

Babe Ruth, Determined In Demands And Unyielding, Is $85,000 Holdout Today

By Davis J. Walsh

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Babe Ruth, the 11, bat and ball man, today is on a $85,000 holdout today, determined in his attitude and unyielding in his demands. You can go right out and get the insurance money, too, but he will be a holdout tomorrow also; next week and likewise next month. For obvious reasons, Lew won't go so far as to say next season. The Yankees and Mr. Ruth may be a trifle impetuous on occasions but neither of them is crazy.

However, Ruth is absolutely determined in his determination to take $85,000 for three years or $30,000 for none. He told me what he was going to do three weeks ago and, late yesterday afternoon, he went in there and did it. This was no sudden whim on his part; he had refused to sign a contract for $70,000 for one year and then $75,000 for two. It was a carefully conceived, well planned maneuver, intended to notify the Yankees that $85,000 was his price and three years his notion of how long such a contract should endure. Ruth may be a bit of a show-off but he's no bargain.

"I'm going to get $5 grand on a three-year contract, and that's that," said the big slugger rather coolly, some time ago. "I'd rather you didn't tell them about it. They'll know soon enough. As for me, I've thought this thing out for a long time and I know what it comes to. And they'll have to give it to me."

Ruth is to leave for Florida with his family in a day or two and the chances of a renewal of negotiations at this time are far from promising. In fact, while the party broke up yesterday in perfect amity, both sides seemed to be irascible. The Yankees had tried to sign Ruth at the old terms, $70,000, on a one-year basis. He scoffed. They raised the ante to $75,000 for two years. He refused in vast disdain. Then he told them the news and all of it was his.

In a formal statement, issued after the conference, the Yankees said they were unalterably opposed to a proposal on that contract and that $75,000 was as far as they intended to go with Ruth. Mr. Gussis is that, if the young man is austere enough, they will reach $85,000 when the time comes and he'll be happy that it isn't more. There is a limit to everything, of course, but Ruth never will reach his untold baseball riches by getting along without him.

Maybe the Yankees will be a little more reasonable, either on the money side or the contract side, if the length of operation. Much of this will depend upon how both sides play their cards. There must be a certain amount of give and take in a situation like this but, frankly, most of it is likely to be done down to a point where the Yankees give and Ruth takes.

STETSON LINEUP IN GEORGIA CAGE GAME IS PUZZLE

Coach McQuilian Has Not Been Able To Arrive At Decision

By John "Red" Davis
DELAND, Jan. 8.—With one more day in which to hold practice before the University of Georgia basketball cage game here to battle the Hatters on Thursday night at Holley gymnasium, Coach McQuilian is still in a quandary, as to where he stands relative to his starting line-up.

All indications point to Captain Earl Jenkinson being one of the starters, while Sweeney, probably the best offensive man on the floor, will also win McQuilian's approval as a worthy starter. Jenkinson is a forward while Sweeney will play the running guard position.

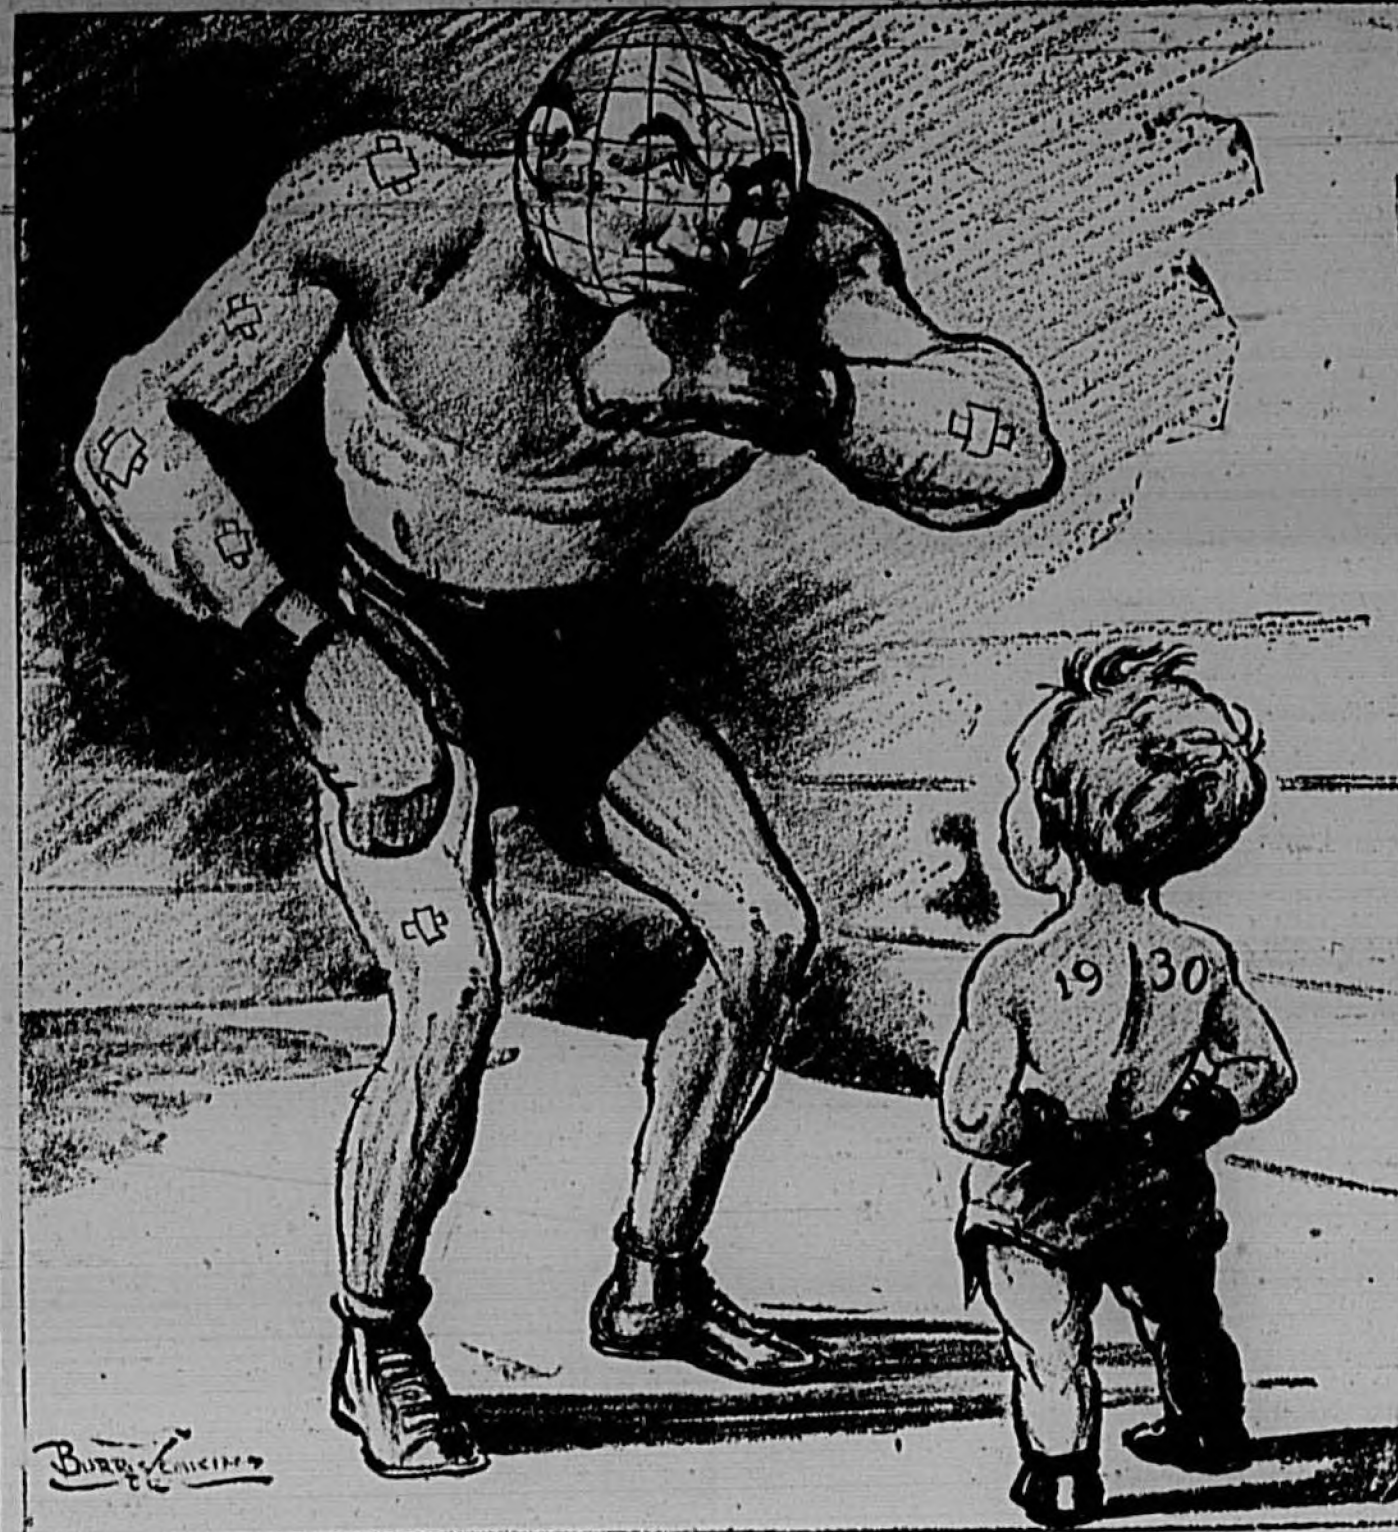

Sweeney is the smallest man on the squad which has six men towering six feet or better out of a squad of nine players. Stetson's star running guard has made a favorable impression on his coach, though he still lacks a little punch as the defensive guard. Chet Freeman was last year. In due course of time, however, McQuilian will polish his star guard around the rough spots and then there will be little doubt but that Sweeney is a finished ogreman.

John Harriman will in all probability play at center as he has been showing excellent results during the early season training. Harriman had no competition at his position, and really needed none, because the Hatter tipoff man is considered one of the university's most dependable basket- eers.

Lake county will be well represented at Stetson this year when Mosley steps to the court in a Hatter uniform. Coach McQuilian has converted Mosley from a complete greenhorn into a prospect who has a bright future before the hoops. Mosley will play one of the forward positions. He stands about six feet tall.

Stetson also will have two more guards along with Sweeney, though it is not known whether Scotch or Mox will get the call. In all likelihood the Hatter boss will take his first chance with Scotch, who is probably a more finished cage man than Mox.

FRENCH COLLEGE OPENS SCHOOL IN AVIATION BRANCH

Course Proposes To Teach Students To Fly Better, Lighter

By ROBERT W. THOMPSON

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Long-haired art students of the Latin Quarter now have embryonic aviators for campus playmates, since the College de France has opened a school in animal mechanics and aerodynamics.

Stern of its academic title the school proposes to teach the students how to fly better and lighter.

According to Professor Magnan, dean of the new division, the prehistoric pteranodon and dipteros respectively weighed as much as a modern passenger plane and yet they took off easily on any kind of a field merely by flapping their wings.

"Study birds and learn how to fly," says the professor. "It has been proved that the little hawk must develop a propelling force equal to 25 horsepower to remain in the air."

The aviation students will also be given courses in practical and experimental work.

"The school will open new horizons to aviation engineers, constructors and pilots," says Laurent-Eynac, Minister of Air. "Men and women of any nationality may matriculate."

Recent reports from Dusseldorf that a "Tailless" airplane made a successful flight there provoked a statement from M. Baraudy, a Marseilles inventor, that he created a similar model in 1909.

"My respective reports on a tailless plane and warped wings were numbered 7,451 and 7,461 and filed in the archives of the Academy of Sciences where they have been forgotten," he said.

"At the outbreak of the war I offered my invention to the government but it was rejected. Germans later sought to purchase the rights but I told them that I am a Frenchman first."

M. Baraudy claims that he proved the maximum of scientific wings are built with a dip toward the fuselage and with the curve on the underside instead of on the upper surface.

The young idea in Paris is exceeding the speed limit with sooters.

So many pedestrians have reported collisions with "one-leg power" pushabouts that children have been ordered to cease "scotching" in the Luxembourg and Tuileries Gardens.

Vehicle manufacturers are nevertheless eager to supply youth's demand for speed. The latest toy on the market is an electric automobile with three speeds.

Jevial, healthy-looking President Gaston Doumergue will not be cold on winter nights for he has just been presented with a cozy, rider-down covered made of pure wool from the regions of the Plata and tied in dainty bows. The little orphans of Buenos Aires who sent the unusual gift.

"Gaston," as his faithful followers call the Grand Chief of the Republic, apparently, he very much enjoyed when Argentinian Ambassador and Mrs. Alvarez de Toledo brought in the big blue bonneting the covetel.

"I know exactly where I am going to put it," he said. "This present gives me double pleasure because it is so useful." And he went straight up to his bedroom and threw it across his comfortable French bed.

Harvard Expedition Renews Excavation Work In Pyramids

CAMBRIDGE, Jan. 7.—(INS)—Two expeditions of Harvard research of interest to Harvard university and students the world over are now under way.

Dr. George A. Reisner, '89, has gone to Egypt. The noted Egyptologist, director of the joint expedition of Harvard and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, was accompanied by his wife and daughter. Just before leaving Cambridge, Dr. Reisner explained that the expedition would continue its scientific methods of historical research that the work at the pyramids of Giza would continue and that in January another field of operations would be entered at the Egyptian forts along the second cataract. These forts were built by kings of Dynasty XVIII about 2,000 B. C.

Work will continue at the pyramids, where results have been so rich both for museum collections and for the history of the period, or the expedition is under obligation to complete the systematic excavation of that site undertaken twenty years ago. The examination of the new site, the forts along the second cataract, was first undertaken by the expedition in 1924.

"Of the method of excavating employed by the expedition he said: "It is a scientific method. The objects found are not by chance. We take a great site and proceed to excavate it from one end to the other, making a complete record of what we see. We undertake to take that area and find everything that is in it."

The second Harvard expedition is that of Professor Kirsopp Lake and Associate Professor Robert Blake, director of the Harvard University Library, to the Sinai Peninsula to continue research where they recovered proto Sumerian inscriptions. Professor R. F. Tutin, of the Catholic University of America, is a member of the expedition, which is being carried out under the joint auspices of the two universities.

Shires Continues Toward Fistic Peak With Another Win

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 8.—(INS)—Investigations to the contrary, fistic baseman Charles Arthur Shires went his merry way toward fistic game today with another one round knockout victory in his credit.

"Whattaman" Shires chose Tom Faith, former American association pitcher, for the third one round knockout of his brief but stormy professional pug career. Shires put his opponent away for the count of 10 last night after two minutes of various kinds of knockout in the first round.

Faith went down for a fainting spell. He arose to his feet, but was taken from the ring by the White Sox first baseman. One of Shires' right crosses caught him on the jaw and the match was over.

One of the largest fight crowds to assemble here in recent years witnessed the bout. Shires tried to make a speech from the ring after the knock out but a chorus of boos drowned out his words.

Shires received $1,500 for last night's appearance against Faith.

Demsey Referees Main Bout Between Two Welterweights

ATLANTA, Jan. 8.—It's been a long time since Jack Demsey, the Manassa Mauler, has been a combatant in a roped ring, but he's still "the whole show" on unyielding boxing.

All of which was attested to here last night when five thousand fans—a mighty big aggregation to see a fight in Atlanta—flocked to the city auditorium to see Demsey referee a main bout.

Incidentally, Ted Goodrich, Atlanta welterweight, knocked out his opponent, Farmer Joe Cooper of West York, Ill., in the first round of a scheduled 10 round bout. Demsey was in the ring one minute and 44 seconds. The champion got a fee of $4,000 for coming to Atlanta to referee the fight.

Demsey put in a very full day here yesterday, and caught a plane early this morning for New Orleans where he referees another fight tonight.

W. L. (Young) Stridling, the Georgia heavyweight contender and Mrs. Stridling, accompanied Demsey on the air flight.

Boy Who Skated 73 Miles To Atlanta On Way Back Home

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 8.—(INS)—Jack Sledge, 10 year old, 11 year Georgia, Ga., youth who skated 73 miles to Atlanta, went home today.

The return trip was made on the train however. The frantic parents of the youth (a warning tale to their son last night in response to an urgent request).

The young adventurer arrived here yesterday afternoon, bringing the news of his journey which he had made from his home in Sumner, Ga., to Atlanta, and back to his home in Sumner, Ga., with his companions, Jack, coming out from the other boys at a cross road.

Continuing his journey, unaware that he had passed beneath him led beyond the path of fan fair environs the youth finally arrived at Atlanta after spending two nights in the open. He had stated most of the way, but admitted that the cause of his journey had indeed helped to make the journey easier.

Severe Storm Balks Search For Aviators

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 8.—(INS)—One of the worst storms of the season held the arctic region in its grip today and frustrated all attempts to continue the search for Capt. T. M. (Pat) Reid, commander of the Eleonore relief expedition, missing since Saturday.

Continued silence from the Norton Bay region where Reid and his two mechanics, James Hutchison and William Hughes, disappeared in a snow storm, increased apprehension.

Reports from North Cape, Siberia where Lieut. Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland disappeared Nov. 9 said that a fierce blizzard was raging between there and Nome.

Gator Grid Schedule Finally Completed

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Jan. 8.—(INS)—Tombstones: Georgia Tech, Chicago? Such are the headlines in the complete 1930 grid schedule of the University of Florida, announced here today. Florida meets Tennessee at Jacksonville Dec. 6, Georgia Tech at Atlanta on Nov. 27, and Chicago at Chicago on Oct. 18. Games with Southern, North Carolina, Auburn, Furman, Georgia, Alabama and Clemson round out the "all star" card.

Sammy Mandell And Quintero Taper Off

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 8.—(INS)—Sammy Mandell, world's light weight champion, and Minnie Quintero, the Tampa flash, were tapering off training today for their 10 round fight here Friday night. Quintero, accustomed to tropical climates, was in the pink of condition, his trainers said, but the champion has suffered somewhat from the tropic temperatures in which he has had to stage his daily workouts.

Mandell, however, is gradually becoming acclimated to the hot weather, and expects to be in his usual form Friday night. Work men have about completed the finishing touches on the big arena at the Miami Kennel Club to seat the 20,000 fans that advance ticket sales indicate will witness the titanic bout.

PLANT CITY—Construction Underway on New Platform Extension of Seaboard Freight Depot.

Construction is well advanced on the new platform extension of the Seaboard Freight Depot in Plant City. The new structure will provide additional space for the handling of freight and will be completed within a few weeks. The extension is part of a larger program to modernize the depot's facilities and improve the efficiency of its operations.

The Air Tour

Perhaps the greatest development of the past year was in the air-mindedness of the people of Florida. The construction of airports, the inauguration of air clubs, the formation of aviation clubs, and the general promotion of every department of aviation, during the past year, was without doubt the greatest omen we had for better times ahead.

That this development will not cease with the new year, but will go steadily ahead, and perhaps at even greater rate is evidenced by the announcement of plans for a state-wide air tour which will begin on the sixteenth of January and continue for one week. Among those participating in the tour are Governor Carlton, Major Clarence M. Young, of the United States department of commerce, George Haldeman, Atlantic flier, and Fred Lund of the Waco Airplane Co.

Cities to be visited include Lakeland, Sarasota, Daytona, St. Augustine, Gainesville, Tallahassee, Lako City besides the larger cities where airplane shows and air meets will be held and substantial prizes awarded. St. Petersburg, Tampa, Orlando, Jacksonville and Miami have each provided wonderful programs of entertainment for the flying party, and the fliers themselves have arranged for many remarkable exhibitions of flying.

It would be most unfortunate, it seems to us, with this air party coming so close to Sanford as both Orlando and Daytona without arranging for a stop over in this city. We hope that the City Commission, or one of our community-minded civic clubs will make the necessary effort to place Sanford on the itinerary of the state-wide air tourists. Don't let the fliers pass this little city up.

Don'ts For Investors

This month's issue of McCall's magazine contains a list of "Don'ts" for women investors which might be of interest to men as well as women. All of us at one time or another have been gyped. And the chances are, we will be gyped again some time in the future. But if we always investigate every "get-rich-quick" scheme as carefully as Helen Christine Bennett advises her women readers, we won't have any trouble. She writes as follows:

"DON'T believe the fellow who tells you not to tell anybody. There is no such thing as an inside tip. If it's inside it always stays inside; if it is told it is outside. Gypsies always confide secrets."

"DON'T believe the man who reminds you that Ford stock 'once sold at $5 is now $365.' That has been true and may be true again. But it is in the nature of a miracle and there are few miracles."

"DON'T believe strangers who try to persuade you by mail, telephone, radio or in person. Buy through your bank or a broker who is known to you."

"DON'T believe her because she is a woman. There are successful sales women wearing diamonds and fur coats at the expense of the housewives of this country."

"DON'T hurry. The gypster is always in a rush. There are 46 Better Business Bureaus. Consult one."

"DON'T forget that 42 states of the Union have enacted 'blue sky laws' that at least mean that administrators guard the issue of incorporation papers. And that only four states, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Connecticut, have Fraud-Bureaus for the purpose of protecting their investors. Find out where your stock company is incorporated."

"DON'T be too lazy to study the market for investment as you study the market for food for your family. Money can be made through intelligence acting upon information."

"DON'T help criminals to luxurious living."

"DON'T be an easy mark—Don't be a moocher!"

Expensive Deaths

Inheritance taxes, as well as income taxes, are the source of much grief in this country, but in England what are known as "death duties" are even more annoying. To the average layman, who labors throughout a life time to keep his taxes paid, it seems something of an uncalculated burden that there should be a duty upon his death. It would seem to be a graceful gesture on the part of any government to allow its citizens to pass out without the necessity of paying an exit fee.

In England these "death duties" are having an increasingly harmful effect upon the ancient nobility and their art treasures. It has in many instances cost so much for a man to die that the executor of his estate finds it necessary to sacrifice valuable ancestral treasures in order to raise enough cash with which to pay the duty. The Duke of Richmond recently announced he would be forced to sell a number of his valuable books and paintings in his sumptuous English castle in order to meet the duties on his father's death.

And the Earl of Durham is said to have parted with Sir Thomas Lawrence's famous painting "The Red Boy" to an American collector for one million dollars. This seems a vast sum, sufficient to pay almost any duty, but the Earl finds himself faced with the necessity of raising additional cash. Unfortunately the deaths of the third and fourth Earls, coming quite close together, reduced the value of the entire estate by practically one half, due solely to "death duties."

At the time of the death of the third Earl, the estate was valued at ten million dollars and the death duty was $3,500,000. Four months later the fourth Earl died, and the duty for his death on the reduced estate was $1,250,000. That necessitated raising $1,750,000 in cash within four months, merely to pay death taxes.

TELLING THE WORLD

THE LONG PULL AHEAD

The Society for the Prevention of Calling Christmas Xmas reports discouraging progress for the year. Folks all over the country keep thinking the holiday is a condition-pleated and compress it into Xmas. Advertisers, show card printers and greeting card manufacturers insisted on saving space. But the society will be up and at 'em in 1930, just the same.

When the society organized some years ago, it gave the argument that X meant, not the first syllable of Christmas, but a 40-cent bill. When the market started sagging in November and United States Steel went nose-diving toward 10, the Stock Exchange promptly made X the symbol for United States Steel. It looked like the society might win last year.

But around the first of the year, when Christmas started creeping on, out came the old four-letter word meaning Christmas and it slowly gathered steam. Folks were spelling it both ways, but the busy ones won Xmas over the top again.

When Gustberg's City Shops put on a holiday sale, Mr. Gustberg held up the advertising rate per square line and figured he could save $6.50 by calling it Xmas in block letters three inches high. They shooed at the Savings and Jewelry Department they doped out a half page ad, with drawings and computed they could make Santa's who keeps twice as long if they contracted Christmas in it. Well known nickname. So Xmas it was again.

The greeting card industry was just as led. With a four-line rhyme to fit into a greeting card 2 1/2 inches square, they still economized on lots of them and made it Xmas. It also tended to continue you will come day by day sending cards that wish you a "Merry Xmas & a Ho, N. Y." Folks have been abbreviated.

UNCOMMON SENSE

By John Blake

OTHER PEOPLES EYES I looked at Mars—the other night through another man's eyes. I saw the polar caps; the cloud haze, the fine lines which are believed to be canals, lines which seem to be in perfect geometric alignment.

I have never studied astronomy, but I intend to study it now.

That single lecture aroused an interest in this stupendous subject.

I marveled, as did the lecturer, that Swift and Voltaire both, though neither had ever looked through a telescope of high power, had expressed belief that Mars has two moons, which it is now known to have.

And this lecture, which so awakened my interest in one of our nearest heavenly neighbors, I heard by accident over the radio a few nights ago.

The accident set me to thinking how much we can see through other men's eyes and how little we actually do see.

The whole sum of human knowledge is available to those of us who have the education to avail ourselves of it.

It is to be found in books and in lectures of students.

Much of it is available to us, no matter how little we know about the subject.

Naturally, a person who is not a mathematician could never follow closely an account of how the movements of the stars are measured.

Nor could a person who knows only elementary chemistry understand a talk on the latest achievements of that marvelous science.

But if we use the eyes of others as much as possible we can learn a great deal, gain many new points of view and vastly widen our knowledge of the universe in which we live.

I do not believe that a moderately intelligent person has any excuse for ignorance or half ignorance, which is still worse.

Men who make discoveries and observations and work out vast problems are only too pleased to talk and write about them. They take the same pleasure in this that the owner of a new car does in talking about his purchase.

On every side to-day there are opportunities for instruction, and most of them are badly neglected.

Train your eyes to see all they can and your mind to record what they see.

But use the eyes of others as well.

They can see many times as much as you can and understand better what they see than you do.

Never were so many eyes of work as now and never were they so easy to borrow.

They can see many times as much as you can and understand better what they see than you do.

Never were so many eyes of work as now and never were they so easy to borrow.

They can see many times as much as you can and understand better what they see than you do.

Never were so many eyes of work as now and never were they so easy to borrow.

They can see many times as much as you can and understand better what they see than you do.

Never were so many eyes of work as now and never were they so easy to borrow.

They can see many times as much as you can and understand better what they see than you do.

Never were so many eyes of work as now and never were they so easy to borrow.

They can see many times as much as you can and understand better what they see than you do.

Never were so many eyes of work as now and never were they so easy to borrow.

They can see many times as much as you can and understand better what they see than you do.

Never were so many eyes of work as now and never were they so easy to borrow.

They can see many times as much as you can and understand better what they see than you do.

Never were so many eyes of work as now and never were they so easy to borrow.

They can see many times as much as you can and understand better what they see than you do.

COMING OUT OF HIS COMA

The Farmer's Advice

By Alfalfa Smith

I was sorry to hear of another outbreak in one of our very large prisons.

I expected it. I expect more outbreaks.

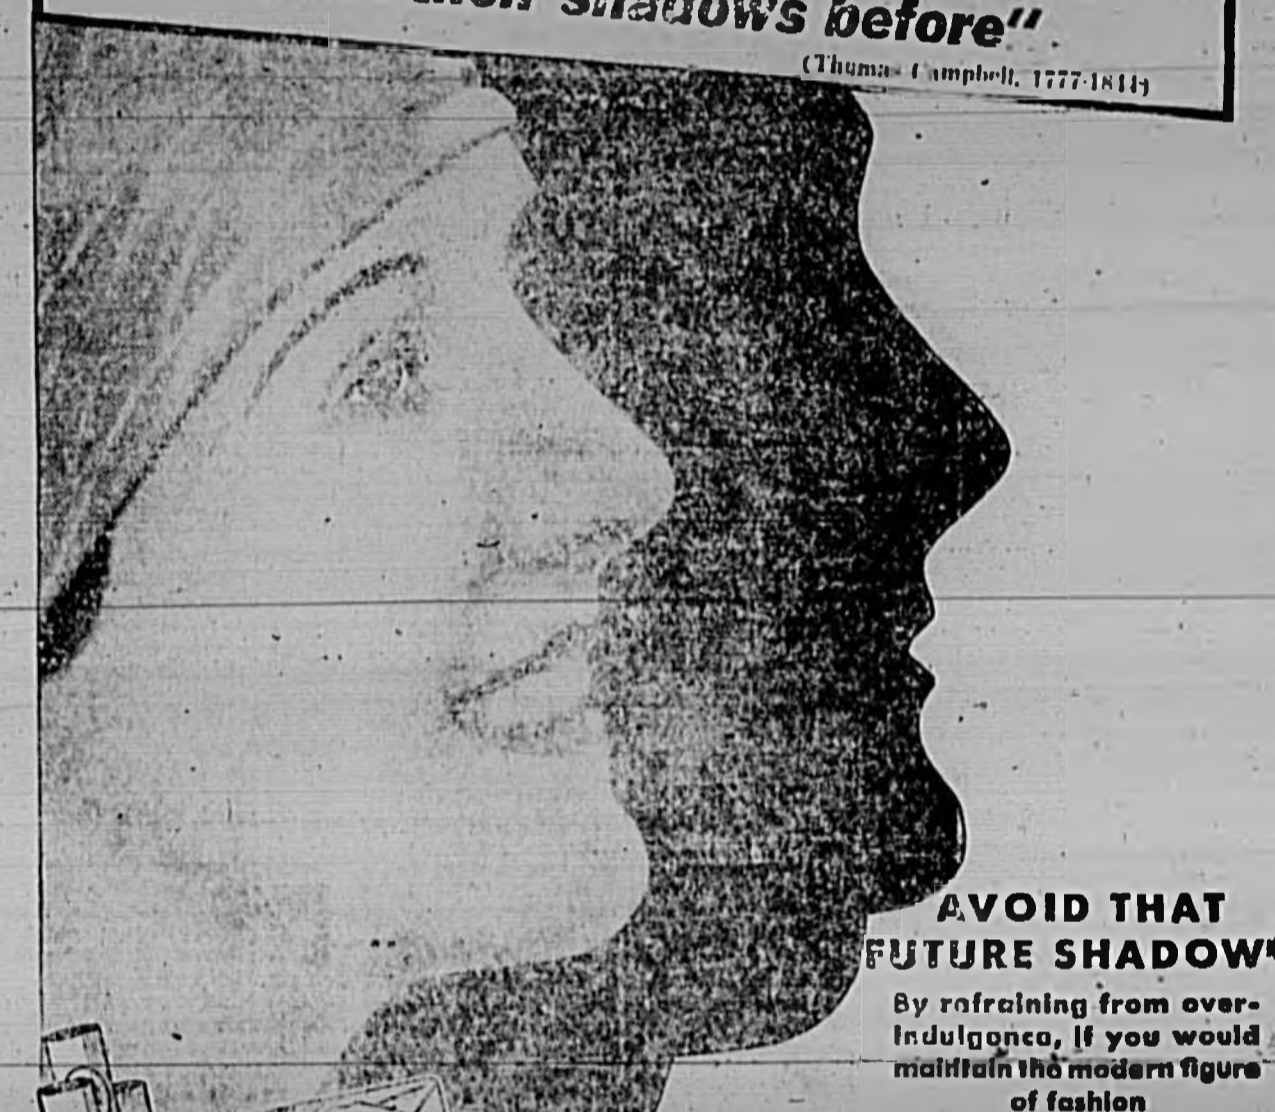

The average man who rides to and from his business in a chauffeur car—who sits at a mahogany desk and d d rates beautiful letters to a charming young lady who says: "You didn't say that"—who belongs to the most exclusive club—he does not and never can understand what goes on in the head of a criminal who locked up FOR LIFE.

BUT—The day is not far distant when every man will take an interest in what goes on in his own home and he will see to it that his own children MIND, and in this way we may save the State a lot of money.

The coming year is going to be a great one for CUTTING DOWN EXPENSES and I recommend that while we are cutting down we cut down for our children and our children's children by paying attention to the youngsters of today, teaching them THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN RIGHT AND WRONG AS WE SEE IT.

"COMING EVENTS cast their shadows before"

(Thomas Campbell, 1777-1814)

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Why let over-indulgence ruin the flattering curves that make the modern figure so seductive? Be moderate—he moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the irresistible youthfulness of the modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical Professional Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Mrs. Holly Hostess At Bridge Luncheon

Yellow and green were the colors used for decorations and party appointments at the bridge luncheon given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. R. J. Holly at her home, 518 Mark Avenue, in honor of the members of the Duplicate Club and the Althean Tea Duplicate Club. A production of golden chrysanthemums and ferns decorated the room where the guests were entertained, while tallies and bridge accessories were designed in yellow and green.

At 1 o'clock luncheon was served in five courses by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. D. L. Thrasher. Each course emphasized the color motif of gold and green, and was served on individual plates which were centered with small baskets of sweet peas. The plates of the guests were marked with cards designed in the party colors.

After the tables were cleared several boards of duplicate were prepared in until a late hour when scores were added and prizes awarded. Mrs. E. J. Gonzalez and Mrs. Samuel Puleston had high scores of the members of the Duplicate Club, while Mrs. J. C. Pennington held high scores of the other club. Each prize was a turkey print and was wrapped with white paper and tied with green satin ribbon.

Those present were: Mrs. W. M. Scott, Mrs. W. Theodore Langley, Mrs. G. Levine, Loucks, Mrs. H. M. Papworth, Mrs. R. L. Hanson, Mrs. J. C. Henshaw, Mrs. L. P. M. Bridge Party Given By Mrs. M. S. Wiggins

A bridge party was given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. M. S. Wiggins at her home on Macneela Avenue, complimenting the members of the Every Other Week Club and an extra table of guests. At the conclusion of the bridge games which were enjoyed throughout the afternoon, high score prizes for the club members went to Mrs. Ralph B. Wight and Mrs. W. A. Pitts Jr., while high score prize for the guests, a bottle of Handigan's perfume, was awarded to Mrs. Elton J. Moughton.

Red and yellow were the colors emphasized in the decorations used about the party rooms. Vases and bowls of lemon colored snail dragons and red radiance roses were arranged with fern in various places while the tallies and bridge accessories were designed in harmonizing shades.

At the tea hour a sweet course and coffee were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. B. L. Perkins, Mrs. W. A. Pitts Jr. and Miss Winifred Strong. Those present were: Mrs. Walter S. Cotnam, Mrs. W. A. Pitts Jr., Mrs. Ralph B. Wight, Mrs. J. L. Hurt, Mrs. Floyd Palmer, Mrs. H. L. Perkins, Mrs. Elton J. Moughton, Mrs. Horace P. Bamnash, Mrs. Morris Spencer, Mrs. J. E. Brouse and Miss Winifred Strong.

Atlantic City Visitor Honored With Party

Mrs. and Mrs. John Zerrenner entertained a number of their friends with a bridge party last week at their home, 708 Laurel Avenue, complimenting David Gray of Atlantic City, N. J. The guests arrived at an early hour and bridge games were participated in until late in the evening when scores were added and prizes awarded. Mrs. M. Kronen was the recipient of high score prize for the ladies, a cigarette handkerchief, while Mr. Gray was given a cigarette stand for holding high score prize for the men.

Various cut flowers in brilliant shades were arranged in vases and bowls about the rooms where the guests were entertained, while tallies and bridge accessories harmonized. At the supper hour a salad and sweet course was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. William Ludwig.

Those present were: David Gray, honor guest, Mr. and Mrs. William Ludwig, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Meriwether, Mrs. Morris Kronen and Mr. and Mrs. Zerrenner.

Garden Clubs Will Have Planting Day

In line with Winter Park and other Garden Clubs, the Sanford Garden Club is observing tomorrow, Jan. 10 as Planting Day, and an interesting program has been mapped out under the direction of Mrs. Harry Heeren, local chairman for beautification.

Through the enterprise of certain members of the garden club hundreds of trees have been given for free distribution. There are many young lumbinas grown by Mr. Edmund Stow, which will be given away to all applicants at the Thrift-Shop in the Valdez Hotel, with information regarding them by a committee headed by Mrs. Paul Rogers. These trees are about three feet tall, and should bloom this summer if conditions are made especially good for them; it is desired.
At 11 o'clock, the Rose Circle will plant a young holly in Central Park, and at eleven-thirty, the Welfare Department of the Woman's Club will plant and dedicate two Phoenix palms over the club entrance, to the honor of Mrs. E. D. Bullock. A group of children from the South Side School will assist at the latter ceremony with songs and recitation.
The public is invited to both events. An especial effort has been made by Mrs. Heeren to encourage the planting of trees in school and church grounds, and many have been accepted for this purpose. A more detailed account of planting will be made later. The schools of the city will all observe the regular Arbor Day on Jan. 17 and free trees for this purpose are being distributed by the Garden Club.

60,000 Feet Of Film Used In Milane Movie

More than 60,000 feet of film were exposed in order to record the thrilling scenes that comprise the African portion of "The Four Feathers," one of Paramount's chief bids for motion picture supremacy during 1928-29.

A year of the most dangerous and painstaking sort of effort was spent in capturing this part of the screen version of A. E. W. Mason's famous novel by Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack, who also have offered the motion picture public, through Paramount, "Grass" and "Chang."

Thousands of Fuzzy Wuzzys, rulers of the Red Sea Hills of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, as well as hundreds of ardent warriors, appeared before the camera during the making of the location of Mason's "British bid of courage."

Included among the featured players in this production are Richard Arlen, Fay Wray, Clive Brook, William Powell, Theodore von Eltz, Noah Beery, George Fawcett, Noble Johnson and E. J. Ratcliffe. "The Four Feathers" comes to the Milane Theater for a two-day run beginning tomorrow.
