Hart Surges Into Lead In Florida

By Laurence McGullian
UPI Political Reporter

With only three days until the "Super Tuesday" showdown, Gary Hart has surged into the lead in the Florida and Massachusetts primaries and has made the Alabama caucus a toss-up, according to a poll released Saturday.

A Washington Post-ABC News poll showed Hart overtaking Mondale's once-commanding lead in delegate-rich Florida, where the survey found him holding a 42 percent to 31 percent lead.

The survey said the battle in Alabama had narrowed to a 34 percent to 29 percent difference, with Hart closing the margin.

In Massachusetts, Hart held a commanding 50 percent to 23 percent lead over the former vice president.

The poll accurately detected the massive last-minute voter swing to Hart in the New Hampshire primary.

In the last contest before the "Super Tuesday" combination of primaries and caucuses in nine states, Wyoming Democrats today hold caucuses to determine 12 delegates to the party's national convention in San Francisco in July.

Hart, from neighboring Colorado, is considered an overwhelming favorite in the contest.

Friday, he received the first endorsement by a former Democratic candidate when Sen. Ernest Hollings of South Carolina backed Hart — eight days after Hollings withdrew from the race.

In Atlanta Friday, Mondale made an emotional appeal to younger voters, telling an audience at Emory University law school that his faltering campaign should be judged by "my record, my values and my vision" rather than the "gimmicks" and "tinsel" he claims are behind Hart's success.

Gary Hart

Jackson: Hart, Mondale The Same

By United Press International

Jesse Jackson, campaigning across Florida for the "Super Tuesday" primary, said Friday "there's hardly a difference" between former Vice President Walter Mondale and Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo.

Stopping in Orlando, Jackson hammered away at the two top contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination for their refusal to commit themselves to a woman running mate or agree to slash the military budget.

"With the contest between Hart and Mondale, they're so close, on close inspection there's hardly a difference," Jackson told about 750 students at Valencia Community College. Jackson also campaigned in West Palm Beach and Tampa.

Jackson's Florida campaign chairman, Dr. Henry Lyons of St. Petersburg, said Jackson will "do well" in Florida, which like Georgia and Alabama, holds its primary March 13th. Lyons set his sights on a third-place Jackson finish, behind Mondale and Hart, and said he hopes the civil rights leader can get 20 percent of the total votes cast.

"We should come in third. Fourth or below would disappoint me," Lyons said.

Meanwhile, a suit filed by supporters of Jesse Jackson to force a secret ballot in the Michigan Democratic caucuses — which they said favored Mondale — has been dismissed by a circuit judge.

Judge Carolyn Stiel Friday dismissed a suit filed against Secretary of State Richard Austin by activist Zolton Ferency, a Jackson supporter, saying the secret ballots were not tantamount to an election and did not have to be open.

Delegates

First Hart Supporter May Get Lost In Shuffle

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's first and only official Gary Hart supporter, on record for weeks before the Colorado senator's campaign gained momentum, may lose standing as Hart workers organize.

Fred Donnelly of Casselberry was the only person to qualify for the presidential preference primary ballot as a Hart delegate for the 5th Congressional District (all of Seminole, and parts of Orange and Lake counties). Hart approved his candidacy. He's still on the ballot and will remain so.

But former supporters of Gov. Reubin Askew, now attempting to consolidate a campaign for Hart in Central Florida, are preparing to tell voters in both Orange and Seminole that votes for Askew delegates are votes for Hart and they should skip voting for Donnelly.

Susan Green, speaking for Terry Beckett, a past Askew coordinator for Orange and now on the Hart payroll, said it would be too confusing to voters to tell them to vote once for Donnelly, the official Hart delegate, and twice for Cranston delegates — Bill Waack and Elaine Waack — who have pledged themselves to Hart — and once again for an Askew alternate delegate in the 5th district.

"Donnelly has agreed to this," Ms. Green said.

However, Donnelly contacted at his Casselberry home, said there has been a misunderstanding somewhere.

"I must not have understood. I didn't know this was what they have planned. I just don't know," he said.

Later Friday Donnelly said, however, that he had been convinced this was what Hart wanted and he would step aside.

"The important thing is for Hart to win and if it helps for me to step aside, I will," he said.

Ms. Green said the new Hart team is well aware that two of the Askew delegates for the 5th district — State Reps. Fran Carlton and Alonzo Reddick — and alternate delegate, Seminole School Board member Roland Williams, have said they are uncommitted. Mrs. Carlton and Reddick said they will remain uncommitted and Williams has said he is studying the positions of all the presidential candidates before he decides who he will support at the San Francisco convention if he is elected. Betty Bazemore, the other Askew delegate could not be reached for comment.

"But by convention time we are sure they will support Hart," Ms. Green said. "They just can't say so now."

Meanwhile, Seminole County's election office is ready for the presidential preference primary

Longwood Woman Shot, Killed; Suspect Sought

A 30-year-old Longwood woman was shot and killed Friday by a man she was arguing with outside a Casselberry greenhouse where she worked.

Carol Keith of Lake Gem Drive was killed at about 4:20 p.m. Friday as she sat in the driver's seat of her AMC Concorde at Vaughan, Inc., a nursery at Button Road and Sunset Drive, Casselberry police report.

Witnesses reported seeing Ms. Keith arguing with a dark-skinned Hispanic man who shot her and fled in an older model, blue vehicle. The suspect is reported to be about 6 feet tall and of medium build.

The motive for the shooting is not known, according to Casselberry police, who are conducting the investigation into the shooting.

A police dispatcher could not say how many shots were fired, where the victim was hit or the type of weapon used. Ms. Keith's body was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, for an autopsy. The Sanford Crime Lab is processing physical evidence taken from the shooting scene.

Deadly Force:

When Does A Cop Shoot To Kill?

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

When Seminole County sheriff's deputy John Butler shot a fleeing suspect in the leg March 3, his action was within Florida laws regulating the use of deadly force by lawmen. And according to Sheriff John Polk, Butler adhered to Polk's only departmental addition to those state laws...he used common sense.

"The state law speaks for itself," Polk said. "Basically, the law says if a felon attempts to flee or is a threat to the officer or someone else, even if the officer has not seen the suspect with a weapon, a fleeing felon is fair game."

Butler, 34, with warrants from Seminole, Flagler and Lake counties in hand, was attempting to arrest Meakel Ashley, 31, of Palmetto Ave., Sanford, on grand theft charges related to asphalt pavement scams, where he allegedly received payment to pave several Seminole County residents' driveways and parking lots, but never did the work. The charges from the other counties were similar.

When Butler with his .357-caliber handgun drawn approached the suspect's car and ordered him to stay in the vehicle, which was stopped on Airport Boulevard, Sanford, at about 5:33 p.m. March 3, Ashley allegedly jumped out of his car and began to struggle with Butler, according to the deputy's report of the incident.

During the fight Ashley reportedly tried to take Butler's gun and when the suspect broke away and ran, Butler, a plainclothes officer who has been a sheriff's deputy for eight years, fired a shot into the man's left leg.

Ashley was jailed after his wound was treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford. In addition to theft and fraud charges he was charged with battery on an officer and is being held in the Seminole County jail without bond set for some of the charges against him.

"Whether one of my men fires on a suspect or doesn't fire depends on his evaluation of the situation. That's where common sense comes in," Polk said. "I don't believe in warning shots. When you have to shoot you don't want to waste a round. Whether they shoot to kill or shoot to wound depends on their evaluation of the situation at the time."

Seminole Band In Show Kick-Off

A concert by the 55-member Seminole Community Band Sunday afternoon will help kick-off a week-long silver anniversary celebration of the three-day Winter Park Sidewalk Art Festival to be held March 16-18.

The band will play following dedication ceremonies at 2 p.m. for "Emily," a bronze water sculpture by the late Albin Polasek commemorating the festival's 25th anniversary.

Artist Don Reynolds designed and constructed the base with installation of the pump and other equipment by The Aquarium and Fountain Shop, Casselberry.

A "Potpourri in the Park" will be presented beginning at 7 p.m. Tuesday featuring the Navy Stage Band, Seminole Dance Company, the Pace Setters (clogging), and an all woman new wave band.

This year's festival will feature exhibits by 247 artists and craftsmen from 29 states.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Support Mushrooms For Crucifix Ban Protest

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — A protest by Roman Catholic students over a government ban on crucifixes in classrooms gained support, with students across the country sending delegations to the school in rural Garwolin.

Church spokesmen said Friday high-ranking members of the Polish episcopate planned to meet government officials in an attempt to settle the dispute, which in a few days has grown from a purely local issue to one of national concern.

Delegations of students from towns across Poland arrived in Garwolin, a small town 40 miles southeast of Warsaw and two miles from Mietno, where hundreds of students of a state-run agricultural school staged a 14-hour sit-in Wednesday to protest the Communist regime's removal of crucifixes from their classrooms.

Other school sent messages of support to the students.

Bishop Jerzy Dabrowski, a key aide to Cardinal Jozef Glemp, traveled to Garwolin to get a first-hand report on the protest. A priest who sat in on the meeting said after Dabrowski heard the story in full, he "called it 'the war of the crucifixes,' and said it could spread all over the country."

But Communist officials, who closed the school indefinitely Thursday, indicated they would not budge on the protesters' chief demand for restoration of the classroom crosses.

Iran, Iraq At Standoff

LONDON (UPI) — Iran and Iraq reached an apparent stalemate in the battle for the Majnoon Island oilfields and Iran again demanded the overthrow of the Iraqi regime as a condition for peace in the 42-month Gulf war.

In the only action reported Friday, Iraq said it downed two Iranian Chinook helicopters near Majnoon, north of the key southern Iraqi port of Basra. United Press International correspondent Sajid Rizvi said in Baghdad.

Government sources in Baghdad said the latest fighting concentrated near Majnoon, an 80-square-mile man-made island 250 miles southeast of the Iraqi capital with estimated oil reserves in excess of 8 billion barrels.

Lebanon

Fighting Escalates; Peace Talks Monday

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Moslem militias and the Christian-led army clashed in the heaviest fighting for several days, underscoring the urgency of next week's talks in Switzerland to find peace for Lebanon's warring factions.

Lebanon's leaders made final preparations for the conference opening in Lausanne Monday, with the departure of Foreign Minister Elie Salem directly for Switzerland and the gathering of opposition leaders in Damascus, Syria.

President Amin Gemayel will follow on Sunday, officials said.

The heaviest fighting since a Monday cease-fire and the cancellation of the May 17 Israeli-Lebanese peace accord erupted Friday in the heart of Beirut, where Moslem militias fired on army units over the "Green Line" dividing the city.

The sniper and shellfire strayed to nearby Moslem and Christian neighborhoods, killing two people and wounding 14 others, and at least two shells exploded in the Manara district where the temporary U.S. Embassy is located.

Voice of Lebanon, the Christian radio station, said one person died and 13 others were wounded in east Beirut.

On the Moslem western side, a sniper's bullet killed a Lebanese journalist near the downtown frontline as he was leaving home for his office. One person suffered minor wounds and was taken to the American University Hospital.

The Christian radio said Moslem Shiite militias in Beirut's southern suburbs engaged army units stationed on a hillside in the suburb of Hadath with rocket-propelled grenades and anti-air weapons.

Exploding shells started a huge fire in the Faculty of Science building of Lebanese University in Hadath, but firemen extinguished the blaze in an hour.

Restitution Ordered For Motorcycle Theft

A Port St. Lucie man was ordered to pay $4,800 in restitution and placed on five years probation for the theft of a motorcycle.

Gary Bryant Stuckey, 33, was ordered by Circuit Judge Robert McGregor to pay Kevin Jacobs, of 850 Orienta Ave., Altamonte Springs, $4,800 for the theft and dismantling of Jacobs' 1965 Harley Davidson motorcycle. A boat taken at the time was recovered.

Stuckey, a mechanic, was told by McGregor to pay the amount within 90 days or spend 90 days in jail and still owe the amount.

According to the arrest report, Stuckey cut the chain securing the motorcycle to a post in the parking lot of the Creewood apartments on Orienta Avenue during early December and took the bike, boat, fuel and oil. Witnesses said they saw two men looking at the motorcycle and gave police a description of the van they drove away in.

Dec. 6, Jacob's neighbor, Tom Karper spotted the van in the parking lot of Pizza Hut in Casselberry. He called the Casselberry police who called an Altamonte Springs officer and Jacobs to the scene.

Stuckey was questioned after police saw motorcycle parts in the van. He said he bought the parts earlier in the day at a flea market. Jacobs was permitted to examine the parts and identified them as his, a report said.

Stuckey was arrested and charged with grand theft. Jacobs, a long-time rider of motorcycles, asked the court to have the restitution paid promptly so he could resume living in a lifestyle to which he was accustomed before the bike was taken.

For The Birds

Real Estate Investment Aims For Purple Martin Market

By Al Seladi Special to the Herald

As purple martins' return to Sanford, plant operations employee Bill Vincent plans to welcome the birds by installing more martin houses at CFRH.

The plan calls for a dozen houses, with 12 apartments each, to be erected at the beginning of Spring. Vincent will also experiment with PVC (polyvinyl chloride) tubing to make more martin houses.

A six-inch PVC will be sealed at one end and connected to a post. Vincent hopes the purple martins will use the tube for nesting, a change from the conventional martin houses.

Two houses, erected during groundbreaking ceremonies in January, 1981, are located on the west side of CFRH. The selected location for the new martin houses will be on the north side, facing West Seminole Blvd.

The north side is a wide open area, enabling the purple martins to easily land on their perch. The martin needs an area of 150 feet in circumference in order to land.

Another reason for the location is Lake Monroe, the habitat for the blind mosquito. Also known as a midge, the blind mosquito is a bothersome, non-biting pest.

"The purple martins' main diet is flying insects," said Vincent. "Blind mosquitoes are what they get around here."

How many blind mosquitoes can a purple martin eat? The Nature Society of Griggsville, terwards, the flock follows the scout. After settling down by April, the babies hatch in mid-May. By June, the flock migrates back to South America.

To welcome the purple martins' back to Sanford, Bill Vincent prepares to do a little house cleaning at CFRH.

In order to have the martins return the following year, Vincent said the house must be cleaned. He added that a door must be put up in front of the entrance to keep other birds from nesting and to prevent more dirt from entering.

In 1981, the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce erected the martin houses along Lake Monroe to attract the mosquito-eating purple martin. The plan was to combat the blind mosquitoes, which gathered at Lake Monroe and caused an inconvenience to area businesses.

The idea came from the town of Griggsville, which had a problem with biting mosquitos. The town installed the houses to attract the martins, and the plan was successful. Incidentally, Griggsville titles itself as the "Purple Martin Capitol of the world."

What does the purple martin look like?

Vincent describes them as "beautiful birds that are deep purple, almost black in color." The adult male is completely dark, whereas the young male has a white spot on its breast. The female has a white breast.

What are Vincent's feelings toward the purple martins' residence at CFRH?

"I wish I had 10,000 here all the time."

Laws Favor Malingerers

By Susan Ruel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Workers' compensation laws in the United States are widely abused, frequently with the encouragement of doctors, often making it more profitable for someone to stay off the job than to return to work, a new study discloses.

Malingers are rewarded and workers who recover quickly are penalized, according to Dr. Rodney K. Beals, head of orthopedics at Oregon Health Sciences University in Portland, Oregon.

In an article in the California Medical Association's Western Journal of Medicine, Beals said doctors frequently condone or encourage patients in milking the state compensation laws, which are similar throughout the United States.

Beals studied patients with back injuries at the Oregon Health Sciences University in Portland, Ore.

Back injuries are the biggest problem, he said, suggesting that many such injuries mysteriously become prolonged when a worker is collecting compensation.

"When the real income associated with continued disability approaches or exceeds that when working, any form of treatment is likely doomed to failure," the researcher said.

Beals said he found that those workers who appealed their compensation award ended up with twice as much money as those who did not appeal, even though the injuries were the same.

"Medical care should be medical," he said. "Inappropriate advocacy by treating physicians may be subtle and take several forms, such as continuing ineffective therapy, recommending vocational rehabilitation following minor injury, becoming a patient's 'representative' to a workers' compensation board, or advising a patient how to deal with legal counsel or insuring agencies."

The physician criticized doctors who prescribe treatment appropriate for acute back pain, such as drugs and inactivity, for injured workers suffering from chronic back pain, a distinctly different ailment requiring other forms of therapy.

For some reason, Beals said, workers with injuries to the legs and arms return to work according to the rate of physical recovery, but those with spinal problems are influenced by psychological factors.

Beals cited four flaws in workers' compensation laws: Financial compensation discourages return to work; the appeal process increases disability; an open claim inhibits return to work; and recovering patients are often prohibited from going back to work.

He likened the system to a dinosaur overloaded with armor plates, calling it a "cultural overgrowth ... detrimental to both injured humans and society."

Beals urged lawmakers, labor leaders, and business managers to try to overhaul the system and correct those features that "interfere with the return to work of injured workers."

'Feminism Not U.S. Export'

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The women of the world perform one-third of all paid labor and two-thirds of all paid and nonpaid work but receive only 10 percent of salaries and own only 1 percent of property, feminist leader Gloria Steinem says.

Steinem told an overflow crowd at San Diego State Thursday night women throughout the world, despite cultural differences, share a great many problems they are working to resolve.

"Feminism is not a U.S. export," said the co-founder of Ms. magazine.

In Japan, for example, feminists known as the "Pink Helms" have drawn attention by lying in front of airplanes carrying Japanese men on their way to "sex tours," Ms. Steinem said.

Egyptian women form underground railroad for women who have been raped, then disowned by their families and marked for death. Once the victims escape, European feminist help them establish new identities and find work, she said.

Monkeying Around

This secretive simian tries to demonstrate the hand is quicker than the eye as he stashes away snacks in an open-ended pipe in his cage at the Central Florida Zoo. It is a Capuchin monkey, a species found in the wild in Central and South America.

Excess Flesh Crippling, But Medicare Says Surgery Cosmetic

MIAMI (UPI) — A 65-year-old woman whose heavy, fleshy legs are so cumbersome she can not walk without pain has been denied Medicare payment for corrective surgery because the operation has been deemed "cosmetic."

Esperanza Martinez was ordered by her doctor to lose 100 pounds or risk crushing an already damaged knee. After a three-year, 800-calorie-a-day diet, she lost 65 pounds.

But the flesh that hangs from her deflated legs causes constant pain when she walks, the 198-pound seamstress said Friday.

"The skin between by legs is black from the constant friction. I get sores underneath the layers of skin on my stomach. It's very painful," she said.

The excess skin could be removed, but Medicare has refused to pay for the operation, which the government considers "cosmetic."

Medicare reviews such cases before surgery to notify patients in advance whether they are eligible for reimbursement. Ms. Martinez's request for prior approval was turned down twice, once by Medicare and once by Florida

Blue Cross-Blue Shield, which administers the state's Medicare plan.

"The patient is perfectly at liberty to proceed with the procedure as long as she is willing to bear the expense," her rejection letter stated.

Ms. Martinez, who lives in a two-bedroom apartment with her sister, brother-in-law and 89-year-old mother, said she could not afford the operation unless Medicare pays for it.

"Surgery would cost thousands," she said. "I would have to win a lottery to pay for it."

Her plastic surgeon, Dr. Irwin Lighterman, called the denial "ridiculous."

Other plastic surgeons said the case is typical.

"We get caught in a bind quite often that other specialists don't," said Dr. Daniel Kane, a plastic surgeon at Mount Sinai Medical Center in Miami Beach. "For instance, as people age, the eyelid skin will hang over their lashes and obstruct their vision. That is surgery we think is needed. But what I have to go through to get them approved..."

On Consumer Issues

Glenn 'Least Supportive' Of Democratic Candidates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A study of the consumer voting records of four Democratic presidential candidates finds Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, as the "least supportive" but each contender has "an Achilles' heel."

Nevertheless, "All four are far better than Ronald Reagan," who has cut federal consumer protection programs, said Joan Claybrook, president of the Ralph Nader-founded Public Citizen, a consumer group that conducted the study.

"Ronald Reagan has been the most anti-consumer president ever," Ms. Claybrook said Friday in releasing the study on Glenn, Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., former Vice President Walter Mondale and former Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota.

The study, "A Decade of Senate Votes," listed the four's consumer ratings as computed by Public Citizen.

Nader, asked at the news conference for an assessment of the four, rattled off their strengths and weaknesses and how they voted on specific issues.

Asked to assess Reagan, Nader nodded and said, "That's easy. Ronald Reagan is the most systematically, deliberately anti-consumer president in modern times."

The ratings were based on how they voted on selected issues in Congress. Jesse Jackson, the fifth Democratic presidential candidate, was not listed in the study since he has not served in the Senate or in any other public office.

They noted that Mondale missed 17 votes in 1976 because he was campaigning for the vice presidency.

'All...are far better than Ronald Reagan'

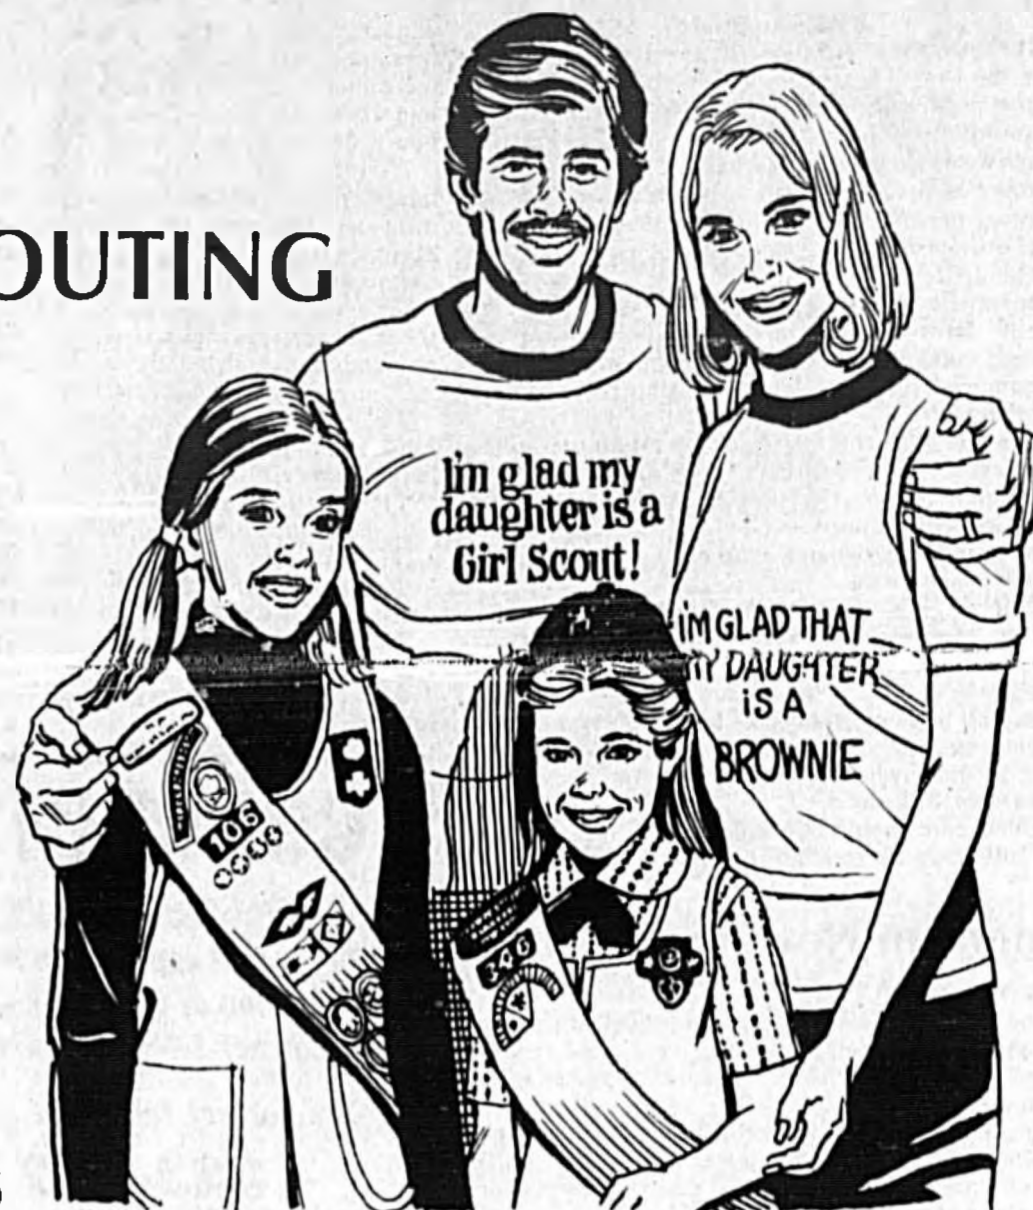

Glenn had the lowest ratings, ranging from a high of 58 percent in 1974 to a low of 35 percent in 1982.

"While John Glenn is clearly the least supportive of consumer programs, each of the other candidates, while largely pro-consumer, has an Achilles' heel in his consumer record," Ms. Claybrook said.

Here is a portion of the report's assessment of the four:

- Glenn: strong on retaining federal jurisdiction of occupational safety in small business and mixed record on environmental matters. He was criticized for voting for Reagan's budget and against trucking and airline deregulation.
- Hart: "Leadership against tax loopholes but a soft spot for the oil and gas industry and for farm subsidies. Strong support for the environment but voted to confirm former Interior Secretary James Watt."
- McGovern: Praised for "strong support for consumer representation, low-income consumers and regulatory procedures" but criticized for supporting "wasteful agricultural subsidies."
- Mondale: "Strong support for low-income consumers, health and safety regulatory programs, the environment, tax reform" but "favors wasteful agricultural subsidies."

State Has No Homework Guidelines

Q: Has there been any state directive to districts on the amount of homework students are assigned? It seems like the amount of homework had steadily decreased over the years, but has increased this school year.

A: There are no state guidelines on homework, although the amount and type of courses that are being mandated may make additional homework a necessity for many students. In expecting more of our students, as have been doing, it is not inappropriate to include an increase in homework assignments as well. I would hope that districts and schools are assigning more homework and also that parents are making sure that their children are completing these tasks. Interestingly, a number of districts have begun adopting policies on homework, the most recent example being Dade County. Schools there are being asked to provide varying amounts of homework increasing in amount by grade level—up to two hours daily for grades 9 through 12. I think parents, teachers and the students themselves realize the need for additional work. Such new programs as "Homework Hotlines" where students can contact teachers during evening hours for homework assistance are also helping students in this area. The educational improvements we have undertaken have shown that when we set goals of higher achievement and demand excellence from our students, they come through. Programs of increased homework can work as well to produce excellence in our schools.

SCHOOL TALK
with
Commissioner of Education
Ralph D. Turlington

Q: Florida's schools seem to be emphasizing academic excellence, but is this being done at the expense of those less talented students who may not be able to excel academically?

A: Our emphasis on excellence is for all students, not just those who may be academically superior. Through assessment testing at grades 3, 5, 8 and 10, for example, we use test data to help identify students who may be having academic difficulty. Those students who have difficulty mastering mathematics and communications skills may be placed in a program of compensatory education where they can receive special help in learning these skills. These students can benefit from smaller classes and more individualized instruction. Most school districts report that these two factors are the key to the success of this remedial program. Special materials such as high-interest, low-vocabulary books and teacher designed materials have also contributed to the success of the compensatory education program. Since it was begun in 1977, more than one million students have received special assistance at an average cost of $25.37 per student per year. During this same period, almost $200 million has been appropriated by the Legislature for the remedial program.

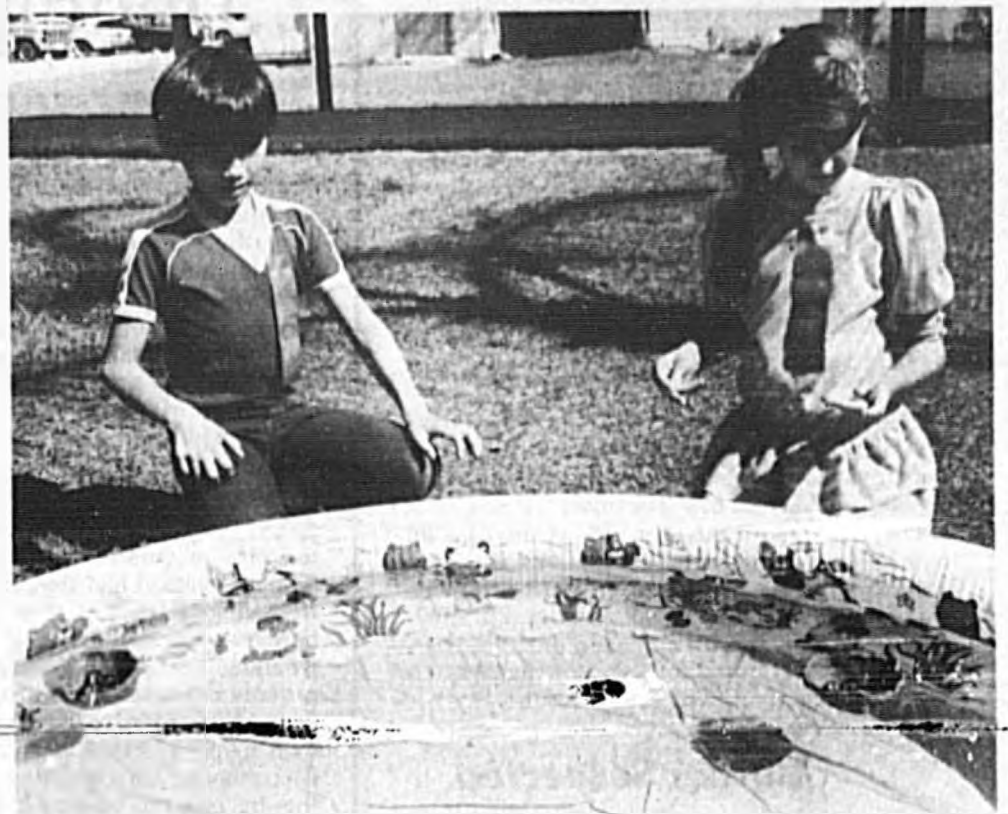

The allocation for the current school year is $32.8 million. By attempting to meet the special educational needs of all of Florida's students we hope that each of them can attain individual excellence.

Q: Do teachers have any direct state level input on decisions made regarding professional issues?

A: Yes they do. For example, in 1980 the Legislature created the Educational Standards Commission to serve as the voice of the teaching profession in matters such as teacher preparation, ethics, professional conduct and in-service. The Educational Standards Commission's 24 members include twelve teachers representing both public and private schools. The remaining membership is composed of deans of colleges of education, lay citizens, community college representatives and school board members.

The Commission meets monthly to address specific issues concerning teachers and reports directly to the State Board of Education, making recommendations and suggesting various policy options. Teachers who serve on the Commission serve three year terms and are confirmed by the Senate.

Simply Amazing

School Board Shuffling Students Around

After hearing little public protest, the Seminole County School Board voted unanimously this week to approve new attendance zones for the six elementary schools in the Sanford-Lake Mary area.

The new zones are those recommended by School Superintendent Robert Hughes and known as Plan A by the parent-teacher-school administrators committee that studied the issue for four months.

Of the 3,650 elementary students in the north end of the county, about 1,500 students will be sent to schools other than those they attended this year, Hughes said, adding that the new attendance zones should be kept in place for at least the next three years.

The plan calls for the new Hamilton Elementary School in Sanford to open for the 1984-85 school year in August with mostly students from the Sanford Grammar, Southside and Hopper schools which are to be closed at the end of this school year in June.

In addition, it calls for Pine Crest, now a kindergarten-through-third-grade school and Goldsboro, a kindergarten-fourth-and-fifth-grade school to become full K through 5 facilities.

The other schools affected are Idyllwild, Lake Mary Elementary and Wilson.

The zones for the schools are:

- Pine Crest will have students from the areas east of U.S. Highway 17-92 in what is presently the Goldsboro-Pine Crest zone up to 25th Street, plus Sunland Estates and Carriage Hill which was part of the Idyllwild district and Midway Park and Sanford-Lake Jessup which were part of the Lake Mary district.

- Lake Mary will lose Sanford-Lake Jessup area and Midway Park to Pine Crest; and Lockhart to Idyllwild; and Park Ridge and Shenandoah to Goldsboro.

- Goldsboro will have students living west of 17-92 to 13th Street, Park Ridge from Lake Mary and Hidden Lake Villas and Shenandoah from Idyllwild.

- Idyllwild will get the students from Rantoul Lane area to Interstate 4, Lockhart and Hidden Lake-Ramblewood while losing Sunland and Carriage Cove to Pine Crest and Hidden Lake Villas to Goldsboro.

- Wilson will have its same area except for the Rantoul Lane area to Interstate 4 where it will lose three students to Idyllwild.

- Hamilton will have students from Southside, Hopper and Sanford Grammar except for the area south of Third Street, west of U.S. 17-92.

At Wednesday night's board meeting at which the plan was adopted, a parent from the Hidden Lakes area objected to students being taken from Lake Mary school and sent to Idyllwild.

Cindy Dale, a Lake Mary Elementary School parent, said she would like to see children from Lockhart continue at Lake Mary school rather than having others from further into Sanford bused in.

She also suggested that the 15 students in Park Ridge be kept at Lake Mary school rather than bused to Goldsboro.

Some parents objected to students being taken from Pine Crest and sent to Hamilton. And Caroline Moore was "strongly against busing children all over town for racial balance."

But Who Would Want To Wear It?

KITCHENER, Ontario (UPI) — A widow says a bill collector has threatened to have her husband's body exhumed to repossess the suit he was buried in.

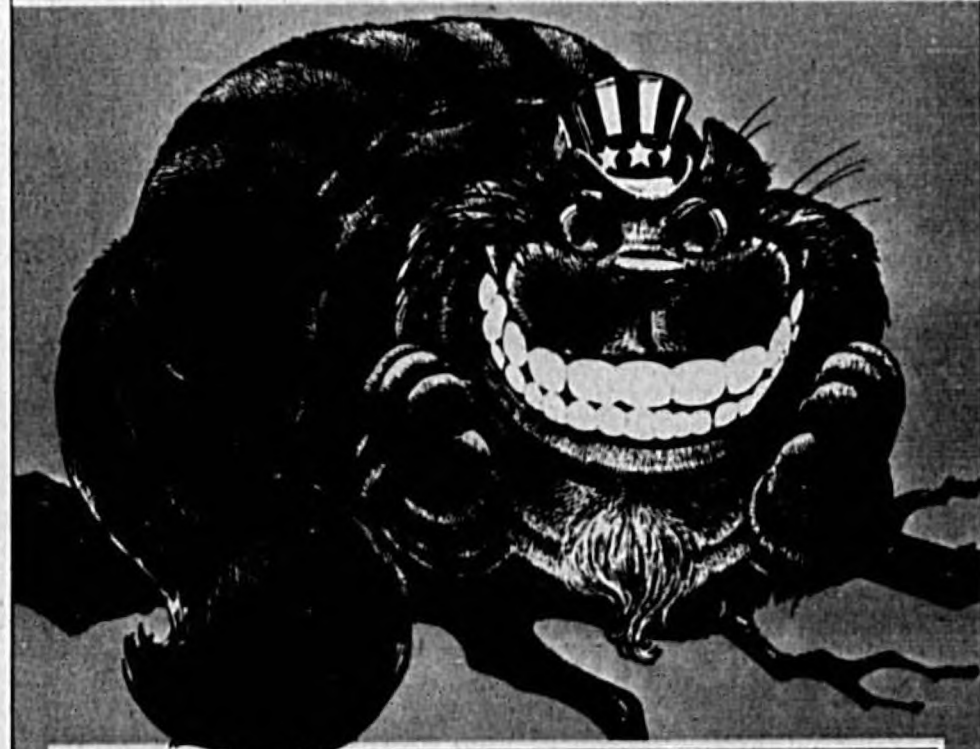

The Kitchener woman, who asked not to be identified, Friday said she received a telephone call Tuesday from a credit bureau collector regarding a $400 suit her husband bought before he died two years ago.

"He said, 'how would you like me to have the bailiff go over and dig him up and take the suit off of him,'" the woman said. "I got mad and said, 'Go to hell. If you want to go over there and dig him up, be my guest.'"

John Bowman, manager of the Credit Bureau of Kitchener-Waterloo, said the call was made by an 18-year-old trainee who used "poor judgment. He simply goofed."

Chamberlin Receives Reynolds Scholarship

Jeffrey Patrick Chamberlain, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Adams Chamberlain of 413 Cardinal Oaks Court, and a senior at Lake Mary High School, one of four students in the United States to receive a Reynolds Scholarship at Wake Forest University for the 1984-85 school year.

The full merit scholarships, which are the school's most prestigious, are made possible through a $1.5 million grant from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation. They are worth $20,000 each over four years and pay all college expenses and help finance summer and overseas projects. William G. Starling, director of admissions, said they are among the top scholarships offered undergraduate students in the United States.

Reynolds Scholars "Must not only be excellent students and promising scholars, but also creative leaders," according to the scholarship criteria.

Chamberlain is president of the student government, a member of the National Honor Society, Brain Bowl and wrestling team. He is a member of the marching, symphonic and jazz bands and the Florida youth wind ensemble, jazz ensemble, youth symphony and all-state band. He is a member of the Seminole County School Advisory Committee and a member of the Order Of The Golden Fleece.

Guest speaker will be noted Central Florida potter, Vicki Lilavois. She will demonstrate hand-building pottery with slabs of porcelain clay. Design, construction and glazing techniques will be discussed.

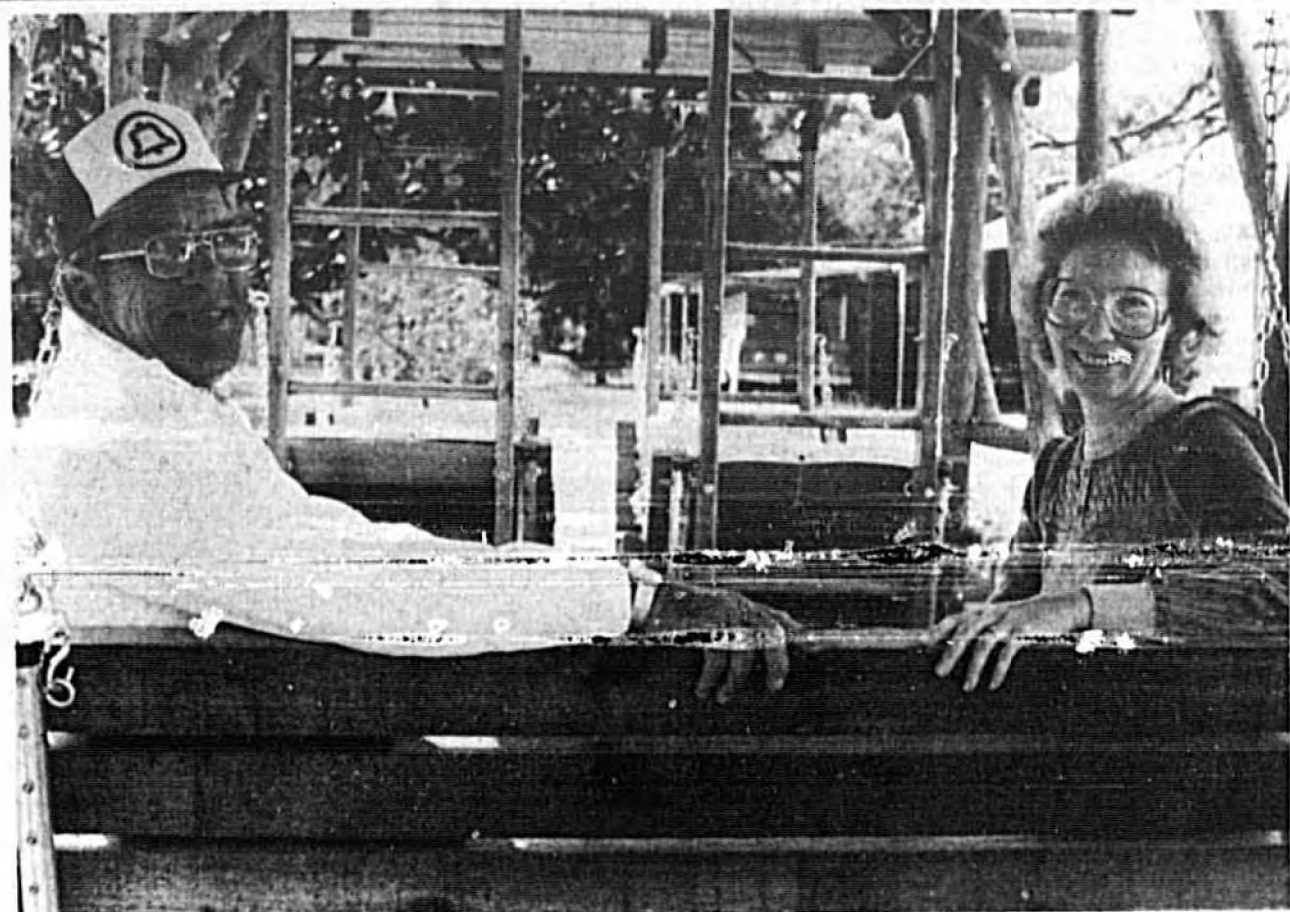

'Goble's Cube:' A Creative Rec Center For Family

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

If you've mastered Rubik's Cube you may be ready to move up and into "Goble's Cube."

Although not its official name, Hap (Rowland H.) Goble laughingly calls his patented multi-purpose super-structure "Goble's Cube," and says you can come up with as many recreational combinations with his cube as you can with Rubik's and his cube, which is designed to be a lifetime center for family recreation, is easier to master than Rubik's.

Goble, a jovial, burly, 57-year-old Lake Mary man who retired as a supervisor after 27 years with Southern Bell, said that the minute he went off the job in April 1983, he started thinking about the planter his wife, Chris, wanted and the swing that he wanted. He decided to combine the two and once he built the basic, open-air, wood-floored structure from treated fence posts he looked up and decided he needed to add a roof. After all he said you can't really enjoy a backyard swing — even if it is the five-foot, Cadillac of swings built from clear western cedar, sanded and finished to a high gloss — if the sun is baking your brains.

Goble nailed on a fiberglass roof to his 8-by-16-foot structure, which is actually a combo of two of his eight-by-eight foot cubes, and said, "Hey this is perfect for a picnic table. All I had to do was add a support here or there for the benches. So I added a picnic table. Then I said, 'Now what am I going to do with my swing?' There wasn't any place to go but up, so I hooked it to the roof and hey, my swing could then be used as a shelf or a baby cradle."

"It just kept going and I kept getting more ideas but I knew I had my patent right then," Goble said. Because he was sure nobody had ever taken the lowly fence post to such creative construction heights before.

"Goble who has hundreds of pictures of his cube in every possible set-up, said, "You name it. It just about does it all. It's quite involved, but its easy to switch from one function to another. This is the ideal amusement device for all ages and even for the handicapped. It's especially good for children."

Goble said. When the cube is set up in its teeter-totter mode, using four, chain-hung, two-foot, board-based seats, it can glide using nothing but "child-power" and provide hours of amusement to up to eight children, with four standing on the boards.

In another adaptation benches are transformed into water slides and swing arms can become trapeze bars.

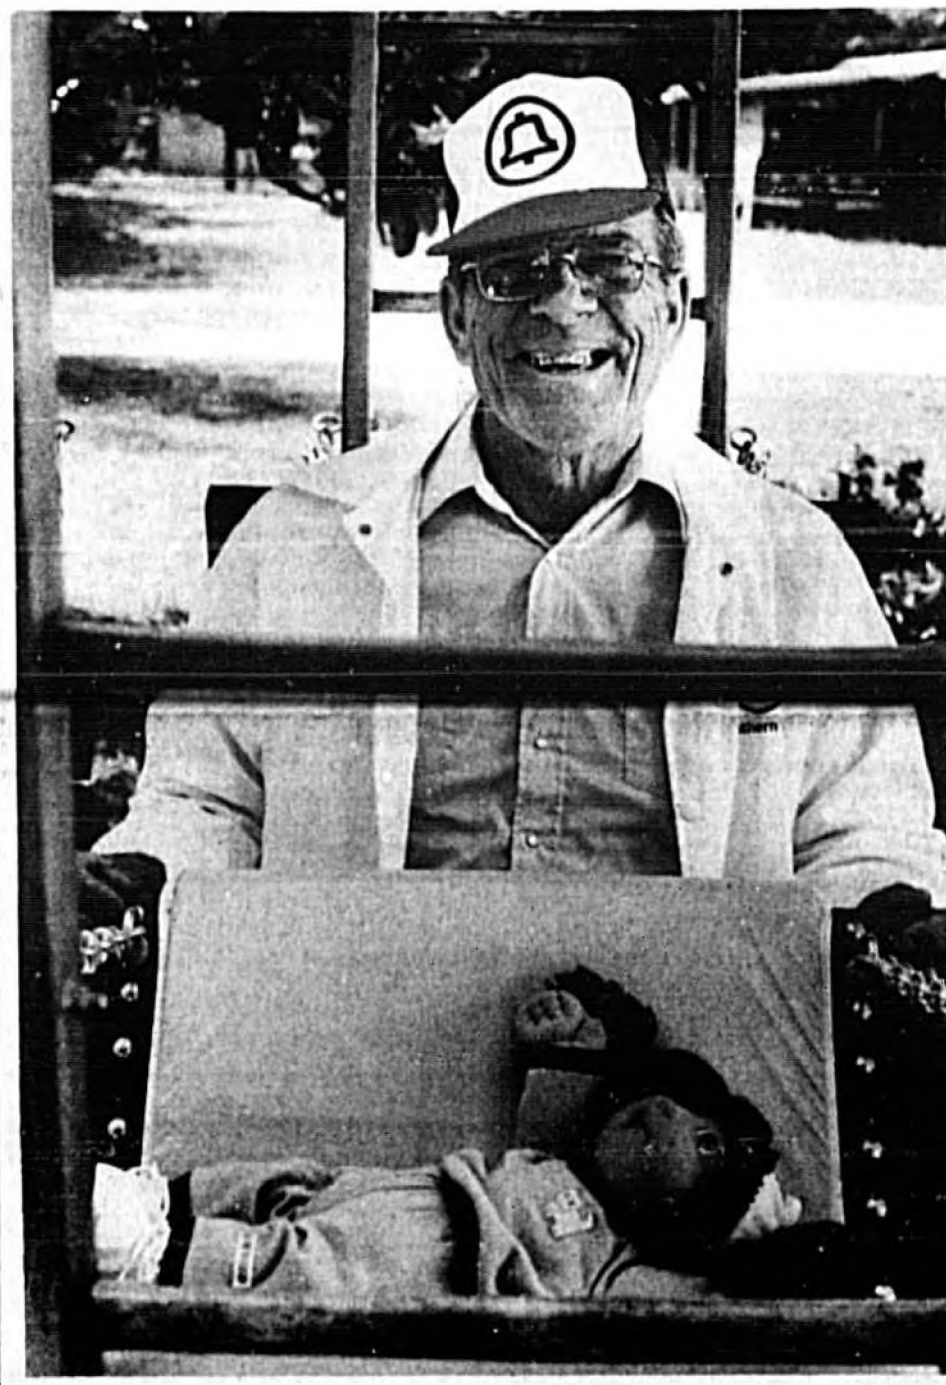

"After they get through playing you can teach them; the picnic table tilts up and can be used as a blackboard, easel or drafting table. It can be completely enclosed with wooden panels, screen or canvas. You could use it as a cabin in the woods, a place to park your car, boat or motorcycle. It makes an excellent greenhouse. Just about anything you can think of this structure can be used for. It can be wired and plumbed and there's no taxes, licenses, maintenance or up-keep on it; no nothing," Goble said.

There are even more variations and uses for Goble's Cube, but it is easier to use than to explain. If you're convinced that one of Goble's super-structures is for you you'll have to wait until he lines up a manufacturer to become his partner, before his cubes will go into production.

"I've never sold anything and I'll never sell anything," Goble said. Except he is willing and wants to sell an interest in his patented cube to the highest bidder who will put it on the market.

"We're the envy of the neighborhood," Goble said as he sat in the swing of his backyard cube.

See GOBLE, Page 2C

When the cube is set up in its teeter-totter mode, using four, chain-hung, two-foot, board-based seats, it can glide using nothing but "child-power" and provide hours of amusement to up to eight children, with four standing on the boards. Here, Goble secures Cabbage Patch Kid Amberlee Lacy in the baby cradle mode.

Eastern Star Conducts 80th Installation Rites

On June 4, 1904, Seminole Chapter No. 2 Order of the Eastern Star of Florida was formed in the present Masonic Lodge building in Sanford. OES is the largest ladies Masonic-affiliated organization in the world, according to June McFadden of Sanford.

The 80th installation of officers of the chapter was held at the same facility on March 3.

Installed as Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron were Sylvia Jones and R. Eugene Jones.

The installation ceremony was conducted by Mamie Horton, Past Grand Matron, assisted by Cleave Horton, Past Patron of the Order of the Eastern Star of Florida.

Installation theme was the cross and the red rose. The motto this year is "With God, All Things Are Possible." The colors are red and white and the watchwords are "love" and "friendship."

The installation ceremony was attended by 147 members and friends. Among the dignitaries in attendance were: James Ray, Master of Sanford Lodge #62; William Walker, High Priest of the Royal Arch Chapter; and Illustrious Glen Avery, 33rd degree secretary of the Orlando Scottish Rite Bodies.

Seminole Chapter #2 sponsors the Order of the Rainbow for Girls in the Sanford area. The Rainbow Girls served refreshments at the end of the ceremonies.

The wedding will be an event of April 21, at 3 p.m., First United Church, Sanford.

Wife Changing Doctors Eases Husband's Pain

DEAR ABBY: This is concerning "Upset in Baltimore," who was upset because his wife went to a male doctor. He said he didn't want any other man looking at his wife's body.

Dear Abby

You assured him that the doctor's interest in his wife's body was strictly professional, and if he couldn't deal with it, he should seek professional help.

You are wrong, Abby. When my wife and I were first married, I told her that I didn't want any other man to see her undressed, and that included her doctor. She assured me that her doctor had no romantic interest in her undressed, and it was no big deal.

We discussed and came to the conclusion that if granting one small favor could make such a big difference in your marriage, why didn't you grant your wife the "small favor" of letting her continue with her original doctor?

SATISFIED IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR SATISFIED: Congratulations on resolving your problem so easily. If granting "one small favor" could make such a big difference in your marriage, why didn't you grant your wife the "small favor" of letting her continue with her original doctor?

DEAR ABBY: I divorced my husband six years ago. We have one daughter who is nine years old. (I'll call her Lisa.) I have done everything in my power to see that Lisa has everything she needs, and that she learns all the proper ways of a young lady.

My ex-husband has never taken much interest in Lisa, but his mother has. Too much, I think. Last Christmas I allowed Lisa to spend the day with my ex-mother-in-law and her relatives. This grandmother loves Lisa, but I think she has overstepped her bounds.

She recently sent my daughter stationery, envelopes, postage stamps and the addresses of all the relatives on her side, requesting that Lisa write them all thank-you notes for the Christmas presents they gave her.

Abby, Lisa thanked these people on Christmas Day when she received their gifts, and she even gave them each a big hug. Does my daughter have to send a written thank-you note, or is my ex-mother-in-law out of line?

TEED OFF IN TENNESSEE

DEAR TEED OFF: Written thank-you notes are a must, even after a verbal thank-you and a "big hug." Don't be critical of your ex-mother-in-law. Your daughter is lucky to have a grandmother who cares.

KATHLEEN ENGMAN

DEAR KATHLEEN: Wherever they fit.

DEAR ABBY: For "Cramped in Burbank," who didn't know what to do about people who dropped in when her place was a mess, please sign on your name.

"If You Didn't Bother to Call, Please Don't Bother to Knock." I did. It works.

RUTH IN LOS ANGELES

Taack-Carter

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Taack Jr., 4 Robinwood Drive, Longwood, announce the engagement of their daughter, Trichel Taack to Gregory Marvin Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Carter, 2600 Narcissus Ave., Sanford.

Born in Bryan, Texas, the bride-elect is the maternal granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Payne, Cleveland, TX, and the paternal granddaughter of Mrs. Inez Taack, Wichita Falls, TX, and the late Mr. George Taack Sr.

Miss Taack is a 1983 graduate of Seminole High School where she played volleyball and tennis and was a member of the Chorus Ensemble and Concert Chorus. She was also a member of Keyettes and FCA. She participated in the Senior Calendar and was a Miss SHS candidate. She is employed by Winn-Dixie.

Her fiancé, born in Sanford, is the maternal grandson of Mr. and Mrs. H.G. Echols, Paisley, and the paternal grandson of Mrs. Ruth Carter, 417 W. 12th St., Sanford, and the late Mr. R.C. Carter.

Mr. Carter is a 1983 graduate of Seminole High School, where he was junior class vice president, a member of the swim and baseball teams, and a member of Key Club, Chorus Ensemble, Thespian Club and Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He is serving a tour of duty with the U.S. Air Force where he is a computer operator at Keesler AFB, MS.

The wedding will be an event of March 23, at 7 p.m., at Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford.

...Goble's Cube

"Everyone who sees it wants one. The kids just won't stay off it and we're out here all the time."

This is Goble's first patent and he has applied for a second on a secret invention that is an upgraded version of an existing item. It's most unusual in this high-tech age for an individual to receive a patent, he said, because most patents are received by corporations. But, Goble said, his first two patents probably won't be his last, because over the years he's had millions of ideas and expects to have millions more.

"You've got to have imagination and foresight," he said. "You have to know what you want and have to be able to see how you can utilize things. Every thing I look at I kind of look at it to see if it has another purpose or function that it can be used as. And that's more or less how my cube materialized."

"I hold no degree, no graduates, no doctorates. I'm just experienced in the hard knocks of life." Goble who moved to Lake Mary from Orlando in 1949, said. "I've created a million things over my life. I've divulged I don't know how many of them and people have taken my ideas and have made money from them."

But Goble has decided that he wants to profit from his creativity and although almost every statement he makes about his cube is punctuated with peals of boisterous laughter he's serious about his invention. He has sent 25 letters to area companies that are involved in construction of similar products to see if they are interested in forming a partnership with him. If local companies aren't interested Goble plans to go national with his cube.

While waiting for a response Goble will keep busy. He's an avid fisherman and deer hunter. And he likes to just sit in his cube and watch hundreds of birds snack at his homemade feeder.

"When he retired," Mrs. Goble said, "people asked me how I was going to stand having him follow me around all day. There's no way! He keeps me hopping. He's in his second childhood."

"Anybody who says they don't have anything to do is insane," Goble said. He has always been a busy man and a do-it-yourselfer. He designed and built his home singlehandedly and has added a well, a greenhouse, a smoker, a shed for his boat and pens and running areas for his 12 hounds on his Crystal Lake Avenue homestead.

But Goble is thinking about pulling up stakes and starting over in a new home. If he does he will be able to take his cubes along, after all they are his ideal-go-anywhere do-anything creation. He could he said even stack several together and make his own condo.

South led a club to dummy's king and a club back to his ace. Then he led the jack of spades. West paused for a moment, rose with his ace of spades and promptly laid down his ace of hearts as the starter for four heart tricks. "How were you so sure?" asked South. "No problem at all," replied West. "My partner played the ace of hearts at trick one to tell me he had an odd number of hearts. I was looking at five hearts. There were three in dummy. That left five for you and East. You had responded three diamonds to your partner's Stayman, so you could not hold four hearts. Hence you held just two, and my partner exactly three."

This Kelsey hand introduces the maxim: "Help your partner with defense by signaling your distribution." We add a fervent amen. Tend to high-low with an even number and low-high with an odd number.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY MARCH 11, 1984
In the year ahead there will be a marked improvement with conditions in general. However, strides cannot be made unless you take advantage of your opportunities.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In competitive situations today believe in your abilities but, by the same token, don't foolishly underestimate your competition. Your work or career conditions in the year ahead are revealed in Pisces' Astro-Graph predictions for the year following your birthday. Mail $1 and your zodiac sign to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Send an additional $2 for the Matchmaker set, which reveals compatibilities for all signs.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's best not to involve outsiders in delicate family matters today. Their intentions could be good, but they may further muddy the waters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Boasting or exaggerating could lead to embarrassment today. There's a chance you may tell a big-fish story to a guy who has a ruler in his pocket.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be sure to have your head on straight in your financial dealings today. A lack of awareness could cause you to lose instead of gain.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Examine the motives of those who make grandiose promises to you today.

YOUR BIRTHDAY MARCH 12, 1984

Exciting and happy changes are in store for you this coming year where your social life is concerned. You will be seeking new fun diversions which will enlarge your circle of friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If at all possible, do not delegate important matters today. Situations which you personally direct could come off as you envision. Find out to whom you are best suited romantically with an Astro-Graph Matchmaker set. Send $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Send an additional $1 plus your zodiac sign for your year-ahead predictions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There are stabilizing factors presently stirring which should contribute to your family's material well-being. They will merge from two sources.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Friends can be relied upon today. Don't be hesitant to request their assistance if you need it, especially from pals for whom you've gone to bat.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You are now in a good earning cycle, so dedicate yourself to your work or career. The rewards will be there if your performance warrants it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Something you've long desired could soon come to fruition. It may appear lucky, but it will be the result of doing the right things the right way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not waste your time today on insignificant objectives. Major achievements are possible, so focus your efforts on the truly worthwhile.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Events could occur today which will put your executive and managerial skills to a test. Fortunately, you're more than a match for whatever transpires.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Steps can be taken to change things today so that you are in charge, rather than being swept along by the tide of events.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An old pal who is always delighted to hear from you feels as though you've been ignoring him lately. Make it a point to call or see him today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be extremely lucky materially today if you are intrigued by the stakes. Think "money" and "victory," because both can be yours.

RELIGION

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Sunday, March 11, 1984-7C

Briefly

Dr. Charles Layman Leads Conference On Holy Spirit

A Bible Conference on the Holy Spirit will be held at First United Methodist Church of Sanford beginning at 11 a.m. Sunday, March 18 and concluding with an evening session on Monday, March 19. The conference will be led by Dr. Charles M. Layman, theologian and author of more than 20 books on religion.

He is the editor of the best-selling The Holy Spirit's One-Voice Commentary on the Bible, which had a first printing of 100,000 copies. Chairman of the Religion Department of Florida Southern College, Lakeland, from 1960 to 1971, he lives in Gatlinburg, Tenn., and makes Lakeland his winter home.

Renewal Weekend Set

The Rev. and Mrs. August L. Sorvillo will conduct a renewal weekend at Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Park Avenue and Fourth Street, Sanford, March 16 and 17 on the theme, "There is More to Being Healthy than Just Feeling Good." It will begin with a covered dish supper at 6 p.m. in the parish hall. Coffee and rolls will be served at 9 a.m. Saturday followed by talks, workshops and concluding with the Eucharist at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

Father Sorvillo is rector of St. James Episcopal Church, Ormond Beach. He is president of the standing committee of the Diocese of Central Florida, and a member of the Spiritual Renewal Task Force.

Pastor's Anniversary

The Rev. T.L. Jenkins, pastor of St. Matthews Missionary Baptist Church, Midway, will celebrate his fifth anniversary as pastor this Sunday. Minister Charlie Jones of Mount Zion Church, Sanford, will speak at the 11 a.m. service and the Rev. Andrew Evans of Morning Glory MB Church, Sanford, will deliver the anniversary message at the 3 p.m. service.

Elk Awareness Day

Mr. William Lewis, associate minister of New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church, Sanford, will speak at the 11 a.m. Elk Awareness Day service this Sunday. The Elks Choir will sing.

Golden Hour Of Flowers

Allen Chapel AME Church, Sanford, will have a "Golden Hour of Flowers" service at 11 a.m. Sunday. The service will honor those who have been members 50 years or more. Guest speaker will be Robert B. Thomas Jr. Musical tributes, expressions and special presentations will be given.

Youth Revival Week

Terry Veazey, pastor/evangelist, will lead a Youth Revival Week at Central Baptist Church, Sanford, beginning this Sunday at the 11 a.m. service. The youth will be teaching in Sunday School and Veazey will be speaking at the 7 a.m. Brotherhood Breakfast prior to the service. Evening services will begin at 7 p.m. each night. On Monday at 6 p.m. there will be a free hot dog supper for children in fellowship hall. A free pizza party for youth will be at 6 p.m. Tuesday. Wednesday will be Family Night with a 5:30 p.m. church supper. Call the church office at 322-2914 for reservations.

Sharing Center Meeting

The Sanford Christian Sharing Center Board will hold a covered dish luncheon Thursday at noon in the parish hall of Holy Cross Episcopal Church for volunteer workers and congregational representatives from the 18 supporting churches. Immediate and long range plans for the center will be discussed.

Pinecrest Men's Breakfast

The Pinecrest Baptist Church, Sanford, will hold a men's breakfast meeting at 7:30 a.m. this Sunday. There will be a get-acquainted fellowship at Pinecrest following the 7:30 p.m. service in the fellowship hall.

Gleaners To Meet

The Gleaners Sunday School Class of Pinecrest Baptist Church, Sanford, will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Martha Todd at 2637 French Ave.

Lenten Services Slated

Midweek Lenten services will be held at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday at Lutheran Church of the Redeemer at 2525 Oak Ave., Sanford, on the theme, "We Have Seen Jesus!"

In conjunction with readings, a filmstrip featuring masterpieces by 50 of the world's greatest artists on display at the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C., will be shown.

Noontime Lenten Study

Each Thursday at noon during Lent there will be a study of the Epistle to the Romans in the lounge of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford. The Rev. Robert Anderson will be leading the study for the first three sessions. Those attending should bring their box lunch.

Revival Services

The Church of God of Prophecy will hold a series of revival services beginning at 7:30 p.m. this Sunday through Saturday, March 17. The evangelist will be the Rev. Orville Simpson of Daisy, Tenn.

First Shiloh Women's Day

First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, 1101 W. 13th St., Sanford, will observe its annual Women's Day this Sunday at 9:30 and 11 a.m. Guest speaker for the morning will be the State and National Advisor of the Young Women's Auxiliary and Junior Women's Convention, Barbara W. Knight of Ft. Myers. At the 3 p.m. service the Rev. Fred L. Maxwell and St. John Missionary Baptist Church, Orlando, will be in charge of the service.

By St. Paul Church

Area Women Honored For Service

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Paul Missionary Baptist Church, Sanford, will honor area women for outstanding community services at its annual Awards Night at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Recipients will be recognized for contributions in church-related activities, charities and scholarships, neighborhood improvement, social services, education, communications and public affairs.

To be recognized for its contribution to the worship services of the church are women on the Board of Trustees and members of the St. Paul Missionary Baptist Gospel Choir. The choir is organized at the church. Several members have been active since its inception. Several years ago, the church added women to the board. Through their dedication and commitment the women trustees have been a symbol of practicality, thrift, financial ability and good judgment helping move the church through several major projects, said Altermese Bentley of the awards committee.

Hattie L. Alexander, second vice president of the National Baptist Convention of America Sponsors Council and president of the Sponsors Council of Progressive State Convention of Florida, was singled out for her Christian leadership to children and youth and her supportive role in her late husband's ministry. A public school teacher, she is a counselor at the Youth Summer Camp at Florida Memorial College, directs and plans the youth program at Bethlehem MB Church, Orlando, and is co-editor of the study course and manual of the National Baptist Youth Convention, Auxiliary of the National Baptist Convention of America.

Jessie Brisson will be recognized for her contributions to the life of the community as clerk of the Sanford Seventh-day Adventist Church and as a registered nurse, as well as her positive attitude and active social life. Mrs. Brisson studied nursing at Florida Hospital, Orlando, graduating as a registered nurse in 1927.

Organizations to be honored for community service include the North Central Florida Friends and the Georgetown Community Neighborhood Association. The NCF Friends is an organization made up of 18 members, who have opened new vistas in the area through their support of social agencies providing a resource for the adoption of black children, offering cultural opportunities to them and special sponsorship for students to attend plays and musical productions. They also donate equipment to schools.

Georgetown Community Neighborhood Association is a chartered non-profit organization open to residents of Georgetown and others interested in civic, social, general welfare, and neighborhood improvement. This group received a new thrust with the election in 1980 of Rosalie McCoy as president. Her leadership style has been effective and helped pull together the residents. The organization has worked closely with Seminole Community Action, The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, given aid to families with dependent children, Senior Citizens and answering emergency calls for help and promoted Neighborhood Crime Watch in cooperation with Sanford Police Department.

In the field of education, Lyman Hightower, teacher at Ruth Gaines will be recognized. She was named Outstanding Vocational Educator, Florida Vocational Association and as Seminole County Vocational Teacher of the Year. She served three years as district advisor and state advisory committee member to Florida Association Future Homemakers of America. She is currently annual meeting chairman of Florida Home Economics Association, and has served as treasurer for two years. She has held several offices with the Seminole Vocational Association.

Willie Agnes Riggins is being honored as a social service volunteer. Employed by the Seminole County School Board as a fifth grade teacher at Sanford Grammar School, she began as a "Pink Lady" at Seminole Memorial Hospital and now serves a volunteer at Central Florida Regional Hospital. She has contributed more than 1,000 hours and her efforts had much to do with black volunteers being integrated at Seminole. She has held many offices in civic, fraternal and social organizations. She is a Life Member of Post 17 Amvets Auxiliary and is a past president of the district and state. As Block Captain, Chairman, of the Georgetown Community Improvement Association she spearheaded placing Neighborhood Crime Watch signs.

Joy Bryon will be honored in the communications and public affairs category. She has been employed by WESH-TV Channel 2 for eight years and served in several capacities on and off camera. As director of Public Affairs, she is responsible for programming talk shows, minute memos, public service announcements, notable events and representing the station as a public speaker. In the fall of 1982 she accepted a part-time professorship at Bethune-Cookman College teaching Law of Press and Radio. She holds a masters degree in international relations and taught for five years in Miami after graduating from Bethune-Cookman in 1961.

Requiem For A School Principal

One of those at the memorial service for her was an executive of a large utility company. Another was a school superintendent. Still another was a prominent attorney.

They — along with many other former students at her school — were there not only to pay tribute to Mary Kerr and her accomplishments. What they remembered most about her — and, in a sense, this is why they were there — was that she was a "tough principal" who won their respect as a disciplinarian.

In a day when discipline no longer rules as it once did in school and family (and in the world at large), their being there was a way of casting a vote for the old values in education.

None of those, of course, who had been summoned into Miss Kerr's office as wayward pupils ever thought to express their gratitude at the time. Some, though, had had an opportunity in later years to thank her. That really wasn't necessary, however. If they had become good citizens and a credit to their community, that to her was thanks enough.

She must have been particularly proud, though, of the boy she saw grow up to become vice president of the utility.

If Jack doesn't hold the all-time record for "most times called into Miss Kerr's office," he is one of the leading contenders for the honor. He was my sidekick and constant companion in those days. My mother used to warn me not to hang around with him. "He'll never amount to anything," she said.

But while my mother's son rose to the position of poor newspaperman, Jack was being elected mayor of the city. He then went on to become a successful businessman. (Ma, how wrong could you be?)

Jack and Miss Kerr would later joke about his old high school days. Jack, who played center field on the school baseball team, would tell her, "I never sat on the bench for Jack Wilson (the baseball coach) but I sat on the bench plenty of times for you." He was referring to the wooden bench outside her office where he so often sat and waited — and shook.

Not that those visits to her office were all that terrifying (I was there once or twice myself.) But we left knowing that the wrong we had done had not gone unnoticed and was not expected to continue.

Sometimes this humbling experience did not end when we left her office. One scrappy kid who was called in for fighting on the school grounds discovered, after he got home, that Miss Kerr had called his parents to report on his misbehavior.

"So I had the problem to face all over again," he recalls.

Now 60 years old, as superintendent of schools he heads the system which Miss Kerr served as high school principal. But never in their long years of professional and personal association did he ever call her anything but Miss Kerr.

Saints And Sinners

"I would never have thought of calling her Mary," he says. But to her he was always Jimmy.

They all look back — those former students — with almost a sense of pride at the time they spent in Miss Kerr's office.

"Sure, she was stern," says a lawyer. "But she gave us a sense of right and wrong. As we sat in her office, she let us know that in school, as in life (as we were later to find out), there are rules to follow and if we don't follow them, we can expect to be told in no uncertain terms about it — and be expected to mend our ways. If more people had had a Miss Kerr in their early lives, our courts wouldn't be so crowded today."

There are educators and teachers today who feel that the old educational system with its sterner disciplines trampled on "individual rights." Did it? Or did it build individuals capable of doing right?

Ask the utility company executive, the school superintendent and the lawyer.

And, you saints in heaven, be prepared to get your act together. That tall, stately lady who has just arrived will be watching your every move.

Blind Pianist In Concert

The inspirational blind pianist and gospel singer Harold G. Boggs of Port Clinton, Ohio, will be in concert at the New Mt. Calvary Missionary Baptist Church, 1115 W. 12th St., Sanford, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.
