooked, about 20 minutes. Serve topped with crumbled feta cheese or grated Parmesan.

Yield: 4 servings.
— Recipe from "Express Lane Cookbook," by Sarah Fritschner (Chapters Publishing, 1995).

New mothers deserve a break

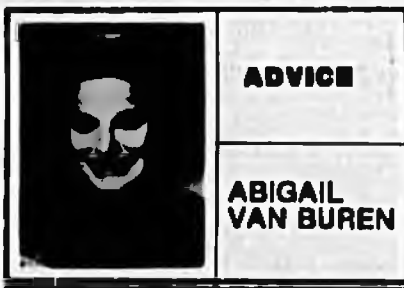

DEAR ABBY: I am concerned about the mothers who are released so quickly from the hospital after childbirth — often as soon as 24 hours after delivery.

My daughter just had her first baby, and after a difficult delivery and complications, they sent her home after three days. Once she was home, she had to tend her infant, breast-feed every two hours, take a sitz bath every four hours and sleep when possible. Well-meaning friends and relatives who wanted to see the baby rang her phone and doorbell constantly.

When I had my babies 20 years ago, we had four- or five-day hospital stays, and these stays provided something we don't have today — controlled visiting hours. Guests could come, see the baby, give you a few hugs and go home. Now, the new mom has to answer the door and telephone and entertain people who were not considerate enough to phone and ask if Mom wanted company.

Some friends and relatives were more considerate. They called ahead, brought food, ran errands, and sent notes and gifts.

The first couple of weeks are usually hectic for new moms, so Abby, please tell these well-meaning people to never "drop in" to see the new baby. Call ahead to see how things are going, and if you set up a time for a visit, please be on time.

CONCERNED GRANDMOTHER
DEAR GRANDMOTHER: Thank you for a valuable letter. And may I add when you visit a new mother, please don't stay too long. Some folks feel that because they had to drive an hour there and an hour back, they are entitled to stay for at least three hours.

DEAR ABBY: I travel frequently, both as part of my job and for pleasure. I have stayed in many really nice motels and hotels and have yet to figure out one thing I have found to be very annoying.

Why do the housekeepers tuck in the sides of the top sheet and blanket?

If I'm staying at a hotel, the last thing I want to do is remake my bed — and when I turn the bed down, both the top and bottom sheets come out. This is infuriating.

I have told the staff at the check-out desk, and they look at me like I'm a bit daft. I'd appreciate it if you would publish this with an answer, if you can get one.

RUTH ANNE YOUNG, JONESBORO, ILL.

DEAR RUTH ANNE: Any traveler who has ever had to tear a bed apart in order to get into it will understand your fury.

According to a spokesperson for the Peninsula Beverly Hills Hotel, the "old school" of thought is that tucking in the top sheet and blanket projects an image of neatness and cleanliness. In many upscale hotels, however, "turndown service" is provided — which includes not only removing the spread and turning down the bed, but chocolate on the pillow, closing the drapes, dimming the lights and replenishing the towels.

Malnutrition, mutant viruses linked by data

By LAURAN NERGAARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Malnutrition might help viruses mutate into forms dangerous enough to sicken the well-fed too, a finding of animal research that experts say will change forever the way they view nutrition and disease.

The studies suggest "we are our brother's keeper because we're affected by what happens" in the malnourished, said Agriculture Department nutritionist Orville Levander, who called the research "revolutionary."

The mouse studies, performed by Dr. Melinda Beck of the University of North Carolina, may help explain some of the emerging diseases now hitting people, particularly in developing countries.

"We have in lots of the world areas where people are malnourished, and in addition to being a social problem, it may turn out these people are vessels for new viruses to emerge," virologist Eteban Domingo of Madrid's Universidad Autonoma warned Tuesday. "This is dramatic and we should make the population aware."

Beck was puzzled when the normally harmless coxsackie virus that infects most people worldwide caused a life-threatening heart infection in some children in China.

People living in parts of China have year-round deficiencies of the important nutrient selenium — but the cardiac infections mysteriously hit only seasonally. China now fights the problem with selenium supplements, but Beck began probing whether other factors helped turn a simple virus into an occasional killer.

Last year, she reported the first such link with nutrition, finding that normal coxsackie mutated to become deadly once inside selenium-deprived mice.

Now she has taken that research further, infecting healthy mice with the new strain that evolved inside their malnourished cousins. The healthy mice could fight off normal coxsackie but not the new strain. Selenium isn't the magical nutrient — it happened in mice who ate too little vitamin E too, Beck will report today at the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology meeting here.

She genetically tested the virus in four different experiments to see if the evolution was random, but the same six mutations occurred every time.

People probably experience the same effects, as do other viruses, said virologist Dr. Stephen Morse of Rockefeller University. If so, it would mean that catching a virus from the person sitting next to you could be a lot more dangerous if that person were malnourished — even if you were healthy.

Now doctors must look for further evidence in emerging diseases that suddenly attack people, Morse said. At least 29 new or newly evolved diseases have emerged in the last two decades.

For example, measles struck African children last year in a bizarre way, causing unusual immunity problems and mystifying doctors. Maybe malnutrition played a role, he speculated.

"This is an entirely new way of looking at host factors," he said.

Viruses already have great "genetic plasticity" because they reproduce so fast and don't have the mechanism found in most organisms' cells to correct the inevitable errors or mutations, Domingo said.

And whenever the immune system begins fighting viral infections, the body experiences "oxidative stress," a kind of genetic damage that antioxidants fight, added Ernst Peterhans of the University of Bern.

If viruses experience oxidative damage at the same time they're mutating on their own, "it offers an opportunity for new viruses to emerge very frequently," Domingo explained.

Beck now is studying whether the flu virus mutates the same way, and this fall will try to determine just what is a protective level of selenium and vitamin E.

Blood in urine is cause for concern

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

(which Brazilians call the "divine tree"), it is believed to strengthen the body's defenses and has been used to treat a wide range of afflictions in some countries. I am not aware that it cures anything but toenail fungus. The tea is available in most health-food stores. Here is how to use it:

Brew LaPacho tea as you would for drinking purposes. Let the tea steep until the beverage is comfortably hot. Then soak the toenails in the tea, until it is tepid, usually 15 to 20 minutes.

The process should be repeated three or four times a day until the desired results are achieved. The brew can be reheated and reused several times before being discarded.

© 1996 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

DEAR DR. GOTT: During a physical examination in 1993 I was found to have hematuria. This happened again last week. My doctor says not to be concerned. Well, I am. Is the concern justified?

DEAR READER: Unexplained bleeding in any part of the body is always cause for concern. You are completely correct. Hematuria (blood in the urine) can reflect the presence of kidney stones, urinary infection, polyps (and other benign growths) and cancer of the urinary tract.

In my opinion, you should be referred to a urologist, who will perform a urine culture, an IVP (kidney X-ray) and — perhaps — cystoscopy (examination of the lower urinary tract and bladder).

Although some instances of hematuria are not associated with any recognizable disease, those that are should be treated appropriately, depending on the cause.

Because I mentioned urinary infection as one possible cause, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Bladder and Urinary Tract Infections." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 32-year-old female. Four years ago, while under a lot of stress, I suffered from constant constipation. I would go four or five days without a bowel movement, followed by a whole day of cramps and diarrhea. Now I have just the opposite. There's almost constant diarrhea with very little warning. What's going on? I really don't want an upper or lower GI.

DEAR READER: You may not want intestinal X-rays ("upper and lower GI"), but you should have them. While most cases of constipation or diarrhea are directly related to diet (inadequate fluid, rich foods and so forth), bowel changes such as yours could indicate a treatable problem, including an ulcer or colitis.

The fact that your intestinal workings appear to be highly influenced by your emotional state suggests that your symptoms may be caused by irritable bowel syndrome, a common, harmless and annoying condition, marked by gas, poor digestion and constipation or diarrhea.

Before diagnosing IBS, your physician must first exclude other, more serious, diagnoses — hence, the X-ray tests.

If you have IBS, you may be helped by modifying your diet (to avoid foods that aggravate your problem) and using a stool-bulking agent, such as Metamucil.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Lead from length?

By Phillip Alder

Most bridge experts come from a scientific background, none more so than Dr. George Rosenkranz. He is arguably the leading scientist in Mexico. He and his team put Syntex Corporation on the pharmaceutical map with their synthesis of, for example, the contraceptive pill and of cortisone.

Dr. Rosenkranz is definitely Mexico's leading bridge player. And he is especially renowned for the fineness of his rhinal organ for finding the best opening leads. He certainly smelt out the best attack on this deal.

North, via his transfer bid and jump to three no-trump, offered South a choice of games.

Suppose West leads the club three. After East wins the first trick with the king, then whatever he returns, South will get nine tricks via two spades, four hearts, one diamond and two clubs.

If West opens with the diamond two, South takes East's jack with his king and drives out the heart ace. Because of South's good spots, the defense cannot get more than two diamond tricks. Again the contract makes.

However, Dr. Rosenkranz started with the unorthodox spade eight! The declarer won with dummy's king and played a diamond to his king. After winning with the ace, West returned his other spade. And when in with the heart ace, West switched to a club. Before South could collect nine tricks, the defenders had five: two spades, one heart, one diamond and one club.

To make the contract after a spade lead, declarer must win with dummy's king and lead a low club toward the queen — a double-dummy play (a line only likely to be found if declarer can see all 52 cards).

HOROSCOPE

Your Birthday
Thursday, April 18, 1996

Your past experiences have taught you how to build upon firm foundations. You will continue to do this in the coming year, and as a result, you will have more opportunities to succeed.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Stabilizing influences should prevail today in areas and circumstances that have been disruptive lately, particularly in your financial affairs. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If an important matter requires your personal touch today, disengage yourself from involvements with others and make this issue your priority.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might require solitude today in order to perform your best. Try to work alone in a place free from outside interference.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Social involvements with familiar old friends will provide enjoyment today. You might not feel as comfortable in the company of newer, more casual acquaintances.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A person with whom you frequently disagree might find much to admire in you today. This could mark the beginning of a new kind of relationship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try not to let yourself be overwhelmed by details today. You will fare better if you comprehend the big picture instead of just a few brush strokes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If someone tries to interest you in a business proposal today, let him or her make the first move. Your position could be weakened if you appear too eager.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If your mate opts to take the lead today, accept a supporting role. As long as the outcome is mutually beneficial, it will not matter who directs the project.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do yourself a favor today by getting up from the couch and becoming physically active. Seek an activity which will take you outside.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Associating with friends whose exuberance is infectious will prove a good prescription for a fun day today. Make an effort to avoid dullards.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You can draw from a wide range of strengths today, and any of these can help you to complete tedious endeavors. Pace yourself if you want to run a good race.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) When dealing with others today, your manner will put them at ease. They will sense your sincerity and feel compelled to treat you in a similar manner.
